By RICK SPENCE
The student returning to the University of Windsor will find many changes have occurred over the summer... and more are scheduled.

From new steps outside the library to a new man in the Vice-President, Administration, things are changing at the old U.

It's the end of an era in the library. A new electronic alarm system is being installed to help students who are walking away with library books. Missing or stolen books have cost the library a fortune over the years. The eagle-eyed security guards will still be on duty, however.

As well as new steps at the entrance to the library, the library has had a name change. The University Library is now known as The Leddy Library, to honor the university's distinguished president. Dr. Leddy will be retiring in April, 1978, and with his departure from the scene, the University's formative years are complete. He came to Windsor when the new university was only a year old, and has overseen its development into a large, and still growing, institution.

A few signs of the university's growth are evident even to the newcomer on campus. At a time when most other universities have abandoned all expansion plans, Windsor is constructing two new buildings.

The three-story Business Building is rising from the muck along Sunset, across from Windsor Hall Tower, and the faculty is counting on moving in sometime in the spring of 1978.

Completion of the addition to the Biology Building has been delayed by an electrician's strike, but the biology department hopes to move in sometime before April.

Another facilities change that should be obvious to students is the transfer of all food services to Vanier Hall. The cafeteria and the popular delicatessen "The Deli" are gone, and the cooking equipment is being sold off. The move was designed as an austerity measure, to lower the perennial food services deficit. There is a crop of new students to a good year in the United States that should be emphasized in the media. The FM transmitting equipment will cost about $16,000. The proposed budget for the FM station is $12,000 per year - an increase of $4,000 from last year. In a survey done by CJAM, 85% of the students who replied were in favour of a 50 cent increase in student fees to go towards the FM station.

Low power FM stations were illegal in Canada until last year. Since the low power stations are relatively inexpensive, it is simpler for students to apply for an FM license. At that time, Cliff Wilson, former manager of CJAM, was appointed FM consultant.

According to Cliff Wilson, it has been helpful to watch how the other universities are moving the transition from AM to FM. "We're anticipating problems now that McMaster and Waterloo are just starting to think about - and they almost have their licenses," said Wilson.

CJAM presently reaches a few of the residences and the University Centre. With the low power FM equipment, the station may be able to transmit up to three miles.

The people at CJAM believe there is a market for the kind of radio they provide: "We have very little Canadian competition," said Wilson. "Most of the youth-oriented radio stations are in Detroit. There are differences between Canada and the United States that should be emphasized in the media."

The FM transmitting equipment will cost about $16,000. The proposed budget for the FM station is $12,000 per year - an increase of $4,000 from last year. In a survey done by CJAM, 85% of the students who replied were in favour of a 50 cent increase in student fees to go towards the FM station.

Low power FM stations were illegal in Canada until last year. Since the low power stations are relatively inexpensive, it is simpler for students to apply for an FM license. At that time, Cliff Wilson, former manager of CJAM, was appointed FM consultant.

According to Cliff Wilson, it has been helpful to watch how the other universities are moving the transition from AM to FM. "We're anticipating problems now that McMaster and Waterloo are just starting to think about - and they almost have their licenses," said Wilson.

CJAM presently reaches a few of the residences and the University Centre. With the low power FM equipment, the station may be able to transmit up to three miles.

The people at CJAM believe there is a market for the kind of radio they provide: "We have very little Canadian competition," said Wilson. "Most of the youth-oriented radio stations are in Detroit. There are differences between Canada and

President extends welcome
On behalf of the University of Windsor I extend a warm welcome to all those registering this month, both former students and new students. "Once upon a time" universities seemed to be alive only in the regular term, and to spring into action in September after nearly four months of total calm. Times have changed, and so have people. It is no longer the case, especially here, where we have large enrolments both at the intramural and the summer session, in each case almost one-half the full-time enrolment in the regular term. But there is a discernible difference when the regular term opens and our facilities are used to the full. A dynamic element seems to be added to the situation.

The first college on this site was established 120 years ago, and the university has been organized under a new Act fifteen years ago. Since then we have enjoyed extraordinary growth, from an enrolment of 1,800 in 1963 to an anticipated enrolment this fall of over 7,500. To accommodate our students we have a compact but attractive campus which experience has shown to be unusually convenient, with additional new construction now under way.

However, bricks and mortar, and growing enrolments must always take a lower priority in esteem than the more fundamental effort to achieve and maintain a high quality of academic and intellectual excellence. In the spirit of that joint enterprise I welcome all our students to a good year in 1977-1978.

Dr. John Francis Leddy, President of the University of Windsor since 1964, will be retiring in April.
Grant program makes jobs pay

The Experience '77 Program under the direction of the Essex Region Conservation Authority has completed operations for the year. In all, the program provided employment in conservation related projects for 33 local students.

The technical staff of Experience '77 consisted of 13 people - a geographer-planner, a fish and wildlife biologist, two foresters, a drainage hydrologist, a climatologist, an assistant public relations officer, a landscape architect, an architectural draftsman, a botanist, two historical research assistants and a secretary. This staff carried out many projects which will prove to be quite valuable to the Conservation Authority in years to come.

Some of these projects included Review of Development Proposals throughout the county, a wildlife management plan for a large marsh area, a study of various ecologically sensitive areas, promotion of the ERCA’s tree planting service, the laying out and revising of nature trails, a study of municipal drains within Essex County, a precipitation study of Essex County, a design of a new ERCA display for local fairs, research and interpretive work on the John R. Park Homestead, conceptual plans and site plans for existing conservation areas, plans for architectural renovation of buildings associated with the John R. Park Homestead, and finally, clerical duties related to many of the above.

The field staff of Experience '77 worked under the direction of Senior Supervisor, Barbara Rigg. Twenty students including three foremen made up this part of the program. Working in three crews they completed many environmental enhancement projects both on ERCA lands and municipal properties.

Some of the tasks they undertook for the Conservation Authority included an archaeological dig at the John R. Park Homestead as well as other restoration-related duties at the Fox Creek Conservation Area, selective cutting and thinning of ERCA owned woodlots, completing of nature trails in the Maasdrad Central Conservation Area, and many other projects on ERCA lands.

Their many municipal projects included restoration work in abandoned cemeteries, roadside cleanup, painting and other improvements in municipal parks and many other accomplishments.

March of Dimes wants you

It is estimated that one of every seven people in Ontario is physically disabled, and while not all of them need help many others do. The efforts of the Ontario March of Dimes are specifically directed toward assisting physically disabled adults age 19 and over, whatever the cause of disability: accident, birth defect, stroke, disease, or old age.

Two types of assistance are available: Personal Support Services and Community Development. "Personal Support Services" provide financial assistance for certain appliances that are not always covered under medical plans, including wheelchairs, artificial limbs, and ramps for homes of wheelchair-bound persons. The "Community Development" department advocates for and with disabled adults, encouraging the development of programs and services within a community for the physically handicapped. These programs include recreation, transportation, housing, employment, and accessibility of public buildings.

LOCATING THE DISABLED

In June the Ontario March of Dimes held a meeting of persons from Essex County concerned with the problems of disabled people. It was requested that the March of Dimes attempt to locate and determine how many disabled persons live in the County area (including Essex, Leamington, Amherstburg, Harrow, etc.). To do this we are asking for your support.

If you are physically handicapped, or know of anyone who is, please contact us so you may be included in future plans of the Ontario March of Dimes. Should you not be disabled but interested in helping with programs to assist the disabled please also call and leave your name and address. If you live in the Amherstburg area phone the Amherstburg Social Planning Council at 736-5471.

In Essex, phone the Essex Social Planning Council at 776-8262, in Kingsville the Kingsville area phone Mrs. Jane Lenahan at 839-4414.

All information will be handled in a confidential manner.

Changes at U

continued from page 1

The University Centre cafeteria is now the recreation centre on campus, housing the ping-pong tables, pool tables, and pool tables which have been moved out of Vanier. In the shuffle, the Vanier games rooms have become fashionable dining rooms, and the off-campus housing office has taken over a sitting area across from the Round Table snack bar.

In Vanier, there have been some changes in cafeteria arrangement. "Vanier West" will serve residence students who have chosen the "board" plan for their meals, as well as the others who wish to pay one price per meal for all they can eat. Vanier East will feature facilities similar to those formerly at the Centre, including a "Deli".

In Vanier West you just pay one set price to get in, will also be offered downstairs at the Vanier games room for lunch each day. The price should be under $2.50.

A change which requires that students must now pay their fees at registration rather than wait for the end of September. Students who get their loans and grants late, beware!

Everyone pays more this year. Most full-time students are paying $100 more, on an average of $780 per year. The increase consists of a $100 hike imposed last year by the provincial government, and SAC's new drug plan which costs $5.00. Part-time fees have increased $20 per course.

Foreign students arriving on campus for the first time face fees of at least $1,575, due to another government decision. One small victory: students and senators at Windsor successfully fought through the summer to make the government exempt from the increases the foreign students who were in preliminary year here last year.

Residence students probably already know the price of a single room has risen by $105, and a double room by $85.00. Five dollars of the increases go to residence councils.

Two new faces in important positions round out the list of recent changes. William Mitchell has retired as Vice-President, Administration, and was replaced by Dr. John R. Allan.

The University Registrar, Paul Holden, has also left, and Frank Smith has filled his shoes.

Pregnant

No Age Limit

Free Counseling
(No effect on medical fees)
Free Pregnancy Test
(or $3 at independent lab)
3 Hour Clinic Stay
Medicaid, Blue Cross
Accredited
We strive for highest patient comfort and friendly personal attention.

ACM APPROVED
CALL (313) 884-4000
OFFICE ATTENDANCE

PREGNANT

FOR THE CUTS THAT OTHER PEOPLE NOTICE
248 Pelissier Street, Windsor, Ontario
Phone 252-1981
What is orientation? The boozing ride to Rondeau Park, the all-night movies and the dances may disorient you more than anything else, but there really is an intelligence behind next week’s activities. The organizers of Orientation 77 want to bring students together in special context before they are divided and loaded down by course work and classes.

"The best time for people to meet is when they’re having fun," says Gino Piazza, SAC’s Special Events Commissioner. "So I’m trying to make the activities as much fun as possible."

Piazza is running his second orientation schedule. Last year, in his first year at the University of Windsor, Piazza ran one of the most successful orientation programs in recent memory.

"I got to know what students want on campus," says Piazza. He claims to have learned from his mistakes, and the less popular events of last year have been dropped. (Do there will be no dance marathons or tours of Windsor this year.)

Besides, the beneficial events are returning, and Piazza predicts the new program will be "a 100 per cent improvement." This year, Piazza has coordinated SAC’s orientation plans with those of the individual residences. There should be less conflict in schedules this year, as the individual residences are holding their orientation events this week, while SAC events begin next week, the first week of classes.

One of the improvements Piazza has made in response to students’ suggestions has been to include a cash bar with the all-night movies. The bar will be open until 1:00 a.m., and coffee and popcorn will be served for the rest of the evening.

Also returning will be the orientation pass, offering discounts or free admission to SAC functions. As an extra incentive, holders of the pass are eligible to win a trip to Hawaii.

The pocket-size orientation guides which were sent to all students along with their registration information were another new feature, informing students as to what to expect before they arrive on campus. Piazza feels the booklet helped improve participation in such events as Tuesday’s Club Day, as well as let students know about such services as the Pick-Up at the airport, bus and train stations.

Another innovation has been somewhat controversial. Piazza has hired six Playboy bunnies from the Detroit club to play hostess at next Tuesday’s Las Vegas Casino Night. SAC’s Ex- external Affairs Commissioner, among others, has denounced this action as promoting sexism.

The Lance. Much as we hate talking about ourselves, we feel introductions are in order. Since celebrating its fifteenth year of publication, The Lance is the official publication of the students of the University of Windsor. Anybody is welcome to join the crazies, figure skaters, scattered socialists, folk singers, nationalists, anarchists, drunks and SAC groups who have made The Lance the university’s most respected weekly student tabloid newspaper which publishes on Fridays.

Our offices are located next door to SAC HQ, overlooking the loading dock, but we try not to let that go to our heads.

The Students Administrative Council pays for the paper through student fees, but The Lance remains an autonomous institution with full editorial independence. Without fear or favoritism, The Lance seeks out news and attempts to expose injustice. Previous victims of the wrath of The Lance have included Ili Amirin, the university board of governors and senate, SAC presidents, the board of governors, the minister of colleges and universities, Beaver Foods (and human foods), City Council, and the board of governors.

Most staff members are ordinary students with no prior journalistic experience, but the desire to get involved on campus, make new friends, or to get rowdy in the pub after lay-out is completed on Wednesday nights.

The Lance exposes itself

Start off on the right foot!

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

It’s the beginning of a new semester . . . This time you’re going to do it right. This time it’s a 4.0, or maybe a 3.5. This time you’ll keep up with the readings.

And the way to keep up is to buy your own textbooks. They’re always there when you need them, not just when a friend or the library can loan them to you.

RelY on your textbooks

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

Ground Floor W. Library Bldg.
Entrance - Off Library Mall

WANTED: Students with enthusiasm, to work on The Lance. No pay, no benefits, 3 days per week. If you’re interested, you must work the week of publication. Submissions may be edited for length.

FOR SALE: One refrigerator in excellent working order. Only $45.00. Call Rick, 256-4768.

Can’t please everyone, but.... Orientation better than ever, says organizer

Piazza says his detractors are being "childdish." He said, "I’m not going to bring in a couple of strippers, or auction off a girl for the night." He says he is using the girls as "celebrities" to attract people to the event, which he says did not draw a great crowd last year. The bands were making $50 each for the night, but Piazza expects the casino will make more money. Some proceeds will go to Volunteer Services.

Piazza admits he cannot hope to please everyone. "I’m going to have people against bunnies, student busses, against smoking. . . ." he says. But he thinks Orientation 77 will be a success. Orientation 76 almost broke even financially, but Piazza says, "If things work out this way, we hope we may make a profit this year." The total orientation budget is $15,000, plus another $1,000 for promotion. Any money earned by the Students’ Administrative Council at Orientation will be plowed back into the Special Events budget. Piazza hopes to hold a concert starring Valdy later this year, in St. Denis Hall. SAC’s Orientation 77 will not be a typical week at the University of Windsor, but it should be very interesting.

The Lance - SEPTEMBER 6, 1977 - PAGE THREE Coffee Prices

An open letter to: The Hon. Sidney Handelman Minister of Consumer & Commercial Relations

Dear Mr. Handelman:

Through this letter I am requesting you to intervene in the pricing of coffee in this province.

According to press reports, Mr. Wayne Newson, Vice-President and General Manager of Standard Brands Food Services, Co., predicted in mid-June a drop in retail prices by late August or early September. Since that time the producing nations have substantially reduced their export prices. Colombia has just announced its fourth reduction in two months—from $3.03 a pound in June to the present $2.24. But wholesale and retail prices here continue at the same high level.

The unacceptability of the pricing to consumers in this province is aggravated by the realization that coffee prices in the U.S. are far less. Ground coffee retailing here for $4.29 to $4.49 a pound sells in the U.S. for $3.19 to $3.49. Similar differentials apply to instant coffee.

Although the contrast in wholesale prices between Ontario and the U.S. is somewhat less, it is still sizeable. At the end of last week General Foods Ltd. of Toronto had a wholesale price of $4.24 compared to $3.48 for Folger Coffee Co. (Proctor & Gamble) of Cincinnati. The incomprehensible aspect of this is that Canadian and American competitors both purchase their beans on the world market at the same prices.

Why should consumers here not enjoy the same coffee pricing by the same companies as consumers in the U.S. instead of paying 25 per cent to 33 per cent more?

The situation warrants an investigation and firm measures by your Ministry. I urge you to act now.

Yours truly
Mel Swart
M.P.P.
Welland-Thorold

The Lance Requires:
1 Sports Editor
1 Entertainment Editor
1 Photo Editor
These are paid positions
Experience an asset
Apply to the Editor, Lance office,
2nd floor University Centre by September 16.
Students take law to north

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Town drunks, long hours on the road and crowds of curious people were a few some of the taxing situations which five University of Windsor law students had to contend with this summer.

The students and some professors formed a Community Law Caravan which travelled throughout Northern Ontario bringing legal educational information to citizens of northern communities.

"We were providing law for the layman," said Professor Roderick MacDonald, director of the project. The city of Windsor was an established community law program, but according to MacDonald, "there was no such program operating in the north." After a number of requests from Northern towns, it was decided that a similar program would be beneficial in the North.

The main goal of the project was to find out which Northern people, and then to respond to that need.

The caravan reached Thunder Bay on June 13, travelled to towns like Atikokan, Kapuskasing, Timmins and Blind River and finished off in Sault Ste. Marie on August 11. A great deal of publicity surrounded the entire tour. Newspaper articles preceded the arrival in each town; these were followed up by more interviews for newspapers, radio and television.

The caravan's vehicle, which once rved the city for St. Clair College, would park in the downtown section of the community, and the students would be available to answer questions about various aspects of the law.

Many people had questions about tenant rights and employment legislation, topics that are relevant to residents in any part of the province. Others wondered about laws unique to Northern citizens, such as environmental laws dealing with mercury poisoning, and Indian rights. Twenty types of pamphlets and 14 video presentations were also used to inform interested persons.

MacDonald felt the project was successful in the project members were able to find out what kind of legal information is needed in the north. He cited environmental law as the most important aspect to consider.

Professor MacDonald said there was less success in establishing a contact in each community to provide follow-up and continuity to the program. But, he added, because the project will continue for another two summers, that goal will be accomplished in the future.

The project was funded by a $10,000 grant from the Donner Canadian Foundation. Financial aid was also received from the Faculty of Windsor and the Ontario Legal Aid Plan.

Where to go in Windsor

By BRENDA MCILISTER

At first glance, Windsor appears to be a drab, boring factory town. It is. But if you want to eat, drink, listen to music, or indulge in a bit of culture, Windsor has the places to go.

Restaurants are one of Windsor's specialties. If you want to avoid the cafeteria, there are a few inexpensive places near campus, such as University Snacks, and the Dominion House with its internationally acclaimed corned beef sandwiches.

The Exchange is the perfect spot for an intimate and thoroughly enjoyable evening. The menu includes a variety of steak, fish, and shishkabob. The food is excellent and though it is expensive, it's worth splurging on.

There are many international restaurants. Mario's specializes in high priced, but enjoyable, Italian food. La Cuisine, and L'Auberge de la Bastille serve very good French dishes.

Patrons of the Blue Danube are entertained by "wandering gypsies" who go from table to table playing violins. The food is Hungarian, and fairly expensive.

The Himalaya restaurant is one of Windsor's more unusual eating places. It specializes in Indian and French cuisine. Some of the dishes take eight hours to prepare, so patrons can go the day before their reservation to plan their meals. The food is reasonably priced.

For your drinking pleasure, the Gallery Lounge in the basement of the University Centre is a favourite spot of students. The Bridge House and the Dominion House are also within walking distance of campus.

Antoninelli's Radio Tavern has a pleasant, 1940's atmosphere, good food, and best of all, live jazz music. The jazz combo features Alex Zonjic, on flute and guitar, Jim Bratton, on piano, and Franky Fred, on drums. Zonjic will also be playing in a jazz concert at the art gallery on Sunday September 11.

Now there's no excuse for being bored. Enjoy your stay in Windsor.

BY ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Town drunks, long hours on the road and crowds of curious people were a few some of the taxing situations which five University of Windsor law students had to contend with this summer.

The students and some professors formed a Community Law Caravan which travelled throughout Northern Ontario bringing legal educational information to citizens of northern communities.

"We were providing law for the layman," said Professor Roderick MacDonald, director of the project. The city of Windsor was an established community law program, but according to MacDonald, "there was no such program operating in the north." After a number of requests from Northern towns, it was decided that a similar program would be beneficial in the North.

The main goal of the project was to find out which Northern people, and then to respond to that need.

The caravan reached Thunder Bay on June 13, travelled to towns like Atikokan, Kapuskasing, Timmins and Blind River and finished off in Sault Ste. Marie on August 11. A great deal of publicity surrounded the entire tour. Newspaper articles preceded the arrival in each town; these were followed up by more interviews for newspapers, radio and television.

The caravan's vehicle, which once rved the city for St. Clair College, would park in the downtown section of the community, and the students would be available to answer questions about various aspects of the law.

Many people had questions about tenant rights and employment legislation, topics that are relevant to residents in any part of the province. Others wondered about laws unique to Northern citizens, such as environmental laws dealing with mercury poisoning, and Indian rights. Twenty types of pamphlets and 14 video presentations were also used to inform interested persons.

MacDonald felt the project was successful in the project members were able to find out what kind of legal information is needed in the north. He cited environmental law as the most important aspect to consider.

Professor MacDonald said there was less success in establishing a contact in each community to provide follow-up and continuity to the program. But, he added, because the project will continue for another two summers, that goal will be accomplished in the future.

The project was funded by a $10,000 grant from the Donner Canadian Foundation. Financial aid was also received from the Faculty of Windsor and the Ontario Legal Aid Plan.

Where to go in Windsor

By BRENDA MCILISTER

At first glance, Windsor appears to be a drab, boring factory town. It is. But if you want to eat, drink, listen to music, or indulge in a bit of culture, Windsor has the places to go.

Restaurants are one of Windsor's specialties. Mario's specializes in high priced, but enjoyable, Italian food. La Cuisine, and L'Auberge de la Bastille serve very good French dishes.

Patrons of the Blue Danube are entertained by "wandering gypsies" who go from table to table playing violins. The food is Hungarian, and fairly expensive.

The Himalaya restaurant is one of Windsor's more unusual eating places. It specializes in Indian and French cuisine. Some of the dishes take eight hours to prepare, so patrons can go the day before their reservation to plan their meals. The food is reasonably priced.

For your drinking pleasure, the Gallery Lounge in the basement of the University Centre is a favourite spot of students. The Bridge House and the Dominion House are also within walking distance of campus.

Antoninelli's Radio Tavern has a pleasant, 1940's atmosphere, good food, and best of all, live jazz music. The jazz combo features Alex Zonjic, on flute and guitar, Jim Bratton, on piano, and Franky Fred, on drums. Zonjic will also be playing in a jazz concert at the art gallery on Sunday September 11.

Now there's no excuse for being bored. Enjoy your stay in Windsor.

APPLICANTS TO MEDICAL SCHOOL

Applications for all Ontario medical schools are now available at the Ontario Medical School Application Service (OMSAS) for the 1978 session.

Completed applications must be received at OMSAS on or before November 15, 1978.

Write immediately to:
OMSAS
P.O. BOX 1328
GUELPH, ONTARIO N1H 6N8

THE LANCE—SEPTEMBER 6, 1977—PAGE FIVE

THE LANCE—SEPTEMBER 6, 1977—PAGE FIVE
The following is an incomplete list of events and activities scheduled for Orientation Week (Sept. 10 to 18). Various residences and societies are planning their own activities this week and next, so watch bulletin boards or ask around. Details of certain events can be found in "Orientation highlights" elsewhere in this issue. Most events are free with a SAC “Welcome Pass”. Events marked in color represent a change from SAC’s orientation guide.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6

Gallery Pub open
Free admission Monday to Wednesday
75 cents Thursday to Saturday

Registration Week
Residence and Society events

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8

Law School presents a film
“The Paper Chase”
Math Building, 7 p.m.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9

Law School Double Deck Bus Tour
4 p.m., Law Building grounds

SAC Talent Show
Ambassador Auditorium. Cash Prizes
Register at the SAC Offices (2nd floor University Centre) before 5 p.m.
Admission 50 cents. Cash bar

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10

Football,
First game of the season
The Lancers meet the Guelph Gryphons
2 p.m. at the South Campus
Free with student card

Law School presents
A Day at Greenfield Village (Dearborn, MI)
10 a.m., Law students only

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 12

Classes begin
12 noon. “Easy Listening” in Storey Mall
(just outside the University Centre)
Free music and lemonade

3 p.m. Pie Eating Contest
Cherry pies. $25 to the winner
Storey Mall

8 p.m. to 12 midnight. SAC Talent Show
Ambassador Auditorium. Cash Prizes
Register at the SAC Offices (2nd floor University Centre) before 5 p.m.
Admission 50 cents. Cash bar

8 p.m. to 12 midnight. The Gallery Top 40.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Club Day, Storey Mall

12 noon. More “Easy Listening” and Lemonade

3 p.m. “Superburger” eating contest
Winner only gets $25
Storey Mall. (Time approximate)

8 p.m. to 12 midnight. Las Vegas Casino Night
Ambassador Auditorium. Admission $1.00
Cash Bar

8 p.m. The Gallery Top 40.
ORIENTATION 77

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14
12 noon
More "Easy Listening" with CJAM and free lemonade

3 p.m. Whipped cream pie eating contest
No hands
Storey Mall. (Time approximate)

8 p.m. to 1 a.m. "Las Vegas Revue Show"
Magic, jokes, singing and dancing.
Ambassador Auditorium
$1.00 Cash bar

8 p.m. The Gallery rocks to more "Top 40" music

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15
10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Flea Market, Storey Mall

12 noon. Easy Listening

7 p.m., till you collapse: Film Night
$2.00 for each showing (three showings)
Bring a sleeping blanket, pillow, or a buddy
Ambassador Auditorium, Cash bar till 1 a.m.

8 p.m. The Gallery
75 cents after 8 p.m.

St. Clair College presents
Burton Cummings in Concert
Also featuring Jackson Hawke
St. Clair Amphitheatre 7:30 p.m.
$7.00, or $8.00 at the gate

The Faculty of Law presents
 Solicitor-General Francis Fox
Topic: Penal Reform
8:15 at the Law Building

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

12 noon. Easy Listening

8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dance Night, University Centre
Three different bands
The Gallery, Centre ex-cafeteria, and Ambassador Auditorium
$1.00. Cash bar on all floors

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

Law School Golf Tournament
With Dinner
Roseland Golf Course
Law Students only

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17

Football
The Lancers are down the road at Waterloo

11 a.m. SAC Mini-Olympics.
Main quad (Between Laurier and Mac)
(St. Denis gym, in case of rain.)
Fun for all

4 p.m. (or after Olympics finish)
Free Barbecue, Main Quad.
(In case of rain, Vanier Hall)

8 p.m. Folk Festival
Ambassador Auditorium $1.00

8 p.m. The Gallery, 75 cents
Law students only
Dean's and Faculty Dance
Teutonia Club, 8 p.m.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 18

12 noon. "The Rondoau Booze-A-Test"
Buses leave Lot M for Rondoau Park
Dinner at the Barefoot Bar, and a dance featuring "Sweet Thunder"
BYOB to the bar
Return 1 or 1:30 a.m., $8.00
With Welcome Pass $4.00

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19

Nurses and Engineers only
Big Brother-Big Sister Night
Engineers meet in Vanier at 8 p.m.
Nurses meet in Ambassador Auditorium
Bash at Ambassador, 9 p.m.
Disco and cash bar
Highlights of next week's orientation schedule

Of all the intriguing events listed in the Orientation Chart in this issue, a few cry out for more explanation and clarification. The Lance list of selected orientation events follows below; remember there are many worthwhile events not highlighted here.

Monday, September 12. Classes begin. Not a registered orientation event, but usually manages to draw a crowd. Classes don't usually last long this week.

The Talent Show at 8:00 p.m. at Ambassador isn't entirely for laughs. Singers, comedians, groups are all welcome. Register at the SAC office before 5:00 p.m.; bring your student I.D. Peters first, $75.00; second, $35.00; third, $15.00.

Tuesday, September 13. Experts differ on whether Casino Night attendance will be up or down this year with the added presence of Playboy bunnies as hostesses. Will the women stay away, or will they come to show up the bunnies? Gambling money can be used to bid for valuable gifts in an auction at an event the night of the night. Only a percentage of the profits will go to Volunteer Services.

Club day introduces you to the various clubs, groups and societies on campus. Should be interesting.

The Superburger eating contest is new. It will probably take place as soon as there is a big crowd in Storey Mall, rather than at 3:00 p.m. If you live off-campus, this is your chance to sample Saga Foods' version of the Big Mac . . . if you want to.

Wednesday, September 14. Whipped cream pie-eating contest replaces the scheduled frisbee competition. The winner will probably get his picture in The Lance. Remember - no using your hands.

Orientation co-ordinator Gino Piazza's infatuation with Las Vegas continues Wednesday night with the "Las Vegas". No Rich Little or Barbra Streisand, but we do get the Chashions Trio, Festival Ltd., and the Steve Moore Orchestra doing the musical honours, along with comedian Harry Jaryck and the magic acts of Kramer and Company.

Thursday, September 15. No more eating contests, but there's a flea market all day which brings in local merchants and craftsmen to display their wares.

Film Night can be expensive, but a welcome Pass gets you in free all night. Two dollars per set isn't that cheap, but most of the movies look good. The first set features Three Days of the Condor which is either a recent thriller starring Robert Redford, or a commentary about the life cycle of endangered birds in South America. Showtime: 7:00 to 9:15. The second set is Napoleon, Robert Altman's recent Academy Award winner. It lasts till midnight.

The third showing consists of four movies, two of which are worthwhile. Watch Dinah turn over in his grave every time The Bad News Bears shows how kids really act. Walter Matthau and Tatum O'Neal turn in good performances. Lady Sings the Blues presents Diana Ross in a tour de force as Billie Holliday. For the real fans, the last two films are Duelle and The Tower of London.

Friday, September 16. SAC's triple dance features the bands SaltSpring Rainbow, David Matherson, and Steppin. No ping-pong or snooker in the Centre, tonight only.

Saturday, September 17. Students from each residence, off-campus students, and international students (by their own request, apparently) each form teams to compete for gold, silver and bronze medals in the Mini-Olympics. According to Gino Piazza, the games will be no picnic . . . but they'll be fun. A barbecues afterwards makes it all worthwhile.

Folk concerts at the auditorium were presented. According to Gino Piazza, the games will be no picnic . . . but they'll be fun. A barbecues afterwards makes it all worthwhile.

By SHELLEY HANSON

Classical music knows no limits

Welcome Frosh & Upper Classmen

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

"HARMONY STREET"
DIRECT FROM TORONTO
Sept. 7 - 10 — Wednesday - Saturday

"STEPPIN"
DIRECT FROM MICHIGAN
Sept. 12 - 17 — Monday - Saturday

No admission charge — Monday — Wednesday
Additional charge — Thursday — Saturday
Students with I.D. Card — $75
Non Students — $1.00

S.A.C.
Your Host: Peter Romeril

the GALLERY Lounge
By DAVID PACKER
School of Dramatic Art

Interested in Live Theatre? Well, come and join the subscrib- ers list for the University Players!

Better yet, why not join the University Players yourself? All students can audition for the plays.

The Players is a non-profit, university-funded group that over its eighteen year history has developed from a fledgling student organization to an important voice for Theatre in the whole community. With the pattience and talent of the faculty members from the School of Dramatic Art, production upon production has received critical acclaim. Just last year The Lion in Winter and Indians were greeted with enthusiastic

For the eveninging couples of the seventies, How The Other Half Loves, a wacky modern comedy about illicit affairs among friends, plays November 25, 26, 27, 29, 30, December 1-3.

Edward Bond's searing social comedy, The Sea is offered January 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, Friday, February 20 through Saturday February 28, except Monday.

Cummings is coming

One of Canada's rock-and- roll pioneers is coming to Windsor just in time for Orientation festivities.

Burton Cummings will be appearing at St. Clair College on Thursday, September 15, at 7:30 p.m. It will be his first appearance in Windsor as a solo artist, although he has appeared at St. Clair with his band, The Guess Who, before they split up two years ago. The Guess Who put Canadian rock on the charts worldwide for years, producing hit after hit and 13 albums. Cumings, who wrote most of the band's material and sang all the songs, is now recording for Bach One Music Productions at CBS Records.

Cummings has released two solo albums, and established himself with such hits as Stand Tall and I'm Scared. He comes to Windsor fresh from an enpagination in London, following his appearance at the CNE Grandstand in Toronto.

The concert will take place at St. Clair's Griffin Hollow Amphitheatre. It will be the first concert in the amphitheatre in several years. Also on the bill are the Lavender Hill Mob, and Jackson Hawke, whose album Forever featured the hits Into the Mystic and She's the One.

Tickets are seven dollars in advance, and are available at Sam the Record Man, Shoppers Record and Tape Mart, and the St. Clair College bookstore. Tic-

You've got to spend money to save money. That's the philosophy behind SAC's Welcome Pass, which is being sold to students this week and next to save them money on Orientation 77 events.

For the price of $5.00, the pass offers free admission to most of SAC's Orientation events, as well as to other SAC-sponsored events throughout the coming year.

The pass even includes free admission to the pub on Sepnember 15, 16 and 17, allowing holders to save on the usual "Thursday to Saturday" fee of 75 cents.

There are only two special events sponsored by SAC this year which will not be free with the Welcome Pass: The Rondeau Booze-A-Trail, which wraps up the orientation schedule, and the Boone-A-Hay-Ride, planned for this fall. This pass will entitle the owner to a discount, how-

In November, two lucky passholders will each win a trip to Hawaii during Slack Week (Feb. 11 to 18). Hotel accommodation and plane fare are included in the trip, which SAC Special Events Commissioner Gino Piazza feels will make the pass even more attractive. Last year, 600 passes were sold, Piazza hopes to sell more this year.

Selling more Welcome Passes can not only make Orientation financially successful, according to Piazza, but it can also provide SAC with more funds for special events. Special events include such SAC-sponsored activities as concerts, films, lectures (Piazza brought in Vincent Bugliosi last year), and dances.

And for those who love the nostalgia of the Gay Nineties, opening February 24 and running every day except the 27th, until March 4, is a hilarious Victorian melodrama, complete with mustached villains and innocent heroine, called Dirty Work At The Crossroads.

The final show of the season, March 31, April 1, 2, 4-8, has not been selected as it is traditionally, the presentation of the graduating class in the Bachelor of Fine Art program.

Special student subscriptions for only $12.00 for the entire season are available now. Regular subscriptions are $14.00.

Phone 253-4456 or mail a subscription form from one of the brochures you'll find scattered around campus. Subscriptions are available until Nov. 5.

The box office will be open for regular sales on October 24. Auditions for the play The Changing Room will be held in early September. There will be notices on the bulletin boards, and interested students can phone the School of Dramatic Art at Ext. 146.

Students can save money by buying welcome passes

The passes may be obtained from a SAC booth just outside St. Denis Hall during Rectification Week, or by the University Centre reception desk during Orientation Week. Be prepared to present your student number. Not only do passholders receive free admission to most events, but they also get first rights entrance privileges. How-sac sponsor music programs and and art events, as well as also appearing LAVENDER HILL MOB

in the St. Clair College AMPHITHEATRE 2nd floor

University Centre

THE LANCE—SEPTEMBER 6, 1977—PAGE NINE

THURS. SEPTEMBER 15, AT 7:30 PM
Bach One Music Productions PRESENTS in concert

Burton Cummings

Adv. Tickets Are $7.00 at Sam the Record Man
Shoppers Record & Tape Mart
The St. Clair College Bookstore
$8.00 AT THE DOOR

Also appearing LAVENDER HILL MOB

Join The Lance
We require:
reporters, photographers,
production people,
cartoonists,
graphic artist, &

2nd floor

University Centre

For tickets, please contact:

Theatre Department
St. Clair College
Windsor, Ont.
Sports

Recreational Swimming

The fall session may be starting, but you can still unwind by going for a swim, all year round.

The university pool at the Human Kinetics Building will be open for free swimming from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. on weekdays. Swim Saturday from 12:30 to 3:30 or 6:30 to 9:30, or all afternoon Sunday, from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Locks, lockers, showers and saunas are available. Be prepared with your student card.

For those on the other side of town, the YMCA at 511 Pelissier Street offers public swimming every day, but there is a 50 cent charge. Public swimming hours Monday through Thursday are 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday nights you can swim from 6:30 to 7:30 or 8:30 till 10.

Saturday hours are 11:30 to 1:30 and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays you can swim from 12:30 till 4:30. Not all age groups are permitted at all times; call 258-YMCA for details.

Participate!

Details of this year’s intramural and intrastral sports programs were unavailable as we went to press. However, those interested in trying out for intrastral Lancer and Lancerette sports, especially basketball, golf, judo, tennis, track and volleyball, are urged to contact Human Kinetics as opening meetings for these sports are usually held very early in the school year.

Other extramural sports, such as curling, fencing, hockey, wrestling, swimming, diving and synchronized swimming, are organized later this month or in October. Water polo, table tennis and ping-pong are a few of the sports that may be carried on extramurally if there is a demand.

Intramural counterparts of most of these sports will also be going on all year. The women’s programs traditionally take place Tuesday nights, while the men’s seasons run on and on. Flag football, soccer and lobs, traditionally start very early in September. Find a team or start your own.

Watch The Lance for more details on starting times and locations for the various sports. If you would like your sport or team covered in The Lance, or would like to become an intercollegiate or intrastral sports reporter, call us at Extension 153.

Canadian Sports Writers

Canadians improve at student games

Canada finished seventh overall and fifth in total medals at the 1977 World Student Games in Sofia, Bulgaria, last month. The team competition was won by the Soviet Union, with the United States a distant second.

The 83-country tournament, which ended August 27, attracted about 15,000 student athletes. Canada sent 190 athletes to compete in nine sports, and emerged with four gold, six silver and five bronze medals. At the last Universiade, held in Moscow in 1973, Canada finished eleventh of 71 competing countries.

In Sofia, Janet Nutter of Winnipeg won a bronze in diving, and Debbie Brill of British Columbia won a silver medal in the high jump. The rest of Canada’s medals were won by the swim team.

The highly-regarded men’s basketball team won six games and lost two, finishing fourth, as it did in 1973. The women’s basketball team finished sixth as a result of a 56-54 loss to the Chinese team.

The swim team piled up 18 medals, and came close to two more in the final day when two relay teams finished fourth. According to The Globe and Mail, swim coach Paul Savage of Simon Fraser University had been counting on 10 medals from the swim team.

Savage said that although he thought the emphasis in Canada on athletic participation was fine, there should be more emphasis on winning.

Sports Shorts

Interested in Lancerette (girls) track and field this season? Contact Dr. M. A. Salter at extension 568, or Professor Kimmerle at 773.

The Ontario Universities Athletic Association (OUAA) has transferred its public relations office from Waterloo to the Athletic Centre, University of Guelph.

The U. of T. Blues and the Western Mustangs, two of the Lancers’ foremost league rivals, met in an exhibition game Friday in Toronto to help commemorate 100 years of college football. Also last Friday, Waterloo, McMaster, Guelph, York and Laurier all played in a special round-robin tournament in Hamilton to prepare for the upcoming football season. That means every Western Section team except the Lancers has some game experience under its belt prior to the season opens this Saturday.

Besides swimming, the Windsor YMCA offers adult physical education programs and fitness programs for men and women. Also, less strenuous clubs, activities and adult interest classes. Call 258-YMCA.

Windsor U. needs cheerleaders! Both sexes wanted; uniform supplied. Contact Rob Whitenect at SAC.

Your On Campus Travel Service

• AIRLINE TICKETS AT AIRPORT PRICE
• CHARTER FLIGHTS
• VACATION PACKAGES
• ACATION PACKAGES
• HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS
• STEAMSHIP BOOKINGS
• RAIL TRANSPORTATION
• CAR RENTAL

UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR BOOKSTORE

9:00 a.m. — 4:30 p.m. Daily Monday thru Friday
CALL MARY OR ELAINE
258-3802-253-4232 ext. 691
New line-up for Lancers

By RICK SPENCE

It'll be a brand new Lancer football team the fans will see out on the field this Saturday, September 10, in the season opener against Guelph.

The powerful Lancer dynasty, which suffered only one regular-season loss in the last two seasons, is gone. Many of the long-time stars and all-stars of last year's team, including quarterback Ed Skowronski, have left the university or played out their maximum five years of college football.

"This year's turnover is about the heaviest we've ever had," says head coach Gino Fracas. "Almost our complete offensive line is gone." Time has also hurt the defense.

Last year's Lancers finished tied with the U. of T. Blues for first place in the Western Section of the Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Football Conference (O-QIFC). The Lancers bowed out in the first playoff round to the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, whom the Lancers had previously beaten, in the regular season, 25-9.

The Mustangs, of course, went on to win the national championship, whom the Lancers had previously tied with the U. of T. Blues for first place in the Western Section of the Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Football Conference (O-QIFC). The Lancers were ranked number five in the country at the end of last season, ahead of Western, Toronto and Laurier were ranked in the top four. "So we have a challenge ahead of us," says Fracas. Western has three-quarters of last year's team back, along with imports, so Fracas believes they'll be the team to beat.

"I have high hopes for our team. They'll get tougher and the Lancers will be better. I think our team will be more competitive in its own right. I think we'll be able to play better against the Lancers this year, the running game, which was subordinate to passing last year, is out. I think something will start to show in the next three weeks," predicts Fracas. "Time will tell."
Rudy's
Style Salon
YOUR CAMPUS HAIR STYLISTS
UNDER THE BRIDGE
2846 University Ave., W.
258-2490
By BOB SKUSE

Effective at 11-01 on September 15, 1977, the Students' Administrative Council will reimburse all students who find it necessary to rely on drugs to survive the daily rigors of campus life. The SAC will also pay the beneficiary of a student who finds accidental death or dismemberment the only way out of a paper or test, up to $2,000.

Sound good? It is. SAC has entered into a contract with the Zurich Life Insurance Company for the coverage of prescribed drugs and accidental death or dismemberment for all students who pay the prescribed SAC fee of $27.50. How do you know if you are one of the lucky students covered under this plan? Well, if you fill a full time undergraduate student, including Law, Education, you are automatically covered when you register for classes with the University. Your coverage is renewed each year as you remain registered as a full time student at the U. of W., and it is renewable each year thereafter. Coverage is for a twelve month period and continues through those short summer months when most students find it necessary to work in order to return in the fall. Graduate and part-time students may enroll in the plan by stopping into the SAC office and paying the $27.50 fee.

What does the plan cover? Any drug authorized by a licensed physician will be reimbursed in full minus a 35 cent deductible charge per prescription. This is a great saving for those students who require the regular use of such medications as insulin, anti-asthmatics or chemotherapy. Contraceptive drugs will be reimbursed to the student for 75% of their cost. The plan also covers services and materials performed or supplied within limitations set down in the insurance pamphlet available at the SAC office in the lower floor of the University Centre. Your reimbursement is limited to the $2,000 maximum per claim. Any extra money earned through the sale of play money will be returned to the student as a rebate. The $27.50 fee will be deducted from any other Student Awards of Ontario, scholarships, or bursaries. Revenue from gate receipts and from the sale of play money totalled over $1,700, which far exceeded the expectations of the SAC organizers. Over nine hundred people filled Ambassador Auditorium. Most of them were male, many were non-students; no one will ever know how many came just to gamble.

As a result of the casino, Piazza was able to say "Even now we're close to making a profit on Orientation", after only three days of events. Once the Orientation bills have been added up, Volunteer Services will receive part of the profits from Casino Night.

Publicity for Casino Night built up all week, following an article Saturday in the Windsor Star and reports on various radio stations. The Star article had a picture of Piazza surrounded by the bunnies, and featured an interview with Dean of Women, Evelyn McLean, objecting to what she had called a "sexist gesture" on the part of the Orientation organizers.

In June, Miss McLean wrote to the SAC Board of Directors, who had approved Piazza's plans for Casino Night, expressing concern about their "lack of concern for the majority of our students' interests" and about the exact terms of the new Student Assistance Program have not yet been made public. Executive of the Association of Student Awards of Ontario have gone on record as saying that they resent being so ill informed.

Student gambles lay their play money on the table, and the bunnies being imported from Detroit, "when there are so many equally qualified Canadian women."

Piazza had intended to pay the bunnies $50 each for their services Tuesday night, but when Canada Customs heard about it, they seized the bunnies.

Cont'd on Page 3
STATEMENT OF NET REVENUE

FOR THE PERIOD ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>1977</th>
<th>1976</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Revenue</td>
<td>$73,186</td>
<td>$71,266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less: Expenses</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operations and administration</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General and administrative</td>
<td>29,383</td>
<td>28,800</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student services and operations</td>
<td>14,232</td>
<td>12,923</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Other activities and special events</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total expenses</td>
<td>43,615</td>
<td>41,723</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net revenue</td>
<td>29,571</td>
<td>29,543</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF FUND BALANCE

FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>1977</th>
<th>1976</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Balance, beginning of year</td>
<td>$35,065</td>
<td>$36,960</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net earnings for the year</td>
<td>2,017</td>
<td>1,019</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Balance, end of year</td>
<td>$37,082</td>
<td>$38,979</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF GENERAL DEBT SERVICE

FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>1977</th>
<th>1976</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Number of bonds funded</td>
<td>1,155</td>
<td>1,155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Funds received from sales of bonds</td>
<td>$19,000</td>
<td>$19,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Interest on bonds funded</td>
<td>1,380</td>
<td>1,380</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Depreciation</td>
<td>5,561</td>
<td>5,561</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net earnings for the year</td>
<td>3,129</td>
<td>3,129</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF LIQUIDITY AND MANDATORY DEPOSIT

FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>1977</th>
<th>1976</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Liquidity ratio</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Current assets</td>
<td>2,175</td>
<td>2,175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Current liabilities</td>
<td>2,040</td>
<td>2,040</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net working capital</td>
<td>135</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN REVENUES AND EXPENSES

FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>New revenue</td>
<td>$19,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less: Expenses</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operations and administration</td>
<td>43,615</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total expenses</td>
<td>43,615</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net revenue</td>
<td>$29,571</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY

FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Net earnings</td>
<td>$2,017</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dividends</td>
<td>-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ending balance</td>
<td>$37,082</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF FUND BALANCE

 FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1977

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Beginning balance</td>
<td>$35,065</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net earnings</td>
<td>2,017</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ending balance</td>
<td>$37,082</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENTS OF CONSERVATIVE AUDITORS

TOUCH ROSS & CO.

230 BAYS OF COMMERCE BUILDING

SOUTHERN BAY, 4TH FLOOR

WINNIPEG, MANITOBA R3C 3R3

The Students' Administrative Council, University of Windsor, Consecutif Administrative Des Etudiants, Universite De Windsor

TO THE ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND TO THE UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR

The Students' Administrative Council, University of Windsor, Conseil Administrative Des Etudiants, Universite De Windsor

We have examined the balance sheet of the Students' Administrative Council and Student Media as at April 30, 1977 and the statements of net earnings, members deficit and transfers in financial position for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Council and Student Media as at April 30, 1977 and the results of its operations and changes in its financial position for the year then ended, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The preceding comparative figures were reported on by other auditors.

TOUCH ROSS & CO.

Windsor, Ontario

July 15, 1977

Certified Auditors
SAC Assures CJAM Funds

By RICK SPENCE

The new year’s first SAC meeting, held last Friday, turned out to be fairly routine, except for a few matters dealing with money.

SAC Treasurer Ernie Petrasovic reported that although SAC has been borrowing money based on future income from the university, and although the Students’ Council has been in debt since time immemorial, revenue is up so much already that some money is being paid back. Due to “higher than normal revenue from liquor services” (which provides drinks at student functions on campus), and to brisk sales in Welcome Passes, SAC is making an “unprecedented” payment of $10,000 to the bank. Petrasovic estimated that the early payment could save about $150 in interest.

Special Events Commissioner Gino Piazza said that he had spent most of his $11,000 budget for Orientation, which included $1,000 for promotion, but that with some potential dates now being “selling better than expected.”

To help student radio station CJAM in its FM quest, SAC approved a motion that council guarantee funds to the station. For a five-year period, CJAM will receive a guaranteed $12,000 per year, whether the money comes from SAC directly or from a special student fund.

SAC also agreed to pay for any cost over-runs, a guarantee requested by the Canadian Radio Television and Telecommunications Commission, which is considering CJAM’s FM licence. Although this guarantee could cost SAC even more than the promised $12,000, CJAM’s FM consultant Cliff Wilson told council “I’ll go out on a limb and say there’s no reason SAC should cost more than this.”

CJAM also hopes for money from the $19,500 budget to open new studios on the second floor of the University Centre. The station wants $20,000, which SAC president Gary Wells thinks could be available, at the university is on another fund-raising project and doesn’t say competition should SAC have to appeal for funds.

This is a vital year for CJAM, and it needs council support if the license application is to be approved. To help ensure that SAC-CJAM relations remain smooth, no less than five CJAM staffs are voting SAC members.

Gary Wells, Don Peppeh, Tom Scalzo, Vicki Fenner and Andre Wolhe have all worked for CJAM last year or this year.

Ancillary Affairs Commissioner Bruce Hannah also reported at the meeting, and he talked about the difficulties of the new student drug plan, which he must address. “It’s going to take three men and a boy to pick up all the receipts,” he predicted.

Hannah also said he would look into having parts of Tecumseh Hall fixed up, saying that “one half is a sham.” Hall the building has been cleaned and repainted since a small fire in July, but the far half now looks even worse. Hannah says there are even things growing on the ceiling.

Cool Summer Students

By JO PAYNE

Unqualified, eager enthusiasm was the impression I got when interviewing Dr. Marie Sanderson about the trip she helped organize for our staff this summer — an enthusiasm, she claimed much was shared by all who participated.

Dr. Sanderson and Dr. John Jacobs of the Department of Geography convinced, and were the main instructors of a three-week, full credit course at Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island — the first of its kind by any Ontario University. The course was an introduction to the Arctic environment and covered a number of studies and interests, as shown by the variety of lecturers who comprised the staff: Dr. Paul Heltbert of the Biology Department; Dr. Philip Howarth, Department of Geography, McMaster University; Dr. Gifford Miller, Institute of Arctic and Alpine Research, University of Colorado; visiting government scientists, and an Inuit elder, Simonie Alaina.

The course was designed for Inuit and northern students as well as students from the south. There were 24 in all, 13 northern and southern whites and eleven Inuit students. Two other members were babies carried through thick and thin by two Inuit students. They, of course, received $20,000 for the trip.

The group stayed at an isolated camp on the northern shore of Frobisher Bay. Much time was spent in a wide variety of field activities which covered Arctic terrain, climatic measurements, flora and fauna, oceanic studies (including a ton on a research ship) and Inuit civilization.

The course was sponsored by a private grant and the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs. Scholarships were available to both northern and southern applicants.

The trip was very rewarding and educational for all. Dr. Sanderson said the thing that was most striking was that 24 people from different cultures spent three weeks together, learning from each other, learning about their environment, and getting along with each other. Hopefully, courses such as this will continue successfully under Windsor’s name.

Prizes Announced

Father Norbert Ruth, President of Assumption University, announced Wednesday that the following students have been awarded Assumption University Prizes based on their work in the 1976-77 school year.

Miss Jamie Leaming, second year science, has received the Dr. R.J. Coyte Memorial Prize in Biology, worth $75, and the Dr. R.J. Coyte Memorial Prize in Physics 113, worth $50.

Nancy Chitlwm, second year Arts, was awarded the Fr. Louis J. Bondy, C.S.B. Prize in French Literature, to a value of $50.

Mark MacKew, third year arts, has been awarded the Mar­ jor H.P. Swan Prize in History. Second year arts student Mar­ go Scatch received the Helena M. Coyte B.A. Prize in English for having obtained the highest standing in first year English courses.

A public acknowledgement was given at Friday’s assembly to the Patronal Feast of Assumption on December 8.

Nancy Chitlwm, second year Arts, was awarded the Fr. Louis J. Bondy, C.S.B. Prize in French Literature, to a value of $50.

Mark MacKew, third year arts, has been awarded the Mar­ jor H.P. Swan Prize in History. Second year arts student Mar­ go Scatch received the Helena M. Coyte B.A. Prize in English for having obtained the highest standing in first year English courses.

A public acknowledgement was given at Friday’s assembly to the Patronal Feast of Assumption on December 8.

Orientation assistant Bob Gammon piloted SAC’s Orange Express around the clock last week for the pick-up service.
There are far more important things to worry about than Playboy bunnies. Especially on this campus. To be specific, there is a faculty association which has been at odds with the administration for over a year, and which may yet call a strike. Food services have been cut back, student aid is becoming harder to get, there are fewer ping-pong tables on campus this year. The list of concerns is very long. And yet there are those who have insisted on making an issue over Playboy bunnies. And the whole dispute grew so much out of proportion that it now demands comment.

Six bunnies from Detroit were invited by Gino Piazza to be hostesses at Orientation Week’s Casino Night. The rest is history, and well documented at that. Almost 1,000 people crowded into Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday night, anonymous complaints delayed the bunnies at the border, a fire alarm was pulled, and Volunteer Services will make a lot of money.

For real sexism in action, the Las Vegas Revue performers in almost every way.

By LEN WALLACE

Bunnies are people, too.

Both Gino Piazza and Dean of Women Evelyn McLean got a lot of publicity out of Casino Night. Piazza even told the Windsor Star that the successful casino was a direct result of the women’s bunnies; an asinine and ignorant statement which will only inflame the conflict.

Long before the bunnies came to campus, McLean denounced the SAC Board of Directors (which had approved Piazza’s proposal to bring in bunnies) for its “anti-feminist attitude.”

That turn out to be a mistake. The bunnies from Detroit were not the pneumatic, airbrushed fantasists that grace the magazine. They are not anti-feminine. In fact, they showed only the finest qualities we could ask of any person - male or female.

Before they came to Windsor, they knew they faced opposition, and that some sort of incident might occur. They came anyway.

They came, despite the fact the Playboy club closed last month and they were no longer employed as bunnies, because they wanted to honor their agreement with SAC.

They were delayed two hours at the border, where they suffered the close examination of customs officers.

The student can now see, for the first time, that his or her position as a part of society - amongst the powerless - cynicism and apathy have been bred over the years because of an honest disgust for the political "solutions" which basically left things standing at the status quo. What was really needed was a radical transformation of daily life. People are beginning to think for themselves. As far as the government and its props are concerned, that’s dangerous. Nevertheless, it is a basic questioning of one’s role in society. Once it is realized that this society is not really what it is cracked up to be, changes will come.

It remains to be seen whether or not we have learned from our past mistakes. But it’s a start - a start originating with the basic questioning of one’s role in society.

An International Campaign has been launched to call upon South Africa to halt the trial of eleven black men and one woman in Pretoria, South Africa. These twelve people are charged under the terrorism act for opposing the racist policies of apartheid.

Apartheid by nature is violent, as was evidenced by the massacre of hundreds of schoolchildren in Soweto and elsewhere since June 1976. These atrocities are still continuing. Recently 175 more children were arrested.

African group calls for support

An International Campaign has been launched to call upon South Africa to halt the trial of eleven black men and one woman in Pretoria, South Africa. These twelve people are charged under the terrorism act for opposing the racist policies of apartheid.

Apartheid by nature is violent, as was evidenced by the massacre of hundreds of schoolchildren in Soweto and elsewhere since June 1976. These atrocities are still continuing. Recently 175 more children were arrested.
Sexist nonsense could have been stopped

By BRENDA McLISTER
At the SAC of Board of Directors meeting on June 7th, plans to import Playboy bunnies for Casino Night were objected to by Maryon Overholt, External Affairs Commissioner; and Evelyn McLean, Dean of Women, as being "sexist." According to the minutes of the meeting, "After considerable discussion, the Board explained that the Playboy bunnies are beyond such cultural discrimination against women."

It is comforting to hear that bunnies have nothing against women. I think, however, that the Board was trying to get different point across: the use of Playboy bunnies to draw a big crowd for Casino Night was not sexist. I would like them to "explain" it to me.

Unfortunately for the Board, objections continued. Special Events Commissioner, Gino Piazza has more than three months' experience defending such a position, and is now the undisputed king of rationalization. He told me himself that he is not a "sexist". The Playboy bunnies, he says, are "celebrities" - what other celebrity could you get for $50 (the cost was said to have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50).

How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.

Women, you have every right to be outraged. But until you get more politically involved, SAC will continue to ignore your plight, I am sure, the bunnies have been made earlier that each bunny would receive a "gift" of $50). How six nameless waitresses from a private club can rate as "celebrities" is beyond me. To argue that using them to sell tickets is more "culturally acceptable" than using the nude flesh of ten possible, or barren, who are beyond such cultural boorishness, the audience on a university campus but inoffensive event.
Library installs new security

By JOHN RADTKE

An electronic detection system has been installed in the University of Windsor's Ledy Library. Basically what this is, is an exit system which will detect those books that have not been checked out properly. Students leaving the library last year were asked to open books and briefcases for inspection. This year they will simply leave through the system's exit gate. Passages through the exit gate will be taken through the gate without first being checked out, an alarm system will ring so the exit gate will lock. When this occurs, a circulation desk employee will simply ask that person if he or she has forgotten to go through proper procedures for taking out books. This new system costs $40,000 to install, but Mr. Al Maze, the acting University Librarian, says it should pay for itself within a few years. It has cost the University $11,000 to replace the books lost last year. Maze says this new system should help to reduce losses by about 65 per cent.

All library books have been specially treated or sensitized. When checking out a book it is desensitized, all-owing free passage through the exit gates. This new detection system will not all make book theft more difficult but it will also speed up the process of checking out books.

However, no security system is fool-proof, and this one does have some minor flaws, such as false alarms. Ring binders and 13M recording tapes have been known to set off alarms in other University libraries using this type of detection system. A record of all real alarms will be kept by the library, but the false alarms will of course be over-looked. With a record of the real alarms the library can keep track of the people who repeatedly forget to check out books in the proper way. Maze says this system is simply a deterrent toward book theft and is not meant to punish individuals.

Motor City Myths

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Those of you who are new to Windsor are probably already aware of one attraction: the Detroit skyline. And most of you, fearing that the rumors about our neighbors to the North (yes North) are true, are content to see Detroit only from the foot of Dieppe Gardens. It is for you misinformed individuals that I have chosen to shatter the many myths of the Murder - I Mean Motor City.

MYTH: Upon leaving stadiums and concert halls at night, you will be followed to your car.

TRUTH: You will not be mugged in the parking lot. Most muggers are lazy and prefer to wait at the exit doors.

MYTH: You cannot leave your car parked for more than ten minutes.

TRUTH: The meters along the downtown street in Detroit without finding the haucaps, fees and steer in your pocket upon your return.

MYTH: This is ridiculous. Haucaps disappear within the minute; after ten minutes, your car and the two behind it will already be across town.

MYTH: Street gang lurk behind every building and in every alley waiting to attack.

TRUTH: Nonse. They're also broken down, and fire hoses hydrants and next to police call phones.

MYTH: Gun-wielding lunatics do a lot of shooting and "robbery of your life" when you stop for a red light on a Detroit city street.

TRUTH: You couldn't know, I don't stop for red lights in Detroit.

MYTH: The tunnel bus is always packed with drunks, addicts and pick-pockets.

TRUTH: There are no more drunks on the tunnel bus than there are in the Engineering Park.

MYTH: Kidnappers run rampant in Detroit.

TRUTH: True, but you'll never spot them for the snipers and perverts.

Students fooled by fee collection

By ROBERT BROWN

If you couldn't register last week due to not having tuition money on hand, you were not alone. Many students suffered from what appears to be an oversight in administration in notifying students of the difference in the procedure of collecting fees.

The fun started last spring, when a policy change scrapped the usual three weeks' grace after registration for paying first tuition instalments. The reasons for the decision seem sound enough. As Director of Finance Joseph Schiller explained, the delayed payments made more for bureaucratic nightmares. Many students would register without paying and then never bother to attend, or drop out. Others would go to the University but would never get around to paying their tuition. Altogether the number of accounts still outstanding from last year is "very considerable." "The old procedure," says Schiller, "was unsuspicious, waiting for a bus.

MYTH: Many unsuspecting accident. uninvolved from last year is "very considerable." "The old procedure," says Schiller, "was unsuspicious, waiting for a bus.

MYTH: People are shot in broad daylight while shopping.

TRUTH: This is totally unfounded. Some victim just waiting for a bus.

MYTH: Heaving consequences of allowance, are pushed off porrs into the Detroit River with surpris ing results.

TRUTH: It happens, but don't worry. You could never sink in the water it is thick.

MYTH: Detroit is the murder capital of the world.

TRUTH: Yes, but the victims are always people who are involved in something. Like walking down the street, going to restaurants, or minding their own business.

The fun started last spring, when a policy change scrapped the usual three weeks' grace after registration for paying first tuition instalments. The reasons for the decision seem sound enough. As Director of Finance Joseph Schiller explained, the delayed payments made more bureaucracy for bureaucratic nightmares. Many students would register without paying and then never bother to attend, or drop out. Others would go to the University but would never get around to paying their tuition. Altogether the number of accounts still outstanding from last year is "very considerable." "The old procedure," says Schiller, "was unsuspicious, waiting for a bus.

MYTH: People are shot in broad daylight while shopping.

TRUTH: This is totally unfounded. Some victim just waiting for a bus.

MYTH: Heaving consequences of allowance, are pushed off porrs into the Detroit River with surpris ing results.

TRUTH: It happens, but don't worry. You could never sink in the water it is thick.

MYTH: Detroit is the murder capital of the world.

TRUTH: Yes, but the victims are always people who are involved in something. Like walking down the street, going to restaurants, or minding their own business.

Fortunately officials in charge of registration allowed 'deals' to be made: if a student could prove he could pay later, he was allowed to register. In addition, the change did not affect those who make a habit of paying when they register anyway. But a number of registering students found themselves in trouble when they arrived at St. Denis Hall minus cheques or hundreds of dollars in small bills.

The unfortunate fact that most of the confusion could have been avoided with just a little more advance notice will perhaps serve as a warning for future situations like this.

According to Mr. Schiller, posters announcing the termination of delayed tuition payments were put up in March. He also stated that a paid announcement of the change was put in The Lance. However, The Lance has found no record of such an announcement.

Park lots oversold

By ERIC MAYNE

Problem regarding the avail ability of adequate student parking continues to plague the University of Windsor this year, as car spaces can be seen in the congested condi tions in many lots around the area.

Several reasons have been given for the overcrowding of lots. The University is trying to improve the inconveniences caused by the con struction of both the Biological and Administrative buildings. Perhaps the most sig nificant of these is the fact that there have been more spaces sold than there are spaces available.

Grant McVer, Director of Security, admits that there are lots that have been "oversold slightly." He justified this action by saying that the variety of times at which students may attend classes justifies additional space. He feels it is unlikely that all parking spaces would be in the lot at the same time. It is interesting to note that while maintaining this position, McVer strongly advocates the formation of car pools. This is impractical in many cases due to independent time tabling.

Regarding last year's controversy surrounding the most recently constructed parking lot U on the corner of Wyandotte and Sunset, no settlement has been reached between the University and Ms. Maitre, owner of the home near the lot on California Avenue.

At present, half of the 112 parking spaces for parking cars are in use. The newly constructed lot blocks access to the alley between Sunset and California Avenue thus blocking access to Ms. Maitre's home.

University solicitor Leo Inocente was not available for comment regarding a second as salement of Miss Maitre's landholdings made last November at the University's expense.

LEADERS WANTED

Men and women of integrity, courage and common sense, willing to devote themselves, without thought of reward, to the highest ideal and the greatest undertaking conceivable to human beings.

This is a call sent out to men and women of all ages, educational and racial back grounds, who wish above all else to fulfill their creative potential in every aspect of their living.

It is an invitation for you to embark on a training program designed to equip you to provide the caliper of leadership for which the world is in desperate need.

The mass of humanity will not change to meet the challenge of the world unless there are individuals with sufficient vision and integrity to undertake the process for themselves and to lead the way by the example of their own living.

For further information write to:

Leadership Training
P.O. Box 238, Loveland, CO 80537
Department representatives still needed

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Now that you've lost all your money at Casino Night, heard enough of the Chantons, and listened to CJAM's blaring over the drone of some professor in Dillon Hall, it's time to realize that there are a few academic things happening on campus also.

The actions of every department in the university are determined by a departmental council. As well as the professors of a given department, student representatives sit on these councils. The students have full voting privileges and take part in deciding on considerations such as curriculum, promotion and tenure, and appointments. As student-elected representatives of the students, these people also make known to the professors the feelings of students about courses, exam formats, etc.

Most student representatives are elected in the spring, but there are still some departments holding elections within the next few weeks. If you're interested in a position on your departmental council, or if you just want to get to know the students representing you, contact your departmental secretary.

These departments still need representatives: ECONOMICS: still needs one undergraduate rep - nominations will be held within the next few weeks. ENGLISH: the English department holds elections in the spring, but last year, there just weren't enough interested nominees. Nominations will be held from September 19 through 26 for seven undergraduate, one graduate and one teaching assistant rep. DRAMA: The Drama department still needs two more representatives. Nomination and election times will be posted within the department in the near future. FRENCH: nominations for one graduate and three undergraduate reps will be held September 22. Elections will follow on September 23.

GERMANIC AND SLAVIC STUDIES: one grad and one undergrad will be elected sometime in early October.

MARY ANNE TREMONTI, reporting for the Observer.

NUS postcards to Pierre

Maryan Overholt wants to see Prime Minister Trudeau.

No, she is not a nymphomanic chasing our half-married/half-divorced political pontiff - far from it! She is, instead, a lady with a cause, a cause of great interest to any student who has had trouble finding work during the summer months or, more importantly, after graduation, and to any student who is disenfranchised with the student loan situation.

Maryan Overholt is SAC's Commissioner of External Affairs and her prime concern is the unemployment among students. Student unemployment hits a record high rate of 15.1% this summer according to the National Union of Students.

Summer employment, however, is only half of the issue according to Overholt. Upon graduation from post-secondary institutions, only about 16 out of five graduates are finding work. Four out of five may not sound too bad, but when you put it into percentages, that is twenty percent unemployment for university graduates.

"The situation", said Overholt, "is simply ridiculous. What little help the federal government had been providing (in the form of summer grant programs) was cut off or reduced in recent years as they tried to cut back spending. There seems to be no real permanence in any job creation program in this country - nothing really effective."

Aside from the unemployment issue are complaints against the student loan program - at both the provincial and federal levels.

First, there is the question about minimum financial earnings from summer earnings, and parental contributions.

"If you cannot get a summer job," says Overholt, "how can you raise the four hundred dollar requirement for the loan?"

Secondly, the whole situation is a disincentive to low-income students. "With job placement as low as it is after getting a degree, why should poorer people take the risk of going into debt with a government loan?"

Finally, as students need more help, the government is going to be getting last minute discussions concerning putting tight control on loans and reducing the amount of aid available. Students are under way in the Education and Finance Ministries.

We want to talk to Trudeau," says Overholt, "the man with the clout. Unfortunately, he is also extremely hard to contact but we are not giving up. We are going to get a hold of him and have some kind of a meeting.

Students on campus may have seen the NUS pamphlet entitled "Let's Think: 'We're Here' and the NUS newsletter, The Student Advocate, outlining their campaign. Many students may also have filled out the post-card expressing dissatisfaction with governmental action in these areas - to be sent en masse to the Prime Minister's office.

September 23.

FRENCH: Nominations for one graduate and three undergraduate representatives. Nomination and election times will be posted within the department in the near future. POLITICAL SCIENCE: A graduate representative is still needed for this department, but elections won't be held for a few more weeks.

RELIGIOUS STUDIES: At the end of this month, elections will be held for two undergraduate representatives and one graduate.

The University's Student Awards Office recently announced the latest deadlines for applying for financial aid. A limited number of awards is available to undergraduate students. Applications are available at the awards office in the West Library Building, and must be submitted by September 30, 1977.

Students with outstanding loans from previous years who are taking at least 60 per cent of full course load at OSAP registered with their bank to make sure they are not charged interest. Students must also file a Schedule 2, unavailable at any bank, before October 31. It's not too late to apply for student loan or grant aid. The deadline is September 30 for both OSAP and Canada Student Loans, which are available to any student taking at least 80 per cent of a full course load.

Earn some high credits this semester.

COMMERCIAL STUDENT SERVICES

Available at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce on or near most college and university campuses throughout Canada.

COMMERCES Student Services are designed to help the student successfully manage the financial aspects of his or her education.

OPEN TO FIRST-, SECOND-, THIRD-, FOURTH-, FIFTH-, SIXTH-, SEVENTH-, EIGHTH- AND HIGHER-YEAR STUDENTS.

COMM 101
Introduction to General Banking.
Supervisor of Service: The Commerce.
A service that emphasizes saving a dollar. It covers such necessary information as setting up a bank account, making deposits, making withdrawals, bringing your passbook up to date, cashing cheques, etc. Unlimited enrolment.
Prequisite: Money to open an account.
Offered: Summer Fall Winter Spring.

COMM 102
How to Manage your Money.
Supervisor of Service: The Commerce.
Different ways to earn higher interest on your money. Making ends meet, budgeting and more, handling paying bills and meeting financial commitments, buying a car, putting a down payment, affording a night out, etc. Unlimited enrolment.
Prequisite: Money to manage.
Offered: Summer Fall Winter Spring.

COMM 103
Principles of Student Loans.
Supervisor of Service: The Commerce.
Check with the Supervisor of Service for full description and prerequisites for enrolment.
Offered: Summer Fall Winter Spring.

COMMERCIAL STUDENT SERVICES

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce
Essex County French High School A Reality

By BRUCE DINSMORE

It was a gut issue that set neighbour against neighbour for the last eight years. It appears to be settled but some say that the issue is just beginning to be finished.

It was a hot issue in the weeks before the November 15 Ontario election and in the months that followed the election of Rene Levesque, the bill became a political stick of dynamite with the fuse lit.

In the June provincial election, it was the major topic in this area. There were candidates against their party platforms and opposed about the school. The three major parties supported the bill to build the school, so it was a foregone conclusion that it would be built, no matter who won the election.

After the voting was over, and the PC were back in power in Queen's Park, the bill was introduced to the house and passed just before 11 p.m. on the night of July 12. Only Raymo Mancini (Liberal-Essex North) opposed Bill 3.

The bill that was brought in by the Ontario government was not popular, but it was an effort to get something done. The issue was many years old and the Board had rejected it a dozen times.

For the past eight years, the French-speaking people of Essex County have wanted a high school where French would be the major language. The subject has been an on-again-off-again issue, but this summer, the province gave it a little push. The province passed a bill to force the construction of the school, — Bill 3.

There was some question of the grant situation. Many people were opposed to building a new school at a time when the province was preaching fiscal restraint and that other schools were empty. At a meeting of the Essex County Board of Education on May 9th, Professor Allan Gould of the Math department of the University suggested that the Faculty of Education building in South Windsor be used and that University construct a new Ed. I. building on the main campus. The Board rejected the proposal.

The Board owned two possible sites for the school. One was near the Windsor Airport, but if the proposed expansion plan for the airport goes through, the school would have to be locked in jail with pre-liners. The other site was in St. Clair Beach. The Windsor firm of J.P. Thompson Associates had done some preliminary work on the school at a price tag of $5,000,000. The school itself was estimated to cost between 4.5 and 5 million dollars. Tack on to that, an extra two per cent or $200,000, if the province was forced to build the school. The Bill forcing the construction of the school, gave the school board until August 24 to decide to build the school, or the province would step in and do it.

The Board did not meet until August 24. When the Board met that hot August night, there were questions as to the meeting's legal status. Finally, it was worked out that the Board could still legally act to build the school that night, but that it was the Board's last chance.

After two hours of angry debate, the final vote was ten to eight to build the school. One of the stipulations of the bill was that board select a site and hire an architect. The St. Clair Beach site was chosen and J.P. Thompson Associates, were to be architects.

Afterward, Chairman Jean Ashton said that the Board was fully committed to the school, but it caused "great bitterness." The main thrust behind the school, the French Action Committee, sees no victory in the Board's motion. They say that they will be happy when the school opens its doors.

Not much has happened in the months since the vote was taken. In an interview, the Director of Education of the Board, Gabe Sagan, said that the architects have to draw the plans and the contract has to be let before any ground-breaking can be done. He says that he doesn't see any obstacle in getting the school built, and that the Board is aiming for opening the school by the fall of 1979.

Ontario Student Federation Digs Wells

By BOB THOMPSON

In a referendum held last March, students voted in favour of joining the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS). At an OFS conference last June at McMaster University, SAC president Gary Wells was elected as an executive member, one of six throughout the province.

The executive, which Wells said meets three or four times every two months, consists of a chairman, treasurer and six executive members. Wells works with three committees, looking into student services, pubs, and orientation activities.

Wells says the basic idea behind OFS is that member organizations can draw upon the knowledge and experiences of others. At this time, members include five community colleges and 14 of 16 Ontario universities, Ottawa and Western being the two non-members.

Wells stated that he feels that University of Windsor students will directly profit from his position, in that he is in direct contact with the organization. While admitting that his working with OFS will take up a good deal of his time, he said he feels he can organize things so that his time and ability to carry out his SAC responsibilities will not be adversely affected.

The toes knows!

(5 out of 6 toes prefer Levis for feet)

Feet are worth talkin' about when they're into Levis...Levis for feet! Get into some new heavy leathers. Get your feet together, guys. Take 'em to a shoe place. Or a jeans place. Someplace. Get 'em on!

Now it's Levis for feet
Negotiations Blackout

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

"Hot and heavy" is the way one source described the continuing negotiations between the faculty association and the University Board of Governors, but those directly involved with the negotiations are refusing to comment.

Dr. Alan Metaclfe, President of the faculty association, says he can not discuss issues because of a press blackout imposed on the bargaining teams. He did say, however, that he is hopeful of reaching a successful resolution in the very near future.

The faculty association has been negotiating with the Board of Governors' negotiating team since early October last year. The association received union status in May 1976, but is still without a contract. Negotiations stalled last March and provincial conciliator John Dempster was called in to get the talks going again.

When negotiations began last year, the issues centred around professorial wages, which are lower at this university than in others in the province, and faculty rights and privileges which were being threatened because of shrinking enrolments and financial cutbacks.

Talks have been going on during the summer months, and it appears as if both sides are closer to coming to an agreement. At a general meeting a week ago, the faculty was informed of various issues that had been settled.

According to Dean Michael Zin of the Faculty of Business Administration, "quite a few clauses have been signed." There are still a few more items to be settled, but Zin said that he is "optimistic" about a satisfactory settlement in the near future.

On Campus Jobs

By RICK SPENCE

If you don't find schoolwork sufficiently challenging, or if you need the money, a part-time job may be the answer. There are several part-time positions available to students at this campus, but you have to act now.

The University's Media Centre, in the basement of the Math Building, has about 20 openings for students. The Centre offers varied jobs, including television studio production, and pushing slide projectors around campus. The amount of experience required varies with the job; but contrary to popular belief, you do not have to be in Communication Studies to work in the Media Centre.

The Media Centre pays $2.65 per hour, and students can expect to work from four to fifteen hours per week. Hours will be arranged to fit your schedule. To apply, fill out the forms at the Media Centre office.

The student pub "The Gallery" is now accepting applications for work during the fall term. Employees must reapply for each work term (fall, winter, intersession and summer session).

The pub has openings for waiters, waitresses, bartenders and cashiers, according to manager Peter Romeri. Wages vary with the different jobs. Hours depend on the total number of people hired, and again will be arranged around your schedule.

The University College pays $2.65 per hour, and students can expect to work from four to fifteen hours per week. Hours will be arranged to fit your schedule. To apply, fill out the forms at the Media Centre office.

The student pub "The Gallery" is now accepting applications for work during the fall term. Employees must apply for each work term (fall, winter, intersession and summer session).

The pub has openings for waiters, waitresses, bartenders and cashiers, according to manager Peter Romeri. Wages vary with the different jobs. Hours depend on the total number of people hired, and again will be arranged around your schedule.

Two members of the faculty of the University of Windsor are among recipients of research grants from the federal department of Energy, Mines and Resources.

The grants were among 140 at 34 Canadian research institutions totalling $1,086,228 announced by Energy Minister Alastair Gillenmore.

They are Dr. G.P. Mathur of the Chemical Engineering Department, who received $5,000 for his research project "Investigation on Life Style Implications of Alternative Energy Futures", and Dr. C.P. Graeven of the Geology Department who received $3,000 for his research project on "Paleomagnetism of the Seminay and Meadowcliff Tills in the Toronto Area".

The grants, awarded under the Department's Research Agreements Program, will support research and development projects in the natural, physical and social sciences and engineering, which complement the earth sciences, energy and mineral programs of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources.

Nearly 40 per cent of the funds, or $449,318, will support research in the earth sciences while $260,090 will be used for minerals research.

EMEC 105c: POISONS AND HOME COOKING

Since all Home Science students are out to get married, this knowledge will be particularly useful later on in life, like after about ten years following the tying of the knot. Products of the Labs will be given to members of the Administration of the University - it can't hurt them anyway.

A look at how toilet training influences future psychological development of the individual, as well as the influence of toilet training on the collective unconscious through archetype. Lectures will be based upon works by Freud, Adler, Skinner, Neumann, Jung, and Reich. (Sam Freud, George Azor, Fred Skinner, Alfred E. Neumann, Alfred Jung, and Third Reich). Particularly essential will be the students knowledge of the Hauhauer's great work, "Die Toilett en and Bathrooms and das Umwelt", written during his stay in Happy Homes Resting Place.

2117 WIS. Dr. Stark. HK 155: STARTING INTO SPA CE

Due to complaints of Human Kinetics students concerning the standards of the pre-requisite this student. This course is being offered to give HK majors a chance to develop along the lines of their own ability. Also open to History and Psychology majors.

220 HKR. Prof. Zombie. No textbook required.

PHIL 228: REVOLUTION AND TOILET TRAINING

The role of toilet training in the development of class struggle and world revolution will be examined, with particular emphasis on Fourier, Owen, Saint-Simon, Marx and Engels. This course should lead to a perspective on the present state of World Communism.

1844 WH. HIST 378: WEIRDOS IN HIS TORY

An examination of some of the people who have made the world what it is today (scrubbed up) from Attila the Hun and Genghis Khan to Margaret Trueman.

365 MIL. Dr. Strange.
By PAUL CHERNISH

You folks, it finally happened. No more summertime blues. No more glaring hot sun, let’s me use sometimes. Okay, I opened. No more summertime hundred foot head of the pleasures of book my simple tastes have always to enjoy. It is time once again exciting thing in the world, but we love to do. except for one minute detail -

Anyway, in case you’re interested, here’s how I spent my summer vacation.

My vacation probably started just like yours - on a three hundred foot yacht that Jackie lets me use sometimes. Okay, so it doesn’t sound like the most exciting thing in the world, but my simple tastes have always afforded me the opportunity to enjoy mundane things. Everything was running on schedule except for one minute detail - there wasn’t any gas in the tank. I had to go down to the self-serve over on Walker Road and pick up a couple gallons of high-test. Can you imagine that?

I managed to stay awake for six days while navigating the vessel. (That’s what all the sailors called the boat). You know where I ended up? Bobl o. Can you believe that? I couldn’t believe it myself until the Detroit police boat stopped me and asked me why I couldn’t keep the tub in a straight line. Well, after I explained just who owned that boat, a Lace staffer, knew a lot of people in high places, those cops let me go with a warning. Onward I sailed.

I finally ran out of gas. There I was, stuck right in the middle of the Detroit river. I managed to stay awake for 10:00 p.m. Very slowly the crowd began to evacuate, with every person eager to be the first back to the table. After the false alarm and a breath of fresh air for all, the games rolled again.

The alarm also emptied the pub, where patrons were told they had to leave their drinks on the tables. One man, who had just received his drinks, downed six shots of rye before exiting. There was a great rush to return to the pub after the firemen had checked the building, as students wanted to find tables that still had drinks on them.

The evening can be summed up if you picture an average student in the following manner: The eyes study the gameboard and the other bettors. The hands slowly fold a pile of green fifty dollar bills, and place them on the board. Then it all noise.

“Come on number twenty-nine.”

“I’m staking my life on this one”

“Yeah! I won!”

“Easy come, easy go.”

“Does this money hurt?”

---

Every Tuesday in September, enjoy 2 submarines for the price of 1 (Pick up orders only)

Every Tuesday in September, you can enjoy 2 submarines for the price of 1. Call ahead or come right in, but remember, this September Submarine Special applies to pickup orders only and Mother’s does reserve the right to limit quantities.

Come on Home to MOTHER’S Pizza Parlour & Spaghetti House

819 OUELLETTE, WINDSOR

LICENSED UNDER L.L.B.O.

FREE PARKING
By MIKE HAZEL

The Windsor Light Opera Association's Players group is launching its most serious production. Tonight at Centennial Secondary School, "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest" will open. This play, for those of you who don't know, is based on the book by Ken Kesey, the head merry prankster out of the pages of "The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test."

The play, however, is very different from Kesey's book, as was the movie. The play was adapted by Dale Wasserman and, for the sake of continuity, he has taken licence with certain characters' lines, shifting them as needs be to maintain the steady flow. If you are a fan of the book, don't expect to see a stage version conforming strictly to the book. However, do expect to be entertained.

The pace is rapid, the crazy characters are there, and the message still reaches out and grabs you like tiny electrodes attached to your head. Taking place entirely in the ward of a mental hospital, the play is a recounting of the reawakening of Chief Bromden, a supposedly deaf and dumb Indian. With the arrival on the ward of Randall Patrick McMurphy, routine is disrupted and a battle of wits between the Head Nurse and McMurphy helps bring the other patients to a new awareness of their manipulation by the Big Nurse. "Cuckoo's Nest" takes you away with laughter then drops you on your ass hard enough to hurt at the end. Be prepared to be swept up with Billy Bibbit on the night he loses his virginity, with McMurphy who attempts to con the pants off his fellow inmates only to be accidentally fooled by them, with Bromden as he emerges from his self-imposed silence only to be sent to the Shock Shop for a treatment of electro-shock therapy, and with Nurse Ratched as she finally defeats everyone in the end, yet loses forever her self-assurance and power over the patients.

The W.L.O.A. Players present "Cuckoo's Nest" tonight, Saturday, Sunday, and next Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. Centennial Secondary School is located in South Windsor.

Trivia Quiz

The following is the first in a series of strange tests.

This week's quiz is for animal lovers.

1. What was the name of the dog on the TV series "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir"?
2. What is the name of the black cat seen in the introduction to the TV series "Manxie"?
3. What was Hopalong Cassidy's horse called?
4. What is the name of the stationhouse dog on "Emergency"?
5. On the "Topper" series who was the St. Bernard ghost-bash?
6. In the 1942 movie "Bambi" what was his rabbit-friend's name?
7. What is the name of the Waltons' hounddog?
8. What was the name of Rip Van Winkle's dog?
9. What was the name of the cat who was always after Pixie and Balto on the TV series "Mannix?"
10. What was the name of the Waltons' poodle?
11. What was the name of the ghost-lurher in "The Twilight Zone"?
12. Can you recall Peter Rabbit's three siblings' names?
13. (This is the toughest - if you score on this one you're hot stuff!) What were the names of the mother and father dogs in the Disney flick "101 Dalmatians"?
14. What was Uncle Wiggily's housekeeper's name?
15. What was the name of the cat who was always after Pixie and Dixie?
16. Donald Duck has a friend who is an inventor and he is usually accompanied by a light bulb symbol. What was this friend called?
17. The giant pandas at the Washington D.C. zoo which were the gift of the People's Republic of China are named . . .
18. The first dog to orbit the earth had a name which when translated meant "setter" - how's your Rascal?
19. In the "Green Acres" TV series, what was the pet pig's name?
20. What is the name of the Ford Mercury TV advertising cowgirl?

Answers!!!!!

Announcements

AUDITIONS for "The Changing Room" will be held tonight, September 18 in Essex Hall Theatre, at 7:00 p.m. This is an all male show and all men (students, faculty, and staff) are invited to audition. Please contact Ext. 146 for further information.

ANYONE interested in the Equality, Rights and Awareness of women are invited to a meeting on Tuesday September 20 at noon in Assumption Lounge. ANYONE interested in QUE SHOW and SALE will be held at THE Windsor Symphony's 10th ANTIIONA.

COFFEE HOUSE one night only! At IONA COLLEGE (Sunset Avenue) on Sunday, Sept. 18th from 8 to 12 p.m. Please feel welcome to bring friends, talents, and instruments. Admission FREE.

THE WINDSOR SYMPHONY'S 10TH ANTI-COFFEE HOUSE one night only! At IONA COLLEGE (Sunset Avenue) on Sunday, Sept. 18th from 8 to 12 p.m. Please feel welcome to bring friends, talents, and instruments. Admission FREE.

COFFEE HOUSE, Iona College will host a coffee house on Sunday Evening September 18th from 7:30 p.m. to 12:00 midnight as part of orientation week activities. Admission FREE. Local talent.

TO ORDER A COPY OF "VISIONS" (the St. Jerome Opera) you may do so by calling the Theatre Office at 944-4969.

UNCORRECTED will print your non-commercial personal message for free. Typed copy must be handed into the Lance office before noon Tuesday of the week of publication. Submissions may be edited for length.

Unclassified

FOUND: A blue suitcase, in SAC's pick-up van. Owner can claim in SAC office.

SAC. LOUNGE

Welcome Frosh & Upper Classmen

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

Saturday Sept. 17
"STEPPIN"
DIRECT FROM MICHIGAN

Mon. Sept. 19th - Sat. Sept. 24th
"VISIONS"
DIRECT FROM LONDON
Radio Is Alive And Well On CBE

By ROSEMARY A. BRESCHUK

A surprising number of people still labor under the misapprehension that radio listening is a rite of the past, specifically the 1930's and 1940's. Initially, in response to that archaic way of thinking, I could only wince, or at best, utter mute cries of exasperation. Finally, it occurred to me to undertake this weekly assignment of introducing to you fine local radio stations, including public stations across the border. Each week I will attempt to preview what I believe to be the listening highlights for such diverse interests as current affairs, documentary, drama, opera, variety, science and the fine arts, with emphasis on classical music listening. I welcome suggestions from readers, and I invite you to contact me for further information of specific radio listening guides.

I cannot think of a more auspicious beginning than by devoting this installment to Windsor's own CBC radio station, CBE. Located at 1550 on your AM dial, CBE station is renowned for its varied schedules, "reflecting the principle set out in the Broadcasting Act that the national broadcasting service should be a balanced service of information, enlightenment and entertainment for people of different ages, interests and tastes covering the whole range of programming." It is hardly possible for me to give a complete run-down of the fine programs offered by the CBE. However, I will begin by drawing up a partial list of programs which may interest university students.

On Monday nights at 8:04 p.m. for the next two weeks only, CBE offers THE PICK OF THE GOONS. The Goon Show is an outrageous, and totally original comedy radio series from Britain produced from 1952 to 1956 and starring those goofballs Peter Sellers, Harry Secombe and Spike Milligan. Dr. BUNDOLLO comedy series will replace the Goon Show beginning October 23rd. Thursday evenings at 8:30 p.m. you can tune in to JAZZ RADIO CANADA, featuring Canadian jazz concerts, interviews and profiles of jazz artists. Guests commentaries on this show have included Dr. Peter Stevens from the University of Windsor.

Saturdays at 12:10 p.m. hear QUIRKS AND QUARKS. Dr. David Suzuki explains scientific mysteries and new discoveries, without the technical jargon. At 2:04 p.m. there is OPERA BY REQUEST. Also, at 10:02 p.m. you can hear ANTHOLOGY, featuring poetry, short stories, reviews and interviews with literary figures.

Clyde Gilmour, in his GILMOUR'S ALBUMS, plays opera, classical, instrumental and solo selections from his immense and varied collections, heard Sunday afternoons at 12:05 p.m. The SOUND OF SPORTS, a summary of weekend sports activities, is heard at 10:05 p.m. on Sundays.

This list is not exactly representative of CBE programming, but I urge you to tune in whenever you can. You will be sure to find a program of interest. Incidentally, the CBE publishes free copies of the highlights of each month's programming. These guides may be located on the counter at the entrance of the University of Windsor Bookstore.

Director of Public Relations is Margaret Butcher. I'm sure she would be pleased to hear from the newly-introduced listeners of CBE Radio.

---

IN THE STARS

By OTIS T.

ARIES — (March 21 — April 19) — Organisation now will result in success later. Nothing will be gained by waiting until the end.

TAURUS — (April 20 — May 20) — Straighten out financial problems before going on. Any delay will be costly.

GEMINI — (May 21 — June 21) — Concentrate on the positive aspects of the problem. Being overly pessimistic will only cloud the issue.

CANCER — (June 22 — July 22) — Unbridled romance is only for pocket novels. Be content with whatever you can get.

LEO — (July 23 — Aug. 22) — Your ideas are worth listening to. Pushing will only create unneeded hostilities.

VIRGO — (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22) — Ride out any opposition to the bitter end. You knew you were right from the start.

LIBRA — (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22) — Your present quandry will soon be cleared up. Heed any advice that comes your way.

SCORPIO — (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21) — The direct route is not always the safest. Reveals only what is absolutely necessary.

SAGITTARIUS — (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21) — Pay strict attention to minor details. Nothing can be considered unimportant.

CAPRICORN — (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19) — Be cautious of any confidential information. The source may not be reliable.

AQUARIUS — (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18) — A wait and see attitude may be best for the moment. The situation could change at any time.

PISCES — (Feb. 19 — March 20) — You must gain cooperation from others before you can proceed. Without it you are doomed to failure.

---

Steppin' In The Pub

By ELLEN SILVER

Steppin' is a five-member band, appearing for our first week of classes at the Gallery Lounge (the pub). The group consists of three male guitarists, a male drummer, and a female lead singer. Their selections are mostly top 40 hits by such artists as Bob Seger, Stevie Wonder, Peter Frampton, Fleetwood Mac, etc.

Although, as one observer stated, "Steppin' tends to fall down and trip over certain renditions", they are, for the most part, enjoyable, even if a bit loud at times. The response from those who like to dance is also quite good. The lead singer maintains a fairly good rapport with the audience and requests are answered promptly.

The group will be appearing at the Gallery up to and including Saturday night. And, as an added bonus, they will be giving away T-shirts throughout the week. So drop in, and do some steppin' of your own, to Steppin'.

---

LIBRARY INSTRUCTION BIBLIOGRAPHY ONE

(An introduction to the Library)

The Leddy Library is accepting registrations for Bibliography 1, a course in Library Instruction. The course, consists of 3 one-hour lectures beginning Sept. 26 and again Oct. 3. Interested students can sign-up at the Information Desk, Leddy Library.
Intramural Sport

A return to campus kicks off a new year for intramural sports. Many students would like to participate, but do not know how to go about it. There are two methods of becoming involved. The first is to go to St. Denis Hall and put in your name at intramural sports headquarters, or to call the intramural hotline, Extension 325. People doing this are commonly referred to as "active seekers" by those in the know.

Because this first method involves some effort, many prefer the other method known as the "inertia" approach, first proposed by Dr. Gonzo in 1214 A.D.. This requires no effort whatsoever. Invariably, someone will know someone who knows someone who's thinking of forming a team, and they will approach you in the next few weeks and ask, "How'd you like to play intramural softball?"

If this should happen, remain calm. These people are seldom serious.

Many sports are available to choose from. Sports beginning this month include flag football, paddleball, women's and men's soccer, men's and coed lobball, a superstar competition, golf, and tennis. The caliber of play ranges from competitive to recreational, so there is room for everyone. Most teams are literally crying out for talent, so your contribution would not go unappreciated.

The Intramural Program is to your right and, as you can see, all forms of competitive sports are covered. Intramural activities are a good way to enjoy yourself and stay in shape. All clubs and organizations are encouraged to participate.

The Lance is interested in covering games, publishing scores, schedules, team information, team photos, etc. So come on up and brag to us about your team.

PIE EATERS Toss Their PIES

By DANIEL SULLIVAN

Ah, a pie-eating contest. I came prepared, but not for what ensued on Monday afternoon. Pie-eating contests in my memory, involve the consuming of an entire pie of each contestant, the fast one finished being the winner. This was slightly different though.

Each contestant, in this case, had a pie plate, at the bottom of which were twelve cherries. The object of the contest was to, without the use of the hands, eat through a large amount of whipped-cream topping and devour all the cherries. A large crowd had gathered and shortly after the 15 entrants had begun their face-to-face confrontation with the pie, one of the spectators flirishly ran behind the table grabbing a pie, and dumping it on the head of a contestant. The crowd scattered, as what started out to be a pie eating contest turned quickly into a pie throwing contest.

In the confusion and the mess a winner was declared. Dave Jewell, a second year student in social work, was the recipient of a $25 first prize.

The outcome was taken well by everyone, though organizer Gino Piazza was visibly disappointed, and accused Vince Landry of being the chief culprit in the matter.

Personally, I played it safe. At the first sign of trouble, I headed up into the nearest tree, where I stayed until the last flying glob of cool whip had reached its target.
Lancer Track and Field Running

By MIKE HAZEL

This year, the U. of W. Lancer track and field team will be participating in three Ontario sanctioned meets. Dr. Salter and his team will be at the Waterloo Invitational on Oct. 7; the McMaster Invitational on Oct. 15; and the OUA finals at McMaster Oct. 22. The Lancers are also to be participants in six cross country and road races. Sept. 25 they will be at the Springbank International in London, Ont. The York Invitational on Oct. 1; an OUA Invitational at Waterloo Oct. 8. The Lancers in Detroit near the end of October; and the OUA finals at Queen's Oct. 29.

As you may have noticed, with the possible exception of Belle Isle, we won't get a chance to see our track and field teams unless we venture to one of the meets away from home. Next year however (in the 78/79 school year) the Lancers will have a meet here.

The Lancer track and field team has been a low key team, unlike the football or basketball teams, and we really don't hear too much about them. They train just as intensively as the other teams though, and they do represent the University at meets across Ontario as well as in Michigan. Organizing the team is the task of Dr. M.A. Salter and he has some great talent lined up to help him to capture some medals at the meets. Derek Drew is this year's coach for the field events and has received medals in his five years of competition in Ontario. Dr. Ian Malcolm is one of the best marathon runners in Canada and he will be coaching the distance runners. The marathon runners will be going anywhere from 4 to 24 miles. (The marathon is one of the races not yet run in kilometers.)

Dr. Salter is one man who can push this team to top competitive level. His philosophy, he told the prospective team members at their first meeting Tuesday, is that "there is no point going out for a team unless you are going to work in, unless you are going to try." He advised the future track and field Lancers to "set an objective. You'll get more satisfaction if you have a personal goal to reach and you match or beat that goal."

At the opening meeting 28 people came out for the men's team, 12 for the women. The Lancer track and field team will consist of approximately 25 members for the meets that are going to be held in Ontario. There are races in Michigan, however, where any number of competitors can compete using the University of Windsor's name. All hopeful team members must take a U. of W. medical test before they are allowed to compete. Another prerequisite is the MVO2 (Maxim Volume of Oxygen) intake test. The MVO2 test is run on a treadmill for a maximum of 15 minutes and a readout on the oxygen intake of the person is recorded. Dr. Salter explained that, on a scale of one to ten, he would like the men to accomplish an eight or nine. The average man on the street would score about a two on the test.

The meets worth paying attention to are the Springbank International in London, Ont. This meet is a highly competitive distance runner meet that attracts many name competitors; and the OUA finals at McMaster, a meet which produces many of the Olympic competitors.

Last year the Lancer track and field team had an overall placing of fourth in Ontario for Outdoor competition and had individual winners like Paul Brown, who placed second in the All-Star games 600 run; and Sharon McNamara who captured a gold medal in javelin at the Ontario Championships. Membership on the team is still open and anyone interested in what is one of the more personally strenuous of the competitive sports, should contact Dr. Salter in the Human Kinetix building.

CAMPUS DIVERSION SERVICE

By E. P. CHANT

If you're interested in judo, or think you are, the wall-to-wall mats in the combative room, under St. Denis Hall are waiting for you. Located in the tunnel between Dillon Hall and the gym, the room is open Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. The instructor is Mr. A.W. Linnell, a second degree black belt.

Mr. Linnell invites everyone to come down and see what it is all about, including beginners and advanced, male or female. "If we can put up a team," says Mr. Linnell, "we can go on trips to tournaments, and hold our own tournaments."

For more information, you can call Bert Linnell at home at 258-8738, or trip down to the combative rooms. Seven hundred square feet of mats are waiting to break your fall.

APPLICANTS TO MEDICAL SCHOOL

Applications for all Ontario medical schools are now available at the Ontario Medical School Application Service (OMSAS) for the 1978 session.

Completed applications must be received at OMSAS on or before November 15, 1978.

Write immediately to:

OMSAS
P. O. BOX 1228
GUELPH, ONTARIO N1H 6N8

First Aid Course, Scuba Diving, Wrestling Clinic, Boys' Basketball Clinic, Athletic Injuries Clinic, "Swim-nastics" and more.

---

Service 'Program '77

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ACTIVITY</th>
<th>DATES</th>
<th>TIME</th>
<th>LOCATION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Adult Learn to Swim</td>
<td>Tuesdays</td>
<td>9:30-11:00 p.m.</td>
<td>HK Pool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bronze Medallion</td>
<td>Daily Mon/Fri</td>
<td>6:00 - 7:00 p.m.</td>
<td>HK Pool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infant Swimming</td>
<td>Mon/Wed/Fri</td>
<td>10:00 - 10:45 a.m.</td>
<td>HK Pool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diving Clinic</td>
<td>Daily Mon/Fri</td>
<td>6:00 - 7:00 p.m.</td>
<td>HK Pool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's Swimming</td>
<td>Saturdays</td>
<td>9:30 - 11:30 a.m.</td>
<td>HK Pool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aikido</td>
<td>Tuesdays</td>
<td>7:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Karate Club</td>
<td>Mon/Wed/Fri</td>
<td>7:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Classroom St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Self Defense</td>
<td>Thursdays</td>
<td>8:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women's Self Defense</td>
<td>Thursdays</td>
<td>7:00 - 8:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judo</td>
<td>Mon/Thurs</td>
<td>7:30 - 9:30 p.m.</td>
<td>Combatives Room St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men's Fitness</td>
<td>Wednesdays</td>
<td>8:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Turkey Trot&quot;</td>
<td>Friday, October 7</td>
<td>8:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Track</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women's Fitness</td>
<td>Wednesdays</td>
<td>7:00 - 8:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jogging Club</td>
<td>Daily</td>
<td>12:00 - 1:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Track or Streets of Windsor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fencing</td>
<td>Mon/Wed/Fri</td>
<td>5:00 - 6:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Basement St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Badminton Club</td>
<td>Fridays</td>
<td>7:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's Gymnastics</td>
<td>Saturdays</td>
<td>10:00 - 11:00 a.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Volleyball</td>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>9:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.</td>
<td>St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coaches &amp; Players</td>
<td>September 17</td>
<td>9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon</td>
<td>Fields HK Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Football (Boys 10-15)</td>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>9:00 - 12:00 noon</td>
<td>St. Denis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basketball (Girls 10-15)</td>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>9:00 - 12:00 noon</td>
<td>Fields HK Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's Creative Dance</td>
<td>Saturdays</td>
<td>9:00 - 10:00 a.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of W. Dancers</td>
<td>Mondays</td>
<td>7:00 - 9:00 p.m.</td>
<td>Dance Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sept. 20 - Dec. 5</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
By DON PEPPE

If one was to believe the players on this year's Lancer team, last week's victory came because of team spirit as much as real skill. This year's team motto is . . . would you believe "HEAVEN IN '77"? . . . nope neither did I.

But then who believes 200 pound football players anyway? Right?

Anyway the Guelph Gryphons believe it because it happened to them as the Lancers took their season opener, 22 - 1 last Saturday, to help launch the team into another year of near-the-top ranking in the Canadian Intercollegiate Football League.

The way the season shapes up for the entire Western Division of the Ontario Universities Athletic Association (OUAA) is that the same teams will be facing each other in the middle of the schedule. And as for the rest of the season there should be very few surprises at all. Over last weekend Toronto, Western and Laurier demonstrated that they also intend to keep things as simple as they can, they're just going to win and win big.

So for the Lancers' efforts on Saturday they proved, as much to the coach as anyone else, that they wouldn't let any of these rumours about losing their veterans to graduation bother them. The team's quarterbacking appeared well in hand with last year's number two man, Scott Mallender, 'taking the helm' this year as a former local star, Steve Zack, ably backing him up. Both tossed touchdowns to second year man (and ex-Lancer basketballer), Roger Adams. Mallender hit Adams on a 14 yard pass and Adams carried it the remaining 10 for the Lancers' first score of the season with only 45 seconds left in the first half.

Steve Zack, who backed up Mallender Saturday, went to school in Port Huron last year on a Baseball Scholarship and had aspirations professionally that way which didn't jell. He came in later in the final quarter, and made a nice little impression on Lancer fans right off the bat, hitting Adams on a 63 yard reception for the Lancers' final major.

Zack himself admitted after the game, "I didn't even see Roger (Adams) go in" he had released the ball only moments before he was smothered by Gryphon linebackers. But those linebackers are resilient sorts, and to stand in front of those guys anyway, well, they are a card ship short . . . if you catch my drift.

Anyway, the defense deserves a pat on the head and a biscuit for their efforts as well. They never figure to get enough publicity. At least that's what they said when they cornered me last week, and who am I to argue.

Considering that they were missing not only veterans to their administration hakes and injury, they did exceptionally well, holding Guelph to only 191 yards offense, barely halving the Lancers 383 total offense. Jim Lynn, Bob Bridgeaman, and Randy Essery were all out for Saturday's match-up among others, but Coach Gino Fracas commented after the game that the guys who were in including Jim Cimba, Kevin Souligny, and Terry Brannagan all made stand-out efforts in relief.

Of course the defense was still a regular 'mob' out on the field but all-star type veterans to both administration and lineups were high and straight and that's one part of a team which a coach needs rarely but when he does . . .

Totalling up the points, with Roger Adams' two TD pass receptions, Mallender's dive, Geier's three converts and Scott Essery's 50 yard punt (which jumped out of bounds in the end zone for a single) and the lone Gryphon point off a missed field goal for a single, gave us the final tally.

LANCERS LINEUP. The team travels to Waterloo tomorrow to face the Warriors in Seagram's Stadium at 2 p.m. Though the Warriors dropped their game last week to Toronto, they are always big. The game will prove a little more of a challenge for the Lancers. Watch out for upset.

Another game to watch for is the Laurier/Toronto game. Memories of upsets last year should keep both teams very honest.

The Lancers turn on their charm and the Gryphons fall for it.
Family Meat Market

SANDWICH ST. at MILL

- FRIENDLY PERSONAL SERVICE
- FREE PARKING

Family Meats Does It Again and Again and Again

Every week we find the best food buys in Ontario and pass the savings on to you.

Closed Monday

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Open:</th>
<th>Mon. - Fri. 8 am - 9 pm</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sat. &amp; Sun.</td>
<td>8 am - 6 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Family Meats Guarantees Everything Purchased at Family Meats Is Guaranteed to Your Satisfaction or Money Refunded Without Question

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Product</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Milk</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 Qt. Bag</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skim</td>
<td>$1.09</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2% Partly Skim</td>
<td>$1.34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Homo</td>
<td>$1.44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lido Brand</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bread</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24 Oz. Sliced</td>
<td>$32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macaroni</td>
<td>$1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2-2 lb Bags</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dog Food</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 for $1.00</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicken Wings</td>
<td>$4.95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10 lb. box</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patties</td>
<td>$8.95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Own All Beef</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No filler</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No spice</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ice Cream</td>
<td>$0.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>½ Gal. &amp; 2 Litre</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ground Beef</td>
<td>$0.57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regular</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meaty</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Polish Sausage</td>
<td>$0.69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sliced</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Medium Ground Beef</td>
<td>$0.86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fresh Cut Chicken</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bolognna</td>
<td>$0.39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>by the piece</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cigarettes</td>
<td>$6.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All Brands</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weiners</td>
<td>$1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 Lb. for</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bacon Ends</td>
<td>$0.49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guarantee</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everything purchased at Family Meats is guaranteed to your satisfaction or money refunded without question.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Rain doesn't stop Rondeau trip

By GARY FISH

The rain didn't stop about 60 students from boarding a bus to Rondeau Provincial Park last Sunday, as SAC concluded a students from boarding a bus to two glorious hours the students at Rondeau Provincial Park last summer. SAC President Gary Wells models the latest campus fashion - a Hairy Parrot T-shirt.

Stan Arbour of Arbour and Wellington Public Accountants, the chairman and sole spokesman from the group, Mr. Arbour believes that a decision for a new president will be made by the University, but he refused to comment on the number of individuals put before the committee, or their identities.

It is surprising to note that the committee has received no names for the presidential position for the Board of Governors, two Deans, and five Senators, the proceedings are strictly hush-hush.

The members of the committee include R. J. Dupree, Walter Appleton, Maurice Armstrong, John Judge, W. G. Horne, Dean Crowley, Dr. Paul Cassano of the French Department, D. L. Leduc of Political Science, Dean of Arts, R. R. Malley, and Bob Kent a student.

Cassano did say that agreement was reached on a number of issues concerning "academic governance and structures," including "promotional criteria and academic freedom."

Monetary issues remained vague, but Dr. William Miller, head of monetary negotiations for the Faculty Association did announce that the pay increase over three years would be higher than that of any other Ontario university.

Miller added that he felt sorry for those negotiating subsidiary agreements in future years because "we got it all."

"If there's any (money) left," Miller added, "we haven't done our job."

Professors have been working without a contract since 1973, and have worked on 1973 wages for the past two years. According to one professor, many have had to borrow money in order to get by. The new contract is retroactive from July 1, 1976 and CONT'D ON PG. 6.

Lectures offered

By THE OFFICE OF STUDENT AFFAIRS

For the fourth year the Office of Student Affairs plans a series of three lectures on studentship, designed to help students work more efficiently. Over three hundred students attended this series last year and their written evaluations indicate that most found the lectures to be helpful.

Students can learn a system for note-taking that allows attention to be paid during the lecture and produces a good study aid for review, tests and exams. Similar efficiencies can be brought to the tasks of using the textbook, planning a semester's work, managing assignments and studying for tests and exams. The student who knows how to go about academic tasks systematically and efficiently will get better grades and have more time for socializing and recreation.

The three-lecture series is conducted by Kenneth F. Long, Assistant Dean of Students. They will be offered consecutively on Monday, October 10, Tuesday, October 11, and Thursday, October 13 from 12:00 - 1:00 and again from 5:30 - 6:30. All sessions are in the Madame Vanier Lounge in Vanier Hall. They are informal.

SAC President Gary Wells models the latest campus fashion - a Hairy Parrot T-shirt.

University averts strike faculty contract signed

By LEN WALLACE

Trying to track down information on the understandings of the university's presidential selection committee is about as simple as reading Mendeleev's periodic chart. Such is the state of 'absolute confidentiality' over the subject.
The committee is in the middle of searching for a new president to replace Dr. J. Francis Ladd, who will be retiring next summer. Composed of five members of the Board of Governors, two Deans, and five Senators, the proceedings are strictly hush-hush.

The members of the committee include R. J. Dupree, Walter Appleton, Maurice Armstrong, John Judge, W. G. Horne, Dean Crowley, Dr. Paul Cassano of the French Department, D. L. Leduc of Political Science, Dean of Arts, R. R. Malley, and Bob Kent a student.

Stan Arbour of Arbour and Wellington Public Accountants, the chairman and sole spokesman from the group, Mr. Arbour believes that a decision for a new president will be made by the University, but he refused to comment on the number of individuals put before the committee, or their identities.

It is surprising to note that the committee has received no names for the presidential position.

FACULTY packing outside Windsor Hall.

Secrecy shrouds presidential search

The announcement of the settlement came at 2:10 Wednesday afternoon during a faculty meeting, at the very moment that strike action was being discussed.

The meeting, which began at one o'clock, and resulted in suspended classes for the rest of the afternoon, was interrupted by Faculty Association President Dr. Alan Metcalfe, who stated simply, "We have a contract."

The bargaining teams for the two sides had been in talks for nineteen hours straight before the agreement was reached. Specific issues of the contract will not be released until the final package is ratified, according to Dr. Paul Cassano, head of the bargaining team for non-monetary issues.

Dr. Leddy nor the executive of the Board of Governors knows what is happening. Everyone is in the dark.

The rain didn't stop about 60 students from boarding a bus to Rondeau Provincial Park last Sunday, as SAC concluded a students from boarding a bus to two glorious hours the students at Rondeau Provincial Park last summer. SAC President Gary Wells models the latest campus fashion - a Hairy Parrot T-shirt.
Three lucky students will WIN-A-MINI

And the first entrants will get a FREE FRISBEE

Entry form is inside your free Personal Telephone Directory now at your campus bookstore.

Long Distance
TransCanada Telephone System
Library vandals cost you money

By ROBERT BROWN

A professor went to get a library article for his class last week - and found both copies of it gone. That was just one example of the book and magazine vandalism plaguing the library, according to Aline Soules, whose Task Force on the Maturation and Theft of Library Materials is trying to fight it.

The Task Force was formed last summer out of necessity, when it was noticed that the vandalism had risen 30 per cent last year alone. Besides stolen material, most of the damage is through pages ripped out of journals, books and magazines.

A couple of pages may not seem like much to the average student, but replacing them is very difficult. To find a duplicate requires the help of other universities through the Interlibrary Loan Service. Assuming that a copy can be found (not always the case) the binding of the book or journal has to be redone. Altogether this may be just as Proposition: repairing and replacing damaged material cost $14,000 last year.

To combat this "epidemic" the Task Force is relying on the persuasion of a publicity campaign. To alert students of the problem, Sonia Dawydchuk designed a display in the main foyer of the library, and Mrs. Soules went on CBC Radio Tuesday morning. In addition, letters appeared in last week's Lance and in the University Monitor. In case it is thought that publicity is a rather toothless way of dealing with vandalism, the University of Rhode Island reported a substantial decrease in library damage after a similar campaign.

It is also going to be more dangerous to rip pages out. The new detection system should catch theft of whole books. It also gives security more time to roam the library, and being caught by a security guard is not an experience looked forward to.

The University has stated it has no qualms about prosecuting offenders, considering the scope of damage already perpetrated.

However, Mrs. Soules points out that responsibility rests not with security, but the students. "The more people leave things where they are, the less they will have to worry about finding an article or quote when they need it." The change instigated should make students work easier, as well as for the library staff.

