The Temporary Bell Phonecentre is located in Cody Hall Lounge. It's open 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. September 2-5 and 8-10.
President David Simmons welcomes you to campus

I want to welcome all old students back to the University and to extend a warm welcome to all new students. In keeping with the tradition of the first week on campus SAC has tried very hard to make Orientation this year one of the best. We are well aware that at this time of year a lot of you are busily with excitement, but the long line at the bookstore and at the registration desk quickly jolts you back to the reality of campus life and another eight months of classes.

This is why we have put together a full week of fun and activities to make you realize that campus life can be fun and that SAC is always around to take care of its members, whether it be in the area of health, welfare or entertainment.

Though I am not one for making big promises, I will dare to tell you that SAC will again assume the responsibility of attending to the students' concerns whatever the issue.

In the past, students have always asked "Who do we go to?" By the end of the first semester, I would expect all students on campus to not only know who we are, but to become more actively involved to the best of their abilities.

Though I realize that at this time most of you are more concerned with enjoying the last last of a beautiful summer, I want to let you know that you should feel free to come up to the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre and let me know in what manner we can best serve you.

I hope that you will find that the entertainment package we have put together for you does suit everybody's taste. There are lots of things to do, so if you want to make this a good year, start off right by becoming involved.

Vice President Administration

Jim Shaban expects to work hard again this year

Jim Shaban came to the University of Windsor in September 1979 after being involved for two years in student government at W.F. Herman Secondary School.

In September of that same year, Gino Piazza, then President of SAC, appointed Jim as the chairman of the SAC Golden Jubilee Celebration. Through his position as chairman, Shaban was able to learn a lot about student government at the university level. After completing a successful SAC presidential mission, he entered Ancillary Services.

by E.P. Chant

Aside from the re-elected Vice President Administration, Jim Shaban is the only member of last year's SAC executive returning to serve in this year's cabinet.

Again working as Ancillary Services Commissioner, Zago is responsible for administering the Student Drug Plan and representing the Students' Administration External Affairs.

Zago the veteran returns

John Rizopoulos has been chosen by the SAC President to be this year's External Affairs Commissioner. It will be his job to keep the Student Administrative Council in touch with the other Councils around the province. Also among his duties is the responsibility of keeping the student body informed about the actions of the two major student organizations, the National Union of Students (NUS) and the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS). Among the activities organized through External Affairs and these two bodies are the annual provincial free ski hike and lack of

Vice President Finance

Brad Mitchell spends money fairly

by E.P. Chant

Brad Mitchell came from the same mold as most of the past SUCV-Presidents Finance -- a fellow who goes about his job quietly and unassuming and a willingness to spend as much money as is needed to give the students the best. Although the SAC budget for the coming year has not yet been announced, Mitchell's cautious generosity can be observed in his willingness to increase the budgets of the two student medium, CJAM Radio and The Lance newspaper.

In Media Corporation (the intermediary body between these mediums and SAC, the financier) meetings this summer, Mitchell realized that The Lance required a budget increase to cover its higher supply costs. He could just have easily have told the newspaper to publish only 12 pages every week instead of 16, but he knew that this would mean "short changing" the students.

CJAM was granted a large budget increase so that it could efficiently serve its student audience. Mitchell also noted the financial difficulties of the student newspaper, former Editor Peter Nash evaluated Zago's work.

"A man you rarely hear from, Zago is quiet and unassuming fellow who goes about his job efficiently and carefully. His work on the Food Plan and the Drug Committee were more than acceptable."

In an editorial in the same issue of the student newspaper, former Editor Peter Nash evaluated Zago's work.

"A man you rarely hear from, Zago is quiet and unassuming fellow who goes about his job efficiently and carefully. His work on the Food Plan and the Drug Committee were more than acceptable."

Rizopoulos the ambassador

John Bernat is the current president of the Student Administrative Council and hence the students on several campus and Senate committees, most notably those involving residences and the food plan.

In April of this year, Zago, always trying to improve service, told The Lance that "we (SAC) are looking at quotes for a new drug plan next year but nothing is final yet. The present plan takes too damned long to send cheques. The kids need the money."

In an editorial in the same issue of the student newspaper, former Editor Peter Nash evaluated Zago's work.

"A man you rarely hear from, Zago is quiet and unassuming fellow who goes about his job efficiently and carefully. His work on the Food Plan and the Drug Committee were more than acceptable."

In an editorial in the same issue of the student newspaper, former Editor Peter Nash evaluated Zago's work.

"A man you rarely hear from, Zago is quiet and unassuming fellow who goes about his job efficiently and carefully. His work on the Food Plan and the Drug Committee were more than acceptable."

Rizopoulos, a student of Chemical Engineering has also attended the University of Western Ontario and Louisiana State University. Last year John was the graphic artist for the University of Windsor student newspaper The Lance.

This coming year, SAC has approved Shaban's proposal for club rectification which outlines a new procedure that was badly needed. Shaban hopes to restructure the internal operations of SAC so that it may run more efficiently to better serve the students at the University of Windsor.

Shaban looks forward to meeting every student on a personal basis to listen and hopefully implement their ideas in the upcoming year.

Special Events

Mark LaCassee wants ideas

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome both new and returning students to the University of Windsor.

I believe, as a fourth year University of Windsor student, that I am sensitive to the social needs and wants characteristic of the university student.

Unlike previous years, I plan to make events such as Homecoming, Open House and Oktoberfest truly memorable. To accomplish this, your participation will be needed and greatly appreciated. The Orientation events and those other activities sponsored by the Office of Special Events need only your participation and your sense of enjoyment to make this year truly special.

If there are any groups or individuals who feel they have ideas that will benefit the social atmosphere of others on campus please free to contact me at the SAC office in the University Centre. I am interested in all ideas.

One last reminder, the Orientation events are sponsored for your pleasure so please enjoy.

THE LANCERECY SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING TEAM WILL BEGIN ITS 1980-1981 SEASON ON MONDAY SEPT.15TH 3:30p.m. IN THE HUMAN KINETICS POOL.
PRACTICES ARE MONDAY TO FRIDAY, 3:30-5:00 p.m. OLD AND NEW MEMBERS MOST WELCOME, FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL LYnda ELLEY AT 734-1120.

A message from John Bernat, Orientation Commissioner, pages 889
Have a shoe shine and a hot wax, mister?

by Wendy Coomber

Next week, thousands of University of Windsor students will crowd onto the city streets disguised as shoe shiners and armed with only a smile and a shoe shining kit, eager to shine the publies' shoes. You may ask "to what end this madness?"

The Shinerama organizing committee from left to right: Bob Burns, Maria Del Mastro, Sander Mahaffy, Wilma Bianotto, and Jim Whelan.

To elicit any donation, large or small, for funding the research in Cystic Fibrosis. Unfortunately, the level of ignorance in Windsor's annual Shinerama rarely finds its way above the three digit mark. Either students are unaware of Shinerama, or they don't care.

This year the event is being organized by a small group of nursing and engineering students. Their aims are to raise money for research, to increase awareness among university students. To this end they are plotting an all-out recruitment program.

Starting September 9 they will be setting and waiting at their display booth in the Student Centre, ready to entice all able-bodied, nimble-fingered students who pass within their reach.

Shinerama is a national program which began 16 years ago on the campuses of two Canadian universities as part of their Orientation programs. Last year the number of universities involved was 41. The aim of the Shineramas has always been to raise funds for the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

This year, to make things more interesting, the University of Windsor has agreed to a competition with Wilfrid Laurier University of Waterloo. The reason for placing Laurier in such esteem as to even consider them worthy opponents for such a noble dual seems to be based on the fact that Laurier, like Windsor, turned up on the very low end of the 41 fund raising universities last year. Hence, the mutual need for stimulation. This challenge may be viewed as a struggle on the part of each of them to keep a little distance between them and the very bottom of the list.

Yet, in all fairness, it must be added that, for Windsor's eight years of Shinerama, $17,500 is nothing to feel smug about compared to the $7,200 raised by Laurier in only two years.

The aim of every Shinerama across the country is to raise money for the research in the disease. Cystic Fibrosis. CF is a chronic lung disease that is passed to approximately one in one thousand babies from their parents. The most important characteristic of the ailment is the unusually thick mucous in the lungs which makes breathing difficult and causes irreparable damage to the lungs after a time. CF children must take medication and other daily treatments to clean out their lungs and to aid in the normal digestion of foods.

The disease is a life-long one. In the 1960's these children were not given much hope of living past the age of five years old. Today, with much more research behind us and medical people more qualified to help these children, a normal CF child who has kept up his regular medication and treatments can live into his early twenties, and sometimes past that.

Shinerama this year is sponsored by Labatt's who will be sitting and waiting at their display booth in the Student Centre, ready to ensnare all able-bodied, nimble-fingered students who pass within their reach.

Shinerama this year is sponsored by Labatt's who will be going out to their clients in publicity and various on and off campus promotions for the project.

However, the project will only be as successful as the level of participation and enthusiasm each student contributes. Look for flyers throughout the campus for details on how you can help. Expect to see you out next week putting on a shine for CF.

Cystic Fibrosis (CF) is one of the most common serious chronic disorders of Canadian infants and children. In CF, certain glands do not function properly and secrete a sticky mucous which clogs the bronchial tubes in the lungs and impairs the flow of enzymes from the pancreas into the small intestines which impedes digestion. It can be extremely serious. However with early diagnosis and expert treatment, most affected youngsters can live into his early twenties, and sometimes past that. Shinerama will raise money for the research behind us and medical people more qualified to help these children.

The disease is a life-long one. In the 1960's these children were not given much hope of living past the age of five years old. Today, with much more research behind us and medical people more qualified to help these children, a normal CF child who has kept up his regular medication and treatments can live into his early twenties, and sometimes past that.

Shinerama this year is sponsored by Labatt's who will be sitting and waiting at their display booth in the Student Centre, ready to ensnare all able-bodied, nimble-fingered students who pass within their reach.

Shinerama this year is sponsored by Labatt's who will be sitting and waiting at their display booth in the Student Centre, ready to ensnare all able-bodied, nimble-fingered students who pass within their reach.

Shinerama this year is sponsored by Labatt's who will be sitting and waiting at their display booth in the Student Centre, ready to ensnare all able-bodied, nimble-fingered students who pass within their reach.

Cystic Fibrosis (CF) is one of the most common serious chronic disorders of Canadian infants and children. In CF, certain glands do not function properly and secrete a sticky mucous which clogs the bronchial tubes in the lungs and impairs the flow of enzymes from the pancreas into the small intestines which impedes digestion. It can be extremely serious. However with early diagnosis and expert treatment, most affected youngsters can live into his early twenties, and sometimes past that.

Shinerama will raise money for the research behind us and medical people more qualified to help these children.
Bibliography One reduces hours of aimless searching

by E.P. Chant

“Now, do I have to go to the documents section or the reference area for that? Technical journals, trade magazines, supplements, micro-film, card indexes. By gosh, but the library can be one PR357.A3 54 Vol. IV of a confusing place!”

One hears that kind of exasperation from a lot of first year students and occasionally from those who have been at the university for a few years.

For four meanly hours, however, you can solve the maze of the library, with the solution to your problem coming from the library itself via Bibliography One.

Bibliography one is a free, non-credit course for undergraduate students which takes one week to complete. You meet with a library staff member and approximately nine other students for two two-hour sessions on either a Monday and a Thursday or a Tuesday and Thursday.

The first two hour session is devoted to a workbook consisting of exercises on library use skills such as how to find books and articles on various topics. The second session is a term paper literature search exercise. Completion of both sessions should provide you with a good introduction to the basics of library information retrieval.

If you would like to learn how to use the library efficiently, drop by the library information desk and sign up for Bibliography one. Additional information can be obtained by calling the information desk at Extension 261.

The two-hour slots available this fall are 9:00-11:00 a.m., 2:00-4:00 p.m. and 6:00-8:00 p.m. for the following two day slots: (all in September) 15 and 17, 16 and 18, 22 and 24, or 23 and 25.

Peas in a pod

A number of service oriented administrative departments have recently relocated their operations on campus.

As of July 23, the Registrar’s Office, the Award’s Office, and the Cashier’s Office will share the first floor of Windsor Hall North in the area previously occupied by the French Department.

The proximity of these three services in one central area will facilitate registration and grant application procedures for students.

Access to this area is through the entrance off the sidewalk running west to east from the University Centre Quadrangle to Windsor Hall North. Entry through the south door of Windsor Hall North, adjacent to the Tower is now closed off.

The French Department is now located on the second floor of Windsor Hall Tower, in the area previously occupied by the Registrar.

In addition, the office of Publications has moved from Room 2010 Math Building to join Information Services in the West Library. The Alumni Office is also moving in stages from the fourth floor of the Tower to the West Library and will be completely settled there by the end of the summer.

Any additions or changes to the telephone numbers of the affected departments may be ascertained by calling the switchboard.

Cassano welcomes freshmen

“The university’s new Vice-President, Academic, Dr. Paul Cassano, will welcome freshmen to the University of Windsor campus Monday.

Cassano, formerly the Dean of Arts at the university, succeeded Dr. John MacAlister as the Vice President when the latter’s “term of office” ended in April.

Last year, University President Dr. Mervyn Franklin welcomed freshmen students to the campus, pledging that the faculty and the administration “were here to do it all for (the students)” (just like McDonald’s). He also introduced several of his Vice-Presidents and various deans to the first year students at the hour long assembly.

With first year enrolment supposedly “up” again this year, Cassano should be speaking to a very large throng. Last year it was “standing room only” for Franklin’s speech in Ambassador Auditorium.

Freshmen are to gather at the Ambassador Auditorium, Second Floor, University Centre for this welcoming address, scheduled for noon, Monday, September 8.

You can’t work in the Library unless you know how to use it. Are those Bibliography One graduates?

PHONE BEFORE SEPTEMBER 19th

RENTAL DIVISION

SPECIAL RENTAL OFFER!

• Immediate Delivery • Delivered with money saving samples and coupons

SHOWN

Deluxe 23”

only $12.50 per month

Small, neat, compact.

Also available

Deluxe 34”

only $16.00 per month

ORDER NOW AND RECEIVE A SAMPLE OF EACH PRODUCT SHOWN ABOVE, WHILE SUPPLIES LAST.

CALL TOLL-FREE

1-800-268-8829

Be the first kid on the block to have your own refrigerator.

HOSTESS FOODS LTD. • GILLETTE CANADA • JERGENS • AYLMER • SUN PAC JUICES • MILLER'S REFRIGERATORS

DIVISION
Come up and learn how to write right

E.P. Chant
Editor, The Lance

Apparently, those that can do, do; those that can't teach-and to teach others to write. As I am used to the position of Editor of The Lance for 1980-81, I feel just that - "cannot do" all year long.

An editor's job, as far as I am concerned, is two-fold: an editor is supposed to write and to teach others to write. At The Lance, the editorial column last year consisted of writing straight news stories, sports and a few entertainment reviews and as a student in Communicational Studies, I believe that I have shown I can write - how well will be determined, I suppose, by the strength and fairness of my editorials this coming year.

It is the other facet of the job, the teaching, that has me worried. I do not want to be an editor who simply sketches out parts of stories with a red pen and without explaining his editing to the writer involved.

The stuff of The Lance is composed of volunteers and such people, devoting their time to the paper and their futures to journalism, deserve to have a helpful, open person as editor, not a autocratic boor.

The problem I am going to have with all this involves the cloistered and analytical philosophy. Long accepted and practiced conventions such as the "inverted pyramid" system always seem to be in the past few years been shot at the staff, walk down towards the SAC office, and just before you get there, turn right. There, wasn't that easy? Now walk in, See? It didn't hurt at all.

All the stuff work for this worthwhile endeavour are wandering about the campus and we are up here in the office putting out the first edition. So although you don't see us along with all the other information booths at Orientation, there actually is some damn all this. You have to do is walk upstairs in the University Centre building, go left at the top of the stairs, walk down towards the SAC office, and just before you get there, turn right.

Ed McMahon

The halls are alive with the sound

by Grant Gelinus

This year, CJAM student radio is expanding its area of broadcasting to include the University Centre, Vanier Hall, Cody, Huron and Electa Halls. In the halls, speakers will be installed in the general lounge/lobby areas. The PA system will carry student entertainment created in the Centre and Vanier Hall. As in the past, you can tune in to 660 on your AM dial in Mac and Laurier Halls, or 640 as indicated by the printing on your buttons.

The station is on the air from 6:00-12:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, contrary to the University Calendar's claim of seven days a week. The station doesn't broadcast during the weekends during basketball season.

The halls are coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related information.

Fall in love with inky fingers

by a few members of The Lance staff

"Letters to the Editor" to tell me your kind of story. I am doing and I shall also need input. I can only get the latter by writing and/or photograp hy yourself and tell me face to face that I goofed up with the story or that.

The door, the "Letters to the Editor" page, the staff list, and my mind will always be open.

The halls are alive with the sound

by Grant Gelinus

This year, CJAM student radio is expanding its area of broadcasting to include the University Centre, Vanier Hall, Cody, Huron and Electa Halls. In the halls, speakers will be installed in the general lounge/lobby areas. The PA system will carry student entertainment created in the Centre and Vanier Hall. As in the past, you can tune in to 660 on your AM dial in Mac and Laurier Halls, or 640 as indicated by the printing on your buttons.

The station is on the air from 6:00-12:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, contrary to the University Calendar's claim of seven days a week. The station doesn't broadcast during the weekends during basketball season.

from September 8 to September 22, there will be three hours of special programming nightly at 9 P.M. ranging from popular classical music to New Wave.

The student station broadcast services to carry student entertainment created in the Centre and Vanier Hall. As in the past, you can tune in to 660 on your AM dial in Mac and Laurier Halls, or 640 as indicated by the printing on your buttons.

The station is on the air from 6:00-12:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, contrary to the University Calendar's claim of seven days a week. The station doesn't broadcast during the weekends during basketball season.

The halls are alive with the sound

So I have been asked by the staff to break this high polished and commercial mold.

While the station provides a source of entertainment and information to some students, it also functions as a training ground for others. CJAM provides good broadcast training in many areas and is a place to "air" your creative talents.

Blaine Speigle, Special Programs Director for the second consecutive year, said "last year we supplied up to date news concerning issues about the campus and matters directly involving students. Barb Leavitt, this year's News Director, said "with our special investigation team and with the staff, each of the campus areas news will be dealt with."

The station is coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre, next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related material.

Informatively, CJAM provides up to date news concerning issues about the campus and matters directly involving students. Barb Leavitt, this year's News Director, said "with our special investigation team and with the staff, each of the campus areas news will be dealt with."

The station is coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre, next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related material.

Informatively, CJAM provides up to date news concerning issues about the campus and matters directly involving students. Barb Leavitt, this year's News Director, said "with our special investigation team and with the staff, each of the campus areas news will be dealt with."

The station is coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre, next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related material.

Informatively, CJAM provides up to date news concerning issues about the campus and matters directly involving students. Barb Leavitt, this year's News Director, said "with our special investigation team and with the staff, each of the campus areas news will be dealt with."

The station is coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre, next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related material.

Informatively, CJAM provides up to date news concerning issues about the campus and matters directly involving students. Barb Leavitt, this year's News Director, said "with our special investigation team and with the staff, each of the campus areas news will be dealt with."

The station is coming off a successful year and is looking forward to an even better one this year. As always, the assistant manager, sums up this year with his motto "enjoyment in the process of production". He added that he is accessible for any program ideas that students may have.

The station is located in the basement of the University Centre, next to the pub. CJAM will hope for expanded programs. Also we hope to create more programs generated from school related material.
Engineers are people of many facets

by W.H. Keller, President

Unwin EngSoc in the acronym for the University of Windsor Engineering Society. All undergraduate Engineers, now over 800 students, are members. The thing I would really like you to get from this article is a feeling for both the style and spirit of engineering at Unwin.

What is the typical engineering student like? This rhetorical question can be answered by listing some types, because none are typical. The boorish beer drinking club who parties his brains out and fails, the arrogant intellectual - a boner who wears a calculator on his belt; the narrow minded egotist who thinks technology is a panacea therefore making engineers invaluable; the discontented plodder who is just finishing because he is almost done or has gone too far to stop; the engineer who works hard when he has to and plays hard when he can. Taken together this apparently elitish bunch are engineers. In general they are no different than any other bunch on campus.

Unwin EngSoc tries to help its members get the most out of university life because you pay for more than just the privilege of attending classes. Through the elected executive and volunteers, extracurricular activities such as intramurals, dances, conferences, and ski trips are organized. In addition Unwin EngSoc supports and provides headquarters for the controversial engineering newspaper The Essex and the EIEIO marching wedding and funeral bands. In these ways, we try to emphasize that education is not just academic, it's personal development.

Unwin EngSoc is not just fun and games however. Part of the administrative and business details of the society include fund raising parties, sponsoring our foster child Philip who is in the Kaya region of the Upper Volta in Africa, helping other societies like Nursing at Shin-Windsor, that is we have no privileges other than the opportunity to establish get-togethers for students, to bring in guest speakers, and to ensure more representation for Social Science students' Career Day, to mention only a few examples. Before this is possible, it is necessary to gain financing for this purpose. To do this, a referendum to raise money must be held. Present a petition is being circulated to gain support for this. Upon getting the required amount of signatures from Social Science students a referendum would be held to raise Social Science students' fees by five dollars. However, this is a refundable fee, for those who do not support the venture.

UniWin EngSoc tries to help all Social Science students. The aims would be to organize social events such as proms, to bring in guest speakers, and to ensure more representation for Social Science students. This includes the Second Annual Mini-Olympics, Big Brother Night, and other Orientation events.

social scientists need a home

by Marg Malenfant

Students of the Social Science faculties are under represented at the University of Windsor, that is we have no clubs or societies to represent our aggregate interests. With this in mind, we are proposing to start such an organization as a Social Science Society. We feel that such a Society would efficiently serve the needs of the chemical engineering students. In general they are no different than any other bunch on campus.

University of Windsor Engineering Society tries to help its members get the most out of university life because you pay for more than just the privilege of attending classes. Through the elected executive and volunteers, extracurricular activities such as intramurals, dances, conferences, and ski trips are organized. In addition Unwin EngSoc supports and provides headquarters for the controversial engineering newspaper The Essex and the EIEIO marching wedding and funeral bands. In these ways, we try to emphasize that education is not just academic, it's personal development.

Unwin EngSoc is not just fun and games however. Part of the administrative and business details of the society include fund raising parties, sponsoring our foster child Philip who is in the Kaya region of the Upper Volta in Africa, helping other societies like Nursing at Shin-Windsor, that is we have no privileges other than the opportunity to establish get-togethers for students, to bring in guest speakers, and to ensure more representation for Social Science students. This includes the Second Annual Mini-Olympics, Big Brother Night, and other Orientation events.

Whether you're a tortoise or a hare, hurry to join the Biology Club.

Join the herd in the Biology Club

Jamie Pitta

Biology Club President

The Biology Club is presently in the midst of a rebuilding stage, so that we can provide as many services and activities as possible to all our members. To build the club into an active and effective one requires the cooperation of both the staff and the students. Previous years have shown us that such cooperation is readily given by both groups and together we should make biology even more successful than last year.

Look for our new club office on the first floor of the Biology Building this fall, and drop in to join the club. Please make any suggestions that you have. Our membership sale will begin during the first week of classes in the Biology Building.

Remember, the club functions for you and can only do so with your help.

Canadian Society for Chemical Engineering Students

by Joe DiFranco

As the name implies, our society is geared towards the needs of the chemical engineering students at the University of Windsor.

This year there will be a tour of Hiram Walker and Sons Limited on September 12. A possible trip to tour the petrochemical industries in Sarnia is still being organized.

There will be four society meetings as the year progresses to discuss upcoming events. Pizza and refreshments will be supplied. Our society will be co-hosting a "Ladies' Night" party at Ambassador Auditorium on September 26. Chemical Engineering members will be available sometime during the year.

The membership fee will be eight dollars per member for the year. The fee will be collected in early September before the first meeting. The fee includes admission to all society meetings and field trips.

I am looking forward to a very good year.

Library Hours

Fall Session, commencing September, 1980.

Monday - Friday
8:00 a.m. to 11:45 p.m.
Saturday
9:00 a.m. to 11:45 p.m.
Sunday
Noon to 11:45 p.m.

Library Closed: October 13, Thanksgiving Day.
In the past, Orientation has been a success story. Last year, our first event was the most successful of any event. The total profit was over $1,000 from the first event, and we expect to surpass this number this year. The biggest profit was made from the event that we had at the first event.

This is due to the hard work of everyone involved. The people who took time to run the event and the people who helped to promote the event. We are grateful for everyone's hard work.

With an increase in demand to participate in Orientation, we expect the future to be even better.
This year's Orientation has been a success. Not this year!" says Bernat, director of the Delta Chi Fraternity, Bernat.

Fund raising events and claims that not one event was issued by Orientation Committee. Bernat understands that promotion is responsible for success of the Delta Chi events. "It's a day to raise funds this year since the in­ test would make their prices too high for any­ turn out." says Bernat. "Be sure to attend the pub, Orientation Week is a presentation of the enjoyment of students - so don't miss it!"

A slate of events ranging from live entertainers, it looks like Orientation '80, under the inner, will give a good start to the 1980-81 year.

This year volunteers are needed for a few events to come to see the students over the next year. Some of the events over the next few weeks need some volunteers to fill in for some of the events. This is a great chance for some of the new students to meet people and get involved with the university and with student government.

Volunteers are guaranteed a good time - there will be free passes to events and a big wrap­ up party. If you're interested please leave your name and phone number in the SAC office, 253-423 ext. 326.

Writing Development Centre develops writing skills

The Office of Student Affairs is pleased to announce the re-opening of the Writing Development Centre. For those unfamiliar with the Writing Development Centre, it provides a tutorial service to those students who require assistance in developing the fundamental writing skills necessary for the completion of university assignments. This year the Writing Development Centre will operate on a referral basis. Faculty members have already been advised by letter and invited to refer any students experiencing difficulty in written assignments to Room 12, Vanier Hall. Students taking part in this program receive two or three hours of individual instruction per week, arranged around existing schedules, in order to avoid conflict. The Writing Development Centre is not an essay writing or editing service. It is designed to provide students with the opportunity to develop independent writing skills. Each student’s work is kept on file in order to assess progress. Every effort is made to avoid adding to the student’s workload beyond the specified hours of tutorial instruction.

At present, limited time and space allow the Writing Development Centre to accept referrals on a first come first served basis only. After having reached a capacity of 60 students, a waiting list will be established. Students are invited to refer themselves to the Centre for assistance at any time as long as openings remain available. At present, the Writing Development Centre is able to accommodate only native English speaking students; foreign students requiring assistance should be directed to the specially designed course English 050.

For more information on the Writing Development Centre, contact either Mrs. Patricia Pare (tutorial) at 253-3321 or Ken Long, Dean of Students, at ext. 334.

Lectures to learn by

This series of lectures began in 1976 and has been attracting a large number of students ever since. For a three hour investment of your time you can increase your efficiency as a student. The new series begins on Tuesday, September 16, in the Madame Vanier Lounge in the southeast corner of Vanier Hall. Come and bring a friend, the lectures are informal.

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

Tuesday, September 16 at 12:00-1:00 p.m. and again at 5:30-6:30 p.m.

Mastering the textbook and reading assignments.

Wednesday, September 17 at 12:00-1:00 p.m. and again at 5:30-6:30.

Studying for tests and exams.

Thursday, September 18 at 12:00-1:00 p.m. and again at 5:30-6:30 p.m.

The University of Windsor’s student newspaper, THE LANCE, urgently requires two typesetters. If you can type fifty words a minute or more, we’ll teach you how to run an IBM Composer Typesetter.

THE LANCE also needs an experienced or trainable person for graphic art (advertisement composition).

Both positions are paid and available immediately.

Apply at THE LANCE Office, Second Floor, University Centre.
Oktoberfest in the pub in October

Jody Stanton, Manager
SAC’s Pub, located in the basement of the University Centre, is a fully licensed pub serving liquor, beer, and a variety of cocktails as well as the weekly House Special.

SAC’s hires a part-time staff of 40 - 50 and a full-time staff of four. All part-time positions are student positions, including that of the Assistant Pub Supervisor and Assistant Liquor Service Supervisor.

This year we have plans to offer the students a wide variety of entertainment. In addition to live weekly entertainment, we have pinball, a juke box, and hopes of purchasing a 50 inch TV screen by fall of 1980.

If you haven’t been to the pub since school was out, you’ve missed some great times, but don’t worry because things are going to get even better. For example, how does an Oktoberfest weekend sound: a live German band, original German food and mugs of beer! And on those weekend nights when your stomach wants a little something you may just want to try a large piece of the pub’s pizza.

Orientation this year will be better than ever with the pub and SAC putting on many fun and interesting events. We hope to see you all down at SAC’s pub, but if you want to come on the weekend, you’d better get there early. Remember your student ID card and proof of age.

Delta Chi: the fraternity philosophy and its parties

Delta Chi by James A. Boyer, President
The Windsor campus has the only remaining chapter of the Delta Chi Fraternity in Canada and is, in fact, the only remaining fraternity on the University of Windsor campus. We have been in Windsor since 1969 and became a chapter in 1971.

The fraternity is only one of numerous chapters across the United States, with a chapter house as close as Ann Arbor, Michigan.

In the past few years, membership has been gradually increasing as fraternities are experiencing an upswing in popularity. The relaxed, home-like atmosphere to dormitory living for many of our members. The brothers who live elsewhere have also been influenced from this type of atmosphere when they aren’t in class.

While education is our most important goal, we have not neglected our social function. Dr. Franklin, the university President, has acknowledged our efforts to make the university a better place to attend.

Our fall “rush” takes place in September for our new, incoming members, with this year already looking like one of our best turn-outs for new members.

If you want to enjoy your years at university to the fullest, come over to Delta Chi and see what we have to offer you. We are truly a unique experience.

Delta Chi events

by Martin Gordi, Vice President, Social Director

‘This year at “The Chi” we are starting things off with a casual barbeque on Sunday, September 7. Please feel free to come over and enjoy the craziness and festivities.

On Wednesday, September 10, we are initiating a new party format, Ladies’ Night! We feel that the ladies deserve special recognition, so we’re doing our best to show you how much your presence on this campus is really appreciated.

On Thursday, September 11, watch out! We’re holding our first annual Jumbo Bar-B-Q. Yes, this is it! The main one! Everyone is strongly urged to attend this eventful party. All food and liquid refreshments will be cheap, cheap, CHEAP! It starts at 3:00 p.m. and goes on forever.

People will be at the house all week (located at 408 Indian Road), so stop in any time for a chat and some pizza in the comforts of our house.

Our “TGIF” parties, which were such a success last year, will be commencing on September 12.

Other events this year will include a catastrophic Halloween party, a hay ride, movie nights, and pub nights.

See you soon!

Party! Delta Chi is pleased to Present
La Fiesta Grande
Thursday Sept. 11

Starring: ALTERNATIVE

Featuring: Time: 3:00 p.m. to whenever Cheap Beef Dinner $3.50 (incuding complement of vegetables, etc.)
25¢ Quaff

Don’t miss it!

Other Delta Chi Events
Sunday, Sept. 7-Bar-B-Q/party
Wednesday, Sept. 10-Ladies night
Thursday, Sept. 11-La Fiesta Grande Bar-B-Q
Friday, Sept. 12-TGIF parties commence!

Come in and see us!

PARTY CITY!
Community Legal Aid is for everybody

by Gar Nutson

The legal aid office, located in the law school, is making an all-out effort to expand its services to both the community and the campus. Known in previous years as the Student Legal Aid Society, the organization has changed its name to Community Legal Aid. The reason for the change was the apparent confusion by the public, in that most people felt that Student Legal Aid meant legal aid for students and not legal aid by students. This change fits in with the general university policy of trying to integrate the campus with the community.

Community Legal Aid, in recognition of its increased responsibility to the students due to increased student funding, is initiating a number of projects aimed specifically at students. The most prominent one is a campus seminar on Immigration Law scheduled for Monday, October 6. This seminar will provide information on student visas, work permits, permanent residency, refugees and other immigration topics.

Other services CLA is trying to upgrade include the OSAP and student grade appeals. It appears that Windsor may have an especially large number of OSAP appeals because many students were unemployed and unable to provide the proper student contribution to their loan and grant application. The federal government formulates that each student should save about eight hundred dollars over the summer. If you were unable to save this much you may have grounds for an appeal for more money.

Community Legal Aid has also begun an investigation into housing discrimination in the campus area. If you feel you have been refused accommodation because of race or colour you should contact the office. We may be able to help you find accommodation and/or lodge a complaint with the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

CLA is also trying to increase its other services. Consumer complaints large or small are welcome at the office. If less than a thousand dollars you may want to take the case to Small Claims Court. A law student can provide great assistance in preparing and presenting your case.

The traditional services of providing representation for Landlord and Tenant matters, summary criminal matters, and administrative problems are still available. If you have any sort of a legal problem it is best to contact the CLA office first. If we cannot help you we know who can.

For more information, call 253-7150 or 253-4232 ext. 160 or come to our office G105 in the basement of the Law Building Monday-Thursday, 2:00 to 6:00, or call to make an appointment.

****

Free Legal Advice and Representation for most legal problems, such as:

Highway Traffic Offences

Immigration Problems

Small Claims Courts

Landlord-Tenant problems

Consumer Complaints

Summary Criminal Offences

Other matters.....

For information, call 253-7150 or 253-4232 ext. 160 or drop in at our office G105 in the Faculty of Law.

Clinic Hours: Monday-Thursday 2:00 to 6:00
Sac's

Presents

for Orientation "80"
Sept. 5, 6, 8, 9, 10

"The Blitz"
( formerly California )

Sat. Sept. 6 (3-5 pm)

Matinee

With "The Blitz"

Pub opens at 12 noon. (no cover)

Sept 11, 12, 13

"Bully"

Come in and see our New 52"

Colour T.V. Screen

Upcoming Attractions:

Oktoberfest Weekend -

"Live German oom pah pah band."
Non-faculty clubs open to every student who wishes
ISO strives to unite people through knowledge

Over the years, this university has developed a strong tradition for educating students from all over the world. Currently over fifty different countries are represented on campus and this cultural mix has made an incalculable contribution to the quality, variety, and interest of life at the University of Windsor. This is epitomized by the pursuit of knowledge and the hospitality of the University of Windsor.

In a world that is increasingly shrinking, we are proud to be a part of a society where racial strife and international dispute have constantly been placed second to the common objectives of shared human dignity and the pursuit of knowledge. This is a welcome challenge, one that the ISO hopes to address each September, to which the students of the University of Windsor community have consistently triumphed.

If a man is to think decisively, act intelligently, and unite with his fellows in any large worthwhile social endeavour, the first step lies in his knowledge of mankind no matter what race, creed or nationality. He must learn to appreciate others' beliefs and behaviours which can only come from knowledge. If the members of the ISO make some contribution, no matter how limited, to the achievement of this, the ISO will not fail altogether in its purpose. It is with great pride that we say "welcome". Do well academically, share with us culturally, and upon graduation take home with you a treasure of knowledge and experience that the world badly needs.

We would like to emphasize that Canadian students are welcome to join us in our Orientation program. Drop in the International Centre any time during the day - 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dancers in last year's ISO sponsored African Festival.

OPIRG still active in the community

OPIRG is the Ontario Public Interest Research Group, which has been working on the campus since September 1978. OPIRG lost its student funding in March 1980, so it is now moving off campus.

Director Jim Brophy explained the move: "The referendum made it obvious that at the University of Windsor there is not a solid enough base for a public interest research group."

This summer, OPIRG sponsored government grant projects on occupational health and safety and on the environmental concerns of industrial waste disposal in Blenheim. Seventeen students worked hard all summer to produce a Workers' Handbook on Health and Safety, various pamphlets, a slide-tape show on the citizens' organization against liquid waste dumping in Blenheim, a poster on health hazards found in Windsor's workplaces, and a slide-tape show on health and safety risks faced by Windsor workers.

All of these will be used to publicize the issues to students, community organizations, and workers. As well, a large resource centre has been compiled for use by the general public.

Although OPIRG lost the referendum, it is clear that there are many students who do support public interest research. For this reason, we will maintain a presence on campus as a student club to serve those students and professors who have worked with us and are interested in OPIRG's issues. If you would like to get involved or if you would like more information please call Cecilia Deck at 254-4192. OPIRG is always open to new ideas and new initiatives to keep public interest research alive and well at the University of Windsor.

Your move, Mr Spock

by Terry McLinden

President Chen has been played 20 feet underwater, using a metal board and magnetic piece. However, the University of Windsor Chess Club is quite content to hold their meetings in the some-what drier climate of the University Centre. Of course the Centre is a place where one can find players to help them improve their game, and thus derive more enjoyment from it.

The Club is not geared towards major competitions. It is a place where one can play chess; where beginners can find players to help them improve their game, and thus derive more enjoyment from it.

Whether it's a serious tournament, a friendly game (with friends quickly pointing out your "obvious" errors), or a graphic blow-by-blow description of your big game versus THE player in the club, it is, above all, a place to play chess.

CSO welcomes all nationalities

The members of the Chinese Students' Association (CSA) are mostly from Hong Kong, a British Colony on the south coast of China. Some members are from Singapore or Malaysia. Therefore, membership is overlapping between the CSA and the MSSA.

The aim of the CSA is to provide service and social activities to its members. It also has the responsibility to promote friendship and understanding among its members and other students of different heritage. In order to achieve these objectives, the CSA is organizing service projects, such as committee to help new students, a housing service, used books exchange service, and a Chinese library. Activities will include Chinese movie nights, parties, a chess tournament, soccer, badminton, and basketball games. The CSA is also preparing a cultural week, to be opened in January, 1981, to introduce Chinese culture to other university students and citizens of Windsor. The CSA also wishes to interact with other student clubs. We hope to organize joint activities with them in the future.

Anyone of any nationality who is interested in joining the CSA may come to the CSA office/library in the Leddy Library, second floor.

You're dang right it's fun being a journalist.

JOIN THE LANCE

Staff meeting: Friday at noon
Second floor, University Centre.
to make school life a broader learning experience

University Christian Fellowship invites discussion

by John Huschilt, President

The purpose of this column is to acquaint those interested with the tenets of the Bahá’í Faith, by announcing such things as lectures, discussions, informal gatherings, social activities and public meetings.

The Bahá’í Faith is the newest of the world religions. But only recently have the teachings become available to realize that it is in fact a major religion—one worthy of study and reflection. Here are some of the ideals of the Bahá’í Faith:

- Unity with science, and recognizes it as the foremost agency for the pacification and the orderly progress of the human family. It unequivocally maintains the principle of equal right opportunities and privileges for men and women, insists on compulsory education, eliminates the extremes of poverty and wealth, and asserts that any work performed in the spirit of service to the level of worship, recognizes either the creation or selection of an allied universal international language, and delineates the outlines of those institutions that must establish and perpetuate the general peace of mankind.

- "The fundamental purpose entailing the Faith of God and His Religion, is to safeguard the interests and promote the unity of humanity, and to foster the spirit of love and fellowship amongst men." This handbook of love, the earth is one home. Let it be in everyone.

- The club helps the beginner learn how to take a better photo and gives him a better knowledge of the workings of his or her camera. For the more serious person there are field trips, slide presentations, a photo contest and much more.

- For the past two years we have had a couple of very successful photo contests. As judges, we have had some of the major photographers in Windsor.

- Although the club is for the students, each year we have had some University of Windsor staff members join the club and give their learned experiences. Ivan Kennis of Communications Studies is one such professor.

- For those who would like to save some money, the club has a complete darkroom on campus. Anyone who does not know anything about darkroom work can learn from the basics. Even the person who knows how to develop their own negatives and/or prints in both colour and black-and-white can learn more about the darkroom.

- For the weekend of September 19-21—cost is $25.00, topic is Basic Christianity. Get further details at the first IV meeting September 11.

- We look forward to meeting many of you for lots of fun and fellowship. Have a good year.

Say "cheese" please

John Neu
President, The Bahá’í Club

the peace

Southeast Asian Bible Fellowship is available

By Ang Ah Beng, President

We of the Southeast Asian Bible Fellowship wish to take this opportunity to introduce ourselves and to make ourselves available to you.

We are a society of ethnic Chinese from Southeast Asia (Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and even Taiwan and Hong Kong) and our medium of conversation is English in all our Fellowship meetings.

The Fellowship (SEACBF) is to provide spiritual Bible knowledge, wholesome Fellowship experiences and Christian basis. We also try to provide Christian Counselling, correction to newcomers, referrals and someone to introduce you around the area, areas and to churches if you wish.

Below are some introductory phone numbers and names by which you can get in touch with us at your earliest convenience.

- Ang Ah Beng .... 254-7851
- Ronnie Teo .... 254-7851
- Samita Endang .... 356-6509

Our meetings are held in the University Centre on the second floor in rooms 1, 2 and 3 at 7:00 p.m. each Sunday. We invite you to drop in and get acquainted.

APPLICATIONS ARE NOW BEING ACCEPTED FOR THE POSITIONS OF:
SPORTS EDITOR
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
CIRCULATION MANAGER

on the University of Windsor's student newspaper

The Lance

Please present written applications to THE LANCE Office, Second Floor, University Centre, by September 8, 1980. Successful applicants will be notified on September 9. Applications should include past experience and a portfolio if possible. Portfolios will be considered for the position of Photographer.

Mai Deborne
Photographer

This Orientation issue was produced by Mark D. Greene, E.P. Chant, Ed
McMahon, Wendy Coomer, Michelle Marentette, Peter Haggett, Heidi Pammer, and Chris Woodrow, and was financed by SAC.
Your sponsor of Orientation sporting events.

ACROSS CANADA

Labatt's

BEER AT ITS BEST
New paint replaces pinball machines in Centre

by Wendy Coosber

Returning students entering the University Centre cafeteria for the first time this year may instantly notice the absence of pinball games and pinball machines and the presence of fresh paint. Further investigations will lead to the discovery of a speaker's pit under construction, new chairs, different coloured walls, and the new art gallery behind the east wall.

Last year the University Board of Governors decided to spend $200,000 to spruce up the University Centre. However, since the initial budget was presented in February, 1979, somethings have changed.

According to C.W. Morgan, Assistant Vice President of Administration-Operations and Chairman of the Centre Committee, "prices upstairs (3rd floor, Centre) are going up down and down like a yo-yo."

Among the physical changes is the relocation of the rec room, creating empty pino tables and pinball machines--to the old Toronto Dominion Bank in the Centre basement. The reason for the switch is due to the successful negotiations by the University for the termination of the two year lease which the bank still held on that room. Morgan noted by changing the location of this function instead of rebuilding the old area the Committee would save some money.

The lounges and rooms on the main floor, specifically the cafeteria, of the Centre will receive the most attention. Renovations here take up the largest portion of the budget and include repairs to floors and walls, removing some of partitions dividing the room, adding counters, purchasing new furniture, and building a small "forum" or speakers pit where students can listen to guest speakers.

About the new art gallery, however, there seems to be some confusion. Last year the university's art department lost its display gallery in the Leddy Library. The department claimed a gallery to show the students' work was necessary for any future employment they could attain so they were granted a new gallery in the Centre.

The department was offered a display space in the cafeteria once last year but refused saying that there could be no security and the executive light would damage water colour painting. This year, they took what was understood by Professors Antonio Doctor and Daniel Dingler of the Visual Arts Department to be a temporary space in the University Centre.

Professor Doctor, Director of the Arts Department, noted that the location was good, as it is centrally located and very visible, but the area is half the size they need. He said they would probably be occasionally using Assumption Lounge again this year for their large exhibits.

Dingler said they would not be satisfied until they had the same amount of space that they had in the library. The space in the Centre falls 16 feet short.

Continued on page 2

Guelph report

Universities: 'Give us money or face closures'

TORONTO (CUP) - Closing post-secondary institutions in Ontario may be the only solution to the chronic underfunding according to Alan Marchant, chair of the board of governors at Guelph University.

This was his reaction after last month's meeting between Ontario university administrators and Premier Bill Davis to discuss provincial funding of universities.

Discussions were not fruitful and the future looks bleak, particularly for Ontario universities which are, currently, funded less per capita than all other universities in the country, the Council of Ontario Universities (COU) said.

This year Ontario will spend $4,564 per university student compared to the national average of $5,597 per student. To bring Ontario universities up to the average would require an additional $170 million from the government.

The Council said that either accessibility or academic quality would continue to suffer if funding constraints remained. As it stands now, the Council said, dwindling funds over the past few years have led to poorly maintained buildings, below average laboratories and libraries and an exodus of faculty to the West and the United States.

"If there is not to be more money then the only way out might seem to be to close institutions" said Marchant.

All practical money-saving schemes have been applied at Ontario universities, the Council said. But there is only so far they can go before money-saving schemes damage the usefulness of a university education, said Council representatives.

Council member John Panabaker, President of McMaster University in Hamilton, said he was impressed by "the extent to which the screws have been applied" in budgeting and energy conservation at McMaster University.

Panabaker, past chair of the Board of governors, said universities are coping with inflation almost as well as private industry and business. But some cuts that would seem practical to business--such as increasing class size from 20 to 100 to save on salaries--would simply damage education, Panabaker said.

The alternative of closing down universities across the province is also "not palatable" said the Council. Every institution in the province is valuable to the total education picture, the council said.

The only action now being taken by the Council is proposing the development of a Research and Development Council. This council would be made up of university, industry and government officials who would put faculty and students in touch with companies and ministries on research projects. The COU hopes such a council would lessen universities' dependence on government funding.

The council, said the COU, would encourage universities to specialize in research that is "useful to society."

Although the plan would mostly benefit large research-oriented universities, the COU said smaller institutions would benefit if they develop a particular specialty.

Although Premier Davis was said to have been "very encouraging," about the proposal for a Research and Development Council, there was no government response to the idea.
Be a clown, be a clown, be a clown

On Saturday, September 27th, Assistant Vice-President of Student Affairs and member of the Centre Committee, replied that what was now being built in the Centre was the permanent gallery, although Morgan stated in the Centre was the permanent that what was now being built in the Centre would look for a larger area.

At the office, Second Floor, University Centre, the Standing Panels to cover the walls interfere in the walls. Standing panels will be a half-hour project for a poetry and literary evening. This will be a half-hour project featuring the work of one or more individuals and a musical production. The day will include a basic introduction to the theatre, psychology and history of clowning; a film; clown identity and make-up; sessions; techniques of communication and para-liturgy. A light lunch will be served during the workshop.

The workshop will be open to everyone, especially students, teachers, religious educators and others interested in the aesthetic dimension of this work. Others wishing to bring a spirit of entertainment to their ministry in hospitals, children’s wards, etc. will also find this workshop helpful. The workshop will be limited to 75 participants and only the first 75 registrations will be accepted.

If you wish to register, send your name, address, telephone number, and a $1.00 non-refundable deposit to Sister Charlotte Brady, Office of the Christian Ministry, Assumption University, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4 or Phone (519) 254-1722. The rest of the fee may be paid the day of the workshop for those who have already registered. The total cost for the day, including lunch, is $4.00. One must be 15 years or older to attend.

Attention ALL CLUBS: This year’s ratification process has begun. In order to qualify, please submit the following items to the office of the Vice-President-Administration, located in the S.A.C. office on the 2nd floor of the University Centre.

1) club constitution
2) current list of names, addresses and telephone numbers of club executives
3) current membership list with pertinent student I.D. numbers
4) financial statement from last year if available
5) a budget for the upcoming year

Submissions should be made by September 28, 1980.
by E.P. Chast, Doris Henschel, and Julian Lee, of The Lance, and Sam Rainboth, of the University of Western Ontario Gazette, a CCP paper.

EDITOR’S NOTE: In the scholastic year 1978-79, the Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) gave 1,740 students in the province too much money in the form of their student grants—some as much as $2,000. It was a much bigger problem for the provincial government wants the money back, all $1,035,000 of it.

The affected students received letters dated June 1, 1980 which stated the error in the grants awarded and due to a computer programming error involving parental assets and asking the students to repay their grants within 30 days of receiving the letters. Due to another mistake in the same year, some students did not receive their grants or loans or until after the school year ended in the spring of 1979. The computer programming company involved was Enterprise Systems, Morris and Associates.

Mrs. Jan Grisdale, Manager of Customer Service for the Students Awards Branch of the Ministry of Education, said it took two years to find the error because the computer had to spend a lot of time doing sure the 1979-80 and 1980-81 OSAP programs were not plagued with similar problems.

On June 19, David Cooke, Windsor-Riverside MPP for the New Democratic Party’s Education critic wrote Education Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson about the situation. He asked her in that letter, “Please deliver my paper to...”

The repayment schedule has, however, been altered according to Cooke. The full amount need not be repaid in 30 days if repaid in the originally requested, but the affected students must contact OSAP officials within that period and arrange a monthly payment rate, Cooke explained.

In its story in mid-August, The Star reported that the 200 to 300 students still in school will not have to pay their overpayments until six months after graduation.

Some students are making appeals to the ministry.

Dale Kocher, Windsor native and University of Western Ontario graduate, got a letter that he was to repay the government $1,650 within 30 days.

In 1978-79, he was awarded a $900 bursary from the Leonard Foundation. He was also offered an OSAP loan of $580 that year, but did not need both at the same time. He spoke to an OSAP official who advised him to take the OSAP loan and grant because foundations do not have very much money to give away and someone else could get the bursary. He has appealed to the ministry because of this and because of some confusion about declared assets.

Miss Melinda Fox of Campbellford, Ontario, is another former student who received a letter from the government in the first week of June. She was asked to repay $1,230 which she received in 1978-79 when she attended Centennial College, north of London.

"It bothers me it has taken two years to find this error. Every cent went to school," said Miss Fox. "I’d just like a little more information on it. If we make a mistake we’re supposed to correct it, but if they make a mistake we’re also supposed to correct it. It doesn’t make much sense."

The Windsor situation

At the University of Windsor, Awards Officer Mrs. Marie Renaud said 12 students are affected by the grant over-payments.

She explained that according to the regulations in the OSAP application form, the applicant is responsible for any over-payment for any reason. The student can usually appeal successfully only if they can prove that there is no mistake in the payment received, said Mrs. Renaud.

Mrs. Renaud added it was her personal belief that the computer company should be used because it was their program which caused the incorrect parental asset calculation.

The highest amount of money involved in affected grants at this university is $2,300, and the lowest is $1,540. Four of the twelve students have sent appeals to the ministry, but Mrs. Renaud said that it usually appeal not return their names.

This week, Mrs. Renaud told The Lance she had not heard anything more from the students making appeals. She suspects they may have decided to forget their appeals, now that the government has allowed them more time to repay them.

You’re in a ludicrous situation where the government is paying a lawyer in order to fight itself," Anderson said, if she was one of the students, she would write a letter saying she could not pay it all back at once. "If worst came to worst, I would demand a letter from them saying that I could pay on a very low payment schedule without interest. There should really be some sort of political action to ensure that so many grievances don’t occur," she said.

"Two or three similar OSAP problems occurred last year," said Anderson. "I am going to negotiate, the cases are often taken out of the collection agency and given to the ministry, where students are offered a payment schedule without interest."

But, Anderson added, the students generally have to pay, even though it was the Ministry’s mistake.

"It appears that the generalization is going to hold true in this instance as well,"

HAY WE GOT NEWS FOR YOU!

Special Student Offer

26 Weeks for $26

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson said that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A

21 Windsor Service Battalion

Offers you a second career in any of the following areas:

- Cook
- Finance
- Military Police
- Weapons Technician
- and many more

For more information call 253-9906 or come to the HMCS Hunter Building, on Ouellette any Thurs. night - 7:30 - 10:00

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson added that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A

21 Windsor Service Battalion

Offers you a second career in any of the following areas:

- Clerk
- Driving
- Truck Mechanic
- Medical Aid
- and many more

For more information call 253-9906 or come to the HMCS Hunter Building, on Ouellette any Thurs. night - 7:30 - 10:00

In a phone interview in mid-July, Cooke dejectedly said not July, Cooke dejectedly said not

"Two or three similar OSAP problems occurred last year," said Anderson. "I am going to negotiate, the cases are often taken out of the collection agency and given to the ministry, where students are offered a payment schedule without interest."

But, Anderson added, the students generally have to pay, even though it was the Ministry’s mistake.

"It appears that the generalization is going to hold true in this instance as well,"

HAY WE GOT NEWS FOR YOU!

Special Student Offer

26 Weeks for $26

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson said that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A

21 Windsor Service Battalion

Offers you a second career in any of the following areas:

- Cook
- Clerk
- Finance
- Driving
- Truck Mechanic
- Weapons Technician
- Medical Aid

and many more

For more information call 253-9906 or come to the HMCS Hunter Building, on Ouellette any Thurs. night - 7:30 - 10:00

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson said that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A

21 Windsor Service Battalion

Offers you a second career in any of the following areas:

- Cook
- Clerk
- Finance
- Military Police
- Weapons Technician
- and many more

For more information call 253-9906 or come to the HMCS Hunter Building, on Ouellette any Thurs. night - 7:30 - 10:00

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson said that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A

21 Windsor Service Battalion

Offers you a second career in any of the following areas:

- Cook
- Clerk
- Finance
- Military Police
- Weapons Technician
- and many more

For more information call 253-9906 or come to the HMCS Hunter Building, on Ouellette any Thurs. night - 7:30 - 10:00

The legal view

At the University of Windsor’s Student Legal Aid Society office, Director Gar Nutson and Finance Director Camellia Anderson both agreed the situation was "grossly unfair to students". In an interview in mid-July, Nutson said that the government’s action is "obviously not morally ethical." If he was one of the students involved in the situation, Nutson said he would "write to his MPP, to Bette Stephenson, Bill Davis, and every newspaper." He’d also go to the local law office and of course contact a lawyer with a copy of the loan agreement and any correspondence, he added. A
Excuse OSAP overpayments

Education ministry should accept blame for its mistakes

Every once in a while, an issue takes indelible form in the body of a new story that is about something that is underinformed, to say the least. Such an issue is the OSAP recall situation, described in all detail in the previous page of this paper.

Although it isn't the first example of the provincial Ministry of Education's non-caring attitude towards students, it certainly is the best example. In 1978-79, the government, through a computer programming error, handed out a million dollars too many to approximately 1,700 students in the province of Ontario.

The students in question did not fill out their forms incorrectly and simultaneously, they don't care to devalue the government by pouring sugar into the OSAP computers.

Nevertheless, these totally innocent students received letters in June asking them to give back all the money they had been overpaid, within 30 days of receiving a letter, before the June 30, deadline. The brevity of the letter, the Dr. Bette "Spieke" Stephenson Collection Agency dropped by to pick up the cash.

After some of this scam flooded to the surface with the help of NDP Education critic Dave Cooke, Stephenson's ministry reconsidered the 30 day rule. But it did not reconsider it much. The government now asked that the affected students contact the OSAP collectors within 30 days to set up a repayment schedule.

That's not much of a difference when the operative question is whether the affected students should have to pay back any money at all. As has been noted, the affected students did not converge to get this money from the government. When the government found the error, however, it pounced. It took the ministry nearly a year to rectify the computer programming error and, in graceless panic, demanded the money back within 30 days. Might as well have been wise to go after the computer programming company that caused the overpayment in the first place.

Impossible, said the ministry. After Cooke wrote the Federation of Students (OFS) suggested such action, Dr. Bette "Spieke" Stephenson, Minister of Education, declared that no liability clause for faulty programming was included in the contract with Kellogg and Stevenson, the OSAP computer company that caused the overpayment in the first place.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

In approximately 1,700 students in the province of Ontario, the majority of students are of the unschooled generation and are in the process of completing their education. Our minister and her representatives have placed the financial burden of their obligations on the students, particularly those on financial aid. This is not right.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

This is a situation that is beyond the capacity of the government. The government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off.

It is undeniable that the government is trying to get these students to pay back all of the money they were overpaid. The OSAP office will no doubt meet their demands, and the students will have to pay them back.

The province's response of "nothing to do at all" is sure to be upset, if not downright pissed off. The whole province is a victim of this mistake.
Obituary: Arthur Sneath

The student media and the campus lose a friend

by Peter Nash

Arthur Sneath died on Labour Day weekend of cancer. He was 68. As is always the case when an editor passes away, he will be missed.

Most people at the University of Windsor probably did not know Arthur, but anyone who dealt with the university media merely had the pleasure of his company at one time or another.

An old English gentleman, Arthur was always ready to be a helping hand as an advisor, a friend, and someone genuinely interested in the students. His official position at the University of Windsor for the past eight years was director of the Central Advertising Bureau, soliciting advertising for The Lance, CJAM radio and several other university mediums.

To me, though, as a former Lance staffer, and to all the people at The Lance, CJAM, and the Student Administrative Council, Arthur was much more than that. An honest, hard-working man, Arthur set an example for all of us to follow. We grew up during our four years at university.

When I think back on it now, there were many times when, as editor of The Lance, circumstances would just get me down in the mouth, depressed in a way. Then Arthur would surface with some rules, advice, and... we grew up during our four years at university.

In my encounters with Arthur as being cheery, genial, anti-potbellied and amiable. Others have spoken with share these observations and sentiments.

I'm sure I speak on behalf of many people, then, who were associated with Arthur Sneath in one way or another, when I say that he will be greatly missed, but affectionately remembered. My sympathies to his friends and family.

EDITORS NOTE: Peter Nash was editor of The Lance last year. He is presently the Assistant Editor of Windsor This month magazine.

Obituary: Dr. Gurucharar Mathur

Colleague: 'A scholar, humanist, and nationalist lost'

by M. Marentette

The university was saddened by the news of Dr. Gurucharar Mathur's death, which occurred during the summer break, on June 27. Dr. Mathur was the result of a traffic accident near Denver, Colorado.

Dr. Mathur was a professor of chemical engineering here at the University of Windsor until 1979, and had recently returned to Canada after a year's sabatical at the Indian Institute of Technology, New Delhi. Here. He had been researching solar energy sources and pollution control.

Dr. Mathur was a member of the university staff for 16 years and in 1969 was elected as one of the top ten professors. He was a member of the senate and served on many university committees.

The Lance recently spoke to Dr. Chandna, at the University of Windsor who was a close friend of the deceased. She said Dr. Chandna, "we were like brothers... There are wise men, and then there are men who read books. Dr. Mathur was both... He never lost his temper, he was level-headed and, I'd be greatly missed by all his friends. He was a great humanist, and often voiced his concern for Canada and it's people."

The Lance covers the campus beat, keeping you informed of who's moving up and who's moving out and why.

If you aren't reading the Lance, then you aren't keeping in touch with the events and affairs of the student population in Canada.

Keep in touch with the University of Windsor student community. Subscribe to the Lance today.

Name______________________
Address____________________
Telephone number___________
Mail Cheque or Money Order for $8.00 plus completed coupon to: Student's Administrative Council University of Windsor Windsor, Ontario, Canada N9B 3P4

Attention all students: The Student Directory 1980-81 is currently being prepared for the coming calendar year. All students who do not wish to have their name included in this publication must contact the SAC office by September 31, 1980. Such notifications of deletions must be in writing and received no later than the above date.

Signed
The Students Administrative Council
Provincial code promotes equal opportunities for all

by T.G. Nutson

The Ontario Human Rights Code provisions are intended to promote equal opportunities for all members of the labour force irrespective of race, religion, sex, nationality. Employees are allowed to define objectively valid qualifications relevant to job performance, but must apply them equally to all applicants.

Section 4 of the code reads:

(4) - (1) No person shall, a) refuse to refer or to recruit any person for employment b) dismiss or refuse to employ or to continue to employ any person; c) refuse to train, promote or transfer an employee; d) subject an employee to probation or apprenticeship or to continue to employ any person; e) establish or maintain any selection list clubs or organizations of a religious category that by its description is designed to elicit information as to race, creed, colour, nationality, ancestry, or place of origin in violation of the Ontario Human Rights Code.

The act goes on to prohibit discrimination in any employment advertising. The intent is to insure that no ad discourages persons from seeking jobs for which they believed themselves qualified. All newspapers now have integrated "help wanted" columns in place of the former division of male and female.

The Commission has also advised all newspapers that the phrase "Canadian experience" is improper.

An employer is allowed to ask whether an applicant is legally entitled to work in Canada as well as asking for documentary proof. The chart below sets out what an application can or cannot ask. The code provides that any person who feels victimized by discrimination within the terms set by the Code may lodge a complaint with the Commission. The Commission must then investigate and try to resolve the matter. If you feel you may have been discriminated against in employment, you should contact the Community Legal Aid office in the basement of the Law Building-telephone number 253-7150.

The Community Legal Aid column will be happy to answer your legal questions. Although he can't send personalized answers to you, he will respond to questions in this paper. Drop your questions in the Lance letterbox at the Centre Desk or bring them to the Lance office on the second floor, University Centre.
Dependable Celebrity typewriter, value you can count on.

$40 off

Celebrity Automatic 12 with easy finger-tip correction
Black/correction cassette records errors at the touch of a finger. Pre-threaded ribbon cassettes, touch tension control. 12" power-return carriage with pre-set tabulator. 88-character keyboard types 10 characters per inch. High-impact plastic housing with carry case. About 14 7/8x 13 1/4x 5 1/2" high, 24 lb. English or French. 03R 040 218/9.

269 98
Reg. 309.98
Photo & Office Needs (3)-Main Floor

$10 off
Canon L.C.D* metric has 28 conversions

The Canon FC52 offers 28 metric conversions plus the usual 4 functions. Has full accumulating memory, 8-digit Black/White L.C.D. display, auto- % key, 1 lithium battery that gives up to 3000 hours of dependable service. Super slim, "6", super light, Abd. 2 oz... keep it with you! Vinyl pouch. 03R 041 518.
*Liquid Crystal Display

29 98
Reg. 39.98

$10 off
Texas Instruments 55 with 10 fully addressable memories
Does direct key metric conversions, trig and logarithmic functions. Eight digit mantissa. 2 digit exponent in scientific or engineering notions. Includes rechargeable battery. 41560.

49 98
Reg. 59.98

Simpsons-Sears Ltd. 'Reg' or 'was' refer to Sears prices. Open 9:30a.m. to 5:30p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Saturday, and 9:30a.m. to 9:30p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Prices in effect while quantities last, until Saturday Sept. 20.

Sears

your money's worth...and more
How do you ever expect to sell your books on a cluttered bulletin board? What’s more, how do you expect to find the books you want in such a mess? Well, your Student’s Administrative Council has just the answer.

Beginning immediately S·A·C will start collecting books at Essex Lounge (First Floor, University Centre) for resale in the first couple of weeks of the fall semester.

Here’s how it works:

1) Take your used books to Essex Lounge.
2) Tell the person receiving your books what price you want to sell them for.
   (Ridiculously high requests will be refused.)
3) You get a receipt for this amount along with a number for each book.
4) If the book is sold during our sale you receive your price less 15 per cent handling fee.

If it is not sold you must pick up your book(s) by Friday, September 26, 1980 or S·A·C will dispose of them as we see fit.

THERE’S NEVER BEEN A BETTER WAY TO BUY OR SELL BOOKS.
Bookstore maintains fair prices despite confusing change

There is a change in book pricing at the University of Windsor Bookstore but it is not, though one may think it, a price increase.

Harper and Row Publishing Company has changed its method of pricing textbooks from the 20 percent discount method to a method called net pricing. This means it is left to the University of Windsor Bookstore to set the retail price of texts it receives from Harper and Row.

McGraw-Hill and other publishers are continuing with the 20 percent discount scheme. The University of Toronto and Western bookstore managers are concerned that Harper and Row's new pricing policy will lead to receiving and processing problems and chaos in pricing that publisher's books.

The confusion arises over determining the price the bookstore charges the student. Under the 20 percent method, the bookstore merely charges the publisher's list price which is a 20 percent mark-up of the bookstore's cost price. For Harper and Row texts, the bookstore must set its own prices.

Helen Tidridge, University of Windsor's Bookstore Manager explained in an interview last week how a "Fair" price is set. "I don't think you can be unreasonable and put your customers at a disadvantage. They have nowhere else to go." Under the standard 20 percent discount scheme, "You don't have to make judgments," Tidridge added. Harper and Row's decision, however, means judgments do have to be made since the publisher no longer provides a ready made list price.

"The decision whether to implement a net pricing policy has been an on-going thing for 10 years. This has not come overnight," Mrs. Tidridge said. "But we're running as usual!", meaning the bookstore is simply adding the old 20 percent to the cost price on Harper and Row invoices.

Ideally, students and university bookstore managers would benefit most from an increased discount similar to that applied to titles for general release. This would ease the strain on the University of Windsor Bookstore's budget and subsequently, the student's. But as Mrs. Tidridge pointed out, a greater discount is unrealistic, "That will never happen. That's Utopia."

In the meantime, Mrs. Tidridge is adopting a wait-and-see attitude until the other publishers react. She would not be happy, she said, if other publishers opt for a similar pricing arrangement.

New administrators greet new students

About 350 students attended Monday's welcoming to the university campus at Ambassador Auditorium.

Dean of Students Ken Long addressed the students first, followed by several university administrators. The main emphasis of the gathering was to orient the students to some of the members of the University Administration and the internal operations of the university.

Newly appointed Assistant Vice-President (Student Services) George McMahon explained the sometimes confusing maze of administrators, department heads, deans, and faculty councils to the new students.

Also included in the half hour long program was an address by the Dean of Engineering, Dr. Macdonald, and the Dean of the Faculty of Human Kinetics, Dr. Hennings. The main speaker was Dr. Paul V. Cassano, who has just been appointed Academic Vice-President.

Dr. Cassano said that he knew how the new students must feel in this administrative jungle. "You aren't alone in all this", he said. "You have an ally-me."

Dr. Cassano emphasised that all of the people and resources at university will "only increase it, not deplete it.

The program concluded with Dean of Students Ken Long wishing the students a successful year.

Monday to Wednesday 11:30-1:30
Thursday to Saturday 11:30-2:30
Sunday 12:00 - 12 midnight

(Offer expires September 30)
Another Canadian newspaper to bite the dust soon?

One of the worst predictors of our time, a very skinny French folklore fan, and a person who loves getting hit in the face with pies are the new sub-editors of The Lance.

The absolutely awful predictor is Steve Rice, Sports Editor. Last year, "Long-grain" (as he is known to his strikingly few friends) predicted at the beginning of the basketball season the Lancers might have a hard time getting anywhere in that sport. They would probably be drubbed in the playoffs, said Rice confidently.

Stupid swine. The Lancers finished first in their division and won the Western Ontario championship. The only consolation Ricey could get out of the basketball season was seeing the Lancers being beaten severely at the national tournament in Calgary. He was probably the only person on campus who was happy after a Lancer loss.

What do you expect from a guy who's favourite teams are the Blue Jays, the Argonauts, and the Colorado Rockies?

Sharing Steve the Oddsmaker's office is the new Entertainment Editor, Peter Haggert. Haggert has one tape in his car stereo, Dixieland and Jig from Medieval French Villages. That little idiosyncrasy isn't substantial to disregard.

The person with the pie-in-the-face fetish is Photography Editor Heidi Pammer. Early last year, Heidi was covering a pie-eating contest when her mind snapped and the Soupy Sales side of her schizophrenic personality took over. She wildly grabbed a large custard Ple and smashed it into her face and then another end

The five W's

by Wendy Coomber

"The design consists of five highly stylized W's arranged in an arc and representing the institutions historical development through its four founding colleges (Assumption, Iona, Canterbury, and Holy Redeemer) into the present University of Windsor...central institution's historical development through its four founding colleges (Assumption, Iona, Canterbury, and Holy Redeemer) into the present University of Windsor...central

The above is an official explanation of the new university logo which sprang into being over the summer. The office of Development and Communications, together with members and heads of various faculties, selected this design from many that were submitted to the design is the Canadian maple leaf which supports the five W's and is in turn enclosed by them."

The five W's

The final approval came from President Franklin, who observed that the logo is very distinctive, as opposed to the university's coat of arms and those of "other W universities which are vastly inferior to ours." He later added it may take everyone a while to get used to it.

Responses from a random survey of students at the Lebel Building (Visual Arts Faculty) confirmed this. Comments ranged from "It's better than a coat of arms", to "I can't decide", to "I hate it!"

The new logo will be used by Tom Harris Advertising, a local company.

The five W's

The five W's

Introducing a new photo service.

Super Processing Special!

All colour negative
12-Exposure rolls
Developed and printed only $299

All colour negative
20-Exposure rolls
Developed and printed
only $399

All colour negative
24-Exposure rolls
Developed and printed
only $499

All colour negative
36-Exposure rolls
Developed and printed
only $599

Available on C41 Orders Only.
No Limits on Quantity. Offer Expires: SEPTEMBER 23/80

University of Windsor BOOKSTORE

Ground Floor - West Library Building
New Wave Concert
by Cecilia Deck
Vanier Hall East really rocked on Friday night with three local "new wave" bands: the Spy's, the Hardtops, and the Alternative. They played to a sellout crowd and a packed dance floor. The repeat performance on Saturday night didn't yield so many, but again those who did go were treated to Windsor's finest talent.

The Spy's, who made their biggest splash this month, Face the Eighties concert in January, continue to rule the Windsor scene, with the Hardtops, a slightly newer band, as close runners-up. The two bands, unlike their contemporaries, produce musical tastes, a fast-paced sound, and an ability to get everyone up to dance.

The Hardtops also have a really tight rhythm section. It is always a delight to introduce that not every "punk rock" band has: a guitar virtuoso and produce the Spy's to any uninitiated music lover as "punk rock". The Hardtops also have a really tight and together sound. They excel at revving up oldies to break-neck speeds: "Sea Cruise", "Money the Eighties", "Summer in the City", "I Want to Hold Your Hand", to name a few. They also do good, fast originals, my favourite being "Fun Before One", about Ontario's rather early closing time. Every tune the Hardtops play is danceable and dance-worthy.

The third band, the Alternative, as another story altogether. Striving for a "different" sound, they don't seem to know quite what they want. Within one song, "Are You Ready?", there are so many changes from pseudo-reggae that the head spins. The root problem is that these guys want to be artists when they barely have the talent or experience to be musicians. Even a simple tune like "Batman" or the Arches' "Sugar Sugar" can turn into an ugly mess when nobody quite knows the rhythm or tune. I think a "back to the basics" approach to music would vastly improve The Alternative's sound. They have a lot of work to do.

University Players announce new season

The University Players of the University of Windsor will be kicking off their busy 1980-81 season with The Waltz of the Toreadors, a Jean Anouilh comedy. A hit in New York, the Play's version of the "witry and sparkling" play will run October 9, 11, 12, 16, 17, and 18.

He To Hecuba, a different kind of Hamlet written by Michael Stewart, will be presented at Vanier Hall on November 27, 28, 29, 30 and December 4, 5, and 6.

A one-act play by Don Tothorpe, The Emperor's Nightingale, will be this year's children's show. It will be staged December 13 and 14 at Vanier Hall for both the general public and school audiences.

The second semester productions will be directed by Les Bellette, a play written by French Canadian playwright Michel Tremblay. This popular Canadian play has lifted Tremblay to international fame.

The musical production, scheduled for March, will be Company by Stephen Sondheim and George Furth. The final presentation for the Vanier Hall Series will be the fantasy The Madwoman of Chaillot and will follow Company by about three weeks.

The Players have added something new to this season's fare. Two Experimental Theatre productions will be performed in the School of Dramatic Art's 60-seat Experimental Theatre in November and February.

For further information and ticket prices, call the Essex Theatre Box office at 253-4353.
The opera, "Anne with an E," will feature harpist Patricia for only $1.99. CINEFEST is Friday, September 12 - Sunday, September 14.

School of Music will present their first concert of the year, "If you are interested in helping out with programming, please call Jerry Solomon at the JCC - 284-7888.

If you are interested in helping out with programming, call Jerry Solomon at the JCC - 284-7888.

Bring your Hebrew Name & $1.99

Law School welcomes new year

by Peter Haasovic

Sponored on by early registration, the Faculty of Law kicked off Orientation '80 last week with a number of events staged in and around the law school. Orientation directors John Brusa and Adunas Hartog greeted freshmen and returnees alike with Orientation Passes priced at $12.00, which allowed students to attend most events without an admission charge.

"It's been a record year for us," said Hartog, at the close of last week's festivities. "We sold 25 percent more orientation passes this year as compared with last year. We have seen a considerable reduction in our expected deficit for the entire package".

John Brusa was pleased with the turnout of the first year class at all of the events. "With this display of enthusiasm, I am sure that the first year class will be able to carry on the traditions of sport and camaraderie of the departing class," he said.

The opening day's festivities included free coffee and donuts, inspired jazz by local fluids Alex Zonjic and company, as well as an evening wine, cheese, and beer party at Donlon Hall on Detroit Street.

Wednesday's afternoon beer and pizza bash was a formal prelude to the evening screening of the Windy City's "monkey trial" of the early 1920's. Good softball and flag football was on the agenda for Thursday and Friday afternoon.

The weekend weather held up, the Tigers went down to defeat via the booming bass of the Minnesota Twins (and not to mention some costly errors as well). The weekend weather held up for Sunday's "Old-Fashioned Picnic," which gave the students an opportunity to bring out their husbands, wives and children. A picnic is not a picnic without food; plenty of Swiss Chalet chicken was on hand for the "famished".

The Faculty of Law Orientation '80 will culminate with the Dean's Dinner Dance on Thursday, September 18. The bash at the Fogolar Furlan Club will feature local talent, "Lucky".

Alluding to the enormous amount of beer, and liquor consumed by the thirsty participants, Brusa categorized the weekend-long fête as a "liquid success!"

Cars run out of gas

by John Doyle

The Cars were on display last weekend at Pine Knob for a four day stint. The stage they played on, along with their dress was flashy and futuristic. Unfortunately their music never seemed to get out of neutral. To be blunt, they stank.

When I walked in I noticed that the place was only slightly more than half full; upon leaving I understood why. I sat there in disbelief as such songs as "Let the Good Times Roll," "My Best Friend's Girl," and the majority of the other songs they played were transformed through the magic of a lousy sound system into loud noise. There was only one song that was actually enjoyable, "Touch and Go," from their new album, "Panama." Surely this wasn't the foremost new wave group in the business. It was like listening to Lucky at Abar's.

As with cars, the weather is something they can't control. The Cars came to the end of the road, and after seeing them perform for only an hour and ten minutes. That included the two called-for encores (which I'll never understand!) if The Cars' latter release does well it would really be surprising as there seemed to be only a couple of songs that could be considered worth listening to. It appears that The Cars have come to the end of this road, and after seeing them last Sunday night, I am not so sure that it is a shame.
Chris de Burgh: EASTERN WIND
by Neil Rohne

The career of Chris de Burgh has paralleled that of Supertramp. When Supertramp played the University of Nevada in 1977, Chris de Burgh accompanied only by his acoustic guitar who opened the show. Last summer when Supertramp had two giant outdoor concerts at Jury Park, Chris de Burgh had his own outdoor show at the Man And His World, Polaij of Nations.

Until Breakfast in America, Supertramp were supersstars only in Canada. Chris de Burgh's largest following is in Montreal and Toronto. It remains to be seen if Eastern Wind will be Chris de Burgh's Breakfast in America. If it isn't, it will not be for lack of trying.

From the album cover (which would make a great poster) right down to the commercially appealing album.

The album opens with a mysteriously and menacing song called "The Traveller". The Spanish guitar and mood are similar to de Burgh's previous hit "Spanish Train", yet Helliwell's saxophone adds a new touch.

"Record Company Bash" show de Burgh's attempt at a louder sound. The reggae opening and screamed chorus are definitely opposite to de Burgh's romantic balladeer image.

One might think de Burgh has been listening to a lot of North America radio lately and unfortunately has let some of its normality rub off onto some of those silly little love songs, certainly not so different from some of the good has also rubbed off. "Wall of Silence", a song de Burgh himself combines beautiful de Burgh instrumentals with a Fleetwood Mac type sound.

The causes of these faults are varied. Clarke changed the band, outing keyboardist David Sancious and guitarist Raymond Gomes in favour of unknowns. As well, Stanley lost his association with premier jazz-rock guitarist John McLaughlin and Jeff Beck. Piano in Chick Corea, under whom Clarke got his start, hasn't played with Stanley in ages. He needs quality musicians to bring his bass solos to their fullest.

Unfortunately, Stanley has tried to cover too far many bases with this album. He is capable of much better. If you are interested in his music, I'll wholeheartedly recommend an investment in "School Days", not this collection of musical rubbish.

The causes of these faults are varied. Clarke changed the band, outing keyboardist David Sancious and guitarist Raymond Gomes in favour of unknowns. As well, Stanley lost his association with premier jazz-rock guitarist John McLaughlin and Jeff Beck. Piano in Chick Corea, under whom Clarke got his start, hasn't played with Stanley in ages. He needs quality musicians to bring his bass solos to their fullest.

Stanley Clarke: ROCKS, PEBBLES AND SAND
by John Liddle

Probably one of the most disappointing releases of 1980 is Stanley Clarke's Rocks, Pebbles and Sand. Why? For a bassist who had so much going for him, excellent recorded music capped off with brilliant live performances, his latest effort is a veritable cornucopia of musical styles, totally lacking in unity.

Tracks range from heavy metal, romantic soul, funk and what was Clarke's trademark, the hybrid music known as jazz-rock. His forays into other musical styles are disastrous. "Danger Street" is crudely written and performed. "Water Supply" isn't a Stanley Clarke written song—it's a cruel joke on his long time listeners (this reviewer included). Pure funk, at its worst, performed by an artist who should know better. Even in his jazz-rock compositions, Stanley hasn't really broken any new ground. Compared to what he is capable of, (consider "School Days", "Rock and Roll Jelly" and "Hot Pat"), his better compositions on Rocks, Pebbles and Sand, notably the title track, are let-downs.

Next Week:

The SAC's band review you've all been waiting for.

SAC's PUB PRESENTS

THE BLITZ
formerly California) Sept. 8, 6 & 8, 9, 10 * Sept. 6 matinee, 3-5 pm
BULLY
Sept. 11, 12, 13

CHICK
Sept. 18-20

THE SIRENS
Sept. 25, 26, 27

Admission (Thurs.-Sat.)
Students $1.00  Guests $1.50
Five years up, Mallender ponders football future

by Steve Rice

There is a chance that Scott Mallender will be returning to the Lancer football line-up this year. But don't hold your breath.

Mallender, you'll recall, is the quarterback who last year ripped apart opposing secondaries for a league-leading 1,821 yards and grabbed the Hee Creighton Trophy as the most outstanding player in the country. The honourable Human Kinetics graduate has used up his five years of eligibility in the university ranks, but one of those will be evaluated by all-star and Hee Creighton winner Scott Mallender. He was cut by the Hamilton Tiger Cats. At least I'll be qualified. "I'm not even sure about teaching. I figure if I get my certificate and a job comes up, at least I'll be qualified."

Mallender might well be playing in the Northern Division of the American Football League, commonly called the CFL, right now if it were not for the league's disregard for the Canadian player, particularly The Canadian quarterback.

"I'm not sure of my future in football," said Mallender during a break in practice Tuesday. "Right now I'll have to wait to see if I'm eligible to come back."

"I'm not even sure about teaching. I figure if I get my certificate and a job comes up, at least I'll be qualified."

Mallender will be returning to the Lancer football line-up this year. But don't hold your breath to see if I'm eligible to come back."

"I'm not even sure about teaching. I figure if I get my certificate and a job comes up, at least I'll be qualified."

Mallender might well be playing in the Northern Division of the American Football League, commonly called the CFL, right now if it were not for the league's disregard for the Canadian player, particularly The Canadian quarterback.

"I won't associate with that organization and I don't want our athletes to associate with it."

"I don't think I was given very fair treatment," Mallender said. "The Riders didn't commit the sins with me like the Ticats did with Bone. At Least I got a playbook. The Ticats didn't give Bone one."

"But there were other things. Like when your turn comes to run a drill and they start another drill. They did that to Bone, too."

"The (designated import) rule is definitely unfair to Canadian quarterbacks. I think the CFL is a very makeable league. But they gotta want you to make it." Have your cake and help a crippled child, too.

Everybody who dines at Mother's on September 16, 17 and 18 gets a free piece of cake to help us celebrate our 10th anniversary. And for every 8- or 12-slice pizza ordered Mother's will donate a dollar to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

I don't expect miracles: Fracas

by Steve Rice

"It's a learning year," said Lancer football coach Gino Fracas. "I don't want our stars to associate with it."

It was Jamie Bone, also a quarterback and the previous year's Creighton trophy winner, with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who opened the lid on the whole mess of the CFL when he was cut by the Hamilton Tiger Cats. Bone took his case to the courts and was awarded $10,000 and a 30-day tryout with the Ticats.

But that was not enough to satisfy Bone. He wanted to challenge the designated import rule which he felt discriminated against Canadian quarterbacks. That challenge was defeated after going to the Supreme Court of Canada.

In simple terms, the designated import rule allows a team to carry one extra import above the allotted number. That player can then be released from the game, cannot return, unless he is a quarterback. In that case, he can be reselected freely.

For obvious reasons, CFL teams prefer to make their designated import a quarterback.

"The Dallas Cowboys of the NFL became interested in Bone and invited him to training camp, but released him feeling that he lacked height for the position. Bone returned home to take a position as assistant coach of the Mustangs as well as doing colour commentary for CFPL radio in London which will be broadcasting the Western Games.

As for Mallender, he was picked up on waivers by the Ottawa Roughriders, who after a brief look decided he did not fit in with their plans.

"I don't think I was given very fair treatment," Mallender said. "The Riders didn't commit the sins with me like the Ticats did with Bone. At Least I got a playbook. The Ticats didn't give Bone one."

"But there were other things. Like when your turn comes to run a drill and they start another drill. They did that to Bone, too."

"The (designated import) rule is definitely unfair to Canadian quarterbacks. I think the CFL is a very makeable league. But they gotta want you to make it."
Sprint, swim, skate in your favourite sport

The following is a list of the starting dates of some variety and intramural sports. There are many other sporting clubs, clinics and teams running on campus and it is best to keep your eyes open for notices posted on bulletin boards around the Human Kinetics Building and elsewhere.

