LA SALLE NEWS, LA SALLE, ONTARIO, DEC. 17 1949.

The United Nations International Childrens Emergency Fund.

OTTAWA, In the greatest humanitarian drive the world has ever known, some 60 nations are working hand-in-hand to save millions of children in war-devastated and poverty-stricken countries.

While the fortunes of the cold war fluctuate between east and west and the peoples of the world tensely listen to threats of atomic warfare, a united nations agency that really works -- the International Children's Emergency Fund--is tackling with efficiency and vigor the problem of millions of hungry, ill and destitute children.

In its first year and a half of active operations, UNICEF allocated $97,000,000--including more than $6,000,000 from Canadian grants and public contributions--worth of vital foods, medicines and technical services to the children of 20 different countries. When full allocations for 1949 are totalled up, it is estimated that another $100,000,000 will have been spent.

Canada is continuing her contributions to UNICEF. The federal government is voting another $1,075,000 to the world-wide organization and once again UNICEF in Canada is making a public appeal. A.B. MacDonald, national chairman of UNICEF in Canada said he hoped Canadians, by sending donations to UN-

Siamese Twins Born, Parents Proud But Face Problems

Proud parents with problems ahead are Mr. and Mrs. Bud Townsend of Tofield, Alta., who are seen with the healthy Siamese twins recently born to them. At birth babies weighed nine pounds, 12 ounces. Tofield community is near Edmonton, Alta. It is not yet known whether an operation can be made to sever the babies. Each operation has been an in medical history and the one child lived.

ICEF, of Ottawa would contribute even more this year than the $1,344,731 raised in last year's public appeal.

Working on the time-proven principle that to just given the money away with NO strings attached invites waste and mismanagement, UNICEF insists that to get aid for its children, a country must add a dollar's worth of its own products to every dollar's worth sent in by UNICEF. This matching principle, plus a small but highly efficient checking system, ensures that contributions made by Canadians and other peoples to UNICEF are really spent on the children for whom the money was donated.

Detailed figures on how the money is spent and of the tries and numbers of children aided in each would fill several columns.

NUPSIAL HIGH MASS UNITES COUPLE

The Saturday before the first Sunday of Advent, Margaret J. Brown, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. William J. Brown of 4236 Polk Avenue, became the bride of Jerome Kenneth O'Gorman of LaSalle Ontario.

The couple were married by Fr. Edmund Dommer, pastor of St. Sebastian Church at ten a.m. nuptial high Mass. White chrysanthemums and pink gladioli decked the little church.

Edward Murphy of Detroit sang the "Our Father" and an "Ave Maria."

The bride came down the aisle with her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of white satin and pointe-de-venice lace, with seed pearl trim. A coronet of seed pearls held the fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and mums.

Mary (pat) Brown, sister of the bride and Delores O'Gorman sister of the bridegroom were the attendants. Mary, wore a green taffeta gown and Delores' gown was of orchid taffeta. They wore matching taffeta polk bonnets, and carried arm bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Paul O'Gorman the bridegroom's brother was the best man. Edward Brown, cousin of the bride seated the wedding guests.

Immediately following the nuptials a breakfast for 50 guests was served at the bride's home. In the evening 350 guests attended a reception at Estelles Hall.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's two grandmothers, Mrs. U. O'Gorman and Mrs. Agnes Dupuis both of LaSalle; Mr. and Mrs. Russel Forsythe and daughter Elaine, of London, Ont., and Mr. Donald Bagnal of Clinton, Ont.

For a honeymoon to points south, the bride traveled in a gray gabardine suit with matching accessories.

They will make their home in LaSalle.

... she may look as if she's loafing—
but your dry cow is really working hard!

Because she isn't visibly "slugging", it's easy to get the idea that a dry cow (or springing heifer) is loafing — and feed her accordingly. Actually, she is working as hard as any hard-worked horse—building a calf (close to 1 lb. per day, the last two months) and building up her own body for heavy production. It isn't work that shows, but it's work, just the same ... and she should be fed for it.

June - to - October is top egg profit time, nowadays ... especially if you have big eggs to sell during that period. To get big eggs then, you have to start good chicks early and grow chicks right. For a "flying start", feed them

Purina LAYING MASH

Purina Research Farm records show that 100 lbs. gain in good firm condition during the last two months before calving usually means 2,000 lbs. or more of extra milk, next lactation. And they show that if a heifer is 100 lbs. underweight at first calving, she'll milk (on the average) 1,500 to 1,800 lbs. less than she would if she had been built up to normal weight.

There's no place you can make a sounder feed investment than in Purina Bulkylas (to feed with good oats) or Dry & Freshening Chow, for dry cows and springing heifers.

An extra feed of extra-good feed pays off in extra eggs. Layers like Purina Laying Checkers, eat them greedily.

Experts estimate that a nursing sow ought to produce a pint of milk per pig per day. That's a lot of milk! Here are the feeds to help her turn it out —

Saves Child's Life

Prompt action by his mother, Mrs. Charles Semark, Belleville, Ont., is credited with saving the life of her son, Bobby, one, who bit the top off a Christmas tree electric light bulb and swallowed part of it. Noticing him choking, she held him upside down and shook him until glass came out of his throat.