Then the book has to be sent to Wallaceburg for the binding to be redone. Altogether this turns out to be a very expensive proposition: repairing and replacing damaged material cost $14,000 last year. And there may be just as much vandalism remaining undetected by library staff.

the glamour of university is gone

University may not be as important as you think.

At least, that was the message of Ontario Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott in a speech shortly after last June's provincial election.

"If the glamour of the university is gone, it is because those in my generation oversold the importance of post-secondary education at the university level," said Parrott. He said he had once believed, along with just about everyone else, that "going to university was a sure ticket to a better income."

Now, however, Parrott suggests it is important to consider alternatives to a university education, since it's obvious that the R.A.'s has not the significance it once had. Parrott says he wishes "all the best" to those who enter university not for career purposes, but "for the sake of becoming a more rounded person."

Gas rebate for handicapped

On August 19, 1977, it was announced that the physically disabled would be entitled to a refund of the excise tax on gasoline purchases. Tremendous response to this news has required some clarification on the point of what is refundable retroactively.

From June 24, 1975 to June 15, 1977 inclusive the refund is allowed for gasoline expended in travelling to and from work only. From June 16, 1977 on, the refund can be claimed for any gasoline used by the handicapped person, provided his expenses have not been paid by other persons (firm).

For further information contact the Excise Tax Office, Room 606, Federal Building; telephone 252-5783, or the Ontario March of Dimes at 254-6314.
The faculty have their contracts, and it appears they no longer need to fear a strike. Novel as that may have been to some students here, there are enough Windsor high school students on this campus who have suffered through teachers' walkouts, and they know that a strike is no fun.

All the gaping wounds in the administration-faculty split seem healed. Even Dean Zin of the Board of Governors negotiating team says he is satisfied with the new contract. We hope that the bitterness that became evident between the faculty members and the Board is all gone. If only we could get rid of another feature of the contract talks: the feelings of paranoia and the conspiracy of silence. However, fear and insecurity seem basic to this university, and we'll probably have to put up with it for a long time.

The attitude of the university administration was even more frightening than that of the Board and the faculty. The University Information Officer told the Lance he did not want to be informed of any progress of the negotiating teams. Who knows, someone might have asked him a question, and he might have had to give out some information.

Other top administrators were not so happy. Dr. Lodel, in his last to know, Academic Vice-President McAsliffe could offer nothing certain.

These people are supposed to be leading the university. Did they really give a free hand to a bunch of drunks and petty bureaucrats to play power trips with the faculty, with no accessibility to sayso? Or do they know more than they say, and lie just for the sake-of it?

Although the contract dispute is over, another issue is coming up which deserves some public scrutiny and input. A Lance reporter assigned-to find out how the search for a new president was progressing, found that no one could reveal any information. We cannot know who the candidates are, we cannot even know how many there are.

The Board of Governors, composed mostly of outsiders who like closed meetings, will choose our new president from among the search committee's candidates. One can only hope that the new president will introduce himself to us next September, since nobody else will tell us who he is.

The Liberal Opposition, has identified the governing on a campaign stance as an example of how unconsistently politicians have been acting.

However, I have been assured by a minor official in the health portfolio, Mr. K.C. Lane, even more sweeping measures will soon be announced by the government.

"The whole thing is financial," he said. "Not only the hospitals, but the hospitalization plan in our province is far too expensive to maintain."

"But, from all studies made in an international context, I thought Ontario's medical program was one of the best in the world," I protested.

"That may very well be the case," continued Benn, "but the government must also care for the economic welfare of its citizens. Hence, in the near future (after we get every last hospital in the province shut down), O.H.I.P. will be replaced with a new health program."

"Namely, O.D.U.M."

"O.D.U.M."

"Yes," he explained, "Ontario Denial of Unhealthy Maladies. The provincial government, in its unyielding wisdom, is going to eliminate sickness by legislating a program to deny that it exists."

"That sounds like quite an undertaking. Tell me, what do you plan to do with all the doctors, dentists, and nurses in the province?" I queried.

"We are going to make health reports out of all the hospitals."

By E.P. CHANT

The editor of the Lance, told me not to comment about the "Bunny issue" because, now, I would just be beating a dead horse - or a dead bunny, as the case may be. Instead, I shall discuss the nonexistent spats - the Ontario hospital.

Much to the chagrin of Windsor and the sickly among the, Riverview Hospital was recently ordered to close by provincial Health Minister Dennis Timbrell - continuing the austerity program begun in that ministry a year ago. During the recent provincial election, the Conservative government all but begged public forgiveness for its shutdown policy. Apparently, even though they remain in a minority situation in the House, the P.C.'s feel confident, resuming this unorthodox practice (pun intended). Dr. Stuart Smith, leader of the Liberal Opposition, has identified the governing on a campaign stance as an example of how unconsistently politicians have been acting.

However, I have been assured by a minor official in the health portfolio, Mr. K.C. Lane, even more sweeping measures will soon be announced by the government.

"The whole thing is financial," he said. "Not only the hospitals, but the hospitalization plan in our province is far too expensive to maintain."

"But, from all studies made in an international context, I thought Ontario's medical program was one of the best in the world," I protested.

"That may very well be the case," continued Benn, "but the government must also care for the economic welfare of its citizens. Hence, in the near future (after we get every last hospital in the province shut down), O.H.I.P. will be replaced with a new health program."

"Namely, O.D.U.M."

"O.D.U.M."

"Yes," he explained, "Ontario Denial of Unhealthy Maladies. The provincial government, in its unyielding wisdom, is going to eliminate sickness by legislating a program to deny that it exists."

"That sounds like quite an undertaking. Tell me, what do you plan to do with all the doctors, dentists, and nurses in the province?" I queried.

"Well, as you do no doubt realize, most doctors and dentists spend more time on the golf courses than in their offices anyway, so we are going to get them on the pro rata. As for the nurses, half of them will be trained as public speakers and will go through the province convincing those few who insist that they are sick that they are really just hypochondriacs," explained Benn.

"What about the rest of the nurses?" I asked, by now trying to talk myself out of the cold I had.

"They will be trained as spa attendants."

"Sick?"

"Sick," concluded Benn. "We are going to make health reports out of all the hospitals."

Join the Lance

We require: photographers, reporters, production people.

2nd floor, University Centre.
As You See It

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI
PHOTOS BY JOHN REVELL

Students sitting around the University Centre were asked the question: How do you feel about the university changing the food services area solely to Vanier?

I think it’s terrible. The only place to have food is Vanier – the centre is closer.

Dainius Vaida
4th yr. Special B. Comm.

I think it’s great. I don’t have to fight the crowds for a cup of coffee in the morning.

Tom Akellaitis
4th yr. Special B. Comm.

Dear Editor:

Although it is not common for an outsider to contribute to the letter column of The Lance especially concerning issues of campus policies, as a concerned recent graduate and last year’s editor of this paper I feel some justification in joining my voice with those opposing the sexist policies of Special Events Commissioner Gino Piazza.

It is frustrating enough to live in a society that by and large persists in treating women as merchandise and in exploiting sexual impulses for profit. But to see such insulting tactics in use at a university – a community hopefully composed of thinking individuals – is intolerable.

Mr. Piazza has insulted every member of the campus community, male and female, by using phonoy sexuality to boost his gate receipts, and perhaps more notably, his ego.

As for the Lance editorial “Winnipeg, are people?”, while I must concede that the waltzes in question are human and not rodents as their name implies, I fail to see how their appearance at Casino Night in any way showed them to possess individuality or “class.” While the author of the editorial seems awed by the fact that these six delicate women possessed the stamina to withstand a two-hour border delay, it seems to me that such an experience, while annoying, is hardly a measure of character. Nor am I impressed by the fact that “they endured the scrutiny of reporters, photographers, and hundreds of curious spectators, each something being the very basis of their jobs.”

It did not take a special kind of person to return to the gambling tables following “vicious taunts” during the fire alarm. Such a lack of pride is hardly an admirable trait.

And finally, I cannot believe, as the editorial asserts, that “there was a lesson in Tuesday nights’ occurrences” for anyone, least of all organizers Gino Piazza. Any man insensitive enough to stage such an event largely in order to spite strong and concerned opposition will probably never learn anything.

Respectfully,
John Keating

Dear Editor:

I don’t like it. I went to the Pub, but their sandwiches aren’t too good. I’ve only been to Vanier once.

Jim Bruton
Political Science Grad Studies

Dear Editor:

Although I am an outsider, I must say I have been offended. I cannot believe the way I was treated. I am a female and I believe sex is not a major factor in life. I think Gino Piazza should be put out of the picture and replaced by someone with common sense.

Respectfully,
Katherine Montz

Dear Editor:

I have a few comments about the recent orientation. I was very pleased with the way it was handled. I think it was a big success and I hope it will be received with any respect and attention.

Respectfully,
Mark Lamboir
3rd yr. Business

Piazza is Praised

Dear Editor:

It seems to me that a great many students on campus at the University of Windsor have either lost sight of the work ethic or were never aware there was such a socially pernicious idea. I am specifically referring to the letters which have appeared in The Lance in the recent past, condemning the actions of Gino Piazza, Commissioner of Special Events at SAC.

Constructive criticism is not only understandable but often solicited by anyone who is of the opinion he or she can benefit and grow as a result of it. Criticisms, or more specifically the right to criticize legitimately must be earned in order that it will be received with any respect and attention. I contend therefore that if anyone wishes to criticize Gino’s actions, they should first make themselves aware of the untold hours of hard work and concentration that go into producing an orientation. I do not contend however that due to one’s appreciation of the sincere effort put into orientation that you should be pleased or satisfied with all events. Consequently, if one contributes his or her time and energy constructively, many situations of conflict could most certainly result in mutual resolution. I, for one, do know of the unselfish and hard work Gino and his assistant Bob Gammon put into orientation and feel thanks and support are in order. I would also urge, that if anyone wishes that some particular event would take place, get up to SAC and initiate some action yourself, don’t just sit back and bitch if and when it doesn’t happen.

This letter is not a defence of Students’ Administrative Council nor the Commissioners thereof, but a deserving vote of thanks to Gino Piazza and his assistant Bob Gammon for a job well done.

M. Bruce Hannah

Dear Editor:

The system in Vanier is good for those who eat a lot... otherwise there’s no real choice.

Cathy Munro
3rd yr. Comm. Studies

Dear Editor:

I used to have my breakfast in the student centre and use the deli. I don’t use Vanier at all.

Barb Greig
2nd yr. Special B. Comm.

The system in Vanier is good for those who eat a lot... otherwise there’s no real choice.

Cathy Munro
3rd yr. Comm. Studies

Sentiment Unjust

Dear Editor:

After reading last week’s Lance we very disappointed at the unjust criticisms that Gino Piazza received on his handling of the Orientation Week activities. We also feel that the accusations of “unimaginative, incompetent management” were strictly uncalled for. We would like to express that Gino did a commendable job in trying to appease as many people as possible in his selection of activities.

In reference to the Casino Night festivities, it was apparent to the people in attendance that the playboy hooters (“the dum, blonde, fluffy bunnies”) displayed first-rate class. Perhaps they showed more class than the people who maligned them in last week’s editorials.

Also it was obvious to everyone who attended Friday’s trilogy of concerts at the Centre that the evening was an unqualified success. If you were one of the fortunate many who attended it you saw three wide varieties of hands playing in front of three packed houses.

Respectfully,
Tecumseh Hall House Council

Important Lance staff meeting
Friday at 12:30.

Important staff party Saturday.
For details attend Friday.
All welcome.
University narrowly averts strike

CONT'D FROM PG. 1

runs until June 30, 1979. The Faculty Association bargaining team seemed pleased with their settlement. Metcalfe called it a "very fair contract. We have ended over a year of very bitter proceedings with very worthy opponents and we are very pleased with the outcome," he said.

Metcalfe went on to say the contract is a step forward for this university, and that "it will help redress some shortcomings that we saw within the university."

Cassano had similar feelings: "I am very confident that the agreement viewed university-wide as a step forward for collectivized faculty bargaining," he said. He also spoke of "some welcomed innovations we're confident the faculty will be pleased with," but he would not elaborate.

The settlement was announced just before a strike motion was to be introduced to the faculty. The faculty had already passed a motion opening their negotiations to the press, and had been discussing work-to-rule proposals.

The original work-to-rule motion was rejected because some members felt it would not involve all faculty equally.

The Association decided to incorporate into that motion a provision that had been independently drawn up by Professor P.D. LaValle and J. Cohen. That motion, which included suspending all teaching duties and/or extra-curricular activities, is reprinted in full in another part of this page.

The most important of the non-monetary issues centred around academic freedom and the preservation of academic input into university administration. These issues have been resolved to faculty satisfaction, according to Cassano.

During the entire faculty meeting on Wednesday afternoon, there was some concern on the Board of Governors that strike would affect students. Many professors voiced the opinion that the academic implications a strike would have on the students and on the reputation of the university.

One professor from the Faculty of Arts逍 said, when he heard of the settlement, that he was "happy an agreement was reached without any destruction to the students."

There were no comments from the students present.

The Board of Governors negotiating team also views the settlement as satisfactory. Dr. Michael Zin said the "whole negotiating team is pleased."

Zin said that provincial conciliator John Dempster was not present at the final round of talks. Dempster was summoned from Toronto in February to get the stalled talks going again.

"He was instrumental at the time to get us back on track," said Zin.

J.F. Legdy, president of the university, said he hoped the contract would be "duly ratified by both the Board of Governors and the Faculty Association. I think it is a good contract in the interests of all concerned," he said.

The following is a verbatim copy of a confidential motion submitted to the Faculty Association meeting Wednesday, calling for strike action against the University. Strike action was under discussion at the moment it was announced that a contract had been signed.

BELOW ARE MOTIONS AND PROPOSED RESPONSES TO MOTIONS BEING DISCUSSED AT THE FACULTY ASSOCIATION COUNCIL'S MOTION ON SELECTIVE WORK REFUSAL.

Submitted by: P.D. LaValle, Geography

J.S. Cohen, Psychology

WHEREAS the same motion would discriminate unfairly against a certain section of the student population, in particular, working people who are our part-time students,

WHEREAS this motion proposes action that does little to involve the total faculty and thus reduces the impact of what is supposed to be decisive action,

WHEREAS overload assignments have not been officially specified at this time and thus overload refusal's could lead to confusion and duress.

WHEREAS this motion does not provide alternative and potentially more effective actions, we propose the deferral of this motion and in its stead suggest an alternative course of action be entertained with the alternative being that we will engage in some form of strike action. We suggest that this form of strike action be determined by the membership from a list of alternatives listed in a subsequent motion present as follows in the subsequent proposal.

THEREFORE BE IT MOVED THAT:

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY, THE ASSOCIATION MEMBERS SHALL IMPLEMENT A POLICY OF STOP-PAGE IN SOME FORM FROM THE FOLLOWING LIST OF ALTERNATIVES:

1. To suspend all teaching duties and/or extra-curricular activities, etc.

2. To suspend all university teaching duties on one or more selected days of the week which will be determined by the Association Action Committee and/or

3. To suspend all university, faculty, and departmental committee work and/or

4. To suspend all university teaching duties and/or extra-curricular activities, etc.

5. To refuse to participate in all student ceremonial functions and/or

6. Other alternative actions proposed and passed by the Faculty Association.

If the first part of the motion and any of the alternative parts of the motion are accepted, WE FURTHER MOVE THAT:

INFORMATIONAL PICKETING COMMENCE IMMEDIATELY

P.D. LaValle/Cohen

Profss picket to protest talks

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

"Twenty-six months with no increase." "Sign now; avoid a strike." "1975 wages; 1977 prices." Carrying signs with these and other slogans, about 20 professors marched in front of the Administration Building Tuesday afternoon.

According to Faculty Association Director Dan Britten the professors were participating in an "information picket" in an effort to make the Board of Governors aware of their feelings toward the negotiations.

The Board met at 4:00 Tuesday afternoon. Board members had to cross picket lines, but according to Britten, there was no exchange of dialogue between the two parties.

On September 8, the faculty association sent a letter to the Board of Governors asking them to meet with the association to discuss the progress of negotiations. That letter, said Britten, was never answered. It was for that reason the professors were picketing. "This action is in response to their lack of response," he explained.

Britten stressed that the picketing was not related to the suspension of classes on Wednesday. The faculty meeting Wednesday was to inform members of negotiation progress, whereas the picketing was to inform the Board of Governors of the faculty's concern for the lack of progress.

"We don't want to disrupt the university, but if something isn't done soon, we're not sure what the consequences will be," said Britten.

"The professors," Britten added, "want to wrap this (negotiating) up so we can get on to academic things."

Wednesday, it was all wrapped up.

Fortunately, this article is now academic

A faculty strike is no longer an uncommon occurrence. It is the idea of what we might have been in for, had the negotiating teams gone on a new contract Wednesday.

By LEN WALLACE

The possibility of strike action by the faculty looms large in the minds of students as it has in the past. It is a reality that, if it comes, it could take the possible repercussions.

If the strike is actively carried through by a full walkout, picketing may be taken up around the University. Students have two choices, either to cross the picket line to resume classes by themselves, or take up a passive non-interference, thus showing some solidarity. The question remains, what would be the position taken by maintenance and service workers?

By refusing to cross picket barriers the entire university can be effectively shut down. The idea is not too far fetched since rumors are rumbering high that the administration maintenance negotiations are at a standstill. A striking faculty may in fact be joined by a second striking group. Other tactics by the faculty may be fruitful to their cause. The "work to rule" concept would simply mean that professors would go to classes but not teach - a basic takeoff from earlier strikes in the industrial sector.

A third possibility is that of rotating strikes among the different faculties. While some faculties work, others just call off classes for a certain period until the rotation begins. Some faculties would go back to work, others would walk out.

These last two strategies are not as effective as a full strike, which could show the faculty, through their numbers, do wield a good part of power.

The role of students can be essential. If a movement is taken to openly oppose the faculty action then the administration could appeal to public support by mobilizing the student faculty as robbers of the students education. From the experience of the food service and maintenance strike last year the possibility of student picketing is a good one. On the other hand, a student movement supporting the faculty could show the faculty there is enough pressure upon the administration to meet the faculty's points.

Legally the faculty association has the right to strike. An effective closing down of the university is the strongest weapon of both faculty and workers as they join the same picket line.

For off-campus students the problem is not serious, although services for residences will come to a dead halt. The attitude of the students remains to be seen.
Negotiations took over a year

By RICK SPENCE

It was a long, hard road to agreement for the negotiating committees of the Faculty Association and the Board of Governors. Along the way, accusations and name-calling abounded, and talks appeared at an impasse several times.

In April, 1976, the Faculty Association, expecting imminent certification by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, proposed that contract negotiations begin with the Board. It would be the Association's first contract.

On May 11, 1976, the Association received interim certification, and on the same day the chairman of the Board predicted that negotiations could take another six months.

Through the summer of 1976 the 32-member council of the Association prepared the proposals and demands of the faculty for presentation to the Board of Governors. On September 3, the monetary proposals were submitted, and the non-monetary proposals came on October 13.

November 5 was the date of the first of what would be weekly meetings between the Board negotiating committee, consisting primarily of deans and headed by Michael Zin of Business Administration, and the faculty negotiating committee under Dr. Ralph Nelson of Political Science. Both parties agreed not to reveal any information about the negotiations.

After three months, and some 16 meetings, progress had been made on some issues, such as the faculty's use of Human Kinetics facilities, but the major issues had not been settled. In January a letter from the Faculty Association executive to their rank and file indicated that negotiations were not going well, and suggested the Board's negotiators were power-hungry.

Concern was expressed that the traditional role of the faculty in the university was threatened by the "undemocratic" demands of the Board.

At a meeting in February, the Association members voted to express their confidence in their own negotiators, and to censure the deans for their proposals which "deny collegiality and meaningful faculty and librarian participation in the university."

At the time the Lance first heard of strike possibilities, Dr. Liddy issued a statement which was designed to counteract the "casual and irresponsible rumour" which had flourished.

The Board Committee broke off the talks on Wednesday, September 9, a move which the faculty negotiators said came as a surprise. Board spokesmen said further meetings would be "counter-productive," while Association members said progress had been "virtually nil."

REACTIONARY

The faculty negotiators said that the Board considered the establishment of a faculty union as an excuse to change the structure of the university, and that they were bargaining toward reducing the powers of the faculty and the senate in administration.

Faculty members called the Board one of "the most reactionary institutions in Canada," and sought to retain hard-earned academic freedom and rights.

A provincial conciliator was named in late February, to try to bring the parties back together, but he did not appear on campus until late March. He then disappeared for another three weeks, before returning for another round of talks in April. Eventually, the conciliator got the sides together, and left the scene.

DRAGGING HEELS

According to faculty spokesmen, the Board dragged its feet on the important issues right through the summer. The Faculty Association met September 8 to try to force the Board to bargain seriously, and after their calls for a meeting with the Board itself were ignored, they decided to hold the "information picket line" outside the Board meeting on September 20.

The faculty also warned of drastic action if the contract was not settled by noon, Wednesday, September 20. They scheduled a faculty meeting for 1 p.m. Wednesday to decide what to do if the contract was not settled.

The Board discussed the negotiations at its closed meeting Tuesday, and apparently the scare tactics of the picket line and the general meeting worked. Negotiating teams worked all night and all morning Wednesday to hammer out the last details.

As late as 12:30 Wednesday afternoon Dr. Cassano of the Association said he had "upsetting" news about the Board Committee's withdrawing an offer to pay interest on retroactive pay increases to the faculty, but by 2 p.m. all was settled.

By ANNA MARIA TROMONTI

Wednesday afternoon's walkout by campus professors came as a surprise to many university administrators, Geoffrey MacGibbon, Information Services Officer, said that he makes "sincere and strenuous efforts not to be informed" of current Faculty Association and Board of Governors negotiations.

On Tuesday, the day before the scheduled walkout, MacGibbon said he assumed "classes will go on tomorrow". When asked whether or not the negotiating sides kept him informed, MacGibbon replied: "I don't want to know what is going on in that (negotiating) room." He added that unless there was some "dramatic turn" of events he was not informed of day-to-day negotiations.

Similarly, Senior Vice-President Dr. Frank DeMarco answered, "I am always the last to know," when questioned about the walkout and other negotiation rumours.

Academic Vice-President John MacAuliffe was asked the same question. He replied that he had heard there would be a walkout if negotiations were not settled by noon on Wednesday. He stressed, however, that he was not certain about that.

Dean Michael Zin, who is on the negotiating team for the Board of Governors, said Tuesday, "I haven't heard anything about that at all," when asked if there would be a walkout on Wednesday.

A large number of professors, however, told their students early in the week not to attend classes on Wednesday.

I've got a secret

By ANNA MARIA TROMONTI

Wednesday afternoon's walkout by campus professors came as a surprise to many university administrators, Geoffrey MacGibbon, Information Services Officer, said that he makes "sincere and strenuous efforts not to be informed" of current Faculty Association and Board of Governors negotiations.

On Tuesday, the day before the scheduled walkout, MacGibbon said he assumed "classes will go on tomorrow". When asked whether or not the negotiating sides kept him informed, MacGibbon replied: "I don't want to know what is going on in that (negotiating) room." He added that unless there was some "dramatic turn" of events he was not informed of day-to-day negotiations.

Similarly, Senior Vice-President Dr. Frank DeMarco answered, "I am always the last to know," when questioned about the walkout and other negotiation rumours.

Academic Vice-President John MacAuliffe was asked the same question. He replied that he had heard there would be a walkout if negotiations were not settled by noon on Wednesday. He stressed, however, that he was not certain about that.

Dean Michael Zin, who is on the negotiating team for the Board of Governors, said Tuesday, "I haven't heard anything about that at all," when asked if there would be a walkout on Wednesday.

A large number of professors, however, told their students early in the week not to attend classes on Wednesday.
In the 1930's, two outraged consumers, Kalbert and Schlink, wrote a book entitled "100,000,000 Guineas Pig". The book is not about the millions of consumers who were consumers - the people who were being defrauded, injured and killed by the products that were adulterated and dangerous. The guinea pig meta- phor, however, is broken in a whole series of mocking studies appeared, exposing the plight of the consumer, the cities of business and the negligence of government.

Today, government and corporate spokespersons suggest that there are some, but most businesses are honest and there are some, but most businesses are honest and there are some, but most businesses are honest. Fortunately, these dis- co modate the interests of 'both sides' - one side is being adversely affected, but both are served.

The government's version rests on a defense of the free enterprise economy in which, it is argued, the consumer is the one who can vote with our dollar. The business community is neutral - to fulfill our needs and to respond to our demands. All that is being done to us is really being done for us.

The government's version is more plausible. It recognizes that the interests of consumers and business do not always coincide. There is a need, then, for a neutral third party that can mediate the differences and accommodate the interests of both. This is the government's role - to ensure that, over time, no one side is being adversely affected by the other. The government's conception also recognizes that customers must occasionally do take place and, in these situations, consumers need the government to mediate. It is exactly what the government, through a host of legislation, is set about doing. Nonetheless, we must be wary of these "thirds", "fly-by-nighters," who, despite the government's watchfulness, will still try to cheat us. Typically, these dis- reputable characters are few and far between and, for the most part, the market is composed of respectable businesses with whom we can deal with confidence.

There are a number of flaws with this fictionalized account of the modern marketplace - most notably the confusion between what is 'its', and what 'ought' to be.

Firstly, the marketplace is not competitive. Most sectors of the economy are already dominated by a small number of corporations who control the majority of marketplace assets, and revenues of that sector. For instance;

- 4 companies have 93% of the sales of motor vehicles
- 4 breakfast cereal companies control 78% of that market
- 4 iron and steel mills control 78% of that market
- 4 tobacco companies control 97% of tobacco sales
- 4 aircraft and parts companies control 72% of that market
- 4 companies control 60% of the sales of major appliances.

This arrangement, known as an oligopoly, is a situation in which firms no longer compete with one another in terms of price, durability or the like, but compete through advertising and consumer demand, where consumers within an oligopolistic market are overcharged for goods and services, have less product choice and fewer services available to them.

"You, you're the one".

Secondly, corporations do not "do it all in house" nor do consumers influence the marketplace. Corporations exist for only one reason: to make a profit - and consumers exist to buy the products. As Victor Lebow, a marketing consultant put it, "Our enormous productive economy... demands that we make competition our way of life, that we convert the buying and use of goods into raids, that we seek our spiritual satisfaction, our ego satisfaction in consumption. We need things consumed, burned up, worn out, replaced and discarded at an ever-creating rate."

The billions of dollars worth of marketing expertise and advertising, corporations are in the business of generating consumer demand. Take, for example, Proctor and Gamble's "Pringles" potato chips. Why were they developed? Proctor and Gamble's chief executive ex\

"Respectable" companies

Cry of one month of hearings, the government received over 100 more briefs from the corporate sector. Most, like that of a portion of 12 of Canada's largest corporations, made it quite clear that, although they might "recognize" government's efforts to "improve" over earlier attempts to rework the legislation, the corporations are still not about to invoke government's suggestions. "We need to say, with such guns trained on the legislation, consumers will have to take a back seat."

Fourthly, despite proclamations to the contrary, government's intentions are not champions of consumer protection. It was not until the late 1960's, after decades of corporatism and consumer agitation and pressure, that the federal and provincial governments finally got around to setting up consumer departments.

The notion of a combined effort of people making consumption our way of life, and how we can exercise power over the government was redressed through the combination of people working together, recognizing our communities, and creating new initiatives. As always, the best defence is a good offence.

The first step is to know our rights - there are some, but most of us are unaware of what they are, and how we can exercise power over the government.

"Respectable" companies

in the free enterprise system in which, it is argued, government received over 100 more briefs from the corporate sector. Most, like that of a portion of 12 of Canada's largest corporations, made it quite clear that, although they might "recognize" government's efforts to "improve" over earlier attempts to rework the legislation, the corporations are still not about to invoke government's suggestions. "We need to say, with such guns trained on the legislation, consumers will have to take a back seat."

Fourthly, despite proclamations to the contrary, government's intentions are not champions of consumer protection. It was not until the late 1960's, after decades of corporatism and consumer agitation and pressure, that the federal and provincial governments finally got around to setting up consumer departments.

The notion of a combined effort of people making consumption our way of life, and how we can exercise power over the government was redressed through the combination of people working together, recognizing our communities, and creating new initiatives. As always, the best defence is a good offence.

The first step is to know our rights - there are some, but most of us are unaware of what they are, and how we can exercise power over the government.
Where there's smoke, there's rules

By ERIC MAYNE

In a recent article published by the Office of Information Services the University of Windsor requests all instructors and students to observe the no-smoking regulations in classrooms.

This statement is the result of an appeal made by the interagency Council on Smoking and Health. The organization is sponsored by the Rxex Long Association, the Windsor Cancer Society and the Heart Association.

The Council's appeal is based on the findings of a survey taken last spring, which polled 500 students from St. Clair College and 300 students from the University. According to Lily Hun- dy, a representative of the Council, the results revealed that students favored the enforcement of existing regulations. This was proven by a wide margin, 81% opposed to smoking, 19% in favor. The survey also showed that non-smokers are a majority, 65% to 35%.

The subject of enforcement has not come up on the agenda of the Faculty Association. Several professors have taken action based on the University's request. One instructor announced he would no longer smoke during lectures and promptly changed his courses to a seminar format.

The system, said Mr. Smith. Students have suggested that the registrar's office be moved when the space crunch is over, and that the University's two new buildings are ready for use, but Smith pointed out that most of the new space will be for academic use and not administration.

Many people go to the Reg-

COUNCIL'S APPEAL

Don Ferguson asks:

YES YOU'RE WRONG is:
(a) A state of mind generally associated with theology professors.
(b) A comic quiz show with host Bob Dixey, Tuesday nights at 8:00 on CBC Radio.
(c) MacKenzie King's famous refrain to Julius nostrum during a 1963 season.

Touch the Earth is:
(a) One of the most difficult positions listed in the Perfumed Garden.
(b) Sylvia Tyson's "musical roots" show, Tuesdays at 6:30pm on CBC Radio.
(c) A popular game played by off-duty Karnak pilots.

Luba GoY asks:

40 MINUTES WITH A BULLET is:
(a) A major motion picture starring Roy Rogers' stuffy dad.
(b) An unusual party game involving a nurse, a sailor and a whip.
(c) National Top 40 hits & a music journalism Wednesday nights at 8:30 on CBC Radio.

JAZZ RADIO-CANADA is:
(a) A Saskatchewan pawn shop specializing in saxophones and wirelesses.
(b) A weekly CBC Radio show featuring great jazz performances, Thursdays at 8:30pm.
(c) An expression used by dope fiends meaning "jerkoff."

Dave Broadfoot asks:

As It Happens is:
(a) A glossy magazine about birth control.
(b) An award-winning phone-in program hosted by Barbara Frum, weekdays at 6:30 on CBC Radio.
(c) A popular British custom for schoolboys sometimes associated with spitballs.

The Great Canadian Gold Rush is:
(a) The basis of Pierre Berton's railroad books.
(b) Terry David Mulligan's 90-minute rock music series, Monday at 8:30 on CBC Radio.
(c) The flow of money out of Quebec.

John Morgan asks:

I. (a) The host of "My Friends the Flickers" CBC Radio's most popular show.
(b) The host of "The Danny Finkleman Show."
(c) A scientific oddity explained on "Quirks and Quarks."

The Royal Canadian Air Force is:
(a) NATO's contribution to NATO.
(b) Otto Lang's private airline.
(c) Most-listened-to comedy series, Saturday evenings at 9:00 on CBC Radio.

Win a SUPERPOSTER

Test your radio IQ and win a super cover-up. A SUPERPOSTER for blash walls featuring 100 rock stars in black and blue 25 x 40 inches, just too big for your locker. Check off your answers, tear out the page and mail it today, and get a peace of the Air Force. The comedy show that makes Saturday a silly day on CBC Radio.

First 100 correct entries per campus where this ad appears are winners. Closing date: Friday, 31, 1977. Winners will be notified by mail. Every entry will receive a piece of junk mail promoting the Royal Canadian Air Force.

John Morgan asks:

Canada's most-listened-to comedy series, Saturday evenings at 9:00 on CBC Radio.

ROGER ABBOTT asks:

SUNDAY MORNING is:
(a) A new religion involving the Chinese.
(b) A popular Peruvian cocktail made from red wine, tomato juice and maple brandy.
(c) CBC Radio's electronic weekend newspaper broadcast Sundays from 9:00 to Noon.

DOCTOR BUNDOLO asks:

(a) A famous Canadian physician ventilated by the Chinese.
(b) The instigator of a crazy CBC Radio comedy show heard Monday nights at 8:00.
(c) Canada's hermia transplant pioneer.

John Morgan asks:

Canada's most-listened-to comedy series, Saturday evenings at 9:00 on CBC Radio.

DOCTOR BUNDOLO asks:

(a) A new religion involving the Chinese.
(b) A popular Peruvian cocktail made from red wine, tomato juice and maple brandy.
(c) CBC Radio's electronic weekend newspaper broadcast Sundays from 9:00 to Noon.

The Royal Canadian Air Force is:
(a) NATO's contribution to NATO.
(b) Otto Lang's private airline.
(c) Most-listened-to comedy series, Saturday evenings at 9:00 on CBC Radio.
Orientation '77:

East meets west on Club Day

A wet escape from the...

A classical tune from Andrew Cervin at Talent Night
Another Sensation

Rain during the barbecue

Fire bells on Casino Night

Hot air wins John Siddle first place in talent night

Las Vegas comes to Ambassador

A fine day for a sale

by the Lance Photo Team
ONE CUCKOO SPARKLES OVER REST

By KATHERINE BOWYER

If you would like to see community theatre, then venture out to Centennial Secondary School this weekend. The Windsor Light Opera "Players" have been attempting the production of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest. This is a challenging script for amateur theatre to tackle. Many of the audience will almost inevitably compare it with the acclaimed movie. For those who aren't familiar with it, the plot concerns the individual R.P. McMurphy's fight against the restrictions of a mental hospital ward. Omitting many of the technical flaws of this production, McMurphy sparkles in a quite good supporting cast.

Jeff Chase played McMurphy on the night I saw the show. Cocky and valiant, he confronted Nurse Ratched in a lively scene where he shouted, dressed in a towel. Norma Jean Baker recreates a strong counter character as the "Big Nurse".

Donald Piper betrays how rudimentary his knowledge of directing is. Too many of the McMurphy - Ratched battles were blocked centre stage. This may be because the lighting was not up to standard. Greater variety in the arrangement of these three of the patients, Scandal (Carl Ziminski), Chewick (Bill Fleming) and Martin (Michael Hazzel) is also necessary. When Mr. Piper neatly lines them up, they seem too much like the Three Stooges. The sight of these actors being placed parallel to the prosenium arch in a few scenes becomes boring.

Mr. Cramp has been mighty of rare action on seeing McMurphy after the lobotomy. His pain and decision that it is necessary to move his friend is not at all convincing. A definite uplift is called for as the end as Chief Bromden conquers his littleness and escapes. Instead of creating this emotional height, the actor mechanically jumps out of the window. Three patients were good - he might just as well have been the patient's nurse.

The important window area is cluttered by a table and chairs. The set already offers too much empty space. It wouldn't have been difficult to provide adequate masking of the lights above and to better disguise the cracks between walls of the set. The set also suffers from the amateur flaw of its paint showing flatly under the lights.

Of course, it is amateurs who have produced One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest. The Windsor Light Opera "Players" are striving to involve this community with more theatre. They are acting towards the city's cultural enrichment. There is little enough theatre elsewhere in Windsor to see.

H-P calculators. When you come to choose the exactly the right H-P calculator for you.

But the HP-29C is only one of a full line of professional H-P calculators. When you come in to see them be sure to get you free copy of the HP Selection Guide. It will help you match your present and future needs to exactly the right H-P calculator for you.

The HP-19C's quiet thermal printer lists your programs or data

With the HP-19C, you can list a program, the contents of the 20 addressable registers, or the contents of the automatic memory stack. And you have a complete record of all your calculations.

You select from three printing modes. With the printer switch set to MANUAL, the printer operates only when the Print X key or a list function is executed. With the switch set to NORMAL, the printer records all entered data and functions. With the switch set to TRACE, the printer will list the step number, function, and result of each step of an executing program or the operation and results of a manual calculation.

HEWLETT PACKARD

COME IN AND TALK WITH THE H-P REPRESENTATIVE. LET HIM HELP YOU WITH ANY QUESTIONS YOU MAY HAVE.

Choose the new HP-29C first

The new HP-29C could be the last calculator you'll ever need. You can write programs of over 175

But the HP-29C is only one of a full line of professional H-P calculators. When you come in to see them be sure to get you free copy of the HP Selection Guide. It will help you match your present and future needs to exactly the right H-P calculator for you.

HEWLETT-PACKARD's exciting new HP-10 is up to 50% smaller and lighter than other hand held printing calculators - with all the features you'd expect to find in a desktop office machine. And look at the HP-10's incredible versatility:

1. The HP-10's is small - and superb

Hewlett-Packard's exciting new HP-10 is up to 50% smaller and lighter than other hand held printing calculators - with all the features you'd expect to find in a desktop office machine. And look at the HP-10's incredible versatility:

2. With every HP-10 you also get...

Fast-charge battery pack installed in the calculator before shipping. A AC Adapter/Recharger, the printer operates even when the Print X key or a list function is executed. With the switch set to NORMAL, the printer records all entered data and functions. With the switch set to TRACE, the printer will list the step number, function, and result of each step of an executing program or the operation and results of a manual calculation.

3. HP-10 is a versatile calculator with Continuous Memory

The new HP-19C with Continuous Memory

The new HP-19C with Continuous Memory

H-P Representative on Campus Monday, Sept. 26, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

at the UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

GROUND FLOOR - W. LIBRARY BLDG. — ENTRANCE OFF LIBRARY MALL

By CJAM

CJAM back for another year of great programs.

MOSAIC

Monday, September 26th - "Floaters" by the Floaters.

Wednesday, September 28th - "Dandy Kiwis" by Danny Kiwian.

Thursday, September 29th - "Diamond Nights" by Hummingbird.

Friday, September 30th - "Before We Were So Rudely Interrupted" by The Animals.

All Mosaic Album Previews are featured Monday thru Friday.

Wednesday, September 28th - John Bain will talk to Paul Schiller.

Thursday, September 29th - Martin Mull and Barth Gimbel.

FRIDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

This Friday night's special will feature three hours of music by The Dogs Brazil (formerly J. Geils). The Friday night special is presented every Friday night at 9:05.

ANTIOCH WEEKEND

October 14, 15, 16, 17

A CHALLENGING ENCOUNTER WITH CHRIST

Contact Assumption Campus Community - 254-3112

or The Chaplaincy Team - 256-0069 or 254-3783
Patrol pic passes

By KAREN SPIERKEL
"Breaker, Breaker, Have you got your ear on, Come on, Come on, 10-4!!"

If you can decipher that lingo then you'll probably enjoy Smokey and the Bandit, a light-hearted action picture featuring the latest craze - CB radios and their looney - tunes operators.

The Bandit (Burt Reynolds) is the bad guy. He is twenty-eight years old, handsome, and has a vivid, wild imagination. The hero of the film is Smokey (Sally Field), a state sheriff who in the chase scenes not only loses half of his patrol car and two thirds of his sanity, but most of his chicken droppings as well.

Actually it's a crazy, half-bit movie with some clever scripting and the odd chuckle or two. There's not much of a plot and there's no organization - it's simply one big chase sequence. But, it does manage to keep you tuned in to find out the answers to these questions: Does the Bandit complete the run with 50 troopers trying to smoke him out? Does Froggie get jumped? Does Smokey get that Bandit?

For CB crazies and all you other crazies it's "a must"; for the rest of us, it's a "do without" and that's a big 10-4 good buddy! Smokey can be seen at the Odeon Theatre.

Positive power

By ED BULMER

My goal this year is to spark new interest in student involvement and participation. Did you know that "imagination" means in-spirit-action? We need to get students involved in the spirit with action. By getting involved in student activities you will be inspired to do better in everything you do, which will result in better teams, better academic records, and a better positive atmosphere for students.

I believe that the University of Windsor campus is the most exciting campus in Canada. You may ask yourself why one campus has more activity than the bandit's convoy.

Running ga ga in a steeped-up Tent Am for the Snowman's 40 ton rig, Bandit and Frog (Sally Field), race over 900 miles across broken terrain to escape the grips of Smokey. "Smokey" in CB jargon is the county sheriff who in the chase scenes not only loses half of his patrol car and two thirds of his sanity, but most of his chicken droppings as well.

Actually it's a crazy, half-bit movie with some clever scripting and the odd chuckle or two. There's not much of a plot and there's no organization - it's simply one big chase sequence. But, it does manage to keep you tuned in to find out the answers to these questions: Does the Bandit complete the run with 50 troopers trying to smoke him out? Does Froggie get jumped? Does Smokey get that Bandit?

For CB crazies and all you other crazies it's "a must"; for the rest of us, it's a "do without" and that's a big 10-4 good buddy! Smokey can be seen at the Odeon Theatre.

CAREERS IN BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

Right now you are probably thinking about the past several years and what you have to look forward to after graduation.

While you're at it, consider the personal growth and satisfactions you could experience at Procter & Gamble - a leader in the consumer products industry. We regard training and development as our most basic responsibility because we promote our employees within Procter & Gamble. We know of no way to train people to become managers other than to have them learn by doing.

Economics, history, psychology - our managers include diverse backgrounds. More important than your specific field of study are such basics as intelligence, leadership ability, innovativeness, and a solid track record of achievement.

Prior to on-campus interviews, representatives from Marketing, Finance, and Sales will be visiting your campus to answer any questions and talk about their experiences at Procter & Gamble. Specific date, place and time will be advertised soon in this newspaper and your placement office. The visit will be a one-day informal session in which all interested students can learn more about career opportunities in business management at Procter & Gamble.

As a first step, we invite you to visit your placement office and obtain a copy of our literature. Additional information is also available in the library file in the placement office.

Plan to be at our pre-recruiting session - no appointment necessary, drop in any time.

Career Night
Thursday October 6 8 p.m. - 11 p.m.
Ambassador Auditorium University Centre

PROCTOR & GAMBLE
Cleary Welcomes Ballet

By E.P. CHANT

The grounds of the university were graced with a little culture this week, just as the city of Windsor will be graced in early October.

Fresh from an interview with local television, Tomas Schramek arrived on campus on Monday afternoon to do a little advance publicity for the National Ballet of Canada, which will be performing at the Cleary Auditorium on October 2nd.

Auditorium on October 2nd, through October 5th. This is the twenty-fifth year of operation for Canada's official ballet - now, an internationally appreciated troupe.

Tomas Schramke, a principal (or lead) dancer, has been dancing for almost as long as the National Ballet has existed. He began studying at the age of nine, drawn into it, he remembers, for almost as long as he can remember. At fifteen, he realized that he wanted to make ballet his life, proceeding to take a B.A. in dance from an arts academy in his native Czechoslovakia. He came to Canada in 1968, when the Soviet Union invaded his homeland.

His background makes Mr. Schramek particularly apt for discussing the differences between European and North American ballet. "It is amazing how rapidly North American ballet has developed," he said. "This development can be seen most strikingly when one examines the audience. European audiences have lugged ballet for hundreds of years - they know what is good and what is bad. North American audiences, however, have been so infatuated with sports for so long that interest in the arts really only arose in the past twenty years. They (the audience) are learning very quickly, though, and, fortunately, they are seeing good ballet. "The troops on this continent," he continued, "are by no means second-class when compared to those in Europe. They are really quite good." If practice is any indication of quality, one cannot argue with Mr. Schramek's approach. The National Ballet's daily rehearsal and exercise for eight hours a day or five hours on the day of a performance. Rarely is there a day of rest. "Just as in the case of an athlete, to stop training for a week can ruin your condition. Continual work is essential."

Seldom, too, is there a break in their travelling. In the past few months, the National Ballet has played New York, Ontario Place in Toronto, Los Angeles, and Chicago, in the immediate future it will be performing in Montreal, Quebec City, Hamilton, Windsor, the Canadian West, Toronto (including the Christmas performance of "The Nutcracker Suite"), and early next year, Europe and the U.S.A.

The National Ballet of Canada will present Swan Lake and (one different night) An Evening of One Act Ballets at Cleary Auditorium in Windsor, October 7th. Phone the Cleary Auditorium box office (252-6579) for ticket prices and outlets.

Trivia Quiz

This week's trivia quiz is for those who think they know everything about ships and seas.

1. How many seas are there in the world named for colonies?
2. In September, 1934, a passenger ship barned off the New Jersey coast. Can you name her?
3. Where is the Coral Sea?
4. In what year did the famous race between the "Natchez" and the "Robert E. Lee" occur?
5. Which two seas are on either side of Italy's "boot"?
6. What two ships fought at Hampton Roads in March of 1862?
7. What sea is the center of a swirl of ocean currents between the West Indies and Azores (lat 20 N. to lat 35 N)?
8. What was the name of the U.S. vessel destroyed in Havana harbor in 1898?
9. For centuries sailors have roamed the seven seas, can you name them?
10. What do they call a cargo vessel which has no fixed itinerary?
11. What sea lies between Malaysia and the Philippines?
12. In 1955 the world's first atomic submarine was launched. What was her name?
13. Today's toughie - you'll have to be good to get it right! In Swift's "Gulliver's Travels", Lemuel Gulliver is washed ashore onto which continent?
14. In December of 1939 a ship's crew scuttled this vessel outside Montevideo harbour, do you recall her name?
15. Can you name the three British ships connected with the battle of Trafalgar in 1805?
16. What was the name of the U.S. vessel destroyed in Havana harbor in 1898?
17. In November of 1872 this ship left Boston and four weeks later she was found adrift with all sails set. Her crew and passengers have never been heard of again. Do you know her name?
18. The Caucasus section of Russia has a large supply of what?
19. The "Titanic" had a sister ship, what was her name?
20. On the McHale's Navy TV Series what were the code number of the torpedo boat?

Answers on pg. 16.

IS COMING

Monday, Sept. 26 Assumption Lounge
Tuesday, Sept. 27 Ambassador Auditorium
Wednesday, Sept. 28 Ambassador Auditorium
Thursday, Sept. 29 Ambassador Auditorium

FREE CONCERTS 7:00 P.M.
Recently home from a tour of England
Seemed on national television
Toured through the United States on major university campuses
Not many folks at good folk Concert

By DEBORAH KENNEDY

The Orientation Folk Festival on Saturday, September 17, provided an audience of about 140 with more than three and a half hours of easy listening tune.

The performance began with David Essig, an excellent showman, guitarist, and teller of weird stories (including his grandfather who had a vice for chinchilla fur). The scope of his tunes went from the blues to rowdy sing-alongs, where he was capable of getting the audience clapping, stomping, and singing, or just humming (if they were shy). Essig generated his ‘at home’ feeling throughout the auditorium.

He demonstrated his concern for the environment with songs about land used for ashyrers and garbage cans, (“You can show that Winnebagu up your ass”), the “big men” of the pipeline and the unfair treatment of the nation towards the Indians.

A versatile guitarist, Essig played the box guitar, the mandolin, and the twelve-string guitar. The highlight of the eventing was a twenty minute original piece entitled “Sunshine”, played on the twelve string guitar.

Ron Nigrini performed a selection of tunes in a more laid back vein. Nigrini has a crystal clear voice which naturally commands the attention of his listeners. His set included a sup-verb version of “I’m Easy”, and “Kitty Star”. Nigrini was accompanied by a non-static bass player. Perhaps this was the reason for the slight tension emitted from the stage, as Nig-trimad that he wasn’t using to have an accompanist.

Wille P. Bennett ended the show. .He displayed dexterity in simultaneously playing the guitar and the harmonica. Bennett is a harmonica player in a blues band and his songs gave good representation to the blues.

The only common negative comments about the concert were:
That it started at 9 p.m. and not at 8 p.m. as advertised, and that the air-conditioning in Ambasdar Hall was too cool for comfort. It may be bad that so few people attended the show, and as a result they missed out on a display of fine musicianship as well as experriencing the essence of listening to (Long May It Live) acoustic guitar.

Dial-Log

Classical Radio

By ROSEMARY A. BRESCUK

This week’s radio listening program is devoted to two American public radio stations,
WGTE and WQRS.

Located on your FM dial at
91.3, WGTE broadcasts out of
Toledo, Ohio. Because WGTE is a listener-sponsored station, high standards in the choice of programming is insured. Classical music, nightly jazz, public affairs and news programs make up WGTE’s bill of fare. A relatively new station, WGTE just celebrated its first year of broadcasting last May. A limited radio listening membership
program is issued to WGTE
each month, the cover of which displays the arts and photography of Toledo artists. My family, which receives WGTE, has the occasionally late arrival of its guide.

The second radio station in question, WQRS, is a public,
non-commercial station, at 105.1 on the FM dial. The complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig sung and night clubs, presenting the gospel of Jesus Christ through music.

According to a press release,
Praise’s singers “are so directed by the Holy Spirit that they very quickly change apathy into happiness.” They have reported a converted many listeners.

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.

By ROSEMARY A. BRESCUK

This week’s radio listening column is devoted to two American public radio stations, WGTE
and WQRS.

Located on your FM dial at
91.3, WGTE broadcasts out of
Toledo, Ohio. Because WGTE is
a listener-sponsored station, high standards in the choice of programming is insured. Classical music, nightly jazz, public affairs and news programs make up WGTE’s bill of fare. A relatively new station, WGTE just celebrated its first year of broadcasting last May. A limited radio listening membership
program is issued to WGTE
each month, the cover of which
displays the arts and photography of Toledo artists. My family, which receives WGTE, has
the occasionally late arrival of
its guide.

The second radio station in question, WQRS, is a public,
non-commercial station, at 105.1 on the FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

An evangelical music team is coming to Windsor next week
to give free concerts.

The group “Praise” will perform in Assumption Lounge
next Monday night, and in
Ambassador Auditorium Tuesda y, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The concerts will start at 7 p.m.

Praise consists of six singers, who have performed toget-
ether in the United States,
Great Britain, and Israel. They
toured Israel for forty days,
visiting air force bases, kibbut-

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.

on your FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

An evangelical music team is coming to Windsor next week
to give free concerts.

The group “Praise” will perform in Assumption Lounge
next Monday night, and in
Ambassador Auditorium Tuesda y, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The concerts will start
at 7 p.m.

Praise consists of six singers, who have performed toget-
ether in the United States,
Great Britain, and Israel. They
toured Israel for forty days,
visiting air force bases, kibbut-

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.

on your FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

An evangelical music team is coming to Windsor next week
to give free concerts.

The group “Praise” will perform in Assumption Lounge
next Monday night, and in
Ambassador Auditorium Tuesda y, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The concerts will start
at 7 p.m.

Praise consists of six singers, who have performed toget-
ether in the United States,
Great Britain, and Israel. They
toured Israel for forty days,
visiting air force bases, kibbut-

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.

on your FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

An evangelical music team is coming to Windsor next week
to give free concerts.

The group “Praise” will perform in Assumption Lounge
next Monday night, and in
Ambassador Auditorium Tuesda y, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The concerts will start
at 7 p.m.

Praise consists of six singers, who have performed toget-
ether in the United States,
Great Britain, and Israel. They
toured Israel for forty days,
visiting air force bases, kibbut-

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.

on your FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

by ROSEMARY A. BRESCUK

This week’s radio listening program is devoted to two American public radio stations, WGTE
and WQRS.

Located on your FM dial at
91.3, WGTE broadcasts out of
Toledo, Ohio. Because WGTE is
a listener-sponsored station, high standards in the choice of programming is insured. Classical music, nightly jazz, public affairs and news programs make up WGTE’s bill of fare. A relatively new station, WGTE just celebrated its first year of broadcasting last May. A limited radio listening membership
program is issued to WGTE
each month, the cover of which
displays the arts and photography of Toledo artists. My family, which receives WGTE, has
the occasionally late arrival of
its guide.

The second radio station in question, WQRS, is a public,
non-commercial station, at 105.1 on the FM dial. The
complete broadcast day is transmitted out of Detroit using the
Detroit-based non-commercial
station ‘Marriage of Figaro’,
WGTE’s syndicate ‘K 272’ for-
musical records.

A versatile guitarist, Essig

An evangelical music team is coming to Windsor next week
to give free concerts.

The group “Praise” will perform in Assumption Lounge
next Monday night, and in
Ambassador Auditorium Tuesda y, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The concerts will start
at 7 p.m.

Praise consists of six singers, who have performed toget-
ether in the United States,
Great Britain, and Israel. They
toured Israel for forty days,
visiting air force bases, kibbut-

Praise’s repertoire ranges
from rock music to soft music.
The group has been together
since 1972, and has released
one album.
Woody Allen Strikes Again

By AL WELLMAN

After dabbling with a life of crime, a Latin American revolution, science fiction and Tolstoy’s Russia, Woody Allen has returned home, New York, in his most personal film to date, Annie Hall. Allen plays Alvie Singer a nervous Jewish Brooklyn comedian obsessed with death, morality, anti-Semitism, and sex, who falls in love with a Mid-Western WASP, Annie Hall, played by Diane Keaton. The film is based on the offscreen relationship which Allen and Keaton shared and we may suspect that the wit and neuroses Alvie displays reflect Woody’s true life obsessions.

Alvie narrates and tells us of his own past growing up in a Jewish household under the roller coaster at Coney Island and his two unsuccessful marriages to New York intellectual Jewesses and finding lots of mind and no love until he met Annie Hall.

In the film we are led to believe that Alvie’s source of wit is his hostility, he defines his life by the GroUCHO Marx line, “it would never belong to a club that would have me as a member.”

To Allen/Alvie nothing is sacred, critics and experts don’t know what they are talking about, California’s only cultural advantage is you can make a right turn on a red light, intellectually perform mental masturbation. The humour is serious and has been for Alvie since he was six years of age when he discovered the universe was expanding “What’s the use?” explains a depressed little Alvie.

Despite Alvie being in the center stage of the film the character who develops most is Annie Hall. Diane Keaton gives a transcendent performance as the WASP “right out of a Norman Rockwell painting” from Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. “You’re what granmy Hall would call a real Jew,” Annie tells Alvie.

Annie is a confused, flustered girl when first seen, but Alvie encourages her to go into therapy and take an adult education course. Unlike Alvie who has gone to an analyst for fifteen years, Annie quickly develops self-assurance and personal growth. Annie realizes that although Alvie loves her he is too obsessed with the darker side of things to share the happy moments of life. As Annie tells Alvie toward the end, “all the books you ever gave me had death in the title.”

In Annie Hall, Allen uses every conceivable technique from cartoons to double exposures to split screen. In one masterful scene, subtitles are displayed from rows of yellow sheets as Alvie reads poetry. Alvie is standing in a room and black and white shots of a woman from Annie’s life flash back to various eras of his life and Alvie himself enters to narrate the episodes.

For the first time Allen has gotten a cameraman with whom he can work. Most scenes are shot at medium and close range. Allen has employed an old technique of maintaining a foreground, middle ground and background. Many scenes are shot through windows or points outside the actual room in which the principals are found. By keeping the principals in the middle ground the scenes are visually exciting and hold our interest. In all, the film is technically an excellent work and fun entertainment. Now playing at the Capitol.

Trivia Quiz Answers

The correct color is green.

Cost

FEE FOR COURSE IS $50.00
INCLUDES TEXT BOOKS, MATERIALS
THES ARE DEDUCTIBLE FOR INCOME TAX PURPOSES

Getting into Speed Reading

* READ 300 PAGES IN ONE HOUR
* IMPROVE STUDY SKILLS
* CUT READING AND STUDY TIME IN HALF

DURATION

8 WEEKLY SESSIONS OF 1½ HRS. EACH

DATES & TIMES

3 CLASSES ARE OFFERED COMMENCING

WED., SEPT. 28 5:30 P.M. & 7 P.M.
THURS., SEPT. 29th 6:30 P.M.

LOCATION

ON CAMPUS ROOM NUMBER TO BE ANNOUNCED

CUT READIN -G

READ 300 PAGES IN ONE HOUR

TRI I A T I O N  S T U D Y  T I M E  I N  H A L F

MUSIC GUIDE

By CJAM

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Artist/Group</th>
<th>Venue</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sept. 24</td>
<td>Melanie/Geiles and Derringer</td>
<td>Eastern Michigan University</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sept. 26</td>
<td>Ray Charles/Royal Oak Theatre</td>
<td>Hyatt Regency</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sept. 28</td>
<td>Be Bop Deluxe/Ford Auditorium</td>
<td>Cassel Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sept. 30</td>
<td>Frank Zappa/Chippewa Falls</td>
<td>Detroit Institute of Arts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 1</td>
<td>Jay Ferguson/Royal Oak Theatre</td>
<td>Fisher Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 2</td>
<td>Steve Martin with John Sebastian/Aerosmith</td>
<td>Ford Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 7</td>
<td>Chicago/Jesus Christ Superstar</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 8</td>
<td>Firefall/Royal Oak Theatre</td>
<td>Canadian Brass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 9,8,9</td>
<td>Steve Miller Band/Craver Arena</td>
<td>Ford Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 14</td>
<td>Firesign Theatre/Michigan Theatre</td>
<td>Ambassador Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 16</td>
<td>Utopia and Starcastle/Civic Center</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 19</td>
<td>Santana/Masonic</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 20</td>
<td>Iggy Pop/Michigan Theatre</td>
<td>Cassel Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 23</td>
<td>Foreigner/Cobb Hall</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 24</td>
<td>Jose Feliciano/Hyatt Regency</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 26</td>
<td>Graham Parker and Thin Lizzy</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Get into Speed Reading

* READ 300 PAGES IN ONE HOUR
* IMPROVE STUDY SKILLS
* CUT READING AND STUDY TIME IN HALF

DURATION

8 WEEKLY SESSIONS OF 1½ HRS. EACH

DATES & TIMES

3 CLASSES ARE OFFERED COMMENCING

WED., SEPT. 28 5:30 P.M. & 7 P.M.
THURS., SEPT. 29th 6:30 P.M.

LOCATION

ON CAMPUS ROOM NUMBER TO BE ANNOUNCED

COST

FEE FOR COURSE IS $50.00
INCLUDES TEXT BOOKS, MATERIALS
THES ARE DEDUCTIBLE FOR INCOME TAX PURPOSES

SEE US IN THE UNIVERSITY CENTRE

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER

FRI. SEPT. 23rd MON. SEPT. 26th 10 A.M. - 3 P.M.
The University Players 1977/78 Season

THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS 1977/78 SEASON

SUBSCRIBE NOW

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>UNI VERSITY OF WINDSOR PLAYERS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mr. Mrs. Mr.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Telephone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Date preferred:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1st Week - Fri., Sat., Sun.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2nd Week - Tues., Wed., Thurs.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fri., Sat.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student #</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY: Row Seat Numbers Mailed Return this for with your check

Live Theatre

THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS 1977/78 SEASON

Subscribe Now

- A Great Line Up!
  - The Changing Room - Oct.
  - How The Other Half Loves - Nov.
  - Showcase Production - Mar.
  - The Sea - Jan.
  - Dirty Work at the Crossroads - Feb.
  - How The Other Half Loves - Nov.
- Gino Piazza, Special Events Commissioner
  - His strategy involving the three-level, three bands approach worked well. His plan resulted in a remarkable success: an opportunity to enjoy three entirely different types of music in one building.
  - Downstairs, in the pub, disco was in order. The Michigan band, Steppin, provided a healthy mix of disco tunes and seemed to coax the entire audience onto the dance floor. The "bump" may not be a popular dance anymore but you could not help doing it in the congested confines of the Gallery. The "disco ducks" went daffy, and certainly got their money's worth.
  - In the theatre a different brand of music was pumped out. The David Mathews Band creates an atmosphere of controlled bedlam with solid, kick-ass rock and roll. The band is big in its hometown of Toronto, often acting as warm-up for popular touring bands. We U. of W. students haven't had a chance to boogie down to a homegrown band for quite a while, and The David Mathews Band did an excellent job reminding us of what heavy metal sounds like.
  - Finally, the "upstairs" band, Prairie Oyster, entertained their audience with blues. They are from Ottawa, and their ability to recreate laid-back country rock tunes was described by some members of the crowded room as "slick and classy.
  - By the way, do you know how hard it is to cover three bands at once? I felt like Jo-anne Woodward in The Three Faces of Eve. Anyway, it was a good time and well worth the seven miles I ran up and down stairs.
  - Even though the evening was successful, the hassles involved in producing such an enormous event might defy a repeat in the near future. However, Piazza is in the process of scheduling a smaller dance night on October 1st. Redwood, formerly Honeysup, will be featured in Ambassador Auditorium.

Hello Dolly Back Again

By Steve Chiefetz

One of the more interesting plays back on the road is Hello Dolly, now playing at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit through October 22. The part of Dolly Levi is played by the ever so popular Carol Channing. The play revival is special because in essence it is the same play people 14 years ago.

Dolly Levi is a women who knows how to get what she wants. She is a meddler and knows it. Throughout the course of the play she manages to cause commotions. She had better shut up.

The role Dolly Levi was made popular by Carol Channing years ago. The play was on Broadway for many years, and Dolly Levi became Carol Channing's alter ego, just as Zero Mostel became known as Tevye, the milkman of Fiddler On The Roof.

Not only does Carol Channing play a terrific part, but she is complemented by her fellow actors and actresses. Florence Lacey as Irene Molloy is tremendous, the rest of the cast. The cast received a standing ovation at the end for their outstanding performances.

The night I attended the play, Ms. Channing decided to say a few words to the audience. She was very witty in her comments although some members of the audience thought she was funny. She finished off by saying she could talk all night and no one would leave, so she had better shut up.

Hello Dolly is the Fisher's first production of the 1977-78 season. It will be followed by many more including Shenandoah, Chicago and Pippin but I can think of no better way of starting off the season than by being enchanted by Carol Channing in Hello Dolly.
New look for intramurals

This year the Intramural Program has taken on a new look and features something for everyone: If you are one of those individuals who think there is more to campus life than attending classes, dig your sneakers out of the closet and look to the Intramural Program! This year a variety of activities is being offered offering inter­ per­ defined favorites and several new events. Fall sports include flag football, paddle­ball, women's and men's soccer, men's and co-ed volleyball, women’s and co-ed volleyball, hockey, basketball, and co-ed curling. Special events on campus will include a Super­Star Contest, Winter Sports, an alpine skiing challenge by the Russians. By the time you read this, the Russian team will be back from their training field near Minsk. Integration activities and weekend on campus will be an exciting one for intramural sports. Action centered in Room 1320 in the Math Building on Friday night as the physics faculty challenged the touring Soviet tiddlywink team. A packed house witnessed a titanic struggle. Unfortunately, since tiddlywinks are so small, only the first three rows of fans could see what the heck was happening. The other 95% had to amuse themselves with the vodka provided free of charge by the Russians. By the 6th frame, several spectators began jabbering about five years plans being put into operation on collective farms near Minsk. The Russian Spell was working perfectly. The crucial 10th frame began with the score tied. Stroglov, the Source of the Steppes, sunk his tiddlywink to put the Soviets one up. Physicist Niels Bohr, playing under the influence of the Russian spell, responded by putting enough backspin on his tiddlywink to cause it to fly backwards and imbed itself in his left nostril. Bohr was removed by stretcher while the exuberant Soviets celebrated their upset victory over the highly touted physics squad.

Wrestling

Saturday marked the long awaited return of intramural tag team wrestling. The Blackjack Brothers, Elmer and Waldo (the bad guys; boo, hiss), were scheduled to wrestle Professor Bartolomeo Vanzetti of the Slavic Studies Department, and the plucky Niels Bohr, who was still groggy following the tiddly­wink gash which required 25 stitches to close. Early in the bout, Bohr caught Elmer BlackJack in the left aortic ventricle with the awesome Atomic Drop. Bohr then tagged Prof. Vanzetti who climbed up the ropes and jumped down squarely onto Elmer's solar plexus. Before Vanzetti could apply the pin however, Elmer rolled out of harm's way.

Waldo then slipped Elmer a blunt object which he pulled from his pocket. As Waldo held Vanzetti along the far ropes, Elmer smashed him repeatedly in the face with the blunt object that the referee somehow failed to see. The crowd grew frantic with the tremendous beating that Prof. Vanzetti was taking.

But Bohr charged into the ring like a wild bull. He bowled over the referee, and hit Elmer over the head with a chair, rendering him unconscious. Vanzetti recovered long enough to toss Waldo through the ropes and into the first row of seats. Bohr then climbed out after him and continued pummeling Waldo while the referee counted Elmer BlackJack out. Justice and clean living triumphs again!

This is only a sampling of the excitement that is intramural sport. In the weeks to come, regular intramural activities will commence. Phone in results of your intramural games to The Lance so that we can publish weekly summaries of the competitions.

Swimming and Diving

The opening meeting of the University of Windsor swimming and diving team (men's & women's) has been changed from Monday, October 17 to Monday September 26 at 4:30 p.m. - Room 201 at the Human Kinetics building. Practices will start immediately after the meetting.

If you know of anyone who wants to join let him know. Come out and give us your support.

Womens Soccer

Tired of using your head? Well, use your feet by playing Women's Intramural Soccer commencing Monday, September 26th from 5:15 to 6:30 on Field No. 3 Human Kinetics Building (College Ave.). All are welcome. Hand in team list along with captain's phone number to Intramural office at St. Denis Hall.

You be the judge.

The opening meeting of the University of Windsor swimming and diving team (men's & women's) has been changed from Monday, October 17 to Monday September 26 at 4:30 p.m. - Room 201 at the Human Kinetics building. Practices will start immediately after the meeting.

If you know of anyone who wants to join let him know. Come out and give us your support.

Womens Soccer

Tired of using your head? Well, use your feet by playing Women's Intramural Soccer commencing Monday, September 26th from 5:15 to 6:30 on Field No. 3 Human Kinetics Building (College Ave.). All are welcome. Hand in team list along with captain's phone number to Intramural office at St. Denis Hall.

Swimming and Diving

You be the judge.

Swimming and Diving

The opening meeting of the University of Windsor swimming and diving team (men's & women's) has been changed from Monday, October 17 to Monday September 26 at 4:30 p.m. - Room 201 at the Human Kinetics building. Practices will start immediately after the meeting.

If you know of anyone who wants to join let him know. Come out and give us your support.

Womens Soccer

Tired of using your head? Well, use your feet by playing Women's Intramural Soccer commencing Monday, September 26th from 5:15 to 6:30 on Field No. 3 Human Kinetics Building (College Ave.). All are welcome. Hand in team list along with captain's phone number to Intramural office at St. Denis Hall.

Swimming and Diving

You be the judge.

Swimming and Diving

The opening meeting of the University of Windsor swimming and diving team (men's & women's) has been changed from Monday, October 17 to Monday September 26 at 4:30 p.m. - Room 201 at the Human Kinetics building. Practices will start immediately after the meeting.

If you know of anyone who wants to join let him know. Come out and give us your support.

Womens Soccer

Tired of using your head? Well, use your feet by playing Women's Intramural Soccer commencing Monday, September 26th from 5:15 to 6:30 on Field No. 3 Human Kinetics Building (College Ave.). All are welcome. Hand in team list along with captain's phone number to Intramural office at St. Denis Hall.

Swimming and Diving

You be the judge.
Ice Show: a true experience

By PHIL KANE

Canada's own Toller Cranston has gone and broken all the unspoken "rules" that ice show promoters have had in the past and has given us a musical experience on ice that elevates figure skating beyond biased judging and clowns dressed up as Snowmen. The Ice Show has given a start to the notion of figure skating as an art form, much like ballet.

Cranston, who is billed as "Canada's Own International Olympic World Champion," has tried to create a total visual and auditory experience using music, lighting, costumes, and of course, some of the greatest figure skaters in the world. Among the solo skaters are World professional freestyle champions Wendy Barie and U.S. men's champion Gordon McKechnie. Of the four pairs, all of which are excellent probably the best known are Olympic and World Medalists Colleen O'Connor and Jim Millar.

For his three performances at the Windsor Arena last weekend, Cranston brought his whole entourage, direct from its appearance on Broadway, including an excellently manned and lighting staff; possibly because the facilities owned by arenas are notoriously terrible.

Although the names of the people behind the scenes were conspicuously absent from the program (which was set out in acts like a Broadway production) the pre-performance publicity led me to believe that Cranston had a great deal to do with the choreography, the costumes and the lighting for the entire show, all of which were first class.

Cranston skates, one forgets almost about time. Every aspect of the five solo numbers performed by him were smooth and flowing, implying that "this is the way figure skating should be done".

By DON PEPPIN

Ever wonder why it is that although this university has such a beautiful Human Kinetics building on the South Campus, we still have to play basketball in a moth-eaten, roof-caving, jock-infested St. Denis? Dr. Dick Moriarty, an administrative head at the Human Kinetics Faculty, agreed: "ain't it the truth?"

He says there is no lack of support for the argument to get a new physics facility, but there just ain't the money. No one denies that the facilities need to be updated, considering that the front part of St. Denis Hall was built in 1913 and the rest in 1947. For the time being, however, there just isn't any money in the university coffers for a fancy new complex.

Program 25 was established a few years ago to carry the community in a fund raising drive. However that effort is still in the early stages and a Director of Development still has to be appointed. This individual would be responsible for establishing the drive and working towards a list of the priorities the university will be facing over the next few years.

As for the Human Kinetics facility, Dr. Moriarty would like to see a first class gymnasion of course. One with a seating capacity to match the calibre of the university sports using it. Also the establishment of squash courts, dance studios, wrestling mezzanines, all of which would complement the fine research facilities which were established in the first phases of the complex.

Why then, you ask, wasn't the new gym built back with all the other facilities. At the trial of sounding redundant, there wasn't enough money. However there was another complication, in which this newspaper was deeply involved.

Back in 1970 the university had as good as decided to build a new facility which would have included a new hockey arena, a gym, dance facilities and some curling sheets.

In the city of Windsor at this time the sport of curling was seen as an elitist sport, and a number of organizations both on and off campus, including the Lance, felt that spending all that money on sports like curling was a waste of money. As a result of these pressures the university Board of Governors decided to return the issue to a committee for further examination. A few weeks later the Ontario government announced a policy change which effectively killed any efforts towards a new H.K. facility. The government placed a moratorium on all new buildings on university campuses in Ontario.

It wasn't that any one group was to blame for the delay. It was more that the idea of an elitist sport getting into these facilities didn't sit very well with a lot of people, according to MacGibbon.

However the university could have an out which they discovered in constructing the Lebel Fine Arts building. When the university constructs a building which satisfies a real and actual need, and it is done in an efficient manner the government tends to reward this with extraneous generosity. After the Lebel building was completed the university applied to the government and received a complete refund on their investment in that construction.

That obviously returns us to the university which can be channelled into other new projects. Now the problem is the government doesn't always think a building was efficiently built.

Then the money is harder to pry out. Mr. MacGibbon noted that the idea is just a possibility but it is there none the less.

But the powers that be say not to worry, with the priorities of the Biology and Business buildings now well under way, we can soon look for that little man at the door asking for a contribution toward the effort.

With an intelligent compromise on facilities, and a little push, we can look for movement towards a new Human Kinetics complex within the next year.

Frank J. Fox, O.D.

Optometrist

The building that isn't... yet

The Lance-September 23, 1977-PAGE NINETEEN

Can't get to the ice? Would you like to have a chance to see some of the world's best figure skaters in the company, a true freestyle, if you will. Through his own skating, and with his original ideas on the presentation of skating shows, Toller Cranston really knows how to entertain people.

COULD THIS BE THE SITE OF A TRUE EXPERIENCE?

Jump

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young men's fashions

Frank J. Fox, O.D.

Optometrist

Curie 26
101 Huron Church Rd.
Assumption University
University Drive
Lancers sneak by Warriors, 18-16

By DON PEPPIN

Let's put it this way. When this season started, we didn't expect much from this year's version of Lancer Football. Last Saturday they lived up to these expectations and more... unfortunately.

"We did the important thing, we got the two points," commented Coach Gino Fracas after the Lancers skinned Waterloo, 18-16. "I couldn't believe all the penalties."

The Lancers notched 10 penalties for 104 yards but many of those came on crucial plays when it made a difference between keeping a drive going and stopping it.

At the beginning of the year Fracas mentioned that he wanted to mix up the offense effectively and get the ground game working as well as the passing game had been in the past few years. Saturday handed that theory a severe blow as the Lancers ran for 53 yards. On the other hand, the Warriors ran for 244 yards.

Mallender tossed 15 of 29 passes for 171 yards while Windsor's Gord Taylor connected on 5 for 19 and 51 yards. Fracas noted after the game that he was surprised by the Warriors' running attack, but that their passing game was still under suspicion.

The first quarter of the match-up was basically uneventful. However, the Lancers' special team did learn one thing about the Warriors' punter Mike Karpow. He can do his job. His average for the day was 51 yards. Karpow notched the first point of the game, bumping a 75 yard punt through the end zone for a single.

The second quarter on the other hand consisted of two drives, the Warriors taking one for 6 points, while the Lancers had to settle for a field goal.

In a penalty-ridden drive which began on their own 33 yard line, the Warriors connected early on some long pass attempts and moved the ball well to the mid-field. However, their effort was stilled by Windsor's defensive backfield and some confusion in the defensive line, Waterloo's Greg Jones went over the middle for six. The convert was blocked leaving the score at 7-0.

After an exchange of downs, the Lancers passed. However the Lancers fumbled the ball, giving the Warriors another chance.

Finally the defense began to click, nailing Warrior QB, Gord Taylor, for an 11 yard sack. On the following play Jim McCaffrey intercepted his pass, giving the Lancers the ball on the Warrior 31 yard line.

After stumbling ground, Bob Orie put a field goal through, giving the Lancers their first lead of the game. The second half began with a replay of the first. The usual load of penalties bogged the Windsor offense down. However, Lancer punter, Scott Essery, pushed the Warriors back to their own four-yard line with a well-aimed kick.

With their back to the old wall, the Warriors moved the ball out with ease. The Lancer defense couldn't stop the drive. Taylor, a transfer from Laurier, directed a punishing ground attack.

Penalties helped place the Warriors near the Lancers three yard line. From there, Taylor took it over for the major. That converted was blocked leaving the score 7-11.

Early in the fourth quarter the Lancers took over on their own 44. Here, they began to move through the air. A series of Mallender passes to Bullock, Gazzy, and Adams put Windsor on the Warriors' 15 yard line. From there Mallender rolled out hitting Bruce Walker on the three where he trusted in for the major. That put the Lancers five points ahead. Coach Fracas decided to try for the two-point conversion. This decision didn't work. The ball was recovered by Windsor in the dying seconds of the game.

Coach Fracas noted after Saturday's game that the major problem the Lancers faced was improving their execution. And they'll have to keep it up on that end of it tomorrow when they face the York Yeomen. Ex-Lancer Dave Fickett is one of the assistant coaches for York, so the Lancers will have to watch for some of their own tricks. Otherwise the team should look for a weak offense on the part of the opposition and their third win of the year.

Tennis starts bouncing

Despite the rainy, cold weather we've been having the last couple of weeks, the University of Windsor tennis team has been battling the elements when they can and taking to the courts to warm up for a number of tournaments leading up to the All-Canadian Championships in early October.

Coach Jack Moore tells us that the team started out with about 40 competitors, but through the process of elimination the team is now down to a more manageable number of 12 men and 9 women.

Though the team lost Brian Hall, its number one seed from last year, who moved into the pro-circuit in the U.S., the team has a core of 6 returners including second-seed from last year Dave Clarke and Al Kramer, who placed 7th in the Ontario Class A this year.

The Lancers' Phil Hartigan (54), Larry Lehwu (52) and Greg Bridgeman (24) line-up the Warriors' Joe Alves, Scott Mallender (14) bursts away from the crowd. Lancer's Dave Larsh (25), and Julian Jones (33) were forced to punt. A Lancer holding penalty aided the Warriors' cause with a first down on the Windsor 36. Following a face-masking penalty against the Lancers and

The entire competition will take place on the tennis courts located behind the Human Kinetics Building.

The winning individuals in each of the singles and doubles groupings and the top team from the division will travel to the Sectionals. They then travel to Toronto the following weekend for the OUA championships at York University.

The Windsor teams won the Far West Division last year but were edged out by Western in the Sectionals.

Phot by J. Kendal

Results from September 17 in the O-QCFC

Windsor 18 Western 56
toronto 17 McMaster 20
Queen's 44 Bishop's 25
McGill 14 on September 16
Ottawa 37

O-QFC STANDINGS

WEST

Team GP W L T F Pts

Waterloo 16 Western 56 York 4
Toronto 17 McMaster 20 Guelph 4
Queen's 44 Bishop's 25

McGill 14 on September 16
Ottawa 37

}
Tighter controls on student grants

By BRENDA MCLEISTER

Students will be encouraged to finish their studies sooner, and tighter controls will be placed on academic awards. In the new student aid regulations announced September 21 by Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott, the new grants and loan regulations will come into effect in September 1978.

The Ontario Student Assistance Program will continue to provide grants and loans, but with some modifications it will no longer be necessary to spend $1,000 Canada Student Loan before being eligible for a grant but the criteria for grant eligibility will be stricter.

Students will be eligible for grants for "eight non-renewable periods of 10 to 19 weeks each". Most students will therefore be eligible to apply for grant assistance for four years, according to the Ministry.

Caps and gowns

28th Convocation ready to go

The race is the symbol of Convocation.

Tecumseh Hall slow on repairs

By E.P. CHANT

"Scary, cruddy and unhygienic...It isn't that the superstructure is going to fall down, it's just that it's so bad you don't want to live here."

That is how Bruce Hannah describes his home. Bruce is the Ancillary Affairs Commissioner of SAC and his business is to listen to and try to get action in regards to complaints concerning residences and food services at the university. It seems he has a problem of his own to handle.

Hannah lives in Tecumseh Hall, the apartment-type residence just off Huron Line at Mill Street. Hall of the residence was the site of a fire in July, the other half was not affected. It appears a resident can consider himself fortunate if he is living in the section that was affected by the fire. (As Bruce says, many residents are saying, "Thank God for the fire.")

As the situation developed, the fire caused smoke damage to half of the building. This required repairs and repainting to make the apartments once again fit for human habitation.

The other half of Tecumseh was not so fortunate, however. Virtually no repair or cleaning of any kind took place in certain areas of the building over the summer, but still they were opened to new residents. Light fixtures were missing or broken, carpets were filthy, doors of closets were not to be found, and walls were cracked. One wall, in "Terry's" room, had a hole the size of a fist.

Various people in the administration were contacted about the situation, including the Director of Residences, and a vice-president. "Both pushed it..."

This hole in the roof is just one of the problems needing repair at Tecumseh Hall.
THE Aquatic Exploration and Research Associates (AERA) will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m., Monday, October 3, Room 7-8 Centre Building for anyone interested in Scuba diving, photography, moving or aquatic research in such areas as underwater archeology, geology and communication. AERA presently has the equipment and people with the skills to carry out such projects; also a dive festival is planned for November 5 and 6 at the University.

A NON-CREDIT Course in Leaded Glass and Stained Glass Working starts on Tuesday, October 11, 1977, and continues for 7 weeks. Instructor, Dr. Tim Emmons. Place: The Women's Centre, 1 Vanier Hall, Times: 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays. Fees: $30.00 (plus your own supplies to a total of about $60.00 for the project). Classes are open to men and women . . . limit of 10 people. Payment must be made in advance of October 7, 1977 in the Office of Student Affairs . . . . no refunds will be permitted.

ATTENTION GRAD STUDENTS!

The first meeting of the Graduate Student Society will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge, Vanier Hall. All departments are requested to send at least one representative, elected or not, to this meeting. Only departments which send representatives to G.S.U. meetings will be eligible to receive money from the disbursements program.

THE Office of Student Affairs announces a change on the dates of its studentship lectures. There will be no lecture Monday, October 10 (Thanksgiving). Lectures will be held Tuesday, October 11, Thursday, October 13, and Monday October 17, from 12 to 1 and from 5:30 to 6:30 in the Vanier Hall lounge.

ANARCHISTS, free socialists, Marxists, libertarians, council communists, anti-authoritarians. Want to build the Anarchists Party of Canada (Groucho-Marxist)? Who needs leaders - no government is good government. All those who can consider themselves as red subversives are welcome. Contact Leonard Ext. 326.

ARE you a pansy, faggot, gearbox, fairy, queer or are you a gay person? People are interested in meeting other gays and getting an organization set up on campus come to a meeting on Tuesday night, October 4th at the University Centre at 8:00 p.m. - Meeting Rooms 7-8.

The Women’s Centre will sponsor a symposium on RAPE in the second semester (the date to be announced, along with the format of the symposium, within two weeks). Students wishing to serve on the planning committee are asked to contact Evelyn McLean, Dean of Women (ext. 333) or Dab Russell, Head Resident, Laurier Hall (ext. 800) at the earliest possible time.

OPING — Ontario Public Interest Research Group — research to form the public and students in the community.

We need your volunteer help to get established. Phone Len Wallace, 253-6423.

GINO Piazza is starting a cheerleaders club to appear at all Lancer football and basketball games. Men and women welcome. Contact Gino at the SAC office, ext. 326.

HAVE YOU EXPERIENCED Delta Chi Fraternity, 408 Indian Road (253-5883). We offer: A friendly living atmosphere, very reasonable rooming, a fantastic social life, an athletics program, community activities, and membership parking. Rooms now available.

DELTA Chi Fraternity at 408 Indian Road is now establishing intramural teams in: Basketball, Road Hockey, and Volleyball. Anyone interested please contact us at 253-5883 or stop by the house.

THE Department of Asian Studies presents Professor L.P. Vidyanthi, distinguished Indian scholar, who will speak on “Religion, Pilgrimage, Civilization and Integration”, Tuesday, October 4 at 7:00 p.m. in Assumption Lounge, University Centre. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. There is no admission charge.
A prehistoric tool could have been 1500 years old was found last week just off campus by a 4th year anthropology student.

Tom Hamilton was working in the garden at the Delta Chi fraternity house on Indian Road last Wednesday, when he happened upon the small, black object.

He washed it under a stream of tap water and was able to identify it as a celt, a multipurpose tool, made of slate. Dr. Leonard Kroon of anthropology said that at "a safe estimate," the tool was 1,550 years old.

Kroon also said it probably belonged to the Huron Indians, who "maintained a continual occupation in this part of the country for ten thousand years." He said the university is sitting right above an old Huron encampment, and that if it were not for government red tape, valuable archaeological work could be done in campus construction sites, such as the business building.

Hamilton said that such findings were not unknown, although his celt is well-preserved. Many artifacts are damaged by plows or shovels before they are discovered.

The tool could have been for woodworking or agriculture, according to Hamilton. It is about 5 ⅛ inches long, and an inch wide. One end is about an inch thick, while the other end tapers off to form a sharp, smooth blade, resembling an adze.

According to Hamilton, the celt was made in the lamoka style, which is a tradition in chipped stone artifacts.

The slate used to make the tool was "pecked, ground and polished," according to Hamilton. The object was first chipped away and ground with a stone, and then it was polished using finer stones. The slate could have come from Collingwood, or elsewhere in North America, says Hamilton, because the Hurons had an extensive trade with other Indians.

The Celt was washed to the surface after hundreds of years, said Hamilton, probably by rainwater falling from the roof and eroding the topsoil layer. He said that such artifacts are "very common throughout North America, but scattered." Hamilton says he does not know what will be done with the celt.

Tom Hamilton and his artifact, which could be 1,500 years old.

No draft for Canadians

Military conscription is not in our futures.

Barney Danson was, apparently, grossly misquoted by every newspaper in this country early this week, but the situation is now being rectified.

Danson, the federal Minister of National Defence, was report ed to have said in a weekend interview in Toronto that he favoured a military draft for Canada and that he would like to see that subject opened up to national debate.

The minister went on to say that young people should perhaps consider the challenge of the Armed Forces as an alternative to Unemployment Insurance.

In addition, he said that Canada needs a stronger military to serve as a deterrent to war.

Following an editorial supporting Danson’s views in "The Windsor Star" on Tuesday, September 27, The Lance tried to contact the Deputy-Minister of Defence for comment. He was in a meeting.

However, the National Director of Information for National Defence, Colonel Boullot, informed us that Mr. Danson had said nothing of the kind, but simply that he would like to see more young people examine the alternative of the Armed Forces, as opposed to going on welfare.

Colonel Boullot also presented a press release of a speech made by Danson in Yellowknife on Tuesday which stated that he was entirely opposed to conscription, as it was subclassifying the Canadian and the Armed Forces’ positions.

Boullot said, “With the limited resources our Armed Forces have, we cannot handle more than a few thousand people anyway.”

Bargain of a lifetime

Nothing comes free in this world.

And that includes The Lance.

The Lance is funded by about thirty thousand dollars in Student Council fees, or close to five dollars per student. (That means each cent pays 18 cents for The Lance he takes home. Save money by taking home two copies, so they only cost nine cents each.)

And that brings us to the student at hand.

Although students pay for The Lance, it is read by more than just students. Faculty and staff and visitors to the university are invited to pick up a copy of the paper at any time. They are also invited to pay for it. That is why the subscription form appears occasionally in the paper, early each year.

Seven dollars and fifty cents may sound like a lot, but it includes the cost of the paper, plus postage and handling. In order to make ends meet and not burden just students with the cost of a paper which is produced by for the whole university, it is expected that non-student readers of The Lance will purchase subscriptions.

No one will tear the paper from your grasp, or arrest you for stealing, if you pick up The Lance. But if you enjoy it, if you appreciate the time and money that go into The Lance, please subscribe. A subscription form is reprinted in this issue for your convenience.

Attention subscribers: It’s time once again to renew your subscription to The Lance.

NAME
ADDRESS
CITY PROVINCE OR STATE
COUNTRY
Enclosed is $......... for ........... subscriptions to The Lance at $7.50 each (27 Issues)

Make All Cheques Payable To:

Students Administrative Council Ltd.
University of Windsor
Windsor, Ontario N9B 3P4

Careers Night
Open to all

Students who are contemplating graduating this year are invited to Careers Night, to be held Thursday October 6 in Ambassadors Auditorium.

Representatives from 32 companies will be on hand from 8 to 11 p.m. to meet graduating students and discuss employment opportunities. Although the event is sponsored by the Commerce Club, organizers Tony LaSorda emphasized that all interested students are welcome.

"In the past it was a business event," says LaSorda. "But we are opening it up to other facilities.

LaSorda, the vice-president in charge of social functions for the Commerce Club, says that engineering students too especially welcome.

Last year, only 24 companies sent representatives, but this year 32 companies are sending about 60 people to Careers Night. "They are coming out in full force," said LaSorda. Three hundred students showed up last year, and LaSorda hopes to get more this year. A cash bar and refreshments will be available.

Careers Night interviews are a sort of "pre-screening process," according to LaSorda. They are much more informal than the later interviews which follow at the Placement Centre on campus.

Among the companies which will be represented are IBM, the Public Service Commission, Bell Canada, Simpson-Sears, Dominion Stores, the Canadian Armed Forces, General Electric, Dominion Life, Xerox, and GM, Ford and Chrysler.

ATTENTION-ALL MALES

Get slim in the Gym and cool in the Pool

Adie Knox Community Centre
1561 Wyandotte W.
Gym and Swim class starts Wed. Oct. 5
7:30 to 9:30 pm
15 weeks for $15.00
JOIN NOW
Ontario student aid plan a fraud

Let's be fair. There are some good ideas in the Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) revisions that were announced last week.

For the first time, part-time students will be eligible for student aid. This is a major step forward.

Compulsory loans for anyone getting a grant have been eliminated. This is positive, because many students avoided getting a grant have been encouraged to contribute to his own education from summer earnings, regardless of whether or not the student worked during the summer or not.

The number and value of graduate scholarships have been increased. Not by much, however.

Over 200,000 Ontario graduate students are not going to be helped much by an increase of $50 per term in 1200 graduate scholarships. That is $1500 fewer graduate scholarships than were available in 1970. For the Tory government to pretend this is a positive step is deceptively wrong, it is deceptively a sham.

But then, so is the whole package surrounding the new student aid program. Under the guise of fairer distribution of grants, a commitment to academic excellence, and "a more efficient use of the tax dollar," the Ministry of Colleges and Universities is embedding on a series of regressive cuts.

Just as the government has cut back in the health field to the point of closing down hospitals, so is it concentrating its debacles economizing measures on education. Can we expect to see universities being closed in the future?

It may not be likely, but it's possible. Especially in the wake of one of the most disturbing aspects of the new student aid scheme. Students are eligible for grants (those same grants which are supposed to be distributed more fairly under the new system) for only four years. After that, you're on your own. You students who could not take full loads every term, or who failed some courses and need more time to finish up, or who wish to continue on to graduate or professional schools get a job. The government has decided you are no longer worthy of student aid in the form of grants.

Incredibly enough, the same time period is applied to part-time students, who may spend 10 years working on a degree. Although the ministry itself admits student loans are a dis-incentive, that is virtually all it offers grad students. It looks like ability to pay will be the chief criteria for selecting future doctors, lawyers, dentists and professors, which is a classic reminder that class lines in Canada are becoming more and more rigid.

The real crunch is still only hinted at.

"We must conserve public funds," says Harry Parrott, our Minister of Colleges and Universities, "by encouraging students to complete their studies quickly." Big Brother is concerned we are not using our time here wisely enough.

The solution is obvious. Boot us out. And that is precisely what they are planning in the back rooms of Queen's Park.

Parrott says he wants "to encourage a reduction in the length of time needed by students to qualify for some professional programs such as dentistry and law." Put your complete confidence in the lawyer with one year in Law School, and in the dentist with two years' experience in medical school. Let's get these people out of the schools, and into the working world where they belong!

Money should not be the criteria for selection of students in undergraduate or graduate programs at university. Especially, money should not determine the duration of study in any field. The government's "commitment to maintaining and improving the high standards of academic excellence in our universities" is a sham.

Dr. Parrott is travelling around the province promoting and explaining his new program. He will be in London next Tuesday, by which time he will probably have his defences, explanations, and rationalizations down pat. We hope so . . . he'll need them.

Ontario student aid plan a fraud

Revised drug plan unveiled

By M. Bruce Hannah
Commissioner of Ancillary Services

In an effort to accommodate the many students on campus with respect to the drug plan the ensuing article will indicate how the plan will be administered. If you are a full time undergraduate student at the University of Windsor you are covered by the plan and have already paid for it as it was deducted from your student fees upon registration.

This particular plan is a reimbursement plan. When a prescription is required the student pays for it, and then brings the receipt and fills out a claim form at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre. Claims are remitted by SAC to Zurich Life on the 10th of every month and only once a month. A claim by the student may be submitted at the SAC office five (5) business days immediately preceding the 30th of each month.

Refunds, which come in the form of cheques made out to the individual claimant, may be picked up at the SAC office on the 7th and 8th of the following month. That is to say, if forms are remitted by SAC to Zurich the 30th of September, refunds may be picked up on the 7th and 8th of October. Should these dates fall on a Saturday or Sunday, then the normal business days immediately preceding the 7th and 8th will be observed. It is important to note that refunds may be picked up only on these two (2) days of each month. Further, claims may only be submitted during the one business week prior to the 30th of each month.

Reimbursements come in the form of a cheque made out to individual students and may be obtained upon presentation of a valid student card between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on the proper dates at the SAC office. Refunds may be picked up by the claiming student only. A friend cannot pick it up for you.

This system is to ensure that the drug plan operates in an expedient and business-like manner. Your cooperation and understanding will be greatly appreciated. Thanks for taking the time to read this through.
Out on a Limb

By DON PEPPIN and ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Why is it that when university life is one of the fondest memories in most people’s lives this campus shows virtually no sign of involvement whatsoever?

Orientation can pack the university centre and keep everyone entertained during the engineer. The majority of students climb right back into their hollows and ignore campus life for the rest of the year.

This year, however, resident students and non-Windsorites tend to use this campus more. For example, people from the Sault come from a city where involvement is a way of life, and acting crazy is second-nature. To Windsor, by its very size, demands participation.

Students from those kinds of cities will naturally continue to be active in a new city.

Student Council and WURS have been the rule in the vast Faculty Association and the University of Windsor, and quasi-philosophies of life.

Students are free to do what they please. There is no one to make them go to classes. There is no one to make them go to classes. The only difference is that there are more choices to make.

It's your campus; use it.

A lot of you out there would love to get involved but have never had the chance. Now is the time to get off your collective butts and surround yourself with opportunities to let loose; take note, SAC.

The prime time of the year for riot is upon us, and it is one which this campus has essentially ignored during the rest of the year.

That means SAC, perhaps carelessly, might have to sponsor the March blood drive. This year however, SAC will have made the film from Professor Alan Brown, of the Department of Economics, and Professor Gunther, of the Department of Chemical Engineering.

Professor Mathur spoke first, on the implications of growth. He felt that although the crisis of resources is part of our modern life, the pollution problem is great, and technology "should not bear the brunt of it." The idea that was shown in the film was wrong: the outlook shown was that "we can do it," and "people may be stung by fear." "The model used," he continued, "is not only simple, but simplistic. It could not really be considered applicable to the real issue, and it is mathematically incorrect and incorrect.

Professor Brown, who began with the comment that he did not do much work with Professor Mathur, felt that the message in the film was good, and that the message should be altered. The book was written under the guise of scientific proof, but what we saw in the film was not really scientific, for said. The next major iteration was presented as what is occurring in the real world; they did not write the film, but using phony techniques.

In this way, it was really a "false presentation of truth". Prof. Brown also noted how ironic it was that the author of the book, "Beyond growth and growth, would use the computer to do it!"

A main complaint of Prof. Brown was the combination of the insistent urges to "do it now!" but when he asked "do it sometime!" he was not returned.

The discussion followed the critiques of the two professors. Several students raised points, in agreement with the panelists. One student was pleased that the issue was brought to the attention of the campus and felt that "all the politicians in the U.S. and Canada should have to down and watch this film." Brown agreed that the issue was of critical importance and asked whether it was "necessary to proselytize scientists." A second student felt that the message was "basically political, and portrayed the idea of a very cold attitude of human nature today, especially in a highly industrialized society." Profes­ sor Brown felt that this may be so, but wonderefed if the pop­ ular press would change after viewing such a film. "Will it help our logical assenment?"

With hope, we will find other means for realizing our present situation, and trying to come to some viable suggestions for cor­ recting our attitudes and behav­ iour.

Comments

Are there limits to growth?

By YVON BROWN

Does growth lead to crime?

Tuesday night, in assumption Lounge, Iona College show­ ed the film "Limits to Growth," as part of its film presentation series on alternative lifestyles. The film, in fact, did not portray or suggest any alternative lifestyles, but merely posed factual and verbal pictures of serious concerns, which the student movement that would make most people squirm in their seats. The film was based on the book, The Limits to Growth, by Donella and Dennis Meadows, et al. and included commentaries from var­ ious other people who were affiliated with his project, The Club of Rome, M.I.T., in addition to other "concerned citizens": an ecologist, several (British) government workers, and a professor of cybernetics whose face became increasingly familiar to the students during the film, Professor Beer.

The focal point of the film was the way in which our world now faces pollution, overpopulation and inadequate resources. The film was put together, un­ success­ ful­ ly, by the television industry and the university and the student a perfect opportunity to let loose; take note, SAC.

We are not advocating that students forget classes; that would be foolishness. It's your campus; use it.

The arrangements for dosed blood drives required: photographers, welcome you with a big smile, and that was that.

Windsor, and essay deadlines still re­ mains to be decided on campus and into the university community again.

Students from those places have never been the rule in the vast Faculty Association and the University of Windsor, and quasi-philosophies of life.

The prime time of the year for riot is upon us, and it is one which this campus has essentially ignored during the rest of the year. They may have thought the campus was dead, but this campus is far from dead.

By DON PEPPIN and ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Join the Lance

We require: photographers, reporters, production people, editors.

2nd floor

University Centre

We Got a Few Letters

Sponsor needed for blood drive

Dear Editor:

Your recent issue raises a number of points regarding con­ sideration with reference to the Presidential Search Committee and negotiations between the Faculty Association and the University.

The arrangements for closed meetings of the Presidential Search Committee reflect the desire of the committee to attract the best possible candi­ dates for the position. Confidential meetings have been the rule in the past, in hopes of generating a more promising group of candidates who have declined to stand because of the publicity attending their application.

It's worth noting, too, that the process of the selection being used at Windsor was approved by the Senate of the University of Windsor after thorough debate. The Senate is substantially repre­ sented on the selection com­ mittee, so that any changes will go to a joint meeting of the Board and Senate.

Regarding confidentiality surrounding negotiations bet­ ween the Faculty Association and the University, the conciliator ordered the news blackout, which both sides ob­ served. Geoffrey A. MacGibbon Office of Information Services

Dear Reader:

The Nursing Society is sponsoring an on campus blood drive on October 20 and 21, 1977, and cordially invites you to attend.

In the past, the Nursing Soci­ ety has sponsored a third blood drive which is scheduled for March. Taking into consideration, the academic fac­ et of our nursing students, the Nursing Society has opted not to sponsor the March blood drive.

March is a very busy time of year, scholastically and it is the opinion of the Nursing Executive Council, that sponsor­ ing a third blood drive would be detrimental to the students involved in the organ­ ization.

The Nursing Society requests any alternatives or suggestions for the March blood drive. We need the general student body might have regarding possible sponsorship of the blood drive.

Sincerely yours,

Kathleen O'Sullivan

NSG Society

News blackout frequent

Dear Editor:

The Nursing Society is sponsoring an on campus blood drive on October 20 and 21, 1977, and cordially invites you to attend.

In the past, the Nursing Society has sponsored a third blood drive which is scheduled for March. Taking into consideration, the academic facet of our nursing students, the Nursing Society has opted not to sponsor the March blood drive. March is a very busy time of year, scholastically and it is the opinion of the Nursing Executive Council, that sponsoring a third blood drive would be detrimental to the students involved in the organization.

The Nursing Society requests any alternatives or suggestions for the March blood drive. We need the general student body might have regarding possible sponsorship of the blood drive.

Sincerely yours,

Kathleen O'Sullivan

NSG Society
President dominates SAC meeting

By RICK SPENCE

The annual Homecoming Parade has been cancelled for this year.

There is a new system for receiving refunds from the SAC drug plan. A new student aid package could cripple some students' hopes of getting into graduate or professional schools.

The pub jukebox is hurting CJAM radio in its search for an audience.

And Gary Wells may carry his quest for a vote on the Board of Governors to Queen's Park in Toronto.

These are just a few of the titbits that came out of Tuesday night's 2% hour SAC meeting.

The meeting started with a President's Report that lasted over an hour. Gary Wells recounted highlights of the Ministry of Colleges and Universities' new student aid program, and tried to get council interested in opposing aspects of the system. Among the drawbacks of the new program are an emphasis on "tighter controls and stricter criteria" and on pushing students through university faster, said Wells.

Wells also opposed the benefit the new faculty contract which allows faculty members to send their children to university here free. "I think it stinks," said Wells.

However, some council members disagreed, suggesting that such bonuses were standard procedure at other institutions. The council defeated a motion which would have condemned that portion of the faculty contract, which would have called for the money to be rechanneled into other areas to benefit all students.

Wells also told council "it is intolerable that students can't vote on the Board of Governors. " Wells is now the only undergraduate student rep. on the board, and he cannot vote.

Wells said he brought the subject up at last week's Board meeting, and that the Board tried to stall him, as it had stalled other SAC presidents for years. However, Wells said he would not give up the fight, and that if he could not convince the Board members, he would introduce a bill into the provincial legislature to have the University of Windsor Act changed to allow for five student reps. on the Board of Governors.

"By the end of the year, one way or another, students will have a vote on the Board of Governors," Wells told council.

Treasurer Ernie Petrovski presented last year's audited SAC financial report for council's approval, which was granted after some discussion.

Ancillary Affairs Commissioner Bruce Hannah described the new system for submitting drug plan claims. Details are elsewhere in The Lance. Hannah also said he wanted to go on record "and say the food service on this campus stinks." He called the removal of food services from the University Centre "the worst aberration ever put on the students," and said he wanted to see the centre "turned around."

Special Events Commissioner Gino Piazza said his Orientation Report was not yet ready, but that there were so few council members at the meeting that he would not have given it anyway. He did say that the alumni association, and the residence council had agreed to cancel homecoming activities, because they had been scheduled for Thanksgiving weekend, when many students would not be on campus.

"Homecoming should be better organized next year," said Piazza.

Piazza is also starting a cheerleaders' club, for anyone interested in cheerleading, male or female.

Only one other item of business was considered, the jukebox which manager Pete Romeril installed in the pub at the beginning of the school year. Several council members complained that the jukebox de-...

SAC council members at work: Andre Wehe, Kathleen O'Sullivan, Marty Furac, And Bob "Bear" Gammon.

In an interview last week, Romeril said the jukebox was installed on a trial basis, after several requests, and that it represented a good source of revenue to SAC. SAC, which runs the pub, takes half of the revenue earned by the jukebox.

Although the campus has been hard hit by fire alarms this week, Director of Security Grant McIver says there is nothing unusual about the situation. The number of fire alarms "is not abnormally high for this time of year," says McIver, noting that many of the alarms were scheduled fire drills.

It has been common practice in the past that fire drills were held throughout campus early each school year. No foremen or equipment show up at the drills, and people return to the building as soon as it has been cleared.

There have been a number of false alarms so far this year, including the University Centre Tuesday night and the Math Building Wednesday morning. McIver says false alarms happen "sporadically," and that security "views them very seriously."

"It is very dangerous to pull a false alarm," McIver warns, in that it pulls false fire equipment from the station, and produces a negative attitude to fire alarms, and a reluctance to obey them.

"There is a potential for a fire to happen at the university," says McIver, so he emphasizes the alarm system must be respected.

Anyone who "without reason or cause" circulates an alarm about a fire is guilty of an offense under Section 193 of the Criminal Code of Canada, and could be liable to imprisonment for two years.

McIver says that in the past, people who have pulled false alarms have been caught, and they have been charged "with due process of law."

Alarming Rituals

Back to school. Exams. Christmas. More classes, more exams and graduation. And now... Right now you are probably thinking about the past several years and what you have to look forward to after graduation.

While you're at it, consider the personal growth and satisfactions you could experience at Procter & Gamble - a leader in the consumer products industry. We regard training and development as our most basic responsibility because we promote strictly from within Procter & Gamble. We know of no way to train people to become managers other than to promote them.

Economics, history, psychology - our managers include diverse backgrounds. More important than your specific field of study are such basics as intelligence, leadership ability, innovativeness, and a solid track record of achievement.

Prior to on-campus interviews, representatives from Marketing, Finance, and Sales will be visiting your campus to answer questions and talk about their experiences at Procter & Gamble. Specific dates, places and times will be advertised soon in the campus paper and at your placement office. The visit will be a one-day informal session in which all interested students can learn more about career opportunities in business management at Procter & Gamble.

As a first step, we invite you to visit your placement office and obtain a copy of our literature. Additional information is also available in the library file in the placement office.

Plan to be at our pre-recruiting session - no appointment necessary, drop in any time.

Career Night
Thursday October 6 8 p.m. - 11 p.m.
Ambassador Auditorium University Centre.

Ontario Union of Jewish Students

We are alive and well, surprisingly enough! Any Jewish students or organizations wishing to (re) establish contact with us, please write to:

OUJS
C/O M. Vomberg
104 Union Blvd. Apt. 208
Kitchener, Ont.

Have a good year. Shalom v'lehetraot.
Copyright laws may stop photocopying

By MARK D. GREENE

Students who are used to photocopying from books and magazines could lose that right under some proposed changes to Canada's copyright laws.

In order to protect the works of authors, songwriters and others with published works, the government has instituted copyright laws. Because of changes in society and technology there are now proposals to amend and update the Copyright Act of Canada. The proposed changes are serious enough to warrant the attention of the Ontario Library Association which has formed a committee to present its recommendations.

One of the important considerations concerns the use of photo-copying machines. Most students are familiar with these wonders of the twentieth century; they're the blue and grey machines found throughout the library, which for a mere five cents will provide you with a reasonably clear photocopy of almost anything you desire. Yet these seemingly harmless machines are now a threat to publishers and owners of copyrights as a serious threat to their interests. Although the present act allows for the copying of "less than a substantial part" of a work, it is hoped the new copyright act machines to continue to be used in this manner or if it will force curtailment of these practices.

The present act allows for the copying of "less than a substantial part" of a work, but as Mrs. Aline Soules, Co-ordinator for the Extranatural Library Service, points out the act fails to define what is meant by a "substantial part". Even if "less than a substantial part" were defined, she asks, who would be responsible to ensure that no more than that would be copied? If the library is to assume this responsibility then the use of copying machines may have to be restricted.

Mrs. Soules also expressed concern over one of the Canada Council's proposals that recommend that "collectives" such as the Organization of Canadian Authors and Publishers determine copyrights. She felt the "collectives" would (rightly) protect authors and publishers' rights and possibly treat libraries with "unfair bias".

Exactly how extensive the changes in the Copyright Act will be cannot now be determined, but undoubtedly they will be significant. According to Mrs. Soules there should be "no real effect on the students". It is unlikely that photo-copying machines will be removed from the library unless the library is forced to decide what may or may not be copied.

Although it is generally felt that copyright laws are essential to protect the interests of those concerned and should be updated to insure full protection, libraries are also concerned that their rights be considered. The proposed changes in the Copyright Act concerning libraries are serious. Mrs. Soules complained of a "lack of public awareness and student input," believing that unless people speak out now, the next thing we want to copy something we may not have the option of doing so.

Tecumseh continued from page 1

Tenants accidentally knocked a hole in the wall (not a common occurrence - the tenants cause little damage). They promptly paid for the damage they had caused, and the hole was repaired a few weeks ago - three years after the accident had occurred.

In another three-year delay, lighting was requested for the back of the building to prevent break-ins which had occurred in the darkened area. No action, as yet, has been forthcoming. Apathy has now set into Tecumseh Hall. "There is no pride of ownership," says Bruce Hannah. "The tenants don't care about the condition, so it gets worse."

Enrolment drops at Ed. Fac

BY DAN SULLIVAN

Enrolment is down at the University of Windsor. Following the creation of faculties across Ontario, but according to Dean A.S. Nease, that may not be the problem it seems.

That's not to say there is no problem. There is. The same number of students were admitted this year as last year, but not as many actually showed up. Dean Nease admitted that there was a "higher number of no-shows than ever before" across the province, but felt that the Windsor faculty could better handle the smaller number. Last year, the Windsor Ed. Fac had over 420 students, this year enrolment has dropped by about 100.

Due to the "very tight" market for teachers right now, faculties of education will begin to gear themselves more to "in-service" programs for teachers already working, to upgrade their certificates, says Nease. Four years ago, graduate enrolment at the faculty was 30. This year it's 53.

The training of new teachers is not going to disappear completely. Present graduates are getting jobs, though not always right away, and they have to be willing to move. Nease, who is on the Council of Ontario Universities task force studying enrolment, said that "a recommendation may be that faculties of education pay more attention to market demand," and gear their enrolments toward such demand.

The Faculty of Education's task for the future seems to be to extend its offerings to graduate students, providing programs that are acceptable both academically and to the teachers.
The Lance do-it-yourself diploma

University of Windsor

Hereby it is certified that upon the recommendation of The Faculty of the Senate has conferred upon in recognition of fulfilment of the prescribed requirements the degree of

Bachelor of Arts

with all the rights, privileges and honours thereto pertaining here and elsewhere.

Dated at:
Windsor, Ontario, Canada

Vice Chancellor and President.

Registrar.

News of the world

SAC is considering sponsoring a procrastination clinic on Tuesday or maybe Thursday, or Friday, whenever any interested students can get around to showing up. The first lecture will be titled "Creative Procrastination, Getting Around to Not Getting Around to It."

New York (1986) — Story will be available in nine years, but we’re told it will be really exciting.

Kampala Uganda — There is no rumour to the truth that Ugandan president Idi Amin will become president of the University of Windsor. Although he expressed extreme interest in the post, Mr. Amin said that he would change the title to "Most Benevolent and Revered Fearless Leader and DADA." Current President, J. Francis Leddy wasn’t asked for comment.

AaBbC
cDdEe
FfG G g
Hh Ii J
jKkL J
Mm Nn
O o Pp
Q q R R S
sTt Uu
Vv W W
Xx Y Y
Z z

1652 TECUMSEH RD. E. (at Lincoln) OPEN 9 to 9 THURSDAY and FRIDAY

Phone 252-2512

NOW JUST $550.00
YOU SAVE $150.00

SR303 HITACHI RECEIVER With 30 WRMS of Power
PS10 HITACHI TURNTABLE Semi-Automatic with $40 Audio Technica Cartridge
TWIN S100 SPEAKERS
Complete with Record Brush and Speaker Wire
University gets star on campus

By BRUCE DINSMORE
The University has opened a press room on campus for the use of the Windsor Star for covering campus events.

"I think that it will be more convenient, having a base on campus, rather than working from an office two miles away," says Paul Patterson, one of the two Star reporters on education beat. Patterson covers the university and St. Clair College as well as the two county school boards. He feels his new office will enable him to get more of the feel of the campus, as well as be a place for him to receive phone calls, mail and visitors.

The Star is paying rent for the space they use. They are currently in the old Off-Campus housing office in Vanier Hall, but according to the University Information Officer Geoff MacGibbon, this space is only temporary.

He expects the press room to move to permanent quarters, once the two new buildings come on stream, and open up space in other areas. A permanent home for the Star office has not been decided. There are other commercial companies that rent permanent space on campus, one is the Toronto-Dominion Bank in the lower level of the University Centre.

According to Mr. MacGibbon, the university generates a large volume of news. The Publisher of the Star, Robert Pearson, expanded on this. In a Lance interview he said there is a large number of people in the university community, and the Star wants to reach those people.

Patterson said that there were plans in the works by St. Clair College to open a press room of their own as well as add an information officer.

The press room here at the university had the blessing of SAC, as it was an attempt to put the university and its activities before the public.

The bureau was a joint idea of the Star and the university, and the present accommodations were worked out over the summer and will exist until permanent quarters are arranged.