Variety
These sports have already had their initial meetings:
- Track and Field (men and women) - contact Dr. Mike Salter ext 568, H.K. Building
- Golf - Bill Miles, Home phone 969-2271
- Hockey - Dr. Bob Corran, ext 570, rm 126 H.K.

Future meetings:
- Men's Basketball - Friday, Sept. 12, Room 202 H.K. Coach: Nick Grabowski
- Women's Basketball - Sept. 15, 7:00 p.m. St. Dennis Coach: Sue Swain
- Women's Volleyball - Sept. 15, 5:30 p.m. St. Dennis Coach: Jon Beutin
- Women's Tennis - Sept. 12, 4:10 p.m. Room 202 H.K. Coach: Marilyn Kimmelle
- Synched Swimming - Sept. 23, 7:00 p.m. Room 202 H.K. Coach: Linda Elley
- Intramural:
  - Men's Flag Football - runs Sept. 17 to Oct. 29, captains' meeting Sept. 15.
  - Men's Soccer - runs Sept. 18 to Oct. 30, captains' meeting Sept. 16.
  - Men's Lobball - runs Sept. 18 to Oct. 30, captains' meeting Sept. 16.
  - Women's rugby - runs Oct. 7 to Nov. 11, captains' meeting Sept. 30.
  - Men's volleyball - runs Oct. 7-Sept. 30.
- Women's volleyball - runs Oct. 7 to Nov. 11, captains' meeting Sept. 30.
- Men's Hockey - runs Oct. 27 to March 26, captains meeting Oct. 20.
- Men's basketball - runs Nov. 17 to March 12, captains' meeting Nov. 10.
- Co-ed volleyball - runs Nov. 18 to Jan. 12, captains meeting Nov. 18.
- Clubs:
  - Judo - Sept. 15, 7:30 p.m. Combative Room, St. Denis.
  - Coach: Burt Linnel.

Future meetings:
- Men's Basketball: captains' meeting Sept. 15.
- Women's Basketball: captains' meeting Oct. 30.
- Men's volleyball: captains' meeting Oct. 30.
- Men's basketball: captains' meeting Nov. 10.
- Men's hockey: captains' meeting Oct. 20.

Research group assists national team

by Steve Rice

From July 19 through July 26, the University of Windsor Sports Institute for Research/Change Agent Research (SIR/CA R), in conjunction with the National Baseball Team and Sport Canada, assisted with the second annual selection and training camp for the Canadian National Baseball Team.

This was the second year of a five-year project in which SIR/CA R aims to assist the baseball management in "valid, reliable and objective selection and training of players for the Canadian National Baseball Team" with the long range goal being to develop "a conceptual and statistical model for selecting and training elite international baseball players." A grant of $2,000 was provided by the Fitness and Amateur Sport branch so that "we could conduct their various tests and evaluations."

Dr. Dick Mortarality, director of athletics at the University and now on sabatical leave, was in charge of organization and administration for the research group. Dr. Paul Taylor performed the applied physiological assessment, Dr. Wayne Marino the biomechanical and photographic analysis, Mr. Greg Reeds the social psychology test, and Mr. John Zarebski the computer analysis.

"Windsor has traditionally been considered a strong baseball community," said Dr. Marino, explaining the choice of Windsor as the site for the camp. "Ron Steele (of Windsor Little League Baseball) was also very influential in bringing the team here."

"Only 27 or 28 players were brought in this year with six being cut, compared to about 35 who spent two weeks here last year. This year it was more a matter of putting the finishing touches on the team rather than selecting it."

Dr. Marino's role in the research required him to use high-speed cinematography at games and practices to study the athletes.

"The equipment was set up carefully, using reference points, and a qualitative analysis of the performers' movements was made. Within 24 hours we would have the film back and the data points on a graph. Then in meetings with the coaches and players we would offer the data and point out their various strengths and weaknesses.

"Things like power potential and cardiovascular levels were examined, but also baseball-oriented things like swing times, stride and batting stance."

"It was really a complete bio-scientific, socio-cultural study of the athletes."

Football
(from p. 14)

85 carries (5.8 y.d. average) and three touchdowns.

The successful candidate at quarterback should get lots of protection from an offensive line which remains almost entirely intact. Only guard Phil Hartigan is missing from the line which also included returners Dan and Terry Brannigan, Mike Willson, and Mark Borello.

The 1979 edition of the Lancers finished fourth in the eight team division with a 3-1-1 record, the tie coming in the final game of the season against first place Wilfrid Laurier Golden Hawks. Windsor met that same Laurier team one week later in the first game of the playoffs and were eliminated 5-17-1.

"This is a team which will get better every week," assures Evans. "It will makeup its present feel around the league. We just have to win enough games to get into the playoffs and that's when to do something."

The Lancers meet College Bowl runner-up Western Mustangs in the first game of the season Saturday at J.W. Little Memorial Stadium in the UWO campus. Game time is 2 p.m.
FAMILY MEAT MARKET

SANDWICH AT MILL— FRIENDLY PERSONAL SERVICE— FREE PARKING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Item</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BACON ENDS</td>
<td>.69 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MILK</td>
<td>3 qt. bags $1.85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COOKED HAM</td>
<td>$1.59 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ICE CREAM</td>
<td>2 Ltr $1.49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BACON Rindless</td>
<td>.99 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHOLE CHICKENS</td>
<td>$1.09 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEGS &amp; BREASTS</td>
<td>$1.19 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRENCH FRIES</td>
<td>5 lbs .96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BOLOGNA by the piece</td>
<td>.88 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WEINERS</td>
<td>$1.89</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CIGARETTES all brands</td>
<td>$8.39 ctn</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special price

24 oz sliced bread .48¢ each

FAMILY MEATS HAS MANY MORE GREAT SPECIALS THAT ARE AVAILABLE, BUT NOT MENTIONED IN THIS AD. DON'T MISS THEM!

GUARANTEE—EVERYTHING PURCHASED AT FAMILY MEATS IS GUARANTEED TO YOUR SATISFACTION OR MONEY REFUNDED WITHOUT QUESTION.

YOUR OWN CAMPUS MEAT MARKET
Windsor students not affected by T.D. Bank loan cutback

by Ed McMahon

While university students around the province seem to be having problems negotiating their Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) loans at Toronto Dominion Banks, students at this university are apparently having no problems.

Ken, this week’s Deans Awards Office, reported that as of Wednesday, September 17, she had “not heard anything” about students who may have been having problems negotiating their OSAP loans with TD.

Mr. D. Lovegrove, the manager of the Toronto Dominion Bank at the corner of Wyandotte and Rankin (the closest bank to the university campus), said that students at the university are using the services of the University Centre when they require financial advice. “The Centre is present at the university,” he said, “where students can learn more about their finances and the role of the banks in our society.”

In recent weeks, Toronto Dominion has been a strong supporter of the program since its inception,” the statement read. “Despite the lack of access to the university campus, students are being provided with the opportunity to have the program reviewed and to have the formula for calculating interest on student loans explained to them.

The statement went on to say that the university had “not heard anything” about students who have been having problems negotiating their OSAP loans with TD.

“T.D. is committed to providing the best possible service to all its customers,” the statement read. “We appreciate the trust that students have placed in us, and we will continue to work hard to ensure that our customers are satisfied with the services we provide.”

New Centre director here soon

by Wendy Coomber

Along with the many renovations being made to the University Centre will be the appointment of a new Centre director.

Randy Johnston, a former student, is currently working as Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs George McMahon, and the Director of Personal Services.

Presidential Johnston is serving on the administration of the Drilla Campus of Georgian University, but by the end of this month, he will be taking charge of Windsor’s University Centre. The Centre is present in the University of Windsor, along with all other Ontario universities, and is the responsibility of the Ontario Federation of Students.

“Along with the many renovations being made to the University Centre, we are also proud to announce the appointment of a new Centre director,” said Johnston. “Randy Johnston brings a wealth of experience and knowledge to the position, and we are confident that he will lead the Centre to new heights.”

SAC asks students about summer work

by C. Woodrow

“One of the most important and troublesome causes that we are undertaking this year is the situation of the students,” says Students’ Administrative Council President David Simmons. “It is determined that what extent students are dependent on summer employment to pay tuition fees and other expenses incurred at university.

To determine this information, SAC conducted a survey in which students were asked questions about their employment during the summer. The survey was conducted at Carleton University four years ago and proved to be a tremendous success.

When all the information has been collected and analyzed, the results will be forwarded to The Ontario Federation of Students as well as other students’ associations across the province.

Simmons thinks that the results will give us a way to show how students, in addition to their regular jobs, are also working on the summer job market.

Windsor rely on summer work to pay all their university bills. “With the auto industry being hit with mass layoffs, students in this area can no longer depend on high paying summer jobs, nor can they rely on their parents. There has been too much reliance on the auto industry in the past for summer jobs for students. The staff at the Centre can help the people of Windsor realize how much students depend on summer employment.”

Simmons went on to say that over a period of time the Centre has become a valuable resource for students.

LANCERS MALLENDERSS

Scott Mallerdey, last year’s Hec Crichton trophy winner as the most outstanding college football player in the country, will not be wearing a Lancer uniform this year.

That word came from the Ontario Universities Athletic Association earlier this week after Mallerdey had challenged the rule which limits a player to five years of collegiate play.

Mallerdey lost one year of eligibility due to a brief appearance in an exhibition game during his first year of university at Sir Wilfred Laurier in Waterloo and had hoped to find a loophole in the rule which would have allowed him to play.
Minding your language

THE OFFICE OF STUDENT AFFAIRS is pleased to announce the re-opening of the Writing Development Centre. For those unfamiliar with the Writing Development Centre, it provides a tutorial service to students who require assistance in developing the fundamental writing skills necessary for completion of university assignments.

This year the Writing Development Centre will again operate on a referral system. Faculty members have already been advised by letter and invited to refer any students experiencing difficulty in written assignments to Room 12, Vanier Hall. Students taking part in the program receive two or three hours of individual instruction per week, arranged around existing schedules in order to avoid conflict.

The Writing Development Centre is not an essay writing or editing service. It is designed to provide students with the opportunity to develop their own individual written writing skills. Each student's work is kept on file in order to assess progress. Every effort is made to avoid adding to a student's workload beyond the specified hours of tutorial instruction.

At present, limited time and space allow the Writing Development Centre to accept referrals on a "first-come, first-serve" basis only. After having reached the capacity of 60 students, a waiting list will be established. Students are invited to refer themselves to the Centre for assistance at any time as long as openings remain available.

At present, the Writing Development Centre is able to accommodate only native English-speaking students. Foreign students requiring assistance should be directed to the specifically designed course English 26-001.

For more information on the Writing Development Centre, contact either Mrs. Patricia Parke (tutor) at 235-3321 or Ken Logan, Dean of Students, at ext. 334.
Simmons splits from student groups over student aid

By E.P. Chant

David Simmons, President of the University of Windsor's Students' Administrative Council, does not agree with the National Union of Students (NUS) that the basic student aid program in this country should be an "all-bursary" one. Both Simmons and the national student organization sent briefs to the federal/provincial Task Force on Student Assistance during the summer, as did the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS).

All three reports have some common criticisms of and suggestions for improving both federal and provincial student aid programs, but there are differences of opinion.

The OFS emphasized the criticisms in its report (entitled "Swimming Against the Current") by saying, "...the amount of support is made inadequately because estimates of students' costs are set at unrealistically low levels and standards for family contributions are set at unrealistically high levels.

Secondly, a minimal form of support, the loan program, provides the skeleton on which the more effective grants programs are hinging."

In addition to these two basic criticisms, the three reports were concerned with the perceived inability of the various student aid programs to encourage lower class prospective students to financially "make" attaining a post-secondary school education and with the non-standardized aid programs from province to province.

It is with these solutions to these problems where the briefs divide into two camps, with the two student organizations in one and Simmons in the other.

Speaking specifically about the NUS report, Simmons in an interview this Tuesday said, "There is a genuine demand for changes, but the student organizations are asking for too much (from the government)."

What NUS asked for in a meeting with the task force on August 26 was an all-bursary aid program, coupled with a removal of some income tax deductions for students to help the government pay for the bursaries. OFS would also, as the earlier quotation suggests, like to see the student aid program based more on the need-to-repay grants than the repay-with-interest loans.

Simmons objects to such one-sided solutions because of the excessive and unfair financial burden it would put on the government and because such a bursary plan "would take away the incentive of students to help themselves."

The Windsor president would, instead, like to see the government work on a more "individual need" based system and as making the existing system run more efficiently.

Working on the Ontario Student Assistance Plan Appeals Board this summer, Simmons saw both the problems the system has and the abuse it takes. He feels that it could be a very efficient system if much of the latter was eliminated.

The type of abuse is typified, said Simmons, by the common case of the student loaded with money from summer work who is, nevertheless, collecting student aid because he/she is still a "dependent living at home". Solving this problem, Simmons said, would require a government redefinition of "independent" and "dependent" students.

There is also, he noted, the problem of the "nonsupporting" parents (those who refuse to financially aid their children). While NUS and OFS contend that parental contributions are always considered at too high a financial level in student aid plans, Simmons does not fully agree with that.

"It should be primarily a parent's concern, not the government's," said Simmons. "After all, who ends up taking more pride in a graduate than his or her parents?"

While NUS and OFS would, then, like to open the system up by making it predominantly bursary/grant oriented (perhaps with little regard to the financial considerations involved), Simmons feels the system might be fine as it is, provided a few formal changes are made and individual cases are more carefully and caringly examined.

Nobody's perfect

In last week's page three story, "Generous government computer attacks Ontario students," a mistake was made.

The story, about the recent OSAP loan recall, included an interview with Mr. Gar Nutson and Miss Camelia Anderson. The reporter, who interviewed these two people solicited purely "off-the-cuff" opinions from them, but the fact that The Lance quoted Mr. Nutson and Miss Anderson as representatives of the Windsor Legal Aid office, verified the unfortunate impression that their statements constituted researched legal advice.

The Lance apologizes to Mr. Nutson, Miss Anderson, and its readers for this error.

--The Editor...
Shoplifting no longer a problem at U. of W.

by Nigel Price

While browsing in the book-store you probably get the feeling Big Brother is watching.

Most people pay for things at a desk shop from the book-store's cash registers. A few try to get around that, but it doesn't work.

"Deterrent theft is an important aspect of the book-store's layout," claims Mrs. Helen Tidridge, the manager. She says the simple exit, low shelving, rms and one floor location also make shoplifting a risk not worth taking.

The occasional offenders are summarily sent to the Dean of Students.

Mr. George McMahon, former Dean of Students and present Assistant Vice-President of Student Affairs, explained in an interview Wednesday that, after a student has been involved in a shop-lifting incident, the stolen goods are taken back, the student's student card is removed, and the student is brought before the Dean for "a talk."

"The student usually gets a good kick in the ass and is told not to do it again," said McMahon.

A shoplifter might also go before a Student Services disciplinary committee, said McMahon, but rarely faces criminal prosecution. He could not recall the latter occurring since 1967.

"It's (shoplifting) not a major problem anymore," Mrs. Tidridge added. "Students stealing from other students is more common."

Apparently some individuals are profiting by stealing books which are innocently, yet mandatorily, left at the book drop. They snatch them while the owner is gone.

Unless someone witnesses the theft or the TV picks it up (in one case film was being reloaded while the theft was occurring), there is virtually no recourse for the victim.

Air pollution experts answer public

by Cecilia Deck

If we can believe the panel of experts on air pollution who spoke at a forum presented by the Essex County Lung Association Tuesday, Windsortonians can rest assured that they don't have much of a pollution problem.

Representatives from Ontario's Ministry of the Environment, the Wayne County Air Pollution Control Division, Ontario's Ministry of Labour, Environment Canada, and the International Joint Commission, spoke to a small crowd on the campus beat, keeping you informed of the events and affairs of the student population in Canada.

The Lance covers the campus beat, reporting the student's student card is loaded while the theft was occurring. There is virtually no recourse for the victim.

A letter of doom

Dear Mr. Chant,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your kind words in the article entitled "Another paper to bite the dust" which was published in The Lance, Sept. 12.

Only let me say that I predict that your term as editor will be one filled with tremendous success.

Sincerely,
Steve Rice,
Sports Editor,
The Lance

Editor's Note: Forget it, Rice. I wouldn't give you a raise if you wrote like Ken Fathers.

Attention ALL CLUBS:

This year's ratification process has begun. In order to qualify, please submit the following items to the office of the Vice-President-Administration, located in the S.A.C. office on the 2nd floor of the University Centre.

1) club constitution
2) current list of names, addresses and telephone numbers of club executives
3) current membership list with pertinent student I.D. numbers
4) financial statement from last year if available
5) a budget for the upcoming year

Submissions should be made by September 26, 1980.
The 1980-81 series of Studentship lectures began this past week with the first three sessions on study skills being given on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday by Ken Long, Dean of Students.

First day attendance was down from last year however. "I think we reached around $7,400.00 deficit of food in addition to intermittent night buffets," Long said. "Attendance tends explained Long in an interesting lecture at the beginning of the semester. "That's what the system at this university is designed to "service the students themselves".

Expanding on this, Mr. Johnston explained that many of the universities across Canada have much more restrictive systems for example, those with cafeterias open only during specific hours of the day, not totally in line with the fluctuating schedule of many students.

According to Mr. Johnston, the system at this university is designed to serve the students themselves. "The common denominator of all the lectures is to help the students reach a higher level of efficiency faster," Long said. "Students may learn many of these techniques on their own," he admits, "But it will take them longer.

More efficient use of that time is what the first three lectures are all about. "If you know the right techniques," Long contends, "You can study better in less time." Some professors might shake at Long's beliefs that "fifty per cent of the valuable learning that takes place at University takes place outside of the classroom," and that "the best student is the B average student who's involved in things, rather than the A student who does nothing but study," but students would be more likely to cheer. "The common denominator of all the lectures is to help the students reach a higher level of efficiency faster," Long said. "Students may learn many of these techniques on their own," he admits, "But it will take them longer.

The Studentship lectures have been going on at Windsor for five years now. Most other universities offering similar programs have now abandoned the lecture format in favor of workshops because, says Long, "Many feel lectures don't work, but when done effectively, we feel they work very well." There are plans on the drawing board for workshops at Windsor too, such as one in which students would take a quick, easy test of reading and comprehension. Such workshops would supplement, but not replace, the Studentship lecture series because Long still feels "lectures are the fastest way to reach the most people."

Long himself is a skilled lecturer who makes his points clearly and succinctly in a voice that's easily heard and a style that holds the interest. "All through the year people come back to me with positive comments," said Long. "We're not just whistling in the wind here."

Long is not the only lecturer in the Studentship series. Six others, several of them for the first time, will also be involved this year. Returning to the program after a year's absence is Professor Bob Doyle, author of a series of science articles for The Lance. Making his debut in Studentship is Professor Allan Gold of the Math Department and Carol Baker, Assistant Dean of Students, whose lecture will be entitled "Doing Your First Semester." Also new to the program is Patricia Pare of the Writing Development Centre, who will lecture on "The Resume."

Each lecture is held twice, at noon and at 5:30 in Vanier Lounge on the given day and all of the lectures will be repeated again in the next semester.

\[ \text{A full load means a full tank} \]

\[ \text{(ZNS)—Even colleges are now beginning to offer rebates...} \]

\[ \text{in the form of gasoline.} \]

\[ \text{Simpson College in Iowa is offering up to $40 (dollars) per course in refunds for money students spend on gas to get to and from the college.} \]

\[ \text{Simpson devised the unusual gas rebate program to stem what it foresees as a possible drop in enrollment of part-time students because of the high cost of commuting.} \]

\[ \text{Part-time students simply submit receipts which show that they spent a certain amount of money on gas to get to their classes, and they will be refunded anywhere from $3 to $40 for each three-semester-hour class.} \]

\[ \text{Simpson has a slogan for its new program: it's "you take the class, we'll pay the gas."} \]

\[ \text{HOW MANY COURSES ARE YOU TAKING? SEVEN} \]

\[ \text{GET INTO SPEED READING} \]

\[ \text{Course is seven weeks in duration} \]

\[ \text{All classes held on campus} \]

\[ \text{Room location to be announced} \]

\[ \text{Four class times offered commencing:} \]

\[ \text{Tuesday, September 23 at 5:30 p.m. or 7:00 p.m.} \]
\[ \text{Wednesday, September 24 at 5:30 p.m. or 7:00 p.m.} \]

\[ \text{FEE OF $65.00 INCLUDES INSTRUCTION, TEXT BOOK AND THE USE OF ALL COURSE MATERIALS} \]

\[ \text{To enroll, see us in the UNIVERSITY CENTRE:} \]

\[ \text{September 11, 12, 15, 18, 19, or 22.} \]
Hiring, firing, and in between: your rights

by Peter Heasman

As this year draws to a close, a number of students are taking on part-time jobs so as to supplement their meagre income. Employers, wishing to attain higher administrative and industrial efficiencies, will hire individuals on a part-time basis as replacement for full-time workers on vacation or as additional labour during the peak periods of a productive season.

But whether or not they are classified as 'full-time' or 'part-time' employees, they are covered by the Employment Standards Act, 50, c. 112 and the related regulations pertaining to it in such significant areas as minimum wage, overtime pay, public holiday pay, benefits and termination of employment.

The minimum general hourly rate for all employees at present is $5.00. For students under 18 who work less than 28 hours per week during the school term, the rate is $2.15. The maximum rate for hours worked with no bearing on minimum wage, so that the employer must pay these employees at the rates of pay as well as the full-time staff.

Training time

When an employer hires a new person, s/he will probably require some training period during which the employee will not be paid. But if the employer uses an illegal act or act as an instructor of the business operation. It has been held that the employee will accept this loss of pay, absorbing this period of unpaid labour as a necessary prelude to established employment with the company.

In any instance, the employee will accept this loss of pay, absorbing this period of unpaid labour as a necessary prelude to established employment with the company. However, this would constitute an illegal act on the part of the employer. The legislation makes provision for training pay for all employees. The rate is set at $2.90 per hour. After a month of training, the employee is entitled to receive the regular minimum wage. Part-time employees will generally not work more than a few hours a week or considerably less than their full-time counterparts. But if a part-time employee is requested to work more than 44 hours a week in any given week, the employee is entitled to overtime pay at time and one-half for every hour worked in excess of this standard.

Employers are often concerned about how they must compensate part-time employees for their leisure time. The legislation clearly sets out the obligations of the employer towards the part-time staff. Generally speaking, any difference between the full-time and the part-time employees is negligible.

Public holiday

Basically, there are seven public holidays: New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labour Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas Day. To qualify for a paid public holiday (i.e. the day off with straight pay), the employee must be employed for more than three months. Also, the employee must earn wages on twelve days of the four weeks preceding the holiday. Finally, the employee must work on their regularly scheduled day of work preceding and following the holiday.

For the part-time employee, the difficulty is a matter of proportion that they work the twelve days in the preceding four weeks. In instances where the employee works less than three days a week, the employer is not required to compensate the employee for the public holiday. But if the employee works more than three days a week during that period, regardless of how many hours were put in by the employee during the week, the employer is bound by the law to pay the minimum weekly wage for those hours a week or considerably less than their full-time counterpart.

Vacation pay

A qualifying employer who works on a public holiday is entitled to premium pay of straight time for time worked plus time and one-half for every hour worked on the holiday. Employers, however, may require that the qualifying employee should receive "double time and one-half" instead of regular pay for that day. The employer who would normally not qualify for premium pay for that week may pay the employee based upon premium pay of time and one-half if s/he works the holiday.

An employer is within his/her rights to work the employee at a straight rate on the holiday if that employee agrees to have another day off with pay. This is a beneficial arrangement for the employer who requires the services of the employee on the holiday; it provides the employee with only double time pay, a savings of the half-time rate, payable to the employee had there not been an arrangement for the employee's day off.

Vacation pay is one of the more basic rights belonging to employees of every description and classification. The legislation reads "every employer shall give to each employee a vacation with pay of at least two weeks upon the completion of each twelve months of employment", or a minimum of four per cent of the employee's gross wages per year. In effect, the legislation ensures that accumulated vacation time is held in trust for the employee by the employer. It is a remuneration for services rendered solely to the employee, it cannot be retained or withheld by the employer for any period longer than ten months after the completion of the year's service.

Due to the number of hours worked compared with full-time employees, the part-time employee will not receive a full two week's pay. But they are entitled to one week's pay per cent of their gross earnings per year. In some instances, an employer will pay part-time employees their vacation pay on a weekly basis, thus alleviating any possibility of confrontation over alleged mischaracterization of hours.

An employer does not have to pay benefits to employees. There is no provision for such social necessities as sick leave insurance in the legislation. But if the employer so desires, s/he may pay benefits to the staff; however, discrimination as far as sex, age and marital status are strictly prohibited.

The employer may refuse to pay any benefits to part-time employees as a group and still remain safe within the ambit of the legislation.

Termination of pay

Part-time employees are subject to the same termination notice rules as full-time employees. If the part-time employee has worked three months or more, s/he must be given notice of termination by the employer of at least 1 week. If the employee works less than two years; (ii) two weeks if the employee worked two years but less than five years; (iii) four weeks if the employee worked five years but less than ten years; and, (iv) eight weeks if the employee worked in excess of ten years.

When notice is not issued, an employee is entitled to terminate pay for any lack of notice. In circumstances where the employer is called back to work and consequently refuses employment, the employer is no longer bound to some payment. An employer is exempt from issuing termination notice when there is evidence of "willful misconduct" or "willful disobedience" of the employee. Also, if the work agreement is "impossible of performance or is interrupted by a fortuitous or unforeseen event or circumstance", such as fire or flood, the employer does not have to compensate the employee for any lack of notice. On the job accidents or lengthy illness are also acceptable grounds for dismissal without notice since the work agreement cannot possibly be resumed within a reasonable length of time. However, one day's sick leave is not considered an "unforeseen or fortuitous circumstance" which acts to frustrate the employment contract.

By all means, this was not meant to be an exhaustive examination of the Employment Standards legislation. The variety and complexity of individuals problems are voluminous and require a more labour study than that which is offered here. Any questions or problems regarding (employers') employee relations should be directed to the nearest Employment Standards Branch of the Ministry of Labour.

The Community Legal Aid columnist will be happy to answer your legal questions. Although he doesn't send personalized answers to you, he will respond to questions in this paper. Drop your questions in the Lanac letterbox at the Centre Desk or bring them or mail them to the Lanac office on the second floor, University Centre.

The flying nun

(ZNS) The Greek police may have put a stop to Sister Flothee's newest visions. The Greek nun has been jailed for growing and for smoking hashish in the convent garden and smoking it in her room.

Sister Flothee told police it was not the but "God's brethren" which blew the seeds into the convent where they took root. It was simply by chance that I tried it, without knowing what I was doing," she said.
Anisef of York study finds university a luxury

Anisef does not fully examine the many social and economic barriers that students must hurdle, stating at one point that "because obtaining a post-secondary education entails costs... access... may be somewhat restricted to persons with more plentiful resources," but he does make a number of recommendations.

Improved high school counselling.

More publicity for the various forms of student aid.

Affirmative action to broaden the career interests of women.

Financial and social aids for rural students who must move to urban centres for post-secondary schooling.

An industrial strategy implicitly promoting jobs to persons who have been encouraged to pursue higher education and expanding job opportunities for women.

That systems be developed to better prepare high school students for the transition to university, community college or the working world.

Following the release of the report, the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS) issued a statement describing the study as "evidence for what we have been saying for a long time. Poor people, women and students from rural and northern areas simply don't have the same chance to get an education." The OFS release goes on to analyze the report chapter by chapter, touching at least briefly on each of Anisef's areas of concern, and finally to call for a complete study of the financial barriers faced by students.

The press release issued by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities, which funded the study, is headlined "Report Urges More Career Guidance for Secondary-School Students." It summarizes some of Anisef's findings, avoiding reference to the actual cost of post-secondary education to concentrate on attitudinal barriers evident in high school. It cites five of Anisef's recommendations, of which three deal with high schools, one with publicizing financial aid and one with affirmative action for women. It concludes by stating that "many of the problems uncovered" in the study are among those "being considered" by the government's Secondary Education Review.
Dreamweaver comes to Windsor campus

"The Dreamweaver", an unusual multi-media production depicting the forces of good and evil in a young executive's life, will be presented on Thursday, September 25 at 7:00 and 10:00 in Room 1120 of the Math Building.

The production is a presentation of Paragon Experience, a ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ, International, and interdenominational organization.

A spokesman for Paragon Experience explained the elaborate multimedia production focused on "Rick", a young executive with a zest for life who enjoys the luxury of success, the love and devotion of his fiancée, and the thrill of outdoor adventure.

Then circumstances make the young executive aware of the "Dreamweaver", who uses deceiving forces to control the unsuspecting. During an encounter with death, Rick catches a glimpse of the plot to enshrine him, and begins his search for escape.

The spokesman said the presentation was a 75-minute production of breath-taking photography which uses more than 2,000 visuals projected onto three large screens from 14 computerized projectors.

Unlike traditional movie entertainment, he added, "The Dreamweaver", contains only two minutes of talking. Instead, the storyline is communicated through the use of visuals precisely synchronized to the lyrics of contemporary music from the Beatles, John Denver, Simon and Garfunkel, Kansas, Styx, and others, uniquely blending this stereo phonical music with suspenseful drama.

Admission is $1.00 at the door. Advance tickets are also $1.00 per ticket, and are available at the University Center. "The Dreamweaver" is being locally sponsored by the Navigators and InterVarsity Christian Fellowship.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by Rossami Comino

How refreshing to see a film depicting teenagers today whose characters are so real they nearly jump off the screen with youth and vitality. The writer and director have skillfully made My Bodyguard an honest, funny and warm movie about adolescence. Couple that with the stunning performances turned in by Chris Makepeace, Adam Baldwin, and Matt Dillon and the result is a cinematic success that runs the gamut of emotions from flicking your funny bone to tugging at your heartstrings all at the same time.

The story involves Clifford Peaslee (Chris Makepeace) who is new to a school and new to the area. Moody (Matt Dillon) and his gang have been bullying the students into surrendering their lunch money as protection insurance. Cliff is an easy target for their verbal and physical abuse until he employs a social outcast, Ricky Linderman (Adam Baldwin) as his bodyguard. Linderman's bulk-like appearance and humour-ridden past are enough to scare off Moody and his friends and normalcy and harmony return for awhile. However, the ensuing friendship and sharp contrasts between Cliff and Linderman are what gives My Bodyguard its substance and appeal.

Clifford lives with his eccentric grandmother (Ruth Gordon) and his responsible father (Martin Mull) who is the manager of the hotel where the three of them reside. His fragile and delicate appearance, vulnerable and naive personality and his responsible father are elements that are sure to be as rejuvenated and entertained.

Linderman, on the other hand, resembles a gorilla who is right at home amidst the jungles of urban sprawl and deprivation. His imposing stature and dirty clothes give credence to the students brandishing him a mudraker, a rapist and a psychopath. It is because of Cliff's unrelenting search for the truth that Linderman is finally freed from the chains of his past and a bond of friendship is realized and shared between the two boys.

This delightfulness is short-lived though, and Moody returns with someone bigger and stronger than Linderman and another confrontation results. Unlike the first time, Linderman is vehemently pushed into using his physical prowess inspiring Cliff to pit himself against Moody. Although happy endings are a rarity today, audiences of every age group are sure to be as rejuvenated and joyful as the kids up on the screen are.

Don't be surprised though, when you hear yourself cheering out loud at the end of the movie and try to get used to the bounce on your step as you leave the theatre. It's just an old fashioned feeling that My Bodyguard delivers - the sheer enjoyment of being thoroughly entertained.

SAC’S: Chick’s singer leaves his shell far behind

You can always tell when school has begun again. On Monday night SAC’s Pub was a busy place.

This week’s entertainment is provided by Chick, a five man band who seemingly aren’t as concerned with their music as they are with entertaining the crowd.

Somewhat different from the new wave bands taking control of this city, Chick performs mostly recent hits known to everybody. Look to see some Babyshambles, Kings of Leon, Cheap Trick and even Wings to be among their repertoire. Even though their music isn’t technically perfectly, it’s a refreshing change just to hear some pieces not usually played by local but bands.

The lead singer himself provides simple entertainment.

It’s hard to ignore all of his erotic moves, - as soon as you try to you’re bound to find him sitting at your table singing to your girlfriend. If hope he is around when they decide to start a ballet troop in the city.

Even if you don’t like the band, remember that SAC’s now has a 52” television screen against the back wall. To all those football devotees. It was a good game, eh?

HAVE WE GOT NEWS FOR YOU!

Special Student Offer

26 Weeks for $26

ENCLOSED YOU WILL FIND MY CHEQUE/MONEY ORDER FOR verdienen$26.00. PAY 26 WEEK SUBSCRIPTION TO THE GLOBE AND MAIL AT $1.00 PER WEEK.

PLEASE DELIVER MY PAPER TO (INDICATE IF ADDRESS IS OFF CAMPUS)

NAME Address TELEPHONE NO.

UNIVERSITY ROOM CAMPUS

STUDENT I.D. NUMB EP

Mail Order or Money Order, also please complete Coupon to THE GLOBE AND Mail STUDENT & SCHOOL DIVISION 444 FRONT STREET WEST TORONTO,ONT, M5V 2N9

Bond Clothes Shop 368 OUELLETTE

the best in young mens fashions
Tamburini forms orchestra

Professor James Tamburini, of the University of Windsor Faculty of Music is organizing a community orchestra for Windsor and the outlying areas. Musicians are needed for all orchestra sections, (brass, percussion, strings and woodwinds) and membership is open to anyone in the community.

Once organized, Prof. Tamburini is hoping to play a series of concerts for the Windsor community.

Rehearsals are scheduled for Tuesday evenings at 7:00 p.m., in the Music Building. All those interested are asked to contact Prof. James Tamburini at the university, (251-4323, ext. 135) or at 966-2262 for an appointment.

This is a chance for all local musicians to express their latent talents and to become part of a musically and culturally enriching program.

MAKE ANOTE

Friday, September 19
-Windsor CINEFEST presents The Texas Chainsaw Massacre at 7:30 pm. At 9:00 pm Serial killer will be shown. Each show is $1.99 at 804 Erie St. E.
-Chick appears at SAC's pub, basement of the Student Center, Saturday, September 20 at 10:00 pm. Admission is $3.00.
-CINEFEST will show Cheech and Chong's Up in Smoke at 7:30 pm. At 9:30 pm the Stanley Kubrick classic A Clockwork Orange will be run. Each show only $1.99.
-Chick continues at SAC's pub.
-The rescheduled CAN-AM Jam will take place at the St. Clair Amphitheatre starting at 2:00 pm.

Feature groups are The Rockets and Kingbees. Other performers will include Street, AXX, and Bayle. Tickets are $10.00 Canadian at all local record stores.

Tuesday, September 23
-The Ontario Film Theatre will present Robert & Robert at 8:00 pm, on the Super什么地方, 804 Erie St. E.

Thursday, September 25
-Nikki and the Corvette's along with the Hardtops will perform at Down Under 917 Walker Road. Admission is $2.50.
-The Dreamweaver, an unusual movie production (featuring lyrics from The Beatles, Kansas, Styx and many more instead of dialogue) will be shown in room 1120 of the Math Building. Show times are 7:00 pm and 10:00 pm. Tickets are $1.00 and are available at the Student Centre. This event is sponsored by the InterVarsity Christian Fellowship and the Navigators.
-CINEFEST presents Treat Wohl's Best Boy, Academy Award winner for best feature length documentary. The film will be presented at 7:10 and 9:30 pm. There is a $3.00 admission to the special showing.

Friday, September 26
-CINEFEST will show Cool Miner's Daughter at 7:30 pm and Rust Never Sleeps at 9:45.
Each show $1.99.
Sports

Fund gets booze-t

Labatt’s Breweries of Canada handed over the second installment of their $25,000 donation to the St. Denis Hall Fund at a press conference Wednesday in the Assumption Lounge on the University of Windsor campus.

The installment, in the form of a cheque for $5,000, came at a banquet hosted by Labatt’s of a cheque for $5,000, came on their $25,000 donation to the St. Denis Hall Fund.

Upon receiving the cheque, Dr. Paul Cassano, Assistant Vice President Academic and Chairman, University of Windsor Division, St. Denis Hall Fund, commented that “Labatt’s is very dear in our hearts for this generous contribution” and added that the university has become the “darling of the community” because of the university’s effort to aid the St. Denis Hall Fund.

As part of the evening’s events, Labatt’s had a showing of their film highlighting the College Bowl, copies of which will be donated annually by Labatt’s to universities in Ontario.

Chris Hreljac with the winner’s prize.

Hreljac ‘ace in hole’ for Lancers

by Steve Rice

Last year’s Ontario Universities Athletic Association’s gold medal winner Chris Hreljac head the list of the 1980 University of Windsor golf team which was selected earlier this week.

Hreljac fired an eight-over-par 80 at the University of Windsor open tournament Monday in which the team finished fifth, and duplicated that score Tuesday in the St. Clair tournament where the team finished third. Both competitions were held at Roseland Golf Club in Windsor.

The other members of the five-man team chosen by coach Bill Miles and assistant John Horrar are Paul Kowal.

Sports in Short

Attention Swimmers and Divers. Anyone interested in being on the Swimming or Diving Team, is asked to attend a meeting at 7:00 pm on Tuesday Sept. 21 in room 202 of the Human Kinetics Building.

The annual University of Windsor Fall Tennis tournament gets under way Monday, Sept. 22 at the south campus courts behind the Human Kinetics building.

The week-long classic, which concludes Sept. 26, will run each night from 5-7 p.m. with competition in both men’s and women’s singles as well as mixed doubles.

All staff, students and faculty are eligible to register at the campus recreation office in St. Denis Hall or on the first day of the tournament. No entry fee is required.

For further information, contact Bill Kominsek or Dave Hyland at 236-4837.

The faculty of Human Kinetics pool will be closed for recreational swimming from 1:30 to 3:30 on Sat., Sept. 20 and Sat., Sept. 27, 1980 due to the Lancer football games. There will be recreational swimming from 6:30 to 9:30 on those dates.

What to do with an empty Blue.

When you’re smiling, call for Labatt’s Blue.
Lancer defense shows strength in rugged game

The CHCH-TV11 announcer was the only one to brave the half-time rainstorm.

Steve Rice

LONDON — "We didn't get blown out by any stretch of the imagination," said coach Gino Fra'cas after the Lancers' 15-4 loss here Saturday. "I'm pleased with the team's performance."

"Pleased!" with a laugh? Well, consider that the Lancers had just held the defending OUAA champion Western Mustangs, a team which has built a reputation as being year after year one of the best in Canada, to just 13 points. And, in fact, without a major score until the 14th minute of the final quarter. It was indeed a pleasing performance by a team which in a "Learning" year appears to be learning very quickly.

Zoran Milskovic scored Windsor's only points of the game in the first quarter, a single on a 43-yard missed field-goal attempt and a 34-yard field-goal.

But, it was Windsor's defense that shone in what was an extremely physical game. In fact, Western's touchdown and their two field-goals, all of which came in the final quarter, could each be attributed to one big play.

The first field-goal came early in the fourth quarter after Ryan Potter, who rushed for 126 yards on 24 attempts, galloped 30 yards to the Lancers' 25-yard line. There the Windsor defense shut down the Mustangs and Kevin Ryderard kicked the 31-yard three-pointer.

Five minutes later, Al Quinn rambled off the longest run of the day, 53 yards to the Windsor 33. An unnecessary roughness call tackled on 20 more yards and Western was on the 13-yard line. But again, the defense stymied the Stangs and they had to settle for a 31-yard field goal.

Western's touchdown came after Windsor rookie quarterback Rob Dalley, a product of Centennial High School in Windsor, fumbled the ball on his own 25. Windsor was called for ob­ jectionable conduct on the play and the ball moved in to the 12. From there, it took Western five plays before Potter finally took the ball over.

"I'm really optimistic after what I saw today," said Fra'cas. "Our defensive line and linebackers played good, tough football."

"We've only been practicing two weeks and the defense is always ahead of the offense. But the offense should come along in the next week or two."

Western coach Darwin Semotniak had nothing but good things to say about the Lancer defense which sacked quarterback Paul Gleston no less than four times.

"When these two teams meet it's traditionally a tough, physical game," Semotniak said. "Windsor is very strong on the line and their interior personnel were tremendous. We had a lot of difficulty against them."

"You know you're in for a game when Windsor comes to town because Gino will send the kitchen sink at you and he does a lot of sophisticated and complicated things. It was a fairly even contest. We just ended up getting more offense."

The Lancers came knocking at the door several times but failed to convert their chances into points.

Just prior to the end of the first half with the Lancers leading 4-1, they worked the ball down to the 19-yard line but failed to gain even a single point after Dalley was sacked and a high snap absorbed the 25-yard field goal attempt.

Late in the fourth quarter, Windsor punter Scott Savery boomed a 49-yarder to the Mustang 30-yard line where Dave Ramirez fumbled. The Lancers recovered but Dalley was dropped for an 18-yard loss on the next play, then threw an interception up the middle. The Lancers will face the Waterloo Warriors, who were beaten 10-4 at McMaster, at home on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Extra Points

- Each week, the players vote on top performances based on their viewing of the game films. Awards for the Western game were as follows:
  - Defensive Lineman-John Celestino, defensive tackle, 2nd year
  - Offensive Back-Chris Owen, defensive halfback, 5th year
  - Offensive Lineman-Ron Laprise, offensive tackle, 3rd year
  - Offensive Back-Rob Dalley, quarterback, 1st year

Quarterback Rob Dalley (on ground) slips on the wet turf as Dan Brannagan (57) looks on.

Game Statistics

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>First Down</th>
<th>UW</th>
<th>UW</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Total Offense</td>
<td>305</td>
<td>200</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rushing</td>
<td>225</td>
<td>72</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passing</td>
<td>80</td>
<td>128</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Penalties</td>
<td>41.8</td>
<td>39.5</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Turnovers</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>11</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average</td>
<td>41.8</td>
<td>39.5</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Your Pizza Hotline 255-1833

Corner of Sandwich and Mill St.

The only alternative at lunch, dinner or when those munchies hit. Special student Orientation month offer 10% off all food delivered or eaten in and always 10% discount on all pick-up orders.

Please present your student card before order is taken to obtain discount.

Monday to Wednesday 11:30-3:30
Thursday to Saturday 11:30-2:30
Sunday 12:00 - 12 midnight

(Offer expires September 30)

WANT TO PUT YOUR DEGREE TO WORK?
XEROX CANADA DOES.

If you're a graduating woman or man determined to put your education, energy and ambition to the best possible use, then you and Xerox have a mutual interest to discuss...your career.

We're coming to campus to hold a Briefing Session to talk with you about career opportunities with Xerox Canada Inc. Later on, we'll return for individual interviews with those students who attend the Briefing Session and who want to talk in detail about whether or not their future might be with us -- so plan now to attend!

October 8th is the deadline for receipt of UCPA and/or Personal Résumés from interested students to your Placement Office.

The primary focus of this encounter is to give you the opportunity to answer the question—"To Sell or Not to Sell!"

talk careers
Xerox Canada Inc.

XEROX is a registered trademark of XEROX CORPORATION used by XEROX CANADA INC. as a registered user.
Students' council after money for itself and radio station

by Ed McMahon

Student representation on the promotion and tenure committees at any university has always been an item of interest. Most students' councils feel that it is their responsibility to have something to do with the hiring and firing of faculty at their universities.

Presumably before the Senate is a motion that would remove students at this university from promotion and tenure committees.

Joseph T. Culliton, author of the motion and head of the Religious Studies Department, insists that his motion is designed to save students the mental anguish that can often accompany tenure and promotion board meetings. "I'm primarily concerned with the vulnerability of the student on the committee", Culliton elaborated. "When the committee meets and the department head comes out in favour of a certain professor, it is almost certain that any student will feel compelled to do the same, if only to protect himself from the potential wrath of the department head."

SEE "SIMMONS FIGHTS SENATE MOTION", PAGE 6

Band singer beaten Thursday

by Phil Chernes

Chick's appearance at the SAC's pub last week was marred by an incident last Thursday night which required hospital treatment for lead singer Billy Chick.

Shortly after completing the last set, Mr. Chick was accosted outside the University Centre by a group of unidentified assailants believed by him to be students.

The incident apparently began inside the building when a lone man started verbally abusing Mr. Chick. When the man lunged at Mr. Chick grabbing his hat, the singer retaliated. According to unofficial reports, the two then stumbled outside where the waiting group of assailants attacked Mr. Chick. "It was a setup", a black-eyed Billy Chick said in an interview. "I'm really disappointed. It was a cowardly act they pulled." Mr. Chick, a University of Windsor graduate, was allegedly knocked to the ground and kicked repeatedly. His kidneys were so badly bruised that he was forced to take the rest of the week and all of this week off from performing. Security was not informed of the incident as they had already been called to close up the Centre.

Two years ago, the singer/dancer experienced a similar attack. "I just fed up", he said. After leaving the hospital, Mr. Chick and some friends talked over the idea of retaliation. "We wanted to get them and put one of them in the hospital—you know, (for them) to see what it's like", said William Ray, brother of the singer.

However, this idea was quickly laid to rest, explained Mr. Ray. "If we had done that, we'd be just as bad as they are", he said. He noted "somebody, somewhere, somebody" Mr. Chick's assailants will receive their due punishment.

Despite the rather ugly incident last Thursday night, Billy Chick said it would not stop him coming back to play at SAC's.

On the same day as the referendums, elections will be held for the remaining positions on SAC.

Another contentious issue discussed was a Senate motion to end student representation on the Promotion and Tenure of Professors Subcommittee on campus.

The motion, submitted by Joseph T. Culliton, representative-at-large for the Senate, argued that students would have difficulty making objective decisions. Factors such as bias against a professor who gave a student a poor mark or the incompetent professor who uses marks as a lever to influence the student's decisions were raised.

The motion goes on to say, "the students may feel they have to reciprocate in order to make sound judgments in such grave matters."

SEE "SAC MEETING TOPICS", PAGE 1
The LANCE, Vol. LI, No. 3, Friday, September 26, 1980, Page Two

WANT TO PUT YOUR DEGREE TO WORK? XEROX CANADA DOES.

If you're a graduating woman or man determined to put your education, energy and ambition to the best possible use, then you and Xerox have a mutual interest to discuss... your career.

We're coming to campus to hold a Briefing Session to talk with you about career opportunities with Xerox Canada Inc. Later on, we'll return for individual interviews with those students who attend the Briefing Session and who want to talk in more detail about whether or not their future might be with us - so plan now to attend!

October 8th is the deadline for receipt of UCPA and/or Personal Resumes from interested students to your Placement Office.

The primary focus of this encounter is to give you the opportunity to answer the question—"To Sell or NOT to Sell?"

talk careers
Xerox Canada Inc.

XEROX is a registered trademark of XEROX CORPORATION used by XEROX CANADA INC. as a registered user.
Mandatory review of tenure not likely here

by Wendy Coomber
and the University of Western Ontario Gazette

"Tenure means that you cannot dismiss a professor unless you use a type of due process, you make certain that natural justice is followed, and fair play, and that there is a type of pure review that protects and safeguards the academic freedom of a professor," explained Dr. Paul Cassano, Vice President of Academics in an interview Tuesday.

"I think that people, all too often, think of tenure as some kind of blanket protection from the cradle to the grave. That kind of protection doesn't exist anywhere in the world in any sphere of activity," Dr. Cassano added.

However, some students and faculty of the University of Western Ontario do see tenure as just that type of "blanket protection." As a result, tenured professors of that university will have their teaching performance reviewed every five years if the recommendations of a President-appointed committee are accepted.

In the committee's report, a domain where performance was found unacceptable would have three years to correct the problem. If, after that, his work was still not acceptable, dismissal procedures could be started.

David Simmons, Students' Administration Council President at the University notes that five years is still a long time to wait since most students are in and out of university for four years. He thought that "Two years would be a more realistic time."

On this campus, professors without tenure are reviewed each year. Dr. Cassano explained, "A professor is on a probationary contract. Each year the professor comes under review. Now, depending on the rank the professor is in, the review period will go from anywhere to three years for a full professor, four years for an associate professor, seven years for a lecturer. That is before they get tenure in each of those ranks."

Professors with tenure are checked as they move through job promotions, he continued. "At part of the salary compensation package (in their contracts) there is normally a mechanism which allows the institution to undertake that type of review. So for instance, if we have a merit scheme whereby people are compensated for their performance and credentials, every professor in the institution will be reviewed, will be determined, by using certain criteria which we attempt to ensure our objective, it'll be determined who's functioning at what capacity, and merit attributions are made on that basis."

Each professor is checked or reviewed by the Basic Administrative Unit of their department. The BAA's findings and recommendations are then sent to a university-wide committee, the University Committee on Academic Promotion and Tenure, that determines which professors should receive job advancements or tenure, Dr. Cassano explained.

It is up to the individual departments to look into complaints filed against their faculty and to take any primary action concerning that professor. Dr. Cassano continued. But instead of removing a professor, who is "having difficulties in classroom presentation", Dr. Cassano would rather see the professor engage in instructional aid to improve his teaching techniques.

Philip Slayton, dean of Western's law school and chairman of the President's committee, said, "I know of no other occupation where you can work for 30 years, and no one ever tried to evaluate how well you're doing. And the possibility of your being fired if you're doing absolutely no work at all doesn't exist."

But Dr. Cassano and Mrs. Johanna Foster, Head of the Faculty Association on campus, insist this is not tenure's proper use. Mrs. Foster said the purpose of tenure is "to give you a bit of security, but also to speak your mind out." Elaborating on this, Dr. Cassano stated, "I think that professors oftentimes are really, as part of their profession, led to make statements that could be inflammatory or statements that could be very upsetting to members of the community and they have to have the right to criticize. That's certainly one of the most important functions of an institution, to provide reasonable forums for responsible criticism and public commentary."

Modern Art mess

Visual Arts students at the University of Windsor will find out in January that the field underwater is a silver lining.

The "cloud" is a cancelled course in Modern Art History. According to the two Visual Arts students who brought the problem to The Lance's attention, the course is "essential" to their programs in the faculty.

After pre-registering for the course in the summer, these two students (and, doubtless, many more), arrived at school in September to find it was not available.

Visual Arts Head Antonio Doctor explained in a phone interview a week after the course cancellation was a recent one.

Doctor elaborated, explaining that several professors in the faculty were on sabatical and only helping with independent student courses. The load of the only remaining art history professor was too heavy to handle the additional courses, he added.

The faculty had arranged for the assistant curator of the Detroit Institute of Art to teach the course as a part-time instructor, said Doctor, but when a new display of European art arrived at that museum, that person bowed out and the course was cancelled.

"Pre-registered students were shocked," Doctor admitted, "But the student representatives understood the situation.

The situation is this: at present, students can only replace the missing course with art history courses of Chinese or Indian art, unless they are senior students (more diversified courses available).

However, Modern Art History will return. As Doctor said, "Thanks to the new semester system, the situation will be rectified in January."

If you want to make everything you do better, start by making yourself better.

IONA COLLEGE UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR
You are invited to join us at
IONA COLLEGE
208 SUNSET AVENUE, WINDSOR, ONTARIO
THE UNITED CHURCH ON CAMPUSSunday Worship at 12:30
Tuesday Communion at 12:15
Wednesday Meditation at 12:15
Refreshment Dialogue
Everyone Welcome!
Chaplain: Rev. Bob Lockhart - Office: 253-7257

The Lance, Vol. 11, No. 3, Friday, September 26, 1980, Page Three
The Lancet, Vol. 18, No. 3, Friday, September 26, 1980, Page Four

Editorial

"The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted."

- Dr. G. O'Leary

Students to lose office on Tenure Committee?

There is presently before the Senate a motion by the head of the Religious Studies Department, Joseph T. Colliton, a motion to remove students from the Promotion and Tenure Committees in their respective faculties. While student readers are up in arms about removing the students from committee, there remains the possibility that Colliton knows what he's talking about, and that perhaps it would be better if there were fewer students on the committees. Imagine yourself in the situation of a graduate student in any department (the graduate student is the one most likely to sit on the P & T Committee). Also on the committee are your Dean, your Department Head, three professors from the department, and you. One of the above is likely to be your faculty advisor on your thesis or graduate study.

Further imagine that the professor up for tenure or promotion was one that you personally thought was unacceptable in his position. Once the Dean, the Department Head, and the three professors have spoken (perhaps all in favour of this professor) they ask you what your opinion is. Are you likely to disagree? Probably not. You can see, with your dissenting vote, your university career going up in smoke. Voting members of the faculty have the fact that any of the people in the room would take direct action to stop this motion (and possibly strikeable to the Senate). But how would you feel if you were the only dissenter in the crowd?

Father Colliton has said that he will amend his motion, so that notice is given of any Promotion and Tenure meeting in sufficient time that the students of the faculty can be polled. Thereafter, the senior student of the Promotion and Tenure committee can make a presentation to the committee, but not vote on it.

It would be better to amend the motion as such, so that student members are removed from the committee, but leave the student on the committee as a full voting member. It would remain the unanimous belief that students must feel when they are the only one who think one of the faculty members is unacceptable in position.

Portrait of the travelling journalist as a 'junior fish'?

Well, it was a bad week, but the weekend almost made up for it. The Lancet belongs to an organization called the Canadian University Press (CUP). We are prospective members. The organization is broken down into regions, and every two or three months, a regional conference is held.

What does CUP do for us, you may ask. It provides us with a news and feature exchange service. It also conducts seminars on newswriting, production, advertising, and all the other aspects of student journalism. This month's regional conference was held at Brock University in St. Catharines, which university seems to be composed almost entirely of stairways and halls, all looking exactly the same. Our host for the weekend, the Press, had the joyous task of winning and dining the delegation from the Ontario Region of the Ontario University Press (ORCPU).

It was on the way up to Brock, however, that I had the most enlightening experience I have ever had as a student journalist. Being a member of this elite group, I am always interested in how the paper we humbly put out is received over the rest of the campus.

Being the good journalists we are, Peter Haggett and I headed for the But Car (or the Club Car, as VIA is wont to put it) immediately upon boarding the train. After all, a journalist has to be where the action is.

We went down to the waterfront with Gillian Stevens and her sidekick, Marilyn Courtney. I was treated to the most complete and objective analysis of our paper yet to be heard by anyone on our staff.

"This weekly blows", Gillian informed me, picking up my only copy of the twelve page work of art. "Come on now", I said, "We're not perfect, but it's not that bad".

I was told that the sports section lacked current information, the news stories were boring, and that, all told, it wasn't worth the paper it was printed on.

Quick as I am, I thought that maybe we could talk about something that my new found friend knew something about. That something turned out to be swimming.

"You gotta drink like a fish", Gillian informed me (Marilyn was quick to affirm that this was one of the big points in swim coaching). "Not only that, you've gotta practice your guts out".

This is an extensive as a full training regimen, mind you, but they did give us a few handy tips on how to become a "junior fish".

I gather that I am now well on my way to becoming one of Canada's Olympic hopefuls for 1984 (if we all live that long).

The FORTNIGHTER

by John Mill

Rumour has it that student protest was buried with the 60's decade. Not so, when money is the issue, tempers nova, and closet radicals come out in full force, as they did at York University this past weekend.

This year, the first example of campus radicalism was reported by York University's student paper, The Excalibur. It all started when the Toronto Dominion (TD) Bank on campus had the audacity to starve the students' bank of their funds from TD. The campaign was under way. All this action took place in the first two weeks of September and involved both student and staff bodies. The rumour that student radicalism is dead should be dismissed.

The Ontario Public Interest Research Group (OPIRG) made the outrageous and immoral mistake of not advertising, to the satisfaction of a group of latent reactionaries on campus, the $5.00 rebate of the fee students had to pay with their tuition for OPIRG funding. This reactionaries, believing they had a pot of gold was their interest enticed by the OPIRG infidel. A referenced was demanded which led to the total withdrawal of OPIRG's funding.

OPIRG's contribution to campus life (Ralph Nader and Harry Chapin visits) and the worth or lack of worth of the social research was not even an issue. So the main issue was the Students' opinion of the bank. "We're not perfect, but it's not that bad".

Whereupon entered Gillian and Marilyn, confirming it would speed up installation of the TD automatic teller installation on campus, the which was under way.

This was the only thing I learned from this weekend. It confirmed it would speed up installation of the TD automatic teller installation on campus, the which was under way. The TD campaign was under way soon came as a surprise.

I promised Gillian that I would not attempt to tell her how to coach swimming if she wouldn't try to tell me how to write a newspaper. I think it was worth the paper it was printed on. After all, you have to drink like a whale to be a newspaper person.

I hope you're happy seeing your name in print, Gillian.

Ed McMahon
Hospice needs help to help Windsor terminally ill

by Debbie Staley

During medieval times, the word “Hospice” was known as a way-station where pilgrims gained repose and refreshment along their journey to the Holy Land. Similarly, today’s Metropolitan Hospital follows this same pattern.

Few people seem to have any knowledge of Windsor’s “modern hospice” and in fact, many Windsorites may be unaware of exactly what a “hospice” is.

The Metropolitan Hospital Hospice is an independent, charitable organization which focuses on palliative care for the terminally ill and their families.

Essentially, palliative care involves the lessening of a patient’s physical, emotional and spiritual pain. This type of care is administered by professional nurses along with approximately 50 volunteers. The unique aspect of the program is that it is a community effort, and augments existing health services, rather than replacing them.

The program in itself is two-fold, in that it deals with both community and hospital care. The community facet of the program is run by Mr. Jane James, and is aimed at keeping the terminally ill patient at home. The problems associated with home care are tremendous, but, with the help of nurses and trained volunteers, the family of the patient learns how to cope with a terminal illness.

The second facet of which the Hospice program involves hospital care, and is run by Mrs. Jean Echlin, assistant professor in the University of Windsor’s School of Nursing. Mrs. Echlin stated the nurses’ duties not only involve assessment of the patients and their families, but also symptom control, planned interventions and finally an evaluation of the patients outcome.

However, the greatest problem with the Hospice is that while the number of patients is increasing at a steady rate, the funding to provide for their care is not. Mrs. Jane Boyd, the Administrative Assistant of the Hospice program stated that they are the biggest problem is funding. In order to overcome this obstacle, the Hospice program have organised a fund raising benefit scheduled for October 25.

In an interview, Mrs. Boyd said last year’s benefit, along with several donations by the United Way and the community, contributed to last year’s budget of $71,000. This year, Mrs. Boyd stated the budget has soared to a staggering $88,000, of which approximately $50,000 will be obtained through the Hospice Benefit.

However, the Hospice “dream” is not simply to raise their budget, but also to have eventually opened a 10-bed palliative care unit at Metropolitan General Hospital. The benefits of such a unit would be ten-fold, since each patient would receive approximately eight hours of support from a personal care, rather than the consultation basis they would receive on a normal hospital unit. Mrs. Boyd stated that the beauty of the unit is that “patients would be able to talk to each other and problems can bond together to become each other’s strength.”

In the meantime, Mrs. Boyd stated the Hospice will continue to achieve funds in any way they can and the government decides to look in their direction and offer them financial support.

Although they are having problems with budget support, Mrs. Boyd said there have been no problems with community support. Mrs. Boyd said that for the Hospice Benefit will be sold on the university campus and the community involvement is surely found at the university, and the Hospice “will be recognized to community education.”

Both Jane Boyd and Jean Echlin stated they have received overwhelming support from both past and present university students and faculty. Mrs. Echlin added most of her support has come from these areas since young people today are less preoccupied than previous generations with their birth, and more concerned with the end of their life cycle, death and dying.

Jane Boyd said the Hospice has received a great amount of functional and emotional support from John Hoffman and Dr. C. Eaves, both of the University of Windsor.

Despite the problems involved, the Hospice Benefit is drawing near, and promises to be a sell-out. In the event the benefit will be held at the Cleary Auditorium, and is to be called the Monte Carlo Night. The entertainment will be complete with the Landau Band, along with the Casino and showgirls on the third floor.

One of the many problems which the Hospice is forced to cope with is obtaining this licence is that the CRTC, the board which controls all national broadcasting, must have a “Promise of Performance.” This is a specific set of guidelines the station must follow, including the basic programming set up. Echlin is in the process of going up for a new one, as the old one, handed in three years ago, is outdated.

The CRTC will also ask CJAM to adopt a policy that will guarantee a full-time slot rather than a small station manager every year. The biggest problem has been, and will always be, a lack of funding.

Up until now, the funds have come from the Student Media Corporation set up by SAC, as they are getting harder for CJAM to get money now because of SAC’s financial constraints.

The initial cost of new equipment for FM broadcasting is great and further funding will be at least double what the station is now using. Along with this, the board wants stations to be able to maintain a licence in order to get their licence.

When all of the problems are solved, the board will be eligible for a hearing, which is to be set up by the board. The CRTC, until now, the board has had other priorities, but CJAM’s case may be heard very soon.

One of the many problems where the Hospice program is forced to cope with is obtaining this licence is that the CRTC, the board which controls all national broadcasting, must have a “Promise of Performance.” This is a specific set of guidelines the station must follow, including the basic programming set up. Echlin is in the process of going up for a new one, as the old one, handed in three years ago, is outdated.

The CRTC will also ask CJAM to adopt a policy that will guarantee a full-time slot rather than a small station manager every year. The biggest problem has been, and will always be, a lack of funding.

Up until now, the funds have come from the Student Media Corporation set up by SAC, as they are getting harder for CJAM to get money now because of SAC’s financial constraints.

The initial cost of new equipment for FM broadcasting is great and further funding will be at least double what the station is now using. Along with this, the board wants stations to be able to maintain a licence in order to get their licence.

When all of the problems are solved, the board will be eligible for a hearing, which is to be set up by the board. The CRTC, until now, the board has had other priorities, but CJAM’s case may be heard very soon.

CJAM Radio: ‘Everything relevant to students’

by Laurie Bergoin

If you happen to be in the basement of the University Centre, and see a few people running in and out of the CJAM doors between classes, you would be our student radio station’s executives. The execs are running the station as well as training new students in their prospective jobs.

The station, which is at 660 AM, can be heard from 6:00am until midnight everyday. Speakers are located in the pub, the University Centre and three resident halls. Cody Hall on the second and fourth floors, Huron Hall in the Board Room, and Electa Hall on the sixth floor and in the Games Room. Plans for further service in Tecumseth Hall are being discussed.

The station broadcasts up to date information about the campus and has set up an information and request line. Students are invited to make suggestions and requests at 254-254-1494 or by dropping by the station.

Grant Gelinas, the station manager, has promised that “anything relevant to the students will be carried.” Gelinas welcomes the support of all students and would like to see every department involved with the radio in some way.

There is a drama-radio club starting this year, involving the English and Drama departments. It will produce radio plays for the station, which will be aired Monday evenings.

Most of the programs are similar to those of last year. Although the main component is rock and roll from noon to 5:00 pm, there will be other special programs. On Monday through Thursday, from 5:00 pm to 6:00 pm and Fridays from 4:00 pm to 5:00 pm there is a folk show. The classical music show has also been introduced.

The music played on CJAM is an eclectic mix. “We try to look in their direction to suit the needs of all the students. The only problem with this is that approximately 75 percent of the students are not reached, due to the fact that the station is unable to broadcast outside of the places in which speakers have been set up.”

The ideal solution to this program is an FM licence, one has been applied for since May of 1977 when it was first officially applied for.

CJAM plus CRTC equals COST

John Mill and E.P. Chant

Air is free, but CJAM Radio is finding out the airwaves are not. The student radio station on campus has come to the realisation that it needs more money to operate than its financier, SAC, can afford to give it.

Presently CJAM, operating on a “carrier current”, can only be heard in those buildings and residences on campus which have speakers directly wired to the station. It wants to serve a larger community and can only do that by getting an FM Licence which will allow it to reach all sections of the campus and parts of the city over the airwaves.

At Tuesday’s SAC meeting, it was decided a referendum would be held to ask students for $2.50 a semester to support CJAM. The referendum will be held on October 14, 1980.

Station Manager Grant Gelinas explained at the meeting, “The Canadian Radio-Telecommunications and Television Commission (the FM licence granting board) would not grant them any FM licences. The CRTC doesn’t want a station that will be on the air this year and not on the air next year.

So we can’t call a public radio station in this community.”

The money must instead, come from outside sources (the referendum), though it is sometimes possible to get private corporate donations.
Thanks for your shoes

Dear Editor:

The University of Windsor 1980 Shinerama has been a successful campaign because of the efforts of students and faculty members who unselfishly gave of their time, talent, and money to help in the fight against Cystic Fibrosis (C.F.). Without their help, $2,700 would not have been raised.

Dollars were not raised by shoe-shining alone. This year, students washed windows, organized two car washes, teamed into downtown bands on a rainy Friday afternoon. All these efforts have not only resulted in a collection of money for C.F., but have added to student involvement on campus.

Among the groups and people which participated were the Engineering Society, which

---

Simmons fights Senate motion

David Simmons, Students' Administrative Council President, disagrees.

"The only reason that students would have to fear undue pressure or coercion from the Promotion and Tenure Committee is if the Senate does not follow up on the student complaints of such coercion," Simmons said. He went on to add he doesn't feel the Senate, taking enough steps to follow up on complaints, and Culliton does not deny students should have some input to the committee. "Student input is absolutely essential", he said, "I don't understand its value at all. It's just that I don't feel that they should be full voting members. And I'm not the only one who feels that way. It's just that I put it on paper."

In a memorandum in reply to the Senate motion, the Student Administrative Council was strong in its condemnation of the proposal.

"Calling the motion "paternalistic" and disagreeing with its (with a smile). For many years under the management of Peter Romrell, the pub, the "The Gallery", always made a good profit but it was only due to bringing in cheap entertainment and the pub's unique opportunity of having a large student body to direct. Disaster hit when Pete was fired a couple of years ago. The replacement, Dave Peddel came and went. Entertainment was poor, school spirit low and we lost $5,000 in one year. "Drag City" improvements were called for and they came. The Gallery was redesigned into SAC's. Jody Stanton, the new manager brought an unusually decent entertainment and her crew came into their service, and best of all, spirits back into students. Congratulations SAC's, you're doing a fine job. Keep it up!

Now, instead of walking through SAC's door with nobody eating one way or the other. I'll probably have to wait or so to get in, because I'm usually late.

Roddney Herring

---

FROM PAGE 1

Simmons fights Senate motion

Jim Shaban, Vice President of SAC, spoke out, "We could lose the rights we gained in the sixties."

Lucia Bresolin, the Nursing Society President, described the motion as "paternalistic, saying students can't make decisions. What is university for but to train us to make decisions?"

"We have to show we care," said Shaban asking council members to "pack that meeting", on October 2 at 3:10 pm, in Windsor Hall, Room 410.

A motion on club ratification was also discussed. Any club that wants SAC money has to be ratified by the 30 day of the academic year.

Kevin Butler, President of Gay Students on Campus, complained that all clubs must keep membership lists. Butler asked that the motion be amended to keep these lists confidential.

Kevin Sisk, Law Society President, explained the confidentiality amendment "would be an assurance statement and wouldn't cost us (SAC) anything."

On a different note, Dave Simmons reported that 1,500 Student Summer Employment Surveys were sent out. So far, 500 have been returned and the results will be ready in mid-October. Another survey is being sent to all department heads concerning cutbacks.

Dale Horvath was chosen as SAC's new Chief Electrical Officer. When introducing Horvath, Jim Shaban said, "Dale was involved in high school politics and will be more than able to handle his position."

It was decided that a new memorial scholarship will be named for the late Arthur Sneath, former advertising director for SAC.

The report of the Board of Directors was tabled until the next SAC meeting which will be held in two weeks on Thursday night at 7:00.

Send us your beefs

The prior page, known fondly on The Lance as Page Five, and in the journalism business as the "top ed" page (opposite editorial page) is usually where the "Letters to the Editor" go.

Last year, this page was filled with complaints, insults, and "I disagree" and this week with barely a half inch to spare. Apparently, people on this campus think that their beefs get read if they stick them in this page.

They're right. If you've got a beef or anything to say about anything that goes on in this newspaper or on campus, drop us a note. We ask that they be 250 words maximum and typed, with your name and student number after the ol' "yours truly!"

The editor reserves the right to edit for length and libel and he will also, under well argued circumstances, withhold the use of your name (you must talk to him personally for that).

Send your letters to or drop them off at: The Lance, Second Floor, University Centre, University of Windsor, or toss them in the Lance Letterbox at the Centre desk in the same building.
Community Legal Aid Column

Common-law law not common knowledge

T.G. Nutson, Director of Community Legal Aid

So you figure you'll live together to avoid the legal hassles and obligations of marriage. Well, you'd better consider it short term and not plan to have any kids.

Common-law marriages have limited recognition under The Family Law Reform Act, 1978 and certain other strictly defined statutes. The F.L.R.A. creates the same rights and obligations for common-law marriages only in regards to support obligations. The issue is “what constitutes a common-law marriage?”

If the parties have cohabitated for a continuous period of five years or longer, or for a shorter period if a relationship of some permanence exists and a child has been born of the relationship the F.L.R.A. will recognize the relationship as a marriage. “Relationship of some permanence” has not been defined and requires interpretation by the courts.

The support obligations that result from common-law “marriages” are not as extensive as most people imagine. The application must be made within one year of the breakdown of the relationship. All support obligations are mutual and each spouse is entitled to, or herself and the other to the extent they are able. Children are entitled to support by both parents whether born within or outside the marriage.

In Ontario, the rights to share in the family assets and possession of the matrimonial home do not extend to common-law spouses. The law differs in British Columbia and many other jurisdictions.

Common-law spouses may, and often do, enter into cohabitation agreements or “marriage” contracts while living together. Although the idea is terribly unromantic it makes sense. By means of the contract, common-law spouses acquire interests in property they would not normally have. The marriage contract can also act as a separation agreement. This can allow the “split up” to run smoothly eliminating any bickering over the household goods.

Common-law spouses as defined in the F.L.R.A. have claim for damages, if their spouse is killed or injured by the fault or neglect of another. This claim is limited to the pecuniary loss resulting in the injury or death of the spouse.

The above mentioned laws of support give rise to interesting scenario. Mary and John meet in first year and fall madly in love. They decide to move in together by September of second year. Mary dreams of being the first woman leader of the N.D.P. and hopefully Prime Minister, John studies philosophy and dreams of setting up a small philosophy shop after graduation. Mary and John live happily together through their undergraduate years. Mary goes to Law School and John starts a Master’s in Philosophy. By graduation time they are still living together but things are going sour. Mary has given up any humanitarian dreams and decided all she really wants is money and power. John has become mired in an existential crisis and drinks heavily. They split up—both claiming to need more “space” than the relationship affords them. Mary gets a job with a big Window Law Firm and starts to make millions by foreclosing on the mortgages of the unemployed. John struggles desperately with Life’s darker truths and drinks more and more. After waking up from a particularly severe hangover he decides to sue Mary for support.

The judge, seeing that John has no skills, no job prospects, and is still deep within an existential crisis orders Mary to pay $1000 a month in support for the next five years. Mary begins to pay but is late one month and John ends it all by jumping off MacDonald Hall.

The above story is fictitious and any of the characters resemble to real persons living, dead or otherwise is purely coincidental.

Seriously, now ...

Other statutes also recognize a common-law marriage.

Workmen’s Compensation Board: after six years of cohabitation (two years if there are children), and if the worker leaves no dependent widow or widower.

War Veterans Allowance and Canada Pension Plan: after three years if either the deceased or the dependent was legally married to someone else, otherwise after one year.

Criminal Injuries Compensation Board: after five years (or shorter if there is a relationship of some permanence and a child has been born).

OHIP, Ontario Housing, Welfare, Ontario Legal Aid: generally don’t distinguish between formal and informal family units; however, welfare will also recognize the existence of a family unit in a negative way by disqualifying a deserted wife living common-law with a man, and O.L.A.P. may refuse a legal aid certificate if a common-law spouse is outside their income bracket guidelines (both are worth appealing). OHIP may require a form stating that the couple are living together as husband and wife.

For more information on common-law relationships contact the Community Legal Aid Office (formerly Student Legal Aid Society), Room G105, Law Building, 233-7150.
Students must drop in to Student Affairs to drop out

by C. Woodrow

"Twenty students have been in for counselling so far this year," said Mr. Carol Baker, Assistant Dean of Students. "Our students have been in existence since January, but only recently has the newly created drop-out counselling service offered by the Office of Student Affairs become established. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Located in the basement of Vanier Hall, the Office of Student Affairs assumed the responsibility for all drop-out counselling. Students wanting to drop-out have only to go to one centralized location for all their information. In the past, dropping out required a visit to a faculty counsellor, the Registrar's Office and the Cashier's Office.

"The new system is much easier for students," said Mr. Baker. "We are trying to interview with a view to helping the student make the best decision. We are trying to prevent saying the student from leaving is of secondary importance."

Ms. Baker brings her personal experience to the position. "I know what it is like to have to make a decision," she said. "I was at university," she said, "I can identify with students with problems."

Many of the students who come in here tell me the same stories I told myself." In a recent report issued by Dean of Students Ken Long he stated, "Students to this office can be divided into two categories. First, there is the student who is leaving for a clear and irreversible reason; for example, a change of university or a job offer. Secondly, said Long, there are students who have 'less clear reasons' (family problems, financial problems or they just need reassurance that attending university is the right thing for them.)"

"At this time of the year," said Mr. Baker, "there are many students having second thoughts about attending university, and there are students attending university for the wrong reasons. They all need our help and counselling." Mr. Baker cited a recent case of a local layed-off factory worker who decided to return to school because job prospects looked bleak. He had been informed that university was easy and that he would have no trouble passing all his courses. On his return to school he found out that this was not so. The Office of Student Affairs recommended to him that the best course of action would be to return to his old life style.

There are many instances, said Baker, who are looking for the office for guidance. The interviews are more like informal conversations than official appointments, she added. Connected to the process of drop-out counselling is the student attrition study. According to Mr. Baker, this involves students filling out a mandatory questionnaire when they come to the office for counselling. The survey asks students why they are dropping out and the reasons behind the decision. This is an attempt by the Office of Student Affairs to "find out why students drop-out, it is because of personal reasons, something to do with the university, job offers, medical reasons, family obligations, et cetera. If the reasons are connected with the university we can then attempt to put them right so as to cut down the dropout rate," said Mr. Baker. Of the twenty students interviewed this term, nine have dropped out, the remaining students have either switched faculties, changed universities or are planning to return to their studies in January.

Additional information on Math

by Scott McColloch

Professor Alan Gold of the Math Department gave his first Student Affairs lecture entitled "How to Study Math" on Thursday.

The Lance talked with Professor Gold before he delivered the lecture and he had this to say: "My contention is that anyone who can succeed in an academic program can succeed in a mathematics program. Being good or bad at math is a product of one's experience and training. It's environmental, not intrinsic or generic." Gold does believe some students may be gifted while others are not, but feels that "giftedness is the ability to acquire skills."

A lifelong Windsor resident, Professor Gold graduated from the University of Windsor in 1966, and returned to graduate work in France before returning to his alma mater as a teacher in 1969.

"I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

"I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year.

Teaching many preliminary and first year classes, Gold noticed an alarming number of students entering university without an adequate mathematical background. "I set up the Mathematics Development Centre to help these students pursue their education," he explained. "Unfortunately, it has never attracted too many students. It's a demand which seems to change on the student's time. Those involved have claimed benefits though." Students usually enter the Math Department after they have become disillusioned. This is due in part to its coming into existence in the middle of the school year. The Lance, Vol. LB, No. 3, Friday, September 26, 1980, Page Eight

You are one of the best products to hit the market place since the invention of fried bread.

Q) How do you sell yourself in a marketplace glutted with similar products.

A) A good resume can go a long way in solving this problem. And if it looks good then you have a better chance of creating a favourable impression.
Better safe than sorry.

If you conceive an unwanted child, it's too late to be sorry.
If you contract venereal disease, it's too late to be sorry.
If you develop side effects as a result of using another form of birth control, it's too late to be sorry.

Use electronically tested quality condoms manufactured by Julius Schmid.
Be safe, instead of sorry.

Julius Schmid.

Products you can depend on - products for people who really care.
A short pictorial history of our ‘first-class’, ‘exciting’ new athletic complex.

That huge structure dominating South Campus is not a new roller-coaster for Human Kinetics’ Department of Rest and Recreation. It is actually the shell of the Windsor’s new gymnasium. Within a week, the steel for the roof of the new St. Denis Hall complex should arrive. By the first day of classes next September, 12 years of planning will have been realized when the new complex opens for use.

The new facility was part of the original concept for the Faculty of Human Kinetics Building built during the late sixties. But as Dr. Hermiston, Dean of Human Kinetics, told The Lance, “It was canned because of student unrest”. In 1969, the idea for a new St. Denis Hall took root once again. Construction began last May after commitment for funding was obtained.

John Laframboise, Assistant Vice President for Community Relations and Development, is the man in charge of fund raising. “We’ve put the building up on the assumption that the students will fulfill their commitment”, said Laframboise. The students’ commitment was obtained through two referenda, one last fall for undergraduate students and one last February for graduate and part-time students. Full time students will contribute $5 each and part time students will contribute $2.50 each towards the projected cost of $5 million. Although the students’ contribution is based on enrollment and therefore difficult to pinpoint, Mr. Laframboise expects that the total student contribution will be in the area of $700,000.

Laframboise was pleased to work with the students during the referenda. “The students, from the outset, were very enthusiastic”, said Laframboise. “It was a pleasure to work with them, very satisfying.”

Local, corporate, and government funding is also paying for the cost of the new facility. Imperial Oil Ltd., for example, donated a substantial amount of money under a funding category Laframboise labelled a “Leadership Gift”. These are contributions of $25,000 or more.

The new gymnasium also received funding from the local community. In a sense, the building will be a community building when you consider that 70 percent of University of Windsor Alumni are local residents. As well, a Community Use Agreement was reached whereby the city and county are entitled to use the facility one third of the time. (This agreement had to be reached before the project could receive its Wintario grant.)

Apparently there is concern among the student body that this will restrict their use of the facility. Dr. Hermiston notes, however, that this is unlikely. “I don’t see community use cutting us out of being able to use the facility.”

I was very careful to get things in order.”

Shaban was indignant. “They’re trying to make a fool out of me.”

Shaban did admit there is a scheme to make the students and local residents pay for the new facility. “We’ve paid in our tuition”, he added. “They’ve shown their commitment. We’re lucky having him to do this (organize fund raising) for us.”

When The Lance talked with Laframboise, he in turn spoke well of Shaban. “I think very highly of Jim Shaban,” he said. “I feel badly that he was misquoted.” Laframboise received a letter from Shaban following the article’s publication, in which he denied saying “as much as everybody hates John Laframboise, he gets the job done.”

What I said,” countered Shaban, “was ‘John Laframboise has a job to do and he does it.” The SAC vice-president spoke highly of Laframboise in an interview with The Lance. “The man has shown his commitment. We’re lucky having him to do this (organize fund raising) for us.”

This same comment “rumours” printed in The Ontario, which termed them “false”. Shaban diadmitted that there has been an “election” for the new head of the election, and he won handily. “We have the vote. That’s justification enough.”

Shaban added that there is a “rumour” that a fee might be charged for the use of the new facility. “It’s possible”, he said. “We’ve paid in our tuition.”

Laframboise’s comments caused him to decline to deal with the article. “Guelph can do whatever it wants in the University of Windsor”, he said. “I have no comment.”

The job of selling the student body on the new facility has been done. “We’ve paid in our tuition”, said Shaban. “We’re going to use the facility.”

St. Denis Hall presently under construction

1969. The Human Kinetics is completed with room for an additional athletic complex.

1979. President Mervyn Franklin announces new gym construction.
The Lance, Vol. 11, No. 3, Friday, September 26, 1980, Page Eleven

979. An artist's conception of the new gym's interior.

979. John Laframboise chosen to direct fund drive.

First-class excitement at the University of Guelph...

...and "exciting" new facility, St. Denis Hall...

use interfering with students whatever." He adds that building is big enough he both at the same time.
ong what of the building
"it's a huge building," ated Dr. Hermiston. "A building," added Lafram­
It will feature a 200
ning track, basketball ad courts, as umerous other uses.
ing track will be avail-an the early morning, as and "sometime between 11:00 p.m.", explained intron. The building is so large, it will be possible to have 16 tramura badminton or four basketball games going simultaneously. One half of the ymnasium will be used for inter-collegiate basketball games. The seating capacity for games will be at least 2,500 and possibly as much as 6,000.
Both Dr. Hermiston and framboise speak proudly of the complex. The "first-class" and "exciting" new facility, framboise notes, is an example of "how strong the commitment is by students, government and corporations to strengthen this university."
by Phil Cheesman

September, 1979. Students agree to pay $10 for ten years to build the new complex.

Right. He's just got to get his political right. He's just got to get his political at the article's negative approach.

un of our success," he said.
it some problems with the referendum agement of The Ontario article's reference to goals of the Human Kinetics Faculty's ake. Nothing was said of it in the refer-any of the problems of not having an at all."
that he himself ran the "yes" campaign,
4-handled by last year's SAC president spread up his feelings on the referendum ight turn-out and the highest "yes"
ome. My hat's off to every single student, their commitments."
argument was used by Shaban to dismiss ontario article which suggested the possibility re to students when they want to use the r, but I definitely don't think so," he on this and other issues are unavailable any one with the allegations made in the r it wants," he said. "I'm inter-inder and its students. I really don't his anger at the article's critical stance.

ently asked me to speak to these people was more than happy to give any help
I could," he explained. "I spent two hours of my time and then I get an article that's less than positive. What they wrote in the article was irresponsible and incorrect. I didn't even know the students was dealing with. I don't even know who wrote the article," he added. "I have nothing to say."

