The coming of June finds another group of graduates about to step out on the threshold of the world. The Basilian Fathers have done all things to "impede us to the golden round." Not only in a practical sense but rather with emphasis on the spiritual. Now "the future is in the instant" and the responsibility lies in our hands.

As you have already noticed, our book is smaller. This is not due entirely to financial reasons, but is rather a sign of the times. Our times, for a while so easy, then so uneasy will, when seen through the eye of history, look to be one in which the mental turmoil was so great as to bewilder completely the people of the time. To us things seem quite clear and yet they are not. We are blinded by the gloom and mist of prejudice and hate.

The far-sighted priests who have taught us, realizing the presence in our minds of this shadow of wrong impressions, and mis-beliefs, have provided for us an eternal pillar of strength to which we may always turn. It is up to us to use that priceless gift of faith which has been instilled in us.

The crushing burden of the horrible conflict has made changes necessary. One is the condensation of our yearbook. The book was not entirely eliminated, and for good reasons. A book wherein the memories of our formative years are stored is important to remind us of the great lessons of life that we have learned.

The lessons of this our senior year were many. Perhaps the greatest lesson came in the shock of the passing of Paul Rochon. "Red" was perhaps the most popular member of the class and yet as the year approached its end he was taken from us. From this we must realize God has no favorites! Another grim reminder of what faces us in the near future came with the departure of Fr. Killoran to act as an Army chaplain. These people were the same as we are today. Our position is one which makes it necessary for us to think of the future. It is our turn to strike out and make the important decisions of our lives. Perhaps in more settled times our decisions could be made after college. But now we must become conscious of the fact that the world is not concerned about our well-being, and for this we must make our own provisions. Not rash, hastily-made, decisions, but ones in which we have carefully weighed all factors. Not only practical considerations, but those concerning the salvation of our soul.

It is with this vital thought in mind that we, the Seniors of Assumption College High School, present our class magazine.
Of old the Prophet said: «The sun ariseth and . . . man goeth forth unto his work, and to his labour until the evening.» So the graduates of nineteen forty-two are going forth to a new work and new labours. Your future will probably be different than that of graduates of other years; but it is the hope of your Alma Mater that you always keep in mind your eternal destiny. Then, amid all the changing vicissitudes, the alterations of prosperity and adversity in the present life, you will have a deep contentment and unshaken peace. May you keep your faith undimmed, your mind trained to understand duty. Assumption hopes and expects that you will prove men of principle, men of honour, men of God.
Contraction of the imagination is a cause of much modern chaos. Assimilating undigested facts without seeing them in their proportionate relation to other facts can stifle, shrivel and maim the mind instead of broadening it. Hold fast to the clear vision of reality resultant of the Faith, which exaggerates the importance of nothing, but keeps everything in proper focus and terminates in the Beatific Vision. Cultivate what Monsignor Sheen calls the "divine sense of humour," which consists in "seeing through things;" never taking any mortal thing too seriously; never confusing a means,—such as discipline,—with a goal; never atrophying one's own personality, or anyone else's; never becoming a sycophantic groveller, an anaemic echo, a standardized "yes-man" of the State of Anyoneelse. Your Alma Mater has done enough for you—probably too much at times. Now you are going forth on your own. "The jargon of the schools . . . Latin names for horns and stools . . . " etc., will be eclipsed, but, if you have developed as a more complete and human personality by dint of such things, and the even more important spiritual atmosphere here, fear not. "To thine own self be true," and you cannot be false to any man or to God.

The usual happy time of Graduation holds for the Seniors of nineteen hundred and forty-two a note of sadness. They have lost a class-mate well known and loved by all—Paul Rochon. Well might they feel this loss—for the simple reason that everyone knew him—they couldn’t help it—but the acquaintance was deeper than merely a hello in the cafeteria, or a casual sign of recognition in the corridor, because Paul was the personal friend of each and every student. Not stopping at this, he was their pal too, and would go out of his way to help anyone. That was his way. His spirit of loyalty to God, home, and school was an inspiration to all with whom he came in contact. Red was endowed also with qualities of leadership, and we know that he certainly made good use of them. His attitude toward classes showed when the time came to send out the reports. In his four years of high school, he compiled a scholastic average of which anyone could be proud—in fact one of the highest in the school. Red was a Mission collector for three years, and led his class in contributions as a Senior. We all enjoyed his writings in the Reporter. You could never mistake his solid but humorous style. His election as co-editor of this volume indicated what we thought of his ability in this line. We also showed that we appreciated his dynamic leadership when we nominated him for the Presidency of the class—an honour which he appreciated more than any of the numerous others he had received.

Extending still farther, we remember that Red was a sports lover, and could hold his own with the best. We remember that look of determination—although never overshadowing good-sportsmanship—on the gridiron, and diamond, but mostly on handball and basketball courts. This year, he led his Minim team in the Noon-hour league to the Championship, and won a place on the All-Stars. He captained a hard-fighting team last year too. He was generally recognized as one of the best in handball.

Looking over Red’s years at Assumption, we cannot help but realize that if all his accomplishments were distributed equally among any five boys, they would all be able to feel they had done something in this world.