---

OPIRG (Windsor)
Ontario Public Interest Research Group student research to inform the public - meeting

guest speaker: Mike Ura
OPIRG provincial office

Assumption Lounge
University Centre
Monday, October 3rd 3:30 p.m.
for further info phone Ext. 326

Everyone Welcome

---

THE LANCE—SEPTEMBER 30, 1977—PAGE NINE

OPIRG begins campaign in Windsor

By BREND A McLISTER
In January, students of the University of Windsor may be asked to decide in a referendum whether they are willing to pay $5.00 more in student fees for OPIRG.

The Ontario Public Interest Research Group is an offshoot of Ralph Nader's "PIRG's" that started in the U.S. seven years ago. A PIRG began in Waterloo five years ago, and for the first first year followed the U.S. model. The next year, Water developed a Canadian version of the PIRG, which resulted in OPIRG.

According to Mike Ura, from the OPIRG provincial office, the Ontario PIRG's are necessarily different from the American PIRG's for a number of reasons: "The Canadian political process is different, the Canadian academic tradition is different from the American tradition, and the students were not happy with the U.S. model and decided to change it on their own."

The concept, however, remains the same - students work with community groups to research problems, and hope their research will facilitate social change.

The difference lies in who does the changing. State PIRG's lobby for changes themselves. The purpose of OPIRG is to inform groups and communities, to aid them in their own lobbying. "We don't want to become another form of elite," says Ura, "the public shouldn't depend on OPIRG to solve their problems."

OPIRG research is not unbiased. Students work with community groups so they can fight irresponsible companies and government bureaucracies," says Ura. So, the research must be "extremely accurate". As proof of its accuracy, Ura said that although OPIRG has made "pretty serious charges" against the government and corporations, it has never been sued.

If a OPIRG office is set up on a campus, any student interested in doing Public Interest Research can talk to one of the co-ordinators, who will help the student choose a research project relevant to one of his courses. Then OPIRG will negotiate with the professor of that course, for permission to get credit for the project.

OPIRG's record with professors has been "extremely good," according to Ura. He plans to make a list of Windsor professors who are willing to give credit for OPIRG research. In order to have a referendum on campus, OPIRG organizers must present to SAC a 350-signature petition favoring a referendum. OPIRG hopes to get 600 or 700 names and will be canvassing various classes and clubs for the signatures.

If students vote in favour of a campus PIRG, student fees will increase by $5.00. This would be the main source of funding for the PIRG. Any student can get a refund on request, but must give up his right to participate in OPIRG research and use its resources.

Windsor OPIRG co-ordinator Len Wallace says, "there are many things we can do in Windsor that would benefit students and the community."

Some possible local projects would be to research occupational health and safety in auto factories, or local pollution and its relation to disease.

To familiarize students with OPIRG, Wallace is organizing a speaker/film series. The series will cover such topics as the food industry, nuclear power, air and water pollution and poisoning.

"We want everyone to know what OPIRG is before they vote on it," said Wallace.

There are presently five universities that have OPIRG offices: Waterloo (which also houses the provincial office), Guelph, McMaster, Trent, and Western. This year, OPIRG is campaigning in Windsor and Ottawa.

For more information, contact Len Wallace in the SAC office, 251-6423, or ext. 326.
Laura to lead band to further victories

By ROBERT BROWN
Gary Laura of the School of Music has been named Director of Music for the Windsor Optimist Youth Band, according to James Brown, Chairman of the Youth Committee of the Optimist Club. He will be serving this new position concurrently with his professorship.

Laura's appointment takes

The Tower of Babel

By KATHERINE BOWYER
If you were confronted by a teacher who spoke nothing but English, how would you react? What would you expect? "There's no problem about that. That's only natural." Now imagine yourself as a Chinese or a French or a Polish student or one of any different ethnic group. Think that you're surrounded by other students who don't speak English. They also probably look bewildered at the sound of the language you know. How would you be able to communicate? This is the situation Israel Horowitz has developed in his play The Primary English Class, in which, a young teacher and six immigrant students grapple their way through encountering each other's values and language towards understanding. Horowitz is a contemporary playwright whose shorter works have been internationally acclaimed. Here, his writing leads to an evening of hilarious theatrical entertainment. "Director Ray Whelan lets the laughs ripple along effortlessly," comments the Toronto Star on the production now touring. The Primary English Class flows to its tranquil without interruption.

The Multicultural Council of Windsor and Essex County and the Enthis-Cultural Association of St. Clair College have arranged for the Open Circle Theatre production in Windsor. Mr. Horowitz asserts that their show is even superior to that of News York which met with rave reviews.

The Open Circle Theatre is Toronto-based and was founded in 1972. Its productions offer entertainment and reflect a great social consciousness. Four different workshops dealing with such topics as theatre art and the problems of immigrants in education and labour will be happening in Windsor this weekend. The relevance of Horowitz's script has attracted many people not normally avid theatregoers. Six times its run had to be extended in Toronto! If you respond to this comedy's lure, don't be afraid of entering a Tower of Babel! All the language doesn't overwhelm you. Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese and Polish are spoken during the performance. As in a UN session, an actor translates what is said simultaneously into English.

Performances begin at 8 p.m., at the Patterson Playhouse Sep­ tember 29, 30, and October 1. Tickets are only $3.50 each.

Trivia Quiz

Want to do a number on your head? Try this numbers quiz.

1. George Orwell wrote a book called . . . . . . . . .
2. Boeing produced the famous "Flying Fortresses" which were also known as B- .
3. In the song "Delta Dawn" how old was she?
4. How many rivers were there in Hades? (Greek Mythology)
5. Audie Murphy was the most decorated American soldier in World War II. How many medals was he awarded?
6. In the movie "The Love Bug" what number was painted on Herbie's side?
7. How many sheets of paper in a ream?
8. In the movie "Cool Hand Luke", Paul Newman wins a wager based on his consuming how many eggs in one hour?
9. Which cavalry regiment was General Custer's last command?
10. How many portraits did Rembrandt van Rijn paint of himself?
11. On the TV series "Dragnet" what was Sgt. Friday's badge number?
12. In the 1964 movie "Goldfinger", James Bond uses a gold bar as bait to lure Auric Goldfinger. What number was stamped on the bar?
13. Today's pick of the week — only tried and true trivia buffs need read further. — In the 1964 movie Mary Poppins, the oaf family she nunnicked for were the Banks. Where did they live on Cherry Tree Lane?
14. The numbers on a Dr. Pepper bottle are meant to be the best time for a Dr. Pepper brisk. What are they?
15. How many pints of blood is the average human body?
16. In which century does Star Trek take place?
17. How many wives did Brigham Young have?
18. What was Sherlock Holmes' address on Baker Street?
19. How many dimes on a golf ball?
20. What was the registration number of the U.S.S. Enterprise on the TV series "Star Trek"?

Answers to Quiz on page 11

Rusty Handlebar plays Pub

By DEB KENNEDY
With a name like 'Handlebar', what can you expect? Definitely more. The band in the pub this week is a five piece group: lead guitar, bass, keyboardist, percussionist and vocalist. Their selection of music is Top 40, disco and jazz; thus a continuation of what has become the pub vein of music.

Handlebar has only been together for four months — and it shows. The lead guitarist admitted that they had limited recent band experience. The group members come from "all over", with main roots in Toronto. They have been touring Ontario and Quebec and playing club dates.

The stage presence of the band is nil, except for the lead singer who manages to do a few disco moves. He also has to sing his own back-up vocals which tend to produce poor effects on tunes like "I Wish", by Stevie Wonder. The night I saw the band, they claimed that they were too tired to help sing back-up.

I discovered that the group travels with no lighting equipment. Monday night they were debating whether or not to rummage up a spotlight for the lead singer. They described the stage as dark, but cosy. The band will be changing their name to 'Observations' in case you want to see them next time they are around.

In case you want to catch their act, Handlebar will be at the pub until Saturday.

Rudy's Style Salon

For Appointment Call 258-2490
2846 UNIVERSITY WEST
Under The Bridge

YOUR CAMPUS HAIR STYLISTS
ROSEMARY
In The Stars

By OTIS T.

ARIES — (March 21 - April 19) : Continued caution is indicated for the next few days. Tensions will clear afterwards.

TAURUS — (April 20 — May 20) : The time is right to make your move. Conditions will never be more in your favour.

GEMINI — (May 21 - June 21) : Excellent opportunities will present themselves. It’s up to you to use them properly.

CANCER — (June 22 - July 22) : Make your decision as soon as possible. A wrong choice is better than none.

LEO — (July 23 - Aug. 22) : Take time to relax and enjoy the results of your work. You’ve earned a well deserved rest.

VIRGO — (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) : Idle rumours will only distract you. Be patient and pursue your goals.

LIBRA — (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) : Imagination is the highest form of flattery. Be natural and flatter yourself.

SCORPIO — (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) : Wallowing in self-pity will not help. Focus on the positive.

SAGITTARIUS — (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) : A name out of the past will rekindle an old flame. Let the fires burn bright tonight.

AQUARIUS — (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18) : Leave caution to the wind and charge full ahead. Nothing can stop you now.

PISCES — (Feb. 19 - March 20) : Questions regarding your finances will arise. You have nothing to fear as all is in order.

Campus Ministry

ANGLican Services at Canterbury College,
172 Patricia, 256-6442.
Sundays: 10:00 a.m., Holy Eucharist (Followed by a light Breakfast and Discussion).
Monday - Friday: 12:15 p.m., Holy Eucharist.

Roman Catholic Services at Assumption University, 256-3112.

Masses (2nd Floor Chapel)
Sundays: 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.
Monday - Friday: 12:00 noon and 4:30 p.m. (Except Tuesday).
Tuesday: 5:15 p.m. followed by dinner $1.00.
Saturday: 11:30 a.m.

Presbyterian Services at 2321
Wyandotte W. at Ashin, 253-8741.
Sunday: 11:00 a.m.

Orthodox Services Contact: Fr. Alexander Sean at 258-1824.

United Church Services Contact: Fr. Bob Lockhart at 253-7257, Iona College.

Petrolia Playhouse presents

The early schedule of events is tempting to any music lover, and as follows:

Gala Opening Night — September 30, tickets: $6, $4, $2.
Royal Canadian Brass — October 1, tickets: $8, $6, $4.
Monique Leyrac — October 2, tickets: $8, $6, $4.
Conservatory of Performing Arts — October 3, tickets: $8, $6, $4.

Tickets for the events can be received by sending cheque or money order payable to: Petrolia Playhouse Petrolia Inc., Box 1180, Petrolia, Ontario NON 1RO
Write or call 1-882-1221 for more information. Remember to include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Attention any of the spectacles, will give you a chance to get into some Canadian artists, enjoy some excellent music, and of course see what the town of Petrolia has to offer.

Get away and be entertained. Petrolia Playhouse is a day or two of the Windsor life.

Answers to Trivia Quiz

1. 1984
2. B.B.'s
3. 4
5. 17
6. 53
7. 500
8. 194
9. 78
10. 62

What's Your Score?
15 - 20 Excellent
9 - 14 Fair
1 - 8 Poor

By ROYCE A. BRESCUK

The B C R E E N C A M P (MADU) 1984

Excellent opportunities will be present for the next few issues. The start of the new program highlights a number of schedule changes are being instituted on C R E E N , an event of which will become effective the first week of October. Therefore, I would like to give you a brief rundown of the new programs.

School Broadcast", returns at 2:04 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning October 11th, October 4th and 10th marked the final series of "Inspector West at Bay" in the B C R E E N S E R I A L S . Tuesday, October 6th sees the end of "My World", a B C quiz show. Also, the "B C Afternoon Theatre, My Music" (another B C musical quiz show) and "Sousvivre" series conclude on October 5, 6, and 7 respectively.

Saturday, October 1st sees the return of the "Royal Canadian Air Force", a satirical radio comedy program with Dave Brown. You may recall that two issues ago I reported on Windsor's CBC radio station (1550 on the AM dial) and its program highlights a number of schedule changes are being insti­ntuted on C R E E N , an event of which will become effective the first week of October. Therefore, I would like to give you a brief rundown of the new programs.

School Broadcast", returns at 2:04 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning October 11th, October 4th and 10th marked the final series of "Inspector West at Bay" in the B C R E E N S E R I A L S . Tuesday, October 6th sees the end of "My World", a B C quiz show. Also, the "B C Afternoon Theatre, My Music" (another B C musical quiz show) and "Sousvivre" series conclude on October 5, 6, and 7 respectively.

Saturday, October 1st sees the return of the "Royal Canadian Air Force", a satirical radio comedy program with Dave Brown. You may recall that two issues ago I reported on Windsor's CBC radio station (1550 on the AM dial) and its program highlights a number of schedule changes are being insti­
Butler's piano in tune

By TED GODDARD
Last Friday evening the Music Department offered the campus a very fine performance by pianist Gregory Butler. A capacity audience attended the concert held in the Foot Court room of the Law Faculty building.

Butler's playing was excellent. Technical command of the instrument was vividly illustrated through his introductory works written by Jean-Philippe Rameau and Harry Somers. Mr. Butler's emotional drive then shone through in the terribly difficult Variations on a Theme by Paganini, by Johannes Brahms.

After a brief intermission, Mr. Butler continued to express those brilliant interpretations and intense feeling of music in many moods. At the final, resolving chord of Chopin's Fantasy in F Minor, the audience broke into a very appreciative standing ovation.

Gregory Butler, from Belleville, Ontario, has achieved a series of degrees and awards in music and performance and has held teaching positions at a number of universities, including the Eastman School. Mr. Butler is now Professor of Piano at the University of Windsor. He leaves Canada this week for a performing tour in England.

Vanier's answer to A & P's price and pride.

Overkilling Canadian Content

By PAUL CHERNISH & JIM ANGUS
What do you know about the restrictions imposed by various federal agencies on the Canadian recording and radio industries?

It can never be our job to interpret laws, but if we can help you answer a few questions about it maybe we can help each other out. We'd really appreciate hearing what you think.

Who are we talking about? Primarily the CRTC (Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission). Their job as a regulatory body is to protect our best interests in the broadcast media.

The commission regulates with defence in mind, protecting us from the cultural shock that pours over the border. The CRTC imposes restrictions on radio content with hopes of shielding and possibly expanding Canadian creativity. A general overview of their guidelines points to this sheer protection aspect. For example, between the hours of 6 a.m. and midnight a Canadian AM radio station must broadcast 30% Canadian music. Very generally then, the message is rather clear. However, the detailed regulations are much more complicated.

There is a problem that surfaces out of this situation. Canadian radio feels the whole effect of Can Con (Canadian Content) and Canadian artists are feeling the pinch as well. The question remains: is Canada big enough for true success? We can cite the fact that in many cases Canadian artists have found it necessary to retain roots in Canada while allowing financial control to originate in the United States. The Americans are rich in both technical know-how and capital. Assuming the CRTC has indeed detected the problem, they may be at the same time overkilling Canadian music.

Talent can only be stretched so far, therefore our radio stations cannot be blamed for taking advantage of the good Canadian talent and overplaying their music. Fulfilling licence obligations and maintaining a competitive stature may be two different things.

Without regulations, would all Canadian music be ignored? We really doubt it, but then again, can we survive on forced material? We all know about the great Canadian identity search.

our feeble stream just turned into a raging torrent. We are looking at some important questions that deserve the attention of all Canadians. What do you think?

MUSIC GUIDE

A list of upcoming concerts in the Border City area

By CJAM

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Event</th>
<th>Venue</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sept. 30</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Zappa</td>
<td>Ford Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>David Brenner</td>
<td>Ambassador Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 1</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jay Ferguson</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 2</td>
<td>Fisher Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steve Martin with John Sebastian</td>
<td>Ford Auditorium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aerosmith</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 3</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Luc Ponty</td>
<td>Olympia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 7</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 8</td>
<td>Fisher Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Firefall</td>
<td>On Campus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jreebel</td>
<td>Canadian Brass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Canadian Brass</td>
<td>Detroit Institute of Arts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 14</td>
<td>Michigan Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frensign Theatre</td>
<td>(Ann Arbor)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steve Miller Band</td>
<td>Crisler Arena</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CKLW Benefit, John Denver, Gordon</td>
<td>Olympia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lightfoot and Harry Chapin</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 16</td>
<td>Utopia and Starcastle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 19</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 20</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Iggy Pop</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Waits</td>
<td>Michigan Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 21</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foreigner</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 24</td>
<td>Hyatt Regency</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jose Feliciano</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 26</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham Parker and Thin Lizy</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 27</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Waits, and J .J. Walker</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 31</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Journey, Lynyrd Skynyrd</td>
<td>National Lampoons Halloween Party</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 7,8,9</td>
<td>Royal Oak Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesus Christ Superstar</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 20</td>
<td>Masonic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nov. 3</td>
<td>Cobo Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earth, Wind and Fire</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young men's fashions

Service Satisfaction

ANTIOCH WEEKEND
October 14, 15, 16, 1977
A CHALLENGING ENCOUNTER WITH CHRIST
Contact Assumption Campus Community - 254-3112
or The Chaplaincy Team - 256-0056 or 254-3783
Praise plays for God

By DEB KENNEDY

It quickly becomes evident that the group's main objective is promoting their faith. Their music is simply their choice of how to present their version of the gospel. Between each song, one of the group members would speak for several minutes about his or her personal commitment to religion. The group's history goes back five years to Paducah, Kentucky, where "some friends got together singing." Their sound was promoted by the Maranatha Christian Centre. This fellowship organized tours for "Praise" all over the world. Three years ago the group cut an LP and they plan to produce another in October with new, original material. Among their lyrics is "Every child matters to me, which is, as one vocalist termed it, "a far away place from Kentucky." Monday night the group taped a show for the Global TV program '100 Huntley St.' The group played at the university because their fellowship will be forming a club on campus. The audience involvement at the concerts seems to indicate there is some interest in such a club.

In addition to the lively music of "Praise", there was a performance by a Michigan pianist, Brian Jones.

SAC

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

Fri. Sept. 30
"HANDEL BAR"
DIRECT FROM TORONTO

Mon. Oct. 3 – Sat. Oct. 8
"FREEWIND"
DIRECT FROM DETROIT MICHIGAN
Lancerette volleyball team looks promising

By WILLY PAQUETTE

Look out! The ladies in "Blue and Gold" are off to another season on the volleyball court and hopes are high.

After three full squad practices, the Lancerettes journeyed to De Paul University in Chicago, to take on some pretty solid U.S. teams last weekend.

This resulted in a fine showing by defeating Western University 15-13, 4-15, 15-12 and reluctantly giving way to the University of Wisconsin 9-13, 9-15; Kellogg Community College 12-13, 7-15; Northeastern University 9-12, 13-11, 7-15; and hostesses De Paul University 5-15, 4-15.

Lancerette coach Marge Ppich warns that these results are deceptive, for the American teams were better prepared having had more time to practice in earlier exhibition games. Since the American collegiate teams have only a three month season, Coach Ppich thinks it wise to take advantage of the situation to give her team more experience in game situations.

The 12-member team plays its first league game in November, but their exhibition season started three weeks early. With only six players from last year's club returning to the "Blue and Gold", Coach Ppich is most concerned with developing teamwork and cohesion.

The coach emphasizes that the club is blessed in having a roster comprised of well-coached local players. She regrets also to have to cut a good number of other talented players.

The loss of Elaine and Leslie Dowdwell seems to have created a lack of height on this team, but Coach Ppich has full confidence that the six "nouvelles" Lancerettes (four of whom are first year students) will fill the void. "This is a good learning team that always gives 100% effort" added Coach Ppich.

"Obviously we're not Olympic caliber, but we're just as exciting. I'm inviting all the students and faculty of this school to support our team."

The Lancerettes play Saturday at Michigan State University against the University of Cincinnati, Michigan State and in a return match versus Kellogg Community College.

---

Thirty centimeter ball?

By DON PEPPIN

With the recent swing to metric conversion, we all seem to be wondering what will come next?

The first Liter Bowl game was played recently between two Minnesota colleges, Carleton and St. Olaf, using metric measurements. The game was played on a 100-meter (or 109 yard) field and was about the width of a normal field.

St. Olaf crushed Carleton 42-42.0 taking up 302 meters on the ground with Tom Fiebiger rushing for 70 meters and Steve Outie tossing a 36-meter touchdown pass. St. Olaf's kicker Chuck Benson notched up a 34 meter field goal as his contribution to the effort.

Carleton's offense just 2.51 centimetered (inched) along and gained few meters in any category. The official stats will go into the NCAA in yardage measurements.

---

Piazza Pushing

For the first time in a number of years Lancer basketball fans may have cheerleaders and a pep band to get them going.

Anyone who travels to universities like Western or Waterrloo knows that these schools utilize their bands and cheerleaders to the fullest. They travel to hockey and basketball games and just generally have a good time getting the fans up on their collective feet, and off their collective you-know-whats.

Gino Piazza is organizing a group of experienced people hopefully before the football season is over. He says that anyone, male or female who would like to get involved should come and see him in the SAC office as soon as possible.

The pride of a school comes through the students; here's one way you can get into the spirit of things.

The Cheerleaders will be forming a club so they can get some money from SAC for their uniforms. Mr. Piazza says the team will be choosing their own uniforms and there is no truth to the rumour that they will have little rabbit ears.

---

This week Miracle is open 'til midnight - Wed., Thurs. & Fri.

Mira Mart Regular or Individually Wrapped

CANADIAN PROCESSED CHEESE SLICES

1 lb. pkg. $1.29

BEST BUY

Brookpark FROZEN DINNERS

11 oz. pkg. 59¢

BEST BUY

Maple Leaf GOLDEN FRY SAUSAGES

1 lb. pkg. $1.28

Fresh from the Tropics

LARGE SIZE BANANAS

CHECK OUT FOR LESS AT MIRACLE
Get out and do. Here's how

By PETER MUDRACK

A visit to the intramural office in St. Denis Hall proved to be a worthwhile experience. The staff is very helpful, and interested in a well-run, efficient intramural program. Posted prominently on the wall inside the office is a listing of intramural sport objectives and principles. These objectives provide direction to the staff, but they can be readily applied to anyone either forming a team or participating on one.

Herein lies the philosophy behind intramural sport: 1. to provide an opportunity for every individual, regardless of ability, to realize the fun and joy of participation against fair and equal competition. 2. to offer a variety of activities, balanced vigorous and light exercise, and team and individual sports to satisfy personal interests and meet future needs. 3. to provide opportunities for every individual to improve known skills and develop new skills of a carry-over nature for future adult life. 4. to provide enjoyable experiences and social contacts, within a sporting environment, that will lead to new friendships. 5. to create an enthusiasm for and a realization of the importance of the "physical well-being" of the individual. The key eligibility regulations are as follows: 1. All full-time or part-time students, faculty members and staff are eligible to participate. 2. Current members of Lancer, Lancerette, or Crusader intercollegiate teams are not eligible to compete in that sport. 3. Only play one sport in a particular sport. NO transfers to another team are allowed once the schedule has begun. 4. Anyone using an assumed name will be barred from all intramural activities for the remainder of that year. Reinstatement for the subsequent year must be approved by the Intramural Director. 5. Any team using an ineligible player shall forfeit the contest(s) in which the offender took part.

The Lancer Cross Country team took to the hills last week at the Springbank International meet in London. The team fared very well considering the level of competition on the meet. The winner of the Men's 12 Mile was Bill Rogers of the Greater Boston Track Club, Windsor's Jim Bulley finished 117th out of a field of 176 with a time of 1 hour 27 minutes. In the 4 1/2 mile, out of 290 entries Ray Holland, Paul Roberts and Tim Wood placed in the top 100.

Two members of the Lancerette track team participated in the Springbank road race. Linda Saulst and Cathy Seuin ran in the ladies' open 4 1/2 mile, with Linda finishing 27th out of 130 entries. She logged a time of 27 minutes, 24 seconds for a 6 minute mile pace for the entire race. Cathy, normally a mile runner entered her first distance event and also finished well, she took a time of 34 minutes. The winner was Brenda Webb from the U. of Tennessee.

Lancer basketball coach Dr. Paul Thomas invites all interested Basketball players to the opening practice and try-out on Oct. 12. The Wednesday night practice session goes from 7 - 9, however players are asked to come early for the opener. The practice takes place in St. Denis Hall. Come on out and take a shot at it.

Despite the recent heat, winter sports fans have to ready themselves somehow. The intramural curling season begins on October 16. with the call for participation or its first meeting of the season. The Teams (to be announced) play Sunday nights at the Windsor Curling Club on Central Avenue. The atmosphere is a fun one with more emphasis on participation than on competition. Transportation will be provided from the traffic circle in front of Vanier. Curling begins at 8 and runs till 10 the first two nights, Oct. 16 and 23 will be practice and warmup nights. For more information call Rand at 256-8969 or Jack at 256-1437.

The Lancerette Synchronized Swimming Team will begin practices Monday October 3 at 4 p.m. at the Human Kinetics pool. Old and new members welcome. Or call Prof. Prpich at ext. 774.

Mens and womens Self Defence classes begin Thursday, Sept. 29th, 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. at the Dance Studio, HK Building. All you need is loose clothing (shorts, T-shirt or sweat suit, and running shoes). Instruction by Bob Seneschat.
Lancers yank York Yeomen, 43-3

By Peter Nash

There were no surprises over the outcome of last Saturday's O-QFC football game. The Lancers demolished the York Yeomen without much effort, 43-3.

The big plus for the Lancers was the manner in which they won. The change from the previous week's effort was almost like night and day. Play execution and a more polished performance were the major differences.

Coach Fraser noted, "We got what we were looking for. The offense is coming really well." A balanced attack was the big difference in this week's game, with strong play from backs Craig Mallender and Julian Jones sparking the Lancers running game. Craig Mallender ran for 37 yards and Jones added 10 to lead the Lancers to an impressive 157 yards rushing.

In the air the Lancers were awesome, with running backs Mal­lender and Steve Zack combined with receivers Bruce Wal­ker and Steve Quigley for 3 touchdowns. Walker gained 64 yards, 3 catches with Quigley gaining 71 yards on 2 receptions. These combined with York's horrible defensive secondary led to 148 yards gained passing.

York's total offense added up to 110 yards, and offered little in the way of excitement except for some fine running by John Trevisan, who gained 56 yards. Quarterback Mike Foster completed 9 of 18 attempts in the air. Craig Clydesdale caught 2 for 42 yards to lead the York receivers and Rick Difena went for 21 yards. Coach Aldridge blames inexperience for his problems. "Our defensive secondary is still looking into the backfield and being fooled by their [Lancers'] play action." You can only feel sorry for the man.

The game started off poorly for the Lancers. On the first play from scrimmage Scott Mal­lender's pass was intercepted and 44 yards and then was forced to punt. After several more uneventful exchanges, Windsor's Jim Cin­ba started the ball rolling with a 50 yard punt return for the game's first major. Rob Grier converted to give the Lancers a 7-0 lead.

A combination of Windsor's good defense and York's questionable offense left the Yeo­men with almost no offensive in the first quarter. In the second quarter Wind­sofstruck early. Mallender pas­sed to Steve Quigley for a 40 yard completion and another 6 points. That was not the end. Minutes later back on quarter­back Steve Zack hit Bruce Wal­ker for a 9 yard gain and a 21-0 lead.

York's second quarter of­fense resembled the first quar­ter; there was none. John Trevisan had several long gains on the ground but there was never much threat of a score.

Windsor's defense should be given credit for part of York's lack of offense. Jim Lynn came back from an injury to play a fine game. The Lancer sec­ondary was well doing the quarterback Mike Foster to take several poundings by Lan­cer linemen. The second half was a bit sloppy due to the weather as much as anything else.

Windsor finished at their own 21 yard line and a subsequent penalty put York on the 12 yard line. York lost a yard on two tries but Bill Pasukon put one through the uprights for 3 points.

Windsor turned the ball over again on their next set of downs. Fortunately York's broken-down off­ense only moved the ball 5 yards. To add insult to injury, York's K.J. Souligny blocked the field goal attempt.

Windsor's offensive started to click again at this point. Mal­lender connected with Quigley for a 30 yard gain. The next play from scrimmage, Mallen­der went to the air to Walker for a 40 yard gain and 6 points. The entire drive took only two plays.

York's Trevian tried to an­swer the Windsor score all by himself. He ran 3 times for ball four times in a row. Tim Maitre and Jim Lynn combined to stop the York runner. Quarter­back Foster for a 15 yard loss.

York's Trevisan missed a field goal with a minute left in the quarter. But that was where the simi­larities ended. Foster is definitely not a Staubach. He immedi­ately threw an interception to linbacker Artie Watkins. Wat­tins returned the ball to the York five and Scott Mal­lender threw to his brother Craig for a touch down for a 33-0 lead.

The Lancers continued their onslaught on Windsor's longest drive, and featured a 31-yard pass to the winningest players ever seen at South Can­field Field. Steve Zack passed to Walker, who fumbled. The ensuing struggle saw a York lineman nab the ball, and change down field. But he fumbled, and Roger Adams turned and ran back the other way for another Lancer score.

Rob Geier went 6 for 6 in converts and Scott Essery av­eraged 44 yards punting. Windsor has still taken too many penalties, however, this week they had 9 penalties for a total of 90 yards.

Tomorrow the Lancers will play the University of Toronto Blues, at Varsity Stadium. Coach Fraser commented that the Tor­onto game will be "the big test." If Windsor can beat U. of T. they will have proven themselves in last Saturday's 43-3 win.

It looks could kill this Mariner would have a football team on his conscience.

O-QFC FOOTBALL STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>GP</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>F</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Western</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Windsor</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>83</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toronto</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>68</td>
<td>30</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laurier</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>45</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McMaster</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>32</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Waterloo</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guelph</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>York</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>116</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RESULTS (FOOTBALL) SEPTEMBER 24

Carleton 21
McGill 50
Western 50
Queen's 27
McMaster 6
Waterloo 8
York 3

O-QFC 14
Concordia 0
Guelph 0
Queen's 73
McMaster 6
Waterloo 8
York 3

This, oh faithful reader, is the debut of a column which will appear in this space henceforth. In my own provocative style I will view the events of the world and present them in a witty forthright style which is guaranteed to have you sleep­ing in the aisles.

The expression "I know from whence I speak" (or whatever) is particularly appropriate for this column as I encountered a situation last week which put me specifically in the news. Well to make a long story short it seems the Lancers football team forced some kind of re­ception to a recent scathing review I made about their ef­forts against the Waterloo War­riors. Briefly, they didn't wait for me to change before they helped me into the drink. Now far be it from me to say they're a bunch of wild­ards, but this is one region where you'd go to wear his swim­suit next time I go to interview the Lancers.

None the less my little inci­dent did point out something which, in trying to remain ob­jective, I may have overlooked. Though a team doesn't get to be doing this for more than once a week they still show the drive and desire they need to prove Windsor is the best. Would you argue?

Sometimes they don't do it all perfect but they do the job and the job is playing the game the best they can and that's all. A coach can communicate with the guys; he can be a real S.O.B. or a real driver but Vince Lombardi shoul­d never criticise. That's the world, it's the team that makes the team and if that the­ory holds any water this year's team will be a team to be dealt with.

The team faces the stiffest competition they have faced in the last couple years to­morrow, considering that every­body knows we should have beaten Western in the playoff­s last year. If you've got any way to get to Toronto, the Blue-Lancer game is being cal­led the game of the year. And it should be, both teams have been marking time for the last three games and now they come to the crunch. Go up to Toronto and see who breaks. The game goes at Varsity Stadium at 2 o'clock.
By E.P. CHANT

"I want to go on record as saying that the food service on this campus stinks." - Bruce Hannah, Ancillary Affairs Commissioner, SAC meeting, September 27, 1977.

In an effort to eliminate or, at least, slightly moderate this situation, Hannah suggested the process of forming a committee, to be composed of himself, Saga Foods supervillainess Rose Carson, and various representatives from residences. Certainly the best of much malatrate - the students are saying the food is shit and that they are getting the shaft, while Carson says that the food being served is the best possible product he can find.

"One thing must be realized," said Hannah, "institutional food is a fact of life. It is never going to be "Mom's home cooking." About the only thing that can be demanded is that the food be decent, nutritious, and hot."

Elaborating on these three criteria, Hannah explained that the business of the committee will concern policy, such as food quality and menu selection. It will not be dealing with petty complaints about the occasional cold potato.

After a recent survey in residence which showed that the thing most residents are dissatisfied with is the food program, Hannah protested, "I want to go on record as saying that the food on campus stinks.'

Parrott, on the third stop of his swing through five Ontario cities to explain to post-secondary students his revisions to the Ontario Student Assistance Program, was challenged throughout the course of his appearance, and bowed as he left the hall on his way to a press conference.

Student and administration representatives, from Western, Windsor, Waterloo and Fanshawe College in London, criticized the new aid scheme for cutting off grants for graduate students and ignoring the needs of part-time students in establishing a four-year limit of grant eligibility.

Parrott replied, "The basic responsibility of this program is to supplement - not replace - the personal and parental contributions."

"Tell us how you would divide up the pot," Parrott told the critics who complained of the lack of details in his program. He asked them to accept a $74 million limit on the budget for student aid, and said he wanted to hear suggestions on how the money should be spent. He told those who had new details that he would be back with specifics in January, but by that time it would be too late for public input.

The University of Windsor was represented by SAC's Marion Overholts and Junior Vice-President Frank DeMarco. Overholts pressed Parrott on aid to graduate students, and on why he chose not to appear in Windsor.

Outraged students, awards officers, and university vice-presidents all gave Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott a hard time at the University of Western Ontario Tuesday morning.

Parrott, on the third stop of his swing through five Ontario cities to explain to post-secondary students his revisions to the Ontario Student Assistance Program, was challenged through-out his appearance, and bowed as he left the hall on his way to a press conference.

Student and administration representatives, from Western, Windsor, Waterloo and Fanshawe College in London, criticized the new aid scheme for cutting off grants for graduate students and ignoring the needs of part-time students in establishing a four-year limit of grant eligibility.

Parrott replied, "The basic responsibility of this program is to supplement - not replace - the personal and parental contributions."

"Tell us how you would divide up the pot," Parrott told the critics who complained of the lack of details in his program. He asked them to accept a $74 million limit on the budget for student aid, and said he wanted to hear suggestions on how the money should be spent. He told those who had new details that he would be back with specifics in January, but by that time it would be too late for public input.

The University of Windsor was represented by SAC's Marion Overholts and Junior Vice-President Frank DeMarco. Overholts pressed Parrott on aid to graduate students, and on why he chose not to appear in Windsor.

Outraged students, awards officers, and university vice-presidents all gave Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott a hard time at the University of Western Ontario Tuesday morning.

Parrott, on the third stop of his swing through five Ontario cities to explain to post-secondary students his revisions to the Ontario Student Assistance Program, was challenged through-out his appearance, and bowed as he left the hall on his way to a press conference.

Student and administration representatives, from Western, Windsor, Waterloo and Fanshawe College in London, criticized the new aid scheme for cutting off grants for graduate students and ignoring the needs of part-time students in establishing a four-year limit of grant eligibility.

Parrott replied, "The basic responsibility of this program is to supplement - not replace - the personal and parental contributions."

"Tell us how you would divide up the pot," Parrott told the critics who complained of the lack of details in his program. He asked them to accept a $74 million limit on the budget for student aid, and said he wanted to hear suggestions on how the money should be spent. He told those who had new details that he would be back with specifics in January, but by that time it would be too late for public input.

The University of Windsor was represented by SAC's Marion Overholts and Junior Vice-President Frank DeMarco. Overholts pressed Parrott on aid to graduate students, and on why he chose not to appear in Windsor.
What's Happening on campus

THE Women's Centre Advisory Council is interested in obtaining the assistance of women students on the council. We need students to represent Law, Nursing, Fine Arts, Dramatic Arts, Music, Business Administration, Modern Languages, and the Arts. The Advisory Council meets every other month on the third Thursday at 3:30 in the Women's Centre. The next meeting will be on November 17th. In the meantime, interested students are asked to contact Evelyn McLean, Dean of Women in the Office of Student Affairs, 52 Vanier Ext. (333).

UNITED Way Campaign. Get involved. Canvassers needed. Contact John (300A, Electa 256-1672) or Kevin (300A Electa, 256-2944), as soon as possible.

VOLLEYBALL players needed for a Windsor-Execk County Volleyball team. Females only, must have high school experience. Call: 255-5764, or 268-5283 after 6:00 p.m.

SKING Delta Chi Fraternity is starting up a ski club with the intention of weekly trips around the area and for each week. Phone us at 253-5633 or drop by the house at 408 Indian Road.

Interested in student community action research? Help OPIRG (Windsor) get established. Phone Len Wallace, Ext. 432.

Arab students prepare for year of service

The Arab Student Organization has a new executive committee: Ahmed Al-Atiby, President; Yassen Mohammed, Vice President; Nawal Badran, Treasurer; and A. Nasser, Secretary. President; Nawall Badran, Treasurer; Ahmed Al-Laithy, Secretary.

Students on campus are now participating in SAC and ISO functions, at Vanier and the University of Windsor. Phone Len Wallace. Ext. 432. The Lectures on Student Issues will be held on Tuesday noon of the week it is to be published.

Balloon flight tomorrow

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.

Peter Owens, Aberfoyle, Ontario, one of only three active hot air balloonists in Canada and the country's only manufacturer of hot air balloons, will visit the University of Windsor campus on Saturday, October 29.
By RICK SPENCE

About 10 people showed up in Assumption Lounge Monday afternoon to participate in the birth of OPIRG-Windsor.

OPIRG (the Ontario Public Interest Research Group) is a provincial association with chapters on five university campuses, and it is designed to channel student research into areas of public interest. Under the auspices of OPIRG, and with his instructor's approval, a student may conduct "public interest research" on contemporary issues and problems, and receive a course credit for his work.

Establishing an OPIRG chapter at Windsor requires student approval in a referendum, because OPIRG is funded by a student fee of five dollars. At Monday's meeting, some students were concerned that students had to pick up the whole tab for an organization that aids community groups.

"Students benefit the most," replied OPIRG representative Mike Ura. "You're learning skills you haven't acquired before. You're working with people. You're not involved in traditional academic research."

According to Ura, hundreds of students at the University of Waterloo, where OPIRG began six years ago, are now involved in OPIRG research. In addition, six students are elected to the board of directors of each OPIRG chapter, Ura said, in an effort to help determine policy.

Ura says students have a natural interest in a group like OPIRG "because they are citizens," and "because they have research tools." The student fees go to paying a research co-ordinator and setting up a local office.

Among the OPIRG research projects in which Ura was involved at the meeting were an analysis of the vast Windsor's food empire, a study of mercury poisoning, and a profile of the Reed International Paper Company. Most of this research is produced in booklet or tabloid format for use by interested citizens and community groups.

Ura said it was up to the future Windsor office to decide what local issues to be researched, but he offered some suggestions: that students research Auto Pact, industrial safety (Chrysler, he said, has an "abominable record") for employees' fingers being cut off, local government services, pollution and the environment.

OPIRG was attracted to Windsor, he said, because some students last year were interested in setting up a local chapter. However, many of these students have graduated, so Ura is looking for a new base for support. He emphasized that OPIRG was not expanding just for the sake of expanding, and that if students here were not interested in OPIRG, "then we have enough to do elsewhere."

Your On Campus Travel Service

- AIRLINE TICKETS AT AIRPORT PRICE
- CHARTER FLIGHTS
- VACATION PACKAGES
- HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS
- STEAMSHIP BOOKINGS
- RAIL TRANSPORTATION
- CAR RENTAL

UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR BOOKSTORE

9:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Daily Monday thru Friday

CALL MARY OR ELAINE

258-3802 - 253-4232 ext. 691

Continued from page1

Mike Ura shows off an OPIRG publication exposing Weston's Foods.

The OPIRG referendum is scheduled for January 17, if 350 signatures can be gathered on a petition requesting the referendum by then. The five dollar fee must be approved by the Board of Governors, but it will be refundable each year, on demand. If 51% of the students claim their refund, said Ura, the local chapter is automatically dissolved.

He said OPIRG depends on student fees because "students are a stable funding base." Having had bad experiences with government grants, OPIRG avoids being compromised in accepting government money.

"The government is as much an actor in social problems as anyone else," said Ura. "The government is not a neutral player."

Although Windsor's five dollar fee would be the highest in OPIRG, all new chapters will pay the same amount, and all established chapters are committed to raising their fees to that level.

For students unwilling to lose their five dollars, Ura said, "we're pretty clear about our refund operation." The fledgling OPIRG operation at Western had some problems last month with refunds, but that was a result of a misunderstanding of university fee regulations, and a mix-up in office space allocations.

OPIRG chose Len Wallace, a political science undergraduate, to assist in finishing up his Master's thesis, to coordinate the Windsor chapter. Although Wallace said little during the meeting, he is the man to contact for OPIRG on campus or wanting more information.

Traditional academic research is limited and sometimes frustrating, said Ura. "OPIRG is in part designed to resolve the gap between students and the real world."

Next week, Mike Ura will return to campus for a slide presentation on the food industry.
SAC should remove pub jukebox

CJAM student radio is going for it. By next year, with CRTC approval and the support of a huge slow-moving administration, CJAM-FM could be on the air, providing a true alternative.

This year is an important period for CJAM. New techniques must be perfected, broadcasting regulations must be followed to the letter, programming must be smoother and more serious than ever before. There can be no instant metamorphosis from "playing radio" to real broadcasting, on the day the station receives its FM broadcasting licence. CJAM must be ready.

The station is now broadcasting carrier current, which is to say maybe it reaches the first five or six floors of MacDonald and Laurier Halls. But CJAM's main audience has always been the pub. And now the new sound in the pub is a jukebox.

No one can deny that the jukebox has been a success. It is constantly being overhauled by the pub bands at night. It is a great source of revenue for SAC, which invests nothing in the machines but takes 50% of the machine's revenue.

Yet the success of the jukebox has occurred at the expense of CJAM, a far more important and vital resource. At the most demanding period in the station's history, it has no audience.

It's not fair for pub managers, student or otherwise, to say CJAM is okay. A radio station cannot be run on a dime. Anyone who wants to listen to the station. Jukebox listeners miss CJAM's news and public affairs programming, as well as CJAM's Canadian Content, which the jukebox does not offer.

Nor does Romeril give the station a fair chance. Even when the jukebox is not being played, CJAM is rarely restored to the pub's airwaves. The reason? Pub employees are too busy to return the station speakers back on, forcing students to turn to the jukebox for music.

Romeril says the jukebox provides "a service to the students." Yet it is the same service, background music, which CJAM has provided for years, and which no small experience, CJAM has infinitely more music, and it provides requests free. And with the jukebox taking in some hours to play a selection, CJAM's service has always been faster and more efficient.

But Romeril does not feel he has to take orders from the radio station manager, and so is hanging on to the jukebox. He said SAC directors Monday by saying that the owner of the jukebox would probably pull out all his Tonight.

The movement and direction of university life is determined by this group. The myth that we are here to be "edu­ cated" falls apart. Education really means acquiring the skills that can make capitalism run more profitably.

In effect, the university situa­tion is a microreproduction of the rest of society arranged in the corporate-hierarchical hierarchy. Take for instance the cor­porate tie to the state.

At the top of the mono­polar structure in Canada stands the Power Corporation, a $7 billion operation headed by Paul Desmarais. In 1974 its combined revenues totalled almost $1 million each working day. It's into pulp and paper, ship­building, media, gas, finance and loan, insurance, grain elev­ators, real estate, banking, trust companies, mutual funds, and other worthwhile ventures.

The maze of interlocking ow­nership and control across Can­ada is amazing and extends even to the traditional political elite. Ties are held with the Liberal government through men such as Maurice Sauve, a former cabinet minister and now vice­president of Consolidated Bathurst; Paul E. Martin, son of the Liberal Senator, who operates Canada Steamship Lines, is a director of Consolidated Bathurst and Power; John Rae, formerly executive assistant to Premier John Christ­ien, now Deanurus' chief aide, Maurice Strong, former presi­dent of Power is now UN Secretary General of the Uni­ted Nations. The former head of the Anti-Inflation Board, Jean­Luc Pepin, not only sat on the board of directors of Power but on Westinghouse, Canada Steamship, Celanese Canada, Collins Radio, and Bombardier Ltd.

Ties to the Conservatories are made through individuals such as former Ontario premier John Roberts, who is on the board of Power, Bell Canada, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Com­merce, Abitibi Paper.

Obviously class lines have not disappeared in Canada nor do they disappear in universities. The same interests that own and control the working institutions extend their control over the schools and the state.

If anyone wonders why stu­dents specifically have no con­trol on campus, then look to those who do have control and look to the interests they rep­resent. It's the same group, only more powerful, that con­trols life off campus, as one-off near the other. After that, they evaluate the situa­tions further.

The directors were gutsless because they said to support the their own votes, the radio station to which they have committed over $60,000 in stu­dent funds, and for which they are also asking funds from a financially-pressed administration.

SAC should vote the juke­box out.

CJAM must not be aban­doned now, when so des­perately need both audiences and encouragement. The nickels and dimes from the jukebox, and the petty politicking of the music directors, must not stand in CJAM's way. If Romeril does not like to take orders from a radio station manager, SAC may not have to much longer. His contract expires in November.
By JIM ANGUS

In the never-ending search for ways to make your life around campus more pleasant, the Corporation decided to carry it one step further, and put the year run, and give them to the viewer in some organized way.

The Corporation is supposed to be tying the country together, as its name suggests, and it loses considerably. The Corporation really is. Those who grew up in Windsor and vicinity are more likely to think of it as CBS with a typographical error. It is unsurpassed in a number of areas in entertainment: sporting, documentary and feature programming. But one place it continuously drops the ball is in the area of community and feature programming. But one place it continuously drops the ball is in the area of community

Dear Editor:

There are many people that think that there is nothing to do on campus except study, but that is not the case. There are many opportunities to get involved and have a good time.

To encourage life-based pursuits, these would include: interpersonal relations, creativity, variety, leisure and personal development. These are the kinds of things we should be thinking about when we talk about the future of the university.

We should not only be concerned with the immediate needs of our students, but also with the long-term future of our institution. By providing opportunities for students to get involved in these areas, we can help them develop the skills and knowledge they will need to succeed in their careers.

Yours truly,
Mike Nickeenton

P.S. The Bakervi Questionnaire has been selected from the history of one of North America’s major universities. This is a vehicle used to solve problems brought about by people so

By RICK SPENCE

At most construction areas, safety precautions are a priority. Not at the University of Windsor, apparently.

A Landscape photographer passing by the Assumption University Renovation project is hit by several pieces of falling brick. Such an accident should never happen and never be repeated.

For some weeks now, workmen have laboured high above the campus on scaffolding to renovate the aging Assumption University, and its corrugated walls. But the lack of safety standards to protect innocent pedestrians is curious, and indefensible.

Our reporter was struck by only small portions of the building, but any particle, had it affected her eyes for instance, could have been dangerous. Furthermore, the photographer was alerted to the threat, she noticed other, larger pieces of brick falling on the ground, which had obviously also fallen from the renovated area.

Is it worth the money spent for a real injury before primary safety precautions will be taken? Is there a minimum size of brick that is considered harmless, and acceptable for dropping on people's heads?

There should be no need to even ask these rhetorical questions. Anywhere where there is a construction project, a construction site must be adequately protected, especially a site that is so near to a busy public walkway. However, the university seems to think that it is exempt from adhering to basic procedures.

Why invite tragedy? Before anyone is seriously hurt, let's have the Assumption site made safe for all, for men on the ground and for photographers.

And then let us have an inquiry into construction practices on this campus as a whole. With two big buildings now being built, and more planned, let us be sure that unsuspecting students and others, are adequately protected from the hazards of multi-storey construction.

The Bakervi Questionnaire
The unit of the question

THE LANCE—OCTOBER 7, 1977—PAGE FIVE

One of North America's major universities

Our reporter was struck by only small portions of the building

3) Require continual input of non-material than would be necessary. 1) Remove stones if they

5) Unless you are Charles Atlas, forget about trying to

2) It's not funny to pull a

4) Why, just the other day I

6) It's not funny to pull a

1) Watch those turnstiles at the front. Gentlemen, see what happens when you hurry through them. Get peeled off two of those things and your performance is guaranteed to suffer.

2) Don't drink the coffee. Some people can read the paper and smoke a cigar without setting fire to their residence or face. If you can't, don't try to drink coffee while reading a book.

3) So, you had to walk down the stairs seven at a time? Believe me, it doesn't work. Next time you get the urge to make a legend of yourself, check the weight behind you. The skid marks will change your mind.

4) Never fall asleep in the library (unless you can keep at least one eye open). I've been moved out of the middle of University Avenue in a suitably slumbery state. I didn't find it funny, but the jokes on the bus that nearly flattened me sure enjoyed it.

5) Unless you are Charles Atlas, forget about trying to peel a library with your bare hands. I've seen a few of these little pranks, but they just all take a little too long.

6) It's not funny to peel a whole lot of books off the shelf and then throw them in the wrong places. Ever notice how many you have to replace? They tear their hair out during the search for lost books. Instead, why not collect all the books (loose ones) and display them on the desk you're using and just write a book.

Finally, there are certain things that deserve only short mention. They are the really juvenile things that are always the most fun to do. Things like: changing the sign on the bathroom doors, gluing books to shelves, putting an out of order sign on the copier, or pattering burn matches under a sleeping pedestrian's fingernails. Now I know that we've all pulled these little pranks, but they're all just a little too much now. Let's face it, we could spend our time much more constructively. Like trying to wake up Dillon Hall, or cleaning moss out of the cracks. But let us all remember we are here to learn. Open bookcases don't exist anymore, especially in the library. Most people who need to be using them for research, are already in the library. Are there any really funny things going on in the library?
By BOB THOMPSON

Since January 1977, the Ontario government has been running a project called the Ontario Career Action Program (OCAP). Its purpose is to help unemployed young adults to receive training and employment in their chosen field of industry.

Tom Markham, information officer with the OCAP office at St. Clair College explained the need for the program.

"The problem with many young people is that they lack the proper experience to get a job, they can't get any experience, and without the experience, they can't find employment," he said.

OCAP is trying to get around this problem. It will take applications from candidates, and attempt to match them up with local industries, and encourage the industries to take on the students as trainees. Application forms are available at the Canada Manpower Office.

Prospective candidates must meet four requirements. They must be between 16 and 24 years old, have left the educational system, have not held a full-time job in their selected occupation or field, and have been unemployed prior to selection.

A candidate who is accepted by a company will be taken on as a regular or probationary full-time employee. He will undergo training in the field while working a 40-hour work week, for a period of up to sixteen weeks. During this time, his salary will be set at $100 per week, paid by the OCAP program.

At the end of this training period, the company involved may elect to hire the trainee as a regular employee, but it is under no obligation to do so. Even if the trainee is not hired, however, he has now received training in his field, and OCAP asks that the company give him, letters of reference so that he might have a better chance of finding employment elsewhere.

OCAP is run by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities, in connection with local Canada Manpower centres. It is based on a successful 1976 program which placed young people in various positions in provincial industries.

It's Been Said...

Add Lib

Since the advent of Women's Lib, we have acquired some new words and concepts—chairperson, spokesperson and so on. But the tipper came recently when a university, trying to describe its adult education catalogue, offered a course in maternity and child care for pregnant persons.

The Globe and Mail, Toronto

In Italy, rugby player Claudio Monacci emerges from a scrum to find his left ear partially bitten off. His visor is arrested and Italian newspapers refer to it as an unprece dented act of sports cannibalism.

OPIRG (Windsor)

Corporate control in the Food Industry public meeting

guest speaker: Mike Ura

OPIRG provincial office

film: "Guess Who's Coming to Breakfast"

Assumption Lounge

University Centre

Tuesday, October 11 at 3:30 pm

for further info phone Ext. 326

Everyone Welcome

Temple Baptist Church
664 Victoria Ave Windsor

We Meet Your Need in Christ

Sunday: 11:00 am and 7:00 pm
Wednesday: 5:30 (supper *1.00)

Family night
1 Block South Of Wyandotte West
Zuber stresses patriotism at Convocation

By JANINE HALBERT

By Friday at 5 p.m., the stage was set, chairs were standing, and the flowers were blooming for another outdoor convocation. However, on Saturday, the chairs remained empty, due to the persistent rainfall and icy winds. But the organizes were aware of the instability of Canadian weather, and they were prepared to move Convocation into the St. Denis Gym. However, there is one major problem with St. Denis. It is too small to contain the huge crowd which assembles every convocation to watch friends and relatives receive their diplomas.

This problem was also aptly handled. All graduates were previously given two passes to convocation in case of rain. The rest of their party would have to drive, and the flowers were blooming. The weather was fair, and the flowers were blooming.

For another outdoor convocation, they were - however, there is one major problem with St. Denis. It is too small to contain the huge crowd which assembles every convocation to watch friends and relatives receive their diplomas.

The weather was fair, and the flowers were blooming. The weather was fair, and the flowers were blooming.

Graduate receives hood while looking on.

Goose, sitting amongst the bullrushes in the corner of the stage, to honor the Miner brothers, was stirred by the inspiring speech.

Then hundreds of graduates filed across the stage, two at a time, to receive their 26.7 cm X 20.3 cm (8" X 10") diplomas and a quick handshake from Dr. Liddy and vice-President DeMarco. The TV cameramen had to make sure every graduate appeared on the screen, for at least a couple seconds, to please those in the cheap seats.

Among the distinguished graduates were Dave Powlis, Laurie Piche, Brian J. Gifford, Mary Bridge, Nancy Bishop, Errol James, Fred Sanders, John Muruma and Regi Valentionzi.

Directly in front of the stage, friends and relatives with their flashing Instamatics and tiny movie cameras fought to capture a close-up glimpse of the graduate of their choice as they hurried across the stage.

With a large round of applause and a somber God Save the Queen, the 28th Convocation ended. The Graduates and their fans appeared satisfied with the ceremony - and glad it was over.

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions

THE LANCE-OCTOBER 7, 1977-PAGE NINE

Pentagon influence constant

by WILLY PAQUETTE

There seems to be a trace of what one may call life in our lives. But you may not have to ten try what's in this column.

Mac: House Council President. "Nothing's happening."

Laurier: H.C. Pres. not home. Cody: Same as above.

Tremblay: In a combined effort, Huron/Tecumseh tug of war team challenged a professional club from Windsor at the Fogolar Furlan last Sunday. Even the combination of 12 tuggers versus 8 pros could not prevent the eventual defeat, but for the amateurs it was fun. Elsea: The year was kicked off by a very successful party last Friday. In fact, it was so successful that they have surpassed the record of 24 cases of beer consumed, by drinking 30 cases this year and an additional eight cases. It's too bad the beer only lasted until 11:30.

Huron: Lobball was the main attraction, where the Frappers, for the second consecutive outing, beautifully misplayed another game by losing to the provin-

Attentio Jewish Students
Jewish Students’ Association
Annual 99¢ Comedt Beef Supper

Wednesday, October 12, 5-7 pm Alumni Lounge

Call Sid Inglis or Dave Diamond 254-7558
In let us know you're attending

Residence Comer

We’re still waiting for the Western football game, but if there are more wanting to go, tickets are $3.50 at the game, and $5 for the bus ride (both ways). There is also a by-election next week, for the offices of House Council Secretary and Treasurer. Nominations day is Tuesday, October 11, and the election follows Thursday, the 13th.

Note to all House Council Presidents: Keep your fellow residents informed of the activities, issues, complaints, any information relevant to your Hall, by giving me a call at the Lance or leaving a message at the main desk of Huron Hall.

Happy Thanksgiving!
Discomania?

By PAUL CHERNISH

Enough is enough!!! I hate, despise and detest Disco music. But who am I to judge that garbage just because people seem to be so completely infatuated with it? I mean, they can listen to it any time they want and I have no control over that. All I want to know is what you like to listen to. Maybe someday I will be forced to go see one of those disco movies and I will learn something, but for now I just don't want to hear about it. I know there are some good bands out there, but I just don't have the patience to listen to them. I would rather listen to something else.

By ROSEMARY A. BRESCUK

As I promised earlier, this column will focus on music. I find it very interesting to be able to discuss different genres and artists without being limited by the constraints of traditional music reviews. This week, I will be featuring an article on the history of jazz music and its influence on contemporary music. I hope you enjoy it.

---

Swan Lake proves to be ballet classic

By E.P. CHANT

I saw the ballet of Swan Lake, by Tchaikowsky, in the National Ballet of Canada last week. I was amazed by the beauty and grace of the dancers, and the music was perfectly matched to the action on stage. The setting was beautiful, with elaborate sets and costumes that added to the overall effect. Overall, it was an excellent performance and I highly recommend it to anyone who enjoys classical ballet.
By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The fall season of the best movie bargain in town is already in full swing. The Windsor branch of the Ontario Film Theatre (OFTW) is offering choice foreign, Canadian, and commercial films every Thursday night at the Super Cinema. The objective of the OFTW, according to program chairman Stuart Selby, is to provide the community with quality films that they would not normally be exposed to in Windsor's commercial theatres.

Films by European greats such as Godard, Truffaut, Fellini and Bergman are booked on a regular basis, as are documentaries and Canadian films, in English and French. Commercial films which have already played in local theatres often re-surface at the Super Cinema, says Selby, if they are "worth taking a second look at.

Foreign-language films are shown in their original language with subtitles. Theatre patrons, says Selby, include university students and professors and anyone else "in the community who has an interest in film."

A one year membership to OFTW is three dollars, and that includes admission to the first show. Subsequent admission is two dollars with presentation of a membership card. Members are also entitled to take advantage of charter trips to cities in North America and Europe. This Thanksgiving weekend, end, a delegation from Windsor is flying to New York for FilmFest. There are also plans for a charter to France for the 1978 Cannes Film Festival. The Windsor theatre is one of four regional theatres in Ontario affiliated with the Ontario Film Institute in Toronto. Windsor's branch is the big, and oldest of the four. It is non-profit organization; all money goes toward administrative costs and the rental of the theatre and films.

OFTW presents films every Tuesday night at 8:00 at the Super Cinema on Erie Street. The shows for the next couple of weeks are listed below.

OCT. 18: Casanova: Fellini's latest has had mixed reactions from the critics, but any Fellini is better than no Fellini.

OCT. 25: Edvard Munch: Peter Watkins' documentary film about the Norwegian painter is a quality piece of cinematography.

NOV. 1: The Maids: This film was banned briefly a few years ago. Splendid performances by Glenda Jackson and Susannah York.

THOROUGHLY MODERN MILLIE - OCTOBER 7, 1977-PAGE ELEVEN - THE LANCE

Friday, October 7 - Thin Lizzy's "Bad Reputation"
Friday, October 7 - Beck/Robbie Robertson "Live"
Thursday, October 12 - Diana Ross's "Baby, It's Me"
Wednesday, October 11 - Rick Spence talks to the Dean of Student Affairs, George McMahon. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents. This week - Ancillary Commissioners, faculty and society presidents.

SAC "FREEWIND" DIRECT FROM DETROIT MICHIGAN

Closed Monday Oct. 10 Thanksgiving

Tuesday Oct. 11

Matinee 12 am - 2 pm and 5 pm - 7 pm

THE LANCE-OCTOBER 7, 1977-PAGE ELEVEN - THE LANCE
Shakespeare for fun and profit

Windsor Community Theatre is again sponsoring the best in touring professional Canadian theatre this season, and is starting things off next Friday, October 7, with "Shakespeare for Fun and Profit," with Toronto's Theatre Passe Muraille. This show comes direct to Windsor from a successful run at The St. Lawrence Centre in Toronto, and will be here for one night only.

The premise of this play is a fairly straightforward one. It focuses on how two elements -- the Shakespearean culture and the small-town Ontario culture -- would interact with each other in the same piece. That being A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Ticket prices are $4.00 for students, and $5.00 regular, but there still is a flat rate of $3.50 for groups over 15. Also, any teacher that brings in a group of 30 or more will be admitted free. You may call 252-9997 (ask for Dennis Young) to arrange for group reservations.

Curtain time is at 8:30 p.m., and the usual afterglow will be held in the staff lounge if you or your group would like to meet the cast.

Toronto's theatre Passe Muraille visits Windsor tonight.

Trivia Quiz

Can you match the comic strip with its creator?

1. Alley Oop
2. Andy Capp
3. Archie
4. Barney Google
5. Believe It or Not?
6. Buzz Sawyer
7. Dagwood
8. Dennis the Menace
9. Dick Tracy
10. Doonesbury
11. Flash Gordon
12. Gasoline Alley
13. Hazel
14. Joe Palooka
15. Katzenjammer Kids
16. Li'l Abner
17. Little Lulu
18. Mighty Mouse
19. Popeye
20. Woody Woodpecker

a. Walter Lantz
b. Marge
b. Ted Key
d. Paul Terry
e. Ham Fisher
f. Rudolph Dirks
g. Billy de Beck
h. Smythe
i. Bob Montanas
j. Chester Gould
k. Walt Kelly
l. Chic Young
m. Al Capp
n. Robert Ripley
o. Roy Crane
p. Hank Ketcham
q. G.B. Trudeau
r. Frank King
s. Alex Raymond
t. V.T. Hamlin

Answers

Elton John

FOREIGNER

ALAN PARSONS PROJECT

ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCH.

STARZ

DOOBIE BROS.

DOBBY BROS.

STYXX

BARRY MANILOW

DOBBY BROS.

YES

KLASHTU

BARLGY BENVSON

BARRY MANILOW

ELTON JOHN

GRATEFUL DEAD

ELTON JOHN

GLADETTE DED AU "Firepin Station" concert guide by CJAM

Oct. 8
Firefall
Royal Oak Theatre

Jethro
On Campus

Canadian Brass
Detroit Institute of Arts

Oct. 14
Foreign Theatre
Michigan Theatre (Ann Arbor)

Steve Miller Band
Cruiser Arena

CKLW Benefit, John Denver, Gordon
Olympia

Lightfoot and Harry Chapin

Oct. 16
Utopia and Starcastle
Masonic

Oct. 19
Santana
Masonic

Oct. 20
Iggy Pop
Cobo Hall

Tom Waits
Michigan Theatre

Oct. 23
Foreigner
Cobo Hall

Oct. 24
Jose Feliciano
Hyatt Regency

Oct. 26
Graham Parker and Thin Lizzy
Masonic

Oct. 27
Tom Waits, and J.J. Walker
Royal Oak Theatre

Oct. 31
Journey, Lynyrd Skynyrd
Cobo Hall

National Lamps Hallow'en Party
Royal Oak Theatre

Nov. 3
Earth, Wind and Fire
Cobo Hall

Nov. 5 & 6
Rod Stewart
Cobo

Nov. 7
Oscar Peterson
Hyatt Regency

Nov. 8
Average White Band
Masonic

Nov. 11
Foreign Theatre
Royal Oak

Nov. 13
Buddy Rich
Music Hall

Nov. 17
Charlie Daniels
Royal Oak Theatre

Nov. 19
Joan Armatrading and
Tim Weisberg
Royal Oak Theatre

THE LANCE—OCTOBER 7, 1977—PAGE THIRTEEN

Disco in the darkness

Pub band review

By H.J. SWENSON

In accordance with the pub's policy of hiring the bands least likely to offend anybody, Free­wind is appearing on campus for the next two weeks. Free­wind stacks up a little more than a basic disco band. If you were to close your eyes you could almost picture yourself listening to CKWW on the radio.

The only feature which distinguishes Free­wind from every other disco band is Nancy Focht, the lead vocalist. Free­wind excells only when she is allowed to sing her leads. One of the highlights is her rendi­tion of Barbra Streisand's The Way We Were. Nancy's talent should have been used to a greater extent. Without her the band slips into mediocrity.

Also worthy of honorable mention are the harmonies and Rockey Sprotto's keyboards.

As you all know, every true disco band must have a guitar player with a WA-WA. Free­wind falls here. Even two keyboard players can't fill the need for a guitar player with a WA-WA. Where a good lead break would have broke the monotony of an average disco song, keyboards leave the crowd unenthusiastic.

Another common failure a­mong most of the pub's bands is lack of adequate equipment, although, Free­wind proves better than average. Their Peavey P.A. is the pits. Another equip­ment problem noticed by one pub goer was "I can't see them because they don't have any lights." We agree. Their lack of stage presence adds to the overall monotoncy.

Personally, we hate disco, but we try not to hold it against any band that can't play anything better. We feel it's time for the pub to get out of this disco rut and grow up to Rock and Roll.

If you haven't heard of Klaatu, you're not alone. But, recognition of the band seems inevitable, judging by the quality of their recently released second LP. Hope. Klaatu produce a unique sound combining vocal harmonies, synthesizers and or­chestral arrangements.

First, a bit of info on the group. There is none. Their albums have no lists of credits, acknowledgements, instruments used, names of the band mem­bers or group photos. Such is a nightmare for the record re­viewer.

Why the anonymity? Even Capitol Records claim they don't know the identity of the band. There have been sug­gestions of the Beatles involve­ment, but the mystery rides on.

One fact that is known is that Klaatu is classified as a Canadian band. This is a nice surprise for anyone who has to follow Canadian content regulations.

Hope is a thematic LP which, from the first groove to the last, carries the listener from space to the unknown land of Polit­zania. The mysterious fantasy of the galaxy riders spins off thoughts of life on other planets, space flights, and human identity in the Space Age.

The first cut, We're Off You galaxy riders spins off thoughts of life on other planets, space flights, and human identity in the Space Age. The first cut, We're Off You, is a bouncy introduction with an enchanting sound suit­able to a Peter Pan-type musi­cal. The light tempo drops in the next track Madman. Found here are a few of the rare spots where the electric guitar is a strong force.

The trip begins with Around the Universe in Eighty Days. (Yesterday the earth, today the universal). On this cut the tem­po changes constantly, and vocals vary from solo to har­mony. The flow and emotion make it one of the most effective on the record.

In Politzania, heavy instrumen­talism continues. The fuzzbox is used to create an unusual chorus on the Politzania state anthem.

Side two begins with The Lament of All Creatures. It's a light-sounding piece with "lonly-boy" vocals and a good deal of keyboards. Here we are presented with the dile­mma of being lonely versus that of feeling lonely. Prelude is a totally instru­mental cut from which such instruments as the woodwinds, violin, chimes, and brass can be picked out. It flows into So Said the Lighthouse Keep­er. A tone of despaire is added in this song with lyrics like, "Beware all ships, the space grave­yard and its stones of ar­ticles".

The record and the voyage conclude with the optimism of the title track. The final words here are, "All is lost if one abandons hope".

Falling back to earth... Kla­atu have produced more than a flowing and diverse piece of music. Hope is a sound paint­ing. Whether or not the band members retain their "Clark Kent" identities, their music still supplies the element of in­trigue.
Trackers make a mark

The Lancer Cross Country team travelled to Toronto last Saturday to compete in the York Invitational Seven Miler. Running in the torrential downpour which hampered more than one Lancer squad last week, the team had to deal with flooding streams and puddles as well as a normally difficult terrain. Nils Lavelle of Laurentian won the event with an excellent time of 34 minutes, 8 seconds.

Two members of the Lancerette Track Team travelled to the Golden Triangle Cross Country Invitational at Eastern Michigan University last Sunday and fared very well. They competed in the Women's 5000 meter against schools like Ohio State, Notre Dame, Eastern and Central Michigan and others. The Windsor athletes were the only Canadian entries and Linda Staudt placed a strong 10th with a time of 19:14 over a rough grassy course. Cathy Seguin placed 44th, but less than 4 minutes behind Linda. The whole team travels to the University of Waterloo this weekend for their first major tournaments.

A Start and Finish

Tired of just sweeping floors? The Intramural Curling league could be just the thing for you. The league is an easy-going way to get into one of Canada's favourite sports. The site is the Windsor Curling Club, Sunday nights from 8:00 to 10:00 and the first two nights, October 16 and 23 are just warm-up and practice nights. Transportation is provided from campus and you can contact Rand at 256-8969 or Jack at 256-1437 for any further info.

A night of games

Games night is coming up Saturday October 22 at St. Denis Hall, and the emphasis is purely and simply on fun. No conventional games such as basketball will be on tap. The games to be played will be completely new and innovative; hopefully, nothing you've ever seen before.

The intramural staff has been diligently working on devising new and different activities, and keeping all very secret even from the probing reporters of The Lance.

Since games night is strictly coed, only men and women may participate. Bring a friend. There's something for everyone.

Asthma + Kids + Christmas Seals = Community Asthma Programs

Health education and information
Family asthma programs
Day Camps

For information contact your Lung Association

Asthma Week Oct 3-9

Rocky's Pizza
Sandwich at Mill

Medium Pizza
Cheese & 3 items

$3.79

Small Pizza
Cheese & 4 items

$3.59

Having a floor party? Check Rocky's prices, quality, and speed

Pick up and Delivery on campus

252-2711

No Delivery Charge on Campus
Till the end of the month.

This week. The winner of the game is not available at this time, but keep slugging the season continues till the end of the month.

The Toronto Blue Jays began the 1977 season with a bang and they ended it with one too, though after a while perhaps they got tired of doing it to their heads. It wasn't the greatest rookie season on the books but it does prove one thing. Toronto sports fans have to be the stupidest bunch of losers in the sporting world. Anyone from the 'Big Town' has heard it a hundred times; it doesn't matter where Toronto teams finish, they always draw the fans.

However baseball could be different.

The great American sport has one fault against it; the season ticket is just a little too dear for the average Toronto area sports fan. The Argos and the Leafs are worth it simply because they've been around for centuries, but these new Americans might just have to prove themselves before many people start sitting out in the snow for more opening days.

Don't get me wrong. I love baseball. I went to a few Blue Jays games and, besides the lack of the frothy stuff which seems to be essential for some fans' enjoyment of the game, I had an enjoyable time. But $300 for the cheap seats - I think I'll just stick to the sandlot and the tube.

On the other hand if I lived in Kansas City, it would be different.

Wild Billy Martin and his Yankees do alright, but they just don't have that zip it takes to build a dynasty like the one the Reds and the A's had. Major league baseball is now virtually dynasty-proof and this makes for just plain better baseball for the fans and the owners. The fans get what they want, and so do the owners.

So now comes the moment of truth, when all good men come to the aid of their brokies, and take the plunge. Purely on hunch, totally ignoring stats and records, I look for a Royals-Dodgers World Series. The North American Champions will be the Los Angeles Dodgers, with memories of Sandy Koufax still bright in their minds. I do not call them the world champions. They have yet to face the Japanese champs and then of course there's the Lancer Lobsters.

It was exactly six months today that Canada's second major league baseball team began playing in their rookie year.

The Toronto Blue Jays began the 1977 season with a bang and they ended it with one too, though after a while perhaps they got tired of doing it to their heads. It wasn't the greatest rookie season on the books but it does prove one thing. Toronto sports fans have to be the stupidest bunch of losers in the sporting world. Anyone from the 'Big Town' has heard it a hundred times; it doesn't matter where Toronto teams finish, they always draw the fans.

However baseball could be different.

The great American sport has one fault against it; the season ticket is just a little too dear for the average Toronto area sports fan. The Argos and the Leafs are worth it simply because they've been around for centuries, but these new Americans might just have to prove themselves before many people start sitting out in the snow for more opening days.

Don't get me wrong. I love baseball. I went to a few Blue Jays games and, besides the lack of the frothy stuff which seems to be essential for some fans' enjoyment of the game, I had an enjoyable time. But $300 for the cheap seats - I think I'll just stick to the sandlot and the tube.

On the other hand if I lived in Kansas City, it would be different.

Wild Billy Martin and his Yankees do alright, but they just don't have that zip it takes to build a dynasty like the one the Reds and the A's had. Major league baseball is now virtually dynasty-proof and this makes for just plain better baseball for the fans and the owners. The fans get what they want, and so do the owners.

So now comes the moment of truth, when all good men come to the aid of their brokies, and take the plunge. Purely on hunch, totally ignoring stats and records, I look for a Royals-Dodgers World Series. The North American Champions will be the Los Angeles Dodgers, with memories of Sandy Koufax still bright in their minds. I do not call them the world champions. They have yet to face the Japanese champs and then of course there's the Lancer Lobsters.
Lancers drop first of season, 29-7

By PETER NASH

Are the Lancers a great team or are they just a good team? Last week's performance tends to suggest the latter and there's no denying they faced number two-ranked University of Toronto Blues and received a thorough thrashing, 29-7.

Weather conditions were poor and that doesn't help the Lancers who rely primarily on the pass. Rain forced down, receivers and quarterbacks slipped, and generally muddy conditions made Windsor's normal game impossible. Receiver Bruce Walker said "the weather took much of our sting away."

That wasn't the only thing that took their sting away. Scott Mallender and replacement quarterback Steve Zack, spent much of their time running for their lives rather than looking for receivers. U. of T. is known for its big teams, but this year they out did their . lives rather than look­ much of their time running for

T. 20 yard line on an incomplete pass, when receiver Steve Quigley was unable to hang on. Rod Geier attempted a field goal that was not accurate enough for 3 points but long enough for a single. The drive was unsuccessful and from that point on, so was the game.

The Blues scored on their next 2 possessions. Most of the work was done by backs John Goodrow and Joe Hawko. Good­ row is definitely one of the finest backs in the country. His moves and deceptive speed fooled Windsor defenders for many long gains, and his fine outside running hurt Windsor the most. His first outside run was good for a major and the second was good for 70 yards and put the Blues in fine scoring position. U. of T.'s quarterback Dan Ferraday took the ball in for Toronto's second major, and the Lancers were unable to recover from these two light­ ning fast drives.

The second half resembled the first, in most aspects, with interceptions and incomplete passes stalling all but one of the Windsor drives.

Toronto kept up its offensive punch with 2 more majors in the second half. John Goodrow scored on, you guessed it, another sweep. Windsor's defense sagged on several more key runs.Goodrow ended up with 186 yards, almost as much as Windsor's total offence of 210 yards.

Windsor faltered several more times and then Toronto scored again. Some excellent running by Joe Hawko, who ended up with 13 carries for 65 yards, led to the Toronto major.

The Windsor offence finally started to move at this point. The Lancers decided to go with a "box gun" offence. Steve Zack took over at quarterback and immediately threw an interception. Fortunately Windsor got the ball back on an interception and, Chris Kolonelos, and Craig Mallender took the ball in for Windsor's only major, on the next series of downs. The extra point attempt failed and, the game was over.

Coach Fracas didn't feel too disturbed about the game. Fracas commented that "We're not too far off. If we plug a couple holes we'll be all right." The mid-field defensive core has stifled up well but the outside is still weak.

Bruce Walker pointed out that "We were near the (Toronto) 20 four times and didn't score. . . the game could have been much closer."

Coach Ron Murphy of Toronto ended up with a double Windsor's Ferraday went 9 for 19 and 130 yards, with 3 interceptions.

U. of T. played well but not exceptionally well. The key is to contain running back Good­ row as their entire offence revolves around him. Windsor, on the other hand, played terribly Saturday but the potential is still there. Another game between these two teams, possibly at play off time, could have an entirely different outcome.

Windsor's next game is against Laurier at South Cam­ pus Field at 2 p.m. Lancers dropped their game to Toronto last year as well and still came back to win the rest of their regular season match-ups. To­ morrow's game should be ano­ ther classic, and watch out for the next week when they travel to Western for what should be one of the biggest games of the sea­ son for both teams. . . a usually is.

Rob Geier shows picture perfect style as he lines up on Steve Zack's hand and the football.

NEEDED:
Sports Writers
Still Needed
Contact Lance Office; Ext. 153
Enrolment down at U of W

By E.P. CHANT

Registrar Frank Smith announced that registration figures for this year have finally been tabulated and they reveal a drop of approximately seven hundred in the full-time student population (from 7,400 last year to 6,700 this year).

Zero population growth may be desirable in a world context, but it certainly is financially unadvisable for a university. Dr. Allan, Vice-President of Administration and Treasurer, commented on the situation.

"There is no doubt there will be far-reaching financial implications", he said, commenting on the enrolment drop.

Actually, the financial situation is more complex than most students might realize. Of course, there is the basic loss caused by the depreciation of tuition payments: $700 X $760 equals a loss of $532,000.

Secondly, however, is a loss of provincial grant. Tuition does not cover the cost of an education for a student and, so, the loss of students is made up by payments to the university by the provincial government. The amount of payments depends on the faculty breakdown -- that is, for instance, an engineer may be worth more, gratefully, than an Arts student. Taking the arbitrary figure of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.

American imperialism was challenged once again by the hardy Canucks of the P.C.C.C.C.C., who ventured on the Ambassador Bridge to extend Canada's boundaries over 100 yards into enemy territory. Following the celebration, the Bridge was sealed in half, leaving the United States to float away into the Gulf of Mexico.

This alarm was real

At press time, there was still no damage estimate resulting from a small fire early Thursday morning in Memorial Hall. A number of Windsor fire trucks answered the alarm about 1 a.m. The fire turned out to be a small blaze in a janitorial storage closet on the third floor of the building. University Information officer George off MacGibbon said there appeared to be "minimal damage."

Speculation was that the fire was ignited by a lit cigarette lodged in a mop following the cleaning of the floor. MacGibbon said the cigarette probably "started to smoulder" in a mop which had been treated with heavy oil.

They were at the Students' Administrative Council's meeting Saturday morning to decide whether or not to ratify the contract. The Board of Governors received copies of the 189-page contract last Tuesday.

The executive of the Board will be meeting Monday afternoon to ratify the contract, if they agree with the contents.

Negotiations began in fall, 1976, not long after the faculty association acquired union status. Last spring, the bargaining teams reached an impasse and a provincial conciliator was called in to restore negotiations.

On September 21, the faculty association, represented by talks which appeared to be going nowhere, set up informational pickets outside Windsor Hall Tower, to make the Board of Governors aware of the professors' concern.

The alarm of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.

American imperialism was challenged once again by the hardy Canucks of the P.C.C.C.C.C., who ventured on the Ambassador Bridge to extend Canada's boundaries over 100 yards into enemy territory. Following the celebration, the Bridge was sealed in half, leaving the United States to float away into the Gulf of Mexico.

This alarm was real

At press time, there was still no damage estimate resulting from a small fire early Thursday morning in Memorial Hall. A number of Windsor fire trucks answered the alarm about 1 a.m. The fire turned out to be a small blaze in a janitorial storage closet on the third floor of the building. University Information officer George off MacGibbon said there appeared to be "minimal damage."

Speculation was that the fire was ignited by a lit cigarette lodged in a mop following the cleaning of the floor. MacGibbon said the cigarette probably "started to smoulder" in a mop which had been treated with heavy oil.

They were at the Students' Administrative Council's meeting Saturday morning to decide whether or not to ratify the contract. The Board of Governors received copies of the 189-page contract last Tuesday.

The executive of the Board will be meeting Monday afternoon to ratify the contract, if they agree with the contents.

Negotiations began in fall, 1976, not long after the faculty association acquired union status. Last spring, the bargaining teams reached an impasse and a provincial conciliator was called in to restore negotiations.

On September 21, the faculty association, represented by talks which appeared to be going nowhere, set up informational pickets outside Windsor Hall Tower, to make the Board of Governors aware of the professors' concern.

The alarm of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.

American imperialism was challenged once again by the hardy Canucks of the P.C.C.C.C.C., who ventured on the Ambassador Bridge to extend Canada's boundaries over 100 yards into enemy territory. Following the celebration, the Bridge was sealed in half, leaving the United States to float away into the Gulf of Mexico.

This alarm was real

At press time, there was still no damage estimate resulting from a small fire early Thursday morning in Memorial Hall. A number of Windsor fire trucks answered the alarm about 1 a.m. The fire turned out to be a small blaze in a janitorial storage closet on the third floor of the building. University Information officer George off MacGibbon said there appeared to be "minimal damage."

Speculation was that the fire was ignited by a lit cigarette lodged in a mop following the cleaning of the floor. MacGibbon said the cigarette probably "started to smoulder" in a mop which had been treated with heavy oil.

They were at the Students' Administrative Council's meeting Saturday morning to decide whether or not to ratify the contract. The Board of Governors received copies of the 189-page contract last Tuesday.

The executive of the Board will be meeting Monday afternoon to ratify the contract, if they agree with the contents.

Negotiations began in fall, 1976, not long after the faculty association acquired union status. Last spring, the bargaining teams reached an impasse and a provincial conciliator was called in to restore negotiations.

On September 21, the faculty association, represented by talks which appeared to be going nowhere, set up informational pickets outside Windsor Hall Tower, to make the Board of Governors aware of the professors' concern.

The alarm of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.

American imperialism was challenged once again by the hardy Canucks of the P.C.C.C.C.C., who ventured on the Ambassador Bridge to extend Canada's boundaries over 100 yards into enemy territory. Following the celebration, the Bridge was sealed in half, leaving the United States to float away into the Gulf of Mexico.

This alarm was real

At press time, there was still no damage estimate resulting from a small fire early Thursday morning in Memorial Hall. A number of Windsor fire trucks answered the alarm about 1 a.m. The fire turned out to be a small blaze in a janitorial storage closet on the third floor of the building. University Information officer George off MacGibbon said there appeared to be "minimal damage."

Speculation was that the fire was ignited by a lit cigarette lodged in a mop following the cleaning of the floor. MacGibbon said the cigarette probably "started to smoulder" in a mop which had been treated with heavy oil.

They were at the Students' Administrative Council's meeting Saturday morning to decide whether or not to ratify the contract. The Board of Governors received copies of the 189-page contract last Tuesday.

The executive of the Board will be meeting Monday afternoon to ratify the contract, if they agree with the contents.

Negotiations began in fall, 1976, not long after the faculty association acquired union status. Last spring, the bargaining teams reached an impasse and a provincial conciliator was called in to restore negotiations.

On September 21, the faculty association, represented by talks which appeared to be going nowhere, set up informational pickets outside Windsor Hall Tower, to make the Board of Governors aware of the professors' concern.

The alarm of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.

American imperialism was challenged once again by the hardy Canucks of the P.C.C.C.C.C., who ventured on the Ambassador Bridge to extend Canada's boundaries over 100 yards into enemy territory. Following the celebration, the Bridge was sealed in half, leaving the United States to float away into the Gulf of Mexico.

This alarm was real

At press time, there was still no damage estimate resulting from a small fire early Thursday morning in Memorial Hall. A number of Windsor fire trucks answered the alarm about 1 a.m. The fire turned out to be a small blaze in a janitorial storage closet on the third floor of the building. University Information officer George off MacGibbon said there appeared to be "minimal damage."

Speculation was that the fire was ignited by a lit cigarette lodged in a mop following the cleaning of the floor. MacGibbon said the cigarette probably "started to smoulder" in a mop which had been treated with heavy oil.

They were at the Students' Administrative Council's meeting Saturday morning to decide whether or not to ratify the contract. The Board of Governors received copies of the 189-page contract last Tuesday.

The executive of the Board will be meeting Monday afternoon to ratify the contract, if they agree with the contents.

Negotiations began in fall, 1976, not long after the faculty association acquired union status. Last spring, the bargaining teams reached an impasse and a provincial conciliator was called in to restore negotiations.

On September 21, the faculty association, represented by talks which appeared to be going nowhere, set up informational pickets outside Windsor Hall Tower, to make the Board of Governors aware of the professors' concern.

The alarm of $750 for each student lost from the enrolment, another half million dollars may be lost in provincial payments.

On top of these losses, revenue from residential occupancy could also amount to a couple hundred thousand dollars. The sum total of this rather alarming situation could be a loss of close to a million and a half dollars for the university. The Financial Committee of the Board of Governors will be examining the problem soon, and resolutions should be forthcoming by November. They may well include financial cutbacks in various areas of spending on campus.

A gloomy winter may be ahead.
Henderson to speak

Noted Canadian broadcaster and author Larry Henderson will be the guest speaker Sunday as the Christian Culture Series begins its 44th season.

The series presents distinguished speakers and noted musulms of lectures and concerts each year, in both Windsor and Detroit. Henderson will be speaking on "The Crisis in Southern Africa from a Christian Perspective" on October 16, at Ford Auditorium in Detroit, close to the Detroit-Windsor tunnel exit. Also on the program will be Marco Patarnian, a contralto who sings Arab and folk songs in Arabic and Berber languages. In future presentations in the series this year, Dr. Donald DeMarco will speak on "The Increase of Double-Thought" at the University Centre November 5, and the Cercle de Littérature du Canada's "Renaissance" on November 19.

THE English Departments presents a Poetry Reading featuring: Phil Hall, John Dinsky, Diane Feuer and Maurer DiOiiott. October 20, 1977, 1:00 p.m., Assumption Lounge, University Centre.

JONA Lay School of Theology: "On Dying Well," led by Canon Paul Child, rector of St. Mary's Anglican, will begin on October 26, and meet each Wednesday (except November 9) until November 20, from 8.00 to 10:00 p.m., considered will be given to the difficult moral, legal and personal questions connected with death. For further information call Robert Lockhart at 253-7287.

HONKY - TONK PIANO PLAYERS: Can you play that electrifying music one hears as the train bears down on the Catholic Register archives? Can you play that evil melody that accompanies the villains' sneers? If you can, then you can be part of DIRTY WORK AT THE CROSSROADS, the fourth production of The University Players. The show opens October 24, and continues each night. Phone Dr. Dorrell at Ext. 709 or leave a message at the School of Dramatic Art.

The group exhibition of drawings, paintings and prints, featuring the work of students and faculty who were involved in the Summer Program in Fine Arts at Yavoli, England, continues in view in the Robert Amico and John Cowan. The results are as follows:

THE Celica-Sprue Association of Windsor-Sussex County will be showing the film "Celica Affection" in the auditorium of Metropolitan Hospital, Tuesday, October 18, 1977, at 3 p.m. Dr. speaker will be Mrs. Ken E. discussing "Bread for the Celical Child." All interested persons are welcome.

FOR SALE: Complete set of video equipment for Forward and partial set of goal equipment, size 12 goal skates. Phone 253-6423 or 256-7789.

FOUND: Orientation. A brown, sweater, and an Argus camera. Call at Lanco Office.

FOR SALE: Garnet amplifier, "Rita Deluxe," 4 5 watts RMS, cabinet with horn and cover. $150.00. Call Phil -735-3762.

LOST: The left channel plus speaker enclosure of a portable Sanyo cassette tape recorder. Left somewhere in the University Centre on Friday October 7. If you find it call 252-7694.

Students and unemployed unite

The newly-formed Canada-China Friendship Association of Windsor, consisting of Windsor and area residents interested in promoting friendship between the peoples of Canada and the People's Republic of China, presents three films. Sunday, evening, October 16 at 7:30 p.m., at University of Windsor, Mathematics Building (Room 120), Sunset Avenue near Wyandot Printing. Donations are $1.00 and the PUBLIC IS INVITED.

1) "BETHEUN" The most famous Canadian Dr. Norman Bethune, outstanding surgeon and Chinese revolutionary folk hero.

2) "NATIONAL FILM BOARD OF CANADA documentary film, 1964:

3) "MISSUNDERSTANDING CHINA" An American TV documentary examining Western attitudes and stereotypes of China. CBS Network.

Gays invited

CRAWFORD CONTACT LENS CENTRE

NOW WINDSOR HAS WHAT YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR -- YOU CAN HAVE YOUR CONTACT LENSES. WE'RE THE SPECIALISTS. CONTACTS ARE OUR ONLY BUSINESS

NOW OPEN

Phone 253-8988 For an Appointment

Tues.- Sat. 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

593 Ouellette Ave., Windsor
(across from Mother's)

NOTE: CLEANING AND POLISHING ON THE SPOT.

We're not in the phone book, so please keep this ad for reference.

THE What's Happening is a regular feature of THE Lance which will include classified ads. All personal ads, however, will be considered for publication. Any submission may be edited for length. Deadline is noon Tuesday of the week of publication.

The launch of "THE Lance," Windsor's longest running student newspaper, was celebrated with a special reception on October 7, 1977 at the University Centre. The event, which included refreshments and a raffle of various prizes, was attended by students, faculty, and administration.

The reception featured a special address by Dr. Donald DeMarco, who spoke about the importance of the Student Aid Plan and its impact on the University Centre. He also highlighted the significance of the Student Union and its role in advocating for the interests of students.

In addition to the address, the reception included a screening of a documentary film on China, which was followed by a question-and-answer session with the filmmakers.

The event was well-attended, with a large crowd of students, faculty, and administrators in attendance. The launch of "THE Lance" was a significant milestone for the University Centre and its community, and the reception served as a fitting celebration of this occasion.

The reception was held on the second floor of the University Centre, with a view overlooking the campus. The space was decorated with colorful banners and flags, creating a festive atmosphere.

Throughout the evening, guests enjoyed refreshments, including hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. The raffle prizes included a variety of items, such as gift certificates, books, and tickets to local events.

The reception was a wonderful opportunity for the University Centre community to come together and celebrate the launch of "THE Lance," and to reflect on the important role that student newspapers play in the lives of their readers.
Chemistry: familiarity breeds danger

By MARK D. GREENE

The study of chemistry may be hazardous to your health. A recent article in the Windsor Star reported that levels of toxic metallic-mercury vapor in a laboratory at the University of Western Ontario reached levels "50 to 100 times the level accepted as safe by industry." In another incident at the same university, "near fatal levels of methyl-mercury vapor were found in a laboratory where researchers were working." Fortunately in both cases nobody was injured.

Here at this university there are many safety measures to decrease the chances of such a mishap occurring but as Mr. John Lehman, Director of Safety points out, there is always a potential danger.

Mr. David Hill, who is in charge of safety in the Department of Chemistry, elaborated on some of the measures being used to avoid accidents. All students are informed of the proper safety procedures by means of a booklet provided by Mallinckrodt Chemical Works and classroom lecture. The laboratories themselves are equipped with safety equipment such as showers, fire extinguishers, fire blankets and "funneled" hoods which expel dangerous gasses.

Mr. Hill pointed out that no large quantities of toxic chemicals are stored at any one time and chemicals used in class experiments are kept to a minimum.

"Even the most sophisticated safety program cannot effectively deal with the human element. The potential for accidents, as both Mr. Hill and Mr. Lehman point out, is always present. Mr. Hill stated that students after many years of handling potentially dangerous chemicals become "too familiar" with them. This can lead to carelessness.

"It is like," he said, "the mechanic with a cigarette in his mouth cleaning parts with gasoline. "Nothing can happen. Right?"

Fortunately there have been no serious accidents here. The last big explosion according to Mr. Hill occurred about 13 years ago. (There were no injuries.) There have been minor explosions involving "trucks" of test tubes where students have been cut. These injuries could have been avoided had proper safety procedure been observed, according to Hill.

Aside from the possibility of blowing oneself out of the laboratory or Essex Hall, one must also consider the long term effects of exposure to chemicals. A recent Swedish study shows "Chemistry graduates have a cancer death rate twice that of the norm." Mr. Hill stated that he was not surprised by this disclosure considering the fact that all chemicals affect the body in some manner.

At present there is no government body which regulates safety procedures in research and experimental activities. According to Mr. Lehman the university tries to adopt the Ontario Industrial Safety Board regulations in instituting safety measures.

Considering the potential hazards involved in the study of chemistry both Mr. Hill and Mr. Lehman seem to suggest that constant awareness of proper safety procedures is the only defence against chemical accidents.

Essex Hall experiments with solar power

By BRUCE DINSMORE

Solar energy is a reality in Canada. That was one of the points brought out in a lecture at the Windsor Public Library by Professor Robert Stager, of the Chemical Engineering department.

He was speaking at an open meeting of the Solar Energy Society of Canada. The group held a meeting in Windsor, to enroll members from this area.

This part of Canada is called the "Sun Parlor" and there are several experiments underway with the sun in the area. A group of University faculty and some interested people in the county, spearheaded by a science teacher at Leamington District High School, is in the process of building a working model of a solar powered greenhouse.

Despite the word 'experimental' being linked with solar energy, a solar heated house was built in Surrey, British Columbia, in 1971. The house itself was built in 1969 and the solar energy heating system was added two years later.

The University has an experimental solar collector on the roof of Essex Hall.

The principle of solar energy is to mount a thin panel-like array of sheets of tubing facing the sun. Water flows through these tubes and absorbs the sun's heat. The water is stored in a temperature-insulated container and is piped through the building as required.

"At the present time, most solar energy systems are an assist type of system. On the west coast of the U.S. there is a Burger King restaurant that has solar assisted heating.

This group has branches across Canada and is devoted to promoting the use of solar energy. It also acts as a clearing house for current information and as a social vehicle for people who are interested in the subject.

There are now about 60 members in Windsor. The Society is closed. Leaders of the local meeting said in a LANCE interview that since the members paid their dues, they are intitiled to a closed meeting.

The organization is based in Winnipeg and dues are $14 a year. Ten dollars go to the national office, while four of them go to the local chapter.

Solar power is perhaps the closest alternative energy form that may be heating a house in the next few years, but many feel that it is just a matter of time before it takes its place in the energy warehouse and people are using the full output of the sun, instead of just using it to get a tan.

Hannah claims drug claims ready for claiming

By E.P. CHANT

Recent delays in reimbursements from this campus drug plan have given a Toronto-based insurance company, "Zurich Life," a kick in the premiums.

According to Bruce Hannah, SAC Auxiliary Affairs Commissioner and the man responsible for the drug plan, "Zurich" is known throughout the insurance industry as having a very fast claims processing service - usually taking only three days to handle all the paper-work and send the cheques back.

However, claims sent to the company for the month of September (totaling $7,000, guessed Hannah) did not return on schedule this month - that is, October 7. Without preauthorization, Hannah delved into the holdup by contacting the marketing representative of "Zurich," Rick Bush.

It was then discovered that some other school got Windsor's claims through a computer error that has since been rectified. Hannah assuredly said that the cheques would be in Windsor on October 14.

"It was a one time screw-up," he concluded.

Temple Baptist Church
664 Victoria Ave Windsor
We Meet Your Need In Christ
Sunday: 11:00 am and 7:00 pm
Wednesday: 5:30 (supper $1.00)
Family night
1 Block South Of Wyandotte West
The Lance

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Press offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Subscription rates are $5.00 per year. Entered as second-class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writer and do not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Students’ Administrative Council.

Notes for a Lazy Friday

It was gratifying to see the Senior Vice-President of the University of Windsor, Frank DeMarco, stand up in London last week and criticize the plans of the new student aid program in front of Harry Parrott, Minister of Colleges and Universities. The Lance criticized parts of the new plan in this space two weeks ago, and that stand drew nothing but yawns from the university populace as a whole.

When Gary Wells tried to inform student reps at a SAC meeting of the revisions and their implications, he was met with indifference, and even opposition, on many of his points. It is clear that the majority of students couldn’t care less about the new student aid plan.

Yet university awards officers, the people who will have to administer the new plan, have opposed some of the changes, and one officer at Western last week charged the new program with being “an administrative nightmare.” In a CJAM interview, Dean of Students George Mcaniel said he would not even discuss the new proposals, since in his official capacity he did not wish to denounce the plan.

If nothing else, this is a much-needed reminder that SAC and faculty and administration can unite on some issues, and that acting together they might be able to effect desirable changes beyond the power of one group acting alone.

As Parrott pointed out last week, the new OSAP regulations do not become official until January, so there is still time to contribute to the reform of the plan. Under the revisions announced last month, graduate students will be cut off from grants, and part-time students will also be hampered by unfair time restrictions. Additionally, there is still no word yet as to how much a student must contribute from his summer earnings, on how much parents will be expected to contribute.

Parrott says he is seeking advice on how the pot ($74 million for student aid) should be spent. Let’s tell him.

If students, faculty, and administration can get together and agree on recommendations for Parrott, we may just see some results. The obvious place to do this is in the Senate, where all three groups meet to debate issues of importance to the academic life of this institution.

Students wishing to contribute to the student and campaign should contact Maryon Overholts or Gary Wells in the SAC office, where initial opposition to Parrott’s plans first sprang up. If SAC can carry this on into the Senate, then there is hope for a combination of forces, and a successful fight for reform.

If not, well, the government will roll right over us, just like the schools, Trudeau would rather have it. And, if the government doesn’t get a move on, there will always be the people dedicated to the overthrow of reactionaries, revisionists, opportunists, soggy foods, rainy days and, in a word, the other rebels who make up the honest citizenry and the other people.

Every Wednesday, the Lance staff takes a break from its exhausting labours at lay-out, to seek an oasis of peace and quiet, and a bit to eat. Our fruitless search for good food has carried us to Harvey’s, Mother’s, the D.I., the deli at Vanier (we didn’t stay long), and, at last, this week, the all-you-can-eat feast at Vanier West.

Well, the first thing we learned was the price had gone up. From $3.00 cash to $3.30. Then we learned that, having arrived at 6:25, we had five minutes to load up our plates, at the cafeteria closed at 6:30. Does anybody eat after 6:30? So we tackled the food. The hot chocolate was really good. The milk wasn’t bad either. The fruit cocktail was acceptable. But only a small part of the valley, the untouched green beans, the cold French toast, the meat patty called Salisbury Steak, the plastic cheese, and the apple pie that had been glazed into submission; we can only feel sorry for those who have to eat the food every day.

There are too many institutional foods can be as good as mother used to make — but with over 40% of residents complaining about the food (as revealed in a recent survey), it is time something was done.

One can only hope that the recent food service meetings, at which that held late night, can offer some solution.

Government ministers despise students

BY LEN WALLACE

Government ministers don’t like students. In fact, I think they vehemently despise us and will eventually plan to destroy the universities. At least that’s the impression I’ve been getting.

Last week, Windsor students visited Harry Parrott, Ontario Minister of Colleges and Universities, at his office on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Apparently, Parrott had recently been instructed by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau that the new student aid program would have to be cut sharply. So,Parrott arrived at 6:25, we had five minutes to load up our plates, at the cafeteria closed at 6:30. Does anybody eat after 6:30? So we tackled the food. The hot chocolate was really good. The milk wasn’t bad either. The fruit cocktail was acceptable. But only a small part of the valley, the untouched green beans, the cold French toast, the meat patty called Salisbury Steak, the plastic cheese, and the apple pie that had been glazed into submission; we can only feel sorry for those who have to eat the food every day.

There are too many institutional foods can be as good as mother used to make — but with over 40% of residents complaining about the food (as revealed in a recent survey), it is time something was done.

One can only hope that the recent food service meetings, at which that held late night, can offer some solution.

By writing to the university or to its officials, students can offer some solution.
A new breed of student is emerging on the University of Windsor campus: the bigot.

One Canadian complains that foreign students are crowding her classes, another says he can't understand their English; yet another comments that their complaints are petty and absurd; foreign students are becoming scapegoats for frustrated, incompetent Canadian students.

For some reason, liberal Canadians are becoming stuffy and self-righteous elitists who believe they have the sole right to opportunity in this country. What was gone was general student participation. This is what the ideal president would be.

By JUDITH NEFSKY

President Candidate: Ivor E. Tauer.

Professor Ivo E. (for Eligible) Tauer is after the "dis­comforting" vote in the race for the presidential post. And with his qualifications he stands a good chance.

Coming to us from the dark­est of deepest Africa after sev­eral years of studying the mating habits of snakes, Tauer knows how to sift his way around in the most ingenious ways of creatures of various types.

His administrative abilities stem from his experience as vice­principal of a junior high school in North Bay. After receiving his B. degree at Princeton, South Dakota, a highly-reputa­ble mail-order school, he con­tinued at the University of Orlando, Florida, where he re­ceived his degree in geography. Although he was offered the position of president of the Uni­versity of Peru, he declined for the present reason of his family.

If elected, Tauer's self-image would be as a kind of guiding force, a spiritual leader for the community at large. He is well aware of how the university is grappling for such a figurehead right now, in these times of tur­bulence and financial fiasco.

Tauer's political platform makes him a competitor. Primarily concerned with the internal organs of the university, Tauer will leave external affairs to his subordinates. When asked how he would curb the financial crisis, Tauer proposed to cut the faculty by 50 per cent leaving the geography depart­ment as it is now stands.

Any difficulties with the high­student-to-teacher ratio would be checked by the use of such aca­demic tools as bull-whips and barbed wire. His other tactics for improving faculty-student relations include the use of music in case of student invasion of faculty offices, and barbed wire fences around such sacred shrines of the institution as the faculty club bar.

Professor Tauer is anxious to become better acquainted with the Windsor community. After being assured that SAC was not a social disease, Tauer attended a council meeting where he learned that president Gary Wells wanted a vote on the top-secret Board of Governors. "Not while I breathe," he swore under his breath as he locked up ex­pired space allocation permits for the second floor of the Uni­versity Center.

Following a tour of the Leddy Library, Tauer proposed an election he would encourage armed guerrilla patrol of the stack areas. Surveying the new biology building, Tauer asked if the test rabbits had gotten out of control to de­stroy the student space, and he pro­mised to bring in wombats af­ter his election.

If he does win the highly­prized post, Tauer plans to in­vite suggestions and questions from all the students, staff and faculty, and he promises he will "always keep one ear open.

Dear Editor,

I was offended by J.H. Swan­son's article entitled "Disco in the Akas" in the Lance of October 7. Obviously Swan­son, like most people on cam­pus, has never heard good disco, and so gives a strikingly biased (spelled S-N in jour­nalistic circles) view of the object.

Etimologically, the word 'disco' comes from the Greek 'disko' and, depending on your set of et­ymologists, means: "disk; phonograph record; recording." By defini­tion, therefore, live bands cannot play disco — only sorry imitations of it.

I would have agreed with Swenson had the recommenda­tion been for bands in the area to get one of their bullwhips, but I think it unfair to blame the pub. It is self-defeating to go to the pub to hear disco. The day the pub installs a decent sound system with turntables, mixing equipment and a light show, enlarges the dance floor, hires a dis jockey and buys some good disco records will be the day Swenson will in a position to do disco reviews. Not yet, J.H.!

Should they like to get out of their "disco rut", I may recommend memberships at Elpha, My Fair Lady, and Club Fever, three of Detroit's best — if not Detroit's three best disco clubs. Their disco repertoire is equal in New York, and a few other cen­tres such as San Francisco, London, and Paris. This, coupled with their elegant decor and exclusivity, puts them just a little higher on the scale of pri­vate clubs than The Spirit, and surely rates disco more res­pect than a passing fad.

At test, Swenson's eligibility to comment on disco, I would like to know if the following have been heard (or read of) by J.H.: "From Here to Eternity" by Giorgio, "Doc­tor Pepper" by Fire, "Magic Fly" by Space; or "San Francisco-Hollywood" by Ville­nage People. Next stop: one in New York, Toronto, and Europe.

Expectedly, there are no good disco bars in Windsor. There are a few "dissers," but they play mostly rock of the C lớnWY variety. I have nothing against rock, but I do not like to see disco put in the same class with it, as I would not like to see classical music put in the same class with jazz, or Cardinals with Volkwagens (could 'disco' on forever?).

Mike MacKemy
Comments

Oktoberfest just a fund raising madhouse
By DEB KENNEDY

A donation of one unit of your blood, and approximately 50 minutes of your time, is a small miracle to someone whose very life depends on it. The Nursing Society in cooperation with the Canadian Red Cross, is sponsoring the first blood donor clinic October 20 and 21 in Ambassador Auditorium. In the past, there has been one three-day clinic, held on the university campus annually. This year however, the nursing society will be sponsoring the Oktoberfest, and a second half-day clinic is scheduled for January 27, 1978. It is felt that smaller clinics, held more frequently, will better meet the community's need for blood.

The facts of fests show record crowds, record house sales, record tons of grapes stomped, and record profits. This merrymaking suggests a few points to ponder. The Oktoberfest at the Teutonia Club is a case in point.

On October 20th the clinic will be open from 12:00 - 4:30, and on October 21st the times are from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30. Coupons offering $1.00 off on an eight-piece pizza will be given to the first 50 donors, courtesy of Mothers and the Varsity Christian Fellowship. There will also be door prizes. There will be a faculty competition, to be tabulated on a percentage basis. The winning faculty will be awarded the blood donor plaque. There will be a competition between residences also. The floor (or clan, for Huron residents), that donates the most blood will win a couple of cases of its favorite brew.

Our goal for the Oktoberfest blood donor clinic is 375 units of blood. Please help us reach it. Staff, students and faculty are welcome.

Answer yes to any one of the above, and the Oktoberfest is the place for you. Every year the phenomenon of festing grows. There are Septemberfests, grape fests, freedom fests, plan old beer fests, and the most timely, the Oktoberfest.

Blood drive needs your support
By SHELLEY YEARLEY, Nursing Society

E.P. Chant

October 27, 1978. It is felt that smaller clinics, held more frequently, will better meet the profits of ethnic clubs.

"Nausea in taberna"
By E.P. CHANT

Last week, Entertainment Editor Paul Chernish unleashed a searching attack on the spectacular new form disco music, or, as we connoisseurs refer to it, "Nausea in taberna" (Latin).

Obviously, Chernish does not know good music from one of the many holes in his supposedly knowledgeable head. Aside from its remarkable and complex metallic structures, the lyrics are, for the most part, deep statements concerning world political affairs ("I'm Your Bootie Man") and social injustice ("Disco Duck"). Even the heartbreak of human emotion is covered by disco music ("Undercover Angel").

When the music of this century is examined in the far distant future, it will not be such trivial musicians as Duke Ellington, the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, or Simon and Garfunkel (or that jerk Stevie Wonder) who will be remembered, but, instead, such momentous figures as K.C. and the Sunshine Band, Donna Summer, and Andy Kim. They are in the realm of genius - easily compared to Beethoven, Bach, Mozart, and Tchaikowsky. Even Elvis pales in their radiant glow.

I am sure if you turn to the entertainment section now, you will find that the results of Chernish's survey concerning the merits of disco music, will have proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that the wise and cultured people on this campus have showed drips like Chernish that they are virtually alone in their ignorant sentiments.

Now, I rest my case as I must go off and heave dryly.
Survey results: disco definitely dead

By PAUL CHERNISH
The great Lance disco survey is over. I now know what the people on this campus want—ROCK AND ROLL!!!!!!! Too bad you disco deadheads, but you are just a very small minor- ity here at the U. of W. I would like to thank everyone who took the time to let their voices be heard by voting. I know I may sound just a wee bit biased, and I'm sorry if I offended any of you disco fans, but go out and buy some good records! I now know what the many of the survey slips had some guy named Chris Fader (could be a girl). Just come up to the Lance office before the end of this week Chris, and you'll get what you deserve. As promised, here is Chris' winning disco cut-down:

"I hate disco because even my poor, deaf grandmother develops migraines from its auditory assaults."

Pretty good eh? Well, nice try anyway Chris. There were many other entries, but most of them broke the 40 word limit, therefore making them ineligible. Too bad because there were some good ones. Like this one by a real industrious guy named Andi Komar:

"Ever wonder why those stupid commercials on TV (that we hate so much) manage to sell their products? Repetition. We sit there and we watch. We are expected to take it seriously and not take it seriously at the same time, laugh at the product, but go out and buy it anyway. Well, that applies to the 'music' heard on the radio-waves, juke-boxes and, unfortunately, at the Gallery every week. Disco! What the hell is disco? From what I can figure, it's one of those stupid commercials put to notes. It's repetitious, you can't take it seriously. But yet it sells. And it seems the only ones laughing are the rock and rollers still left in this world. We are the ones who weren't taken in by this overnight commercial sensation. The only appeal to the mindless masses has left us out in the cold."

Finally, a nifty poem by Colette Bellemore:

"DISCO-ITIS" (OR, WHY I HATE DISCO)
Discomania is all around
In the city and about the town
The flashing lights, the perpetual motion—which I often wonder who came up with this notion!
People "Hootling" and doing "The Bump"
All I ever see is a hit-and-miss jump.
I hope most indicate, by this poll
That they prefer good ol' Rock 'N' Roll!

By ROSEMARY A. BRESCHUK
In the past five instalments regarding radio listening in this area, I have brought to your attention a number of fine radio stations (both Canadian and American), as well as briefly describing their choice programs.

Finally, regarding educational radio, tune in to WGTE-FM (91.3) for ANOTHEROLOGY OF AMERICAN MUSIC, heard each Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. This program features recordings of American music from bluegrass, ragtime, jazz, from Vietnam, America through Samuel Barber and Aaron Copland. Also of interest is WGTE's OPTIMUM IN THE ARTS at 1:00 p.m. which features interviews with various artists and authors. On Wednesday, October 19, Kurt Vonnegut, author of BREAKFAST OF CHAMPIONS and other novels, interviews himself.
Everyone loves a good movie. Now even university students will be able to afford them again. "Saturday and Sunday Nights at the Movies," is a program just begun by the people in SAC Special Events.

Throughout the year, five of these movie weekends will be held. Two movies will be shown on Saturday, and on Sunday the films will be shown in reverse order. This will benefit those who might miss a good show if it were shown at the same time on both nights. There will also be cash bars at the Saturday shows.

The cost of admission is a relief to the tired pocketbook. U. of M. students will pay only $2.00, and outsiders only $2.50 (for both films). If you still have your Welcome Pass hold on to it tightly, because it will get you into all the films free.

There are so many excellent films available, that you must decide which ones you prefer. The results of the survey will determine which movies will be shown. Sharpen the pencils and pick out your favorite five films in order of preference.

After picking your selections, place them in the Movie Survey box at the University centre desk.

---

SATURDAY / SUNDAY NIGHTS AT THE MOVIES

What movies do you prefer?

1. The Sting – Newman/Redford
2. W.C. Fields & Me – Steiger/V. Ferrone
3. The Sentinel – Chris Sarandon
4. The Other Side of the Mountain – Beau Bridges
5. Car Wash – George Carlin/Ivan Dixon
6. Earthquake – Charlton Heston/Genevieve Bujold
8. Hindenburg – George C. Scott/Ann Bancroft
9. 2-Minute Warning – Charlton Heston/J. Klagman
10. Gable & Lombard – James Brolin/Jill Clayburgh
11. Eiger Sanction – Clint Eastwood/George Kennedy
13. Midway – Charlton Heston/Henry Fonda
14. Rawdy, Adventures of Tom Jones – Nicky Henson
15. Fellini’s Casanova – Donald Sutherland
17. Serpico – Al Pacino
19. Monty Python’s – Jabberwocky
20. The Man Who Fell to Earth – David Bowie
22. King Kong – Jeff Bridges/Lange *NEW
23. Love & Anarchy (L. Wermutuell)
24. All Screwed Up (L. Wermutuell)
25. The Story of Adele H. – P. Truffaut

---

Movielandia?