The article also criticized SAC's failure to sign a written agreement with the administration, which it suggested is now trying to give Windsor students less than they expected. "It was our mistake," Shaban is quoted as saying "We didn't sign an agreement," he added. "but I don't really feel it was a mistake. We've been very adequately represented on various committees all the along.
The SAC vice-president also denied scoffing at a $200 figure given by Laframboise as the total of referendum expenses. "I don't really know how much was spent," he told The Lance. "but I don't really feel it was a mistake. We've been very adequately represented on various committees all the along.
"But I've never spoken with him. I've never heard of him. I t's preposterous."

Shaban, however, said: "When they (The Ontario) talked to Laframboise, he had's (spoken to Gilmour) but when they talked to me, he had. I heard it in a passing conversation," he explained.
"He was talking to a group of people and I was one of them."

At the time of publication of The Ontario article, Gilmour himself was unavailable for comment. Repeated attempts by The Lance to contact the man also proved unsuccessful.

The University of Guelph's new sports complex is still in the very early planning stages. There has not yet been a referendum held. It was the administration that first initiated the idea,
"but the students wanted a new gym," says Phil O'Hara. "We will sign a letter of agreement with the administration," he adds.

The Ministry of Colleges and Universities was originally going to fund a new gym here in Windsor but the administration delayed so long the Ministry had decided not to fund any more new buildings before anything was really decided. The present project began with a "petition initiated by Jim Doyle with 500 signaturesough to justify a referendum," said Shaban.

Another difference between the two projects is that "the City c( of Guelph) is not being asked to kick in any money," according to Phil O'Hara, whereas the outside community has been involved in Windsor.
Sirens set to sing sweetly at SAC'S

by Peter Haggert
Lance Entertainment Editor

This is your first do-it-your-year-self pub band review. Because Sirens began at SAC'S on Thursday, and The Lance goes to press on Wednesday, I am unable to give you the lowdown on what to expect when you visit SAC'S this weekend. Below the band's picture you will notice a list of songs that Siren's are rumored to play. Using this inadequate supply of information, it will be up to you to recreate the band for yourself. Anyone willing to go through with this absurd idea is asked to stop your "review" in a brown paper bag, and bring it up to the Lance office. Please mark the bag "To the Entertainment Editor." Participants receive absolutely nothing.

I'll be looking forward to those responses though, so don't disappoint me.

Cinefest

More than moving pictures

by John Doyle

No, it's not another beer festival.

Cinefest, Windsor's new repertory theatre, aims to please the angered moviogoes. Cinefest gives one the chance to see all those movies that either never made it to Windsor, or that stayed two weeks and disappeared...

If you think that Famous Players and Odeon have suddenly become altruistic and repeated for their minuscule offerings at maximum prices, you're wrong. If you look up in the sky tonight you will notice there is still only one moon up there and it is still not made of cheese.

Cinefest consists of the brainchild of Yuri Carkowski, a part time student at the University of Windsor. Carkowski had noted that Windsor is one of the few major cities in Ontario without a repertory cinema. Seeing this as not only a problem but as an opportunity as well, with the aid of an aspiring director by the name of Mark Schilling, Cinefest was conceived.

Wednesday through Saturday night, there is always one and usually two different movies shown. However, each movie is shown only once. The idea of only one performance may seem inconvenient, but keep in mind that this allows for a tremendous variety.

For instance, October's schedule at Cinefest contains no less than 38 movies in 20 nights. Cinefest offers everything from Fiddler on the Roof to the Texas Chainsaw Massacre. Quite a variance of movies!

Cinefest is at Super Cinema theatre located at 804 Erie St. S. (east of Howard Ave.). All films are $1.99. Schedules are available at the Super Cinema, or at the University Centre Lobby Desk. Film information will also be listed in the Make A Note column of The Lance. For more information phone Cinefest at 252-5551.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

BATTLE BEYOND THE STARS

by Rosemarie Comiso

"Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery" or so the adage goes, but Battle Beyond The Stars pushes this saying to the outer limits. Star Wars is not the only object of its name copycatting, though. The movie borrows from Blessing Saddles, Buck Rogers, Snap, The Rocky Horror Picture Show, and Frankenstein to name just a few. There are enough stereotypes and cliches in this movie to supply a television network's season of situation comedies and melodramas for a year.

The plot is loosely based upon the good versus evil theme. An arch-villain, Sadar (John Saxon) plans to destroy the peaceful planet of Aztix unless someone can escape and get help to defend them. Shad, (Richard Thomas) our hero, volunteers to take on the outdated starship and comb the galaxies to enlist mercenaries, (as well as weapons) to save them. But, as we all know, a hero must have a heroine, and, what a coincidence, he meets her on the first planet he lands on! (Due to the poor soundtrack, her name sounded like Lea but it was too inaudible to be sure.) It doesn't take much to persuade Lea (Darlene Fluegel) to join him, nor does it take long for her to be captured by still another bad guy who resembles The Creature From The Black Lagoon. Not only is she spared from his scaly clutches, she also manages to employ him against the evil forces of Sadar.

The rest of Shad's army consists of a pistol-packing, twenty-first century cowboy; George Prepples; a despicable mercenary (Robert Vaughn); and a cast of alien beings that resembles a futuristic remake of The Wizard Of Oz.

The ensuing scenes are check full of cloak and dagger stunts and knitted brows; and when all else fails (which frequently does in this movie) there is an array of flashing computer lights, classic shots of spacecrafts, and boring intergalactic warfare.

In its predictable ending, (which comes none too soon), good triumphs over evil, some die so that others may live and boy gets girl. The only losers in The Battle Beyond The Stars it seems... is the audience.

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions
by Neil Buhart

Last Saturday evening, with their numerous banks of moving and walking lights, smoke bombs, fog, colourful clothes and of course their wide range of music, Queen left usually coherent people saying "Wow man, what a great show!" Queen is not a band without pretension, so there was no surprise when clouds of smoke, coloured lights and music appropriate to the second coming of Christ opened the show. Yet it was a surprise to hear the chords of "Jailhouse Rock" and see Freddie Mercury appear on stage bouncing around like an over-exuberant Elvis Presley. By the third song Mercury had baptized the first few rows with water. When the cheering had died down, "Mustapha" began with its Asian strains, leading into a surprise when clouds of smoke, semi-classical then spacey piano exuberant Elvis Presley. By the Kill er pretension, so there was no of "Jailhouse Rock" and see coloured lights and music approaching, Chris opened the show. Yet it was that Freddie Mercury did a credible job on acoustic guitar during "Crazy Little Thing Called Love". This song even enticed some people into hopping up and down. Any remaining docile fans turned tiger after "Bohemian Rhapsody". For the operatic section the stage was empty while a tape played, but in the dramatic highlight of the show Queen reappeared among clouds of smoke, wildly pulsating lights and a screaming guitar riff. Queen switched into high gear for their best rocker "Tie Your Mother Down". For the first encore, Mercury donned a hat and shuffled across the stage leading the audience in the Detroit Lions theme song, "Another One Bites The Dust". They came back for a second encore with a practically nude Mercury sitting atop Darth Vader's shoulders bearing out the rhythm of "We Will Rock You". Naturally that song was followed by the hymn to humbleness, "We Are The Champions". To the Patriotic strains of "God Save The Queen" the show ended.

The general consensus among people was that Queen provided the best stage show they had seen. Still, the show lacked a certain spontaneity. I had the impression that everything was scripted and that Queen were only actors brilliant in their roles, manipulating the audience. To pay such inflated ticket prices one should expect a more personal rendition of the music. I may be the only one of 15,000 patrons, but I think Queen gave their audience no more than a carefully scripted, well articulated but impersonal show.
Music Faculty events

The School of Music at the University of Windsor have announced their Artst and Ensemble Series for the 1980-1981 school year.

On October 24, Marion Hall, pianist and pedagogue from the University of Indiana, will entertain in the Moot Court starting at 8:15 pm.

November 7, will see Imre Rozsnyai perform Hungarian clarinet music. This event will also be in the Moot Court, and will begin at 8:15 pm.

Bela Siki will treat listeners with his delightful piano music at the Faculty of Education, on Saturday January 31, at 8:15 pm.

Steven Henrikson, bass-baritone, will perform with students of the Windsor Symphony at 8:15 on February 13. A new work by Jens Hansson will be featured. This event will take place again in the Moot Court.

March 1 will be the last date in the Artist series. Paul Ganson for the Blue Note will be featured. This event will include $4.00 per concert except members of the Windsor Symphony, which will receive the award three years out of four at the university.

The New Community Orchestra is still looking for members. For information, contact Prof. James Tamburini at the Faculty of Music.

New scholarship

The School of Music, of the University of Windsor has announced the formation of a substantial new music scholarship. Mr. Wayne Mazzali of Windsor’s Baldwin Piano and Organ Studio is sponsoring an annual full-award tuition to a piano student at the university.

For the 1980-81 school year, the award will be worth $800. The award will continue at an approximate value of $1,000 per year.

This year’s auditions will take place on Friday, September 26, at 4:30 pm at the School of Music; the auditions will be open to the public. The jury for the audition will consist of the University of Windsor’s keyboard faculty and Mr. Jean Whelan of Toronto. Results will be announced at the School of Music at 3:00 pm, on October First. In future years, the award will be widely advertised, and auditions will take place in April. The rules will allow that any one student may possibly receive the award three years out of four at the university. This new music scholarship is by far the largest now available at the University of Windsor.

MAKE A NOTE

Friday, September 26
- CINEFEST will show Kramer vs. Kramer at 7:30 pm, and The Blues Brothers at 9:30 pm. As usual, it is $1.99 for each show.
- An all faculties Bash will be held in Ambassador Auditorium. Admission is $1 with student card and $1.50 without. Ladies who enter before 9:00 pm, get in for free.
- Saturday, September 27
- CINEFEST presents Coax-Miner’s Daughter at 7:15 pm, followed by Rust Never Sleeps, the Neil Young concert fantasy, at 9:45 pm.
- Vince, Club Sandwich is back. Scott Meritt will return to the club at 8:00 pm, at 83 River side Drive E. Admission is $3.50. Club Sandwich offers a cozy atmosphere along with bakegoods, sandwiches, coffee, tea and drinks.

Tuesday, September 30
- The Ontario Film Theatre will show The Sailor’s Return. The theatre is located in the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.
- Wednesday, October 1
- CINEFEST will present the classic Dr. Strangelove or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb at 7:15 pm. This feature will be followed by The American Gigolo at 9:30 pm.
- Triumph, one of Canada’s leading rock and roll bands will be in concert at 7:30 pm, at the Ciocaro Hall 3745 North Talbot Road. Also playing will be Harlequin and J.C. and the News. Tickets are $7.50 in advance and $8.50 at the door, and are available at most local record stores.

Thursday, October 2
- CINEFEST will feature North Dallas Forty at 7:00 pm, and Psycho at 9:30 pm.
- The Art Gallery of Windsor Noon Hour Film Series will show Making A Revolution, a film which explores the union of American colonies against Britain. The film is about 50 minutes in length and is free to the public.

Friday, October 3
- CINEFEST will present the French film Le Cap Au Folie at 7:15 pm. Who’ll Stop the Rain in the scheduled 9:15 pm feature.
- An Evening For the Hospice will be held at Cleary Auditorium beginning at 8:00 pm. The Lancaster Band, and The Kentones Quartet along with a Monte Carlo Casino will provide the entertainment. Tickets are $25.

THE CANADIAN POWERHOUSE TRIUMPH

IN CONCERT OCTOBER 1, 1980
7:30 P.M.
CIOCIA RO HALL
3745 N. Talbot

PLUS

HARLEQUIN

ALSO

J. C. & THE NEWS

Free Return Bus Service from Downtown Bus Station, Starting at 6:15 p.m.

STEPS ON WHEELS, CIRCLE OF SOUND, HARMONIE HOUSE WINDSOR, LONG & McQUADE SHOPPERS RECORDS & TAPES

MAKE A NOTE

Friday, September 26
- CINEFEST will show Kramer vs. Kramer at 7:30 pm, and The Blues Brothers at 9:30 pm. As usual, it is $1.99 for each show.
- An all faculties Bash will be held in Ambassador Auditorium. Admission is $1 with student card and $1.50 without. Ladies who enter before 9:00 pm, get in for free.
- Saturday, September 27
- CINEFEST presents Coax-Miner’s Daughter at 7:15 pm, followed by Rust Never Sleeps, the Neil Young concert fantasy, at 9:45 pm.
- Vince, Club Sandwich is back. Scott Meritt will return to the club at 8:00 pm, at 83 Riverside Drive E. Admission is $3.50. Club Sandwich offers a cozy atmosphere along with bakegoods, sandwiches, coffee, tea and drinks.

Tuesday, September 30
- The Ontario Film Theatre will show The Sailor’s Return. The theatre is located in the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.
- Wednesday, October 1
- CINEFEST will present the classic Dr. Strangelove or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb at 7:15 pm. This feature will be followed by The American Gigolo at 9:30 pm.
- Triumph, one of Canada’s leading rock and roll bands will be in concert at 7:30 pm, at the Ciocaro Hall 3745 North Talbot Road. Also playing will be Harlequin and J.C. and the News. Tickets are $7.50 in advance and $8.50 at the door, and are available at most local record stores.

Thursday, October 2
- CINEFEST will feature North Dallas Forty at 7:00 pm, and Psycho at 9:30 pm.
- The Art Gallery of Windsor Noon Hour Film Series will show Making A Revolution, a film which explores the union of American colonies against Britain. The film is about 50 minutes in length and is free to the public.

Friday, October 3
- CINEFEST will present the French film Le Cap Au Folie at 7:15 pm. Who’ll Stop the Rain in the scheduled 9:15 pm feature.
- An Evening For the Hospice will be held at Cleary Auditorium beginning at 8:00 pm. The Lancaster Band, and The Kentones Quartet along with a Monte Carlo Casino will provide the entertainment. Tickets are $25.

THE CANADIAN POWERHOUSE TRIUMPH

IN CONCERT OCTOBER 1, 1980
7:30 P.M.
CIOCIA RO HALL
3745 N. Talbot

PLUS

HARLEQUIN

ALSO

J. C. & THE NEWS

Free Return Bus Service from Downtown Bus Station, Starting at 6:15 p.m.

STEPS ON WHEELS, CIRCLE OF SOUND, HARMONIE HOUSE WINDSOR, LONG & McQUADE SHOPPERS RECORDS & TAPES

MAKE A NOTE

Friday, September 26
- CINEFEST will show Kramer vs. Kramer at 7:30 pm, and The Blues Brothers at 9:30 pm. As usual, it is $1.99 for each show.
- An all faculties Bash will be held in Ambassador Auditorium. Admission is $1 with student card and $1.50 without. Ladies who enter before 9:00 pm, get in for free.
- Saturday, September 27
- CINEFEST presents Coax-Miner’s Daughter at 7:15 pm, followed by Rust Never Sleeps, the Neil Young concert fantasy, at 9:45 pm.
- Vince, Club Sandwich is back. Scott Meritt will return to the club at 8:00 pm, at 83 Riverside Drive E. Admission is $3.50. Club Sandwich offers a cozy atmosphere along with bakegoods, sandwiches, coffee, tea and drinks.

Tuesday, September 30
- The Ontario Film Theatre will show The Sailor’s Return. The theatre is located in the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.
- Wednesday, October 1
- CINEFEST will present the classic Dr. Strangelove or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb at 7:15 pm. This feature will be followed by The American Gigolo at 9:30 pm.
- Triumph, one of Canada’s leading rock and roll bands will be in concert at 7:30 pm, at the Ciocaro Hall 3745 North Talbot Road. Also playing will be Harlequin and J.C. and the News. Tickets are $7.50 in advance and $8.50 at the door, and are available at most local record stores.

Thursday, October 2
- CINEFEST will feature North Dallas Forty at 7:00 pm, and Psycho at 9:30 pm.
- The Art Gallery of Windsor Noon Hour Film Series will show Making A Revolution, a film which explores the union of American colonies against Britain. The film is about 50 minutes in length and is free to the public.

Friday, October 3
- CINEFEST will present the French film Le Cap Au Folie at 7:15 pm. Who’ll Stop the Rain in the scheduled 9:15 pm feature.
- An Evening For the Hospice will be held at Cleary Auditorium beginning at 8:00 pm. The Lancaster Band, and The Kentones Quartet along with a Monte Carlo Casino will provide the entertainment. Tickets are $25.

THE CANADIAN POWERHOUSE TRIUMPH

IN CONCERT OCTOBER 1, 1980
7:30 P.M.
CIOCIA RO HALL
3745 N. Talbot

PLUS

HARLEQUIN

ALSO

J. C. & THE NEWS

Free Return Bus Service from Downtown Bus Station, Starting at 6:15 p.m.

STEPS ON WHEELS, CIRCLE OF SOUND, HARMONIE HOUSE WINDSOR, LONG & McQUADE SHOPPERS RECORDS & TAPES
Jeff Beck: There and Back
by John Liddell

This album does little more than to confirm the fact that Jeff Beck is indeed the greatest guitarist in the world. Although his song writing capabilities are limited at best, this is not a handicap when he is given the opportunity to create melodies and songs that become legendary, as is the case with "Hot Spikes." The title track, "Hot Spikes," has got to be among the raunchiest rock and roll numbers in recent years. The husky voice of Cherrier gives the heavy metal sound added "measur". Drinking beer, getting high, now my brain is perverted. Hard to live and quick to die. I'm a rock 'n roll suicide. I'm a real case, man. One tends to believe him. "Money" and "Rock and Roll Suicide" also survive on loud guitar and a forceful drumbeat.

The band has another side though. Songs such as "Alimony," "Never Coming Back" and "It's a Sin" are all a little faster, with more of a tune and less pounding. Nesrums' voice at times is closer to that of Rick Derringer.

The best tune on the album is "Lord I Miss You". Featuring a keyboard introduction, heavy but not deadening guitar work and smooth, harmonious vocals. This track becomes a testimony of the capabilities of FIST.

Also share the vocals on the album. New to the recording business, the four member band have a successful mix of keyboard, percussion, vocals and heavy guitar. The album rocks.

BY PETER HAGGER

FIST: Hot Spikes

By Peter Hagger: FIST has proven with their first album, Hot Spikes that rock and roll still exists. Originally a west-Ottawa bar band, FIST has put together their original tunes, not one of which sounds like another. Better still, not one song replicates the work of an another successful artist.

FIST evolves around the writing abilities of Ron Cherrier and Jeff Nystrom; these two than a decade and fourteen albums later, Chicago's success hasn't changed, but the band itself has undergone many changes. The most notable of these changes was the loss of Terry Kath, the lead guitarist player, who accidentally killed himself. Another more subtle change was the "rock-jazz band" of the mid to late seventies. The emphasis came to be placed on the drums and bass rather than anything else.

Their latest work though, seems to have turned the group around. Chicago XIV really kicks! One of the most pleasant surprises is Bobby Lamm. Lamm wrote tunes like "25 or 6 to 4", "Beginnings", "Saturday in the Park", and many others, but on recent albums has contributed very little in the way of "good tunes". Someone must have kicked him because anything he touches on the new album rocks.

"Manipulation" and "I'd Rather Be Rich" blend a rockin' quality with the horns to produce the best sounds Lamm has written in a long time. The words have the same slightly cynical quality that Lamm had near the beginning of his career.

As on every other album, James Pankow shines through. His trombone solo at the end of "Thunder and Lightning" is simply magnificent, and his own contribution, "The American Dream," is as good a driving tune as anything he's ever written.

Of course it wouldn't be a Chicago album without the influence of Peter Cetera, the bass player. "Hold On" is the hit of the album and is getting air play on many FM stations. Cetera also wrote the two ballads on the album. "Song for You" and "Where Did Th Love Go?" are both reminiscent of the "smash hit" from Chicago X, "If You Leave Me Now". The entire album is a tribute to an old band that has learned to change with the times, and yet preserve the same qualities that established them more than a decade ago.

The Monks: Nasty Habits
by Steve Rice

Today's new wave music has washed away what could be called the second British invasion. And a strong force behind that attack is, and will be, The Monks.

Bad Habits brings the listener through all the variations of new music forms - from Rockabilly to Reggae (new only to North America) and even to limits that are as yet untouched by today's music.

"Skylab" (Theme From The Monks) is one track which would seemingly have no equivalent in the genre. Strangely reminiscent of the theme from Bonanza, it could easily provide the basis for a soundtrack to a Western. Many of the songs fit into a category best defined as "casual punk". AM Listeners will immediately recognize the tune "Drugs In My Pocket" which cracked the playlists of most Top 40 stations in mid-summer.

The themes have not changed, either, drugs and rock and roll, but the British twang adds the spice which makes the songs the kind you'll find yourself singing all day.

Of course, there is the "happy music", too. Pure, fast and simple songs like "Johnny B. Good" (to-do a delicate clone of Johnny B. Goode) which get you hoppin' and hoppin'.

The Monks won't convert those who still reject the type of music they play, but for those who are already believers, the album is heavenly.
FAMILY MEAT MARKET

SANDWICH AT MILL— FRIENDLY PERSONAL SERVICE— FREE PARKING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Open Sundays</th>
<th>8am—6pm</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tues., Wed., Thurs. &amp; Sat., 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Fri., 8 a.m. - 9 a.m. CLOSED MONDAY</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Item</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BACON ENDS</td>
<td>.69 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COOKED HAM</td>
<td>$1.59 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>store sliced</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BACON</td>
<td>.99 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rindless</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEGS &amp; BREASTS</td>
<td>$1.19 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fresh cut chicken</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BOLOGNA</td>
<td>.88 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>by the piece</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CIGARETTEs</td>
<td>$8.39 ctn</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MILK</td>
<td>3 qt. bags</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2% partly skimmed</td>
<td>$1.85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sliced bread</td>
<td>24oz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>.55c</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHOLE CHICKENS</td>
<td>$1.09 lb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRENCH FRIES</td>
<td>.96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 lbs.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WEINERS</td>
<td>$1.89</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>odd size 2 lb. bag when available</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ICE CREAM</td>
<td>$1.29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 Litre</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FAMILY MEATS HAS MANY MORE GREAT SPECIALS THAT ARE AVAILABLE, BUT NOT MENTIONED IN THIS AD. DON'T MISS THEM

GUARANTEE—EVERYTHING PURCHASED AT FAMILY MEATS IS GUARANTEED TO YOUR SATISFACTION OR MONEY REFUNDED WITHOUT QUESTION.

YOUR OWN CAMPUS MEAT MARKET
Staudt wins Western race

Linda Staudt, the petite long-distance phenom from the University of Windsor, won the women's four-kilometre race at the University of Western Ontario's Invitation cross country meet last Saturday in London.

Staudt's time for the race was 16 minutes, 17 seconds.

The 21-year-old, fourth-year Human Kinetics student was also a winner at the Avon 20-kilometre (12.4-mile) race held on Sept. 13th of this year. She took that win in record time, one hour, 10 minutes and 39 seconds, over three minutes better than the old mark.

Kathie Pakics of the U of W was 18th in the Western meet in a time of 17:35.

Top performer for the Lancers was Don MacKinnon who finished 25th in a time of 31:16 for the eight-kilometre course. Other finishers were Al Baird (54th in 34:28), Henry Eldridge (63rd in 33:49) and Gary Malloy (73rd in 34:42).

Basketball

Anyone interested in playing in a women's basketball league during the period from Oct. 7 to Feb. 24 is asked to attend a meeting at John Campbell Public School (Tecumseh Rd. and Hall Ave.) on Tue., Sept. 30 at 9 p.m.

The league is sponsored by the Windsor Ladies Basketball Association and runs every Tuesday night from 9:11 p.m. The entry fee is $10 per person. Team entries are preferred, but individuals are welcome.

For more information, contact Sue Swain, Faculty of Human Kinetics, Extention 569.

With 39 members this year's team is "perhaps a little larger than usual," according to coach Dr. Michael Salter.

"I don't know if the building (new HK building) has something to do with it," said Salter, "or whether people just decided to come out.

Salter is one of four coaches who will instruct the team. Enny McBride and Bob Mailoux, both coaches with the Windsor Knights of Columbus Track Club, bring a depth of experience to the team while Jenny Pace, a top-class competitor in the throwing events for the University of Windsor who will be competing again this year will work with the young throwers.

A few of the top performers on the track according to Salter will be Andy Buckstein who won both the 100 and 200 metres in the OUAA finals two years ago while competing for York. Buckstein has moved up to the 400 and should have a good chance for a medal at that distance.

Paul Roberts, who failed to finish in the Western meet, is given high hopes for an OUAA gold medal in the steeple-chase. Roberts is presently ranked ninth in Canada for that event, being the youngest of the nine.

Besides Staudt, who is almost assured of a first or second place finish in the 1,500 and 3,000 metre races, high jumper Sandee Carson should be one of the Lancerette threats to win a metal. Carson was third in the event at the Canadian junior championships this summer.

As well, Carson will compete in a relatively new event for women, the heptathlon. Says Salter, "Sandee is a fine athlete and she has the ability to go to the national level and possibly beyond in this event."

The cross country team will compete in the Springbank International Road Races in London on Sunday while the University of Windsor Invitation track and field meet will be held here on Sat., Oct. 4 at the south campus track.

Programs for kicks or picks

Campus Recreation is once again offering a Judo Program for the 1980-81 season for which faculty members and day and part-time students are all invited to participate. Come on out and discover the art of weaponless fighting as well as several forms of self-defense such as Ju-Jitsu and Go-Shin.

Judo is splendid exercise and, unlike many exercises, it is great fun to do. Not only is Judo marvelous for mind-body coordination but it is a fine way to get in good, physical condition. In taking part in this program beginners can qualify for their Yellow Belts and the experienced can be further promoted. Other opportunities arising from this program include attending out-of-town clinics as well as out-of-town Shiai (tournaments), and even holding our own Shiai.

Two wholly qualified instructors will work out with you on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays from 7:00 to 9:00 pm in the Dojo (Judo classroom) which is in the Combative Room and the Competitive Room within the Sports Centre. Studeents are advised to attend a meeting at John Campbell Public School (Tecumseh Rd. and Hall Ave.) on Tue., Sept. 30 at 9 p.m.

The league is sponsored by the Windsor Ladies Basketball Association and runs every Tuesday night from 9:11 p.m. The entry fee is $10 per person. Team entries are preferred, but individuals are welcome.

For more information, contact Sue Swain, Faculty of Human Kinetics, Extention 569.

Ladies Night

ALL FACULTY BASH

TONIGHT

8:00 PM

AMBASSADOR AUDITORIUM

$1.00 ADMISSION
LADIES ADMITTED FREE
BEFORE 9:00 PM

University of Windsor Engineering Club Presentation Miljkovic: little man with a big foot

by Steve Rice
Lancer Sports Editor

The talk around the south campus field Saturday was not predominantly the fact that the Lancers had just run away with their first win of the season 32-17 over the Waterloo Warriors.

Part of the talk centred around a 48-yard field goal that came off the foot of "that little number 29." That five foot, six-inch titan is none other than Zoran Miljkovic (pronounced Milk-o-vic), or his "Z," as he is affectionately called by coaches and teammates, and he comes with the promise of adding a real boost to the Lancers' kicking game.

"His high school coach wrote me a letter," recalled Lancer head coach Gino Fracas, "and he said he had a boy who was consistent from inside the 35 yard line and not bad from outside that. Fortunately for us he tried out." Fracas feels that Miljkovic will be a "big bonus" for the offense, and that means points on the scoreboard.

"He's very poised and very cool," Fracas said. "A very valuable acquisition. He's going to score a lot of points for us."

Already Miljkovic has 16 points to his credit. He accounted for all four points (a 34-yard field goal and a 43-yard single) in Windsor's 15-4 loss to Western, and added 12 points (three field goals and three converts) against Waterloo.

By Monday Miljkovic, who was born in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, is in his first year of Business at the university after attending high school at Chatham Collegiate Institute (CCI) in Chatham.

While there he played soccer with Chatham City, the top team in town, and thus acquired his "soccer style" of kicking. With encouragement from his brother, who was already on the football team, and bolstered by his own self-confidence he took over the kicking chores for CCI during his last two years at school.

Of the 48-yard field goal, "Z" states with perfect aplomb, "It's my longest, so far. I plan to beat it." The current Lancer record is a 52-yard blast by Dave Pegg just three years ago. With Miljkovic, that mark could be in serious jeopardy.

"I think I'm a lot better than last year," Miljkovic said. "I used to just start kicking when the season started, but I worked out with weights on my legs and kicked every day all summer.

At that rate, what are we to expect when "Z" makes it to his final year at Windsor?

Lancers can expect a real scrap from Yeomen

by Steve Rice

The Lancers' 15-4 loss to Western Mustangs on opening day at least gave assurances that the defense would be a strong point in the team's favor. And a 32-17 romp over the Waterloo Warriors Saturday indicated that the offense, under the direction of rookie quarterback Rob Dalley, has the capability to score points, both through the air and on the ground—or off the toe of place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic.

But Lancer head coach Gino Fracas, praised by adversary Frank Comito (York coach) for his teams employment of the "sophisticated" and complicated tactics that his teams employ, is not satisfied that everything is in working order yet.

"It's hard to pick out one area of weakness because I feel there's so much still to be done," explained Fracas in an interview Tuesday. "We've shown that we're very good against the run, but I think Waterloo completed too many passes against us. We have to work on our pass defense. "Punt coverage and kickoff returns are another area of weakness. Too often we're allowing the opposition to get long runbacks and good field position, whereas our own returns have not been good."

On the whole, though, Fracas admits that he has seen some very positive things from his young charges.

"We may not have been ready to play football in the first half of the Waterloo game, but we started to move the ball in the second half. Rob Dalley is coming along real well, Jim Staniski had a good day running the ball and, of course, Craig Mallender performed well when called upon."

Saturday the Lancers will play host to an upset York Yeomen team who last week knocked off the powerful Western Mustangs 30-23. Fracas expects a good game.

"We're going to have our hands full with York. They're an aggressive bunch of guys. Frank Comito (York coach) has brought them to a level of competitiveness we've never seen before. I mean, they beat us last year and Western this year, so you know they'll be tough."

The Yeomen scratched out their second straight 4-3 record last year and will maintain some stability on defense this year with returning all-Canadian defensive back Angela Fusini. The Yeomen also have strength on the offensive line with OUA all-star Steve Shudat.

"I expect York will mix their running and passing game. We're just going to prepare day by day, give the guys a good game plan and hope they execute it well tomorrow."

Despite the fact that the Lancers now have two games under their belt, Fracas remains reluctant to make predictions on the team's chances of making one of the four playoff spots in the eight team conference. "I don't think we've reached our potential. But this is a team which I feel is going to get better each week. I'm happy with the progress so far and in one or two weeks I may see something which will make me more outspoken about our opportunities."

OUAA Standings

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>F</th>
<th>A</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Guelph | 2 | 0 | 0 | 42 | 38 | 4
| Toronto | 2 | 0 | 0 | 65 | 23 | 4
| Windsor | 1 | 1 | 0 | 92 | 32 | 1
| McMaster | 1 | 1 | 0 | 41 | 49 | 2
| York | 1 | 1 | 0 | 61 | 56 | 2
| Western | 1 | 1 | 0 | 91 | 13 | 2
| Laurier | 0 | 2 | 0 | 20 | 33 | 0
| Waterloo | 0 | 2 | 0 | 35 | 42 | 0

Saturday's Results

Windsor 32 Waterloo 17
Guelph 9 Laurier 7
York 10 Western 23
Toronto 41 McMaster 1
by Steve Rice

The Windsor Lancers entered Saturday's Ontario Universities Athletic Association battle with the Waterloo Warriors looking for some offense.

Two quarters into the game, they still had not found it, but they did find themselves on the short end of a 2-0 score. Then, at 2:47 of the third period, rookie quarterback Rob Dalley entered what had until then been virgin territory for the Lancers this season—the end zone. He performed the feat on a 1-yard plunge and once he proved that the ground was safe to walk on, it seemed that everyone wanted part of the action.

Just over three minutes later, tight end Wyatt Clark accepted a nine-yard pass from Dalley for the major score and added to a similar 6-yard transaction with Todd Haskell early in the fourth quarter, the Lancers brought themselves their first win of the young season, 32-17.

First half points were provided by placekicker Zoran Miljkovic on a spectacular 48-yard field goal, and on a safety when Bob Bridgeman tackled Waterloo quarterback Bob Pronyk in the end zone.

Miljkovic hit on field goals of 33 and 13 yards in the fourth quarter to complete the scoring.

Windsor scored touchdowns on a 17-yard pass to Paul Goemans in the second quarter and a 19-yard pass and run play to Dave Goodwin with less than 30 seconds remaining in the game.

Eric Thomas kicked a 26-yard goal for the Warriors' other score.

"I don't know what was wrong with us in the first half," said Lancer head coach Gino Delahey. "We may not have been ready to play, but we started to move the ball in the second half. I'm pleased with Dalley. He's coming along nicely."

Dalley, who completed 12 of 19 passes for 179 yards, will be the starter now that Rob Dalley (20) rolls out behind the blocking of Dan Brannagan (57). He was Pronyk's favorite target against Windsor with 129 yards on 10 receptions.

The Lancers do have one heap of talent in 6'2", 220 lb. Canadian tight end Bill Boog.

Windsor, however, remains in the thick of it, holding down a four-way tie for second with McMaster, Western, and York, who the Lancers will play Saturday at 2 p.m. here at the south campus field.

Extra Points

- Recipients of the "Players of the Week" award, named by the players following observations of the game film, are as follows:
  - Defensive Line—Bob Bridgeman
  - Defensive Back—Chris Owen
  - Offensive Back—Jim Staniski
  - Offensive Lineman—Dan Brannagan

Special Teams—Zoran Miljkovic

Game Statistics

| Total Offense | 360 | 177 |
| Rushing | 164 | -19 |
| Passing | 196 | 196 |
| Punting | 14-22 | 14-31 |
| First Downs | 17 | 15 |
| Penalties | 5 | 10 |
| Turnovers | 6-65 | 6-56 |

The Windsor Lancers entered Saturday's Ontario Universities Athletic Association battle with the Waterloo Warriors looking for some offense.

Two quarters into the game, they still had not found it, but they did find themselves on the short end of a 2-0 score. Then, at 2:47 of the third period, rookie quarterback Rob Dalley entered what had until then been virgin territory for the Lancers this season—the end zone. He performed the feat on a 1-yard plunge and once he proved that the ground was safe to walk on, it seemed that everyone wanted part of the action.

Just over three minutes later, tight end Wyatt Clark accepted a nine-yard pass from Dalley for the major score and added to a similar 6-yard transaction with Todd Haskell early in the fourth quarter, the Lancers brought themselves their first win of the young season, 32-17.

First half points were provided by placekicker Zoran Miljkovic on a spectacular 48-yard field goal, and on a safety when Bob Bridgeman tackled Waterloo quarterback Bob Pronyk in the end zone.

Miljkovic hit on field goals of 33 and 13 yards in the fourth quarter to complete the scoring.

Windsor scored touchdowns on a 17-yard pass to Paul Goemans in the second quarter and a 19-yard pass and run play to Dave Goodwin with less than 30 seconds remaining in the game.

Eric Thomas kicked a 26-yard goal for the Warriors' other score.

"I don't know what was wrong with us in the first half," said Lancer head coach Gino Delahey. "We may not have been ready to play, but we started to move the ball in the second half. I'm pleased with Dalley. He's coming along nicely."

Dalley, who completed 12 of 19 passes for 179 yards, will be the starter now that Rob Dalley (20) rolls out behind the blocking of Dan Brannagan (57). He was Pronyk's favorite target against Windsor with 129 yards on 10 receptions.

The Lancers do have one heap of talent in 6'2", 220 lb. Canadian tight end Bill Boog.

Windsor, however, remains in the thick of it, holding down a four-way tie for second with McMaster, Western, and York, who the Lancers will play Saturday at 2 p.m. here at the south campus field.

Extra Points

- Recipients of the "Players of the Week" award, named by the players following observations of the game film, are as follows:
  - Defensive Line—Bob Bridgeman
  - Defensive Back—Chris Owen
  - Offensive Back—Jim Staniski
  - Offensive Lineman—Dan Brannagan

Special Teams—Zoran Miljkovic

Game Statistics

| Total Offense | 360 | 177 |
| Rushing | 164 | -19 |
| Passing | 196 | 196 |
| Punting | 14-22 | 14-31 |
| First Downs | 17 | 15 |
| Penalties | 5 | 10 |
| Turnovers | 6-65 | 6-56 |
Are you looking for a career, and graduating with a degree in:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMMERCE</th>
<th>ENGINEERING</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SCIENCES</td>
<td>ECONOMICS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HISTORY</td>
<td>POLITICAL SCIENCE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LITERATURE</td>
<td>GEOGRAPHY</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LANGUAGES</td>
<td>MATHEMATICS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SOCIAL SCIENCES</td>
<td>GENERAL ARTS</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PROCTER & GAMBLE INC.

We'd like to tell you about Procter & Gamble and the career opportunities we have available for you in Business Management.

Join us at 10:30 a.m. for a presentation followed by an opportunity for informal discussion with representatives of Procter & Gamble.

ALUMNI LOUNGE

University Centre

Thursday, October 2, 1980
TO TORONTO(CUP)—In a possibly precedent setting case, a former Carleton University student may see a professor for plagiarism. Bobby Sui, a former graduate student at Carleton, has accused a professor of publishing material that he had prepared for a conference while employed as a research assistant by that professor.

Sui took a reading course in Canadian management ideologies at Carleton with a professor visiting from Concordia. The professor grew interested in Sui's work and hired him as a research assistant so they might jointly continue the work. They jointly prepared a brief for a conference. Sui then left Canada for a year. When he returned he found that an article allegedly bearing marked similarities to the brief had been published naming the professor as sole author and giving him all the credit for the research.

The Ontario Graduate Association (OGA), a group within the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS), is supporting Sui's case and helping to see real food back in the cafeteria. However, Sui's work was not as interesting as one would think.

Fortunately, another thing etched in stone, which is very expressively changeable, is the damage left by different groups who use the Centre for meetings and parties. Recently, large holes appeared in the walls and discolored fixtures appeared in the men's room after one such party.

Up until now, the students have been paying to repair these damages. Johnston wants to establish a policy whereby each group using the facilities would sign a contract taking full financial responsibility for any defacement which may occur.

After this wave of renovations is finished Johnston wants to get the reactions and suggestions of different groups and people. Then he wants to start another set of renovations.

The new director of the Centre, Randy Johnston, has arrived. He is not in this picture, but he has got some concrete ideas about the building.
WANTED STAFF - Growing weekly Catholic gathering and writing work at 254-1494.

SUNDAY - DAISY - MASON SCHEDULE:

THE LANCE, Vol. LIII, No. 4, Friday, October 3, 1980, Page Two

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY
Assumption University, 254-4512.
Main
Schedule:
Sunday:
10:30 am & 4:30 pm
11:00 pm at Main Hall
Dally
12:00 Noon & 4:30 pm
(On Tuesdays at 12 noon and 4:30 pm followed by dinner)
11:30 pm

Confession:
On request at any time by the chaplains.

Our centre is open daily. We are located next in the University Centre. Feel free to drop in any time.

NEWS DEPARTMENT

Wendy Coomber
Scott McCallum
John Mill
Chris Woodrow
Renee Comeau
Peter Hryvovec
Nigel Price
Debbie Garlick
John Doyle
Laurie Bergho
Phil Cheesman
Ceilidh Deck
Brett Williams
Jodi Bergho
Joan Butler
Suzan Chambers
Anne Rappaport

Newspaper
Managing Editor: Ed McMahon
Sports Editor: Steve Rice
Managing Editor: Peter Haggart
Photography Editor: Heidi Garner Graphic Artist: J. Patrick Seddio
Editorial Cartoonist: Mike MacIntyre
Circulation Manager: John McMahon
Type-setting: Elaine Harrison

Advising Director: Mark G. Greene

Volunteers are required to assist in a program developed for the mentally handicapped. For further information, call Volunteer Services at 254-4157, or come to our office located in Vaider Hall.

ANTIOCH WEEKEND—(Nov. 7, 8 & 9) is a weekend of talks and discussions about Christianity. The weekend involves times for reflection and prayer and liturgy which all are encouraged to experience of Christian Community. We look forward to seeing Antioch Weekend as a time of growth for our community here at Assumption as well for the growth of the individuals who take part in the Weekend. The weekend will be held at the House of Shalom Youth Centre, 1170 Dufferin St. Antioch Weekend is sponsored by Assumption Campus Community. For more information contact Chaplaincy Office 254-2412 or drop into our building.

WANTED STAFF—Growing weekly newspaper seeks writers, photographers, artists. Apply Second Floor, University Centre at The Lance office.

ATTENTION POETS—is an effort to enhance our cultural perspective. CIAM is hoping to produce a poetry and literature show one night a week. This will be a half-hour project featuring the work of one or more individuals and is intended for students who have none or an experimental background. If interested, apply to Althorpe chapel. All aspiring poets will join 800-1000 students who take part in the Weekend. This will be a half-hour project featuring the work of one or more individuals and is intended for students who have none or an experimental background. If interested, apply to Althorpe chapel. All aspiring poets will join 800-1000 students who take part in the Weekend.

ASSUMPTION CAMPUS COMMUNITY is sponsoring a trip to the southeastern town of Stouffville during Antioch Week. For more information contact Chaplaincy Office 254-2412.

EXPERIENCED TYPIST will type and proofread your essays. Spelling and punctuation corrected too! Electrifying typewriter .10/page (paper provided) .70/page (handwritten). Call 253-6690.

WE ARE YOU SINISTER, ghoze (or just left-handed). It's time for us to put our flats down. Join the Left-handed Alliance for a better world (or just left-handed wuss). Sign the petition being circulated on campus.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN at Cobe, 1 First row (ticket, 788-9740).

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—John Rodman, dearly loved and sadly missed.

JRR TOLKIEN FANS ARISE AND THRUST your pamphlets and books on Tolkien on campus. If you're interested and would like more information, leave name and phone number at The Lance office, Second Floor, University Centre, Box 478.

$200 award—A two hundred dollar award is being offered for the finding of a gold wedding ring that was lost in the Quad during Antioch Week. If found, contact either Doug Podell at (313) 253-4333 or David Vescotti at 969-6463.

ACCOUNTANTS get acquainted.

Dr. George Neal, chairman of the accounting area in the Faculty of Business Administration announces the twelfth annual C.A. Get-Acquainted Night is scheduled for Thursday, October 9, 1980 from 8:30 p.m. to midnight in the Ambassador Auditorium. All prospective graduates anticipating employment with C.A. firms within the next twelve months are cordially invited to attend.

Actually, the event is not an interviewing session. Rather, it is a "break-the-ice" social evening for students to meet and mingle with practicing chartered accountants in a social atmosphere. There is, however, a "morning after" session, also in the Ambassador, for the more aggressive students who take part in the Weekend. This will be held at the House of Shalom Youth Centre, 1170 Dufferin St. Antioch Weekend is sponsored by Assumption Campus Community. For more information contact Chaplaincy Office 254-2412 or drop into our building.

Now in Paperback

LENNON'S ARTWORK

Life Before Man
by Margaret Atwood

available at:

SOUTH SHORE BOOKS
361-324-3635

WINDSOR LADIES "STRIKING" ON THE COURT

DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS NEEDED FOR BY-ELECTION

Tuesday, Wednesday, October 14, 15 1980.

Please apply at the SAC Office 2nd Floor University

DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICER IS A SAC PAID POSITION.
Cousteau upstaged

by Debbie Stailey

It looks as though the "Caly-pso" crew is soon to have new rivals, because this year's Aqua Space '80 will be better than ever.

Aqua Space '80 is an underwater film and slide presentation which has been held at the university for the past four years. The show covers a wide range of topics extending from underwater photography to whale and manatee research reports. The show also includes workshops, which illustrate various techniques used in underwater research.

The presentation is organized by the Aera club, which was organized through the efforts of Dale Woodyard, an assistant professor of Psychology at the University of Windsor. Presently, Mr. Woodyard is on sabbatical to complete a research paper.

The Windsor branch of the Aera club consists of approximately 25 regular members, ten of which are from the university.

In a telephone interview Dan Dalziel, a member of the club, stated the club is having some financial problems. Dalziel said last year's presentation broke even while previous shows resulted in debt.

According to Dalziel, this poor record is due to the fact that the presentation is dependent on the ticket sales, which oftentimes do not come. Another factor is the high costs involved in getting knowledgeable and well known speakers. Dalziel stated that because of this added expense they had to "tone it down" this year. Regardless of this problem, the show itself has retained the quality of previous presentations.

This year's Aqua Space '80 will be held on October 9, at 8:00 p.m., in the Math Building and is sure to be a "whale" of a time.

Floats to sail again

The office of Student Services this week announced plans to hold a 1980 Homecoming parade on October 18, 1980 from 11:00 a.m. until noon. This is the first time the parade will be held since 1975 when the University was forced to cancel the event. In order to re-institute the parade, Student Services has established the following guidelines for the production of the floats and the conduct of the participants.

(1) Guidelines
(a) Alcoholic beverages will not be allowed on or associated with any float. Complementary beverage tickets will be made available to float participants for redemption at the Alumni Barbecue following the parade. The barbecue will be held on the Human Kinetics Building terrace from noon until 5:00 p.m.
(b) All float submission contact persons will be responsible for ensuring that float materials are not discarded on route and that floats are removed from the campus within the day.
(c) One representative float submission from each residence society, etc. will be permitted.
(d) The name of the representative float from each group must be clearly visible for judging purposes.

2. Route and Assembly
(a) The assembly point will be on Huron Lane between University Avenue and Riverside Drive. The Windsor Police Department will have this area blocked off between 9:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, October 18, 1980 for final formation and assembly purposes.

(b) The route will be from the Assembly area along University Avenue to Campbell, north on Campbell to Wyandotte Street, west on Wyandotte Street to Huron Lane; south on Huron Lane to Riverside Drive, ending in Levi M. (next to Assumption Church) of the University.

(c) Members of SAC and Resident Assistants will monitor the parade on route.

3. Application
(a) The assembly point will be on Huron Lane between University Avenue and Riverside Drive. The Windsor Police Department will have this area blocked off between 9:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, October 18, 1980 for final formation and assembly purposes.

(b) The route will be from the Assembly area along University Avenue to Campbell, north on Campbell to Wyandotte Street, west on Wyandotte Street to Huron Lane; south on Huron Lane to Riverside Drive, ending in Levi M. (next to Assumption Church) of the University.

(c) Members of SAC and Resident Assistants will monitor the parade on route.

Drugs plan

All full-time undergraduate students have paid (at registration) a $5.00 fee for their student drug plan.

This means, that you are now insured for the following benefits and services:

1. Accidental Death and Dismemberment
   - $2,000 coverage period is from October 1 to September 30.

2. Reimbursement for Drugs and Supplies Benefit—subject to a $1.00 deductible per prescription. Contraceptives are not covered.

3. Reimbursement for Professional Services Benefit (a) Special Body (b) Special Nursing Services (c) Dental Services (d) Pharmacy Services (e) Ambulance Service (f) Diagnostic Services (g) Hospital Services)

The coverage period is from October 1 to December 31, 1980. Claim forms are available at the SAC office. You must attach your receipts to the claim form.

NOW...

...THE TASTE OF PLAYER'S IN AN EXTRA LIGHT CIGARETTE.

If you can spell, you can write

Join The Lance

Second floor University Centre
Students council's mealy stipend insufficient

Give CJAM referendum money - on one condition

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 4, Friday, October 3, 1980, Page Four

Editorial

"The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted."

- M. Gratten O’Leary

Every time a referendum comes up, the students at this university seem to look at the dollar figure first and the potential benefits second. The two possible exceptions to this rule are the St. Denis Hall referendum and the Legal Aid referendum.

But when a referendum for the Students’ Administrative Council (SAC) comes up, the students seem to be, to put it mildly, unwilling to pay for the services that they receive. For the past eleven years, the students at this university have been paying (let’s face it) ridiculously low activity fees. While the average payment in this province at universities is $50.00, the students at this fine institution are paying a mere $22.50.

Out of this $22.50, SAC has to fund all the activities, all the societies, and all the mediums at the university.

And while $22.50 may seem to be a staggering fee to some students, consider this: SAC is an incorporated body. It receives the same lines as any other money making venture, with one exception: it does not make money. And an organization such as SAC can only run so long as a deficit before it goes bankrupt.

Look at the Chrysler Corporation. Perhaps it may be hard to compare SAC to the Chrysler Corporation, but the basic business principles are the same. You can't go along year after year losing money and expect to run for any length of time.

SAC does not intentionally go about losing money. Rather, it has obligations to meet.

In addition, some parts of the campus cannot even listen to the station because they are not directly wired to the station (as they must be since CJAM operates on a carrier current utilizing Bell's system). It is clear that SAC cannot go on without money. The station must win the referendum this month and have a successful referendum result. He should also realize that if the station needs money, a major question will come up, the reason behind Dr. Allan’s departure.

Now that we have established the fact that the station needs the money, a major question remains: Does CJAM deserve five dollars from every student on this campus? This is where the editorial goes right.

A good number of Lance staff members replied in the negative when asked this week by yours truly, the editor, whether the newspaper should support CJAM's request for direct student funding. The majority of staff members said we should support the station, but even they could not deny some of the reasons the others had for voting not to support CJAM.

CJAM has been managed by some petty, bush people in the worst sense of the word, with no amateur effort in the worst sense of the word, with no fresh ideas, and no large amounts of static and dead air.

This year, however, all that could change. Grant Gellina is a good station manager with the drive to get things done. All he lacks is the money but he should realize one thing before he gets that... he should realize that if the students are going to give the station $30,000 a year, they should be able to guarantee a quality FM station in return.

He should also know that if that change does not come about, this newspaper will demand and this campus should have the right to rescind a meager fund result. It is as死 for CJAM as it is for President Franklin.

This year the station must win the referendum this month and have an FM licence by the end of the year.

Give CJAM referendum money - on one condition

This is a qualified editorial. It will come out in favor of something we all do with some reluctance. Some might call it wishy-washy, but painfully true to the present situation.

CJAM, our campus student radio station, is struggling, via the October referendum, to get direct financial support from students to the tune of five dollars a year. With contributions around 6,000, that referendum, if successful, would guarantee the station $30,000 a year.

Do they need the money? That can be answered with a loud “Definitely.” Much of the equipment at the station is in bad, if not unusable, shape.

In an attempt to uncover the reasons behind Dr. Allan’s termination, The Lance has spent many hours talking on the telephone to an assortment of people, who should know the reasons behind the departure. But all the phone calls were for nought, nobody would say anything in the first place.

The careful wording of the statement leads me to think that the reasons behind the dismissal are unsavory, "have agreed to terms", in my estimation is another way of saying, “you’re fired.” Usually when a high ranking official is terminated for whatever reason, the employee issues a detailed statement in an attempt to cover the institution and absolve it of any blame, for anything the employee might have done.

Because no details were released and President Franklin has not quelled any of the rumours on campus, the logical explanation is that the underlying reasons for Dr. Allan’s departure, if made public, could cause embarrassment to one or both parties. If the dismissal is due in any way to any type of criminal act or if there was a high level disagreement between the two top administrators, we, as students have a right to know the details.

Freedom of information is a right not a privilege, but on this campus it is a scarce commodity. By supposing the reasons behind the departure, President Franklin is merely bringing more problems on his administration. Maybe the problems caused by releasing the reasons for Dr. Allan’s departure far outweigh the problems he is bringing on his administration by suppressing the reasons.

If he was fired, it would seem natural for him to issue a statement either confirming or denying the rumour, but he has not done so. On the other hand, if Dr. Allan parted from the university of amicable terms it would seem natural for President Franklin to state this in his comments last week. Is this true? I think so.

As past events have shown, cover-ups may solve the problem now, but they have the tendency of rearing their heads in the not too distant future. If there has been a cover-up in this instance, eventually it will surface and cause more harm than if the reasons were revealed now.

Ask Richard Nixon.
Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Thursday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.

CJAM appeals for your vote in the referendum

Dear Editor,

Please accept this letter as an opening letter to the students of University of Windsor.

Some 20 years ago, all across North America, students rose from their 1950s apathy to fight for the right to help determine their own future. The fought—and they won.

Inflation has been rampant. SAC simply can no longer afford to support all the services our SAC has not had an increase one of our independent student in fees in 11 years: meanwhile, the economic facts of our times. Students are grovelling wimps of the promotion and tenure university administration but from the economic facts of our times. Student media on campus have been established as an accepted part of the student administration; an independent student voices.

Ten to 15 years ago, such medium might be frowned upon by the administration, forced into underground areas by the powers-that-be. Now, our mediums have been established as an accepted part of the university community—so much so that the majority of students take these gains for granted and forget the struggle that produced student representation and independent student voices.

On this October 14 and 15, one of our independent student voices faces a life-or-death challenge, not from the university administration but from the economic facts of our times. Our SAC has not had an increase in fees in 11 years: meanwhile, inflation has been rampant. SAC simply can no longer afford to support all the services.

I would like to take issue with Father Callion and the editor of The Lance on the topic of student representation of the promotion and tenure committee. Both make some rather rash assumptions about professors and students.

First, they assume that faculty members are unfeeling individuals who would mail anyone to the wall who disagrees with them. In reality, they are professionals who are used to dealing with differences of opinion by debate, not by coercion.

Second, they assume that students are growing limp wimps who would say “yes” to anything to protect their own self-interests. In reality, the student rep wants good faculty hired and promoted as much as the other faculty members. He or she also wants to keep our incompetents and prevent too rapid promotion.

Third, Father Callion assumes that students are in-Drinking and driving is not a clever concoction

by Steve Roberts

It is Friday night and rumour has it that there is a good band at SAC’s, so you arrive at 8:00 p.m. and begin quaffing a can of beer. By 9:00 p.m. you have had three beers and the band begins. During their first set you notice that they are not as good as the rumour made them out to be. Therefore you slowly sip on your fourth beer and decide to leave and attempt to get into Whale’s before 10:00 p.m.

You proceed down University Avenue and notice a car following you, so you slow down and attempt to drive cautiously. The red lights flash and you pull over. The officer asks for your licence, you have some trouble finding it but manage to get it out for him. He asks if you have been drinking and, relying on the sincere approach, you reply that after studying in the library you had one beer before deciding to go home.

He then asks you to walk in a straight line, heel to toe, which you confidently complete but without much success. After some further questioning he informs you that you have made probable grounds and requests you to accompany him to the police station to take a breathalyzer test.

Result: If you weigh approximately 170 pounds or less you would have a good chance of registering above .08% alcohol in your blood. Therefore, you would be charged with either impaired driving, blowing over .08, or both.

Is it a crime?
The area of law related to motor vehicles is divided between the Federal and Provincial governments.

The Province of Ontario regulates the use of its highways through the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario (i.e. impaired driving, careless driving) but the more serious offenses (i.e. drinking and driving) are covered by the Federal Government in the Criminal Code (Canada). Yes, the same Criminal Code that also deals with murder, rape, theft and other crimes regulates the law related to drinking and driving.

Therefore, drinking and driving is a criminal offense and a conviction would leave you with a criminal record. The major problem is that society does not perceive the drunk driver as a criminal because he is only doing what a lot of the rest of us do but don’t get caught doing. Society condones the use of alcohol and encourages us to drink, two very legal activities but when combined they become very illegal and possibly lethal.

The Courts

The Criminal Code defines conduct which is crime in general terms and leaves it up to the judges to interpret these general terms and apply them to each specific case. The judge has broad discretion to deal with each case and usually in making his decision he will look at decisions made by other judges in similar circumstances. But the judge is in no way limited to following past decisions and it is very possible for two judges to interpret the same section differently.

A prime example of this occurred recently here in Windsor. The Crown Prosecutor decided to begin asking for stiffer penalties for drinking and driving offenses and, as a result, two first offenders were given jail sentences.

It might not appear fair that several months ago the same section of law would have only been a fine, but those are the facts. The range of penalties for these offenses varies from a $50. fine to six months in jail for first offenders with second offenders facing up to two years in jail.

The Charges

1. Impaired Driving: Driving (or care and control) of a motor vehicle while ability to drive is impaired by alcohol or drug.

The major elements of this offense are:

a) the officer must have reason to believe that your driving is affected by alcohol or drug.

b) "care and control" is defined as having the intent to put a vehicle in motion, sitting behind the wheel with the keys in the ignition could be enough even if the car is not started. (As a result, sleep it off in the back seat.)

c) "alcohol or drug" includes any combination of the two. Example: a beer and an antibiotic may result in impaired ability and if taken voluntarily would be within the offense.

d) Proof could be obtained by blood, wine or breath samples and/or opinion evidence based on the accused’s appearance and performance of physical tests.

2. Refusal to provide (or refusing to accompany an officer for the purpose of providing) a sample of breath suitable for analysis on a roadside tester (i.e. A.L.E.R.T.)

3. Refusal to comply with a demand of a police officer to provide samples of breath as are necessary for a proper analysis to be made of the proportion of alcohol in the blood (or failing to accompany an officer to place where such tests can be conducted.)

The major elements of this offense are:

a) the officer must have reasonable and probable grounds for believing that the accused is guilty of impaired driving or blowing over .08 before he can make a legal demand for a breath sample.

b) failure or refusal could result from not giving suitable samples (i.e. short puffs) or only giving one sample (two are required for proper test) or by not accompanying the officer to the station or any other similar unwilling action.

c) the accused may provide a reasonable excuse for not complying with the demand. Example: a request to speak with a lawyer. NOTE: you are only allowed to speak to a lawyer, this cannot be used as a stalling device. Therefore, you won’t be allowed to wait for your lawyer to appear since it is required that the test be taken within two hours of the alleged offense. This area is very complex and one should be careful in refusing since what you believe to be a reasonable excuse may not be accepted by the judge.

4. Blowing over .08: Driving (or care and control) of a motor vehicle after having consumed alcohol in such quantity that the proportion thereof in your blood exceeds 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood (80 milligrams = .08%).

There are possible defenses to this charge by claiming that the test sample was not taken properly (i.e. was not taken within two hours of the alleged offense or there were not two samples taken). Evidence may also be introduced contrary to SEE "LAW COLUMN," PAGE 7.
Seminars: the not so secret things to know

by Scott McCallum

"Doing Your First Seminar" is the title of Assistant Dean of Students Carol Baker's first Studentship lecture, which she will be giving Wednesday, October 8 in Vanier Lounge at noon and at 5:30 p.m.

"I'm doing this," explained Ms. Baker in an interview, "is that I've seen so many students devastated because of not knowing how to prepare for a seminar and being afraid of public speaking.

Baker herself graduated from the University of Windsor in 1977 with an honours degree in history. She received a scholarship to do her masters, but dropped out after three weeks to head for Europe, landing instead in Ottawa, where she worked for the defense department for two years. En route to Calgary in August of 1979, a two day visit here in Windsor turned into an extended stay. She assumed her present position in May of 1980.

"I'm not really very comfortable with public speaking myself," Baker admitted, "we can identify with students who get nervous. If you know your subject matter well enough, though, are interested in it, and set things up logically, you should do very well."

"I just want to get a few basic points across," said Baker. "Every seminar is different and every discipline is different. That's why I'll stick to the basics."

Among those basics are such things as "Don't use quotes if you don't know what they mean" and "Avoid plagiarism," advice that applies to written essays as well as seminars. "Most professors usually ask for a seminar paper," Baker explains, "and it's no doing an excellent seminar and a crummy paper."

The Assistant Dean of Students stressed the importance of choosing a seminar topic in which you are interested. "It's that much easier," she said. "Also, if you're bored with it no one else will be interested either. If you can't find anything interesting on the list of topics handed out, think of your own if your prof will approve it."

Another crucial point, in Baker's opinion, is limiting the topic to something that's not too unwieldy. "Narrow it down, be specific and you won't get lost," is her advice. "What most profs want is an argument presented logically and cohesively. If you try to cover too much, you'll leave gaps and have trouble defending yourself."

"I also want to get across the importance of knowing the library," Baker said. "Use the library pathfinders, the journals, the abstracts, the microfilms. Don't rely on old books. Avoid doing too much research though."

Ms. Baker also cautioned against the use of audiovisual equipment. "Avoid it unless you really know what you're doing. If something goes wrong it can ruin everything."

"I haven't got any secrets," Baker admitted frankly, "a lot of it is reminders of what they've already heard in high school."

Ms. Baker's other duties as Assistant Dean include career guidance and personal counselling, which she said she enjoys most, and doing surveys.

Law Column

the breathalyzer results but usually it must be more than conjecture to be admissible.

The most important thing to remember about all these offenses is that they are complex and that proper legal advice is necessary in defending yourself since the consequences could be very severe.

In conclusion, it is only necessary to add that the objective of this article is not to increase the workload of Community Legal Aid or lawyers, or to scare you or attack the inefficiencies of the system of justice in Canada, but primarily to inform you of the facts and leave it to you as an individual to control your own destiny.

The majority of this material came from Drinking and Driving: What to do if you've Caught by Donald J. Purich, LL.B., which is part of a self-counsel series and can be purchased in most bookstores. The other source used was Law for Community Clinics: A Manual (6th ed.) published by the Ontario Association of Student Legal Aid Societies.

If you have any questions or need advice or representation on a specific legal problem, visit the Community Legal Aid (C.L.A.) in room G105 at the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, or call 253-7150. The services of C.L.A. are available free of charge to students and to any other person who qualifies financially for assistance. The C.L.A. office is open from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

C.L.A. is operated by law students working under the supervision of qualified lawyers. It is competent to deal with small claims court actions, immigration problems, consumer complaints, highway traffic offenses, unemployment insurance problems, landlord and tenant problems, summary conviction offenses and many other matters.

FROM PAGE 6

Need a ride to class?

Students, are you tired of taking the bus? Are you upset because you have no one to share gas expenses with you? SAC can now help you out with the new car pool.

If you are looking for a ride to school or if you are looking for someone to ride in your car, come to the SAC office and fill in a local car pool application.

In the future, she hopes to get more involved in Orientation. "SAC does a good job on the entertainment, but at Rochester, the administration has a whole Orientation department. We need to get away from just tables in the center." A survey on Orientation was recently conducted on campus and Baker said "We got some very good suggestions."

Hand-outs are better.

"I haven't got any secrets," Baker admitted frankly, "a lot of it is reminders of what they've already heard in high school."

Ms. Baker's other duties as Assistant Dean include career guidance and personal counselling, which she said she enjoys most, and doing surveys.

Seagram's V.O.

Canada's most respected 8 year old whiskey.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 4, Friday, October 3, 1980, Page Seven WANTED:
VICE-PRESETENT
Tired of revising your 'professional' resume? Tired of struggling through interviews? Wondering what to ask? What to reply? Want to learn secrets of success in the executive world from the moment you meet your employer? For appointment send card with name and telephone number.

to: David G. Kelly, M.A.
277 Pratt Place Windsor, Ontario
N8Y 2W5

FROM PAGE 1

Ties the knot

“They’ve also done studies on student unemployment, foreign student problems, and they’re currently working on the rights of professional students.”

The issue of professional students (those in the faculties of Law, Business Administration, Engineering, and Medicine, to name a few) was of particular interest to the Windsor delegates to the last OFS conference.

“We were very interested in the rights of professional students, who tend to be underrepresented in decision-making processes such as those”, said Simmons. “We (U of W SAC) sponsored quite a number of motions that dealt directly with professional students. For instance, Nursing students and others like them are not paid for the time that they must spend, as part of their degree requirement, interning in hospitals. We think this is unfair.”

Negotiations between OFS and NUS continue towards a possible merger late this year.

Public awareness of health hazards needed
by Wendy Coomber

In the midst of one of the few perfect days we had left of summer emerged the murky spectre of environmental pollution and health hazards.

Dr. Maxine Holder-Franklin did not want to spoil the day with such heavy words, but, owing to the topic of the lecture she was giving at Assumption University this Wednesday, she couldn’t really help it. Dr. Holder-Franklin spoke on “Environmental Health Hazards: The Challenge and the Responsibility” as part of the Luncheon Enrichment Series sponsored by Assumption University. The Doctor earned her BA and MA in Science at Dalhousie and completed her PhD at McGill. Currently she is adjunct associate professor of Biology at the University of Windsor.

Dr. Holder-Franklin insisted the main problem rested with the majority of the public who neither know what the large industries are doing, nor do they care. She says pollution in this area has become an accepted fact of life.

Another problem she cited was that biological research has not kept pace with the manufacturing of chemicals. “What a frightening spectre this becomes,” she said, “to think that biological research has not kept pace with the manufacturing of chemicals.”

As an example, this year she has been working with a biologist who is currently engaged in a study of the lake's bottom, the area has become an accepted fact of life.

Photograph for page 3 by J.P. Chemet

Music
All Day Long
8 am to 12 midnight
Monday to Friday

Plus
Special Feature Programs
Interest to Students, Produced in our Studios for U of W People
- for You!

Here to Serve You

Your Student Radio Station
A Christmas gift that sets you aglow

(ZNS)-If you’ve always dreamed of getting your hands on nuclear power plant controls, now you can do so in the privacy of your own home.

The Muse Computer Company has come out with a new computer game for home computer systems—"Meltdown"—you deal with nuclear power plant running amuck.

The game, which is based on a re-creation of the accident at Three Mile Island, often starts when a valve sticks open and cooling water drains from around the reactor’s core. After that you’re on your own.

Players attempt to bring the reactor under control again by releasing steam pressure, opening or shutting valves, reading gauges and initiating the emergency core cooling system.

A speeded up clock ticks off the passage of time, and pumps and valves threaten to fail as the operation struggles to regain control of the reactor. If the video terminal tilts a meltdown has occurred and its game over.

SAC used book sale declared a success this year

by Joan Butler

Despite a late start, the Students’ Administrative Councils’ Used Book Sale had sales of approximately $1,000, said President David Simmons.

The book sale was held in Extension Lounge of the University Centre September 10 to 26. It was to start earlier but, at the last minute, Brad Mitchell, Vice-President of Finance, who was in charge of it, could not complete his commitment.

Simmons said they decided to go ahead with it anyway as it would “provide such a good service to students, we couldn’t let it go down the drain.”

There were only three books sold the first day, but by the end of the second week sales had reached “close to $800” said Simmons. He feels the late start resulted in a loss of sales because many students had already been to class, knew the required texts, and purchased them at the bookstore.

He added that because books change so often students find it hard to sell and buy books. Social sciences texts were the biggest sellers, while there was a shortage of nursing, law and engineering books. The reason for this, said Simmons, is these students “keep their books”, but he would like to see more of them brought in.

Simmons said, “SAC didn’t expect anything big ... it was a tryout so we never set any goals.” He was, however, pleased with the results and said, “we will have one again in January.”

He feels the next one will be more successful because they would advertise and start earlier, giving students the opportunity to see if the books they need are available. “They can buy them here at a lower cost,” he said. Of course, he added, the success “depends on people who bring in books to sell.”

SAC retains 15 per cent of the selling price as a service charge but, said Simmons, “what we make goes directly back to the students.” He said, “We try to discourage people from charging too high a price,” suggesting they deduct 25 per cent of the original cost.

This was the second attempt by SAC to have a used book sale, the first one, about five years ago, “was a failure,” said Simmons. He said, “It wasn’t planned properly and books were stolen because of improper security.”

Mr. Simmons referred to the book sale at the University of Guelph last year to indicate how successful they can be. He said they made $10,000 profit, charging a 20 percent service fee.

The deadline for submission for funding and ratification has been extended. You have until October 7, 1980 to make your submissions.

If you still have any questions, with regards to requirements, please come up to the SAC Office (second floor University Centre) and I will be more than glad to help.

Jim Shaban

Vice President - Administrative Council

WE ARE BACK
TGIF PARTIES!

DELTA CHI FRAT.

EVERY FRIDAY 12:00 - 4:00
PIZZA 3/$1.00
QUAFF 12.00 - 1:00 35¢
1:00 - 4:00 50¢

408 INDIAN UNDER THE BRIDGE
A Country and Western Band in Windsor? And making money? Seems hard to believe, but if anyone could do it, The Hatfields, presently appearing at SAC's Pub, are the ones. Combining a vast repertoire of “Southern Rock” with “good ol' foot stompin’” music, The Hatfields left the crowd at SAC's pounding the tables. Several Lynyard Skynard numbers were featured, most noticeably “Sweet Home Alabama.” Although the vocals seemed to be a bit strained at times, the fiddle playing made most of the crowd forget that the lead singer seemed to be singing about five octaves off the end of his range.

The Allman Brothers were also relied upon heavily, with “Ramblin’ Man” being the most really recalled number of that genre. The Hatfields being a welcome change to SAC's, being either the rather amateurish “New Wave” bands we've heard at SAC's Pub, are the ones. Anyone could do it. The real McCoy with fiddle-faddle off the end of his range.

“The campus radio station, although mired in controversy concerning their upcoming referendum, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am- 12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.

The real McCoy with fiddle-faddle. Her obvious disrespect for morality and tradition is so much from, nor the earAnyway, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am- 12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.

CJAM on the air
by Peter Hagger

The campus radio station, although mired in controversy concerning their upcoming referendum, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am-12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.

CJAM on the air
by Peter Hagger

The campus radio station, although mired in controversy concerning their upcoming referendum, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am-12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.

CJAM on the air
by Peter Hagger

The campus radio station, although mired in controversy concerning their upcoming referendum, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am-12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.

CJAM on the air
by Peter Hagger

The campus radio station, although mired in controversy concerning their upcoming referendum, have found the time to produce a schedule of programming for the 1980-81 school year. These are some highlights of what you may hear coming across the golden airwaves this fall.

Daily, from 8:00am-9:00am, CJAM will feature Contemp- inous. From 11:00am-12:00am Jazz At Noon will be heard. The Voice of CSA will be heard on Tuesday nights from 9:00pm-10:00pm. The station will then serenade you with classical impressions until midnight.

Wednesday evenings will feature a half hour of Concert Canadian at 9:30pm. This show will encompass music and interviews with the big names in the Canadian music industry. This will be followed with an hour dedicated to the French Canadian artists, called Claire de Lune. From 11:00-12:00am CJAM will return you to the station.
Africa Week
by Lance Staff

In 1969 British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in adressing South African parliament stated that: "the wind of death is blowing through the continent." The wind was strong: 16 African countries are celebrating twenty years of independence in 1980.

CBC Stereo will commemorate the progression of the dark continent with a week of nightly broadcasts on the topic,
October 6-10.

Africa Week will be an attempt by CBC to allow the audience to know life as it is lived in Africa. Radio in its eature dictates that we hear rundlings from within the heart of darkness.

Africa is an enormous continent covering eleven and a quarter million square miles, as large as the United States, China, Western Europe and India combined. The half billion people speak over seven hundred different languages and dialects. The emergiing countries take on international significance in bodies like the United Nations which use a one country, one vote policy.

As the program hopefully will point out, all is not milk and honey for a still troubled continent. In the last two decades the news from Africa has often shocked with headlines of coups, assassinations, starvation and corruption.
Africa now evokes images of starvation and corruption.

Before these negative impressions is another reality, the ordinary daily life of the African people, a routine life which persists in the face of change and uncertainty. It is not a comfortable or glamorous life, but one underpinned by a tradition of depth and resilience, a life which finds expression in lively conversation, music, laughter and dance.
The five night series will begin Monday October 6 with a political profile of Nigeria, as presented in a session with West Africa's talking drums.

October 7 investigates the conquering French domination of its former colonies and traces the spread of Islam.

October 8 takes you from Tanzania's Gishuai Gorge, the cradle of civilization, to the business empire of a million­ site Kenyan entrepreneur, and documents the rise of revol­ tutionary Ethiopia.

October 9 confronts the changing face of apartheid, visits
Great Zimbabwe, the remarkable Shona stone ruins which gave their name to a nation, takes you to a Zambian soccer match, and looks at polygamy in Bottswana.

October 10 starts with a feature on African music, how the sounds and rhythms of everyday life shape the music of the continent. It's followed by the world premiere of a commissioned play on the life and death of South Africa's black consciousness leader, Steve Biko, by Canadian playwright
James Nicol. The evening moves on to a round table discussion on the future of the continent. The week ends with top African entertainers in performance from Montreal, before an invited audience.

Each week at 9 p.m., a special Africa Week news bulletin on the day's events in Africa will be read.

Listen to the whole week,
a full evening, or just an hour.
If you've never seen Africa, this adventure in sound is the next best thing to being there.
As CBC so aptly puts it,
Africa Week takes the pulse of a continent.

Trudeau plays Hamlet during CBC presentation works by children

A concert with words by children, performed by children with music written for children
-and more-will happen at Moot Court (University &Sunset) on Sunday, October 5 at 7 pm.
Admission is free.

From all over the English­ speaking world, Richard Lewis has collected poems by children.
He has published many of them, and he will be in Windsor to read some of them at the concert.

Paul McIntyre has set some of them to music, to be performed by the Boys' and Girls' Choir of Christ Church Croone Point under the direction of Frederic DeBlaven.
Roma Riddell will open the concert with McIntyre's
"Limerick of Limericks", and, with Steven Henrikson, will appear in the popular "The Little Red Hen". Last heard in 1978 at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, this little castrata by McIntyre calls for a small chorus and orchestra, and a quartet of unannounced, anonymous barnyard characters.

SUPPORT YOUR STUDENT VOICE

VOTE YES
IN THE COMING REFERENDUM

VOTE YES
AT CJAM
YOUR STUDENT
RADIO STATION

Isn't it obvious The Lance needs sports and entertainment writers?

JOIN THE LANCE

It's not your first job
that's important!
But the one after that,
and the one after that...

You've heard about new graduates who find that their first jobs run out of steam before they do... and then find there's no career option in the company.

That's why you should be seriously considering Northern Telecom, an all-Canadian company and a world leader in the high-technology world of telecommunications. We're big, still growing... and very, very successful.

As a new graduate in engineering, computer science, business, commerce or other suitable disciplines, you will find you can put your talents and energy to good use with us. And we'll give you management responsibility as fast as you're ready for it.

There's ample opportunity to develop a number of possible career paths and, importantly, to keep your career on an upward track.

So, if you're looking to the future, look to Northern Telecom
... and contact your campus placement office.
by Peter Haggert

Someone should have reminded me.

I must admit that last Friday, I went to Joe Louis Arena looking for the Paul Simon that was once part of the dynamic duo of Simon and Garfunkel. I should have realized a singer with his talent would never rest on old accolades.

His encouragement was made up of some of the finest studio music examples of martial arts—not ancient but articulate. "Doing the song tonight would be the hits that once again made the whole night worth the admission. Tickets are $1.00.

Friday, October 3

—There will be a Monte Carlo Casino night at the Law School, featuring Blackjack, Craps, and Andoors and other gambling games. A dance will also be included in this liquor licensed event. Tickets $2.00 in advance and $2.50 at the door.

—CINEFEST will present the French film La Cage Aux Folles at 7:15 p.m. Who'll Stop the Rain is the scheduled 9:30 p.m. feature.

—An Evening For the Hospice will be held at Clancy Auditorium beginning at 8:00 p.m. The Lancaster Band, and The Ken Crane Quartette along with a Monte Carlo Casino will provide the entertainment. Tickets are $25.

Saturday, October 4

—It's Urban Cowboy night at SAC's pub. Come listen to the country strains provided by The Hatsfields. Admission is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for non-students, but if you wear your cowboy hat admission is denied in half.

Tuesday, October 7

—At 8:00 p.m., the Ontario Film Theatre will present the Franco-Bernini movie To Forget Venice. Oft is located in the Super Cinema 804 Erie St. E.

—The University Players are continuing in Essex Hall. Tickets for evening performances will be $4.00.

Saturday, October 11

—The Wrals of the Torradores continue at Essex Hall Theatre. As on Friday, tickets are increased to $4.00.

—CINEFEST will have Fiddlers on the Roof as their 7:00 p.m. film. Don't miss this classic production and its splendid musical score. Music of another kind will be presented at 10:30 p.m. with Ladies and Gentlemen: The Railing Stones. Tickets for each show are $1.99.

Many Irishmen grow grapes for raisins of their own.

Records

Supertramp: PARIS

by Peter Haggert

Last year we were treated to Breakfast in America. Does PARIS supply us with our present nourishment?

Well, after their successful Breakfast album, Supertramp felt it was time to take the road with hopes of recording their first live album. After 108 concerts, the band decided that their Paris performance was the one best suited to recapture on vinyl.

Curiously, the first time Supertramp played in Paris, it was before a string of eight-six of the audience had been bought by the promoter. This time the Frenchmen flocked to hear the band which has been at the top of their music charts for over a year.

The album is really only an anthology of their previous two works. There are three cuts from Breakfast in America, and seven from Crime of the Century, their first really successful release. The remaining five are from the three previous albums.

The sound quality of the album is excellent. As many of the newer 'live' recordings, the recordings are done very close to the studio versions. Only School has notable differences from the earlier recording.

The Parisian patrons sound no different than their counterparts in North America. It is however brain scrambling to decipher their odd chants (and don't forget the French clapping).

If you missed Supertramp's Detroit appearance a year ago it would be safe to say that the audience reaction in Foul's Overture will have you baffled. During the commercial recess, the group showed various films to the enchantment of the crowd. The ohhing and ahhing is captured in totality on this release.

By all means, if you are a fan and have yet to buy a Supertramp album, get this one. If you are a steady follower and have gobbled up all their previous offerings, you may be a little disappointed.
Portfolio

She lives quietly
She'll return for morning's light to shed by tenderness that she's by love only dreams of other times indeed in the darkness
i'll love you now
i'll love you always when will you come close to me that you'll leave this down quietly that she'll return
by morning's light sorrows

Where is the love?

Love is the power that rules. It cannot heal you wrong; but it's honest and it's watchful. Love tells lost, for so long the satisfied and half truths and things not understood.
You would sooner be lonely, in this duality almost Gone Good.
Expel your first and last, the reflected, less than chart where is the love, and friend, where is the love?

A man was born in this world, he knew you do not love you go out to read the cross neither you nor him, and saw of you follow Matthew, thus Matthew takes the head and if you don't believe everything you read and standing in the door's voice little lit story where is the love? my God, where is the love?
Tennis Tournament

Following a week of intense competition, the annual University of Windsor tennis tournament came to a close Monday.

More than 40 students and staff participated in the event which was characterized by good sportsmanship and excellent displays of tennis skill.

The most popular division was the men's singles, with 21 entrants. Proving that consistency and endurance are prime factors in the game, Stewart Lofit defeated an aggressive Ron Tobin by scores of 6-3 and 6-2 in the final.

The winners of the mixed doubles sections were Paul Doerr and Linda Symons who defeated the team of Sam Sloane and Sandra MacKinnon at 11-5.

The University of Windsor tennis tournament came to a close Monday. The winners of the mixed doubles division as well as the traditional contact-on-the-line league. The move has resulted in an increase in the number of team and individual entries.

The contact league is lead by defending champion Big Macs who are sporting a 3-0 record. However, a strong entry in the form of the No Talent All-Stars could prove to be a threat to the Big Mac dominance.

The upset of the week saw the wireless Law II team upset their cross-faculty colleagues, Law A, 2-1.

In the new non-contact league, the freshman team of 1st Year Chaos is undefeated and poses a threat to league-leading Engineering Chem Heads and the Big Mech Attack. Games continue next week at the same field, Monday and Wednesday.

Soccer

The soccer season kicked off this spring with a fine start and the Big Mac dominance. There will be two league games, it looks like the CSA Red Devils are a strong contender for the championship. Challenges can be expected from Caribbean, champions two years ago, and always in contention, and Badash 131 who took the title last year. Wins are worth three points, ties two and losses one.

Team GP W L T Pts.
Red Devils 2 2 0 0 6
I.S.O. 2 1 1 0 4
Col. Nat. 2 1 1 0 4
Caribbean 2 0 1 1 3
Womens Chasers 1 1 0 0 3
Badash 131 1 0 0 1 2
Cody Hall 2 0 1 0 1

There will be no recreational swimming at the faculty of human kinetics pool from 1:30 pm, to 3:30 pm, on Sat., Oct. 11 and Sat., Oct. 18 due to the football games. There will be no swimming from 6:30 pm, to 9:30 pm, on those nights.

Track records broken

Two new University of Windsor records were set at the Springbank International Road Races held last Sunday.

Linda Stauteuskil found a familiar spot near the top of placing third in the field of 185 runners. Her time for the 4.5 mile distance was 23 minutes, 32.5 seconds to register the first record.

The other new mark came when Paul Roberts finished 44th in a field of 226 runners. His time for the same distance was 21:13.0.

Only one other competitor was entered in the women's section, that being Kathy Ricci, who finished 23rd in 26:12.0.

Five runners besides Roberts made it to the tape in the men's section. They were Rob Stewart (262nd in 22:12.0), Ray Holland (275th in 23:10.0), Al Baird (80th in 23:24.0), Henry Elder (52nd in 23:33.0), and Scott McCall (100th in 24:40.0).

Don McKinnon failed to finish in the race. Windsor's lone entry in the 12 mile race, Gary Malloy, finished 46th in the field of 110 with a time of one hour, nine minutes and 13 seconds.

The University of Windsor Invitation track and field meet will be held Saturday between 11:30 a.m., and 4:30 p.m. Spectator support is required for the athletes to achieve the highest level of achievement.

Racketeers busted

The Lancaster tennis team completed in the OWIAA singles rankings at McMaster University last weekend. The four member team of Maureen Scarfone, Trudy White, Tamara Tobin and Wendy Brader, were all defeated in straight sets in their two matches, with the exception of Scarfone who won her first match over a Wafld Laurier player by 6-1, 6-3 scores. She lost her next two matches and was eliminated from further play.

This weekend the team will compete in the OWIAA doubles rankings at the University of Waterloo.

Superfan Pete Cobb says, watch another one bite the dust Sunday,
1:00 p.m., Channel 2, Detroit Lions at Atlanta.
Generous Lancers serve up victory for Yeomen

by K.P. Chant

The Lancer's 26-23 victory over the Yeomen on Saturday at South Campus Field was more than a generous-allowing loss for the Windsor team than it was a thoroughly-earned win by the York one.

In a phrase, the Lancers gave the victory to York on a silver platter, in a word, it was a gift.