Red never did anything that he couldn’t offer up to God as an act of Adoration. How many of us can say that? Yet, we know that he usually had more fun than the bunch of us put together.

How will Assumption ever be able to forget Red Rochon? The impossible hasn’t been accomplished as yet.
HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

Never before has a graduating class set such a record as that which we grads set this year in the missions. We gave in about one-fifth of the total amount contributed by the whole school, a feat of which we are rather proud and hope, will stand in the years to come. . . .

Three of our graduates have joined the Royal Canadian Air Force: Jeff Harvie, Robert Mills, and William Rodd. Keep 'em flying, boys. . . .

Not only with the pen but also with the tongue have we made accomplishments this year. Carl Keane gave very strong competition to the other two finalists in the English speaking contest although he only placed second. This year also witnessed the inauguration of a French-speaking contest. The French speaking Englishmen who competed in the finals were William Martindale, Carl Keane, and Robert Britton; the French-speaking Frenchmen in the finals were Ernest Lauzon, Ernest Jolie, and Ernest Plante.

In athletics this year our senior teams show a valiant record. The football team fought bravely on the grid-iron in the city finals only to lose by three points. A few grad stars were "Buck" Reaume, Don Mitchell, Eddie Hogan, Jack Arbour, Lionel Gemus, and Marc Trottier . . . the basketball team also gave and showed a lot of courage, although they did not win the championship. Eddie Hogan, Fred Vieson, and Don Mitchell starred in a losing cause. . . . our baseball team proved very effective, playing a perfect season. Don Devine, Harry LaPlante, and Fred Vieson starred, both in the field and at bat . . . . the hockey team wasn't as good as it has been in former years, but it put up a good fight. Jack Arbour and Marc Trottier had spirit and ability . . . . Eddie Forton won the senior handball championship, an honour which he has long deserved. . . .

As in former years, the high school put on its annual play. The assistant director was a graduate, Dick Burgwin, who also played the title role, Macbeth. Other actors from fourth year were Jim Sherry, Lionel Gemus, Don Prentiss, and Murray Weymouth. The play attracted huge crowds and proved a hit . . . .

Lastly we come to the band, a most popular and most able organization of our school. Only five grads are members of the band: Bob Britton, Norman Thibert, John Bensette, Jim Mullin, and Al. Johnston. . . .

Thus you have read of our achievements. To some they will seem small, but to all we hope they will appear worthy of note.

A Grad of long ago

A grad in the Class of '96, one of Assumption's grandest and most successful classes, Frank McIntyre carries on still as a true Assumptionite. He is renowned the world over for his remarkable success on the stage and radio. He was one of the big names of vaudeville when it was at its height. "Cap'n Henry" of the "Showboat," one of the American All-Stars that toured Europe many years ago. These are but a few of his accomplishments.

Known for his "heart of gold," Frank, (as he is known to all) often returns to visit the old campus he knows so well. The picture above was taken on one of his visits this year. With him are the six Ann Arbor boys who are following in his foot-steps at Assumption. The glory of Frank McIntyre's career has done much to "put Ann Arbor on the map." It's his home town and he loves it well, his home being situated in that city today.

Anyone who meets Frank can never forget him. Cordial in every manner, his greeting words are kept in the heart of many,—"Glad t' see you."

In September of 1941, one of this year's graduates collaborated with Father Weiler to organize the first Assumption College Radio Club in the Work Shop. Though many of the lads were interested in this useful work, only four or five persevered for any appreciable length of time. The officials, chosen among the members, joined the club under the requisite that they return next year to teach five other boys. In this way the successful future of the club is assured and the number will remain undiminished and probably increase. Father Weiler taught the theoretical part, while Ernest Lauzon handled the constructional section. The club has proved a self-supporting movement and intends to remain thus.

Insofar as any sort of newspaper work was concerned, the staff that began this year to publish the Reporter was absolutely without experience. After spending about two weeks learning the fundamentals of newspaper work, the first edition of the 1941-1942 Reporter came off the presses on the morning of November third. From that time on the paper was published on the first and fifteenth of every month without fail.

This year's Reporter was not a mere summary of events like many high-school papers are likely to be; on the contrary, it was of the finest newspaper caliber. News of all school events was published promptly, completely, and honestly. A feat which few high-school papers can boast of was accomplished by this year's staff when the outcome of the city football finals was published in the Reporter as an extra edition the morning after the games were played. At another time, the announcement of the winners of the Student A-Man contest was published in the Reporter within one hour after the contest winners were announced.

From the beginning the staff stuck together and worked as a unit in preparing and publishing each issue. Under the able direction of Father Girard the staff was soon on its own, and has completed an excellent year.

Although the Class Magazine staff had a rather early start, the major part of the work came toward the latter part of the year. The staff has endeavored to present a complete account of Senior activities for this school year. An able and efficient co-editor was lost when Paul "Red" Rochon died during the school year. His loss was hard-felt by the entire staff.

A press-room has been established on the First Flat. It is left in excellent condition for our successors, and conditions are such that they should be able to continue the work that we have begun.