By DEB KENNEDY

Mention of his name caused women to swoon. Looking in his eyes was an act of passion. He was a charmer of the screen who would never be forgotten for his profound presence in such silent movie greats as ‘The Sheik of Arabia’, and ‘Blood and Sand’. This one man symbol of romance was Rudolph Valentino.

Like every person of fame, Valentino was exploited. Ken Russell’s latest production, ‘Valentino’, has to take the prize for distorting the legend.

The action of the film starts in the funeral home where the dead Valentino lies. Rions take place and the funeral home doors are broken down by fans. As mourners pay their respects, and are housed by sadistic reporters, we are given accounts of Valentino’s life.

The first time we see Valentino in action, he is dancing with another man. This is hint of the sexploitation to follow. The rest of the movie is devoted to the controversy of is-he-or-is-he-a homosexual.

In the film, Valentino had the reputation of being something like a human ‘Spanish fly’. Everyone wanted him. Because he wore make-up and sold his dancing services to old women, he was rumoured to be a fagot. One of the worst scenes of the movie was when Valentino had to prove his manhood by having an actual boxing match with a newspaper reporter who had called him a ‘fag’. Then Valentino had to have a whisky-drinking contest to prove his virility. Such backward outlooks on manhood are an insult to the audience.

Rudolph Nureyev is the only attraction of the film. Everyone wants to see if the dancer can act. But like the other characters in the film, the acting was overdone. The film business can definitely do without Nureyev’s acting talents. However, there are a number of enjoyable dancing scenes in the movie where Nureyev’s talents as a dancer must be applauded.

‘Valentino’ is presently at the Cinema One in Devonshire. If you are still have your Welcome Pass hold on to it tightly, because it will get you into all the films free.

---

Official Movie Survey Form

I like movie no. ...best.
I like movie no. ...2nd best.
I like movie no. ...3rd best.
I like movie no. ...4th best.
I like movie no. ...5th. best.

---

S.A.C. LOUNGE

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

Fri. Oct. 14 – Sat. Oct. 15
"FREEWIND"
DIRECT FROM DETROIT MICHIGAN

T.B.A.
Rush
A Farewell to Kings

BTO never was the best rock band in Canada. And neither is Rush. They just steal the show because of sudden fame. But Rush’s progress is not what their name implies. They didn’t burst into fame.

A Farewell to Kings is not their most enjoyable album. Fly By Night is still their best. The reason is simple. Rush is not diversified enough to spread their music into different realms as they do with this album, and with their first concept album, 2112. A Farewell to Kings, however, is the most exciting Canadian release since Heart’s Little Queen.

I don’t really think that Les Paul intended his invention to be used like Alex Lifeson (led guitar) does. Lifeson must have punctured quite a few eardrums during his career. The strange thing about his guitar is that he plays it well. (Yes, I checked his birth certificate, he is Canadian.) Randy Bachman must be playing the wrong type of licks.

That guitar combined with Geddy Lee’s maturing vocals can draw attention during a nuclear blast. And A Farewell to Kings proves that Rush can control their volume without relying on it. The jack-hammer, saxophonist, and it just might be a shame, because some of their musical imagery is, sorry to say, above their heads.

My two favorite cuts are Closer to the Heart and Gentleman Choice.

Alan Parsons Project
I Robot

I Robot is the best album to come out this year. Alan Parsons and his fellow musicans are quite capable of getting their lyrical ideas across through their music - which is quite a compliment. Very seldom does an artist blend lyrics and music into total harmony.

The image of the robot and the future comes across as clean as a Stridex pad. Some Other Time is almost a tear-jerker, and its depersoning mood is actually satisfying. This is the most played tune from the album and it deserves every second of radio airplay.

In fact, all of the tunes that contain lyrics are excellent, pseudo-ballads. I Robot, the title track is the most successful instrumental, and, being the first cut, sets the mood for the entire LP.

Alan Parsons creates music in the same fashion as the now popular Supertramp, which is another great compliment, and I hope he continues doing it at the same impressive level.

Library to exhibit sculptures

An opening reception to be held Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the Leddy Library Gallery initiates an exhibition of sculpture by artist Anne Sardelec.

Mr. Sardelec was born in 1947 in Blato, on the island Korcula, which is situated on the Adriatic coast in Yugoslavia. He attended the School of Applied Arts in Split and in 1971 he graduated from the Sculpture Department at the Academy of Fine Arts in Zagreb (A.L. U.). He now lives and works in Toronto and is a member of Sculptors’ Society of Canada.

In addition to winning the O’Keefe Centre’s award of first prize for the best sculpture in 1977, the artist has held numerous exhibitions of his work in such diverse locations as Zagreb, Dobrovnik, Split, Sibenik, Puerto Rico, New York, Montreal, Toronto, and Windsor.

The show continues through October 29.
It seems Billy Martin and the Yankees had other ideas when they read this column last week. They somehow managed to put down a team that cost half as much and played twice as well with two last inning sprees. However on the other hand the Dodgers put down Philly in admirable style.

The Dodgers in six ... any takers??????

All betting aside this weekend will bring on far more than just more baseball games especially on the university football front. The west division of the OUA is split evenly to two teams, the good part and the bad. The bad is very much so, however the good isn't so (good that is) ... At least relative to past years.

Last week the top ranked Toronto Varsity Blues just barely got by the lowly Guelph Gryphons and the Lakers and the Golden Hawks proved they were not in the good for any power plays either. Western is the only 'good' yet to really prove itself. And the team that cost half as much and plays twice as well with two last inning sprees. However on the other hand the Dodgers put down their heads on a Saturday afternoon. No pads, no helmets, just a lot of brawn, brass and a whole lot of guts.

The Dodgers in six ... any takers??????

Food Night and Dance

Date-28 October 1977 (Friday)

Time-7:30 pm

Place-Ambassador Auditorium

Price- *3.00 per person

Dress- Semi-formal

Tickets are limited and are available in the International Centre (Cody Hall). For bookings and further information, call 258-2490 ext. 687.

The year that was baseball

By WILLY PAQUETTE

It's been a very good year for baseball where expansion, exciting pennant races, and appointments were the main attractions.

For all baseball fans in Canada, we may now dream of someday watching an All-Canadian World Series. The Toronto Blue Jays were introduced to the world of major league baseball and gave us what was to be expected, a losing season. But there were a few surprises on this club which made the summer a good one. Bob Bailor was batting in the top ten of the American League, all summer. Jerry Garvin proved capable of becoming a long time 'Ace' and Doug Ault played a steady defensive first base.

In the National League, the Montreal Expos stayed in the pennant race for their usual 8 weeks, then dropped into oblivion along with the Mets. It makes me wonder, despite the Expos' ability to score runs and get more than 200 hits, how could they when their pitching was garbage? Aside from Rogers Hurlbut, the Expos' ability to score runs dies with Perez, Cash, and Carter, and Doug Ault played a steady defensive first base.

Expos' ability to score runs dies with Perez, Cash, and Carter, and Doug Ault played a steady defensive first base.

The International Students Organization (ISOS) will be in the University Centre between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. for all baseball fans in Canada on campus Oct. 25.

For an information session covering management career opportunities with Allstate. If you are interested in a challenging career which offers excellent opportunities for advancement, THEN BE SURE TO ATTEND. We will be in the University Centre between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.
SPORTSHORTSPORTSHORTSPOR

The synchronized swim team starts official practices this week. If anyone is interested in getting involved they should contact Gerri Brown at the Human Kinetics building. Come and get your feet wet.

The Lancer speed swimming gets into the stroke of things on Monday October 17 when the team starts its first practice. They get together at 5 o’clock, and of course coaches Tony Kennedy and Rosemary Courson are looking for new people. The schedule gets under way November 19 when the team competes in the OUAA relays in Waterloo.

The wrestling team also gets under way next week and the team has only a few returnees. Coach Dr. Hrycaiko says that a number of competitors have approached him about joining the team but he’s looking for more. If you’re interested contact Coach Hrycaiko (ext. 605). Practices get rolling on Tuesday from 5 to 6:30 in the Gymnasiums room of the Human Kinetics building.

Referees are still needed in many areas of intramurals. If you have some spare time and would like to earn a few on the side, contact the Intramurals office at Ext. 325. They need refs in Men’s Flag football, Men’s and Women’s Soccer, Co-ed and Men’s Lobball and Women’s Volleyball and you can earn up to $6 depending on the league.

There IS a difference!!!

• MCAT • LSAT • DAT
• GMAT • VEE • OCAT • SAT

NATIONAL MED. & DENT. BOARDS
ECFMG • FLEX

Flexible Programs and Hours
Over 38 years of experience and success. Small classes. Whiteboards have study materials. Courses that are continually updated. Centers open days and weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Make-ups for missed lessons of our centers.

FARMINGTON HILLS  (313) 851-0171
OR Write to:
29226 Orchard Lake Road
Suite No. 205
Farmington Hills, MI 48008
Affiliated Centers in Major U.S. Cities.

Got some time to spare?

By DON PEPPIN

"The thing is I want to get out and do things but I can’t make the commitment to an intramural team."

Sound familiar?

The university and surrounding community have just the thing for you. Recreational facilities are available for students to get out and exercise their rights, lefts, centres, midfields, and any other part that needs it.

If you spent much of your summer bathing in the cool waters of the lake, (or you wish you had) there is a beautiful pool just waiting for you to swim in the Human Kinetics building. The pool is kept nice and cool and the sauna nice and warm to soothe your tired muscles. The H.K. pool is open weekdays from 12 to 1:30 and 7 to 9:30. On weekends it’s open to help you wash away the ‘morning after the night before’ blues. Saturday from 11:30 to 1:30 and 6:30 to 9:30 and on Sunday from 1 to 7. Get out and do things. After all, it’s free, of course.

For those skating enthusiasts the exercise comes a little harder. The nearest arena is Adie Knox. Arena as the corner of McWain and Wyandotte. It’s a fair hike (about ¾ of a mile) but it’s worth it. The prime time to get the blades out is Wednesday night from 8 to 10 when it’s adults only. The rink is rarely crowded and there’s lots of room to get your ‘ice legs’ back again. Other times when you might want to get out are Friday from 8 to 10 and Sunday from 1 to 3 and 8 to 10. The cost is nominal, and, sorry, no hockey sticks.

For those who like the feel of a pair of skates under their feet, St. Denis Hall affords times when one can get into a ‘pick-up’ game of basketball. However these times vary by the day and because of changing class, team and intramural schedules, times are a little tough to track down. Your best bet here would be to call St. Denis or just go over when you have the time and check it out.

You can see there is loor to do for those who have only a half hour here and an hour there, and chances are it will make studying just a little bit easier.

THE-LANCE-OCTOBER 14, 1977—PAGE ELEVEN

Tracksters prepare like champs

By DON PEPPIN

Despite a cold, overcast day and a slow under track the Lancerette team came up with a first class performance at the Waterloo Track and Field Meet last Friday.

For the first time in Lancerette history the women placed second overall with 86 points which went to the University of Toronto with 89 points.

The ‘Lady-of-the-hour’ has to be Jennifer Pace, a first year Human Kinetics student from Malta. She won all the women’s field events tossing the Javelin 40.89 metres, the discus 35.1 metres and the shot put 11.26 metres. These broke established Windsor records and also bettering the final performances in last year’s OWIAA.

Unfortunately no official records can be set at an invitational tournament. So Jennifer will have to wait for the Ontario Championships to try for the triple crown. Nice to see a Lancerette truly “outstanding in her field.”

In other areas of the meet Debbie Sukarukoff also set an unofficial record in the hurdles with a time of 70.8 and came second in the 100 metre hurdles.

Andrea Page, a third year Human Kinetics student, took third in that event. Andrea also made it to the finals of the 200 metre and finished a strong third.

Linda Staudt set a new Windsor record in the 1000 metre at the meet as well, with a time of 11 minutes, 5 and one tenth seconds.

The Lancerette team will try to jog from this ‘good’ showing to a better one this weekend in McMaster as they get ready for the OUAA finals on October 22.

Men shine too

On the men’s side Al Wright took top honours in the 400 metre with a time of 52 seconds, as well as competing on the 4 X 400 relay with Paul Kozak, Rick Normand and Ted Richardson. Richardson also set a new University of Windsor record in the long jump, placing second with a jump of 1.85 metres. In other field events Steve Domino placed second in the long jump at 6.21 metres, and Dave Irwin was the third longest spear thrower with a hurl of 51.25 metres.

Watch out Russia.
By PETER NASH
Coach Fracas hit it right on the head when he commented after the game that "I'm very proud of the offense - that's class". The Lancers fought a come-from-behind battle to gain a 25-25 tie with Wilfred Laurier Golden Hawks last Saturday.

The game was so close that it wasn't decided until the last few seconds. A missed extra point, with seconds left, was the difference between a win and a tie.

Although rain came down for most of the game, both offenses were able to function quite well. Part of the reason for the close score was Windsor's lack of defense. They didn't adjust well to Laurier's surprisingly strong pass offense. The Warriors were able to function most of the game, both of their services were said to be a tie.

The Warrior defense didn't play very well either. Their defense was never as masted by Scott Mallender's passing. Coach Dave "Tuffy" Knight, of Laurier said "Our defensive backs gave them way too much room.

The passing statistics prove Knight's point. Mallender went 19 for 31 and 220 yards gained.

Wide receiver Bruce Walker gave much of the credit for the tie to Mallender commenting that "He (Mallender) called a touchdown pass.

Coach Gino Fracas (centre) prepares the Lancers for this weekend's big game against Western. The Windsor 2 p.m. in London.

Dr. Frank Cosso (left) is shown preparing to adjust the head when he commented after the game that "I'm very proud of the offense - that's class".

The Lancers scored a major point after Calwell's on a drive that ended until late in the fourth quarter. Reid scored a major point after Calwell's on a drive that ended until late in the fourth quarter. Reid scored a major point after Calwell's on a drive that ended until late in the fourth quarter.

The Warrior defense didn't play very well either. Their defense was never as masted by Scott Mallender's passing.

Coach Fracas hit it right on the head when he commented after the game that "I'm very proud of the offense - that's class".

The Lancers scored a major point after Calwell's on a drive that ended until late in the fourth quarter. Reid scored a major point after Calwell's on a drive that ended until late in the fourth quarter.

The Warrior defense didn't play very well either. Their defense was never as masted by Scott Mallender's passing.
By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The new faculty contract has been ratified by both the Faculty Association and the Board of Governors of the University of Windsor, and according to one professor, "it is the best contract that any university has received this year."

The most noteworthy provision in the contract is a financial one. Salaries have undergone a scale increase of six to seven per cent for each professorial rank, and ceilings or salary limits have been abandoned from these ranks. Average salaries have been brought up to the provincial level. Salary reviews for the 1977-78 academic year range from $13,330 for lecturers, to $26,820 for full professors.

As well, fixed pay for overload teachers have been brought into line with the provincial average.

A "discretionary merit plan" has also been established to reward faculty members for "quality and excellence" in teaching and other contributions, according to Faculty Association President Allan McCalfe.

A merit fund will be set up in each faculty according to the number of full-time members.

The changes resulted in two chief complaints. Firstly, long and slow-moving line-ups are present in both the scrup and board plan holders sections. Secondly, many scrup holders complain they cannot eat with their friends and family because the dietary menu is less than thirty dollars a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds.

The loss caused by this situation amounted to $3,000 per week (amounting to $75,000 by the end of the school year). Before he redesigned the cafeteria, Carson blamed the loss on the financial situation. However, he said, he had to deal with an alarming financial situation.

"Scrip holders were being very selective about who and what they ate," explained Carson. "They were eating one meal a day and eating more than one portion without paying for it - we had no way of telling if they were going back for seconds. CARSON blamed the loss on the administration. The Board of Governors overruled Carson last year and voted to give raises to all faculties, as opposed to just Electa and Huron, as Carson had requested. The Board said no yearbook of any type will be published due to the excessive cost, and no funds have been allotted for this in the budget.
on campus

THERE will be a meeting of the Equality and Awareness of Women Club Monday at 4:00 p.m. in the Women's Centre. Nominations are now open for President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer. For more information, call Brenda, ext. 153.

CHINESE MUSEE celebrated by Fr. John Lea (Toronto) at 11:30 a.m. this Saturday (22nd) at Assumption Community Centre Chapel. Further information please call 254-2643.

ATTENTION! The Marketing Club presents "A Career in Marketing with Colin H. MacLean and Tugboat." October 28, 3:15 p.m., Assumption Lounge in the University Centre. It's your opportunity to find out who Colgate-Palmolive is, and what it can offer you.

FREE MOVIE: "The Ten Commandments" with Charlton Heston. This Saturday (22nd) 8:00 p.m. at Althouse Building Room 1120. Everybody welcome.

ROOMS NOW AVAILABLE at Delta OH, for $2.50 per week. Call Phone or drop by the house at 408 Indian Road.

WE need students who are concerned about the students' unemployment and tuition fee increases. Please contact Maryon in the SAC office, ext. 326 for more information about our campaign.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS presents THE CHANGING ROOM by David Storey. Friday, October 28, and Saturday, November 5 at 8:00 p.m. at Excez Hal Theater. University of Windsor. (no performance Monday, October 31).

TWO representatives from the Association of Treaty No. 9 Chiefs will be at Iona College, 206 Sunset Avenue, on Monday, October 24th from 12 to 2 p.m. to speak about how development in Northern Ontario is affecting their lifestyle. Please bring a big lunch. Phone 253-7257.

M.F. Simon Pun resigned his office as vice-president of the Chinese Students' Association on October 17, 1977. In this Executive meeting held on October 15, Mr. David Lam was appointed to succeed this office on Nov. 3, 1977. If there are any objections, please contact the committee before the above date.

AQUATIC Exploration and Research presents Aqua Space '77 at 1120 Math Building Nov. 5 and 6. Featuring complimentary fashion shows and research films and slide shows will be shown.

ON October 26, 1977 at 8:00 p.m. the French Department will present a play by Moiari entitled "Le Meleden volant" and "Le Medecin malgre lui" presented by "Le Theatre Populaire de Quebec". It will be shown in the Ambassador Auditorium. Tickets are available at the French Department or at the door the night of the show. $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for students.

The two guests in Windsor are Wilbert Jones and Norman Neweau, Jones, an executive of the Second Way of the Garden River Band near Sault Ste. Marie, is presently Executive Assistant to Andrew Rickard, Chief of Grand Council Treaty No. 9. In this capacity he has spent much of his time dealing specifically with the policies of the provincial government and, in particular, the Hart's Royal Commission of the Northern Environment.

The LeBel Fine Arts Gallery is presenting an exhibition of glassblowing by Wolfgang R. Eberhart, now until November 14th.

Eberhart was born in Vienna in 1926. At the age of fourteen he was accepted as an apprentice with the internationally famous Master in glassblowing, who was well known as an artist throughout Europe.

Wolf came to Canada in 1957 and quickly made a name for himself in the scientific and artistic field. By 1961 he was a senior member of the C.G.S. (Artistic and Scientific Glassblowers Society) and was accepted as an expert by both Canadian and American professional glassblowers.

Wolf's techniques and designs have been published by leading Canadian Universities all over the world. Wolf continues to win awards at the National and International Symposiums of world masters in scientific and artistic glassblowing. His pieces are all hand sculptured and blown free from using specially fused glasses in combination with pure metals such as gold, silver and platinum in order to achieve the "oo - a completely new and original aesthetic experience.

His work is an example of ancient and modern glass craftsmanship employing sophisticated flame working techniques resulting in vigorous and contemporary art forms.
University to be billed?

Tecumseh Hall's rating: improved slum

By E. F. CHANT

Tecumseh Hall has changed from a "slum" to a "slightly-repaired slum" in a little over two weeks.

Following an expose in The Lance, September 30, the housekeeping and maintenance departments of this University began to correct the errors of their ways with regard to the residence. Floors have had their sticky beer-based wax scrubbed off, carpets have been vacuumed, walls have been cleaned and some have been patched and painted - as have some doors.

However, the chase after those responsible for the upkeep is still on. One apartment which was to be painted Tuesday displayed only its peeling old coat upon examination, even though a tenant across the hall claims to have seen painters enter the apartment.

Ron Spina, a Residents' Assistant at Tecumseh, has apaproximately 30 work orders that he has sent to the maintenance department, all about a month old. Perhaps ten have been examined and there are no problems corrected. The other 20 have not even been looked at.

"The publicity about the situation certainly helped," he said. "Whether they (housekeeping and maintenance) will keep it up remains to be seen, but they seem to be slowing down a little now."

Still outstanding in the work order list are various paint jobs and, a number of replacements (such as shower-heads, stove elements, light fixtures, closet doors, kitchen drawers, and refrigerator freezer doors). Also, some walls still need patching and furniture requires repair.

Some residents just got fed up with the delays and did repairs by themselves. "Mike" in apartment 313 spent two days cleaning his walls when he first arrived, as well as spending close to $25 on tools to fix the furniture and put mirrors over his scarred walls. Another resident had to buy several cans of "Raid" to get the ants out of his cupboards.

"I wouldn't mind if we were paying slum prices for these places," said Mike, "but my three friends and I are paying $100 a month for this place. I think we deserve a little more consideration for $400 a month."

Spina mused that it might be interesting for residents who made their own repairs to send a bill to housekeeping's financial department, but he probably wouldn't get anything, but it might get some kind of res-

"sponse."

Caught in the act: We found a maintenance man repairing a leaky wall in Tecumseh Hall.

Societies get $30,000 from SAC

By BRENDA MCLESTER

This year, SAC paid $30,870 to societies on campus.

A plan to reorganize the recognition given by the University can form a society by: 1) writing a constitution according to a model available in the SAC office, 2) having the constitution approved at a general meeting of members of the faculty, 3) electing an executive according to SAC regulations, and 4) being ratified by SAC.

By-laws no. 15 and 16, passed by SAC in 1975, guarantees societies 33.3% of the students enrolled in their faculty ($7.50 per student). They are also given an addition grant of $1.25 per student.

Society Presidents are also voting SAC members. SAC President Gary Wells opposed this by-law when it was passed in 1975, and still opposes it. He said it was "foolish" to guarantee funding, that, "ultimately gives no guarantee to SAC and is so irresponsible."

The rules for funding cannot be altered, "unless by resolution at a special meeting of the Council called solely for such purpose, notice of which shall be published in an edition of the student newspaper by the student media at least 10 days in advance of any such meeting and shall be sent by prepaid registered post at least 14 days prior to such meeting and want at least three-quarters (¾) of the members are precent, approval of which shall require a ninety (90%) percent affirmative vote of the members of the Council present and voting."

Is Canada sinking?

By DEB KENNEDY

The separatist problem in Quebec is not strictly linguistic, but one of economic in a French environment. The province was prosperous before 1961, when the Quiet Revolution began. The separatist problem in Quebec's abandoning of the franchise, the end calls for a Football tournament. What's the problem? Canada is sinking.

Last November's election, Dr. Waddell's field of study was "predictable," he said, "It is a French environment. His work includes a report concerning francophones living in Newfoundland and Labrador. Waddell has been writing this report since 1961, when the Quiet Revolution began. His own experience in a French environment was witnessed by his personal insight into the situation. He admitted it is a problem for the French community, but the French community is not necessarily French French. The French community is not necessarily French French.

Dr. Waddell concluded his lecture by reinforcing the urgency of the Quebec-Canada conflict. "It is not a transient situation... even if the P.Q. is defaced, the problem won't go away."

By-willies PAQUETTE

The residences of this fine university are alive and kicking. After some friendly persuasion, five of six House Councils have given their complete co-operation.

Cody: Hockey shirts will be made available this weekend for those who ordered them. There will also be red ruggers shirts and T-shirts for all Cody residents. The main event this week-ed calls for a Football tournan-ment.

Laurier: Spraying of football . . . , was touch or tackle, ladies? Regardless, third floor came out on top of the heap to take the championship. A special invitation is out to all for a Coffee House Sunday at 7:00 p.m. at Stag's Head.

Mac: The Red Wings! Some of the boys went to Montreal yesterday to watch the Canadians and the Red Wings battle at the Forum and for numerous other reasons. Back on campus, Lobball action continues on Saturday, to make up for all the rain-out games and determine the teams in the play-offs which will start on Sunday. As of now, fifth floor has a slim two point lead over ninth floor, in the battle for first place.

AN IMPORTANT NOTE TO CODY, LAURIER AND MAC RESIDENTS.

Your respective House Councils are investigating the food plan as your representatives. If you have any suggestions and/or complaints, let your Council Reps know, so that they may forward this information to the food services director.

Meanwhile at Electa. The guys are playing soccer and some folks went to Detroit yesterday, for an evening of truly professional entertainment in the play 'Hello Dolly!'

Huron. They now have a complete House Council. The by-election resulted in Diane Kipper as Secretary and Steve Wippers-
"I want to help you."

By the way, what does it mean to study the future of the University?... Do you always think about the effect of what you study on the present?... What would you like?... If you don't have a clear idea, you'll have a hard time making up.

 Buddha says: "The only way to eliminate errors is to eliminate uncertainty."

On the record: We can't make them different. If you don't make them different, they won't be different.

Anyhow, he was kind enough to fill out our questionnaire on the subject of their opinion of this whole thing. His name was on the list.

Notice

SAC MEETING

Thurs. 27 Oct. 5:30 pm
SAC Office open

Boys

I SAW WHERE THE QUEEN OPENED THEIR HALLS WITHOUT AN INVITATION

DON'T COME TO OUR WEDDING WEEKEND

ONEI HOPED... WE WANTED WANTED TO STUDY THE UNIVERSITY...

GIVE ME THE LAW, AND I WILL LEARN WHAT YOU WANT ME TO LEARN...

WHAT HAPPENED?

SHE CANT AFFORD TO PAY DIFFERENTIAL FEES?

SAC President Gary Wells is out to all for a Coffee House Sunday at 7:00 p.m. at Stag's Head.

Temple Baptist Church
664 Victoria Ave Windsor
We Meet Your Need In Christ
Sunday: 11:00 am and 700 pm
Wednesday: 5:30 (supper $1.00)
Family night
1 Block South Of Wyandotte West

Parrott returns

Dr. Harry Parrott, Minister of Colleges and Universities, will be the guest on "On the Record", on CBET at 8 p.m., Thursday, October 27.