What we are talking about here is a game the Lancers should have won—on at least, tied—but decided instead to drop into the hands of the Yeomen. "Drop" in this sentence equals "fumble".

Windsor fumbled three York punts in the game. The first one early in the first quarter, did not result in a York score, but was grabbed before it went out of bounds. "I thought it had an idea of going out," he said, explaining the "fumble".

Two other York punt return fumbles. "I thought it had a crazy," he said, explaining the "fumble".

There it was touched by a member of the Windsor team members with a 29-yard field goal. "I thought that gave us the game," he said, explaining the "fumble".

With about a minute left, York's punt was returned by Windsor's Cana for a 28-yard score. "I thought that gave us the game," he said, explaining the "fumble".

The tie was established at 20-20. "I thought that gave us the game," he said, explaining the "fumble".

The Yeomen's 26-23 victory was an excellent one, bouncing near the score 20-13 for York.

Windsor fumbled three York punts in the game. The first one early in the first quarter, did not result in a York score, but was grabbed before it went out of bounds. "I thought that gave us the game," he said, explaining the "fumble".

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series. York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.

The Lancer defense held the Yeomen on the following series, and York, penalized for illegal procedure, punted from their own 25-yard line. The punt, as was most in the game, was an excellent one, bouncing near the Windsor 25.

There it was touched by a Windsor team member after a member of the Windsor team dropped a real shot at winning this see-saw game. One minute and 12 seconds into that period, Windsor place-kicker Zoran Miljkovic thrilled the crowd with a booming 52-yard field goal. That made the score 20-13 for York.
It's here...

No GIMMICKS
No CLICHES SIMPLY TRUE VALUE

This Week at .................. AUDIO WORLD

AKAI
GX-M10 CASSETTE DECK
$399
SAVE ANOTHER $35 THIS WEEK When You Purchase MAXELL C90 TAPES at $1 EACH

Featuring famous twinline Super GX Head Handles metal tape. Instant program search system (IPSS), Dolby and A.D.R. systems.

AKAI
CS-M01 CASSETTE DECK
$199
SAVE ANOTHER $35 THIS WEEK When You Purchase MAXELL C90 TAPES at $1 EACH

Superb value! Dolby noise reduction. MPX filter, twin level meters, auto play system with 3-position selection.

AKAI
TAPE HEAD CLEANER KIT
$595
Reg. $7.95

PIXALL RECORD CLEANERS
$999
Reg. $19.95

AKAI
ASE-7P EARPHONES
$24.95
Reg. $34.95

AKAI
United We Stand!
PRO - 501

TURNTABLE

PIXXAL RECORD CLEANERS

AKAI

AAP-30C TURNTABLE
$179.95
An excellent turntable with direct drive, auto stop and tone arm return. Strobe scope, pitch control, arm sliding adjuster and cartridge. DC servo motor.

AKAI
AAP-B20C TURNTABLE
$119.95
Comes with cartridge and dustcover. Featuring auto-stop and tone arm return. Anti-skating adjuster and belt drive.

Come In and See Our New Display of High Quality Component Stands

"WHERE CUSTOMERS BRING THEIR FRIENDS"

(3 Blocks West of Pillette)

4398 Tecumseh Rd. E.

OPEN: MON. THURS. & FRI. 10-9 TUES., WED. & SAT. 10-6

948-8137

"BONUS" SAVE OVER $35
maxell.

C90 TAPES (Reg. $8.65)

PURCHASE ANY
AKAI CASSETTE DECK and You Can Buy Up To 5 C90 MAXELL TAPES for $1 EACH
Reg. $8.65 Each
Sorry, Limit 2 Per Customer

SAV E ANOTHER $3 THIS WEEK When You Purchase MAXELL C90 TAPES at $1 EACH

"WHERE CUSTOMERS BRING THEIR FRIENDS" Motion dismissed with howls

by Ed McMahon

A motion calling for the removal of student representation from the Promotion and Tenure Committees at the University of Windsor was soundly defeated at the Senate meeting last Thursday, October 2.

In an almost unanimous vote (there were only three who voted for the motion) the Senate threw out the motion of Professor J.K. Calliton, head of the Religious Studies Department.

The notice of motion, which was presented at the September Senate meeting, raised howls of protest from student leaders, the most vocal being David Simmon, Students' Administrative Council President.

Simmon called the motion "paternalistic" and "irresponsible.

Senator Senator Representative Eric Dixon addressed the motion, calling it "a giant step backward." Dixon went on to mention the students who had served on Promotion and Tenure Committees of the highest caliber, and that the argument Calliton presented that students were incapable of judging professors because of lack of knowledge of teaching was unrealistic, as professors themselves frequently have the same problem.

Dixon also brushed aside Calliton's claim that students would be "highly subjective," saying "as if they (professors) have the monopoly on objectivity."

He also said while students may feel some "unfair pressure," the same pressure must be felt by those members of the faculty who serve on the committees.

In his ten-minute speech, Dixon also made reference to the minutes of the Senate meeting on April 21, 1971, in which the motion was passed allowing students to sit on Promotion and Tenure Committees. In that meeting, Dr. Francis Leddy, then President of the university, stated "the Department Heads were frequently unfamiliar with the teaching ability of certain members of their own staff (said) the only alternative was to get the opinion of the students."

Dixon also noted that it was proposed that teaching faculty be on the committee, the same objections about objectivity and breach of confidence were made. At that meeting Dr. Leddy said, "If it is not possible to assess a member's teaching abili­ ity through faculty sources, it should be directly obtained from the students."

Also discussed at the meeting was a notice of motion by Dr. C.L. Brown-John, calling for Special Committee of the Senate or the Committee of University Government to be set up to look into the status of final examinations.

Dr. Brown-John is especially concerned with the disposition of final exams, and the methods of posting marks. Also men­tioned in the motion was the practice of leaving exams, lab assignments and essays in public locations such as hallways and lounges after marking.

Brown-John is concerned that this practice does not protect student confidentiality in terms of marks.

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

---

Lunch and radioactive isotopes

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind

The next Senate meeting is scheduled for early November.

by Syd Elkind
by Chris Woodrow

"We're on a roll, so we have to maintain our momentum," says John Sharpe, Director of Alumni Affairs at the University of Windsor.

Since coming to the job a year ago last July, Sharpe has reorganized the office of alumni Affairs and is in the process of reacquainting some of the 77,000 graduates of the University of Windsor with their alma mater.

Department change said Sharpe, speaking of alumni membership, is the "annual alumni fund is replacing annual membership." Rather than insisting on a specified annual membership, the alumni office is itself a target, which it hopes to reach by charging an annual donation and raising money for the fund, said Sharpe.

Sharpe continued, saying, "A lot of people in this community can't afford $10. We want to get our involved, regardless of how much money they give." But he added, "We are helping that people that are able to give more than $10 will do that."

The Alumni Annual Fund has set itself a goal of $500,000 over the next five years and incorporated into the goal are four objectives. The first objective is student aid, "in the form of bursaries and awards... we'd like to help the kid who otherwise may not be able to come to university, who has a solid academic base and who is involved in the school community," said Sharpe.

"We want to have the ability to bring lectures and guest speakers on campus... for the students, the alumni, the faculty and staff, and for the community," said Sharpe of the second objective.

The Alumni Annual Fund is simply replacing annual membership, which it hopes to reach by reacquainting some of the 27,000 graduates of the University of Windsor with their downtown area of Detroit, camps, thus becoming cut off in a way right to Electa, but we are operational soon. Chapters in other centres require more work, said Sharpe, but he hopes to have them organized in the near future.

Commenting on the reaction of alumni when they are contacted, Sharpe said, "It's really good. The amount of alumnis that there are tremendous affinity between our alumni and our school. I'm very gratified... a lot of people have worked hard."

"We've got some really excellent people in the chapters. We've tried to organize chapters so that they are not just social clubs, but there is a meaningful kind of relationship."

In conjunction with this, the Office of Alumni Affairs is planning to begin a young alumni association of campus in attempt to get students involved before they graduate.

Through Windsor University Magazine (which contains alumni news), chapters and Homecoming, Sharpe hopes to begin "to reestablish contacts and begin to correspond." This will maintain the momentum, said Sharpe.
Editorial

“The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted”

- W. Bertram C'heery

Poor publicity may mean another lousy Homecoming

When Thomas Wolfe said, “You can’t go home again”, he must have been thinking about Homecoming at this university. Every October at most universities, huge Homecoming parades are held, take place, large amounts of alcohol are consumed while the crowds dance to the wee hours of the morning, the alumni return to join in the festivities, and a loud mob turns out to cheer the home team to victory at the annual Homecoming football game.

Yes, at almost every other university in this province a massive party is held in the middle of this dreary month of October. But here...

Well, supposedly there is a Homecoming this year. We in the media know because we got a memorandum from the Student Affairs Office. Unfortunately, memorandums were not sent to all the students on campus, nor were they put on the noticeboard. It’s as if the powers that be don’t want anyone to show up. If that is the case, they will probably get what they want.

For your own information, the memorandum we got was specifically about the Homecoming parade, improvised for Saturday, October 18.

The memorandum was dated September 29, so it probably arrived at The Lance on September 30. We threw it into the issue we were working on (October 3) as a “promo” on Homecoming.”

NUS trying to become more effective for students

The National Union of Students is a student organization with a national representation of 48 student councils across the country. Presently NUS is undergoing a restructuring process, if successful, would see the combination of provincial student organizations and NUS into one national student federation yet to be formed.

The Ontario Federation of Students (OFS), of which Ontario’s student organization, and to which the University of Windsor belongs, will be fully supportive of the NUS restructuring idea. Also, in favour of restructuring are British Columbia, Alberta, and Nova Scotia. These provinces which have no full time recognized provincial organizations (Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland) are also trying to get into the national picture, which does organize a provincial organization, has just made an application to NUS for recognition, and that has turned into a piece of the pie.

Presently, at the University of Windsor Ontario, a referendum is being run by the Student Council to rid that university of NUS. Although the student council has no official stance on the referendum question, the student newspaper The Gazetteer, has come out firmly in support of NUS.

John Doherty is the National Director of NUS, and in this recent letter to an organization over some time at Western during the past week organized the campus to keep Western in NUS. The referendum has set up its voting register, and Doherty is marginally optimistic about the outcome. “It’s going to be close”, he said. “I really don’t like to try to predict the outcome.”

Whether or not NUS survives as the University of Western Ontario, it intends to go ahead with its referendum. Doherty feels that the advantages of restructuring are many, including the more effective use of money, a subject near and dear to the hearts of any student. If the national and provincial organizations were combined and the work they do were more co-ordinated and thus, more effective for students.

There is also a better opportunity for work to be complimentary on the national and provincial levels. At a conference in Winnipeg scheduled for October 18, NUS is to discuss its restructuring in full with as many member organizations as possible.

Hopefully the Winnipeg conference will result in a new, national student organization, which would go a long way towards uniform student representation or both the national and provincial levels.

by Ed McMahon

The Fortnighter

By John Mill

Hi! It’s beautiful and sunny out today (Wednesday remember) . Football and frolics in the quad and students lounging on the grass. Days like this were not meant for writing, but here we go anyway.

How many of you out there know what the “objective” means? No you don’t, you don’t have a clue until you start writing for a newspaper. Objectivity in the dictionary means “exists separate of the mind . .. common sense . ..”

That means “report the facts and nothing else”, organization means “exists separate of the mind . .. common sense . ..”

We should try to try to predict the outcome.”

Whether or not NUS survives as the University of Western Ontario, it intends to go ahead with its referendum. Doherty feels that the advantages of restructuring are many, including the more effective use of money, a subject near and dear to the hearts of any student. If the national and provincial organizations were combined and the work they do were more co-ordinated and thus, more effective for students.

There is also a better opportunity for work to be complimentary on the national and provincial levels. At a conference in Winnipeg scheduled for October 18, NUS is to discuss its restructuring in full with as many member organizations as possible.

Hopefully the Winnipeg conference will result in a new, national student organization, which would go a long way towards uniform student representation or both the national and provincial levels.

by Ed McMahon

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by the Student Media Corporation, to which the Lance is affiliated.

Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writer and not necessarily the University of Wis­

The Lance Office is located on the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor, 450 Sunset Ave., Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Phone (519) 253-4060.

Subscription rates are $8.00 per year. Address subscription to Class Mail at the Post Office of Canada.

The Lance, Vol. LIii, No. 5, Friday, October 10, 1980, Page Four Hard to do well on little cash

Dear Sirs:

"Do they need the money?"

In your last issue of The Lance (October 3), you asked that question on your editorial page (a page I thought was never subjected to bad journalism.) You answered "with a loud 'Definitely.'" This had led to a great deal of optimism on my part. At that point in the editorial I felt that The Lance was fully behind the other student voice here at the University of Windsor-CJAM. You proceeded to show the usual uninformed student population how CJAM needs the money. This truly thought was a kind gesture.

Bradley Mitchell

Never mind

Dear Law Columnist,

I am a first-year arts student whos planing to go to a trip around the world this summer. I have been hearing a lot about laws regarding youth in Asia. Can you please fill me in. I should have to cancel the trip.

Please withhold my name by request:

Thank you

David Weber
Producer
Campus Close-up
CJAM

Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance’s mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit submissions. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author’s phone number and address.

Social Science students need a good time too

Dear Editor,

On October 14 and 15, one of the referendums being held is for a Social Science Society. The cost of such a society would be $2.50 per semester for Social Science students.

We would just like to express our views on why there is a definite need for such a society. To begin with, Social Science students are under-represented. Social Science is the second biggest faculty on campus, outnumbered only by the Business Faculty (and that has only been in the past few years).

Upon entering university, a student in Social Science hears about the Business Faculty’s Career Night, the Engineering Society’s Beer Bash, the Law Faculty’s Wine and Cheese party, etc. None of these activities involve Social Science students. Indeed, there are no opportunities to socialize with other Social Science students. We hope that the creation of a Social Science Society will give students belonging to the faculty special events that they would not otherwise enjoy.

Sporting events would be one of these activities. Hopefully there would be some Social Science team to play in the intramural program.

Social events would also be provided. These would range from socializing with your professor, to beer bashes, to semi-formals in the spring. Where would we be if we didn’t have all those activities outside of studying at university and we would like Social Science students to have a chance to enjoy them.

We would also like to bring in guest speakers. People to lecture who would be interesting and who could never be afforded as scheduled by the better known departments in Social Science.

Moreover, we would like to see a media night for Social Science. There should be time set aside for businesses to come and talk about prospective job opportunities in their companies. These are just a few of the reasons we would like to see a society formed for Social Science students.

Do they need the money?

Then you seemed to get off your soapbox. You claimed that a good number of staff members replied in the negative when asked about student funding of the radio station. Are these staff members aware of the hard work and dedication that goes into keeping CJAM on the air? I’m sure that each and everyone of those "hard workers" knows what it is like to produce quality material in the student media on very little cash.

To quote you: "CJAM has been managed by some party bush people in the past few years..." Does that statement reflect your feelings about the radio station? I hope not. He is one of the major reasons CJAM even has a license to operate. It is important to us that CJAM keep a license by the end of this year. That is a ridiculous demand.

I am one of the many students who look for The Lance every Friday around noon. I do enjoy your paper very much! But let’s try for some quality editorial writing which will present facts, not fiction. How can you support a radio station if you have a knife in your back.

Thanks for listening.

David Weber
Producer
Campus Close-up CJAM

Don’t be a rat—send

The Lance

some poetry

NEW member welcome

LANCE MEETING FRIDAY AT LUNCHEON

2ND FLOOR STUDENT CENTRE

THE LANCE Vol. XLI, No. 5, Friday, October 10, 1980, Page Five

Gale

Dear Editor,

I was like to set the facts straight with regards to the used book sale that the Students Administrative Council offered this year.

I originally got the idea from Carleton University and decided that the S.A.C. should offer a similar service here at the University of Windsor. With the help of Mark Greene and Roy Dickie, I designed an advertising campaign and developed accounting procedures to insure the success of the book sale. My goal accomplished, I approached Dave Simmons stating that it was now necessary that I begin working on the Student Fee increase of which I am the Chairman. Dave agreed and launched the book sale as it was scheduled.

I accept full responsibility for the book sale starting late because I should have anticipated the unexpected delays that always occur when dealing with advertising mediums. The late start was not, as stated in last week’s article, due to my lack of commitment.

I would also like to thank the volunteers that helped make the book sale a success.

Bradley Mitchell

Not so fast

Dear Editor,

It is very reassuring to see you express support for the possibility of having an FM radio station at the University of Windsor. Indeed, this is the direction CJAM is heading, with the students’ support for the upcoming referendum playing an important role.

The haste in your support, though, has blinded your editorial sense to the reality of the situation.

FM licences are not acquired with a staff of over 100 students. Moreover, we would like to see a society to serve as a check if and when the volunteers who have helped make CJAM successful, leave.

Patti Taylor

Manager, CJAM
Landlords aren't all bad but if they are...

by Michael Reid

Are you one of the many student tenants on campus? If so, you have certain rights as a tenant. This article is an attempt to educate you with regards to some of these rights. It is not a complete statement of landlord—tenant law. If you encounter one of the problems discussed below, you are well advised to visit the Community Legal Aid in the Faculty of Law. It is hoped that this article will enable you to realize when one or more of your rights are being trudged upon.

First, you should ascertain that you are a tenant and not merely a licensee. Only tenants are entitled to the protection which will be outlined below. Although it is not certain, it is felt that to qualify as a tenant, you must live in your own residential unit. You likely must have a private kitchen, bathroom, and private sleeping quarters. It is not necessary that your apartment be in an apartment building. However, it appears that roomers do not come within the relevant legislation.

If you are a tenant, you are protected by The Landlord and Tenant Act. This statute gives you certain rights which cannot be violated, regardless of the terms of your lease. Furthermore, the statute pertains to your tenancy even if you do not have a written lease. It is not necessary to lease to be a tenant.

However you are foolish to take an apartment without a written lease. A written lease will contain the terms of the tenancy which you must adhere to while a tenant. Without a lease, it is your word against the landlord's as to what the two of you agreed to, with no guaranties as to which one of you a judge will believe.

You may be a joint tenant. This situation arises if you take an apartment with another person, with the knowledge of the landlord. In such situations, each tenant is individually liable for the full rent. Your remedy is then against your roommate, for his/her share. Likewise, you are each able to enforce your rights against the landlord.

What are these rights? Primarily, you have a right to the quiet possession of your apartment. The landlord can only enter your apartment under the following conditions:

1. In cases of emergency—to put out a fire, for example.
2. With your permission.
3. To show the apartment to future tenants, when you have given notice that you intend to terminate the lease. Such showings can only take place in reasonable hours.
4. If the landlord has given you twenty four hour notice, specifying the time of entry. Entry must be made during daylight hours.

The landlord cannot simply evict you. He must have good reason for doing so. For example, the landlord will be able to evict you if you don't pay the rent, or damage the apartment, or carry on an illegal activity. There are other grounds. However, the landlord can only evict you if he/she has a court order. Furthermore, the landlord has to give you notice when he/she intends to get such a court order. You can then appear at the hearing, and dispute the landlord's right of eviction.

You have the right of a "fit" place to live. The landlord must keep the apartment in a good state of repair. The apartment must be heated in winter, have water, etc. It must comply with local health standards. It must be kept in a safe condition, in other words, there cannot be bare electrical wires, broken stairs or broken windows, as some examples. The building must be reasonably clean—"not infested with rats, cockroaches or worse. You are responsible for the cleanliness of your own apartment. However, you need only repair any damages you cause. The landlord must make all other repairs.

What can you do if the landlord violates these rights? Many steps are open to you.

If the landlord has not kept the apartment in a fit state of repair, you can apply to a county court judge for certain remedies. The judge can lower your rent, order that the necessary repairs be made, order that heat be provided, even order the landlord to pay you a sum in damages. In short, the judge has fairly wide discretion in dealing with the matter.

If heat is not being provided, you can phone the Windsor Board of Health. They will put a lock on the thermostat. If heat is not provided, they will prosecute the landlord. As well, you personally can prosecute the landlord. To do so, you must get an order from a justice of the peace, who will have the police serve it on the landlord. Under this step, the landlord can be fined up to $2,000. It should be noted, however, that fines that high are rarely awarded.

If the landlord violates any of these rights, or any terms of your lease, you can withhold your rent. The landlord can only get the rent, or you evicted, SEE "MORE TENANT LAW", PAGE 7.

You are one of the best products to hit the market place since the invention of fried bread.

O) How do you sell yourself in a marketplace glutted with similar products?

A) A good resume can go a long way in solving this problem. And if it looks good then you have a better chance of creating a favourable impression.

Student Media Services can provide you with the crisp, professional typeset resume that will help you create the necessary impression. A two page resume including 50 copies on quality offset paper is only $25.

For more information, contact the SAC office, 2nd floor University Centre or phone 253-6423.

Engineers should hear about
THE GROWTH BUSINESSES OF THE FUTURE

AI Honeywell the future offers great possibilities. After fifty years in Canada as a world leader in high technology, we are established in energy management, information systems, industrial process control systems, security systems, building environmental management, and defense systems. These are the growth businesses of the future. Continued expansion across Canada is creating a need for Professional Engineers in a number of areas:

Chemical Electrical Industrial

We will be on campus on
October 27, 1980

Sign up for an interview at your Placement Office, or contact us directly.

University Relations
Honeywell Limited
740 Ellesmere Road
Scarborough, Ontario
M1P 2V9

Honeywell

For the full rent. Your remedy is then against the landlord. In such a situation, the landlord's as to what the two of you a...
More tenant law

by Peter Heartnow

"Partition is essentially an international issue, whereas constitutional amendment is a domestic affair."

With that statement, the Hon. Paul Martin, P.C., announced the distinguished parliamentarian during the St. Lawrence and Pearson years, and, most recently, Canada's High Commissioner to Great Britain, set the tone for his public lecture at the Faculty of Law last week.

The occasion was the inauguration of the University of Windsor International Law Society lecture series. The students/faculty group, under the direction of Professor Brian Mazer, is planning a number of lectures and seminars dealing with issues related to the study of international law.

Speaking to a large gathering of faculty and students is theHon. Paul Martin, P.C.

Martin opens Law Lecture Series

by Debbie Staley

While Trudeau is in Ottawa struggling over the constitution, the National Association of Women and the Law will be hosting their annual regional conference at the University of Windsor. The focus point of the conference will be Women and the Constitution.

To facilitate this theme, the conference will consist of various workshops ranging from family law to the effects of the Bill of Rights on women.

Along with these workshops, the conference is featuring speakers from both the federal and provincial governments.

According to Maclain Beo, the treasurer of the Windsor caucus, the main purpose of the conference is "to establish NAWL's position of women and the constitution." The conference will also attempt to educate both law students and the general public.

In order to cover the expenses of the conference, a registration fee will be required.

Ms. Beo stated NAWL is restricted in their access of funds. According to these restrictions, the funding for the conference cannot be obtained outside the university.

Ms. Beo expects to have a good turnout as a result of the cancellation of two previous conferences.

As a notice to all those budding lawyers, militant females or curious citizens, this year's conference will take place at the Faculty of Law on October 24 and 25.

What to do with an empty Blue.
Trying to draw a graphic to show the "chain of command" at this university now would be a very difficult task. After an administrative shake-up this summer, some people in high places on this campus may not be quite sure exactly what they are supposed to be doing.

In addition, some administrators have left and not been replaced (and may not be). Although the university is still running, some chairs in Windsor Hall are still empty and may not be filled for a little while yet.

When those chairs are filled, The Lance will let you know. But, since that may take a while and since a lot of important changes were made this summer, we thought we had better introduce you to the new administrator who has already taken their positions.

Before delving into their nitty gritty histories, however, perhaps it would be a good idea to tell you how the university runs. Actually, people on student newspapers don't know how their universities run — they just know how they should. Be that as it is, here it goes.

Think of the university as this country, Canada. Parliament Hill is, then, the Windsor Hall Tower, with the university president acting as Prime Minister (except he is not elected).

An expert assistant in his cabinet (the vice-president and assistant vice-presidents profiled below). These gentlemen advise the president about matters pertaining to their specific areas and are advised in turn by those people under them.

Thes gentlemen are advised by various "royal commissions" which take the form of university Senate sub-committees. Collectively the Senate is a large regulatory body for the university, like the federal government's Senate, but with more power and less old people.

The faculty constitute provinces, with all the Deans acting as premiers. Professors, then, are the backbones of the whole country since they can only be equated with the national and provincial regiment of civil servants.

Rubber-stamping all the administration's decisions is the Board of Governors, which is like the Governor-General but, again, rather more powerful. It is composed of numerous people, both from the university and the Windsor community.

Obviously, then, the students of the university equal the constituents of the country and taxation equals taxes (except a lot higher). Enough of this analogy. On to the profile of the powermongers...

President Mervyn Franklin
by E.P. Chant

The man responsible for all the administrative changes this made, summer President Mervyn Franklin, feels he has the administration "pretty well" the way it is now.

In an interview early this week, Dr. Franklin said the recent reorganization of his "team" still might need some "fine tuning" (perhaps a few more faces, shuffling, or more responsibilities for the new appointees), but, basically, he was satisfied that he now has "people in the administration who are accountable for their actions."

Since, self-admittedly, Dr. Franklin feels one of his chief responsibilities is "to make decisions and recommendations for the best of the university", he used the rather inactive summer months to suggest some of the personnel switches to his overseer, the Board of Governors.

With that board's stamp of approval, people started moving into new offices and jobs.

One of the more notable summer reorganizations occurred in Student Services. "We needed one clearly identifiable organization to serve students", the University Centre included," said Dr. Franklin, explaining his creation of the new post of Assistant Vice-President, Student Services.

That position was given to former Dean of Students George McMahon, who Dr. Franklin described as "an experienced man with a sensitivity and understanding for student problems". McMahon will be responsible for overseeing many student-related campus areas and departments, including the Centen, Food Services and Residence, and the Office of Student Affairs. The integration of all these areas was not a recent idea, said Dr. Franklin, but he could not get around to it last year because of his involvement in the faculty contract negotiations.

Though he said McMahon could, in many instances, report directly to him, Dr. Franklin pointed out the administrative re-structuring would usually have the new assistant vice-president reporting to Dr. Paul Cassano, the new Vice-President, Academic.

That connection was established, Dr. Franklin explained, "because the entire objective of the office of the Vice-President, Academic—aside from research and faculty matters—is directed to student education and life. Also, he continued, the students involved with the search committee that decided on Dr. Cassano felt the new appointee should be more visible to the students and involved with Student Services.

There are still two holes in the administration caused by the departure from the Windsor Hall tower of two administrators, Dr. John Allan, formerly Vice-President of Administration, has left the university for good for reasons perhaps never to be officially confirmed, and Dr. Frank DeMarco, formerly Vice-President of Planning, has returned to teaching full-time in the Faculty of Engineering.

Dr. Franklin could not say whether these empty posts would be filled, changed in scope, or amalgamated into another part of the administration. The Board of Governors, he explained, is responsible for "determining the best structure to satisfy the services needed" and the matter had not yet been discussed in great detail.

In addition to his attempt to make his administration more accessible ("without open lines of communication to the administration, campus problems can become festering sores"), Dr. Franklin discussed his concern about keeping the universities of Ontario accessible to students.

In the 1960s, he explained, the provincial government thought post-secondary education was a great thing and that enrolment for the same would always be high. Thus, the government built perhaps too many universities according to Dr. Franklin.

Now that enrolment is dropping severely at many universities, the government has frozen capital funding for such institutions and is even considering closing some of the smaller ones. Dr. Franklin said such measures constituted "the wrong decision by the government for the wrong reason... an irresponsible idea that goes against accessibility... slow strangulation by the government..." and something the government has not thought through sufficiently since it has so far looked only at the costs incurred by universities.

"Ontario has always been the workshop of Canada," he elaborated. "If universities are closed, we'll lose that. It will erode... we must have human resources."

What follows are profiles of the men who are very much concerned with developing this university and the human resources within, the vice-president and assistant vice-presidents of the University of Windsor's administration...

Assistant Vice-President, Administration-Operations C.W. Morgan
by Wendy Coomber

Charles William Morgan, Assistant Vice-President of Administration-Operations, towers far above the campus in his sixth floor, Windsor Hall office.

This fellow also was, for 13 years, has overseen the construction of many of the campus buildings.

In August of 1957, C.W. Morgan was employed by the Assumption University at the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. The major feature of that position involved directing the construction of various buildings.
new faces in new administrative places

In those first 15 years, said Morgan in an interview, there were one or two buildings in the works at all times. "The West Ledy Library was one of those. Among the events outstanding in that busy time, Morgan said the erection of awards from the Masonry Institute for the design of the main library and the Energy Conversion Power Plant was one of the best.

In 1970 he became Director of Planning and Construction. In the two years that he spent in this position, he managed projects in this area totalling over $12 million.

In 1979 he found himself in the role of Assistant to Vice President of Administration. With this job he became responsible for Physical Planning's operations (campus security, information, and involvement in staff work studies, which entailed gathering and studying research in various areas).

In 1974 he assumed additional responsibilities with Administrative Services, property management, and campus safety.

Morgan took over his present job, Assistant Vice-President of Administration-Operations in 1978. He is still responsible for campus construction and he acts as project manager on the new St. Denis Gym, but his job is now more of an administrative one, as his title implies.

Morgan now receives reports in his office from the directors of the physical plant (maintenance), security, Administrative Services (purchasing, bookstore, post office, microfilming, etc.), Physical Planning (space allocation), research shop, and electronic designs.

As well, Morgan is also Chairman of the Space Committee which studies the space available on the campus and employs or relocates it according to how it is needed.

"We're always rearranging space," explained Morgan, adding that departments are always shifting—expanding or decreasing. The relocation of the Registrar's, Cashier's, and the Awards Office on the first floor of Windsor Hall was decided by this group.

Later in his career, Morgan also became Special Chairman of the Centre Renovations Committee. In this role he convenes meetings of the Committee and assists in acquiring the money needed for the renovations.

Assistant Vice-President, Student Services
George McMahon

After 17 years on the administrative staff, the new Assistant Vice-President of Student Services, George McMahon, said, "I've never looked forward to a year more than this year.

McMahon filled the newly created position September 1, 1980, having been the Dean of Students since 1967. He joined the administration as Assistant to the Dean of Arts and Science, July 1, 1963, the day the University of Windsor ceased being Assumption University, it is easy to see why employment relations take up so much time.

Besides dealing with day to day problems of the staff, Mr. Lynch negotiates contracts with the unions on campus. This year, said Mr. Lynch, "we will be negotiating salaries for academic staff and contracts for three non-academic unions."

Mr. Lynch started at the university as Assistant Vice-President of Staff Relations in April, 1979, and held that position until entering the newly created position of Assistant Vice-President of Human Resources, September 23, 1980. In this position, he is responsible to the Vice-President, Academic. Conversely, the Director of Personnel and University Safety Officer report to Mr. Lynch.

Mr. Lynch said he got the position "because of my academic and labour relations background. " Before coming to the university he worked for the Cultural Affairs Branch of the Ministry of Colleges and Universities as manager of student and staff affairs for the five community colleges. This position involved responsibility for labour relations at the colleges, he said.

Before working for the ministry, Mr. Lynch taught staff training and development at George Brown College in Toronto, where he worked with the Toronto General Hospital, Metro Toronto Police, and Monarch Foods, among others, training staff in supervisory skills and communication techniques.

His job, said Mr. Lynch, "is to promote and facilitate harmonious employment relationships," and, by trying to handle all employee complaints himself, he fulfills his position. He added he is responsible "for the full human resources function."

Mr. Lynch said he likes to see "full participation in unions as they are hit by apathy like democracy."

He said good union relationships are achieved through good management working with unions and added "we get a good measure of that at the university." Mr. Lynch said he would much rather work with a strong union as they "are more responsible." He said they are organized and know exactly what they want. When negotiating a contract, Mr. Lynch said he bargains "within the mandate approved by the Board of Governors."

"I know where my limits are and don't go outside them," he added.

New advisor

Dr. Riz Haque, of the Faculty of Business Administration, has been appointed Foreign Student Advisor-Faculty Associate to the Office of Student Affairs. Dr. Haque has been a member of the Faculty of Business Administration of this University since 1967, where he currently holds the rank of Associate Professor. During this period and in addition to his teaching and research duties, he has held many positions within the university, such as member of the University Senate, member of UCAPI, research consultant to the President's Committee of Enrollment and Recruitment, and Area Chairman of Marketing within the Faculty of Business Administration.

Dr. Haque will be available to all foreign students in the meeting room of the International Students' Organization. The new advisor will maintain regular hours in the following offices:

MONDAY: 1:30-3:30 p.m.
WEDNESDAY: 1:30-3:30 p.m.
FRIDAY: 10:30-12:00 noon
SUNDAY: 1:30-5:30 p.m.

Polling stations for SAC
By-Elections on October 14 & 15

Tuesday the 14th
Leddy Library
University Centre
Vanier Hall
Commerce Building
Jebediah Building
Human Kinetics Law Building
Essex Hall

Wednesday the 15th
Leddy Library
University Centre
Vanier Hall
Commerce Building
Matth Building
Essex Hall
Education Faculty
Dramatic Arts

Full-time undergraduate voters only
Bring your student ID card

Polling stations will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the 14th and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the 15th.
On October 14 and 15, your Council will be asking you to increase the student fee by $5.

The increase is made necessary because inflation makes it impossible to introduce new services and special events. Without an increase, everything the council funds and the Student Liquor Services are in jeopardy.

Without an increase, everything the council funds and the Student Liquor Services are in jeopardy.

Presently, your Students’ Administrative Council is a major university across this province. If you have the same number of services that other universities have, you need the same amount of money.

Money.

Each year this council collects just over $156,000. McMaster University has 7,700 students, each paying $43. Their council collects over $329,000. The University of Guelph, whose many services include a record store and even a restaurant, collects $306,000 and has a cash flow in the millions. Laurier University, which has an enrolment of less than 10,000, collects $350,000. These universities can offer many services because they have the necessary monies. In short, they can double the services because they collect nearly twice as much money.

We’re not asking for twice as much money at this campus. If the referendum passes, the fee will rise to $16.25 per semester. By voting yes to the referendum, you will be giving your Students’ Administrative Council the mandate to be able to offer even more services. Clubs and Social events will be able to flourish because of increased funding and will be able to provide even greater activities for their members.

Help us help you.
Students' Administrative Council is calling on you to increase the present fee of $42.50 per year. The rising costs make it not only necessary to increase the present fee of $42.50 per year, but to also increase the present fee of $42.50 per year to cover the cost of services such as concert and movie nights, as well as other rising costs. The Drug Plan, The Lance, Societies, Clubs, and other services operate on a level far below that of any other institution. The answer is quite simple; the reason is that the council does not offer more services as much as they offer services. They offer as much services as they can from student fees, but the upcoming fees in the upcoming years will benefit students. The council will benefit students by expanding and planning. We can make it
We at Harvey's would like to welcome both new and returning students back to another year at the University of Windsor.

You are one of the reasons why we have been so successful and we haven't forgotten.

At Harvey's we believe we serve something special. Our customers.

And because of that we make that extra effort for you.

From our freshmade french fries to our pure beef hamburgers loaded with as many garnishes you desire...we offer nothing but the best.

That's why...

Every bite says its

---
P.S. Whoever stole our palm tree, would you please return it. It has sentimental value.
Slam out with a bang; SAC's pub gets the lowdown

by Peter Haggert

They call themselves Slam. They certainly started this week at SAC's with a bang. A four piece new wave band, Slam hails from Kingston, Ontario. Their Monday through Wednesday stint at SAC's is just one on their multi-university tour.

Playing long sets of loud and lively music, the group proved themselves to be better than most bands from this area.

Word spread quickly, and by Wednesday night, the crowds lined up to get into the pub. Was it their music that attracted the audience? I'm inclined to believe their luscious lead singer had something to do with the attendance.

Having a female vocalist always adds versatility to a band. Hit Me With Your Best Shot, their inclinations to believe their luscious lead singer had something to do with the attendance.

I'm just as cute as she is!

This group features music from the early '60s. Low Down has a more laid-back style, probably easier on the nerves, but bordering on disco. It has been hinted that they play a lot of dancing music. That's about all I can tell you—you are going to have to judge them yourselves.

That's Low Down, at SAC's pub this weekend.

Toreador Waltzes into Essex Theatre

The University of Windsor Players open their twenty-second season this weekend at the Essex Hall Theatre. The initial presentation is Jean Anouilh's The Waltz of the Toreadors.

The intricate plot actually involves two main story lines; one, a comic sex farce about a general who fancies himself as quite a toreador of the ladies; the other, expounding the bitterness and disgust he feels toward himself, and the hollowness of his triumphs, on and off the battlefield.

Tickets are available at the Essex Theatre box office. For additional information, please contact Denny Young at 253-4565, or 253-4232 ext. 146.

Thanks to all who participated in the Siren's review.

The response was positive, leading me to believe only one thing:

We should go metric—every inch of the way.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by Rosemarie Comiso

A game usually played by children matures quickly into adulthood when Walter Matthau and the C.I.A. are the opponents in a new movie called Hopscotch. Instead of cement sidewalks and paved driveways, these rivals hop, skip and jump from one end of Europe to another, sometimes crossing the Atlantic into the United States as part of their strategies. The result is a delightful and sophisticated comedy that pokes fun at the serious and clandestine business of espionage and information-gathering systems.

This globetrotting jaunt all starts when Kendig (Matthew) quits the C.I.A. and runs to Austria, where he decides to write a book about his life in the agency, much to the chagrin of Myerson (Ned Beatty), a former boss, and other intelligence agencies around the world. Not satisfied with just publishing his memoirs, Kendig teases his adversaries by mailing instalments of his manuscript to all of them. Together with his train-mate Isabel (Glenda Jackson), an old girlfriend and ex-C.I.A. agent herself, they manage to outwit their pursuers by keeping one step ahead of them in a whimsical and adventurous romp against time.

Director Ronald Neame has used sight gags sparingly and instead relied heavily on the cast to maintain Hopscotch's low-keyed humor. Even though scenes with Glenda Jackson are few and far between, her calm, cool, controlled character provides a needed balance for the frenetic and crazed role of Ned Beatty. As for Matthau, only a confirmed misanthrope with no sense of humor can resist his elusive and colorful character of Kendig. Even though scenes with Glenda Jackson are few and far between, her calm, cool, controlled character provides a needed balance for the frenetic and crazed role of Ned Beatty. As for Matthau, only a confirmed misanthrope with no sense of humor can resist his elusive and colorful character of Kendig.
Want to hear your favourite band at SAC's?

by John Doyle

It's Saturday night, you're sitting in your regular bar waiting for the band to begin to play. The band's name is unfamiliar—but they have to get a start somewhere—so you're giving them the benefit of the doubt.

The thought crosses your mind that it would be nice if the band was famous or at least known locally. Scepticism gets the upper hand as the band time. Instead of having another tune up and then proceeds to beer, why not let someone know.

Jody Stanton, manager of SAC's Pub, which if you hadn't guessed already is the afore mentioned regular bar frequented by you and your friends.

New talent is always welcome in the pub. If you know of a band that you think would be successful in the pub, talk to Jody Stanton about it, get some promotional material, relevant information, phone number, etc.

Jody Stanton

Manager of SAC's Pub

The University of Windsor

Saturday, October 10

- SAC's Pub presents:

  MAKE A NOTE

Friday, October 10

- And Justice For All will headline the night's0 music, at CINEFEST, 7:00 pm. The 9:30 pm, show will be Harold and Maude. Tickets are $1.99 per feature. CINEFEST is at the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

- The Waltz of the Toreadors continues in Essex Hall. Tickets for Friday performances will be $4.00.

- Low Down will be in SAC's Pub. $1.00 with student card, $1.50 without.

Saturday, October 11

- The Waltz of the Toreadors continues at Essex Hall Theatre. As on Friday, tickets are increased to $4.00.

- CINEFEST will have Fiddler on the Roof as their 7:00pm show. Don't miss this classic, produced and its beautiful musical score. There has been a change for the second show, with Woody Allen's Play it Again Sam is replacing the Rolling Stones which has been held back until November. Tickets for each show are $1.99.

- Chris Whiteley and Caitlin Stanford will be the featured musicians this week at Club Sandwich. The club is located at 83 Riverside Dr. W. Doors open at 8:00 pm, and admission is $3.50.

- Low Down continues at SAC's.

- Club Sandwich will have Rich & Maureen DelGrosso on the 10th at 8:00 pm. Thursday tickets are $4.00.

Sunday, October 12

- The Waltz of the Toreadors continues in the Essex Theatre.

Tuesday, October 14

- The Ontatic Film Theatre will show Steinie, a British film featuring Glenda Jackson and Mona Washbourne. Film starts at 8:00pm. The OFT is at the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St.E.

- The Waltz of the Toreadors, will be presented at 9:40pm. Each show $1.99.

Wednesday, October 15

- A slide presentation, "A variety of Britain" by Mr. J. Lenn- on, will be shown at the Main Library, 850 Ouellette Ave. at 7:30pm.

- Mad Max will be the 7:15 CINEFEST presentation. At 9:30pm, Outrageous will be shown, featuring Hollis McLaren, a former graduate of the University of Windsor School of Dramatic Art. Shows only $1.99.

Thursday, October 16

- CINEFEST will present Seven Beauties, at 7:15pm. This academy award nominee is in Italian, but features English subtitles.

- SAC's Pub Oktoberfest

  German Oom Pah Pah Band
  German Food

Thurs & Fri Oct. 16, 17/80

Sat Oct. 18/80

SAC'S

Students-$2.00 Guests-$5.00

SAC'S PUB PRESENTS

THIS WEEK

The Slam

Oct. 6, 7, 8

Lowdown

Oct. 9, 10, 11

NEXT WEEK

SAC'S PUB OCTOBERFEST

- German Oom Pah Pah Band
- German Food

Thurs & Fri Oct. 16, 17/80

SAT OCT. 18/80

SAC’S HOMECOMING DOUBLE DECKER

- Pub - "Grewty Bands" Continuous Beatles

  Ambassador Auditorium - "Maquis"
  Music for Everyone

Students-$2.00 Guests-$5.00

KJAM

Windsor's 1st Student Radio Station
Records

R.A.F.:
Diamonds in the Sky
by Peter Haggeret

There's hope for all you frustrated track stars yet! Just ask keyboardist/vocalist David Valentine of R.A.F. Valentine was at one time a U.K. professional sprint champion. In fact, his earnings from asphalt endeavors is what financed the band's trip to convince A&M to sign them.

Doug Bogie, guitarist, has the distinction of being an original member of Queen, before they were famous. Queen seems to be one of the heavy influences in the music of R.A.F. "Blue and Give me a Little Time" both feature tight harmonies and a fast paced delivery found among Freddie Mercury's latest recordings. The latter is completed with an excellent Saxophone solo. "Sweet Melinda" is reminiscent of Styx during their Equinox days. The synthesizer and voice mixing is excellent. The band carries their copycat style to extremes sometimes. More Crazy Now has vocals and a bass beat which matches Troggs' "Space ship Superstar" exactly. "Take Me To Your Leader" is the Police's Message in a Bottle with a different chorus.

These irritating similarities are not enough to turn me away from the album though. There is also a good mix of songs which show that their capabilities are there.

Strong welcome on a "Cold Night" is a fast, well executed purely original tune. Waiting For The Weekend also gives the band credit for originality. Valentine is not the best lyricist around, his songs speak more of triviality than important things like philosophies, flowers and trees.

Despite all this criticism, I can't say I dislike the album. It is definitely better than most bands' initial releases. Maybe it's the style I like and not the band. I don't think the album will make it to the charts, but who knows? Stranger things have happened. (After all - I did get this job.)

(P.S.- R.A.F. is not an indication of aircraft allegiance. In this case, the famous acronym is used to stand for "rich and famous").

There's hope for all you frustrated track stars yet! Just ask keyboardist/vocalist David Valentine of R.A.F. Valentine was at one time a U.K. professional sprint champion. In fact, his earnings from asphalt endeavors is what financed the band's trip to convince A&M to sign them.

Doug Bogie, guitarist, has the distinction of being an original member of Queen, before they were famous. Queen seems to be one of the heavy influences in the music of R.A.F. "Blue and Give me a Little Time" both feature tight harmonies and a fast paced delivery found among Freddie Mercury's latest recordings. The latter is completed with an excellent Saxophone solo. "Sweet Melinda" is reminiscent of Styx during their Equinox days. The synthesizer and voice mixing is excellent. The band carries their copycat style to extremes sometimes. More Crazy Now has vocals and a bass beat which matches Troggs' "Space ship Superstar" exactly. "Take Me To Your Leader" is the Police's Message in a Bottle with a different chorus.

These irritating similarities are not enough to turn me away from the album though. There is also a good mix of songs which show that their capabilities are there.

Strong welcome on a "Cold Night" is a fast, well executed purely original tune. Waiting For The Weekend also gives the band credit for originality. Valentine is not the best lyricist around, his songs speak more of triviality than important things like philosophies, flowers and trees.

Despite all this criticism, I can't say I dislike the album. It is definitely better than most bands' initial releases. Maybe it's the style I like and not the band. I don't think the album will make it to the charts, but who knows? Stranger things have happened. (After all - I did get this job.)

(P.S.- R.A.F. is not an indication of aircraft allegiance. In this case, the famous acronym is used to stand for "rich and famous").

Undergraduate Students:

We're looking for the greatest energy source in the world: Human Potential.

We want people with initiative, energy and the ability to manage responsibility. People with imagination and drive.

And you will be challenged by decision-making situations every day.

If Bank of Montreal sounds like it may suit your style, come and talk to us.

We'll be visiting your campus in the next few weeks. Contact your Placement Officer for details of the date and time.

We'll be looking for you.

We are an equal opportunity employer.
Paying for the privilege

by Bill Buchanan

"It's a crime the way record prices are going up. I don't buy records anymore, I just tape all the songs I like from the stereo!" How often do you hear such quotes.

The first step was to set up a price comparison involving various record selling outlets in the city. The campus Bookstore, along with Sentry are representative of the multi-fact stores, Exclusive record retail outlets, Records On Wheels (Huron Church and Ouellette stores), Sam The Record Man and Shopper's Record and Tape Mart (Demoresth) were also surveyed. Among records priced are The Game, Queen's newest No. 1 release, The Grand Illusion by Styx an American release, The Wall, highly esteemed double album by Pink Floyd and Fusion by Bill Buchanan set out to answer.

- It is discouraging to pick up a record album and discover that it costs two dollars more than it did two years ago.
- Record high record prices are worth investigation. What is the dealer mark-up on albums? Why are prices cheaper in the United States? How much profit is made in a "rock-buster" sale? These are just a few of the questions Lance Staffer Bill Buchanan set out to answer.

Here are the results:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Label</th>
<th>Capital</th>
<th>Singles</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Polydor</td>
<td>$6.98</td>
<td>$1.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CBS</td>
<td>$9.29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

"No one is going to pay that for an album, so we would mark it down to maybe $7.99." She went on to say that the outlet is taking a cut in profit, but still make money as, the album itself costs the store approximately $3.57.

Claydus White of Sam The Record Man gave some examples of list prices:

- Polydor $10.49
- CBS $9.29
- Capital $8.98

Remember seeing those large orange stickers saying "Sale! $4.99?" Spokesman for Records On Wheels proved to be the most expensive outlet.

"The games room now found in the back of the store had been recommended to keep the store profitable.

Winchot is noted for notoriously high record prices. "Toronto has lower prices because the cost of shipping is less than ours," says the girl from ROW. "Most of Canada's record presses are located in or near Toronto. You also find price wars among competitors on Yonge Street."

The spokesman from Sam's attributes lower American prices to the bulk buying not possible in the smaller Canadian chains. Most of the records available in Canada are pressed on the better quality Canadian presses. This also accounts for higher prices.

How are these prices set? An agent from Toronto came out to market the product, or whatever, in the manner of the album. The campus Bookstore, who keeps figures on the most popular albums in the Universities, and who always has an agent in Toronto, is noted for notoriety in the university. It is known that the campus Bookstore agents do not carry all the albums, or the albums are not carried in sufficient quantity. It is also known that albums are usually ever so slightly higher in price than in other stores.

The Campus Bookstore carries all your favourites.

Record manufacturers have been using gimmicks lately such as fancy packaging or "picture discs." According to the ROW spokesman, these are strictly collectors items and are not sold for quality, sound reproduction.

- CBS $8.98
- Capitol $9.29
- Polydor $10.49

"We have an agent in Toronto who keeps figures on the most popular albums in the Universities across the provinces. We are then distributed those albums." remarked Beedle. "The store strive for a minimum mark up. We're really only performing an extra service, but still try to maintain a competitive price."

The bookstore also carries classics not found always in other stores.

- Polydor $10.49
- CBS $9.29
- Capital $8.98

Proctor & Gamble Inc.

SALES MANAGEMENT DIVISION will be on campus November 14, 1980 for interview purposes. Applicants from any interested discipline in the university should submit a resume to the

STUDENT PLACEMENT OFFICE
DILLON HALL

No later than October 24th, 1980

Marked for Sales Management Interview, November 14th
Three lucky students will each win a

MERCURY LYNX GL

in the

LONG DISTANCE SWEEPSTAINES

Here’s how to enter. Complete and mail the entry form below. Carefully read the rules and regulations and answer the three easy questions on long distance calling. Entries must be received no later than October 31st, 1980.

Think Mercury Lynx GL, the super sleek new hatchback.

Who knows, you may soon be the proud owner of a bright red one! Enter now.

Long Distance

TransCanada Telephone System

---

Rules and Regulations

1. To enter the Long Distance Sweepstakes, correctly complete the Official Entry Form below. Only Official Entry Forms will be considered. Mail to:

   Long Distance Sweepstakes
   Box NO7, Toronto, Ontario M5W 2E8

2. There will be three prizes awarded. Entry fee will consist of a 1981 Mercury Lynx GL 3-door hatchback automobile. Approximate retail value of prize is $9,000.00. Taxes on prize are the responsibility of the prize winners. Prizes are subject to all federal, provincial, and municipal laws.

3. To enter the Long Distance Sweepstakes, correctly complete the Official Entry Form below. Only self-addressed, stamped envelopes to TCTS, 410 Laurier Ave. W., Room 950, Ottawa, Ont., will be considered. Mail to: Box 2410, Station D, Ottawa, Ont.

4. This contest is open only to students who are registered full-time or part-time at any accredited Canadian University, College or Post-Secondary Institution. Employees of TCTS, its members, associated and affiliated companies, its advertising and promotional agencies, the independent judging organization and their immediate families are not eligible. All prizes are subject to all federal, provincial and municipal laws.

5. Sweepstakes will commence September 1st, 1980 and to be concluded December 31st, 1980 at 5:00 p.m. Entry forms postmarked on or before this date and received by the contest closing date, October 31st, 1980 will be considered eligible. All eligible entries received each business day, until the contest closing date, November 12, 1980, will be eligible for a Long Distance telephone interview. Change of entry is prohibited. By entering, you agree to be bound by the rules and regulations.

6. There will be three prizes awarded. Each prize will consist of a 1981 Mercury Lynx GL 3-door hatchback automobile. Approximate retail value of prize is $9,000.00. Taxes on prize are the responsibility of the prize winners. Prizes are subject to all federal, provincial, and municipal laws.

---

Questions:

1. Do discounts ever apply to Long Distance station-to-station calls? Yes □ No □

2. During what hours can you save the most money on Long Distance calls made between Monday and Friday?

3. This contest is open only to students who are registered full-time or part-time at any accredited Canadian University, College or Post-Secondary Institution. Employees of TCTS, its members, associated and affiliated companies, its advertising and promotional agencies, the independent judging organization and their immediate families are not eligible. All prizes are subject to all federal, provincial and municipal laws.

4. Sweeptakes will commence September 1st, 1980 and to be concluded December 31st, 1980 at 5:00 p.m. Entry forms postmarked on or before this date and received by the contest closing date, October 31st, 1980 will be considered eligible. All eligible entries received each business day, until the contest closing date, November 12, 1980, will be eligible for a Long Distance telephone interview. Change of entry is prohibited. By entering, you agree to be bound by the rules and regulations.

---

Answers to most of these questions can be found in your local phone book. GOOD LUCK!

---

Official Entry Form

NAME (please print)

ADDRESS

CITY/TOWN

PROVINCE

PHONE NUMBER

UNIVERSITY/COLLEGE attending
The structure of Campus Recreation explained

by Lisa Leveque

New students at the University of Windsor this year may have noticed the extensive use of bulletin boards throughout the campus and the abundance of information they provide.

Campus Recreation, which relies heavily on this form of communication, can be conglutinated on its advertising efficiency. This observation was an incentive to inquire further into the functions of this organization and to provide new students with an insight into its objectives and structure.

The Campus Recreation Department is headed by a director, Dr. Bob Boucher, and a number of students who work the office hours and assist in the activities. This department offers a continuous, year-round array of leisure activities, sport clubs, instructional activity classes, open recreation, clinics, summer sport schools, and, of course, the ever-popular intramural sports program.

The various intramural activities are offered on three levels: casual, recreational, and competitive, depending upon the nature of the activity and the turnout of participants. This allows individuals to choose their desired form of participation.

In order to protect the participants and preserve fair competition, the Campus Recreation Department finds it necessary to provide a moderate set of rules and regulations for the intramural activities. However, these standards by no means impede the enjoyment and excitement of participation.

For the winning teams, individual championships and outstanding participants, many awards are presented as bonuses for efforts and achievements. These awards range from trophies, plaques and medallions, to beverage steins, T-shirts and certificates.

To give you an idea of some of the very diverse activities offered by Campus Recreation, here is a preview of some upcoming events: Men's and Women's Intramural Volleyball--Oct. 27th to Nov. 11th.

Co-ed Volleyball--Nov. 18th to Jan. 12th.

"Turkey Trot" Friday, Oct. 10th 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at South Campus Track.

Channel Swim--month of Nov.--HK Pool.

"New Games Night"--Sunday, Nov. 9th & 9:00 p.m. at St. Denis Hall.

First Aid Course--Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting Oct. 21st--7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at HK Building.

Pre Season Badminton Tournament--Friday, Nov. 28th at St. Denis.

It is obvious that the Campus Recreation Department greatly fills the purpose of serving our physical needs. It should also be noted that with these day to day activities available to us, Campus Recreation has done its job and would like to encourage everyone to come out and participate.

Turkeys Unite

The annual Turkey Trot competition will take place at the H.R. track Friday, Oct. 10. Show up at the track between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. to register. You will be told the exact distance you will run (between one and two miles) and you will estimate the time required to complete this distance. The closest competitor will receive a plump, succulent turkey for their holiday celebration. Everyone welcome.

Flag Football

In the contact division, Eclata Hall won their second game in a row with a 28-40 victory over the Mic Macs. That game was followed by a closely fought defensive struggle in which Law B emerged with a 60-victory over Cody Sucks.

Two undefeated teams played excellent football in adverse conditions Monday night with Law A eventually overpowering the talented No Talent All-Stars 16-6 to take sole possession of second place.

In the non-contact league, the Engineering Chem Heads retained first place with a 41-19 victory over the high-spirited Tight Ends. The undefeated 1st Year Chaos team added another win by defeating the B.E.A. 13-19. The Big "Mech" Attacks managed to hang on to second place with a 24-0 shut-out in their rain-soaked match with the Tight Ends.

Captains of both leagues should note that there will be no games Thanksgiving Monday and those games scheduled for Oct. 17 will be played on Oct. 20.

MEN'S FLAG FOOTBALL

NON-CONTACT

GP W L T P

Ring, Chem Heads 3 3 0 0 6
Big "Mech" attack 3 4 1 0 6
1st Year Chaos 2 2 0 1 5
Huron Hall Blues 3 1 2 0 2
Tight Ends 4 4 0 0 0
The B.E.A. 3 0 3 0 0

MEN'S FLAG FOOTBALL

CONTACT

GP W L T P

Big Macs 4 4 0 0 0
No Talent All-Stars 3 2 1 0 4
Eclata Hall 3 2 1 0 4
Silver Rush 4 3 1 0 2
Law "B" 4 1 3 0 2
Cody Sucks 4 0 4 0 0

Scoring

The only thing wrong with doing nothing is that you never know when you've finished.

Swimming Pool Schedule
Sat., Oct. 25
9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.--Children's swimming
11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.--Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. swim meet
6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.--Recreational swimming

Coed Lob-ball

With only one weekend left in the regular schedule, the standings are very tight. The Tecumseh Teddy Bears clinched first place in Division 1 while in Division 2, only two points separate first and last place.

On Sunday, the Giglott defied the Tecumseh Pick-Ups 9-7. In the first game of a double-header, Mac 5 Laurier outdistanced the Blu Blls squad 15-9. In the second game, the Teddy Bears defeated Mac 5 Laurier 20-12. Cal McCabe, Dee Radigo, Al Donald and Bill Gammony honored for the winners.

The Sods, led by Rob Ross, snuck by Mike Simard and the Shuggers 17-16. In the final game, the Rebels defeated the Killers in another close contest; 11-10. Mac 5 Laurier outlasted New Brunswick 12-6. In the final game, the Ralp Wallneus, David Simpson and Dave McCloskey honored for the winners. For see Intramural p. 19

Scores and More

OUAA STANDINGS

W L T P A F

Toronto 4 0 0 138 40 8
Geuelph 3 1 0 79 84 6
York 2 2 0 91 96 4
Western 2 2 0 86 52 4
McMaster 2 2 0 48 98 4
Windsor 1 1 0 171 100 28
Laurier 1 3 0 65 67 2
Waterloo 1 3 0 45 82 2

Last week's Canadian College Football Scores:

OUAA

Laurier 15 Western 12
Geuelph 28 McMaster 15
Waterloo 17 York 4
Toronto 42 Windsor 8

O-4-1-1

Queen's 16 Carlton 3
Ottawa 16 McGill 8
Concordia 15 Bishop's 14

GAMES STATISTICS

W T

Total Offense 188 603
Rushing 95 81
Passing 304 522
Punting % 0-10-0

First Downs

Rushing 6
Punting 3
By Penalty 3
Penalties 313 53
Penalty Yards 5313 53

Turnovers 2 4

Martin Studio

GRADUATION PORTRAIT

For studio appointment call 948-6502
or visit our studio at 911 Buckingham

Evening appointments available
U. of W. host club races to second-place finish

Tennis team toppled

Intramural results

From p. 18

Attention Matmen
Lancer gridiron no match for number one Blues

by Steve Rice

Last Friday's Ontario University Athletics Association football action had the Lancers and coach Gino Fraday singing the blues.

Or, more precisely, singing the praises of the University of Toronto Varsity Blues who handed the Lancers a whalloping 42-8 defeat and proved that they are worth every marker of their number one national ranking.

The Blues took their vengeance on the beleaguered Windsor secondary, led by a magnificent performance by air traffic controller Dan Feraday who safely guided down 23 of 33 flights for 479 yards and five touchdowns.

Feraday compiled those numbers in little more than three quarters of play before being replaced by rookie QB John Finlayson who connected on five of eight for an additional 43 yards. Those, combined with 81 more yards on the overland route, gave Toronto an impressive 603 yards of offense for the evening.

Toronto now rests safely on top of the OUAA with the only undefeated record, 4-0, and they look likely to maintain that corner of the campus to the other. Certainly it has reached the other teams after five of eight for an additional 43 yards. That, combined with 81 more yards on the road route, gave Toronto an impressive 603 yards of offense for the evening.

Toronto now rests safely on top of the OUAA with the only undefeated record, 4-0, and they look likely to maintain it in the OUAA, if not beyond.

Mallender's return shouldn't have much effect on play and his presence adds hope to the Lancers' chances of making the play-offs, still surprisingly good considering their 1-3 record.

Three games remain in the season, two at home to Laurier (Saturday) and McMaster, and one at Varsity. Although the Hawks have the ability to both the Lancers held a two stroke lead in the OUAA-final standings. The remainder of the Blues' points came from a four-yard touchdown pass from Fraday to Gino Candure and field goals of 32 and 18 yards by Dean Durey, Dan Dominato cleared the netting with a single.

Maged finished the night with five receptions for 94 yards while Minnsouls caught three for 48. Top receiver for the Lancers was once again Scott Eason who pulled down seven for 148. Craig Mallender nabbed two for 63 yards and Doug Pihlino for 59.

Jim Stanski rushed nine times for 63 yards and Mallender 10 times for 74.

The Lancers will play host to the Laurier Golden Hawks, who won their first game of the season last week against the faltering Western Mustangs, now 2-2, Fracas notes that the Hawks have the ability to both the win and pass and run which makes them particularly hard to defend.

"They seem very solid on the bushes," Fracas said, "but they haven't posted over 300 yards against us and they can't make the pass with the bushes."
New logo's origin disputed by graphic artist

by Laurie Bergoine and E.P. Chant

A graphic artist with a Windsor firm claims he came up with the “five Ws maple leaf” idea for the new University of Windsor logo, but was not given credit for the basic design by the university.

Al Panchiz, the artist with Leadley Advertising said he was asked by the university to design a logo and that he came up with the “five Ws maple leaf” idea after playing around with the letters.

When he handed his design in to the committee that was working on a new logo design, it was rejected but he was paid for his time.

A month later (September of this year), Panchiz claims the university decided upon was unveiled to the media and the community, a slightly more flashy one than Panchiz’s, but with the same basic contents.

The artwork on the university logo was done by Harris Advertising of Windsor, after a committee of various people at the university decided what they wanted in it, said John Laframboise, Assistant Vice-President of Community Relations and

SEE “ARTIST HAS SOUR GRAPES”, PAGE 2

Referendums elsewhere affect student organizations

by C. Woodrow, The Varsity, and The Gazette.

The University of Western Ontario has voted to pull out of the National Union of Students (NUS), and in a similar move, the University of Toronto has rejected a proposed fee increase for The Ontario Federation of Students (OFS).

Both referendums were held last week.

At UWO students voted 2,091 in favour of rejecting membership to NUS and 1,296 to stay in. The 3,387 votes cast in the referendum constituted approximately 20 per cent of the student population. According to a spokesman in the Students’ Council office it was one of the highest voter turnouts in years.

Jim Vair, Western Students’ Council Vice-President External and leader of the “No” side said he was very happy and that he was generally pleased with the campaign. “There were some problems and misconceptions on both sides,” he said. “If there were errors of fact made on the “No” side, it was unintentional, he said.”

Chris McKillop, one of the leaders of the “Yes” side and a former Vice-President External said, “There was a lot of lying going on. Does the mud wash off? I hope it does.”

He went on to say the campaign was one of the dirtiest in years. The campaign had nothing to do with issues, it focussed on personal grudges. The UWU Students’ Council will be setting up an ad hoc committee at the next meeting to decide what to do with the approximately $15,000 that regularly went to the National Union of Students. The Board of Governors will hold the money until a decision is made regarding the allocation of the money.

At the University of Toronto, in a similar move, students voted to reject a fee increase of $1.50 to $3.00 for the Ontario Federation of Students. By a vote of 2,256 to 1,113, the increase was voted down. The turnout at the polls was considered heavy, 67 per cent of those students voting rejecting the fee increase.

Allair Campbell, leader of the “No to the Increase” campaign said he interpreted the results as a “swift kick in the rear for the OFS.” He went on to say that OFS and the Students’ Council which conducted the campaign for acceptance of the fee increase were “out of touch with the students.”

He cited this as one of the reasons the referendum failed. The reluctance of SAC to finance a “No” campaign also helped defeat the proposal.

Students’ Council President, Peter Galway said the referendum failed because SAC didn’t adequately explain OFS to the students. He said the rejection was a repudiation of the fee increase, not of OFS. “The students have spoken,” he said, “but we ran the risk of being along.”

Galway admitted the results of the referendum at Toronto would affect the outcome of other institutions. “We think the OFS increase is essential. I wouldn’t want to see these referenda [sic] fail,” he said.

OPS chairperson, Karen Doblinsky said, “This set back at the U of T tells us there is work to do.” She also said she was concerned about the sleazy and misleading campaign that was apparent on the University of Toronto campus.

Currently the University of Windsor student is paying $1.00 to The National Union of Students and $1.50 to the Ontario Federation of Students per year. The OPS has asked Students’ Administrative Council here to run a referendum next spring, asking for a fee increase of $1.50.

SAC and CJAM hit the jackpot

by E.P. Chant

The Students’ Administrative Council, CJAM Student Radio, and the Social Science Society committee caught the students of this campus in a good mood this week.

By means of three referendum questions on Tuesday and Wednesday, SAC won an additional $10.00 per year in student fees, the radio station won its own funding (replacing SAC financing) with a new $5.00 per year per student levy, and Social Science students decided to pay $5.00 a year to have their own society. Approximately 20 per cent of those eligible to vote (full-time students) voted.

SAC’s request for a $10.00 increase in the student fee was approved 737 to 620. CJAM’s request for separate funding was approved 710 to 639. Of the approximately 1,000 Social Science students eligible to vote, about a third did so. The society proposal was approved 240 to 83.

The referendums’ results must now be approved as an accurate representation of student feeling by the university’s Board of Governors. When that is done, additional student fees will be tallied on next semester ($5.00 additional for SAC, $2.50 for the radio station and Social Science Society).

SAC Vice-President of See “PENNIES FROM HEAVEN”, PAGE 2

Lancerettes
TO THE STUDENTS of the University of Windsor, here are a few suggestions to keep you active and involved.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY
People East Side, Moy Avenue. 258.6965.

The Lance, VQI, LIII, No. 6, Friday, October 17, 1980. Page Two

TO THE STUDENTS of the University

Our Winning Team and remember, the October 18 demonstration. Dining Hall is buzzing with new and exciting rumors to perform at halftime. Tryout time by the chaplains.

WILL BABYSIT: nights, 3-12 p.m., 3-9 p.m. on Tuesday. Located next to the University on Desert Ave., Dearborn, Michigan.

For more information call 252-0979. Contact Dale Molnar, ext. 243 as soon as possible.

Laframboise explained that the logo development was just one part of the promotional work the university undertook this summer. Other projects involved enrollment and recruitment publicity, tagline and promotional literature for various faculties and campus organizations.

Further, he explained that his office had no graphic designer for much of the summer, so two students and an interest group developed "designs", including some with a high regard for personal rights and the rights of others, (3) identifying the artificial thinking which often prevents assertive behavior, and (4) practicing alternative assertive responses to specific situations.

WANTED: Computer operators. Must have knowledge of word processing equipment. Must be able to work nights. Contact Phone: 254-3615.

Edmonton

Debbie Staley Brian Williamson Lauri Beergine Cecilia Deck

Bill Buchanan John Boyle Joan Butler Joel Dobbs Laurie Bergione Wendy Goornber Chris Woolf John Will

Scott McCulloch

TO THE STUDENTS of the University of Windsor, here are a few suggestions to keep you active and involved.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY
People East Side, Moy Avenue. 258.6965.

The Lance, VQI, LIII, No. 6, Friday, October 17, 1980. Page Two

TO THE STUDENTS of the University

Our Winning Team and remember, the October 18 demonstration. Dining Hall is buzzing with new and exciting rumors to perform at halftime. Tryout time by the chaplains.

WILL BABYSIT: nights, 3-12 p.m., 3-9 p.m. on Tuesday. Located next to the University on Desert Ave., Dearborn, Michigan.

For more information call 252-0979. Contact Dale Molnar, ext. 243 as soon as possible.

Laframboise explained that the logo development was just one part of the promotional work the university undertook this summer. Other projects involved enrollment and recruitment publicity, tagline and promotional literature for various faculties and campus organizations.

Further, he explained that his office had no graphic designer for much of the summer, so two students and an interest group developed "designs", including some with a high regard for personal rights and the rights of others, (3) identifying the artificial thinking which often prevents assertive behavior, and (4) practicing alternative assertive responses to specific situations.

WANTED: Computer operators. Must have knowledge of word processing equipment. Must be able to work nights. Contact Phone: 254-3615.
SAC and other university clubs. The members of SAC feel the positive results reflect the students' belief in SAC, and said Shaban, this is "a clear mandate that they have the students' support." Shaban feels "the undergrads are responsible for our society was pleased with the results. "I don't think there's any question about it...it's overwhelming," said Zadra. Patti Taylor, another committee member said, "That's a great turnout for Social Science."

The committee consisted of nine people, all Social Science students and a majority associated with student politics, said Zadra. He said they were either department, senate or SAC representatives.

The committee used their own money to fund the campaign, said Taylor. Zadra would like to thank the committee for doing a great job and said they "created the necessary exposure to let the students make the choice." SAC Vice-President Jim Shaban, himself a Social Science student, said, "It's about time the students voted for themselves."

Zadra and Zadra, along with Social Science department representatives, started last year to organize a campaign for a society. However, it was near the end of the year so work stopped until September. Then Zadra, with the help of eight others began the campaign. The next step, said Zadra, is to elect a president and an executive. The president will sit on SAC.

A constitution was drafted last year, said Taylor, so it now needs to be put in final form. She said there will be no elections until January because they will receive no funding until then. Zadra urges all Social Science students to get involved. He said all students are asked to make suggestions to the student representatives, which will be passed on to the committee.

Acclamations and dog-fights

The following people will have to sit through SAC meetings this year after winning or being acclaimed to posts on the council in the by-election part of Tuesday's and Wednesday's voting.

Science and Math rep: Lucio Gelmini (acclaimed)

Computer Science rep: Stephen Swierfel (acclaimed)

Visual Arts rep: Loretta Mazzuchin (acclaimed)

Dramatic Arts rep: Dino DeMarco (acclaimed)

Social Work rep: Mark Cohen (acclaimed)

Laurier and MacDonald Halls: Terry Douglas beat Diane Huber in an election, 71 votes to 37.

Huron and Tecumseh Hall: Tracy Thernes beat David MacKay in an election, 41 votes to 28.

and the following will be sitting on Senate committees following their acclamations.

Student Services committee: Brad Mitchell

Student Affairs Committee: Mark Cohen, Derek Johnson, and T.G. (Far) Nutson.

Social scientists societize (?)

by Joan Butler

Social Science students no longer have to feel left out when they see ads for beer bashes and other events in other faculties. They can now look forward to attending these events.

Of approximately 1,000 Social Science students, 323 decided whether they wanted to give $2.50 for a society. The "yes" was polled 240 compared to only 83 for "no," which obviously reflected the feeling that a society was needed.

The voter turnout was about 33 per cent which was the largest for all elections held October 14 and 15.

Randy Zadra, Social Science representative on SAC and a member of the committee for a Social Science society was pleased with the results. "I don't think

"Is everybody happy?"

by Debbie Staley

J"udging by the smiles on the faces of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) and CJAM Radio crew "It seems as though the universe has set in both groups began constructing plans for a better future."

According to Bradley Mitchell, Vice President of Finance for SAC, the money achieved through the referendum will be directed toward providing more, and better services to the students. Bradley said, due to increasing inflation, SAC has been forced to cut down on student events and also lessen student plans (such as the drug plan).

He stated that this year considerable effort will be placed on the improvement of the drug plan along with increased support for the existing clubs associated with the University of Windsor.

Jim Shaban, Vice President of Administration, said the referendum's success is the result of "talking the problem directly to the students" rather than engaging in a simple advertising campaign. Shaban feels university students want to know what is happening, but also want to be involved in making them happen.

The members of SAC feel the positive results reflect the students' belief in SAC, and said Shaban, this is "a clear mandate that they have the students' support."

Shaban feels "the undergrads are responsible for our society was pleased with the results. "I don't think there's any question about it...it's overwhelming," said Zadra. Patti Taylor, another committee member said, "That's a great turnout for Social Science."

The committee consisted of nine people, all Social Science students and a majority associated with student politics, said Zadra. He said they were either department, senate or SAC representatives.

The committee used their own money to fund the campaign, said Taylor. Zadra would like to thank the committee for doing a great job and said they "created the necessary exposure to let the students make the choice." SAC Vice-President Jim Shaban, himself a Social Science student, said, "It's about time the students voted for themselves."

Zadra and Zadra, along with Social Science department representatives, started last year to organize a campaign for a society. However, it was near the end of the year so work stopped until September. Then Zadra, with the help of eight others began the campaign. The next step, said Zadra, is to elect a president and an executive. The president will sit on SAC.

A constitution was drafted last year, said Taylor, so it now needs to be put in final form. She said there will be no elections until January because they will receive no funding until then. Zadra urges all Social Science students to get involved. He said all students are asked to make suggestions to the student representatives, which will be passed on to the committee.

Acclamations and dog-fights

The following people will have to sit through SAC meetings this year after winning or being acclaimed to posts on the council in the by-election part of Tuesday's and Wednesday's voting.

Science and Math rep: Lucio Gelmini (acclaimed)

Computer Science rep: Stephen Swierfel (acclaimed)

Visual Arts rep: Loretta Mazzuchin (acclaimed)

Dramatic Arts rep: Dino DeMarco (acclaimed)

Social Work rep: Mark Cohen (acclaimed)

Laurier and MacDonald Halls: Terry Douglas beat Diane Huber in an election, 71 votes to 37.

Huron and Tecumseh Hall: Tracy Thernes beat David MacKay in an election, 41 votes to 28.

and the following will be sitting on Senate committees following their acclamations.

Student Services committee: Brad Mitchell

Student Affairs Committee: Mark Cohen, Derek Johnson, and T.G. (Far) Nutson.

Social scientists societize (?)

by Joan Butler

Social Science students no longer have to feel left out when they see ads for beer bashes and other events in other faculties. They can now look forward to attending these events.

Of approximately 1,000 Social Science students, 323 decided whether they wanted to give $2.50 for a society. The "yes" was polled 240 compared to only 83 for "no," which obviously reflected the feeling that a society was needed.

The voter turnout was about 33 per cent which was the largest for all elections held October 14 and 15.

Randy Zadra, Social Science representative on SAC and a member of the committee for a Social Science society was pleased with the results. "I don't think

"Is everybody happy?"

by Debbie Staley

Judging by the smiles on the faces of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) and CJAM Radio crew - "It seems as though the universe has set in both groups began constructing plans for a better future."

According to Bradley Mitchell, Vice President of Finance for SAC, the money achieved through the referendum will be directed toward providing more, and better services to the students. Bradley said, due to increasing inflation, SAC has been forced to cut down on student events and also lessen student plans (such as the drug plan).

He stated that this year considerable effort will be placed on the improvement of the drug plan along with increased support for the existing clubs associated with the University of Windsor.

Jim Shaban, Vice President of Administration, said the referendum's success is the result of "talking the problem directly to the students" rather than engaging in a simple advertising campaign. Shaban feels university students want to know what is happening, but also want to be involved in making them happen.

The members of SAC feel the positive results reflect the students' belief in SAC, and said Shaban, this is "a clear mandate that they have the students' support."

Shaban feels "the undergrads are responsible for our society was pleased with the results. "I don't think there's any question about it...it's overwhelming," said Zadra. Patti Taylor, another committee member said, "That's a great turnout for Social Science."

The committee consisted of nine people, all Social Science students and a majority associated with student politics, said Zadra. He said they were either department, senate or SAC representatives.

The committee used their own money to fund the campaign, said Taylor. Zadra would like to thank the committee for doing a great job and said they "created the necessary exposure to let the students make the choice." SAC Vice-President Jim Shaban, himself a Social Science student, said, "It's about time the students voted for themselves."

Zadra and Zadra, along with Social Science department representatives, started last year to organize a campaign for a society. However, it was near the end of the year so work stopped until September. Then Zadra, with the help of eight others began the campaign. The next step, said Zadra, is to elect a president and an executive. The president will sit on SAC.

A constitution was drafted last year, said Taylor, so it now needs to be put in final form. She said there will be no elections until January because they will receive no funding until then. Zadra urges all Social Science students to get involved. He said all students are asked to make suggestions to the student representatives, which will be passed on to the committee.

Acclamations and dog-fights

The following people will have to sit through SAC meetings this year after winning or being acclaimed to posts on the council in the by-election part of Tuesday's and Wednesday's voting.

Science and Math rep: Lucio Gelmini (acclaimed)

Computer Science rep: Stephen Swierfel (acclaimed)

Visual Arts rep: Loretta Mazzuchin (acclaimed)

Dramatic Arts rep: Dino DeMarco (acclaimed)

Social Work rep: Mark Cohen (acclaimed)

Laurier and MacDonald Halls: Terry Douglas beat Diane Huber in an election, 71 votes to 37.

Huron and Tecumseh Hall: Tracy Thernes beat David MacKay in an election, 41 votes to 28.

and the following will be sitting on Senate committees following their acclamations.

Student Services committee: Brad Mitchell

Student Affairs Committee: Mark Cohen, Derek Johnson, and T.G. (Far) Nutson.

Social scientists societize (?)

by Joan Butler

Social Science students no longer have to feel left out when they see ads for beer bashes and other events in other faculties. They can now look forward to attending these events.

Of approximately 1,000 Social Science students, 323 decided whether they wanted to give $2.50 for a society. The "yes" was polled 240 compared to only 83 for "no," which obviously reflected the feeling that a society was needed.

The voter turnout was about 33 per cent which was the largest for all elections held October 14 and 15.

Randy Zadra, Social Science representative on SAC and a member of the committee for a Social Science society was pleased with the results. "I don't think
Editorial

"The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted."

- M. Gratten O'Leary

While it appears that the Students' Administrative Council and CJAM have won victories in this week's referendums, it must be noted that the monies must be approved by the University Board of Governors, the body that sets all fees for students at this university. The Board of Governors meeting is sure to be a simple rubber stamp of the proposed fee increase, but it is wise to note that they have turned down fee increases in the past.

Congratulations should be in order for SAC and CJAM, but in the case of the former, one is left instead with the feeling that someone's good miracle has occurred and SAC has been pulled from the depths of its ineptitude by ten dollars a month.

Perhaps ineptitude is too strong a word. Perhaps ignorance would be better. Compare, for instance, the CJAM and SAC approaches to the whole campaign.

CJAM had their staffers out campaigning last weekend, this whole idea was first tossed around. They had well motivated people who were sure of what they wanted and fairly sure of how to get it. They spoke in loud tones about how good it would be if only they had the money. In short, everyone at the station knew what the whole deal was all about.

SAC had four or five people dashed away in their second floor Centre office who started mysteriously whispering about two weeks before the vote (or so it seemed) about "the referendum."

SAC President David Simmons spent most of the time, with which he should have been preparing for the referendum, out of town. Conferences in Montreal, bingo in Toronto, a conference in Winnipeg. And, on the first night of the election, Simmons is off to the NUS conference in London to attend the Waterfront Centre. Somewhere along the line Mr. Simmons' priorities got all mixed up.

But Simmons' absence was not the only problem the SAC executive had with this campaign. Rumours of internal bickering, squabbling, the executive said that "Simmons didn't really go along with the referendum idea from the start. It wasn't something he had come up with and therefore it wasn't a good idea."

So much for the word of mouth campaign. For the campus media, it was fairly simple with nothing to look forward to.

The holiday weekend was spook, said one respondent who wished to remain anonymous, because it comes bang in the middle of mid-term examinations.

In the USA, it's a time to remember the voyage of St. Lawrence. His theory is that they headed up the St. Lawrence, dropped off some people at Quebec city, and then either returns from the weekend ten pounds heavier or with nothing to look forward to?

For CJAM to be its own best friend. It has the equipment, and it is an effective advertising vehicle all by itself.

But CJAM did not stop at that. Since September, they have been running ads in The Lance. At least two per week, and paying for them. The proportion of advertisements showed a well planned, well financed, and well organized advertising campaign by CJAM.

SAC, on the other hand, was scurrying around at the last minute making special arrangements with the print shop and The Lance to use facilities which would be difficult, if not impossible, for most other groups on campus to use. The posters came out one week in advance of the voting day. The advertising consisted of one centre spread ad in The Lance. The cloth button-stickers also came out one week in advance, and found many creative uses. We have one stuck to the refrigerator holding up the telephone messages.

So much for the media aspect. And now to costs.

Advertising space in just about any student newspaper is dirt cheap, and very reliable, reaching a very specific market. The market that both CJAM and SAC needed to win their referendums.

CJAM spent about $350 total on their campaign. That includes all the money in the paper, their posters, and all other printing costs.

SAC spent "about $200" (according to John Rizopolous, External Affairs Commissioner) on posters and buttons. The Centre spread ad in The Lance will cost them nearly $400. Total cost - something close to $600.

SAC may argue that the cost of the ad in The Lance is not really a campaign expense, since SAC runs the Student Media Corporation, which runs The Lance. Any expenses incurred by SAC when they run an ad are really only "paper expenses." SAC does not, in effect pay for ads. Everyone else does.

The results of poor planning: using all kinds of your money to get more of your money. Not that the additional money wasn't needed, but that the method in which it was obtained was questionable.

SAC Vice-President Jim Shaban is ecstatic about the victory. Shaban stated last night that it was indicative of the fact that "SAC went to the students. We didn't sit up here and ask them for money, we went to them."

The only time SAC went to the students was when they were absolutely desperate. At the last minute. And it cost them your money. We can only hope that SAC will manage its new money better than the old.

The Lance is late coming out this week because we wanted to get all the election news in. Sorry, kids.
Unemployed and overtaxed want answers

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, October 18, students at Carleton University and community activists from across Ontario will march on Queen's Park with a message: "Get rid of the job and to protest cutbacks."

What is the significance of this protest? What would it accomplish? The largest protest of this type in Ontario in the last 20 years? The Ontario students know that they had to pay 10.5 percent more in fees this year and that the probability of another increase next year is great. Yet, we have less chance of getting survival and part-time jobs as there are already 25,000 unemployed in Ontario.

If the situation for students is bad, it is even worse for the workers. Three plants in Windsor and nine more across Ontario have been shut down in the past six months. The Chrysler engine plant, the Ford car painting plant, and Bendix automatics have closed their doors putting over 4,000 men out of work. The government has done little. Many workers have lost their homes and have had to go on welfare.

People are fed up with not working and with cutbacks in social services and education. The provincial Tories plead that they have no money to create jobs and no money for education, but last summer they found $148 million to give to the pulp and paper companies to modernize their plants and in so doing lay off 800 workers. It's time that people did something.

The October 18th demonstration is a step forward in fighting against the evil measures of the Tories and the multinational corporations. Are you willing to pay tuition increases? Do you want to see an eye witness account of the October 18th demonstration from an active participant? Are you interested in knowing what can be done to fight against layoffs?

To discuss these topics, the Norman Bethune Club will hold a seminar on Thursday, October 21, in Room 164, Dillon Hall at noon.

Yours truly,
Brenda Sweet

Student's Councils and radios in bad shape elsewhere

by E.P. Chant and Canadian University Press

The referendum victories of both the Students' Administrative Council and CJAM Radio here are indeed surprising in light of the situation of similar institutions at other Canadian universities.

At the University of Alberta, in the spring, the McGill Student Union in Montreal, two student bodies which go hand-in-hand with the school's academic fortunes, students' councils have run up what can only be described as huge debts.

The Students' Union (SU) at the University of Alberta, a body which runs the student newspaper, the McGill Daily, and the radio station, McGill Radio, does have its budget examined and approved by a separate Students' Council, lost approximately $320,000 last year.

The SU lost over $187,000 on its day-to-day operations in 1979-80, reported the university's student newspaper, the The Gazette. In addition, it spent over $140,000 on capital (equipment and renovations) and made an $81,000 repayment on the mortgage for the Students' Union Building. Also, the SU's capital expenditure was $61,000 over its original budget projection.

The problem at the school in Edmonton came about because of SU accounting mistakes, noted the Gazette. Out of a $157,000 error in the 1979-80 preliminary budget which was not found until half-way through the year after the budget had been passed, the debt, though run up by the SU, is the Students' Council's responsibility. At a council meeting in September, the Gazette quoted Arts representative Randy Dawson saying this to the SU. "Fundamentally you're asking us to sit back and accept a $320,000 loss. I'm not happy to rubber stamp the audit without any explanation of how the people are going to get out of debt."

SU proposed some cuts in services, such as reducing $12,000 of the SU finance manager, Gladys Headley apologized for the accounting mistakes. "The accounting methods of the SU have not been sound because they have not been followed over the past number of years." Cutting back on services will also be a part of the Students' Council's way out of its financial mess, along with borrowing more money from the university to continue SU operations (as of March 31, 1980, the SU owed the university over $400,000 in loans).

At McGill University, the Students' Council owes the university administration approximately $375,000 which was borrowed by the council via the McGill Students' Society.

Since 1978, the McGill Daily newspaper, the council had borrowed university money in the form of overdrafts and interest-free loans to pay debts and buy capital equipment. Then, last year, the Student's Union borrowed $125,000 and put it into short term deposits to use the interest to pay the capital.

McGill University Comptroller John Armour said it "was a bit unusual that the Students' Society should be enjoying a short term investment when they own as money."

The Society is working on a repayment schedule now and it is possible the repayments will substantially cut into the additional revenue the Society obtained after raising student fees by 2 percent last year.

A Society official said, "I wouldn't say that another fee increase is appropriate. We're just going to have to live within the means from now on."

In the radio world, UTC, the University of Toronto and Radio Laurier at Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo were in trouble this year.

UTR, one of three U of T radio stations, was having a difficult time getting its $17,000 budget from the Students' Council in September. Apparently, however, that was resolved since we have not heard anything more about it from the U of T student paper, The Varsity.

The station at Laurier was not so lucky: it did not get its budget at all and has been knocked off the air.

Although money was available, the campus radio station was shut down by the Student Council because it was not worth the expenditure.

The Wilfrid Laurier University Student Union decided September 14 to disband Radio Laurier. Mike Brown, council president, said the station was not worth the investment.

"On air and promotion of Radio Laurier was not serving the students, (it was) not worth the expenditure."

Brown admitted, "Some people were hurt and deprived because of their strong commitment to the radio station but that is not enough to make Radio Laurier work."

Ted Musgrove, radio station manager, said in the student newspaper, The Cord weekly, that the criterion for closing the station as a "trade off" for the building of a new student lounge on campus.

"Mike is using Radio Laurier as a scapegoat for the costs of the new floor", said Musgrove. According to Musgrove, it was a planning committee of the council which decided to close the station, despite protest from the staff of the station. He also said the decision was made prior to the September 14 meeting.

Musgrove further charged that the financial argument, cannot be used because John Bizzi, treasurer of the student council, said there was not a shortage of funds.

The new lounge will cost $220,000.

Enrolment increases the second year in a row says Registrar

by John Doyle

Full-time enrolment at the University of Windsor is up an estimated 420 students from last year, said Registrar Frank Smith this week.

The enrolment for 1980-81 is estimated at 6,672 as opposed to last year's figure of 6,197, Smith added. He is pleased with this year's increase in noting it is the second year of solid increase after three years with cutbacks in student numbers.

The November 1st figure released to The Lance (is estimated rather than exact because the registrar has not yet received enrolments on tuition payment from the cashier's office. Nonetheless, he feels the figures are fairly accurate.

Only one faculty experienced a decline, the Faculty of Arts. All others either increased or kept the same. Computer Science, Business, and Engineering. All others either held their own or showed a slight increase, said Smith.

Smith added he feels the university enrolment had already bottomed out and now was on a steady rise. The larger enrolment will eventually result in an increase in grants from the Ontario government, this increase being spread over the next four years due to the system by which the grants are allocated, he explained.

No explanation for "No"

by Joan Butler

SAC explained why it wanted students to vote "yes" for a $3.00 per semester tax but the "no" campaign which arose last week did not explain why it rejected the increase.

The person who led the "no" campaign, Martin Deck, would not agree to an interview to discuss his reasons for wanting students to reject SAC's campaign for a fee increase. He also would not disclose who was assisting him in his campaign.

Posters appeared around campus saying SAC should not be given the additional money but offered no information as to why.

Deck was unavailable for comment after the results came in.
Are your habits a hazard to your health?

"Are you running on all cylinders?" If you're looking for a job at GM you're probably not. But if your job is depress- ing you, or if your health habits are wearing away at your mortal being, then it might be a good idea to check out the School of Nursing's Health Hazard Evaluation Day.

Annual molecular meeting

The Division of Atomic and Molecular Physics of the Canadian Association of Physics will hold its two-day annual meeting at the University of Windsor, October 17-18. Sessions will be held in the University Centre (2nd floor) from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Friday, October 17 and from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, October 18. Registration will be on Thursday, October 16 from 6:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. and Friday, October 17 from 8:00 to 9:00 a.m.

The extensive scientific program of the conference will include eight presentations by distinguished invited speakers from Canada and the United States, among whom will be Canada's Nobel Prize winner Dr. Gerhard Gerzberg of the National Research Council in Ottawa. The conference will also include about 30 shorter contributed papers.

For further information, contact Dr. Lucjan Krause at (519) 253-4232, extension 283 or 422.

In Vanier Lounge, October 23 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., registered nurses will be evaluating some of the public's health practices.

Assistant Professor of Nursing Gurpal Dhillon has been teaching at the university for two years. Her major is public health. This health survey has been conducted at other universities across the country since 1974. It finally caught on here, according to Ms. Dhillon, because the nursing students don't get enough practical experience in this field.

"We teach the students about preventative health...but we don't expose them to anything," she said.

The testing will take approximately half an hour for each person to fulfill. It is not a diagnostic test—it will not tell you if you are diseased or rotting away.

It is a preventative test. Not every disease can be cured, but as Ms. Dhillon pointed out, many can be prevented. And this is what the test is all about—preventing illnesses and correcting those habits that can lead to it.

"If you expose yourself to different lifestyles, you risk certain types of illness," stated the professor.

Health Hazard Appraisal uses certain information about a person, their gender, age, lifestyle, etc., to predict that person's chances of dying during the next ten years. A mortality ratio is calculated for each of the 12 leading causes of death for the individual's age group. This is multiplied by the expected average mortality for the population to obtain the predicted mortality for the individual's risk group over the next ten years.

Stress in the individual's life will be one thing looked at. Blood pressure, weight, height will be recorded and questions will be asked about the person's smoking, drinking, exercise, and dietary habits.

This information is recorded on a computer sheet and sent to a computer in Ottawa. If the results come back indicating that someone has a high potential of becoming ill, then they will be contacted.

Ms. Dhillon hopes this will create a change in lifestyle for some people. She plans to refer back to the participants of Health Hazard Evaluation Day at a later date to determine if the evaluation has resulted in any changing their health habits.

All we want is blood

The Nursing Society at the University of Windsor in cooperation with the Canadian Red Cross Society is sponsoring a Blood Donor Clinic Tuesday, October 28, 1980 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Ambassador Auditorium at the University Centre.

The goal of this clinic is 250 units of blood.

For further information, contact Louise Armstrong at (519) 256-1691.

Are your habits a hazard to your health?

"Are you running on all cylinders?" If you're looking for a job at GM you're probably not. But if your job is depressing you, or if your health habits are wearing away at your mortal being, then it might be a good idea to check out the School of Nursing's Health Hazard Evaluation Day.

Spreading the good word

It may not be the same thing as being the Ambassador to Chile (or even Yugoslavia) but the title does have a catchy ring to it. Student Ambassador.

You don't have to cross borders but you might have to cross paths with your old teachers because one of the jobs you will be doing as a student ambassador is returning to your old high schools and spreading.

The extensive scientific program of the conference will include eight presentations by distinguished invited speakers from Canada and the United States, among whom will be Canada's Nobel Prize winner Dr. Gerhard Gerzberg of the National Research Council in Ottawa. The conference will also include about 30 shorter contributed papers.

For further information, contact Dr. Lucjan Krause at (519) 253-4232, extension 283 or 422.

In Vanier Lounge, October 23 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., registered nurses will be evaluating some of the public's health practices.

Assistant Professor of Nursing Gurpal Dhillon has been teaching at the university for two years. Her major is public health. This health survey has been conducted at other universities across the country since 1974. It finally caught on here, according to Ms. Dhillon, because the nursing students don't get enough practical experience in this field.

"We teach the students about preventative health...but we don't expose them to anything," she said.

The testing will take approximately half an hour for each person to fulfill. It is not a diagnostic test—it will not tell you if you are diseased or rotting away.

It is a preventative test. Not every disease can be cured, but as Ms. Dhillon pointed out, many can be prevented. And this is what the test is all about—preventing illnesses and correcting those habits that can lead to it.

"If you expose yourself to different lifestyles, you risk certain types of illness," stated the professor.

Health Hazard Appraisal uses certain information about a person, their gender, age, lifestyle, etc., to predict that person's chances of dying during the next ten years. A mortality ratio is calculated for each of the 12 leading causes of death for the individual's age group. This is multiplied by the expected average mortality for the population to obtain the predicted mortality for the individual's risk group over the next ten years.

Stress in the individual's life will be one thing looked at. Blood pressure, weight, height will be recorded and questions will be asked about the person's smoking, drinking, exercise, and dietary habits.

This information is recorded on a computer sheet and sent to a computer in Ottawa. If the results come back indicating that someone has a high potential of becoming ill, then they will be contacted.

Ms. Dhillon hopes this will create a change in lifestyle for some people. She plans to refer back to the participants of Health Hazard Evaluation Day at a later date to determine if the evaluation has resulted in any changing their health habits.

All we want is blood

The Nursing Society at the University of Windsor in cooperation with the Canadian Red Cross Society is sponsoring a Blood Donor Clinic Tuesday, October 28, 1980 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Ambassador Auditorium at the University Centre.

The goal of this clinic is 250 units of blood.

For further information, contact Louise Armstrong at (519) 256-1691.
by Ed McMahon

Mostly routine matters were discussed at last week's Students' Council (SAC) meeting on Thursday, October 9, according to Jim Shaban, SAC Vice-President, Administration.

SAC passed a motion to undertake negotiations with the university administration to take over management of the University Centre Games Room, which SAC feels would generate a substantial amount of money for itself.

Also on the agenda was a motion that SAC ratify the administration's attempts to reconcile the sixth floor of Alcira Hall (which is not currently in use as living space) to make it into a more functional reception centre. The name of the new centre would be the Alumni Reception Centre. SAC ratified the move on the condition that student access to the sixth floor was not diminished.

Several clubs were also ratified by SAC, and that procedure went smoothly, with the exception of the campus gay students’ club.

Although “about 20 to 30” clubs were ratified with little or no problem, according to Shaban, the campus gay students’ club chafed into opposition from SAC President David Simmons.

Simmons, who has spoken at both the provincial and local student government levels against the ratification of gays as a visible organization, spoke up again at Thursday’s SAC meeting.

“If we have a gay student’ club we might as well have a Sadists’ and Masochists’ Club”, Simmons said.

Although a few members of SAC supported Simmons’ statement, most said disallowing ratification of the gay students’ club was denying members of the student body the right to expression through a club.

The gay students’ club was eventually ratified.

Also appointed at the meeting were several committees.

The Cost of Living (COLA) committee was set up, along with the By-Law Review committee, and the Society Review committee. A motion to set up the Clubs and Special Events committee was tabled at the meeting.

The date for the next SAC meeting could not be set due to conflicts in the schedules of many of the SAC members.

More referendum stuff

Will Simmons note voting irregularities?

by E.P. Chant

Although they probably didn’t do much to effect the outcome, there were some voting irregularities during this week’s referenda/elections.

On a quick tour of the campus on Tuesday, several SAC-CJAM, and Social Science Society posters were still up. All campaign posters are supposed to be taken down at least 24 hours before an election or referendum.

Further, on Tuesday a CJAM staff-member was observed at the polling station in the University Centre wearing a CJAM T-shirt. In 1977-78 when a referendum was held to give The Lance its own funding, the newspaper staffers were told to keep away from the polls if they were wearing their Lance shirts. The electoral officer that year ruled that the shirts constituted “walking posters.”

Apparently also, some of the polling officials and keepers of the ballot boxes didn’t know exactly what they were doing...

In one instance, one of this newspaper’s staffmembers was allowed to vote on all the referendum questions. Newspaper people are allowed to vote, so that’s not the problem – the problem is that part-time students were not supposed to be voting, but the staff member is one of those and was allowed to vote. Whether he was a completely isolated case is difficult to say.

At least one other fax pas was being made by some ballot boxes. The Lance observed first-hand one mistake and has a reliable source on an exactly similar one – both involving Social Work students being allowed by ballot boxes to vote in the Social Science Society referendum.

According to Jim Shaban, SAC’s Vice-President of Administration, Social Work students should not have been voting in that referendum, since Social Work constitutes a distinct school in the Faculty of Social Science and Social Work students already have their own society.

Referendum results must gain Board of Governor approval before they become official. The Board will consider the percentage of eligible voters who did exercise their franchise: that was approximately 20 per cent in the SAC and CJAM referendums and 33 per cent in the Social Science Society one.

The Board of Governors does not consider the significance of any alleged voting irregularities, according to Shaban.

He explained, however, that if the person who presents the results to the Board of Governors has any doubts about the correctness of the results, that person can note those doubts or even advise the Board to reject the results.

The person who will be presenting the results at the Board of Governors meeting on Tuesday, October 21 is SAC President David Simmons.

Campus student gay club ratified:

by Dino DeMarco

Mostly routine matters were discussed at last week’s Students’ Council (SAC) meeting on Thursday, October 9, according to Jim Shaban, SAC Vice-President, Administration.

SAC passed a motion to undertake negotiations with the university administration to take over management of the University Centre Games Room, which SAC feels would generate a substantial amount of money for itself.

Also on the agenda was a motion that SAC ratify the administration’s attempts to reconcile the sixth floor of Alcira Hall (which is not currently in use as living space) to make it into a more functional reception centre. The name of the new centre would be the Alumni Reception Centre. SAC ratified the move on the condition that student access to the sixth floor was not diminished.

Several clubs were also ratified by SAC, and that procedure went smoothly, with the exception of the campus gay students’ club.

Although “about 20 to 30” clubs were ratified with little or no problem, according to Shaban, the campus gay students’ club chafed into opposition from SAC President David Simmons.

Simmons, who has spoken at both the provincial and local student government levels against the ratification of gays as a visible organization, spoke up again at Thursday’s SAC meeting.

“If we have a gay student’ club we might as well have a Sadists’ and Masochists’ Club”, Simmons said.

Although a few members of SAC supported Simmons’ statement, most said disallowing ratification of the gay students’ club was denying members of the student body the right to expression through a club.

The gay students’ club was eventually ratified.

Also appointed at the meeting were several committees.

The Cost of Living (COLA) committee was set up, along with the By-Law Review committee, and the Society Review committee. A motion to set up the Clubs and Special Events committee was tabled at the meeting.

The date for the next SAC meeting could not be set due to conflicts in the schedules of many of the SAC members.

More referendum stuff

Will Simmons note voting irregularities?

by E.P. Chant

Although they probably didn’t do much to effect the outcome, there were some voting irregularities during this week’s referenda/elections.

On a quick tour of the campus on Tuesday, several SAC-CJAM, and Social Science Society posters were still up. All campaign posters are supposed to be taken down at least 24 hours before an election or referendum.

Further, on Tuesday a CJAM staff-member was observed at the polling station in the University Centre wearing a CJAM T-shirt. In 1977-78 when a referendum was held to give The Lance its own funding, the newspaper staffers were told to keep away from the polls if they were wearing their Lance shirts. The electoral officer that year ruled that the shirts constituted “walking posters.”

Apparently also, some of the polling officials and keepers of the ballot boxes didn’t know exactly what they were doing...

In one instance, one of this newspaper’s staffmembers was allowed to vote on all the referendum questions. Newspaper people are allowed to vote, so that’s not the problem – the problem is that part-time students were not supposed to be voting, but the staff member is one of those and was allowed to vote. Whether this was a completely isolated case is difficult to say.

At least one other fax pas was being made by some ballot boxes. The Lance observed first-hand one mistake and has a reliable source on an exactly similar one – both involving Social Work students being allowed by ballot boxes to vote in the Social Science Society referendum.

According to Jim Shaban, SAC’s Vice-President of Administration, Social Work students should not have been voting in that referendum, since Social Work constitutes a distinct school in the Faculty of Social Science and Social Work students already have their own society.

Referendum results must gain Board of Governor approval before they become official. The Board will consider the percentage of eligible voters who did exercise their franchise: that was approximately 20 per cent in the SAC and CJAM referendums and 33 per cent in the Social Science Society one.

The Board of Governors does not consider the significance of any alleged voting irregularities, according to Shaban.

He explained, however, that if the person who presents the results to the Board of Governors has any doubts about the correctness of the results, that person can note those doubts or even advise the Board to reject the results.

The person who will be presenting the results at the Board of Governors meeting on Tuesday, October 21 is SAC President David Simmons.

Simmons objects

Generation generates gentle genius

By now, you may have noted the posters around campus announcing that Generation magazine will be hitting the presses once again.

Generation magazine is an almost-annual anthology of creative works by University of Windsor students. Previous issues of Generation have featured poetry, prose, photography and artwork. Generation ‘81 is no exception.

In keeping with its 16-year tradition, editor Rosemary A. Breschuk of the English Department is calling for submissions of poetry (up to 40 lines in length), prose (short stories; works in-progress; up to 2,800 words), photography (clear, high contrast, glossy size for reproduction) and a graphical sketch (up to 50 words).

A cover letter must accompany the submissions. It should include your name, address, telephone number, year and faculty and a short autobiography of work (up to 500 words). Submit works to Rosemary A. Breschuk, c/o Department of English, 2111 Windsor Hall North. The Deadline for submissions is December 10, 1980.

This year, Generation ‘81 will have an editorial board: Dr. J. Dinsky (Faculty), Diane Freer (graduate), and an undergraduate member (to be announced). This year’s issue will also include a foreword by writer-in-residence W. O. Mitchell.

Former Generation magazine contributors who have made a name for themselves locally and nationally include poets Dorothy Fairclough, Mary Di Michele, Bronwen Wallace, Phill Hall, and C. H. (Marv) Ceravus, as well as artists Diane Bigelow and Dennis Knight.

Copies of Generation ‘80 are available in the bookstore.
Seascape II

"she's a craze"
he whispers

they hide behind the dunes with stones pressed nervously between their palms and fingers suddenly stones strike hard against the glass but no arthritic claws menace from the windows her scuttling figure fails to appear

she has shed her skin.
like chitin before morning

D. Mahoney

What I'll Remember

I'll remember you in black and rust
Instead of now:"clouds and dust.

Dawn Bezanick

HAWKES CLIFF

in a forest that over looks a lake we lay above the waves we watch the sun move the day and by our side and above our head the lake beyond thoughts of mine lie the forest
a chorus the waves the cliff
the sun
the forest
the lake
the waves
the forest
you

Marty Conlan

At Shining Tree

She sits sucking the lobby on her leg
Crouching softly to herself
Ignoring us.
His show, an album, newspaper clippings
Pictures of old and loved ones
Her parachute face.

Beneath the cats and we inside as a hat
We sit and talk and titter of yesterday
While the cats, twenty seven, last sound
Until we sing no more.

He whips the wheel with hands
Creating and worn as the record
He gently licks the needle on.
She plays no heard in the voice
Which spins its web of magic
Through the booth
Until the needle sticks in some old crack
And her head lifts.

For the breathless span of time
Her hand becomes motionless.
Even the cats then, sensing her
Unswatch as she stirs food on the past.
The needle touched slowly
On its way.
The cats continue tapping
Milk and licking paws
And chattering rainbows.
He makes a cup of tea.

Marvin Onstead

in tail grass

by a cliff

in tall grass

by our back and in the grass

the sun above

the girl I love

Harmony

convergence

Matrimony

absorption

Bhooma Chandra
University Players open new season with a waltz

by Peter Hristovec

"What a face. It's so sad", mutters General St. Pe, the central character in Jean Anouilh's The Waltz of the Toreadors. His petite diatribe captures the foolishness of man's aimless pursuits in acts of love and war. And the play, directed by Lionel Walsh, a retired cavalry officer, lives in the romantic world of his youth. Falling to observe that time has taken its toll, he becomes its unsuspecting victim. He dwells upon the minor museum pieces of his past with the reckless abandon of a daydreaming child. In any real sense, he is inevitably doomed to destruction.

But the irony of fate is not in its undying note of despair. Rather, it is the influx of the comic element, characterizing the "pathetic" as the "pathetic" or the "ridiculous", which truly captivates our interests. In essence, what is presented to us is a comic plot with a qualified "happy ending"—a happiness upon which each of us must render a personal judgment. Andrew Willmer does a fair job as General St. Pe. Despite his occasional "loss of character", Willmer properly dispached the General's propensity to elicit a sarcastic response in the face of an ever-persistent evocation of genius.

And truth is represented in tandem by Mme. St. Pe (Marlene Charney) and Dr. Bankart (Lance K. McIntyre). Ms. Charney is as splendid as she is vitriolic in attacking the General's foolish self-obsessions. McIntyre is prim and gentle as he balances the pressures of male ego with a conservative understanding of social propriety.

A true delight in this production is Lionel Walsh's interpretation of Gaston, the General's Secretary. A cross between a naive country bumpkin and a sophisticated city schemer, Gaston is inadvertently drawn within the confines of the General's "private" life. But the irony of farce is not in its undying note of despair. Rather, it is the influx of the comic element, characterizing the "pathetic" as the "pathetic" or the "ridiculous", which truly captivates our interests. In essence, what is presented to us is a comic plot with a qualified "happy ending"—a happiness upon which each of us must render a personal judgment. Andrew Willmer does a fair job as General St. Pe. Despite his occasional "loss of character", Willmer properly dispached the General's propensity to elicit a sarcastic response in the face of an ever-persistent evocation of genius.

And truth is represented in tandem by Mme. St. Pe (Marlene Charney) and Dr. Bankart (Lance K. McIntyre). Ms. Charney is as splendid as she is vitriolic in attacking the General's foolish self-obsessions. McIntyre is prim and gentle as he balances the pressures of male ego with a conservative understanding of social propriety.

A true delight in this production is Lionel Walsh's interpretation of Gaston, the General's Secretary. A cross between a naive country bumpkin and a sophisticated city schemer, Gaston is inadvertently drawn within the confines of the General's "private" life.
Oktoberfest arrives on campus, catch it at SAC's

GROTTYBEATS

by Peter Haggert

How many of you alcoholics even noticed there was no band in the pub Tuesday and Wednesday? Because of the short week and numerous festivities planned for this weekend, live entertainment was kept under wraps until Thursday.

Thursday, and tonight, SAC's will feature a German Oom Pah Pah Band to bring to the university the spirit of the Oktoberfest. Along with the band, the pub will serve various German foods and mugs of beer.

Saturday night, the Student Council will present a twashbill of entertainment, in honour of homecoming. The music of Masque will be emanating from the Ambassador Auditorium.

If you will remember, the Grottybeats aren't exactly the lads from Liverpool, but pretty darn close. These four Toronto musicians, who even dress and talk like the Beatles, feature three sets of complete Beatle material.

Admission to see the Grottybeats and Masque is $2.00 for alumni and students, and $3.00 for guests.

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

By Peter Haggert

How many of you alcoholics even noticed there was no band in the pub Tuesday and Wednesday? Because of the short week and numerous festivities planned for this weekend, live entertainment was kept under wraps until Thursday.

Thursday, and tonight, SAC's will feature a German Oom Pah Pah Band to bring to the university the spirit of the Oktoberfest. Along with the band, the pub will serve various German foods and mugs of beer.

Saturday night, the Student Council will present a twashbill of entertainment, in honour of homecoming. The music of Masque will be emanating from the Ambassador Auditorium.

If you will remember, the Grottybeats aren't exactly the lads from Liverpool, but pretty darn close. These four Toronto musicians, who even dress and talk like the Beatles, feature three sets of complete Beatle material.

Admission to see the Grottybeats and Masque is $2.00 for alumni and students, and $3.00 for guests.

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).

English Beat at Bookie’s

by John Liddle

The English Beat are in gear! After religiously playing (I mean experiencing) their album, "Just Can't Stop It," and catching their live performance last Sunday at Bookies in Detroit, I'm sold. Their energetic, strikingly original sound is a refreshing, moving experience.

Consider the two musical styles that have prevailed in the clubs of the civilized world over the past few years: punk rock and reggae. Take the two, add shake and bake, and voila! It's the hybrid music known as ska. Other bands that are defining this style are the Specials, Madness, and, to a lesser extent, Desmond Dekker. Come to think of it, who has heard any bad ska? Not I.

For the record, true ska has been alive and well for almost two decades, bailing from, where else but funky Kingston (Jamaica).
MAKE A NOTE

Friday, October 17

- CINEFEST features Rock ’n Roll Highschool at 7:15 pm. Cruising, with Al Pacino, is the second show scheduled to begin at 9:30 pm.
- University Players’ The Waltz of the Toreadors at Essex Hall Theatre at 8:00 pm. Friday tickets are $4.00.

Saturday, October 18

- CINEFEST will show Star Trek, the film which continues the popular television series, at 7:00 pm. Long Riders with David and Keith Carradine will be presented at 9:45 pm. Each show $1.99.
- The Waltz of the Toreadors, performed by the University Players. Tickets for the 8:00 pm show are $4.00.
- Club Sandwich will have Rich and Maurcen DeGrasso on hand, for good music and general entertainment. Admission to the club (83 Riverside Dr. W.) will be $3.50.

Aquaspace ’80, featuring an underwater film and slide show, will begin its evening presentation at 8:00 pm. Workshops in underwater photography, marine archaeology, underwater film making and whale and manatee research reports will begin at 1:00 pm. University building, Rem. 1120. Tickets for evening show $3.00, show and workshop $10.00. For tickets and information, call 256-7205 or 969-2707.

Sunday, October 19

- “In Touch with the Dutch”, a program of films on Dutch culture, at the Main Library 850 Ouellette Ave, at 2:00 pm.
- CINEFEST will present The Consequence, a West German production. Showtime is 8:00 pm, at the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

Wednesday, October 22

- CINEFEST will show The Kentucky Fried Movie at 7:15 pm. The 9:30 pm. presentation will be The Devils. Each movie $1.99.
- CINEFEST will present Firebell in the Night, in starring延续ing their American history series. The gallery is at 445 Riverside Dr. W.
- CINEFEST will show Knife in the Head in the 7:15 pm, showing. This will be followed by Quadrophenia, the Who experience, at 9:30 pm. Tickets of course $1.99 a show.

Saturday, October 25

- The Electric Horsemen, with Jane Fonda, and Robert Redford, 7:00 pm. at CINEFEST. The Man Who Fell to Earth, featuring David Bowie, will drift across the screen at 9:30 pm. $1.99 each movie.

The Boss: born to rock and roll

by Laurie Bergoin

“You’ve been there before; you already know. You sent last week; now you know. You’re going tonight? You’re gonna know.” (Larry Barone, a first-year student, one of Bruce Springsteen’s greatest fans, to some of his friends.)

“Know what you’re asking yourself? Know why the Boss is the Boss.”

Thursday, October ninth, Bruce Springsteen came to Detroit for his second show. It was the first concert booked of His 1980 tour at Cobo Hall and sold out quickly.

For nearly four hours, with only one twenty minute break, he and the E Street Band, rock and rolled Cobo Hall and all of its contents. Solos from all the members of the band were heard to the extreme delight of the audience. Leading the guys in solo performances was Clarence Clemons, who plays the sax as if it were as easy as playing in the back streets.

Clemons and Springsteen sauntered towards the edge of the stage, enticing the main floor audience with open arms. Although Springsteen asked everyone to remain in their seats, the music was too much for many, and the aisles were filled with dancing fans.

The Boss sang most of the songs from his new album, The River, which brought continuous clapping through most of the show. “Born to Run”, “Thunder Road” and “Rosalita” had everyone out of their chairs. Even Mitch Riker’s tune “Devil with the Blue Dress On”, sung by Springsteen, had the house dancing in the aisles.

There were many high points to this concert. If he wasn’t singing to the crowds content, he was jumping from the stage, into the crowds and dancing with the girls; all the while staying close to his bodyguards. After the last set, when everyone knew he would be back, the song of “Bruce, Bruce, Bruce...’ started up, raising in tempo until the Boss again showed his face on stage.

Three times he came back and these being, his true fans, all knew what his last encore would be: “A Quarter to Three”, even after this they were reluctant to leave.

The energy he emits when singing, the response he receives from his crowd, NOW YOU KNOW WHY THE BOSS IS TRULY THE BOSS. He has proved it again.
Bruce Springsteen: The River
by Dave Garlick

Greeting's from Asbury Park, the Wild the Innocent and the Edge of Town, are the most and they helped to establish the New Wave is near ly here.

Springsteen's first album of the eighties continues on in the same exact way as his previous four. Springsteen's style hasn't changed much over the years, and is still, very successful, during the seventies. They were, and are still, important forces in rock today.

The two album set has the same material as the Tour of ’75 and ’76, that were released in Australia. But what is new about it is that it is given a different feeling and sound.

The two album set has the same material as the Tour of ’75 and ’76, that were released in Australia. But what is new about it is that it is given a different feeling and sound.

Springsteen as one of the most...
Lancers fumble their way into OUAA basement

by Steve Rice

Turnovers. That's the one word that Lancer head coach Glen Fracas used to sum up a 36-23 loss to Laurier Golden Hawks last Saturday at south campus field. It was an apt choice.

Turnovers translate into five fumbles and two interceptions and they effectively ensured Laurier the victory with only a minimal effort on their part.

There were, however, indications at the start that the Lancers, under the guidance of returning veteran quarterback Scott Mallender would make this game the first in a series of victories which would rocket them into the playoffs.

After Hank Ian Dunbar boomed a punt deep in the end zone for the second possession of the game the first in a series of victories which would rocket them to the playoffs.

With a third down and two to go at the Lancers' 47 yard line, Mallender completed 20 of 34 passes that I should have made," said Fracas in defense of his player's errors. "These are the guys who in two or three years are going to be very good football players. It's just that right now they're still getting rid of their bad habits."

The Hawks got major scores from Paul Falzon, Billy Burke, Bernie Fickett and Chris Burgess. Ian Dunbar converted all four scores and added two singles and a field goal of 42 and 12 yards. Windsor got touchdowns from Wyatt Clark, Scott Essery and John Yax with Miljkovic converting all three and adding a single. Essery also kicked a one-pointer.

Statistics good

Statistically, the Lancers played an exceptional game - one of the best of the season. It was primarily a matter of the offense spiriting at the wrong time or coughing the ball up. Mallender, in his first game of the season with only a week of practice, did an admirable job. And his return seemed to spark the rest of the offense to greater things.

Mallender completed 20 of 34 passes for 314 yards and three touchdowns while Bob Dalley, who had done a fine job of quarterbacking the team through the first four games, completed three of three passes for 96 yards from his halfback position.

"I missed a couple of crucial passes that I should have made," said a disappointed Mallender after the game. "We did all right offensively, but we just turned it over in crucial situations.

"A lot of people wondered why I didn't wait until next year to play when I'd have a full year. But I really thought this team had a good shot of making the playoffs. I guess I can't say 'there's always next year'."

Laurier opened up their lead on the very next play, Leeming again found Vetro for a 66-yard gain in which Vetro made the three Lancers defenders covering him look foolish. From there Burke ran it in for the major.

Essery was top receiver for the sure three-pointer. They played an exceptional game - one of the best of the season.

However, Windsor was called offside on the field goal attempt and that gave the Hawks first and goal on the five and one play later the game was tied at seven.

Then late in the first half with the score 11-9 for Laurier, the Lancers came up with out of their most popular plays, the punt-fumble - this one gave Laurier the ball on Windsor's ten. From there, the Hawks moved in and scored on a two yard pass to Chris Burgess, who was all alone thanks to the one on two coverage given by the Lancers.

"These are young players and they're going to do some silly things," said Fracas in defense of his player's errors. "These are the guys who in two or three years are going to be very good football players. It's just that right now they're still getting rid of their bad habits."

The Hawks got major scores from Paul Falzon, Billy Burke, Bernie Fickett and Chris Burgess. Ian Dunbar converted all four scores and added two singles and a field goal of 42 and 12 yards. Windsor got touchdowns from Wyatt Clark, Scott Essery and John Yax with Miljkovic converting all three and adding a single. Essery also kicked a one-pointer.

Game the first in a series of victories which would rocket them to the playoffs.

With the Lancers on the move at Laurier's 35-yard line, Mallender and Dalley misjudged a handoff and the Hawks recovered on the 40.

On the very next play, Leeming again found Vetro for a 66-yard gain in which Vetro made the three Lancers defenders covering him look foolish. From there Burke ran it in for the major.

Essery was top receiver for the sure three-pointer. They played an exceptional game - one of the best of the season.

With the Lancers coming up with one of their remaining two games, now 1-4 on the season and out of the playoff picture, up for their remaining two games.

"I think you'll see them play some great football now," said Fracas. "Now that the pressure's off they'll be relaxed."

The Lancers' final home game is Saturday against McMaster.

Golfers thank coaches, University

The 1980 University of Windsor Lancer golf team came up short in their bid to capture the O.U.A.A. golf championship held at Glen Abbey in Oakville on Oct. 6 and 7. The Lancers finished second to the University of Toronto.

The team members were disappointed at not winning the title for their coaches and the University.

As Hreljac, the individual champion of this year's tournament, said, "the Lancers with five catches for 130 yards. Vetro nabbed four for 150 yards on the Laurier side.

Top rusher for the game was Leeming with 12 for 69 yards. Craig Mallender was best for the Lancers with 8 for 44.

Fracas denied that it would be difficult to turn things around, now 1-4 on the season and out of the playoff picture, up for their remaining two games.

"I think you'll see them play some great football now," said Fracas. "Now that the pressure's off they'll be relaxed."

The Lancers' final home game is Saturday against McMaster.

The members of the team hope to get back in the running for their remaining two games.

"We let our coaches down by not winning the tournament when we had the chance," said Simpson.

The coaches of the team are Bill Miles, an area real estate salesman, and John Harcar, insurance salesman who is club champion at Essex Golf Club. Every member wishes to express their gratitude to these two fine men for their devotion of time and effort. They only hope that they will remain with the team in the future since they represent an extremely valuable asset to the team.

The team also felt proud and thankful to be representing the University of Windsor which paid for the accommodations and fees needed by the golfers to take part in the championships. The members of the team hope the University will continue its support of the golf program.

Next year's Lancer team will have four players returning from the 1980 team. The golfers have already set their goals to compete for second and third holes at Glen Abbey and bring the title back to Windsor for their coaches and the University.

CONTEST CLOSES MIDNIGHT, OCTOBER 24

Name-the-new-Games-Room

Put your creative forces to work, you could win $25 CASH!

IN-THE-CENTRE-CONTEST

Contest closes midnight, October 24

Drop off your entry at the Centre Desk with your name, student number and phone number

The Lancer, Vol. LII, No. 6, Friday, October 17, 1980. Page Thirteen Introducing the 1980-81 basketball Lancerettes

by Steve Rice

An excellent blend of height and speed to promise the number one basketball team this season. Lancerette basketball is both thrilling to watch and profitable for the team.

One-half of the team of 12 are rookies which might be cause for concern by some fans. But the six who have invaded the ranks of Lancerette-Land have proven that they are worthy of their positions.

Coach Sue Swain

"This year we have rookies, and the older players rather than the newer players having to bring the rookies along," said coach Sue Swain Wednesday. "It's a really nice mix."

No particularly pleasing fresher entry for Swain is six-foot tall Theresa McGee who Swain described as "an all-around player who moves well for someone her size."

"She'll be a key," remarked Swain.

As well, there are two players at 5'9" on the squad and another at 5'8", but according to Swain, "they can all jump really well which is like adding a couple of inches to their height.

The Lancerettes also have strength in returning forward Tracy McNair who finished eighth in rebounding last year and was a second team all-star in Tier II. Dubbed "Whiz Kid" in her rookie season last year, this fiery-haired talent can really do a job under the boards.

Because of the quickness on the team, they will employ a number of offensive and defensive tactics to take advantage of it.

"We'll fast break a lot," said Swain. "And we hope to go with a full-court man-to-man most of the time because the girls will be able to come back and help out with their speed. We've got the speed, so we might as well use it."

Windsor finished fourth in Tier II of the two-division league last year and thus were eliminated from any further action.

"This year we have rookies that can support the older players rather than the older players having to bring the rookies along," said coach Sue Swain. "And we hope to go further in the playoffs this year."

Tier II of the two-division league

Tier II. We have the talent and based on the way the league was last year, we should be able to move up by beating the fifth or sixth-place team.

"Overall, they're really talented athletes with a lot of skill. They have a good attitude and motivate themselves because they want to work hard."

Here then now is a complete set of Lancerette basketball cards, suitable for framing, posting on walls, or carrying in wallets. Notes on each player were provided by coach Sue Swain.

The Lancerettes open the schedule at home against Ryerson Nov. 14.

---

No. 4 Kit Kelly 5'5"

- 2nd year Law
- 4th season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Stratford
- Last Year's MVP, two years as co-captain of the team (1979-80, 1980-81). Good defensive player, team leader, good hustle. Position: Guard.

---

No. 5 Jolayne Conlon 5'7"

- 1st year H.K.
- 1st season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor - Riverside S.S.
- Member of City High School All Star Team (1980) Southwestern Regional Team (1980). Versatile athlete, extremely quick, excellent jumping and shooting abilities. Position: Guard/Forward.

---

No. 6 Mary Brennan 5'4"

- 2nd year H.K.
- 1st season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor - Brennan H.S.
- City All Star in High School, smart head-up guard, down very defensively, good shot, hard worker. Position: Guard.

---

No. 7 Roberta Smith 5'9"

- 1st year Sciences
- 1st season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor, Riverside S.S.
- Tall quick forward, capable of playing center. Excellent jumping abilities, good shot, good hustle on both offense and defense. City High School All Star (1980) Southwestern Regional Team (1980).

---

No. 8 Mary Hrycay 5'7"

- 1st year H.K.
- 1st season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor - Herman H.S.
- A City All Star last year, knows the game well, good point guard, has a good shot, passes well.

---

No. 9 Diane Minello 5'8½"

- 1st year H.K.
- 1st season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor - Brennan H.S.
- City All Star, Southwestern Regional Team (1979). Has a good shot, jumps well, smart player—goes to the empty spots well. Good hustle, great attitude. Position: Forward.

---

No. 10 Donna Puci 5'7"

- 4th year H.K.
- 2nd season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Rochester, New York
- Smart player, hard worker, understands the game concepts well. Super attitude, good team player.

---

No. 11 Tracy McNair 5'10"

- 2nd year Business
- 2nd season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Brantford
- 2nd All Star Team Tier II (1980). Tracy works hard for rebounds and shots made. Plays center. Her specialty is taking people inside. Good outside shot as well.

---

No. 12 Jeannette Webster 5'9"

- 2nd year Business
- 2nd season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Amherstburg—General Ambush
- Extremely hard worker, good team player. Plays forward, drives to the hoop well from this position. Knows the game well.

---

No. 13 Theresa McGee 6'

- Preliminary Year
- 1st season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Parkhill
- Highschool M.V.P. Two years on the Southwestern Regional Team. Plays center. Excellent inside moves, excellent rebounder, moves very well for a big person. Good hustle, excellent attitude.

---

No. 14 Kerri Towers 5'6½"

- 4th year H.K.
- 4th season as Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor—Sandwich S.S.
- Co-Captain for 3 years, leading scorer Tier II (1979), super attitude, super hustle, excellent rebounder, playmaker, shooter. Can play guard or forward very well. Team leader, very consistent.

---

No. 15 Pam Johnson 6'

- 3rd year H.K.
- 3rd season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Windsor—Lowrie S.S.
- Plays centre, works well inside, super attitude, works hard, good team player, developing a nice inside jumper.

---

No. 12 Jeannette Webster 5'9"

- 2nd year Business
- 2nd season as a Lancerette
- Hometown: Amherstburg—General Ambush
- Extremely hard worker, good team player. Plays forward, drives to the hoop well from this position. Knows the game well.
Stan Cunningham, a professor at the University of Windsor, ran a fast 1:44.08 for one and one quarter miles and an estimated time of 1:44.10. Cunningham was just four seconds off his personal best and victoriously escorted the Talent All-Stars to victory. His time confirmed his reputation as a winner.

Talent All-Stars played to a 19-19 tie with a strong Electa Hall team who are unbeaten in their last three games. The No Talent All-Stars, who changed into the season with two straight wins, now appear to be living up to their name. There were no games played on Thanksgiving and captains of all teams showed great classroom. All games scheduled for Oct. 17 will be played on Oct. 20 and those scheduled for Oct 24 will be played on Oct 27. There are no Friday games.

Soccer

The regular season is rapidly drawing to a close with only two league games remaining. The races for a playoff berth and top spot are very tight and there are no clear leaders. At present, Colonial National Flyers are in the lead with 16 points, but not on their heels are ISO and the Red Devils, both one point back at 15. Still battling for the final playoff spot are Caribbean and the Women Chasers.

Non-contact

The 1st Year Chaos team took over first place in the Non-Contact league by racking up 43 points on the strength of Jim Demarco's throwing, and handing the Engineering Chem Heats their first loss of the season, 43-28.

IM Hockey

There will be an intramural hockey championship held at 5 p.m. in St. Denis Hall. This is the deadline for team rosters and individual entries. For additional information contact Paul Parsons at 256-4277.

Gridwomen?

A women's flag football tournament will be held Oct. 27 with entries to be submitted at the campus recreation office in St. Denis Hall. For more information contact Irene Shalikowski at 255-4232, Ext. 136.

Kathy Ricica running at the Springbank Road Races in London earlier this year.

Ricica joins Staudt

by Scott McCallum

Kathy Ricica of the University of Windsor will be joining teammate Linda Staudt in Ottawa on Aug. 23 for the Marathon championships, thanks to her eighth-place finish in the Avon Women's 20k. (12.4 mile) run held last weekend in Chicago. The race was part of a series sponsored by Avon in which points are awarded for placements. Runners accumulating at least 20 points qualify for an all-expenses paid trip to Ottawa to run the race there. Staudt had already qualified and Ricica's performance last weekend brought her point total up to 22. Kathy's time for the event was 79.30.

The organizers of the series hope that it will bring about sufficient recognition of female proficiency at the 26 mile, 385 yard distance that a women's marathon will become part of the Olympics. Ricica and other University athletes will be competing in the OWIAA and OUAA track and field finals held in Sudbury Saturday. Good luck to all.

Paul Roberts of the University of Windsor won the Great Lakes USA/TFA Cross Country Meet in Rouge Park, Detroit on Saturday, Oct. 11. Dan MacKinnon finished eighth in the same race.

---

Windsor professor wins trotting battle of turkeys

Stan Cunningham (left) with his prize.

A fine representation of the university spectrum turned out for the annual Turkey Trot. Under bright blue skies Friday, an eager number of participants matched their athletic skills with the clock. The winner, Mr. Cunningham, is a professor in the Communications Department. He happily renounced his reputation as a loser and victoriously escorted his turkey home. His time confirmed his reputation as a winner.

---

Flag Football

In the contact league, the No Talent All-Stars played to a 19-19 tie with a strong Electa team who are unbeaten in their last three games. The No Talent, who changed into the season with two straight wins, now appear to be living up to their name. There were no games played on Thanksgiving and captains of all teams showed great classroom. All games scheduled for Oct. 17 will be played on Oct. 20 and those scheduled for Oct 24 will be played on Oct 27. There are no Friday games.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>GP W L T Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Electa Hall</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>N.T. All-Stars</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Results

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>GP W L T Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Electa Hall</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>N.T. All-Stars</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Gridwomen?

A women's flag football tournament will be held Oct. 27 with entries to be submitted at the campus recreation office in St. Denis Hall. For more information contact Irene Shalikowski at 255-4232, Ext. 136.

For more information contact Irene Shalikowski at 255-4232, Ext. 136.

---

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21st

AMBASSADOR AUDITORIUM

ADMISSION : $3.00

Price includes 45 rpm record

DON'T FORGET TGIF

DELTA CHI HALLOWE'EN PARTY IS COMING

---

The organizers of the series hope that it will bring about sufficient recognition of female proficiency at the 26 mile, 385 yard distance that a women's marathon will become part of the Olympics. Ricica and other University athletes will be competing in the OWIAA and OUAA track and field finals held in Sudbury Saturday. Good luck to all.

Paul Roberts of the University of Windsor won the Great Lakes USA/TFA Cross Country Meet in Rouge Park, Detroit on Saturday, Oct. 11. Dan MacKinnon finished eighth in the same race.

---

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21st

AMBASSADOR AUDITORIUM

ADMISSION : $3.00

Price includes 45 rpm record

DON'T FORGET TGIF

DELTA CHI HALLOWE'EN PARTY IS COMING

---

Toby Redd

---

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21st

AMBASSADOR AUDITORIUM

ADMISSION : $3.00

Price includes 45 rpm record

DON'T FORGET TGIF

DELTA CHI HALLOWE'EN PARTY IS COMING
STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN FINANCIAL POSITION FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Account</th>
<th>1979</th>
<th>1980</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Current liabilities</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bank overdraft</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - trade</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - University of Windsor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accrued wages and related amounts</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sales tax liability</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Provision for operating loss of prior year ended April 30, 1979</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period (Note 4)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Source of funds</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Decrease in notes payable</td>
<td>312</td>
<td>30,278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Increase in working capital</td>
<td></td>
<td>16,992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, beginning of year</td>
<td></td>
<td>2,863</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, end of year</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF NET EARNINGS AND MEMBERS' EQUITY FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Account</th>
<th>1979</th>
<th>1980</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Source of funds</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Decrease in notes payable</td>
<td>312</td>
<td>30,278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Increase in working capital</td>
<td></td>
<td>16,992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, beginning of year</td>
<td></td>
<td>2,863</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, end of year</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF NET EARNINGS AND MEMBERS' EQUITY FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Account</th>
<th>1979</th>
<th>1980</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Issued to shareholders</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Current liabilities</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bank overdraft</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - trade</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - University of Windsor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accrued wages and related amounts</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sales tax liability</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Provision for operating loss of prior year ended April 30, 1979</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period (Note 4)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Source of funds</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Decrease in notes payable</td>
<td>312</td>
<td>30,278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Increase in working capital</td>
<td></td>
<td>16,992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, beginning of year</td>
<td></td>
<td>2,863</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, end of year</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN FINANCIAL POSITION FOR THE YEAR ENDED APRIL 30, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Account</th>
<th>1979</th>
<th>1980</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Issued to shareholders</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Current liabilities</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bank overdraft</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - trade</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accounts payable - University of Windsor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accrued wages and related amounts</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sales tax liability</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Provision for operating loss of prior year ended April 30, 1979</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Note payable - current period (Note 4)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Source of funds</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Decrease in notes payable</td>
<td>312</td>
<td>30,278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Increase in working capital</td>
<td></td>
<td>16,992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, beginning of year</td>
<td></td>
<td>2,863</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deficiency, end of year</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
<td>$ 2,863</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Background to Council tension

by Ed McMahon and E.P. Chant

When David Simmons was elected in April of 1980, the first black president of a Canadian university students' council, the administration and the students at this university were assured of an interesting year. At that time, several high ranking university officials approached Simmons and told him that his power lay in his executive — and that his year would be successful only if he trusted in their ability to perform and delegated various tasks to them; also that all that he or any other council president could hope to accomplish was limited to one or two achievements.

Since that time, personality conflicts and what can only be described as a severe communications breakdown between the president and his executive has brought the situation to the point where the cabinet, at least, feels that they cannot go on much longer in such a tense atmosphere.

Last Friday's Lance featured an editorial which was highly critical of the actions that Simmons had taken in leaving the campus while the SAC referendum for a fee increase was going on. On Tuesday, October 21, Simmons returned to the campus and asked for a meeting with E.P. Chant, the Editor of The Lance, and Ed McMahon, the Managing Editor. In the meeting, Simmons called the information we had been given about his activities in Winnipeg (at the National Union of Students' Conference) and at the last SAC meeting "outright blatant lies." Simmons said that whoever had given us the information was engaged in a "malicious attempt to put a smear on me." "(These are) attempts to make it seem like I'm an absolute dictator," he said.

During the course of the meeting, Simmons made it clear that he was not happy with his executive, and went "on the record" as saying so. The meeting ended with the understanding that if Simmons wanted to clear up any of the "inaccuracies" in our stories, he could write a letter to the paper. We would not make any retractions, as we considered the sources from which we had received the information (SAC members) to be reliable.

That same day, Vice President Administrative Jim Shaban, Vice President Financial Brad Mitchell, and External Affairs Commissioner John Riropoulos met with Chant and McMahon to present their side of the story. It was clear that they too were unhappy with the present situation at the SAC office. They claim that Simmons has yet to carry through with his "teamwork concept" which was such a big part of his campaign.

Following a meeting in the Office of Student Affairs, which had attempted to mediate the problem between Simmons and Shaban, we decided that it was impossible for The Lance to sit on the story any longer.

Interviews with more sources followed, and a meeting was called to decide what form the story would take. It was decided that a background had to be done (which is this introduction), followed by a straight news story, an interview story, an analysis, and finally an editorial to wrap it all up.

Vol. LIII, No. 7, October 24, 1980

Personality clashes causes rift in SAC cabinet

by E.P. Chant and Ed McMahon

The veiled dissension in the Students' Administrative Council's (SAC) executive offices was eradicated this week as the president and his cabinet brought their internal disputes to the press.

In an interview with The Lance on Tuesday afternoon, SAC President David Simmons responded "on-the-record" to rumours of a severe rift that was developing within the council's executive.

Simmons is dissatisfied with the work of his subordinates, refusing to comment on the job performance of External Affairs Commissioner John Riropoulos and refusing to comment on the quality of Brad Mitchell's work (Mitchell is SAC Vice-President of Finance).

Simmons added, "It's possible that I'm just expecting too much (from the executive)," but he was upset that he had not received many creative suggestions from the cabinet members. He displayed a letter dated August 6, 1980, which invited such advice from the members.

The happy people above constitute the SAC executive after their elections and appointments. Few are smiling now.

The same day (October 21), members of the executive responded to some of Simmons' complaints and discussed the situation from their viewpoints.

All the executives said they did not think the situation had reached the point where their — or SAC's — ability to serve the students had been severely impaired, but that the possibility of that happening was there.

SAC Vice-President of Administration Jim Shaban said he would "like to see the problems worked out by the people in the office . . . If the matter isn't solved, I'll leave. I don't need the hassle.

Before doing that (leaving), however, Shaban said: "I will do everything in my power so that whatever is causing the problem is removed."

Mitchell, speaking about his relationship with Simmons, said, "I refuse to accept the idea that I am responsible to one individual also "graded" the individual work of his subordinates, refusing to comment on the job performance of External Affairs Commissioner John Riropoulos and refusing to comment on the quality of Brad Mitchell's work (Mitchell is SAC Vice-President of Finance).

Simmons said, "It's possible that I'm just expecting too much (from the executive)," but he was upset that he had not received many creative suggestions from the cabinet members. He displayed a letter dated August 6, 1980, which invited such advice from the members.

The happy people above constitute the SAC executive after their elections and appointments. Few are smiling now.

The work of the executive as a whole. He said he spoke to the cabinet at the beginning of this month and "told them they should be doing more."

"Asked aloud whether he thought the executive was working well together, Simmons said, "No, I wouldn't say that."

In the interview, the president not happy with executive.

Shaban: No teamwork.
The LANCE, Vol. VIII, No. 7, Friday, October 24, 1980, Page Two

VOLUNTEERS are required to work with children and adults with disabilities by using motor activities and individual work. Immediate openings are available in swimming and other programs. For information, call 252-3127.

CHEERLEADING AUDITIONS for the 1981-82 Basketball Season. This year we have a new initiative. No cheerleading experience is necessary, because we are seeking enthusiastic dancing and pom-pom routines to perform at events. Practices are Monday and Wednesday evenings, 5:00-7:00 p.m., in the Dance Studio at the Kinetics Building. Our cheerleaders are always looking for new and exciting routines to teach. This year is going to be better than ever! So come join our exciting team and remember, if you enjoy dancing, it's the club for you! For more information, call Wendy at 254-2534.

WANTED: End of chapter answers to previous issue's issues. SELF-DEFENCE for the philosophy student. Please contact Center's 964-3594 between 1:30-3:30 p.m.

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University, 254-2512. MASS SCHEDULE: Sunday 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. Tuesday 12:00 noon and 4:00 p.m. In the Library. Call for information, please call April at 256-5165.

Well Susan, that was the end of the year, and we got our party hats and party pants and we did ourselves in a wavy way. Anyway, HAPPY BIRTHDAY BOOSSIE, YA GIRL!

TO ALL ASPIRING PLAYWRIGHTS: Club S.O.O.A. (Society of Dramatic Art) is looking for submissions by playwrights of materials for reading and positive performance. Both stage and broadcast scripts are required. Please submit to Club S.O.O.A. all those in the form of either School of Dramatic Art, ANTIQUO WEEKEND (Nov. 5 & 6) is a weekend of talk and discussion about Christianity. The weekend features times for reflection and prayer and liturgy which all contribute to an experience of Christian Community. We look forward to these Antiquo Weekends as a time of growth for our community here at Assumption as well as for the growth of the individuals who take part in the Weekend. This weekend will be held at the House of Mercy in Amherstburg. This weekend is sponsored by Assumption Campus Community. For more information contact Chaplaincy Office at 254-2512 or drop onto our building.

The University of Western Ontario will hold an information session on Wednesday, October 24 2 p.m., Dillon Hall Room 164.

Win a private dinner for two or four with wine

Your Waiters: J. David McMurray

Director of Residence and Food Services

Darell Johnston

Saginaw Director of Food Services

To Enter:

Simply write on a piece of paper, a name and a decorating theme for the Luncheon Buffeteria, located at the University Centre. At the bottom of the paper, PRINT your name and phone number. Fill out as many entries as you wish, but only one entry per person. Hurry; contest closes November 7, 1980.

Submit entries to:

Room 24, Vanier Hall or Centre Buffeteria

Buffeteria open from 11:15 a.m. - 1:15 p.m. Monday to Friday

Photo Editor: Heidi Pamper

Graphic Artist: J. Patrick Sekula

Circulation Manager, John McMahon

Typesetting: Cindy Hartogs

Editor: E.P. Chant

Managing Editor, Ed McMahon

Sports Editor, Steve Rice

Entertainment Editor, Peter Haggert

Photography Editor: Heidi Pamper

Graphic Artist: J. Patrick Sekula

Editorial Cartoonist, Marg Deutsch

Composition Manager, John McMahon

Typsetting: Cindy Hartogs

Editor: E.P. Chant

Managing Editor, Ed McMahon

Sports Editor, Steve Rice

Entertainment Editor, Peter Haggert

Photography Editor: Heidi Pamper

Graphic Artist: J. Patrick Sekula

Circulation Manager, John McMahon

Typsetting: Cindy Hartogs

Please call

256-5042

for information about our programs.

THE U. OF W. JEWISH STUDENT

BOOK REVIEW

now available

The New York Times

Book Review

at:

SOUTH SHORE BOOKS

101 ST W. WINDSOR ONTARIO. CANADA

NO. 6

OUT OF PRINT Impeachment?

Ammicable settlement may not be real possibility

by E.P. Chant and Ed McMahen

The extent of, and some possible causes of, the internal dissent affecting the Students’ Administrative Council’s (SAC) executive is revealed in The Lance in a Tuesday-full of interviews with the parties involved.

When Shaban, Mitchell, and Simmons started the ball rolling by reviewing the performance of their cabinet members, they began a relationship with their members, and his own job performance.

Collectively, he feels the executive “could be doing a lot more” and, he said, he thought the members at the beginning of this month.

Asked if he felt the cabinet members were engrossed in their job performances was, Simmons explained he refused to discuss the matter due to the students’ council members, and his own job performance.

“I am responsible to one individual only. My allegiance is to the students. I am responsible to the students’ council, and the students.”

Simmons added he was not personally involved in the dissent. “I think there’s a lack of communication between the parties involved. It’s possible that I’m just expecting too much from them.”

Rizopoulos, also a member of the executive, the tone of his responses was not as hopeful. “I don’t think it’s reached the point where our ability to serve the students has been impaired, but it could. I think the matter isn’t solved, I’m not going to leave — I don’t need the hassle.”

Part of the problem, as Shaban said, is the indecision of presidential powers. As the SAC constitution reads now, Shaban feels the president can potentially seize too much power. He would also prefer to see an executive that is elected from council members, instead of presidentially appointed.

““If things don’t change,” he continued, “I will do everything in my power so that whatever is causing the problem is removed.”

Analysis: The last statement by Simmons directly above appears to put the whole situation in a nutshell. He has completely lost faith in the ability of his major cabinet members to work with him, and for reasons which are still not clearly defined.

Though it may be true that his executives have not furnished him with a great deal of advice in the past, it seems that Simmons is unwilling to accept and, or mistreat his executive’s ideas now. He is fast becoming aloof and his stubbornness may make an amicable resolution of the problem impossible.

Vice-President of Administration Jim Shaban, once the “dirty liner,” was brought in by Simmons, explained his position and his view of the problem.

Though he said he would like to see the problem solved within the executive, the tone of his voice was not hopeful. “I don’t think it’s reached the point where our ability to serve the students has been impaired, but it could. I think the matter isn’t solved, I’ll leave — I don’t need the hassle.”

Part of the problem, as Shaban said, is the indecision of presidential powers. As the SAC constitution reads now, Shaban feels the president can potentially seize too much power. He would also prefer to see an executive that is elected from council members, instead of presidentially appointed.

“The whole executive, the tone of his voice was not hopeful. “I don’t think it’s reached the point where our ability to serve the students has been impaired, but it could. I think the matter isn’t solved, I’ll leave — I don’t need the hassle.”

Part of the problem, as Shaban said, is the indecision of presidential powers. As the SAC constitution reads now, Shaban feels the president can potentially seize too much power. He would also prefer to see an executive that is elected from council members, instead of presidentially appointed.

The President is particularly upset about what he sees as a lack of creative support from his cabinet members, that they have not approached him with suggestions and ideas now. “It’s a question of being able to work — and work collectively.”

Whether it is and whether this enters into his motivation is information which is still unavailable.

The vice-president, the tone of his voice was not hopeful. “I don’t think it’s reached the point where our ability to serve the students has been impaired, but it could. I think the matter isn’t solved, I’ll leave — I don’t need the hassle.”

Part of the problem, as Shaban said, is the indecision of presidential powers. As the SAC constitution reads now, Shaban feels the president can potentially seize too much power. He would also prefer to see an executive that is elected from council members, instead of presidentially appointed.

Vice-President of Finance, Brad Mitchell, is worried about the dispute’s effect on the performance of SAC vis-a-vis its commitment to its constituents, the students.

This thought is echoed in two statements. First, said Mitchell, “I refuse to accept the idea that I am responsible to one individual (Simmons) and one individual only. My allegiance is to the students and I will do what is in my power to alleviate the problem.”

Again, asked how long he could continue to work for Simmons under the present tension, Mitchell replied: “It’s not a question of working for David, but the students’ council. When my capacity as Vice-President of Finance of SAC is limited to the extent that my ability to fulfill my duties is suppressed, I would seriously re-consider my contribution to council.”

He would not comment on tendering his resignation and, as for a possible presidential impeachment, he said, “That’s not the main problem right now.”

Analysis: Mitchell feels concerned in his job right now. He is not only a political advisor in his position, but the treasurer of a corporation that is responsible for the well-being of several thousand students. He obviously feels he cannot continue to look after that latter priority (sufficiently well) if his time and mind are going to be empty pretty soon.

Shaban feels his expertise from last year is being neglected. Whether it is and whether this enters into his motivation is information which is still unavailable.

Though he said he was not personally involved in the dissent, he refused to comment when asked whether they would consider resignation.

Rizopoulos, Mitchell, and Simmons all did, however, go “on-the-record” with a comment when asked whether they would consider trying to find grounds to impeach Simmons. Shaban said, “Not at the present time.” Rizopoulos said, “We’ll think about that situation if it requires it,” and Mitchell said, “That’s not the main problem right now.”

Whatever “the main problem” is will have been discussed by the time The Lance appears on campus this week — the cabinet and Simmons are meeting on Friday morning to attempt to work out their differences.

What to do with an empty Blue.

When you’re smiling, call for Labatt’s Blue.
Editorial

"The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted."

- E. Craven O'Keary

Corrective action must be taken very soon

Although in many circumstances a personality conflict can be viewed as a petty misunderstanding and something which must be settled by the two assumedly mature parties involved, there is a point in time in which the conflict has presently existing in the SAC office, it becomes more than just a minor squabble.

The problem is one which is more explosive than most people think. It is one which could quite possibly break up the present council, thus tarnishing the ideals that any council has before it - namely working together for the good of all students which they are elected to serve.

For several weeks, we've heard a lot from "next door" about David doing this and John doing that, but not about doing his job and not being in the office enough. Up until last Tuesday, this was all rumour; as a responsible newspaper, we do not print rumour. We will not until we get all the facts. Through a strange set of circumstances, those facts became available to us.

The whole students' council executive was suddenly crying on our shoulders, telling us of all the seemingly childish and, to some extent, ridiculous events which had led up to the situation being what it is today - the SAC executive may be unable to work for you as it presently exists.

Although we don't have all the facts now (too much emphasis is being put on this), Simmonds in his own words, "each other is still "off the record" and we probably never will, we were faced with two choices. One was setting the story for another two weeks or so, at which point it may have been that SAC would be in a shambles, as resignation flew and tempers grew to the point where nothing was being done, save for the attempts to resolve these personality problems.

The other possibility was that we could have gone to press with the information we had, hoping that the information will make it easier for the students on this campus to make some sort of a decision should one be warranted some time.

And so, on the advice of several people, we decided it was best to make you aware of the situation. We could no longer sit on the story in good conscience hoping that it would resolve itself. It has gone beyond that. There appear to be five choices in front of the SAC executives: 1) the situation could resolve itself through discussion and agreement; 2) the executive could resign as a whole; 3) Simmons could fire all of the executive and start over; 4) Simmons could resign; or 5) Simmons could be impeached.

The first option appears to be the least likely. The executive all claim that attempts at reconciliation have been made in the past, and all agree that no one is to blame, and not until last Tuesday did we get any feeling that the situation could r e solve. This would necessitate an immediate by-election have been made in the past, and all agree that no one is to blame, and not until last Tuesday did we get any feeling that the situation could r e solve. This would necessitate an immediate by-election have been made in the past, and all agree that no one is to blame, and not until last Tuesday did we get any feeling that the situation could resolve.

The second option is the executive resigning as a whole, and it appears to be the most likely. This executive all claim that attempts at reconciliation have been made in the past, and all agree that no one is to blame, and not until last Tuesday did we get any feeling that the situation could resolve.

The third option is the executive resigning and the executive coming to recognize their problems. This need not be an immediate event. The possibility of an impeachment seems to be slim however because of the nature of the personality conflict in the office.

The final option is the executive could call for an impeachment. This involves a lengthy process but not only in the council chambers, but eventually on campus as any impeachment must go to a referendum. The possibility of an impeachment seems to be slim however because of the nature of the personality conflict in the office.

We are not attempting to judge this dispute: we are not interested at this point who is right and who is wrong.

In the same light we are not advocating any particular course of action either for the executive or for the students.

We feel simply that if action is not taken by some member of the SAC executive, and taken soon, the further SAC and the students on this campus is grim.

The Fortnighter

By John Mill

Some times I wonder why I write this silly column. Who cares? Last week at the end of Chris (Lou Grant) Woodrow's column read the following editorial comment: "Thank God this story is over. What a pile of garbage!" Lou lives over his typing machine every day and all the thanks he gets is "Go get stuffed Woodrow." No wonder this university is apathetic.

This year, what with the new management and all, U of W tried to end student apathy, by having a parade for Homecoming weekend (the first in five years). Every love a parade. (Editor's Note: I have them.) Memos were sent to the presidents of all student societies and Residence Councils. The parade was on, ingenious creative drives swung into action. By the Saturday morning of Homecoming weekend the culmination of all this work and activity reached the parade route.

The parade itself stretched all the way from one end of campus to the other, there were more floats and bands and police cars than the average amount of oranges in a half dozen.

The crowds that attended the parade route were incredible. On every block there were more people than there were oranges in a half dozen.

The Lancé is published every Friday day of the fall and winter term for the Student Media Corporation, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writers or editors, not necessarily the University of Windsor or the Student's Administrative Council

The Lance Offices are located on the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor, PO Box 415, Windsor, Ont. N9B 3P4. Phone (519) 253-4060. Selected as First Class Mail at the Post Office of Canada.
Students have the right to form their clubs

Dear Editor,

As reported in last week's Lance, David Simmons opposed the ratification of the Lesbian and Gay Student clubs at the last SAC meeting. This was not the only club that was challenged.

As well, Mr. Simmons and/or other SAC members challenged the "right to be recognized" of the OPIRG Student Club, the Norman Bethune Club, the Jewish Students Club, and an Orthodox Jewish Club.

All of these clubs met with the stipulations set out in the Social Work student vote.

---

Social Work voter okayed

Dear Editor:

This is a note regarding the voting irregularities noted in last week's Lance.

According to the article ("Students note voting irregularities"), Jim Shaban stated that Social Work students should have been voting for the Social Sciences referendum. Well, why was I told I could vote?

On showing my student card at the polling station in the Centre, I was given a ballot for the SAC referendum and the CJSAM referendum. I asked about the Social Science Referendum and was told by the ballot boxer that she did not think I could vote.

I went up to the SAC office and, in the presence of Jim Shaban, was told by Dave Simmons that I did have a vote.

Don't lay the blame on us Social Workers nor the ballot boxers as the confusion is the fault of neither of these groups.

Susan Hoo,
Second Year, Social Work

---

Simmons doesn't understand issue

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express concern about SAC President Dave Simmons' objection to the ratification of the campus Gay Students' Club. His comment on October 9 at the SAC meeting was that if we have a gay student club we might as well have a Sadists' and Masochists' Club.

Minority groups of all types have a right to form a club on campus. As a member of the Students' Council, I am shocked by the type of stereotyping. Surelly, Mr. Simmons and the other SAC members wonder if they should ratsify clubs whose political, religious, or sexual viewpoint, merely to recognize their right to congregate and to function as a club.

Our Canadian constitution represents a large body of democratic freedoms to students of this campus. No extra national students' club can be established without the democratic rights of all students being involved.

We, the undersigned, would like to have this issue of club ratification considered in light of its potential of denying basic democratic freedoms to students of this university. The by-laws must be changed to prevent any future meetings of this type.

Students must be granted the right to congregate in the club of their choice, just as they are in the real world free to join whatever organization, religion or political party they wish.

---

Don't be a rat-send the Lance some poetry

---

Not a retraction

Let it be known from the start that this is not a retraction in any way, shape, or form. It is, however, difficult to say exactly what it is, so perhaps I should just drive right into this.

It is to be hoped that this matter will be handled in a more logical and reasonable manner. It is to be hoped that this issue will be reconsidered in light of its potential of denying basic democratic freedoms to students of this university. The by-laws must be changed to prevent any future meetings of this type. Students must be granted the right to congregate in the club of their choice, just as they are in the real world free to join whatever organization, religion or political party they wish.

---

Why not a sadomasochist club?

Dear Editor,

I think Simmons gives some explanation for some of his outrageous, irrational statements as to the objection to the ratification of the gay students club on campus. As a member of a minority group, I am shocked.

What is the analogy between the gays and the sadists and masochists? If there is any analogy, what would be wrong for the sadist and masochist to have a club? Why is he just objecting to the gay club? Does he think homosexuality is a contagious disease which everyone on campus would catch?

---
by Wendy Coonher

Herb Gray, federal minister of Industry, Trade, and Commerce, said at a meeting of Parliament for Windsor West, charted for as hour with a small group of political science students last Monday morning.

Although the minister was slated to talk on the auto pact and our border industries, the topics were only mentioned in passing. Gray spent his hourlong talk to the class by reciting the many jobs, programs, and committees dealing with trade and commerce he oversees. The list was quite extensive.

He cited the federal Department of Trade and Industry as providing information about marketing, cost and opportunities, and assisting businesses in the marketing of a local view, with only occasional references to our auto industry and local American Business.

They showed a concern for the foreign ownership of companies in Canada and their subsequent impact on our country's economy.

To this, Gray said Canada just had to face the fact that a large portion of our business is in the hands of other countries. He said foreign ownership was not necessarily an evil. We must keep in mind, he stressed, our objectives and new import decisions will depend on different things.

One was how soon the Japanese would begin developing Canadian content in their exported cars.

Another factor involved was the action the Americans take because of the integral nature of our auto pact. We would not follow the United States, he emphasized, but we would take some measure of equivalent action.

Herb Gray fields campus questions on economy

WINNIPEG (CUP)-The National Union of Students (NUS) has reconsidered its proposal to raise fees from members to four dollars per student.

The current fee is one dollar per student.

Last week NUS announced they would be seeking a fee increase at their national convention. However, the organization began restructuring itself and thus has called off the fee increase.

When NUS announced the need for the fee increase last week, the student organization would be unable to continue current levels of services without the increase.

With the restructuring, however, they feel they will receive enough money to keep NUS running as it has been.

Fees for the new restructured student organization will be four dollars per student. The new organization, which has yet to be named, will not have its founding convention until at least 1981, said Mike Miller, BC fieldworker for NUS.

However, Miller said, the concept of the new organization will be taken to students in referendums right away. At the campuses where the concept is accepted, the four dollars fee will be collected, Miller said. This money will be used to continue financing NUS and also for the restructuring process, said Kirk Falconer, NUS treasurer.

A number of student councils are ready now, Falconer said, to hold referendums for membership in the new organization. He said he is optimistic the new body will have six to seven non-paying members by May, 1981.

Included in this group of campuses which may have referendums before May, include Carleton University, University of Winnipeg, Saint Mary's University of Waterloo, and perhaps Mount Royal College in Calgary.

If the new organization can win these referendums and the per capta fees start coming in, NUS will be able to keep functioning and there will also be money available for restructuring costs, Falconer said.

Falconer would not speculate as to what would happen should the new student organization lose these future referendums.

For studio appointment call 948-6502 or visit our studio at 911 Buckingham

Evening appointments available

Martin Studio Photography

GRADUATION PORTRAIT

For studio appointment call 948-6502

or visit our studio at 911 Buckingham

Evening appointments available

NUS restructure brings fee increase

The Lanc8, ~ I. -VIII, No. 7, Friday, October 24, 1980, Page Six Senate indecision may be fatal for student evaluations

by Wendy Coomer

The decisions whether to accept the recommendations of the Senate Evaluations Committee or to discard them brought a roomful of inquisition at the October 14 Senate meeting.

Protests were submitted from four faculties, Arts, Social Science, Business Administration, and Education on the subject of Student Evaluation Questionnaires.

Each report sidestepped around the issue by making recommendations on the procedures used, not anything too strongly. However, at the meeting, solid stands were taken.

George Neal of Business Administration felt "Student evaluations are already subjects to abuse." His faculty feared the information gathered from the questionnaires might be used in a derogatory way by some groups against the individual professor or the university community.

The dean pointed out most of the questionnaires were designed to assume that the preference coordinate is a "true lecture" all the time, with no allowances for other structures such as class discussion where the teacher would act more as a moderator.

Dr. Booth of Sociology and Anthropology then suggested the matter be referred for further deliberation and to allow each faculty to add their own questions to the questionnaires.

In answer to a question of Dr. Selby's of Communication, Dr. Booth said he did not see that the programs were equal in some way, for different faculties, since each faculty used different methods and all could not be evaluated on the same level.

After a few other similar comments, President Mervyn Brown-John of Political Science made some comments about it. He said the Centre had hardly been looked at since 1969 and its responsibilities and functions had not been updated since then.

The Committee found the Centre had strayed away from its original academic purposes and it should be set upon that track again. They recommended that the Centre be made responsible to the Vice President, Academic.

The Media Centre Committee also found much of the equipment was outdated and there was not a lot of support around the university for the Centre. They found the management satisfactory, but its original function, that of an academic service institution, somewhat distorted.

The other recommendation made by the Committee was that it should continue to function in a policy advisory capacity for the Media Centre through its Director.

The meeting ended with "other business": this included a motion from a Senator of the Asian Studies department who officially adopted the Canadian spelling of "programme" instead of the American "program" which had appeared in this calendar.

The motion was greeted by a chorus of "Which one is Canadian?" at one end of the table. Dr. Franklin even admitted he thought the extra "me" was "exasperating indulgence" and the extra letters irritated him. He wondered if the Senate should be given more time to deliberate on it but nationalism finally won out and the motion passed.

Thank you

We at CJAM extend to you our sincere thanks for your vote of confidence in the Media Centre. Now, with the additional funds you have provided, we can improve our technical ability to better serve all students at this university. Programming is up to you. Already more than one hundred volunteer students are producing student oriented programming. If you have a need for a special weekly program, or if you would like to make a brief editorial comment on air, we invite you to call us at 254-1494 or visit the station right next door to SAC's Pub. We are your radio station; let us put out your message!

music and news and commentary

YOUR STUDENT RADIO STATION

NAME THE GAMES ROOM

BIG PRIZE DETAILS AT CENTRE DESK

$, Quebec Winter Carnival from $99 quad

February 5 to 8, 1981
February 5 to 9, 1981
February 10 to 13, 1981
February 12 to 16, 1981

(Ontario Worldair) or to Denver via Chicago on United Airlines scheduled service.

Roundtrip charter flight from Toronto non-stop to Grand Junction.

Innright meal and complimentary bar on the charter.

Ground transportation between airport and Aspen/Snowmass.

---

Mont Ste. Anne Quebec from $155 quad

Smugglers Notch Vermont from $159 quad

Taboe Nevada/California from $469

---

Tahoe Nevada/California from $469

---

For Information and Booking

Ham's Travel Service
1364 Wyandotte E. Windsor 255-9222

ALL TOURS ARE PAYABLE IN CANADIAN FUNDS

SPECIAL GROUP RATES FOR 20 OR MORE PEOPLE
Sheelagh Conway is a Lance staff member who has done freelance work for various papers and magazines, including The Windsor Star. She is also a member of the Editorial Board of The Lance.

In my 28 years, life's lessons have at times been rather jolting. To name a few, my trek across the Great Asian Continent taught me about poverty—a poverty without hope, written across the faces of the children; working as a volunteer in the midst of addicts, prostitutes, pimps and drop-outs in one of the world's most notorious "red-light" districts was shocking; London's Soho opened my eyes about the human condition.

When my native Ireland founded a notion about the relationship between violence and injustice, living in politically-ironic Jamaica confirmed that notion.

With four teaching positions, 22 countries, one marriage and two children behind me, it was a big step to take—going back to being a student. Walking on campus, I suddenly felt alienated, scared and somehow out of sync. My ability to organize my studies was lying stubbornly dormant. I desperately needed to talk. Sitting in a professor's office, my problem was painfully simple. I was having difficulty adjusting to life as a student. My professor, a man in his late thirties and an academician by any standards, leaned forward over his desk and began, "Let me tell you a thing or two about life."

There is no doubt it, mature students have much to contend with.

"a homemaker is denigrated by society"

A sample study conducted by Dr. R.R. Haque entitled "Report on part-time studies at the University of Windsor" showed that in 1979, the average age of the part-time student is 21.2 years. This study would indicate that, generally speaking, the mature student is a part-time student. Considering that part-time students constitute approximately 30 percent of the whole university population (more accurate data will be available for the second part of this article) it is clear that the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the student ranks. It is interesting to note too, that the greater part of the part-time student body is composed of women.

On a more widespread scale, Statistics Canada shows that, of the total enrolment of students at universities for the year 1978/79, approximately 22 percent were women 25 years and over. These figures show that a substantial number of women are at school. Over the past decade, the number of mature women, either going to school for the first time or returning, has increased dramatically.

According to Dr. Ann Diemer, associate professor of Sociology at this university, the reason women are attending school in such large numbers is primarily because they are having fewer children nowadays and also because more options are open to them in terms of education and employment.

"There's also a growing concern among many homemakers, that being a homemaker is denigrated by society as a whole. T.V. and newspapers lower the esteem of the homemaker."

Dr. Diemer also points to the women whose marriages have broken down and who are suddenly faced with the support of themselves and their children. "They have had the experience of being in the world and realize the importance of equipping themselves to adequately support their families and give themselves some intrinsic satisfaction," she added.

Many mature women go to university in order to obtain such intrinsic satisfaction. Linda Burgess is one such woman. In her early thirties, she is a former school teacher, married, with three pre-school children. She is, at present, a part-time student, working towards her Visual Arts degree.

Ms. Burgess works part-time, in order to pay for her tuition, art supplies and also day care for the children. She has a strong sense of herself—Linda Burgess knows why she's here: "Going back to university gives me a greater degree of personal satisfaction; it is more of an opportunity to invest time in my own interests and in my own personal growth. That would be impossible within the confines of a nine-to-five structure job, in addition to a family and home."

Linda feels that being a mature student is an advantage. She maintains that she can work more efficiently, is more disciplined, and her own personal resources are greater. "I'm glad I'm not 18 any more," she added with a laugh.

"The woman may feel that notion."

A THING ABOUT LIFE

The Maycourt Club

Many mature women go to university in order to obtain such intrinsic satisfaction. Linda Burgess is one such woman. In her early thirties, she is a former school teacher, married, with three pre-school children. She is, at present, a part-time student, working towards her Visual Arts degree.

Ms. Burgess works part-time, in order to pay for her tuition, art supplies and also day care for the children. She has a strong sense of herself—Linda Burgess knows why she's here: "Going back to university gives me a greater degree of personal satisfaction; it is more of an opportunity to invest time in my own interests and in my own personal growth. That would be impossible within the confines of a nine-to-five structure job, in addition to a family and home."

Linda feels that being a mature student is an advantage. She maintains that she can work more efficiently, is more disciplined, and her own personal resources are greater. "I'm glad I'm not 18 any more," she added with a laugh.

When I met Mamie Greenhow in the lobby of Windsor Hall, she could have stepped straight out of the pages of the Sept-ember edition of Vogue magazine. Her kidney skirt and chic blouse were perfectly in keeping with this year's fall designs and colours.

Mamie Greenhow is in her sixties and a grandmother. She is also a part-time student at this university. This is a gracious lady who could easily belong to the Maycourt Club. Her voice becomes faint as she talks about her dear husband who passed away a few years ago. "It can be very dull at home now. Days can go by and I don't see anyone."

Loneliness was one of the reasons Mamie decided to come back. But there are other reasons too. "I've always liked literature and I just thought I'd like to do something to improve my mind; to get me up and going."

Mrs. Greenhow is not working towards a degree, as she feels that such pressure might detract from the pleasure and satisfaction that she is experiencing in her English Literature course.

And what would Mamie Greenhow's Scottish grandmother think of all this? "She would probably have thought it absolutely ridiculous—after all, back then, a woman's place was in the home."

"now is the time to make it or break it"

While many women go to university to broaden their personal scope, there are many more who enter the Great Hall of Learning with a firm stride into the lobby of Windsor Hall, she could have stepped straight out of the pages of the Sept-ember edition of Vogue magazine. Her kidney skirt and chic blouse were perfectly in keeping with this year's fall designs and colours.
and one thing in mind—a good job at the end. Many sacrificers have to be made and the pace is not leisurely. It can be uncompromisingly tough.

When Mary Wilk, a 26 year old divorcee with no children, returned to university this fall, her goal was to become a medical doctor. The going is not easy.

She works three nights a week as a nurse in a local hospital and she attends university full-time during the day, often despite having had no sleep the previous night. Her tuition is paid out of her earnings "I am at my economic and emotional peak. Now is the time to make it or break it."

Dr. Barry Taub, Director of the Psychological Services Centre, a University of Windsor facility, is familiar with the problems of the mature woman going to school. Not only does he have theoretical knowledge, but having a wife who has herself just returned to school, has given him first-hand experience in this regard.

realistic pressures

He explained that very often the mature woman can be experiencing realistic pressures even before she enters the class room, especially in the case of a failed marriage. "This pressure is there, particularly if a woman is separated or divorced and is shoulder ing the responsibility of children but has no one to share that responsibility with", he said.