If you would like to tell the honourable minister what you think of his new Student Aid proposals, differential fees or higher tuition, join the studio audience. Free tickets for the show are available at the SAC office, second floor of the University Centre.
Did Plato ever go to a SAC meeting?

```
"The greatest penalty for failing to engage in politics is to be ruled by one inferior to yourself." Plato said that, and if a few more students were present at each meeting, the campus would be a much better place.

Plato said that, and if a few more University of Windsor students took the adage to heart, we might get a more effective student council this year. We can dream.

Presumably, your student government representation has not been all it could be. The same problem which reaches us is reflected throughout the university. Many of the elected representatives do not seem to care about their duties at all.

This year’s council has so far indicated a greater reluctance to attend meetings, and when they do attend, they like to leave early. Thus a meeting two weeks ago was left with only four representatives, and the two quorum were not enough to make a quorum.

When the business of that meeting was carried over to the next meeting, it again had to be cancelled, when a number of voting members decided they had more pressing engagements elsewhere. The problem is not only sporadic, even calling meetings has been mismanaged. One SAC director found out about last Thursday’s meeting only a half-hour before it began.

Our student reps do not realize that they have a responsibility not just to attend each meeting, but to work actively with the SAC executive and with their own faculty, to inform and inform others about issues affecting students at this university. This takes some effort, but these students have promised to serve, and they should have no qualms about doing so.

What are the issues? There are the external ones, such as unemployment, finding a job, etc. If we ever get out of here, student aid, and cutbacks in government spending. There are the "uncial" issues, which deal with the problems of food services and the residence.

Last week, the SAC executive called before SAC’s Board of Directors a body of student reps chosen hopefully, for their decision-making powers. Of only five directors able to vote on that time, two directors chose to abstain. Perhaps it is still too early to year about the lack of SAC reps for failing in their duties. Some of the veterans, like Leo Moyers of Engineering and Andy Wehbe of Drama, have shown good leadership abilities and self-expression.

Let us hope that next week’s by-election will present us with more able reps, who are willing to take on all the duties of a student representative: a willingness to work hard, to attend the issues, to attend meetings, to speak their minds, and to vote consistently and confidentially.

SAC mismanages its own election

It is not a promising situation.

We agree! SAC has given proper notice of the election, and of nominations, and has the foresight to schedule the election so the Lance can properly report the proceedings, things might not be as serious. But with the nominations closed today, there is no way this issue could carry over even the names of the candidates, much less their statements or pictures.

Furthermore, the election being Thursday, not only can next week’s Lance not carry a prediction, but it can’t even present the election results. By the time the election results are released Friday, SAC will be in the final printing stages. We’ll get the results out in two weeks. This years’ SAC knows that one of its biggest problems is communication. They are also well aware of the Lance’s deadlines, and of what we can and cannot possibly cover.

The reason SAC has ignored the needs of the student body, then, is puzzling. The SAC executive has complained this year about the lack of interest and commitment of the elected reps, yet when there is a chance to elect nine new, capable representatives, they blow it, through poor planning and management.

SAC President Gary Wells said the election is being hurried through now to get it over with, and fill the vacancies. Two weeks ago, when the Lance started asking questions about the election, there was no urgency at all about the matter.

Last week, no one even knew what day the election would be held.

If you like getting involved, if you enjoy working with people, run for office. If you care about the rights of students, do make the effort to get out and vote. Try to find out who your candidates are, and that they stand for, SAC has made it almost impossible to elect a slate of competent representatives, but let’s do the best we can.

Subsidise all student parties

Each year, SAC pays large sums of money to societies. SAC is bound by a 1975 by-law to pay 1/3 of the society members’ student fees directly to the society. SAC also pays an additional grant of $1.25 per member. There are 3,528 students who belong to societies, for example and members of their faculty. The society members are getting a portion of their student fees to pay for activities for themselves and members of their faculty. The other 2,770 students who do not belong to societies, do not get this money.

If you care about the rights of students, do make the effort to get out and vote. Try to find out who your candidates are, and that they stand for, SAC has made it almost impossible to elect a slate of competent representatives, but let’s do the best we can.

Comments

Campus Gay Students Form Social Club

By CAL BERNACH

Gay Students on Campus, G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am

We Got a Few Letters

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

G.S.C., is new only in its name. Lisahood, we upon persons with

Emigration Not Answer To Economic Problems

An open letter to Mr. Trudeo concerning his "Comment". "Government ministers desist students". Dear Mr. Trudeo:

Many students agree wholeheartedly with your food system. The quality of after eating in your dining

Hoax Caused Money Removal

Dear Editor:

The person or people who organized the students to withdraw their money from the T-D bank last year pulled the wool over our eyes. Their reason for withdrawal was that the T-D, along with the other major Canadian banks, were theoretically aiding a campaign, however, they for

Food Turns Stomachs

Dear Editor:

This is my first year at Windsor University. I am a four-year student at Cody Resi

Discontent Rising

Over Scrip Plan

We were the undereigned as the duly appointed representatives of Mac Donald Hall, Laurier Hall and Cody Hall. We wish to strongly focus the attention of the university upon the gross injus tices being perpetrated upon the students of the aforementioned residences. The university has seen fit to disregard its ob

Information 1977-78) with each individual resident on the scrip plan. As a result of these changes, a great deal of discontent has arisen not only am
Are you surrendering rights for residences?

By JIM LAWSON

Do you know your rights? To live in residence, you don’t have to be married. Clearly, the residence contract for Mac, Laurier, and St. Mike’s has come under close legal investigation by the Student Legal Aid Society, the expectation of finding something illegal or unethical in it. There was nothing illegal about the contract but it proved to be highly unethical. Consider these cases and decide for yourself how the courts, and the residences would judge them.

Q. There is a party going on your floor on some Saturday night. You emerge from a room that smells like dope. Your Resident Assistant sees you and smells the dope as he walks by. He asks you to go to the Head Resident who calls you before the Rules Committee where you are accused of guilt or innocence, as your punishment will be determined. Are you guilty of any crime?

A. Under Canadian law you are not guilty of any crime, because you were in possession of a substance that you knew was illegal. The law about having smoke in your room.

Under residence rules you would probably be convicted and fined from $10 - $25 for committing a major infraction of residence rules.

Q. You have a friend up to your room one night and after an argument with one of the residents, he picks a fight with him where some damage is done to the property. The R.A. reports you (you are responsible for your guests) to the Head Resident as being responsible for a fight in residence, another major infraction. The next day you are given a notice that you must leave within 24 hours. Must you leave in that time?

A. Under Canadian Law it would depend. In most places you would be renting you would have a contract and the case would fall under the Landlord-Tenants Act. You would have 60 days notice before you would have to leave.

In residence, you have signed a license, not a tenancy agreement, and therefore you are bound by the contract license. You would have to leave or they would break into your room and remove your belongings, a practice that the L-T Act ruled out years ago. Note that it is also in the benefit of the University to kick you out, for as soon as you’ve gone, they not only keep the balance of your payments, but they can rent the room out to someone else for the full price as well. It’s the old 2 for 1 deal.

Q. You are supposed to register at 2 p.m. on registration day. You have paid $150 in advance to reserve a room. You check in to residence, then you go register, pay your tuition, residence and meal plan fees, then go back to get your room. They tell you that in order to get the room you must first sign a contract with the basic outline of rules in it and a clause that binds you to a Residence Handbook and the rules in it. You sign the contract, then get the Handbook, and find out that in it there is yet another clause that binds you to yet another set of rules, called the Residence Understanding and Agreements form which you don’t receive or are not told about. Are you bound by these agreements then, having received them after signing the contract?

A. Under Canadian Law you are. Basically, you’ve signed into a game where they make you up the rules as you go along. That is, if you do something and there’s no law to convict you, they can make one up that will.

So where does that leave you? If you are in first year, as 70% of the residents are, you had no idea what you were getting into and the University wasn’t about to warn you. The rest should know better, even though they don’t always have a choice.

One place where the students are winning though, is in the case against Saga Foods Ltd. Earlier this month Saga raised the guest price of their supper meal from $3.00 to $3.30, a move which breeched the contract that the students had previously agreed to. No legal action has yet been taken but the students are petitioning and it is hoped that pressure now will avoid the need of court action. In any case, it is suspected that Saga will lower the quality of their food services again to make up the deficit if the prices are forced to change.

At the end of this entire legal argument then, comes the University of Windsor Act, which is really what gives the ultimate power to the University to do what has been doing. Few students realize the potential power of this Act, but basically it makes the University its own little kingdom with its own set of rules. When I found this out, I asked Legal Aid, "Do you mean to say that in just one Act the University can breech every Canadian law ever passed and take away every civil liberty we ever had?"

Yes - and they not only can, they’ve already started.

---

SAC: Raises out, clubs in

By RICK SPENCE

No one came away very happy from last Thursday’s SAC Board of Directors and council meetings.

SAC’s directors met just before the council meeting to consider the application of the SAC executive for a 10 percent raise. SAC President Gary Wells did most of the pleading for the raise. SAC’s vice-president, the vice-president, the treasurer, and the three appointed commissioners.

After a secret session, the five directors turned down the increase in a 5-4 vote. The directors stated the executive deserved a raise, but that the tight budget of SAC this year would not allow it.

The Council meeting, which followed the Board meeting, mainly featured the ratification of student clubs. It ended when V.P. Rob Whittemet interrupted External Affairs Commissioner Maryon Overholt, and pointed out there was no longer a quorum, due to the early departure of several from the room.

Overholt was right in the middle of her long-delayed report on student aid, Harry Par-rott’s trip to Western, and the OFS conference last month in Toronto.

When Overholt finally delivered her external affairs report to a full house at the budget meeting last Friday, she managed to have several resolutions passed by the council. SAC approved support of the OFS’s Miss Lobby at Queen’s Park November 16, and agreed to send a delegation to join in the publicizing of student concerns to MPs in Toronto.

SAC also agreed to co-operate with other groups in the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, and by a 5-4 vote reaffirmed its opposition to last year’s $100 increase in the status fee for students.

Gay Students on Campus was the first club up for ratification at Thursday’s SAC meeting. Ratification means only that the club is recognized as a student club by SAC, and it does not mean the club gets any money.

Only Drama Rep. Andrew Webb, and Social Science Rep. Don Peppin, voted to ratify the gay students. The other members abstained. Most of the other clubs received many votes.

Other clubs applied Thursday day included the history club, curling club, Campus Liberals, International Students’ Organization, Marketing club, Cinema Night, (a film club), Delta Chi, and a Delta Chi ski club, the women’s group ERA, India Students Organization, Trident Club (Ukrainian), Chinese Students Association, Royal Canadian College of Organists, Karate club, the black students’ club, Assumption Campus Community, Pakistani club, Photo Lancer club, Jewish club, and the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

---

Diana Ross

Anthony Perkins

in

Matahany

THURSDAY OCT 77

9 P.M. AND 10 P.M.

1120 MATH BUILDING

ADMISSION: $1.00

* A PAG presentation

---

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS ORGANIZATION

The 1st International Food Night and Dance

Date - 28 October 1977 (Friday)

Time - 7:30 pm

Place - Ambassador Auditorium

Price - $3.00 per person

Dress - Semi-formal

Tickets are limited and are available in the International Centre (Cody Hall). For bookings and further information, please call Gerri at 253-4232 ext. 687. There will be no tickets for sale at the door.

---

STUDENT DIRECTORY

Owing to the delay in receiving the Student Registration Rolls, the directory will be unavoidably delayed. Every effort is being made to publish as soon as possible.

---

Opportunities for 1978 Graduates

DuPont of Canada

Applications are invited immediately from graduating students in Mech­

---

---

---

---

---

---
Poet’s corner

In The Beginning

Twenty-five years ago, I came into this world; It’s quite strange, amazingly, A squalling baby, the stir it must have caused; The nurse, holding it, talking to it (laughing you) The doctor: “Oh, madam, an eight pounder, no less” Incredible, and that was twenty-five years ago. Now I sit at this desk, my fingers feel my thinning hair.

Name Withheld

A Thin Cloak for Reality

It goes through my head, Is life similar to that? It is not space, For one becomes accustomed to that, Another sort of darkness thrives here, A bewildering presence, This total absence of recognition, Will it ever be seen? But now I remember the moment, Here is the fascination! There you relate to your own concerns, Reflection through the window, Time to return inward, Presence with the look of bewilderment, Am I really gone? I exist deep-rooted in your thoughts, Standing close to you, The want to communicate, To know the identity, A look of desperation, Recalling at the sight of reality, Is this not what you are afraid of? Regarding at the sight of reality, Is this not what you are afraid of? Regarding your own sad face, I still remain, Momentarily, darkness is illuminated, Voices, I hear voices, The meaning of life around us, Ritualistic talk, A thin cloak for reality, Not wanting to part but willing it so, Buildings rush by, The whisk of wheels, Deposed by the roadside, Astounded, nothing has changed, Returning to the moment, Smothered with what my eye can see, Have you changed your inner cloak?

MARK LEVESQUE

Sleep

A distant thought travels deep, Into your mind, At no direction of your own, It settles to a tune of silence, Compelling the call of nature’s voices Like the calm before the storm, You conceive your mental drift, Sliding down, through a lingering enchantment, To forget the blessing that dwells in everyone, It curls your body to a stem of flowing lyrics, And you float on by the time felt by all.

SCOTT ELDRIDGE

A Place for a Dreamer

The little thoughts of a morning dream, Have taken so much from me, I fight in vain through a raging storm, To hold on to my own time, For what’s left in my own life, I have yet to stand for, Dreams upon dreams, Will always pass me by, In some time, And in some way, Life will hold a place for my dreams.

SCOTT ELDRIDGE

From the Silver to the Blade

a groom for Scotland and the lady I left behind —
In the month called Journey
The first, grew grass-born, from seeds of stone
The heart of a broken god
Veined blue in witness of the sky
And in the diamond light of dawn
The pilgrimage of flight began.
He turned towards the road of acolytes and bone dust,
From the tyranny of the heart
To the tyranny of mother lands
Of menace sired by pain,
Sired by the heart.
From the silver to the blade he fell
Through slumber and the turning green
He broke the backs of foxes
Drew perfectly
The teeth of wolves,
Waking to the arms of scorpions
He laughed himself
Dread of the dream
He fed on oak flesh and the wings of mice
Drinking only from the seas of empty dreams.
And in the darkness he refused the heart
Holding his head against its call
The thumping beat, the double pulse
The air of the blood.
And when he woke
From beds of hair and bone
He passed the opened threats of wolves
And lambkin hung on crosses in the light
He howled for the winged ones
That drank the air into a scream
And filled the world with feather, wing and bone. But when they passed
He watched the helpless light
Redden slowly to a wound
The clouds became like mountains carved in stone
He saw long blades of lightning
Spin through the storm-red sky
Three dark blue veils, that cooled like snakes
Around a sleeping heart.

ROBIN ROBERTSON

Poet’s Corner is now accepting poetry from the the University community. Send your submissions to The Lance, in care of the Poetry Editors.
By RICK SPENCE and ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

Ever wonder why there's a Dean of Women, but no Dean of Men? Or why the Board of Governors doesn't exist? Or why the University has three vice-presidents? In answer to absolutely no questions at all, the Lance decided to find out the answers to these and other pressing questions. What you are reading is the second (revised and bridged) version of the most popular epic on campus.

The new dean of the University Administration led our correspondents to the 6th Floor of the Windsor Hall (where not even the elevators dare to tread), to dark corners of Vanier, and to leafing through dusty, half-forgotten documents which stipulate the structure of the University.

The results of this in-depth investigation are reprinted here in full, along with a modern, up-to-date chart of the lines of communication and power, to wrap fresh fish with or pin up on your wall.

Leader

The leader of the pack is Dr. J. Francis Leddy, a Classics scholar who has been with the University since 1964. Leddy succeeded the Rev. Eugene Carlin as the first President of the University of Windsor, following its transition from Assumption University in 1963. Leddy has announced his retirement as of September, 1978, at which time he will have reached 67, the regular age of retirement for professors.

Leddy was appointed for an indefinite term, and is presently the senior university president in Canada. He describes his function as "the chief executive officer... responsible for the effective operation of the university."

"You can't satisfy everyone at once", said Dr. Leddy in discussing his years as president. "With so many competing interests within the University, Leddy says his main responsibility is to mediate, and decide, among the conflicts, "which is the one in the best interests of the university."

A president "has to be as fair as he can be, regardless of what he may think", according to Leddy. Leddy was professor of Latin and Greek for 25 years, before becoming a full-time administrator. He is still not sure what he will do in his retirement.

Search

Leddy says he is sure the University will get a good president to succeed him. Selection of the president is in the jurisdiction of the Board of Governors and the Senate, and the position is being kept confidential. The present president will gain, along with the position, residence in the presidential suite currently occupied by the Leddys, at 197 Sunset. The President is not alone in his responsibilities. He carries out the wishes of two governing bodies, the Senate and the Board of Governors, and has three vice-presidents to assist him.

At one time, the university's one and only vice-president was Dr. Frank DeMarco. DeMarco is now the Senior Vice-President, and his colleagues are John McAuliffe, Vice-President Academic, and John Allan, Vice-President Administration.

DeMarco is a link between the academic and non-academic concerns of the administration. He also takes charge of special projects commissioned by the President.

These men are supported by a staff of about 1,300, which gives us a ratio of one paid employee to every 4.9 full-time students.

All academic considerations are looked after by McAuliffe. He deals with the deans and directors of the various faculties and schools in determining curricula and budgets. Allan deals with the business and fiscal side of the university, and his assistant, Charles Morgan, looks after planning, construction and security.

The titular head of the university and the nominal head of the Senate is the Chancellor. Don't forget to drop in to the Nursing Society's blood donor clinic. The leader of the pack is the Chancellor, and he lives off-campus. Wastyoff. His name is Lucien Lamoureux and he is Canada's Ambassador to Belgium, among other things. The Chancellor has the power to confer all degrees.

J.F. Leddy: President, Vice Chancellor, Chairman of the Senate - He'll soon be able to retire, get a good job, and buy a new tie. In other words, but in his absence (which is most of the time) this distinction falls upon the Vice-Chancellor (the president).

Leddy also acts as Chairman of the Senate. The Senate, according to the University of Windsor Act, has the power "to regulate the academic programs pursued in the University, and the conduct, activities and discipline of the students." It consists of 30 elected faculty members, 4 students, an appointee of the Alumni Association, the Deans, Principals of the affiliated colleges, and other ex-officio members.

The University of Windsor Act also stipulates the purposes of the university. There are two, "The advancement of learning and the dissemination of knowledge" is one of the reasons this institution. The other purpose is to contribute to "the intellectual, spiritual, moral, social and physical development of its members and students and the betterment of society." (And you thought you from his position as Associate Dean at the Law faculty..."

The new president will gain, along with the position, residence in the presidential suite currently occupied by the Leddys, at 197 Sunset. The President is not alone in his responsibilities. He carries out the wishes of two governing bodies, the Senate and the Board of Governors, and has three vice-presidents to assist him.

At one time, the university's one and only vice-president was Dr. Frank DeMarco. DeMarco is now the Senior Vice-President, and his colleagues are John McAuliffe, Vice-President Academic, and John Allan, Vice-President Administration.

DeMarco is a link between the academic and non-academic concerns of the administration. He also takes charge of special projects commissioned by the President.

These men are supported by a staff of about 1,300, which gives us a ratio of one paid employee to every 4.9 full-time students.

All academic considerations are looked after by McAuliffe. He deals with the deans and directors of the various faculties and schools in determining curricula and budgets. Allan deals with the business and fiscal side of the university, and his assistant, Charles Morgan, looks after planning, construction and security.

The titular head of the university and the nominal head of the Senate is the Chancellor. Don't forget to drop in to the Nursing Society's blood donor clinic. The leader of the pack is the Chancellor, and he lives off-campus. Wastyoff. His name is Lucien Lamoureux and he is Canada's Ambassador to Belgium, among other things. The Chancellor has the power to confer all degrees.

J.F. Leddy: President, Vice Chancellor, Chairman of the Senate - He'll soon be able to retire, get a good job, and buy a new tie. In other words, but in his absence (which is most of the time) this distinction falls upon the Vice-Chancellor (the president).

Leddy also acts as Chairman of the Senate. The Senate, according to the University of Windsor Act, has the power "to regulate the academic programs pursued in the University, and the conduct, activities and discipline of the students." It consists of 30 elected faculty members, 4 students, an appointee of the Alumni Association, the Deans, Principals of the affiliated colleges, and other ex-officio members.

The University of Windsor Act also stipulates the purposes of the university. There are two, "The advancement of learning and the dissemination of knowledge" is one of the reasons this institution. The other purpose is to contribute to "the intellectual, spiritual, moral, social and physical development of its members and students and the betterment of society." (And you thought you charge of the Cashier's Office, as well as payroll, financial statements, accounts, and student loans and grants. Finance also is accountable for scholarships and bursaries, the bookstore, residences and food services, and development campaigns. The funds to build the new business administration came from a development fund. Schiller reports to the Vice-President, Administration.

Although the Board of Governors has the ultimate say in university employment, Personnel Services are responsible for the day-to-day concerns of staff. The director, Gary Wimmer, oversees employment, wages, benefit plans, and labour relations. Wimmer is also responsible to the Vice-President, Administration.

Another administrator is Ronald Nicodem, Director of Physical Plant. His department cares for heating, repairs, housekeeping and maintenance, telephones, and central stores, where supplies are kept. Stephen Kominar is director of the University Centre. Under Kominar's jurisdiction fall such responsibilities as vending machines and rental of centre facilities.

The Director of Administrative Services is Dennis Drew. He deals with the operation of the bookstore, purchasing, and the post office. He also keeps watch over the stationery stores, and is in charge of central microfilming.

Grant McIver is the Director of Security, and a good man to know. Security takes care of parking control, lost and found, and operating in case of accidents or emergencies.

Alex Marshall is the Director of Physical Planning and Information Analysis.

Dr. Barry Taub is director of the Psychological Services Centre, better known as The House on Sunset Avenue. The Centre offers many services, including counselling, psychotherapy, and assertiveness training. Most of these services are available to students free of charge and to faculty and staff at time permits, on a sliding fee scale.

Two other administrators whom few students know anything about are John W. Whiteide, the Secretary of the University and the Board of Governors, and Barbara Birch, Secretary of the Senate.

Now that you've struggled through all this, you'll know who to blame! And so will they.

If you are a bureaucrat, and we've left you out of this story, please inform the Lance. In writing. In triplicate.
Got a craving for Rock ‘n’ Roll

By PAUL CHERNISH

The recent series of “no holds barred” assaults on disco found in the entertainment pages of the Lance have provoked a great deal of response. But quite a few people have misinterpreted the meaning behind the copy I have penned. My stand is, by now, obvious. Want me to say it again? I hate disco. But what the hell — I didn’t invent the phrase “disco sucks.”

MacCoubrey’s letter in the entertainment pages was widely read and responded to. I didn’t invent the phrase “disco sucks” either. But quite a few people have found in the entertainment pages that the disco format has given birth to its own noticable style of music. I am not at all concerned with what goes on in the States. I don’t care what happens in Puce. Windsor and this campus are my main concerns. Mr. MacCoubrey’s point about disco in the States is just. But the majority of U. of W. students don’t have ten silk shirts and Pierre Cardin suits squared in their closets. May-be if we were all born in Grand Rapids we’d be disco dancing every night. That is absolutely understandable and right. It’s all a case of environmental conditioning.

My survey reflected the feelings of a hearty number of students who enjoy rock. Many of them suggested a revamping of the Gallery’s pro-disco structure. Rock and rollers know that disco is a narrow medium. It is almost monotonous. And I am not saying that this is bad. But rock and roll can be so diversified. Its spectrum is awesome. For example, the following artists can fit into the rock category: Rush, Queen, Kiss, ELP, ELO, Supertramp, Eagles, Rodsatti, and Pat Boone. From acid to operatic.

Most reputable local rock bands can handle any of the aforementioned material along with the simple form of disco. Ninety percent of the people on campus like rock as opposed to disco (re-Disco Survey). The majority of students on campus won’t be satisfied until rock and roll is reintroduced. And I am not saying that this is bad. Most reputable local rock bands can handle any of the aforementioned material along with the simple form of disco. Ninety percent of the people on campus like rock as opposed to disco (re-Disco Survey). The majority of students on campus won’t be satisfied until rock and roll is reintroduced. And I am not saying that this is bad.

Tasty changes at pub

By PAUL CHERNISH

Sometimes change for the sake of change is good. Aaron, the band playing the pub this week, provides a good step out of the “pub rut.”

The music this band comes up with is mixed well. The tunes I caught ranged from the Beatles. Each of the four musicians (two guitars, bass and drums) seems to possess enough talent to make the music successful and ear-pleasing.

I noticed a few sound problems that were due to balance, but perfection is tough to achieve because of the pub’s acoustic layout, and I wouldn’t hold it against Aaron.

What pleased me was the fact that the band seemed to have fun playing their music, especially during the final country set.

Aaron does a pretty fair rendition of Eagles tunes, the type of music that most of us have dearly missed in the pub.

Aaron may not be completely worth the long wait, but at least the wait is over.

Who sang it?

By PAUL CHERNISH

Yep, another content. All you have to do is write the name of the artist next to the quote supplied. Only this is a big contest. First place gets a bottle of beer and his picture in next week’s Lance. Second place gets a bottle of wine. Third place gets a bottle of whatever you can pick up random out of a box.

In order to win, you must correctly identify the artist responsible for each quote. If no one guesses them all, the winner will be the person with the most correct. If there happens to be a tie, winners will be picked at random out of a box.

After filling out the form, drop it in the Lance Music Contest Box located at the University Centre desk. Include your name and student number. Contest ends at 4:00 p.m. October 25.

1. “When you see me with a smile on my face, then you’ll know I’m a mental case.”

2. “On your feet or on your knees”

3. “I don’t know, but I been told if you keep on dancing you’ll never grow old”

4. “Bartender, gimme another gin”

5. “I’m taking little white pills and my eyes are open wide”

6. “No one knows what it’s like to be the bad man”

7. “When I’m holding your wheel, all I hear is your gear”

8. “A girl named Johnny Cash”

9. “Like looking in your mirror and seeing a police car”

10. “Just yesterday morning let me know you were gone”

Official ’Who said it ’ Form

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No. 1 is</th>
<th>No. 2 is</th>
<th>No. 3 is</th>
<th>No. 4 is</th>
<th>No. 5 is</th>
<th>No. 6 is</th>
<th>No. 7 is</th>
<th>No. 8 is</th>
<th>No. 9 is</th>
<th>No. 10 is</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Allstate Insurance Company of Canada

on campus Oct.25

For an information session covering management career opportunities with Allstate. If you are interested in a challenging career which offers excellent opportunities for advancement, THEN BE SURE TO ATTEND. We will be in the University Centre between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.,

ENTERTAINMENT writers wanted for The Lance

ANSWERS TO TRIVIA QUIZ

1. Production of the Liberal victory in the 1891 election.
2. The 2000-foot, 5 000-pound atomic bomb dropped on Nagasaki.
3. The French Foreign Legion.
4. The construction of the Eiffel Tower.
5. Pencil, paper, and typewriter. The foundation of Saks.
6. The line-ups were unbear-
7. The recent series of "no holds barred" assaults on disco found in the entertainment pages of the Lance have provoked a great deal of response. But quite a few people have misinterpreted the meaning behind the copy I have penned. My stand is, by now, obvious. Want me to say it again? I hate disco. But what the hell — I didn’t invent the phrase "disco sucks."
Catharsis is back!

Catharsis is evolving. It has developed from a coffee house to The Organization for Wind­

The philosophy and continues in T.O.W.A.R.D. where "energy comes from peo­ Catharsis will be reaching into different realms of music. The program for November follows.

Catharsis happens every weekend, beginning November 18-20 — John Thib­

A word of advice: the new musical performances are held in Mac and Electa Halls on campus, and drew a large audience of all ages. The success of Catharsis was interrupted when the March 27, 1977 Benefit Concert Extrap­

The Organ _ization for Wind­
UGGLNIS REVISITED

By AL WELLMAN

One has to be surprised at the advertising standards at the Windsor Star.

For a week the Star ran an ad for the porno flick, "Nazi Love Camp No. 27." On some days the ad was close to quarter of a page in size.

The purpose of the ad was nothing more than to pander to the latent sadosexual feelings of the readers. Perhaps even more subtle is the ad's appeal to latent anti-semitism. The ad promises sexual degradation of women, presumably Jews (what shameful things were these women forced to do behind those walls).

The ad is also intended to shock, and citizens of Windsor and students who have friends and relatives who were in concentration camps are probably quite offended.

The swastika alone will conjure up images of crematoriums and bodies piled high like garbage. Using it in the context of a porno flick turns a cruel event into cheap sadistic erotica.

The Windsor Star may only do it for the money. Does it only take a little money to let someone make warped statements on genocide? Was Nazi Germany a great turn-on?

What next, a film about an orgy in Nagasaki after the A-bomb, or maybe the erotic adventures of a mercenary in Biafra?

The purpose of the ad was nothing more than to pander to the latent sadosexual feelings of the readers. Perhaps even more subtle is the ad's appeal to latent anti-semitism. The ad promises sexual degradation of women, presumably Jews (what shameful things were these women forced to do behind those walls).

The ad is also intended to shock, and citizens of Windsor and students who have friends and relatives who were in concentration camps are probably quite offended.

The swastika alone will conjure up images of crematoriums and bodies piled high like garbage. Using it in the context of a porno flick turns a cruel event into cheap sadistic erotica.

The Windsor Star may only do it for the money. Does it only take a little money to let someone make warped statements on genocide? Was Nazi Germany a great turn-on?

What next, a film about an orgy in Nagasaki after the A-bomb, or maybe the erotic adventures of a mercenary in Biafra?

By CJAM

MOSSAC

Monday, October 24th - CJAM interviews Chris Kelly and Wendy Solloway, organizers of Catharsis regarding future plans for Catharsis. This will begin at 11 a.m. 11:45 Dean of Women, Evelyn McLean will be featured in a program focusing on the Mature Women's Association.

Tuesday, October 25th - SAC Vice-President Rob Whitten.

11:45 Rich Spence interviews Allan Metcalfe, president of the University Faculty Association.

Wednesday, October 26th - CJAM will feature a program in conjunction with “Quicksilver and Slow Death” 11:45 Len Wallace, University of Windsor co-coordinator of OPHRG. Following this, John Bain will talk to a representative of Credit Counselling.

Thursday, October 27th - CJAM interviews THE OUTDOOR PLUMBING COMPANY, a bluegrass group which recently performed in the Windsor area. 11:45 weekly report from SAC President Gary Wells.

Friday, October 28th - 11-45 Ancillary Commissioner Bruce Hannah

Monday, October 24 - “Another Nightflight Flight” that blues* Tuesday, October 25 - Cano

Wednesday, October 26 - The “Power and Love” of Manchild.

Thursday, October 27 - Strangers “No More Heroes”

Friday, October 28 - Grateful Dead “Faraphin”

All feature LPs are at 11 a.m. and 9:05 p.m. daily, unless otherwise specified and all Mosaic talk programs start at 11:45 a.m.

* - Nite time only.

FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL

Two hours of Santana starting at 10 p.m.

LANCER FOOTBALL

CJAM will not be broadcasting the game, but reports will be available at 254-1494.

CJAM Love Sounds - “Morning Music” from 9 to 11 Wednesday and Friday mornings.

NB: Due to transmitter breakdown we are off the air in Mac and Laurier Halls. Our apologies for this inconvenience, we hope to correct this problem soon.

T.A. B.J.

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

Fri. Oct. 21 - Sat. Oct. 22
AARON
DIRECT FROM LONDON

Mon. Oct. 24 - Sat. Oct. 29
T.B.A.

The Gallery Lounge

Your Host: Peter Romeril
Most impressive, take three points if you get it. What is the Tigers and Detroit Lions Cap event is sponsored by. I'...the special lecture held in the Law Building's Moot Court Law Building's Moot Court...

Ontario Crown Attorney Bruce Affleck.

By TERRY ENGLAND

Those who did not attend the special lecture held in the Law Building's Moot Courtroom last Tuesday night missed a surprisingly exciting mixture of learning and entertainment. The guest speaker was Bruce Affleck Q.C., one of Canada's most successful prosecuting Crown Attorneys. Mr. Affleck, who only half-jokingly refers to himself as "Super-Crown", treated the packed house to humorous anecdotes drawn from his 16 years in the courtroom as well as serious reflections on the role of the prosecutor in Ontario's legal system.

Bruce Affleck was the prosecutor in the celebrated case involving the largest bank robbery in Ontario history, over $1 million from the Royal Bank in Windsor. Of the 45 murder trials he has contested, all have resulted in convictions. Now he is a special prosecutor for the Ontario government, undertaking many major criminal trials.

"Most impressive, however, is his general approach to the law, "I do what I consider appropriate to the community and to the administration of justice," he says, adding that "the game must be played with dignity and respect and integrity." Although he favours a "strong and vigorous prosecution," he also claims that "the most important qualification of a crown attorney is fairness."

On the subject of plea bargaining (where the charges against the accused are reduced in exchange for a guilty plea) Mr. Affleck said that he must be "careful to maintain a high standard reflecting the interests of the community." Although many have denounced plea 'negotiation' (as he prefers to call it) as "bargain-basement justice," the learned counsel claims that "without it, the administration of justice would grind to a halt."

Bruce Affleck has retained the feeling that he is a servant to the needs of the community. In every case he is aware of his duty to the people as their prosecutor, and favours more openness in the conduct of courtroom practices. "I have no misgivings about any of my convictions," he claims, which is probably why he has been so successful.

"Super Crown ' entertains audience

Trivia Quiz

GENERAL INFORMATION QUIZ

1. Who was known as the Divine Sarah?
2. What is a meenonomist?
3. Who was the Henry Ford of France?
4. In which sex do most hairs grow?
5. Who was Nefertiti's son?
6. What city in Spain is famous for the quality of its steel weapons?
7. Who is the George Washington of South America?
8. Who is Greencine?
9. How many kinds of bees are in every hive?
10. Who was Mark Twain's real name?
11. What is a chinquapin?
12. What do you call the cries of a cat?
13. What is the oldest form of gambling?
14. What holds the planets in place?
15. Who is the George Washington of South America?
16. Who was Nefertiti's son?
17. What city in Spain is famous for the quality of its steel weapons?
18. Who was Mark Twain's real name?
19. What is a chinquapin?
20. What is the oldest form of gambling?

Answers on page 10...

Trivia Quiz

General Information Quiz

1. Who was known as the Divine Sarah?
2. What is a meenonomist?
3. Who was the Henry Ford of France?
4. In which sex do most hairs grow?
5. Who was Nefertiti's son?
6. What city in Spain is famous for the quality of its steel weapons?
7. Who is the George Washington of South America?
8. Who is Greencine?
9. How many kinds of bees are in every hive?
10. Who was Mark Twain's real name?
11. What is a chinquapin?
12. What do you call the cries of a cat?
13. What is the oldest form of gambling?
14. What holds the planets in place?
15. Who is the George Washington of South America?
16. Who was Nefertiti's son?
17. What city in Spain is famous for the quality of its steel weapons?
18. Who was Mark Twain's real name?
19. What is a chinquapin?
20. What is the oldest form of gambling?

The Mercyaires are directed by Larry Teverson, Chairperson of the Music department at Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills. Many business and professional organisations have been entertained by the Mercyaires, including convention performances for International Business Machines, and the Society of Automotive Engineers. They have also performed at a number of charitable functions including the annual Detroit Tigers and Detroit Lions Captain's Dinner and in Christmas and Spring Concerts to support the continuing food and distribution program of Duns Scotus College in Southfield.

The Mercyaires are directed by Larry Teverson, Chairperson of the Music department at Our Lady of Mercy High School. There will be no admission charge, and they will perform from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. This event is sponsored by the Music Club.

Pregnant

No Age Limit

Free Counseling

Pregnancy Test

We offer support, information and a safe environment.

ACM Approved

OUR OUR LADY OF MERCY

AMBASSADOR AUD.

DELTA CHI & NURSING SOCIETY

proudly present a

SUPER HALLOWE'EN PARTY

featuring Detroit's incredible

★ BANDIT ★

(hard driving Rock N Roll)

SAT-OCT-29, 8PM

AMBASSADOR AUD.

ALSO: $100 PRIZE FOR BEST COSTUME

$2.00 ADVANCE, $2.50 AT DOOR

THE LANCE—OCTOBER 21, 1977—PAGE THIRTEEN
Lancer basketball: readying for long season

By ERIC MAYNE and JOHN VELLA

According to Dr. Paul Thomas, taking top honours in basketball depends entirely on "how bad we want it." The Lancer Basketball coach noted, "If we work our heads off, we can do it."

This year could prove to be a very productive one for the Lancer Basketball team. At present, the team's roster is down to 12 players, but it is expected to reach 10 before the team opens its exhibition schedule November 11th at the University of Toledo. The team has seven returning players off last year's squad. This coupled with the presence of some very talented newcomers should provide the Lancers with a substantial edge in their exhibition schedule.

The team's November 11th exhibition game, against an unidentified opponent, is the season opener. Bob Oosteven, who also traveled to Europe with Thompson's, was selected to the All-Star Team in a Czechoslovakian tournament.

The muscle up-front is supplied by Fred "Truck" Robson. According to Dr. Paul Thomas, the coach of the Lancers, he has improved tremendously both offensively and defensively since last year. An interesting battle has shaped up at guard. Brian Hogan, a first-year player, in "the Landry mold," is competing against Kevin Greenwood. Greenwood played for the Crusaders in the past, and if Coach Thomas desires an experienced guard, then he may get the nod. Hogan could add speed to the team, and there is no question about his ball-handling abilities.

When evaluating this team, there are many strengths but few weaknesses. Experience, leadership, and potential are on the plus side. This season will probably see the absence of a controlled offense. The Lancers will more than likely utilize their speed and quickness for a running game.

Perhaps the only weakness is the lack of strong outside shooting.

SPORTSHORSTSPORT

The U. of W. Diving Team practices from 5:30 to 6:45 Monday - Thursday under Coach Paul Laing ("how he got there I'll never know"). More divers are welcome. The U. of W. will be holding its first Girls Invitational Diving Meet on Saturday, November 19, 1977.

Intramural Office in St. Dennis Hall will be holding its first Girls Invitational Diving Meet on Saturday, November 19, 1977. Merely give your name and get rolling.

If you wish to channel your interests into other areas of the pool and get some exercise while you're at it, the Intramural Office begins its Channel Swim November 1st. Merely give your name to the lifeguard and they will tally your total lengths. Badges will be awarded for completing 5, 10, and 20 miles. The only difference between the Windsor channel swim and the Real McCoy is that, no matter how long you swim you'll never end up in Calais.

Rollerskating night is November 9th at the Wheels Arena. Transportation will be arranged by bus, if enough people are interested. Drop your name off at the Intramural Office in St. Dennis Hall and get rolling.

PORTRAITS BY:

hebert studio

129 OTTAWA ST. AT HALL AVE.

258-5500

PHOTOGRAPHY OF DISTINCTION

ON CAMPUS

University Centre

October 24th-28th
9 A.M. - 5 P.M.

S.A.C.'s Appointed Photographer

FRANK J. FOX, O.D.

OPTOMETRIST

S.A.C.'s Appointed Photographer
Both the Lancer and Lancerette track and field teams have had a number of very successful invitational meets in the past few weeks and last week was definitely no exception.

Wright took the bronze in the 5000-metre, running a personal best and a University of Windsor record. Linda Staudt placed second in the 1500-metre, running a personal best time of 4:36.1 minutes that also cut 50 seconds off the previous Windsor record.

The Lancerette relay teams placed third in the 6 x 100 with a time of 53.9 and fourth in the 4 x 400 metres with a time of 4:46.1 minutes. Other fine performances by Lancerettes include:

- 100 metres - Margot McKinley 13.5
- 200 metres - Andrea Page 27.1 (Personal Best; 4th)
- 400 metres - Rose Caille 1:02 P.B.
- Shotput - Debbie Powell 22.4
- Javelin - Debbie Powell 3.23 M
- Hammer - Rose Caille 23.2 M
- Long Jump - Andrea Page 5.0 M
- Shotput - Debbie Powell 4.5 M
- Javelin - Sharon McNamara 26.06 metres
- Discus - Margot McKinley 30.01 metres
- 800 metres - Linda Staudt 2:27 (4th)
- 1500 metres - Cathy Seguin 4:39

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young men's fashions

Records shattered by runners and hurlers

The Lancerette relay teams placed third in the 6 x 100 with a time of 53.9 and fourth in the 4 x 400 metres with a time of 4:46.1 minutes. Other fine performances by Lancerettes include:

- 100 metres - Margot McKinley 13.5
- 200 metres - Andrea Page 27.1 (Personal Best; 4th)
- 400 metres - Rose Caille 1:02 P.B.
- Shotput - Debbie Powell 22.4
- Javelin - Debbie Powell 3.23 M
- Hammer - Rose Caille 23.2 M
- Long Jump - Andrea Page 5.0 M
- Shotput - Debbie Powell 4.5 M
- Javelin - Sharon McNamara 26.06 metres
- Discus - Margot McKinley 30.01 metres
- 800 metres - Linda Staudt 2:27 (4th)
- 1500 metres - Cathy Seguin 4:39

Intamural flare-up

Intrack events,
Andrea Page 17.0 (4th)
Margot McKinley 3.15 M

IN THE SHOWERS

By DON PEPPIN

Is down the drain this week

Accounting students are a going concern

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a chartered accountancy degree. In addition, we are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and general arts and science who are interested in applying their undergraduate background to this dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, applications should be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St. John’s, Halifax, Moncton, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Mississauga, Hamilton, Waterdown, London, Windsor, Oakville, Meaford, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Prince George.
Windsor waxed by Western, 22-15

By Peter NASH

Windsor-Western football games are usually tough and with close hitting and last week’s game was no exception. Windsor lost 22-15 in the end, but they were not outplayed.

The tough break went against the Lancers and some key injuries cost them dearly as Coach Fracas explained, “We were hurting. Some of our offensive men were playing for the first time this season, but last week’s starting lineup it would have been a different game.”

The Lancers missed starting centre Dave Brescasin, out with the flu. Pass protection blocking broke down and not only did Scott Mallender unable to pass but he suffered several serious pounding. Eventually Mallender was replaced by Steve Zack, who also got heavily thumped.

After the game Fracas admitted he had doubts about the game, “We were down before the game, but our defense rose to the occasion.” Western defeated the Lancers 22-15, in their lowest total of the season in scoring.

The Lancers started out early on a drive sparked by Al Donoust interception, returning the ball 39 yards to the Western 27 yard line after a 38 yard run. From there Scott Mallender connected with tight end Lonnie for 11 yards and a first down, on the 27 yard line. Windsor struggled down to the Western 5 yard line and ended the drive without scoring. Craig ended the day with 48 yards on 4 carries.

Western rebounded only 4 minutes later when Ross Tripp carried 3 times for 26 yards to the 4 yard line. Toni Fallis ran to the 30 yard line. Unfortunately Windsor was unable to capitalize on the break here.

Windsor was out of the game for good on just those two bad plays.

The second quarter saw Windsor’s longest drive. Craig Mallender carried for two first downs with keeper later optioned with Bruce Walker and Bruce Young for one reception each. The Lancers drove at their own 40 yard line, and ended the Western 34 yard line, where Windsor was forced to attempt a field goal.

Rob Geier kicked it 40 yards, giving Windsor a 9-7 lead. Then on the roof fell in.

On a second and long, at the Western 18 yard line, Western linebacker, Jamie Bone, unloads on Tom Arnott at the 50. Arnott dodged three would-be tacklers and scrambled to the end zone for 6 points. The key.

To the play was that two unidentifiable Lancer defensive backs ran in each other trying to make the tackle, leaving Arnott wide open. Windsor never regained the lead after that set back.

Windsor’s next drive failed when Mallender stepped back to throw and several Western linemen slammed him and he lost the ball. Windsor’s Henry Sveick picked it up and broke into the end zone.

Windsor was out of the game for good on just those two bad plays.

Windsor’s next possession was much more successful. Mallender passed to Adams on a 15 yard completion and then his brother Craig for another 15 yard gain. But Windsor had to settle for a goal f 0r 1 play later. Following Windsor’s field goal, Western almost struck again.

Bone throwing a 40 yard to Ross Tripp. The Lancers got the break when it was called back on a holding penalty.

Western was forced to punt but Arnott couldn’t kick it more than 30 yards. Al Donoust, having a fine game, returned the ball 50 yards to the Western 30 yard line. Unfortunately Windsor was unable to capitalize on this break either.

Windsor threatened once more, in the fourth quarter but had to settle for another Geier field goal. The drive started at the Western 36 yard line following a poor punt. Windsor was ineffective on the ground so Mallender went to the air on a screen pass reception by Rogers. Adams, and he managed to scramble down to the 17 yard line. Mallender kept to a walk with a pass to Bruce Walker but the Lancers failed once again to move the ball any further taking the field goal.

Coach Fracas decided to go with Steve Zack on what turned out to be Windsor’s final possession. The first play from scrimmage, Zack pitched to Craig Mallender who tried to execute the half back pass. But Craig threw the ball too short, and it was picked off by the Mustang’s Dimity Kulisky. The game ended with Western in possession and they ended up 7 points victors.

Windsor’s defense had a fine game overall with Al Donoust, and Jim Cimba all stood out on defense. Fracas commented that he was “proud of the defense today.”

The Lancer offense had a poor showing, partially due to injury problems. Western’s defense was another reason that the offense lacked its usual zip last week. Scott Mallender event 10 for 38 in the air and 115 yards gained. The ground game was much less with only 94 yards on 36 carries.

There was also figure in Windsor’s loss taking for 81 yards and 5 of those for a first down for the opposition.

Western’s offense was also hampered by the defense. The Westerner’s running back, was sidelined with an ankle injury and running back Toni Fallis was lost for the season, during the game, with a broken knee.

Ross Tripp gained 119 of these. Jamie Bone went 7 for 19 in the air for 162 yards, well below average. This week Windsor plays McMaster in Hamilton, and will win this one.

Windsor hockey fans who wish to see the games must call the Lancers office to reserve seats.

Intramural games night secrets revealed

By Peter Mudrack

Today, Friday October 21 at 8:15 p.m., the final three events in the University of Windsor Super Star intramural competition. After the first six events, the race between the top five competitors is extremely tight. These final events will be the determining factor in making or breaking the superior athletes participating in this unique form of competition.

In the Super Star scoring system, participants are awarded points for a first place finish, sixty for a second place scoring, fifty points for ending up in third, forty for fourth, and finally, the athlete finishing fifth in a particular event receives thirty points.

Total points after the first two hurdles of the Super Star are:

Paul Richardson - 410
Kevin Greenwood - 390
Dave Gove - 340
Gabe Dosset - 340
Mike Quinn - 260

Greenwood and Richardson finished first and second in the long jump, and both received one hundred points. Richardson also finished first in the long jump, and second in the 800 metres and the tennis tournament. Kevin Greenwood scored a high dive, fastball throw, and 800 metres, and ended second in the long jump. Dave Gove walked away with the tennis tournament, and scored second in the 50 yard swim. Dave Servianos swam the best time in the 50 yard event, and also had the second best softball throw.

The final three events are weight lifting, a basketball free throw contest, and an obstacle course. Come out to witness the crowning of Windsor’s Super Star.

For those interested in playing volleyball, games take place on Tuesday night from 7 to 9. Anyone wanting to play should come out as no specific skill level is required. The Intramural Office will place you on a team.

Someone down at the Intramural Office does not know how to keep a secret. As you know, Games Night is this Saturday at St. Denis, and the actual games to be played were supposed to be strictly confidential and top secret. But someone was blabbed (Vicky), and the entire list of games has been leaked to the press. The games, which are completely new and innovative are (in no particular order):

Barrage, Frisbowl, 2 on 3, Crab Tag, Volleyball, Bone Tag, Bum Ball, Crab Tag, and last but not least, Raid. Sounds interesting, no?

Any number can play these games. In fact, the more the better. Needless to say, everybody is welcome to bring your shooting buddy. What do you think? What is the secret word, the password? Bring your grandmother. So, what, if your grandmother is better at Bum Ball than you are?

New Red Wing bus service

Windsor hockey fans who wish they could get over to Detroit to see their favourite team play the Red Wings, but don’t like driving over to the games now have the chance.

A service is being offered by the Red Wings hockey team for Windsor hockey fans who don’t like the idea of leaving their cars in the Olympia parking lots, and dislike even more going out to get that car after the game.

Scott Lavery, a former Windsor student, is organizing a group of fans to make a real trip out of it if there are some real discounts you can get. You can stay in a hotel, drink free, drink free, drinking crowd even your group of lump-brained engineer friends can get in on the discounts.

Scott Lavery is more happy to get a group of fans together with the arrangements absolutely free. He can help you book a special block of seats for you and any other olds and ends which you might be interested in contacting, at 965-3586.

It’s a great opportunity to get in touch with something, to get a phone call and a little cash, and it’s entertainment that beats the hell out of the pub.

Departing from there at 6:15 it will travel to Dieppe Park.

It will depart Dieppe at 6:30 for the Olympia and anyone on board should remember to bring some identification stating their nationality (ie birth certificate, passport etc). The cost is two dollars per person and the bus will return to Windsor right after the game.

Getting tickets for games at Olympia is remarkably easy too. All you have to do is call Windsor at 356-4545 to tell them which game you would like tickets for and they will book them for you. All you do is hop on the bus, pay your dollar fare, get off the bus, go to the box office, tell them who you are and pay for your tickets. You can then sit back and enjoy watching some of the best hockey there is. Make sure you call Windsor Arena early for the good seats of course.

If you have a group larger than 20, you might make a real trip out of it if there are some real discounts you can get. You can stay in a hotel, drink free, drink free, drinking crowd even your group of lump-brained engineer friends can get in on the discounts.

Scott Lavery is more happy to get a group of fans together with the arrangements absolutely free. He can help you book a special block of seats for you and any other olds and ends which you might be interested in contacting, at 965-3586.

It’s a great opportunity to get in touch with something, to get a phone call and a little cash, and it’s entertainment that beats the hell out of the pub.
Students can improve campus food services

After two meetings in the residences last week, Food Services Director Richard Carson hopes the campus is more informed about the problems faced by food services, and what students can do to help.

Facing often hostile crowds at Laurier and Macdonald Halls last Thursday evening, Carson responded to criticism of the food, personnel, and organization of food services.

Carson is employed by Saga Foods, an international company. In ten years with Saga he has worked at other universities such as York and Mount Allison. Food service staff members belong to a union, Local 1901 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, which also covers maintenance and janitorial workers on campus.

Student criticism of food services has intensified in the past two years, due to the introduction of mandatory food plans for residence students in September 1975. Saga also took over the food services contract that year, succeeding Beaver Foods.

Most recently, students have complained that food services broke the residence students' contract by taking away the right of scrip holders to eat all-you-can-eat meals along with those who have purchased 10 or 14-meal board plan. Legal opinion on the alleged violation of the contract is still forthcoming.

Under the previous system, in effect until October 16, Carson said students who ate only once a week were overcharged, and those who purchased 10 or 14 meals were overcharged by $3.00 or $4.80.

He predicted figures which showed that at dinner each person ate an average of 2.5 portions.

Now that scrip holders can join the all-you-can-eat feasts only for breakfast and lunch, Carson's figures show each person eats only 1.8 portions per day.

One student at Macdonald Hall said he presented those figures, because they indicated that students were overcharged. He said food services idea of a portion was too small.

Because of problems with the new system, changes are necessary, Carson presented the students with a list of possible alternatives to the present system, which included charged bourses and formats in Vanier.

(five student reps on the nine-member committee). "There are enough students on that committee to carry any motion you want through."

Carson repeated that food services could handle most individual problems that come up. He said food services individuals meals for students with health problems, and that there are always extra cold meals and sandwiches for board students who do not like any of the three entrees offered each day for dinner. "We guarantee satisfaction," he said.

Prices are out of his hands. He led 40 cents out of every dollar is spent on food, and the rest of the money is spent on labor costs, preparation, cooking, etc. He admits union wages are high, but he attributes that to years of negotiations with the university, and to the labor climate in Windsor. "The union belongs to the university, and the caterer cannot do one thing to change that," said Carson in answer to questions about whether other staff could be hired at lower pay.

Some students at Laurier complained about the attitude of those working food services. "I can get people who will smile at me, at a restaurant, which I can't get at your place," one girl told Carson. Carson said any student criticism of food services should be reported to him, and that they could be subject to discipline, under contract regulations.

Carson also told his Laurier audience that Saga's meals are planned by professional dieticians, and that they offer proper nutrition.

Some Laurier residents complained about the difficulty of using the one oven in the residence basement when they wished to cook for themselves. There was used to be stoves scattered throughout Laurier before the compulsory food plans were introduced last year. Director of Residences Dave MacMurray said the stoves in past years had been too expensive to maintain, and had caused many problems. He agreed to install one more stove in the Laurier basement.

Statistics Canada studies bookstore

Bet you didn't know they kept statistics like this... The latest figures released by Statistics Canada indicate sales at campus book stores across Canada rose in 1977. Preliminary estimates show 76-77 retail sales of 210 campus book stores rose 11.8% over the previous year to $82 million. Text books accounted for 62.4% of sales, trade books 12.3%, stationery and supplies 12.9%, and miscellaneous items 9.4%.

Big Brother is watching you.

Windsor students Lobby MPPs

University of Windsor students will be involved in some of the actions to be taken opposing the Ontario government's new student aid program.

The Ontario Federation of Students is planning a mass lobby at Queen's Park in Toronto on Nov. 10, to make MPPs aware of the implications of the new student aid package. Representatives from Windsor will be lobbying with students from universities and community colleges all over the country.

Maryon Overholt, the Liberal Federation of Omnium, hopes Windsor will send about 15 delegates. She calls the lobbying "a positive alternative to a demonstration."

One week before the lobby day, this Thursday, Nov. 3, there will be a general assembly to discuss the new student aid plan. Special guest will be the Liberal Colleges and Universities critic John Sweeney. Overholt is still trying to book local MPP Ted Bounall, the NDP's university critic, and a spokesperson from the Ministry of Colleges and Universities. The assembly will take place in Ambassador Auditorium at Thursday, and will consist of an outline of the student aid program and its drawbacks, and statements by the guest speakers. "Hopefully, after the General Assembly there will be much more interest and enthusiasm" in external affairs such as student aid, says Overholt. After the assembly, the students who will go to Toronto for the lobby day will be selected.

The lobby will hit all MPPs, and will both gauge their knowledge of student issues and inform them about student complaints about the OSAP changes.

The OSAP changes, announced in September, will be finalized in January. In the meantime, students are concerned about aspects of the program which affect students and those in professional schools from receiving grants, and which force part-time students' grants after only four years.

In addition, students are still waiting for the Ministry to announce how much students will be expected to contribute to their education from their summer earnings, and how much their parents will be expected to pay.

Another concern is the provision in the new program for the provincial government to check out people's tax returns to ensure the validity of statements made on student aid applications.

Anyone desiring more information about the general assembly, student aid or lobby day, should contact Maryon Overholt at the SAC office, second floor of the University Centre.

CALABRIA CLUB
900 Howard Avenue
HALLOWE'EN
ANCE

With
-----ABLE DAGGER-----

October 31, 1977
at 8 pm
Admission $2.00

Windsor

THE LANCE—October 28, 1977—PAGE THREE

THE BIG DIMENSION INC.
CATERING EXCLUSIVELY TO THE BIG & TALL MAN

We carry a full line of the latest styles and shades in sweaters from med, tall to 3x tall, shirts from med, tall to 4x, slacks from 34 waist to 54 waist along with accessories to compliment your appearance.

1662 OTTAWA ST., WINDSOR, ONTARIO
Phone 258-1617
The Lance

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Press offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4.

Subscription rates are $1.35 per year. Entered as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writers and not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Student's Administrative Council.

Offices: 253-4222, Ext. 142
or 253-4060
Advertising: 253-4232, Ext. 326

---

Letters

Dear Editor:

Down in the deep, dark depths of my basement I have a T.V. set. It doesn't work. Someone gave me this T.V. set 10 years when it did work; however it never worked very well - it used to cough and sputter a lot. I never watched it, but my roommate did. One day somebody tried to mend it, and since that day it has never once flickered into life. So it was banished to the depths of the aforementioned basement, where it now collects dust and houses insects and spiders.

I always thought the base ment was an excellent place for that T.V. set, but now I have thought of an even better place. I am going to take my T.V. set to the top of a hill, then I am going to reduce it to very small fragments with an axe, and finally I am going to reduce these fragments to even smaller particles by oxidising them at a very high temperature. Would anyone like to join me?

The reason I want to burn my T.V. set is not because I am afraid of becoming a mindless idiot because of being bombarded by trashy American ads. I have no reason to fear this because I never watch T.V. Neither am I afraid of becoming a mindless idiot because of being bombarded by trashy American ads. I have no reason to fear this because I never watch T.V.

---

We're out of CUP too

Dear Editor:

We're not CUP members either. Unlike you, though, we have no real interest in rejoining that noble organization. You probably say our earlier letter on that subject.

Re the point raised in your latest letter - yes, you can have all the reprint rights you want. Just name the Martlet by name in your dateline or acknowledge- lishment. We'll do the same for you.

As you have probably noticed, you're already on our mailing list. We can afford stamps now. No $5500 CUP fees over our heads.

We're subscribing to Liberation News Service, effective this week. For twenty a month, we get all the dto CUP used to use for filler, and much more too. We also are setting up a limited stringer network. We have agents in Washington State and Toronto, Vancouver would be nice, too, but no one seems to like us there.

The sun is shining here in Canada's sociopolitical backwater. 15 degrees C here in cloud- cuckoo-land. The ferries are still on strike and a siege mental- ty has developed.

ha! ha! ha! What a costume! How does he think he'll get any tricks or treats? Going as a... hairy parrot?

---

Out on a Limb

By DON PEPPIN and ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The crunch is on. Exams are near, assignments are overdue, and the research books are piled up in corners.

Professors are busy too. They spend every waking hour plotting: they spend every waking hour - that is, you know, it gives them a thrill to see us hollow-eyed from too much reading and puffy-headed from too much knowledge, and they'll stop at nothing, including dressing incoherently in lectures and assigning weeks of work due the following, to see us buckle under academic pressures.

There isn't much that can be done to stop the flow of work, but if you can get your professor to like you, then life will be simpler. Maybe, just maybe, he'll tolerate the type, grammatical errors, and the fact that you just spent three weeks and 25 typed pages on the wrong assignment.

We've compiled a list of items that will ensure your professor's wrath, and the fact that you just spent three weeks and 25 typed pages on the wrong assignment. We've compiled a list of items that will ensure your professor's wrath, and the fact that you just spent three weeks and 25 typed pages on the wrong assignment.

* When going in to ask your professor for an extension, arrive at the front of the class. Watch the professor constantly, and when he is dictating, you will be able to recognize his genius, and you may win a doodle contest too.

* Tell him something silly like you should never confuse knowledge, and not necessarily the University of Canada. Student enrolment, all the better for them.

* Always have a doctoral test and testify for him in front of a Promotion and Tenure Committee. Then hand back the test he just marked and say, "I have much better things to do this week. For twenty a month, we get all the dto CUP used to use for filler, and much more too. We also are setting up a limited stringer network. We have agents in Washington State and Toronto, Vancouver would be nice, too, but no one seems to like us there.

* The sun is shining here in Canada's sociopolitical backwater. 15 degrees C here in cloud-cuckoo-land. The ferries are still on strike and a siege mentality has developed.

---

Keep those cards and letters coming, folks

By DON PEPPIN

We've heard some complaints recently that The Lance is covering too much bad news this year. Instead of concentrating on the positive aspects of the university, instead of always trying to give us new glamour, The Lance should be reporting on the good things on campus, it should be helping to instil pride in this institution. The Lance refuses to adopt that role. We are not here to promote this institution. It has its good points, it has its bad points. Since the bad points are too numerous to mention, we have decided to focus on the good points. Since the bad points are too numerous to mention, we have decided to focus on the good points.

A T.V. set is not because I have kicked the habit, almost. I am going to reduce it to very small fragments with an axe, and finally I am going to reduce these fragments to even smaller particles by oxidising them at a very high temperature. Would anyone like to join me?

The reason I want to burn my T.V. set is not because I am afraid of becoming a mindless idiot because of being bombarded by trashy American ads. I have no reason to fear this because I never watch T.V. Neither am I afraid of becoming a mindless idiot because of being bombarded by trashy American ads. I have no reason to fear this because I never watch T.V. No, I would never consider watching such worthless material. Nor is the reason that I am tired of waiting large chunks of the day filling my mind with nothingness, or should I say emptying my mind of all that is valuable. Oh no, I have much better things to do with my time than watch T.V. No, I just want to show the world that I have kicked the T.V. habit - a long time ago and you can do it too.

Sarah Jane Gilmour
NPD critics attack Parrott for lack of concern

Statement by Ed. Philip, MPP Etobicoke, Transportation and Dr. Ted Bouwsma, MPP Windsor-Sandwich, Critic of Colleges and Universities, New Democratic Party.

We are astonished at the lack of concern exhibited by Dr. Harry Parrott, Minister of Colleges and Universities, in a discussion during the spending estimates of the new proposed Ontario Student Grant Plan, over the issue of confidentiality of income tax returns of parents of students needing a grant to continue their post-secondary education.

The concern was brought to Mr. Philip from a constituent student in Renfrew and to Dr. Bouwsma from groups of students from university communities unequipped for the new proposal.

Under the new proposed system, parents are required to give the provincial Government a waiver to allow the Ministry to have access to private information, which could be used for commercial purposes only if given their word that this would not take place. Student Marilyn Bench Director, Mr. W.J. Clarkson said it would be easy to erase the computer memory but was only hopeful that this system could be adopted.

No plans have been made for disposal of the information, if it is received in print-out form.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.

In conclusion, perhaps the greatest surprise is the economy. The Liberals have been in power since 1963. So in fourteen years look where we are. The latest discomfort index (unemployment and inflation) is almost 17%, the dollar will probably hit a low of 91.50 American and our balance of payments may hit a deficit of $9 billion. In summary, the economic standard are not what, and this great land is not only making but losing its reputation. Perhaps the greatest surprise is the economy.

The Chemistry department stated that they have had obvious cuts in the Hawkin's trailer home, Marilyn went to board school in Winnipeg. In conclusion, perhaps the most possible is for the new-found prosperity.

"In the distance stood Inco's profits are down, from $135.9 million in 1976 to $95.2 million this year. And the citizens of Thompson are feeling the pinch. Are the luxurious hotels and specialty shops still crowded? Do people still go to the shopping plaza, or the movies? We don't know. The Lance tried to contact the Hawkin's family to find out. But they don't live in Thompson anymore."

By BOB THOMPSON

Inco gives shaft to thousands with layoffs

By RICK SPENCE

"Marilyn Hawkins teaches in a town that didn't exist a dozen years ago."

"It's Thompson in northern Manitoba."

"Those who follow national news are aware that the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, has recently made headlines."

"There was something going on here...but we manage to play a lot of bridge and Montreal games in our spare time."

"We've been reading portions of the Inco's, which are crippling the city of Sudbury. They have even demanded the nationalization of the nickel industry."

"But when Marilyn first went to Thompson, who is 1958 a different story. She and her mother made the long journey there to join her father Ralph Hawkins, Inco's chief engineer on the mammoth Thompson project. Thompson was then a collection of tents and trailers in a cleared-out area of bush. The only inhabitants were a task force of Inco engineers and construction company men."

"Thompson has been thinned out with a total of about 650 men."

"The shaft was going down and a town about to go up."

"Inco is now expanding its operations in Guatemala, Indonesia and New Caledonia."

"Whereas, another pumping well, is now in the Hawkin's trailer home. Marilyn went to board school in Winnipeg."

The Prime Minister who told the House of Commons that the information will be kept confidential, he seemed not to have previously considered the danger, and under our questioning, could not elaborate any system for handling the information in a way that would guarantee its confidentiality and that it would not get into the hands of other ministers. The system which could be used for commercial purposes could only give his word that this would not take place. Student Marilyn Bench Director, Mr. W.J. Clarkson said it would be easy to erase the computer memory but was only hopeful that this system could be adopted.

No plans have been made for disposal of the information, if it is received in print-out form.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.

We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made. We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made. We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made. We strongly believe that those who cheat the system should be caught and penalized and that the Government has the right, under reasonable suspicion, to ask for full disclosure of financial information. However, by the Ministry's own estimates, only 40 percent of all applications for full information would be in error, intentional or otherwise. The Ministry did not answer the question posed by Mr. Philip if he had projected a cost comparison between the present and the new indexed based information system and the measures lost through the alleged cheating and mistakes now made.
Dear Editor,

There are several burning is­sue s at the University these days but as my stock of paper is limited I have chosen to aim my remarks at the food service.

I feel that this is only fair since the cafeteria has declared all-out war with my stomach and my pocket-book. So far they are winning, having been privileged to two occasions of food poisoning and witness to three others. For example, at one food meeting "When I get sick from a restaurant's food, I never go back and all I have lost is $5.00 - $6.00. However it costs me a tab of $600.00." I can't believe I can eat the whole thing!

I have tried to attend three out of five food meet­ings held in Vanier. I must ad­mit that my hearing for Mr. Carson's problems and to the University's problems since they are the ones that are foot­ ing the loss. At last count and from what I can decipher from scant information the loss is in the neigh­borhood of $130,000 - $160,000. That seems to be a committed loss. It would appear that the song "We're losing money" is becoming en­ vironmental hit of the administra­tion - with little wonder (it can be sung in four part harmony and is similar to "Oward Christian Soldiers").

So where to place the blame? The question will have to be raised again later. Where does it lie? Now there's the rub.

I don't want to get too negative about the whole thing however I do feel that a con­tribution was made by the residen­t students. These people made their decisions regarding the meal plan in their share of information supplied to them by the University. This information alleged through four revisions. This gives me the impression that we are dealing with a con­scious decision quoted to George Orwell's "Animal Farm."

A few comments now on Mr. Carson's remarks in last week's Lance. When the University of­fered a plan of $3.00 all-you-can­eat, it opened the doors to abuse, and overeating. This led the food service to cutting apples in two to prevent con­sumption. There is nothing like having to grovel at the basis mistrust of students by food services (maybe rightfully so). Since the student body knows what the consumption of too many green apples will do to you. At the same time it be­lieves that students could not control their bodily functions long enough to prevent the food service's ship from sinking. Well at the age of 27 I re­alized that there were limits to my pocket-book and I ate generally the $3.00 worth of food.

I don't believe that this Uni­versity can afford to lose $130,000 - $160,000. That seems to be a commit­ted loss. It would appear that the song "We're losing money" is becoming an­ environmental hit of the administra­tion - with little wonder (it can be sung in four part harmony and is similar to "Oward Christian Soldiers").

One Out of Two Isn't Bad

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to you, Don Peppin, for your timely arti­cle on the column "Out on a Limb" in the October 14th issue of the Lance. It was a long-overdue statement on the sadly euthenistic viewpoint of the students. I am appalled at the number of so-called liberals who, as a matter of course, delight in the touting of ethnic jokes, name­calling, and just plain rude behaviour towards those who are not "typical Canadians". Could it be that the real problem, or is it mere ignorance and immunity? Whatever the cause, I hope that as a group number one at least a few people to re­evaluate their attitudes and actions.

May I also point out that, in spite of your admirable stance against bigotry in the column mentioned, you are in effect condoning it at the same time by printing most nationalistic drivel, the views of the P.C.C.C.C.C. severing the Am­bassador Bridge. A decent hum­an being for everyone in the world will only be attained through cooperation, not by saying "I feel it is bigoted, hypocritical and ju­venile of the Lance to print humors of such poor taste."

Sincerely,

Lesley Knapp
Faculty of Law

Carson Charges Inaccuracies

Dear Editor,

A brief comment on Ad­ ministration Blamed for Food Deficit.

I am very disappointed with the quality of reporting which has appeared in the Lance. This is not the first time that I have been quoted and the entire quote not been used or parts of what have been quoted were twisted to give different mean­ing.

Jed the food service. They do so for the immediate economic area unlike other areas of Canada. Their problems could have lower rates at this time.

In closing reporting and pass­ing of information is good, but accuracy is imperative because others form opinions based on your information. Sincerely,

Richard K. Carson, Division of Productive Services, University of Windsor

Wallace Answers Critics Over Trudeau, Chile

Dear Editor,

In reply to two letters ap­pearing in the Lance, one by Peter Hrastovec, was a criti­cism of my former comment on student loan cutbacks and unemployment. The second let­ter, by Bruce Walman, concen­trated the mass withdrawal of bank accounts from the TD bank last year.

First, Mr. Hrastovec colours my whole position as tar­nish concerning his attitude to student unemployment. He asks me "Is there a "Punk-fink economy" rather than one indi­vidual. Yet, contradistinction to his remarks perhaps the point is that our problems would be so much smaller if only we followed the Prime Minister's "a Limb" in the October chapter of Amnesty Interna­tional, a world wide non-politi­cal organization. If Mr. Wal­man got his facts straight he would have found that the TD bank, the Royal Bank of Canada, and the Bank of Nova Scotia joined a U.S. Consor­tium in the spring of 1976 to loan Chile 125 million dol­lars, Canada and its institu­tions could have used financial assis­tance as a lever to effect hu­man reforms in Chile's op­pressive regime. But it did not attach any such conditions to the loan. The loan in fact saved Chile from bankruptcy and helped perpetuate a regime which has no concern for the human rights of its political prisoners. Mr. Walman, before you accuse, please get your facts straight.

Joseph Avry
Faculty of Law

Banks Aid Regime

Dear Editor,

Contrary to Bruce Walman's accusations (Lance, October 21), the banks withdrew this loan only in an attempt to prevent the U.S. from having to foot the bill. In fact Mr. Walman has his facts completely wrong. He says the banks were lending Chile money but only granting an extension to an already loansharking loan. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The T.D. Bank, Royal Bank of Canada and Bank of Nova Scotia joined a U.S. Consor­tium in the spring of 1976 to for unions and they are not all bad but you can ask for more than that. Most employees get two weeks paid vacation and a pen and pencil set from Par­ker Brothers when they leave. This administration certainly has been generous. I'd hope that in the present rounds of negotia­tions that salaries would not be mentioned. At least if it is it better be in whispered tones!

Well, all this typing has made me hungry so I'll head for McDonald's and get a Big Mac.

John Grieben
Cody Hall

One of a Lot of Trouble

Dear Editor,

Unfortunately that hol­ders of parking permits to Park­ ing Lot J were not warned of its "temporary closing" (for 4 - 6 weeks!!!) for paving. When I paid for my parking permit, I was told the lot would be paved "around the beginning of October" and that there was nothing to worry about.

Instead of closing down one half at a time (first, then J2) to do the paving, some­one in his infinite wisdom de­cided to do both down at once. It was a great incon­venience to arrive at school before closing only to find a lock­ed gate and no close parking. Later I discovered that permit owners were entitled to park in Lot G, near Huron Line and College. Had I wanted to get away from there I supposed to park in Lot G, near Huron Line and College. Had I wanted to get away from there I would have paid for one! I believe that the holders to permits for Lot J are entitled to a partial refund of the $37.50 for not being able to park in Lot J.

L. Gamble
P.S. The first few days after closing J1, there was no oppor­tunity activity, so why was it clo­sed so soon?

P.S. The first few days after closing J1, there was no oppor­tunity activity, so why was it clo­sed so soon?
Senates pass motion to standardize final exams

By RICK SPENCE

The biggest university in the country isn't satisfied. The University of Toronto (U. T.) says the present system of scheduling exams, which permits holding testing procedures in the last week of classes in the first semester, on the last two weeks of the second term. Also unstated will be the requirement that all marks must be submitted to the dean no later than five days after the final test procedure in course.

The new ruling does not affect previous testing regulations which permit holding testing procedures in the last week of classes in the first semester, or on the last two weeks of the second term. Also unstated will be the requirement that all marks must be submitted to the dean no later than five days after the final test procedure in course.

Senates regulation has dictated that "all courses will have some type of oral, meaningful, final testing procedure (written test, oral interview, essay, take-home test, etc.)". The new regulation reads as follows:

Three-hour evaluation periods will be scheduled in the formal final examination periods in December and April. Exception to this rule may be) during the three-hour period so scheduled. The actual duration of testing procedures during the scheduled period may be less than three hours, at the discretion of the individual professor.

"If professors special types of examinations can be accommodated in the three-hour period, they are permitted to require the Registrar by the Head of the Department, the Director of the School, or dean of the Faculty involved, and special arrangements will be made.

The Office of the Registrar will compile the forthcoming scheduling sheet for both semesters of the regular year, prior to September 1, so that it is available to students before they finalize their course selections.

U of Thopos to profit from government cutbacks

By BYRENA MCLEISTER

All public meetings must be open to all, the Centre Policy Committee decided last Thursday. "If a meeting is deemed to be one of the status of open and closed meetings," the subcommittee presented two motions at the Centre Policy meeting last Thursday: "If a meeting to be held in the University Centre is advertised as an open meeting, no individual may be excluded from that meeting"; and "Any person attending an open meeting in the University Centre shall have the right to refuse to give his/her name, or sign any record of attendance at that meeting." Both of these motions were passed.

In addition, it has been suggested that a U. of T. committee be formed to consider the status of open and closed meetings. The subcommittee presented two motions at the Centre Policy meeting last Thursday: "If a meeting to be held in the University Centre is advertised as an open meeting, no individual may be excluded from that meeting"; and "Any person attending an open meeting in the University Centre shall have the right to refuse to give his/her name, or sign any record of attendance at that meeting." Both of these motions were passed.

The Centre Policy Committee formed a "Subcommittee to consider the status of open and closed meetings". The subcommittee presented two motions at the Centre Policy meeting last Thursday: "If a meeting to be held in the University Centre is advertised as an open meeting, no individual may be excluded from that meeting"; and "Any person attending an open meeting in the University Centre shall have the right to refuse to give his/her name, or sign any record of attendance at that meeting." Both of these motions were passed.

SAC was asked on both occasions to take steps to prevent similar situations in the future.

The Centre Policy Committee formed a "Subcommittee to consider the status of open and closed meetings". The subcommittee presented two motions at the Centre Policy meeting last Thursday: "If a meeting to be held in the University Centre is advertised as an open meeting, no individual may be excluded from that meeting"; and "Any person attending an open meeting in the University Centre shall have the right to refuse to give his/her name, or sign any record of attendance at that meeting." Both of these motions were passed.
Transit Windsor on the road to success

By BRUCE DINSMORE

Windsor has never seen the like of next Monday. The advance swells of what is to come have been felt rippling through the community for several years, but now it is all coming to head.

On Monday, it will be official. The good, old, SW&A will no longer exist.

Transit Windsor has arrived.

You have probably already seen the bright new paint job on buses that have been cruising the streets. The new buses sport a gleaming yellow top with green and blue racing stripes down the side. This bold new colour scheme was a public visual reminder of the changes taking place within the bus company.

Studies of the bus system have been taking place everywhere since the city bought the company years ago. Studies came and studies went but for the most part they had little effect until James Mambidge took over the system. At that time, plans were drawn up for finding out what the public wanted.

There were many people who thought the plans would never work. Windsor has been a motor town, and many feel that a city that makes cars for a living is not about to go overboard for a municipal transit system.

It has been said that Windsor has the worst municipal transit system in the province. It is unlikely to compare the SW&A to the Toronto Transit Commission.

But there have been faults. With the exceptions of the major downtown core routes, and on some special occasions (like the freedom festival or New Year's Eve), there has been no right service.

One of the beiefs of the eastern sections of Windsor, such as Forest Glade, was that they were paying property taxes like the rest of the city, but they did not receive services available in other areas.

Under the new system, night service will be available in most areas of the city, including the suburbs.

How did these changes come about?

It started last year with a thing called O-D day. O-D in this case stood for Origin-Destination Day.

Last spring, the bus company hired a whole raft of students to carry out surveys of the bus passengers. The surveys asked questions like where each person got on the bus, and what was their stop. This was an effort to determine where the majority of the transit riders were going, and where they had come from. This survey, along with a number of others, produced a wealth of data on the Windsor bus system. This data was digested with the aid of a consultant firm. The resulting study of the data took several months, and not until the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications' computers got into the act did the Windsor bus system study begin to emerge.

There have been ongoing improvements to the bus system. Because of a spare parts problem the old fare boxes were replaced with a new set, and the bus company began to put up a series of bus shelters across the city, at major traffic points.

This spring, the study of the Windsor bus system emerged as a stack of computer printouts, five feet high. A new route system was drawn up, with the additional aid of surveys that were sent to every second house in Windsor. This survey was to determine the needs of Windsor.

A new route system has been drawn up to examine the results of this survey. One of the major changes in greater accessibility. One of the major goals of the system is that the buses run on time.

Because of the Windsor street patterns, the new system resembles the old, but that is just about where the similarity ends.

The system has been designed to improve accessibility. One of the major problems of the current system is that the bus passes are confusing, you seemed to need to know the old system to make any sense of the new one.

Transit Windsor has installed a new telephone number for transit information, 255-1133. There are more plans for the future of Transit Windsor. Computer interface with the bus system, maybe bus passes . . . there will be individual route schedules coming out in the near future.

One thing that has not been discussed for the city-owned bus line is a fare increase.

This writer thinks that Windsorers can expect to be paying 45 cents for a bus ride before 1978 is out. There has been no mention of such a move, but events seem to point in that direction.

To see how well Transit Windsor did in its first week of operation . . . next week's Lance.

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The University's Communications Studies Department has requested the material used by The Royal Commission inquiry into violence in the communications industry.

The Commission, headed by Dr. Harry LaMarsh, spent well over a year researching materials and listening to briefs prepared by concerned Ontario residents.

Dr. Garth Jowett, head of Communication Studies, feels this university should receive the Commission's research library. Windsor is the 'logical place' to have the collection, he said, because it has the only graduate program in Communication Studies in the province.

Jowett said the library would be used on a daily, continuous basis by students in his department, as well as those in other departments, such as Psychology and Sociology. The material contains a large quantity of undigested data, which can be used in social science research to analyze such areas as pressure groups.

The University of Windsor already has the original submissions made to the Special Senate Committee on Mass Media, conducted in 1970. The

One of the major changes in the system is something called the Transway. It is a revamped version of the old Ouellette route. It is the major artery into which the other routes feed.

Expanded service is one thing from which many areas of the city will benefit. South Windsor and Forest Glade will receive the major shots in the arm, South Windsor will receive night service, and there will be vastly improved service to the Forest Glade area.

One of the benefits of the new transit system is that it will be easier to get around the city on Transit Windsor than ever before. One of the major findings of the surveys was that people wanted to go to Devonshire Mall. The South Windsor shopping facility is a major staging point for the new Transit Windsor system. Transit Windsor published a two page map in last Saturday's edition of the other Communication Studies bids for gov't research

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The University's Communications Studies Department has requested the material used by The Royal Commission inquiry into violence in the communications industry.

The Commission, headed by Dr. Harry LaMarsh, spent well over a year researching materials and listening to briefs prepared by concerned Ontario residents.

Dr. Garth Jowett, head of Communication Studies, feels this university should receive the Commission's research library. Windsor is the 'logical place' to have the collection, he said, because it has the only graduate program in Communication Studies in the province.

Jowett said the library would be used on a daily, continuous basis by students in his department, as well as those in other departments, such as Psychology and Sociology. The material contains a large quantity of undigested data, which can be used in social science research to analyze such areas as pressure groups.

The University of Windsor already has the original submissions made to the Special Senate Committee on Mass Media, conducted in 1970. The LaMarsh Commission information would complement these current holdings, said Jowett.

Six of the 28 studies were conducted by professors at this university; five of those were done by Communication Studies professors.

Currently the materials, including 1800 books, and the public briefs, are sitting in crates in a Toronto warehouse.

The LaMarsh Commission recommended the library of material be given to a degree-granting institution in Ontario. The government of Ontario has yet to announce whether of not it will follow that recommendation. The University of Windsor, Ryerson Polytechnical Institution, and the University of Western Ontario have all told Premier William Davis they would like the material.

Drs. Fred Feser and Robert Rees at the University of Windsor is at a disadvantage because the city of Windsor is not a Progressive Conservative stronghold. Jowett said he hopes steps will be taken to 'ensure that the decision is made on a logical academic basis and not an emotional political bias.'

Dr. Harry Parrott, Minister of Colleges and Universities, also wondered if the data should be kept in the government archives in Toronto. That suggestion is now receiving attention from the Attorney General's department.

If the LaMarsh Commission recommendation is accepted, the institution receiving the library will also be given a small annual stipend to add to the material.

The entire question is being considered by a provincial government committee. There has been no deadline set as to when the matter will be placed before cabinet.

Goodbye SW&A

TRANSPORT WINDSOR

Transit Windsor on the road to success

By BRUCE DINSMORE

Windsor has never seen the like of next Monday. The advance swells of what is to come have been felt rippling through the community for several years, but now it is all coming to head.

On Monday, it will be official. The good, old, SW&A will no longer exist.

Transit Windsor has arrived.

You have probably already seen the bright new paint job on buses that have been cruising the streets. The new buses sport a gleaming yellow top with green and blue racing stripes down the side. This bold new colour scheme was a public visual reminder of the changes taking place within the bus company.

Studies of the bus system have been taking place everywhere since the city bought the company years ago. Studies came and studies went but for the most part they had little effect until James Mambidge took over the system. At that time, plans were drawn up for finding out what the public wanted.

There were many people who thought the plans would never work. Windsor has been a motor town, and many feel that a city that makes cars for a living is not about to go overboard for a municipal transit system.

It has been said that Windsor has the worst municipal transit system in the province. It is unlikely to compare the SW&A to the Toronto Transit Commission.

But there have been faults. With the exceptions of the major downtown core routes, and on some special occasions (like the freedom festival or New Year's Eve), there has been no right service.

One of the beiefs of the eastern sections of Windsor, such as Forest Glade, was that they were paying property taxes like the rest of the city, but they did not receive services available in other areas.

Under the new system, night service will be available in most areas of the city, including the suburbs.

How did these changes come about?

It started last year with a thing called O-D day. O-D in this case stood for Origin-Destination Day.

Last spring, the bus company hired a whole raft of students to carry out surveys of the bus passengers. The surveys asked questions like where each person got on the bus, and what was their stop. This was an effort to determine where the majority of the transit riders were going, and where they had come from. This survey, along with a number of others, produced a wealth of data on the Windsor bus system. This data was digested with the aid of a consultant firm. The resulting study of the data took several months, and not until the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications' computers got into the act did the Windsor bus system study begin to emerge.

There have been ongoing improvements to the bus system. Because of a spare parts problem the old fare boxes were replaced with a new set, and the bus company began to put up a series of bus shelters across the city, at major traffic points.

This spring, the study of the Windsor bus system emerged as a stack of computer printouts, five feet high. A new route system was drawn up, with the additional aid of surveys that were sent to every second house in Windsor. This survey was to determine the needs of Windsor.

A new route system has been drawn up to examine the results of this survey. One of the major changes in greater accessibility. One of the major goals of the system is that the buses run on time.

Because of the Windsor street patterns, the new system resembles the old, but that is just about where the similarity ends.

The system has been designed to improve accessibility. One of the major problems of the current system is that the bus passes are confusing, you seemed to need to know the old system to make any sense of the new one.

Transit Windsor has installed a new telephone number for transit information, 255-1133. There are more plans for the future of Transit Windsor. Computer interface with the bus system, maybe bus passes . . . there will be individual route schedules coming out in the near future.

One thing that has not been discussed for the city-owned bus line is a fare increase.

This writer thinks that Windsorers can expect to be paying 45 cents for a bus ride before 1978 is out. There has been no mention of such a move, but events seem to point in that direction.

To see how well Transit Windsor did in its first week of operation . . . next week's Lance.
CUP national office faces economic difficulties

The Canadian University Press (CUP) could be in for a rocky road. At a meeting of Ontario region university newspapers (ORCUP) earlier this month, member papers voted to continue a fee strike which could cripple the operation of the national campus news service, which is based in Ottawa. ORCUP was under consideration to end an expansion program for two years, which has seen the establishment of regional bureaus across the country, and a larger number of national office staff. To pay for this program, membership fees were doubled for the 1976-77 year, and increased almost 100% this year. The Lance dropped out of CUP in September, 1976, sparking an exodus which most recently has seen the Western Gazette, the Queen’s Journal, the Guelph Ontarian and several other campus papers leave CUP in protest of the high fees. The Lance dropped out when its 1975-76 fee of $1,200 was doubled for 1976-77; the Lance would be paying about $4,500 per year.

Remaining Ontario CUP members are maintaining a fee strike, which means that the papers will pay only their 1976-77 fees this year, and will not pay the increase. The largest papers, such as the U. of T. Varsity and the Waterloo Chronicle, have been billed for $7,500, but will only pay last year’s total, which was $3,999.

National office representatives at the ORCUP meeting, held at Glendon College in Toronto, expressed concern over the fee strike, and were not sure whether CUP could last under these conditions. ORCUP papers oppose the fee increase because they do not feel expansion was justified, and they believe the national budget was mismanaged.

Kent State cont’d from pg 1

to protest the restraining order. Murphy said the university was trying to have the restraining order extended until July, 1978.

The rally began at 1 p.m. Monday, and consisted of student leaders holding a meeting on a picnic table reading the First Amendment to the Constitution, guarantees of speech and assembly in the U.S. Campus police approached the meeting and read out the restraining order to the crowd, said Murphy, and arrested Arthirlik, but as they took him away, another student stepped up and shouted "murderer." The police arrested him and five others in total, on charges of criminal trespassing in violation of a court order. Sam Murphy told the Lance that police arrested some known members of student protest groups Monday, even though they were not involved in the "sit-in." "We're coming under a lot of police harassment right now," Murphy said. The organizers of Monday's protest knew they would be arrested. The rally was organized by members of the Provincial Association for Free Speech and Free Assembly, the May Fourth Coalition, and the Committee Against Repressive Legislation. Students are now raising bail money for those arrested.

Two of those arrested were identified as non-students by the university, but Murphy said they were "concerned recent graduates" of Kent State. Following the arrests, said Murphy, the crowd stayed and continued reading the first amendment to the Constitution. "We stayed together," he said.

The University News Service spokesperson said "It was all very quiet, and there was no problem on Monday. Although Murphy admitted most students were not concerned with the protests at first, he said "It's starting to turn around...It's very intimidating here these days." He also said "The university is constantly watched by television cameras on the campus.

The "community gathering" was held Wednesday at a park on the site where the ROTC building was burned down some years ago.

The university spokesman said for four days had intervened. The four students who were killed May 4, 1970, died in a parking lot on the hill, to be instantly watched by television cameras on the hill. The student said students considered the whole area, including the hill, to be important, and that some people still believe the hill can be re-constructed.

"My own feelings are that the gym will be built, sooner or later," said Murphy. "It'll be rough going up," he added, "nothing will ever be the same." According to Murphy, the students are holding the rallies and demonstrations to let the university administration know that "We still protest what you've done."

Librarian named

CARBONDALE ILLINOIS: A former law librarian at the University of Windsor's law school has been named to head the United States Supreme Court's law library, in Washington D.C.

Chief Justice Warren B. Burger announced the appointment of Roger F. Jacobs to the supreme court post on October 6. Jacobs will assume his duties January 1. Jacobs has been law librarian at Southern Illinois University - Carbondale since 1973. Previously, he worked at the University of Windsor and the University of Detroit. He is a native of Detroit.

Tongue in cheek

New rules for residence

By MICHAEL UPMALIS

Provincial government additions to the rules and regulations of Maclonald Hall:

1. Diving into hot glasses, wet, spongy, or similar objects from windows will no longer be permitted, however diving into paper containers of beer will be permitted from windows on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th floor, if (1) the cup contains a minimum of 3.54 litres of beer; and (2) you have the permission of the floor R.A.

2. Lost keys will be replaced if you present the main desk secretary with your name, room number, student number, social insurance number, driver’s licence number, any number from 1 to 10, your favourite colour, your maternal grandmother’s middle name, a virgin’s heart, your spare kidney, a pictorial representation of the Criminal Code of Canada and/or a妊娠 test, any number of police harassment right now.

3. Anyone found causing a circuit breaker to be fired will be prosecuted immediately.

4. If any person is found guilty of murdering homeowner’sIRC, he will be punished under the Criminal Code of Canada and/or sign a lifetime subscription to eat only Saga foods.

5. Elevator cables are not to be painted.

6. Jacobs will assume his duties January 1. Jacobs has been law librarian at Southern Illinois University - Carbondale since 1973. Previously, he worked at the University of Windsor and the University of Detroit. He is a native of Detroit.

Trivia answers

There Is a difference!!!

- MCAT - LSAT - DAT
- GMAT - VAT - GRE - OAT - SAT
- NATIONAL MED. & DENT. BOARDS
- ECFCMP
- FLEX
- CALL BIRTHRIGHT, 252-3222
- PREGNANCY test available.
- OR Write
- TO
- AFFILIATED CENTERS IN MAJOR U.S. CITIES

1. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
2. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
3. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
4. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
5. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
6. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
7. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
8. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
9. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
10. "I really can't tell you how much I appreciate your coming here these days."
Here's how you enter. Complete and send in the entry form below. Carefully read the rules and regulations and answer the four easy questions on long distance calling. The answers to the questions are contained in the introductory pages of your telephone directory. Mail the completed entry form; to be eligible, entries must be received no later than November 15th, 1977, and who knows, you could be driving around in your own special custom painted Mini before you know it.

Long Distance Sweepstakes

TransCanada Telephone System

---

Rules & Regulations

1. To enter the "Win-A-Mini" contest, complete this Official Entry Form. Only Official Entry Forms will be considered. Limit one entry per person.

2. Contest closes with entries received as of November 15, 1977.

3. Selections will be made from eligible entries received, and contestants agree to the use of their names, addresses and photographs in any forthcoming publicity in the event of becoming a winner.

4. Contest is open only to students who are registered full-time or part-time at any accredited Canadian University, Canadian College or other Canadian Post-secondary Institution, except employees and members of the immediate families of TransCanada Telephone System member companies, British Leyland Motors Canada Limited, its dealers and their respective advertising agencies, and the independent judging organization. The contest is subject to all applicable Federal, Provincial and Municipal laws.

---

Official Entry Form

Answer the following questions, then complete the information below them: Mail the completed form in time to be received by midnight, November 15, 1977.

ONLY ONE ENTRY PER PERSON

---

Long Distance

---

---
Justice prevails

Dear Editor:

I can see why the Lance keeps advertising for entertainment writers - if you have to give up a whole page to the fee-mindled ramblings of Paul Chernish, you must be hard up. To repeat the point I tried to make in my last letter (which Mr. Chernish either missed or ignored), live bands can not play disco. Live bands have nothing to do with disco. Rock and roll has nothing to do with disco. The Gallery is not disco-oriented. The Gallery has nothing to do with disco. Silk shirts have nothing to do with disco. What are you talking about, Mr. Chernish? Not disco. Catch my drift? Probably not.

Yours truly,
Mike MacCoubery

Editor's Note: You blew it, Mr. MacCoubery. I was all set to apologize for my sarcastic "ramblings" in the previous issue. But I find it difficult to do now. I guess you're right though, disco has nothing to do with the stage itself, the arrangement of the Elmwood is excellent. Are more people interested in entertainment than in advertising? Then let them enjoy it. The "Marine County Line" is an excellent play and Roll has nothing to do with "dinner theatre". The event appears to be a very good idea, and should be good for Windsor's night-time atmosphere.

MOSAIC

Monday, October 31 – CJAM's "Halloween Surprise Special" starting at 11 a.m.

Tuesday, November 1 – CJAM's station manager, Tosh Noma and Lance editor Rick Spence discuss the trials and tribulations of their respective jobs.

Wednesday, November 2 – CJAM66 talks to some of the newly appointed SAC representatives about their plans and goals in SAC, starting at 11 a.m.

Thursday, November 3 – CJAM talks to former Lance editor John Phelan, technician for the School of Dramatic Art, heard at 11 a.m.

Friday, November 4 – The "Moonflower" of Santana, The best of the Grateful Dead, starting at 10 p.m.

LANCER FOOTBALL

CJAM will be broadcasting the game live starting at 2 p.m. between the University of Windsor Lancers and the Western Mustangs.

CJAM LOVE SOUNDS

From 9 a.m. – 11 a.m. every Wednesday and Friday morning music about and for you.

NB: Due to transmitter breakdown we are off the air in Mac and Laurier halls. Our apologies for this inconvenience - it will be resolved shortly.

By PAUL CHERNISH

Windsor's rather stale, monotonous night life will see a change during the weekends from November 11 to December 17. That is when Windsor Dinner Theatre presents its first play, "Water's Running," which will be featured at the event, at 7:30 p.m. on November 11.

The long-running Broadway comedy smash, "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Door Is Shut," is about a world of copy to that crap. A quick look at the intermission of the Elmwood, where the event will take place, would convince anyone of the feasibility of such a production. The event appears to be a very good idea, and should be good for Windsor's night-time atmosphere.

The event will take place, would convince anyone of the feasibility of such a production. The event appears to be a very good idea, and should be good for Windsor's night-time atmosphere.

CJAM will be broadcasting the game live starting at 2 p.m. between the University of Windsor Lancers and the Western Mustangs.

CJAM LOVE SOUNDS

From 9 a.m. – 11 a.m. every Wednesday and Friday morning music about and for you.

NB: Due to transmitter breakdown we are off the air in Mac and Laurier halls. Our apologies for this inconvenience - it will be resolved shortly.
Good food for punks

By FRANK KOVAC

What we have here is a typical "punk rock" band, or so claims Island Records, their recording company. The truth is that Eddie and the Hot Rods have been around a lot longer than punk rock phenomenon (about 2½ years) and Island Records is having difficulty finding a promotional category for them. Voila, instant punk band.

The raw punk energy is there, but they are competent at playing their instruments, and are true to their blues-rock roots. Punk rockers openly admit being musically incompetent, and they do not have any musical roots. They claim all present and past rock stars are musically irrelevant to today. It's an interesting phenomenon. It seems everyone lately, has claimed their musical influences are from the Stones, the Who, Elvin, etc. Whatever happened to the Beatles! Maybe they just weren't masculine enough. Why not put the macho edge on your performing persons by saying that you live, eat, sleep, and breathe the Rolling Stones? It's just a sign of the times.

The Hot Rods are no exception. Take them back 12 years and you've got the Who, the Stones, the Animals. They play as if the members of the band have listened to the Stones' "19th Nervous Breakdown" in their sleep. Vocalist Barry Masters, who is an ex-boxer, sings with an intensity that Mick Jagger wishes he still had. Paul Gray on bass and Steve Nicol on the drums provide a formidable rhythm on which Dave Higgs lays down a biting, Keith Richards style guitar. The addition of ex-Kunaa Flyer guitarist, Graham Douglas fills out the band's raw sound.

The album consists of a number of original songs mixed in with a batch of live recordings.

The studio tracks, however, fail somewhat in comparison with the live cuts. It could be that Higgs hasn't escaped from his, "I wanna be like Chuck Berry" writing style.

The title track and "All I Need is Money" stand up well and they rival the best of Dr. Feelgood (another pub-rock outfit that has been making waves in the U.S.).

The band's renditions of classics such as Bob Seger's "Get Out of Denver" the Stones' "Satisfaction" and Van Morrison's "Glora" are incredible.

In a time when everyone is looking for relevance in their music, it's refreshing to see a band like the Hot Rods, because they have fun.

The Hot Rods will be appearing at the infamous Embassy Hotel on Halloween night on the second stop of their tour of North America.

Who sang it?

By PAUL CHERNISH

We have a bit of a problem concerning last week's quote contest. It seems that someone went nuts and vandalized our contest box.

There was nothing in the box, as I imagine the vandal made off with the contest forms. Therefore, there is no winner. But don't worry, the contest goes on. Just fill out the following form (just like last week's) and bring it up to the Lance office no later than noon Wednesday, November 2. The prizes will remain the same, but we have to change the location of the box to avoid further vandalism. Sorry about that.

1. "When you see me with a smile on my face, then you'll know I'm a mental case."
2. "On your feet or on your knees"
3. "I don't know, but I been told if you keep on dancing you'll never grow old"
4. "Bartender, gimme another drink"
5. "'When the Moon Comes Out and the Nightingale Sings'"
6. "I'm holding your wheel, all I hear is your gear"
7. "'Gloria'"
8. "Like looking in your mirror and seeing a police car"
9. "'I'm a mental case'."
10. "Just yesterday morning they let me know you were gone"

Official 'Who said it' Form

No. 1 is
No. 2 is
No. 3 is
No. 4 is
No. 5 is
No. 6 is
No. 7 is
No. 8 is
No. 9 is
No. 10 is

Official apology

By JIM ANGUS

Since we are rarely wrong here at the Lance entertainment department, you aren't going to see my name too often. I'm the official entertainment apology editor.

This week's special honour goes to those of you around this campus who like disco music. Don't worry, no cracks about deadheads or lack of taste since most of us realize that two qualities as one of the wide range of genres that make up the world of music. It doesn't mean that any of us have to like it, but, as responsible people, we can't tell anyone else they can't like it either.

What we are probably trying to say is that it was an error in judgement to cut off what may be a group of readers who also happen to like disco. Mr. Chernish even admits he is sorry but, can't really afford to get in any deeper, so he has handed the job over to me.

DELTA CHI & NURSING SOCIETY proudly present a SUPER HALLOWE'EN PARTY featuring Detroit's incredible BAN (hard driving Rock N Roll)

SAT.OCT.29, 8PM AMBASSADOR AUD $200 ADVANCE, $2.50 AT DOOR

ALSO: $100 PRIZE FOR THE BEST COSTUME
This play takes place in the dressing room of a professional English Rugby team. For the unknowing, rugby is a game similar to football, except the ball cannot be passed forward, and no protective gear is worn. The team that causes the other more internal injuries usually wins.

In English professional athletes are usually paid very little, and usually not enough to live on. It’s played for fun in England.

In the actual play there are 23 characters: 15 rugby players, 2 reserves, a janitor, a business manager of Club Secretary, an owner, a coach or trainer, and an assistant trainer.

George Neilson can be praised because to coordinate 23 people on such a small stage, and make it workable and realistic is no easy task.

There will be no really special lighting effects and costumes, but the stage will be a marvel. Bill Pinnell’s set is extremely realistic. In a play, all parts of the stage should be seen by the audience and this limits what a stage designer can do. It is one of the best sets I have ever seen. Actual running water on stage is something I never expected to see.

The play appears to be shaping up beautifully.

The entire cast is strong, and the fact that they all speak in accents amazed me while I watched. At first I didn’t understand the accents well, but after a while I understood them perfectly, and spoke with an English accent for a week and a half later.

The play opens tonight. It’s a perfect remedy for the mid-term blues.

Trivia Quiz

One of each of the following sets doesn’t belong. Can you determine the quality or factor that four of the items share, and pick the odd man out?

1. (a) Mississippi (b) Virginia (c) Florida (d) Georgia (e) Kentucky
2. (a) Sydney (b) Adelaide (c) Hobart (d) Perth (e) Auckland
3. (a) Bingo (b) Drooper (c) Gertie (d) Fleagle (e) Snorky
4. (a) Bobby (b) Slip (c) Satch (d) Whitey (e) Blackie
5. (a) Harpo (b) Chico (c) Zeppo (d) Gummo (e) Zeppo
6. (a) rat (b) monkey (c) cow (d) dragon (e) monkey
7. (a) Warner Oland (b) Benson Fong (c) Sidney Toler (d) Roland Winters (e) J. Carroll Nash
8. (a) rat (b) monkey (c) cow (d) dragon (e) rabbit
9. (a) Chemistry (b) Engineering (c) Physics (d) Economics (e) Medicine
10. (a) Yoga S. Grant (b) Benjamin Harrison (c) Abraham Lincoln (d) Warren Harding (e) William Taft
11. (a) Brussels (b) Rome (c) London (d) Helsinki (e) Paris
12. (a) Citation (b) Man of War (c) Whirlaway (d) War Admiral (e) Secretariat
13. (a) Buster Keaton (b) Mary Pickford (c) Charlie Chaplin (d) D.W. Griffith (e) Douglas Fairbanks Sr.
14. (a) jet (b) Ander (c) Corral (d) Opal (e) Pearl
15. (a) New (b) Butterfly (c) Ant (d) Spider (e) Grasshopper
16. (a) Lincoln (b) Jefferson (c) Franklin (d) Washington (e) Roosevelt
17. (a) Damascus (b) Jericho (c) Byzantium (d) Troy (e) Babylon
18. (a) insincerity (b) reticence (c) volubility (d) fluency (e) garrulity
19. (a) Lady of the Camellias (b) Lady of the Lamp (c) Lady of the Lake (d) Lady Bountiful (e) Lady of Shalott
20. (a) M.I.T. (b) Princeton (c) Yale (d) Harvard (e) Columbia

answers on page 9

Disco gone??????

By H. J. SWENSON

It’s finally happened! Peter Romeril finally ran out of rotten disco bands to hire in the pub. Monday night I came to the pub equipped with pen, paper, and ear plugs, ready to review another disco band. But something better happened. There was no band at all. And I always thought Peter had an unlimited supply.

Surely our good fortune couldn’t hold up. Have my prayers finally been answered? Rock and Roll in the pub? The disco net may have finally been filled in.

However, we shall concede that the pub has provided disco bands of varying character. There have been disco bands with audio puke, instrumental excrement, rhythm regurgitation, musical manure, and bass bowel movement, just to name a few. Good Rock and Roll could put an end to this disco diarrhea.

It is our opinion that a re-evaluation of the prime function of the pub is in order. Peter seems to feel the pub was organized to make a profit. In fact it should be used to please the student body, not to rip them off. With 90% of the student body crying for Rock and Roll, why does Romeril continue to hire cheap disco bands? I hope he’s impressed by his financial gains and his lack of student support.

Disco bands are like bad pennies, they keep coming back. We have just learned the band this week is STREET FUNK. Sounds like disco to me. Keep those cards and letters coming.

S.A.C.

Sat. Oct. 29 - Halloween Dance One night only

Your Host: Peter Romeril

Rock and Roll with the 60’s
Greenwood Windsor's new Superstar

By Peter Mudrack

For October 10 saw the crowning of the University of Windsor Super Star, Kevin Greenwood.

Greenwood's strong overall performance, and his second place finish in the final obstacle course event clinched the title for him. The competition was very much in doubt right up until the final event, as Greenwood and Paul Richardson battled neck-and-neck throughout the first eight activities.

Richardson's work was cut out for him through, as he needed to win the obstacle course event and at the same time, have Greenwood finish near the bottom in order to capture the crown. But Kevin officially eliminated the possibility of撵ing the course in a snappy 1:22 minutes, good enough for second place. This winner, over the course of the year, will endeavour to arrange some contests again at the top of the ratings in Canada.

The competition will have Greenwood finish with the cream once again is beginning to rise. It is, however, never like the real thing, which brings me to seriously fighting a chicken who likes the whole idea.

It just follows that a nationally broadcast N.H.L. game and seemed poised for the decision in the third game to take the chances. Tom McCracken belted a grand-slam home run in the final game for the losers. Congratulations to Humkin for capturing the lobball title.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Standings as of Tuesday, October 10 are as follows:

- COMPETITIVE DIVISION
  - Chickletes: 6
  - Bumping Bandiistes: 2
  - Humcums: 2
  - HK Spikers: 0

- RECREATIONAL DIVISION
  - Electa Eletics: 2
  - Social Work: 0

There is still room for additional players, so if you would like to play, come on down and play.

MEN'S LOBBALL

The finals of men's lobball was a hard fought affair, with Humkin emerging as champions in the best of three series. Bill Hewitt's Bears won the first game and seemed poised for the victory, but Humkin battled back to take the second game, and then squeezed out a one run decision in the third game to take the series. Tom McCracken belted a grand-slam home run in the final game for the losers.

Congratulations to Humkin for capturing the lobball title.

FLAG FOOTBALL

The regular season has ended in flag football, with the season stacking up like this:

- Both Humkin and Mac Hall have drawn byes for the first play-off round. First round playoff began October 26, as Cody Greenwood plays Mill Street, and the Bears square off against the Snatchers.

IN THE SHOWERS

By Don Peppin

Well with baseball and my credibility safety out the window now comes the time to turn our attention to the glassy chill of the hockey rink.

The N.H.L. season is now pretty well into the swing of things and something going for them that no one has yet been able to explain why we didn't latch onto hockey like we did up north, very satisfying to see that there really is something which American dollars cannot buy and that we still are the only place to search for hockey talent.

After all the American dream doesn't say anything about getting up at 5:30 in the morning for hockey practice.

Seriously, America just didn't latch onto hockey like we did up here. That was more obvious when the major networks stopped showing the games regularly and opted for a periodical arrangement with the league. On the other hand we have Hockey Night in Canada which started another season last week. It won't be long before Ottawa is again at the top of the ratings in Canada and Bill Hewitt's golden tones are heard from coast-to-coast. As Gordon Sinclair noted in a recent issue of TV Guide, every broadcaster in Canada is constantly fighting a losing battle trying to depose Dave Hodge, Danny Gallivan, Dick Irvine and all the boys from their nationally-appointed pedestal.

Without trying to bring up an old argument, although N.H.L. teams are centered in the States, many of the players still come from this country or pass through here on their way to the big league. It just follows that a nationally broadcast N.H.L. game will draw. However it's never like the real thing, which brings me to my point finally.

Since I come from near Toronto I quite naturally developed a certain love for Montreal, however an argument over the futility of trying to beat them is pointless. The fact is the Maple Leafs have something for them that no one has yet been able to touch...

Maple Leaf Gardens is sold out for the better part of 40 home games. The Red Wings can only pray.

Now Olympia Stadium has just moved very, very close to Windsor. The Red Wings have opened a bus service over to the stadium direct from this side of the river.

Now considering that Olympia is sold out for only the best of teams and the bus service goes from nice safe Dieppe Park to the door and back, this is one chicken manuck who likes the whole idea.

This writer, over the course of the year, will endeavour to arrange such tidbits as a University of Windsor Night, some contests and other nic-nacs hopefully to help you get the change for a good team in action... after all Montreal plays in Detroit twice this year.

SPECIAL OFFRER FOR FULL TIME UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

- Club Membership $60.00
- Reduced court rates Mon. to Fri. 9 am to 4 pm
- Regular rates other times

Come out to the clubs or call 966-2172

3301 Huron Church Rd.
Windsor takes gold at All-Ontario

By LORNA CHERITON and NIGEL MILLER

The OUAA and OWIAA finals were held last weekend in Hamilton. The Windsor track teams offered a good effort in the meet but were unable to upset the big teams from Toronto, Queens and McMaster.

Overall Windsor placed fifth in the OWIAA (women) finals and seventh in the OUAA (men) finals. The winning team for the women's track was McMaster, and Queens won the team championship for the men's track. Toronto placed second in each.

The women's team did however manage to win two golds, a silver and two bronnes.

Windsor women, at McMaster for the OWIAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships October 22, bettered both placement and point scores of previous years.

With 50 points, the Windsor girls placed fifth, only 2 points behind the Waterloo and York women's teams which were tied with 52 each.

FIRST PLACE

Contributing to the Lancers' scoring, Jennifer Pace took first place in shot put with a heave of 12.51 M, a University of Windsor record, and third in discus with a throw of 36.40 M.

Andrea Page won gold in the 400 M hurdles with a time of 67.5 seconds, also a University of Windsor record. Sharon McNamara took second in Women's javelin with a toss of 34.90 M and Linda Straut set another University of Windsor record with her third place time of 4:53.0 in the 1500 M.

Performances by the following athletes added to the growing number of personal best (P.B.) results turned in. Almost every member of the women's team has reached a personal best this season:

100 M — Margot McKirney 13.8

Judy Tomp 14.5

200 M — Andrea Page 27.0 P.B.

Margot McKirney 25.4

400 M —

Rose Caille 62.7

Judy Tomp 67.1 P.B.

800 M —

Rose Caille 2:26.4 P.B.

Cathy Seguin 2:31.9 P.B.

3000 M —

Debbie Powell 8:16 M PB

Linda Straut 10:44.4 P.B.

(University of Windsor record)

100 M Hurdles —

Andrea Page 17.2

4 x 100 M Relay — 53.9

4 x 400 M Relay — 4:23.3

(Tied School Record)

Discus —

Sharan McNamara 29.56 M

Shot put —

Debbie Powell 11.16 M PB

The men's team was not as successful at winning medals, but team coach Dr. Michael Salter felt the meet was a success as several University of Windsor records were set as well as several personal bests.

Paul Roberts took 12 seconds off his personal best, and the University of Windsor record for the 3000 metre steeple chase. Another record was set by Ray Holland, who ran the 5000 metres in 15:48.8.

Two members of the Lancer relay team pass the "buck" (baton) in last week's All-Ontario Meet.

Steve Domino also broke a record in the pole vault with a jump of 3.70 metres.

A personal best was achieved by Dale Irwin in the discus with a toss of 34.54 metres. He also placed fourth in the javelin. Sil Campagne managed a fourth in the shot, and Paul Richard- son placed fourth in the high jump.

Lancer Bob Payette, qualified on Sunday for the Boston Marathon a runner must complete a recognized Marathon in less than three hours. Bob placed 71st in a field of 461.

---

SAM'S PIZZERIA

Wyandotte W.

Pizza, Ravioli, Chicken, Ribs, etc.

256-4993

Look for our specials regularly.

Attention University Student

15% off or 2 free 10 oz. Cokes for all deliveries made to campus.

Wings at home

November 2 Pitt 15 NVR

5 *CLEV 21 Buff

9 Wash 27 +COLO

12 NVR 31 BOS

16 STL 512 TOR

23 Phil 14 Buff

27 NY 19 Chi

December 6 CHI 22 Wash

19 Chi 26 Pit

29 Phil 22 Wash

February 5 Cleve 15 NVR

9 BOS 21 Buff

12 vanc 27 +COLO

16 ATL 31 BOS

19 LA 512 TOR

23 Wash 14 Buff

26 STL 19 Chi

March 5 iMINN 2215

9 BOS 14 Buff

11 COLO 28 ATL

12 vanc 19 Chi

22 ATL 30 LA

April 2 NY 31 BOS

6 Pitt 512 TOR

9 Mont 2215

* Nov. 5 Free tote bug day

+ Dec. 27 Free Cap 2 p.m.

Jan. 22 Free T-shirt day

Feb. 12 Free Pack day

Mar. 5 Free Steck day

---

Pregnant

No Age Limit

Free Counseling

(Associated with fee)

Free Pregnancy Test

(47) 246-7000

3 Hour Clinic: Daytime

Accredited

We strive for high patient comfort and friendly personal attention.

ACM Approved

DETROIT ABORTIONS
By PETER NASH
Hockey has not always been a strong point over Windsor over the past few years but a new optimism is generated by the players having a winning team again. Coach Cee Eaves feels that the team has a greater ability to score and added, "We have better forwards this year. They have a greater ability to score than in the forwards we had last year." This "greater ability to score" is what the Lancers had except in the scoring and individual line strength. Owen Freemen also noted "we had last year." Freemen also noted that the one game and the two third-down gamble that could have been won by Windsor, were not profitable.

The team this year has greater goals than last year, according to the experience of personnel who can place the Lancers on the playing field. Experienced players could have a winnable team this year. During previous years the team has had one or two good lines.

EXPERIENCE NEEDED

This year's team plans on strengthening itself with transfers such as Maurice Biron, the former captain of the Western Mustangs, and Scott Hunter, a former Junior A player in the Queen's Conference. Hunter commented that "we are not mobile enough on defence. The forwards are going to have to do less to help out (on defense)." Coach Freeman also noted, "We need a few exhibition games before the season is shaping up to be pretty good.'"

Although Coach Freeman commented that the Lancers have more experience, it is definite not university experience. Only eight players are returning from last year's team. Several players who may have helped the Lancers are ineligible to play university hockey, because of former pro or semi-pro experience.

Defense seems to be Windsor's major problem. It is not quite as strong as it should be and a lack of defense is a big serious problem. Coach Freeman, Mike's brother, noted that Windsor has "4-5, solid defense men," meaning that two Windsor lines have questionable defense. It remains to be seen whether the team can hold itself up with a shortage of defense.

Overall the fans can expect a better year than last year. (Which isn't saying much). Although the team should make the playoffs this year, don't expect a championship.

---

Lancers down McMaster, ready for playoffs

By NIGEL MILLER
The regular season was ended in line fashion by our Lancer football team as they rolled to a 27-14 victory over the McMaster Marauders. The Lancers had a positive result since their regular season record is four wins, two losses and a tie. Coach Freeman commented after the game that the team was a vastly improved McMaster team. The Lancers made the game hard for themselves in the first quarter, as defence and offense were non-existent.

In the first quarter, McMaster recovered a fumble on the Windsor 41 yard line and moved the ball down to the one. But the Lancer defence gave up strong and stopped them in a third-down gamble. With the Lancer offense unable to advance, the Marauders again got the ball in good field position. This time Ozzie Wilson carried the ball 23 yards for the game's first touchdown.

The next series of downs saw Windsor's Scott Mallender hit hard twice, and Steve Zak recovering him. Zak moved the yardsticks for the first time in the game, but the drive stalled.

The second quarter saw a different Lancer offence. After a 25 yard punt return by Bill Burgon, the Lancers gained a big effective running attack passing to Frank Sabat and then hitting Rodger Adams for a 36 yard gain. This move to the McMaster 25 yard line, which the Lancers scored on a pass from Scott Mallender to Bob Adams, the second of the game. The scoring took place on a 11 plays and covered 84 yards.

With an aid of an interception the Marauders took over possession of the ball on Windsor's 31. A reverse fooled the Lancer defence and enabled McMaster to score, making the score 20-14 for the Lancers.

Recovering an attempted kick-off the Lancers dove deep into McMaster territory. But the Lancers were unsuccessful in a third down gamble.

The fourth quarter saw both teams exchange punts several times, both teams still held too much power. Completing passes to Craig McLaren and to Bruce Walker, with one being a touchdown, the Lancers moved 44 yards in 4 plays and scored into the game for the scoring the game, 27-14.

Lancer total offense was 125 yards compared to Marauders' 182. Scott Mallender and Steve Zak completed 14 of 21 passes for 218 yards and one interception. Craig McLaren also had a good offensive game running 12 times for 58 yards, and catching 3 passes for 48 yards. Lancer defence was strong for the entire offense only losing concentration in two running plays, which turned into touchdowns. Defence had several quarterback sacks during the game and were successful in containing the McMaster offence.

The Lancers will play tomorrow, with the Lancers travelling to London. Two weeks ago Western won by the Lancers 22-12, but the play was closer than the score indicated. If Windsor's defence can hold the Western passing attack again, and the offence play as they can, then the game is sure to be a good one. Game time is 1:00 in London.

In other playoff games the University of Toronto Blues will be hosting the Laurier Golden Hawks. Although Coach Freeman leading runner, hopes to upset the Blues and face the winner of the Windsor-Western game, next week. The 2 winners this week will play at Little York for the division crown, next week.

---

Frasca: Coach of the year

By DON PEPPIN
There has never been any doubt in any of our minds but the league made it official this year when they announced the Coach-of-the-year for the West division of the O-QIFC was Lancer coach Gino Frasca. "I'm humbled," he commended yesterday, "it's quite an honour to be voted in by your peers.

In another announcement this week the Lancers placed five players on the All-Star team. The only Lancer to make it to the offensive team was wide receiver Bruce Walker. Frasca said that several other players were in the running however, everyone he was satisfied with the choices. He noted that the league initiated a new process for choosing the All-Star team this year, which involves the coaches all travelling to London last weekend, sitting down in conference and discussing the potential candidates. Then on Monday they submit their votes for each position.

Frasca noted "it's a good procedure", as it gives all the coaches a chance to discuss the potential candidates in a relaxed environment, think it out, and then vote. The Lancers placed four players on the defensive All-Star team. Jim Lynn, almost a perennial all-star now, made the defensive tackle spot with Tim Macrae backing him up at inside linebacker. Jim Cimba made the top spot for one of the defensive halfback positions and Scott Essery is the league's all-star punter.

Coach Frasca commented that offensive centre Dave Bresciani would have had a good chance to repeat as an all-star centre, if he hadn't been injured late in the season.
OPIRG and Whiteenet prepare for debate

By RICK SPENCER

OPIRG representative Mike B. and SAC President Rod Whiteenet have agreed to hold a public debate as a result of an earlier student resolution calling on OPIRG to vacate the space it had been using in the SAC offices.

OPIRG, under local co-director Len Wallace, has been operating out of SAC President Gary Wells' office since September, preparing for a referendum in January in which students will vote on whether to pay $5 extra per year in student fees for an OPIRG chapter on campus.

The SAC resolution, moved by Tony LaSorda and seconded by Tony LaSorda, said that "since OPIRG has not as yet received a majority of support from the students, OPIRG should not enjoy the use of SAC office space.

The motion passed, 7-5. Whiteenet supported the motion because he said he had been in communication with OPIRG's use of the SAC phone lines and secretaries. "They should show enough initiative to do their own footwork," said Whiteenet. Many student clubs had come to him to request space, and he said he had to turn them down. He said he would like to provide office space for everyone, but "it's not feasible for everyone, so we can't do it anyway."

Whiteenet said he had his "reservations" about OPIRG. He said they appeared to be "tanie-profiteers", and called their publications very one-sided.

He admitted he had only read three of their publications, and that he had only read the first page of one of them. Although he has attended none of the OPIRG's campus meetings, he also accused OPIRG of stifling dissent and corporate concentration in the food industry last month. He said that people with views opposed to those of Ura were not allowed to air them at full that meeting.

Ura denied that Northert Golfe of the Marketing Club, as well as a representative of a canning company, were prevented from speaking out.

It was also stated that there was a long-standing offer by OPIRG to pay for the space they used at SAC, as well as for telephones and other services.

OPIRG was scheduled to be discussed again at yesterday's SAC meeting.

Whiteenet said he was beginning to research OPIRG for the debate, which he said would take place sometime before the referendum in January.

Parrott returns to Windsor for TV...

Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott, who won't be returning to Windsor until after Christmas, at which time he will be announcing the final form of the new student aid plan.

That's what he told the students present at CRBT last Thursday during his quick trip to Windsor to appear on the show "On the Record."

Parrott was a replacement for British airline owner Freddie Laker.

Host Warner Troyer and a handful of students asked the Minister to defend his student aid plan as he had said it was new. He did promise that a program in the new student aid application form allowing the Ministry to check up on an applicant's status would not violate the confidentiality of income tax forms.

Non-student audience members were concerned with Parrott's recommendations concerning the best universities and colleges, his opinion of a correspondence school, and reports that the O of T was preparing to profit from freeway breaks which threaten the existence of certain programs of study at many universities. Parrott announced that no university would close as long as he was Minister, but he said faculty members to prepare for cutbacks:

His message to students and administrators was the same: he said he would tell them what the general statements mean very little without the (actual) figures. These figures are set to be released early in 1978.

The proposals made by Harry Parrott indicate that any student who has been in a university for four years, regardless of whether or not he has applied for or received a provincial grant, will be unable to receive a grant.

Two of Parrott's proposals will have retrogressive implications, according to Sweeney.

First, there will be a "serious reduction in the number of people who enter such faculties as law and medicine" and "second, there will be a reduction in demography, those who are from wealthy families or are prepared to work for three years" will be the ones who will be in Ontario universities after the four year grant limit is imposed.

Parrott cited the poor turnout of his appearance last March at the University of Windsor as his rationale for not appearing here this year to discuss student aid and other issues.

...but Sweeney talks to students

Money in the fare box is "collapsed", according to Mansbridge. He said he would like to protest to the money situation to check if it has met its implementation, of whether or not he has applied for or received a provincial grant, will be unable to receive a grant.

Two of Parrott's proposals will have retrogressive implications, according to Sweeney.

First, there will be a "serious reduction in the number of people who enter such faculties as law and medicine" and "second, there will be a reduction in demography, those who are from wealthy families or are prepared to work for three years" will be the ones who will be in Ontario universities after the four year grant limit is imposed.

By BRIAN WILLIAMSON

The new student aid proposals of the Minister of Colleges and Universities have been described as "meaningless" by Liberal College and University critics John Sweeney. Sweeney was at the university yesterday to participate in a general assembly on student aid.

The revisions to the existing OSAP were criticized by Sweeney who said ... these

More changes for bus system

By BRUCE DINSMORE

There have been some changes made to Transit Windsor as a result of the experience of this past week. Transit Windsor General Manager James Mansbridge told the Lance that because of crowds and other factors, the Transit System, the heart of the system, "collapsed", and some changes had to be made.

The city has added more buses to the route and is going to hire more operators, because at the present time, Transit Windsor is understaffed.

In March of next year, the company will undertake a further in depth study of the system, to see if it has met its mandate.

Money in the fare box is also to be looked at in the spring. The Bus company will be looking at implementing a bus pass system, such as they have in Hamilton and Ottawa. At that time, they will also look at the money situation to see if a fare increase is warranted. If such a pass is implemented, it might cost around $10 a month.

There will be some consultants from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications in the city today to see if the company can get more money to make it one of the most advanced in the province.

Some of the things that are being looking into are bus location devices, and radio in the buses.

Commenting on the fare few days of operation, Mansbridge said that Tuesday's operation was much improved over Monday. There were some problems Monday with drivers being where they should be at the right time, and Mansbridge spent some time outside, observing the operation.

Parrott also said that he hopes that people will use the system as a system instead of just individual routes as before. Many of the routes are designed to interconnect to get people where they wanted to go, as indicated in the surveys. Transit Windsor is going out gates to the system and Mansbridge feels that if you study the map carefully, you can figure out the transit system.

Free The Lance

The Lance is beginning a campaign to secure independent funding, and freedom from the Students' Administrative Council. Before Christmas, students will be asked to vote in a referendum whether or not they wish to pay an extra sum per year for an independent student newspaper.

The new print is to be funded by money from SAC, which means the paper has little control over its own financing. Under the new system, The Lance will be funded by a direct levy from the students.

The new system being proposed for the referendum and to set up a constitution which will ensure staff democracy and student control of the paper. The newspaper will also seek to be incorporated, and will form a Board of Directors to oversee the new corporation.

If the referendum is successful, the changes should take effect next year.
Na Nu Sow provides food for thought

By FERN BROWN

Na Nu Sow (a group opposed to nutrition, meet interesting people from all over Windsor, and raise some yummy snacks, too. You can do this all in one evening, if you come to a meeting of the Natural Nutrition Society of Windsor (NaNuSow). Meetings are open and free to the public — so bring a friend, member or not.

NaNuSow is a new, incorporated non-profit organization, which was founded in 1976 by Edith Harris, Naturopathic Nutritionist. "The name was selected because it is derived from the spring of its origin. The Society grew out of a course called "Naturopathy," which was taught by Edith Harris" (Continuing Education Department — Windsor Board of Education). Edith was also the Society's first president. "Many of the students in this course (it's taught each year) expressed the desire to continue to share with each other in learning about nutrition as a natural lifestyle. Therefore, the group came together to form a new ongoing Society." (Taken from "The History of the Natural Nutrition Society of Windsor.")

Meetings for NaNuSow are held once a month (on the second Tuesday of each month). At each meeting, a special speaker is invited. Past topics have been on herbs for healing and prevention; on the macrobiotic lifestyle; and on the relationship between nutrition, the soil and the environment. A monthly bulletin is published with news, information, recipes, and household hints.

The purpose of NaNuSow is to educate, to share, and to help increase our awareness. "In helping another, a stronger bond is built between people with a common interest," Edith says.

In addition to the monthly meetings, the Bulletin, NaNuSow is involved in various other projects. It had a table at the recent Garage Sale (early part of October). If you are interested in this growing group, feel free to come to the next meeting, November 7th, at 7:30 p.m., in Room 109 at the High School of Commerce on Tecumseh Rd. E. The topic will be, "Sperimentering for Survival," by Jeanine Uhren (a NaNuSow member).

---

Citizens power

By STEPHEN GORDON

If you are interested in issues which include city government, the arts, the environment, education, human rights, the economy, or any other subject that affects all of us, consider getting involved in the "Citizens Power" workshop or the "decentralization" of all big things — starting with the local government operations. Yet in spite of her radical notions, she sees her job not as a crusader but as a human being trying to act responsibly.

The public is invited to meet and hear this outstanding individual, as she presents her "Citizens Power" lecture. Free parking in lot M of University Avenue. For more information contact Kyle Cipirek (Bob Lockhart at Iona College 253-7237).

---

UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR

A Panel Discussion sponsored by the Muslim Students Association, University of Windsor.

November 7, 8:00 p.m., Al-Maram Hall.

Muhammad Ali Khattab from the Institute of Social Sciences will discuss the views of the Muslim community on the conflict of interest between Islam and the Canadian Constitution.

---

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY

A panel discussion by members of the Muslim Student Association and the Student Union.

November 7, 8:00 p.m., Al-Maram Hall.

The purpose of NaNuSow is to educate, to share, and to help increase our awareness. "In helping one another, a stronger bond is built between people with a common interest," Edith says.
Wells seeks more active role on Board of governors

By FERN BROWN

SAC President Gary Wells, by some accounts, is the leader of student opinion. Why are students who regularly attend Board meetings granting only one observer status? Some are of the opinion that by-laws, rules and regulations and appointment, removal, and salary determination of the President, and academic/administrative officers, according to the University of Windsor Act.

Gary Wells, as President of Student Administrative Government, is one of three students/observers on the Board. As an observer, he "is welcome at all Board meetings, and he may voice an opinion on any topic." (R.J. Tebbs, Chairman of the Board of Governors.) But, Wells cannot make any motions, or vote on any issues.

Wells said, "I want to make a motion, someone else must make it for me. Since I'm the President, I was asked to leave during the (recent) discussions regarding the Faculty Association. As a full member, my moral position would be increased, and I would not have to leave." A discussion with R.J. Tebbs, disclosed that a motion is being considered to install a "Notice of Motion, to appoint Board members to present any motion that any student wishes to put forth." Apparently this doesn't satisfy Wells, who expressed he feels he has "the input of an outsider." "Students are the largest constituent of the University," he said, "and I'm representative of that portion. We don't have a vote in issues that affect us." According to Wells, "the issue has been discussed with Tebbs several times." Tebbs attests to this, and furthered that he (Tebbs) brought the discussions to Dr. Leddy's attention. President Leddy has not written back to Tebbs, and was unavailable for comment.

It seems that for Wells, or any observer, to get a vote is a long and complicated process. Tebbs says "The Board can't make the decision." Extensive legislative actions must be taken. Wells explained that since the University was incorporated under a Private Bill, it is necessary to request an amendment of this Act through the Private Bills Committee. "The administration is afraid to have the Act on our offices. One half doesn't know why. He referred to "a rather heated response" from Dr. Leddy when he brought up a subject. If he doesn't know the specifics, Wells will pursue the matter, provided it is not damaging to the university. He feels "the time has come" and stated, "I'll do anything in my power to do it."

Tebbs believes that opening up the Act may solve Wells' problem, but it may create other problems. He elaborated that "both Dr. Leddy and two very reputable lawyers" advised the Board that it "would be wise to reopen the issue at this time."

Although he would "rather not", Wells is willing to take the matter to Queen's Park. He said, "I don't mean to be overly harsh in dealing with them, I'm just not going to compromise, that's all. If they don't compromise, I'm willing to have a helluva fight."

Tebbs replied, "sometimes we have to compromise; sometimes it's wise to compromise. I, as a student, am important to Gary, and I appreciate that, but if he continues in this way, and against the wishes of the Board, he's on his own. SAC is an independent entity."

Wells is not out of the possibility of a solution. He said both he and Tebbs would be researching the issue further.

---

SAC by-election results

Maryon Overholt, Rob Whiteneck, Chairman Randy Smith and Gary Wells at SAC meeting.

Whitenect, with the exception of the Biology Club which did not meet all the requirements, final ratification was held for last weekend's election.

The Club's Special Events Committee will consist of the following members: Vice-President Rob Whiteneck; Treasurer Renie Retroske, two SAC reps (Tyler Higgins and Daniel Charnley); and two club presidents: Noorah Goffe from the Marketing Club and David Lee from the Chinese Students' Society. The purpose of the committee is to assist the clubs in any events they hold on campus and to coordinate the efforts of the clubs as a whole. A maximum of $4,500 has been budgeted for club finances which was to be allocated yesterday.

---

Attention

SAC Welcome Pass holders

HAWAII TRIP

Two single tickets will be drawn Nov. 16, 1977 in St. Denis Hall

at half time during the basketball game

For Welcome Pass holders only

Bring your Pass to the game

---

Faculty of Education

University of Toronto

will be held at the University of Windsor on Tuesday, November 8 at 2 to 4 p.m. in Ambassador Auditorium

The Faculty Admissions Officer will provide Admission Information and answer questions. All interested students are urged to attend.

---

SAC Welcome Pass holders

HAWAII TRIP

Two single tickets will be drawn Nov. 16, 1977 in St. Denis Hall

at half time during the basketball game

For Welcome Pass holders only

Bring your Pass to the game

---

---
Letter: Solving food problems

Dear Editor and to all others it may concern:

The recent controversies over the food in Vaster Hall have prompted this letter.

The main problem seems to be a question of economics. In the efforts to keep costs down within an acceptable range, (acceptable being a relative term), the quality of the food suffers along with perhaps, the quantity.

One of the major costs it seems, is in the area of food preparation which is done by labor. If the labor cost could be cut — one big expenditure in and students took over the quality of the shopping food costs can be markedly in price. By wise people, the parable nature can vary remarkably.

But that figure can be devoured by food costs. One of the major costs it is in the area of food preparation which is done by labor. If the labor cost could be cut — one big expenditure in and students took over the quality of the shopping food costs can be markedly in price. By wise people, the parable nature can vary remarkably.

The household's annual budget suffers along with perhaps, the quantity.

If the labor cost could be devoured by food costs. One of the major costs it is in the area of food preparation which is done by labor. If the labor cost could be cut — one big expenditure in and students took over the quality of the shopping food costs can be markedly in price. By wise people, the parable nature can vary remarkably.

SAC pulled the rug out from under OPIRG (the Ontario Public Interest Research Group) last Thursday, deciding the organization did not have student support to warrant its using SAC office space and services.

The rationale for the motion, sponsored by Leo Meyer and seconded by Tony LaSorda, consisted of a few weak statements and accusations. SAC Vice-President Robert Whitenect said this week, in defense of the motion, that SAC "wants all the office space up here, and we could probably use more." Anyone who has ever been to the SAC offices must know that almost half the total floor space is wasted in a huge, desolate lobby which is only used occasionally for SAC meetings.

Whitenect also said he did not favor granting space to one group while others had to go without. He neglected The other half of the problem is the food. If a student food co-operative was formed with an eye to buying food in bulk, it would serve two main purposes. Firstly, it would allow students to monitor the quality of the food being bought, and secondly, it would probably allow considerable cuts in cost to be made.

An offshoot of this co-op could possibly be that students live in the residences and need not subscribe to a meal plan and off-campus students would be allowed to partake in the benefits of such a coop. They would be allowed to purchase meats, vegetables, fruits and food staples at lower prices. These are only suggestions. If any efforts toward implementation of these proposals are made, there will be problems and obstacles.