According to Dr. Taub, another pressure many women encounter, is that of a husband and/or children who are not supportive. "This is a new situation for a lot of men—often it is an absolute mystery and, as a result, anger and resentment can occur. Children too do not like the idea of competing with Mom's studies. Household duties have to be shared and this in turn causes early feelings of resentment to surface."

Once a woman actually enters school, different pressures emerge, Dr. Taub went on to explain. "The woman may feel that she has entered an alien world, she worries that she won't be able to keep up academically with her coworkers, and she can feel that she's not bright enough. Women's role in society is that of unimportance and we don't tell them often enough that they are worthy."

It would appear that a mature woman going to school has to balance a lot of different forces, but Dr. Taub sees many advantages to being a mature woman, who he said is "often more motivated academically than the younger student who might not be here by choice."

"a very enriching addition"

With regard to problems the professor have in dealing with mature woman, Taub feels that one problem may be that the majority of faculty, being male, may not be sensitive to the mature woman's needs.

However, he is careful to add that such sensitivity largely depends on the individual faculty member. "Any woman coming back to school", said Dr. Taub, "is facing a challenge, but instead of outlining their deficiencies it should be seen that mature women have a tremendous amount to offer on campus—I consider them to be a very enriching addition."

A very comforting and essential point for any mature student—despite the circumstances. The mature man will, on the whole, have different pressures than women in returning to school, but generally speaking the mature male will be motivated more towards upgrading his education, with a view to a better paid position. Larry Riddle, at 33, is married and is the father of two children. He is studying human kinetics full-time, and commutes from Kingsville daily. In order to pay the way, his wife works and he relies on a student loan. They had to sell their home.

wasn't happy at Chrysler's

Larry is open about his part in leaving Chrysler. "For 12 years, I worked at Chrysler and I just didn't like what I was doing." In an interview, he explained that he plans to enter the teaching profession after graduation, where he will gain greater satisfaction and better pay.

Larry is open about his difficulties. "Basically, being out of school for so long, I don't understand everything that easily." He feels that faculty should take this into consideration and face the difficulty that mature students have in understanding technical material, having been out of school for so long and therefore, having forgotten the basics.

There are some men who leave one successful career to pursue another, again with success in mind but also with undercurrents of personal satisfaction.

"Bill" is 27, married with children, and is now in his second year of law school.

At one time a very successful teacher, he decided to switch careers, and he entered the university. "I had the opportunity to do something I always wanted to do and Law opens up the flood gates a little more, in terms of opportunity." He too has had to make personal sacrifices and making ends meet can sometimes be a challenge. "Bill" also found difficulty in adjusting to life as a student again. "It's a totally new area and takes getting used to. As a mature student, that is a serious effort and a much greater risk.

I am not here for a cup of tea", he said. "I have to evaluate my priorities, I must allow time for my family too."

Whatever the motivations, inclinations, or pressures, a mature student re-entering school or going for the first time faces uncertainty like a great yawning chasm. There is fear and there is alienation, there is frustration and discouragement.

Returning to school can be like walking a tightrope over a chasm, where potential failure toys menacingly at the rope.

There is no doubt about it, every effort must be made to encourage and support our mature students. It is awareness, willingness and co-operation, on the part of all involved, that can and must form the simple drawbridge to success.

next week, Sheelagh Conway will discuss how the University of Windsor is coping with the mature student.
Going to SAC's? You'll have Second Thoughts!

by Peter Haggert

Any band that names themselves Second Thoughts is asking for trouble! I think they've found it. It has been a while since SAC's has had a band play in the pub for a whole week—the question is, can the band last in the pub for a week?

The most notable being "Small Town Time". It's hard to comment on their playing ability with mostly original numbers. Rather scrambly, but recognizable, this song was really "Second Thoughts". It was unexpected. The ensuing set was filled with mostly original numbers. The lead guitarist and keyboardists both are adequate musicians, although at times poor mixing led to their inaudibility. The vocals (be they lead or harmony) were lacking a smooth delivery.

The lead guitarist and keyboardists both are adequate. The vocals (be they lead or harmony) were lacking a smooth delivery.

As for entertainment, the lead singer does have a good rapport with his audience. His speech, along with his mugging on the dance floor at least made it interesting to watch. The light operator, who never took his hands off the dimmer switch, does a fine job controlling his single red light. I guess SAC's was due to present a mediocre band. Maybe Halloween came too soon; it was just a little too early in the pub.

---

The Cinema Critic

by Wendy Coomber

The subject makes the film. The plot is slow, the dialogue thin, and the acting is minimal. The film itself is excellent. The Elephant Man is based on the life of John Merrick, English citizen and circus "freak". The movie, filmed in black and white, is based on an account of Merrick given by Sir Frederick Treves in the book The Elephant Man: A Study in Human Dignity written by Ashley Montague.

Surprisingly, the movie stays very close to the book for the most part. However, as any Hollywood produced entertainment, it could not resist the temptation to add its own little sensational twists.

Such twists start in the very first scene, unfortunately, as the great, grey maimed trumpet across the screen, mercilessly trampling a beautiful woman underfoot in the wilds of Africa. This, we are told, is Merrick's mother, who would soon give birth to this wretchedly deformed creature. In truth, her mother was disfigured by an elephant at a circus, but his deformed did not really start to develop until after his birth.

The most outstanding scene in the film, near the end, where the boiler room keeper brings his friends to Merrick's hospital room to cruelly harass him, is also mainly fiction. Frederick Treves is played by Anthony Hopkins, a good actor, particularly skilled in low-key, soulful roles. His talent is a bit wasted here. John Hurt (Merrick) wins the laurels this time. Because Merrick's mouth is badly twisted, his words are terribly slurred. Hurt had no more of an acting part than the rest, but what stands out is Hurt's beautifully delivered lines, slurred but proudly brought forth, so well demonstrated in his scene with Anne Bancroft where the two of them are reading lines from Romeo and Juliet.

Twists start in the very first scene, unfortunately, as the great, grey maimed trumpet across the screen, mercilessly trampling a beautiful woman underfoot in the wilds of Africa. This, we are told, is Merrick's mother, who would soon give birth to this wretchedly deformed creature. In truth, her mother was disfigured by an elephant at a circus, but his deformed did not really start to develop until after his birth.

The most outstanding scene in the film, near the end, where the boiler room keeper brings his friends to Merrick's hospital room to cruelly harass him, is also mainly fiction. Frederick Treves is played by Anthony Hopkins, a good actor, particularly skilled in low-key, soulful roles. His talent is a bit wasted here. John Hurt (Merrick) wins the laurels this time. Because Merrick's mouth is badly twisted, his words are terribly slurred. Hurt had no more of an acting part than the rest, but what stands out is Hurt's beautifully delivered lines, slurred but proudly brought forth, so well demonstrated in his scene with Anne Bancroft where the two of them are reading lines from Romeo and Juliet.

Twists start in the very first scene, unfortunately, as the great, grey maimed trumpet across the screen, mercilessly trampling a beautiful woman underfoot in the wilds of Africa. This, we are told, is Merrick's mother, who would soon give birth to this wretchedly deformed creature. In truth, her mother was disfigured by an elephant at a circus, but his deformed did not really start to develop until after his birth.

The most outstanding scene in the film, near the end, where the boiler room keeper brings his friends to Merrick's hospital room to cruelly harass him, is also mainly fiction. Frederick Treves is played by Anthony Hopkins, a good actor, particularly skilled in low-key, soulful roles. His talent is a bit wasted here. John Hurt (Merrick) wins the laurels this time. Because Merrick's mouth is badly twisted, his words are terribly slurred. Hurt had no more of an acting part than the rest, but what stands out is Hurt's beautifully delivered lines, slurred but proudly brought forth, so well demonstrated in his scene with Anne Bancroft where the two of them are reading lines from Romeo and Juliet.

Twists start in the very first scene, unfortunately, as the great, grey maimed trumpet across the screen, mercilessly trampling a beautiful woman underfoot in the wilds of Africa. This, we are told, is Merrick's mother, who would soon give birth to this wretchedly deformed creature. In truth, her mother was disfigured by an elephant at a circus, but his deformed did not really start to develop until after his birth.

The most outstanding scene in the film, near the end, where the boiler room keeper brings his friends to Merrick's hospital room to cruelly harass him, is also mainly fiction. Frederick Treves is played by Anthony Hopkins, a good actor, particularly skilled in low-key, soulful roles. His talent is a bit wasted here. John Hurt (Merrick) wins the laurels this time.

The convi nction was not doubt encouraged by the hope that his intellect was his position was unthinkable ... It was not until I came to know that Merrick was imbecile and had been imbecile from birth. The answers one of his friend's queries by saying that he himself as a dandy, there is a sense of farce because the creature and sky alike. Even when Merrick dons a suit, brand ishes his silver bellfry, reminiscent of Victor Hugo's Quasimoto.

Treves sees to it that he has his own room in the boiler room, although he is still the grainy reminders of the black and white of buildings and sky alike. Even when Merrick dons a suit, brand ishes his silver bellfry, reminiscent of Victor Hugo's Quasimoto.

The highlight of his life comes when he is taken to the theatre. He is surrounded by superficial beauty and charade which should be totally irrelevant to him since he has lived his life one reality after another. But in this reality he has also remained a child, a gentle human being.
Was there a concert?

M i~dle Earth,

Delta Chi entertainment returned to the campus last Tuesday evening, presenting The Blades and Toby Redd in Ambassado Auditorium. A good concert, however, sluggish advertising accounted for the poor audience turnout. Those who did show up were treated to an electrifying performance by these two American entertainers. The show opened with The Blades, newcomers to the area, and new tourmates for Toby Redd. Essentially, The Blades are a pop/new wave band featuring an older and much original material. A lively stage appearance, complete with body language, helped give the audience the Hollywood hopping. Original tunes like "The 7:30″, "Rice Ya to the Dance", and "Please Say Yes", interspersed among updated versions of songs such as Fats Domino's "I Hear ya Knockin'" ensured a busy dance floor.

Despite their lack of experience as a group, The Blades seemed to have one of the best audience reactions around. Their second visit to the campus this year, Toby Redd again put on a good show. Their first set was full of their hardrocking crowd pleasers, highlighted by their new single "My Life", a song that should help keep their name established. It was the evening's encore which made the performance memorable. The excited crowd was treated to a devastating exhibition of Johnny G. Goode by The Blades and Toby Redd. The audience's enjoyment was quite obvious, as by the end of the song, the stage was complemented with dancers. Two truly electrifying evenings—it's a shame nobody knew about it!

The Blades were sharp on Tuesday night.

NOW UNI L

MAKE A NOTE

Now until November 7, there is an Alumni Invitational Art Show in the Lebel Building Gallery.

Friday, October 24

- Annual Law School Gong Show, 8:00pm., at Donlon Hall, Detroit St. (just around the corner from the D.I.J.). Tickets $2.00, available at the Law School, 2:50 at the door. Cash bar and refreshments served!!!

-Caption Hall, pianist and prodigies from the University of Indiana will perform at the Moort Court at 8:15pm. Tickets are $4.00

-CINEFEST Again! Knives in the Head is the 7:15pm. showing. This will be followed by Quadrophenia, The Who experience, at 9:15pm. Tickets of course $1.99 a show. CINEFEST is at the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

Saturday, October 25

-The Electric Horseman, with Jane Fonda and Robert Redford, 7:00pm. at CINEFEST. The Man Who Fell to Earth, featuring David Bowie, will drift across the screen at 9:30pm. $1.99 each movie.

Tuesday, October 28

-The Ontario Film Theatre will present the hilarious The Picture Show Man, an Australian film set in the 1920's. Rivalry develops between the two forces bringing motion pictures to the remote Australian outback, between the man who shows the silent movies and the innovator of "talkies". Showtime is at 8:00pm. at the Super Cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

- The Ontario Film Theatre will again be screening the most successful feature, at 9:30 pm. in Blue Collar, an American film featuring Richard Pryor. Tickets $1.99 each show.

Thursday, October 30

-CINEFEST at 7:15 pm. will present The Shadow. The second show will be Cheech and Chong's Next Movie, beginning at 9:30 pm. Each show $1.99.

The Main Library Noon Hour Film Series will continue with Domesticating a Wilderness. Explored in the film is the building of the American railways, the influx of immigrants and the last days of struggle of the Indians.

Friday, October 31

- Hallowe'en. Children of all shapes and sizes will be prowling the streets in search of a cheap meal and/or candy. Don't be surprised if some of them dress up in costumes—it's a habit they have.

-Some bigger kids will be at the Delta Chi Halloween party. From dusk to dawn. Costumes are preferred but not required. 408 Indian Road (Indian and Peter, under the bridge). Come early and get a good seat!

-Dawn of the Dead will be the 8:00 show at CINEFEST. Only $1.99.

Not all engineers end up in design. Our engineers end up in command.

As one of the nation's leading recruiters of entry-level engineers, Schlumberger wants you to be aware of alternative career opportunities awaiting you. Not all engineers sit behind a desk.

our engineers take command in the field.

After an initial six-month training program, you will have mastered the art of interpreting complex well data. You'll be an engineer consultant, trouble shooter and supervisor.

To be considered, you must be a graduate Electrical or Mechanical Engineer. A four-year degree in Physics or Geophysics will be considered as well.

Your benefits package will include 21 days vacation, a company car, expense account and monthly bonuses.

At Schlumberger, we promote totally from within. We hire only those individuals who show the potential to move up. If you'll be an engineer consultant, trouble shooter and supervisor, you'll be prowling the streets in search of a cheap meal and/or candy. Don't be surprised if some of them dress up in costumes—it's a habit they have.

Positions available for December and May graduates.

Pre-screening deadline for applications: October 29.

(Ches with Canada Employment Centre on campus for details.)

Interviews: November 19 & 20.

Sclumberger
The Police: Zenyatta Mondatta
by Mike Kosty

Cleanest and tight. These words spring to mind after listening to the new Police album, Zenyatta Mondatta, their third release and third album to go platinum. Fresh from a tour of Asia and the Far East the band has been influenced by their travels. Past albums were more down to earth, but their latest conjures up images of the same Orient that affected The Beatles.

The Police have used their instruments in many ways, both simple and complicated, to come up with another fine album. From “Don’t Stand So Close To Me” a song about the trials and tribulations of a teacher-student relationship, the music is merged in such a way that the transition is hardly noticeable.

There last two albums have produced many memorable cuts, notably “ Roxanne”, “Message In A Bottle”, and “Walking On The Moon”. Zenyatta Mondatta will surely produce more memorable cuts, “Don’t Stand So Close To Me” and “Man In A Suitcase” are destined to become classics. It is often difficult for a band to consistently produce outstanding albums, but the Police have shown that they are one of the rare bands able to do so.

Three for three—so far they’ve batting a thousand!

Warren Zevon:
Bad Luck Streak In Dancing School
by Neil Ihne

I wish I had taken a psychology course. Then I might have been able to analyse what Warren Zevon is saying on his latest release, Bad Luck Streak in Dancing School. My guess is that his lyrics are the ravings of a perpetrators schizophrenia with a morbid sense of humour.

The front cover photo, featuring a room full of young innocent ballerinas surrounding Zevon, reflects the pensive poetic side of his personality. The back cover photo of a recently fired gun laying on a pair of ballet slippers makes one ask: What kind of mind could have thought of such a pair of concepts? It is often difficult for a band to consistently produce outstanding albums, but the Police have shown that they are one of the rare bands able to do so.

Comes Home
by Warren Zevon

This is the only song to receive much commercial airtime. The sardonic type of song Zevon has turned schizophrenic for you, they don’t know what Warren Zevon is saying on his latest release, Bad Luck Streak in Dancing School. My guess is that his lyrics are the ravings of a perpetrators schizophrene with a morbid sense of humour.

The front cover photo, featuring a room full of young innocent ballerinas surrounding Zevon, reflects the pensive poetic side of his personality. The back cover photo of a recently fired gun laying on a pair of ballet slippers makes one ask: What kind of mind could have thought of such a pair of concepts? It is often difficult for a band to consistently produce outstanding albums, but the Police have shown that they are one of the rare bands able to do so.

Three for three—so far they’ve batting a thousand!

The Lance, Vol. VIII, No. 7, Friday, October 24, 1980, Page Twelve
She is ten years gone, but not forgotten

by Peter Hrastovec
I remember the lazy summer afternoons we'd kill in Albie Wilhelmer's basement, listening to his older brother's record collection. We were at an impressionable age, when long hair and fluorescent Jimi Hendrix posters were standards. And we were weaned on the music of the time, the synchronized drone of primordial screams fashioned into vinyl so that we might repeatedly draw the ire of unappreciative neighbors.

Like all the rest of the contemporary pop singers, Janis Joplin drew our youthful adoration. We didn't care about her lonely "Port Arthur, Texas" days or that she played the role of a Jack Kerouac-type drifter. We didn't appreciate her soulful enthusiasm for the early blues of Leadbelly and Miss Bessie Smith. We stridently ignored her flirtations with alcohol and drug abuse.

We cared only for that scratchy voice, pulling and tearing its way through the airwaves. We were hopelessly blinded by the photographs of her stage-strutting character, glassy-eyed and rippling with emotion. We were only concerned about her music, which, for a brief moment in an idealistic age, we could call our own.

Ten years ago, Janis Joplin died in a motel room in Hollywood at the age of twenty-seven. The tabloids dwelled upon her drug overdose and referred to her as a "victim of stardom's fast lane". What a pity, mourned the media, that someone with so much talent should die in her prime. And by way of some morbid apology for our own lack of concern, we resurrected her like some commercial deity, remembering her through enormous increases in the sales of records, posters and t-shirts.

And like amateurs, we considered her as just another statistic in Pop Music's Tragic Hall of Fame. Her memory triggers perennial remorse-filled accounts of a life of degradation and a death marked by societal displeasure. To O.D. was a no-no, bearing with it the stigma she was one of the first woman pop singers of the post-Beatleman era to really make her own waves. Our acceptance of her made it easier for the Patti Smiths and the Pat Benetars.
Talent 'runs' in Mallender family

by Steve Kie

The Lancer football team treated the modest crowd of homecoming fans at the south campus field Saturday to their second victory of the season, 23-17 over the Marauders of McMaster.

Much as coach Gino Fracas had predicted, his team's apparent relaxed mood, which comes from the removed pressure of fighting for a playoff spot, contributed to a raised level of play. Seemingly most affected by the more casual atmosphere was running back Craig Mallender who, even at six feet and 205 pounds, time and again squirmed through the line and scampered through the Marauders secondary a little more petite back. His final stats showed 23 carries for 182 yards.

"It was nice for a change," Mallender said, in reference to the fact that he has failed to break the century mark in any game this year. In fact, the ground game itself has been unremarkable. And his one touchdown pass against the Marauders reestablished in big gains.

Meanwhile, the Lancer boss was happy to see someone else drop the ball.

"Sure the turnovers helped us," said Fracas. "I think we deserved them. It's about time we get the breaks."

Craig Mallender gave the Lancers a 6-3 lead early in the second quarter on a 1-yard run which he set up with his own 38-yard romp down the sideline.

Koren Miljkovic kicked a 15-yard field goal and Rob Dalley hit Scott Mallender on a razzle-dazzle halfback option play that completely fooled Mac to make the halftime score 16-3 for the Lancers. Dom Ferelli gave the Marauders a field goal of 40 yards in the third period, but the Lancers struck back with a four-yard pass to end Todd Haskell to seal the victory.

Corran seeks attitude change

by Steve Kie

Coach Bob Corran knows he's got some physically talented players on this year's Lancer hockey team. His job now is to work on developing their minds.

"Some of the players that we've had in the past had the idea that this is recreational hockey," Corran said in an interview Wednesday. "For them, practicing and working hard didn't matter. They just wanted to have fun."

Those players are no longer with the team and 13 keen and promising rookies have moved in to provide Corran with a fresh outlook on what has not been an extremely successful team in the past. That is, if you measure success by wins, the Lancers had but one in 22 games last year.

"Having fun is important," Corran said. "But this is competitive collegiate hockey. I'm not advocating a win at all costs system. But we don't practice to lose.

"I honestly believe we're going to do well this year. We have more talent than last year, but it comes down to attitude and the players approach the game."

Among the returning veterans are forwards Dan Martin, Jim Weese, Len Chittie, Scott Kolody and Rob Dobson, defencemen Bill Nazario, Pat Byrne, Gary Ronasen, Paul Parsons and Mike Leffler, and goal­­keeper Don Johnson.

The rookie forwards are Norm Synnott, Kevin Bracken, Dave Easter, Mike McKegg, Marty Stover, Todd Besid, Richard Caryn, and John Ivan of the football Lancers, who played about two months of one season two years ago.

Rookie blue-liners are Rick Patterson, Stuart Prino, Pete Landry and Bob Campbell. The remaining first-year men are net­­minders Jim Dowling and Steve King.

One problem Corran sees with the program at Windsor is that the many talented players from the area are signing up their eligibility in the junior ranks before moving on to the university.

"We need to improve the program at the university and build it into one that they (the play­­ers) want to be a part of," Corran said. "Then players will come here first and go to junior hockey if they can't make it."

The team has played two exhibition games already - both losses. The first came Oct. 11 when they fell 9-3 to Michigan Dearborn, and the second Oct. 17 at Ohio State, an 8-2 loss.

As Michigan, the team was still in the process of being chosen but they held a 3-2 lead after two periods, "playing on native talent," as Corran said. Conditioning proved to be the deciding factor in the final session.

Goals came from rookies Mc­­Kegg, Stover and Synnott.

At Ohio State, the Lancers were "a case of the players having their first exposure to big league university hockey" and after three minutes they were down 3-0. But they came back to make it close and again Corran felt they were only outplayed for one period.

Kolody and Martin tallied for the Lancers.

"They haven't developed the intensity that they need yet," remarked Corran. "This team has been used to losing - it wasn't a matter of win or lose but how badly will we be beaten?"

"Once you adopt that attitude, you lose intensity. That's something that has to be changed."
Campus Recreation

Finals here or near in most sports

Coed lob-ball

The Tecumseh Teddy Bears ended the season atop Division 1 with Mac 5 Laurier close behind them. The Law Blues and the Rebels are tied for the third and final playoff spot, but the Blues will advance by virtue of their 11-10 win over the Rebels.

In Division 2, the Sods clinched first with a 9-8 win over the Gigillos, Techmenh Pickups, despite their 5-4 loss to the Tecumseh Mohawks, finished second due to season victories over both the Suggers and the Mohawks. The Suggers take third with a 12-5 win over the Gigillos and a 16-2 victory over the Mohawks.

Flag football

Standings

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W L T Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Winns</td>
<td>3-0-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pickup Boys</td>
<td>2-2-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gigillos</td>
<td>2-2-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mohawks</td>
<td>2-2-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lancerettes</td>
<td>1-3-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E's</td>
<td>0-6-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Contact

Big Macs: 5000 10
Law “A”: 5000 10
Law “B”: 1500 2
Cody Sucks: 500 0

Men's lob-ball

The Men's lob-ball playoffs are already under way. Two games were played Tuesday with the 69ers defeating the Engineering IV team and the Tigers defeating the Mohawks. Both games were won by lopsided scores.

The second night, there was a playoff for the eighth playoff spot between the Law 6 Suggers and the Mohawks. The winner of that game faced the Tigers-Reptiles. The Mohawks won that playoff, only to have MCPA play McNamara. Finals will take place Oct. 28 and Oct. 30.

No more tennis

The tennis courts at the south campus will be closed as of Nov. 3 for repairs to surrounding fencing.

IM Hockey

The deadline for submissions of individual players and team rosters for intramural hockey is Friday, Oct. 24. The schedule begins Wednesday, Oct. 29. Participants must register by the deadline by indicating the five dollar entry fee per player. Referees are also needed.

Any questions will be answered by Paul Paulson at 466-459, or by the intramural office, Extension 325.

Attention Hockey Players: The Sociology student, men's Division "A" intramural hockey champions, are recruiting players. For more information, and practice ice times, contact Ken Adam at 944-4443.

Congratulations

To Ray Holland of the university and Dr. Jack Lewin, a Windsor faculty member, for competing in the Windsor marathon held Sunday, Oct. 19. Holland's time was three hours, 14 minutes, 13.02. The second place finisher was Kevin Coughlin with a time of 5:25. He did very well.

The team consists of 12 players (6 veterans and 6 rookies) and 2 managers. When asked to comment on the game, Coach Brien stated, "It was a very good first effort on the court. Our services were excellent and our serve reception was also pretty good. We need work on the backcourt movement and also in developing a better flow from offence to defence." For these achievements, Brien was honored by the Windsor track club. Helping out the coaching duties all season was Buckstein as the starting quarterback in 3:38.2. The fifth Ontario Track and Field Association (5000 m) and Nick Selemba (1000 m), while the fifth Ontario Track and Field Association (5000 m) and Nick Selemba (1000 m), were awarded second place in the 1500 m.

Leaders end fine outdoor season, move inside

by Scott McCollough

The University of Windsor track and field team finished first in the OUA track and field championships last Saturday, 18 October, at London's Alumni Stadium under rainy, windy, cold conditions.

"It was the best the team has ever done as far as I know," said head coach Dr. Michael Salter. Both men's and women's teams finished first in a separate division. As well, the university and the Royal Military College took part in the meet which was won by the University of Toronto, also finishing ahead of Windsor were Queen's and McMaster.

The team come home with six bronze medals, five silvers, and five gold medals. The first medalist was Derrick "Rock Lobster" White's victory in the 5000 metre walk, which was an exhibition event, not counted in the point standings.

Five new University of Windsor records were set, two of them by Paul "Boo Boo" Roberts, who won both the 100 metre dash (10.74) and 200 metre dash (21.74). The other record was by Dave Binder of the University of Toronto, who won both the men's long jump and triple jump, setting a new meet record in the latter.

"I did what I went there to do," stated Roberts, "I wanted to win the 100 metre and 200 metre. The 5000 was just extra. I was happy with the times."

"I expected it to be between Dave Manicott of the University of Windsor (second place in the 1500 m) and myself," said Buckstein. "I expected it to be a tough race too, and it was." Buckstein also took third in the men's 100 m in a time of 11.2.

Coughlin's "brother" roommates, George Henry was awarded second place in the 100 m after some controversy. Most witnesses felt that he had won. Henry's time was 11.19, while the winning time was 11.16, for sixth in the same race. "The Buckstein brothers are ready for a good indoor season," stated Andy (Buckstein)."In the throwing events, Steve Thackery and老爸, who captured a bronze with her 15.8, clocking in the women's high jump."

Conlon received the same time (15.1) as the third place finisher in the women's 200 m, but had to settle for fourth place. She was sixth in the women's 100 m.

Lori Domarchuk was sixth in the women's 100 m hurdles, where she captured a bronze with her 16.1.3 clocking, and in the women's high jump.

Conlon received the same time (15.1) as the third place finisher in the women's 200 m, but had to settle for fourth place. She was sixth in the women's 100 m.

Lori Domarchuk was sixth in the women's 100 m and was also a member of the fourth place women's 1600 m relay team with Lauren and Leslie Yee and Tomaron. Their time was 4:26.0.

The men's 1600 m relay team of Paul Konack, Buckstein, Al Baird and Key finished in fifth spot in 3:38.2.

Other athletes competing for the University were Dave Dempsey, (high jump), Nancy Gleeson (Discus), Scott McNiel (1000 m), Rob Stewart (5000 m) and Nick Selemba (5000 m)."Women's coach Emmy McElroy was accompanied by the team's showing and stated, "I'm impressed with the caliber of both our men's and women's teams. I'm hoping the new indoor track will attract more girls. With a complement of ten we did very well."

The girls accumulated more points than the boys, with a few years back which finished in second place. Thanks to all the coaches, including the coaching duties all season was Bob Mullins, who along with McElroy coaches the South Windsor Knights of Columbus track club. Helping out the coaches was manager Don MacKinnon.

As well as competing in the track meet last weekend, the team performed at the pub in their hotel, the Shatran Caswell Inn, singing "One Banana, Two Banana."

"I've still got a couple of Buckstein also took third in Lancerette Sandee Carson The girls accumulated more points than the boys, with a few years back which finished in second place. Thanks to all the coaches, including the coaching duties all season was Bob Mullins, who along with McElroy coaches the South Windsor Knights of Columbus track club. Helping out the coaches was manager Don MacKinnon.

As well as competing in the track meet last weekend, the team performed at the pub in their hotel, the Shatran Caswell Inn, singing "One Banana, Two Banana."

"I've still got a couple of Buckstein also took third in Lancerette Sandee Carson The girls accumulated more points than the boys, with a few years back which finished in second place. Thanks to all the coaches, including the coaching duties all season was Bob Mullins, who along with McElroy coaches the South Windsor Knights of Columbus track club. Helping out the coaches was manager Don MacKinnon.

"I've still got a couple of Buckstein also took third in Lancerette Sandee Carson The girls accumulated more points than the boys, with a few years back which finished in second place. Thanks to all the coaches, including the coaching duties all season was Bob Mullins, who along with McElroy coaches the South Windsor Knights of Columbus track club. Helping out the coaches was manager Don MacKinnon.
SAC'S PUB PRESENTS

"SECOND THOUGHTS"

October 20-25/80

next week

One night only

One of Canada's Finest show bands

"DUBLIN CORPORATION"

Wednesday, October 29/80

Cover $1.00 students
$1.50 Guests

Thursday-Saturday October 30, 31,
November 1

Lucky

SAC's summertime band returns

October 31

Hallowe'en Bash at SAC's

Prizes for best costume and most original costume

SAC'S
sessions into half-hour orgies of grunts and groans, but no words. Most of the insults between residence halls. However, there were also cases of nonsensical screaming. Featuring one minute nightly session of non-portable scream. It has been observed that the scream is almost two percentage points higher than the provincial average increase. The preliminary fall registration figures indicate an increase of five percent in first year enrolment, in Ontario's 15 universities and one polytechnic.

Provincial enrolment increases by Cheryl Lesperance and E.P. Chant, with the University of Waterloo Imprint

The fall enrolment at the University of Windsor is up from last year's figure and it has been reported that this increase is due to the University of Windsor's efforts to attract more students. The University of Windsor enrolment (full-time) is up 6.8 percent over last year, according to the Student's Administrative Council (SAC) which is responsible for the university's financial and administrative affairs. The SAC has implemented a series of measures to attract more students, including increases in tuition fees and the introduction of new courses. The SAC has also increased its marketing efforts to attract more students.

Blood bank a good investment

by Wendy Coomber

There was blood all over Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday as the Red Cross made its annual blood drive. This year's drive was more successful than last year's, with donations up by 30 percent. The drive was held in cooperation with the University of Windsor's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and was sponsored by the University of Windsor's Blood Bank. The drive was held in the University of Windsor's Blood Bank and was attended by members of the university's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and the University of Windsor's Blood Bank.

SAC needs time to work out internal difficulties

by E.P. Chant

The current state of affairs in the Students' Administrative Council's (SAC) executive offices was a subject of discussion in various meetings this week, including last night's (Thursday) general council meeting. The current state of affairs was also discussed by David Simmons, the president of the SAC, who said that the SAC was facing some problems due to the lack of communication between the council and the president.

Loud self-therapy

(ZNS) -- Scream away your academic tensions. A group of Cornell University students say they've found the perfect way to relieve the tension of academic life—organized screaming. Every night at 11:00 p.m., dozens of residents of Cornell's north campus reportedly go to their windows and... scream. They say they are following the lead of the "primates"—six freshmen who have formed the Primal Scream Club. The primates endorse a two-minute nightly session of non-sensical bellowing. Professionals say it's a great way to relieve the stress of academic life.

Blood bank a good investment

by Wendy Coomber

There was blood all over Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday as the Red Cross made its annual blood drive. This year's drive was more successful than last year's, with donations up by 30 percent. The drive was held in cooperation with the University of Windsor's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and was sponsored by the University of Windsor's Blood Bank. The drive was held in the University of Windsor's Blood Bank and was attended by members of the university's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and the University of Windsor's Blood Bank.

Blood bank a good investment

by Wendy Coomber

There was blood all over Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday as the Red Cross made its annual blood drive. This year's drive was more successful than last year's, with donations up by 30 percent. The drive was held in cooperation with the University of Windsor's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and was sponsored by the University of Windsor's Blood Bank. The drive was held in the University of Windsor's Blood Bank and was attended by members of the university's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and the University of Windsor's Blood Bank.

Hard self-therapy

(ZNS) -- Scream away your academic tensions. A group of Cornell University students say they've found the perfect way to relieve the tension of academic life—organized screaming. Every night at 11:00 p.m., dozens of residents of Cornell's north campus reportedly go to their windows and ... scream. They say they are following the lead of the "primates"—six freshmen who have formed the Primal Scream Club. The primates endorse a two-minute nightly session of non-sensical bellowing. Professionals say it's a great way to relieve the stress of academic life.

Blood bank a good investment

by Wendy Coomber

There was blood all over Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday as the Red Cross made its annual blood drive. This year's drive was more successful than last year's, with donations up by 30 percent. The drive was held in cooperation with the University of Windsor's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and was sponsored by the University of Windsor's Blood Bank. The drive was held in the University of Windsor's Blood Bank and was attended by members of the university's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and the University of Windsor's Blood Bank.

Blood bank a good investment

by Wendy Coomber

There was blood all over Ambassador Auditorium Tuesday as the Red Cross made its annual blood drive. This year's drive was more successful than last year's, with donations up by 30 percent. The drive was held in cooperation with the University of Windsor's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and was sponsored by the University of Windsor's Blood Bank. The drive was held in the University of Windsor's Blood Bank and was attended by members of the university's Student's Administrative Council (SAC) and the University of Windsor's Blood Bank.
Lance "Unclassified" ads can be submitted at the Lance Office on the second floor of the University Centre during regular office hours, or in the Lance Letter Locker at the Centre Desk. The deadline for submissions is Tuesday of the week of publication at noon. All submissions must include the person's name, and student number. Unless otherwise instructed, a classified ad will run for a period of three weeks. All ads should be limited to six lines if possible. Lance Box numbers are available for direct communication. Box numbers are available for the cost of $1.00 for three weeks. Contact the Lance office for details. There is no charge for student classified ads and those of a non-commercial nature.

CLIFF ERIKSON IS BACK Monday, November 16. Advance Tickets on sale. University Centre 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Monday-Friday. Get your tickets early.

Now available

The New York Review of Books

1st

SOUTH SHORE BOOKS

118 HAVANA ST. WINNIPEG, MB. CANADA

WILL REPORT nightly. 3-322-1114.

FRANK J. FOX, O.D.

OPTOMETRIST

Suite 2B

400 Huron Church Rd.
Assumption University
University of Windsor

BLUEGRASS

AMATEUR AUDITION

Sunday, Nov. 7, 1980, 2:00 P.M.

Judged By:

CKWW's KEVIN McGOWAN

1st PRIZE — $500 CASH
2nd PRIZE — $250 CASH
3rd PRIZE — $100 CASH

To Be Held At The

PENNYSAYER Flea Market

750 TECUMSEH Rd. W. at Crawford

(NEXT TO MATTHEWS-CONNAH HOME CENTRE)

254-1725

WINDSOR FLYING CLUB

Group Box 31, Airport Rd.
Windsor, Ontario
N9A 6J5

969-1320

VOLUNTEERS are required to answer stress calls over the phone by utilizing communication skills. Training program will begin on November 8th and 14th, 1980. Call 254-4577, FOR MORE INFORMATION.

CLEAN. FURNISHED ROOMS for girls only on Queen adjacent to campus. Private kitchen, laundry, parking. Call 253-5226 between 11 and 5.

YEPRO STUDENT CLUB WILL BE holding a general meeting Thursday Nov. 6 at 7:30pm, Madison Vanier Student Lounge. New and old members welcome. Bring ideas and input. For more information, please contact Anne Karim, 253-5412.

COFFEE HOUSE IV: An evening of great entertainment sponsored by YEPRO. We will meet in the Blue Room, Assumption University at 8:00 p.m. on November 2, November 16 and November 30. Mark your calendars. These evenings will feature local folk singers, musicians, poets, dancers and many more. EVERYONE WELCOME.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT'S ORGANIZATION presents the International Food Night and Dance on Saturday, the 15th of November in Ambassador Auditorium. Admission is $3.00 per person. Come and see foods from eight countries. There is also a cultural performance included and a "hockey draw" limited tickets available in the C.S.I. Office (Coddy Hall) and the University Centre.

No ticket sales at door. Music for dancing to cap off the evening.

CATHOLIC CAMPUSS MINISTY, Assumption University, 254-2512

CONFERENCE SHEDULE:

Sunday-10:00 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. 11:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon, Bill Dolly-12:00 noon & 4:30 p.m.
(on Tuesdays 12 noon and 3 p.m. followed by dinner-5:30)

Saturday-11:00 a.m. CONFERENCE On request at the chapel. All for admission is 75 cents.

WEDNESDAY-7:00 p.m. in Cody Hall, Presentation of "The Friar's Knot" starring Gene Wilder. A hilarious spoof on the wild wild west. 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 2 at the Jewish Community Centre, 1641 Odette Ave. Cost $1.00 for students and $2.00 for non-students. Everyone welcome.

A WORKSHOP ON DIARY/JOURNAL WRITING is being planned for the month of November. For further information please contact the English Department.

ATTENTION POETS! In an effort to enhance our cultural perspective, CAM is hoping to produce a poetry and literature show one night a week. This will be a half-hour program featuring the work of one or more individuals and musical background will be provided. If you are interested in participating or writing please contact diner, 254-5984 or nic 4750 or come in person to the station which is located in the basement of the University Centre.

FOR SALE: B & M Shift Kit (automatic photo body). For all 70 Chrysler Torquettuc Automatic transmission. $45, 945155, after 5:30.

NEW ORIENTAL LOOK Smoking paraphernalia Custom T Shirts 500 Chidielle 266-4141 jeans and Cocktail Clothing

NOW-3-6

Assumption Lounge UNIVERSITY CENTRE

levis washer ene sicher cumin cream big black roadrunner visa

DUDER SUITS WETSWEATS BOLOUSES DRESSES SKIRTS JACETS

ALL ITEMS AT DISCOUNT PRICES

The Lance, Vol. LI, No. 8, October 31, 1980, Page Two
It seems that this year the students' council regulation breakdown seems to be a story told by a tale simply by exploiting their worn appearance. There are indications of a clear reflection of the great amount of conflict existing in the student governments on many campuses.

Recently, students' council president across the country have made the headlines for reasons which, in some cases, are ridiculous. Student councils have dug up the regulations for council conduct, and there has been little effort to stick to "the rules" of this movement toward tighter control on the conduct of many councils is a clear indication that there has been a great deal of misconduct in recent months.

Recently the Capilano Courier (of B.C.'s Capilano College) printed a story about the college's students' council president, Scott Sudbeck. Apparently Sudbeck sold five cases of beer, which had been bought by the council for an October 15th beer garden. However, conflict arose when Sudbeck sold the beer to some marketing students, without consulting the council, and more importantly, without a licence.

Consequently, Sudbeck was subjected to the terms of the students' council guidelines according to these, an executive who is being punished for a offence must be fined, censured or imprisoned. Sudbeck was subjected to censure. Career representative Joanne Waite felt the decision to censure Sudbeck was unfair and backing off. Thus, it seems as though personality conflicts played a great part in the problem.

Sudbeck sunk further into trouble when he admitted to drinking beer in the students' council office. Although Sudbeck neither confirmed nor denied that other members were present, he did confess that he was the only one denounced. This alone seems to confirm that it is said correctly that there is a lack of communication within the council. But one cannot find a communication breakdown as total as at the one at Ryerson in Toronto. In a recent edition of The Eyeopener, mention was made about council president John Long's vacation in Switzerland.

6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.

Registrar Frank Smith confirmed this week. There are 6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.

Registrar Frank Smith confirmed this week. There are 6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.

Registrar Frank Smith confirmed this week. There are 6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.

Registrar Frank Smith confirmed this week. There are 6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.

Registrar Frank Smith confirmed this week. There are 6,621 full-time students this year, compared to 6,197 last year, an increase of 424 students. First year enrolments have increased from 4,251 to 3,811 however, from 4,251 to 3,811 will be at hand once the committee has the official fall enrolments were down in Arts year because of lay-offs from their jobs in the city.
We must give credit where credit is due

Advertising is the ultimate "dog-eat-dog" business. It's fiercely competitive, oft-times sneaky, and chock-full of stolen ideas. University operation, on the other hand, has something of a dignity attached to it. Though running an institute of higher learning does involve copious amounts of money, universities seldom make mention of this facet of their operation, speaking instead about their academic quality and studiously energetic campus popu­lation.

What happens when the rather grimy world of advertising runs into the purportedly honorable university does not exactly constitute a scandal, but it's not a pretty knocker situation either. As you might recall from a few issues back, a graphic artist in Windsor claims he came up with the idea for the new logo of this university (the "live W's forming the maple leaf") symbol. The graphic artist's name is Al Pazitch and he works for Leadley Advertising of Windsor.

This summer, when a university committee was working on a multi-faceted publicity and promotion campaign (including the logo), Leadley and another Windsor advertising firm, Harris, were asked to submit ideas for the various possibilities the letter "W" might represent.

Pazitch set to work on the logo and, after playing around with some W's, came up with five of that letter arranged in a semi-circle with a pointy maple leaf being formed in the centre. He claims he completed the logo in May, but did not copyright it.

Leadley's complete publicity/promotion package, the logo included, was rejected by the university's committee later in the summer and the contract was handed over to Harris.

At a sangria-serving press conference in September, the university committee unveiled the Harris work, which received the pointy maple leaf being formed in the centre. This is not to say Harris Advertising played any major role in the project, more the graphic incident. The committee gave that firm the general idea for the logo, Harris took it and came up with a slightly different design, with some slight modifications, of course.

Now, as for the committee's action . . .

Granted, Leadley (and, hence, Pazitch) was paid for its creative time for its work on the package (logo inclusive). Granted, also, is the fact that the Leadley firm is not willing to make a big case out of the incident, simply because this type of "idea-borrowing" happens all the time in the business and because a negative comment about the university would adversely affect any campus contracts that might come Leadley's way in the future.

What cannot be granted or approved was such an ethically questionable action by a committee of this university's administration. If the complete Leadley package was rejected, as John Laframboise (Assistant Vice-President of Community Relations and Development for the university) claims, why was even the idea of the Pazitch design kept and passed on to Harris? Could the committee not have made some arrangement so that the credit for the new logo would have read: "Designed by Harris Advertising from an original idea by Al Pazitch" or something to that effect?

Pazitch wonders why this university so loudly warns students not to plagiarize others' work, yet this committee won't give any credit to an individual artist.

That's a good question. Whether a good answer will be forthcoming is doubtful.

Treats for the darling little goblins

by Drudy and Friend

You may be wondering why we chose such a pukey colour of orange for the front page logo and the back page advertising. Well, it's tradition time, folks, and the traditions here run thick and strong and orange.

Halloween is traditionally a time for revery and caution making. Dentists love this time of year. They get to sandblast candy "kisses" (who would ever think of such a ludicrous name for candy?) out of little kids' trick or treat bags. They get to wash hydrochloric acid as mouthwash to remove those stubborn remnants of candy apples from kids' bereaving tears. Gee, I wish I was a dentist. It's a pleasant fall back or treat for the kiddies this year. I'm going to pour water on my door step and weir 5,000 volts into the doobiel. What a neat trick I'll get to be a kid again.

Our soothing windows, steeling portable toilets from construction areas, and generally doing the malicious damage you've got arrested for if you weren't a minnor. What a joy to live again the innocence of childhood. Of course kids nowadays are a bit more serious about their Halloween! They are part of the spectre of commercialism. There probably will be about 16,000,000 pre-packaged Darth Vaders out there, all with their luminous plastic capes and wire 5,000 volts into the doobiel. What a neat trick I'll get to be a kid again.

Orientation depends on residence students and, of course, to the heads of those people who send their "little devils" out every October 31.
Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Editor reserves the right to edit all letters. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's telephone number and address.

President Simmons responds to cabinet criticism

Dear Editor:

It is my duty as the President of the Students' Administrative Council to respond to the statements that have been made about my administration.

It is perhaps best to remind you, Mr. Editor, that the express purpose for which I sought this office is to serve and advance the interest of the students. Thus, I feel, I have done and certainly do intend to continue doing.

All organizations at some time, do show signs of tension and dispute. At present, there is such an organization in my Cabinet. Perhaps for the purpose of sensationalism, you have greatly exaggerated a sensitive situation.

As a young advocate of peace, I do believe in unity and peaceful coexistence. However, there have always been and will continue to be differences among people. Your use of "watergate language", portrayal of gloom, complete distortion of facts and misinformation does not however, reflect a true picture of the situation.

On separate occasions, you have deliberately printed pieces of information which were not thoroughly checked to determine whether or not they were correct. If you had a reporter at the last Council meeting, you would have known that I never made any reference to gays and sado-masochistic clubs. If you had "checked" further, you would have known that the statement you quoted me as having uttered was simply not the case.

Also, in the same issue, your paper stated that I attended a Women's Conference in Winnipeg. Again, I must state that it was technically impossible for me to have attended a women's conference.

In my efforts to serve the students efficiently and effectively, I may have set too high a task for myself and my Cabinet. Their contribution is visible, but I believe that a lot more can be accomplished. The present problem as far as I am concerned does not revolve around "personality conflicts" as you imply.

I gather not.

Dear Editor:

I would like to set straight some erroneous reporting about the October 24, 1980 edition of The Lance.

The front page article "Background to Council tension" states, as a matter of fact in the opening sentence, that Mr. David Simmons, incumbent president of U. of W. students' council, is... "the first black president of a Canadian university...".

I would like to bring to the attention of your students that the Memorial University of Newfoundland elected a black president of the students' council in 1965 in a capacity during the 1965-66 academic year. The gentleman's name was Mr. Percy Manguela, a bona fide Canadian university student's council. But I do know that Newfoundland is a bona fide province of the Canadian union, that Memorial University of Newfoundland is a bona fide Canadian university; and that 1965 predates today in some 15 years, more or less. I resent your implication! This, Messrs. McMahon and Chan.

Earnest Boone
Law III

We are not the first

Dear Editor:

I would like to make further comments on the issues raised by Cecilia Deck et. al. in last week's issue.

During the ratification of the Norman Bethune Club, David Simmons raised the question "Should we allow political clubs on campus?". Our answer is no. Why?

The university is a place where we can gain a well-rounded education, although many students will agree that this is far from being the case. One key aspect to this education is knowledge of how world events affect our lives. It is impossible to insulate this from our perception of the world—whether it be our beliefs. Indeed, the question raised by David Simmons as to the Vietnamese/Soviet aggression against Kampuchea, the victorious liberation struggle in Zimbabwe, the role of US imperialism in Canada, or the fight of Ontario workers against the current recession.

University students should have the opportunity to learn about these political and social issues, from an anti-imperialist, worker's, or Communist point of view. With very few exceptions, this does not happen in class.

For a year and a half, the Norman Bethune Club has sponsored films, seminars, book-tables, and photo displays on these very issues. We therefore feel we have made an important contribution to filling a gap in university life.

In conclusion, whether we like it or not, politics affect our lives every day (for example the recent tuition fee increases), and every day we make political decisions whether political clubs should be allowed on campus, is a political question.

Brenda Sweet
President
Norman Bethune Club

Praise the Lord!

Dear Editor:

Why does Sophie Naiah Yehob, "Thank God," in her letter about the campus gay club to the editor, when the "club" she is in favour of being founded is exactly contrary to His will?

Let us all pray for one another. Praise Jesus.

Lance Milne
3rd year, Fine Arts
Studentship Lectures plan for next season

by Scott McCulloch

The first semester's series of Studentship Lectures was wrapped up on Tuesday when Dean of Students Ken Long delivered a session on "Studying for Exams and Writing the Essay."

"Faculty contributes to new gym

by Joan Butler, with Newline

The University of Windsor is planning to launch a five-year campaign in an effort to raise $2.5 million dollars. Entitled "New Heights," it officially begins April, 1981, with an appeal to individuals, businesses and corporations.

Before that date, however, seven other campaigns will be underway or completed, all coordinated with the general campaign. Each one will have a different appeal either to faculty and staff, alumni, parents, foundations and others. The money raised will be used for student aid, research, teaching excellence, specialized equipment, library acquisitions, endowed chair projects, campus development and donations to federations and affiliated institutions. This allocation of resources to contribute to the total educational environment is called the "enrichment program," said Dr. Paul Cassano, Vice-President, Academic.

Dr. Cassano is the committee chairman of the University Fund for the '80's, the first of the eight campaigns to be launched.

The canvassing of faculty and staff officially began October 23, 1980. It strays from the "normal" school year calendar for the 80's, Cassano explained. "It's that kind of campaign that people want to know the percentage of their salary on it. It's already making adjustments to the campaign to increase its effectiveness."

"He [Gold] learned a good deal from his audience, planned Long. "It's that kind of exchange between the students and the lecturer that keeps Studentship as a series alive and relevant."

"We've received inquiries about the program from institutions that are 'surprisingly far away. We seem to be gaining a profile every year.' Two recent letters came from Brigham Young University of Utah and Montana State. "I don't know how they find about it," Long wondered aloud. "But word is getting around."

Although it's early yet, Long said he has given some thought to next fall's series. "I'm thinking of adding one on the business, another on the legal sector," he said. "It's early, but we're always looking for the next relevant issue. We want to assess the student needs and design a presentation to show them how to apply the knowledge."

The perennial favorites Long's three series of study skills, have been redesigned. The courses are available in the reserve room on the library. Long feels that the problem of people coming to me after saying they couldn't make it to the lecture or found out about the series too late, they just don't have the time to give the lectures to everybody individually."

"We're now thinking about what can be done in terms of editing, narration, subtitles and other techniques that would make the videotapes suitable for televising as part of a tele­ enrichment orientation program," Long said.

"We would be shown on a local station to students who might be interested in coming to the university. This is all highly experimental," he added. "We'll have to assess if they'll be valuable to people outside the university. We're looking at it for next fall though."

Long's Tuesday lectures focused on getting easy answers of various kinds and dealt with strategies to avoid what Long considers the three most common errors made by student writers: "not answering in a focused manner, writing a disordered or incoherent essay, and not timing oneself well."

Long claims that by following the simple techniques, students can virtually guarantee avoiding those errors. "The last lecture builds on material from the first three," he said. "Students learn in detail how that system translates into studying for exams."
The next time you plan to go a-wandering through the basements of Windsor Hall, you might like to take a friend or a piece of cheese. Or a carrot. Or if you are squeamish, you might like to take a friend because there are rats and other little furry things down there.

These animals belong to the psychology and biology departments. They have their own separate animal technician and all experiments are examined closely before they begin. The rodents even have their own Animal Care Committee.

This care/ethnic committee was set up over ten years ago because of provincial legislation which set a code that summarized a list of ethical guidelines to govern the experiments involving animals.

This committee is headed by Dr. Michael Petras of the Biology Department, and includes six other members including a veterinarian. According to Dr. Petras, they examine the proposals and techniques of each experiment involving an animal to evaluate the pain level and determine if the objectives of the experiment justify it. Dr. Petras also adds that research is always being done to find ways to reduce this pain.

Right now, Dr. Petras is studying the genetics of the house mouse to determine genetic variability in natural populations. Dr. Bruce Virgo is studying the effects of chemicals on reproductive physiology, and Dr. Paul Taylor is looking at the effects of pain on the heart.

"Enough of these Biology experiments—I'm breakin' outta this joint!"

Conference coming

The tenth anniversary meeting of the Canadian Council for Southeast Asian Studies (CCSEAS) will be held at the University of Windsor, November 6-9. CCSEAS is one of the councils of the Canadian Association of Southeast Asian Studies which is helping to sponsor the meeting.

The theme of the conference is Southeast Asia in the 1980's, glimpsing the future from the past. Special attention will be paid to determining the cultural values—art, music, dance, etc. Highlights include a keynote address by Dr. Max Havclara of the University of Michigan and a gamelan concert.

The conference will open Thursday, November 6 at 8 P.M. with a screening of the movie "Max Havelaar" which has been arranged in conjunction with the Dutch Embassy for this conference as well as a conference of the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Dutch Studies.

Friday's sessions begin at 9:00 a.m. with a plenary address by a distinguished specialist on Indonesian cultural affairs and a gamelan concert.

For all others, the fee is $5.00 per day. To register in advance or for further information, contact Dr. Roy MacGuigan on the subject of the Canadian policy toward Southeast Asia. Sessions begin again at 9:00 a.m. Saturday and continue through the day. On Saturday evening, there will be a reception and an Indonesian banquet, followed by Indonesian music and dance performances by the University of Michigan gamelan orchestra featuring great artists from Java. This will be the orchestra's first Canadian appearance.

The conference will end late Sunday morning.

The conference registration fee is $2.00 for students and senior citizens. For all others, this fee is $5.00 per day. To register in advance or for further information, contact Dr. Roy Amore at 253-4212, ext. 364. Conference headquarters will be located at Iona College. The Asian Studies Program which is hosting the conference, offers an Honors B.A. in Asian Studies.

Ontario Hydro needs graduates. If you are about to graduate in Engineering, Honours Science, Computer Science or Business Administration...this could be your opportunity of a lifetime.

A career with Ontario Hydro will provide you with a variety of opportunities, new challenges, a stimulating working environment, and most important—professional growth and job satisfaction.

Energy. A crucial issue for the eighties, and beyond. As other forms of energy become depleted, electricity will become even more important than it is today.

At Ontario Hydro, you will work for a world leader in electrical energy technology.

Hydro needs you. For your talent. For your energy. In return Hydro offers you extensive training, a salary that recognizes your abilities and experience, substantial local loan repayment, and a variety of employment locations.

We'd like to talk to you about energy. Yours, and ours.

Ontario Hydro, 700 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario MSG 1X6
The government has instituted an appeal mechanism in recognition of the fact that not all student or families would be able to make the required contribution. The amount of additional assistance received later depends on the nature of the appeal as well as financial circumstances. Such applications often take six to eleven weeks to process.

The appeal file is compiled and reviewed by the student awards office. Each file is forwarded to the Appeal Board. The appeal Board is for only one year. If a student's appeal has been turned down by the Board, reasons will be provided. Appeals can be resubmitted to the Board in light of new information.

There are literally hundreds of grounds for appeal (see the student awards officer for further information). Here are some of the common grounds on which an appeal can be based:

1. Parental inability or refusal to provide the required contribution;
2. Change in parent's financial circumstances;
3. Spouse's inability or refusal to provide the required contribution;
4. Student's inability to find a job for all or part of the summer;
5. Insufficient summer earnings or savings;
6. Inability to work because of illness or summer study (summer language bureau); or
7. Living in residence or in a high cost area.

There is no guarantee that you will receive additional assistance should you appeal your award. Appeals provide an excellent opportunity to include additional information the lack of which may have prejudiced your original application.

OOPS
by the Community Legal Aid Columnist

On October 19, 1980, a Landlord and Tenant column appeared in The Lance. The article, unfortunately, was a little inaccurate and needs some clarifications.

The article stated in paragraph 4, "It is not necessary to lease to be a tenant." The lease referred here is a written lease. In strict legal terms, a lease will exist in law upon the renting of a residential unit, but it may merely be oral or implied.

As the article stated the landlord should keep the apartment in a fit state of repair. If not a judge can order the repairs be made. The law is unclear as to whether a judge can force a landlord to pay damages to a tenant.

The article appeared to advise tenants to withhold rent if the landlord did not live up to certain obligations. This decision should only be made after obtaining sound legal counsel. Each case must be judged on its own set of facts. The tenant risks eviction if she/he withholding rent at the wrong time or for the wrong reasons.

Finally, a landlord may not increase the rent by more than six percent of the last rent that was charged for an equivalent rental period. The Residential Tenancies Rent Review Act cited in the article has been repealed and replaced by the Residential Tenancies Act. Decisions under the act are made by the Residential Tenancies Commission not a rent review officer.

The point of the article was to educate students so that they could recognize possible problems and seek legal counsel. Students should be aware that the law can change quite quickly and should not make any decisions on their own. If you have any questions concerning Landlord and Tenant matters, contact the Community Legal Aid Office, Room G105, Law Building, phone 235-7150.

---

Meet Marty Cervais
Author of THE RUNNERS

A prediction spoof!

On Saturday, November 8 at 2 p.m. South Shore Books will hold a special event - the launch of new book on Runners along the Detroit River. Not just any book, the perfect, timeless work on running and its followers to the colorful characters who made the 'Running 70's' run.

South Shore Books

164 Pine St, Windsor

293-1222

Time of autographing: It's the Huron Hall

It's over by 5 p.m.

Saturday, November 8

Can't be there?

You can reserve an autographed copy of The Runners by saving $9.95 plus postage to South Shore Books.

Also Coming:

Pierre Berton

Nov. 20

HAT AND NOSE PARTY

Friday, November 7th 8pm - 1 am in Vanier East

Bring a hat! Bring a Nose! Bring a Friend!

Admission $1.00

1/2 PRICE with Hat or Nose (not your own)

GIRLS FREE between 8pm - 9pm

PRIZES: Best Hat, Biggest Nose
OPEN HOUSE

University of Windsor

YOUR UNIVERSITY...
IT'S A REAL EDUCATION

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1980
NOON - 5:00 p.m.

FREE PARKING...SHUTTLE BUS
Wednesday night, SAC's pub offered yet another musical alternative to their patrons. This time, it was in the form of a showband, The Dublin Connection. Some may consider bringing a band whose main appeal is among the middle aged crowd to be a gamble on the part of SAC's management. If it was, it paid off in spades! The Dublin Connection delighted the packed pub until the early morning hours, playing music covering the decades. They presented such old hits as "By the River of Babylon," to upbeat modern numbers by Billy Joel and Neil Diamond.

DOWN AT SAC'S

The eight member band (10 years out of Ireland, 14 in business) came complete with horn—a feature rarely heard and enjoyed in the confines of SAC's pub.

For the weekend, Lucky will return. This is the band which kept the pub packed during the summer. If you missed their popular music before, don't miss them again.

---

Pianist entertains at Moot Court

by Katey Noske

Last Friday, October 24, in the Law Building's Moot Court, an audience of about seventy enjoyed a performance of extraordinary brilliance. Marion Hall is originally from Colorado and studied in Chicago with John Powell and Rudolf Gay. She has served on the faculty of Roosevelt University in Chicago and was also a member of the Chicago Piano Quartet. Known as a performer, adjudicator and clinician on three continents, she has been on the faculty of the School of Music at the University of Indiana since 1964. Dr. Phillip Adamson, assistant professor of piano in the School of Music studied for his doctorate under Ms. Hall at the University of Indiana.

Friday night she presented the most fortunate audience with an unparalleled concert. Her Sonata in F Major by W.A. Mozart and Chopin's Sonata in B Minor virtually moved the audience to tears in their demonstration of her dexterity and exquisite touch. Her fingers seemed to fly over the keys, yet her complete control of the instrument was quite obvious.

A piece with a different flavor, George Walker's Sonata No. 2, Theme and Variations, was lectured Friday in the School of Music's Recital Hall. Participants successful in audition took part in Ms. Hall's master classes on Saturday.

Marion Hall is the first of three famous pianists to present lectures and master classes. Early in 1981, Ida Siki and Eugege List will be here and will also perform concerts.

The next concert in the School of Music's Concert Series presents Dr. Irine Ronzoyay (associate professor of Music) on Clarinet, on November 7.

---

THE CINEMA CRITIC

THE FIRST DEADLY SIN

by Rosemary Comisso

Few books can make the successful transition from bestseller to hit movie. The First Deadly Sin is no exception to this rule.

The vivid characterizations and chilling scenes that Lawrence Sanders brilliantly created in his novel are barely recognizable in the films adaption. The movie is guilty on three counts of negligence: poor performances, a flimsy script and misguided direction.

Unlike readers, audiences cannot identify with the protagonist, Sgt. Edward Delaney (Frank Sinatra), a New York detective obsessed with finding a homicidal maniac who is terrorizing the city, while his wife lays dying of a kidney disease. Sinatra's phlegmatic portrayal is a misinterpretation of the Delaney character, who, in reality is a quick-witted and dedicated detective.

Not even scenes with Delaney's wife (Faye Dunaway) trigger an emotional response; they lack substance and fail to make a valid contribution to the story. Let's face it, how much of an intellectual conversation can a man have with a woman who is in a coma most of the time?

Perhaps the most perplexing and neglected character of them all is the murderer himself, Daniel Blank (David Dukes). Although he is a stereotype, his personality is never clearly defined. We are not provided with enough information about him to ascertain his motivation for committing such heinous crimes. For this reason, Blank remains as much a mystery at the end of the movie as he does at the beginning.

The First Deadly Sin seems to be just another example of Hollywood's ability to reduce an important and relevant book to a trivial and meaningless film and for that reason there is no absoluto.

---

A-POL-O-GEE...

Contrary to what was reported last week, the students who participated in CJAM's first radio play, The Speckled Band, were all students of the Faculty of Dramatic Arts.
Gongeat Emptor: Let the gonger beware!

by E.P. Chant

A couple hundred law students stepped up to the bar last Friday night at Donlon Hall. They received their drink at the bar, only beer which they took back to their tables to imbibe while watching the faculty’s “Gong Show.”

The women on the right do a Richard Nixon impression, causing turned-away digust in one viewer and a severe back spasm in the other.

A dozen acts, all consisting of talented (?) professional baritones, presented themselves for artistic judging to a professional panel composed of law teachers Whitney, Marasquin, Stewart, and Brown.

From this esteemed four-member (two dressed in gorilla suits) bench lengthened an “A+++” and an “A”, with damages of one million dollars awarded (as in joke) to a D ——- (ad infinitum) and an “F”, with no socially redeeming value.

If they had been judging it, an “F ———, with absolutely no reason to live” should have gone to the combination of the sound system and Donlon Hall’s acoustical imperfections. Several acts were gonged for inaudibility, while others were marred severely by a quantity of static similar to that of late-night AM radio.

Tull transition ‘A’ success

by Tim McWbarn

Jethro Tull has made their annual Detroit appearance. This was not the same Tull seen in Detroit in the previous years, the band has gone through a few personnel changes.

New to Tull are Dave Pegg (Bass), Mark Craney (Drums) and Eddie Jobsen (Keyboards, Electric Violin). The only original members visible that night were Martin Barre (Lead Guitar), and the showman himself, Ian Anderson (Vocal, Flute, Acoustic Guitar).

Anderson arriving on stage flute in hand, dressed in a white uniform you would expect a person working a nuclear energy plant to wear. For the next ninety minutes or so, Tull played to an enthusiastic almost sold out Colosseum crowd.

This was not a night for the ways, their music was tight to its original form. They also featured a few of their earlier tunes, “Hunting Girl”, “Songs From The Woods”, “Skating”, and “Bungle in the Jungle”.

And of course, there was the mandolin guitar, dobro and keyboard solos. The latter over-running its welcome.

For their encore they called upon their two classic tunes, “Aqualung”, and “Locomotive Breath”. The show ended with Anderson tossing three huge balloons into the audience.

Anderson, a little older (33 now) doesn’t move on stage as fast or as much as he used to, but his age hasn’t seemed to effect his ability to play the flute.

One Tull feature absent this time was the use of props. The only visual aid they had was a large red letter “A” which moved around above the stage during a keyboard solo.

But then again I was seeing a new Tull ... but still an excellent Tull.

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

Resume Preparation Service
Job Hunting
Typing and Copying a Copy
Housing Placement Service
Research Assistance Services

We assist in all kinds of research and tutoring.

Try our convenient services on campus at

MUTUAL ASSOCIATES CANADA INC.
Assumption University
404 Huron Church Road
Phone 254-5059
Turning old record albums into profit

by John Liddle

Some of those old records that you've got stashed away in the attic could be worth big bucks! More than likely, you're not even aware of just how much your old albums are worth. How, do you know if you've got a rare album? And if it is, how do you go about selling it without getting ripped off?

A record that a fanatic collector would gladly dish out big money for, doesn't necessarily have to be obscure. For instance, early Rolling Stones' albums that were recorded mono are worth twice as much as many of their stereo counterparts. Some of the Monkees' later albums, notably Head are worth upwards of twenty to fifty dollars, depending on the quality.

Albums that you're likely to find in your bag brother's or parents' collections would be the rockabilly masters such as Johnny Cash's First album, Sun Records, (800-9400), Eddie Cochran (€60-€80) or the twangy, Ranger Johnny Ringo (€10-€15).

A semi-rare Elvis Presley album could fetch you a fast twenty bucks. If you can find a Buddy Holly album on the Coral record label, you can practically name your price! As well, many groups from the 60's have valuable records in their discography. The Yardbirds, the early Who (Magic Bus sells for $15), the Doors, the Charly World Band, the Pugs, are all collectables.

Even in the 70's, the value of records put out by such bands as the New York Dolls and the Ugly Ducklings grow in value with the passing of every year.

Condition of the album is important.

A rare record, in order to fetch top dollar, has got to meet certain criteria. For one, the record itself has got to be in absolute mint condition; this means no scratches or ticks on the record on the label. This also applies to the cover. As well, the vinyl itself must not be worn orSun and the shadows of the Monkees' later albums could fetch you a fast twenty bucks. If you can find a Buddy Holly album on the Coral record label, you can practically name your price! As well, many groups from the 60's have valuable records in their discography. The Yardbirds, the early Who (Magic Bus sells for $15), the Doors, the Charly World Band, the Pugs, are all collectables.

Even in the 70's, the value of records put out by such bands as the New York Dolls and the Ugly Ducklings grow in value with the passing of every year.

Condition of the album is important.

A rare record, in order to fetch top dollar, has got to meet certain criteria. For one, the record itself has got to be in absolute mint condition; this means no scratches or ticks on the record or the label. This also applies to the cover. As well, the vinyl itself must not be worn or

Records of the University of Michigan gomarils, or Javanese orchestras, under the direction of Rudolph Judick Becker, will appear for the first time in Canada at 8:15 p.m. on November 8 at the Ambassodor Auditorium, University of Windsor.

This unique performance of Indonesian music, ranging from the soothing to the exciting, will be a part of the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the Canadian Asian Studies Association, running from November 6 through 9. On stage with the orchestra, a large ensemble of Indonesian gongs, drums and xylophones. One of Indonesia's leading classical dancers, Mr. Winaryanto, who teaches at the National Arts Academy in Bandung, Java and Mr. Soedjodano, Director of the National Dance Academy of Indonesia at Yogyakarta, will dance both with and without masks. The concert will be supported by the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the University of Windsor. Admission is $2.00 for students and senior citizens, and $4.00 for others. Proceeding the concert there will be a Malaysian banquet prepared by the cooperation of the Malaysian and Singapore Students Association at the University. A limited number of tickets are available for both the banquet and the concert. Please order your tickets by November 4. They are $5.00 for students and $7.00 for others.

For tickets please phone or write Dr. Roy Moore, Co-ordinator, Asian Students Association, University of Windsor, (519) 253-4232, ext. 264 or 592, or (513) 760-1122, ext. 264 or 592, before November 5.

Javanese orchestra to come

The University of Michigan gomarils, or Javanese orchestras, under the direction of Rudolph Judick Becker, will appear for the first time in Canada at 8:15 p.m. on November 8 at the Ambassodor Auditorium, University of Windsor.

This unique performance of Indonesian music, ranging from the soothing to the exciting, will be a part of the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the Canadian Asian Studies Association, running from November 6 through 9. On stage with the orchestra, a large ensemble of Indonesian gongs, drums and xylophones. One of Indonesia's leading classical dancers, Mr. Winaryanto, who teaches at the National Arts Academy in Bandung, Java and Mr. Soedjodano, Director of the National Dance Academy of Indonesia at Yogyakarta, will dance both with and without masks. The concert will be supported by the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the University of Windsor. Admission is $2.00 for students and senior citizens, and $4.00 for others. Proceeding the concert there will be a Malaysian banquet prepared by the cooperation of the Malaysian and Singapore Students Association at the University. A limited number of tickets are available for both the banquet and the concert. Please order your tickets by November 4. They are $5.00 for students and $7.00 for others.

For tickets please phone or write Dr. Roy Moore, Co-ordinator, Asian Students Association, University of Windsor, (519) 253-4232, ext. 264 or 592, or (513) 760-1122, ext. 264 or 592, before November 5.

Javanese orchestra to come

The University of Michigan gomarils, or Javanese orchestras, under the direction of Rudolph Judick Becker, will appear for the first time in Canada at 8:15 p.m. on November 8 at the Ambassodor Auditorium, University of Windsor.

This unique performance of Indonesian music, ranging from the soothing to the exciting, will be a part of the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the Canadian Asian Studies Association, running from November 6 through 9. On stage with the orchestra, a large ensemble of Indonesian gongs, drums and xylophones. One of Indonesia's leading classical dancers, Mr. Winaryanto, who teaches at the National Arts Academy in Bandung, Java and Mr. Soedjodano, Director of the National Dance Academy of Indonesia at Yogyakarta, will dance both with and without masks. The concert will be supported by the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the University of Windsor. Admission is $2.00 for students and senior citizens, and $4.00 for others. Proceeding the concert there will be a Malaysian banquet prepared by the cooperation of the Malaysian and Singapore Students Association at the University. A limited number of tickets are available for both the banquet and the concert. Please order your tickets by November 4. They are $5.00 for students and $7.00 for others.

For tickets please phone or write Dr. Roy Moore, Co-ordinator, Asian Students Association, University of Windsor, (519) 253-4232, ext. 264 or 592, or (513) 760-1122, ext. 264 or 592, before November 5.

Javanese orchestra to come

The University of Michigan gomarils, or Javanese orchestras, under the direction of Rudolph Judick Becker, will appear for the first time in Canada at 8:15 p.m. on November 8 at the Ambassodor Auditorium, University of Windsor.

This unique performance of Indonesian music, ranging from the soothing to the exciting, will be a part of the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the Canadian Asian Studies Association, running from November 6 through 9. On stage with the orchestra, a large ensemble of Indonesian gongs, drums and xylophones. One of Indonesia's leading classical dancers, Mr. Winaryanto, who teaches at the National Arts Academy in Bandung, Java and Mr. Soedjodano, Director of the National Dance Academy of Indonesia at Yogyakarta, will dance both with and without masks. The concert will be supported by the Canadian Council of Southeast Asian Studies and the University of Windsor. Admission is $2.00 for students and senior citizens, and $4.00 for others. Proceeding the concert there will be a Malaysian banquet prepared by the cooperation of the Malaysian and Singapore Students Association at the University. A limited number of tickets are available for both the banquet and the concert. Please order your tickets by November 4. They are $5.00 for students and $7.00 for others.

For tickets please phone or write Dr. Roy Moore, Co-ordinator, Asian Students Association, University of Windsor, (519) 253-4232, ext. 264 or 592, or (513) 760-1122, ext. 264 or 592, before November 5.
Restaurant to go--not to go--in Windsor

by Cecilia Deck

Close to campus

Olympic Submarine
2180 Wyandotte West

For $2.50 you can score a delicious "Gyros in Pita": chopped lamb, tomato and onion slices, and garlic-yogurt sauce stuffed in a pocket of Greek bread. But the Olympic is officially a purveyor of submarines and there are a few more competitively priced Greek staples. Other Greek specialties include a soup of the day, souvlaki in pita, shish kebob, Greek salad and baklava. Service is quick and friendly. If you go there late at night you might catch a glimpse of authentic Greek dancing.

Canadian Submarine
2000 Wyandotte West

Rated by The Windsor Star as serving the best submarines in Windsor, Canadian offers Greek food which is not so good.

Harvey's
2160 Wyandotte West

This is the only hamburger chain in the campus area worth commenting on. The fries are made with real, fresh potatoes, not freeze-dried; the burgers are charcoal-broiled, not fried; and you get to say exactly what condiments you want. The shakes are as good as McDonald's, although there is no choice of flavors, only chocolate. Hot dogs and steak sandwiches are also available for non-burger lovers.

Service is fast, and the place is kept cleaner than some of its competitors.

The Historical Dominion House

Web Court
2037 Wyandotte West

Web Court is one of the few Chinese restaurants in Windsor that serves dim sum--Chinese lunch--daily. You have to ask for the dim sum menu specially, and when you get it you have to pretty well guess what to order unless you have a Chinese friend along to translate. But watch out for the mbs and the Italian main dishes--you could be in for a disappointment.

To let you know that this is no "eat-and-run" place, the service is . . . .well, "leisurely".

You get what you pay for in the way of interior design: there's yellow velvet upholstered chint, subdued lighting, stained glass windows, etc. Food prices are jacked up accordingly.

Dominion House
3140 Sandwich

The decor of the Dominion House, which does a lot to create its warm, friendly atmosphere, was, I am convinced thrown together haphazardly over the years. Now half a dozen bars in Windsor are trying to imitate it, without success. The Dominion House is almost an

The Marketplace
4735 Tecumseh East

Many hanging plants and banana furniture make for a very tropical atmosphere, right out of the movies. The menu is varied and interesting: diverse salads, soups, omelettes, Chinese, Indian, Italian, Continental, and other delectable dishes. The food is good and fresh.

Dining is a very pleasant experience and it's easy to transform yourself to a tourist from another country, a more relaxed mood, after a hectic day of shopping or whatever.

Prices are reasonable and the service is friendly, and, at a leisurely pace, it makes for a rather blithely mood.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 8, October 31, 1980, Page Thirteen
Campus Recreation

'New Games' newest way to have fun at University

by Lisa Leveque

Campus Recreation will present an evening full of fun-filled games with the "New Games Night" on Monday, November 9, at 7:00 p.m. in St. Denis Hall. "New Games" originated in California and is an event that has spread widely throughout the United States in the past five years. Being just recently introduced into Canada, "New Games" takes its largest shape in the form of "New Games" festivals where people gather together for a chance to participate in this extraordinary event.

The students and faculty of the University of Windsor are all invited to participate and speculate in their very own "New Games" night. The evening will consist of several familiar games but with revised rules. The theme of the evening is "FUN" because this is the purpose of "New Games Night". Some of the games that will be played are: slaughter, earth ball, sura, people pyramid, infinity volleyball and bbl. At 9:10 p.m., "New Games Night" will finish with everybody a winner!

Hey Fatso!

Have you ever wanted to trim off a few pounds or increase your fitness level? Ever look in the mirror and throw up? Well, here's your chance to do something about it.

The "Channel Swim" is beginning Monday, Nov. 3 and continuing for one month at the Human Kinetics pool.

What is the channel swim (you may well ask yourself). The channel swim is the fun way to shed some of that blubber and get yourself into a semi-respectable state of physical fitness. How can that be fun? Just listen or read on and you are actually reading this yourself. Four bodies of water can be swum: Lake Erie (8 miles), Lake St. Clair (14 miles), Lake University of Windsor (18 miles) and the English Channel (22 miles). Seventy-two lengths of the pool are equal to one mile. All do swim during the recreational swimming periods (Mon.-Fri. 12:2-2 p.m. and 7:30-9:30 p.m., Saturday 1:30-3:30 and 6:30-9:30 p.m. and Sundays 1-7 p.m.). After you swim the number of lengths you desire, add them to the chart entitled "Distance Swim" which is located in the pool office. The voluptuous life-guards on duty will be glad to assist you (but don't come just to see them, you perverts).

For further information, call the Campus Recreation office at Extension 121. Come on out and get in shape.

IM Hockey on

Another year of intramural hockey is set to begin. This season actually had its first game Thursday at the Bulls faced the Eng. Soc. A team at 7 p.m. In all, 24 teams will compete in three divisions of eight teams, one division of "A", competitive hockey, and two divisions of "B", recreational hockey. Come out and watch a game this year. Referees are still needed. For more information, call Paul Parsons at 256-0217.

Pick-ups pick up championship

Amid the cold winds and light snow flurries on the south campus fields Sunday, the Tecumseh Pick-ups emerged the victors in the coed Lob-ball league.

In the first round of the play-offs, the Pick-ups defeated the Sluggers 17-9. In Division 1, the Mac 5 Laurier squad defeated the Law Blahs 11-10. In the division finals, the Tecumseh Teddy Bears defeated Mac 5 Laurier 21-19 to take the Division 1 championship. In Division 2, the Pick-ups defeated the Soes 5-4.

In the final, the Teddy Bears were blown out by their residence rivals, the Pick-ups, 20-9. Members of the champion Pick-ups were Wendy McIchar, Chris Zarr, Blaine White, Sandy Martin, Doug Nanne, Wendy MacKimmon, Randy Duscher, Shannon Foster, Frank Sacconesi, Lou Ann Blum, Sam Aigletta, Rose Marangelli, Dale Cavernon, Cindy Williams and Joe Dibartinez.

A special word of thanks to all the teams who participated and especially the umpires, Steve Thatcher and Blaine White, who braved four hours in the wind and cold.

---

OPINION POLL

Two weeks ago you, as students of this university, voted your continued and increased financial support of CJAM, the student radio station. Because we see that vote of confidence as a mandate to carry through your station's programming, we now solicit your opinions.

Please answer the questions below and place this ad in the ballot box at the University Centre.

Please describe the types of programming you prefer:

MUSIC:
- Rock __ Middle of the Road  ____ County __ Jazz

ETHNIC PROGRAMS
Which Languages:
- Other

SPECIAL MUSIC PROGRAMS
- Classical __ Jazz _______

EXPERIMENTAL
- Showways __ Old Rock (Which

December?
- 50's __ 60's __ 70's

ARTS PROGRAMS
- Poetry __ Prose __ Drama __ Other

WEIGHT
- How Long __

NEWS
- Campus Oriented __ Windsor __ Ontario __ Canada

- National __ American __ World __ How Often __ How Long

STATION EDITORIALS
- EDITORIALS BY STUDENTS

- AT LARGE __

SPORTS
- Campus Windsor __ Ontario __ Canada __ North American __ World __ How Often __ How Long

SPORTS EDITORIALS
- LIVE LANCER BROADCASTS

MUSIC REQUESTS AVAILABLE

- WHERE DO YOU WANT TO BE ABLE TO HEAR CJAM?

On a separate sheet, attached to this ad, you may write any additional suggestions or comments which you believe may be helpful to your station management.

---

CJAM YOUR STUDENT STATION WIN PRIZES!

You are not obligated to sign this questionnaire, however if you do fill in the coupon below you will be eligible for our draw for a prize package donated by several area merchants. Listen to CJAM for complete details of the prize package. Winners will be announced on CJAM the week of November 10 and in The Lance Classifieds on November 14, 1980.

NAME

ADDRESS

TELEPHONE

FACULTY
Cross-country meet in London

Runners headed to CIAU's Staudt have qualified for the championships in Guelph on Nov. 8, thanks to their performances in the OUAA/OWIAA women's 10 km. (6.2 mile) race in 35:18.

Both Paul Roberts and Linda Ricci also competed in the men's division in team scoring while Western captured the men's race.

The meet were very cold and rain fell through a ploughed field.

Roser joins team

Sports program big part of CJAM

by Mel Raskin

Now that the referendum is held, CJAM's Sports Department is busy planning for an exciting year of sports coverage. Last season, CJAM was the only campus station in Calgary to cover the Canadian University Basketball Finals, and bring back to the students at the University of Windsor live coverage of the Windsor Lancers' championship games. It is our intention to build on that success and make this an even better year for sports coverage.

The Windsor Lancers' basketball team will continue to get the all-star billing it deserves. Former station manager Dean Zurkan is back again to do the play-by-play. He'll be joined by myself and former Lancer statistician Jim Roser. Having Roser on the broadcast team as analyst is a real plus; his knowledge of the game, plus his affinity with the team will enhance our broadcast coverage of the Lancers.

CJAM will open its coverage of the basketball team with a special broadcast on Monday Nov. 10 at 5:30, when the Lancers travel to Wayne State to take on the Wayne State Tartans.

The Lancers' hockey team under new coach Bob Corran looks promising. CJAM will be covering all the home games of the Lancers both from Adie Knox Arena, and the Windsor Arena. CJAM's broadcast team will be composed of promising newcomers, Danny Osman, Dennis Patock, and Michael Herrington. Kevin O'Brien, who handled play-by-play last year, and Professor Brian Maxer from the Faculty of Law, (who was involved in university radio as a student), will also be doing a few game broadcasts.

First broadcast is Saturday, Nov. 1, at 8:15 when the Lancers meet the Queen's Golden Gaels and Sunday at 3:15, again with the Gaels.

The Sports Department also features a half-hour talk show on Fridays at 11 A.M. known as "Talking Sports". Here, items that don't get the usual round of publicity are featured. Dan Alice has been featuring the football team, and other shows have ranged from an interview with Dennis Corello, a law student who is also a master of the martial arts, to an in-depth profile of the state of women's athletics at our university.

This year, CJAM will have up-to-the-minute reports on the Windsor Lancers' road games. The team managers will be phoning in the game scores right after the games, and CJAM will immediately broadcast the results. You can get the results by phoning CJAM at 314-1494.

CJAM, in conjunction with the Faculty of Human Kinetics, will again be giving away 2 free tickets to every Lancer home game in both hockey and basketball.

In addition, we're finalizing plans for a pizza give-away. Every time a Lancer hockey player scores a hat trick, or a basketball player scores 18 points in a game, we'll make a draw, and give away one free pizza.

The Sports Department also projects that a few game broadcasts. First broadcast is Saturday, Nov. 1, at 8:15, and Sunday at 3:15, again with the Gaels.

CJAM will immediately broadcast the results. You can get the results by phoning CJAM at 314-1494.

Our sports broadcasts are not only done in a professional format, but, thanks to CBC Radio, we now boast the finest broadcasting equipment possible. We are excited and ready for an exciting season of sports projects.

Just one example of CJAM sports coverage. Mel Raskin (right) and Dean Zurkan broadcast live from the OUAA West basketball championships last year. Note Lancer cab reporter at top right.

All you have to do is give us your name and number on a card, and tell us on what show you heard of our give-away offer. We hope to start this program in the very near future. Listen to CJAM for details.

Our sports broadcasts are not only done in a professional format, but, thanks to CBC Radio, we now boast the finest broadcasting equipment possible. We are excited and ready for an exciting season of sports projects.