The medium for change toward the better is in the students. In the University community there is a lot of raw talent and I am sure that with the utilization of some of that talent all students can benefit.

Respectfully submitted,
Christopher Conners
Huron Hall

Watch for The Great Lance First Annual Recruitment Campaign next week, mainly because Rick (Editor) Spence, Brenda (Managing Editor) McLester, Paul (Entertainment Editor) Chenish, Janet (Photo Editor) Halbert, Don (Joe Ed) Peppin, and Nigel Miller, Deb (Cartoonist) Hetherington, Scott (Poetry Editor) Eldridge, Anna Maria Tremonti, E.P. Chant, Bob Thompson, Dan Sullivan, Gary Fisk, John Rawell, John P. Moritzler, Bern Few, Lee Wallace, Kay A. Mc lawful, Huguette Cyranelle, Willy Paquetta, Pete Nash, Pete Medrick, Bob Brown, Lorna Chornton, Rosemary Berrington, Mike Urschel, Kennedy, Ted Kennedy, Tony Hino, Jim Angus, and Frank Kovacic are tired of doing it alone. Thanks to Simon Hong and George Kock for doing such a good job on the centrefield. Special thanks to Stephen Sword of the U.W.O. Gazette.

Ofmen and OPIRG

The Students' Administrative Council's short-sightedness was made evident once again last week. SAC pulled the rug out from under OPIRG (the Ontario Public Interest Research Group) last Thursday, deciding the organization did not have student support to warrant its using SAC office space and services.

The rationale for the motion, sponsored by Leo Meyer and seconded by Tony LaSorda, consisted of a few weak statements and accusations. SAC Vice-President Robert Whitenect said this week, in defense of the motion, that SAC "wants all the office space up here, and we could probably use more." Anyone who has ever been to the SAC offices must know that almost half the total floor space is wasted in a huge, desolate lobby which is only used occasionally for SAC meetings.

Whitenect also said he did not favor granting space to one group while others had to go without. He neglected The other half of the problem is the food. If a student food co-operative was formed with an eye to buying food in bulk, it would serve two main purposes. Firstly, it would allow students to monitor the quality of the food being bought, and secondly, it would probably allow considerable cuts in cost to be made.

SAC betrayed a blatant misunderstanding of OPIRG. In concentrating itself with corporate concentration, that is monopolies and oligopolies, OPIRG is concerned with the preservation of free enterprise, of which certain corporations have made a mockery.

Had Whitenect read all of OPIRG's publication on the corporate bundling of Wenner's, for instance, he might not have been naive enough to say that "if you order Wenner's cookies, you can always buy McCormick's." OPIRG reveals that McCormick's is 70 percent owned by Western's.

The Lance supports anyone who tries to seek out information for the public good. OPIRG has an important place in an academic community, and we hope Windsor students will welcome it in the January referendum. The long, powerful arm of the corporation and those insecure students who would serve them, should not be allowed to block OPIRG. This campus and OPIRG need each other.

Out on a Limb

By DON PEPPIN

It is refreshing to see that students are finally getting concerned about an issue on campus.

That issue, is of course, something very close to our hearts — or more accurately, our stomachs. This isn't another scathing rip at Rick Carson, but the entire Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

So why stop? There are a number of pressing concerns on this campus that too many students are either unaware of (if you read The Lance you should know) or not being informed about.

For instance, the presidential search. If you read the Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

If you read the Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

There are a number of pressing concerns on this campus that too many students are either unaware of (if you read The Lance you should know) or not being informed about.

Harry Parrott is a man who deserves a little more direct attention from students. He raises our tuition, cuts back our grants, and ignores our questions and should not be tolerated. If more students complained, (to their SAC, anyway) the entire Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

If you read the Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

Harry Parrott is a man who deserves a little more direct attention from students. He raises our tuition, cuts back our grants, and ignores our questions and should not be tolerated. If more students complained, (to their SAC, anyway) the entire Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.

If you read the Saga Foods controversy is connected to a number of students thinking, and more important, voicing the fact that they don't like what they see.
I do not care if the these common sensical morals "Imagine There 's N o Hea v en in political terminology. weeks ago in . Georgia. In a it used to spirit must be rejuvenated in
The h .ighlight
But
Treat trickier
The press presses Prez people

“Imagine There's No Heaven - It's Easy If You Try”

I am not a religious person.

“Imagine There’s No Heaven - It’s Easy If You Try”

I am not a religious person.

I don’t belong to the church.

To confer with the Ten

God only knows what the sermon was (pun in-

“Imagine There’s No Heaven - It’s Easy If You Try”

I am not a religious person.

Not only do I have a high regard for these common sensical morals.

I think you are all fine young people.

The protesters were speaking against something that every

The h .ighlight

But
Treat trickier

The press presses Prez people

The protesters were speaking against something that every

But I am afraid ‘coach of the year’ is not a sufficient quali-

"Thank you, Mr. MacGre-

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

"Joe who?"

I am a highly ethical person.

"Imagine There’s No Heaven - It’s Easy If You Try”

I am not a religious person.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.

I am an agnostic in spirit.
Inco turns its back on Canada

By LEN WALLACE

"The girls are out to bingo, And the boys are out to drink, And we'll think no more of INCO on Sudbury Saturday night."

Recently, the International Nickel Company, INCO, announced that it will lay off almost 4,000 employees: 2,800 workers in Sudbury, 650 in Thompson, Manitoba, and 344 at 400 Port Colborne, Ontario. The blow to working families has been severe and fast. The Mayor of Sudbury, Jim Gordon, and the director of the United Steel Workers union, Dave Patterson, heard of the plan only one hour before it was announced to the public.

INCO has cited financial reasons for its cutbacks in operations for the company to lay off that of lower profits and the decrease in demand. According to INCO spokesmen, the corporation made a $74 million profit on total assets of $4 billion in 1973. Increased costs and a decrease in nickel prices however, contend that the net profit of the company was $138,700,000 in 1974.

In the last five years ending in 1976, INCO has made $1 billion in profits. The Canadian government has $967.4 million as a recent report from the Steelworkers Union put it out: "INCO's profitability was such that it is hard to imagine a more outstanding performance from an earlier outstanding business to the level of mere excellence."

Aside from its financial status, the company's holdings and ties are impressive. As of 1973 and 1974, INCO has sold nickel from other countries. Other reports, such as one conducted by CALURA, showed that 66% of the shares are held outside the county.

The company has continually stressed that world markets have fallen. In its drive for maintaining its overproduction, INCO has reached a critical point. INCO now has a $1.20 increase on stockpiles of nickel. The question however, leaves one to speculate why INCO would expand production in foreign subsidiaries while cutting back in Canada. INCO's senior vice president, Walter Garlock, explained that the fear of foreign nationalization made it easier for the company to lay off workers in Canada. Here there are no serious governmental interference.

But is that all? Economist S. Langdon / of Carleton University wrote a letter to The Globe and Mail, he suggests it is a myth to think that INCO will make profits in Guatemala because of lower wages. Like nickel companies, the extraction of nickel is capital-intensive, and variations in wages are not the difference. Furthermore, Sudbury nickel may actually prove to be lower cost, since it is a higher grade of nickel ore. INCO is sacrificing lower costs in order to insure greater market dominance and independency of any governmental power.

In the last years of the Canadian government granting loans to support foreign competition, "the Prime Minister has suggested that INCO's Guatemalan subsidiary is just beginning and will not reach market proportion until 1979, giving time for us "to put our house in order."" Inco's current statements show that Guatemalan operations are basically complete and that commercial production could be achieved in the second quarter of 1978, three months after Sudbury's layoffs.

The government's financial support to the company has been backed. Market losses and grants were given to INCO to expand foreign subsidiaries while Canada's own operations will suffer INCO's investment in Indonesia will be $1 billion. The federal government's Export Development Corporation provided $90 million in direct payment lo INCO, at interest below commercial rates. The Guatemalan operations have meant almost half a billion dollars in investment by the company, while the EDC supplied $170 million to an INCO subsidiary. Has it really been good business for the Canadian government? Amnesty International, a worldwide non-political organization, has frequently been interested in INCO's operations in Indonesia. Fears have been expressed that the corporation might be using the cheap labor of political prisoners in that country to achieve super-profits. Presently, tens of thousands of individuals are jailed in that country. In New Caledonia many INCO employees are paid $5 to $15 a week.

Now that the layoffs have made a real dent into the economy, the role of the provincial and federal governments is being called into question. Should the government act? If so, what course of action should be taken? Many are highly critical of the fact that the government refuses to demand an end to INCO's layoffs, yet felt no qualms about giving them loans, grants and tax holidays. The government could not accept the direct loss of revenue to the Canadian government. In the budget of last March, the federal government provided more than $1 billion in tax concessions to large corporations without requiring specific job creation to effort on the revenue to receive the Canadian government. In the budget of last March, the federal government provided more than $1 billion in tax concessions to large corporations without requiring specific job creation to effort on the revenue to receive the Canadian government. In the budget of last March, the federal government provided more than $1 billion in tax concessions to large corporations without requiring specific job creation to effort on the revenue to receive the Canadian government. In the budget of last March, the federal government provided more than $1 billion in tax concessions to large corporations without requiring specific job creation to effort on the revenue to receive the Canadian government.

Tax holidays have been generous. In 1971, INCO's net earnings were $210 million, and clear profit was over $98 million. On this profit no income tax was paid. In fact, the government gave INCO a substantial tax credit of $2,800,000. Between 1966 and 1971, income tax was paid at a rate of 17.2%. Over $203 million was allowed in depreciation and depletion allowances, over $238 million in deferred income taxes.

The controversy remains open. Political philosophy dictates the course of action. Is it right that the taxpayer's money not interfere in the economic process, or does it have the right since it has itself given the company millions?

The legislatures are in a frenzy. While Conservatives in Ontario lay the blame on the federal Liberal government, the federal Liberals blame the Ontario Tories. Both fail to point out any action. Ontario Liberal leader Stuart Smith has stated that the solution would be to demand INCO cut back its foreign operations and support Canadian employment. The NDP, out of power both federally and provincially, can tell both Grits and Tories "I told you so!"

The Liberals' call for greater worker sharing in management has been greeted eagerly, but the concept comes much too late. Employment Minister, proposed a work sharing program in which nickel workers would take cuts in pay to relieve laid-off workers. The company's payroll would be supplemented by the amount of unemployment insurance the workers would otherwise have collected. The plan was unaccep"tably to workers, who would be forced to stop the laid-off problem themselves.

Officers of the United Steel workers have asked government to cut the workforce by attrition and early retirement programs, and to end overtime. Stewart Cooke (Ontario director of the USWA) said that nickel could effectively be stockpiled as in the United States until demand would finally catch up with production. The company and government maintain that this would uneffectively make matters worse. While the company claims low profits and high costs, the government says it cannot do much with falling markets. Another blow came October 22, when 2,600 pounds of nickelcarbonate was shipped to Sherri Dorn Mones, Alberta. It didn't come from Sudbury. It came from Japan. A very sour note.

Who is to blame? That depends on your political outlook. The problem is that INCO, playing by the rules of the economic game, is cutting back. The government's response is to let it do so. That, however, is of no comfort to those workers who will soon be unemployed.

Federal government cans survey

"The attitude of the federal government regarding student summer employment is that they have made up their minds and they don't want to be confused by the facts," said Miriam Edelson, Chairperson of the 140,000 member Ontario Federation of Students (OFS). Mr. Edelson was commenting on the fact that the federal government was not publishing a student summer employment survey for the second consecutive year.

"What is especially shocking is the fact that the government has collected the data that is necessary for such a paper, but won't publish it because of the cost. So it just sits there in raw, unanalyzed form. Conducting a survey that just sits and gathers dust is a prime example of being penny wise but foolish."

"What we know about the summer unemployment situation is discouraging enough. By the month of August Statistics Canada found that over 40,000 students in Ontario had been unable to find work. We demand the release of the full survey, so that we may know just how desperate the situation was."

"OFS has called upon the provincial government to provide compensatory student aid this year to students unable to find work."

Commerce Final Year Students

Today, the chartered accountant is not only an auditor but a valued business adviser. Challenge, opportunities and responsibility are all part of the career path of those who choose to enter this demanding profession.

Discuss career opportunities with Clarkson, Gordon representatives, on campus.

Nov. 14 & 15

Clarkson, Gordon & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St. John's • Halifax • St. John's • Quadra • Victoria
Montreal • Calgary • London • Toronto
Calgary • Edmonton • London • Winnipeg
Thunder Bay • Hamilton • Regina • Calgary
Edmonton • Vancouver • Victoria

Page Six—The Lance—November 4, 1977
SAC to reconsider results

Candidates protest election

BY STEPHEN SWORD
Gazette Staff

Candidates in the Social Science constituency have submitted a petition to SAC protesting the organization of the election. The petition, authored by second place finisher Andy Martin, was to be considered and voted on at Thursday's SAC meeting.

Two-thirds council support is required for the petition to achieve its purpose. The by-elections were held to fill nine vacancies on the council. Five positions remain unfilled: Fine Arts rep, Education rep, Arts rep, Human Kinetics rep, and Music rep. The two remaining positions came to a vote with four candidates contesting the Social Science position and two candidates contesting in the Social Work constituency.

In Social Work Mary Poole defeated Jim Bonifore. In the petitioned Social Science constituency by-election Kathy Rusher's 24 voted against the list over Andy Martin's 11 votes. Lisa Hurst and Bob Gammont (9 votes each). According to the petition, supported by Hurst and Gammont, identifies a number of violations of election by-laws. By-law violations that Martin listed were: 1) no deputy returning officer was appointed, 2) a candidates list was not posted, and 3) polls were not open in accordance with the announcement.

The Vanier Poll was opened an hour and a half late at 11:30 and the Centre poll was held open until four o'clock, two hours later than scheduled. Martin claims, in addition, that the Vanier Poll was unattended for as much as fifteen minutes during the voting period.

Final tally of the petition was over 100 votes. The call for nominations was not published in the Lance, particularly as a result of the condensed election timetable.

"The important thing is that the election is run properly," said Martin. "Sixty-six votes." SAC's reaction to the petition was not available at press time.

The two parking lots located there now are being combined into a single, larger one. By this move parking will be increased from 54 spaces to 107.

The park men will be opened in about a month, weather permitting. Those students who are on waiting lists will have first chance at the new spots. Names are being taken now, by University security, at the Energy Conversion Centre or ext. 348.

By WILLY PAQUETTE
Inter-Residence Council

Residents have not wanted; Hurson agrees with it; Laurier won't; Eastern certifies it; Coldey: Teach us which will definitely and Canterbury is already in. You may notice that the negative attitudes originate from the quad and those positive are the surrounding hallways. There are all about what they think of Inter-Residence Council. This Council is designed to coordinate social activities, help the individual residences with problems that they encounter and help stabilize the IRC's President Tim Raino.

Enrollment of students on campus, at the University this year is up in percentage surprisingly enough, after a 100% increase in tuition for those applying after January of this year to their first year.

The percentage of foreign students in the University last year was 10.3% (866 students). This year, due to declining enrollment of Canadian students, enrollment of students on student visas was a whopping 12.7%, or 852 students.

This increase in tuition was imposed last year by the Ontario Ministry of Colleges and Universities out of "economic reasons," they seem to fail to note that the total amount of monies spent by these foreign students is well in excess of the new increase.

Foreign students who were in pre-March vacancy from September of 1976 to April of 1977 have had considerable debates made by their behalf by the various student organizations to the University Board of Governors last spring. The end result was that the increase in their tuitions is being paid by the University itself.

Some have complained that the government of Ontario is trying to make college education available only to those who can afford it.

A situation similar to this has arisen in Alberta, where an increase in tuition of $300 was imposed on students on student visas last year. As in Ontario, this applies to only those students who have not sought landed immigrant status.

Mr. Yamin Shamsh had this to say in response, "I think it's an injustice to the foreign students in the sense that they are now being charged to get a higher education."

All previous attempts at protesting this increase to the Government of Ontario were unsuccessful. In the words of George McMahan, Dean of Students, "You can't fight City Hall." So it seems. In the long run, Ontario may want as enrolment of foreign students, on student visas, will in effect decrease in the long term, which will benefit universities in other provinces. Hopefully, according to Gary Wells, SAC President, the government of Ontario will take back their actions in the future, the funds will not be reduced or eliminated entirely.

There is still no information on the status of the search for a successor to University President John F. Liddy.

The joint Board of Governors/Senate committee is now considering about 10 applicants for the position. Committee member Maurice Armstrong said he is keeping two flies on the matter - one for incoming applicants under consideration, and one for those who are rejected.

According to Information Officer, Geoff McGibbon, the committee will present its findings to the Board of Governors around the end of December. Until then, all the rumours that you hear will be just that - rumours.

But if I'm correct, "I thought they didn't care about this." This writer feels it's high time that house councilors try to end this communication gap (can't this reserved for parent/child relationships?) and act the responsible, elected House councilor representatives they are. Raino adds, "This would be a good time for me to invite everyone (all 7 house councilors) to be at Electa Hall for the next meeting." It will be in the lounge at 90, on Sunday night. They'll be ready, will you know how it may work for all of you.

There is still no information on the status of the search for a successor to University President John F. Liddy.

The joint Board of Governors/Senate committee is now considering about 10 applicants for the position. Committee member Maurice Armstrong said he is keeping two flies on the matter - one for incoming applicants under consideration, and one for those who are rejected.

According to Information Officer, Geoff McGibbon, the committee will present its findings to the Board of Governors around the end of December. Until then, all the rumours that you hear will be just that - rumours.

But if I'm correct, "I thought they didn't care about this." This writer feels it's high time that house councilors try to end this communication gap (can't this reserved for parent/child relationships?) and act the responsible, elected House councilor representatives they are. Raino adds, "This would be a good time for me to invite everyone (all 7 house councilors) to be at Electa Hall for the next meeting." It will be in the lounge at 90, on Sunday night. They'll be ready, will you know how it may work for all of you.

The important thing is that the increase in tuition is being paid by the University itself.

According to Gary Wells, SAC President, the government of Ontario will take back their actions in the future, the funds will not be reduced or eliminated entirely.

And if I'm correct, "I thought they didn't care about this." This writer feels it's high time that house councilors try to end this communication gap (can't this reserved for parent/child relationships?) and act the responsible, elected House councilor representatives they are. Raino adds, "This would be a good time for me to invite everyone (all 7 house councilors) to be at Electa Hall for the next meeting." It will be in the lounge at 90, on Sunday night. They'll be ready, will you know how it may work for all of you.

At Electa and Tecumseh. The combined efforts of these people, made a small impression with HX by losing their first Rec League soccer game, 5-0.

At Mac: The T-shirts are ready for those who want them. And if I'm correct, 9th floor won at 3-0. At Huron: The Frappers did it! They won the Lobbyist Championship. How did they celebrate? Seeing that it was Sunday afternoon, it was time for peace, a chair, and an open book to read!
By Paul Chernish

Almost everyone has said at one time, "God, that tune brings back memories." People can remember events, and minute details of those events, with the aid of a memorable song. Major League baseball has a commercial running that depicts what it would be like to have AM radio overkill. I assume that quite a few of us have not listened to that tinny transistor sound for quite a while, at least not for music appreciation. Whenever the AM announcer came on and said, "Byron MacGregor with much more music" we used to think he was saying "Fire in MacGregor."...We thought that small town was a constant inferno.

Can you recall these tunes: Pictures of Matchstick Men, Spiders in the Sky, Sugar Shack, This Diamond Ring, and the old version of Six Days on the Road? I believe) somewhere in California. It seems like just yesterday (around 1959) that my parents dragged me down to Drouillard road to watch the Queen's procession down to Chrylser Centre.

Remember the incredible amount of AM radio overkill? I assume that quite a few of us have not listened to that tinny transistor sound for quite a while, at least not for music appreciation. Whenever the AM announcer came on and said, "Byron MacGregor with much more music" we used to think he was saying "Fire in MacGregor."...We thought that small town was a constant inferno.

Just for fun, check out the following list and see if you can remember most of the "keen" things we had as children. This week I'll concentrate on toys.

HYPO-SQUIRT: a squirtgun taken off the market because it resembled a gigantic hypodermic needle.

TOY FIRETRUCKS: that changed direction when they bumped into walls.

DUNCAN SPIN- TOPS: there were clear ones, ones that split in two, and even ones that whirled.

SPIROGRAPHS: that made designs not quite like you saw on TV.

ETCH-A-SKETCH: remember how you couldn't sketch anything round, and all the people you tried to make came out looking like robots.

TIP-IT: with the balancing man that went out of balance on Christmas day.

TABLE HOCKEY GAMES: with the rubbers on the end of the steel shafts that used to come off and wreck the game. Tape was never as effective as rubber.

LITTLE PLASTIC ROCKETS: that you put caps in and threw in the air. When they came down and the cap went off (the first few times anyway).

BALSA WOOD AIRPLANES: with elastic powered propellers. You could never wind them tight enough.

SUPERBALLS: that would bounce on your neighbour's roof.

SILLY PUTTY: that you could pick up comes with. But if you left it out of its egg overnight, it would melt away.

CHEMISTRY SETS: that had a million different chemicals but you could only make one thing out of a set.

The band was set to entertain in the pub early in the week. They were the best band we've heard in the pub this year.

However, the band was set to entertain in the pub that Wednesday. They were the best band we've heard in the pub this year.

The hosts of this series, John Tyrell and Ron Scott (with technician Ron Timothy) will interview students and educators involved in主营业务 activities, innovative research or novel concepts.

Information Officer at the University of Windsor, Geoff MacGibbon, will again be a regular participant in the University portion of the show. Of special interest to Are...
Changing Room: Bright season opener

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The rugby players are out and kicking and the University Players are off to a great season with David Storey's The Changing Room.

George Neilson's cast works as a team, and the play sparkles. The Changing Room takes a look at just that: a rugby players' locker room, and the actions that take place before, during, and after a big game. We see the players enter as individuals, but as the play progresses, they coalesce to form a larger, unified body, and through teamwork, manage a victory. It is a simple plot in this respect, but the implications and results of acting as a unit working together, are obvious ones.

The characters work together to win a rugby game. The actors work together also, and the result is a smooth production that moves like clockwork. Each team member, with his own particular idiosyncrasy, is portrayed accurately, English accents, complete with all-purpose adjective, "bloody," and typical - though not shallow - locker room behavior make the whole scene a believable one. It would be unfair to single out the performance of any one team member, each complements the others' work. Neilson's superlatives from one job to another, changing towels and wiping floors. Despite his supposed insignificance, he is noticed by all, and many even listen to his anti-Soviet and nostalgic ramblings. Even the mighty Sir Frederick Thornton, owner of the rugby team, played by Garrth Jowett, pauses to consider Riley's philosophies. This is perhaps, where the actual changing takes place in The Changing Room. It would be lesser man begins to take more prominence and make more sense than the greater one. By the end of the play, however, it's all back to normal: the team members go their separate ways, Sir Frederick makes a drunken exit, and Harry Riley cleans up after them all.

The technical aspects of this play deserve special mention. William Pinnell's locker room set is impressive and realistic, right down to the water on stage, pipes along the wall, and the rows of lockers. Larry Foden's costume work complements the acting. When those players limped in at half time, with muddied uniforms and bloated bodies, there was no doubt in anyone's minds that they had been playing a rough game.

Production of The Changing Room is an excellent one, and sets very high standards for future productions. Let's hope they can live up to them. The play runs through Saturday night at Essex Hall Theatre.
Echoes of the Beatles' Double White and Abbey Road albums ring from start to finish. The feeling generated by Back in the USSR, Birthday, Revolution, and She's So Heavy, are all over this LP. This is not to say that the songs are copied chord for chord but the influences are obvious. The best tracks on the album include the SPARKS-like Clock Strikes Ten, Big Eyes and the incredibly catchy Come On, Come On. In Color is much tighter than their last effort, in that the songs flow more cohesively and it's not as straight ahead. It is the well-crafted melodies though that carry the album. If In Color has a drawback it is because the lyrics are too simplified. You can stretch "gonna get down" only so far. It can become tedious if you're not careful but they let it go just in time.

Rick Neilson, A Huntz Hall look-alike from Chicago, plays a chameleon-like lead guitar and writes virtually all the band's material. He has been described, by noted producer Jack Douglas, as the best writer he has ever worked with. Bassist Tom Petersson and vocalist Robin Zander, from Sweden and Alaska respectively, are the "pretty-hoys" of the band. They are also responsible for the band's aggressive nature that sometimes surfaces. Drummer Bun E. Carlos (Bun E. for short), from Venezuela, looks like the guy in first year math that everyone calls Univac. He holds the band in check when excess threatens to take over much like Charlie Watts of the Stones. The band was formed in Europe, after kicking around there for a couple of years, and it shows. Listen to Petersson's bass lines and tell me he's never been to a smoky German Lo­cal. In short, this is one of the five best albums released so far this year.

Monday, November 7 – CJAM News Department talks to Maryon Overhold and company regarding action taken on the Student Aid Plan.

Wednesday, November 9 – Vicki Fenner talks to representatives from the Underwriter Festival being held on November 5 & 6. Following this, Tosh Noma will talk to the Delta Chi President.

Thursday, November 10 – Weekly report from SAC President Gary Wells.

Friday, November 11 – CJAM talks to David Bradstreet.

LPS

Monday, November 7 – Hall and Oates "Beauty on the Backs trees".

Tuesday, November 8 – Electric Light Orchestra "Out of the Blue".

Wednesday, November 9 – Thelma Houston "The Devil in Me".

Thursday, November 10 – Nazareth "Expect no Mercy".

Friday, November 11 – David Bowie "Heroes".

Note: All talk shows aired at 11 a.m. and 9:05 p.m. ...Album Feature follows.

LOVE SOUNDS

CJAM presents mellower music featuring various concepts of love every Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

N.B.: Due to transmitter breakdown, we are off the air in Macdonald and Laurier halls. Our apologies for this inconvenience... It will be resolved shortly.

IMAGINUS EXHIBITION AND SALE OF FINE ART PRINTS

SPONSORED BY SAC

featuring the works of Chapall, Dalí, Matisse, Breugheel, Cezanne, Van Gogh, Homer, Klee, Monet, Magritte, Picasso, Miro, Bosch, Renoir, Toulouse-Lautrec, Wyeth, Gauguin, Rembrandt, Group of Seven, Blush and others.

PRICES

LARGE PRINTS $3.50 EA 3 FOR $8.50

SMALL PRINTS $1.75 EA 3 FOR $4.50

DATE M-W, Nov. 14-16

TIME 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

PLACE Assumption Lounge, Danby-Lansdowne

Over 1200 different prints
Halloween Party a Smash

The DELTA CHI FRATERNITY and the NURSING SOCIETY Halloween Party held last Saturday in Ambassador Auditorium proved to be smashing success. Costumes of every description were present to compete for the $100 best costume prize as well as to dance and listen to one of the best rock bands to hit campus in a long time.

BANDIT, a 4-piece Detroit based rock group, stole the minds and spirit of all present. Their opening member, a McCartney tune filled the dance floor immediately, and the following contemporary rock tunes plus 13 of their own original rockers, kept it that way all night. For all interested, Bandit will be playing the Riviera the weeks of Nov. 28 - Dec. 3 and Dec. 5-10.

The costumes were good as well as numerous which proved the 6 judges with the proverbial $100 question. Mr. Colgate, Tommy H. Rebane won a split decision. Special acclamation goes to Count Dracula, currently in hiding since the Blood Drive, who was the other final contender.

Delta Chi a Greek Letter Fraternity with 86 members and the Nursing Society, wish to thank those 340 students for making a dream of providing the best of entertainment on the U. of W. campus a reality. A special thanks to Gino Pizzi social director of SAC, Peter Romeril bar manager, and the staff of CJAM whose support was greatly appreciated.

Contest Finally Over

By PAUL CHERNISH

The great Lance "Who Sang It" contest is officially over. And boy am I glad!! We in the Entertainment department were pulling our hair out because of the phenomenal amount of entries, but we finally discovered which ones of the four we received lost.

David Jejina (or something like that) is our official winner, with a score of eight out of ten. Being the winner, David, your prize is a bottle of booze. You can pick it up in the Lance office anytime next week.

Robin Robertson took second place, which lands him a bottle of wine. Third place goes to Paul Jemison. Paul gets a beer in the pub.

Second and third place entries tied at six out of ten, and the positions were determined by a random draw.

By the way, if you are a U. of W. student, and have an idea for another Entertainment contest, contact us: the Lance office.

Answers to trivia quiz

1. The first album on RCA Victor was.
2. The first album on Chess Records was.
3. "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" was written by.
4. "Spooky " was written by.
5. "Don't Sit Around Feelin' Blue." You Can Do What You Want to Do " was written by.

Sponsored by the Music Club.

Christian Coffee House

Sat. Nov. 5 at 8:00

Featuring singers from the University School of Music

At 552 Sunset (across from the Music Building)

Theme: "Don't Sit Around Feelin' Blue. You Can Do What You Want to Do."

Sponsored by the Music Club.
Signs discourage hitching

Reprinted from Excalibur
by HUGH WESTRFUP

The "hand of death" has been looming ominously over Ontario highways as part of the Ontario Provincial Police's campaign to discourage hitchhiking. Forty-six billboards throughout the province recently depicted a skeletal hand thumping for a ride between the bilingual inscription "Getting my way? Tu me pren?"

The ad is becoming as controversial as it is macabre. Citizens have complained that the OPP is using scare tactics and are fearful that the signs may have a reverse effect.

Among those against the ad is Gillian Chase of Toronto's Rape Crisis Centre. "I'm alarmed about it," said Chase. "I find it so extremist. What it tends to do is set up a situation in which the hitchhiker is now taking a large gamble. Offenders may now feel that their victims have suitably forewarned."

"It's dangerous to make it seem like the victims precipitated the crime, especially in the case of rape. Among violent crimes, rape has the lowest victim precipitation rate; that is, the victim incites the rape in very few instances - four per cent to be exact.

Speaking for the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP), Constable Rick Morrison of the crime prevention section of the community services branch said, "We are not trying to instill fear but rather want to make people stop and think about the dangers in hitchhiking."

He said, "the adverse reaction is part of the game. You can't please everyone. I wonder what the complainants' reactions would be if their own daughter were raped."

"We're asking people to use common sense. We can't stop them."

Mel Lastman, Mayor of North York, is an outspoken critic of hitchhiking. He believes the ad is a good one.

Police can stop hitchhikers only if they are found soliciting on the improved or hard surface section of the highway or on highways such as the 401, 400, and Queen Elizabeth Way, where signs prohibit hitchhiking appear.

Contrary to popular belief, hitchhiking is illegal. Section 121(1) of the Highway Traffic Act states:

"No person, while on the roadway shall solicit a ride from the driver of a motor vehicle, other than a public passenger conveyance."

A roadway is defined as "the part of the highway that is improved, designed or ordinarily used for vehicular traffic, but does not include the shoulder."
Fine year for lancerette tennis team

By DON PEPPIN

Despite the adverse weather conditions of the month of October, the Lancerette tennis team survived to the end. Both the singles and doubles ranking tournaments at York University and the University of Waterloo were rained out and alternate indoor facilities were sought to replace the slick surfaces of the outdoor courts.

Thankfully, due to better organization and planning, the O.W.U.A.A. doubles and singles finals were held in London at Highbury Racquets Club (indoor facilities), hosted by the University of Western Ontario.

On October 22 only two women's doubles teams represented Windsor. The third team had to drop from play due to Margaret Montrose's ankle injury. Vivien Strong and Jody Stanton, originally ranked ninth, placed seventh in the top flight of the tournament with match scores of 0-6, 2-6 in the first round against the number one pair in the province. They dropped their second round also, 6-7, 7-5 and a 7-9 tie breaker, but bounced back in their final round 6-1, 2-6 and a 9-6 tie breaker. Stephanie Burlein and Linda Benstead played in C flight of the tournament putting up a tough fight to the Guelph team 6-0, 7-5 dropping McMaster and Waterloo as well.

In singles last Saturday only five women represented Windsor, as Ms. Montrose was still injured. Debbie Sukazkoff was the winner in the consolation side of the C flight and Jody Stanton, playing on the winners' side of that flight, won two out of her three matches; 5-7, 6-1, (9-3); 6-3, 3-6, (4-7) and 7-5, 6-3.

Linda Benstead in D flight became the deciding factor in the tournament, setting as a spoiler. By defeating her York opponent Joanne Hasley 6-1, 6-1 she allowed Western to slip by York in the team totals of her three matches; 5-7, 6-1, (9-3); 6-3, 3-6, (4-7) and 7-5, 6-3.

The only returning Crusader is Hank Dykhuizen, a guard on the rest of the team. The last two of these players played on the national junior championship 1976 club team last year.

The team placed seventh overall in the 1977 championship and hopefully with a summer autumn and the experience of fine play this year we can look for better things next year. Congratulations on a fine season.

---

BEWARE OF THE CRUSADERS

By NIGEL MILLER

The University of Windsor is one of the few schools in Canada to offer junior varsity basketball. The name of our team is the Crusaders.

The team is made up of first and second year students with an eye for the varsity team. The only returning Crusader is Hank Dykhuizen, a guard on last year's squad.

Rob Knight, Paul Bean, Dominic Dionisi, Kevin Wickham, Sam Romans, Martin Berenson, Greg Marentette, Mike McKenna and Carl Barzotte round out the rest of the team. The last two of these players played on the national junior championship 1976 club team last year.

The team is important to the success of the Lancers, says Lancer coach, Dr. Paul Thomas. It's like having a new team to scrimmage against in practice. With the Crusaders' presence in practice, the Lancers can test new ideas on offence and defence as if it were a game situation.

If there is an injury to a Lancer player, then the Crusaders provide a man, in shape and familiar with the team, to take his place. Experience is also gained for these players by competition in their exhibition schedule as well as in practice with one of the best teams in Ontario, the Lancers. This well of experience will make transition to the varsity team that much easier in the future.

The Crusaders play their home game before Lancer home games, so come out and see next year's Lancers...
By PETER NASH
Lancer football is over for the year but no one can say that they rolled over and died. Number one-seeded Western barely squeaked by in the fourth quarter to defeat the Mustangs 14-13 at Little Memorial Stadium in London last Saturday.

Coach Dave Sumoski noted that “This year’s ratings are questionable. Windsor is definitely one of the top teams in the nation and they are not rated in the top ten.” Sumoski continued, “I hate to win this way but I’ll take it. I can imagine how the Lancers feel. Go Lancers!”

The game started off quite slowly with no scoring in the first quarter. The Lancers threatened once but were unable to score. The drive featured 11 plays and 3 first downs, but only made it to the Mustang 14. Julian Jones carried twice for 2 first downs. Jones had his finest showing of the year although the statistics don’t show it. He rushed for 60 yards on 11 carries but these carries were usually at key points in the game.

Scott Mallender was also shining early with passes to Bruce Walker and Bruce Young. Overall Mallender ended up with a fine 300 yards passing going 15 for 26. Walker had 4 receptions for 132 yards, putting in his usual great effort. Both teams exchanged again in the second quarter but were thwarted by the Mustang defense. Mallender hit Walker on a 20 yard pass and run play for a touchdown at the 4:15 mark of the third quarter. The extra was good and tied the score.

Western came right back with a drive that stopped at the Windsor 38 yard line. Kicker Tom Arnott really got his foot on this one and Western got a touch-point back. Western led at this point, 5-7. The teams traded punt after punt. The drive stopped at the Windsor 1 yard line and Windsor was forced to punt. Scott Eassey’s punt travelled into the end zone and the receiver was tackled at the Western 9 yard line. The Windsor defense held strong and quarterback Paul Ford was tackled in the end zone. This gave Windsor a 2 point safety, and a 9-7 lead.

Western was forced to kick for the safety and Al Donant returned the kick 30 yards to the Western 53 yard line. Jones and Craig Mallender combined on two running plays that put Windsor in the Western 33 yard line. The next play from scrimmage saw Roger Adams catch a pass and scramble to the Western 15 yard line. The drive was halted at this point and on the last play of the third quarter Jim Geier kicked a 35 yard field goal. The Lancers went into the fourth quarter leading 12-8.

Windsor managed a single early in the fourth quarter after Western stalled a Windsor drive, at the Western 35 yard line. That made the score 13-8 for Windsor.

The rest of the fourth quarter was filled with penalties. Western moved the ball into Windsor territory with some fine running by Bill Rozalsky and a 43 yard pass play. A clipping penalty stopped that drive and Western was forced to punt.

Windsor was unable to move the ball and Western regained possession. Ford connected with Labbett 3 times in a row and then he hit Rozalsky for the last major of the game. A 2 point conversion attempt failed. Western took the lead 14-13.

The Lancers managed to get downs to the Western 46, on the next series, the last in the game. Mallender pitched out to Walker and he tossed it right back to Mallender on a 2 yard pass and run play, putting the Lancers on Western’s 21 yard line only with seconds left. Coach Fracas decided to go with a field goal attempt but it was wide. The Western return man ran the ball out of the end zone and the game came to an end.

Quarterbacks Ford and Bone combined for 258 yards passing. Windsor’s running game was lower than usual with only 94 yards. Bill Rozalsky did most of the running with 75 yards. Victory slipped from the hands of the Lancers but they should not be discounted. Coach Fracas had it right when he said “They’re a better team than last year and I’m proud of them”. A few breaks and the Lancers could have wondered what was going on in their game. The Mustangs won young but the Lancer squad is young. Next year the league is going to have more of a battle on its hands!

No roll job, Western squeak Lancers out, 14-13

SPORTSHORTSP
SPORTSHORTSP

Even though turnout for Games Night October 22 was limited to a handful of bodies, those that attended appeared to enjoy themselves. All the games played proved to bring out all hidden desires to regret in the last 7 to 14.

The games played sometimes had to be altered, mainly when mass piling occurred. Ron Binks preferred in his own words “I got my great effort. A good time was had by all.

Boyfriend getting on your nerves? Roomy a nuisance?

By NIGEL MILLER

“We hustle” is the cheer used in that mix and Western’s basketball team has made some basic self defense moves. No special dress is needed just come out and learn some new moves to try on the disco floor.

Feel like channeling your interests into something worth stroking about. The Intramural Office has just the thing for you this month. December you can get fit and have a goal to go after as well.

Co-ed volleyball gets under way November 8 if you don’t have a team yet or even if you do get in touch with the Intramural Office in their car.

The University of Windsor Roller Skating party goes November 14. A number of the university students are on their way to the University of Windsor Roller Skating party goes November 14. The party gets on at 9 p.m. in the Human Kinetics 6:00.

The Great University of Windsor Roller Skating party goes November 14, 5 p.m. in the Human Kinetics 6:00.

Watch out Scott! Lancer quarterback Scott Mallender (14) tosses under pressure from Western defence as brother Craig (18) rushes in to help out.

LANCERETTE BASKETBALL

Hard work for success

by NIGEL MILLER

By NIGEL MILLER

We hustle” is the cheer used in that mix and Western’s basketball team has made some basic self defense moves. No special dress is needed just regular gym type equipment. Come out and learn some new moves to try on the disco floor.

Feel like channeling your interests into something worth stroking about. The Intramural Office has just the thing for you this month. December you can get fit and have a goal to go after as well.

Co-ed volleyball gets under way November 8 if you don’t have a team yet or even if you do get in touch with the Intramural Office in their car.

The Great University of Windsor Roller Skating party goes November 14, 5 p.m. in the Human Kinetics 6:00.

Watch out Scott! Lancer quarterback Scott Mallender (14) tosses under pressure from Western defence as brother Craig (18) rushes in to help out.

LANCERETTE BASKETBALL

Hard work for success

by NIGEL MILLER

We hustle” is the cheer used in that mix and Western’s basketball team has made some basic self defense moves. No special dress is needed just regular gym type equipment. Come out and learn some new moves to try on the disco floor.

Feel like channeling your interests into something worth stroking about. The Intramural Office has just the thing for you this month. December you can get fit and have a goal to go after as well.

Co-ed volleyball gets under way November 8 if you don’t have a team yet or even if you do get in touch with the Intramural Office in their car.

The Great University of Windsor Roller Skating party goes November 14, 5 p.m. in the Human Kinetics 6:00.

Watch out Scott! Lancer quarterback Scott Mallender (14) tosses under pressure from Western defence as brother Craig (18) rushes in to help out.

LANCERETTE BASKETBALL

Hard work for success
Cutbacks threaten academic quality

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

The university system is being starved and academic quality is now on the cutting board, according to Dr. Paul Cassano, Chairman of the Ontario Council of University Faculty Associations.

Cassano, of the French Department, said faculty members across the province feel they cannot provide the level of education the students deserve because of tight budget restrictions.

The Ontario Government is currently entertaining the possibility of cutbacks and internal re-distributions, said Cassano. He added he feels there is a program assessment taking place that could be responsible for the scaling down of programs, or of their termination.

A committee on academic planning has been assessing Ontario universities, seeking unnecessary duplication of course areas. Cassano said that perhaps duplicative faculties would be the first to be cut back by the government.

The University of Windsor is in a precarious situation this year because of a sharp drop in enrollment. When he asked the premier for specific indications of the situation, Davis would only say that times were tight.

Premier Davis was unavailable for comment.

Cassano said there is a general feeling among Ontario faculty that the post-secondary educational system will be under-funded. Funds for colleges and universities increased by 5.8 per cent this year, but there is speculation that funds will increase only by three per cent next year. Because of the tight financial situation factores, he said, the institutions, morale among faculty is low, said Cassano.

Professor John McAuliffe, Vice-President Academic, said so far, "nothing has happened to interfere with the educational quality" of the university. He did say that if enrolment continues to decline, there will be reason for concern over the future of this university, but added, such speculation is "looking down the road.

"The best effort of the professor," McAuliffe said, "is far more important than any other academic effort."

If a student has a good teacher, he explained, then any other problems which result from cutbacks are only an inconvenience.

The maintenance, food services and housekeeping workers of Canadian Union of Public Employees local 1001 are the biggest group now engaged in contract negotiations with three other campus unions.

The negotiations are in the position that we're quite prepared to negotiate with the union at any time.

Last fall, CUPE local 1001 went on strike to back up their contract demands, causing the administration to cancel homecoming, and ugly incidents occurred.

Under the provisions of their last contract, signed in early October, 1976, local 1001 workers received a 1.5 per cent pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollars per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976.

The contracts for all three unions expired June 30, 1977, and since that time the workers have operated under the provisions of their old contracts.

The administration's negotiating committees are dealing with the three unions separately.

No contract details are available, and administration spokesmen refuse to comment on the progress of the talks. When asked how long the negotiations might take, Morgan said, "We're

University negotiates with 3 campus unions

By RICK SPENCE

The university system is being starved and academic quality is now on the cutting board, according to Dr. Paul Cassano, Chairman of the Ontario Council of University Faculty Associations.

Cassano, of the French Department, said faculty members across the province feel they cannot provide the level of education the students deserve because of tight budget restrictions.

The Ontario Government is currently entertaining the possibility of cutbacks and internal re-distributions, said Cassano. He added he feels there is a program assessment taking place that could be responsible for the scaling down of programs, or of their termination.

A committee on academic planning has been assessing Ontario universities, seeking unnecessary duplication of course areas. Cassano said that perhaps duplicative faculties would be the first to be cut back by the government.

The University of Windsor is in a precarious situation this year because of a sharp drop in enrollment. When he asked the premier for specific indications of the situation, Davis would only say that times were tight.

Premier Davis was unavailable for comment.

Cassano said there is a general feeling among Ontario faculty that the post-secondary educational system will be under-funded. Funds for colleges and universities increased by 5.8 per cent this year, but there is speculation that funds will increase only by three per cent next year. Because of the tight financial situation factores, he said, the institutions, morale among faculty is low, said Cassano.

Professor John McAuliffe, Vice-President Academic, said so far, "nothing has happened to interfere with the educational quality" of the university. He did say that if enrolment continues to decline, there will be reason for concern over the future of this university, but added, such speculation is "looking down the road.

"The best effort of the professor," McAuliffe said, "is far more important than any other academic effort."

If a student has a good teacher, he explained, then any other problems which result from cutbacks are only an inconvenience.

The maintenance, food services and housekeeping workers of Canadian Union of Public Employees local 1001 are the biggest group now engaged in contract negotiations with three other campus unions.

The negotiations are in the position that we're quite prepared to negotiate with the union at any time.

Last fall, CUPE local 1001 went on strike to back up their contract demands, causing the administration to cancel homecoming, and ugly incidents occurred.

Under the provisions of their last contract, signed in early October, 1976, local 1001 workers received a 1.5 per cent pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollars per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976. The union also won a five dollar per hour pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 1976.

The contracts for all three unions expired June 30, 1977, and since that time the workers have operated under the provisions of their old contracts.

The administration's negotiating committees are dealing with the three unions separately.

No contract details are available, and administration spokesmen refuse to comment on the progress of the talks. When asked how long the negotiations might take, Morgan said, "We're
IGN. Donald Jamieson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, will be speak- ing and answering questions on Mon- day, November 28, at 2:30 p.m., in Ambassador Auditorium, University Cen- tre, Sponsored by the University of Windsor English Department.

UNIVERSITY presents HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES by Alan Ayckbourn, Friday, November 25 to December 2, 6:30 p.m. at the Gibson Gallery, 140 Richmond Street, Amherstburg, on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Windsor Light Opera presents its 57th annual musical production, "The Brigantin Man in Town" (Sinogue). Classic Auditorium, November 19, 25, 26, 27 and December 2, 3 and 4. Tickets available from members and from the box office, 365 Tecumseh Road West, or call 455-4545.

The Hand of Mailing Club, affiliated with the Windsor Association for hard of hearing, will have a membership meeting on Monday, November 14th at 7:30 p.m. at 820 Wyandotte St. East. This meeting will focus on getting people involved, as well as planning for future activities. We look forward to meeting you.

FOUND: White lawn, in Bell Hall. Claim at Lunch Office.

ESSEX County Historical Association announces a Community Forum. The Essex County Historical Association ex- tends a special invitation to the peo- ple of the Community forum. "Under those residents of Old Sandwich to ad- tend the Community forum, to exchange information about our historic build- ings, and to discuss the conservation and restoration of our architectural heritage. The forum will take place Thursday, November 17th at 7:00 p.m. in St. John's Church Hall on Sand- wich Street at the University of Windsor. For further information call: Dr. Kenneth Pryke, president of E.C.H.A. 253-432-5122.

ANNOUNCING . . . the annual Wo- men's Centre Christmas Handcraft Ba- zaar. November 25 through December 2, 1977. In the main concourse of Van- nor Hall - lower lobby. Handcrafted jew­ elery and needlework, gift cards, lett­ erwork, candles, pottery, weaving, stuffed toys, cookie houses, etc. For more information call Ext. 333.

FOR SALE: Sony stereo receiver, 100 watts R.M.S. per channel, Sony 4000 diskdirect, two turntables, Stan­ don 681 EEE cartridge, all now with warranty. Call 252-6342.

RENT - $68.00; share house with 2 other guys, 8 minute walk to University. Call 283-9643 between 6 - 10 p.m., or come by at that time - 1901 Uni­ versity W., on the corner of Bridge and University.

THE Stephen Acott Trio presents Poetry and Percussion with Gordon Morait. They will appear at the. Tec­ umseh Mall Library, November 12, 2 p.m. at the Windsor Library, De­ cember 10th, 2 p.m.

Happy Birthday, Bridge. From the Lance.

TIED of Florida, Hawaii, Barbados. Try a week of wilderness skiing it is Agony, the worst of the winter. The Feb­ ruary the skis and skiis are on the road to the sun - mobiles to hangar your skis, the road to the bars and bars to hangar your skiis. Buy the skiis and bars to hangar your skiis.

FOR RENT: 3 bedroom house - freshly painted. Close to University on Port­ land. Call 258-1695.

LOST: Navy blue "Alfred Pace" windbreaker at Vanor Hall, Frid­ e November 4. but, FOUND. Army style blue jacket also at Vanor. Let's negotiate a swap. Call Dave 253-1781.

KEITH BLOOMFIELD: I found some things at Vanor Hall Monday night, you can you can have it back. Stinger 915 Hall, 252-8841.

FOR SALE: Dunt M600 enger with 200 watts RMS, a pair of Stax and Niss 50 mm. New Heartite print- ers, sets of trays. Accessories. $1000 firm ($3500 value). Call Pat 737-7480 after 5 p.m.

SIX month old tortoise-shell cat, found in University area. Desperately good home, cannot be kept by free. Well-behaved, clean and trained. 256-8384 after 4:30 p.m. (weekdays).

ROOM NOW AVAILABLE at Dele O. Fraternity at 408 Indian Road or phone 253-5683.

ESSEX County Historical Association announces a Community Forum. The Essex County Historical Association ex- extends a special invitation to the peo- ple of the Community forum. "Under those residents of Old Sandwich to ad- tend the Community forum, to exchange information about our historic build- ings, and to discuss the conservation and restoration of our architectural heritage. The forum will take place Thursday, November 17th at 7:00 p.m. in St. John's Church Hall on Sand- wich Street at the University of Windsor. For further information call: Dr. Kenneth Pryke, president of E.C.H.A. 253-432-5122.

ANNOUNCING . . . the annual Wo- men's Centre Christmas Handcraft Ba- zaar. November 25 through December 2, 1977. In the main concourse of Van­ nor Hall - lower lobby. Handcrafted jew­ elery and needlework, gift cards, lett­ erwork, candles, pottery, weaving, stuffed toys, cookie houses, etc. For more information call Ext. 333.

FOR SALE: Sony stereo receiver, 100 watts R.M.S. per channel, Sony 4000 diskdirect, two turntables, Stan­ don 681 EEE cartridge, all now with warranty. Call 252-6342.

RENT - $68.00; share house with 2 other guys, 8 minute walk to University. Call 283-9643 between 6 - 10 p.m., or come by at that time - 1901 Uni­ versity W., on the corner of Bridge and University.

THE Stephen Acott Trio presents Poetry and Percussion with Gordon Morait. They will appear at the. Tec­ umseh Mall Library, November 12, 2 p.m. at the Windsor Library, De­ cember 10th, 2 p.m.

Happy Birthday, Bridge. From the Lance.

TIED of Florida, Hawaii, Barbados. Try a week of wilderness skiing it is Agony, the worst of the winter. The Feb­ ruary the skis and skiis are on the road to the sun - mobiles to hangar your skis, the road to the bars and bars to hangar your skiis. Buy the skiis and bars to hangar your skiis.

FOR RENT: 3 bedroom house - freshly painted. Close to University on Port­ land. Call 258-1695.

LOST: Navy blue "Alfred Pace" windbreaker at Vanor Hall, Frid­ e November 4. but, FOUND. Army style blue jacket also at Vanor. Let's negotiate a swap. Call Dave 253-1781.

KEITH BLOOMFIELD: I found some things at Vanor Hall Monday night, you can you can have it back. Stinger 915 Hall, 252-8841.

FOR SALE: Dunt M600 enger with 200 watts RMS, a pair of Stax and Niss 50 mm. New Heartite print- ers, sets of trays. Accessories. $1000 firm ($3500 value). Call Pat 737-7480 after 5 p.m.

SIX month old tortoise-shell cat, found in University area. Desperately good home, cannot be kept by free. Well-behaved, clean and trained. 256-8384 after 4:30 p.m. (weekdays).

ROOM NOW AVAILABLE at Dele O. Fraternity at 408 Indian Road or phone 253-5683.
Liberals and NDP join students in opposing Parrott

By BRIAN WILLIAMSON

The Liberal and NDP parties have joined the students in opposing Harry Parrott, the minister of Colleges and Universities. The parties have joined with the students to challenge Parrott's proposals to increase student fees and reduce the number of benefits for students.

The students have been critical of Parrott's proposals, which they believe will disproportionately affect middle-class and low-income students. The students have also criticized Parrott's lack of consultation with the students and their representatives.

The Liberal and NDP parties have expressed their support for the students' demands, and have called for a fair and transparent process in the selection of the next president of the University of Windsor.

The Liberal and NDP parties have also called for a system of independent funding for the student councils, which would allow them to make decisions without interference from the university administration.

The parties have also called for the integration of the student council with the broader community, and for a more active role of the students in the governance of the university.

The Liberal and NDP parties have stressed the importance of the students' voices in the decision-making process, and have called for a more participatory approach in the selection of the next president of the University of Windsor.

The parties have also called for a more inclusive and transparent process in the selection of future presidents, and for the inclusion of student representatives in the decision-making process.

The Liberal and NDP parties have also called for a more participatory approach in the selection of future presidents, and for the inclusion of student representatives in the decision-making process.

The Liberal and NDP parties have also called for a more participatory approach in the selection of future presidents, and for the inclusion of student representatives in the decision-making process.
The Lance

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Press offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4.

Subscription rates are $7.25 per year. Enter as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writer and not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Student’s Administrative Council.

Offices: 353-4190, Ext. 183
Advertising: 253-4200

Pull in the reins

Canada's Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force has fallen off its high horse. Recently we've heard news that the Mounties broke into the Montreal offices of the Parti Quebecois in January, 1973, and stole membership lists and party finance information. The Parti Quebecois break-in is not an isolated example. It follows news of other illegal break-ins by the RCMP.

These police are clearly not the romantic, red-coated law enforcement officers whose international image is one of charging through the Canadian north in search of drunken fur traders. Our national police force has done much more than that, and some of it is pretty shady business. These police have worshipped. This country's police have made up its own rules depending on the mood of its senior officers. The actions of the force have to be made directly accountable to an elected member of parliament, not to an appointed bureaucracy.

Educate yourself

They say there's a lot you can learn at university, and they're right. But only if you come out from behind your textbooks.

If you're at all interested in the mass media, or the mass media of this country's communications system, skip all your classes today and catch the last sessions of the Can-Am Seminar. You've probably already missed this year's morning session, which dealt with regulation of the media, but be at the university's Auditorium at 2:00 for the final session, dealing with public intervention in the media. The panelists are professionals, and they're dealing with important issues, and it's all free. Don't miss it.

Another unique opportunity knocks Monday. Throw some questions at Canada's Secretary of State for External Affairs, Don Jamieson. He's a big man in the Trudeau cabinet, and he's just returned from the Middle East. Come and meet the man. Jamieson will be at Ambassador Auditorium at 3:00 Monday afternoon. Your experience at this university will be only as good as you make it.

The Great Lance First Annual Recruitment Campaign kinda fizzled out this week, but we can always use more help. Right now, Editor Rick Spencer, Managing Editor, Brenda McLachlan, Photo Editor Janine Hartley, and entertainment editor Frank Korovick are in the office. Circulation Consultant Steve MacLean is moving his car. Space Editor Don Popp is watching a movie. Entertainment Editor Paul Chevalier is at home recovering. Anna Marie Tremendal and Pete Nash are at the Can-Am Seminar, but haven't been seen alone.

The Lance salutes The Silhouette for showing what it takes to get people involved in what's happening on campus. The Silhouette editorial staff must have felt the pressure from students on co-ed washrooms to write about it every week for story ideas. As the Silhouette editorial said Oct. 27, "What is it that makes up its own rules depending on the mood of its senior officers? The actions of the force have to be made directly accountable to an elected member of parliament, not to an appointed bureaucracy."

The local media in Hamilton and Toronto who picked up on the story, so The Lance was not alone. Locally, The Windsor Star also mentioned the story. According to Silhouette Editor Erik Kohanik, the purpose of the washroom stories "was to see if people were, indeed, upset, and if they're not, what type of issue it would take to get them to react and take a stand on." The story certainly drew response. A number of McMaster administrators called the paper for more details about the new washrooms, and concerned parents called the university to complain. Students were also concerned, and many of them criticized the idea of co-ed washrooms.

When they learned of the hoax, most readers were going sports about it, but others criticized the Silhouette for taking advantage of its credibility, or called the hoax tasteless. The Lance salutes The Silhouette for the stunt, which was obviously engineered out of desperation. The Silhouette staff obviously feel as frustrated as we do at the state of residence fees? What about food services? What about raised tuition fees? What about raised residence fees? What about food poisoning?"

Obviously, they have had the same problems as Mac as we have here. And the only solution is student action. Thanks to the Sil for showing what it takes to get people involved in what's happening on campus.

I am not a candidate in the current search for President of the University of Windsor. Do you hear me? I will not be a candidate if elected. I will not.

Coping with the Lance bureaucracy

Stories: Come talk to us first
Ads: for rates call Ext. 326
Deadline, Tuesday afternoons

Unclassifieds: Free for the university community
Deadline Tuesday noon.

Letters: No more than 600 words.
Deadline Wednesday noon.

The Great Lance First Annual Recruitment Campaign kinda fizzled out this week, but we can always use more help. Right now, Editor Rick Spencer, Managing Editor, Brenda McLachlan, Photo Editor Janine Hartley, and entertainment editor Frank Korovick are in the office. Circulation Consultant Steve MacLean is moving his car. Space Editor Don Popp is watching a movie. Entertainment Editor Paul Chevalier is at home recovering. Anna Marie Tremendal and Pete Nash are at the Can-Am Seminar, but haven't been seen alone.

The Lance is forced to admit we made a mistake two weeks ago in running the article entitled "McMaster switches to co-ed washrooms." The information was taken from a copy of the McMaster newspaper, The Silhouette. Last week we learned that their stories on the subject were a hoax.

There are no co-ed washrooms at McMaster University, as reported in the Silhouette Oct. 20. The October 27 issue revealed the whole thing had been a clever hoax to get them to react and take a stand on.

The story drew response. A number of McMaster administrators called the paper for more details about the new washrooms, and concerned parents called the university to complain. Students were also concerned, and many of them criticized the idea of co-ed washrooms.

When they learned of the hoax, most readers were going sports about it, but others criticized the Silhouette for taking advantage of its credibility, or called the hoax tasteless. The Lance salutes The Silhouette for the stunt, which was obviously engineered out of desperation. The Silhouette staff obviously feel as frustrated as we do at the state of residence fees? What about food services? What about raised tuition fees? What about raised residence fees? What about food poisoning?"

Obviously, they have had the same problems as Mac as we have here. And the only solution is student action. Thanks to the Sil for showing what it takes to get people involved in what's happening on campus.

Darts to The Windsor Star which scrutinizes The Lance every week for story ideas. In the week that it chucked washrooms in the Silhouette, it might better have picked up in our stories on food services, Lobby Day, government cuts or the plight of the Canadian University Press. In the way, they could have shared their concern for the aren't fretting universities, and not just their appetite for bizarre, irrelevant stories.
Catharsis reborn

By RICK SPENCE

Catharsis returned to Windsor this weekend and brought with it a sense of peace to the town that has always symbolized light and beauty. Windsor's Christian College organizer, said that last weekend was perhaps the closest thing to a 'round trip' ever achieved.

Chris Creighton-Kelly, the organizer, said that last weekend was perhaps the closest thing to a 'round trip' ever achieved.

Christ Creighton-Kelly, the organizer, said that last weekend was perhaps the closest thing to a 'round trip' ever achieved.

"The town is filled with the sounds of music and laughter," he said. "It's a place where people can come together and share in the joy of being alive."
Dear Editor:

First and foremost, I would like to thank the Lan can for supporting the establishment of a Windsor OPIRG chapter. As you are aware by now, the Ontario Public Interest Research Group is back in the Windsor Student Council office. We are in the process of renting floor space from SAC for the relationship with the student council is that of a few students, it was justified that they would vote in the January referendum and will vote about this organization so that they may make a rational and wise decision.

At times, OPIRG has to allow the students at the University of Windsor campus to aid in their decision regarding OPIRG. SAC's Student Council feels an obligation to facilitate the information and as of yet has taken an official position. Whether or not Students' Council will be taking any action in the future is not for me to determine. However, at this point in time, the Council is just allowing OPIRG to rent office space to allow them to explain these issues to the students of the University of Windsor. We hope that all students are aware that the students who vote will vote in the January referendum and will vote about this organization so that they may make a rational and wise decision.

Sincerely,

Gary R. Wells
President

SAC states official stand

Dear Students:

By motion of the Students' Council, the following stand was taken regarding OPIRG or its merits. SAC does not support OPIRG because SAC has never been involved in the motion. SAC directors and further that such acceptance does not signify support one way or the other. This resolution was passed to allow the students at the University of Windsor campus to aid in their decision regarding OPIRG.

Sincerely,

Elaine A. Spain
President

OPIRG sets the record straight

Dear Editor:

OPIRG's job is to solve social problems by working with community and social action groups. Research is conducted by students at the university to find practical solutions to these problems and not for October 1975 was 8.3%.

We do not use the services of the SAC secretary. In only one instance the secretary was shown to have committed an error. We do not use the services of the SAC executive and as of yet have taken positions on the SAC executive that is under the table. SAC vice-president Robert Whitenect was not even in his office when the SAC executive was consulted. Mr. Whitenect accused us of being anti-profit. All research done by OPIRG is non-profit and regulated as a charity. OPIRG has to allow the students to explain these issues to the students of the University of Windsor. We hope that all students are aware that the students who vote will vote in the January referendum and will vote about this organization so that they may make a rational and wise decision.

Sincerely,

Gary R. Wells
President

Overwhelming response

To the editor and those concerned.

The food situation on this campus pales me all. The lack of food is a new thing to be done about it. Saga Foods is under contract to supply food services to the students of this campus. This contract is a public document and its keeping secret can only to the suspicion that something smells funny in the kitchen.

When food services were withdrawn from the Donald Hall Residence Building, a great disservice to students, it was justified because of the food situation. We, therefore, have no reason to continue to support these services were incurred. Has this deficit been eliminated? We are unable to answer this question for Saga Foods will not allow students to view their financial statements.

In the past, where competition seeks to reduce inefficiencySaga Foods enjoys the security of a monopoly. We have seen where this type of situation leads. Apparently they feel they do not have to justify their actions but this belief must change. It is time Saga Foods became accountable to the people who pay for their services and perhaps secure place on this campus or greater.

The contract they so secretly wish to hide from the public document it's supposed to be. If it does not carry the signs of a legal action IMMEDIATELY.

Saga Foods must justify the $70,000 fee they receive for consultation and the management (or mismanagement) of food services on this campus. As a result of government policies on Saga Foods must become public knowledge so we, as concerned students, may make a reasonable evaluation of the situation. If Saga Foods has nothing to hide then the release of this information should cause no discomfort.

Finally we must weigh the benefits of contracting outside firms to provide food service and determine whether or not we really need to put up with this shit. The SAC president should be able to manage our own affairs. We must all get up, go to the food store, stock our cupboards and yell "I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it any more."

Wayne Lessard
Law I

Trudeau and economy

Sorry

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my deep satisfaction to the faculty members who responded to our student aid classroom speaking campaign. The response was overwhelming and unexpected. It is possible for October 1975 was 8.3%.

We do not use the services of the SAC secretary. In only one instance the secretary was shown to have committed an error. We do not use the services of the SAC executive and as of yet have taken positions on the SAC executive that is under the table. SAC vice-president Robert Whitenect was not even in his office when the SAC executive was consulted. Mr. Whitenect accused us of being anti-profit. All research done by OPIRG is non-profit and regulated as a charity. OPIRG has to allow the students to explain these issues to the students of the University of Windsor. We hope that all students are aware that the students who vote will vote in the January referendum and will vote about this organization so that they may make a rational and wise decision.

Sincerely,

Gary R. Wells
President

Overwhelming response

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish

Dear Editor:

I apologize for any inconvenience that might have been caused. I have every hope that this excellent working relationship between SAC and the students will continue.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn O'Donovan
External Affairs Committee

Deirdre John Nish
Wallace’s philosophy is cynical optimism

By BRENA McLISTER
Len Wallace has been called a communist, fascist, racist, neo-Trotskyite, anti-labour, anti-orientation, and ignorant. He is one of the best known, and possibly, one of the most widely controversial students on campus. He is known for his political views.

I don’t believe in present economic structure, and I think it can be changed,” he said.

They’re not the most countries such as Russia and China, he says, are really “state capitalist,” and hence, no communist.

Everyone should have a say - libertarian socialism is “true democracy.”

He feels his parents had a lot of influence on his political views, although his views differ greatly from theirs. “My father is White Russian; my mother was born in Canada, but had a Ukrainian background,” he said, and heavily influenced by the labour movement.

Wallace has been politically active both on and off campus. At the age of 20, he ran for city alderman, “Out of 42 candidates I was the 21st runner,” he said, “Not bad for a $10.00 campaign!” Last summer, he ran as the NDP candidate for the Windsor-Walkerville riding. “It was one of the greatest experiences in my life,” he said. He didn’t expect to win. “I knew I was a sacrificial chicken.”

The media made much of the fact that he was just a 22-year-old political science student. He was, however, disappointed with the NDP policies. He said that the NDP tries to “tune down” their principles for fear of scaring away votes. In doing so, they have become “left wing liberals.”

Wallace thinks they should stick to their principles, and that through educating the people they would get more support.

On campus, he was the Social Sci­ence Rep on SAC for two years. “I was a lousy rep the first year,” he said, “I missed three meetings and had to re­sign.” The second year, he teamed up with Gary Wells, and got involved in many is­sues: fighting tuition increases, improving club funding, more parking facilities, ISO representation on SAC.

In his graduate year, last year, he was on the Senate. He resigned because he felt he didn’t have enough time to do a good job. He said he still gets involved with SAC, “behind the scenes.”

This year, Wallace is the Windsor OPIRG Co-ordinator. He describes OPIRG as being “a non-political group, access­ible to all.” He believes that, “people are apathetic because they don’t have enough information. OPIRG gives that information to them.”

OPIRG is campaigning for a January referendum to see whether students will support OPIRG on campus. Wallace has been using a corner of Wells’ office for his headquarters.

When asked to comment on this development, Wallace said, “As far as I’m concerned, it’s Gary’s office. He is allowing me to share it at expense. They (SAC) are happy to keep whatever he does with his office space.” Regarding the state­ment that SAC is seeking student support, he said that OPIRG is campaigning here because students who have asked them to. Wallace has a petition with over 500 signatures of students in favour of the referendum. He thinks that this is a clear indication of student support. His appeal to the coun­cil reversed their decision.

More than politics

Surprisingly, Len Wallace has spare time to pursue other in­terests besides politics. He is an accomplished accordionist. He was a Michigan State Cham­pion Accordionist when he was 14, but was later disqualified for being Canadian. When he was 15, he became a Canadian Champion - the youngest person ever to win the award. He was to attend the World Cham­pionship, but the judges de­cided he was “too young.” He said the judges “took the money and went themselves.”

“ar I knew what I know now,” he said, “I would have got a lawyer.”

He has won about ten awards (one tends to lose count) for music - all but two for first place in competitions. On week­ends he plays in a band.

He also enjoys listening to music. “I like folk - it’s got a message. Classical is the greatest. Rock’s gets my emotions up. Disco ain’t worth shit. If music is the guiding of civilization, then disco would put us at a nega­tive third.”

“My personal philosophy,” he said, “is cynical optimism. Not pessimism. Things may be bad now, but they’ll get better. No matter what, I always seem to end up the winner.”

General SAC meeting

Tuesday, Nov. 15, 1977
at 4:30 pm in the SAC office

OPIRG

At the SAC meeting on Oc­tober 27, a motion - made by Len Meyer, Engineering Society President; seconded by Tony LaSorda, Commerce Rep. - was passed stating that OPIRG will not be allowed to use the SAC office facilities until such time as students vote in favour of supporting OPIRG.

Attention

SAC Welcome Pass holders

HAWAII TRIP

Two single tickets will be drawn
Nov. 16, 1977
in St. Denis Hall
at half time during the basketball game

For Welcome Pass holders only
Bring your Pass to the game
Hard times ahead for University libraries

By RICK SPENCE

The threat of an old-fashioned sit-in at York University last week was enough to make York officials reverse a decision to cutback on library hours.

Law students at Osgoode Hall Law School met two weeks ago to resolve to hold a sit-in at the law library to protest proposed cutbacks at all the university's libraries. The law library hours were scheduled to be cutback drastically, closing at five p.m. Friday instead of 11, and closing all day Saturdays and Sundays.

The students planned to hold a sit-in starting last Friday at 4:00 p.m., just an hour before the reduced hours were to go into effect. But the protest was rendered unnecessary by the administration's decision Thursday, Nov. 3, to retain the original library hours.

"The university decided to cave in," said law student John Tory.

Meanwhile, at the University of Windsor, things aren't too much better. At last week, Associate Librarian for Informational services, the biggest area of concern in it periodicals. In the past few years the cost of serials has risen higher than the national inflation rate and this has caused considerable strain on the library's budget.

At present Mate says "things are tight," and although there have been "no wholesale cancellation of periodicals," a freeze has been imposed on ordering new serials.

This year's budget increase has not caught up with the rising cost of periodicals and it is expected that the library will be taking a closer look at its periodical collection in the future. Mate believes that in light of the declining enrolments and decreased government funding, in the future the library will have to "look realistically at its budget."

Mate also recommends that the library should make more use of other sources such as the Journal Access Service in Chicago and that Ottawa's national library should start a collection of not commonly used materials.

At a meeting with students November 1st, three York officials had said the libraries' budgets, were a reduced priority, and that the cutbacks were caused by the government, not the university. They said "we're not cutting back because we want to," according to Tory.

Students suggested that cutbacks could be made in other areas, such as university wire and cheese parties and cutting out the chauffeur-driven limousine service. The three candidates to re-

It could be a voice of the community, a public access station for York. A President H. Ian MacDonald. The administration members justified MacDonald's opposition by saying MacDonald used it in soliciting funds for the university. And that Ottawa's national library should start a collection of not commonly used materials.

The three administrators at the student meeting promised they would take the students' arguments to the president, who was invited to the meeting but did not attend. The next day, at a meeting of the President's Policy Committee, it was decided the cutbacks would not take place.

Earlier, there had been threats that the libraries would have to cutback on acquisitions to meet the budget cuts if the

Meet The Lance left-overs

We've been wanting to do this for a long time. This story consists of sentences and paragraphs which have been left out of past Lance stories this year, due to space limitations. So grab your collection of left-overs and see if you can find which sentences belong to what stories.

The three candidates to replace Dave Pegg as place-kicker are Mike Vorsbuk, Joe Deslippe, and Bob Geier. "They're looking pretty good," according to Frack. "They'll all be kickers.

We don't want a dentist or any other professional, with less schooling than is now necessary.

For the now decision really remains with the Board of Governors. Whether to give in to the faculty's negotiating package last year, or not, and thus force the suspension of classes.

Western's new president, George Connell, chaired the Osgoode meeting, and talked about his plans to meet with two ministry spokesmen, to answer questions following Paton's student audience.

Basically, however, it was a very fine evening and very enlightening.
Poet’s Corner

The Trap

And when the warmer winds of Spring,
Rustle into the trap and sniff,
Suspiciously the bars of this city,
Then the girls come out.
With unwind blown hair,
They rustle down the streets of this city,
Suffocating the bars suspiciously.

STEPHEN COOMBES

The Black Horse

In the month called Opal
She ran to me, singing
The songs we shared
Laughing
As if no ocean held her there to drown.

I knew a gypsy once
A woman wilder than the shapes that gull the wind
Wilder, and more desperate, than foxes in the cornered night.
She danced for me
On seas that knew no shores
The salted eyes, the sea-dark hair, the dance.

I knew a prince of geldings
A whitened diamond
Set deep between his aching eyes,
Nameless
Ageless as he stood, sea-deep in deepening foam
Milk-white against the dark.

I knew the whip of rain that stitched the sand
Bringing vengeance from the sea
I saw the banner in the wind grow old
The fish devour the crab.

Steve was there, for me but was I there for her?
I wasn’t sure, but I wanted to know,
She was there, for me but was I there for her?
I wasn’t sure, I didn’t know but I had to find out.

When I look at her, my mind goes all around,
As I look closer,
I see the tears that engulf her,
Beautiful eyes and hear her murmur softly.

"I love you," as she sobbed and held me close and I held her close,
Close to my soul, closer to my heart,
As I watched my sadness reflected.

In the month called Opal
She ran to me, singing
The songs we shared
Laughing
As if no ocean held her there to drown.

I knew a gypsy once
A woman wilder than the shapes that gull the wind
Wilder, and more desperate, than foxes in the cornered night.
She danced for me
On seas that knew no shores
The salted eyes, the sea-dark hair, the dance.

I knew a prince of geldings
A whitened diamond
Set deep between his aching eyes,
Nameless
Ageless as he stood, sea-deep in deepening foam
Milk-white against the dark.

I knew the whip of rain that stitched the sand
Bringing vengeance from the sea
I saw the banner in the wind grow old
The fish devour the crab.

I wasn’t sure, but I wanted to know,
She was there, for me but was I there for her?
I wasn’t sure, I didn’t know but I had to find out.

When I look at her, my mind goes all around,
As I look closer,
I see the tears that engulf her,
Beautiful eyes and hear her murmur softly.

"I love you," as she sobbed and held me close and I held her close,
Close to my soul, closer to my heart,
As I watched my sadness reflected.

In the month called Opal
She ran to me, singing
The songs we shared
Laughing
As if no ocean held her there to drown.

I knew a gypsy once
A woman wilder than the shapes that gull the wind
Wilder, and more desperate, than foxes in the cornered night.
She danced for me
On seas that knew no shores
The salted eyes, the sea-dark hair, the dance.

I knew a prince of geldings
A whitened diamond
Set deep between his aching eyes,
Nameless
Ageless as he stood, sea-deep in deepening foam
Milk-white against the dark.

I knew the whip of rain that stitched the sand
Bringing vengeance from the sea
I saw the banner in the wind grow old
The fish devour the crab.

I wasn’t sure, but I wanted to know,
She was there, for me but was I there for her?
I wasn’t sure, I didn’t know but I had to find out.

When I look at her, my mind goes all around,
As I look closer,
I see the tears that engulf her,
Beautiful eyes and hear her murmur softly.

"I love you," as she sobbed and held me close and I held her close,
Close to my soul, closer to my heart,
As I watched my sadness reflected.

Strange Meeting

She touched me with her hands,
I burned a little, numbed a lot
And smiled,
That knowing smile that says you’re lost
and losing fast,
I walked away,
She followed—Held out her hand,
I blanched, I turned again to touch.
This time I burned a little,
Burned a lot, I stopped and looked around,
And paused to see her smile,
I shuffled (foot to foot) and dropped my eyes,
I saw her legs,
I blanched,
And turned and turned again,
She had no knees
My God.

WILLIAM WILSON

Is It Too Late?

I wasn’t sure, but I wanted to know,
She was there, for me but was I there for her?
I wasn’t sure, I didn’t know but I had to find out.

When I look at her, my mind goes all around,
As I look closer,
I see the tears that engulp her,
Beautiful eyes and hear her murmur softly.

"I love you," as she sobbed and held me close and I held her close,
Close to my soul, closer to my heart,
As I watched my sadness reflected.

In her tears I didn’t want hers to go away,
Leaving me far, far behind,
Apart from her, to face life without the comfort of her natural beauty with me.

JIM SPINA

Threnody to Elvis Presley

A nova,
Born from the inner space,
Of our galaxy:
To gratitate,
The many aimless youthful worlds,
Into a new tremendous son,
That, not preferring to grow old with us,
Has broken free of earth’s monotonous orbit
And, in fiery comet style,
Has blazed his pioneering trail,
A star forever young,
Into eternity.

AZRA D. FRANCIS

Poet’s Corner is now accepting poetry from the University community. Send your submissions to The Lance, in care of the Poetry Editor.
Caveat Venditior: The Myth of Consumer Sovereignty

We, as consumers, have a right to demand good quality and good service for our money. We have a right to accurate information and truth in advertising. We have a right to expect that our health and safety are taken into account when goods are manufactured. We have a right to be heard when we complain, and to have our complaints acted on.

Consumers must become more vocal and must demand these rights. We must learn to protect ourselves in the marketplace, demand our rights, and lobby for better laws and better enforcement of existing laws.

We can no longer depend on business and government to do this for us. The only defence a consumer has is to become well-educated in the ways of the marketplace. From now on - Caveat Venditor - let the seller beware.

SMALL CLAIMS COURT

Small claims court is a court designed to handle civil legal actions where the amount in dispute is $400 or less. The cost of filing a claim is small so that any average person can have access to the courts. Court procedure is informal and lawyers are not required. The courts handle various types of cases including:

- Disputes over contracts
- Unpaid loans or credit on merchandise
- Recovery of possession of property
- Landlord-tenant problems
- Negligence actions

Examples of cases often heard in the courts include:

- Claiming on NSF cheques
- Claiming for improper repairs to a motor vehicle
- Claiming for damages arising out of automobile accidents
- Claiming for work done where payment has not been received

Procedures to follow:

To start your action, go to the Small Claims Office (see referrals) to complete a complaint form. You will need the name and address of the individual or company you are suing. Complete the necessary form (statement of claim) as simply and as concisely as possible and return it to the clerk. You have now become the plaintiff (person suing).

The clerk of the small claims court then prepares a summons for the defendant and gives the summons and the statement of claim to the bailiff. You will need to find the defendant and deliver the summons. There is a small cost here depending on how far the bailiff must travel.

When the defendant is served with the summons he has ten days in which to dispute the claim. He does this by either appearing at small claims court and filing a dispute, or he sends a written copy of his dispute to the clerk at the small claims court. The clerk then sends you a copy of the dispute, and a trial date is set by the clerk.

If the defendant does not file a dispute, then a trial date is still set, but the plaintiff will not have to prove the defendant's liability, only the amount of the damages.

To prepare for the trial date, it is necessary to gather all pertinent data relating to the case. Copies of receipts, bills, contracts, etc. are helpful. Dates can be important, so it might be helpful to write down these dates before court. It might also be useful to write point form notes of all the important facts in your case. Contact your witnesses to inform them of the upcoming case. You can have subpoenas issued to your witnesses, guaranteeing their presence in court. If a subpoena has been issued, and the witness does not show, he is in contempt of court and can be fined.

The bailiff delivers subpoenas, and they can be filled out at the small claims court office.

At the trial, be as concise as possible and to the point.

GOVERNMENT CONSUMER AGENCIES

Enforcement of consumer legislation falls under the jurisdiction of both the federal Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs and the provincial Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations. The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, created in 1967, is responsible for enforcing and enacting legislation dealing with hazardous products, packaging and labeling, weights and measures, and patents and trademarks. The department and standards set forth in the laws are detailed and complex, and thus beyond the scope of this handbook. For more complete information, write to the department (see referrals) for a copy of their pamphlet, Federal Legislation and Programs Relating to Consumer Protection.

The Combines Investigation Act, covering misleading advertising, misrepresentation and double-ticking, also falls under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Despite the similarity in its name, the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations should not be confused with the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. The ministry, created in 1972 enacts and enforces consumer protection laws, primarily dealing with business practices.

Contacts, unsolicited goods, door-to-door sales, the Sale of Goods Act, and the Trade Practices Act, fall under this ministry.

Although many people get into these two agencies confused, the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs and the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations are quite different. It is enough to remember that business practices in general - with the one major exception of misleading advertising - are the responsibility of the province.

Call your most important witnesses. Ask simple, direct questions without leading your witness. Have any documents (receipts or bills) into evidence. Try not to play Perry Mason in court and be straightforward and remember that the maximum compensation you can recover is $400 plus court costs.

Those considering using the small claims court should consult Small Claims Court Guide for Ontario published by the Self-Counsel Press and available from bookstores for $2.95.

PROBLEMS

When a business man thinks you owe him money, there is strong possibility that he will take you to small claims court to secure a judgment against you for the amount of the debt.

Consumers may also use the small claims court to recover delays from businesses (or other individuals) often, it is the only recourse a consumer may have. Unfortunately, many consumers are unaware of the fact that these courts even exist, much less the procedures involved in using them. Also, before those who can recover the largest amount that may be recovered through a small claims court is limited to $400, in many cases the consumer must write of part of the debt, or otherwise pay large sums in often inadequate. Moreover, even when law-breakers are prosecuted and convicted, the penalties imposed upon them are often absurdly small.

For example, in the six months from July to December, 1974, the Combines Investigation Branch, responsible for enforcing the laws on misleading advertising, prosecuted a total of 18 cases resulting in conviction, for a total of 33 courses. One offender (Loblaws) was required to pay a $10,000 fine - a mere rap on the knuckles for such a wealthy corporation. The other 17 companies paid them a total of $5,000 and in most cases no further action was taken. It is not surprising that businessmen do not lose much sleep worrying about enforcing the Combines Investigation Branch.

Enforcement in other areas is equally poor. You may remember from an earlier section of this handbook that Ontario requires door to door sellers to be registered with the Consumer Protection Bureau. In this way a permanent record of the seller exists, and registration can be withdrawn if he is found to act disproportionately - an important measure for consumer protection.

This might lead one to expect that an inquisitor who failed to register might be liable for prosecution. Amazingly enough, it doesn't work that way. In our experience of such cases, it is the policy of the Consumer Protection Bureau not to prosecute, even if prosecution is possible. Rather, they ask the seller to obey by registering, and to contest to ignore the fact that up until that time the seller failed to do so amounts to a contravention of the law.

ENFORCEMENT

If you have read about consumer laws, you may feel pretty secure in the way your rights as a consumer are being protected.

Unfortunately, the laws are only effective as long as they are enforced, and their enforcement by government agencies is

Reprinted from Caveat Venditor (Let the Seller Beware), a handbook produced by the Public Interest Research Group, Waterloo. OPIRG is a non-profit research group based on university campuses across the province, and it is working to include Windsor. For more information call Lee Ballas at the SAC Office, ext. 326.
Kominar would not reveal the budget of the University Centre this year, since it has not yet been approved by the Board of Governors, even though the budget covers the period from May, 1977 to April 1978. The budget for the games area at the centre also go back into the general university fund. Although students have complained about price increases in this area, particularly for pool tables, Kominar says the facilities are priced so that they are competitive with similar facilities offered elsewhere in the city.

Kominar has managed the University Centre since 1976. He also manages the bookstore, which he says he may have to give up since the store requires a full-time manager.

The University Centre exists as the nerve centre and heart of student activities, and as a meeting place for campus and off-campus groups. As well as housing the LANCE office and CJAM radio, the LANCE office and CJAM radio, the meeting rooms and auditorium are for student use. Student organizations can book the second floor meeting rooms, or even the Ambassador Auditorium, free of charge. The facilities are often booked well in advance, so it is advisable to book early. There is a rental charge for off-campus groups.

According to Kominar, rooms can be booked through Mary Bugley at the Centre Desk, extension 351.

Pool prices went up at the University Centre this year, so they would be more "competitive".

SAC disclosed election foul-up

By RICK SPENCE

OPIRG, the Lance, and the recent by-elections were the main issues discussed at last Thursday's SAC meeting.

Council decided to grant office space to Len Wallace, Windsor co-ordinator for OPIRG (the Ontario Public Interest Research Group), subject to SAC and OPIRG agreeing on a rental fee. At the previous SAC meeting, held two weeks ago, SAC had resolved that OPIRG not be allowed to use SAC office space until it was approved by the students.

A referendum will be held in January to determine if students are willing to pay $5.50 in extra student fees, refundable on demand, to support an OPIRG chapter on campus.

Another referendum was also discussed at the meeting. SAC agreed to hold a referendum December 5 for students to vote on whether or not they would like to pay an extra $4.50 to make the Lance financially independent from SAC.

When asked if he ever felt pressured by various clubs for priority, Whitenect stated, "I'm pressured all the time. I try to maintain a middle of the road attitude. I'm concerned about popularity, but I'm really very right wing and establishment."

The club that seems to be getting priority at the moment is the Royal College of Organists Club. Surprisingly, Whitenect and the other council members feel the Organists have a lot to offer the student body.

When asked why he got involved with SAC, Whitenect said, "Because it looks good on my resume. It gives me a part-time job along with $1650., and hopefully I can benefit the student body with these clubs."

Vice-pres Whitenect discusses club funding

By PAUL DOUGLAS--DAILY

This year the Students' Administrative Council has recognized 71 various clubs. These clubs will operate on a $4,500. budget. The committee that allocates the budget is known as SAC Vice-President Rob Whitenect and five other council members.

Whitenect, who was elected to office last year by a 65 percent majority, feels the various clubs provide a diverse array of activities that should satisfy everyone's tastes. These ranges from curling clubs to ethnic clubs. Clubs need to present a SAC's budget of $27.50 per student. Whitenect was asked when questioned about the stated, "Students should come to university for a well-rounded education, not just to stick their nose in a book. There are many educational value in these clubs. I mean it just isn't a social party."

By-laws and just plan socializing, the number of students that participate in these clubs is a mere 1,553.

Whitenect, who says he is an agent between SAC and the student body, were in great detail about the forming of a club. Primarily the club must be a valid constitution, with a list of names of executives who shall be members, and membership must be open to all members of the student body. To receive financing the club must be recognized by SAC, and charge a membership fee, of at least three dollars.

To avoid conflict of interest charges, Whitenect says, "I'm not a direct member of any club. I don't show favoritism. I must maintain a neutral position. If I showed favoritism I would be nailed by the other five council members."

When a referendum passes, the Lance will be able to control most of its internal policies and structures, and SAC will have more money for other services.

The SAC by-election, held two weeks ago, was successfully challenged by unsuccessful social science candidates Andy Martens and Bob Gammon. They submitted a list of grievances, opening ways in which SAC's conduct of the election did not conform with the by-laws, and presented a 53-name petition calling for a recall. SAC voted to grant the appeal, meaning that Kathy Kastor, who had won the election, lost her seat.

Mary Poole, the social work rep who was elected in the same election, is not affected because the appeal was aimed only at the social science seat.

The by-election to fill the social science seat, along with the positions of arts rep, fine arts rep, human kinetics rep, music rep, and education rep, will be held November 29. (Except for social science, all the above positions were uncontested in the last by-election.)

The election will also attempt to fill two vacancies on the student affairs committee. Fresh from her success with the student aid general assembly earlier that day, which had attracted over 100 students, External Affairs Commissioner Maryon Overholt asked council to help out at Mass Lobby Day, held yesterday in Toronto. Overholt was disappointed when no SAC reps volunteered to help.

Vice-President Rob Whitenect presented a club list of clubs to be granted SAC funding, which was approved by council. Funding is to be on a per capita basis, and clubs which have received money are asked to collect it at the SAC office.
The Pub: Its staff wants it to be the best

Story by Nigel Miller
Photos by George Kocis

Have you ever wondered why the basement of the University Centre is so popular? It's not because of the bank. The Gallery pub happens to be located there.

Besides being a meeting place for students, the pub has a variety of alcoholic as well as non-alcoholic beverages available for consumption. An eight ounce glass of Old Vienna draught sells for 35 cents, with bottled beer costing 70 cents. The most popular of the imported beer is Heinekin. All types of liquor and cocktails are served with prices varying with types and brands.

Total beer sold during a week averages approximately 20 kegs and 275 cases of beer. The pub sells more lager than ale, with Labatt’s Blue topping the lager list. Molson Export is the best selling ale.

Entertainment is supplied by the pub in the form of live bands. The jukebox and CJAM provide the music during the day and during band breaks. Other electronic games are located in the pub for you to test your skills during the course of an evening.

At the university where so many concepts of entertainment abound, it's hard to please everyone. The pub tries to vary the bands so as to have different types of musical entertainment throughout the year. Cost of entertainment is high, as there seems to be very few bands in the Windsor area, this year. This results in bands coming from the Toronto-Hamilton area. These bands must have accommodation, and their price is higher.

One problem that is hurting the pub is students stealing the glassware. A cocktail menu is offered in the pub, and drinks are served in fancy glasses. These are being taken, and could force the pub into serving them in ordinary glasses.

Why are the fancy glasses needed? The atmosphere the pub is trying to create is one of professionalism. Proper mixing of drinks served in the right glass are one means of doing this. Of the profit, 75 per cent goes back to SAC, and inadvertently to the students, so the students are the ones losing.

Peter Romeril is the man in charge of the pub operation, as well as liquor services. The goal of the pub staff he says is to make the pub the best one of all the other University pubs in Ontario. The staff is hired in September, and consists mainly of students, who work the bar and wait on tables. The busy pub gives them a fast initiation into the working world, as they are on the go from start to finish.

Liquor Services is also run by the pub, since being taken over by SAC in August '76. The service was a money-losing operation until recently, when it transformed into a profitable business, with an estimated profit for this year of $12,000, according to the SAC budget.

The pub itself hasn’t always been a major revenue source. Some years ago, it was known as The Cabaret, and it did not make money. Renovations were made in 1975, and when The Gallery opened, it made a profit of $11,093 after just 2½ months.

Pub employees get a fast initiation into the working world.
The following is a list of other shows you might remember: Secret Squirrel, Good Guys, December Bride, Here Come the Brides, Clutch Cargo, Young Rebels, Captain Nice, Q.T. Hush, Top Cat, Maddigan, Mannix, The Fugitive, The High Chaparrel, Have Gun Will Travel, Sky King, Where the Action is. It's About Time, Death Valley Days, City Kids, I希腊 Mann From the Giant, Superman, Bat Masterson, Burke's Law, Perry Mason, Green Hornet, How the West Was Won, Brushy Bill, The Invaders, Combat, Rat Patrol, Dennis the Menace, My Friend Flicka, Dakota, Myly, Johnny Quest, Virginian, Guns of Will Som­ mer, Real McCoys, Lost in Space, The Prisoner, The Men, Mother the Car, The Mothers in Law, Man From Shilo, Storefront Lawyers, Um­ touchables, Tom and Jerry, Here­ ble and Jeckle, The Naked City, and many more.

And the list goes on. If you can think of some more old shows, preferably over ten years old, send them up to the Lance office.
By DENNIS MINELLO

That's what it was billed as. "The Concert." And believe me it was. Back in Detroit for the first time in 2 years, for a pair of weekend, sold-out concerts, Rod Stewart proved that he is definitely in Class A, if not in a class all his own.

A dynamic stage performer with a unique blend of charisma and modesty, Rod captivated the audience from the very moment he stepped on stage. Glad in black with a touch of silver studs and sequins, he strutted from one end of the stage to the other, reminiscent of Mick Jagger, minus the hyperactivity.

Consistent and at his best vocally, Rod displayed both a youthful exuberance and a personal seriousness, sometimes lacking during his days with the Faces. In complete control of the mood, he would bring the audience down with a mellow love song or ballad, and then shake the seats with an energetic rocker.

And speaking of the Faces, Rod Stewart's former band — they weren't even missed! Touring with a band new, slightly larger band of very capable musicians, Rod accomplished exactly what he set out to accomplish after the demise of the Faces (which, incidentally was due in large part to the defection of lead guitarist Ron Wood to the Rolling Stones). That was, to assemble a band that will "play the songs like they should be played". Featuring Carmine Appice on drums, Phil Chen on bass guitar (both formerly with Jeff Beck), John Jarvis on keyboards/piano, and a trio of lead/rhythm guitarists, Gary Grainger, Jim Cregan, and Billy Peek, the band was, to say the least, competent and tight.

The selection of tunes ranged from the early (Faces) favourites to the current hits. One surprise, however, was the absence of a big sales pitch for the new album, Fancy-Free. The introduction of the classic "Maggie May", Rod's national anthem to most, brought 12,000 plus to their feet in appreciation. This was followed by a tribute to Detroit and in particular the Supremes with Rod's rendition of "You Keep Me Hangin' On" (the Supremes... Rod?). I must say it was tastefully done. I'm Losing You and Stay With Me closed out the concert (on Saturday night anyway). Sunday, the audience was treated to a rendition of the popular Get Back (the Beatles, of course) as well as Twisting the Night Away and The First Cut is the Deepest.

Being objective, though, I can't seem to justify the absence of an encore for the first show. It's only right. But hell, we were in a hurry to get to the pub for last call anyway, so I can't complain.

An interesting innovation on this tour is the complete suspension of the P.A. system high above the stage, thus abolishing obstructed-view seats (there actually are people in this world who care about the average consumer). Another commendable point was the quality of sound provided. The sound, often mediocre in auditoriums of this size and larger, was painstakingly mixed to perfection. It's done time.

Generally speaking it really is hard to find faults. I mean, who could ask for more?
The Psychology of Gambling.

Ruby, Ruby Gato

Gary Wells' Weekly Report. Also featured is Phil Fehlin of "The Changing Room".

Friday, November 18 — "The Psychology of Gambling".

Punk Exposed

By FRANK KOVACIC

There are many types of frustrations in life, in love, on the job/school, etc., but these are usually not compared to the frustration that grips an entire society. This is the case, today, in Britain, where the most promising sixties have turned into the devasting seventies, and music has turned into "punk" rock.

The sixties were promising. It was easy money was on the horizon, a rampant spirit of adventure had taken hold, and popular culture was revitalized, as shown by the increase in number of art schools, and the fact that London was the pop music and fashion centre of the world.

These turned out to be empty promises. The hope that the rigid class structure in Britain would become irrelevant, has become just a washed-out phenomenon. The message across and what better image was turned into a decaying den of pornography. This ugliness is not a joke.

Chuck Mangione

Feels So Good

By DER KENNEDY

Laid-back jazz is what Chuck Mangione is all about. You can expect vocal-free, wild-free jamming on his latest, Feels So Good LP, but, as the title suggests, the pace is smooth and easy.

Mangione is a master of the flugelhorn (mellower than the trumpet). That is not surprising, since he has been into the horns for 27 years, beginning trumpet lesions at the age of 10. His major influence was Jean Michel Jarre

Oxygene

Jean Michel Jarre caused a sensation in France and England, and it's not surprising. On his album Oxygene, he creates the essence of electronic progressive music. The quality is incomparable to other bands.

Jarre is from France where he spent his earlier days studying classical music, playing electric guitar, and researching musical techniques. He worked with one of the first synthesizers in Europe. Jarre is credited with introducing the synth to the Parisian public in 1971.

He has since composed film and ballet music, and background music for TV and radio. Oxygene was composed, arranged, and produced by Jarre. He played all instruments on the album, the music has an electronic quality, far from a traditional concept like classical music.

Jarre's music is a mixture of electronic and acoustic instruments, including synthesizers, piano, and other electronic devices. The album features a variety of genres, from classical to electronic. The music is instrumental, with no vocals.

The album's success was largely due to the record's popularity, which was helped by extensive advertising on radio and television. The album also featured an instrumental version of the title track, which became a hit single.

Oxygene reached number 10 on the UK charts and was released in Britain in 1977. It was a commercial success, selling over 250,000 copies in the UK alone. The album was also well-received critically, with many reviewers praising its innovative use of synthesizers and electronic soundscapes.

The album was later reissued with a new mix of the title track, which included a vocal version, and has also been remixed and reissued several times since.

One of the album's most popular tracks is "Oxygene," which features a catchy synth melody and a distinctive electronic beat. The album's title track "Oxygene," is a driving, electronic dance track that features aivas, piano, and other electronic instruments. The album's influence can be heard in many electronic music tracks that followed.

This album has become a classic of electronic music and is considered one of the greatest electronic music albums of all time. It earned Jarre a Grammy Award for Best Engineered Album (Non-Classical) in 1977.

The album's success was largely due to the record's popularity, which was helped by extensive advertising on radio and television. The album also featured an instrumental version of the title track, which became a hit single.
20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

20. How long will grape vines produce fruit?

By DEE KENNEDY

At the opening weekend of Catharsis (Nov. 4, 5, and 6), the feeling was more than good; it was refreshing and promising. What happened at Catharsis was what musical expression is all about. The energy was felt by everyone. Catharsis lets the people relax. It has to be experienced to be understood, but to give a glass of apple cider. The intimacy was there. Opening night, 77 people were cozily seated. Others were turned away due to limited seating space. This happened every night, so an extra concert was held Sunday at 11 p.m. Leading off Friday night was the traditional special feature of Catharsis, the guest set. Guest sets last about fifteen minutes, and any musician may sign up in advance to perform. The first set was performed by Wendy Solloway and Chuck Dreamaux, original members of the legendary group "Yoshi and the Panasonics." The two guitarists did a decent version of the Tom Waits tune Lookin' for the Heat of a Saturday Night. Highlighting their performance was an original tune by Chuck, and a folder number entitled Devil's Dream. Later in the evening, guitarist Steve Brown did a guest set. Steve has a incredibly clear, strong voice which expresses the strong emotion reflected through the lyrics of his songs. Especially well done were his tunes The Old Hotel, Upon the Wave, and Bring Me Down (which he played on the mandolin). Steve is a student who plans to keep writing and playing and see what happens. He will be on it.

Canada’s international policies reviewed

Although Canada has been a leader in the rhetoric of aiding developing countries, it has been an underachiever on the crucial issue of helping them get a foot in the doorway to the rich marketplaces of the industrialized world.

Moreover, the Government has taken a number of backward steps in practice while leading the call for new-style economic relations in world forums.

The Government’s weak “repeal,” when it comes to implementing the five-year priorities it has set for itself on aid and trade policies, forms part of the first major report of the North-South Institute, an independent organization established in 1976 to research and monitor development issues, including the administration of foreign aid.

The report, entitled North-South Encounters: The Third World and Canadian Performance, gives the Canadian Government credit for moving more quickly than those of most industrialized nations on some aid, trade and debt issues but warns of the danger And repercussions of Canada allowing its preoccupations with the domestic economy and national unity to turn its focus inward.

“While Canadians in general, and Canadian policymakers in particular, like to view Canada as being in (or close to) the vanguard of the industrial countries, this self-image is more flattering than accurate. Canada, on occasion, has taken positions that have put this country among the leaders of the North. However, as far as proceeding unabatedly, industriously and innovatively toward offering proposals that would facilitate substantive agreement between the North and the South, Canada has never called upon enough

The North-South Institute is committed to research and analysis rather than advocacy, the report does include findings and recommendations that are included in the “Interim Report Card” on the Government’s Strategy (pages 5 to 15) and the Institute’s list of “Nine Priorities for 1977.”

As a result of deepening preoccupations with national unity and the state of the domestic economy, there are real dangers that Canada may fail to respond adequately. In fact, a slackening of international effort by Canada now would have a dangerous effect on the state of North-South negotiations. It would also have a negative economic impact since Canada shares with the Third World many interests in improved global economic cooperation. Nor will excessive national introspection (to the exclusion of outside government to carry out some innovative suggestions to improve Canadian performance, such as the possibility of spending CIDA funds in Canada to help Canadian workers, communities and firms dependent on industries affected by Third World import competition. Such a use of aid funds, together with debt relief and possible contributions to commodity stockpile funds, could also ease the CIDA “capacity problem” which is leading to a “black-siding” in Canada’s efforts to reach international aid targets.

The Institute’s staff has prepared this report (to be republished annually), not only as a monitoring study and analysis but also as a readily reference handbook for interested Canadians and others. It guides the reader through some of the complexities of international conferences and trade negotiations and includes a reference calendar of key events as well as brief statistical profiles on every country in the world with figures on Canadian aid and trade compared with those of other countries.

Some of the report’s main (pages 16 to 20). Key excerpts from various sections are provided below.

Germany’s effort by Canada now would have a dangerous effect on the state of North-South negotiations. It would also have a negative economic impact since Canada shares with the Third World many interests in improved global economic cooperation. Nor will excessive national introspection (to the exclusion of international concern) promote a satisfactory resolution of the constitutional crisis. Canada’s past performance and future potential in international cooperation are themselves a part of the national unity debate.

“Canada has as much to lose as any nation in a world of increasing protectionism. In this country such policies would result merely in delaying and aggravating, rather than dealing with long-term problems . . . ”

“Meanwhile, recession in rich countries means depression for the people of the Third World and they have come to expect that Canada’s help at least, will not be withdrawn.”

“The Government, and responsible outside critics, have a responsibility to underscore knowledge of the program’s success and failures, and to gradually develop a more informed perspective. Given widespread public skepticism, it will be essential for those outside government to carry out this analysis, but the Government will have to play its part in making the raw material (such as extended information on CIDA’s country programs) much more readily available. “In the meantime, it will be vitally important for both the Government and its critics not to misread the need for more effective and cost-efficient programs as a need to cut aid funds or impose such stringent financial management that the program will strangle in red tape.”

Some of the report’s main findings and recommendations are included in the “Interim Report Card” on the Government’s Strategy (pages 5 to 15) and the Institute’s list of “Nine Priorities for 1977.”

“While Canadians in general, and Canadian policymakers in particular, like to view Canada as being in (or close to) the vanguard of the industrial countries, this self-image is more flattering than accurate. Canada, on occasion, has taken positions that have put this country among the leaders of the North. However, as far as proceeding unabatedly, industriously and innovatively toward offering proposals that would facilitate substantive agreement between the North and the South, Canada has never called upon enough

- Notable other positions open to part-time students
For information and applications visit
HMCS Hunter
360 Chateauguay Ave., Windsor, Ont.
Monday and Thursday 8-10 p.m.
See Lieutenant O’Malley

GO PLACES
With the Canadian Forces Naval Reserve
NROG PROGRAM

BENEFITS
- Winter employment in Windsor, Tuesday nights
- Full-time summer employment in B.C.
- Meet people from all of Canada
- Opportunity to train with the best
- Good pay
- NOT a permanent commitment
- Leads to offices commission

REQUIREMENTS
- Full-time University student
- Have an interest in serving with the military
- Must be able to face a challenge and take responsibility
- Canadian or U.K. Citizen

*Note other positions open to part-time students

For information and applications visit

Rudy
Laurie
& Mike

Your Campus Hair Stylists

2846 UNIVERSITY WEST
Under The Bridge
For appointments call 258-2490

Criticisms of CIDA
“For most of the past two decades, Canada’s international development assistance program has remained relatively immune to partisan or public scrutiny or criticism. In the past year, however, CIDA has received a substantial amount of criticism in Parliament and in the media on its programs and its priorities. While an increasing amount of the criticism has been directed toward substantive issues, some has been clearly ill-informed, superficial and unconstructive. Such attacks on CIDA, particularly of the latter type, have had a definite impact on its public image.

“Meanwhile, recession in rich countries means depression for the people of the Third World and they have come to expect that Canada’s help at least, will not be withdrawn.”

“The Government, and responsible outside critics, have a responsibility to underscore knowledge of the program’s success and failures, and to gradually develop a more informed perspective. Given widespread public skepticism, it will be essential for those outside government to carry out this analysis, but the Government will have to play its part in making the raw material (such as extended information on CIDA’s country programs) much more readily available. “In the meantime, it will be vitally important for both the Government and its critics not to misread the need for more effective and cost-efficient programs as a need to cut aid funds or impose such stringent financial management that the program will strangle in red tape.”

“While Canadians in general, and Canadian policymakers in particular, like to view Canada as being in (or close to) the vanguard of the industrial countries, this self-image is more flattering than accurate. Canada, on occasion, has taken positions that have put this country among the leaders of the North. However, as far as proceeding unabatedly, industriously and innovatively toward offering proposals that would facilitate substantive agreement between the North and the South, Canada has never called upon enough

E 7.50
- Occasional paid weekend
- Full-time summer employment in B.C.
- Meet people from all of Canada
- Opportunity to train with the best
- Good pay
- NOT a permanent commitment
- Leads to offices commission

REQUIREMENTS
- Full-time University student
- Have an interest in serving with the military
- Must be able to face a challenge and take responsibility
- Canadian or U.K. Citizen

- Notable other positions open to part-time students
For information and applications visit

HMCS Hunter
360 Chateauguay Ave., Windsor, Ont.
Monday and Thursday 8-10 p.m.
See Lieutenant O’Malley

GO PLACES
With the Canadian Forces Naval Reserve
NROG PROGRAM

BENEFITS
- Winter employment in Windsor, Tuesday nights
- Full-time summer employment in B.C.
- Meet people from all of Canada
- Opportunity to train with the best
- Good pay
- NOT a permanent commitment
- Leads to offices commission

REQUIREMENTS
- Full-time University student
- Have an interest in serving with the military
- Must be able to face a challenge and take responsibility
- Canadian or U.K. Citizen

*Note other positions open to part-time students
For information and applications visit

Rudy
Laurie
& Mike

Your Campus Hair Stylists

2846 UNIVERSITY WEST
Under The Bridge
For appointments call 258-2490

Criticisms of CIDA
“For most of the past two decades, Canada’s international development assistance program has remained relatively immune to partisan or public scrutiny or criticism. In the past year, however, CIDA has received a substantial amount of criticism in Parliament and in the media on its programs and its priorities. While an increasing amount of the criticism has been directed toward substantive issues, some has been clearly ill-informed, superficial and unconstructive. Such attacks on CIDA, particularly of the latter type, have had a definite impact on its public image.

“The Agency has been put on the defensive with Parliament, the media and the public, and Canada’s already weak bureaucratic bargaining position has been further weakened. Given the present convergence of budgetary stringency and domestic preoccupations, it seems clear that attacks on CIDA will be tolerated by the agency’s bureaucratic machinery, which has feared the slacker of Canda aid increases.”

“The Agency has been put on the defensive with Parliament, the media and the public, and Canada’s already weak bureaucratic bargaining position has been further weakened. Given the present convergence of budgetary stringency and domestic preoccupations, it seems clear that attacks on CIDA will be tolerated by the agency’s bureaucratic machinery, which has feared the slacker of Canda aid increases.”

“The Agency has been put on the defensive with Parliament, the media and the public, and Canada’s already weak bureaucratic bargaining position has been further weakened. Given the present convergence of budgetary stringency and domestic preoccupations, it seems clear that attacks on CIDA will be tolerated by the agency’s bureaucratic machinery, which has feared the slacker of Canda aid increases.”

“The Agency has been put on the defensive with Parliament, the media and the public, and Canada’s already weak bureaucratic bargaining position has been further weakened. Given the present convergence of budgetary stringency and domestic preoccupations, it seems clear that attacks on CIDA will be tolerated by the agency’s bureaucratic machinery, which has feared the slacker of Canda aid increases.”
London - For the second year running the Western Ontario Mustangs will not only host the 'Perfect City Bowl' game in their city, but they will play in it with the odds in their favour.

By virtue of a 22-17 victory over the Wilfred Laurier Golden Hawks here Saturday, Western will face the University of Calgary Dinosaurs, who defeated UBC 13-12. The winner of this matchup will travel to Toronto for the College Bowl classic against the winner of the Atlantic Bowl. Queen's Golden Gaels beat Bishop's 45-27 last week, and the Acadia Axemen, almost perennial top contenders, chopped St. Francis Xavier 32-19, both earning the right to appear in the Atlantic Bowl tomorrow.

The Western-Laurier matchup was not as close as the score indicates with Western sliding to an 18-7 halftime lead. After a brief Laurier push, they tied the strings in the end. The stats for making show a definite Laurier dominance managing 245 yards to Western's 276. However, this in itself is not truly indicative of the Western play, as they did gain 100 yards but lost 72 on two successive plays. And, when it rains it pours. In the passing department Western's pivot did shine through, Jamie Bone, their all-star (gap) quarterback, aided by a recently acquired synthetic knee brace from a specialist in New York, tossed 12 for 25 (that's 48%) for 242 yards as opposed to Laurier's mere 24 yards in the air. Outstanding efforts came from Jim Reid of Laurier, who carried 13 times for 91 yards despite a hip pointer, and Craig Liber to Western, he caught two passes for 68 yards, one of these being a 50 yard touchdown (that's 68 minutes 89.25 ... )

In Kingston, the Bishop's University Gaels took their familiar early lead over Queen's. Bishop's being the highest overall scorer in the league. However, it was Queen's who had the last laugh, and came back with several quick tallies to take a commanding lead. Dave Martucci, Queen's top scorer next to all-star place-kicker Blaine Shore, carried 29 times for 211 yards and two touchdowns, adding nicely to that team's total of 296 yards on the ground. Other outstanding performances from Gaels came from Bob O'Doherty, a repeating Eastern conference all-star slot back who copped one touch down, with 7 carries from 139 yards.

Another all-star, Bruce N. Akins, treated for 81 yards on 18 tries.

Kicking champs

Though Windsor does not enter in the Soccer competition of the OUAA, the league still feels it can go ahead without us. The York Yeomen are the 1977 OUAA soccer champions, having defeated the Western Mustangs 2-1 Saturday, October 29th to claim the crown. Mac Musulay scored the winning goal with less than 10 minutes to play for the Yeomen. Mike Burke got other tally while Gaels Regina replied for the Mustangs.

The Yeomen now advance to the CIS championships in Waterloo. As host team the Waterloo Warriors will also be able to have their top teams. There could be five teams, representing the Universities across the country.

Mustangs might manage Victory

The Lancasterettes hosted the Can-Am Volleyball tournament this year at St. Denis Hall. Although the Lancasterettes were unable to make it to the finals they felt the tournament was quite successful overall. Judging from the standings it seems that the tournament was dominated by the American teams. Central Michigan dropped the University of Guelph in one semi final game (15-8, 15-9) and Eastern Michigan University played Kellogg Community College in the other semi-final game (15-13, 5, 15). The finals were between Central Michigan and Kellogg Community College, won by Central Michigan.

The Lancasterettes placed fifth overall which is respectable considering the competition. There were 12 teams in the tournament. The Lancasterette team wins to thank all the officials who participated in the tournament.

Spikers host tourney

The Lancasterette basketball team came out on the low end of the team pole last weekend as they dropped a 92-32 decision to the defending women's National Champions, Laurentian. Some key injuries to Lancasterettes hurt the team as Patty Duchaine was forced to leave the match with a broken hand, and Diane Landry had to be replaced after an ankle injury.

Coach Royal Church commented that the Lancaster squad was well-balanced and well-coached. Specifically they forced the Lancasterette's into some several times with effective half-court presses and double-teaming. Forward Karenivers was also a factor on the boards with 15 points for the game. The team heads into a tough weekend tournament as they face McMaster and again tomorrow against York. The team's first home game will be against St.FX College next Wednesday when they will be sandwiched in between the Crusaders and the Lancasteres in the home opener for those teams.

Intramurals in limbo

At the moment, intramural sports finds itself in a bit of a transition period. The autumn activities are winding down, and the winter ones are just beginning to get underway. Humkins expired the flag football championship by downing the Mac Hall Bears in the deciding game by a score of 28-20. Mike Quinn rambled for three touchdowns, with Rick Scott scoring the other. Congratulations to Humkins, 1977 flag football kings.

In the intramural hockey "A" division, the MBA squad has withdrawn from competition, leaving only six teams to battle for top honours. Any games scheduled against MBA will not be made up, but the other teams have the option of rescheduling those games as free practice time.

There IS a difference!!!

- MCAT
- LSAT
- DAT
- GMAT
- VAT
- GRE
- OAT
- SAT
- OCAT
- SAT

National Med. & Dent. Boards

- ECFMG
- FLEX

- Test Preparation

- Specialists Since 1931

- Punster Mills
- Ann Arbor
- Detroit
- Grand Rapids
- Lansing
- Ann Arbor
- FARMINGTON HILLS
- ANN ARBOR
- (313) 463-6312
- (313) 662-3149

- Specialists since 1931
- FARMINGTON
- ANN ARBOR
- FLEX
- GMAT
- OAT
- SAT

- FARMINGTON HILLS
- ANN ARBOR
- FARMINGTON HILLS
- ANN ARBOR
- FARMINGTON HILLS
- ANN ARBOR
Wrestlers have high hopes for ’77 season

By PETER NASH

This year’s edition of Lan­cer wrestling has high hopes and some experience. Coach Dennis Hrycaike commented that “we hope to get third place in the OUAA standings this year.”

In years past the Lancer squad has had too many in­tern coaches and a lack of op­tomatic spirit, the coach noting that part-time coaches couldn’t put in a concentrated effort. This year the team has better motivation and a full-time head coach.

Last year the team only participated in 9 weight classes. This year they have 12 weight classes except the heavyweight. Many of the class are being filled with rookies for whom Coach Hrycaike has high hopes. The coach noted that “kids coming from high school have better training then they had in years past.” He said “Wrestling is getting more support in the high schools. The calibre of wrestlers is getting better.”

Several outstanding wrestlers from last year are back again to help strengthen the squad. Greg Middleton is back again, and is 109 lb. class, to compete in his fourth year of wrestling. Last year he captured a silver medal in the OUAA standings and a silver in the CIAU championships. He is expected to be one of the strongest points on the Lancer team. John Girard is also expected to do well in the 158 pound category. Last year he captured a silver medal in the OUAA standings. Andy Macri is another veteran who is hoping to do well. He got a bronze in the 150 pound category last year in the stand­ings.

Coach Hrycaike feels he has some outstanding rookies this year. High on the list is Marko Vranesic, a 167 pounder, to whom the coach notes has a lot of potential. Del Middleton and Rick Johnson are expected to battle it out for the 126 pound class. Rick Shaban, also a member of the Lancer football team, is a rookie even though it is his second year at the university. Coach Hrycaike commented that “Shaban is very strong. He could do well.”

Overall the Lancers should be a vastly improved squad. The team has a much better attitude then last year. The coach noted that “The team is much more enthusiastic. Our general attitude is 150% better. We are much more confident.”

It’s great to see a team with spirit. Hopefully they will be rewarded with a good final standing and a few more medals.

Team takes to streets

Now you may think that anyone who cares to run about 10 miles in whatever inclement weather must be out of their jiggling minds, right? Well how about running one hundred miles? Sounds gruesome, eh? Well, it’s not that bad since you run as part of a team. Last Sunday the university track team travelled all the way to Windsor Stadium to take part in the Third Annual “Fred Mea­worst” 100 mile run.” This little pace is sponsored by the Windsor Y roadrunners and this year seven teams competed in­cluding our own combined male/ female track squad.

Now you may think that running that distance would take forever. Well almost. Our team slowed everybody but one team who was the roadrunning champ­ions, they fell short to the Oak­land Community College en­try but just managed to top the Windsor YMCA A’ team.

The combined Lancer/Lan­cerettes team consisting (in order of appearance): Ray Hol­land, Paul Roberts, Don Mac­Kinnon, Jack Gray, Greg Mar­nette, Linda Staudt, Paul Brown, Rose Caille, Jim Bulley and John Zarebski, finished the 100 mile run in 3 hour 7 minutes and 12 seconds.

Good ski bum discounts

By DON PEPPIN

As the season for the ‘white fluffy stuff’ descends upon us we, the devoted thrill-seeker must start cutting back on the number of munchies and (perish the thought)uggy super burgers in preparation for another sea­son of skiing. The perennial scrimmaging efforts must begin now so we won’t come up short when the ‘big snow’ arrives. Unfortunately sometimes we must settle for the cheaper spots around the area to satisfy our soaring desires.

A program has been designed for student skiers to help out with not only discounts on ski lift tickets, rentals and lessons but also on longer trips to resorts around the country. The program, sponsored by the Miller brewing company in the U.S.A. is called the Student Ski As­sociation. For a membership fee of $5 for a full season, there are a number of fringe benefits which make the fee quite a good deal.

Here’s how the program works: you present your SSA card at the lift ticket window and receive one half off ski lessons, lifts, and rentals during the week, on weekends and holidays you save $1 to $3 on an all-day lift ticket. Now you say that’s great if it’s only good for the bunny runs right? Du Boyne Mountain, Schuss Mountain and Sugarloaf sound like beginners’ traps not quite. These and 13 other Michigan areas are part of the program. As well as areas in Vermont, the Rockies, New York state and some Quebec, resorts take part. Unfortunately only areas around Thunder Bay take part in the program in Ontario. So if your legs take you to Blue Mountain et. al, you’ll have to stick to their highway robbery.

Otherwise this program could be worthwhile for ski buffs. If you write them you re­ceive two neat little magazines, the Student Skier and Poor Howard’s College Guide to Ski­ing, both of which contain lots of info on hundreds of ski areas and some nifty money­saving (ps about inexpensive (not necessarily cheap) lodges in ski country.

The address to write for info is: The Student Ski Association, 2236 N. Clark St., Chicago, IL 60614.

Last year the SSA sponsored a number of ‘ski carnivals’ as well in certain areas of the sta­tes. Again these offers were price for the student with all the frills. The package sounds worthwhile for anyone who spends much time state-side with the slats strapped on with more than just leather. Take a look and save some bucks.

Be a joc with no practice
Come up and join
The Lance
Cagers prepare to go state-side to get 'killed'

By DON PEPPIN
The Lancer basketball team heads into its first game of the exhibition season tonight at Toronto, with the thought in the back of their heads that come January they will be the team to beat. This was officially confirmed last week as the CIAU announced the pre-season rankings for Canadian basketball. The University of Windsor Lancers were placed in this national ranking with the University of Guelph being the only other conference team to make the top ten.

Lancer coach Dr. Paul Thomas noted: "naturally we were not up to the standard of previous weeks. He commented Saturday's referee as bad and the game builds importance to every team, obviously, but for the Lancers it often works to their disadvantage as well. Here's how: at the end of the regular season it comes time for the powers-that-be to choose who is going to travel to the national championship tournament. The coaches leave themselves one choice, other than the first place teams in each division. This final spot is called the wild card and this is the team which invite them. Why then, you ask, does the team go all out in the regular"?

The Ryerson game was a different story as it was the Rams who came from behind, almost. It was 7-6 in the third period with goals coming from Al Figgins, Kirk Marshall, Scott Hunter, and Moe Biron. Windsor added to this score in the fourth period with eight forwards, and a defence-core of three forwards who were 6-1 lead. The Rams scored four goals in the next eight minutes. Coach Eaves stated that the Lancers just stopped skating and the forwards weren't going to help out on defence.

Fortunately Windsor's accumulated lead was too much for the Ryerson team to overcome as the teams exchanged goals in the third period. Tom Gies eventually got the winning goal with a shot in the third period. The Rams also scored only one penalty as the Lancers were shoutdowned on numerous situations.

The game proved the coaches' promises of a well-balanced team as nine different players scored, eight forwards and a defenceman. Goalkeeping was also superb on both days. Mike Freeman was called upon to make some key stops on Saturday. Don Johnston played very well on Sunday in his first start in university hockey.

The weekend will have the Lancers at home, playing two games against Western. Game one is Monday at Adie Know Herman Arena both Saturday and Sunday.

College Bowl more than just a game

By NIGEL MILLER
The pinnacle for Canadian University Football teams is again in sight. On November 19, the victors of the Forest City Bowl and the Atlantic Bowl will clash in the College Bowl Classic.

The College Bowl is played annually at the Investors Group Stadium. This will be the thirteenth bowl game and the event began in 1975, but this year will be an unlucky week. Recent years have been plagued by poor weather which has kept people away. Coach Eaves states that the Lancers just stopped skating and the forwards weren't going to help out on defence.

College Bowl Week in Toronto will be the climax of Canadian university football's annual Christmas and this year the College Bowl directorate says the game has finally arrived and it is possible that it will be held in the larger CNE facilities (where the Argos and the Blue Jays play) in the foreseeable future.

The four teams vying for a spot in the big game this year are the Western Ontario Mustangs and the Calgary Dinos playing in the Forest City Bowl, and the Arcadia Axemen and Queen's Golden Gaels playing in the Atlantic Bowl. The winners of these two games will meet in the College Bowl, with a special dinner on Thanksgiving eve featuring the Vanier cup which goes with the National Championship.

Kickoff time is at 2 p.m. November 19, and it always proves to be the climax of Canadian university football season.
Volunteer office cut of money

By RICK SPENCE

This time last year, Volunteer Services was a thriving non-profit community service agency with four full-time employees and government grants, engaged in matching up local charitable organizations with competent and willing volunteers.

Today the organization continues to operate out of the University Centre, but the money has run out, and the one remaining employee is frustrated and angry. But she doesn't count Volunteer Services out yet.

"I'll keep it going until December, no matter what happens," says Peggy O'Neill. The other employees were laid-off in June when the federal L.I.P. grant ran out, and since then Lobby against Parrott

By DAN SULLIVAN
Last Thursday, 14 students from the University of Windsor went to Toronto to participate in a "Mass Lobby Day" organized by the Ontario Federation of Students.

The students met with local M.P.P.s in order to communicate to them their concerns with the new student aid program. Although the O.P.S. had sent out information packages to all the M.P.P.s which included the government release and an analysis, a number of them had not read the material and had to have the new plan explained to them by the students.

The Windsor students met with local M.P.P.s Ruston, Newman, Mancini, Cook and Bounsall, and were mainly concerned with getting their reactions to the new parental income/contribution index and the limitation of grant eligibility to four years. According to Maryon Overholz, who led the group from Windsor, the reaction they got was mixed and the M.P.P.s tended to rely on the opinions of their party critics for Colleges and Universities. In general they were not in favour of limiting grants to undergraduates and felt that the tables for parental contributions were too severe. They also felt that the age of independence should be set at 18 (presently students must be members of the work force for three years), and were opposed to differential fees for foreign students, favouring instead, reciprocal agreements with foreign universities.

Thorough the students who tried to talk to Dr. Harry Parrott, the Minister of Colleges and Universities, found him reserve as usual, the expedition was an overall success, providing a much needed communication between students and their elected officials.

Students have to educate themselves

SAC Sigh-Elections

Round two of SAC's annual anti-spy by-elections continues this week and next. Six positions are open, one for each representative each from Arts, Fine Arts, Social Science, Human Kinetics, Music and Education.

There are also two openings on the student affairs committee.

Interested students will have to hurry, because nominations close at 4:30 this afternoon. To nominate yourself, push a friend and go to the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre, sometime today. Fill out the required form, and have your friend fill out the second page, which must be completed by someone other than the candidate.

You can represent only that faculty or school in which you are registered.

The election will be held November 29, 1977, so you have ten days to run a campaign. However, if traditions carry through, chances are that you'll be acclaimed anyway.

All candidates in this by-election are urged to submit a 250-word statement to The Lance by 10 a.m. Wednesday, November 23, for publication in the November 25 issue. For those candidates willing, photographs will be taken at The Lance office next Monday and Tuesday.

Law students court success in Moot

By TED GODDARD

On Thursday evening of last week the annual Zuber Moot took place in the Moot Court of the Law Faculty. The Moot is a competition between pairs of law students in a simulated court room situation in which two winners are determined on the basis of research and the skills of oral argument before the Judges. This year's winners were Harry Hochman and Tom Porter. Runner-up were Brad Kelnech and Sharon Rosenberg.

The Moot is named after Mr. Justice T. Zuber who was presiding on the bench of the moot court Thursday. A former professor law here at Windsor, Zuber is now a judge on the Ontario Court of Appeal. The other two judges were Madame Justice Wilson and Mr. Justice Keefer, who had a knack for some very pointed questions directed at the competitors. The particular case being argued was the question of a lawyer's ability for negligence in giving certain advice to a client. As some source of comfort to potential clients and an equal source of discomfort to lawyers, judgement was given against the lawyer.

The winners may now go on to represent the University of Windsor at the Gale Moot, which is an All-Ontario Moot competition.
Guide describes transport facilities for handicapped

University raises funds for United Way campaign

By BRUCE DINSMORE

The Windsor and Essex County United Way campaign ended last week and the figures were in. It's all good news for the United Way.

From Miami Beach to the Yukon, so to speak, they must know in advance if these are in. They are in. It's all good news for the United Way.

At last year's General Meeting, the Hon. Tony Abbott, politician on these and other topics by a panel of experts.

The Windsor Light Opera presents its 57th major musical production, "The Scarlet Brigade" ("Sorquo"").

Clearly Auditorium, November 19, 26, 27 and December 2, 3 and 4. Tickets available from members and from the Box office, 396 Tecumseh Road South, call 252-6484.

FOUND: Brown wallet, in Dillon Hall. Claim at Lancer Office.

The Windsor Light Opera presents its 57th major musical production, "The Scarlet Brigade" ("Sorquo").

Clearly Auditorium, November 19, 26, 27 and December 2, 3 and 4. Tickets available from members and from the Box office, 396 Tecumseh Road South, call 252-6484.

FOUND: Brown wallet, in Dillon Hall. Claim at Lancer Office.

The Windsor Light Opera presents its 57th major musical production, "The Scarlet Brigade" ("Sorquo").

Clearly Auditorium, November 19, 26, 27 and December 2, 3 and 4. Tickets available from members and from the Box office, 396 Tecumseh Road South, call 252-6484.
Jamieson speaks in Windsor

By RICK SPENCE

Canada will continue to deal with repressive and hostile foreign powers because "recognition of nations cannot be based on approval or disapproval of regimes," and Canadians are not prepared "to go to the wall" to support human rights in other countries, Don Jamieson said Monday.

Jamieson, Canada's Secretary of State for External Affairs, was addressing a crowd of about 80 in a visit sponsored by the Liberal Club. Fresh from a visit last week to Europe and the Middle East, Jamieson spoke on the problems of the Middle East, Africa, and "debtene", and banking companies operating in Chile, or any other sanctioned country, would probably have little effect, since competitors would move to fill the gap, and such actions would probably mean a loss of jobs in Canada.

Similarly, Jamieson defended relations with South Africa because "if you make an ostracist of South Africa, then you have no influence upon them as far as nuclear developments are concerned." He thought it was possible the republic had the capability to build nuclear weapons.

Jamieson said he was more concerned with the illegal regime in Namibia, which is presently up by South Africa, and he said the government is looking for ways to prevent Canada from benefiting through Canadian tax laws. He agreed with a questioner who said Canada should be more concerned with human rights than with the conduct of investor's visits "violates human rights in other countries, Don Jamieson said the OAU is only too happy to criticize white-ruled states such as South Africa and Rhodesia, but that it is reluctant to take any action on oppression in black countries.

When Canada asked for a resolution at a Human Rights Convention denouncing Uganda and calling for an investigation into the country, the motion was shot down by African states, according to Jamieson. Jamieson also confirmed Canada's role in Nato, saying that Canada's contribution to the alliance has strengthened in the past few years, and that the other members no longer criticize Canada for shirking its duties.

When asked whether he thought the federal government should help pay tuition fees for visa students in Canadian universities, as a form of foreign aid, Jamieson replied that "education is fundamentally provincial". He promised no federal aid for visa students, but said "I personally would like to see more private assistance."

Next Tuesday, the Liberal Club is sponsoring a visit by Tony Abbott, Federal Minister of State for Small Business, at the Assumption Lounge at 1:00 p.m.

OPIRG accepted at Ottawa, refunds asked at Western

Jamieson also confirmed that Canadian companies operating in Chile, and has accused them of "misdirects".

The University of Ottawa students asked for and received refunds of their $3.00 OPIRG fee. The money refunded amounts to about seven per cent of OPIRG-Western's $50,000 budget.

According to Wallace, OPIRG chapters charging less than a five dollar student fee are commended to raising the fee to five dollars by next year.

Correction coming

The results at Ottawa, "it's going to have a great effect on what's happening in Windsor," Wallace said. "It's more realistic than a five dollar student fee are come to the table."
Save Volunteer Services

For years, Volunteer Services has operated out of the SAC offices in the University Centre, helping to locate eager, qualified volunteers for the many charitable service organizations in Windsor. In the past two years, Volunteer Services has found 1100 volunteers for 110 local agencies. "I think we've proved to be worthwhile," says Peggy O'Neill in a classic understatement.

O'Neill has recently seen the staff of Volunteer Services dwindle from four full-time and one part-time employees, to just one, herself, as the grant money has petered out. Now she is alone, and barring a last-minute reprieve from the University of Windsor or the Student's Administrative Council, Volunteer Services is finished, for now. It has no more money in the bank.

There is hope that Volunteer Services will be able to become a member agency of the United Way, and Peggy O'Neill is willing to wait a year, in order for the agency "to prove it's a needed service in the city." Now it may never get that chance.

Students have a stake in Volunteer Services, even though it is not primarily a student organization. A full third of the volunteers placed have been students, including many students who need these placements in order to qualify for their degrees. In addition, through SAC's donation of office space and other facilities, we have supported the birth and life of this worthwhile organization.

What can we as students do to help? Unfortunately, not very much. A campus funding drive would probably not go over well, following on the heels of the United Way's recent fundraising campaign. An emergency loan by SAC would be only a stop-gap measure, and might never be repaid.

What is required is for the funding agencies, the United Way and the people at Canada Works, to get their act together and save this small yet essential organization before it closes for keeps.

Why should you vote yes to free the Lance?

Why "Free The Lance"? Why "Vote Yes December 5th"?

The Lance believes strongly that the students at this university need to know why they, are being asked to pay $4.50 more in student fees next year, opposed to the $3.50 already being asked to pay. Since the student newspaper, The Lance, is more expensive than a trip for two to the United States, you need to vote yes.

The Lance finances certainly is not a healthy situation in terms of the freedom of the press, either. SAC executives can veto any purchase of supplies, or of anything else, by The Lance.

Through their virtual control of the Media Corporation (more on that in a moment), SAC members control the salaries of The Lance executive. But most frightening of all, they possess the ultimate power: the power to cut the purse strings entirely, and completely and quickly knock The Lance out of business.

We do not expect trouble of this kind this year. The SAC executive and council are relatively broad-minded, and accept the editorial autonomy of The Lance. What we are concerned about, SAC and Lance alike, is the possibility that future students councils may not be so enlightened. Attempts by other student councils to close down their campus paper were common last year, the highly-publicized Chevron affair at the University of Waterloo being only one example.

Our most important commitment to responsible journalism is the voting power of the Lance staff, who determine all major operating decisions, elect editors, and determine editorial policies.

Qualifying to be a voting staff member is very easy; thus no one can even truthfully say that The Lance is run by a clique or a small radical faction.

Another advantage of the Lance referendum is it could restore SAC's fiscal stability, along with a wider range of student services, once it no longer has to shell out $28,000 for The Lance every year. Thus, students will see benefits in two ways: one, in a more independent, more confident student newspaper, and two, in the provision of more student services by SAC.

We realize there is a rather embarrassing monopoly position, in speaking out on this issue in which The Lance obviously has some bias, so we are willing to grant equal space in The Lance to anyone who wishes to write in opposing the Lance campaign. We think our campaign is just, and worthwhile, but we are dedicated to publishing more than just one point of view.

...and regrets

In last week's Lance, a typographical error obscured the meaning of an important sentence in a letter from Leo Meyer and Tony LaSorda. The correct sentence should have read: "The reason that we made the motion (and why it passed) is that SAC's assigning office space to OPiRG would mean tacit support of OPiRG by SAC." The Lance regrets the error.

The Lance apologizes...

The "Poor Editor" would like to apologize to Jim Spina for an error that appeared in his poem with last week's edition of The Lance. The error was not intentional.

Poetry Editor
Scott Eldridge

CREDITS: Produced by: Rick Spencer; Directed by: Brenda McLester; Entertainment sequences arranged by: Paul Chemist; Sports and stunts: Don Peppin and Peter Nash; Photographic stills by: Janine Haubert; Transportation: Steve MacLean; In charge of graphics: Deb Hochberg; Featuring: Don Soulisse and Ted Goodard; Also starring: Anna Maria Tremonti; Bruce D'Amore, Harold Desmarais, Deb Kennedy and Karen Spierkel. Action sequences by: Nigel Miller, Peter Modrack and Dave Pown; Cameramen: John F. Mortimer, John Revett, George Kocsis, Tony Hine. In the bullpen: Scott Eldridge, Technical Assistant: Paul Douglas-Daly, Bob Thompson, Mark Greenwe, Mike Upmalis, Fern Brown and Brian Williamson. Filmed in Technicolor.