"The writer is the sports director at CJAM radio."
Lancers prove themselves in thrilling season finale

by Steve Rice

The Lancer football team could not make the playoffs even by winning the season’s final game against the Gryphons Saturday. That, in itself, is enough to take the fighting spirit out of any team.

To make matters worse, the weather at game time was near-freezing and the field was swathed with the rains of a gusty Fall storm.

Windsor could easily have taken the field and simply gone through the motions, hoping that somehow the rain would wash away bitter memories of a season long gone sour. No one would have blamed them.

But they chose not to do that, and with the ball at the 18-yard line, the Gryphons batted the ball out of the end zone, and the team was caught on their heels. The officials ruled that the Gryphons had forced out two yards penalty on the end zone.

The Gryphons had forced out the ball from the 18-yard line. Coach Fracas went on to explain that the Gryphons had forced out the ball from the 18-yard line.
Task force to examine increase in foreign students

by Wendy Coomber

Foreign student enrollment has increased to 1,220 this year at the University of Windsor, according to George McMahon, Assistant Vice-President of Student Affairs. Such enrollment has increased from 15 percent (last year) to 18 percent (this year) of the total university population. McMahon did not know the reason for this increase but said that President Franklin has established a task force to look into the matter which should have some results by the end of the semester.

The Canadian Council of Universities, in results released September 15, found that university enrollment had gone up all over Ontario. That, said McMahon, was partially due to foreign student enrollment.

In Alberta, the foreign student population is holding steady although the University of Lethbridge has reported a drop. Officials there attribute this to the differential tuition fees, immigration laws, and the fact that foreign governments are encouraging their students to study in their own countries.

McMahon does not feel this is the case in Ontario. Last year, he said, there were 2,100 visa students in Ontario. This year the figure has risen to 3,000. There are six schools in Toronto alone, according to him, that concentrate solely on visa students completing their Grade 13 before they can enter a university.

McMahon cited the large number of learning opportunities available in Canada and the small number in their own countries which produce more students than they can efficiently handle as a possible explanation of the increase.

Our largest population of foreign students comes from Hong Kong and Malaysia, said the Assistant Vice-President.
Lance "Unclassified" ads can be submitted at the Lance Office on the second floor of the University Center during business hours, or in the Lance Letter Locker at the Centre Desk. The deadline for submissions is Tuesday of the week of publication at noon. All submissions must include the person's name, student number, and classified ad number. Unless otherwise instructed, a classified ad will run for a period of three weeks. All ads should be limited to six lines if possible. Lance Box numbers are available upon request for cross-referencing. Box numbers are available for the cost of $3.00 for three weeks. Contact the Lance office for details. There is no charge for student classified ads and those of a non-commercial nature.

CONFESSIONS: On request at any time. Call Bruce at 254-5504. Spares are available for the cost of $1.00.

ATTENTION CURLERS: Curling has started! The intramural curling season will begin on November 7th and 14th, 1980. Information will be given in the newsletter and at the general meeting. For further information, please contact Carolyn at 966-3964.

ROSS - Packaging, 627 University Ave. (in front of the H.K. Should be a good gathering. Presently, we need a new Communications Editor. If you have an idea for a story or feature, please call Carolyn at 966-3964.

THE FALL GENERAL MEETING of the Highway Cross Country Ski Club will be held Friday, November 21st at 8:00 p.m. in the University Library, Main Branch, 850 Ouellette Avenue. This meeting is open to the public. Club members are advised to attend. This will be the last general meeting of the year. All members are advised to attend.

ATTENTION CURLERS: Curling has started! The intramural curling season will begin on November 7th and 14th, 1980. Information will be given in the newsletter and at the general meeting. For further information, please contact Carolyn at 966-3964.
Discussing death, taxes, and now aging is rude

by Wendy Coomber

Dr. Ann Henderson Diemer brought "age" out of the closet and into the dining room as she spoke about "Some Implications of the Changing Mix of Young and Old in our Society", as the second lecture in Assumption University's Lanebook Series. "Who in the world wants to talk about growing old," she began. She placed growing old into the same category as death and taxes, subjects to avoid in conversation, and yet unavoidable in life.

The matter is societal, she stated, society is growing old. Medical advancements and the use of contraceptives to prevent child-bearing have increased the chances of more women and children living longer than their counterparts of the past.

Today, Canadian statistics show that by the year 2001 one in ten residents of Canada will be over 65. This age bracket in Ontario alone will take up 12 percent of the population.

Most of these new senior citizens, however, will likely be women. Of men, the doctor said, "They are, contrary to popular opinion, the weaker sex", because male children are more likely to die in childhood, and women generally outlive men by four or five years. With the rising numbers of senior citizens also comes the problem of government support for those who cannot support themselves. "We have invented retirement and governmental plans," Dr. Diemer, but what have we done for the recipients themselves?

In the past old age was revered because of its rarity and of the usefulness of that person, she said. The elders judged disciples and were seen at a storehouse of great knowledge. She cited the invention of the printing press as lessening their importance as an informative source, but still, their longevity and experience were appreciated.

Growing old is made to seem now as if they have lost all usefulness. Women are no longer sexually attractive and men are no longer an active part of the work force. "Bringing home money to support his dependents. "We share a devastating emphasis on youth (with the United States)", she stated, and when the sex roles are outgrown people are made to seem irrelevant and useless.

Dr. Diemer finds the government assistance plans for the elderly beneficial in the circumstance in which the senior citizen finds himself cut off by physical boundaries by close relations who could financially support him. It also helps the person remain independent of his relatives, while the relatives do not have to feel that they must support a relative who is not bringing in money of his own.

Dr. Diemer concluded that living to a greater age is now just another fact of our society and we should be grateful for it. There is nothing wrong with growing older, nothing that a change of societal attitudes wouldn't remedy. And so it is up to us, she said, to do this, to upgrade the quality of life after retirement.

Open House: it's show-time

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the University's English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

The matter is societal, she stated, society is growing old. Medical advancements and the use of contraceptives to prevent child-bearing have increased the chances of more women and children living longer than their counterparts of the past.

Today, Canadian statistics show that by the year 2001 one in ten residents of Canada will be over 65. This age bracket in Ontario alone will take up 12 percent of the population.

Most of these new senior citizens, however, will likely be women. Of men, the doctor said, "They are, contrary to popular opinion, the weaker sex", because male children are more likely to die in childhood, and women generally outlive men by four or five years. With the rising numbers of senior citizens also comes the problem of government support for those who cannot support themselves. "We have invented retirement and governmental plans," Dr. Diemer, but what have we done for the recipients themselves?

In the past old age was revered because of its rarity and of the usefulness of that person, she said. The elders judged disciples and were seen at a storehouse of great knowledge. She cited the invention of the printing press as lessening their importance as an informative source, but still, their longevity and experience were appreciated.

Growing old is made to seem now as if they have lost all usefulness. Women are no longer sexually attractive and men are no longer an active part of the work force. "Bringing home money to support his dependents. "We share a devastating emphasis on youth (with the United States)", she stated, and when the sex roles are outgrown people are made to seem irrelevant and useless.

Dr. Diemer finds the government assistance plans for the elderly beneficial in the circumstance in which the senior citizen finds himself cut off by physical boundaries by close relations who could financially support him. It also helps the person remain independent of his relatives, while the relatives do not have to feel that they must support a relative who is not bringing in money of his own.

Dr. Diemer concluded that living to a greater age is now just another fact of our society and we should be grateful for it. There is nothing wrong with growing older, nothing that a change of societal attitudes wouldn't remedy. And so it is up to us, she said, to do this, to upgrade the quality of life after retirement.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.

Publishing poetry poop

by Wendy Coomber

The scene resembled the boisterous marketplace of old Athens, or the side show in a Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth".

A panel of four poets, who had happened to be women, tiptoed off ten or 12 of their own poems Sunday afternoon in the University Centre's new speaker's pit.

The poets, Dianne Berkely, a teacher at St. Clair College; Kathryn MacDonald, a secretary in the English department, Eva Ingratta, the panel's convenor, found the noise out of the speaker's pit unnecessary because valid points being made by the speakers were missed on parts of the audience who couldn't hear them. However, she said, the English department hopes to make a panel such as this one a yearly event for Open House.
Let's not have custard's last slam here, please

She is not a popular woman and she knows it. But Dr. Bette Stephenson, Ontario's Minister of Colleges and Universities, works at her job with a rare dedication. She may have one of the worst posts in the provincial cabinet, and from the fact that she is regularly making decisions which financially affect (often adversely) the operation of the majestic realm of post-secondary school education, she also regularly has those decisions reviewed and very angrily criticized by institutions' administrators and students.

It is a job which very few people would want to hold for very long, if at all, yet Dr. Stephenson has been the minister since Harpur left the post in 1978. And she isn't being kept around because she looks like Catherine Deneuve.

This is not to say students attending next Thursday's SAC-organized question-and-answer period with the minister should willy nilly compli­ment her on her tenacious hold on power or her fourteen-hour workdays.

It is to say that this is a powerful politician coming to campus, one who has made some serious policy decisions according to governmental and educational critics. Aside from that, she is a very able politician who has refined "double-talk" and "hedging" on her answers to a fine art.

A lot of tough, point-blank questions should be asked of this woman next Thursday, but they should be asked in civil tone (perhaps angry, but showing her some respect).

A year ago, at the University of Waterloo, Dr. Stephenson received a custard pie in the face during a similar give-and-take session. A students' council member from that university was at last week's SAC meeting and said that immature action blurred the discussion.

After the incident, said the Waterloo representative, even the students who were not involved in the pie delivery were reticent to ask further questions though the minister was still willing to answer the easy ones. Her aim seemed to make valuable points was lost, then, because of the childish behaviour of a handful of people who still haven't learned enough intelligence to put their complaints into rational and effective questions.

We trust this scene will not re-occur here, especially when we think about the questions which must be asked of Dr. Stephenson.

"Like "Why were 1,700 students in this province forced to pay back OSAP loans this summer because of a government computer error?"

More to the point, why is the govern­ment hiring computer programming companies without making the companies liable for such errors?"

"... Some people have advised your ministry to shut down some universities in order to alleviate some of the financial strain (?)."

Would this not be a radical reversal of Conservative policy and would it not seriously impair the ability of students to attend schools in their immediate regions?"

"And "The Alberta government is consider­ ing the hiring full time for the Con­sumer Price Index. Is the Ontario government considering the same thing, and if so, that would not be unfair since OSAP giving alone is so ridiculously low when compared to the same index?" (See page 5.)

There are a few of the questions that should be flying through the air towards Dr. Stephenson next Thursday.

Instead of pies.

SAC's off-the-record comments could be the solution

What is happening in the Students' Administrative Council's executive? Does the campus really know? Do members of the executive really know?

The answer to the first question is "Something very dangerous," to the second "Probably not," and to the third "Obvi­ously not."

The information this newspaper has recovered from the executive it is two types, "on" and "off" the record.

The latter type consists of casual, dejected, and peremptory comments about the situation, while the former constitutes the overly optimistic "We'll work it out" statements.

"We're working on it," "We'll be over it," "When the dust clears." "Overly optimistic" when one views them in relation to the content and tone of the "off the record" discussions.

While we cannot discuss that content, it is perhaps safer to say the tone has led the staff of this newspaper to believe the SAC executive may not be serving the students of this campus as effectively as it could. The executive members deny that, but it remains our opinion.

The communication breakdowns and petty suspicions involved in the relationship between SAC President David Simmons and some members of his cabinet are thinly veiled, and, apparently, not being quickly or easily solved by internal meetings. Furthermore, it is possible that method is going to prove entirely fruitless.

As the situation stands now, several members of the exec­utive are unhappy in their working relationship with Simmons and Simms, in turn, is classified with their per­formance and seems distrustful of them. People involved in a team effort such as the SAC executive must work most efficiently when they like each other—or, at least, respect each other's capabilities and areas of responsibilities. Such respect does not exist presently within the SAC executive.

At last Thursday's SAC (full council) meeting, Simmons, commenting on this newspaper's recent presentation of the exec­utive situation, "The best way to get five people [the executive] is you've never known each other to work together perfectly." Granted, but no one is expecting perfection; only the occasional and dedicated work the executive is capable of without this mind and spirit-sapping squabbling.

Does the executive really know the severity of the problem plaguing it? Apparently it does not because little has been done to alleviate it so far.

Perhaps it would be a good idea for the members to sit down and tell each other the things which have irritated them individually (that is, all the things they have been telling reporters on this paper "off the record"). It might be a normal and productive meeting, but even that's better than an inefficient, grumbling work relationship.

Whatever happens, the sit­uation must be resolved very quickly, by whatever means necessary. Almost half the scholastic and governmental year is over and the students of this campus should not have to endure more into 1981.

Or December of 1980. —by E.P. Chant Council and The Lance co-oriented poorly

Dear Editor,

There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that the present problem which confronts the University of Windsor Students' Administrative Council is largely a problem of co-orientation. It is a problem which has cut across the opinions of some segments of the student population, as well as The Lance. Co-orientation specifically refers to an adjustment in the positions of persons involved in a task or conflict in which all who are concerned understand the demands of the task or the real causes of the conflict. If The Lance and SAC were properly co-oriented, there would not have been this misperception among both groups as to the actual cause of the problems confronting SAC. Similarly, if SAC's president was co-oriented with the rest of his team in matters relating to the broad goals of the SAC, the conflict or the misperception should not have emerged in the first place.

The last rebuff from SAC's president which appeared in the last issue of The Lance confirms my contention that the president has been misunderstood by some members of the student population and the respected people of The Lance. Furthermore, another example will reveal the extent of the misunderstanding on the part of The Lance and SAC. A close examination of the statements made by cabinet members does not reveal any歪曲的misrepresentation of reality. SAC's present problem, as was pointed last week by reporters Debbie Staley, is not unique. There is a reason to suggest that it is a normal occurrence among similar ambitious student governments both in Canada, the United States and other countries of the developing world. Simons seems to have a solid grasp of the goals for his cabinet. However, he does not appear to know whether those goals are feasible and workable, given the constraints on the team. On the other hand, it is apparent that the cabinet does not understand just what those goals are. This is where the lack of co-orientation seems to be most pronounced.

The Lance is not responsible for this lack of co-orientation except that it has not done too much to de-emphasize the conflict. There is not much evidence for the alleged personality clash as was bandied about by The Lance.

I would also like to express my appreciation to CLAM for its music and coverage of the clinic and to The Lance for its aid in advertising.

Sincerely,

Emmanuel Okoro

Communication Studies

OSAP insufficient

by Johnson Cheung of The Chevron

Increased costs of living continue to erode the recent increase in the OSAP living allowance and are also weighing away at students' summer earnings.

The cost of living rose by 0.9 percent in August with the result that the consumer price index reached 107.7 compared to 106.8 a year ago.

Pannell said to the Board of Directors last week that he didn't want The Lance to go to Switzerland last month, but the consumer price index increased by 0.7 percent for all items and 8.3 percent for food.

Amidst constant rumblings of budget implications, the government of New Brunswick in Fredericton, the council's vice-president, Chris Kurland, received a sign when he was discovered he was a part-time student, rates of 14.1 percent. At the time of his appointment, he already had held such positions according to that council's constitution.

Pannell remains in office until the end of his term in a four-year election. Now this compensation.

In the other case, a students' council president actually had to resign.

Amidst constant rumblings of budget implications, the government of New Brunswick in Fredericton, the council's vice-president, Chris Kurland, received a sign when he was discovered he was a part-time student, rates of 14.1 percent. At the time of his appointment, he already had held such positions according to that council's constitution.

Motions have been also discussed at that school's council to impeach the president and treasurer over some financial and wage issues.

The cost of living has increased by 21.8 percent for all items and 8.3 percent for food.

It seems that wild, disgruntled students' councils are fast becoming passé, if not a national phenomenon.
Unfriendly amendment will make grads pay

by E.P. Chant

People were elected to fill vacancies on various boards, one major motion was amended drastically and passed, and a great deal of amendments was tabled for the future at the Students' Administrative Coun-el (SAC) meeting on Thursday, October 30.

The motion that was drastically amended was written by SAC members David Tsui and Cecilla Deck. It sought to allow graduate students to sit on the executive of SAC-certified campus clubs.

Presently, only undergrads are allowed to hold such positions since graduate student pay fees to the campus' graduate society, not to SAC which represent only undergrads (as far as financial support of clubs goes).

In the early debate on the motion, SAC President David Simmons said graduate students have been asked to financially support clubs in the past, but had refused to do so.

After an unsuccessful attempt to table the motion for examination by Jim Shaban, SAC Vice-President of Administration, an "unfriendly" amendment was made to it (that is, an amendment not approved by the original motion-makers, Tsui and Miss Deck).

The amended motion, which passed and will come into effect in the 1981-82 scholastic year, will require all graduate students sitting on the executive of a SAC-certified club to pay SAC student fees ($32.50 per year).

The three-hour meeting also saw three council members elect to the SAC Board of Directors: Eric Dixon, Werner Keller, and Andy Sanfilippo. These people were also acclaimed to the council's Clubs and Special Events Committees. Carlo Borrelli from the Marketing Club and council members Eric Dixon and David Tsui.

Later in the meeting, President Simmons expressed anger that committees that had been set up last month had not met yet. Shaban explained this, noting that only the Cost-of-Living Committee (which examines proposed executive wage increases) was supposed to have met by this time, but it had not because it was not known whether the executive would be working this year.

Several campus clubs also were ratified at the meeting. One for Arab students at the university, one for Lebanese students, a chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, and the Windsor Inshaaati Students Organization.

The recently reterendum-ated SAC students' fee increase was also discussed, with Simmons saying the results would be brought before the university's Board of Governors for approval at that body's next meeting on November 18.

Brad Mitchell, SAC Vice-

President of Finance, said the additional monies provided for by the successful referendum (five dollars per student per semester) would likely be able to be spent before early January.

Simmons also said he was examining, through the university Senate Student Services Commission, the possibility of SAC gaining control of the "games room" in the basement of the University Centre. An arrangement is being looked into, he said, whereby all the money coming out of the use of the room would go into the Centre and "student activities." Presently, all the money goes into a general fund of the university's administration.

Aside from the usual cabinet members' reports, that was the meeting. Tabled for further examination and discussion was a shortage of time caused by the length of the meeting. The morning a presidential report on the current Ontario Federation of Students / National Union of Students Association of Students' Councils amalgamation proposal, a motion which would have SAC sponsor a foreign student involved in the World University Service program (passed in principle but sent to the SAC executive for further study, specifically financial), a motion to hire Touche Ross and Co. as this year's SAC auditor, two motions dealing with university Senate committees; and a motion which urged the SAC executive to "enrage whatever difficulties there may be among them at the nearest possible date."

The next SAC meeting is scheduled for the near future.

A Lance apology

In a unique and unfortunate incident, double confirmation of a story in the October 17 issue of The Lance proved to be insufficient for guaranteeing accuracy.

In the story in question ("Campus student gay club ratified. Simmons objects") on page 7, SAC President David Simmons was quoted as saying "If we have a gay student club we might as well have a Sadists' and Masochists' Club" at the October 9 SAC meeting. Though Simmons did oppose the SAC ratification of the campus gay and lesbian students' club, he did not utter the statement in question.

The Lance was not able to send a reporter to the meeting in question because of some scheduling problems, so the paper covered it via second-hand reports by people who were there. More than one source confirmed Simmons as the person who made the statement, but apparently those people were mistaken. SAC did not have a recording secretary at the meeting, so that avenue of checking was not open.

If we have a gay student club we might as well have a Sadists' and Masochists' Club."

Editor

Editors

Alumni seeks rich 'lost'

The campus Alumni Office will begin searching for "lost" Windsor graduates next week by means of a phone-in scheme.

Next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday (November 13-15) nights, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., volunteers will be manning 15 phones set up in the art gallery area of the University Centre trying to track down past attendants of the university who are still living in this city.

Aside from up-dating its records, such calls may also result in a phone-a-thon to raise funds for the annual alumni fund-drive.

There will be an "Alumni Hot-line" set up to take incoming calls from Windsor residents who think they are "lost" alumni. The number for that line is 253-3400.

Any students who wish to work as volunteers on the phones or do grad research should contact Mark Fracas at the Alumni Office in the West Library building.
Planning your career... It's never too early to begin

Career planning. It's something few students think about seriously until their final years at university. And even then many students are not sure about what direction they want to take in terms of a career. During the past five years the availability of jobs for most university graduates has sharply declined. Now, more than ever, it is generally felt that students need to seriously plan for future careers earlier in order to compete effectively in the job market upon graduation.

Traditionally, the best place to gather information on possible career opportunities is the Student Placement Office, located on the ground floor of Dillon Hall. The Placement Office can help students in preparing an effective resume, locating prospective employers and, more importantly, advise students on how to get the maximum return from their degree by pointing out possible career opportunities of which the student might not be even aware.

As well as the Campus Placement Office, The Office of Student Affairs operates the Writing Development Centre in Vanier Hall. Here students can pick up valuable advice on preparing an effective resume and covering letter.

Another important source of information can be tapped by talking to people involved in the field you may be interested in working. Valuable insight can be gained from potential employers on how best to plan your university career, how to get started in that particular field of work, what the demands and requirements of the job will be and, more importantly, what the job outlook is in that particular field.

The important thing in a planning one's career is to gain sufficient information about the various opportunities available so that you can make informed choices. To do this, it is important to start early and make full use of the resources available.

INSIDE

A guide to resume writing

Coping with the interview

Clothing up your corporate image

Women at Work

Traditional barriers giving way slowly

by Debbie Staley

The transition to the 20th century can clearly be marked by the replacement of the feather duster by a shining ball point pen. Perhaps this act does not seem drastic, but it is when one considers that today a woman holds that pen. This change in tools has become representative of women's successful entry into the career world.

Though women in previous eras have had professions, there is a clear difference in their methods of achieving the resulting career. Whereas the women of yesterday have been labelled as heroic or rebellious, today's working women have become common. Florence Nightengale has long since been replaced by a throng of equally determined females.

Unlike previous eras, women of today are oriented toward career goals through education and consequently expect achievement of these goals. Perhaps this is the focal point of the situation.

Many people feel women are extremely successful in their careers and can see no reason to continue research on the subject. However, though women are becoming increasingly successful in their careers, there are numerous problems which must women face while climbing up the business ladder.

The problems associated with women's careers are like underwater currents, they lurk beneath the surface until they spring up when one least expects it. Usually company executives will deny the presence of sex discrimination by focussing on the few women who "made it" to the top. But the real interest lies in those women who did not, and the reasons behind their failure.

The first obstacle facing the career woman is initial discrimination. This type of discrimination comes from both men and women. When a male superior judges a women's ability, he takes into account all of his past experiences, values and ideas. Since these are reflections of society, and society categories (or did) women with the home, then the male superior also assumes this position.

The traditional problems are probably the most difficult to solve because they have been indoctrinated since childhood. Children are subjected to defined sex roles and occupations as early as elementary school; Textbooks designate sales and clerical occupations to women while authoritarian positions are given to males.

Similarly, previous ages regarded women as empty-headed secretaries who kept the boss busy. Often an intelligent woman's only means of advancement was by putting up with her boss' sexual advances. Though this type of conduct has not been eliminated, it has been drastically reduced.

According to Statistics Canada, however, women are still given low status and low paying jobs with minimal opportunity for advancement. Similarly, more than three-quarters of all female professionals are nurses or teachers. Less than 4 percent of women are in managerial positions as compared with 13 percent for men. Consequently women are almost entirely absent from the decisions making levels of business. Surprisingly enough, these figures are a significant improvement over earlier studies. Traditional barriers to the employment of women in male-dominated jobs are breaking down.

Where there is a woman superior, there is generally a feeling of competitiveness. The female boss rejects a subordinate's opportunity for promotion because she views the female as a threat to her present position. Few women will admit to this trait, but various studies have shown that rivalry exists among female co-workers, especially in areas of advancement.

Another problem associated with initial discrimination is based on a biological factor which results in maternity leave.

Often a male interviewer will assume that a married professional woman will become pregnant, thereby leaving him with a series of complications. The interviewer will rationalize the complications, and reach a conclusion which rejects many professional women.

First, he recognizes that the woman's position is important to the company and that it would be difficult to find a temporary replacement. Second, the woman receives payment for this period, which many single men feel to be unjust.

In 1971, the Canadian Labour Code was amended, guaranteeing, to any woman with 12 months service, maternity leave without loss of job or seniority.

At the same time, the amendment stated that differences in wages between male and female employees performing similar work under similar conditions would be prohibited when based on sex factors. Thus, as a rule, women should receive equal pay, but studies show that they do not.

The reason for the pay imbalance is directly related to the jobs which most women perform. Though the few women at the top will receive excellent and equal pay, those immediately under her will not. Since subordinate positions are most often occupied by women, employers pay them lower than if these positions were occupied by a 50 percent male and 50 percent female staff. However, with the changing education system and the increased number of women in non-traditional roles, the problem is reduced.

Planned Parenthood... It's never too early to begin
It is difficult to conceive of anything the average graduate could ever write that would be any more important than the resume and accompanying letter of application. When you write these you are playing for high stakes, a job. If they are well done, you will probably be invited to interview for a job; if they are badly done, you keep looking further.

WHAT A RESUME IS

A resume is a clear, coherent presentation of your credentials. Although it appears to be straightforward, the resume is not the totally objective document that such a definition implies. In other words, resumes appear to be photographic, but are actually more impressionistic that we think. The resume is photographic in the sense that it is a basic summary of your educational and occupational background, but it is also impressionistic in that it emphasizes the positive side of your character and accomplishments.

Another misconception about resumes is that they must be individualized for each prospective employer to whom you are sent. This is usually unnecessary because you can individualize the accompanying letter of application. If you are applying to several similar organizations for similar positions, you can use copies of the same resume. Many people, in fact, use the same basic resume over and over, merely updating it by adding entries about new accomplishments and making the necessary changes. For this reason, you should invest a great deal of time putting together a resume and making it as effective and flexible as you can. As a result, you will be able to use it in a variety of employment situations.

WHAT GOES INTO THE RESUME

If you were to read thirty books on the subject, you would find significant differences in what each recommends to include in the resume. In this article we will look at the ingredients that most authorities suggest. Some of the components are required, some are recommended for your discretion, and some are not recommended. Consider them all and make your own decisions based on your own circumstances.

PERSONAL DATA

There are two reasons for including personal data. First, many employers feel that personal data helps them visualize the candidate as a person. Second, if someone is going to dislike you because of your personal qualities, he can learn about them in an interview or background check anyway. By including your personal qualities in a resume, you can save yourself trouble later.

If you do decide to include personal data you can choose from among the following entries:

- Religious preference
- Military status
- Marital status
- Number of children
- Hobbies

POSITIONS APPLIED FOR

Our suggestion is to state clearly in your accompanying letter of application exactly what position you have in mind, but do not mention it in your resume. However, you should include the section in the resume when you think that someone might misinterpret your intentions. If you were changing professions or if you had substantial experience in two different fields, a job description specifying which field you were interested in now would be helpful.

EDUCATION

This section might be your most important one. If you have little job experience directly relevant to the position for which you are applying, chances are good that your educational preparation is your strongest credential. Be sure to take full advantage of it.

How to survive the interview

Generally, interviews are pretty intimidating experiences: a one-on-one encounter with someone you have never met before, who in approximately 45 minutes has to get to know as much about you as possible.

The best way to survive the interview is to prepare for the meeting and what to expect during the interview.

One of the important things in preparing for the interview is determining as best as possible your goals for the future. Unless you have some idea as to your future ambitions, you will have a difficult time convincing the employer you can relate your skills to his needs.

It is also a good thing to have some knowledge of the company to which you are applying. This will help you to create a favorable impression with the interviewer as well as help you determine how you might be able to fit in.

Because of the short period involved in an interview, it is often advised that you develop some sort of routine that will enable you to interchange information with the interviewer. You might want to practice the interview session with a friend playing the part of the interviewer.

A valuable thing to remember is to be honest and not to perform. During the interview you should strive to create a favorable impression with the interviewer. In business, first impressions count and, as a result, your poise, communication skills, and personality are judged accordingly.

Other things the interviewer might ask are what you expect from the company, what your interests are and what your summer jobs were, your hobbies and your extra-curricular activities. All of these questions enable the employer to determine what kind of person you are.
Name of company or organization
Address (city and state will usually be enough)
Supervisor (list the name of the one who would say the most positive things about you)
Job description (a title is sufficient; if it needs explaining, one sentence is enough)

PROFESSIONAL SKILLS

If you are applying for a position in a field in which you already have some relevant experience, this section will be your most important. The work experience section lists all or most of your previous jobs; your professional skills section focuses on the specific kinds of skills you have acquired within your field of specialization. You should organize and compose it carefully. Think back over your relevant experience, looking particularly for signs of accomplishment or far experience which others in similar jobs might not have had. If you are in data processing, for example, you can list the types of hardware and software you have used. Here are some general suggestions:

- Special techniques learned or used
- Supervisory positions handled
- Unusually rapid promotions
- Awards or other special recognition
- Types of positions held
- Special certification or on-the-job training (e.g., certified polygrapher, registered therapist)
- Experience working with any very well-known people in the field.

RELATED SKILLS

You need not include this section if you have little or no previous work experience in your profession. But if you have acquired specific job skills, this section is essential in creating a successful resume. This is an optional section that will be very helpful to some candidates but unnecessary for others. If you have skills or abilities that might be helpful but that do not fit into your educational section or professional skills section, list them here:

- Speaking foreign languages
- Having public speaking experience
- Being experienced in one of the martial arts
- Having computer training (for jobs in other fields)
- Having typing or other stenographical skills
- Having computer training (for jobs in other fields)
- Holding a Red Cross lifesaving card.

COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

This is another optional section that may be quite helpful or totally irrelevant. Many positions call for a great deal of direct contact with the public, while others require you to know influential people in the community. Additionally, many employers like their employees to be involved in the community. So consider your background and the field you are going into. If you can come up with a few activities that might be helpful, list them. Some typical activities are:

- Service clubs such as Rotary, Kiwanis
- Religious groups
- Boy Scouts, YMCA, etc.
- Charities
- Volunteer groups such as CANDY STRIPERS
- Citizens advisory groups

AVAILABILITY

Tell the prospective employer when you could begin work. Tell him how much notice prior to your termination date you must give your present employer. Some people also include their feelings about relocating. Typical statements are "I do not wish to relocate", "I am willing to relocate anywhere in Canada", "I am willing to relocate anywhere in the U.S."
Some hints on dressing up your image

Because first impressions are so important in the interview situation, proper attire can go a long way to help you create the proper image.

The old saying “clothes make a man” — or woman — is not too far from the mark. By dressing properly you can earn the respect of the interviewer and, more importantly, you can increase your own confidence and thus improve your performance. In building your “career wardrobe,” it is important to get as much value for your money as possible, so buy clothes that will give you reasonable wear and at the same time help to create a business-like image.

For a professional woman, clothes are particularly important since they influence the way the woman is perceived. Casual dress for business usually results in a lack of respect, and in the case of many women, a lack of authority. According to several authorities, the following dress suggestions will help women appear efficient, business-like but natural.

- Wear dark, neutral colours
- Team outfits with a well-cut blazer (preferably a quality material)
- Avoid excess jewellery or personal ornaments
- Avoid fads. Stick to traditional, conservative outfits.

These guidelines should never detract nor emphasize a feminine appearance. While it will keep office interaction on a business level, it will enable the professional woman’s individuality to surface. Common sense dressing can avoid conflict which may arise from co-workers perception of the business woman.

For men, many of the same standards concerning a traditional appearance apply. As always, the standard impecable look will continue to be the three-piece Ivy League suit. But there are variations for the new recruit.

A survey of several men’s clothing retailers in the city indicated the preferred colours for suits for that business image are the dark blues and browns. The cost for a new suit will start at around $200. As well as the basic three piece suit, a classic blazer and a pair of co-ordinated pants would make an excellent foundation for the young executive’s wardrobe.

Aside from being well dressed for the interview it is also essential that you are well groomed and neat in appearance. You might have a three-hundred dollar outfit on, but if your hair isn’t presentable you will not get across the proper image.

The essential points to remember in dressing for success are to be comfortable in what you wear, not to be too flashy or trendy, and to allow your clothes to assist you in presenting a positive image.

Writing your resume

Continued from Page 9

REFERENCES

Again, authorities opinion differs sharply. Some people do not even mention references on their resumes. Others state that references are available upon request. Our advice is to include them. It is true that many employers do not take references seriously and that even the weakest job candidate can usually come up with favourable references. But some employers do take references very seriously, and others insist on having them as a matter of protocol. While the only real damage done by including them is to lengthen the resume, not including them might be far more serious.

Be certain to ask permission before using anyone’s name. If a person is reluctant to agree, try someone else. Make sure that the people listed will give you strongly positive recommendations. In listing their names include the following information:

Name
Job Title
Business Address

PUTTING IT TOGETHER

When you have gathered all of your information and have decided what to include, your next step is to work up a draft. Begin by deciding in what order you will arrange the sections. Although practice varies, there are some basic guidelines.

1. If you list a particular position, put it first. Everything else in the resume will be judged against it.
2. If you include a personal data section, either put it first (after the position desired if that is included) or near the end. Personal data is obvioulsy different from work and educational experience or professional skills, so keep it separate.
3. References (if you include them) and availability normally go last.
4. Here are two possible arrangements based upon these suggestions. Depending on your background, you should plan to include most of the categories below:

Personal data
Educational background
Work experience
Professional skills
Related skills
References
Availability

Position desired
Salary desired
Professional skills
Work experience
Educational background
Community activities
Personal data
References
Availability

Don’t delay

The information contained in this feature was gathered from several publications provided by the Student Placement office. Two particularly useful publications were the 1980—81 Career Planning Annual and Canadian Campus.

For more complete assistance in developing your resume the Writing Development Centre is probably the most complete resource on campus.* Its services are free and the Centre is located in the basement of Vanier Hall.
He's got a funny hat and tries very, very hard!

by Peter Haggart

"A fairly nice guy, but totally devoid of talent," I won't go that far, but such was the impression of more than one auditor, a member listening to Paul Sharpe's performance in SAC's pub this week.

The CINEMA CRITIC
ORDINARY PEOPLE

by Scott McCulloch

To make a film about the family problems of some ordinary people and keep it interesting without becoming sappy and sentimental is difficult, but director Robert Redford, screenwriter Alvin Sargent, and a skilled cast have made it look easy with Ordinary People.

This extremely moving film focuses on the relationships between a young high-school student named Conrad Jarret (Timothy Hutton) and his parents (Donald Sutherland and Mary Tyler Moore), all of whom give brilliant performances. Conrad has tried to commit suicide after a boating accident that claimed the life of his brother while leaving him alive. It's been six months now and he's back at school, but things still aren't right.

His father persuades him to start seeing a psychiatrist (Judd Hirsch). Hirsch's role is that of the stereotypical tough but wryly witty doctor, lawyer or what have you. He plays it so well that you can't help but love him. The scenes between Hirsch and Hutton had this reviewer on the edge of his seat, waiting for the answers to Hirsch's probing questions.

The rest of the film follows the Jarret family as its members come to learn things, some of them good and most of them painful, about themselves and each other. There's also a fledgling romance for Hutton, which manages to stay just this side of a too high saccharine level. If all this sounds boring, it's not. A thoughtful script and superb acting hold the interest all the way.

Sutherland is thoroughly believable as a loving father who is deeply concerned about his son. The man's versatility is amazing. Moore is perfect as a selfish mother who is more interested in having a good time and keeping up appearances than she is in her deeply troubled son, to whom she has never been able to relate. The two can talk on only the most banal level. She abruptly changes the subject whenever a conversation of any depth seems in the offing.

The scene between Moore and Hutton in which we see that the dead son Buck was her favourite, is a masterpiece of subtlety.

Unfortunately, where Englebert Humperdink could get away with singing his songs solo, Paul Sharpe and his $10,000,000 dollars worth of equipment can't.

He has a large repertoire of songs covering all facets of music, but the groups his performance is keyed on (Billy Joel, Jackson Browne) just can't be reproduced by any synthetic, organic process.

With a large repertoire, Paul Sharpe will attempt almost any request looking for participation.

With the impression of more than one audience member listening to Paul Sharpe's performance in SAC's pub this week.

He certainly isn't Captain Fantastic.

Ordinary People

RESURRECTION

by Rosensari Comino

Resurrection is a movie that deals with the phenomena of faith healing, but you don't have to be a believer to enjoy it...

Edna Mae MacAvery (Ellen Burstyn) is a believer. She has survived a fatal car crash that takes the life of her husband and renders her paralysed, decided to live out the rest of her life in a wheelchair. However, it is not until she returns to rural Kansas to live with her father (Robers Blossom) and grandmother (Eva La Gal­

438 OUELLETTE

Bond Clothes Shop

the best in young men's fashions
Records

ZON

I'm worried about the boys

by James Kennedy

When ZON released their "Astral Projection" album a couple of years ago, I was really impressed with this new Canadian band. With songs like "Put on the Show" and "Talkin' About," I thought this band had a good chance of becoming very big. The musicians are all very musical, and their musical abilities appeal to many listeners. It is probably no indication of being forgotten. The saxophone background and the vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

"Heart on my Sleeve" was a popular hit in about 1978. A lot quicker, with a brass background, this song was probably the best of collection. Soft spoken lyrics and harmony, backed by an electric piano and a subtle beat, make it one of the better easy listening songs to have come along. The vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

A "best of" collection is supposed to be a re-release or new recording of some fantastic songs by some fantastic group or artist. Well... the name Gallagher and Lyle hasn't exactly been imbeded in the minds of music lovers. Perhaps that is why this collection spans the artists' work of almost ten years. "Breakaway" is probably the most recognizable song on the album. It's mellow composition, featuring soft spoken lyrics and harmony, backed by an electric piano and a subtle beat, make it one of the better easy listening songs to have come along. The vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

All these songs are on the "Best of Gallagher and Lyle" album, which is a collection of songs from their "Astral Projection" album. The saxophone background and the vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

Tuesday, November 11

- The Art Gallery of Windsor will present Love on the Run. Film starts at 8:00 pm; admission is $2.00.

Wednesday, November 12

- The Chinese Students' Association will sponsor a "New Games Night" in the Math Building. Tickets are $2.00 for CSA members, and $3.00 for non-members.

Thursday, November 13

- Dr. Bertie Stephenson, Ontario Minister of Colleges and Universities, will be in the speakers pit in the University Centre.

Friday, November 14

- The Art Gallery of Windsor will present the National Lampoon movie Animal House. The doors to room 1120 of the Math Building open at 7:15 pm; the movie begins at 8:00 pm.

Saturday, November 15

- Club Sandwich presents Barde. This North American touring band features the music of traditional Scotland, Ireland and England. Definitely the best band to hit the club this year, Barde will not disappoint any true Celtic fan. To be held at the Moot Court; tickets are $5.50. Doors open at 7:00 pm; concert begins at 8:00 pm.

Monday, November 17

- Don't forget! Chic Erickson is back! This talented solo performer has recently sold out at the universities of Waterloo and Western Ontario. He's sure to sell out here too. Don't miss his Vanier Hall performance. Tickets are $3.00 and are on sale in the University Centre between 11:00 am and 1:00 pm.

Best of Gallagher and Lyle

by Peter Haggert

A "best of" collection is supposed to be a re-release or new recording of some fantastic songs by some fantastic group or artist. Well... the name Gallagher and Lyle hasn't exactly been imbeded in the minds of music lovers. Perhaps that is why this collection spans the artists' work of almost ten years. "Breakaway" is probably the most recognizable song on the album. It's mellow composition, featuring soft spoken lyrics and harmony, backed by an electric piano and a subtle beat, make it one of the better easy listening songs to have come along. The vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

I'm worried about the boys

by James Kennedy

When ZON released their "Astral Projection" album a couple of years ago, I was really impressed with this new Canadian band. With songs like "Put on the Show" and "Talkin' About," I thought this band had a good chance of becoming very big. The musicians are all very musical, and their musical abilities appeal to many listeners. It is probably no indication of being forgotten. The saxophone background and the vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

"Heart on my Sleeve" was a popular hit in about 1978. A lot quicker, with a brass background, this song was probably the best of collection. Soft spoken lyrics and harmony, backed by an electric piano and a subtle beat, make it one of the better easy listening songs to have come along. The vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.

All these songs are on the "Best of Gallagher and Lyle" album, which is a collection of songs from their "Astral Projection" album. The saxophone background and the vocals can be easily mistaken for those of Art Garfunkel.
Today, it seems so easy. A drink is as close as your neighborhood hotel, while home supplies of beer and liquor are just a jaunt to your local Brewer's. But sixty years ago, you may have had to acquire a permit to buy alcohol. The Canadian Association for the Advancement of Netherlandic Studies (CAANS) began its third annual fall seminar at the University of Windsor, November 6.

The seminar was held in Madame Vanier Lounge, Vanier Hall, University of Windsor. Friday's highlight will be a presentation of Dutch books to the public on Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m., "A Concert of Netherlandic Music", All Saints Church, Windsor. There will be no admission charge.

Gervais also includes anecdotes about the staunch prohibitionists of the time. "Rumrunning" became a risky sport for the daring and a stylized form of art for the imaginative. High-powered speed boats were used to dodge the efforts of federal officials bent on taxing export trade. Some adventurous dealers tried shipping liquor by way of a submarine tramway, a border-to-border underwater cable link. In winter the more ambitious rumrunners drove carloads of booze across the frozen channel to supply a thirsty American populace.

"Rumrunning" became a risky sport for the daring and a stylized form of art for the imaginative. High-powered speed boats were used to dodge the efforts of federal officials bent on taxing export trade. Some adventurous dealers tried shipping liquor by way of a submarine tramway, a border-to-border underwater cable link. In winter the more ambitious rumrunners drove carloads of booze across the frozen channel to supply a thirsty American populace.

The temper of the times is captured in vivid detail by photographs such as these, which show the realities of prohibition. Gervais also includes anecdotes about the staunch prohibitionists of the time. "Rumrunning" became a risky sport for the daring and a stylized form of art for the imaginative. High-powered speed boats were used to dodge the efforts of federal officials bent on taxing export trade. Some adventurous dealers tried shipping liquor by way of a submarine tramway, a border-to-border underwater cable link. In winter the more ambitious rumrunners drove carloads of booze across the frozen channel to supply a thirsty American populace.
Gaels blow out hockey team

by Lancer Sports Staff

The Lancer hockey team dropped their first two regular season games last weekend to the powerful Queen's Golden Gaels, by scores of 10-2 and 8-4. Despite the lopsided scores, coach Bob Corrao felt that the team had gained some valuable experience in facing the Gaels, who finished second in the league last year.

"They (Queen's) are one of the better teams in the country," Corrao said. "They were very strong last year and they only lost two fringe players this year.

"We went into the game with expectations of an upset and with the number of rookies we have, that just wasn't realistic. It was a case of going in with too much pressure and the team didn't play near their potential."

"Queen's got off the mark early in Saturday's 10-2 loss, tallying three times in the first period and adding another early in the second. The Lancers netted five goals in the game, with the team itself being a 5-1 end to the second period. But Corrao felt that matters were resolved by Sunday.

"After Sunday's game the teams were able to shake hands and leave with a great deal of respect for one another," said Corrao. "That's the kind of thing we want to develop in the game."

Corrao added that while the Gaels are an aggressive team, they are by no means chippy. Said he, "The players want to be known as a team that plays tough, clean hockey."

Queen's got another early start Sunday, opening up a 7-1 lead at the end of two periods. But Corrao was encouraged by the play in the final two sessions.

"We played poorly in the first period and again Queen's showed on every mistake we made. But from the second period on we were much looser and we played even with them. The team scored four goals which encourages me and it encourages the players."

The Gaels got third period goals from Martin, Easter, and Pat Byrne. Jim Weese got the lone period rally.

"Any team has weaknesses at the point and you have to take into account that these were our first league games," said Corrao.

"The Gaels are in Waterloo this weekend for games with Waterloo and Laurier."

Lancers bigger, better than ever

by Steve Rice

10-2 around all the superlatives you want. Few will only describe the 1980-81 version of Lancer basketball.

The team is brimming with talent, and missing all the key personnel from last year's OUAA West champions returning: Phil Grabowski, Mark Kmoch, Doug Austen, Brian Hogan, and Hunt Grabowski. They are Lancer rejects to team themselves.

"I think it's really good that we've drawn a lot of talent from Windsor," said the team's manager.

With the exception of Molyneux, Bushey, and Harris, all the Lancers have been with Windsor. Grabowski coached the Junior Varsity Crusaders and was assistant coach of the Lancers for 12 years before taking over the team this year. He is filling in for Paul Thomas, a brilliant practitioner of the game who was voted to the Canadian Basketball Hall of Fame earlier this year.

"I think with the combination of rookies and veterans, we're going to give Windsor fans, the University of Windsor and St. Denis Hall some good games," said Grabowski, who feels this year is especially important in that it marks the farewell tour of coach Paul Thomas.

"It's an exciting year," said Paul Thomas, "and it will prepare us for our season in the OUA."
The Big Macs finished an undefeated season with a 23-16 win over Electa to take the Contact Flag Football championship Wednesday.

The team, under captians Mike Stoddart, who emerged tied from the field of battle, beat a hairy path to the yar following the match to celebrate the victory.

Members of the squad are: Jeff, Randy Sweet, Mark Merritt, Ted Lowes, Bruce Bishop, Mike Wozny, Ron Pachulski, Tom Raker and Rich Bond.

The team plans to compete in an intramural tournament next week.

Ozones hit top

The Ozones captured the intramural men's flag football championship with a 2-1 win over the Tiger Rebels last Thursday.

When the two teams met earlier in the season, it was a close hard-fought battle that could have gone either way. This championship game was similar in every respect.

Superb defensive play by both clubs sent the game into extra innings, with the score knotted at one. But the Ozones finally broke the stalemate after several innings.

Tecumseh win

The women's flag football tournament was held Saturday, Tecumseh Hall, quarterbacked by Pat Tobin, went into the final undefeated and emerged the winner 18-13, but without a serious challenge from Ottawa Ross Laurier Hall.

Laurier started their attack with a touchdown off a kickoff return by Sue McPhail. But Tecumseh had earned the score at six by the half.

Tecumseh got scores from April Jakeda and Joan Armstrong in the second half but Laurier continued with great success, adding only one converted touchdown to produce the final score.

B-ball meeting

Captains meeting for intramural basketball in St. Denis Hall basement Monday, Nov. 11 at 5 p.m.

Volleyball finals

Champions will be crowned Wednesday night.

Five nights of competition will be held in the gym to determine the winner.

The finals in intramural basketball at St. Denis Hall basement Monday, Nov. 11 at 5 p.m.

The Lancerette tennis team No. 1 ranked Maureen Scarfone 6-3. She later dropped a 1-6, 6-2, 6-0 decision to McLean of Waterloo 0-6, 6-3. She allowed the team to win two of three matches.

The next match was played against eventual champions Central Michigan 11-6, 9-15. The match was lost 8-15, 15-9, 15-9.

The varsity lost three straight games 7-15, 9-15, 7-15.

The Lancerettes learning experience was a good one as they defeated the University of Ottawa, by a score of 66-40, in a six by the half.

They were led by Tracy McNamara. Artie Watkins at outside linebacker was also a top rebounder with 11 points, while Tracy McNamara pulled down eight. Good improvement since the beginning of the season. She was the defensive back.

All-stars named

The OUAA all-star selections were made Tuesday and players from the Western Mustangs dominated the list, filling nine of 27 spots on the first team.

Windsor Lancers had only one player on the first team, pitcher Scott Stimson who filled that position for the third straight year.

Four Windsor players gained second team status. They are Craig Mallender at running back and Artie Watkins at outside line backer, John Celentano at defensive tackle and Chris Owen at defensive back.

Craig Mallender was a first-team all-star last year. It was the third year in a row he appeared on the first team.

Brien optimistic about future

"We are still improving," said Brien optimistically. "We didn't make the same mistakes as in past games and as long as we improve every game, I'm happy."

Tonight the Lancerettes wrap up their season with a game against the "rookie week" Apple on the floor. They open league play Tuesday against Waterloo.

Intramural roundup

While the winners of the sixth annual Can-Am volleyball tournament hosted by the University of Windsor last weekend.

The Lancerettes finished third in the 16-team tournament. Although the team played fairly well, they were not consistent enough to overcome the hard-hitting Detroit team and lost three straight games 7-15, 9-15, 7-15.

This was a result of exhaustion as the team was playing their third and final game of the tournament in an intramural volleyball match played Tuesday, Nov. 11, with the top four of the five teams entered. The first-place team will meet the third-place team and the second-place team plays the fourth-place team.

B-Ball meeting

Captains meeting for intramural basketball in St. Denis Hall basement Monday, Nov. 11 at 5 p.m.

Volleyball finals

Champions will be crowned Wednesday night.

Five nights of competition will be held in the gym to determine the winner.

The Lancerette tennis team No. 1 ranked Maureen Scarfone 6-3. She later dropped a 1-6, 6-2, 6-0 decision to McLean of Waterloo 0-6, 6-3. She allowed the team to win two of three matches.

The next match was played against eventual champions Central Michigan 11-6, 9-15. The match was lost 8-15, 15-9, 15-9.

The varsity lost three straight games 7-15, 9-15, 7-15.

The Lancerettes learning experience was a good one as they defeated the University of Ottawa, by a score of 66-40, in a six by the half.

They were led by Tracy McNamara. Artie Watkins at outside linebacker was also a top rebounder with 11 points, while Tracy McNamara pulled down eight. Good improvement since the beginning of the season. She was the defensive back.

All-stars named

The OUAA all-star selections were made Tuesday and players from the Western Mustangs dominated the list, filling nine of 27 spots on the first team.

Windsor Lancers had only one player on the first team, pitcher Scott Stimson who filled that position for the third straight year.

Four Windsor players gained second team status. They are Craig Mallender at running back and Artie Watkins at outside line backer, John Celentano at defensive tackle and Chris Owen at defensive back.

Craig Mallender was a first-team all-star last year. It was the third year in a row he appeared on the first team.
Are you concerned about your education?

Do you have questions about:

- High tuition fees
- Insufficient government assistance
- Cutbacks (number of courses offered, number of profs hired, classroom facilities available, outdated lab facilities)

If you do, or if you want to see what's happening with education in Ontario, come to see

Dr. Bette Stephenson
Ontario Minister of Colleges & Universities

at the Speaker's Pit (University Centre)
Thursday, Nov. 13 at 11:00 am

For more information, please phone the Student's Administrative Council - 363-3423 or 363-4353, ext. 356, 436.
SAC tensions have gone far too far for John Rizopoulos

by Ed McMahon

Due to "distracting [sic] tendencies to make decisions" and an "inability to communicate with the other members of the Executive," Rizopoulos, External Affairs Commissioner for the University's Administrative Council (SAC) has decided to resign, effective November 11, 1980.

In a letter to SAC President, Simmons, Rizopoulos stated that he "requests" having to leave the "University of Windsor students with such undemocratic leadership," but that he would "continue to fight for the students' rights in a more democratic way."

Rizopoulos stated in an interview that he felt the tensions in the SAC office had gone beyond the point where reconciliation was possible.

Simmons, in an interview on Wednesday, said he had no comment as yet on Rizopoulos' resignation and that he has not made any decision as to who will fill Rizopoulos' shoes. Simmons did hint, however, that a statement from him as to the ramifications for SAC and as to a possible replacement may be forthcoming in the near future.

In a letter dated Saturday, November 11, 1980, Simmons had asked Rizopoulos for his resignation, but Rizopoulos had not yet opened Simmons' letter when he voluntarily handed his resignation in.

John Rizopoulos believes that you [Rizopoulos] are a very capable individual, [Simmons] have found it increasingly difficult to continue working with you in the SAC office. Simmons went on to say that Rizopoulos had "for reasons not apparent to me [Simmons], refused to carry out [Simmons'] instructions as he had requested." Simmons also criticized Rizopoulos for having an attitude which would not "make things any easier."

Simmons also said he did not believe anything Rizopoulos would have to contribute would help to solve the problems now existing in SAC.

He also apologized for having "to resort to such drastic measures to ensure that I assert my leadership" and "[he] indeed had a heavy heart that [he wrote the] letter."

In the interview, Simmons made it clear that he was not asking for Rizopoulos' resignation because of a lack of effort on the Commission's part, according to these, money was to be raised for the redecoration of the sixth floor in order to house the meetings of the Alumni Association.

However, Simmons felt the lounge should continue to be accessible to all students of the university. As a result, Simmons said he fought for (with the President and Board of Governors) and received such a guarantee. He then submitted the plans to council and these were approved and documented.

According to Gordon, after Simmons proposed the plans for the lounge, he ceased to contact representatives of Electa Hall or inform them of the SAC motion which would endorse them.

In response, Simmons said he attempted to get in touch with a representative from Electa Hall but was unable to do so. He also added that the representative failed to appear at the council meeting.

Simmons feels that Gordon is involved with the petition because of the Electa Hall issue or for personal reasons.

However, Gordon said the Electa Hall lounge is not the only issue. Simmons was absent during the SAC referendum, and he also stated that as representative for the national (NUS) and provincial (OPS) student conferences, which was the job of John Rizopoulos, the ex-commissioner of SAC, "members of the corporation may be removed from office in a referendum of the students of the University of Windsor called for that purpose and passed by a two-thirds of ballots validly cast in such referendum."

In an interview, Gordon stated the petition was issued as a direct result of Simmons' misrepresentation. According to Gordon, Simmons' had either been mining of or unreasonably promising with regard to many of his duties.

Gordon stated that Simmons questioned the SAC ratification of the Jewish students' club as well as other minorities. He added that this was ridiculous since Simmons himself is a member of a minority.

Gordon also said Simmons created difficulties for the Jewish club, but supported ratification of the Catholic campus club without question.

According to Gordon, Simmons' decisions often reflected his personal views, but were projected as being the views of the students. According to Gordon, this has destroyed the credibility of SAC and the school in general.

Gordon, a representative of the second floor of Electa Hall, stated that Simmons "sold out Electa Hall" with regard to the university administration's plans for the sixth floor lounge.

According to these, money was denied by this time next week, the SAC executive has been evading various problems within the council, but Stan Gordon, Co-Chairman of Windsor Jewish Students' Organization and a residence representative, has decided to take things into his own hands.

This week, Gordon started a petition to urge a referendum that would remove David Simmons from his position as SAC President. The document states that Simmons has acted in a manner which has been undemocratic and unfair, and thus "has failed to effectively represent the interests of undergraduate students of the University of Windsor."

However, before the petition can be declared valid, it must have a minimum of 100 signatures. Once these have been attained, the petition will be forwarded to SAC, and a referendum will be called.

According to the by-laws of SAC, "members of the corporation may be removed from office in a referendum of the students of the University of Windsor called for that purpose and passed by a two-thirds of ballots validly cast in such referendum."

In a letter to SAC President Franklin, who failed to understand the punchline.

Petition started to oust Simmons

by Debbie Staley

The battle-lines are now being drawn and they likely will be indecisive by this time next week.

On the one side, Students' Administrative Council (SAC) President David Simmons; on the other, a proposed campus impeachment referendum; and, in the middle of SAC, President Franklin, who was manning the phones, occasionally stopping to sharpen pencils for the writing down of Alumni pledges.

In this photograph, Chancellor Rosher has just told a joke to President Franklin, who failed to understand the punchline.

University Chancellor Richard Rosher (left) and Vice-Chancellor and President Dr. Merryn Franklin were in the University Centre Tuesday night to bleed the Alumni Phone-athon.

After throwing out the first phonebook, the gentlemen mingled with the boi poloi who were manning the phones, occasionally stopping to sharpen pencils for the writing down of Alumni pledges.

In this issue

Pre-written essays p. 4

The Mature Factor p. 8-9

Cliff and Joe p. 18

Pucksters p. 16

External Affairs. Whatever the motivations of the petitioners, they are now gathering signatures and, if they acquire the necessary 100 quick-ly enough, an impeachment referendum may have to be discussed at next Thursday's SAC meeting.
Mont. Ste. Anne, Qué.

Students for Travel! A Party Tour to Mont. Ste. Anne.

January 4 to 9, 1981 * 6 days • 5 nights

$203

CONTACT

Jane Pirlc

Whitlock Travel Service Ltd.

Located on Campus at the intersection

258-3802

Our prices don’t go up

Shop and compare

Christmas space still available

Ahhhh... Fort Lauderdale

(From Windsor)

KEY SAVIER CHARTER FLIGHTS

RETURN ROUND TRIP FARE PRICE

Dec. 19 to Jan. 26 $376 Dec. 23 to Jan. 26 $382
Jan. 1 to Jan. 8 $404 Jan. 4 to Jan. 10 $404
Jan. 29 to Feb. 19 $376 Feb. 1 to Feb. 14 $404
Feb. 16 to Feb. 23 $382 Feb. 26 to Mar. 5 $376
Mar. 2 to Mar. 10 $404 Mar. 12 to Mar. 20 $404
Mar. 22 to Mar. 30 $376 Mar. 24 to Apr. 1 $404
Apr. 4 to Apr. 12 $404 Apr. 13 to Apr. 21 $404
Apr. 24 to May 2 $376 May 4 to May 16 $404
May 18 to May 26 $382 May 28 to June 5 $376
June 7 to June 25 $404 June 27 to July 5 $404
July 7 to July 25 $376 July 27 to Aug. 12 $404
Aug. 14 to Aug. 25 $382 Aug. 27 to Sept. 9 $376
Sept. 11 to Sept. 25 $404 Sept. 27 to Oct. 11 $404
Oct. 12 to Oct. 25 $376 Oct. 27 to Nov. 10 $404
Nov. 12 to Nov. 30 $382 Nov. 30 to Jan. 7 $376
Jan. 9 to Jan. 17 $404 Jan. 19 to Jan. 26 $404

$169

$109

$99

$119

$79

$69

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129

$149

$99

$109

$129
Three easy steps on how to bring down a government

by E.P. Chant

Everything that you ever wanted to know about the impeachment, firing, and/or resignation of a SAC executive or council member is right in the council's constitution. First, going in the order that the constitution does, the SAC President, Vice-President-Administrator and any attempted impeachments, however, are not likely to take place at this upper level of the council, but at the general council one.

Second, as to the firing of a presidency-appointed commissioner: the president has the power to remove the Vice-President-Finance, Commissioners, and the Chief Electoral Officer subject to the right of such persons to appeal to the members for re-instatement by the whole council (by a two-thirds majority vote to re-instate the fired person). Council may also fire a commissioner by the same majority.

Such an appeal could be a very embarrassing thing for a president to go through, especially if the commissioner was re-instated.

No firings have taken place or been discussed by SAC President David Simmons during this week's developments in the SAC executive's situation. Third, when a council member or cabinet member resigns, as External Affairs Commissioner John Rizopoulos did this week, or is removed by impeachment, he/she has no right of appeal to be re-instated. The only avenue open to a person affected in such a way is, hypothetically, a civil court action against the council. Finally, and most important-ly as far as this week's developments go, are the regulations pertaining to impeachment. According to those, a member may be removed from council by a three-quarters majority vote against him at a council meeting or, in the case of the petition now floating around campus, by a two-thirds majority vote against him by the undergraduates voting in a campus referendum.

The latter, the campus-wide referendum, will likely be the course of action used in this instance... but more on this next week, and if, the petition gets the required number of signatures (500) to require a referendum.

Hey, you. Yeah, you. If you're a regular contributor to The Lance, get your bums up to the newspaper office today at noon for a very important meeting. Don't risk the consequences by missing it.

University programs overlapping

In a recent conference on the initial perspective. Program pro-liferation, when combined with financial restraint and enrolment decline, will lead to the spreading of resources too thinly and the dilution of strengths. In order to avoid these problems, some degree of cooperation at the undergraduate level is essential and some degree of co-ordination may be necessary.

That "coordination", advised the report, should come from the COU, the OCU, the universities themselves, and the ministry (financial support from the latter). The report also cited some of the program duplication it considers wasteful. Waterloo's Wilfrid Laurier University starting undergrad computer science programs when the University of Waterloo has one of the best programs in that subject in the country. That "coordination", advised the report, should come from the COU, the OCU, the universities themselves, and the ministry (financial support from the latter). The report also cited some of the program duplication it considers wasteful. Waterloo's Wilfrid Laurier University starting undergrad computer science programs when the University of Waterloo has one of the best programs in that subject in the country.

TORONTO'S YORK UNIVERSITY started a Religious Studies program when the University of Toronto is very strong in Religion anthropology. Perhaps too many business programs all over the province and many schools starting "coop" (work and study) coupled programs which are exactly the same as those at the University of Waterloo.

Concluding that some of the cited examples might constitute "an unnecessary degree of duplication", the report continued, presented some general solutions and recommendations. They were:

(1) Each university advise all others of their proposals for new undergraduate programs when they know of them.

(2) That COU and its Long-Range Planning Committee examine and advise the ministry and the universities on the changing needs of the system and an orderly program development.

University of Windsor President Merryn Franklin said Tuesday night the report had "a lot of dynamite in it", but he wanted to discuss it further with the university Senate before commencing further. That Senate meeting took place yesterday (Thursday) after The Lance had gone to press, so no details are available on it for this issue. Franklin suggested that Dr. Paul Cassano, Vice-President Academics might have some views on it, but he proved to be unavailable for comment on Wednesday.

On Tuesday, however, Dr. Franklin did make some mention of the things he would be discussing with Dr. Stephenson when she visited the campus yesterday (again, after The Lance went to press).

Specifically, said Dr. Frank­lin, Dr. Stephenson would be asked at Thursday's special Board of Governors meeting about the continued underfunding of Ontario universities. If that does not stop, he warned, many universities will go the way of four schools right now which are operating at a defi­cit.

He added that the provincial university presidents have sent a report with the complaint about understanding to Premier William Davis and that the re­port would be released to the public soon.

by E.P. Chant

Forty-two years after the most horrific example of the evil that is prejudice, the Windsor Jewish Students Organization reminded us of the ugliness of the Holocaust on Monday, November 16.

On that day in 1938, pre-World War II Nazi Germany started setting fire to its nation's synagogues. This action, and the numer­ous anti-Jewish laws that followed, culminated in Hitler's "Final Solution" to the "Jewish problem" - that solution being the murder of approximately six million Jews and, of course, a global conflict.

The poster/film/speaker display of the campus Jewish club in Amherst Avenue Lounge had attracted about 80 people by Monday afternoon at 3:00 p.m., according to club co-director Stan Szur (it was running until 6:00 p.m. that day).
The curtain rises on the bad drama's final act

Term papers are difficult to research and write at the best of times, but the frustrations and hassles that come with them can be avoided if you're prepared. A paper can be custom made to fit your needs; in other words, as long as students use them.

In recent months, advertisements for companies specializing in providing research papers have been appearing on campuses around Ontario. Last month in Toronto, flyers were handed out into The Varsity advertising a research firm called Essay Services. Essay Services provides research papers for anyone willing to pay the fee. A paper can be custom made to fit a student's specifications, or it can be chosen from a list of over 6,000 titles on file. The essays are obtained from students who graduate, and there is no further use for their papers.

When Essay Services sends a paper, the author receives a commission. If a paper is popular and in great demand, the author receives a commission each time it is sold. They try not to send the same paper to the same institution twice. A company similar to Essay Services, Pacific Research, advertised around the University of Windsor campus in September. The posters were up for a week, but they mysteriously disappeared.

Posing as a prospective client, I called Essay Services in Toronto for information about price and the procedure one has to follow to purchase a paper. As price was not mentioned in the advertisements, I anticipated the service to be expensive. After receiving a catalogue, a customer can choose from among the 6,000 titles. If the paper chosen is listed, a fee of $5 per page is charged. Essay Services can also custom make a paper on a topic not on their files; this costs $10 per page, and, if the topic needs additional research, the fee is $20 per page.

Essays obtained in this manner and passed off as a student's own ideas constitute plagiarism. Companies such as Essay Services only exist as long as there is a need, in other words, as long as students use them. Essay Services claim it only provides research, and it cannot be responsible for how the research is used. In a recent article in The Varsity, Philip Wetenstein, an employee of Essay Services, said, "The moral question of whether a student hands in the paper as his or her own is the student's choice." He added that it is absurd to accuse Essay Services of contributing to plagiarism because the decision ultimately lies with the student.

Indeed, the important point is that the ultimate decision lies with the student. According to this campus Dean of Students Ken Long, "the person or company supplying the paper will not get into trouble, the only person to suffer will be the student." If Dean Long receives a complaint from a professor who thinks a paper has been obtained through a professional company, he can take the case before the Student Affairs Committee which will decide whether it warrants action.

Although plagiarism problems have surfaced on other campuses in Ontario, they are not apparent here. Dr. Elswarth Briggs, head of the Political Science department, said "I have not come across it. I have no evidence of it existing here." This was echoed by Dr. Stuart Selby of the Communication Studies department who said he "hasn't come across it, but, if it were done sufficiently skillfully, it could not be detected. If I did discover it, the paper would get zero." Is it worth a couple of hundred dollars to get a good grade? In my mind, the money is wasted and the student is being cheated. The only people to come out ahead are the companies supplying the papers. It should be noted that advertising for essay services on and around this campus is illegal.

A significant part of the grade for a paper is given for research. Buying a paper might get you a good grade, but it won't teach you anything. Education is more than going to school, it is also learning to apply one's time to research and paper.
加拿大东南亚研究委员会（CCSEAS）。

Dear Sir:

The situation in the SAC office was much worse than the picture that The Lance presented, and has gotten worse ever since.

The President of SAC, David Simmons, has had a hard time with his attitude. He has failed to "effectively operate the office". He has failed to get along with people - students, faculty, administration and staff.

His representation in national or provincial conferences was fair to bad. In many cases his ideas came through in the provincial student government level while our interests, the interests of the students of the U. of W., were ignored.

If some members of clubs were upset with Dave's statements during a council meeting, they should have heard him making similar statements during the QVS (Ontario Federation of Students - Ed.) conference in Toronto last September. But to discuss the matter with him as modos are introduced is a waste of time. When Dave loses, he walks out and tries to bypass all of us.

During the last two cabinet meetings David has declared himself "the Boss" and threatened that he would "get physical" if I didn't obey his instructions.

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to Lance's letter in the October 31 issue of The Lance. The campus gay club is not against Gay Law. To support this statement, I would like to examine various Biblical passages to show how they have been misinterpreted.

1. translation errors since English (or any other language) is not the meaning of any other language in translation; and
2. taking Biblical verses out of context and inappropriately applying them to modern-day situations.

The situation in the SAC has worsened with Dave's state-
To top the world's most beautiful hamburger you have to use the world's most beautiful condiments. And that means fresh tomatoes. Fresh onions. Fresh pickles. Mustard and relish. Everything has to be market fresh. And because beauty is in the eye of the beholder, you can have your hamburger any way you want it at Harvey's...loaded up, double pickles...however you want. And as much as you want, and no extra charge.

And that's how you top the world's most beautiful hamburger. And nobody can top that.

Harvey's makes a hamburger a beautiful thing.
Crayons ready!

by Wendy Coomber

Registrar Frank Smith finds the way to efficiency is more paperwork - for the students. Next semester returning students will fill out the usual application plus another "mark sense" sheet to provide other information.

"It's not the registration process (the long lines and filling out forms)," explained Smith, that is making registration slow and sometimes mixed up. It is in processing the material after it has been received by the Registrar's office where most problems occur.

The mark sense sheet will resemble the computerized test answer sheet in which you pencil in the numbered "bubble" that relates to the answer you find-conflicting time allotments have the applications and courses organized just after the winter break.

However, if by any malicious whim of the powers that be the machine breaks down, the information will revert back to the keypunch system.

"The standard reaction is the computer screwed up my timetable," said the Registrar. The fact is, said Smith, that 99.5 percent of the time it is the student who has not checked to find conflicting time allotments for courses, or who have applied for a course which is full. A computer can only do so much.

Registration information for next semester will be available beginning next week.

Cigarettes may cause riots

by Jeff Nash

of the Algonquin College Impact

A large number of students in E-Block, a residence at Ottawa's Algonquin College, would like to salute the man who fixed the cigarette machine.

On Thursday, Oct. 30, the cigarette machine decided to give out free cigarettes to any one for their favorite brand. After one minute of students pushing, shoving and elbowing their way toward the machine, whereas before the material went through three keypunch operators before going into the computer.

Registration for the second semester begins December 1 in Ambassadors Auditorium. Smith feels that this new system will have the applications and courses organized just after the winter break.

Grant Gelinas, the heavy work-load was the reason for Mackenzie's departure. "The position demands between 50 and 60 hours work every week. I can understand his situation as assistant manager last year," I was faced with the same dilemma of finding time for both the station and school." Mackenzies is currently enrolled to complete his Masters Degree in English. "People don't realize that running a part-time radio station (16 on-air hours daily) is really a full time job," said Mackenzie. "I had to make my priorities - I'm here to get an education."

Gelinas noted that experience was Mackenzie's biggest asset. He had worked for five radio stations in eight years previous to CJAM.

The responsibilities of Assistant Manager-Programming includes overseeing all departments, acting as liaison between staff and management, and being responsible for all programming. Cigarettes may cause Riots

by Jeff Nash

of the Algonquin College Impact

A large number of students in E-Block, a residence at Ottawa's Algonquin College, would like to salute the man who fixed the cigarette machine.

On Thursday, Oct. 30, the cigarette machine decided to give out free cigarettes to any one for their favorite brand. After one minute of students pushing, shoving and elbowing their way toward the machine, whereas before the material went through three keypunch operators before going into the computer.

Registration for the second semester begins December 1 in Ambassadors Auditorium. Smith feels that this new system will have the applications and courses organized just after the winter break.

However, if by any malicious whim of the powers that be the machine breaks down, the information will revert back to the keypunch system.

"The standard reaction is the computer screwed up my timetable," said the Registrar. The fact is, said Smith, that 99.5 percent of the time it is the student who has not checked to find conflicting time allotments for courses, or who have applied for a course which is full. A computer can only do so much.

Registration information for next semester will be available beginning next week.
The mature factor: University needs by Sheelagh Weldon

The mature factor, in all its complexity, is somewhat underdefined, as all analysis, however, can relate maturity to age where the older a person is the more likely they are to have been exposed to life and its trials, and therefore the more likely they are to know a thing or two about it.

According to the University of Windsor's general calendar, a mature or adult student is a person over twenty-one years of age by December 31st of the year of application and who may not have completed secondary school. Mature students at this university can therefore range from twenty-one years of age minimum to ripeness of old age.

All students are not the same

The mature student is, on the whole, a part-time student and since Dr. Haque's sample study conducted in 1979 showed that the average age of the part-time student was 30.7 years, we can safely assume that generally speaking, a mature student is likely to have more exposure to life than the average student coming straight from high school to university.

Dr. Haque's study also showed that 68 percent of part-time females and 69 percent of part-time males were married and showed that 68 percent of the sample had children. Altogether, the average age of the part-time student was 30.7 years according to Dr. Haque's study. These figures do point to a substantial number of mature students.

It is quite clear that its mature student body, by any definition, is a force to be reckoned with and the increase in mature student enrolment which has taken place over the years points to a new client group emerging.

Mr. Frank Smith, Registrar at Windsor University is always enthusiastic about roll call and the increase in mature students attending university is particularly exciting for him.

Dr. Jerry Booth, Director of Part-time Studies at Windsor University by Josie Iannetta

Dr. Jerry Booth, Director of Part-time Studies at Windsor University by Josie Iannetta

The Canadian Organisation of Part-time Students (C.O.P.U.S.) is a subunit of COPUS, was founded in 1977 at Windsor University by Josie Iannetta and Jerry Blake both part-time students at Windsor University. Ms. Iannetta is the present vice-president of COPUS and although she was the president of OPUS she now attends the bi-monthly meetings as a member of the executive. Mike Weldon is the president.

Organisation

However, this problem is not just related to Windsor University. Across Canada, the concerns of the mature student are only just surfacing, despite many murmurs andblings over the past few years.

Indeed, the issue of granting tax exemptions to part-time students was first brought to the attention of the university by Josie Iannetta and Betty Blake both part-time students at Windsor University.

Unfortunately Ontario does harbour some ostriches and is currently tempers flaring in the wilderness for part-time students. To date, mature students are denied any tax exemptions.

As a direct result of the OPUS 1979 study, the Ontario Provincial Government has responded to the difficulties of part-time students and a research team, Levy-Couchlain, has been sponsored by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities to investigate the problems related to part-time students in Ontario.

The most immediate concern of the Ontario Provincial Government does harbour some ostriches and resistance to allow the team on to the campus to conduct its research has been demonstrated.

Windsor University, however, has been very co-operative and the research team is due on our campus some time before the end of the semester. The Canadian Organisation of Part-time Students (C.O.P.U.S.) has been a strong force in drawing attention to the difficulties part-time students encounter. The primary goal of COPUS is to ensure equal opportunity for quality education for all students and they are mostly concerned with improving conditions for part-time students across Canada.

The Organisation of Part-time Students (O.P.U.S.), a subunit of COPUS, was founded in 1977 at Windsor University by Josie Iannetta and Jerry Blake both part-time students at Windsor University. Ms. Iannetta is the present vice-president of COPUS and although she was the president of OPUS she now attends the bi-monthly meetings as a member of the executive. Mike Weldon is the president.

Administration not unresponsive

Josie is very familiar with the problems part-time students experience at Windsor University. "There's been one unified voice crying in the wilderness for years, I do believe that there are gaps where part-time students are concerned at our university, but it's not that the administration is unresponsive, they haven't had the chance to implement changes yet", she says.

There are a number of particular issues. The services available at night to part-time students are very limited especially in the case of the Registrar's office hours and parking facilities.

Since the Registrar's office is closed after 5 p.m. part-time students cannot avail themselves of that facility. A lot of inconvenience is being taken at the beginning of the semester where offices are open the whole day.

Then there is the problem of parking facilities. Quite parking is not available, causing such a problem that availability of parking facilities is quite a serious problem.

Help needed

It is still extremely difficult and for the most part, impossible for part-time students to get to the Registrar's office to get the help needed to enrol in courses or to file grievances. The only help available is when a student goes to the Registrar's office early in the morning when it is closed.

SUMMARY OF ENROLMENT

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SEX</th>
<th>TOTAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>M</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

† Percentages computed are based on enrolment of 9620.

The final part of this, Sheelagh Comomy's feature, was held up in production and presentation at the university's Registrar's Office. Sheelagh had written all her enrolment statistics until the end of November.
moves to help part-time students with the exception of a rather disappointing of the Registrar's office, the problem lies is the inactivity of the students. The inadequacies of the office are apparent among students who have a full-time degree course in Law, Nursing, and Engineering. Furthermore, in cases where it is possible to take a degree course on a part-time basis, the curriculum has been arranged in such a way that in some instances the courses needed for the completion of the degree were no longer available on a part-time basis. As a result of this efforts on the part of a part-time student to obtain a degree were brought to an abrupt halt. Bearng all this in mind, it is somewhat a relief to know that OPUS plans to open a new office at the end of this week. It will be situated in the University Centre and will be staffed at least three afternoons and three nights a week. The telephone number is 258-4687.

Dr. Ken Long

In opening an office, OPUS is hoping to provide a type of centre for part-time students who can air their difficulties and offer the benefit of the all OPUS staff will work closely with the office of part-time studies. In order to increase rapport among part-time students and faculty and to generate a more cohesive part-time group, OPUS throws a wine-and-cheese party at least once a year. The next party will be at the beginning of December and the organization is optimistic about the response from faculty and students.

Dr. Booth's biggest task as he sees it is the co-ordination of programs for part-time students and making sure that departments are, as far as possible, aware of part-time student's specific needs. Because part-time students are not required to have a current curriculum for a program they are already made with queue problems still the Registrar's office drawn due to 88% attendance. The Registrar's office proves to be an area of difficulty for students, it seems that they are clearly not going to reflect the demands on the time available to the part-time student. Without the support of the services offered by the Registrar's office, the need for greater attention and the use of Academic Counselling must be encouraged.

It is interesting to note that back in 1979 Dr. Haque in his book entitled "Part-time Studies at the University of Western" concluded "Although the facilities and services are no different from those offered to full-time students, it seems that they are clearly not going to reflect the demands on the time available to the part-time student. Without the support of the services offered by the Registrar's office, the need for greater attention and the use of Academic Counselling must be encouraged."

life experience is an asset

One situation that does pose a very real problem for the mature student is entering a science oriented program having forgotten most of the basic knowledge required for such a program. Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged.

The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.

One practical solution to this problem could involve a refresher program to be organized prior to a student entering a program where background technical knowledge is incorporated. This type of program would enable a mature student to brush up on forgotten knowledge. It would also serve the purpose of gauging whether or not a mature student is ready to enter the desired science field in which case the student might have to start from scratch. In any case a refresher program could help avoid unnecessary frustration on the part of a bogged-down mature student and it could also eliminate that lack of support on the part of those faculty members who feel that extra help given to students is on a par with spoiling feeding.

There is no doubt about it, the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the whole student population and therefore and educational establishment must be willing and prepared to meet these needs.

Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged. The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.

One practical solution to this problem could involve a refresher program to be organized prior to a student entering a program where background technical knowledge is incorporated. This type of program would enable a mature student to brush up on forgotten knowledge. It would also serve the purpose of gauging whether or not a mature student is ready to enter the desired science field in which case the student might have to start from scratch. In any case a refresher program could help avoid unnecessary frustration on the part of a bogged-down mature student and it could also eliminate that lack of support on the part of those faculty members who feel that extra help given to students is on a par with spoiling feeding.

There is no doubt about it, the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the whole student population and therefore and educational establishment must be willing and prepared to meet these needs.

Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged. The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.

One practical solution to this problem could involve a refresher program to be organized prior to a student entering a program where background technical knowledge is incorporated. This type of program would enable a mature student to brush up on forgotten knowledge. It would also serve the purpose of gauging whether or not a mature student is ready to enter the desired science field in which case the student might have to start from scratch. In any case a refresher program could help avoid unnecessary frustration on the part of a bogged-down mature student and it could also eliminate that lack of support on the part of those faculty members who feel that extra help given to students is on a par with spoiling feeding.

There is no doubt about it, the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the whole student population and therefore and educational establishment must be willing and prepared to meet these needs.

Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged. The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.

One practical solution to this problem could involve a refresher program to be organized prior to a student entering a program where background technical knowledge is incorporated. This type of program would enable a mature student to brush up on forgotten knowledge. It would also serve the purpose of gauging whether or not a mature student is ready to enter the desired science field in which case the student might have to start from scratch. In any case a refresher program could help avoid unnecessary frustration on the part of a bogged-down mature student and it could also eliminate that lack of support on the part of those faculty members who feel that extra help given to students is on a par with spoiling feeding.

There is no doubt about it, the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the whole student population and therefore and educational establishment must be willing and prepared to meet these needs.

Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged. The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.

One practical solution to this problem could involve a refresher program to be organized prior to a student entering a program where background technical knowledge is incorporated. This type of program would enable a mature student to brush up on forgotten knowledge. It would also serve the purpose of gauging whether or not a mature student is ready to enter the desired science field in which case the student might have to start from scratch. In any case a refresher program could help avoid unnecessary frustration on the part of a bogged-down mature student and it could also eliminate that lack of support on the part of those faculty members who feel that extra help given to students is on a par with spoiling feeding.

There is no doubt about it, the mature student body forms a sizeable portion of the whole student population and therefore and educational establishment must be willing and prepared to meet these needs.

Most mature students gravitate towards social science and arts programs where their life experience is an asset and where they are not required to have technical background knowledge of a subject. On the other hand, mature students can encounter a major difficulty when entering a science program if their background knowledge is forgotten and as a result of this the student can easily get bogged down and totally discouraged. The mature student is then faced with a situation whereby if faculty members are not sensitive to this particular problem, the student is out at sea. Such students do require help and encouragement and although faculty are generally eager and willing to help, it has been known for some famous mature students to react going such help, in such instances the problem becomes magnified and often polarized.
Photograph reflects a positive image at SAC's

by Mic Marentette

If you like loud and nasty rock, Photograph is the band for you — get the picture? All puns aside, this band is a prime example of a group who has gelled into a pleasing combination of vocals and back-up music. Photograph — formerly The Elevators — hails from Belleville, Ontario, and have been together professionally for five years.

Their charisma comes from the lead singer, who is reminiscent of a cross between Davy Jones and Mick Jagger, complete with a vibrating leg. He carries off a sweet and innocent look, but with a glint in his eye that reminds you he isn't any kid. The lead singer constitutes most of the visual show and complements this with his excellent vocal ability.

Photograph's repertoire consists of the usual rock selections from The Who, Bruce Springsteen, and The Rolling Stones. They also perform various numbers from a recently recorded album, on the Capitol label (which, if you're interested, comes out in January) including snappy numbers such as a song called "Running Home." Their original pieces have all been well done, but how Photograph's efforts will take them remains to be seen.

They also played from a list they referred to as "for the

THE CINEMA CRITIC

SOMEWHERE IN TIME

by Cecilia Deck

This movie has everything the ideal movie should have: love, sex, violence, the supernatural, fantasy, "great scenery," two stars, and even an unconvincing plot, Somewhere in Time however, leaves one sick to one's stomach.

The plot is simple. Playwright Richard (Christopher Reeve) is given an antique watch by an old lady who says "Come back to me." Eight years later, by a fluke, he stays in the hotel where she had been when she died. She had been an actress in her prime, and had performed there in 1912. He time-travels back to that time, has a love affair with her, is jolted back to the present, and dies of a broken heart.

As the movie progresses (regresses?), Superman gets wimpier and wimpier until finally he and his acting abilities are no more than a limp dishrag that needs to be washed out. Christopher Plummer is good as the actress' bastard of a manager; Luckily, none of the vocals were lost, in fact they were very clear, and the harmonies blended well. Only a few of the softer notes were lost.

THE STUNT MAN

by Rosemarie Comisso

The Stunt Man is a movie within a movie toying with both reality and fantasy.