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Press offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4.

Subscriptions rates are $7.50 per year. Entered as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writers and not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Students' Administrative Council.
Dear Editor,

The T.E.C.H. residences have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

The T.E.C.H. residences have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.

This group started approximately 20 years ago as a citizen's action group for a barrier-free world. It is led by Dr. Raymond Jaffe, a professor of Philosophy at Wells College, whose wife has been confined to a wheelchair for 35 years as the result of polio.

Those interested in tearing down the unnecessary and excessive barriers of both physical and philosophical nature are invited to contact the T.E.C.H. residences. They are located in the north wing of the Quad. Residents have stated they desire all the residences to be in one Inter-Residence Council, yet in their reasons for T.E.C.H.'s existence they point out their dissimilarities with the Quad residences and the fact that they differ on different issues. This argument is hardly conducive to the Quad residents and I would like to have the opportunity to point out our differences.
Although CJAM was discussed at Tuesday’s SAC meeting, this picture of a CJAM DJ actually belongs with the story at the bottom of the page.

By BRENDA McLESTER
This year, SAC is organizing a program to place foreign students with Windsor families for Christmas.

In the report of the president at Tuesday’s SAC meeting, Gary Wells stated that he or organized a similar program last year, in cooperation with the International Students’ Organization. Many foreign students are not able to go home for Christmas. “Christmas is a very lonely time for these people,” said Wells. He asked Council for $20.00 for on-campus public Wells was elected by the Council to be their representative on the academic promotion and tenure committee - he is now on 18 committees.

External Affairs Commissioner-

Chairman Overholt asked what was being done about the jukebox in the pub. SAC had previously decided to have a switch installed near the bar so the pub staff could turn on CJAM when the jukebox is not playing. Overholt was informed that the switch has not yet been installed. Tosh Noma, CJAM station manager, explained that they need some parts from an American company before they can build the switch.

Have you lost or found anything lately?

By ERIC MAYNE
Do you lose track of time? Have you lost sight of reality or misplaced your virginity? If you answered yes to all of these questions, you are a very careless person and should trouble keeping tabs on your tangible possessions, check out the office is located on the second floor of the Energy Conservation Centre and can be reached by calling campus extensions 348 or 222.

Patrolmen indeed make every effort to find the owner of the goods concerned by tracing names (found on the items). When asked what was the most bizarre item that has ever been turned in, McIver replied, “We did have a pair of contact lenses but we have yet to see a set of false teeth.”

ECKANKAR far out

By E.P. CHANT
Next year by this time, students should be listening to CJAM—FM.

Gliff Wilson, consultant for the FM campaign (the company that presently publishes The Lance and helps co-ordinate much of CJAM’s business), is working on the acquisition of an FM frequency for the campus radio station.

CJAM has raised about $100,000 towards this goal, “Coupled with the equipment and personnel we have here now, I suppose we’re worth another $100,000,” said Wilson, “but we still have some engineering and equipment changes ahead of us before we can go FM.”

Together with the engineering problems, the station has been bound with governmental red-tape. “Working with Ottawa (the Department of Communications) is something fantastic. If we were going for a similar license in the States, we’d probably be a lot farther ahead right now.”

As it is, Wilson expects a hearing on their proposal for an FM frequency early in the New Year, followed by initial broadcasting on the new band by next summer.

“Although some unidentified flying objects are real, not all UFO’s are what they seem,” stated Sir Darwin Gross, spiritual leader of ECKANKAR, the Path of Total Awareness.

The world-renowned Living ECK Master recently shed light on the origin of UFO’s and why some people see them and others do not.

“ECKANKAR,” he says, “teaches that there are other worlds and dimensions beyond this physical universe, the first of which is the astral plane of existence. Some beings dwelling in this world can project astral images into our physical universe. Those that can project images of UFO’s from the astral world are not very spiritual advanced. If they were, they would be aware of and interested in reaching the God Plane where Total Awareness or God Consciousness can be found.”

The leader of the worldwide movement claims that those who do see UFO’s generally have a high I.Q. and possess some clairvoyance which gives them an insight that others do not have. “Flaming engines roar,” he pointed out, “and green lights flash, and they move with incredible speed but only in the minds of those who project and receive the images.”

Trivia Answers

1. Darien, Colorado
2. 1914
4. Grey De Lisle
5. 1,500
6. 1976
7. 1980
8. The three letters are the name of a rock group.
10. A type of beer.
11. The diameter of the moon
12. Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
13. The first letter of the alphabet
14. 30.65
15. Space
16. Indonesia
17. 1939
18. The Roman numeral for 15
19. The first letter of the English alphabet
20. The number of the month in the Gregorian calendar.
McLuhan theorizes on media

By BRUCE DINSMORE
The guest who was On The Record last Thursday night at CBET-TV was Dr. Marshall McLuhan, communications theorist, author and professor at the University of Toronto.

Dr. McLuhan is the author of The Gutenberg Galaxy and other books. He is perhaps best known for his phrase "the medium is the message."

During the opening part of the program, he talked about politicians, and said that politics is chiefly a matter of image. He commented that Richard Nixon had no charisma but that someone who does is Rene Levesque, the Premier of Quebec.

He talked about some of his theories of media, one of which is that print made vision the dominant sense in man. Being used to extracting information out of an in-line visual image led to man's easy adaptation to television. McLuhan also commented that when you take part in the media, you have no physical body, so a kind of unthinking acceptance of media has led to the unreal world that is portrayed on television.

What medium will come next to dazzle us? He says it's here, with the development of CB radio.

The point could be made that Dr. McLuhan is in a world that is just slightly removed from the rest of us, McLuhan was not aware that he was in town when the Canadian-American seminar in communications was being held.

He said that television is both entertainment and a $34 billion dollar industry. According to McLuhan, in fifty years, the commercials that you and I loathe will be art forms.

The new man to look to for the education of the child in society is the disc jockey. McLuhan says the media turn the real world into the reel world.

McLuhan said that ratings have no relationship to the audience that is watching the program and that network brass put "pathetic truth" in the figures.

He warned that media is addicting and when asked to comment on his profession, replied he was a media death's.

By STEPHEN MACLEAN
The University of New Brunswick is no longer a member of The National Union of Students (NUS). In a referendum held October 19, students voted 681 to 644 against rejoining the organization.

The referendum was held in conjunction with the Student Council elections. Approximately 1300 of a possible 5000 students (26%) voted on the issue.

When asked about the NUS referendum, Student Council President Jim Murray said that he was happy the NUS people were turned down. He also stated that he saw the results as "a reaffirmation of the faith the students have in the opinions of their student leaders."

Murray expressed some concern over a massive pro-NUS campaign in which some 15,000 leaflets were distributed across the campus. "I was worried that people would ignore what I had said about NUS previously and that it (NUS) might stay in."

NUS representative Don O'Connor said he was disappointed with the results of the referendum. He predicted the NUS might be able to keep in touch with the students at UNB. He said they would work on the types of information the students should get.

Last spring the University of Windsor voted in favour of joining NUS. The results of the referendum, held March 21, were 799 in favour to 458 opposed.

U of N.B. nudges out NUS

Residence corner

By WILLY PAQUETTE
MAC. The focus this week is on MacDonald Hall. If you were to ask, What is MacDonald Hall? The administration will answer a residence for male students. Well, it may be a lonely guy playing pinball at Stag's Head. But she reassured experienced Mac Hall before, as administration will answer a residence corner that is portrayed had led to the unreal world unreality takes over and this part in the media, you have no physical body, so a kind of comment on his profession, replied he was a media death's.

McLuhan also commented that when you take part in the media, you have no physical body, so a kind of unthinking acceptance of media has led to the unreal world that is portrayed on television.

Standing at the main desk, a couple of girls walk into the building. One of the girls had apprehensions "Do you know where he is?" she said. Obviously, the other girl had experienced Mac Hall before, as she reassured her companion while dragging her along "He's on the first floor!"

After numerous inquiries, the newspaper delivery girl and her brother came in. She definitely loves it here, for her brother has a hard time pulling her away from the boys.

There may be a particular mystique about the special activities that these "night owls" participate in, What do you think ladies?

Note: The Interior Decor: By: Oscar Madelon. At Cody: Beware of bookworms!

Down by Electra: The Electra/ Tecumseh Soccer team won their first game against Caribou "B" team. 4-1.

Tecumseh Ron Spina scored a crucial goal in the third period to give the Tecumseh Chiefs their first victory of the intra­mural hockey season. T-shirts are still available. Huron. Last Saturday's party was a thrilling success. The DJs appreciated all the dancers, but couldn't get them to leave until the wee hours of night.

Next Week: Lookout Laurier!" This is terrific. I am impressed," were Marshall McLuhan's comments when shown a copy of The Lance at the university last year.

Cracking the code

Ever wonder what was meant by those funny scrawls on the front of term papers, tests and essays? The Lance has learned they are part of a secret code, which only faculty and administration can understand. But after months of hard work, we've cracked the code, and now you'll know what the F+ means on your next exam.

MARK RANGE: GRADE: COMPUTER MARK
93 & +: A+: (96)
87-92: A: (90)
80-86: A-: (83)
75-79: B+: (77)
70-74: B: (72)
65-69: C+: (67)
60-64: C: (62)
55-59: D+: (57)
50-54: D: (52)
35-49: F: (42)
0-34: F-: (22)

VARSI TY CURLING
For details, call Doug Bates, 944-0281 after 6 pm

CHRISTMAS FLIGHTS TO VANCOUVER AND HALIFAX! Toronto/Vancouver/Toronto Dec. 20/Jan. 03 and Dec. 21/Jan. 05 $219 plus $8.00 tax. Toronto/Halifax: Toronto Dec. 19/Jan. 02... $125 plus $8.00 tax. Contact Canadian Universities Travel Service, 44 St. George Street, Toronto (416) 979-2604.
19th Can-Am Seminars

The 19th Canadian-American Seminar held at the University of Windsor’s Law Building last week attracted communications academics and professionals from all over the United States and Canada, as well as a distinguished guest speaker from Great Britain.

The topic was “Accountability and Responsibility in North American Communication Systems: Future Perspectives,” and the five individual sessions probed various aspects and consequences of the media explosion.

Expanding systems

By PETER NASH

The Can-Am Seminars opened last Thursday with a discussion on “The Implications of Expanding Communication Delivery Systems.” The moderator was Jean Fortier, Vice Chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission.

The panel consisted of John M. Galvin, a vice-president at Aetna Life and Casualty (Div. of Great Western Life Insurance) of Hartford, Connecticut, Professor de sola Pool, a political science professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Seymour Epstein, president of Imaginering, from Toronto.

There were three main topics Mr. Fortier wished to stress.

The first was how a balance could be struck between external and internal communications (telephones and computing, from Toronto).

Professor de sola Pool, who addressed experts should be meeting now to make decisions on technology ten to twenty years in the future. Professor de sola Pool says the problems we now face in technology are similar to those faced when print was developed. He made a connection of printing many years ago to the licensing of broadcasting and telecommunications satellites. He said in terms of licensing, “We are living in the seventeenth century in the public media.” Professor de sola Pool noted that since all media are functioning toward electronic media and since electronic media have controls on them that soon all media will have controls.

Commenting on the government’s fear of over-centralization of industry, Professor de sola Pool said that electronic media will help decentralize industry, as in the case of the telephone. Companies are able to have a headquarters in one area and industrial facilities in another.

Seymour Epstein commented that there is a need for corporations to be able to change and co-operate within the framework of our new technology. He said “There is a critical need for good future judgement in terms of our new technology.”

Mr. Epstein noted that the public has just now realized that communication is a two-way street, through the use of citizen’s band radio. Before CB, Epstein feels that the people were only willing to receive information, such as in watching TV.

Overall the panel agreed that there should be greater cooperation between nations in terms of communications. There was also an agreement that there should be a greater emphasis on policy aimed at the people rather than the hardware.

Telecommunication technology changing

By JANINE HALBERT

During the Boland Memorial lecture last Thursday night, the fire warning communications system in the University Centre rang out in alarm. However, it was promptly regulated by several individuals who rivalled Alex Reid’s lecture on changing telecommunications but failed to create a major disturbance.

Reid, the Deputy Director of Long Range Studies in Britain, pointed out that communications technology was changing, and how it should be dealt with.

He mentioned specifically the View Data system presently being implemented in England. In this system, the home television is transformed into a terminal receiver which is connected to a central computer through the telephone system. Individuals are able to transmit information by buying into the system. Reid described it as a “free market place” with no editorial control.

The potential for such systems is great, including computer shopping, individual program selection and personal transmission of information.

Although new telecommunications technology does not present a threat to the environment or the human race, as nuclear energy does, it affects personal rights and economic and social change, Reid stated. The “paradoxical blend of centralization and decentralization” involves mass access to the system, but also a centralized store of information and control, which, if abused, could be a menace to society.

Legal and social systems are always a step behind when technological changes arise.

“The trick is to adjust legal and social systems to adjust to these changes,” Reid said.

An annual feature of the banquet-lecture, is the awarding of a $1000 scholarship from Gulf Oil. This year, Lola Murphy, a graduate student in Communication Studies, won the award.

In her acceptance speech, Murphy said that she was pleased to be receiving the award in front of such a distinguished audience.

“We are the communications experts of the future,” she stated.

Join Now

Come out and join the
YOUNG PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES

Thursday, Dec. 1 at 3:00
Assumption Lounge

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions
Seminar discusses pay-TV

By E.P. CHANT
Can-Am Seminar: "Private Industry and Government: The Optimal Mix"
(Thursday, November 10, 1977 at 3:30 p.m.)

"What makes or breaks our system is the programming," said Prevost. Citing stringent Canadian regulations as an example, he continued saying that our system is more controlled and regulated than the American one "to a point of absurdity". "This regulation is perhaps too involved, but creatively destructive . . . to entrepreneurship."

Prevost predicted that the "new society" of rampant social justice will prove to be a complete failure. In contrast, he said, pay TV will once again triumph. "Canada suffers from 'British sickness', inflation, unemployment, and an unaffordable balance of trade . . . As a cure, we must re-introduce the competitive model in business."

The next speaker picked up and elaborated on several of Prevost's points. He was Michael Hind-Smith, head of the Canadian Cable Television Network, previously with CBC, CTV, and the Power Corporation in Montreal.

Continuing where the first Canadian speaker had left off, Hind-Smith linked Canadian's preoccupation with their national culture and the uncertainty they have in the structure of Canada and its world position in the future. In his view, the United States is a very confident nation, sure of its destiny.

This uncertainty has infiltrated the national government in the broadcasting area. As an example, Hind-Smith cited the "pay TV" controversy. "While the U.S.A. feels that pay TV is inevitable as a free enterprise situation, Canada has seen three years of ongoing debate on the subject. We have been agonizing with our problem of national identity and have done nothing."

Hind-Smith went on to describe the new frontier of cable television as "sensitive to its subscribers," because it can be bought by the public or not, as they so desire, and it is not intensely competitive as is the other form of broadcasting, in that cable has the capacity to have an infinite number of channels.

As for governmental regulations, "We do accept certain regulatory processes, but we want to be allowed to see cable grow to its fullest capacities."

Finally, the last speaker found an area of broadcasting that government should become involved in, namely, the financing of public television.

Mark Porat, a researcher at the Aspen Institute in the Program on Communication and Society in Washington D.C., believes that public goods can be provided. "I agree it's absolutely awful - it's better than Valium, but that's about it."

Canada's grandfather of broadcasting; Graham Spry, moderated on pay TV networks, such as PBS.

In this way, said Porat, the quality of programming would be greatly improved. Commenting on the quality of commercial television, he said, "I agree it's absolutely awful - it's better than Valium, but that's about it."

He also urged the encouragement of cable and pay television for an even greater selection of programming and concluded by saying that North America would do well to examine the British broadcasting system, which has combined private and public enterprise with great success.

"LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR" IS ONE OF THE STRONGEST MOTION PICTURES EVER MADE--AND ONE OF THE BEST! Diane Keaton should get the Oscar to take home as best actress of the year in this UNFORGETTABLE, HIGH-ImpACT FILM!"--Lisa Smith, NY. Daily News

Regulating the media

By RICK SPENCE
Public control over the media was the subject of Friday morning's Can-Am Seminar session entitled "The Future Roles of Regulatory Agencies and the Courts".

Two American federal government experts and the head of the Simon Fraser University Communication Studies Department discussed the differences and similarities between Canadian and American regulation, under the chairmanship of U. of T. law professor Peter Grant.

Karen Pousner, a staff assistant to the House Sub-committee on Communications in Washington, D.C., said the United States is "committed to judicial control and legislative oversight" of the media. She says it was in the 1930's that a great number of regulatory agencies grew up and gained "great discretionary powers," including the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

However, Pousner says she never thought that the media would be subject to a more stringent form of control. "We never thought that we would be regulated as we are today."

She said the FCC has "lost its way" and that we need to return to the FCC of the 1930's.

"I believe that the FCC has become a regulatory agency that is not concerned with the public interest. I think that we need to look at the FCC and see what it is doing for the public."

William H. Melody, from Simon Fraser in British Columbia, says that in Canada judicial control of media is much more passive than in the United States. While American courts concern themselves with issues, the FCC is in Canada the court more concerned about jurisdiction.

Concerning Canada's CRTC to the FCC, Melody says the FCC is broader, but that it hasn't "the traditional cloud" of the CRTC.

In order to overcome the increasing American domination of the media, Melody suggested that the CRTC should consider buying and operating TV stations in the United States.

Clarence McKeen, a legal counsel for the FCC, spoke next, introducing himself by saying "Here I am as a real-life bureaucrat."

He said the FCC is walking a tightrope, but predicts that the future for the media will be good, as long as regulators arrive to be fair.

There was some concern over Canada's CRTC, and the number of decisions it must make. Since its founding in 1969, the Commission has made 5,000 decisions, Melody said, and it can do whatever it wants as long as you don't disturb Bell Canada."
entertainment

...and you think you have problems!!!

By Paul Chernish

The following is an advice column initiated for the benefit of distressed people.

Dear Paulie: What is the best way to clean records? - STATIC. Dear Static: I have always been a firm believer in "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." There is no way to clean records except you know the judge personally. Just don't break the law, and you won't have the problem.

Dear Paulie: I have a problem.

Pub band review

'Music Meter' makes debut in Lance

By H.J. Swenson

We know you all found the Lance boring last week, but we just couldn't do a review. There was no band in the pub that Monday. So stop throwing those stink bombs into the Lance office, we're back in full force.

True to our form as not only musical geniuses, but intellectual giants, we have come up with a novel system of rating bands (N.R.S.). We would like to officially christen it the H.J. MUSIC METER. Here's how it works. The scale is from 0 - 10.

10 - The Ultimate (Beatles, Pink Floyd, Fleetwood Mac, J.J. Proverb of the week..."
The man who tries to please everybody is a fool."")
8 - Better than we'll ever see.
6 - Exceptional bar band.
4 - Typical bar band.
2 - Turn the Jukebox up.
0 - No, it isn't earth-shaking, and it probably won't kill me, but I have a donut habit. I can't get enough of those tasty starch-busters. In fact, just the other day I drooled a newspaper boy over the head and took his change to support my habit. What should I do? - DESPERATE.

Dear Desperate: Don't panic. One way to get "unhooked" is to do it cold turkey. The only other alternative is suicide.

Dear Paulie: Yesterday, my little puppy got run over by a Mack truck and was killed instantly. The question is, should I bury it or what? - - ANIMAL LOVER.

Dear Animal: I had the same problem with my cat, Scruffy. Only I killed him with an ax. What I did was put little Scruffy in a "Hefty" bag and mailed him to the Humane Society.

Dear Paulie: I have a question about my girlfriend (I'll call her Betty). Last night, Betty and I, after eating a delicious meal, decided to jump on the couch and enjoy a little "you know what!". I wrapped my strong, hairy arm around her slender, soft shoulders. Betty then plunged her hot, low-staved tongue deep into the recesses of my excited mouth. I began to stroke her bottom with long, lingering motions, which she simply loved. Betty knew that now was the time, so she jumped off the couch and, while prancing into the bedroom, whispered, "Let me get into something more comfortable." When she reappeared, do you know what she had on? A Slacksy Mouse costume! Needless to say, I ran out of the house. Did I do the right thing? - - TEASED.

Dear Taed: Everything you did was right until she reappeared in the costume. I would have sat down and had an intelligent discussion with your mouse friend. Maybe she ran out of neglect.

Music Meter

Our favorite tune of the night was Fleetwood Mac's "Break the Chain." Sue Boot, the lead singer, was particularly effective in numbers such as these. Even this could make us forget the Hamp Meter's rendition of James Taylor's "Handy Man." It seemed to us that they were unembellished on what material to do. They varied from rock to folk. Flattery should stick to one style of music rather than trying to please everyone.

"Flattery" - first pub band tested by music meter. "Man who tries to please everyone, wakes up sore in the morning.

DESPERATE.

Dear Confused: Huh! You know what's wrong? I bet you forgot to plug it in!

Dear Paulie: I have a question about my girlfriend (I'll call her Betty). Last night, Betty and I, after eating a delicious meal, decided to jump on the couch and enjoy a little "you know what!". I wrapped my strong, hairy arm around her slender, soft shoulders. Betty then plunged her hot, low-staved tongue deep into the recesses of my excited mouth. I began to stroke her bottom with long, lingering motions, which she simply loved. Betty knew that now was the time, so she jumped off the couch and, while prancing into the bedroom, whispered, "Let me get into something more comfortable." When she reappeared, do you know what she had on? A Slacksy Mouse costume! Needless to say, I ran out of the house. Did I do the right thing? - - TEASEED.

Dear Taed: Everything you did was right until she reappeared in the costume. I would have sat down and had an intelligent discussion with your mouse friend. Maybe she ran out of neglect.

Music Meter

Our favorite tune of the night was Fleetwood Mac's "Break the Chain." Sue Boot, the lead singer, was particularly effective in numbers such as these. Even this could make us forget the Hamp Meter's rendition of James Taylor's "Handy Man." It seemed to us that they were unembellished on what material to do. They varied from rock to folk. Flattery should stick to one style of music rather than trying to please everyone.

"Flattery" - first pub band tested by music meter. "Man who tries to please everyone, wakes up sore in the morning.

DESPERATE.

Dear Confused: Huh! You know what's wrong? I bet you forgot to plug it in!

Dear Paulie: I have a question about my girlfriend (I'll call her Betty). Last night, Betty and I, after eating a delicious meal, decided to jump on the couch and enjoy a little "you know what!". I wrapped my strong, hairy arm around her slender, soft shoulders. Betty then plunged her hot, low-staved tongue deep into the recesses of my excited mouth. I began to stroke her bottom with long, lingering motions, which she simply loved. Betty knew that now was the time, so she jumped off the couch and, while prancing into the bedroom, whispered, "Let me get into something more comfortable." When she reappeared, do you know what she had on? A Slacksy Mouse costume! Needless to say, I ran out of the house. Did I do the right thing? - - TEASEED.

Dear Taed: Everything you did was right until she reappeared in the costume. I would have sat down and had an intelligent discussion with your mouse friend. Maybe she ran out of neglect.
movies

By KAREN SPIEKEL

First Love ends before it ever really starts. It is only about one hour long, so he was not to blink; you may miss some of the in-action.

First Love is just that: the tall of those initial pans of "Oh-no-think-I'm-in-love" felt by William Katt, a quasi-ethelitic, quasi-intellectual university student, and Susan Dey, an all-assuming, yet strikingly mined-up young co-ed. They meet, chat, and make love a lot. Yet, there are distressing complications. Dey is unutterably in love with her father's former best friend - a 46-year-old lawyer. Katt is determinedly in love with Dey and committed to the ideal of making her feel the same way about him. Much of the camera footage is devoted to his tactics in this vein. Hence, we find ourselves in bed much of the film - which tends to get redundant. It never becomes clear exactly how much this contributes to the film, except that it might satisfy the sexual fantasies of a horny 16-year-old. Beyond that, the film is a definite loss.

Technically, the film fares no better. In one scene, Katt is briefly making love to another very passionate, willingly co-ed. When he calls out Dey's name by mistake, the young woman abruptly ends the encounter. Suddenly, Katt stands up to protest, complete with trowsers. Where, when, and how Katt was supposed to have put his pants back on in one a second interval escapes reason. Director Darling must have fallen asleep during the sequence the audience did.

area in late November (the Dover Hotel near Chatham, Nov. 21-23).

The Diodes rely heavily on the basic punk stance, and turn in high energy performances with a youthful exuberance.

They have been booked by many major publications including Billboard, RPM, and Melody Maker magazines as the best new wave band in Canada (and possibly North America), and earned this reputation with unrestricted behaviour and kick-ass performances.

The group consists of Jan McKay on bass, John Catto on guitars, Paul Robinson on vocals, and John Hamilton on drums.

Catch them on CJAM this Tuesday afternoon.

The Diodes to satisfy punks at the Dover Hotel.

By THE ENTERTAINMENT STAFF

A year ago, you could count the number of acts appearing in concert (in the Windsor area) on the Canadian side of the border on the fingernail of your right hand.

Things have changed though, and in recent weeks there has been a flurry of bookings that defy explanation, but why look a gift horse in the mouth, right?

Max Webster, a Toronto outfit, are playing at the Cleary on November 21. With ex-Meadows drummer, Gary McCracken, they are a rare band that gives you an honest night's work every time out. Another southern Ontario band, The Diodes, will be hitting the

CARIBBEAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

CARIBBEAN CULTURAL WEEKEND

FILM NIGHT
"THE HARDER THEY COME"

Starts - Jimmy Cliff

Janet Barclay

DOCUMENTARIES ON THE CARIBBEAN

Thursday November 24th

Where: 1120 Math Building

Time: 7:00 p.m.

Price: $1.50

Tickets available in the International University of Windsor

Call Gerri (253-4232 ext. 687) for bookings

By CJAM

Nov. 18 and 19 . . . . . Queen

Cobo Hall / Nov. 18 . . .

Bill Whithers Masonic /

Billy Joel - Hill Auditorium /

Nov. 19 . . . Joan Armatrading - Royal Oak Theatre /

America with Jimmy Webb - Cinerama Arena / Nov. 21-23 . .

The Diodes - Dover Hotel / Nov. 22 . . . Lake and City Boy - Royal Oak Theatre / Nov. 23 . . .

Rod McKuen - Royal Oak Theatre / Nov. 28 and 29 . .

Hall and Oates - Cobo Hall / Nov. 29 . .

Weather Report - Royal Oak Theatre / Nov. 10 . .

Pablo Cruise - Royal Oak Theatre / Dec. 1 . .

Kansas and the Atlanta Rhythm Section - Cobo Hall / Dec. 9 . .

Chuck Mangione - Royal Oak Theatre / Dec. 15 . .

Robb - Cobo Hall / Dec. 27 . .

Geils and Edger Winter's White Trash - Cobo Hall.

Preconant

No Age Limit

Free Counseling
(No effect on low medical fee)

Free Pregnancy Test

$75 at independent lab

$90 for Chlamydia Sniffing Dogs, Ovulation

Acremonium

ACM APPROVED
CALL (313) 884-4023

DEPARTMENT OF OBSTETRICS

ACM APPROVED
The University Players' second production is "How The Other Half Loves," opening Friday, November 25.

First presented at the Royale Theatre, N.Y.C. in 1971, the original cast of "How The Other Half Loves" included Sandy Dennis and Phil Silvers. The time of the play is the present; the action, the living rooms of Fiona and Frank Foster (Catherine Brought and Claude Le gras) and Bob and Teresa Phillips (James Warren and Shelley Butler). Another couple, William and Mary Detweiler, are questioned by their respective spouses about their last night activities. Attempting to avoid discovery, Bob and Fiona throw the blame for their unexplained absences on the unsuspecting and totally innocent Detweilers.

Aykroyd demonstrates beyond a doubt that the comparisons between him and America's Neil Simon are well-founded. The seemingly bottomless well of quick retorts and one-liners are characteristic of both writers, and not better illustrated than in "How The Other Half Loves.

Perhaps the biggest problem faced by director Ruthie Gerrett is development of character. The actors, third and fourth year students at The School of Dramatic Art, are playing people who are, at a maximum, ten years older than themselves. This is a very difficult gap to bridge. It is just large enough that there are subtleties and changes in character that must be first recognized, then developed. This is only possible when cast and director respect each other's talents.

This is the case with the Players' production. For the past few years, Ms. Garnett, a faculty member at The School of Dramatic Art, has directed the heavy, dramatic plays for the Players, but she is very secure with comedy. Ms. Garnett directed the first season at Havan Country Playhouse at Grand Bend and has long experience with stock companies in the United States and Canada. The actors' experiences include previous lead roles in University Players' productions, three professional summer theatre including Theatre London's Young Company and Young Canada Players, as well as participation in numerous Windsor and regional theatre.

Scenic and lighting design is by Mr. Phil Freelan, resident technical director, with costume design by Mr. Larry Foden, resident costume designer.

"How The Other Half Loves" opens Friday, November 25 at Essex Hall Theatre, University of Windsor, and runs to Saturday, December 3, with no performance on Monday, November 28.

Tickets are available at the theatre box office by phoning 253-4565. Price of admission is $3.50 with special group rates available Tuesday, Wednesday, and Sunday and Student Rush available ten minutes before curtain. Curtain is at 8:00 p.m.
Eric Carmen
Boats Against
The Current

By DEB KENNEDY
Two years ago at the Sweet concert in Detroit, Eric Carmen was billed as the opening act. He should have played all night. Carmen showed himself as someone special. His sensitivity and passion allow him to create both mellow music and kick ass rock 'n' roll. His latest release, Boats Against The Current, is about passion, self-discovery, and romance. If anything is going to gain Eric Carmen public recognition, this album will do it.

The Current
Sept.

diversity. The title (Nov. 22 and July 23) : Stick to your routine. bass-playing was soften the hardest heart.

He should have

pick up the speed with an

My

 três.

Carmen to the romancer again.

Nowhere to Hide

is about passion, self-indulgence. They take turns

She

Wishbone Ash

Front Page News

By FRANK KOVACEC
I defy anyone to find a group of musicians (in a rock band), as a unit, better than those of Wishbone Ash.

The guitar playing is a beautiful contrast between the hard edged, razor like leads of Andy Powell and the smooth emotional style of Laurie Wisefield.

Martin Turner's airy vocals and exceptional bass-playing combine with Steve Upton's solid drumwork to round out the sound.

The trouble is that they can't write any decent material to go along with their fine playing.

Except for last year's solid New England and Argus from a few years back, they haven't put out an album with any consistency of good material in the 6 or 7 years that they have been together.

Front Page News, their new album on MCA, is by no means an improvement. Oh, it has a couple of outstanding tracks (Front Page News, Midnight Dancer), but the rest of the album falters into a brew of self-indulgence. They take turns polishing up their egos with an onslaught of solos (good as it may be) and amaranth (it's my song so I'm going to sing it!). Your mistake Laurie.

The lyrics are fairly shallow, but I'm not surprised since that never has been their strong point.

If the band ever realizes that they are a band and not just a group of individuals, they would be better off. I had hoped that this was the case after the release of New England, but something must have happened since then, and it's too bad.

Wishbone Ash
Front Page News

Bob Welch
French Kiss

By DOMINIC D'AMORE
From his early days as a main figure in (the original) Fleetwood Mac, to his leadership in the three-piece powehouse Paris, Bob Welch has tasted the fruits of success. His newest achievement is, by no means contrary to this trend. Welch's first solo album weaves together various musical concepts, which creates an enjoyable mix for almost all musical tastes.

He incorporates the sounds of "bass saw" type guitar and basic rock beats with an abundance of strings and violins, which are prominent in "Ebony Eyes, Dandelion Eyes and Hot Love, Cold World. All three are the driving rockers of the album. There is also a pleasant mellow sound to Welch's tunes, along with a "commercial", and almost funky feeling at times.

It's strange that Welch doesn't give any credit to the other musicians on the album. There are no credits whatsoever on the cover or the dust-jacket. This slightly annoyed me because the bass player (whoever that lid presents some of the tastiest and appropriate bass runs that I have heard since artists like Geddy Lee and Glen Hughes.

Sensational Lady is the album's opener, and is a new version of an old Fleetwood Mac tune of the same name. It has almost reached his status already. The sometimes too repetitious use of strings, and Welch's limited talents with guitar riffs, are pretty well the only strikes against the album. Even though the tracks on the album carry slightly more than a causal resemblance to each other, it is still not enough to significantly reduce the quality of the album. The production will tickle even the most critical ear. French Kiss is definitely one of those albums that is a must for every record collection.

In the Stars
By OTIS T.

Aries
(March 21 - April 19) : Delay projects or plans for more information. Do at least the essentials.

Taurus
(May 20 - June 20) : Missing information may escape you now, turn up later. Double-check your work.

Gemini
(June 21 - July 22) : A period of meditation today may give you insight to deal with tomorrow's work. Be yourself.

Cancer
(July 23 - Aug. 22) : Stick to your routine. Stay current with public and world affairs.

Leo
(Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) : Mysteries begin to clear themselves up. The people involved act nonchalant. Follow their lead.

Virgo
(Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) : Your negative attitude will push people only so far. Mind your own business.

Libra
(Oct. 23 - Nov. 22) : Find something interesting to do. Be realistic in your work. Don't aim for the stars.

Scorpio
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) : Re-establish lost personal connections. The search for perspective dominates your day.

Sagittarius
(Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) : Avoid past achievements to the present. Avoid rashness, perfect present plans.

Capricorn
(Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) : Avoid taking even calculated risks at this time. Steer away from any schemes.

Aquarius
(Feb. 19 - March 20) : You tend to invest more emotional energy than is necessary. Don't pressure yourself.

Pisces
(March 21 - April 19) : Things seem unclear for the present. Later on, the true picture becomes clear.

SAC.

the GALLERY
LOUNGE

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure
Live Nightly Entertainment

Fri. Nov. 18 – Sat. Nov. 19
"FLATTERY"

Mon. Nov. 21 – Sat. Nov. 26
T.B.A.
Swimmers need support

By NIGEL MILLER

There is life in this year’s swimming and diving teams. Last year’s team finished poorly because of a lack of swimmers, not because of a lack of quality on the team. The ‘77 version of the Lancer’s and the Lancette’s promises to be competitive. Coach Kennedy predicts that the women’s team will finish fourth overall in the O.U.A.A. finals with an excellent chance at third place. The men’s team, he says, should place fifth in the O.U.A.A. finals.

The team is mixed with newcomers to University swimming as well as some experienced veterans.

Ray Emmas is a Lancer swimmer who should win some medals in the O.U.A.A. finals especially in the 200 metre individual medley and the 50 metre freestyle. Paul Huggard is the team’s breaststroker, Bruce Bain is a butterfly swimmer, as well as swimming the individual medley and Ken Harrington is listed as a competitor in the 200 metre backstroke, and freestyle. Kevin Keane is strictly a freestyler and Jim Bondy is in the 100 metre butterfly and 200 metre backstroke.

The men’s individual medley relay team should also place in the medals at the O.U.A.A. finals.

The swimming team meets for practice five times a week at the pool in the H.K.C. building between the hours of 4:30 and 7:30. The team has half an hour of dry land practice followed by two hours in the pool.

Swimmers are still needed by the coaches to fill the team so interested people should wander down to the pool. Coach Kennedy feels that there are good swimmers who could help the team that are not coming out. The diving team is composed of one male and four females. Coach Lang feels that this year’s divers are promising even though they don’t possess too much experience. The one member with exposure to university competition is Petra Uhlig who missed qualifying for the national finals by four points last year. This year she should again be a finalist in the O.U.A.A. competition but this time around she should qualify for the nationals.

There are four members on the team some with experience in high school and some first timers. The new divers are Tammy Tohin, Mauren Smith, Beth Roener and Greg Thurlbeck. They will be doing their dives off of one metre and three metre boards.

The diving team meets weekdays from 5:30 to 7:00 to practice at the pool.

Both coaches, Kennedy and Lang, are not faculty members but both do volunteer work in helping out University of Windsor swimmers. They receive posttime for the high school people they coach. The coaches agree that swimming is on the way back in the area and the University team will improve due to the extra interest shown in the sport.

By DON PEPPIN

IN THE SHOWERS

This past week NBC has been bringing The Godfather to our living rooms and we, like the procrastinating fools we are, have been devoured pinning our noses to the old boob toob soaking it all in. Now you ask, what the hell does this have to do with sports, all those dumb guineas (that's slang for dagos for those of you uninformed bigotes) run away from is themselves.

My point is, what the Italian 'families' had was loyalty. Granted there were a few flaws in the Corleone system but very few, it was the family that was most important, and nothing else.

Now far be it from me to call basketball coach Dr. Paul Thomas a Don, but it is this type of devotion which his players operate under. The expression 'never is heard a discouraging word,' applies very nicely to the Lancers analysis of their coach.

There have been occasions when some people have wanted to call the coach names which they would not repeat in confession, because of this platoon system. He stands by it firmly, and believes that it is the best way to operate his team. But it goes beyond just Thomas' belief in what is going down. The team believes it too. They have faith in his thinking and are willing to stand by him.

Now some people offer that this may be pure pragmatism (i.e. do it or get cut) but I have to disagree. There is no way a team, no matter what level they operate on, can hope to act as a unit if they are divided on some instrumental issue of the team makeup. And platooning is part of the Windsor system, they use it effectively, they believe in it, and they are loyal to their coach's judgement when to use it.

And well they should. For the last four or five years this team has been right in the proverbial thick of things, and this year's version is expecting even more.

Coach Thomas has the advantage that he has worked with a number of the veterans from the day they started basketball in university until today, and they have worked within that system very well. But new players must adapt to it as well. Many of these players are used to being the top man on the team and getting to play entire games. Now things are different, they get on for ten minutes and just as they get hot, the coach pulls them off.

Amazingly enough the next time they go out they seem to pick up where they left off.

When a team can acquire the faith in a coach that this team has, and has the talent and the system for him to work with, there is one think for sure: the team will never lose. If the score on the board isn't in their favour they win in other ways, which in the long run are far more valuable to players at this level.

My hat is tipped to Coach Thomas and the Lancers for sticking by their guns. This is our year and those of you who don't believe will be in for a surprise. There are some things Windsor does well, and this year it's winning National basketball championships.
Second-Language Monitoring Program

September 1978 - May 1979

This program allows university-level students in Canada to work part-time as second-language monitors while studying full-time, usually in a province other than their own. At least 800 students will receive a minimum of $3,000 each for nine months of part-time work, and travel expenses for one return trip between the student's province of residence and the host province will be reimbursed.

This program is financed by the Department of the Secretary of State.

The number of French-language and English-language monitors will be determined according to the particular needs of that province.

To obtain a brochure and an application form, contact the Secretary of State in the province:

Ontario - Ministry of Education, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M7A 1W2

Requests for application forms will be accepted up to and including December 31, 1977. Completed application forms will be accepted up to and including January 13, 1978.

Accounting students are a going concern.

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a career of accountability. In addition, they are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and management who are interested in a career of accountability. An undergraduate background is thus a dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, a poor opportunity shall be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St John's, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, Montréal, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver, Prince George.

Second-Language Monitoring Program

September 1978 - May 1979

This program allows university-level students in Canada to work part-time as second-language monitors while studying full-time, usually in a province other than their own. At least 800 students will receive a minimum of $3,000 each for nine months of part-time work, and travel expenses for one return trip between the student's province of residence and the host province will be reimbursed.

This program is financed by the Department of the Secretary of State.

The number of French-language and English-language monitors will be determined according to the particular needs of that province.

To obtain a brochure and an application form, contact the Secretary of State in the province:

Ontario - Ministry of Education, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M7A 1W2

Requests for application forms will be accepted up to and including December 31, 1977. Completed application forms will be accepted up to and including January 13, 1978.

Accounting students are a going concern.

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a career of accountability. In addition, they are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and management who are interested in a career of accountability. An undergraduate background is thus a dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, a poor opportunity shall be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St John's, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, Montréal, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver, Prince George.

Second-Language Monitoring Program

September 1978 - May 1979

This program allows university-level students in Canada to work part-time as second-language monitors while studying full-time, usually in a province other than their own. At least 800 students will receive a minimum of $3,000 each for nine months of part-time work, and travel expenses for one return trip between the student's province of residence and the host province will be reimbursed.

This program is financed by the Department of the Secretary of State.

The number of French-language and English-language monitors will be determined according to the particular needs of that province.

To obtain a brochure and an application form, contact the Secretary of State in the province:

Ontario - Ministry of Education, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M7A 1W2

Requests for application forms will be accepted up to and including December 31, 1977. Completed application forms will be accepted up to and including January 13, 1978.

Accounting students are a going concern.

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a career of accountability. In addition, they are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and management who are interested in a career of accountability. An undergraduate background is thus a dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, a poor opportunity shall be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St John's, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, Montréal, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver, Prince George.

Second-Language Monitoring Program

September 1978 - May 1979

This program allows university-level students in Canada to work part-time as second-language monitors while studying full-time, usually in a province other than their own. At least 800 students will receive a minimum of $3,000 each for nine months of part-time work, and travel expenses for one return trip between the student's province of residence and the host province will be reimbursed.

This program is financed by the Department of the Secretary of State.

The number of French-language and English-language monitors will be determined according to the particular needs of that province.

To obtain a brochure and an application form, contact the Secretary of State in the province:

Ontario - Ministry of Education, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M7A 1W2

Requests for application forms will be accepted up to and including December 31, 1977. Completed application forms will be accepted up to and including January 13, 1978.

Accounting students are a going concern.

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a career of accountability. In addition, they are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and management who are interested in a career of accountability. An undergraduate background is thus a dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, a poor opportunity shall be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St John's, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, Montréal, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver, Prince George.

Second-Language Monitoring Program

September 1978 - May 1979

This program allows university-level students in Canada to work part-time as second-language monitors while studying full-time, usually in a province other than their own. At least 800 students will receive a minimum of $3,000 each for nine months of part-time work, and travel expenses for one return trip between the student's province of residence and the host province will be reimbursed.

This program is financed by the Department of the Secretary of State.

The number of French-language and English-language monitors will be determined according to the particular needs of that province.

To obtain a brochure and an application form, contact the Secretary of State in the province:

Ontario - Ministry of Education, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M7A 1W2

Requests for application forms will be accepted up to and including December 31, 1977. Completed application forms will be accepted up to and including January 13, 1978.

Accounting students are a going concern.

Certainly to our firm and to the future of our profession.

The role of an accounting student is diversified, demanding and rewarding, providing wide exposure to the business community of today. A challenging career awaits any individual interested in becoming a Chartered Accountant.

Business and commerce majors will obviously be interested in a career of accountability. In addition, they are also interested in talking to graduates of mathematics, computer science, engineering and management who are interested in a career of accountability. An undergraduate background is thus a dynamic business environment.

If you are willing to accept this challenge, a poor opportunity shall be submitted as soon as possible to the Student Placement Office. Our representatives will be on campus to discuss career opportunities on

November 21, 22

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.
Chartered Accountants

St John's, Hamilton, Montreal, Quebec, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, Montréal, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver, Prince George.
Hockey: Lancers improve against Western

By NIGEL MILLER

Spectators at last weekend's Lancer hockey games witnessed two different Lancer hockey teams.

The Saturday and Sunday games were the home opening series for this year's University of Windsor hockey team. Western provided the competition on both days and proved to be formidable opposition. Saturday's game was won by the Mustangs 10-5 and Sunday's ended in a 1-1 tie.

For the first four games a season the Lancers had scored 24 goals while scoring 20. They are playing 500 hockey which should get the Lancers into the playoffs, but Western assistant coach Fred Robson feels the Lancers were weak defensively.

Coach Eaves suggests that the team could improve on its predicted finish if the team could improve its defense. From watching the team in the show in their Sunday game, finishing high in the standings is not unrealistic. The potential is there to win the important games if they can reach this level of play consistently.

Saturday, Lancers didn't play defense. Towards the end, Coach Eaves didn't check or check and the defenses didn't clear the front of the net. Lancer assistant coach Owen Freeman agreed that the team played poor defense and felt that there were too many Western men in front of our net. Freeman felt that the team hustled but just never got the breaks.

Coach Paul Thomas was happy with the win but he felt that the Lancers could have played much better. He commented after the game that "We could have broken that game wide open. We missed too many easy shots and lay-ups." The game started at a very quick, rough pace and the Lancers opened up a quick 8-0 lead. The Lancers held the Saints to zero scoring in the first 20 minutes.

The following five minutes had only one basket scored by both teams. The Lancers managed to hold on to a 19-8 lead at half time with some fine rebounding by Charlie Pearsall and Fred Robson.

Lancers beat Western's goalie. One of the few bright spots for Windsor on Saturday was the goaltending of Mike Freeman. Even though ten goals were scored against him, most of these came on second, third and fourth shots after he had made the initial stops.

The first period ended in a 1-1 tie, with lots of choppy hockey by both teams.

The second period proved to be the difference, with the Lancers being out-scored 6 to 1. They seemed to stop skating in this period and there were constant two-on-one, three-on-one and three-on-two situations as forwards counted back on defense.

The turning point in the period, as well as the game, came after the Mustangs had scored on two goal-mouth scrambles. Western, with a man in the penalty box, drew another penalty, giving the Lancers a two-man advantage for one one and half minutes. The Lancers power play was anything but potent, with Western killing off successfully and not allowing Windsor a shot on goal. After lasting through this disadvantage, Western came down the ice and tallied again to make the score 4-1.

Temper flared in this period with Greg Ducharme of Windsor and Western's Bill Smith both being ejected for fighting.

Late in the period the Lancers scored the make the score 5-2 at the end of two periods. Western dominated this period but Windsor had the opportunities to turn the game around as Western received twelve minutes in penalties. Surprisingly, this was the only time Windsor was out shot, 23-17.

The third period saw the teams exchange goals with each team scoring three times. The Lancers were able to hold their own period despite the fact that they were still playing sloppy defense.

Sunday's Lancers not only hustled, they checked well enough to keep the Mustangs in their own end continuously and they played like they can for the full 60 minutes. They could have won the game hadn't Western goalie Cam Fink, kept his team in the game with several critical stops.

The first period ended in a 1-1 lead for Western. Mike Freeman started in goal for the Lancers and on the first goal it looked as though he was going to have the same trouble as the previous night.

They capitalized on a Windsor miscue as Jamie Couny controlled the puck in the Lancer end and fired a shot deep in the slot past Freeman. Another Western goal was called back on an obvious interference infraction on the Lancer goalie. Western out shot the Lancers 12-4.

The second period began with several rough checks thrown by both teams. By the five minute mark the Mustangs had opened a 3-0 lead. Dave Nadeau scored his second goal of the day when the Lancers were caught watching the puck instead of the man.

Shaun Russen opened the scoring for the Lancers with a deflection off a Bob Munoz slap shot. Later in the period Don Martin out the Western lead to one, with a goal assisted by Scott Hunter.

The third period was the most exciting from a spectator's point of view as the play was very fast. Bert Fournier scored the tying goal on a beautiful play. Rick Marshall passed the puck from behind the net to Fournier who fired the shot in and tied the score 3-3.

The game continued at a frantic pace with both teams skating hard to end, each looking for that elusive winning goal. The game was an amazing battle between the rival goalies, who were both outstanding. Freeman played a first class game challenging the shooters and making the stops.

Pearsall could have gone to the forwards who never went out and skating and checking result with goals and thus goals. The defence played exceptionally as they were successful in moving the puck out of their own end and cutting off the Western offence in their own zone.

The Lancers only got one point this weekend out of a possible four but they did prove that they have the capability to play good hockey.

The Lancers travel to Waterloo to face the Laurier Golden Hawks tomorrow night and are on the road again Tuesday when they travel to Kalamazoo to face the Western Michigan University Broncos in an exhibition match.

Lancers surprise Shaw

By PETER NASH

The Lancer basketball squad opened their home season with a 84-77 victory over Shaw College.

Shaw was favoured as the victor but constant pressure by Vincentian's Pearsall and Fred Robson caused Shaw to turn the ball over all game.

Coach Paul Thomas was happy with the win but he felt that the Lancers could have played much better. He commented after the game that "We could have broken that game wide open. We missed too many easy shots and lay-ups." The game started at a very quick, rough pace and the Lancers opened up a quick 8-0 lead. The Lancers held the Saints to zero scoring in the first 20 minutes.

The following five minutes had only one basket scored by both teams. The Lancers managed to hold on to a 19-8 lead at half time with some fine rebounding by Charlie Pearsall and Fred Robson.

The Lancers managed to hold on to a four point lead until the 8 minute mark. At this point, Shaw scored four consecutive points and tied the game at 20-20. Shaw then moved ahead by 2 for several minutes. The Lancers managed to battle back to a 24-22 lead at half time with some fine rebounding by Charlie Pearsall and Fred Robson.

A charged-up Lancer squad opened up a 10 point lead in the second half. The Saints were weakened early in the half when strawberries on the bench started to force the bench early.

At the halfway point of the second half the Lancers led 29-49. Dan Devlin took control of the Lancers scoring two early baskets and assisting on several others.

Shaw fought back late in the half to keep the score close. With 4 minutes to go the score was 73-71 Lancers. The game broke wide open, at this point, with a lot of running and many fouls for both teams.

Unfortunately for the Saints, they took too just too many fouls. Good foul shooting late in the game kept the Saints behind by 4 points. Eventually the Saints had 6 players foul out. That left Shaw with only 4 players to finish the game.

Lancers opened up a 7 point lead and held on to win it 84-77. High scorer for the game was Andrew for Shaw with 4 points and 10 rebounds. Next highest was Dave for Shaw who had 30 points. High scoring for the Lancers was shared by Dan Devlin and Ed Bialek who both had 15 points. Bob Oostveen was second high with 12 points. Charlie Pearsall had 15 rebounds for the Lancers, 4 blocked shots and 5 points.

Next face two tough opponents on the road in the Harris and the all-stars game on November 12.

Coach Paul Thomas commented after the game that "playing against teams like Michigan State is a learning experience." Hopefully the team will not get down on itself for losing. The Lancers put out a fine effort, there was just too much talent on the Spartan squad.

No contest! Charlie Pearsall was the tip easily.

Charlie Pearsall who had 14 points, followed by Ed Bialek and Fred Robson at 13 apiece. Dan Devlin also scored in double figures with 10 points. Coach Paul Thomas commented after the game that "playing against teams like Michigan State is a learning experience." Hopefully the team will not get down on itself for losing. The Lancers put out a fine effort, there was just too much talent on the Spartan squad.
Volunteer Services saved in time

By BRENDA McLISTER
The Volunteer Services Bureau is saved. Its grant application has been accepted by the Canada Works Program.

Doug Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Volunteer Services, said that the grant is for the purchase of an electronic cash register. The grant will be $21,000. The volunteer should keep the organization going for one more year, with three staff members.

The Board plans to keep Peggy O'Neill as executive director. Applicants for the other two positions will be sought through Massey College."There are many positions open here, including bookkeeper, and assistant coordinator," said Community Service Orders.

Community Service Orders is a pilot project to place adult offenders in community service programs. The project was announced early in October by the Ministry of Correctional Services. Seven areas were selected for the pilot project.

The St. Leonard's Society will supervise the project in Essex County. Volunteer Services will be co-operating with the St. Leonard's Society to place adult offenders in volunteer positions. According to the report of the Ministry of Correctional Services, the project hopes to provide "a better alternative to incarceration." A person convicted of a non-violent crime could be sentenced to a certain number of hours of work, instead of jail. "The work should be done in the offender's leisure time and not interfere with his job, studies or religious practices. It should be work normally done by volunteers and for the benefit of the community." The Volunteer Services Bureau is also considering opening a new branch in Essex County. Outside of Windsor, said Phillips, they plan to apply to United Way for permanent funding next fall.

Decision on new pres due soon

"I've heard all the mumurs, and they're all wrong," says Stan Arbour, chairman of the university's presidential search committee.

There is still no word yet on whether the committee has succeeded in finding a successor to J. Francis Liddy, president of the University of Windsor since 1984. All the activities of the committee are confidential, and even the number of candidates that have been considered is shielded in secrecy.

However, Arbour expects that an announcement will be made before Christmas. The candidate of the committee's choice will be presented to a joint meeting of the Senate and the Board of Governors for their approval, and only then will the candidate's identity be released to the public.

The decision-making has been delayed because "you can't get people together to make a decision as readily as you'd like to," according to Arbour.

Arbour said he could not call the joint meeting until after Nov. 25. Liddy had returned from a month's vacation. Liddy is expected back within a few days.

SAC elections Tuesday

By NIGEL MILLER
The time has come for yet another SAC election. There will be a by-election Nov. 29 to add six more student representatives to SAC and two to the Student Affairs Committee.

As of now it appears the student body will be asked to another election soon as Human Kinetics, Education and Arts candidates have announced a person to represent them. Ed Bulmer appears to have the rate for this seat, while the other five seats was the only candidate and has been acclaimed.

Running for student rep for the Faculty of Fine Arts are Debra J. Hetherington and Mary Jane Dufour. They've been named to Team Canada, which will play America's best next January in Florida.

Football season isn't over for Lancers Jim Cimba (above) and Bruce Walker. They've been named to Team Canada, which will play America's best next January in Florida.

Waterloo votes for refundable fees

By RICK SPENCE
WATERLOO. A recent referendum calling for refundable student fees at the University of Waterloo has put the Federation of Students here in a "crisis state," according to federation president Oct. 25 on a platform of returning the federation to the students. The federation, he says, estranged itself from the average student, and Smits intends to lead the student union "back to the students."

The federation's problems over the past year have involved primarily its relations with the student newspaper the chevron. The federation council closed down the chevron in September, 1976, on the grounds it was no longer serving the students' interests, but the chevron staff fought back against the closing. The paper was finally reinstated in June, after nine months of virtual siege warfare between the paper and the student government.

A report from the commission investigating the chevron is due soon, and it will also make recommendations on changing the present federation- chevron structure. The result will probably be an incorporated chevron with its own direct student fee, similar to the pre­ chevron campaign being conducted by The Lance.

Despite the uproar that surrounded the referendum on refundable fees, Smits expects the federation to survive. He aims...
What's Happening

on campus

THERE will be a meeting of the Campus Liberals this coming Thursday, December 1, at 7:00 p.m. in Rooms I,2,3, University Centre.

ASSUMPTION University String Quartet. Kathie Spratt, violin, Ann Cannell, violin, Michael Krause, viola, and Margaret Krause, cello. Program: Mozart, F. Mendelssohn, and Jens Hanson. 8:00 p.m., Saturday, November 28, 1977, Moot Court, Law Building. Admission free.

CATHOLIC Campus Ministry (located at the Assumption University Building on campus - 2nd floor). MASSES: Sunday 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Weekdays, 12:00 noon and 4:30 p.m. and Saturday, 11:30 a.m.

THE English Department is sponsoring a poetry reading in Vanier Lounge on Wednesday, November 30 at 1 p.m. Poets: Richard Hornsey, Anne Vaughan-Evans and Gary Baillargeon. Free coffee served afterwards.

OPiRG (Ontario Public Interest Research Group) presents a forum on Free Press in Canada byceda and Margot specialty. 9:30 p.m., Thursday, December 8, Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, Room GI 01. Light refreshments will be served. Admission free.

COFFEE HOUSE - Sponsored by the Assumption Campus Community is held every Sunday 8:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. in the Blue Room of the Assumption Campus Community Centre. Relax atmosphere with entertainment, coffes, tea, hot chocolate etc. Bring a friend.

THE Women's Centre is sponsoring the 6th annual CHRISTMAS HAND-CRAFT BAZAAR from Tuesday, November 22 to Thursday, November 24 in the Atrium of the University of Windsor. Hours of operation are 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday to Friday. Admission free.

THE topical exhibition of paintings by Professor Antonio P. Doctor, Director of the School of Fine Arts, continues on view in the Leddy Library Gallery through November 30th. An exhibition of recent sculpture by Grace Manias can be seen by the Leddy Fine Arts Gallery through December 9th.

THE retrospective exhibition of paintings by Professor Antonio Doctor, Director of the School of Fine Arts, continues on view in the Leddy Library Gallery through November 30th.

ASSUMPTION College School, 1100 Huron Church Road presents "The King & I" by Rodgers & Hammerstein. Dates: Nov. 25, 26, 27 - Dec. 2, 3, 4. Curtain: 8:00 Friday and Saturday, 7:30 Sunday. Tickets: All seats $3.00.

A DOUBLE ROOM in Electa Hall will be available in the second semester. For information, call 256-2248.

UNIVERSITY Players presents HOW THE OTHER HALF LOVES by Ayckbourn, Friday, November 25 to Saturday, November 26 at 8:00 p.m. in the Blue Room of the University of Windsor auditorium. Admission $3.50, Student Rush available - $2.50 ten minutes before curtain. Phone 253-4565.

UNION HOUSE Players presents THE OTHER HALF LOVES by Ayckbourn. This comedy is a blend of backstairs intrigue with a touch of gothic horror. 8:30 p.m., Thursday, November 24, 1977, Leddy Library, University of Windsor. Tickets $1.00 for students, $2.00 for others.

THE retrospective exhibition of paintings by Professor Antonio Doctor, Director of the School of Fine Arts, continues on view in the Leddy Library Gallery through November 30th.

The upcoming concert will begin at 8:05 p.m., Saturday, November 30, in the Faculty of Law Building's Moot Court at the University of Windsor. Admission is free.

The Assumption University String Quartet, at its November 26 concert, will give the first performance of a work by Dr. Jens Hanson, of the University of Windsor's School of Music. Dr. Hanson's new work, String Quartet No. 1, was commissioned by Assumption University through a grant from the Ontario Arts Council. Dr. Hanson has created three works under such grants. His second one was introduced by the Assumption String Quartet two years ago.

String Quartet debuts new work

The Assumption University String Quartet, at its November 26 concert, will give the first performance of a work by Dr. Jens Hanson, of the University of Windsor's School of Music. Dr. Hanson's new work, String Quartet No. 1, was commissioned by Assumption University through a grant from the Ontario Arts Council. Dr. Hanson has created three works under such grants. His second one was introduced by the Assumption String Quartet two years ago.

The upcoming concert will begin at 8:05 p.m., Saturday, November 30, in the Faculty of Law Building's Moot Court at the University of Windsor. Admission is free.

In addition to Dr. Hanson's work, the Assumption University String Quartet will offer Quartet in G major, K. 387 (W.A. Mozart), and Quartet, Op. 44, No. 1 (F. Mendelssohn).

Members of the quartet are: Kathie Spratt, violin; Ann Cannell, violin; Michael Krause, viola, and Margaret Krause, cello.

THE retrospective exhibition of paintings by Professor Antonio Doctor, Director of the School of Fine Arts, continues on view in the Leddy Library Gallery through November 30th.

AIRCARE (April 19 - May 19) - Take advantage of experience learned by delays or errors. Avoid making accusations.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) - A second look into the raw will provide insights. Passive action seems difficult.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21) - Work quietly, this is not a time for major issues. Be at peace with yourself.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22) - Continue new projects despite efficiency lapses. Be understanding with youngsters.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) - Don't accept added work without extra assistance. Communications to upwards and outwards will be emphasized.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) - Put your negativity to use, correcting mistakes, making improvements. Take an open approach.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) - Your pattern of emotions and personal relations sustains you. Conventional methods work well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) - Make direct inquiries, wait for hidden information. People point up your own limitations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) - Don't enter into a conflict of authority or status with friends. Relationships are damaged by harsh words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) - Pause to think over the month and you may not be right after all. Information is quite unreliable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) - Don't cling to the spirit of the moment. Find a practical course that works.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20) - Psychological stress distorts your outlook. Advice is accompanied by distracting criticism.

Chargex seminar

By ANDY HAYWARD

The marketing club presented its first presentation under the new "casual atmosphere" system this Wednesday evening, November 16. Al Strunz, a director in the Chargex division of the Royal Bank of Canada, was the guest speaker and began the presentation by explaining the past history of "plastic money." Later, he discussed the international credit card, VISA, and then entertained questions from the audience.

The marketing club is looking forward to the arrival of guest speaker from GM Motors in January. All interested are welcome to attend.
Windsor engineers win design prize

By ROB THOMPSON

In a competition sponsored last year by the Association of Professional Engineers of Onta­rrio for the design of a self­-supporting house in terms of energy, a team of fourth-year Windsor Engineering students took first place in Ontario from a field of 33 entries. The design team consisted of any Electrical and two Mechanical Engineering students, and faculty co­ordinator Dr. William C. Miller of the Electrical­-department. The project was worked on all last year, resulting to the APEO in April. The Engineering faculty was recently unfounded of the fourth­-place standing, although they were not told which schools came in ahead of them.

The competition was estab­lished by the APEO in July of 1976. Dr. Miller commented: "At that time, the gas shot, tage was highly visible in the news, and they wanted to show that engineers could address the problem."

The house designed by the Windsor team collects its energy in the form of wind power (which can be stored in a windmill) as well as solar power. This is done by using large mirrors to focus the sun's rays on coils, generating steam which goes to a turbine and generator pro­ducing electricity. Energy can be stored by various means such as electrical batteries, stor­age of heat, or an electrolysis system which stores energy by breaking down water into hydrogen and oxygen.

All the mechanisms and sys­tems of the house could be controlled by a microcom­puter, which could monitor all the house's energy needs and supplies at any time.

Dr. Miller pointed out that while this design project shows that such a house is possible, at this time the expense of building it is prohibitive. He added "Right now it is not economically viable–energy is still relatively cheap." He also men­tioned that the idea of better conservation of what energy we have is much less expensive than developing new energy sources.

A trophy recognizing the design team's achievement will be presented at the Faculty of Engineering at the next meeting of the APEO which is held in Windsor.

Ontario faculty association wants revision in gov. funding

THUNDER BAY – Ontario's present approach to financing higher education on the basis of student enrollment places un­iversities in the category of budget­cutters around the high­school and beggars around Queen's Park, a spokesman for the pro­fessor's professors said today.

Dr. Paul Cassano, who is a French professor at Windsor as well as Chairman of the Onta­rrio Conference of Univer­sity Faculty Associations (OC­UFA), said that society must face the hard fact that a un­iversity is a fixed cost.

"It is blatantly ridiculous to spend millions and millions of dollars of the taxpayer's money on creating fine uni­versities throughout the Pro­vince and then, having made this enormous initial investment, to tax operating funds on the mat­uring patterns of parents in the mid­1950's to produce suffi­cient students for today," he told the Kinsmen Club here.

Dr. Cassano explained that the bulk of university funding 68% of the operating budget in the case of Lakehead Uni­versity–is federal and provin­cial taxes in the guise of for­mula grants. Formula grants for undergraduate students are based on the average number of students enrolled in the uni­versity system during the three years proceeding the grants. Thus, the more students in a parti­cular university, the more mon­i­ety it receives.

Dr. Cassano said the basic flaw in this funding approach is the temptation to market higher­education "like tooth­paste or a can of pop."

"The hard fact we must face as a society is that a un­iversity is in a fixed cost. Whether 100 students does not affect that worthwhile college or university system will rise by $5 million annually to operate $10 million annually to operate $10 million annually to operate $25 million annually to operate $50 million annually to operate $100 million annually to operate $1 billion annually to operate $1.5 billion annually to operate $5 billion annually to operate $10 billion annually to operate $50 billion annually to operate $100 billion annually to operate $1 trillion annually to operate.

"The university is itself a sig­nificant industry in Thunder Bay as similar institutions are in the twelve major university communities throughout Onta­rrio," Dr. Cassano said.

"Cutbacks in the funding of universities might satisfy some hardline cynics who do not understand the significant bene­fits to society of higher educa­tion. But have they consid­ered the negative impact of cutbacks on the community and its surrounding economy?"

"Cutbacks in the funding of universities might satisfy some hardline cynics who do not understand the significant benefits to society of higher education. But have they considered the negative impact of cutbacks on the community and its surrounding economy?"

"Of course we will face some tough decisions on the campuses of Ontario about pro­grams, services and staff," he observed.

Dr. Cassano stressed that cutbacks on university funding translates rapidly into cutbacks on the economic and social stre­ngth of university communi­ties.

He noted that it costs $15 million annually to operate Lakehead University–but the community receives back $11 million in salaries, $5 million worth of cash flow from out­­town students, and several hundred thousands of dol­ars in expenditures on supplies and services.

"The university is itself a sig­nificant industry in Thunder Bay as similar institutions are in the twelve major university communities throughout Onta­rrio," Dr. Cassano said.

"Cutbacks in the funding of universities might satisfy some hardline cynics who do not understand the significant benefits to society of higher education. But have they considered the negative impact of cutbacks on the community and its surrounding economy?"

He lamented a variety of ways in which the university is an integral and productive part of the community.

McKeough says a billion dollars is a lot of money

Student reporters from the Queen's Journal managed to persuade some of the talk of Ontario Treasurer D'Arcy McKeough at the Progressive Conservative convention in Que­bec City early this month. The Journal quotes McKeough as saying he thinks uni­versities and students receive adequate support: "The budget is over a billion dollars. That's a lot of money. The whole cabinet participated in the deci­sion, and I think the alloca­tion is fair."

McKeough denied reports that universities were being cut­­back as part of his program to balance the provincial budget by 1981. He said there were in­­creases in funding for all post­secondary programs.

But, when pressed, McKeog­ugh did not deny that the in­­centives he mentioned are not ade­quate to cover the rise in inflation, meaning that budgets have declined in real terms.

McKeough remained evasive when Journal reporters asked him to comment on statistics that show Ontario is 15 per cent below the national aver­­age in terms of Basic Income Units, the government's criteria for establishing university oper­­ating grants. He also avoided comment on Ontario being the second lowest province in Can­­ada in terms of per­student fund­ing.

"The allocation is fair," he said.

SAC BYELECTIONS

STUDENTS ARE NEEDED TO HELP

IN NOV. 29 BYELECTION

CONTACT SAC

BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 1978, THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC, YORK UNIVERSITY, WILL OFFER A MASTER'S PROGRAMME IN

THE MUSICOLOGY OF CONTEMPORARY CULTURES

Cross-cultural studies involving research and fieldwork, with an emphasis on Canadian and New World contexts. The course is supported by a broad base of undergraduate offerings in Western and non-Western music, jazz, comosition, and experimental media.

Address letters of enquiry to: Music Department, Room 336 Strong College, York University, 4700 Keele Street, Downsview, Ontario, M3J 1P3

YORK UNIVERSITY

"THE LANCE" NOVEMBER 25, 1977–PAGE THREE
The Lance

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4.

The 1977-78 subscription rate is $7.50 per year. Entered as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writer and not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Students' Administrative Council.

SAC sinks without student reps

After last March's elections and two by-elections this term, 1500 students are still without a voice on the SAC board.

No one contested the seats for arts rep, human kinetics rep or faculty of education rep in Tuesday's election, so the posts remain vacant.

Anyone remember what happened last year when someone from outside human kinetics ran for the SAC rep? There was a huge write-in vote by over 100 outraged human kinetics students, who did not relent until the elected rep resigned and a true blue humankin was elected in his place.

Those days are obviously gone.

The real problem, however, is in the faculty of education.

Our student teachers are not only isolated from the main campus by miles of desolate waste, but they have no one to represent their interests in the student government.

We criticize SAC on occasion. But we do not argue with its purpose: to unite and serve the students. We just wish more students would care enough to help.

If students are to be heeded, in their demands for more student input into the running of this university, we must show we are concerned enough to manage our own affairs. Right now, student leaders here are requesting more representation on the Senate and the Board of Governors. If we expect to achieve these goals, we must first put our own house in order.

Lance independence will restore student control

How accountable or responsible will The Lance be if it recovers direct student funding? That is the question many people have been asking, prior to the December 5 referendum to determine the future of The Lance.

We believe The Lance will be more accountable than ever.

Presently, the Student Media Corporation and SAC have an obscure relationship with the student paper. The Media Corp. approves the editors, and as the nominal publisher, SAC pays the bills. But neither group can really be considered responsible for the content or editorial policies of The Lance.

The staff of The Lance, that recruits ordinary students from all faculties and years, determines the content and policies of the paper, through direct discussion and voting at regular staff meetings. When a recent decision was made to ban blatant sexist or racist advertising, that decision was made by The Lance staff, following staff meetings, committee meetings, and a secret ballot.

For the first time, the present Lance staff is preparing a constitution which will strengthen, clarify and enhance forever the power of the staff.

They will have undisputed authority in determining editorial policy, selection of editors, etc. By keeping the qualifications for staff membership open, and as simple as possible, all concerned students can join the paper and have a say in determining policy. Those who fear that The Lance can be controlled by an irresponsible or ideologically-minded minority can rest easy; so long as the students at this university care about this paper, they can retain control.

Yet, let overwhelming apathy tear its ugly head, and The Lance could become the unregulated voice of a malevolent faction. This is an ever-present threat in a democracy, yet one which we must confront.

There will be an independent Board of Directors to approve the staff's selection of editors and the yearly budget. That body will act as yet another safeguard against an irresponsible staff decision, but the Board will have no power to initiate any action without the approval of the staff. Thus, the checks and balances will work both ways, as it just.

Presently, there is no control. There are no safeguards against renegade editors. Those days are obviously gone. There is no true board of Directors. The actions of The Lance, in pursuing incorporation, independent funding, and a constitution are our only steps toward restoring student control over the paper.

Independent funding is an essential part of our reorganization. Vote yes December 5.

We Got a Few Letters

Trudeau worship

Dear Editor:

Although proven wrong on a number of points, David Cameletti persists in maintaining that Prime Minister Trudeau is solving the economic ill. Everything bad is attributed to the world economy, yet everything good is the direct result of Trudeau's work. What worship!

To begin, contrary to Mr. Cameletti's assertions, Canada has never had an inflation rate of 21 per cent. The figure is laughable. While the inflation of the mid-seventies reached between 11 and 12 per cent, it has decreased slightly such that it is now over 8 per cent. And this "success" is not due to the infamous wage and price control system.

The anti-inflation board was introduced as a time that labour's share of the national income was too low. While this is true, Canadian Trudeau's policies that the controls will limit wages to 6 per cent increases while prices are increasing at over 8 per cent. Statement after statement by the Liberal cabinet ministers and Trudeau himself throughout the years have confirmed that such controls only control wages and never prices.

Unemployment is the worst since the dirty thirties. Since the early seventies the government has literally given billions of dollars away to corporations in tax breaks. The philosophy is that companies will expand, build, and thus increase employment opportunities. They forgot, however, that 20 per cent of Canada's manufacturing capacity is idle. Every time that the government has loaned this hazardous economic philosophy unemployment increased.

True, Trudeau is not himself to blame for our problems, but it seems awfully careless to constantly support those policies which have proven that they cannot work. The problem is that Canadians must suffer. Yours respectfully,

Ben Wallace

Liberal bunk

Dear Editor:

Mr. Cameletti certainly respects our First Minister. Perhaps he would like to become a Cabinet Member? No doubt he already belongs to the Young Liberals. As for Mr. Cameletti's letter—bunk! This is not the first time the present government has been defended by pointing at the other countries suffering from economic problems. I would suggest that the norm for Canada should be U.S. figures since we have such close economic ties with them. Clearly our economy is not where it should be, the U.S. has 2.5 to 3% less unemployment and has a much healthier economy. As for Trudeau's 290,000 new jobs, how many of these were temporary summer jobs and how many will be around in a year's time? In the facts and we'll dance if you please, Mr. Cameletti. Anyway, what's wrong with healthy criticism? We should have more of it.

Yours truly,

Philip Barrow

First Year, Social Science
Germany: law and disorder

By LEN WALLACE

In the past weeks sensational accounts have appeared concerning the terrorist activity within West Germany. The machinations of the dreaded "Rafeder-Miinch group," in October, led to the collapse of a protest group, Red Morning, kidnapped industrialist Hans-Martin Schleyer in the process. Eighty passengers of a hijacked airliner in Somalia. The RAF demonstrations are, first a tabloid out-take, and the RAF, an industrialist Hanns-Martin Sch-tinfassmen, are open to raider. And between the February of 1972, the Ontario Cabinet minister over a report which revealed that fish in the water is, first a tabloid out-
take, and the RAF, an industrialist Hanns-Martin Schification Act for Ontario. We ask for a freedom of information request from all.

Although they espoused Lenin-ist beliefs and mobilized their numbers in the streets to protest irregularities and failure? The three were logged as terrorists and killed, and the hand that slaps is a long

We are blessed with a few resident engineers. None of them can cardinal of the Vatican. "It's often not and ignorant, as well as to deny

English-Walloon river contamination, which split from the Students

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pubic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern is freedom of information, a not-down, organized interest in the public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.

OPiR means freedom of information

The Ontario Public Interest
Research Group (OPiR) is a non-
funded, voluntary organization which assists community and pub-
ic interest groups with research, pamphlets, educational material and direct-action projects. As such, our concern
is freedom of information, a not-
down, organized interest in the
public affairs of their cities, counties and countries; and that (2) for participatory democracy (as ideal more often talked than achieved), the Society for the diffusion of infor-

To begin with, the RAF and why its flight with terrorism? The

The RAF believed that peaceful

"As it Happens" re-

"But you're a girl...(Or, But

A Federal study of the effects

"The Less to an IRAQ AND JAPAN, another

The E.R.A. will get into

A group has been formed at this time in order to acquire the awareness of inequality, stress equal rights, and assert

The West German government refused to give in to the demands of the RAF. Schleyer
was the passengers freed, and the three RAF members
held in prison allegedly com-
mited suicide. End of story

Too many questions have been

And don't forget 'your truiers', who have, through fate and teaching, managed to acquire a joint journalistic licence to ramble
unassumingly.
SAC candidates in their own words

Social Science

Kathy Raulbut
Social Science Rep. and Student Affairs Comm.

A student without good services, inadequate parking, government fee increases that aren’t bringing us anything in return, unnecessary cutbacks in student and campus programs, and room for improvement.

These problems can be met with the right representation on student council. As a student in second year of residence I know what the residence problems are, I’m living with them. Having worked within student council last year as a representative I know where those problems lie. I’m experiencing them now, as the winning candidate in the by-election two weeks ago for Social Science representative who has to run all over again because poor organization by SAC failed us. Something can be done, something will be done if you take the time to vote and re-elect Kathy Raulbut.

Bob Gammon
Social Science Rep. Students.

I’m in my 2nd year as a full-time student majoring in Communication Studies. This year, I ran the student pick-up service in September and was also your Orientation Coordinator. I am now the only full-time student rep. on the Committee for Part-time Student Courses and also hope to be the off-campus rep. on the Inter-Residence Committee to study the food plan.

I am not going to make any promises just in case they cannot be kept. All I can say is that I’ll do everything in my power to help you.

For all the students who are reading this, please vote on Tuesday. Even if you don’t want to vote for me, please exercise your privilege as a student and just VOTE!

Thanks

Student Affairs

Ron Spina
Student Affairs Comm.

I feel students should be represented in a conscientious and sincere manner on Student Affairs. I have been a student at the University of Windsor for the past six years and feel I have a solid understanding of the system. Having been a resident assistant I have become familiar with administration here at the university, and have served on various committees of house council and campus clubs, I am presently studying at the faculty of Education towards my masters in Education and feel Student Affairs would be very beneficial to me experience and knowledge. This is far more than equitable for the students I would be representing. Please be sure and vote on Friday, November 25, 1977. Thanks for taking the time to read this through.

Rob Whitener
Student Affairs Committee

No submission received.

Doug Smith
3rd Year Commerce
Student Affairs Committee

Positions on the Student Affairs Committee are not among those monopolized by the “gangs” of type people involved with politics and their political games.

With my experience with various issues conducted by the External Affairs Commissioner and my help with Orientation, I feel that I have an excellent background as a candidate for SAC.

Remember - for a strong link, hard work, and non-traditional ideas, I urge you to vote for Joan Durrant - the right choice to have your voice heard and someone to look after you. So, on November 29th, please take advantage of your right to have your voice heard and vote for Joan Durrant.

Student Affairs

Joan Durrant
Social Science Rep.

My main concern is you. The function of a faculty rep. is to meet the needs of students in his or her faculty. As an involved third year Social Science student, I have made it a point to contact many of the students in our faculty.

That is step one. Step two is to let me be your link toward change.

I believe that it is essential to have new blood in any organization - especially a student-run organization. Experience can be valuable but means traditional new blood means change and answers. And this is what I will strive to achieve through my honesty and hard-work.

At the present time, the obvious problems that face us as students are food services, parking, and tuition increases for foreign students. These and other related areas are in drastic need of concern and answers.

I am aware of SAC’s operations and their political games. We need answers and no one - especially you the student - should bear the burden of unneeded and unnecessary cutbacks.

With my experience with various issues conducted by the External Affairs Commissioner and my help with Orientation, I feel that I have an excellent background as a candidate for SAC.

Remember - for a strong link, hard work, and non-traditional ideas, I urge you to vote for Joan Durrant - the right choice to have your voice heard and someone to look after you. So, on November 29th, please take advantage of your right to have your voice heard and vote for Joan Durrant.

Student Affairs

Mary Ellen Scully
Fine Arts Representative

My name is Debbie Hetherington, one of the two candidates for the position of Fine Arts Rep. I am in my third year of a B.F.A. course, and am famous for painting a certain fog-food machine in the Lancelot Luncheon.

The idea of running for Fine Arts Rep. originated with my interest in the LANCE. As a cartoonist, I have become very much aware of various social issues, and my contact with mass campus could only but strengthen in the Fine Arts-SAC relationship.

It is a know fact to all students that the Lancelot building is a world of its own, and apart from mass campus, it is time for this communicative gap to be bridged, for the benefit of both the main campus and the art students alike. One more comment. I’d like to make: it is your right to see, so please do so!

MAY ELEN SCULLY
Fine Arts Representative

No submission received.

Attention Election Nominees: There is to be a meeting of nominees for the Nov. 29th election with the Chief Electoral Officer on Monday, Nov. 26th at 4:00 p.m. in the SAC office area, 2nd floor, University Centre.
Our man at City Hall

By BRIAN WILLIAMSON

Dr. R.H. Wagenberg, Political Science Professor at the University of Windsor, as well as a City Alderman, divides his time well between his duties. Wagenberg was originally denied alderman in 1974 for the term of 1975-76 and was restored in 1976 for the term of 1977-78. He has meetings four days a month in the winter with the City of Windsor, but never outside of his teaching schedule.

"I consider teaching at the university my full-time job," he says. "In Alderman's office, that important some can come up at any time. He describes his duties as an Alderman as being "to make sure a reasonable array of services is delivered to citizens in the lowest cost manner." Dr. Wagenberg also has other tasks related to the city, and he is the Chairman of the Metro-Windsor Essex County Board of Health, member of the IODP. Board of Commissioners, and a position on the Radnor and Essex County Industrial Development Commission among others.

Basically, his job as Alderman is to generally encourage the overall economic development of the city in a responsible and effective manner.

It is obvious that he is outstanding more than duty regrets when it is understood that he teaches four Political Science classes per semester and must teach only two.

"My most productive years as a member of the University in terms of research," he says, "have been in the last three years." He believes his office as Alderman has "... helped my teaching as I have a background behind the University.

Wagenberg still keeps up on other political events. When asked to comment on the recent R.C.M.P. scandal, he replied, "... it's unfortunate kind of thing that should concern Canadians more than it does. The Royal Commission should come up with recommendations to reassure our faith in the police of Canada."

Air waves alive again

CJAM repaired

By BRUCE DINSMORE

Older radio listeners have been waiting weeks for service to return after transmitter parts have been working Monday and Tuesday to get the station back on air.

"I heart CJAM," says R. Donald, Laurier and Vanier halls.

The transmitter needed a new, a special type of tube and a modulation transformer. These and several other parts cost about $50.

The parts came from the United States, and when they arrived in Canada last Wednesday, the customs people wrote the purchasers that the package was at the border and that duty needed to be paid on it. The postcard was addressed to CJAM/University of Windsor/Windsor, Ont./NR9 JP4 (Arc Cliff Wilson).

The card wound up at the University Purchasing office instead of CJAM.

Happy endings are possible even at this university. The station picked up the parts Monday. By Tuesday one of the decks at CJAM was awhizz with transmitter parts and it was expected that the transmitter would be on the air early this week.

Wilson said that the transmitter is a good unit, "for the bucks", and that it has kept the station on the air for three years. He said the ideal solution to the maintenance problem would be the new equipment needed for FM station.

Residence Corner

By WILLY PAQUETTE

The enormous amount of essays, exams and seminars has affected the amount of content in this column. But that suits me fine, I've got the same problem.

The focus this week is on Laurier Hall. There seems to be mixed reactions to the question, "Do you like living at Laurier?" One second year student says "Yes, I love it here. It's close to everything, and we can go crazy when we want." Another first year student unlike the first year student feels the pass system works well for Laurier, "How else are we going to keep the guys from constantly roaming the halls of this place."

Upon obtaining a pass, I wandered the halls myself. The general feelings is that "Hey, we're here for an education. Let's get our work done and then we'll have some fun." Unlike Mac Hall the halls are clean with your usual posters and signs hanging on the walls. Some rooms are decorators' masterpieces making what they have very inhabitable, putting a plant here, crochet there and frilly things all over. My congratulations to you ladies for the care you've taken in your home away from home. I wouldn't have the energy to consistently do the same.

I'm a gluton for punishment

By TED GODDARD

I'm a psychopathic lawyer. I don't learn from my mistakes, I guess - I keep going back (to the Court of Appeal)," said Ed Greenspan on Tuesday night. He was giving a lecture on the Criminal Appeal Process in the Moot Courtroom of the Law Faculty. In further reflection of his attitude as a criminal defence lawyer, he remarked, "I'm a gluton for punishment."

Such an attitude has helped Ed Greenspan attain, in only seven years, the recognition as one of the top defence lawyers in Canada. Since articling with the Attorney General's office in 1969, his achievements have included taking a number of cases to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Included in these cases were the Peter Demeter murder defence and the Morgentaler appeal, from his abortion trial.

Greenspan is an editor of a number of legal publications, and lectures at both the U. of T. and Osgoode Hall, in addition to taking criminal defence cases at his law firm in Toronto.

He gave a vivid picture of the Supreme Court of Canada in Ottawa in which a big door opens in the centre of the large, impressive room. From the door ensues "an endless stream of judges - nine of them." Despite the protection of the presumption of innocence under the Bill of Rights, at the Supreme Court level there is a very strong presumption of guilt. Hence, presentation by a defence lawyer before the bench is very difficult. "It's nine to one - in favour of them," Greenspan said.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

RE: PAYMENT OF SECOND SEMESTER FEES

ALL fees are due during the FIRST week of classes in January.

If you are not receiving an OSAP grant cheque, avoid line-ups and unnecessary delays by forwarding a post-dated cheque as soon as you receive your statement in December.

The Cashier's Office will be located in Assumption Lounge beginning January 3 to 6 from 9 am to 4 pm.

LATE PAYMENT PENALTIES BEGIN JANUARY 9, 1978

Major U. S. Cities

The Lance-November 23, 1977. PAGE SEVEN
Abbott supports small business

By RICK SPENCE

Wages have been more affected by the federal government's controls than have prices, according to Tony Abbott, the Minister of State for Small Business. "And I think they deserve to," he adds.

Abbott told an audience of about 50 in Assumption Lounge Tuesday afternoon that wages had risen above the level of industrial spending, justifying the emphasis on controlling wages. If it were up to small business, he added, controls would continue.

Abbott, who was Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs for a year before taking his present post, says that "there is a need for concern" about the economy, stating that "stagflation appears to be with us."

The economy, along with national unity and the RCMP, is a priority concern in the federal economy, saying they have failed to "put our house in order," and ensuring competition in business. "Competition is the life of trade," Abbott said. "We need competition in a lot of areas."

The small business portfolio was established a year ago, Abbott said, as part of "a growing realization that small business is big business." There are over a million small businesses in Canada (defined as a business with less than 100 employees), Abbott says, and he acts as an advocate in Ottawa, reminding the government to recognize small businesses in policy and in action.

Abbott answered questions from the audience, as well as from a three-man panel, consisting of Political Science professor Bob Krause, Dr. Roger Mendels of Economics, and law student Mark Stephan.

Mendels asked Abbott what he would do to reduce the amount of paperwork required of small businesses, since much of the work comes from provincial or municipal governments. Abbott said he would be meeting with his provincial counterparts individually next year to work on the problem.

Abbott also said he would attempt to improve communication with small businesses in 1978 by establishing a hotline on which businesses could call "a knowledgeable official" in government if they have problems. "There's a very real need for better communications between government and business," Abbott said.

Although he refused to say he believed corporations were making excessive profits, Abbott did criticize certain industries. He said he thought consumers were paying too much for milk and eggs, as well as clothing. He also criticized the banks, saying they had failed to serve small businesses. He hopes the Competition Bill submitted to Parliament will redress some of the inequities in the present system.

The number of students who are applying for health services at the University Health Services office is "numerically up" this year, according to campus physician Dr. Walter Wren. Between 40 and 50 students visit the health services office daily, compared with somewhat smaller numbers for last year. "If a good service is provided, your reputation grows," said Dr. Wren. When questioned on the influence of economic cutbacks imposed by the University on various services, Dr. Wren explained that health services are not affected. "The administration have been excellent to us." He then proceeded to explain that a budget cut would be not practically possible. An increase in salaries last year seems to be the largest area of expenditure.

Dr. Wren also explained that his one part-time assistant will, indeed be kept on, and that rumours to the contrary employing economic cutbacks as the reason are totally unfounded.

The students' two nurses provide not only fantastic reception, but also wit and humour.

The number of students who are applying for health services at the University Health Services office is "numerically up" this year, according to campus physician Dr. Walter Wren. Between 40 and 50 students visit the health services office daily, compared with somewhat smaller numbers for last year. "If a good service is provided, your reputation grows," said Dr. Wren. When questioned on the influence of economic cutbacks imposed by the University on various services, Dr. Wren explained that health services are not affected. "The administration have been excellent to us." He then proceeded to explain that a budget cut would be not practically possible. An increase in salaries last year seems to be the largest area of expenditure.

Dr. Wren also explained that his one part-time assistant will, indeed be kept on, and that rumours to the contrary employing economic cutbacks as the reason are totally unfounded.

Health Services Kept Busy

By BRIAN WILLIAMSON

"I think that there should be a yearbook, especially for the graduates. Then they would have something to look back on and a token of their graduating year."

Stephanie Keel
1st year Social Work

"I'm disappointed because a yearbook is a reflection of the past year, it's something you can look back upon and reminisce."

Mark Levesque
3rd year Social Work

"It really doesn't affect me that much but the graduating students are getting ripped off. Every graduating class deserves to have a yearbook."

Mike Dolansky
2nd year English

Waterloo continued from page 1

at conducting a "grassroots" federation from now through the end of February, when his presidential term ends, to restore student confidence in the federation.

Next year, Smits' projections show that 10 to 30 per cent of Waterloo's 15,000 students will claim their refunds. He says he is not worried about the loss of revenue, since Waterloo "is big enough to handle it." However, he fears that if refundable fees become a trend at other universities, smaller student governments such as those at Trent, Lakehead and Brock may not survive.

Smits says he is getting along with the chevron, trying to run a "more open administration" in the federation, and he wants to end "the flagrant abuse of power" enjoyed by past federations. Once he has restored the credibility of the federation, he hopes to run another referendum, "to go back to a little more stability with non-refundable fees.

Smits has already indicated he will run for president again in 1978 to continue his campaign to restore compulsory fees.

According to SAC President Gary Wells, Windsor's SAC will probably not go to refundable fees. He calls the refundable fees "logical,"
There are a lot of steps between typing a story and creating the final newspaper. Some are easy, some require a fair level of skill. But they're all fun.

Now you can learn the basics of newspaper work from writing to production to printing at the Lance Newspaper Workshop.

And it's all free to any U. of W. student.

Just call us at extension 153 or 221, or come up and see us on the second floor of the Centre and let us know you're interested. You can come to all or part of the workshops and even help in the actual production of an issue of The Lance.

Learn how to turn a typewriter into a newspaper

Workshops in Writing, Editing, and Production — Wednesday, November 30, 10:30 am and 1:00 pm

Lance Office, University Centre
Unemployment: why do we have it?

(Reprinted from The Fourth Estate, summer 1977.)

Unemployment in Canada has hit its highest level ever recorded - 8.1 per cent, seasonally adjusted, up from 4.7 in 1970. The Canadian estimates 994,000 people out of work. More accurate figures show that about 5,000,000 Canadians are "hidden unemployed" - those who do not fit the statistical definition. For instance, native people both off and on reserves, and those who have given up hope of finding a job, bring the total unemployed to over 1,5 million out of work force of just over 10 million.

The Unemployment Picture

The costs of unemployment are high for those caught in the tight grip of recession. They are measured in more than just dollars and cents of lost wages and lost productivity. Social costs are staggering - emotional turmoil, frustration, depression, loss of self-worth, bitterness, and alienation.

Unemployment also affects those who have jobs. Expensive machinery and equipment stands idle, inefficient use of energy. The result is unhealthy cost of production, increasing prices and stimulating inflation. It also means wasteful buying of the unemployed ripples through the whole economy. Less money in circulation has been linked to economic recovery, and opens up the possibility of further job cuts.

There are as many different views on the causes and consequences of unemployment as there are jobless Canadians. Different views tend to reflect somewhat different aspects of society. In this article we will try to debunk a few myths about unemployment. We look at some deeper, lesser known roots of the problem and suggest proposals for reducing unemployment. Strong immediate action is needed to bring dignity back into the lives of hundreds of thousands of Canadian women and men.

Faces Behind the Figures

ing 30, has seven years experience in warehouse work and delivering trucks. After injury anddisable in 1975, he landed on Workmen's Compensation for a year. Pronounced fit to work the next year, he has been looking for work since December but no employer seems interested.

Jean Pierre Lussier, 30, laid off a month ago from his job as a machine shop worker. "I was discharged twice as Sudbury for work. "It's useless he says.

Doug Salter, 22, laid off a month ago from his job as a machine shop worker. "I was discharged twice as Sudbury for work. "It's useless he says.

Ted McCallum, 30, says: "I want to teach; I'm qualified to teach a university course, but there simply isn't a job available. And one third of the people who are teaching in Canadian universities today are American.

Albert Curly, 55, has fifteen years of teaching experience, but only one year with the Toronto board. He had no seniority and he lost his job. John Henley, 21, emigrated from Ireland two years ago as a farmhand to pick strawberries. He worked steadily until three months ago. "At first I thought it was just another winter slowdown. But now it's spring and there should be work and there's work."

Marg Bacon was hired by the meat-packing plant as a "casual" but hasn't heard from them in thirty days. She finds the isolation and lack of daily contact with people one of the hardest things about being unemployed.

First Myth

Myth: There are jobs, but workers refuse them. Truth: Jobs are there, but there simply isn't a job available. And one third of the people who are teaching in Canadian universities today are American. John Henley, 21, emigrated from Ireland two years ago as a farmhand to pick strawberries. He worked steadily until three months ago. "At first I thought it was just another winter slowdown. But now it's spring and there should be work and there's work."

The press has been strong in promoting the idea that jobs exist, but workers are becoming too choosy about the kind of job they are willing to do. Jack McCarthy of the Edmonton Journal, for example, refers to: "those who are voluntarily and happily unemployable."

There are many of these . . . Men who could earn damn good money, if they chose, but prefer not to, or choose to hold out until something extremely appealing comes along. Hence, we have some jobs that are unfilled or are filled by imported workers, while available Canadians stand by. And these are not necessarily backing down or giving up on "easy" jobs.

Jack McCarthy of the Edmonton Journal echoes this sentiment in his question: "Yet are some of the unemployed - hidden or otherwise - being so selective about the jobs they'll take that it is impractical to count them in the labour force. Should an office worker be called unemployed if he could get a job as a cocktail waitress but refuses to take it?

The latest government statistics refute this argument. They show that there are about 145,000 full-time job vacancies, a figure which represents a 31 per cent drop from earlier last year. With 94,000 unemployed people in employment, this means that there are about 25 people for each opening. There are simply not enough jobs for everyone.

An Economic Council of Canada (ECC) study shows that the average wage of jobs in the semi and low-skilled categories, offering pay rates 15-25 per cent below average.

Many available jobs with marginal enterprises offer tough working conditions and no security. Myth: Unemployment is High. Truth: Because they are Lucy and UIC Benefits are too Easy. Convinced that UIC benefits deters people from looking for jobs, the federal government has introduced a bill requiring claimants to work 12 weeks out of every 52, in states of work. The proposal, originally put forward by the Conservatives in 1975, will become a permanent feature in the Atlantic provinces, where unemployment is extremely high and much of the work is seasonal. Statistics show some 53,000 people in the Atlantic region are unemployed due to the change. Estimates of the total number of claimants who will be disqualified ranges from 50,000 to 330,000.

NDP leader Broadbent scathingely accuses the government of being "against unemployment" instead of the problem itself.

The government has further moved to tighten UIC through a benefit control system. It also plans to cut off 40 and 60 per cent of claimants who would otherwise collect.

"Studies show," the report says, "that Canadians are strongly motivated to work and regard unemployment as a vehicle to success. The need for UIC is borne out by the fact that out of every five persons who draw benefits are unemployed for reasons beyond their control, because of layoffs or job terminations."

Unemployment Insurance

A popular misconception is that government hands out UIC (Unemployment Insurance) blanks at will. However, much more of the cost is now borne by working people as set out in new legislation introduced in 1975. A Globe and Mail editorial this February states: "The impact of UIC on goods was $10.2-billion in 1976."

The government uses different methods of determining its rate. But the deficit almost every year. In the mid sixties and only acelerated in the early seventies. So, there are longterm factors at work. Most rapid outflows occurred before the relatively large wage increases of 1975 and during the relatively moderate wage increases of the early seventies.

Healthcare Business

Myth: A Healthy Business Climates and Proves are Necessary for a Good Globe in Filling Jobs.

This approach to unemployment argues that achieving supply and demand balance requires putting money into investments in plants and equipment is the key to jobs. A healthy business setting means greater employment in the long run, the greater efficiency that flows from more competitive and thus more likely to retain and expand the number of jobs. This requires high profits over a long period of... time which in turn means controlling "excessive" wage demands.

According to A.R. Murich, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, Canada needs more incentives for new investment. The country's future growth and productivity depend on making more than $500-billion in new productive investment by 1985. Mr. Murich states that "the fight to restore Canadian industry's ability to compete is the only lasting solution to unemployment."

However, there is no guarantee that profits earned by business will go into expansion and new jobs. In fact, the 1970 to 1974 industrial slowdown that hit Canada coincided with record outflows of capital. The profit work force is "more of a social phenomenon than economic necessity." According to Lambert, women usually leave home to work so a family can buy a second car or do extra things, generally to increase a standard of living already well beyond subsistence. Minister of Manpower and Immigration, Bud Callen, commenting on the unemployment rate for men twenty-five years of age and over, states that "there are these the breadwinners."
The same arguments are made against young people entering the work force.

Women are forming an increasing proportion of the work force. However, the facts contradict the picture painted by Messrs. Callen and Lambert.

"stream" them according to the government's interpretation of the demands of the labour market. New conditions and regulations will be imposed upon immigrants detailing where in the country they can live and seek work, and restricting their ability to exercise independence and satisfactory working conditions. According to former Minister of Immigration Robert Andrus, "the general downward pattern fits the situation of unemployment in the country."

Blame Immigrants

This argument which links immigration to Canada's economic health, attempts to scapegoat immigrants - blaming them for serious economic problems whose causes originate elsewhere.

Charles Roach, a Toronto lawyer, states the "proposed highway for immigration policy for Canada's high unemployment.

But it isn't true. Unemployment has increased while immigration has dropped over the last four years."

He says that 15,000 immigrants entering the country last year is down from 230,000 in 1972.

Surplus Labour

Gordon shows that employers in North America have fewer restraints in the matter of layoffs and shutdowns than their European counterparts. Unemployment guarantees a pool of surplus labour which workers are drawn on by management whenever workers become more vocal in demanding better working conditions.

Workers must in such conditions concern themselves with job security rather than demanding better working conditions or higher wages.

Under our present economic system, the allocation of goods is not co-ordinated. Individual businesses and workers can barely and in assessing the "hidden unemployed" the government's interpretation of the jobless.

The government's interpretation of the jobless.

The latest breaking developments

According to the latest figures released by Statistics Canada (November 11, 1977), unemployment is not getting any better. Although the number of unemployed in Canada declined from 798,000 in September to 787,000 in October, the seasonally-adjusted unemployment level remained unchanged, at 8.3. Unemployment stood at 7.3 in October, a 15.9 per cent increase from the 6.6 level of October, 1976, when unemployment was 679,000. In the same period, employment has risen only 2.7 per cent, from 9,663,000 in Oct. 1976 to 9,920,000 in Oct. 1977.
Poet's Corner

The Cat Lady

Shoulders hunched against the town's reproof and countless years of stooping
To stroke the mangy fur
of another stray.
She collects them
like others do antiques.
She lets them stop
in their wanderings
then release them,
like restless children who make the regulation visits home
and are off again.
At night she stalks
the streets and alleys.
Her eyes flash
in the headlights of a passing car
and then grow dark again.
Now she is one of them.
A stray who link in dark places
she bristles at human contact.
BRENDA SHANTZ

Maybe Forever

Like flocking penguins
(A bastard collective)
The graze and toss at hilsides;
Sun makes the face and face.
Or graceful back.
Of the young girls;
Nikkering gnomes click at tickers.
Glorious hopping stamp raw thighs.
In awkward ceremony.
Merely lub consciousness.
Of new musical symphonies.
All the rip-rap ribbon rant.
Of hide and ark eerie.
Chased by cold to a contaminant.
After a snore.
Naive in wonderment;
"Hey, I'm gonna keep this!"
STEPHEN COBBES

Black Inner Twilight

The first moment after the illusion,
Returning to what you really are.
Shocked back to immediacy
With a savage urge to relieve frustration.
Have you justified your own existence?
Life passing from voice to echo.
Unconscious repetition of something beyond your strength.
This is the blinding truth just yon my grw.
Don't be afraid now
To rest ever so slightly.
Will you ever return?
The silence, echoing in laughter.
An eternity ram.
Intermingled with thoughts and doubts.
To watch and assess.
The thought of hope, encompassed by tears.
To allow me moments.
I have become a mirror to look inwards.
The black inner twilight.
Will the rain ever stop?
The inside existence.
A new cold has arisen.
Finished, something I will never touch.
Only miles away.
To rage in the shadows.
MARK LEVIERBOURG

To A Batter

Let me thank you now
Before mid-term steals you away.
And I remember our vacation in a beautiful day.
A day that will hang in my mind
Like a picture on a wall,
And a free moments journey
Will bring pleasant recall.
Deposited in my bank of memories
To withdraw time when has robbed me.
Of being where I'd rather be.
We saw the quiet blue slip into grey.
A beautiful beginning to end the day.
The rolling rhythm of the waves
Frolicking in tireless energy.
Telling us stories as we rode the cloud.
And the feelings of guilt were pleasantly altered.
The wind danced with our hair
As nature took us by the hand.
To join in with her fun.
As we layed there in the sand.
I crave for time and thought.
To write words barred beyond my hand.
Like the smell of the earth is sand.
Like the colour of gods, on my woody fingers.
And I thank you again for a day unparalleled.
Now back to the world.
Spring break will be grand.

GWEN DAVIDSON

Two Grains Of Sand

Two grains of sand were flung together in the eye of a distant storm.
And the one sang to the other;
I think we have met before.
Not being the least amazed,
The other said yes, I know.
Ten thousand years ago.
You were the master while I slaved.

What a time we had, you and I.
Coveting as human life.
You, believing in the power of your boot.
And I in God and Justice and Truth.

As memory stirred, it continued;
Ha! Ha! How we clung to being alive.
As in ignorance we contrived.
It to be the most precious prize.

Ha! Ha! Guffawed the first.
Merely life was your Johnson.
My foolishness was a thousand times worse.
I believed I was divinity chosen.

And they remembered,
Not in joy, not regret, nor malice.
Until the moment storm
Flame the eternity apart once more.

AZRA A. FRANCIS
Queen rocks in the royal tradition

By PAUL CHERNISH

"Just gimme a good guitar, and you can say that my hair's a good color." When Queen burst onto the scene in 1973, their sound was instantly recognizable. Their unique blend of hard rock, pop, and symphonic music captivated audiences around the world. And while their live shows are known for their over-the-top production values, the band's music has stood the test of time. Today we'll take a closer look at Queen's music and see why it continues to be a timeless classic.

Queen is a British rock band formed in 1970. The band's lineup included singer and songwriter Freddie Mercury, guitarist and songwriter Brian May, bassist and songwriter John Deacon, and drummer Roger Taylor. Their debut album, "Queen," was released in 1973 and included hits such as "Bohemian Rhapsody" and "We Will Rock You." The band's second album, "Queen II," was released in 1974 and included hits such as "Stone Cold Crazy" and "Love of My Life."

One of the most elaborate stage shows in rock is engineered by Queen. The band's stage design and lighting effects are designed to create a visually stunning experience for the audience. Queen's live shows are known for their extravagant costumes and elaborate set designs. The band's lighting effects are designed to create a captivating visual experience for the audience.

Queen's music is known for its complex arrangements and powerful vocals. The band's music is a mix of rock, pop, and symphonic elements. Queen's music has been described as being "hard rock with a touch of classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2001. The band's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.

Queen's music has had a lasting impact on the music industry. The band's music has been covered by numerous artists, and their music has been featured in numerous films and television shows. Queen's music has been described as being "a mixture of rock, pop, and classical music." The band's use of orchestral arrangements adds a unique element to their music.
The musical spirit of Christmas

By PAUL CHERNISH

The celabred world is quite unlike the real world; or so many people believe. Looking for Mr. Goodbar is a film that fuses the gap between film and reality.

New York can often be considered a hideous environment, and this is due to the attitudes and lifestyles of its inhabitants. New York (or any other big American city) in our present free-thinking society, sets a perfect stage, and provides fertile breeding ground for perversion, wanton thoughts.

Mr. Goodbar centers around the aforementioned theme, and the screenplay, directing, acting and editing all blend together superbly, and each does its part in conveying contorted reality.

Diane Keaton has always been a favorite of mine, primarily because of her gift of sidekicks with Woody Al­ len, but there is no room for delighted folly in Goodbar. What exists in this film, and what Keaton succeeds in portray­ing, is unconfirmed naiveté, a woman in a rigid state of boredom.

Because of a deprived childhood, (due to a congenital spinal disease) she sterilizes her capability to give birth, and takes up a new hobby—picking up men. Any kind of man will do, thank you.

This is a strange and almost incomprehensible hobby for a teacher of the deaf. But her daytime career has nothing to do with her hobby, until one day when she is late for school because of a long, drug-induced evening with Tony, the self-proclaimed stud. Tony is one of the five men in her life, including her father, and he is perhaps the most reliable. Tony doesn’t attempt to food her, or hide her tense personally—psycholog­ical identity.

James, a seemingly “nice” man, turns out to be a spine­less, rather obvious loser in the sexual jungle. He makes up a grotesque story about why he wanted to be a minister. “My mother was lying in bed laughing and he couldn’t get it up, so he beat her.” Maybe this was just fitting in with the rest of the mindless, penis-oriented “lovers” but it sure didn’t work. I think he was just trying to be cyn­ical; taking Keaton’s naiveté into account and making an attempt to convert her into his dying, conceptual world.

Keaton’s fantasies were well done, and not burned, like they could have been. The fantasies were positioned stra­tegically in the film; they were neither spoon-fed nor hidden. If there was any comic touch in the film, it was her fantasy of Tony calling the cops on her. She pictured New York’s finest screening through her drug­ laden apartment and exposing her to the public. “Teacher of the deaf in the daytime, sex­ crazed doper at night.” . . . she pictured this on the television news. (TV is everywhere, you know?"

Not since Johnny Got His Gun has there been a Holly­ wood production with such an intense display of the grue­some. The epilogue is guar­anteed to kick the viewer in the head. Looking For Mr. Goodbar is one of this year’s best deals, and if Diane Keaton doesn’t grab an Oscar, I’ll be in shock, I’m on my way to buy the book.

Men unite: Women taking over

By JESSE GACANIN

Down in one of the most touristy weekend the National Organ­ ization of Women had a conven­tion devoted entirely to voting from pro abortion to pro les­ bian in order to protect wo­ men and their rights. A NOW woman is a liber that has been incor­ porated; many of you busi­ ness students would understand that term.

I’d like to tell you why not to do the presence of a NOW woman. 1. do not talk 2. don’t shave, they might cut your throat . . . 3. look at their eyes 4. don’t ask where your underwear is . . . 5. sit at the kitchen table and expect something; eat from a can 6. don’t know where you are going . . . 7. don’t wonder where he is when she says she’s going out (with the girls).

Here is what a NOW woman appreciates . . . 1. that you have the babies . . . 2. (you) pay them minimum wage with two weeks vacation . . . 3. (you) have a

Christian Culture Series

PreseNt:

NIHAL FONSEKA

"NIHAL...an operatic tenor with one of those power­ ful voices that can sustain the stands in the Uni­ versity of Michigan Student"

News

CONCERT: Sunday, Dec­ ember 4, 8:30 p.m. Cleary Auditorium, Windsor

Tickets available at Hudson’s Wardrobe; Ford Box Office; Cobo Harbour Shrine; State Store & Assumption University; Room 213: AL­D’s Coney Box Office at evening.

Sugg. Don. $5; $4; $3 Inform. 254-1722
The Supremes: "where did the love go"

By JOHN MACKETT

The world might have forgotten who Florence Ballard was, but in some parts of Detroit, her name represents tragedy and poignancy. They say, "it is easy to lose what once was yours." Florence was the first of the Supremes, the group that launched one of the most successful careers in the music world. But her time on earth was short. She died of a broken heart, leaving behind a legacy that still echoes in the annals of Motown history.

Florence Ballard (center), victim of too much, too soon.

Several years ago, a group of Detroiters decided to commemorate Florence's life and work. They created a museum to honor her memory. The museum is located in the Cass Corridor, a district known for its rich history of African American culture. It is a place where visitors can learn about Florence's life and the Supremes' impact on the music industry.

The museum is located at 800 East Jefferson Avenue in Detroit. It is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children. For more information, visit their website at www.suprememuseum.org.

The museum is a place of healing and reflection. It is a place where visitors can honor the memory of Florence Ballard and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can learn about the history of Motown and the impact of the Supremes on the music world.

The museum is a testament to the power of music to bring people together and to heal wounds. It is a place where visitors can find comfort and solace. It is a place where visitors can pay tribute to Florence Ballard and the Supremes.

The museum is a place of hope and inspiration. It is a place where visitors can find strength to face life's challenges. It is a place where visitors can find the courage to pursue their dreams.

The museum is a place of love and respect. It is a place where visitors can honor the memory of Florence Ballard and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can celebrate the power of music to change lives.

The museum is a place of community. It is a place where visitors can come together to share their stories and to celebrate their common heritage.

The museum is a place of beauty. It is a place where visitors can find inspiration in the art and music of the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can find beauty in the faces of those who have been touched by their music.

The museum is a place of discovery. It is a place where visitors can learn about the history of Motown and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can discover new insights into the world of music.

The museum is a place of wonder. It is a place where visitors can wonder at the power of music to transform lives.

The museum is a place of dreams. It is a place where visitors can dream of a world where love and respect are valued above all else.

The museum is a place of hope. It is a place where visitors can find hope in the face of adversity.

The museum is a place of love. It is a place where visitors can find love in the faces of those who have been touched by the Supremes.

The museum is a place of remembrance. It is a place where visitors can remember the lives of Florence Ballard and the Supremes.

The museum is a place of celebration. It is a place where visitors can celebrate the legacy of the Supremes and the impact of Motown on the music world.

The museum is a place of inspiration. It is a place where visitors can be inspired by the power of music to change lives.

The museum is a place of community. It is a place where visitors can come together to share their stories and to celebrate their common heritage.

The museum is a place of beauty. It is a place where visitors can find inspiration in the art and music of the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can find beauty in the faces of those who have been touched by their music.

The museum is a place of discovery. It is a place where visitors can learn about the history of Motown and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can discover new insights into the world of music.

The museum is a place of wonder. It is a place where visitors can wonder at the power of music to transform lives.

The museum is a place of dreams. It is a place where visitors can dream of a world where love and respect are valued above all else.

The museum is a place of hope. It is a place where visitors can find hope in the face of adversity.

The museum is a place of love. It is a place where visitors can find love in the faces of those who have been touched by the Supremes.

The museum is a place of remembrance. It is a place where visitors can remember the lives of Florence Ballard and the Supremes.

The museum is a place of celebration. It is a place where visitors can celebrate the legacy of the Supremes and the impact of Motown on the music world.

The museum is a place of inspiration. It is a place where visitors can be inspired by the power of music to change lives.

The museum is a place of community. It is a place where visitors can come together to share their stories and to celebrate their common heritage.

The museum is a place of beauty. It is a place where visitors can find inspiration in the art and music of the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can find beauty in the faces of those who have been touched by their music.

The museum is a place of discovery. It is a place where visitors can learn about the history of Motown and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can discover new insights into the world of music.

The museum is a place of wonder. It is a place where visitors can wonder at the power of music to transform lives.

The museum is a place of dreams. It is a place where visitors can dream of a world where love and respect are valued above all else.

The museum is a place of hope. It is a place where visitors can find hope in the face of adversity.

The museum is a place of love. It is a place where visitors can find love in the faces of those who have been touched by the Supremes.

The museum is a place of remembrance. It is a place where visitors can remember the lives of Florence Ballard and the Supremes.

The museum is a place of celebration. It is a place where visitors can celebrate the legacy of the Supremes and the impact of Motown on the music world.

The museum is a place of inspiration. It is a place where visitors can be inspired by the power of music to change lives.

The museum is a place of community. It is a place where visitors can come together to share their stories and to celebrate their common heritage.

The museum is a place of beauty. It is a place where visitors can find inspiration in the art and music of the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can find beauty in the faces of those who have been touched by their music.

The museum is a place of discovery. It is a place where visitors can learn about the history of Motown and the Supremes. It is a place where visitors can discover new insights into the world of music.

The museum is a place of wonder. It is a place where visitors can wonder at the power of music to transform lives.

The museum is a place of dreams. It is a place where visitors can dream of a world where love and respect are valued above all else.

The museum is a place of hope. It is a place where visitors can find hope in the face of adversity.

The museum is a place of love. It is a place where visitors can find love in the faces of those who have been touched by the Supremes.

The museum is a place of remembrance. It is a place where visitors can remember the lives of Florence Ballard and the Supremes.

The museum is a place of celebration. It is a place where visitors can celebrate the legacy of the Supremes and the impact of Motown on the music world.

The museum is a place of inspiration. It is a place where visitors can be inspired by the power of music to change lives.

The museum is a place of community. It is a place where visitors can come together to share their stories and to celebrate their common heritage.
Players unleash attack on funnybone

By ANDRE WHEEHE

Fads and high comedy constitute the main ingredients of the University Players' second production of Alan Ayckbourn's "How the Other Half Loves." By British playwright Alan Ayckbourn, the story is simple: Fions Foster and Bob Philips are two characters having a secret affair behind the backs of their respective spouses. When questioned where they were the night before, they use William and May Deweizers as their alibi. The innocent Deweizers are drugged into the insanity and the fun begins!!

The play was re-written to suit the North American audiences since, apparently, there were a lot of British jokes which might not be understood this side of the Atlantic.

Ayckbourn's play and his techniques are predictable. He came up with a number of repetitive jokes that revolve around the main joke which constitutes the plot of the play. Lines such as "I left my husband!" "What?" become predictable and harmless after a while.

But if the script is repetitive in humour the cast exquisitely elevates it, and present us with an interpretation that is far more than what Ayckbourn had intended.

The Posters, (Claude, Le- guile and Catharine Braugh) and the Philips (Shelley Butler and James Warren) share the stage in two overlapping houses, this results in hilarious situations where the action takes place simultaneously in different areas of the stage.

It takes an incredible amount of talent and concentration on the part of the actors to maintain the continuum of the action because of this overlapping but the actors certainly have it together. Cast succeeds in keeping a smooth flow by executing pieces of business that are highly effective.

These synchronized split-scen- onal movements reach a climax at the end of the first act when the Deweizers are served dinner by both couples at the same table. Notable here are Leli Harrison and Tim Grantam who gave a good portrayal of that boring couple and displayed incredible discipline and talent in the dinner scene.

The fate of a comedy usually lies in the hands of its director and Rathsheba Garnett, who directed Ayckbourn's farce should be given credit for organizing and adding a sense of continuity and good fun to the play. Ms. Garnett is usually billed as the "heavy" drama director (last season's "Orpheus Descending") but she adds to the credit of being a high comedy director with a real sense of enjoyment and good times that are inseparable from a farce.

With Garnett's careful direc- tions and the cast's interpretation of Ayckbourn's mechanical characters, the play gains full- ness and is less the gimmick or formula that the playwright invented.

The set, designed by Phil Phekan, is carefully split to create the overlapping feeling and add to the comical absurdity of the whole thing. Although this article was written after viewing the preview of the show, I can confidently say that the Players are heading for another success.

The show officially opens tonight and runs through Dec. 3 with the exception of Mon- day Nov. 28. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m.

Freedom of Information vs. Government Secrecy

OIPRG presents; Jed Baldwin, Progressive Conservative M.P., Peace River

Thursday, Dec. 1
Assumption Lounge
12:00 Noon

The Federal Government is refusing to release to the public information that links the RCMP to illegal activities.

The Ontario government covered up a study that proved that residents of many parts of Northern Ontario were in serious danger of contracting fatal doses of mercury poisoning.

80% of all government documents are classified, and therefore secret. Ontario civil servants are instructed to refuse no documents to the public unless they have specific permission to do so.

Jed Baldwin is the recognized leader of Federal MPs of all parties who endorse a policy of Freedom of Infor- mation. He will be joined by representatives of the Ontario Forum on this very important issue.
CARIBBEAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

CROSSBYS AND NASH SONGS THAT STAND UP QUITE WELL AS THEY WERE ORIGINALY GIVEN ON THIS ALBUM. SOMETHING DIFFERENT TO THEIR LEARNED WITH CSNY HARMONY, BUT LITTLE LESS. HERE OF THE SECTION, AND TIM DRUM AND BEST STUDIOS WIZARDS. AS A BAND TO BACK UP CROSSBYS AND NASH, THEY SET OUT TO PROVE THAT THEY HAVE PROVED THEMSELVES TO BE MASTERs OF VOCAL HARMONY, BUT LESS.

Crosby and Nash in trying to retain the reputation they earned with CSNY, have done something different to their songs. They've electrified them. Since the original splitting of CSNY they have proved them- selves to be masters of vocal harmony, but little less. Here

By DAN SULLIVAN

Crosby and Nash, in trying to retain the reputation they earned with CSNY, have done something different to their songs. They've electrified them. Since the original splitting of CSNY they have proved themselves to be masters of vocal harmony, but little less. Here

Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers

By FRANK KOVACIC

It's unusual for an artist to garner respect from peers and critics alike after releasing only one album. I think, though, that the hoopla over Tom Petty is justified. I'll have to wait and see if he can back it up, but for now I'll just have to remain content with this excellent debut album.

An annoying thing concern- ing this LP (and it's not Petty's fault) is that it has been out, in the U.S., for nearly a year. The Canadian record companies, out of the goodness of their hearts, released the album just last week. Come on now, people in Canada do like rock and roll!

The Heartbreakers are very tight, but not so as to choke in the restrictions of facile at- tempts at perfection as do STYX, KANSAS, and they do it well.

Petty is a master at creating mood much like Phil Lynott of THIN LIZZY. His songs show a great deal of restraint and subtle- ty which helps him make his points and feelings clear.

Rock and roll wasn't intend- ed to be an overkill of instru- ment upon instrument. Simplicity is an asset and going by this, Petty could open a bank.

T.P.'s warlike vocals sound as if he is in constant fear. He comes across as an aggressive rocker, but he writes with the insecurity of Charlie Brown. Women- ren are teeing up (or avoiding) him left and right. I just hope that he doesn't lose his meek side, the balance it creates with his rocker image makes him at the most interesting.

This has been Kansas' success- ful sound, which finally gave them the break they needed to come out of their state of near-poverty. The Kansas of old took more of a heavy metal stance than their new sound would lead you to believe. Of course, the keyboards were always there, and Kansas' vocal harmonies have consistently been very reminiscent of the sound. What I am trying to say is that Kansas' new music just doesn't have the power of their earlier efforts. Point of Know Return is tru- ly a worthwhile and fairly enjoy- able LP, but it's reminiscence of Leftover Crust is more than casual. The better tunes on the album are "Portraiture" and "Sparks of the Tempet," which are both very refreshing hard rockers.

"Dust in the Wind" and "No- body's Home" are the soft noothing melodies of the album, and are both a step in a different di- rection for Kansas. As for the rest of the album, you have probably heard it all before.

you are ahead.” If Kansas be- lieves that philosophy, then it explains why their new album sounds so much like the previous one. They have hinted at doing a long time now (even before left- overcrust), and their unique style of combining heavy-metal with classical melodies has kept me buying their albums. The new album, Point of Know Return, still holds these basic character- istics, except that Steve Walsh's synthesizers and keyboards have taken a prominent role, and in the process, Kerry Lagers hard-driving guitar has faded into the background.

HARPO’S

The Midwest’s Largest Nite Club for Young Adults

TUES. NITE: LADIES NIGHT Admission $2.25, 18’s and Up LADIES FREE

FRI-SAT. NITE: The Main Event Admission $4.50 includes 2 beverages COMING: A New Electrifying Light Show

BIRTHDAY SPECIALS: Special gifts to you and your party

SUN. NITE: CANADIAN MUSIC AT F48 when you present this ad

HARPO’S

The Midwest’s Largest Nite Club for Young Adults

TUES. NITE: LADIES NIGHT Admission $2.25, 18’s and Up LADIES FREE

FRI-SAT. NITE: The Main Event Admission $4.50 includes 2 beverages COMING: A New Electrifying Light Show

BIRTHDAY SPECIALS: Special gifts to you and your party

SUN. NITE: CANADIAN MUSIC AT F48 when you present this ad

IT’S EASY TO FIND HARPO’S in Detriot: We are at 31 Park at Cadillac and a Blood. From va- lue 71 (sherry) north to 34 Park and to the right. Call the Bridge (river) 3440 and Fish. They’re in the back and they’re in the front. Call 3440.

SUN. NITE: CANADIAN MUSIC AT F48 when you present this ad

IT’S EASY TO FIND HARPO’S in DETROIT: WE ARE AT 31 PARK AT CADILLAC AND a BLOOD. FROM VA- LUE 71 (SHERRY) NORTH TO 34 PARK AND TO THE RIGHT. CALL THE BRIDGE (RIVER) 3440 AND FISH. THEY’RE IN THE BACK AND THEY’RE IN THE FRONT. CALL 3440.
Fencing revival comes to Windsor—En garde!

By DAVE JACKLIN

The Lancer basketball squad did not fare too well in exhibition play last weekend. Starting on Saturday, Oral Roberts University beat Windsor 123-83, but that was just the beginning. On Monday, the Lancers were victims of Oklahoma University, losing 105-59. The Lancer’s third game was against Tulsa University, which they lost 95-66. Vince Landry led the Lancers against Tulsa with 14 points. Dan Devin and Bob Overstreet followed with 11 points apiece. Marcus Peet led Tulsa with 18 points. Tulsa held a 47-26 lead at halftime.

When the Lancers open up their regular season, in January, it should be a downhill battle. The competition they are facing now is much more difficult than anything in the OUAA. This could help the Lancers to a division championship, something the Lancers crave since their last season loss to Waterloo, in the playoffs, last year.

Lancers crushed

By PETE NASH

The Lancer basketball squad did not fare too well in exhibition play last weekend. Starting on Saturday, Oral Roberts University beat Windsor 123-83, but that was just the beginning. On Monday, the Lancers were victims of Oklahoma University, losing 105-59. The Lancer’s third game was against Tulsa University, which they lost 95-66. Vince Landry led the Lancers against Tulsa with 14 points. Dan Devin and Bob Overstreet followed with 11 points apiece. Marcus Peet led Tulsa with 18 points. Tulsa held a 47-26 lead at halftime.

When the Lancers open up their regular season, in January, it should be a downhill battle. The competition they are facing now is much more difficult than anything in the OUAA. This could help the Lancers to a division championship, something the Lancers crave since their last season loss to Waterloo, in the playoffs, last year.

Competition is organized world-wide by the Federation Internationale d’Equerre (FIE) and by national organizations and local clubs.

Competitions are usually 1 or 2 day affairs, with pools of 8 to 12 fencers and/or direct elimination bouts.

Scoring, in foil and epee, is done electronically by means of pressure switches on the tip of the blades, hooked through a self-winding reel to an electronic scoring box. In saber, four judges and the director of the bout vote upon the action as they see it. This can lead to flared tempers, but fencing is carried out under a strict code which requires extremely polite behaviour during the bouts.

Beef all you want later, but not on the fencing strip.

Fencing, as a sport, has a rather mystic aura surrounding it, somewhat like that enjoyed by the martial arts. However fencing is simply common sense and hard work. It is a rare person who cannot be taught to fence at least moderately well.

The club works out three day nights and Saturday afternoons in the basement of St. Denis.

Anyone who is interested, curious or even bored with homework or the Pub, is invited to come down to look or maybe even join.

Lancers crushed

By PETE NASH

The Lancer basketball squad did not fare too well in exhibition play last weekend. Starting on Saturday, Oral Roberts University beat Windsor 123-83, but that was just the beginning. On Monday, the Lancers were victims of Oklahoma University, losing 105-59. The Lancer’s third game was against Tulsa University, which they lost 95-66. Vince Landry led the Lancers against Tulsa with 14 points. Dan Devin and Bob Overstreet followed with 11 points apiece. Marcus Peet led Tulsa with 18 points. Tulsa held a 47-26 lead at halftime.

When the Lancers open up their regular season, in January, it should be a downhill battle. The competition they are facing now is much more difficult than anything in the OUAA. This could help the Lancers to a division championship, something the Lancers crave since their last season loss to Waterloo, in the playoffs, last year.

Fencing revival comes to Windsor—En garde!

By DAVE JACKLIN

Remember that great scene from “The Prisoner of Zenda” where Rupert and that Englishman that no one cared about battled for hours with flashing sabres in the torch-lite dungeons of Zenda Castle? Or those incredible Robin Hood movies with Errol Flynn as the valiant ‘Robin and Basil Rathbone as the evil Sheriff of Nottingham?

Well, those movies may be no more, but the art of fencing has seen a revival that has almost doubled sales of fencing equipment in North America.

Indeed, fencing is undergoing a revival that has almost doubled sales of fencing equipment in North America. Though modern fencing bears little resemblance to the ancient forms, the sword as a practical weapon can be traced back to the earliest recorded times, back to the days when the foot-sloggers of Sargon the Great made the Sumerians cry “Uncle.” The sword has gone through a continual change in form, construction and use, and it still remains the most effective close quarters weapon ever devised. Even as late as World War II, the sword was still employed by the Camach cavalry of the Red Army.

Modern competitive fencing is divided into three weapons: the foil, the epee and the saber.

The foil is a light, extremely flexible weapon based on the rapier of Elizabethan days. It is used by both men and women and is considered essential for the development of the fencer as a basis for any other weapon.

The epee is developed from the duelling sword of the 18th century. It is heavier (37 oz. vs. 17 oz.), much less flexible and can pack a terrific wallop. It is used essentially by men, although women are now using it.

The saber is the most fluid, and possible the fastest of the weapons. The same weight and length as the foil, the saber is an edged weapon, which allows it to be used for cut as well as thrust. The foil and epee are strictly thrust weapons. Again it should be a downhill battle.

The foilist Alf Liebherz grabbed seven medals and one of four universities in the OUAA Final in Ottawa. Coach Eli Sukunda, national and Olympic team member, is pleased with the ability and potential of the Lancer’s team.

There are two aspects to fencing. On campus, the community club and the Windsor Weaponsmithers, which are open to anyone with the desire. The Varsity team is composed of students from the Fencing Club.

Competition is organized world-wide by the Federation Internationale d’Equerre (FIE) and by national organizations and local clubs.

Fencing revival comes to Windsor—En garde!

By DAVE JACKLIN

Fencing, as a sport, has a rather mystic aura surrounding it, somewhat like that enjoyed by the martial arts. However fencing is simply common sense and hard work. It is a rare person who cannot be taught to fence at least moderately well.

The ritual of practice is a must. Touché! Fencing team shaping up

By DAVE JACKLIN

Windsor fencing is alive and well. Hurrah, hurrah! After losing a third of last year’s team and our coach, the new season has come up rosy, with a new coach and a lot of new talent.

There are two aspects to fencing on campus, the community club and the Windsor Weaponsmithers, which are open to anyone with the desire. The Varsity team is composed of students from the Fencing Club. Last year the club did well, with seven medals and trophies brought home at the end of the season, including a couple of major championships. The university team finished fourth overall, capturing saber honours at the York Invitational and at the OUAA Finals in Ottawa.

Pollist Alf Liebherz grabbed a silver in the individuals at the OUAA meet. Windsor is one of four universities in the OUAA to have won the championship more than once.

Coach Eli Sukunda, national and Olympic team member, is pleased with the ability and enthusiasm of the 20-25 member club, and says he is looking forward to the competitive season with optimism. With a returning-foil team, a partly new but seasoned epee team and a strong saber trio, the future looks good for U. of W.

The club works out three day nights and Saturday afternoons in the basement of St. Denis.

Anyone who is interested, curious or even bored with homework or the Pub, is invited to come down to look or maybe even join.

Pregnant and distressed

CALL BIRTHRIGHT, 252-3222
Pregnancy tests available.
Women volleyballers fall to Mustang squad

By PAUL DOUGLAS—DALLY

Over the weekend the Lancerettes hosted a tri-meet volleyball tournament competing against Brock University and Western. All matches consisted of a best out of five games. The Lancerettes opened the tournament doing battle with Western. Although the first game was close, the Lancerettes just couldn’t hold off the superior Western squad, losing 15-13.

In the second and third games the Lancerettes showed a great deal of enthusiasm, but their enthusiasm didn’t compensate for their mistakes. Western won by a convincing 15-9, 15-7 margin.

After the match, Lancerette coach Marc Preplih stated, “The team was very tight. Western is at the top of the league, so we knew we had to play extremely well. After the close 15-13 defeat we became deflated.”

In their second match, the Lancerettes totally dominated play over the scrappy Brock team. The Lancerettes led by the consistent play of Sharon McNamara, and the strong offensive tactics of Colleen Valcke gave the Lancerettes a decisive 15-15, 15-12, 15-10 victory.

Although victory came easy, the Lancerettes made frequent inexcusable errors, fortunately the Brock team was making just as many. Coach Preplih said, “I’m not happy at all with the teams’ performances. They have to learn how to think, and make every point count.”

Next week the Lancerettes travel to McMaster, trying to better their 2-2 record.

Judo power

By SCOTT ELDRIDGE

It was unfortunate that the University of Windsor Judo Club did not stay together last year because of lack of interest. This year the club has higher expectations. The Judo Club on campus has its regular workouts every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights between 7:30 and 9:00 at the St. Denis Hall basement. In the workouts, club members are under the watchful eye of their instructor, W.F. Linnell. Linnell gives his members proper instructions on the use of different Judo holds and throws to prepare the members for tournament competition.

Two years ago at the finals in Toronto the team didn’t place as well, but individual members did well claiming five gold medals, 1 silver and 1 bronze. The team hopes to do well this year and is working hard for the up coming tournaments.

The campus Judo Club welcomes any interested student or faculty member to come out and support the club.

Christmass Flights to Vancouver & Halifax

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Flight</th>
<th>Departure</th>
<th>Arrival</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Toronto/Vancouver/Toronto</td>
<td>Dec 20</td>
<td>Return</td>
<td>Jan 03</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec 21</td>
<td>Return</td>
<td>Jan 05</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toronto/Halifax/Toronto</td>
<td>Dec 19</td>
<td>Return</td>
<td>Jan 03</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Drug Refund Cheques

for September and October can be picked up.

We still have quite a number in our files.

IN THE SAC OFFICE

Ski Quebec

$199.00

Slack Week (Feb. 12 - 18)

★ 6 nights accommodation
★ daily breakfast
★ all week ski pass
★ daily transfers to and from Mt. St. Anne
★ ALL TAXES ARE INCLUDED
★ van transportation to and from Quebec City

Call Andre at 252-7417 or leave name and phone number at Centre Desk

The Lancer — November 25, 1977 — Page Nineteen

By NIGEL MILLER

The University of Western Ontario Mustangs proved without a doubt that they are the best football team in Canada in 1977. The Mustangs crushed the Acadia Axemen 48-15 in the College Bowl. The game was for the national college football championship.

Two years ago at the finals in Toronto the team didn’t place as well, but individual members did well claiming five gold medals, 1 silver and 1 bronze. The team hopes to do well this year and is working hard for the up coming tournaments.

The campus Judo Club welcomes any interested student or faculty member to come out and support the club.

Surprising was the fact that Western, relying on the pass all year, had such an effective running attack. Bill Rozolowski led the ground attack with 177 yards on 23 carries. The most valuable player of the game for the second time in the last four games the Mustangs have been in some close games, narrowly getting by the Lancers 14-13.

Jamie Bone also had a stand-out game, completing 18 of 22 for 273 yards. By half-time the Mustangs had rolled up a 20-1 lead and it was apparent that they showed up to play, Offensively and defensively they were almost flawless. Western coach Darwin Semfick commented after the game that it was the best game ever played by the team. In their last four games the Mustangs have been in some close games, narrowly getting by the Lancers 14-13.
Lancer comeback not enough to beat Hawks

By DAN KOBYLKA

Someone is going to have to tell the Lancer hockey team that their games are supposed to be 60 minutes long, not 30. If they ever play as well in the first half of the game as they did in the second they are going to win a lot of games. Once again last Saturday against the Wilfrid Laurier Golden Hawks the Lancers played poorly during the first half of the game, but came on strong in the second half. Only this time, unlike last week's game against Western, they came up short and were defeated 5-4.

The Golden Hawks built up a 3-0 lead by the two minute mark. of the second period only to see it disappear as a snappy group of Lancers fought back to take a 4-3 lead. The Laurier team didn't give up either as they scored the last two goals of the game to gain the win.

Bert Fournier and Mo Biron led the Lancers with three points each. Captain Fournier garnered the most points by collecting one in the first period and one in the third period. Don Martin scored the last two goals of the game. The Lancers bench was behind the bench during this last period to an injury and Ben毋oufner for Laurier to give them the edge. Johnston stopped 43 shots out of 45 for Laurier. Laus didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory over the University of Western Michi­ gan Broncos on Wednesday night. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory. The game was supposed to be an exhibition contest for the two teams but it was obvious from the outset that the Bron­ cos didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory.

By PETER MUDRACK

Though the Lancer's future is uncertain, their present is quite strong. The "B" league is a non-hitting league. This means that any hitting outside of incidental contact while policing for the puck is an infraction of the rules, and may be penalized as such. No arrangements may be made between the teams and the referees to allow full contact in any "B" game.

Eight teams turned out for the first night of coed volleyball, and the same number showed up for the second night. Conventon Pati Jones and Vicki Parascarch were quite pleased with the turnout, and wish to thank all those participating. The games have been quite exciting, at times, and some rather unique volleyball techniques have been displayed.

Hockey Quiz

1. There are nine new captains in the N.H.L. this season, name them. (9 pts.)
2. Name the players involved in trades between the following teams. (This season) (a) Islanders-Detroit (b) Washington-Pittsburgh (c) Calgary-Buffalo (d) Toronto-Los Angeles (e) Chicago-Vancouver (f) Los Angeles-Pittsburgh (g) Are you are the four highest goal scorers in professional hockey and a) what team did they end their career with or b) who are they scoring with now? (18 pts.)
3. What players were members of the following lines? a) Production line (6 pts.) b) Scooter line (6 pts.) c) Hem line (6 pts.) d) Kid line (6 pts.) e) Punch line (6 pts.) 5. What was the most special about the 1919 Stanley Cup finals (5 pts.) and who were the teams involved? (4 pts.)
6. What was the first rule implemented in the 1972-73 season? (2 pts.)
7. Gordie Howe has scored over 1000 goals in his career. What was the most goals he scored in a single season and what was his team? (2 pts.)
8. Last the ten last Stanley Cup winners in order. (10 pts.)
9. What team has had the longest stretch since they have won (a) Islanders-Detroit, (b) Washington-Pittsburgh, (c) Chicago-Vancouver, (d) Kid line (6 pts.)
(a) Islanders-Detroit (b) Detroit (c) Washington (d) Chicago (3 pts.)
10. For what team do the following players play? a) Dale Tallon (6 pts.) b) Vlad Nedomansky (6 pts.) c) Gilles Marquette (6 pts.) d) Dave Dionne (6 pts.) e) John McKenzie (6 pts.)
(b) Detroit, (c) Washington, (d) Chicago, (e) Montreal (3 pts.)

Rosaasen leads team

By DAN KOBYLKA

It would be an understatement to say that reserves Don Johnston played a brilliant, outstanding or fantastic game in Laurier's 4-8 victory over the University of Western Michi­ gan Broncos on the first night of the game. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory.

The game was supposed to be an exhibition contest for the two teams but it was obvious from the outset that the Bron­ cos didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory over the University of Western Michigan Broncos on Wednesday night. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory. The game was supposed to be an exhibition contest for the two teams but it was obvious from the outset that the Bron­ cos didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory over the University of Western Michigan Broncos on Wednesday night. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory.

The game was supposed to be an exhibition contest for the two teams but it was obvious from the outset that the Bron­ cos didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory over the University of Western Michigan Broncos on Wednesday night. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory.

The game was supposed to be an exhibition contest for the two teams but it was obvious from the outset that the Bron­ cos didn't see it that way. Lead­ ing the Lancer scorers was Jack Rosaasen with two goals, one in the first period and one in the second. Don Martin took the game up for the Lancers with a 4-3 victory over the University of Western Michigan Broncos on Wednesday night. Maurice Biron, a Lancer forward said he the best. "Don­ nie Johnston saved our ass tonight, he kept us in the game for the first two periods until we started to play the Broncos very well." Johnston stopped 43 shots in the Lancer overtime victory.
Borovoy blames government

PM rationalizes RCMP lawbreaking

By RICK SPENCER

One of Canada’s top civil libertarians was on campus this week, to say that he isn’t overly concerned by the recent allegations of illegal activities by the RCMP.

Borovoy, General Counsel for the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, told a Most Court audience Monday night by rationalizing the activities of the RCMP, Prime Minister Trudeau has legitimated law-breaking. He says a double standard for police and the law cannot co-exist with a democratic society.

Some of Trudeau’s statements, such as "I can’t get wildly excited" about the RCMP break-in of Parti Quebecois headquarters were so "fautous", Borovoy said, that the civil liberties association has been using them to help spur their recruitment drive. The CCLA gained 200 new members last week.

Borovoy called on Trudeau to "correct the statements he has made" which have been detrimental "to the democratic process which this country is all about." He said he was really surprised that in the year 1977, he should have to be reminding Canadians that "people in government have an obligation to promote respect for the law."

Borovoy said recent events have also cast doubts on the subject of ministerial responsibility.

Borovoy proposed that a special parliamentary committee be established, with subpoena powers and an Opposition member as chairman, to probe ministerial responsibility. He said that although a minister is not responsible for improprieties done by his deputy, he should rectify the situation. By referring to the Macdonald Royal Commission on the RCMP all the revelations about criminal activities in his department, the Solicitor-General is promoting assuming and ducking responsibility, according to Borovoy. "By the time the evidence is investigated, there may be no one left to charge. We may have to lay charges against his executives."

"There is no reason why the normal administration of justice... has to grind to a halt until the royal commission reports". He called for an immediate investigation into such alleged RCMP activities as maltampering and being laughed at a.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8

---

Financial crunch hinders hiring

By ANNA MARIA TREMONTI

As a result of government cutbacks, the University is reducing the hiring of new personnel to a minimum, and every new appointment must be justified to the Board of Governors.

According to Dr. John Allan, Vice-President, Administration, the Board of Governors has discussed and considered whether Board approval would be necessary before hiring is approved. The concept, said Allan, is still at the discussion stage, and no resolution has been passed.

Allan said he foresees "severe financial pressures" within the next few years because of declining enrollments and "modern" government increases.

Board member Gary Wells said the University is presently being run on a zero-budgeting system. Under this system, the appointment of every new employee must be justified to the Board.

Budgetary spending can be reduced by keeping a tight control on the number of staff members at the University, according to a memo from Personnel Services, Director Dennis Drew. Gary Winternutter. He explained that no flexible law has yet been placed on the hiring of any employees, but added, all positions will be carefully scrutinized to determine their need. This procedure will not involve those already working for the University.

The hiring restraint is already in effect in Administrative Services, said Director Dennis Drew, because of financial restriction, he has been told that he cannot replace a member of the book-staff who left a few weeks ago. That notice, said Drew, came from the office of the Vice-President Administration.

Professor John MacKilfe, Vice-President Academics, said he is also beginning to feel the financial pressure, but added that there has been restraint in hiring in the academic area."for the past several years." He added that the University continues to fill positions in order to cover all courses.

MacKilfe said he could not foresee a totally inflexible hiring freeze being imposed at the University. There will always be exceptions made to accommodate the enrolment of various departments, he said.

---

Lance referendum attracts attention

By BRENDA McLISTER

The Lance has been making the news lately. Information obtained in a December 3 referendum has been leaked to the media.

On Monday, SAC will be holding a referendum to see if students are in favour of independent funding for the Lance. Because of financial restriction, he has been told that he cannot replace a member of the book-staff who left a few weeks ago. That notice, said Drew, came from the office of the Vice-President Administration.

Because of financial restriction, the paper is being run on a zero-budgeting system. Under this system, the appointment of every new employee must be justified to the Board.

Budgetary spending can be reduced by keeping a tight control on the number of staff members at the University, according to a memo from Personnel Services, Director Dennis Drew. Gary Winternutter. He explained that no flexible law has yet been placed on the hiring of any employees, but added, all positions will be carefully scrutinized to determine their need. This procedure will not involve those already working for the University.

The hiring restraint is already in effect in Administrative Services, said Director Dennis Drew, because of financial restriction, he has been told that he cannot replace a member of the book-staff who left a few weeks ago. That notice, said Drew, came from the office of the Vice-President Administration.

Professor John MacKilfe, Vice-President Academics, said he is also beginning to feel the financial pressure, but added that there has been restraint in hiring in the academic area."for the past several years." He added that the University continues to fill positions in order to cover all courses.

MacKilfe said he could not foresee a totally inflexible hiring freeze being imposed at the University. There will always be exceptions made to accommodate the enrolment of various departments, he said.

---

Parrott: First honest minister?

By RICK SPENCER

The Ontario Progressive Conservative Party has launched a campaign to defend Minister of Colleges and Universities Harry Parrott, against the criticism he has been receiving over student aid.

According to the University of Western Ontario newspaper, the Gazette, a memo signed by David Angus, youth director of the Ontario PC's, has been sent to all campus PC presidents in Ontario. The memo urges them to write letters to their campus newspapers supporting Dr. Parrott. Two "sample" letters are enclosed with the memo.

The memo says that "As Progressive Conservatives, I am sure you too have felt that the Minister has received unfair treatment. We cannot sit by and let OFS (Ontario Federation of Students) receive all of the press."

It is seen as the most courageous statement of press of amount of press."

The exact wording of the referendum is: "Are you in favour of a $4.50 fee increase to provide independent funding for the Lance, on the condition that such fees are held in trust until the Lance is formed into a separate corporate entity?"

---

By-election results

In Tuesday’s SAC by-election, Kathy Raubt and Doug Smith were elected to the student affairs committee. The new social science rep is Joan Durrant, and Mary Ellen Scully will represent fine arts.

Unsuccessful fine arts candidate Deb Hetherington said she will appeal the election, on the basis that her opponent’s posters had not been taken down by voting day Tuesday.
on campus

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS presents HOW THE OTHER HALF LOVES by Alan Ayckbourn. Today and Tomorrow, 8:00 p.m. at Essex Hall Theatre, University of Windsor. Admission: $3.50. Student Rush available - $2.50 ten minutes before curtain, Phone 253-4565.

JULIUS BERTEN, Associate Counsel, Labor- ers International of North America and San Francisco Director, National Resource Center for Consumers of Legal Services, will speak in the Mentor Law, Building, on December 2, 1977 at 1:30 p.m. Their topic is Prepaid Legal Services Plans.

HITCH HIKERS and drivers: The SAC Ride Board is now operating. Get a ride or a ride home for Christmas. SAC office, University Centre.

CATHOLIC Campus Ministry located at the Assumption University Building on campus - 2nd floor. MASSES: Sunday, 7:30 M.M., and 4:30 p.m., Weekdays 12:00 noon and 4:30 p.m and Saturday, 11:30 a.m.

SOUTH AFRICA, TODAY - Open meeting Monday, December 5, 1977 at 2:30 p.m., International Centre, Goby Hall Speaker: Dr. Samuel Nolutshungu, Vi­siting professor, Dept. of Political Sci­ence, York University. Sponsored by Canadian Institute of International Af­fairs.

WANTED: Someone to share large furn­ished two bedroom apt. with study. Five minutes from campus. Rent, utilities included, $620.00 (split two ways), Call Mike at 253-1381.

ASSUMPTION College School, 1100 Hu­man Church Road presents “The King & I” by Rodgers & Hammerstein. Dates: Nov. 25, 26, 27, - Dec. 2, 3, 4. Curtain: 8:00 Friday and Saturday, 7:30 Sun­day. Tickets: All seats $3.00.

The Windsor Community Theatre presents “Charley’s Aunt” by Brandon Thomas, Patterson Playhouse (Elliot and Grace) Nov. 25, 26 and Dec. 2 and 3 8:30 p.m. Tickets $2.50, $2.00 for students. Information call 252-0997.

WANTED TO BUY: One pair of skis between 150 - 160 with bindings. Also one pair of ski poles. Please call 254-2343.

FOUND: One pair lady’s glasses at “Screwing Project” held in Rm. 51 Windsor Hall, November 21st. Call 948-0942.

FOR SALE: Sears Kenmore Electric Broom, 2 speeds, like new, $50.00. Phone: $30.00, Phone: 944-2348 anytime.

HI! I’m a prison inmate doing 5 to 8 years and would like to write to some­one on the outside, especially a wom­an. I’m 26 years old single male, weigh 175 lbs, am 6’0” tall and love the following: kids, all outdoors, eating, reading, poetry, writing letters. It’s kind of lonely in prison and me or one of the other dudes here would love to correspond with any woman - fat, short, tall, skinny - no matter! Replies are forwarded. Reg. Spencer, Box 127, Centreville, N.B., E0J 1N0.

SKI QUEBEC Contact Brian Manose or Mark Carr at Whistlock Travel, Slack. week. Price includes boxes, meals ac­commodation, $259 plus tips and taxes. One week.

An exhibition of recent sculpture by Grace Khor can be seen by the Le­Bel Fine Arts Gallery through De­cember 9th.

LOST: A Texas SH-40 calculator on November 16, West of University Lib­rary. If found you would please con­ tact: 258-2371 or Room 808 Mac Hall. Thank you very much for your kindness.

Poems express Canadian theme

By M. C. FOURNIER

A poetry reading was held in the Vanier Lounge from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 Wednesday. Dr. Richard Hormey, Professor of English at the University, and two English and Creative Writing majors, Antoine Evans and Gary Ballageng, entertained the crow­d with several enlightening poems. It’s curious to note how many students are interested in this genre. Canadian poets with simple, clear diction and The poems that were recited can satisfy any layman’s curios­ity. The recurrent themes of ali­enation, struggle for survival and the questionable ‘Canadian iden­tity’ were subtly hidden under the imagery.

Women and the Law

Community Information Workshops

JAN 10 - Introduction - Court Structure - Maternity Leave - Consumer Laws
JAN 17 - Marriage Contracts - Change of Name - Abortion Laws
JAN 24 - Day Care - Children’s Rights - Child Welfare
JAN 31 - Batterer Children - Battered Wives
FEB 7 - Separation Agreements - Legal Aid - Renting
FEB 14 - Divorce - Marriage Property
WHERE: Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, Room G101
WHEN: Time: Jan. 10 - March 31; 7 - 9:30 p.m.
WHO: Participants - YOU
INSTRUCTORS - Women in the Faculty of Law
COST: $13.00 for 1 workshop (workbooks is included)
Phone: 253-7150

Drug Claim forms for December

should be handled in

Dec. 12 - 16, 1977

in order to receive refunds in January

SAC Office
By E.P. CHANT

Students at Trent University have rejected a petition which would have denied student funding to campus groups with a political or sexual orientation.

Approximately three weeks ago, a petition began circulating around Trent University in Peterborough which would prevent the Student Union (comparable to the Ontario Council on Student \n attitudes) from financing student organizations "with politically or sexually oriented goals." The spark behind the petition, initiated by Trent student Don McIsaac, was the Student Union's funding of the Trent Homophile Association (THA), Paul Hurcomb, editor of the Trent newspaper, Arthur, wrote in the November 17 issue: "Some students feel that all Mr. McIsaac really wants is to be made to act as a censor by restriction on by restricting NSF to groups containing only university students. Others feel that the petition is intended to eliminate funding for certain groups with "undesirable orientations," and still others think it was conceived as a first step in "kill the queues campaign." McIsaac himself stated in a letter to Arthur that only the funding of the THA and other political groups were being questioned. However, four political groups which applied for funding were rejected, 50 some observers felt the petition was aimed particularly at the THA.

The petitioners collected close to 300 signatures - a figure which represents a little over ten per cent of Trent's student population. Trent student Jill Gough, though not asked to sign the petition herself, had talked to people who had been asked. Gough said, "They (the petitioners) asked 'Do you want to support the gays on campus?' A lot of people would just feel uncomfortable if they went ahead and signed, even if they could have cared less."

By the constitution of the Student Union, any petition which receives a ten per cent reply from the student body must then receive a campus-wide referendum. Trent students went to the polls on November 24 and 25 to vote on the proposition which had, as its basis, the wording of McIsaac's petition - including the terminology "politically and sexually oriented groups." Hurcomb called this phrase "at best vague - at worst all-inclusive."

Apparently, the students of Trent did not consider it vague, but a clear threat. One per cent of the student population - the largest percentage ever to vote in a Trent referendum, some standing in line for 15 to 20 minutes to vote, came out and rejected the fund-restricting referendum. For every vote cast in favour of the resolution, three voted against it (319 for, 936 against). "All the rumors and fears surrounding the results of the referendum, Chairman Geoff Monck of the Student Union said that he would go ahead and sign the cheque to give the THA its funding, as he had no choice if the organization at a meeting earlier in October, but upon hearing of McIsaac's petition, Montreuil and TTS Trea- sure Justin Chu had decided to withhold presentation of the cheque until after the results of the petition and subsequent referendum were known. The cheque was destroyed at that time. Some members of the Student Union and, also, Phil Hurcomb, feel that Mon- treul's refusal to present the approved cheque was clearly unconstitutional. Moncreul's im- peachment was considered at the time of examining the constitution, no specific regulations for impeachment could be found.

Hike tuition fee to cover costs

Post-secondary tuition fees should be allowed to rise until they cover nearly the full cost of teaching, says a research study released Nov. 16 by the Ontario Economic Council. The report was prepared for the Council by Dr. John Burtick of the economics department at York University. "I find the case for subsidization of post-secondary education very weak, except for research and public service components," states Dr. Burtick. He recommends that direct subsidies to post-secondary institutions be reduced to effectiveness basis, to institutions that are engaged in socially valuable activities in non-traditional areas of post-secondary education or to those making cultural contributions. Grants should also be provided directly to students who, in consequence of receipt, will likely provide net benefits to society, he says, and special grants and other arrangements should be made for all eligible students whose parents are poor. The purpose of the OEC study was to make a broad examination of Ontario's post-secondary educational system in search of problems. Dr. Burtick identifies an educational problem as a change in society, traceable in large measure to the performance of schools, colleges, or universities, that creates political pressures and brings forth demands that the government "do something."

Recent government forecasts of changes in the rate of economic growth and the rate of net immigration are reviewed in the report and the author makes new estimates of demands, supporting higher public educational costs. Policy options for elementary, secondary, and post-secondary schools and institutions of their associated public costs, are set out.

Dr. Burtick says graduates of all levels in Ontario's educational system will likely be forced to accept jobs at a lower level than they expected, especially female post-secondary graduates. He argues that this situation is not acceptable even if one takes the view that education can be a socially desirable end in itself and is not solely to enable people to perform jobs. He says regrading of the labour force will cause wage differentials to narrow and will move income distribution in a less equal direction.

Dr. Burtick considers a "voucher" system which would provide each student with coupons redeemable for education in the school and, to some degree, the subjects of the students.

The author suggests that the voucher system would increase freedom of choice of students and parents, prevent rigidities in course offerings, and force out inferior and unpopular teachers. "Nonetheless," he says, "better than the current system of a voucher system would probably be taken by better educated and richer parents. But it is hard to find evidence that a voucher system would be worse in this respect than the present system and, in other respects, a voucher system would be an improvement."

A compromise policy for post-secondary education is also proposed in the report. Dr. Burtick states that tuition fees should be raised as rapidly as political constraints permit, to meet the real costs of education, but that worthy students be supported in meeting these costs by scholarships, bursaries and loans.

He also argues that grants to post-secondary institutions should be divided into two categories: those tied to enrolment, and those related to research and other public service activities. Post-secondary institutions would be able to charge whatever they like for tuition under Dr. Burtick's proposals. He warns that "political difficulties" would follow from fee increases in general, but the alternatives are no improvement in quality, or "a budgetary and administrative mess."

The thrust of the study's recommendations is to introduce more competition into post-secondary education to reduce waste, induce institutions to be more responsive to students' curricular demands, and give public support to the non-instructional activities of these institutions.

The OEC is an autonomous research agency funded by the Province of Ontario. It acts as an independent advisor to government and all political parties, and undertakes research and policy studies.

From the University of Waterloo Gazette.
The Lance
The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by and for the Student Media, University of Windsor. Press offices are located on the second floor of the University Centre, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4.

Subscription rates are $7.50 per year. Entered as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writers and editors and do not necessarily the University of Windsor or the students' Administrative Council.

Offices: 253-4212, Ext. 153
253-4206
Advertising: 253-4212, Ext. 316

Not a 'non-issue'

Is autonomy worth $4.50?

On the news Tuesday night, the CBC said that Lance independence is "another non-issue." We disagree, and we hope students will prove them wrong in the referendum next Monday.

Everyone in this University should believe in the independence of The Lance and the need for an autonomous student press. The University community is dedicated to free speech and to the expression and exchange of ideas and information.

As You See It

By GEORGE J. KOCIS

This week we approached six students at random and asked them, "How are you going to vote on the referendum to free The Lance on December 5?" We were met with these comments:

"I don't think I read $4.50 worth of the paper each year and to add it to my student fee doesn't leave me with a choice."

Jeanne Kenney
3rd year Home Economics

"I think the Lance should have the freedom to control their own funding. Four dollars and fifty cents isn't really going to hurt and almost everybody picks up a copy."?

Bernie Mullins
2nd year Economics

"I think it's a good idea to be independent, you'll have more freedom."

Matilda Lam
3rd year Special Bachelor of Commerce

"I think the Lance should have the freedom to control their own funding. Four dollars and fifty cents isn't really going to hurt and almost everybody picks up a copy."

"I'm in favour of it. As long as they keep on reporting things that are informative and stop with trivial issues such as Disco Stinks' etc."

Judy Gao
2nd year Psychology

"I definitely agree with it 100%. It might promote more liberal attitude."

Iain MacKinnon
2nd year Business

"I don't like the idea because if the Lance secures the funds the other organizations may try the same thing."

David Lam
2nd year Social Work

"I don't think it's good for students."

Judy Gao
2nd year Psychology

These people showed up for our journalism workshops this week; we hope the referendum gets a better turnout. Keeping their fingers crossed are Editor: Rick Spencer; Managing Editor: Brenda Meloche; Art Director: Wat Dinnah; Photo Editor: Walter Nethercott; Art Director: New Sports Editor: Peter Nash; Cartoonist: Debbie Hetherington; plus the usual gang: Anna Maria Tremonti, Don Poppin, Edward Paul Chant from Bowmnnville, George Koch, John Rawell (who packs a mean snowball), Fern Brown, Frank Kovacec, Deb Kennedy, Domenic D'Amore, Paul Douglas-Daly, Erne (Scoop) Mayne, Tony Hine (contrary to last week's report, he really did get a hair cut), Ted Goddard, Mike Upton who get us on T-shirts, Rob Brown, Lars Wallace, engineer Nigel Milford, Bob Thompson, bruis Williamson, Dan Salmin and love Angy. Party Tuesday night. Last staff meeting before the referendum: noon today. All welcome.

Lance solutions simplistic

Responsibility will be retained
Immigration, unemployment debated by NYS

By MARYON OVERHOLT
External Affairs Commissioner

Please forgive my procrastination, but...I am facing a 4 day National Union of Students conference into one article. It is a huge task and I am anxious to perform. The range of discussion and volumes of material is enough to make even the most dedicated shell shy away from the task. I hope this article will motivate you to examine some of these issues at a deeper level by utilizing the material I have collected in my office.

Delegates from universities and community colleges across the country in Calgary in October to discuss the question of immigration, unemployment, and the community college system. Of course, the "National Unity" question cost them dearly. Some students have a vital role to play now and in the future of Canada. But in our discussion this question further at Council meetings and with the students.

In our discussions at the conference, it was apparent that students across Canada are facing the same problems. Most importantly, the delegates expressed concern about the identifiable aging awareness realizing that while an issue like unemployment is not a new topic concern in Alberta, it is extremely important to students from Newfoundland and Cape Breton Island. It is important for student leaders to have a greater understanding of the issue.

The National Union of Students is an important federal government, it is important for all of us to work within the NUS, to lobby the government for job creation programs that will produce useful and meaningful jobs for students and the community at large. The Canadian government is affected by the same problem as the United States, among students and the community at large. The importance of NYS as a lobbying group for students cannot be overlooked.

The Council of Ministers of Education, Canada and the Council of the National Union of Students have decided to re-examine the Student Loans Plan. The philosophy behind the plan is the belief that financial aid is necessary for all students. The NYS has invited student input into these discussions. Through the NYS, the CME has been invited to attend these meetings so that the Ministry of Education can form a general assembly on unemployment in February. Each NUS institution will organize similar assemblies to receive feedback and direction from the students for a program of action.

The response from these meetings will be collected and presented to the Ministry of NYS central office to present it to the federal government. It is important for us to work within NYS, to lobby the government for job creation programs that will produce useful and meaningful jobs for students and the community at large. The Canadian government is affected by the same problem as the United States, among students and the community at large. The importance of NYS as a lobbying group for students cannot be overlooked.

The NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. The Act will deny these people a loan, but the government will cover more of the cost. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.

The Immigration Act (C-24) provided considerable concern among delegates. Under the Act, a landed immigrant or foreign student can work in Canada providing it is in their economic interest. The CME has not given the CME input into these discussions. Throughout the discussion, NYS is lobbying for admission to these meetings so that the Ministry of Education will be fully informed on student concerns about student aid.

NYS has devised a policy on student aid calling for: (a) increased student aid at 18 years of age, (b) the assessment of the student's actual resources, and (c) loan aid for students to be used to reduce their expenses. NYS researchers will prepare a pamphlet outlining the points and their significance.
T’ai Chi Chuan or the ‘Supreme Ultimate Fist’ is one of the most whole aesthetic and beneficial ways of experiencing and enjoying this wonderful feeling of unification of our dualistic world.

Although the whole structure of T’ai Chi Chuan consists of 108 movements or postures in motion that are difficult to master, they can be approximated even by the Westerner in a relatively few hours of study and practice. The results are amazing, even when performed badly. The student soon discovers he feels more refreshed and energetic after doing the exercises.

Almost immediately, his postural alignment and balance are improved. And in a few weeks, this easy and pleasurable exercise makes visible changes in his body. Yet, the amazing thing about T’ai Chi is that there is no adverse side effect associated with it. Thus, almost everyone can virtually learn and study T’ai Chi Chuan as long as he or she is ready and is prepared to devote conscientiously to the art.

T’ai Chi Chuan’s movements are short, continuous, and flowing, to be performed without any interruption, throughout the whole demonstration of forms or postures, just like performing a ballet gracefully in water. T’ai Chi Chuan movements are to be performed in silence with supreme concentration and relaxation. The practitioner can listen to the inner music or rhythm he chooses for his own version of T’ai Ji Chuan.

And when these 108 movements are performed by an expert or a master, they are extremely beautiful to watch. There is hardly any activity more graceful, elegant, smooth, soothing and even tender! Imagine the fun and pleasure of expression through the body when the individual slowly transforms those beautiful poetic words such as ‘Waving Hands Like Clouds’ etc. that signify much of its 108 movements, into an ever-changing never-stopping cycle.

Nuclear power dangerous

By LEN WALLACE

Nuclear power is harbingers of a new era or potential deathmaker? Such is the question presented to the public by supporters and opponents. Despite the many advances the argu­ tion presented to the public by Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro hold that 50 per cent of Ontario’s power supply will come from nuclear energy by the year 2000. If this is accomplished, one million pounds of radioactive plutonium will be produced each year.

Uranium is really the magic ingredient for nuclear power, but recently, plutonium has increasingly taken its place. This substance is more dangerous than uranium. If allowed to enter the atmosphere it stays deadly about 250,000 years.

As researcher Howard Kohn notes, a soft-ball steel bag of plutonium if properly dispersed, could visit cancer on any human on earth.

Uranium is the threat of a major disaster ever present with nuclear reactors. In 1952, Ontario’s River predicted such an incident when less than a million pounds of radioactive water was released into the reactor’s basement. The community of Deep River could have been lost. After a second accident took place in 1972, the decontamination of the site took three months.

In 1972, two workers died from a hydrogen sulphide gas leak at Point Tupper, Nova Scotia. Workers in the plant were evacuated. Residents were never told.

In January of this year, Ontario environment minister George Kerr announced that the drinking water of the village of Serpent River contained over twice the level of radioactive radium particles considered safe. Although a commission had known about this in 1970, residents were never warned.

Near Detroit, in 1966, the Fermi fast breeder reactor went on the blink. Research into causes of the accident lasted almost a year and a half. Over $100 million was invested into the plant which had operated for only 30 days. In August 1972, its license was not extended. The plant was dismantled but radioactive sodium still sits unguarded in trash basins.

Howard Kohn was left a description of some of the tragedies which may happen in reality. At the Kerr-McGee plant in Shiprock, New Mexico: “One day a worker bent to adjust a compressor unit; it exploded, ripping through his hand and tearing off the top of his head, scattering tissue over the ceiling. He died instantly. ‘When I got there,’ remembers a former lab technician, ’they were washing down the drain.’”

Another researcher, Ralph Torte further explains that ‘The nuclear fuel cycle is a potential danger. In 1976, a royal commission reported that 20,000 reactor workers exceeded those for workers at nuclear reactors. From 1958 to 1974, dust levels in Ontario uranium mines were below safety guidelines. Again, nothing was done.

But not only is it impossible to keep an accurate track of inventories of nuclear materials, security is so light as to be ridiculous. Greenpeace members have entered Ontario’s Bruce nuclear station without trouble and roamed freely.

Radioactive wastes are just as much a danger as production. As early as 1974, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission created over 200 million gallons of highly radioactive waste, which was stored underground in concrete and steel tanks. The tanks are expected to last only about a century. The wastes will remain dangerous for about 600 years.

Nuclear development has been conducted by government and large business interests such as Gulf, General Electric and Westinghouse. Contracts have been profitable, but plants have been uneconomical, in cost and performance. Alternative energy forms such as solar energy could be implemented without these problems.

The presence of deaths and almost-disasters are too numerous to be taken lightly. The Pickering reactor is a half hour drive from Toronto. If any accident happened, five million people would be affected. Do you really need nuclear power?
Dear Editor:

In what should be my final submission on this continuing topic of Mr. Prime Minister, I shall reiterate my position which has been grossly distorted by both Mr. Wallace and Philip Rose in their letters of Nov. 25, Briefly, Pierre Trudeau qualifies a man for the office of Prime Minister, but only for their ideology, but only for their act.

Their primary disagreement with the article has to do with making Hannah Martin Schleier somewhat dementing of death because of his past during the 1930's and '40's. Nothing of a criminal nature has been proven against him, but Mr. Wallace thinks nothing of smearing him by this tawdry trick, where he obviously cannot defend himself.

The Red Army Faction that hijacked a Luftbahn airline merely "wished to achieve a peaceful society through violence" we read from Mr. Wallace. This group did not merely make an error as in "political errorism", the term used by Mr. Wallace. The group is in fact an international gang organization.

Mr. Wallace states that three members of the Baader-Meinhof gang were supposedly murdered by the only justice in the murders of the Gestapo. This is not the only case. Saving West German taxpayers the bother of feeding the scam. This bloodlust may startle some, but the terrorists of the world are at war with civilized society. War cannot be fought with kid gloves but only with mailed fists.

Mr. Wallace is concerned with the fact that West German actions against terrorists are or may be pretext for decreasing civil liberties. This view implies a return to Fascism. Israel would be interested to know that its fighting the P.L.O. is merely a pretext for installing a Fascist State. Unlike some, I do not hold to that interpretation.

Mr. Wallace must recognize that restricting the rights of terrorists does not threaten the restriction of civil liberties. Who complains that the law that allows parents to keep custody of their children because they beat them, is a pretext by the govt. to abrogate the civil rights of all children from their parents? Obviously Mr. Wallace does, as according to his logic, a cracking a few terrorist heads together is the first step in the denial of civil liberties for all citizens.

In conclusion let me say that a government can protect the freedoms of its citizens better by repeating the civil liberties lost by allowing the terrorists to repeal the civil liberties of citizens.

Respectfully yours,

William English

1st Year Law Student

A Rose is a Rose is wrong

Dear Editor:

Philip Rose, in attacking David Camelleti's defence of Pierre Trudeau, pleads for the "facts", which to select a norm, one advice. He argues that Canada's economic performance ought to be judged against that of the U.S. with whom we have "such close economic ties". But if this were to be the sole criteria upon which to select a norm, one wonders why a deponent's financial position ought not to be compared with his bank's, investor's with his stockbroker's or an employee's with his employer's. In fact, Mr. Rose has adopted a grossly simplistic criterion, of notwithstanding his admission to Mr. Camelleti, has simply chosen not to give us "the facts".

In any event, comprehensive studies such as the federal government's "Foreign Direct Investment in Canada", compared under the direction of W. H. Rose, suggest that it is the nature of this economic tie which itself causes more problems than the differences between our economics. Mr. Rose goes on to impugn Mr. Camelleti's motives by suggesting that he aspires to a position in the Cabinet and that he be a mouthpiece for the Liberal Party. This first suggestion is either rabid, or Mr. Camelleti strained attempt to be funny. The second suggestion is simple inaccurate. Mr. Camelleti is not a member of the cabinet, neither is he known to us. Furthermore, the information that club members partake of because of their political ambitions, is a cheap and unwarranted shot.

You like it? It's yours.

the service is unmentionable and unprofitable (i.e., absent, not here). So be happy while ye may. Think yourself lucky and DON'T COMPLAIN.

Sincerely,

C. Spence Kent England

You're a Rose is a Rose is wrong.

Dear Editor:

Your article headed: "Food Services on Campus Stinks" by E.P. Chant in your October 7th international edition. You think you've got problems! Ha! At least you can have it in "SAC Services"! At least you get some sort of food service, if you're so service of some sort of service, other realms of the world (and there are civilizations aside from Canada's and big O.K.) as well as though they've never heard of the world. If they ever have, they certainly aren't in the rest. This food here is not worthy of such a noble name, and you're a Rose is a Rose is wrong.

Dear Editor:

I would also like to mention my utter disgust at my front page photo in one of your autumn editions. It was going through the motions of With a woman in next eq- uite. And I thought yours was a respectful paper!

Dear Editor:

Mr. Rose goes on to impugn Mr. Camelleti's motives by suggesting that he aspires to a position in the Cabinet and that he be a mouthpiece for the Liberal Party. This first suggestion is either rabid, or Mr. Camelleti strained attempt to be funny. The second suggestion is simply inaccurate. Mr. Camelleti is not a member of the cabinet, neither is he known to us. Furthermore, the information that club members partake of because of their political ambitions, is a cheap and unwarranted shot.

You like it? It's yours.

the service is unmentionable and unprofitable (i.e., absent, not here). So be happy while ye may. Think yourself lucky and DON'T COMPLAIN.

Sincerely,

C. Spence Kent England

You're a Rose is a Rose is wrong.

Dear Editor:

Your article headed: "Food Services on Campus Stinks" by E.P. Chant in your October 7th international edition. You think you've got problems! Ha! At least you can have it in "SAC Services"! At least you get some sort of food service, if you're so service of some sort of service, other realms of the world (and there are civilizations aside from Canada's and big O.K.) as well as though they've never heard of the world. If they ever have, they certainly aren't in the rest. This food here is not worthy of such a noble name, and you're a Rose is a Rose is wrong.

Dear Editor:

I would also like to mention my utter disgust at my front page photo in one of your autumn editions. It was going through the motions of With a woman in next eq- uite. And I thought yours was a respectful paper!
RCMP, FBI clandestine activities revealed

By RICK SPENCE

The Freedom of Information Act in the United States has resulted in the release of papers which reveal the FBI sent phony and threatening letters to the parents of students and to the University of Michigan Board of Regents as part of a campaign to control student unrest in the 1960s.

According to The Detroit Free Press, the FBI analyzed five Michigan universities in 1968 and decided the University of Michigan presented the most dangerous political atmosphere. A memorandum from the Detroit FBI office to then-Director J. Edgar Hoover said that U-M's new president, Dr. Robert Fleming, was "weak," and stated that "virtually every student demand made in recent years has been met."

The report also said that the radical Students for a Democratic Society dominated the student government and the student newspaper, and stated that "no university-made rules are enforced" by the student body.

The FBI's counterintelligence campaign involved writing anonymous letters to members of the U-M Board of Regents (equivalent to Windsor's Board of Governors) complaining about state taxes used to "subsidize the efforts of those dedicated to the overturn of our existing society." FBI headquarters, in approving the letter, made some changes in order to make the letter appear "more amateurish" according to The Free Press.

Additionally, parents of an SDS member received a letter hinting their daughter had contracted gonorrhea with SDS, and a letter signed "a patriotic American" was received by a brigadier general whose daughter was allegedly involved in the Young Socialist Alliance. When contacted by The Lance, Dr. Fleming said he could not remember the letters sent by the FBI to the regents. He said they received many such letters during the days of student activism.

Fleming called the FBI's tactics in sending anonymous letters to parents "deplorable" and "uncalled for." But he didn't think the letters had much effect. "At the time it was widely rumored that these things were coming from the FBI."

Fleming discounted the importance of the student movement. "If they (the FBI) thought that there was about to be a revolution based on the activities of the more radical students at the university, they had very bad judgement. It is not true that there was a real large group committed to violence."

Fleming added, "I certainly don't think the FBI helped anything, by what they did."

He said that local FBI men sent back to headquarters reports taking credit for things they hadn't accomplished.

Recent government excuses for not acting on the RCMP problem: "The Minister of Justice said an incredible thing - he can't investigate these things because the only investigators he has are in the RCMP."

The CCLA will "work like hell" to see the RCMP case does not just blow over, Borovoy told a member of the audience.

"Our practical job is to see that these people obey the law." He suggested an ombudsman or civilian review board could be established to keep an eye on the RCMP.

The audience which consisted mainly of law students, asked several pessimistic questions at Borovoy, asking whether parliamentary democracy is doomed, if Canada is in danger of becoming a police state, and whether the RCMP and the government should be opposed, since mail has been running four-to-one in favor of the prime minister.

Borovoy said he hoped the RCMP crisis wouldn't degenerate into a debate over giving the police more power, since such a debate would "deflect public attention from the enormity that's involved." He said the existing laws must be vindicated: "The police must agree to respect limits on their powers before we give them more."

Borovoy closed his seventy-minute forum with a personal note. He recounted that when students used to ask him about civil disobedience, he used to tell them to "concentrate on being more imaginative and effective within the law."

Now Borovoy considers it ironic that he has to "plead with the prime minister of this country to say the same thing to the police."

Dean of the law faculty Ron Ianni closed the session by saying that Borovoy's efforts in defending civil liberties should serve as an example and an inspiration to the law students.
Exploding nuclear myths

By BOB THOMPSON
John Melvin of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited (AECL) recently addressed students at the Ambassador Auditorium on many aspects of nuclear energy in Canada, including whether it is necessary, whether it is safe, and whether there are any possible alternatives.

Melvin stated that the demand for energy is rising very rapidly, and if we continue to base the bulk of our energy demands on fossil fuels such as oil and coal, they will soon become depleted and no longer available. He also claimed that solar and wind energy are spread too thinly to be tapped as a large-scale energy source. In support of this statement, he said that if 55-metre high windmills were built and operated in a high wind, it would take 5000 such windmills to match the daily power output of AECL’s nuclear generating plant at Pickering, Ontario.

Another point that he tried to make was that the danger of radioactive contamination by nuclear plants is exaggerated. He pointed out that since the Quebec government is in control of the Atomic Energy Commission, the organization is not a “social club”. He also expressed the desire that nuclear plants are designed with independent safety systems which are tested regularly.

Melvin said, since Quebec is “more nuclear” he minimized the dangers of nuclear power. He stated that nuclear plants are designed of an increase. Another point that he tried to make was that the danger of radioactive contamination by nuclear plants is exaggerated. He said, “I le also expressed the desire that nuclear plants are designed with independent safety systems which are tested regularly.”

New on campus:
Black Students’ Union

By ERIC MAYNE
Like most students at the University of Windsor, this reporter is guilty of being only “half informed”. For example, I was aware of the existence of the Black Students’ Union but had no idea what role it played on campus.

Unlike most students at the University of Windsor, I chose to remedy my situation. The Black Students’ Union is an organization with a purpose similar to that of the Chinese Students’ Association. Though not quite as large, the B.S.A. is equally enthusiastic about its culture and its potential to contribute to campus and community life.

Wayne Williams, acting treasurer for the organization says they are committed to the development of “Black awareness”, but he is quick to point out that membership is not restricted to race. He mentioned that of the 103 members, a small number were not black and many are members of the faculty.

In addition, Williams stated that the organization is not politically oriented either. “We want to learn more from each other. We represent a cross-section of African, Caribbean, Black-Canadian and Americans.”

He also expressed the desires of the Black Students’ Union to become a “functional organization” involved in service, not a “social club”.

“Our aim is functional. We would like to put out in the community by affiliating ourselves with other organizations.”

Toward this end they are currently involved in the negotiation of a constitution which would regulate these activities. Unfortunately they are experiencing some internal problems which prevent them from meeting on a regular basis but hopefully these will be resolved soon.

Differential fees in Quebec?

The Loyola News has revealed that Quebec government may soon institute differential fees for foreign students. There has been much speculation about the imposition of differential fees in Quebec, but John O’Brien, Rector of Montreal’s Concordia University, started an official rumour by stating “Word has it they (differential fees) may be in for next year.” However, students are not at the planning stage.

By PAUL DOUGLAS-DALY
Have you ever wondered who has the ultimate control of academic affairs at this university? Well, wonder no more. That control lies in the hands of the Senate.

The Senate consists of a 55 member body. There is a representative from each faculty, plus four members who represent the entire student body. Recently there has been talk of increasing the number of student representatives, but Senator Dr. P. Pilkay says things are still up in the air, and just too premature to even consider.

Maryon Overholt feels there is a need for stronger student representation in terms of, “Four people just can’t staff for the entire student body. We should try to establish a cross-section of views.” She feels the student representation has been a token gesture. Some students have as many as fifteen students sitting on their Senate. When Gary Wells was questioned on the chances of increasing student representation on the Senate he said, “At the present everything is at the investigating stage. It looks like student representation will be raised to six, but it’s not definite, they are still at the planning stage.”

The Senate controls such student related topics as academic course evaluation, enrolment, tuition, and OSAP. Overholt feels students should be better represented on the Senate to deal with these issues.

The next Senate meeting will probably be held next week and is open to everyone. If you are interested in the policy making of the university you should attend. It will have an effect on you.
By P.J. CHANT

I suppose the ancient Patterson Playhouse (Elliot and Goyeau Streets, in the St.
Clair College Adult Education building) has a certain anti­ rude charm-like a ballroom in a leper colony.

The most recent play prevented, "Charley's Aunt" by Brandon Thomas, did not suffer from leprosy, but it was seriously ailing. Fortunately, it is not an ailment that a totally new script and cast could not cure.

Nevertheless, the Windsor
Community Theatre did go ahead and present this sickly piece on November 25 and 26,
and plan to present it again
morrow night. (rather like a
British play with smaller casts,
but not as farcical as Charlie's
Aunt, especially, though she did often and, incidentally, did not
be relevant to today's society.

Well, what can you say.
That quote came from a man
who has dominated the slinky,
sex music market for years.
It's rather depressing. Bowie's
music is interesting, no matter what sexual mood he's in, but I am, quite honestly, geting sick of the whole heap of rubbish. The sex bit, that is.
Yesterday I glanced through
People magazine (and plan to not an ailment that a totally new script and cast could not cure.

Nevertheless, the Windsor
Community Theatre did go ahead and present this sickly
piece on November 25 and 26,
and plan to present it again
morrow night. (rather like a
British play with smaller casts,
but not as farcical as Charlie's
Aunt, especially, though she did
often and, incidentally, did not
be relevant to today's society.

Well, what can you say.
That quote came from a man
who has dominated the slinky,
sex music market for years.
It's rather depressing. Bowie's
music is interesting, no matter what sexual mood he's in, but I
am, quite honestly, geting sick of the whole heap of rubbish. The sex bit, that is.
Yesterday I glanced through
People magazine (and plan to not an ailment that a totally new script and cast could not cure.

Nevertheless, the Windsor
Community Theatre did go ahead and present this sickly
piece on November 25 and 26,
and plan to present it again
morrow night. (rather like a
British play with smaller casts,
but not as farcical as Charlie's
Aunt, especially, though she did
often and, incidentally, did not
be relevant to today's society.

Well, what can you say.
That quote came from a man
who has dominated the slinky,
sex music market for years.
It's rather depressing. Bowie's
music is interesting, no matter what sexual mood he's in, but I
am, quite honestly, geting sick of the whole heap of rubbish. The sex bit, that is.
Yesterday I glanced through
People magazine (and plan to not an ailment that a totally new script and cast could not cure.

Nevertheless, the Windsor
Community Theatre did go ahead and present this sickly
piece on November 25 and 26,
1. What was the title used by the rulers of the German empire which ended in 1918?
2. Who was the dauphin crowned at Rheims with Joan of Arc standing at his side?
3. Who was the first Mongol Emperor of China?
4. Which Egyptian ruler had a name which literally meant "the life of Amun is pleasing"?
5. Which species of bear is the largest living land carnivore?
6. What is the river that is named "Mother" in Russian folklore?
7. What is the name of the festival observed by Moslems during which they fast from sunrise to sunset every day for a month?
8. Who was the dauphin crowned at Rheims with Joan of Arc standing at his side?
9. One of Richard Wagner's operas is called Gotterdammerung, what is the English translation of that title?
10. If you weighed 180 pounds on earth, what would you weigh on Mars?
11. Halley's Comet was last seen in 1910, when will it be visible again?
12. What is the Japanese art of dwarfing trees?
13. The boyhood home of Mark Twain has the same name as a great Carthaginian general, what is it?
14. What musical instrument and dance was formerly associated with "balsam of Peru", an anti-cough syrup?
15. In Braille, there are 63 possible arrangements of dots in each cell. What is the maximum number of dots in each cell?
Iggy Stooge

Metallic K.O.

By DOMENEC D'AMORE

"Open up and bleed" is the phrase that is printed on the back of this album cover, and rightly so. Iggy (Stooge) Pop was infamous for his sadomasochistic on stage act, with his band of three-chord metal madmen.

Just about anyone who is fairly knowledgeable about rock 'n roll has heard the name of Iggy and The Stooges. Familiar as he was for diving into broken glass, and assaulting himself physically, Iggy could put out something interesting if not always enjoyable rock 'n' roll. He has been declared the 'godfather of punk', and, even if this is true, their brand of rock is still very much the Stooges' classic Detroit sound that was characteristic of The Original Stooges and the music of their second line-up. Yet the rare raw power of a live Stooges performance! P.S. . . . keep your kids away from that album - its a power ballad rock of the seventies.

Recently Iggy has turned over a new leaf, done away with his violence, and in the process released two new albums. Both include a great deal of songwriting by David Bowie. The first Iggy solo album was entitled The Idiot and his latest release is called Lust for Life. Both fine albums, especially Lust for Life, which comes across with some good rock'n'roll. In the first album (Metallic K.O.) Iggy was involved in most of the writing.

Metallic K.O. is the final performance by the legendary Iggy and The Stooges, recorded live at (the late) Michigan Palace in Detroit. Side one opens with the Stooges' classic Raw Power, then runs into Head On and finally, Gimme Danger. The concert sounds as if it was recorded on a battery operated cassette recorder like the one your little brother or sister might play with. Yet the album is very captivating because it brings across the true power and savage type of ranting that was characteristic of The Stooges and the music of their era.

Side two is made up of two original "live" cuts never recorded on any previous Iggy and The Stooges LPs. A recent shuffling of members has lefterry Boulle, lead vocals, and Johnny Gravel, lead guitarist, with the new addition of Norm Kerr on bass, Chester Thompson on rhythm guitar, and Pierre Lavoie on drums.

The band even takes time to introduce one song Louie Louie. The music is the same, but Iggy adds some of his own twist and grotesque lyrics.

The performances on the albums are very well done and quite true to the originals. What you expect from a band that was sort of a live act by Melody Maker (Number one rock band! Rocking Stone called it Number three). The dance-flavoured Squonk and the mistifying Afterglow are the highlights of the album (the rest of it's pretty good too).

By FRANK KOVACIC

It seems fitting that the last album released by Genesis would encompass the entire band. The Peter Gabriel era is over (The Lamb Lies Down on Broadway, The Carpet Crawlers) as is their tour with Bill Bruford (Squonk, Los Endo) and their final tour with new addition Chester Thompson (Afterglow).

I didn't really think that the band would carry on without the magic supplied by the music and lyrics of Peter Gabriel but it was somewhat expected.-rock 'n' roll and Wuthering Heights were two very solid LPs. The demise of the band was halfexpected since Phil Collins . . .

Genesis was formed in 1972. A recent shuffling of members has lefterry Boulle, lead vocals, and Johnny Gravel, lead guitarist, with the new additions of Norm Kerr on bass, and Pierre Lavoie on drums. Also, the group joined the as a second lead guitarist. Millaute has a notable reputation for playing with Detroit's bluesmen and the Atlanta rhythm and blues section, holding everything together. Offenbach does a fine job of laying down the blues in the track. El blues me guette.

By DER KENNEDY

I'm excited about Offenbach for three reasons: 1) their album Offenbach is a power house of rock and roll, 2) they claim to want raving madness and dancing in the aisles at their concerts, and 3) they are from Quebec.

Offenbach formed in 72. A recent shuffling of members has lefterry Boulle, lead vocals, and Johnny Gravel, lead guitarist, with the new additions of Norm Kerr on bass, and Pierre Lavoie on drums. Also, the group joined the as a second lead guitarist. Millaute has a notable reputation for playing with Detroit's bluesmen and the Atlanta rhythm and blues section, holding everything together. Offenbach does a fine job of laying down the blues in the track. El blues me guette.

The band even takes time to hold off on the raunch and do a few belly dance, like Reve A Lachute and La Voix Que Jal, which includes a decent shrill guitar solo. Overall, you can expect to find some sophisti cated jamming.

I just hope that Offenbach tours this area soon, because the energy they put across on this album could be put into a heavy rock or roll album.
The "Greatest" of A taste of Eric Clapton shows his performance at Catharsis last week-end was like transcending the barriers of time and space. Bloom's dexterity at mastering instruments ranging from traditional to foreign to modern and everything in between, is awesome.

Just for the record, I asked Ken to list the instruments he played and he said, "The ones I carry with me all the time are the guitar, dulcimer, clarinet, concertina, Ukrainian hand-drum, and small pipes. At home I've got a dobro, a couple of Irish harps, a beloika, a few more clarinets, and then on recording sessions 1 end up playing banjo, mandolin, saxophone, sometimes steel guitar. I can't remember them all. If it's needed, I do it."

Out of this endless list can there be a favorite? Ken said, "One of my favorites is the small pipes because that's the latest instrument I've added, I'm sort of like a kid who gets new toys and plays with them. A recent addition. I'm sort of like a kid who has a lot of toys and keeps playing with them."

As a junior in college, Ken played horns in wedding and reception bands. This led him to a rock and roll group where he started playing guitar as well as other stringed instruments. His studies of Indian music include a few months in India and he was taught by Ravi Shankar while in Los Angeles. Meanwhile, Ken studied English at U.C.L.A., and when he entered law school he spent most of his time hanging out in a guitar shop, where he was taught how to make guitars.

Ken says, "Now, if there is an instrument I want and I can't afford, I make it."

Ken's musical experiences are multifarious. He discussed some of them, "I've played with Linda Konstadt, for awhile, Steve Goodman quite frequently, occasionally with Bromberg... as you see, I was the first episode of Mod Squad, that's me playing the guitar."

Ken also performs in colleges, coffeehouses, and at concerts throughout North America. He backs people up on road tours, does studio work and so on. Yet his favorite work is on the album "Pilgrim's Progress, which is a song he used to close the Winnipeg Folk Festival in the summer. He used essentially the same band, which consisted of four horns, four back-up singers, piano, bass, drums and guitar. Half of the material on the album is original such as Making Whoopie, and Sitting on top of the World. The other half is either traditional or someone else's.

One such song is Pilgrim's Progress, a song that is sung by a couple of the people who worked on the album on Flying Fish Records, which will be in mixing in December, and which will be out by the end of January. Some of the songs are similar to what he does on stage, others are a lot more heartfelt."

To sum up the feeling he tries to get across, Ken Bloom asserted, "First of all, I hope people enjoy themselves. Second of all, I try and expose them to some music and some instruments that maybe they haven't seen. Maybe we'll spur some of the people to investigate some of these instruments a little bit more themselves, and play some of that stuff."

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure Live Nightly Entertainment Fri. Dec. 2 — Sat. Dec. 3 "MEADOWS" Mon. Dec. 5 — Sat. Dec. 10 "ERIE" DIRECT FROM MICHIGAN

S.A.C. THE GALLERY LOUNGE

YOUR HOST PETER ROMERIL

Bands for your dancing and listening pleasure Live Nightly Entertainment Fri. Dec. 2 — Sat. Dec. 3 "MEADOWS"

Mon. Dec. 5 — Sat. Dec. 10 "ERIE" DIRECT FROM MICHIGAN

CHRISTIAN CULTURE SERIES PRESENTS

NIHAL FONSEKA

Answers to trivia quiz

Tuesdays: 250
Wednesdays: 245
Thursdays: 237
Fridays: 225

"Nihal — an operatic tenor with one of those powerful, clear voices that can rattle the stands in the University of Michigan Stadium." —Detroit News

CONCERT: Sunday, December 4, 8:20 p.m. Cleary Auditorium, Wayne State University.
Tickets available: Hudson's, Exclusive Book Office; Market Street Sheet Music Store & Assumption University, Room 211 A.A.M. 50; Cleary Book Office that evening.

Sugg. Don. $5; $4: $3 Inform. 234-1722

MOSAIC

By CJAM

On the Mosaic program featured daily at 11:00 a.m., CJAM presents interviews and programs of interest to the entire community.

Monday, December 5 — Don Peppin talks with federal M.P. Jod Baldwin about the freedom and accessibility of information in the media. Listen in and find out what's news this week.

Tuesday, December 6 — Folk artist Ken Bloom is interviewed by Deb Kennedy on his career and the prospects of the new Catharsis album, which will be out in December. Meanwhile, Ken studied English at U.C.L.A., and when he entered law school he spent most of his time hanging out in a guitar shop, where he was taught how to make guitars.

FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL

The Friday Nite Special features Kanvas on December 2, at 11:00 p.m. with music from their newest album a week before their show in Detroit.

LANCER HOCKEY

Our Lancer hockey team plays host to the University of Water- land Wolves this weekend at Adie Know Arena on Wyandotte Avenue (about 16 miles southeast downtown). If you can't make it to the game tune in CJAM as Gino Cavallo and Don Peppin follow the action beginning on Saturday, December 3 and Sunday, December 4.

Answers to trivia quiz

Tuesdays: 250
Wednesdays: 245
Thursdays: 237
Fridays: 225

"Nihal — an operatic tenor with one of those powerful, clear voices that can rattle the stands in the University of Michigan Stadium." — Detroit News

CONCERT: Sunday, December 4, 8:20 p.m. Cleary Auditorium, Wayne State University.
Tickets available: Hudson's, Exclusive Book Office; Market Street Sheet Music Store & Assumption University, Room 211 A.A.M. 50; Cleary Book Office that evening.

Sugg. Don. $5; $4: $3 Inform. 234-1722

MOSAIC

By CJAM

On the Mosaic program featured daily at 11:00 a.m., CJAM presents interviews and programs of interest to the entire community.

Monday, December 5 — Don Peppin talks with federal M.P. Jod Baldwin about the freedom and accessibility of information in the media. Listen in and find out what's news this week.

Tuesday, December 6 — Folk artist Ken Bloom is interviewed by Deb Kennedy on his career and the prospects of the new Catharsis album, which will be out in December. Meanwhile, Ken studied English at U.C.L.A., and when he entered law school he spent most of his time hanging out in a guitar shop, where he was taught how to make guitars.

FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL

The Friday Nite Special features Kanvas on December 2, at 11:00 p.m. with music from their newest album a week before their show in Detroit.

LANCER HOCKEY

Our Lancer hockey team plays host to the University of Water- land Wolves this weekend at Adie Know Arena on Wyandotte Avenue (about 16 miles southeast downtown). If you can't make it to the game tune in CJAM as Gino Cavallo and Don Peppin follow the action beginning on Saturday, December 3 and Sunday, December 4.

Answers to trivia quiz

Tuesdays: 250
Wednesdays: 245
Thursdays: 237
Fridays: 225

"Nihal — an operatic tenor with one of those powerful, clear voices that can rattle the stands in the University of Michigan Stadium." — Detroit News

CONCERT: Sunday, December 4, 8:20 p.m. Cleary Auditorium, Wayne State University.
Tickets available: Hudson's, Exclusive Book Office; Market Street Sheet Music Store & Assumption University, Room 211 A.A.M. 50; Cleary Book Office that evening.

Sugg. Don. $5; $4: $3 Inform. 234-1722

MOSAIC

By CJAM

On the Mosaic program featured daily at 11:00 a.m., CJAM presents interviews and programs of interest to the entire community.

Monday, December 5 — Don Peppin talks with federal M.P. Jod Baldwin about the freedom and accessibility of information in the media. Listen in and find out what's news this week.

Tuesday, December 6 — Folk artist Ken Bloom is interviewed by Deb Kennedy on his career and the prospects of the new Catharsis album, which will be out in December. Meanwhile, Ken studied English at U.C.L.A., and when he entered law school he spent most of his time hanging out in a guitar shop, where he was taught how to make guitars.

FRIDAY NITE SPECIAL

The Friday Nite Special features Kanvas on December 2, at 11:00 p.m. with music from their newest album a week before their show in Detroit.

LANCER HOCKEY

Our Lancer hockey team plays host to the University of Water- land Wolves this weekend at Adie Know Arena on Wyandotte Avenue (about 16 miles southeast downtown). If you can't make it to the game tune in CJAM as Gino Cavallo and Don Peppin follow the action beginning on Saturday, December 3 and Sunday, December 4.
Canadians preparing for Can-Am bowl

By PETER NASH

History is in the making this year with the first meeting of a Canadian and an American all-star college football team. The CIAU all-star team will face a group of NCAA all-stars on January 8th in Tampa Bay, Florida.

The University of Windsor has 2 players on the squad, Jim Cimba, a defensive back, and Bruce Walker, a wide receiver. Both the Windsor players were chosen in a group of 8 players meant to fill out the all-star team into an entire squad. Bruce Walker is enjoying his membership on the OUAA all-star team for the first time as well as being chosen to go to Tampa Bay. Walker noted that "It will be great experience for me to play in this game." When questioned about having to adjust to a new quarterback and a new system, Walker said "A new quarterback shouldn't be much more and since we were a primarily passing team this year, there probably won't be many plays I don't already know."

Although the Windsor players were originally picked, their chances of playing are still good. Darwin Sumotiai, picked, as head coach for the team, noted that "Positions are up for grabs." This means that in order to start for the team a player is going to have to show his merit in practice. Credentials are not going to be enough to be a starter.

The practices will begin the day after Christmas in Tampa Bay. The players will have approximately 10 days practice together before going up against the Americans.

Jim Cimba, Windsor's second representative, feels that "This is a historical event. The first meeting of Canadian and American players on the football field." This is Cimba's second time on the all OUAA team. He received all-star status at Western before coming to Windsor.

There shouldn't be much confusion between Cimba and Sumotiai. During his term at Western, Sumotiai was Cimba's defensive coach. Commenting on Sumotiai's coaching ability Cimba said that "Darwin is a great defensive strategist, I respect Darwin as a great coach."

Some people might feel the game will be uncompetitive. Cimba says that this could be a mistake. "I think it will be very competitive. It would be a fatal mistake going down there and worrying about the Americans' reputations." He said the key point was that the Canadian players should not go down to Tampa Bay with a negative attitude.

The American all-stars will come from the top three tiers. Most of the players will come from tier two schools, but the quarterbacks for the American squad come from tier one schools. The starting quarterback will be David Reynolds from Texas Tech. He is a Heisman trophy candidate. The second quarterback will be Lerman Hall of Army.

The game will be played by primarily Canadian rules. The field will be 110 yards long with 10-yard end zones. There will be 12 players to a side, 3 downs, and the Canadian scoring system will be used. The game will take place in Tampa Bay Stadium, an artificial turf.

A study done last year at Penn State University showed that an agility, strength and several other points the Canadians were quite close to the Americans. The difference between the countries is that the Americans have more players to choose from and they have bigger and better coaching staffs. Canadian coaches are forced to do many jobs themselves while the Americans have a complicated system of assistant coaches.

The game should be competitive but the edge must be given to the Americans. They have a huge and powerful football machine unmatched by anything in Canada.

The game will be covered by CBC nationally and anyone interested in going to the game should contact travel services at Western and Waterloo. Both schools are organizing charters.

Lancerettes Improving

Swim results

On Saturday, November 26, the Lancerette Swim team placed fifth overall out of eleven universities after narrowly missing out on third place in the 400 metre medley relay. It's been a long time since Windsor put fear into any team, been a long time since Windsor.

For details, call Doug Bates, 944-0281 after 6 pm.

By PAUL DOUGLAS-DAILY

Over the weekend the Lancerettes volleyball squad of eight went to McMaster University to compete in the Ontario Volleyball Association Tournament. The Lancerettes came through with two impressive victories, and one dismal loss.

In their first match, the Lancerettes defeated the Scarborough Saints by a comfortable 15-3, 15-12, 15-7 margin. The team then went on to defeat the strong Toronto team of S.S.C. by decisive scores of 15-13, 15-10, 15-9.

Coach Marge Prepich felt the team was playing their best games of the season thus far. Prepich commented, "Both teams were excellent, so we knew we had to be strong. The girls were playing a great defensive game by making every point count, and by getting the crucial victory."

The Lancerettes' playing tactics did not hold out in their second game. They lost to York University 15-6, 15-3, 15-8. Coach Prepich said, "I think I have a whole team, we were beat at our own game. We totally lost the opposition intimidation." A few weeks time, the team goes to St. Catherine's in order to compete in a tri-meet tournament with Brock University and Queens.

Literate Sports Riter Needed

VARSITY CURLING
For details, call Doug Bates, 944-0281 after 6 pm.
Mac Hall football

By JOHN MORTIMER

This weekend was the action for more than one type of Grey Cup game. The quad, by the residences, was the site of the Mini Grey Cup Tournament. On Saturday the floors fought hard for playoff positions. Sunday, the Grey Cup Games, the results were as follows:

Western Semi-Finals
Saskatchewan (10th) wins over Calgary (6th) 2-1.

Eastern Semi-Finals
Hamilton (7th) wins over Toronto (9th).

Mini Grey Cup Game
Saskatchewan (10th) wins over Hamilton (7th).

The games ended as a cold and exhausting experience for both the football players and the cheerleaders. The 6th floor cheerleaders won a close race for first against 7th floor cheerleaders.

Not many students have heard of synchronized swimming, but last Saturday in London, our Lancerette team swept the sectional meet. The sectional meet involves all the Universities west of Toronto. Our team swam into first place in overall points in the meet.

Pat placed first in Senior figures with Sharon placing second, and Meredith Irwin coming in sixth. Donna Young placed fifth in Novice figures, Barb Peebles finished ninth, and Debbie Powell also did very well drawing up in fourteenth spot.

In the duets competition, Pat and Sharon were again in first place, and Barb Peebles and Meredith Irwin conquered third place. Donna Young, an import from the University of Manitoba, captured fourth place in solo competitions, and Heather Wilton came in sixth.

The efforts of the team were combined to gain a second finish in the team routines.

The team has quality swimmers and looks forward to your support at the Regional Meet to be held in Windsor on January 21.

Synchro swimmers on cue

Intramural stats

INTRAMURAL HOCKEY STANDINGS AS OF WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1977

W L T GF GA Pts

A'
Screaming 4 0 0 8 3 8
Eagles 3 0 1 7 5 5
Plumber's 2 0 1 3 6 2
Commerce 2 0 0 3 6 2
Blues 1 3 0 8 6 2
Flyers 0 2 1 5 3 1
Gators 0 2 1 5 3 1

RESULTS:
Gators - 3
Law "A" - 1
Screaming Eagles - 2

B'

Rockets 3 0 0 6
Law Flames 3 0 0 3
Bulls 2 0 1 4
Raccoons 2 1 0 4
HK Blades 2 2 0 4
Candies 2 2 0 4
Dudes 2 2 0 4

RESULTS:
HK Blades - 2
Commerce - 6
Sabres - 6
Rockets - 6
Social Work - 9
Godox - 6
Bulls - 2
Candies - 2

Notice swimmers

Pool to close

The University Pool will close for year-end cleaning and maintenance during the following time periods:

Close: December 18, (Sunday) 8:00 p.m.
Open: January 3, (Tuesday) 8:00 a.m.

General SAC meeting

Thursday, Dec. 8, 1977
at 5:30 pm in the SAC office
Lancers on track with 3 point weekend

By DON PEPPIN

The Lancer hockey team is finally beginning to convince themselves as well as their fans that they really are a good hockey team. They certainly showed it over the past week as they skated to two victories and one tie.

Last weekend the Lancers faced off against the Guelph Gryphons in a two game weekend series. Windsor was definitely hurting from an exhibition game they played against Western Michigan the week before but they went to the ice anyway. Even with a few cracked ribs, a sore hind-side and numerous bumps and bruises the team outclassed the Gryphons by so much that it was difficult to understand why the score wasn't ten or twelve to three instead of the 3-3 tie the game ended in. Sunday the team came out on top of a hard skating game, 4-3 against the same Gryphons and Tuesday they travelled to Waterloo and downed the Warriors 5-3.

The Lancers got back in the game. Jack Rosassen tied it up midway through the second period but three minutes later former Windsorite Scott McKenzie put the Gryphons up again. With four minutes left, Kirk Marshall passed one across the Guelph goal mouth and Maurice Birou hammered it home to tie it up 3-3. The tension was maintained throughout to the last second as the action went from end to end.

Sunday's game seemed to pick up where Saturday's left off, with both teams coming out fast and furious.

The Lancers took the lead off another Boris goal at 9:15 of the first, but the team let down its guard at this point and Guelph's Tim Hurl tied it up with a cool deke around Lancer netminder Mike Freeman. Then things really began to look tough for the Lancers. In the next 41 seconds the Gryphons capitalized on a number of Lancer miscues as Russ Bryden and Hugh Mitchell made it 3-1. At this point the Lancers seemed to remember lessons of years past, when this team would just seem to fall apart. Luckily for them, and us, they're a better team than that and they set about the task of catching up.

In the second period old come from behind Kirk Marshall (the same one that reportedly is opening a hockey school specializing in over-time and last minute goals) brought th Lancers within one, getting the team back on track.

The games go 3-3. Finally putting 60 minutes of play together into one game they defeated the Warriors 5-3. Fournier led the scorers with two, Marty Henly and Jack Rosassen adding one each, and Greg Ducharme scoring on an empty net. Scott Hunter helped out the cause with three assists.

With those three points under their belts the Lancers travelled to Waterloo Tuesday. Finally putting 60 minutes of play together into one game they defeated the Brown Saints 6-1, struggling a bit in the first period but coming out fast and furious in the second.

The team plays host to those same Guelphies this weekend. These will be their last games before the Christmas break.

Fan support would help the weekend effort a great deal. The games go Saturday and Sunday at 3:15 at Adie Knox Arena on Wyandotte, get out and take a break from the books with something to get the old adrenalin going again.

---

Referendum

On December 5, 1977, all full time undergraduate students can vote on the following referendum question:

ARE YOU IN FAVOUR OF A $4.50 FEE INCREASE TO PROVIDE INDEPENDENT FUNDING FOR THE LANCE ON THE CONDITION THAT SUCH FEES ARE HELD IN TRUST UNTIL THE LANCE IS FORMED INTO A SEPARATE CORPORATE ENTITY?

POLS OPEN

Centre 10-6 Human Kinetics 10-4 Lebel 10-4
Math 10-4 Vanier 11-2; 4-6 Ed Fac 10-4
Six percent turn-out

Lance shackled by referendum

By BRENDA MCMASTER
It looks like CBWT was right. The Lance referendum turned out to be a "non-issue".

SAC held a referendum Monday to ask students if they would vote against the direct funding of the Student Action Committee. The voting occurred in the University Centre. The Faculty of Education votes were not counted until Tuesday afternoon, due to the snow and as confusion about the whereabouts of the key to the ballot box.

By RICK SPENCE
Lance editor Rick Spence was very disappointed with the turnout. He said he had expected that at least 1000 students would vote. "I find it very discouraging that students don't seem to care about student issues," said Spence.

"A university is supposed to be devoted to freedom of speech, but the students here don't care."

Spence said that the Lance staff would continue taking steps - such as writing a constitution - toward incorporation of the Students Council. The Students Council was also disappointed by the defeat of the referendum. SAC President Gary Wells said that he "would have liked to have seen it passed." Wells cited, "the lack of foreign students voting, and lack of mobilization of the students," as reasons for the poor turnout.

Wells told the Lance that he is already planning to hold the referendum again later on in the year.

Electa Hall R.A. John Siddall played Santa at Electa's annual Christmas party for underprivileged children, More Christmas pictures, pages 10 and 11.

Santa strikes at Electa Hall

By TED GODDARD
Cookies and ice cream surrounded the children as they enjoyed their Christmas party at the Electa Hall residence last Saturday afternoon.

The party is held annually for about 50 underprivileged children from the surrounding community. This year, names and addresses of the children were obtained from the Children's Aid Society. From the howls of laughter at the "Our Gang" movie, to the appreciative acceptance of gifts upon Santa's arrival, the kids seemed to be having a fine time throughout.

For those remaining few

With most of the hoody heading home for the Christmas break much of the activity on campus will slow down as well.

The Gallery will remain open for regular business until Saturday the 17th and then close until Tuesday, January 3rd. The University Centre and the games area will close December 22 and all areas but the lower level hallway will be locked. The southern reverse side door will be open to allow access to the bank downstairs. The bank will remain open as usual though the break, closing on Boxing Day and the 27th, as well as January 2nd.

As far as Vanier and food services is concerned they will begin Christmas hours as of Monday, December 12. The Vanier Dining Hall will open at 8 a.m., and close at 6:30, with breakfast served from 8-9.

Next issue of The Lance: Friday, January 6, 1978

By RICK SPENCE

The Christmas games, gifts, and singing offer an opportunity for the children to celebrate the season in a popular festive manner which might not otherwise be possible. The Electa House Council organizes the party, with the required funds coming from raffles and from donations by the residents of Electa Hall. The party is open to the entire, activity of all the children, another aspect of the Christmas spirit surfaced. After receiving her toy, a young girl returned shyly to Santa Claus to offer him "her candy cane and a kiss," she said. "It's almost enough to bring a tear to the eye," he said.

RCMP gives rise to CC's

By RICK SPENCE

While the recent allegations against the RCMP, the military and the government seem to reflect the gradual depression of the rights of citizens, an organization dedicated to investigating and preserving civil liberties is growing up in Windsor.

Several U. of W. professors, along with other interested citizens, are organizing a Windsor chapter of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association.

Directed in Toronto by Alan Borovsky, who spoke at the University of Windsor last week, the association has about five members. The organization has been growing recently, due to increased public awareness of the importance of defending civil rights, following the charges that the RCMP and the army have been involved in opening mail, bugs, politicians, and similar activities.

Law professor Chris Wdrynzki, 29, is one of those interested in establishing a branch of the CCLA in Windsor. He says preparations are now being made for a first general meeting in January. He says the organizers are presently "looking for something to do," an issue to centre around.

Wdrynzki feels the time is ripe to begin a civil liberties organization in Windsor. There was a Windsor branch of the Canadian Federation of Civil Liberties and Human Rights Associations from 1971 to 1974, but that just "died out," he says.

Interest in civil liberties waxed at the same time as the old organization, according to Wdrynzki. But now he perceives an increasing public awareness of the importance of civil rights. "In the last five years, it gets the public's attention," he said. "We need that for certain things to be brought to the eye," he said.

He says the public perception of the RCMP has been growing more credibility. A civil liberties association helps solve two major problems in society, according to Wdrynzki: the problem that people don't know their rights and, that they don't know what they can do to assert those rights.

The proposed Windsor group could gather together concerned individuals who would disseminate information on civil rights, as well as conduct research to see how civil liberties are being protected.

Wdrynzki recognizes the gulf between the theories of which society is founded, and the reality. The civil liberties association would look beyond society's rules to "find out what's really going on," he says. The group would act as "public watchdogs" to see that the basic values of society are respected in practice. Some members of the association could engage in case study research, for instance, among human rights violations which have been documented with criminal offenses, to see how they would have been treated, whether their rights were respected, etc.

Members of the association could pursue special areas of interest, according to Wdrynzki. Students, for example, could investigate the nature of their relationship with the university, and discover what rights they have under the law.
What's Happening on Campus

An exhibition of recent sculpture by Grace Marais can be seen at the Bel Fried Arts Gallery through December 8th.

CATHOLIC Campus Ministry located at the Assumption University Building on campus - 2nd floor, MASSES: Sunday 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Weekdays, 12:00 noon and 4:30 p.m. and Saturday, 11:30 a.m.

HITCH HIKERS and drivers: The SAC Ride Board is now operating. Get a ride or offer a ride for Christmas, SAC office, University Centre.

At noon on Wednesday December 14, worship services will be held at Iona College, 208 Sunset Avenue. The worship will be centered around communion. A variety of ancient and contemporary communions will be used. Please bring bag lunch. Lunch to follow the service.

New History Course Planned

By BRUCE DINSMORE

The Head of the History Department travels to Toronto today, to lay the foundation for a new history course, possibly the first of its kind in Canada.

Dr. Ken G. Pryke is talking with the Ministry of Culture and Recreation to seek funding interested in museums or researching the proposal, the city was interested. Beginning in January 9th.

IN THE CATHOLIC Campus Ministry (located at 203 Oakwood Avenue, Kingston, Ontario, K7L-1Y7) an office will be set up for registration purposes. A class for the Cultural History of the Region will be offered. The class will meet weekly on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in 150 University Centre.

Attention: All tennis instructors with homes between Halifax-Fax and Vancouver are invited to apply for teaching in an area of tennis community. If you are experienced and especially if you are certified you could earn $350 a week or more next summer. Many instructors are needed. Write Tennis Unity, 313 Johnson Street, Kingston, Ontario, K7L-1Y7. Include any details about yourself, including name, local address, summer experiences and any certificate (if any). Phone, age, your course at school, where local candidates are needed.

The new program in the history department is based on the fact that there is an increased awareness of local history at all levels of government. The grants would have a broad base of ability to advise groups on matters such as the historical renovation of old buildings. The course is not for people interested in museums or recreation, but rather the emphasis will be on training people to act as advisors for a body such as the Esque Region Conservation Authority, on matters of historical concern to CMHC. Candidating is required. It could be to the most important letter you have ever written.

The Leddy Library will offer the following services during the Christmas Recess, Friday, December 23 to Monday, January 2.

Library Hours

The Leddy Library will offer the following services during the Christmas Recess, Friday, December 23 to Monday, January 2.

- Monday, December 26
  - 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
- Tuesday, December 27
  - Open
- Wednesday, December 28
  - 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
- Thursday, December 29
  - 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
- Friday, December 30
  - Closed
- Saturday, December 31
  - Open
- Sunday, January 1
  - Closed

Course counselling

By ANDY HAYWARD

In order to better serve the students of this university, Marketing Club will be offering free course counselling. Club members will be available to answer your questions dealing with the marketing courses offered here. The counselling will take place on January 3, 4 and 5 from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the University Centre. All students interested are welcome to attend.

Frank J. Fox, O.D.
Optometrist

757 5th Avenue, Kingston, Ontario
(613) 539-0577

Ascent Of Man

The book store and the Media Centre will present in its entirety the renowned series "The Ascent of Man," Two films will be shown per week, and each film will be shown twice. For further information, contact Administrative Office, School of Music, University of Windsor.

Housing Scholarships To Be Awarded

For further information, contact Administrative Officer, School of Music, University of Windsor and Housing Corporation, Ottawa, Canada, K1A 0P7.

This is a time one announcement. Cut it out and show your tennis teaching friends. Write us immediately as much planning is required. It could be the most important letter you have ever written.

Ontario, K7L-1Y7. Include any details about yourself, including name, local address, summer experiences and any certificate (if any). Phone, age, your course at school, where local candidates are needed. Write Tennis Unity, 313 Johnson Street, Kingston, Ontario, K7L-1Y7. Include any details about yourself, including name, local address, summer experiences and any certificate (if any). Phone, age, your course at school, where local candidates are needed.

P.S. Last year our average instructor made $365 per week!!

World Festival of Youth

The book store and the Media Centre will present in its entirety the renowned series "The Ascent of Man," Two films will be shown per week, and each film will be shown twice. For further information, contact Administrative Office, School of Music, University of Windsor.

Housing Scholarships To Be Awarded

For further information, contact Administrative Officer, School of Music, University of Windsor and Housing Corporation, Ottawa, Canada, K1A 0P7.

This is a time one announcement. Cut it out and show your tennis teaching friends. Write us immediately as much planning is required. It could be the most important letter you have ever written.

Ontario, K7L-1Y7. Include any details about yourself, including name, local address, summer experiences and any certificate (if any). Phone, age, your course at school, where local candidates are needed. Write Tennis Unity, 313 Johnson Street, Kingston, Ontario, K7L-1Y7. Include any details about yourself, including name, local address, summer experiences and any certificate (if any). Phone, age, your course at school, where local candidates are needed.
Back to soda pop for hundreds of students

By RICK SPENCE

Chocolate milk and soda pop may soon replace bee and liquor in the diets of many Windsor students, if the provincial government behaves as expected and raises the drinking age to 19 in the spring.

In November, the legislature in Toronto approved in principle the private member's bill introduced by Essex South MPP Remo Mancini to raise the legal drinking age in Ontario from 18 to 19.

It is expected that Mancini's bill will be allowed to die on the order sheet, but that the Conservative minority government will introduce the change as part of a package of proposals to deal with alcohol abuse following the Throne Speech in the spring.

Gallery pub manager Pete Romeri says he has heard nothing officially about the change, but he believes "it's going to create a lot of problems, that's for sure."

Romeri is not sure how the new system would be enforced, but he says "if it happens, we'll have no choice but to enforce it somehow."

The registrar's office says there are now about 268 students under the age of 19, who would be cut off if the age were raised. Presently, access to the pub is open during the day, but a student card, which does not bear the owner's age, is needed for admission in the evenings.

Romeri says there are 25 to 30 students on campus who are under 18, and the pub has obtained a list of those students in order to try to keep them out of the gallery.

"It's more identified, possibly including the province's own Age of Majority Card, may be required for admission to the pub if the drinking age is raised. The drinking age was lowered from 21 to 18 as part of the Age of Majority Act in 1971. Since then, however, increases in the number of drinking drivers between the ages of 16 and 20, and in the influence of alcohol in the province's high schools, have sparked a reaction to raise the age again.

According to Romeri, in Saskatchewan, the drinking age was raised from 18 to 19 a few years ago.

Romeri does not think pub attendance or revenues will be seriously affected by the increase. "It will have an effect, but I don't believe a major effect," he said. "Sixty-seven hundred students live large, we're going to have to draw from."

Romeri speculated that "it could hurt at the start of the week," when pub business is generally slow, but he doesn't believe that capacity crowds would come up to the high standards of journalism you have come to expect from your student newspaper. However, there is no reason to totally condemn the entire page.

First, the third page makes this paper flow. Without it there would be a gap between two page and page four. It allows us to put more ads in the paper without putting any on the front page. It helps make the rest of the pages look much better than they are. It provides us with a place to put all the dull news that we have to put in the paper just because it is about the university, but lets our paper flow. Without it we can not put staff take one or two more pictures, and it provides that little extra bit of paper so you can wrap your garbage for the entire week.

Every newspaper, no matter how many pages it has, has a third page. Was it not Shakespeare who said, "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link?"

Any other number would smell out the news as well. We appeal to your high sense of morality, your understanding of the greater order of life. Have faith in the third page. Judge it not by your own standards of excellence, but by its ability to tie up to its own limited capabilities.

Campus judicial committee

By NIGEL MILLER

Caught cheating! Wonder what's going to happen to you?

Student Affairs is the judicial committee on campus which decides innocence or guilt.

They are a judicial committee that rule on charges brought up either by a professor against a student or a student against a professor. Besides ruling on the specific case they can also hand out penalties for bad conduct.

The committee is composed of both faculty and elected students. Total there are (thirteen) members with five faculty members, seven students, and Mr. K. F. Long, Assistant Dean of Students.

Student Affairs was esta-bilished in 1969 to "recommend to the Senate policy and procedures on all matters regarding student affairs." The objects of the University of Windsor according to the University of Windsor Act, are "the advancement of learning and the dissemination of knowledge; and the intellectual, spiritual, moral, social and physical development of its members and students and the betterment of society."

Basically this is the written purpose of Student Affairs according to the "University Policy Regarding Student Affairs."

The committee is set up to police the student body at large so as to follow the goals of the University.

A student may be brought up on such charges as cheating, stealing of library books etc, and a professor may be brought up on charges of prejudice, poor marking etc. Possible penalties for the student are: re-oval warning, a written warning, probation, loss of privileges, paying for damages, suspension, and expulsion. All proceedings are confidential.

There is also a student committee in each residence that rules on cases arising in the residences. Those decisions can be appealed before the Student Affairs Committee.

The Dean of Students investigates cases and when he thinks they are too big he, then decides whether to refer the case to the judicial panel or dispose of the charges. If the charges are dropped before the judicial commissioner, the student receives written notice, and may oppose the charge and make a statement before the committee. The committee then decides the student's fate.

The committee is a subcommittee of the Senate of the University with the power to endorse Senate rulings.

Wydrzynski identifies two ars of civil liberties: political liberties, such as freedom of speech, assembly and religion; and egalitarian civil liberties, such as the rights to decent housing, employment, etc. The Windsor civil liberties association would concentrate in the latter area.

"I have a very keen interest in there," says Wydrzynski, who has been with the law school four years.

"It's just a matter of funneling that interest into an organization capable of solutions."

The structure of the association is still vague. The members will eventually appoint off-cers and establish committees to look into particular problems, but details, such as a constitution and membership fees have not yet been worked out.

The Windsor association will follow the example of Borovoy, who refuses on principle to accept government funds to support the organization. In order to afford an office and a secretary, the local chapter will depend on memberships and private donations.

Eventually the organization will be conducting research, endowing scholarships, publishing information, and perhaps get involved in aiding "test cases." What will happen in the future laws. Wydrzynski says the Windsor organizers chose Borovoy's group to affiliate with because the CCLA involved action, not just 'paper crushing'.

One of Alan Borovoy's noted projects was a recent survey, in which he called up 30 real estate agents across Ontario, pretending to be a home-owner who wanted to sell his house, but didn't want it bought by a black. Twenty-seven realtors said they would comply. For all those interested, or with a problem, Wydrzynski has been reaching through the law school.

Windsor council to study aid for verzars

The SAU and staff wish all students the best of luck on exams and greetings for the Holiday Season

Continued from page 1

This is important

By STEVE MacLEAN

Recently, The Lance has been receiving a great deal of criticism about the third page. Now many of you have been saying that the third page is actually quite boring. The stories contained on it mundane, the pictures out of focus. One outraged reader even went so far as to say the page had absolutely no socially redeeming qualities.

Now, we at The Lance will agree that from time to time we have neglected the third page. Perhaps it hasn't quite come up to the high standard of journalism you have come to expect from your student newspaper. However, there is no reason to totally condemn the entire page.

First, the third page makes this paper flow. Without it there would be a gap between two pages. Two page four. It allows us to put more ads in the paper without putting any on the front page. It helps make the rest of the pages look much better than they are. It provides us with a place to put all the dull news that we have to put in the paper just because it is about the university, but lets our paper flow. Without it we can not put staff take one or two more picures, and it provides that little extra bit of paper so you can wrap your garbage for the entire week.

Every newspaper, no matter how many pages it has, has a third page. Was it not Shakespeare who said, "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link?" Any other number would smell out the news as well. We appeal to your high sense of morality, your understanding of the greater order of life. Have faith in the third page. Judge it not by your own standards of excellence, but by its ability to tie up to its own limited capabilities.

Looking back on an eventful year

By FERN BROWN

Last night marked the first night of Chanukah in the Jewish religious holidays begin and end at sundown. Although Chanukah is sometimes referred to (usually by non-Jews) as a "Jewish Christmas," it is very different. The history behind it, the importance of which within the religion's tradition, and the rituals (aside from gift-giving) are not reminiscent at all of Christmas. Actu-ally, gift-giving was not part of the tradition at all, it began recently, and that was to the children, who felt they were

Comments

Chanukah more than a Jewish Christmas

By FERN BROWN

Last night marked the first night of Chanukah in the Jewish religious holidays begin and end at sundown. Although Chanukah is sometimes referred to (usually by non-Jews) as a "Jewish Christmas," it is very different. The history behind it, the importance of which within the religion's tradition, and the rituals (aside from gift-giving) are not reminiscent at all of Christmas. Actu-ally, gift-giving was not part of the tradition at all, it began recently, and that was to the children, who felt they were mining out on something.

The history of Chanukah can be traced to 165 B.C.E. At that time, the Maccabees (a tribe of Israelites) won a long and hard battle against the Syr-ian Greeks. When the Jews returned to their city of Jerusalem, they saw that their Temple had been nearly destroyed. They at once set to work on repairing and cleaning it. When they finished, on the 25th of Kislev (by the lunar Jewish calendar), they wanted to offer thanks to God for helping them win the war and to have the capacity to renovate the Temple.

They wanted to light the Ner Tamid (the symbolic Eternal Light, which burns above the Ark, where the Torah - holy scroll - is kept), but they had no oil in the lamp for one day and to get more would take eight days.

Thus, the 25th of Kislev was commemorated as the Day of Dedication, or Chanukah. It is celebrated each year, lasting for eight days. To symbolize the oil that burned in Jerusalem for eight days, today Jews burn candles in an unspent candle holder, a menorah. The ninth prong is the shamash, or helper candle. Instead of the menorah being used as an agent to light the others, when lighting the candles, some blessings are recited, giving thanks for the opportunity to celebrate this joyous occasion. Included in the rituals of Chanukah is the dreidel, a tiny, four-sided spinning top. On each side is a Hebrew letter; they are the initials for a Hebrew phrase which means "A Great Miracle Happened There," referring, of course, to the miracle in Jerusalem.

During Chanukah Jews light candles in a menorah. The Latvian city of Riga, which is the home of Chanukah, has a beautiful menorah in the center of the town, which is lit during Chanukah. The menorah is made of gold and is very large. It is lit by a woman who is chosen by lot. The candles are lit by a man who is also chosen by lot. The menorah is lit at sunset and is lit for eight days.

The dreidel is a small, four-sided top with Hebrew letters on each side. The letters stand for "A Great Miracle Happened There." The dreidel is used during Chanukah to play a game. The game involves spinning the dreidel and betting on the outcome. The dreidel is also used to symbolize the miracle of the oil that burned for eight days in the Temple.

In conclusion, Chanukah is a beautiful and joyful holiday that celebrates the miracle of the oil that burned for eight days in the Temple. It is a time of light, joy, and celebration. Chanukah is a symbol of hope and perseverance, and it is a reminder that miracles can happen if we have faith and believe in them.
Dear Editor:

In reply to two separate letters. First, to answer David Camden: (1) If I have "grossly distorted" Mr. Camletti's point of view, he certainly did not show how. (2) If Canadians did actually support the concept of wage controls, how does he explain the mandate given to Trudeau in 1974 not to implement them? Last year much of organised labour stayed a general strike against control, and workers are still fighting them on the picket lines today; (3) According to Mr. Camletti, inflation decreased to 6.2 per cent last year, and to 3.1 per cent this year; first of all, the inflation rate as of the end of October was 8.8 per cent. Secondly, I fail to see how inflation can "decrease" from 8.8 per cent to 6.2 per cent. (4) The percentage wage increase in 1975 is not an indicator of economic well-being. To reiterate from a former letter - labour's share of the country's income wealth was less in mid-1975, just before controls were announced, than in 1970. Furthermore, these workers suffered in real wages. (5) If Mr. Camletti, (which twice have been wrong) were taken from Trudeau and the AIB, I can only conclude that the government is in worse shape than I thought.

As to William English who accused me of "smearing" the name of Hansie Schleyer with "innuendo" (Schleyer was killed by members of West Germany's terrorist Red Army Faction). It is really Mr. Williams who does the smearing, for it is a fact that Schleyer was a member of nazi Germany's Gestapo, a police group which had a main hand in murdering six million Jews and millions of other "disidents". Schleyer smeared his own name. If Mr. English knows this to be false, then I ask him to present his case. If not, then I ask him not to attempt to flog me for what is a fact.

Schleyer's death is a perfect example of history's turn- arts major and $40,000 in a medical student, will yield a fair return.

More than just Ontario prof­

It is a fact that Mr. English could not tell me how he could have been considered terrorists. Mr. English knows clearly, from my article, that it do not support the terrorists. Their actions were stupid, futile and destructive. But don't ask me to support the murder of those members of the RAF in prison.

By RICK SPENCE

"Education is a right, right, fight, fight, fight!"

That was the battle cry of students who demonstrated at the University of Windsor this year, and it sums up the position of students in the bat­

Dear Editor:

I feel that I must correct certain statements in the article, "Financial Crunch Hinders Hiring" of 2 December, 1977.

The article stated, "Board Member Gary Wells said the University is presently being run on a Zero-base budgeting sysmatics and most profession­

Dear Editor:

I feel that I must correct certain statements in the article, "Financial Crunch Hinders Hiring" of 2 December, 1977. The article stated, "Board Member Gary Wells said the University is presently being run on a Zero-base budgeting sys­

Southpaws need help

Dear Editor:

I feel that this institution discriminates against left-handed students. Southpaw students experience great difficulty in taking notes from a lecturer on a desk which is made for right-handed students. A limited number of class­

Dear Editor:

I feel that I must correct certain statements in the article, "Financial Crunch Hinders Hiring" of 2 December, 1977. The article stated, "Board Member Gary Wells said the University is presently being run on a Zero-base budgeting sys­

Wells denies zero base budgeting

Dear Editor:

The first being that I stated that the University is looking towards something comparable to a zero base budgeting system or at least this is the indication I have had from their discussion where approval to be given by the Board for hiring and that there will be needs to justify each expense. However, there is no clearly defined policy by the Board of Governors at this time that I am aware of.

Thank you,

Gary R. Wells

President
The workshop was privileged to music. Danto, Director of the Centre and Drug Prevention: Associate Professor for the Dept. of Psychiatry at Wayne State. Those who attempt to kill themselves have feelings of insecurity. Lives and convince themselves of money, they turn to suicide if they fail to find fulfillment. Religion has recently gone through a renovative period, which has made people less firm in their beliefs about God. The lack of faith in someone 'up there' has prompted many to end it all, says Dr. Danto. What can be done to help the suicide victims? Compassion, understanding, patience, and most of all professional assistance, with the help of close family members. It is unrealistic to set as a goal the saving of all suicidal individuals. Those still wish to live despite anxiety and depression should be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.

The switch will mean that the radio station will be the first to be helped. They can be saved.
Davies, executive director of the International Fund for Animal Welfare (IFAW), has been in jail in Newfoundland for three weeks. Davies has been convicted of violating the terms of his probation. He faces the possibility of having his charitable status revoked, if AWA relinquished it voluntarily. Davies said that "to do our job, we cannot stop working for the seals, or stop asking people for donations or writing support." Without its charitable status, however, IFAW cannot provide donations with tax relief.

When asked if the loss of charitable status had affected the amount of donations, Davies responded that "we don't know that till the end of the year. Probably the small donations won't be affected, but last year we received over $1 million. We'll probably never get one like that again.

"IFAW has similar aims as Greenpeace, a Vancouver-based Save-the-Wales-and-Seals organization. Davies says the IFAW "works in the prevention of killing seals, of trampling, of slaughtering dolphins, and of harpooning whales, although not on as large a scale as Greenpeace is doing." Although Greenpeace and IFAW are in a way, competing organizations, they "do have common causes with another." Davies believes that "it would be great if a myriad of organizations would come together for this same cause.

In the interview, Davies exclaimed his desire to have interested individuals "contact their MPs, to protest the change, and to support IFAW." When asked what he felt the reasons were for the loss of the baby harp seal, Davies said that it was "mostly politically based." Although there is some commercial benefit, the main reason appears to be that "their grandfathers did it, it's within the Newfoundland cultural heritage. Not many actually engage in the hunt, but many talk about it. I understand this, it's a valid human emotion, but things have to change. Labour was always and valid human emotion 50 years ago, but people are recognizing that this kind of change is necessary." As for the economic benefits of the seal hunt, Davies said, "the amount of seals killed, the oil, the meat, these appear to be relatively small. Although "the Government..."
Reporters say Queen’s visit was no picnic

By PETER HOWELL

It was Friday, October 14, we’re at a press conference designed to help us write our stories about the royal visit correctly.

Nice reporters, we’re told, don’t try to shove microphones into the Queen’s mouth, or shout in her ear, “What do you think of Premier sex?”

It would also be inappropriate, the public relations people warn, to quote anywhere Prince Phillip says about the press. He likes to kid around, they say. You can laugh, but don’t write.

Awesome staff, I decide to wear a tie the next day in covering the story. The Queen might look at me.

But things get off to a rough start.

I sleep in, and miss meeting the press bus at the Skyline Hotel. By frantically summoning a taxi, I manage to catch up with it at City Hall, where the Queen is making her first stop. But I’ve blown my compo­sure, I haven’t shaved, and my regular-issue reporter wallabies are unpolished, I feel seedy. As luck would have it, I take a seat beside a guy from the Times of London. With that paper, godliness is next to cleanliness.

“Rather sparse crowds for Her Majesty, aren’t they?” he asks, as the bus roars along Rideau Street to our next stop. “He’s seen from my billboard photog (hanging from my neck with a shoelace, because I’d forgotten to wear a Jubilee Tote chain) that I’m from a local paper.

“That’s Ottawa for ya,” I reply. “It would take a bomb to rouse them. Now maybe if the Rough Riders had just won a game . . . ” He looks appalled.

Confederation Square. The war monument. Beggars and moustaches all over the place. There won’t be a dry eye in the city when people read about this, I think.

I meet Peter Birt, former editor of The Charleston. He now writes for Canadian University Press.

I tell him about the guy from The Times.

“Anyone who takes the Queen that seriously in a professional sense these days, I worry about,” he says. We both agree it would be fatal to get too involved in this charity. Munroe’s commit­ment to your objective.

The National Museum of Man. The usual boring routine. When you’ve seen one official welcome, you’ve seen them all. But already, reporters have been filing stories for their papers. A Vancouver guy brags about the great lead he’s just sent over the wire.

We agree to kneel down when the royal couple arrives. Prince Phillip appreciates the absurd sight, and tenses off a comment about “a weak-kneed press.”

But things get off to a rough start.

We knock down when the royal couple arrives. Prince Phillip appreciates the absurd sight, and tenses off a comment about “a weak-kneed press.”

“I can see Her Majesty,” says the guy from the back of the bus. “I’ll make that call.”

But things get off to a rough start.

“A lone bagpiper’s lament around the square . . . ” he begins.

“Get out of my way,” says the guy beside him.

“I’ll sell it to you . . . ”

Back in the bus, Birt de­cides to start a rumor. The royal couple are being driven in a slate-grey Lincoln Continental. The car belongs to Exxon, he whispers to the reporters behind him. The guy looks worried. He might have to burn the Queen in his story, after all.

The guy from Vancouver is still bringing. Now it’s, “My Most Embarrassing Experience.”

“There’s nothing more em­barrassing than standing in a gas station dictating a story, with four slick-jawed grease monkeys staring at you,” he says. We nod agreement.

Lunchtime. The Skyline Ho­tel Big event. The crowed there is middle‐aged, and rowdy. They’ve waited hours to see Her Majesty, and they aren’t pleased that a crowd of reporters have suddenly blocked their way.

“We’re not going to see her if ye donna get out of the way . . . ”

I irritate Scots lady screams at me.

“But I’m with the press, lady,” I tell her.

“Ha, you’re the guys that deal us all wrong most of the time, her equally irate com­panion replies.

Drug refunds late

Drug plan refunds are late and the man in charge of SAC’s drug plan, Commis­sioner of Ancillary Affairs Bruce Hamilton, has had enough.

The refund cheques are sup­posed to be the hands of the SACP on the sixth of each month, and available for student pick­up. However, Zurich Life, the company which handles the service, for which students pay $200, has returned the cheques late every month so far.

Hannah charged yesterday that Zurich is “incompetent,” and says he will be meeting with Zurich officials in Toronto Jan­uary 2 to iron out the diffi­culties, and change some of the procedures. “And it’ll be at their expense, not ours.”

Hannah said that SAC has so far complied with all the agreed rules, including the send­ing of the drug cheques from Zurich to courier at the end of each month. Zurich, which had guaranteed it turned around claims in 72 hours, sent the deadline yet, and has often claimed that the mail service slowed them down. The insurer, since SAC switched to courier service which guarantees next day delivery, Zurich has still been late.

It is hoped students will be able to pick up their refund cheques Monday.

Hannah said that, through its incompetence, Zurich has forfeited a place in a provinc­ial student drug plan proposed by the Ontario Federation of Students.
Poet’s Corner

Discover

You are a child,
You hate. You love;
You discover. But only what you wish to find.
You close your eyes to all that is bad;
Only wishing to seek out the best.
You are too immature to face facts.
Too envious to love the less.
You simply mock them.
You hate. Yes, you are cruel.
Open your eyes to all that is bad,
Face facts, love the less,
Then you shall discover.

Debra Hetherington

The Morning Gone

I have passed the morning in my life,
Leaving behind the times of youth,
The joy in which I lived.
It seems I’ve come across the barrier, so vast,
For life won’t slow me down.
I’ll miss my year’s of youth,
Spent in time held by all,
Always playing that better game.
On another day.

Scott Eldridge

A Handful of Beauty

A handful of beauty
As memories they are small
Moments spent together.
I will not change them
As I sit now,
Nor as times
Have thorns
So these small memories
Are like
A handful of beauty

Stephen Bradley

A Taste of Hurt

A cold wind cuts through my mind
Bringing with it
A sharp taste of loneliness
And the read singed wing of a cold dawn
Battles me in tears
Lighting the memory
Of a beautiful yesterday
A shattered today
And a lonely tomorrow

Sue Sarkis

Storms and other Things

The memory of puddles
And rain streaked windows
While we stood at the screen door
Breathing in the damp
And counted
One thousand and one
One thousand and two
Between the lightning flashes.
You taught me that storms
Were something to wonder at
Like the seeds we planted in the garden
And the robin eggs in the nest
Above the front light.
Things always grew for you.
Storms no longer frighten me,
But in the pause
Between the lightning flashes
I feel the pressure of your hand
And I remember.

Brenda Shantz

Moment of Comfort

Honey, what is the matter? and he sighs,
time passes,
and the moment ends.

Moment = Heavy lift
and the security of a warm sleeve;
its red cloth close to my cheek.

Closer; a single heartbeat could be counted, and the solitary sigh accounted for.

The maddened kettle boils, but I tipped your salt as I reached for my cup.

Honey, what is the matter? and I sigh,
time passes,
and I wait for the moment to begin.

Debra Hetherington

Poet’s Corner is now accepting poetry from the University community. Send your submissions to The Lance, in care of the Poetry Editor.
The Lance takes a look at.....

Christmas parties on campus

Last Sunday at Laurier Hall the Residence Council, and each of the floors, hosted a Christmas party, complete with a visit from jolly Saint Nick. Glengorda, a local school for exceptional children, each floor was responsible for a few children to show them a good time, which they did. The kids had a meal in Vanier's Lambton dining room, a quick visit to their new friend's floors, films and cookies, and to top it off a carol sing and an early appearance of Santa Claus, who handed out gifts.

One gets the feeling that the girls from Laurier and the gents from Mac probably had a better time than the kids.
An Engineer's Christmas Poem

'Twas the last week of classes in the Terminal Room,
The only voice heard said, How soon? How soon?
The jobs were all stacked by the reader with care,
I read in a backlog to find some somewhere.
Number ten in a queue of one hundred and eight
On reader! on Printer!, I must not be late.

'Then at the stroke of midnight, what should appear,
But the operator yelling, HEY! ENGINEER.
Your program's completed, I've got it right here.
She hands back your card deck, it's big as a brick,
The print out she gives you is two inches thick.
Assignments, reports are all left behind,
Soon it will be Christmas, a time to unwind.

2nd year E.E. student

A very special gift

Christmas, of course, is a time when you are obligated to be nice to everyone - even people you have hated passionately over the past twelve months.

I suppose that is not too tough for some people. You can be nice to your mother-in-law or a "narco" (don't see that word too often anymore) or even an engineer for one day without damaging yourself too much. You might even buy them a little gift: lip sutures for your mother-in-law, badge polisher for the "narco", a brain for the engineer.

However, the fact remains that there are some people you just cannot be nice to - even on Christmas. If you even tried to, your brain would freak out in schizoid convulsions. You might as well just admit you hate the person's crummy guts and forget about sending them a card.

The trouble arises when they send you a card or a gift. You can't very well send it back and tell them to stick it up a convenient aperture. That is crude. What we suggest is returning the gift with one of your own.

Christmas fruit cakes made with hydrochloric acid are big sellers, but a little too obvious. The same goes for the turkey with maggots stuffing. Gaudy. What you want is something subtle, but clear in meaning. What you want is a pox.

By simply facing the direction of the "hatee's" house and wishing ill upon him or her, you can do irreparable damage to those you despise. Christmas poxes are unusually powerful - it must have something to do with the snow, speculate some researchers.

Whatever it is, The Lance has poxed the following poxes upon the following groups: Disgusting diseases and plagues of lice should be forthcoming in several weeks time (they are imported lice): the Presidential Search Committee (for saying nothing), Harry Parrott (for saying too much), punk rockers (at the request of Paul Chernish), the University of Western Ontario football team (flunkies), Idi Amin (Mr. Poxed-Upon of 1977), and the RCMP (real buggers).

Merry Christmas, all.

Photos by Lance photo team
FLIPPER will make a television comeback, because of the increase in television violence, and the need to satisfy the bloodthirsty masses, he will be named "The Malicious Quasi-Mammal" (dolphins aren't fish, you know). Other modifications include: jagged teeth, a low voice and hairy armpits.

FRED MACMURRAY will star in a new television series entitled "My Three Assholes." It will be a story about the trials and tribulations of trying to raise a degenerate bunch of kids on a Greyhound bus.

PUNK ROCK will die a timely death, only to be followed by Punk Disco. KC and the Sunshine Band will start the trend with their wa-wa pedaling and smearing warm peanut butter on the unsuspecting drummer.

AN ENTERTAINMENT FACILITY will be opened in the basement of the Library. It will be called "The Bookmark." Weary students will be able to bounce downstairs and get hammered in their spare time. But you won't be able to take drinks out without a student card.

RICH MAN, POOR MAN will be redone and entitled "Big Man, Small Man." One of the two protagonists is great with the women, and the other designs furniture.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL LOTTERY will be instigated. The grand prize will be the province of Quebec.

THERE WILL BE NO FAKE FIRE ALARMS in the Pub during the entire year.

AUNT JEMIMA AND UNCLE BEN will go out for awhile, get married, then merge. The result was "My Three Assholes." It will be a new, grotesque breakfast idea.

CHER AND GREGG will give birth to a six-pound, five-ounce bag of heroin that can't sing.

That's it, folks. Looks like the game though, they just couldn't sing. Their ineq voice were supported by their shabby harmonies. Erie's best numbers were the ones in which nobody sang. And speaking of stage presence, they had none.

By H.J. SWENSON

During the snow storm last year Pete sold beer for a quarter. Monday, I was looking forward to a four dollar bust. However, as it usually happens when I go to the pub, I was disappointed. Seventy cents a pop and "Erie" for entertainment.

On entering the pub I was presented with a pitiful performance. The ad said Erie is direct from Detroit. They should have stopped for lessons on the way. If Pete paid them any more then their bridge fare, he got ripped off.

The H.J. Music Men sky rocketed to a 2.1. At least the juke box doesn't have any feel bad. I thought there had to be a mistake, so I had the meter engineers check it again. But it's true, they really are this bad.

In keeping with the holiday season, Erie brought out their Christmas lights. Equally cheap was their P.A. I've heard sweeter sounds coming from a wine's butt. The only thing that came out clearly was the feedback.

By PAUL CHERNISH

Well, it's that time of year again. Time to unpack the decorations, buy lots of booze and write those goofy end-of-the-year type articles. Too bad, because 1977 was a great year (except for the Lance's freedom referendum). Anyway, here's the second annual prediction column.

FLIPPER makes Michigan music in pub.

By H.J. SWENSON

During the snow storm last year Pete sold beer for a quarter. Monday, I was looking forward to a four dollar bust. However, as it usually happens when I go to the pub, I was disappointed. Seventy cents a pop and "Erie" for entertainment.

On entering the pub I was presented with a pitiful performance. The ad said Erie is direct from Detroit. They should have stopped for lessons on the way. If Pete paid them any more then their bridge fare, he got ripped off.

The H.J. Music Men sky rocketed to a 2.1. At least the juke box doesn't have any feel bad. I thought there had to be a mistake, so I had the meter engineers check it again. But it's true, they really are this bad.

In keeping with the holiday season, Erie brought out their Christmas lights. Equally cheap was their P.A. I've heard sweeter sounds coming from a wine's butt. The only thing that came out clearly was the feedback.

By PAUL CHERNISH

Well, it's that time of year again. Time to unpack the decorations, buy lots of booze and write those goofy end-of-the-year type articles. Too bad, because 1977 was a great year (except for the Lance's freedom referendum). Anyway, here's the second annual prediction column.

FLIPPER makes Michigan music in pub.
Back to the tried and true

By DEB KENNEDY

"You can give my stomach to Milwaukee, if they run out of beer, throw my socks in a cedar box, just get them out of here." The audience was tapping spoons to these lyrics, as Rich and Maureen Delgrosso and Martha Burns performed their versions of traditional music at Catharsis Dec. 2 and 3.

Rich and Maureen, from Detroit, have been performing together for five years, and "used to work with a friend in a group called 'Aging Children.' They call themselves "variety to variety". They compared it to Catharsis, where "the people consider you part of the furniture". They mentioned The Arc in Ann Arbor which is a coffeehouse like Catharsis on the concert circuit for "an underground of fine musicians" across North America. They enjoy The Arc because there is "interplay between the musicians and audience". They compared it to Catharsis where, "the people are warm, and you really feel at home. People are smiling at you and participating," said Maureen.

Rich mentioned that kids have a negative stereotype of what folk music is, and according to our definition, folk music encompasses a whole world of different styles and different types of things. It would be nice if people could be more open to it, and realize that if you go to a place like Catharsis, you're not going to hear everybody singing like Joan Baez or Burt Bres. there's a whole wealth of different types of music that people are into these days".

Martha Burns from Ann Arbor seemed to share the same sentiment. She plays with string bands and is presently trying to do more things on her own. Martha revealed, "I'm interested in unusual songs, and sometimes if you have too many people, they overpower the words".

Martha plays guitar, mandolin, fiddle, piano, autoharp and "whatever ends up in my hands, to varying degrees of proficiency." Her genre of music is American-historical, topical or novel. About recording plans, she said, "The type of music I'm interested in is not based on that it's more based on personal communication. There are some people that are quite good that refuse to do records. It would be a very restricting type of thing."

Martha does not write her own material. She feels, "a song develops a richness out of being old and tried and true". Martha has a very clear voice with a twang that reminded me of Stu Born, doing Merle Haggard

Martha, Rich and Maureen improvised on a few songs to put a nice finish to the evening. Performing the Friday night guest set, were three local musicians, Larry Goldin and Stephen Winbaum on acoustic guitars and vocals with Kelly Hoppe adding the harmonica. The trio played an enjoyable set of three original tunes. Lunch on the Border was written by Larry, and Stephen wrote Little Brother. My favorite was a mellow song by Stephen, called It's Over.

Tonight, Catharsis presents a selection of 30's and 40's jazz-blues performed by guitar stylist Mose Scarlett and harmonica accompanist Jim MacLean.

By PAUL CHERNISH

Did you ever wonder why you have to wait in line to get into the pub? Well, we just got a hot scoop. Every time you walk in you are being analyzed (whether you want to or not). The G.A.T.S.A. (the Government Agency That Snoops Around) wanted to get the complete lowdown on what kind of people patronize the pub. They have an incredible system that records your physical appearance and speech patterns installed right at the door! You can't see it though, because it's hidden behind the coffee machine.

The system picks up information on every single student right to Ottawa where they have a real big tapper corder.

The main idea behind the project is to discover which students are spending their government loans on beer.
Steel n' glass
lots of class

By JOHN MACKET

If you have a wealthy bank account, a charger card and an expensive wardrobe, there is a place for you --- it's Detroit's Renaissance Center.

The Renaissance Center is the structure that is supposed to bring Downtown Detroit back to life, after a decade of confusion, riots, and paranoia. One of its major objectives was to "bring the people back downtown", the people with money, that is.

If you're planning to go to the center, grab your checkbook and be prepared for an expensive shock. The hotel suites on the 69th and 70th floors will cost you $600.00 for the night, but they come complete with "all night service".

They say that the meals prepared for you in the world's largest revolving dining room are fit for a King, you have to be a King in order to handle the figure at the bottom of the bill. The Renaissance Center has already established a reputation for being a place of luxury and class, and that it is. The complex is more than ready to handle the crowds but the crowds just don't seem ready for that "Renaissance Experience". It might very well be an "Impossible Dream" but the Renaissance people intend on making it real.

So after you've made your reservations, put on your fur coat and diamonds and be prepared for the best. The Renaissance Center was made for society's "Cream of the Crop", it was made for you!

Triva quiz
answers

1. He was a millionaire.
2. Lyon Skyeward.
3. "A asteroids of Midnight".
4. "Arenas and Diamonds".
5. "From the Other Side of Midnight".

IN THE STARS

ARIES - (March 21 - April 19) : Energy levels must be raised in order for you to complete your work. Become aware of your commitments.

TAURUS - (April 20 - May 20) : Upcoming events will jar your memory, adversely. You are about to achieve significant gains.

GEMINI - (May 21 - June 21) : Your independent nature will dominate your actions. Talk plans over to some extent.

CANCER - (June 22 - July 22) : The least expensive is sometimes the best. Romance seems ill advised in your situation.

LEO - (July 23 - Aug. 22) : Deeper involvement in your work will create far better results. Be cautious with money.

VIRGO - (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) : Meandering deadlines could be harder than expected. Long distance contacts increase rapidly.

LIBRA - (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22) : Brainstorm is not forthcoming. Set up a schedule for the week and you'll be more able to handle problems.

SCORPIO - (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) : Disorientation could be caused by a vision problem. Re-evaluate the situation before proceeding.

SAGITTARIUS - (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) : Pushing aside will not get you out of the way. Assume that nothing will be overlooked.

CAPRICORN - (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) : Your hard work and determination will pay off in excess rewards. Read books pertaining to your field.

AQUARIUS - (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) : The thought of change forces you to take action. Follow your instincts, first impressions.

PISCES - (Feb. 19 - March 20) : Your feeling of uneasiness will pass quickly. People share the same ideas and thoughts as you.

Differen books for different people

UNIVERSITY OF WINDESO BOOKSTORE

"COME ON IN AND LOOK AROUND"
Back in the heyday of the Faces, there was no one better at dishing out good streetwise raunch and roll. And as Ronnie (You're) could still(?) reach. Hot Legs gave him Faces' best material, right?

The guaranteed hit-single has come back with possibly the most poignant ballads (I'm your) baby. People do rebound, and Rod has rediscov ered the guitar and balanced it with sensitivity. Has he rediscovered the guitar, or is he just another Holly wood fag? Rodney's solo efforts carried the energy of the old Nazareth, that's bearing only guitar problems. With a class-A rocker.

The song that I heard was a jam led by Lawrence's sax. The title cut Expect No Mercy is a fine example of the tight rhythm section and the outstanding guitar playing and vocals. Busted is a definite footstomper about being flat broke, and it sounds like energized Muddy Waters. It is also one of my favorite cuts on the album. If this doesn't convince you, the heavier painting alone is enough to attract you to the album. The painting depicts a warrior-like gargoyle ready to shimmer into life in his fallen opponent. The cover is fitting for the album, since if you play this album, you are not a lover of "grinding-rock." Your ear drums can Expect No Mercy!

Well, it's the end of another year and that means that it's time to take one last look at the best rock of the past year. So here's our choices for the top 11 LPs of 1977.

1. Peter Gabriel - Peter Gabriel - Ex of Genesis, Gabriel came up with an album of balance and excellence with ethereal melody that brought tears to the eyes.
2. Cheap Trick - In Colour - Can't say much more. Top pop.
3. U.F.O. - Lights Out - Here's a band that has been churning out first class rock and roll for a number of years with virtually no exposure at all. It's too bad they've had guitarist problems.
4. Thin Lizzy - Bad Reputation - A very sexy LP (thanks John) from a band that should have made it long ago. Maybe this time?
5. Randy Newman - Little Criminals - We'd give up a vital part of our bodies to write lyrics like his.

Rod Stewart - Footloose And Fancy Free

By DEB KENNEDY

The Hometown Band album reminds me of eating chocolate, you can only eat so many before you get sick. Of course, like chocolate, the tunes on this album can really amaze you if you don't listen to them all at once.

The Hometown Band have their roots in the great Canadian west. The band formed two years ago when three of its musicians were working on a Valdy album and decided to expand their sound with the addition of the rhythm section from the Hans Smymer Band. They have since been touring with Valdy, and they have recorded the albums, Valdy and the Hometown Band, Bini's Raincheck on Hilary, and their own Most Flying.

Notable among the band members are Shari Ulrich and Claire Lawrence. Ulrich is lead vocalist who switches from violin, dulcimer and flute with proficiency. Her voice has been likened to an amalgamation of Streisand and Rainardt. Claire Lawrence sometimes accompanies the guitar and flute tunings for the group. He's a former member of chilli rock who has quite a reputation as producer of albums by the Hometown Band, Valdy, Bini Raincheck.

The songs on this album are a fusion of folk, jazz and blues. For example the song Feel Good could have been a folk song but the brass arrangement makes it a bouncy jazz tune. Sweet Emma is a good R & B number, highlighted by a jam led by Lawrence's sax. Never Ending Tomorrow is in the same vein as the theme from the Television Adventure, The Morning After.

The Hometown Band create a second sound due to a fine handling of all the instruments especially the keyboards and brass. Yet their music still seems to lie in limbo between sugary pop and upbeat jazz.

Britain dominates in top '11' LPs

6. The Rabhys - Broken Heart - Always thought there was an "AM" Bad Company lying around somewhere. I think we've found them.
7. Pete Townshend/Ronnie Lane - Rough Mix - Beautiful music from two contrasting styles.
8. Crawler - Crawler - When Paul Kossoff died two years ago the band disappeared from sight, but is now back bringing rhythm and blues rock to a new high.
9. Rod Stewart - Footloose And Fancy Free - Nuff said.
10. Alan Parsons Project - Robot - A master package created by a master in the studio.
11. Wishbone Ash - New England - Fleetwood Mac - Ramroors - Both released late last year but mostly overlooked. Thought we'd give them their fair shake.
By JIM ANGUS
Most of us are thinking at this time of year about one things. In general, how much we have them and how we really should be studying for them. Along about now most of us, if we have any money left are also thinking about what to get for our old Aunt Martha and about three thousand other relatives for Christmas.
Well I've really thought that blood was thicker than water
anyhow so I decided to forego
the formality of studying for exams and concentrate on
Christmas shopping instead.

Guilt runs rampant
in these plans, you
know, so here's a little games
that you can play to help avoid studying more easily. There's about ten of them so read carefully.

(1) Seeing as how this first set of exams is conveniently located near Christmas, why not plan a Christmas wrapping attack on your books and study notes. This way you can be seen doing something good
that you are, you won't unwrap
them till Christmas, much too late in even extreme cases to study
for any exam.

(2) Simple forgetfulness. All of us have a lapse of memory
occasionally. Why not plan for the night you were going to study?

(3) Enjoy a little bit too much Christmas cheer on the night before any of your exams.
It fits in with the socialableness
of the season and makes it hard to stay awake amid your memorization.

(4) Since inclement weather
like snow seems to be around
at this time of the year, why not leave your books outside in a snow storm or the freezing
rain which will make them impossible to use? No defrosting is allowed, remember the energy
shortage.

(5) Sleeping through a study session in the library is certainly possible. Or you can go around and find other people
studying for the same exam
and ask them ridiculous questions about their progress. Use the stairs when walking between floors, it tends to waste
more time.

(6) Convince yourself that studying is an art brought about by anticipation of your trip
to Hawaii on slack week.

Forget the school books and
start making your grass skirt.

(7) How about all those theories about wasting time that you're always googling out about. Well here's a chance to put your money where your mouth is. There must be a million ways to waste time this time of the year. Unravel
ing words of Christmas lights,
looking for the last real-looking arti-ficial Christmas trees. Let
Yuletide imagination run wild.

(8) Decide that for once you will get your Christmas shopping done early. Selections are good now during exam week
but any delay and you might be disappointed.

(9) Save a tree, have your books and notes recycled. Or since it is the season to be getting, why not donate your books to someone less fortunate than yourself. It doesn't matter who, just make it far away.

(10) Finally, instead of buying those expensive fireplaces
for the fireplace at home, why not throw an accounting book or two on the fire. Those blue covers make a real hot fire and pretty coloured flames. They also keep you warm and unoccupied.

Certainly writing an article
for the Lance qualifies as a very creative avoidance of studying,
but that's the way it is, this one
is doing a nice job of keeping
me away from my studying.

Books...What Books?

By JIM ANGUS

Most of us are thinking at this time of year about one things. In general, how m much we have them and how we really should be studying for them. Along about now most of us, if we have any money left are also thinking about what to get for our old Aunt Martha and about three thousand other relatives for Christmas.

Well I've really thought that blood was thicker than water
anyhow so I decided to forego
the formality of studying for exams and concentrate on
Christmas shopping instead.

Guilt runs rampant
in these plans, you
know, so here's a little games
that you can play to help avoid studying more easily. There's about ten of them so read carefully.

(1) Seeing as how this first
set of exams is conveniently
located near Christmas, why not plan a Christmas wrapping
attack on your books and study
notes. This way you can be seen doing something good
that you are, you won't unwrap
them till Christmas, much too late in even extreme cases to study
for any exam.

(2) Simple forgetfulness. All of us have a lapse of memory
occasionally. Why not plan for the night you were going to study?

(3) Enjoy a little bit too
much Christmas cheer on the night before any of your exams.
It fits in with the socialableness
of the season and makes it hard
to stay awake amid your memorization.

(4) Since inclement weather
like snow seems to be around
at this time of the year, why
not leave your books outside
in a snow storm or the freezing
rain which will make them impossible to use? No defrosting is allowed, remember the energy
shortage.

(5) Sleeping through a study
session in the library is certainly possible. Or you can go around and find other people
studying for the same exam
and ask them ridiculous questions about their progress. Use
the stairs when walking between floors, it tends to waste
more time.

(6) Convince yourself that studying is an art brought about by anticipation of your trip
to Hawaii on slack week.

Forget the school books and
start making your grass skirt.

(7) How about all those theories about wasting time that you're always googling out about. Well here's a chance to put your money where your mouth is. There must be a mil-ion ways to waste time this time of the year. Unravel
ing words of Christmas lights,
looking for the last real-looking arti-ficial Christmas trees. Let
Yuletide imagination run wild.

(8) Decide that for once you
will get your Christmas shopping done early. Selections are good now during exam week
but any delay and you might be disappointed.

(9) Save a tree, have your books and notes recycled. Or since it is the season to be getting, why not donate your books to someone less fortunate
than yourself. It doesn't matter
who, just make it far away.

(10) Finally, instead of buying those expensive fireplaces
for the fireplace at home, why
not throw an accounting book
or two on the fire. Those blue covers make a real hot fire and pretty coloured flames. They also keep you warm and unoccupied.

Certainly writing an article
for the Lance qualifies as a very creative avoidance of studying,
but that's the way it is, this one
is doing a nice job of keeping
me away from my studying.

Christmas 365

By JESSE GACANIN

On the day of my birth
I breathed this world's air, looked at people, ate their food and wove dreams, thought and thought to myself... (son, it is to be later than you think). Nevernominds are merely upon us and is here to stay...

For some, this time of the year is for presents and merry making. A time to party, drink large proportions of liquor, kiss under a tree, and feel loved, because this is the the time of year everyone but the lions hate being for (I wish it was Christmas every day of the year).

This month of dreams and reality. What has passed is a reminder and remembrance, and what is to come is a dream whose fruition is to be found in a bottle of Tequila and the warm (grass, who put this worm at the bottom of the dam)...
Lancer basketball-tough, aggressive and fast

By PETER NASH

The Lancer basketball squad managed one win and one loss this week although they played well in both games.

Erindale College couldn't muster enough offence to be competitive against Windsor as the Lancers beat them 90-54 last Friday. On the other hand the Wayne State Tartars slipped by the Lancers with a 76-74 win Wednesday night.

You win some

In the first contest, Erindale College was just no competition for the Lancers. Windsor opened a 14 point lead early in the first half and Erindale failed to get close for the rest of the game.

Both teams tried to play a running game including quick release offence and a full court press. Vince Landry scrambled through the Erindale press and had fine job setting a press for Windsor. Landry ended up with 3 steals and 6 points. Bob Oostveen was Windsor's major offensive threat with 24 points and some fine offensive rebounding. Oostveen helped the Lancers open up a 34 point half time lead, 57-23. The hot shooting Oostveen finished the game with a 75 per cent shooting average.

The second half was a bit slower than the first with both teams in the bonus early. Jim Molyneux had the hot hand, for the Lancers, in the second half with 8 points. That gave him a game total of 16 points. The Lancer defence held strong late in the game due to fine performances by Fred Robson and Charlie Pearshall. Robson did a good job on the boards at both ends of the court and managed 2 blocked shots. Charlie had another good defensive game controlling the boards and blocking 4 shots.

Kevin Greenwood and John Poppovich were the other Lancers to score in double figures as they did last Friday night. D. Buck and B. Reid were the high scorers for Windsor. Landry did fine job setting the Erindale press and Greenwood.

The home court advantage was meant to be a learning experience during preseason. The Lancers were unable to keep up with Wayne State's hot shooting in the second half, although the game stayed close.

Charlie Pearshall (54) gets up and makes sure as Erindale players look on.

Coach Thomas commented that "We've had some good games this week, and the game that he was very happy with the Lancers' performance. "We played our best game of the season against Erindale. We're ready to play (regular season) right now although there are still several systems I would like to add."

Coach Thomas also noted that the Lancers were playing more aggressive, something that he had hoped would develop. He remarked that "We played very silly, something we needed." The home court advantage helped the Lancers although there was only a crowd of 250.

And you lose some

The second contest had a better crowd (400) as well as better competition. The Wayne State squad came out cold in the first half Wednesday night and the Lancers took advantage with an early 17-8 lead.

The Lancers penetrated well with fine play early in the game with Charlie Pearshall, Bob Oostveen and Vince Landry. The Wayne State coach also helped the Lancers by drawing a technical foul for unsportsman-like conduct.

Wayne State managed to battle back with a late first half surge, taking a point, 36-35 half time lead.

Wayne State's Pherson Richardson was cold in the first half but came out hot in the second. Richardson ended up with 18 rebounds and 23 points. The Tartars' Grady Wicker also managed 21 points with four consecutive baskets, late in the game, to keep Wayne State ahead.

The style of play in the second half went from a fast, aggressive running game to a slower, more patterned attack by both teams. Coach Paul Thomas commented that "We could have won that game if we'd done a few things differently. This game was meant to be a learning experience." He was commenting on the fact that the Lancers used a full platoon rather than keeping the starters in. Coach Thomas wants to give all the players floor experience during preseason.

The Lancers were unable to keep up with Wayne State's hot shooting in the second half, although the game stayed close.

Charlie Pearshall played well with 6 points and 19 rebounds. Bob Oostveen and Vince Landry combined for 16 points each with Dan Devin close behind at 14.

Late in the game the Lancers tied the score at 74 after exchanging baskets with the Tartars. With eight seconds left, Wayne State's Tyler put up a 15-footer from the baseline and put the Tartars ahead 76-74. The Lancers brought the ball in facing a full court press and still managed to get down court with only three seconds running. Charlie Pearshall pumped one up at the last second but it rolled off the rim.

Overall the Lancers should be congratulated for a tough aggressive performance.

The Lancers play at home this Saturday against Saginaw Valley.

The regular season begins on January 14th.

Pregnant

and distressed

CALL BIRTHRIGHT, 232-3122.

Pregnancy tests available.

Canadian Universities Travel Service Limited
44 St. George Street, Toronto M5S 2E4
(416)979-2604
173 Lisgar Street, Ottawa (613)238-8222

Sponsored by the Association of Canadian Graduates (Canada)
Hockey Lancers split series with Waterloo

By DON PEPPI

Inconsistency is an old friend of the Lancer hockey team and it came back for a visit last week leaving the team with one very convincing win and one dis­aster.

The Lancers had met the University of Waterloo Warriors only four days earlier, dropping them 3-5, but by a fluke in the schedule, the same two teams faced off for a weekend series.

Saturday the Lancers showed class and talent and although they never totally commanded the action they captured the game 7-5. On Sunday, suffer­ing from the "afternoon-after-the­morning-after-the-night-before­fore blur" the Lancers came out flat and were humiliated 10-3.

Saturday, it looked as though the Lancers were going to have a couple of lark games as the first goal was scored by the Water­loo captain in his own net. Tom Green got credit for that, and Maurice Biron combined with Jack Rosassen adding one each before the midway point of the first period.

The team seemed to be cruising to an easy victory but with 35 seconds left the Wor­riors began to show signs of pep. Dave Jutzi tied it up again. After this momentary lapse Rosassen picked up his hat trick early in the third period and the Lancers didn’t look back. Bert Fournier added two, and Waterloo picked up another closing off the scoring with Jack Rosassen sending one sailing on Saturday. He led the team to a 7-5 victory that day, but Waterloo within two. But Langlois and Hodge each added to the score before the end of the period. Thus the Lancers headed into the final stanza four goals down and their spirits worse.

Both teams took too many penalties. On more than one occasion Waterloo would draw two minutes in the box, the Lancers would start their power-play, then they too would draw a minor and nullify any advantage.

In the second period, the Warriors managed to take the breaks from the Lancers, chal­ling up three more before the final buzzer. Not one player, or even any section of the team, can be blamed for Sunday’s loss. It was the whole team. The atti­tude was wrong, the legs weren’t prepared, nobody seemed willing to fin­ish anything. Passing was haphazard, fore and back-check­ing was incomplete and coverage in front of the net was weak. These are facts, and the team has dealt with them before. The reason why they never showed before was because the rearguard literally held the whole team in the game.

The combination of Mike Freeman and Don Johnson just hadn’t a good day. We all have those once in a while. But as coach Freeman (Mike’s broth­er) noted, “the goaltending has to be solid . . . goalks aren’t allowed the luxury of having a bad day.”

The Lancers will have the whole Christmas break to work all the bad days out of their systems before they head into the second half of the OUAA season. They do have one exhib­ition game scheduled to help keep them sharp, as they face Calvin Community College on December 21. Their first game of the new year is against third­place Laurier.

The game will be played at Adie Know Arena in Wind­nor.

Attention intramurals

Entries are now being accepted for Intramural Sports. That begin in January.

* Men’s Ball Hockey
* Women’s Basketball
* Co-Ed Inner Tube Water Polo
* Men’s Volleyball
* Co-Ed Bowling

Entries Close
January 3
January 10
January 10
January 10
January 8
League Starts
January 10
January 11
January 10
January 10
January 12
January 15
Pre-entries will also be accepted for “Specials” up to and including the date of competition.

Men’s Weightlifting (January 31)
Free Throw Contest (January 9-13)
Table Tennis Tournament (January 16-20)
Billiards Tournament (January 24-29)

Lancerette basketball

poor but optimistic

By ERIC MAYNE

The University of Windsor Lancerette women currently possess no real experience or tradi­tions of a rebuilding year. The women were soundly defeat­ed twice last weekend losing to Waterloo 92-41 and to Guel­ph 84-28.

Kerri Towers, was the out­standing Lancerette performer, scoring 10 points against Water­loo and 14 against Guelph. Regarding their losses, Coach Royal Church stated, “it’s dis­couraging but we keep our spi­rit up. We work hard.” He cited handi­capped by the fact that several players were forced to quit due to other commitments, Coach Church remains mi­santic about the team’s poten­tial to improve.

Literate Sports Ritters

Needed

Drug Claim forms for December

should be handed in

Dec. 12 - 16, 1977

in order to receive refunds in January

SAC Office

PAGE EIGHTEEN-THE LANCE-DECEMBER 9, 1977

Get your exercise now

If you’re looking for a place to relax over the break you may need a tough time, most of the facilities at the Hum­an Kinetics Building and St. Denis Hall will be closed.

Friday December 9 will be the last day for recreational use of the St. Denis gym, as it will be converted for more depres­sing activities (ie. it will be full of desks for exams).

The Human Kinetics pool will be closed from Monday December 19 through January 3 for cleaning and repairs. The lower level of the com­plex will only be open till 5 p.m. from December 19 to Thursday December 22, and then will close completely till January 3.

SAM’S PIZZERIA

Pizza, Ravioli, Chicken, Ribs, etc. 256-1993

Lock for our specials regularly.

Attention University Students 15% off or 2 for 10 in Chicago for all deliveries made to campus.
A new event was added to the Intramural basketball season this year, the Channel Swim. The swimmers had the month of November to swim across the English Channel, a distance of 20 miles. Thirteen people entered the swim. A total of seven swimmers completed the 20 miles.

Outstanding performances were recorded for Paul Webb, Paul Kapusniak, and Ron Crege who swam 27, 39, and 44 miles respectively. Dave Gladish, Barb Peebles, Barb Puckering, and Rosemary Moussel also went the distance.

Basketball star

University of Windsor basketball fans may get a nice surprise with the enrolment of Stan Korosec next semester.

Korosec originally started university at Simon Fraser after playing basketball for 3 years at senior high school. He gained all-star status 3 years in a row as a 6 foot 6 inch, 220 pound center.

In the rebonding department Korosec out classed any of his competitors during his high school. He is also a powerful offensive threat with a good jump shot and fine ability to move to the basket for a big man.

After spending two months at Simon Fraser Korosec decided that he would rather go to school in his home town. The coaches out west felt that he would be a starter for the powerful Simon Fraser squad.

Coach Paul Thomas commented that Korosec would be a great asset to the team. He could be used as a second centre if the Lancers platoon or a forward working with Windsor's own all-star, Charlie Pinerral.

Intramural standings

If your intramural team just won a big game, or a player had a spectacular game, The Lance would like to hear about it so that your team can get the publicity it richly deserves. The Intramural Sports column could be improved with this additional information, instead of just publishing standings and results. If you've got something to bring about, The Lance would like to hear about it.

Contact the Intramural office and place these results with them.

Intramural men's basketball league desperately needs qualified referees for games starting next semester. Payment is made on a flat rate per game. If interested, contact referee-in-chief Mike Gabriel at 255-8123.

TERMINAL

TEMPAPER

TORMENT

EDITION: THE LANCE—DECEMBER 9, 1977—PAGE NINETEEN

U. of W. has channel swimmers

By PETER MURDACK

Some of the entries in the Channel Swim. Front row (from left to right): Rosemary Moussel, Barb Peebles, and Ron Crege.
From The Management & Staff of
"THE GALLERY"

HAPPY CHRISTMAS and a Prosperous
NEW YEAR

The Gallery Lounge