Consider the beginning of the film: A man is arrested by the police, but escapes. In flight, he finds himself running through the woods, only to get into a fight with a telephone lineman. He then finds himself racing across a bridge pursued by a Duesenberg. To prevent being run over, he picks up a lead pipe and throws it at the car, forcing it to careen off the bridge into the water below.

"All this time, a helicopter hovers overhead catching the whole ordeal on film."

Smugly you say, "That's easy. Since the film is about stunt men, that scene is just part of the movie they are filming."

Yes and no. The man running is really an escaped criminal and the man who is lying at the bottom of the river is really dead.

The driver of the car runs a stunt man and the helicopter was manned by a film crew — the daring feat however did end tragically.

Wandering aimlessly, the criminal finds himself among spectators watching a scene from a war movie which is being filmed. The director, Eli Cross (Peter O'Toole), recognizes him as the man on the bridge and coerces him into taking over the job recently left open by the dead stunt man. Cross names the stunt man (Steve Railsback) and together they share a perverse friendship which is based on secrecy and mistrust.

Now a part of the cast, Lucky becomes romantically involved with Nina (Barbara Hersey), an actress in the movie, whose connection with Cross is sometimes questionable. Because of this uncertainty, Lucky and Nina have a titter-tottering affair which is always on the edge of ending.

The movie is not totally amusing or serious, though. Some witty exchanges of dialogue between the characters provide the necessary comic relief and maintains a harmonious balance as the story unfolds. The Stunt Man is unusual all right, but not only because of its novel premise and tricky stunts. The movie is proof that escapism can be accomplished without sacrificing the intelligence of its audience.

Marketing Club presents
FUNK OFF
8:00 pm Nov. 21
AMBASSADOR AUDITORIUM

FEATURING from Detroit
"VIA SATTELITE" and
"THE NELSONS"
(Former Spyd's and Hardtops)

MEMBERS $1.50
NONMEMBERS $2.00
BAR & PIZZA

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young men's fashions
Rozsnyai provides music via clarinet

by Catherine M. Wilcox

Last Friday, November 7, in Moot Court, a most interesting concert of clarinet music was presented. The School of Music’s Dr. Imre Rozsnyai (associate professor of music), soloist, was accompanied by Dr. Philip Adamson (assistant professor of music), on piano. All of the pieces were nineteenth century creations of Hungarian origin. A “Sonatina” by Zoltan Gardonyi, however, did not seem to be an appropriate composition with which to begin. It lacked energy and colour and at times the piano overpowered the solo clarinet. Jenex Gazi’s “Romolo” still lost some intricate finger work to the piano but overall, a better balance was achieved. The final piece of the first half, Milady Rajha’s “Hungarian Shepherd Songs” presented good co-ordination between clarinet and piano and quite a bit more colour and dynamics.

Dr. Rozsnyai seemed to be saving most of his energy for the second half of the program. “Three Hungarian Folk Songs” by Bela Bartok was quick moving, exciting and showed Dr. Rozsnyai’s mastery of clarinet technique. Unaccompanied by the piano, the “Three Bagatelles for Solo Clarinet” by Percee Mead was very animated and once again showed excellent technique. Good articulation kept the mood lively and the colour bright.

Finally, Rezzo Koka’s “Four Hungarian Dances” showed Dr. Rozsnyai’s comfort with his native music. There was good balance between clarinet and piano and more energy from both performers than in previous pieces. Brilliant technique on both instruments led to a lively atmosphere, quite appropriate for dancing.

The next musical events on campus are included in Canada Music Week, November 23-30; The Brunswick String Quartet on November 28, and the University Concert Band on November 30.

Friday, November 14
–CINEFEST presents Performance, with Mic Jacker and James Fox, at the 9:10pm feature. Tickets $1.99. CINEFEST is at The Superinema, 804 Erie St.
–Photograph will continue at SAC’s pub through Saturday.
–The Assumption Players will perform the musical “Pippin”. (written by Roger O. Hirson, music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz). Tickets are $3.00 for the 8:00pm performance at Assumption High School, 1100 Huron Church Road. Saturday, November 15
–“Pippin” continues at Assumption High School.
–The Assumption players continue with “Pippin”.

Sunday, November 16
–Pilot comes to SAC’s pub through Saturday.
–Monday, November 17
–The Ontario Film Theatre will present “Orchestra Rehearsal!”, a social metaphor through the use of symphony orchestra in rehearsal. Following this film will be The Making of Don Quixote, a look at the production of the recent film. Tickets are $2.00; the OPT is located at the Superinema, 804 Erie St. R. Show starts at 8:00pm.
–Tuesday, November 18

–The Ontario Film Theatre will present “The University of Windsor Players will present the initial play of their Studio Theatre Series on November 20, 21 and 22. “Forever Yours Mary Lou”, a play written by Michel Tremblay will open. The event will be staged at 8:00pm each night in the studio theatre of the Drama Building. Tickets will be available only at the door for $2.00.
–Wednesday, November 19
–A collection entitled The Best of Benny Hill will be the early CINEFEST feature. This movie will be followed by the popular The Man Who Fell To Earth, featuring David Bowie and Rip Torn. Tickets only $1.99.
–Thursday, November 20
–CINEFEST kicks off the evening at 7:00pm with The Song Remains The Same. This Led Zeppelin feature is part of the new CINEFEST concert series. Admission is $2.50 to shows in the concert series. Following will be Richard Prior Live In Concert at 9:30pm.
–The Noon Hour Film Series at the Art Gallery of Windsor will present The Promise Fulfilled and the Promise Broker—a look at The United States in the 20’s, 30’s and The New Deal. 445 Riverside Dr. W.

–The University of Windsor Players will present the initial play of their Studio Theatre Series on November 20, 21 and 22. “Forever Yours Mary Lou”, a play written by Michel Tremblay will open. The event will be staged at 8:00pm each night in the studio theatre of the Drama Building. Tickets will be available only at the door for $2.00.
–Thursday, November 20
–Pilot comes to SAC’s pub through Saturday.
–Monday, November 17
–The Ontario Film Theatre will present “Orchestra Rehearsal!”, a social metaphor through the use of symphony orchestra in rehearsal. Following this film will be The Making of Don Quixote, a look at the production of the recent film. Tickets are $2.00; the OPT is located at the Superinema, 804 Erie St. R. Show starts at 8:00pm.
–Tuesday, November 18

–The Ontario Film Theatre will present “Orchestra Rehearsal!”, a social metaphor through the use of symphony orchestra in rehearsal. Following this film will be The Making of Don Quixote, a look at the production of the recent film. Tickets are $2.00; the OPT is located at the Superinema, 804 Erie St. R. Show starts at 8:00pm.
–Wednesday, November 19
–A collection entitled The Best of Benny Hill will be the early CINEFEST feature. This movie will be followed by the popular The Man Who Fell To Earth, featuring David Bowie and Rip Torn. Tickets only $1.99.
–Thursday, November 20
–CINEFEST kicks off the evening at 7:00pm with The Song Remains The Same. This Led Zeppelin feature is part of the new CINEFEST concert series. Admission is $2.50 to shows in the concert series. Following will be Richard Prior Live In Concert at 9:30pm.
–The Noon Hour Film Series at the Art Gallery of Windsor will present The Promise Fulfilled and the Promise Broker—a look at The United States in the 20’s, 30’s and The New Deal. 445 Riverside Dr. W.

–The University of Windsor Players will present the initial play of their Studio Theatre Series on November 20, 21 and 22. “Forever Yours Mary Lou”, a play written by Michel Tremblay will open. The event will be staged at 8:00pm each night in the studio theatre of the Drama Building. Tickets will be available only at the door for $2.00.
–Friday, November 21
–A Windsor premiere for CINEFEST! Coup De Tete, the finely crafted 1979 film from France will be shown at 7:15pm. Admission $2.50. At 9:10pm, Apocalypse Now will be shown, only $1.99.

–Club Sandwich will have the talented duo Rose and Winter on hand to perform a wide range of music, from the Everly Brothers to Billie Holiday. The doors to 83 Riverside Dr. W. open at 8:00pm; admission is $3.50.
Erickson sails into Vanier

by Peter Haggerty

"Here's to a good time tonight!"

With these words of optimism, the guitar singing troubador from Port Huron, Michigan began his Monday night performance in Vanier Hall.

Perhaps the most popular entertainer who visits the Windsor campus with any consistency, Cliff Erickson again impressed and entranced his devoted audience. It's not often you see 275 people anywhere on campus on a Monday night. His cabaret style performance, encompassing both modern and standards, nearly always unappreciated. How many entertainers do you know who inspire their audience to sing along on only the second number?

One man shows can be phoney; it's obvious however from Port Huron Michigan began in Vanier Hall. His return to SAC's Pub November 24 through November 29, it is evident that Cliff Erickson enjoys performing and is very sincere in the running dialogue he held with the audience throughout the evening.

Between his sets when most performers sit down and relax, Erickson stayed near the stage to greet the throngs of people wishing to present themselves to the approachable performer. Requests were piled up all over the stage; throughout his show adoring fans would rush the stage and leave requests on his guitar.

Audience involvement is a big part of his show. No less than three times did he have "amateurs" up from the audience to help him perform. Two gentlemen approached the stage, and found themselves contestants in an impromptu dance contest. The listeners would have been just as ecstatic if Erickson had played only half as much as he did. At times, he would stop singing and let his followers fill in missing chorus lines and such.

It is evident that Cliff Erickson appreciates his meeting with Harry Chapin in SAC's pub last February. Several times during the evening he made reference to his friend "Harry". Erickson's best music was his rendition of Chapin standards "Taxi" and "Cats in the Cradle", undoubtedly because they are best Cliff Erickson shows signs of fatigue during his six hundred and fifty-sixth encore.

Erickson would revert to Mary Travers' "Those Were the Days". The most moving song of this opening act was "Four Strong Winds" Again Erickson showed that folk was his forte. His second set was mainly built around the music of the Beatles and Elvis Presley. From the bounding strains of "Rocky Racoon" to the inconstant harmony of "Hey Jude", Erickson captured a diverse mixture of the Beatles best music.

Attention was next fixed on Elvis. Complete with upturned collar and quivered leg, Cliff Erickson visited "Heartbreak Hotel" only to return to "Love Me Tender" to an audience member.

But Erickson saved his best for last. Closing his show with "Alberta Bound!", it became an indication that all was not quiet on the western front. He returned to the, standing, clapping audience to play "Mr. Boojangles", "Fire and Rain" and Don MacLean's "Vincent". The entranced performer seemed moved by the continuing applause.

Vanier Hall sponsored this successful event. Let's hope that this starts a trend, as it is now proven that with good organization going after good talent, a successful show can be staged on this campus-even on a Monday night!
An ounce of prevention.

Help prevent an unwanted pregnancy. Help prevent the transmission of venereal disease. Help prevent side effects associated with other forms of birth control.

Use electronically tested condoms made by Julius Schmid. Because prevention only takes a little precaution.

Julius Schmid.

Products you can depend on, products for people who really care.
The women’s volleyball schedule came to a close Tuesday Nov. 4. Tecumseh Hall emerged victories after beating the Spikers in a best-five final. The Court Musical team and officials.

The Chaos team led 21-5 at the half.

Volleyball

With play over two weeks old and all teams with a game under their belts, some surprises have occurred. Last year’s ‘A’ champions, the Screaming Eagles, were soundly defeated by Commerce ‘A’, 8-2. The H.K. Blades pulled a major upset in defeating the Huron Hall Red Wings 4-3.

As a reminder to all captains, the $5.00 per player entry fee is due before Friday, Nov. 21. A final team roster must also be submitted at this time. No changes to the roster will be allowed following this date.

Staudt, Roberts named cross-country stars
by Scott McColloch

University of Windsor runners Paul Roberts and Linda Staudt both competed in the Canadian Cross-Country championships held last Saturday, Nov. 8 in Guelph.

Staudt finished fourth in the women’s 5 kilometer (3.1 miles) run, in a time of 18:08, and was chosen as a member of the first all-Canadian cross-country team. Roberts was picked as a member of the second all-Canadian cross-country team for his ninth place 31:46 finish in the men’s 10 kilometer run. Being chosen as a member of one of these teams is like being picked for an all-star team, though they do not actually compete.

"I wanted to get in the top ten," said Roberts, "and I wanted to beat a runner from Queen’s who beat me at the OU’s Ontario meet in London."

Support Lancer and Lancerette teams!
Spikers start season with loss

by Chris Legebow

Windsor Lancerette volleyball began its 1980-81 season with a match against Waterloo Athenas Tuesday night in St. Denis Hall. Although they played well, it was not consistent enough to beat the Waterloo team and the Lancerettes lost 10-15, 9-15, 15-10 and 7-15.

Coach Jean Brien described the loss as "a let-up in play or a loss of concentration." She firmly believes that "there isn't a single team we will play that we can't beat, but we have to prove that we can be winners."

Windsor's attack seemed to lack the 'killer' instinct it needed in order to win. The cover was not tight enough to pick up the tips and pokes by the Athenas and the attack suffered as the team struggled with their defense.

The Windsor team is not slow, but it was not quick enough on this night to compensate for the sloppy defense and the tall, forceful Waterloo team took advantage of this weakness.

GEORGE HAS A DEGREE IN MARINE BIOLOGY AND A JOB DRIVING A CAB.

Science and technology graduates like George are too valuable to waste. These are the people, young and enthusiastic, who should be helping us to shape tomorrow. These are minds, fresh and innovative, that could be involved in research and development and in its application to urgent energy and environmental problems and to the task of making Canadian industry more efficient and competitive.

We can't afford to wait. Private sector companies, individuals, associations, research institutes and community organizations can help by developing projects that will contribute to Canada's future and at the same time put qualified people to work in the disciplines they're trained to follow. The Canadian government is ready to help by contributing up to $1,250 a month (for a maximum of 12 months) towards the salaries of university, community college and technical school graduates with the qualifications to tackle those projects, graduates who haven't, until now, been able to find employment in their disciplines.

HELP WANTED.

CANADA'S EMPLOYMENT PLANS WON'T WORK WITHOUT YOU.
Basketball Lancers build on cross-border rivalry

by Steve Rice

Wayne State Tartars and the Windsor Lancers continue to provide some of the most exciting basketball action available in the Windsor-Detroit area.

For the second year in a row, the annual exhibition contest was decided by a single point, the Tartars avenging last year's loss with a 66-65 win on two last-second free throws by John Scott.

Scott, the Tartars' captain and the game's high scorer with 20 points, was fouled with eight seconds left in the game and the Lancers leading 65-64. He cooly stepped to the line and sank both free shots for the win.

The Lancers got one more chance on a desperation shot by all-star centre Stan Korceski at the buzzer, but the ball caromed from the rim off the front of the rim and out.

Last year's game, an 83-84 triumph by Windsor in St. Denis Hall, was decided on a 10-foot jumper by Landry with only seconds remaining in the first overtime.

"Unbelievable," was the reaction of Wayne State coach Vernon Payne to the successive sequels. "We didn't talk too much about last year's game, but the players were up for this one. We had a lot of injuries, played a lot of young guys... we only played seven men all game whereas Windsor used everybody.

But Payne was not about to use the last players as an excuse.

"That Windsor team is an excellent ball club," Payne remarked. "But there are some.Tartar problems, they'll own you and press you. And they're a smart team, the type of coach (head coach Dick) has done a fine job with them.

Windsor got well-balanced scoring with every player on the roster finding the hoop at least once. Rookie forward Jim Kennedy led the Windsor scorers with 12 points, followed by veterans Phil Hermanus (11) and Jim Molyneux (10).

The Tartars got 16 points from Grady Wicker and another 12 from Phil Monk.

Windsor Lancers continue to provide some of the most exciting basketball action available in the Ontario University Athletic Association.

The Lancers face the University of Texas Thursday and McMaster Sunday at the same time.

Lancer scoring: Kennedy 11, Molyneux 10, Wicker 7, Monk 6, Hall 5, Wallman 4

Sports Quiz
1. Who holds the record for most points in one NBA game and how many did he score?
2. Okay, that was easy. But try this. On the basis of the number of points scored per field goal attempt in 1979-80, who was the NBA's most efficient shooter?
3. In 1979-80, only three teams failed to win a scoring record at home. Who were they?
4. Who is the oldest active player in the NBA?
5. Who is the supervisor of NBA officials?
6. Basketball is a big man's game. Who is the shortest player in NBA?

Basketball Lancers build on cross-border rivalry

Head into season

Lancerettes shot down

by Sue Hrycay

Shaw College of Detroit defeated the Lancerettes basketball team in an exhibition game Monday by a score of 67-23. The Lancerettes now stand at 4-3 in exhibition play.

The Shaw team, although much smaller in stature, out-answered and outplayed the Lancerettes throughout the game. Nevertheless, it was a good experience for the Windsor team to gain some confidence playing against aggressive teams.

"This young team shows a great deal of determination," said coach Sue Swain. "We're hoping to fare well in our regular season play.""High scorer for Windsor were Theresa McNeil with 20 points and Roberta Smith with 12. Theresa also did an outstanding job on the boards, pulling down a total of 15 rebounds, to lead Windsor in both departments.

The Lancerettes will travel to Toronto Tuesday for their first regular season game against Ryerson; then move on to Kingston Saturday to play Queen's. They will be missing two players,- Donna Pecsi, who injured her knee last week, and Jolynn Condon, who is sidelined with a back injury.

Lancers got off to a slow start, going without a score for the first six minutes of the game. A variety of defensive pressure brought them back into contention and Hermann finally pulled the score to 21-20 at 45 seconds to go. In the second half, the Lancers were able to maintain the slim lead with only seconds remaining.

"Unbelievable," was the reaction of Wayne State coach Vernon Payne to the successive sequels. "We didn't talk too much about last year's game, but the players were up for this one. We had a lot of injuries, played a lot of young guys... we only played seven men all game whereas Windsor used everybody.

But Payne was not about to use the last players as an excuse.

"That Windsor team is an excellent ball club," Payne remarked. "But there are some Tartar problems, they'll own you and press you. And they're a smart team, the type of coach (head coach Dick) has done a fine job with them.

Windsor got well-balanced scoring with every player on the roster finding the hoop at least once. Rookie forward Jim Kennedy led the Windsor scorers with 12 points, followed by veterans Phil Hermanus (11) and Jim Molyneux (10).

The Tartars got 16 points from Grady Wicker and another 12 from Phil Monk.

Windsor Lancers continue to provide some of the most exciting basketball action available in the Ontario University Athletic Association.

The Lancers face the University of Texas Thursday and McMaster Sunday at the same time.

Lancer scoring: Kennedy 11, Molyneux 10, Wicker 7, Monk 6, Hall 5, Wallman 4

Sports Quiz
1. Who holds the record for most points in one NBA game and how many did he score?
2. Okay, that was easy. But try this. On the basis of the number of points scored per field goal attempt in 1979-80, who was the NBA's most efficient shooter?
3. In 1979-80, only three teams failed to win a scoring record at home. Who were they?
4. Who is the oldest active player in the NBA?
5. Who is the supervisor of NBA officials?
6. Basketball is a big man's game. Who is the shortest player in NBA?

Basketball Lancers build on cross-border rivalry

Head into season

Lancerettes shot down

by Sue Hrycay

Shaw College of Detroit defeated the Lancerettes basketball team in an exhibition game Monday by a score of 67-23. The Lancerettes now stand at 4-3 in exhibition play.

The Shaw team, although much smaller in stature, out-answered and outplayed the Lancerettes throughout the game. Nevertheless, it was a good experience for the Windsor team to gain some confidence playing against aggressive teams.

"This young team shows a great deal of determination," said coach Sue Swain. "We're hoping to fare well in our regular season play.""High scorer for Windsor were Theresa McNeil with 20 points and Roberta Smith with 12. Theresa also did an outstanding job on the boards, pulling down a total of 15 rebounds, to lead Windsor in both departments.

The Lancerettes will travel to Toronto Tuesday for their first regular season game against Ryerson; then move on to Kingston Saturday to play Queen's. They will be missing two players,- Donna Pecsi, who injured her knee last week, and Jolynn Condon, who is sidelined with a back injury.

Lancers got off to a slow start, going without a score for the first six minutes of the game. A variety of defensive pressure brought them back into contention and Hermann finally pulled the score to 21-20 at 45 seconds to go. In the second half, the Lancers were able to maintain the slim lead with only seconds remaining.

"Unbelievable," was the reaction of Wayne State coach Vernon Payne to the successive sequels. "We didn't talk too much about last year's game, but the players were up for this one. We had a lot of injuries, played a lot of young guys... we only played seven men all game whereas Windsor used everybody.

But Payne was not about to use the last players as an excuse.

"That Windsor team is an excellent ball club," Payne remarked. "But there are some Tartar problems, they'll own you and press you. And they're a smart team, the type of coach (head coach Dick) has done a fine job with them.

Windsor got well-balanced scoring with every player on the roster finding the hoop at least once. Rookie forward Jim Kennedy led the Windsor scorers with 12 points, followed by veterans Phil Hermanus (11) and Jim Molyneux (10).

The Tartars got 16 points from Grady Wicker and another 12 from Phil Monk.

Windsor Lancers continue to provide some of the most exciting basketball action available in the Ontario University Athletic Association.

The Lancers face the University of Texas Thursday and McMaster Sunday at the same time.

Lancer scoring: Kennedy 11, Molyneux 10, Wicker 7, Monk 6, Hall 5, Wallman 4

Sports Quiz
1. Who holds the record for most points in one NBA game and how many did he score?
2. Okay, that was easy. But try this. On the basis of the number of points scored per field goal attempt in 1979-80, who was the NBA's most efficient shooter?
3. In 1979-80, only three teams failed to win a scoring record at home. Who were they?
4. Who is the oldest active player in the NBA?
5. Who is the supervisor of NBA officials?
6. Basketball is a big man's game. Who is the shortest player in NBA?
The speed of technological change demands that we upgrade our education, she said. Ontario students receive the most generous financial assistance in the country. Even the national payroll grants for part-time and variable-length program students, paid otherwise, are underutilized in comparison.

After her ten-minute opening speech, the minister threw the floor open to questions from the students. The SAC president started off this session by requesting Dr. Stephenson how the government could justify funding of an average of $5,600 per Ontario student when the other provinces averaged $3,500.

Dr. Stephenson replied with a statement that became the general theme of everything she said thereafter. She answered Simmons by saying that we must make a "concerted effort in Ontario to live within our means." If it was reasonable to expect such a thing from individuals, so should it be for governments.

The minister admitted constraints have been placed on the number of dollars available for education but that this financial restriction has not been any greater than in other areas of government funding.

Dr. Stephenson said future incentives to the universities will not be massive but will be significant. This funding will not meet inflation rates, as the previous one has not been done for the past two years, although Stephenson admitted it was its best to make sure Ontario schools get their fair share.

Dr. Stephenson added Ontario is third in all the provinces in the percentage universities receive of all monies which the government is responsible for distributing.

Brenda Sweet of the Norman Bethune club referred to a study conducted at the University of Western Ontario, London, which stated, in effect, that education was only for the rich, contradicting Dr. Stephenson's belief that the student aid program was helping students from low-income families.

The minister shrugged off the report as being "untrue" unless citing another study to defend her statement. She added she would not comment on the Western study as it was an invalid, statistically unsupported, inaccurate, unscientific study, adding she had been told by a student she should not look at the "country club of universities" for statistics.

Rodney Herring of Engineering then asked Dr. Stephenson if the government planned to support research more than "wildly enthusiastic," answered Dr. Stephenson. She felt research was "important to Canadians" because it became a lot of the audience vocally approved. However, Dr. Stephenson pointed out that funding the individual departments was not her job.

The budget is given to the university administration to dish out. She explained that inflation grows while provincial revenues do not.

John Rizopoulos, former External Affairs Commissioner of SAC, raised another report before her, one referred to earlier this year by Dr. Paul Cassan, this university's Vice-President-Academic. Utilizing some statistics, Rizopoulos asked why university funding has not kept pace with the other elements of the increased government expenditure.

"Dr. Cassano's got his figures somewhat mislabeled," pronounces Dr. Stephenson, adding she would have a talk with the Vice-President. She did, however, say such a question only dealt with one indicator of the quality of funding and that several other indicators had to be used to get the whole picture.

Dr. Bette Stephenson, however, was not wildly enthusiastic,," answered Dr. Stephenson. She felt research was "important to Canadians" because it became a lot of the audience vocally approved. However, Dr. Stephenson pointed out that funding the individual departments was not her job.

The budget is given to the university administration to dish out. She explained that inflation grows while provincial revenues do not.

John Rizopoulos, former External Affairs Commissioner of SAC, raised another report before her, one referred to earlier this year by Dr. Paul Cassan, this university's Vice-President-Academic. Utilizing some statistics, Rizopoulos asked why university funding has not kept pace with the other elements of the increased government expenditure.

"Dr. Cassano's got his figures somewhat mislabeled," pronounces Dr. Stephenson, adding she would have a talk with the Vice-President. She did, however, say such a question only dealt with one indicator of the quality of funding and that several other indicators had to be used to get the whole picture.

SAC News Analysis

After we went to press....

by E.P. Chant

At last night's full-council SAC meeting, several motions dealing in one way or another with various aspects of the tension within the executives were to be debated. They included the following.

A motion by Vice-President-Administration Jim Shaban and seconded by Vice-President-Finance Brad Mitchell which read: "Be it resolved that no post­ers be placed on the walls in the general office area of the SAC unless placed on the bulletin board that it is a rather strange solution to a problem that developed last week after SAC President David Simmons had put up a poster of a partic­ular political bent which several other members of the exec­utive did not think fitting for the general office.

A rather loud argument about the poster and its removal en­tered, and it appears that this motion was the result of that discussion. It seems strange that it is the locality for poster­ing and not the content of the posters themselves that coun­cil was asked to rule on.

Following that, a more point­ed motion was to be discussed, this one by Simmons and sec­onded by Shaban. It would have SAC establish a three-member committee (with no members from the Executive) examine the Executive tension by personal interviews with each Executive member.

The committee would then report its findings and recom­mendations on the situation to the full council at its next meeting.

At least this serves to dem­onstrate that at last the Execu­tive admits it has a problem and perhaps cannot solve it without some external help.

There are, however, problems with the committee idea. First, complaints by various members of the Executive may center around just what they think their jobs should be and what they actually are, and who they should be responsible to and to what degree. If the committee was to, then, advise a different division of authority than presently exists, its recommenda­tions might prove challenging (if not useless) until the SAC Constitution and By-Laws were changed to incorporate such a new set-up. Such a constitution­al revision would likely entail another committee and a great deal of time and work.

Second, the committee may never have the chance to get into gear since the whole idea of est­ablishing it might constitute "too little, too late." That is to say, the SAC Executive's problem may not be solved by the cool rationality of a council commit­tee, now, but by the campus­wide embarrassment of a presi­dential removal referendum.

The petition for such a ref­erendum is now the project of former SAC External Affairs Commissioner John Rizopoulos, since initiator Stan Gordon has now actively removed himself from the signature campaign.

In another motion, again a perhaps "too little, too late" one, Eric Davon will be asking for full-council support for Simmons "as the leader of the students at the University of Windsor."

More on this meeting next week.

Bette says we must learn to live within our means

by Wendy Coomber

with Peter Haggart

"Students, the situation is critical," began SAC President David Simmons as he introduced the Honorable Dr. Bette Ste­phanson, Minister of Colleges and Universities.

In front of a cafeteria full of lunch-minded students in the University Centre last Thurs­day (November 13), Simmons called upon the university to ask the government for a definite statement on funding.

What he got from Dr. Stephenson was laid out in true point fashion.

Her opening remarks centered on entering a "new and challeng­ing era," facing the threat of declining enrolment, and rising university expenditures.

"Students, we must learn to live within our means," said the government would do "if not useless) until the SAC estab­lished a three-member committee (with no members from the Executive) examine the Executive tension by personal interviews with each Executive member.

The committee would then report its findings and recom­mendations on the situation to the full council at its next meeting.

At least this serves to dem­onstrate that at last the Execu­tive admits it has a problem and perhaps cannot solve it without some external help.

There are, however, problems with the committee idea. First, complaints by various members of the Executive may center around just what they think their jobs should be and what they actually are, and who they should be responsible to and to what degree. If the committee was to, then, advise a different division of authority than presently exists, its recommenda­tions might prove challenging (if not useless) until the SAC Constitution and By-Laws were changed to incorporate such a new set-up. Such a constitution­al revision would likely entail another committee and a great deal of time and work.

Second, the committee may never have the chance to get into gear since the whole idea of est­ablishing it might constitute "too little, too late." That is to say, the SAC Executive's problem may not be solved by the cool rationality of a council commit­tee, now, but by the campus­wide embarrassment of a presi­dential removal referendum.

The petition for such a ref­erendum is now the project of former SAC External Affairs Commissioner John Rizopoulos, since initiator Stan Gordon has now actively removed himself from the signature campaign.

In another motion, again a perhaps "too little, too late" one, Eric Davon will be asking for full-council support for Simmons "as the leader of the students at the University of Windsor."

More on this meeting next week.

In this issue

Lots of letters p. 7-8

Dingler exhibit p. 10-11

Music Week p. 12

Johvan

Vol. LII, No. 11, November 21, 1980
LOST. WIDE GOLD WEDDING RING. Lost in the washroom of Dillon Hall Tuesday night. The ring was left to me by my grandmother just before the deed. Great sentimental value. Call Karen Ouellette 734-8932.

SOMEONE TOOK MY NAVY BLUE bomber jacket in the pub on Saturday night (and left his own). I would appreciate getting mine back. Call 254-6363 or see us in room 2311 in Ladder.

NEED TO CONTACT SKILLED druggist. Call George after 5 p.m. 256-19847.

LESBIAN AND GAY STUDENTS on campus dance, November 22 at University of Windsor Lounge, University of Windsor, Doors open at 8 p.m., $3.00 at door, $1.00 discount for University of Windsor students.

SLIDE SHOW ON THE LIFE OF Norman Bethune, Canadian doctor, artist and communist will be presented Friday, November 21 at noon in the University Centre, Conference Rooms 7 and 8. Sponsored by the Norman Bethune Club.

A PROFESSIONAL DEGREE Adds Direction to Your Undergraduate Degree

The Bachelor of Education Degree at the University of Toronto is worth looking into

You can find out more at an information session on Thursday, November 27, 1980 in the Alumni Dining Area University Centre at 12 noon

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

• Resume Preparation Service. Fast, Professional and Results Oriented

• JobHunting We have the clues - come and see us -

• Typing and Copying at 5¢ a Copy These - Dissertation and Term Papers.

• Housing Placement Service Come see us now for Jan. apartments near the campus.

• Research Assistance Services We assist in all kinds of research and tutoring.

IONA FORUM PRESENTS
A SLIDE/LECTURE PRESENTATION
"What Is So Special About Ojibway Prairie"
Paul Pratt, Naturalist at Centre

WHERE: IONA COLLEGE, 208 SUNSET AVE.

Bring or buy lunch

CALL 253-7257 TO RESERVE LUNCH

The Department of Indian and Northern Affairs makes available funds to university students for research in all disciplines conducted in the Northwest Territories, the Yukon, or other parts of Canada having environmental or social conditions similar to the North. During 1980, grants were awarded to ten University students, who carried out field studies at Old Crow, Churchill, and Frobisher Bay in anthropological, archaeological, biological, and physical geography. The 1980 competition is open to undergraduates and postgraduates at the fourth year Honours level. To apply, a student must submit a brief proposal containing the following information: an outline of the planned work and its significance, the locale or area in which the work is to be done, reference to any previous work by the candidate relevant to the proposal, and a preliminary budget and schedule of work. Applicants also must have the endorsement of an advisor from the university and must agree to oversee the progress of their research. Applications should be submitted no later than December 16, 1980 to Dr. J.D. Jacobs, Department of Geography, Chairman of the Northern Studies Committee.

Mitchell speaks

The department of English invites everyone to come and meet with W.O. Mitchell on Wednesday, November 26 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 190, Main Building. Mr. Mitchell is, perhaps, Canada's best known teacher, storyteller and humorist and the English Department considers itself fortunate to have him at itswinter-reunion again this year.

His talks always provide lively entertainment as well as valuable information about the creative process.
Bette bleats

The following is an excerpt from Dr. Bette Stephenson's opening statement last Thursday. The Minister of Colleges and Universities was introduced by RAC President David Simmons, who made reference to some recent criticism of the ministry's under-funding of universities and the student aid program.

She made an opening statement of approximately ten minutes (this excerpt), then answered questions for fifteen minutes (see page 1):

"I think it's particularly significant that I have the opportunity to meet with you today because we see this year beginning, with this fall term in fact, the first year of a new decade. The current academic term begins a new and challenging era, I believe—not just for universities but also for our province and our country.

"We're fortunate to live in Canada—to live in a country which is rich in natural resources, in a country amongst the nations of earth which has an abundance of energy, minerals, forestry, and human resources.

"But to take full advantage of these rich endowments, this country needs to maintain a strong industrial base which can compete effectively in the markets of the world and I believe that this decade is going to see a renewed emphasis on an area which has been, for too long neglected in Canada, research and development.

"I anticipate that the universities of the province of Ontario will be asked to play—and will play—a very important role both in research and in the education of young men and women who will contribute to the development of our natural resources, the development of our industrial base, and the service industries which are so important to our society because they enrich and enhance our social and cultural life.

"This university is situated very fortunately, as a matter of fact, in the industrial heartland of this province and this country and I think it's in the unique position to combine the theoretical background which is inherent in university education with the practical applications that our industrial institutions will, in fact, be demanding in the years ahead to help them to adjust to the reality that we have to face: the realities of the availability of energy, the realities of transportation technology, and I don't think that meeting this need is going to be a simple or an easy task for any institution of higher learning.

"The 1980s bring very serious challenges to post-secondary education and one of them is going to be a declining—sharply declining—traditional student population and that brings, of course, a threat to the level of enrolment.

"But I'm confident that the universities and the colleges are going to be meeting these challenges head-on and I'm aware, in fact, that the University of Windsor and St. Clair College have begun to do just that and they're beginning to look at opportunities because, as the population over the age of 25 grows, so will the opportunity to meet their needs for upgrading occupational skills in a rapidly changing society and economy.

"The speed of technological change points very strongly to one fact and that is that we must continue to develop our intellectual strengths if we're really going to meet the future with confidence. Universities and students enjoy a particularly favorable position in this.

"A recent graduate employment survey indicates that university graduates enjoy much better employment prospects than individuals with less education. They also enjoy relatively high starting salaries and they stress in the majority, greater satisfaction with the jobs they get upon graduation.

"Now, all of you are aware that during the time students are at university, the public, through its taxes, provides by far the largest proportion of the cost of the education which you are undertaking, about 85 percent of that cost, in fact. This year, we estimate the student's share of the universities' operating budgets will, in fact, be approximately 15 percent and students from all economic and social backgrounds, in fact, benefit from this public subsidy of university costs.

"For students from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, the student assistance program provides direct aid to help them and their families to meet the costs which come with university. Just a little over 18 percent of all university students at all of our universities received direct assistance in the form of grants and loans. Almost $65 million was spent, by the citizens of the province of Ontario, on direct grants to students and on loan remissions and a further $91 million was extended in the form of both federal and provincial student loans.

"The survey that has been carried out by the Task Force on Student Assistance, which was established last November, has, in fact, demonstrated that the full-time university students who received the benefits of our Ontario Study Grant program are receiving the most generous assistance in this country. It is unlike other countries, Ontario allows must financially needy students to obtain grant assistance first without requiring loan for their first four years of study necessarily.

"The last major addition to OSAP was directed towards that possibility—directed to dependent, "New-base" students, so that a greater proportion of aid would be received by those in the lower socio-economic groups.

"I have to tell you that, at the same time, the national student aid program has become somewhat less effective, I believe, in meeting student needs. For example, the needs of students in part-time programs and in variable-length programs have not really been given adequate recognition under the Canada Student Assistance Program. And rigid loan ceilings are limiting the access of students to loan funds resulting in the federal budget for aid being under-utilized year after year for the past five years.

"It was, therefore, extremely anxious that the national student assistance program be reviewed and have pressed for some time for that kind of review and was, therefore, pleased when the former Secretary of State—that is, the one in the short-lived government between May and December of last year—agreed that, indeed, a task force should be established. My colleagues in other provinces also agreed that we should participate in this and that task force has now almost completed its work.

"I might add as well, that in cooperation, as I'm sure most of you know, with the Ontario Federation of Students, we are in the process of the development of a stratification study which I think will be a tremendous assistance to all of us in formulating future student assistance policies and in ensuring that those policies, indeed, meet the requirement of student accessibility.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I believe that the industrial core of Ontario is absolutely vital to the future of this country, and I think this university is in a unique position to serve not just this region but, indeed, this province and this country very well in its larger economic and social development which are absolutely essential to an improved society in the future.

COME ON DOWN! \to The Price is Rite

GRAND OPENING

2065 WYANDOTTE WEST
Next to Nantais Sport Shop

LOOK AT THESE PRICES AND SAVINGS

FREE BELT TO FIRST 300 CUSTOMERS NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

ALL JEANS AND CORDS RANGING FROM $30.00 TO $45.00 SUG. RETAIL
ALL AT $15.99 TO $21.99

$70.00 REVERSIBLE SKI JACKETS $39.99
$55.00 SKI JACKETS $29.99

$36.00 LADIES' SWEATERS $28.00 LADIES' BLouses, TOPS, BLOUCHE'S, BLAZERS
$30.00 MEN'S SHIRTS, WESTERN ETC.

ALL AT 40% TO 60% OFF SUG. RETAIL

THE DISCOUNT CLOTHING CENTRES

WINDSOR LEAMINGTON HARROW

30 to 60% off 52 weeks a year

THE PRICE IS RITE

10 to 6 Mon. - Thurs. 10 till 9:00 All Day Saturday

E.P. CHANT
Employment survey implants new hope for grads

by Brian Williamson

The "Employment Survey of 1979 Graduates of Ontario Universities" of over 20,000 graduates within a year of graduation has some encouraging results.

First, the Ministry of Colleges and Universities report notes an overall unemployment rate of only 4.9 percent for grads was discovered.

Second, an 18.5 percent increase in salaries within the first nine months of employment was reported by students surveyed.

For almost 40 percent of jobs, no degree was required said the results.

Graduates within a year of graduation has some encouraging increase in salaries within the "universities of over 20,000 respondents, 1 percent had left Ontario and the "local demand for some jobs (engineering and applied science-related positions) is great!"

Additionally, Musgrave and the 1979 survey seem to agree on the fact that, simply, there are jobs for graduates of Ontario universities. Business and Commerce, Engineering and Applied Science as well as Law and Medicine graduates have, indeed, the highest placement records according to the survey.

On the local level, Director of Student Placement Services at the University of Windsor, Stuart Musgrave has reiterated stagnant economy as the reason for relocation to other areas of Ontario and for the "Western exodus". Yet, he also contends that the "local demand for some jobs (engineering and applied science-related positions) is great!"

The problem of regional inequality figures prominently in the federal government's proposals. Blais said there were plans to employ a new formula to combat the exigencies nurtured by economic and social inequalities. Negotiation and reformulated legislation will act to ease the burden on "have not" provinces, while dealing equitably with the economically self-sufficient provinces.

Jean-Jacques Blais and the BNA

by Peter Heastovec

"I am a member of a national parliament, seized by a great responsibility".

With that, the Honourable Jean-Jacques Blais, federal Minister of Supply and Services, set the tone of his address concerning the new constitutional package offered by the federal government. The occasion was the annual First Year Law Fall Banquet, held last week at the Ciociaro Club on North Talbot Road.

Speaking to about two hundred law students and their guests, Blais confirmed the federal government's commitment to protection of the British North America Act, an endeavour that is not taking shape in the British Parliament.

On the issue of the new constitution's entrenched Bill of Rights, the Minister stated it was the "serious obligation of Canadians" to identify their rights on behalf of their fellow citizens. Blais emphasized that language education rights will be a fundamental issue in the debate over the new constitutional package.

The Minister said if the provinces fail to come up with a new amending procedure within two years after adopting the new constitution, the federal government will then implement the Victoria Charter of 1971, an amending formula which is thought to best represent the diverse interests of the country.

Head table guests at the banquet included Essex Bar Association President Tony Cutinato, I.A.W. lawyer Jennifer Carus, Senior Provincial Court Judge Gordon Stewart, University of Windsor Chairman of the Board of Governors John McCormay, Provincial Court Judge Harry Mottomo, Citizenship Court Judge Valerie Kamrak, Student Law Society Executives Kevin Sisk and Mary Pascuzzi and, banquet organizers Jane Milanetti and Hercules Fage.
Food committee plays “mother” to residences

by Wendy Cooper

Feeling the pans of terminal hunger, the residence food director called on Mother to fix us a peanut-butter-strawberry jam deli sandwich.

But “Mother” is a long way away for the residence people. They must rely on Brenda Wilson, committee representative from Huron Hall, and Dave McMurray, Director of Food Services.

These two men represent the residence university, respectively, and also form a part of the university’s Food Committee. This group also includes Ron Gleiser, cafeteria manager, Rick Zago, SAC Commission of Ancillary Services, and students from six of the seven residences.

The students receive the complaints of their residences and pass them on to the Johnstone and McMurray who will try to find some solution to the problem.

“Generally, the Food Committee is concerned with what the students want,” explained Martha Collins, representative from Laurier Hall.

She said this year the committee was trying to increase the contact between itself and the residences. However, Jeff Leal, representative of Elcota Hall, said at the beginning of the year, “People didn’t know that the Food Committee actually existed.”

Notes of the committee’s meetings are now posted on the bulletin boards for everyone to see and the response is much better. So far, one of the main problems facing students who must eat at the Vanier Hall cafeteria is that of running out of scrip. The University of Windsor is on the Scrip Plan. This means that when the residence student pays for his room, he also buys one half or one whole year’s supply of scrip. These “notes” take the place of money when paying for meals.

Brenda Wilson, committee representative from Huron Hall, said one of the main concerns in Huron, and in the residences in general, is the food pricing at Vanier. She said, for many students in her residence scrip is not lasting the required length of time, which is half the year for Huron Hall. After the scrip runs out, students are left on their own to find their meals.

Dave McMurray finds the problem recurring most in the last five years of the committee. It has been that of menu choice and lineups at the cash register.

Alberta post-secondary scholarships strike oil

EDMONTON (CPI) The Alberta government left critics cut down specifically about the financial policies afoot with its announcement of a $100 million heritage scholarship fund.

The scholarship will be financed from the interest on investments in the heritage savings and trust fund.

$5.3 million will be awarded in 1980-81, four per year of the new program. But advanced education minister Don Horsman said the individual awards and the total amounts are flexible.

Horsman claimed the scholarship fund will be the only one of its kind.

The scholarship and awards program will be unique in the western world, he said.

In addition, $1 million will be available in 1980-81 for athletic and recreational scholarships.

The $15,000 first year scholarships apply to all students who maintained an 80 percent average in grades 10, 11, and 12.

In addition, first year students who do not maintain 80 percent through all three grades will be paid separately for each, $100 for grade 10, $500 for grade 11 and $700 for grade 12.

Five hundred $3000 undergraduate awards will be offered to second, third and fourth year students and $300 for grade 10, $500 for grade 11, and $700 for grade 12.

Each $1000 under­graduate awards will be offered to second, third and fourth year students. These awards will be given on the basis of academic standing.

Twenty masters and post­graduate professional students will be eligible for $10,000 awards. In addition, up to twenty people in Ph.D. programs will receive $15,000 scholarships. Both the masters and doctoral scholarships may be used to study abroad as well as in Alberta.

Further, ten more awards of $10,000, and $15,000 will be given in 1980-81 to members of the labour force who return to school for postgraduate training.

Pagan concepts of God

by Debbie Staley

Twentieth century pagans accuse

On Sunday, November 30, at 8:00 p.m., Mortimer Adler, the “pagans philosopher,” will be appearing at the University Centre. The event is part of the Christian Culture Series.

Along with being a noted philosopher, Adler’s achievements also include writing, teaching, lecturing and editing. Adler was also the force behind the latest edition of the Encyclo­pedia Britannica.

However, the 20th century has suggested a new role for Adler. As he says, “I am a twentieth century pagan . . . and I believe a book about God for pagans should be written by a pagan, but one who is deeply concerned with the question of God’s existence and with trying to establish the reasonableness of belief in God.”

As a result, Adler has publish­ed a book, How to Think about God: A Guide for the 20th Century Pagan, which he feels answers this need.

During his appearance, Adler will express his philosophies and suggest “possible ways of bridging the gulf between philosophy and faith.”

The lecture will also attempt to correct any misinterpretations of the term “20th century pagan” and attempt to establish a new understanding.

What to do with an empty Blue.

When you’re smiling, call for Labatt’s Blue.

When you’re smiling, call for Labatt’s Blue.
Students find their questions are way out to lunch

"We've got some good news and some bad news" said two government reports which were released recently.

The bad news came in the form of a report by the Ontario Council on University Affairs (OCUA), an advisory board to the provincial Ministry of Colleges and Universities. System Rationalization: A Responsibility and An Opportunity (cost-cutting title) shook its finger at the higher-education institutions of this province and said, in effect, "Your under-graduate programs have been growing without school-to-school coordination and any semblance of planning in any form and that's dumb." There were a lot of rousing words there too, but basically that's the report. And a dang reasonable report it is, too.

Granted, enrollment at this and some other universities in round Ontario has been going up for the past couple of years, defying all the past predictions about hard-times, but even the most heavily-drugged administrator in the province is not thinking by this to continue. A major enrollment drop is going to hit higher-education soon - if not next year, then the year after.

Even realizing this, many universities (even those already in severe financial trouble) are plowing ahead with new undergraduate programs which may very well be, as the OCUA report says, unnecessary duplications of excellent programs already existing at other schools.

Money doesn't grow on trees, you know. Hey, there's a coinable phrase (pun intended).

Out of the "good news" chute, we find the same mini­ try's Employment Survey of 1979 Graduates of Ontario Univer­ sities. This little cheerer-upper shows that having a univer­ sity degree really does help one to get a job - and a job with satisfaction about starting salary, opportunities for advancement, and personal initiative.

Now that's exciting. Here you were, crying in your beer about how rotten your classes were, how you were, crying in your beer about how rotten your classes were, how you're a blood ocean.

The list of arguments goes on and on. Many people would rather appreciate the reality of the situation and that was the only reason the visit was not a success. Is the quality of the education that was supposed to be given to the students of Ontario that it is now in serious trouble?

The Fortnighter

by John Miller

An age old question for students is "Do THEY run society for our benefit or for their own?" Following are some excerpts from the recent questionnaire I have heard passed about.

Hey, I heard the CIA is supposed to investigate the drug trade in Viet-Nam but actually THEY run it and upper shows that having a university degree really does help one to get a job - and a job with satisfaction about starting salary, opportunities for advancement, and personal initiative.

Which of the following is the best way to succeed in life?

a. work hard and be honest
b. work hard and be dishonest

c. work hard and be lazy

What are your views on the Vietnam War?

a. it is a terrible waste of human lives and resources
b. it is an essential step towards world peace

c. it is a necessary evil in the struggle against communism

What is your opinion on the death penalty?

a. it is a cruel and inhumane form of punishment
b. it is an effective deterrent to crime

c. it is unjust and inconsistent with the principles of democracy

What is the most important issue facing society today?

a. poverty and inequality
b. environmental degradation

c. international terrorism

What is your opinion on the role of government in society?

a. government should be limited to providing basic services
b. government should be proactive in solving social problems

c. government should be heavily involved in the economy

The Lance offers a unique perspective on the world and its citizens. Through the eyes of our student editors, we explore the complexities of life in a way that challenges and inspires. The Lance is published every Friday at the Student Media Corporation, University of Windsor.

Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the students and do not necessarily represent the University of Windsor or the Students' Administrative Council.

The Lance Office is located at the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor, 400 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Phone (519) 253-4060. Subscriptions start at $18.00 per year. Entered as Second Class Mail at the Post Office of Canada.
Dear Editor:

As the students' representative, it is imperative that I inform them about the state of the students' Administrative Council in light of the numerous unconfirmed charges that have been leveled recently.

History is replete with examples of good leaders and names which come instantly to mind are those of Churchill, DeGaulle and John Kennedy. I am not in any way trying to liken myself into any of these individuals. The point I am trying to make is that when their styles have all been different, they all showed one thing in common: they had the courage, their ability to remain calm in the face of opposition and the extraordinaire gifts of leadership.

It is rather unfortunate that my attempts to be assertive in my leadership have been characterized by criticism. One week ago, I was accused of not delegating authority and responsibility. Perhaps it was because I do not attempt to become assertive and delegate responsibilities that I should also be called for noon, today (Friday). All regular staff members have been agitated on their behalf.

In my attempts to de-catechize this crisis, I asked for the resignation of John Ritchiepouls. This is not to imply or suggest that he is the sole cause of the problem. He may have handed his resignation in before he received my letter, but there is absolutely no doubt that he knew that I had asked for his resignation. John also accused me of "bullying" and being classified as an "intellectual elitist of the day." Again, Mr. Editor, I did not threaten John. Further, I have no intentions whatsoever of using force. The only weapon I intend to use is the truth about this whole crisis I am in. I have never used any other and I know I never shall.

I recognize the extent of democracy and do not believe democracy will prevail at all times. However, the movement to improve our world must have the courage, their ability to remain calm in the face of opposition and the extraordinaire gifts of leadership.

Lance promoting "legalised murder"?

Dear Editor:

I am writing to complain about ads for East Gyn, a Detroit abortion clinic, appearing in recent issues of The Lance.

I do not think that The Lance is acting in the best interests of the students of this university in aiding, not prescribing, but promoting "pro-choice" views by printing such ads. Abortion is already virtually legal in Ontario, and the laws are not likely to be repealed. The mere availability of abortion does, enough, not promote the idea that one need only take responsibility for one's acts. Therefore, advertisements for abortion will not be bringing this form of birth control in protest against SAC's advertising policies. Reference here is made to the 1980-81 Student-Blonder handout and in particular to the use of provocative advertisements who are selling abortion services.

It is not only this ad offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours.

Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Granted, the harm has done, and will be coordinated in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Jennifor L.

Religious Rebuttal

Dear Editor:

I do not want to antagonize anyone here. Anyone who wishes to believe it, I offer the following argument:

God has always used the man and woman relationship as an illustration of his love for his people, for example, Ephesians 5:22-23. The Greek word for "wife" used in this and every other New Testament instance is Gyna, meaning "woman". The word is also used in the Old Testament as an important symbol throughout the Old and New Testaments.

The sex relationship is more than just a love relationship; it is a small scale model of creation. In Genesis 2:26, 1 Cor. 1:12, 5:1, 5:1, 5:1 (9, 12, 14), does it not follow that our actions are an example to all heaven?

The society in general, heterosexuality, etc., fit into this picture?

If man had believed the truth of creation as set forth in Romans 1:20, there would not be the problem seen in verses 26, 27. In conclusion, we need to follow the counsel of 1 Cor. 13:4: "know ye not that we shall judge the world? Doth any man dare to minster more things that pertain to this life?"

Jennifor L.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 11, November 21, 1980, Page Seven

Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for publication. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.

Simmons remains calm in the face of adversity

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.

Dear Mr. Simmons and Council:

It is not without some difficulty that I am writing to you on such a delicate matter as this. Abortion is already legal in Ontario. I am here not to present any legal evidence against this, but to protest strongly against SAC's printing of this advertisement. SAC's advertising policy is not only offensive to me, but to the very Christian tradition which founded and sustains this university of ours. Such a policy, especially in free handouts, purports that the students of the University of Windsor under your council's leadership are encouraging and promoting what a majority of Windsor's citizenry would consider "legalised murder".

Again, this was mailed to Simmons and copies to the editor and advertising director of The Lance.
University underfunding rampages across Ontario

Dear Editor:

Lately, many university administrators have had to comment on the universities' situation. In an interview with The Standard in St. Catharines, the president of Brock University has said that Ontario universities "can't do as good of a job" as in the past while receiving the lowest level of grant per student in the entire country.

The president of McMaster University wrote a little further and warned that university is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The Chairman of the Board at the University of Guelph painted an even grimmer picture by stating that "if more money is not made available, the University may have to close some of the universities."

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

Our prices don't come to us about the government's concerns in respect to underfunding. Coupled with these cutbacks to our educational system, students still face rising tuition fees for which there seems to be no immediate solution. To add insult to injury, the student aid program has not only "failed" to meet the satisfaction of those who need it but has continued to be inadequately distributed. For those of you who do not think this is important, just remember the percentage of the students who attend school here receive some assistance. However, if tuition fees continue to rise as they have then even student aid will be of little help.

Lately, many university administrators have had to comment on the universities' situation. In an interview with The Standard in St. Catharines, the president of Brock University has said that Ontario universities "can't do as good of a job" as in the past while receiving the lowest level of grant per student in the entire country.

The president of McMaster University wrote a little further and warned that university is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The Chairman of the Board at the University of Guelph painted an even grimmer picture by stating that "if more money is not made available, the University may have to close some of the universities."

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

Our prices don't come to us about the government's concerns in respect to underfunding. Coupled with these cutbacks to our educational system, students still face rising tuition fees for which there seems to be no immediate solution. To add insult to injury, the student aid program has not only "failed" to meet the satisfaction of those who need it but has continued to be inadequately distributed. For those of you who do not think this is important, just remember the percentage of the students who attend school here receive some assistance. However, if tuition fees continue to rise as they have then even student aid will be of little help.

Lately, many university administrators have had to comment on the universities' situation. In an interview with The Standard in St. Catharines, the president of Brock University has said that Ontario universities "can't do as good of a job" as in the past while receiving the lowest level of grant per student in the entire country.

The president of McMaster University wrote a little further and warned that university is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The Chairman of the Board at the University of Guelph painted an even grimmer picture by stating that "if more money is not made available, the University may have to close some of the universities."

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

Our prices don't come to us about the government's concerns in respect to underfunding. Coupled with these cutbacks to our educational system, students still face rising tuition fees for which there seems to be no immediate solution. To add insult to injury, the student aid program has not only "failed" to meet the satisfaction of those who need it but has continued to be inadequately distributed. For those of you who do not think this is important, just remember the percentage of the students who attend school here receive some assistance. However, if tuition fees continue to rise as they have then even student aid will be of little help.

Lately, many university administrators have had to comment on the universities' situation. In an interview with The Standard in St. Catharines, the president of Brock University has said that Ontario universities "can't do as good of a job" as in the past while receiving the lowest level of grant per student in the entire country.

The president of McMaster University wrote a little further and warned that university is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The Chairman of the Board at the University of Guelph painted an even grimmer picture by stating that "if more money is not made available, the University may have to close some of the universities."

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.

Our prices don't come to us about the government's concerns in respect to underfunding. Coupled with these cutbacks to our educational system, students still face rising tuition fees for which there seems to be no immediate solution. To add insult to injury, the student aid program has not only "failed" to meet the satisfaction of those who need it but has continued to be inadequately distributed. For those of you who do not think this is important, just remember the percentage of the students who attend school here receive some assistance. However, if tuition fees continue to rise as they have then even student aid will be of little help.

Lately, many university administrators have had to comment on the universities' situation. In an interview with The Standard in St. Catharines, the president of Brock University has said that Ontario universities "can't do as good of a job" as in the past while receiving the lowest level of grant per student in the entire country.

The president of McMaster University wrote a little further and warned that university is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The Chairman of the Board at the University of Guelph painted an even grimmer picture by stating that "if more money is not made available, the University may have to close some of the universities."

The government's own Admissions Council on University Affairs says that continued underfunding by Queen's Park has affected the quality of all university operations from undergraduate instruction to research efforts.

Those of us at the University of Windsor, and universities across Ontario are entering a severe crisis. We have to convince the government about the right to an education. Unfortunately, we have to attend to in the future.
So where are the university’s greenbacks grown?

by Joan Butler
with the McMaster Silhouette and the Queen’s Journal

Have you ever wondered how and where the university invests its money?

Well, it is invested by one man and the money is put in Canadian banks and trust companies which have offices in Windsor.

Joseph E. Schiller, Director of Finance, is the man solely responsible for generating the maximising of the amount of money received by the university. He follows the policy formulated by the Board of Governors and reports to this body monthly on the financial status of the university.

The university’s investments are made on a short-term basis, which is anywhere from one day to six months. The reason for the short terms, said Mr. Schiller, is because, "we don’t have much money."

President Mervyn Franklin said that the university has a small endowment, this is why there are no long-term investments such as trust bonds.

Mr. Schiller said, "All investments are termed to come back for payment," or when needed to pay bills. A one-day investment demands a six digit amount to create a worthwhile return, said Mr. Schiller.

One day investments are possible for the university, he said, because fees, government grants and donations are received at various times and the money is invested for one day if it is needed for the next.

An example of how valuable a one day investment can be, Mr. Schiller said a day’s investment can clear the bank the next day. He added, "We make a considerable amount on it."

Mr. Schiller said the cash position of the university is checked every morning and, if funds are not required immediately, they are invested until they are.

In essence, what the university does is lend money to banks. Mr. Schiller or his secretary call nine or ten banks or companies on the morning the decision to invest is made and the money is given to "the one that gives us the best rate," said Mr. Schiller. If rates are the same, we give it to the firm with the least money," he added.

He said they will keep renewing the investment if it is not needed when the period is up. He said it is sure about investments he makes, therefore he has never had to withdraw money before the period was up.

Scholarships are the only university funds invested for long terms, said Schiller. The money for scholarships is donated by individuals and companies and they determine the amount. Mr. Schiller said his office "keeps a principle intact," and pay the scholarship with the interest generated.

The University of Windsor, because of its small endowment, has to depend on shorter-term investments instead of investing on a long-term basis in Canadian and foreign companies. However, said Schiller, the banks and trust companies where they lend their money may invest in foreign companies.

Because of this lack of direct control, the Board of Governors has no policy regulating the morality of university investments, as does the Board of Hamilton’s McMaster University. McMaster’s Board of Governors recently adopted such a policy because a lot of the investment money came from public donations and donating people and firms wanted to be able to express views on where the money was going, instead of it being left up to the decision of those within the university.

The McMaster Finance Committee (the University of Windsor does not have one because Mr. Schiller is solely responsible for investments), can divert the invested funds only if it feels the investment is not morally acceptable, and as long as it does not jeopardise the university’s financial health.

Queen’s Student Action Committee (QSAC) recently protested outside a Board of Trustees meeting, demanding it take a stand against Noranda Mines investment in Chile. Queen’s, a shareholder in Noranda.

A spokesman for QSAC Gary Benton, said the board should be more concerned with social responsibility. Queen’s students voted against the Noranda investment "because of Chile’s repressive dictatorship."

While after the protest, the Alma Mater Society (AMS) Policy of the University of Windsor to maximize the money was going, instead of being left up to the decision of those within the university, said the letter.

The following are this university’s Board of Governors’ investment regulations:

\[
\text{Resolution passed at the Board of Governors Meeting of October 14, 1975.}
\]

RESOLVED that the resolution adopting the Investment Policy of the University of Windsor be passed by the Board of Governors on the 11th day of March 1975 be rescinded and that the following be substituted therefor.

RESOLVED that it be the Investment Policy of the University of Windsor to maximize yield while providing for security of capital and ready access to funds through the following plan:

\[
\begin{align*} \text{a) To invest current funds for a term of no longer than six months in securities from} \\ \text{the following list:} \\
\text{Treat Companies having offices in Windsor, Chartered Banks, Federal Treasury Bills, Notes of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, provided that the amount of such investment be limited to the sum of $1,500,000, with any institution in the said category with the exception of Chatered Banks.} \\ \text{b) To invest trust funds in aggregate amounts not more than 34% for a term of not longer than one year, 33% for a term of not longer than five years, 33% for a term of not longer than ten years, in securities on the list of current funds, subject to the restrictions upon amounts of investment therein applied, supplemented by the following list: Government of Canada, Province of Ontario, Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Securities authorized for Trustees, Securities authorized for Life Insurance Companies.}
\end{align*}
\]

Resolution passed at the February meeting of the Board of Governors of the University meeting of September 11, 1980 RESOLVED that the University’s Investment Policy be amended to provide for inclusion of Broker’s Loans as approved forms of investment provided they are fully secured by Treasury Bills.

Don’t be a rat - send The Lance some poetry

EAST GYN

- ABORTIONS TO 24 WEEKS
- IMMEDIATE APPOINTMENTS
- COUNSELING & FOLLOW-UP CARE
- WARM & SYMPATHETIC STAFF
- ASSISTANCE WITH BIRTH CONTROL
- PREGNANCY TESTS
- LOCAL ANESTHESIA

ONE LOW MEDICAL Fee COVERS ALL COSTS INCLUDING PRESCRIPTIONS ON ALL SERVICES

BLUE CROSS, MEDICAD
VISA, MASTER CHARGE
OB/GYN’S ON STAFF
(313) 526-3600
15650 E. 8 Mile Rd. Near Eastland, Detroit

FREE $5 GIFT CERTIFICATE
With any jean purchase. To use yourself or give as a Christmas Gift.

Look for these Designer Names...

Sasson — H.I.S. — Mirelli
Leo Chevalier — Fancy Ass...
Clockwise from below: Dinger with Couple (mixed media); Piper Sitting Boy Series I, II, III (litho, photo litho, mixed media); Dinger spray. Show ends December 4. More on page 12.
Gler Display

fferent

Photographs by E.P. Chant and Ed McMahon Pilot flies into SAC'S

by Lance Entertainment Staff

When you drop into SAC's this weekend remember: Pilot is a band that will take a nose dive or soar on your personal music chart. In other words, you'll either love 'em or hate 'em. This four man band comes from the London area and have been together for less than one year. And considering this they're a pretty tight group of musicians.

They handled their instruments as well as they wore their long hair, although I have to say some of the songs could have been performed better. Their selections came from the top 40 FM list, and included numbers by Styx, Supertramp, Yes and Genesis. They also did a few of their own original pieces, which turned out to be your middle-of-the-road rock.

Pilot seemed to rely heavily on songs with a lot of keyboard, but this wasn't always to their advantage, as the keyboardist was the least adept musician of the group. Their sound system and lighting effects are top notch.

So if you like raunchy rock, see you at the landing strip... oops, I mean the pub.

Wednesday, November 26
Student Recital
12:10 pm
Room 126 School of Music
Perey Young, lecture on Grove's Dictionary
Recital Hall, School of Music
St. Barnabus Church

Windsor Symphony String Quartet
8:00 pm
Moot Court, Law Bldg., University of Windsor ($5.00)

Thursday, November 27
Electronic Music, Allan Bevan
8:00 pm
Recital Hall, School of Music

Friday, November 28
Brunswick String Quartet
8:15 pm
Moot Court, Law Bldg., University of Windsor

Saturday, November 29
String Workshop, Brunswick String Quartet
10:10 am
School of Music
O.R.M.T.A. Canadian Composers Student Recital
7:00 pm
St. Cecile Academy, Tecumseh

Sunday, November 30
University Concert Band, James Tamburini, conductor
3:00 pm
Ambassador Auditorium, University of Windsor

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by Rosemarie Comisso

Gloria has all the ingredients of a 1942 B-movie: an ex-gangster moll and an orphaned boy who are on the lam from the mob.

To overcompensate for this outdated theme, writer/director John Cassavetes, exhausts all other avenues or creativity available to him.

He has hired his talented wife, Gena Rowlands, to play the lead, written snappy dialogue for the little boy, thrown in extensive recent footage of New York city, and underscored the film with upbeat jazz by Bill Conti. However, aside from the taut performance by Rowlands, these futile attempts serve as nothing more than padding for a plot that wears thin, right from the start.

Gloria (Rowlands) inherits her little friend, Phil (John Adames), when she knocks on her neighbour's apartment door to borrow some coffee. It seems that daddy (Buck Henry), has been an accountant for the mob and has made the mistake of blabbing to the police about the illegal operations which puts his life in jeopardy.

Phil finds sanctuary in Gloria's apartment just in time, as the fatal shots killing his family are heard moments later.

Knowing the mob will be looking for them both, Gloria grabs a suitcase, gun, and Phil and begins a long and dangerous flight to safety.

When Gloria does come face-to-face with her criminal friends, she usually holds them at gunpoint until she can escape, so sometimes popping off a few rounds of her six-shooter. Amidst all this action, Phil and Gloria have a love/hate relationship. Their conversations are as predictable as the contrived set of circumstances they are involved in.

It is this predictability which contributes to the downfall of the film.

In the end, Gloria remains just another movie about a gruff and surly adult who succumbs to the love and adoration of a small child.
Dingler exhibit in University Centre Gallery

by Patrick Sedlar

Last Friday night a new approximately 150 people gathered for the opening of Daniel Dingler’s one man art show in the University Centre’s new Gallery.

Dingler, a graduate of the Layton School of Art and the Cranbrook Academy of Art, has been teaching lithography, drawing and painting and sculpture at the University of Windsor’s Visual Arts Department for the past ten years. As part of his show, he presents polychrome works in media including: panel, spray paint, litho, photo litho, and collage in various combinations; sometimes all at once. Recent drawings even employ vinyl photo-mental wallpaper as their background.

One view the works, one quickly notices two recurring elements running throughout; in all but one or two cases, Dingler deconstructs the human figure and more importantly, huge, floating tubelike structures that weave throughout the pieces. The question immediately arises: exactly what do these forms represent and what purpose do they serve? Are they masks, simple tube forms (as one tube suggests), or are they in fact (as more than one examiner has suspected) giant phallic symbols?

The artist claims “they are and they aren’t phallic symbols;” that is, the viewers can make of them whatever they like. Dingler himself is merely using the shapes as the means to his controlling the viewer. Most people, he says, think that art should be pretty, relaxing and fairly mundane. Dingler wants his art to be exciting, disturbing and thought-provoking. His use of the cylindrical shape is a way of not allowing us to get “too comfortable” with art; it involves the viewer with what Dingler calls the “perception of shapes and relates to the psychological revulsion to tubular forms. Dingler feels that in the way he is controlling the viewer, making him un-comfortable and making him face it. “I like to see (the viewer) stark naked,” he goes, “throw him out into the snow, and watch him squirm.”

Huge floating tubelike structures

Beyond all of this, Dingler’s tubes and pictures themselves are meant to represent a tactile experience. One can feel the depth of the paper plane as a shape recedes to the far background and then suddenly pops back out at the viewer. Adding to this sense of depth is the varying use of muted and strong colours. As one might expect, delicacy in line and colour is kept to a maximum in the presence of such bold statements, yet still there is no deficiency in drafting precision.

A notable example is the piece entitled “Amtram” (pic- tured nearby) which portrays a young boy (in fact, the artist’s son). Amid all the swirling, twisting tube shapes is a finely delineated and tender portrait of the boy which, whether Dingler uses to admit it or not, is very lovely and quite pleasing to view.

As director of the University Centre Gallery, Dingler was quite pleased with the new gallery facilities. Deemed “a beautiful space” for shows of this smaller size, the new gallery contained somewhat insufficient lighting, but Dingler claimed this was his own fault and it would be corrected.

While the uninstructed might find the art of Dan Dingler bizarre or even shocking, those acquainted with the artist find as much enjoyment in his work as they do in the man himself. Dingler, after all, is notorious for his delight in the outrageous and, in fact, has a reputation of being somewhat outrageous himself.

Showtime

The show is open to the public from 9 am to 5 pm weekdays, and from 1 pm to 4 pm weekends. It runs in the University Centre Gallery until December 4th. For more photos of the Dingler Show, see the center spread on pages 10 and 11.

Ten years on the tour, André Gagnon still diversifying

by Peter Hagget

Tuesday evening patrons at the Glazy Auditorium were treated to a concert performed by one of Canada’s leading contemporary pianist/composers, André Gagnon.

Gagnon, along with his nine piece touring orchestra is on the last leg of an eight month Canadian tour on which he has touched all provinces.

He third visit to Windsor, Gagnon’s performance was not just a repetition of past endeavours. “Each tour we put on a different show, a different experience, really this tour is like starting all over again,” Gagnon explained.

His English is only fair, but that’s not what the people came to hear. For twelve years this Quebecois pianist has gained worldwide popularity.

Amidst his evening performance were old favorites such as “Niggen” and “Wow”; feather new, but already a standard among followers, Gagnon also treated his audience to his flowing three-part “Movements”, the title track from his last album.

Due to the demise of London Records, Gagnon has signed to record on the Capitol label. The pianist hopes to release yet another album this spring. His Tuesday concerts were specially to showcase his latest works.

Gagnon’s older albums profess a style of short and snappy numbers, a technique found not so much on his later works. Gagnon explains “As i grow older, i have gained more confidence in my writing abilities, enabling me to write the longer movements.”

“Theme with Six Variations” and “Meltdown” are two examples of works that are not immediately associated with the man himself. This arrangement of simple tube forms (as one examine r has suspected) giant phallic symbols;

The artist claims “they are and they aren’t phallic symbols;” that is, the viewers can make of them whatever they like. Dingler himself is merely using the shapes as the means to his controlling the viewer. Most people, he says, think that art should be pretty, relaxing and fairly mundane. Dingler wants his art to be exciting, disturbing and thought-provoking. His use of the cylindrical shape is a way of not allowing us to get “too comfortable” with art; it involves the viewer with what Dingler calls the “perception of shapes and relates to the psychological revulsion to tubular forms. Dingler feels that in the way he is controlling the viewer, making him un-comfortable and making him face it. “I like to see (the viewer) stark naked,” he goes, “throw him out into the snow, and watch him squirm.”

No, André Gagnon is not suffering from ‘meltdown’. It’s just a terrible picture.

His third visit to Windsor, Gagnon’s performance was not just a repetition of past endeavours. “Each tour we put on a different show, a different experience, really this tour is like starting all over again,” Gagnon explained.

His English is only fair, but that’s not what the people came to hear. For twelve years this Quebecois pianist has gained worldwide popularity.

Amidst his evening performance were old favorites such as “Niggen” and “Wow”; feather new, but already a standard among followers, Gagnon also treated his audience to his flowing three-part “Movements”, the title track from his last album.

Due to the demise of London Records, Gagnon has signed to record on the Capitol label. The pianist hopes to release yet another album this spring. His Tuesday concert show was specially to showcase his latest works.

Gagnon’s older albums profess a style of short and snappy numbers, a technique found not so much on his later works. Gagnon explains “As i grow older, i have gained more confidence in my writing abilities, enabling me to write the longer movements.”

“Theme with Six Variations” and “Meltdown” are two examples of works that are not immediately associated with the man himself. This arrangement of simple tube forms (as one examine r has suspected) giant phallic symbols;

The artist claims “they are and they aren’t phallic symbols;” that is, the viewers can make of them whatever they like. Dingler himself is merely using the shapes as the means to his controlling the viewer. Most people, he says, think that art should be pretty, relaxing and fairly mundane. Dingler wants his art to be exciting, disturbing and thought-provoking. His use of the cylindrical shape is a way of not allowing us to get “too comfortable” with art; it involves the viewer with what Dingler calls the “perception of shapes and relates to the psychological revulsion to tubular forms. Dingler feels that in the way he is controlling the viewer, making him un-comfortable and making him face it. “I like to see (the viewer) stark naked,” he goes, “throw him out into the snow, and watch him squirm.”

No, André Gagnon is not suffering from ‘meltdown’. It’s just a terrible picture.

His third visit to Windsor, Gagnon’s performance was not just a repetition of past endeavours. “Each tour we put on a different show, a different experience, really this tour is like starting all over again,” Gagnon explained.

His English is only fair, but that’s not what the people came to hear. For twelve years this Quebecois pianist has gained worldwide popularity.

Amidst his evening performance were old favorites such as “Niggen” and “Wow”; feather new, but already a standard among followers, Gagnon also treated his audience to his flowing three-part “Movements”, the title track from his last album.

Due to the demise of London Records, Gagnon has signed to record on the Capitol label. The pianist hopes to release yet another album this spring. His Tuesday concert show was specially to showcase his latest works.

Gagnon’s older albums profess a style of short and snappy numbers, a technique found not so much on his later works. Gagnon explains “As i grow older, i have gained more confidence in my writing abilities, enabling me to write the longer movements.”

“Theme with Six Variations” and “Meltdown” are two examples of works that are not immediately associated with the man himself. This arrangement of simple tube forms (as one examine r has suspected) giant phallic symbols;

The artist claims “they are and they aren’t phallic symbols;” that is, the viewers can make of them whatever they like. Dingler himself is merely using the shapes as the means to his controlling the viewer. Most people, he says, think that art should be pretty, relaxing and fairly mundane. Dingler wants his art to be exciting, disturbing and thought-provoking. His use of the cylindrical shape is a way of not allowing us to get “too comfortable” with art; it involves the viewer with what Dingler calls the “perception of shapes and relates to the psychological revulsion to tubular forms. Dingler feels that in the way he is controlling the viewer, making him un-comfortable and making him face it. “I like to see (the viewer) stark naked,” he goes, “throw him out into the snow, and watch him squirm.”

As his parting song, the pianist played the melody which he wrote in 1968 started all it all “Niggen”.

André Gagnon’s performance is well rounded, displaying all aspects of his musical talent. He allows for the talents of his orchestra to be exposed as well.

Gagnon’s concert attracted an audience of all ages. Playing to two standing ovations, André Gagnon showed that although he is diminutive in height, he is a giant in the Canadian music industry.

Sac’s Pub presents

this week

Pilot

Nov. 17-22/80

next week

Cliff Erikson

Nov. 24-29/80

Monday Free

Tuesday to Saturday - Cover Charge

SAC’S
Barde brings tradition to campus

by Neil Buhe

Normally staid Moot Court was livened up considerably Saturday night with the appearance of Barde. This world class Celtic group put on one of the best performances I have seen on this campus.

What is Celtic music? If you be French, English, Welsh, Scottish or Irish it is the music of your ancestors. It is intricately played music, using a 'wriggling' plier's instruments ranging from a conch shell to a mandolin. To quote from a Barde album liner, when you hear it, "you feel well up inside you, memories from very far away."

One of their most popular songs "Life Note" was reserved for the encore.

Barde's Windsor performance was the last of a tour where it has taken them through highschools from Akuon Ohio to Boston Massachusetts. If Saturday's show is any indication, look for a high school Celtic music fans in the near future.

Barde is now set to work on their third album, and don't plan any major tours till next February.

International food shortage

by Scott McColloch

Ambassador Auditorium was jammed just Saturday night as the International Student Organization held their International Food and Dance Night. Unfortunately, this meant that many tables and meat, Arab rice dishes, were nearly all cold. An Iranian dinning table with yogurt, and mont-e-phair, and Iranian concoction of yogurt, raisins, cucumber and garlic (my own favourite). The two vocalists, Richard Chapman and Pierre Guerin kept up the blame for the shortage of food, saying "Dr. Leddy and I had two full plates each - that's the truth."

All the native dishes by the time the last guests reached the buffet table. Although advertisements said no tickets would be sold at the door, people were apparently able to pick up and pay for tickets which they had earlier reserved. Somehow this resulted in what was obviously too many tickets being sold for the amount of food and space available. Groups of eleven and twelve were sitting at tables meant for eight. Many were late arriving, as was the dinner. President Franklin took some of the blame for the shortage of food, saying "Dr. Leddy and I had two full plates each - that's the truth."

Among the dishes offered: Malaysian Beef curry (the spicy nut), a Pakistani rice dish called Biryani, African peanut stew with roast beef, Indian Samosas (a sort of triangular bread filled with spices, vegetables and meats), Arab rice in rolled grape leaves with rice, and that's the truth.

Most of the food was delicious, though the rice dishes were nearly all cold. An Iranian rice dish with tomato flavouring was a notable exception to this.

Following the dinner there was a lucky draw for a first prize of a round trip to Montreal and second and third prizes of $100 and $50 (respectively). The winning number was 3552.

One member of the band volunteered to fix a broken lamp shade brought by a member of the audience.

We'd like to offer you a challenge - a career in Life insurance sales and/or sales management.

It's one of the few careers that offers you freedom of action and decision and an unusually high measure of security and personal satisfaction.

We know it isn't easy choosing the right career. Perhaps at Metropolitan Life we can help you make the right choice. Why not drop by and see us. We'll be on Campus on:

Wednesday; November 26, 1980

CHOOSE THE RIGHT CAREER ISN'T EASY

Enjoy our new expanded Sandwich menu - all stacked high on a grilled Kaiser Roll

- Roast Beef, Turkey, Pastrami, Ham with melted Cheese

Every sandwich is made with a fresh Kaiser Roll and our dressings are made on the premises.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 11, November 21, 1980, Page Fourteen
Assumption Players

PIPPIN: Producing perfect plays

by Peter Hegarty

Every sport has its amateur leaguers, a training ground for players to develop their talents to a point where they may turn professional. It is even arguable that amateurs give you more for your money than they provide: they offer extra 110 percent to show their audience they are serious. This system can be applied to the theatre as well. High School and University productions are only 'steps away' from the big time.

Assumption High School has provided the city with a showcase of their amateur talents for thirteen years now. Producing theatre musicals under immeasurable hours to sharpening their individual performances. The actors themselves put in a year in advance, some students have been known to 'bust up' over the summer for parts they hope to get in the fall. Only Jim Zezima (who produced the leading player in Pippin) has declared an interest so far in enrolling in the School of Drama next September.

"This year we have a young cast" commented Zezima. If this be true, in future years, Stevens will have quite a talented pool from which to cast his leads. Over the years, Assumption players have been aided by alumni, as well as other students from the University. Bill Barrington conducts the stage orchestra. Other instrumentalists from the the university have been the result. Since Stevens usually announces the choice of arm movement of his play a year in advance, some students have been known to 'bust up' over the summer for parts they hope to get in the fall.

Pat Henessey (left) and Ron Stevens take a moment to watch the action. Your dial is set at 640 AM; working with a limited bud- other of the program consists of both American and British content. Promotional albums sent to CJAM by record manufacturers

RADIO and why?

by Bill Becchan

Your dial is set at 640 AM, and you are reclining in your favourite chair being mesmerized by the musical overtones of CJAM (assuming, of course, that your favourite chair is on campus).

"We choose upbeat music rather than boring pop music," explains Cecil Blaine, Musical Director of the campus radio station. "Basic pop isn't what everybody wants to hear." As far as station content goes, Blaine claims full responsibility for the music heard on CJAM.

"I choose all the music," Blaine revealed, "except for special programming such as Jazz in the evening." Of course, Canadian content is one of the big guns in CJAM's arsenal. "There are a lot of good Canadian groups," Blaine points out. "We play some Canadian groups that no other local station plays, such as Max Webster, and Zero One." The CRTC has ruled that the content of AM Canadian radio stations must be at least 30 percent Canadian oriented. Blaine claims that their format satisfies the CRTC's demands, saying that, on some days, Canadian content will run as high as 45 percent. The remain-

Pat Henessey (left) and Ron Stevens take a moment to watch the action.

The Lace takes in an in-depth look at Freedom 89 FM's Media Centre and surrounding communities by Peter Hegarty

Corrections

In last week's Lance it was advertised that the Social Science Meeting would be at 8:00pm.

The correct time is December 1 at 4:00pm.
The Windlover

Hanging swirling veils near the sky
Metal tendrils swinging sheer and high Danger prince lofted haughty over clouds
Nylon wings on an angled steel arrangement
Wired to a kite of mountain wind
Maiden curls his dangling knees
Sleepy Traveller of stillful flight
Winglider meets the hovering breezes

O greenmailer on your winglider
Angel art of flying in Pegor's ecstasy
CLUMB with magic mastery, O cloudslider!

No! WONDER OF IT! are we to believe instead Human and feline could survive soaring and be what Could our only be more alive than blood red clay?

Ally, Couture

Gypsy

Diaphanous cheeks
On breathing wings
Tendrils see the sky
Toward the infinite
Faintly/invisible
Grown to the height
Clean and clear
To true spirit of woe
Toodled toward him
Falling in the moonlight
The dancing hopscotch
The line, the line
Beams on as he
Yet first

Sirens

Run the clock
Two clock
Clocks
Clocks

Child

Definitely in Love

I grabbed a lawyer's late last
To show off your and mind to Drive a shooting star

And as I set and drifted through,
My head, alone! I left the ship
I have a shooting star

I made a wish
The girl that
Anon dimming

To sleep with you, I'm asking
Our tender love to last forever
Another shooting star

But as I stood, I laughed aloud
Because the sky was only
Another shooting star
And we were airplanes

Attention Press

The Lance is looking for a Gypsy
It is to be a style, double-spaced
As lengthy, and must be submitted to the Lance Office
Than December 5
According to the phone
Caribbean defeated the Columbian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.

De Lyon scores twice to net Caribbean soccer title

Caribbean defeated the Colombian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.

De Lyon scores twice to net Caribbean soccer title

Caribbean defeated the Colombian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.

De Lyon scores twice to net Caribbean soccer title

Caribbean defeated the Colombian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.

De Lyon scores twice to net Caribbean soccer title

Caribbean defeated the Colombian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.

De Lyon scores twice to net Caribbean soccer title

Caribbean defeated the Colombian Nationals 2-1 to take the championship of intramural soccer one week ago at the south campus field.

Right winger Paul De Lyon scored both Caribbean goals. National's captain and centre-half scored the lose Columbian goal.
The Women Chasers defeated the Red Devils in the consolation final.
Thanks to all participants and officials for making the season an interesting one.

Exhilaration week ahead for CJAM Sports

On Monday, Nov. 24, CJAM-660 AM will be at the 14,000-seat Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor to broadcast back to students at the University of Windsor the basketball game between the Michigan Wolverines and the Windsor Lancers. The Wolverines are in the Big Ten Conference and a top-ranked team expected for this, the first game of the Wolverine season. This is a very special game and a special sports broadcast, so tune in CJAM Monday at 8 p.m. and catch the action. CJAM acknowledges the generous financial sponsorship provided by the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd.
For most of us in the University community, athletic endeavour is a weekend touch football game or a game on the tennis courts. Our ability has perhaps at best, brought us a spot on the bench with a high school team.

We marvel at the few who, with God-given talent and a lot of practice, find fame with one of the University's varsity teams. Among those there is an even more select group that stand out—the ones we call the "stars".

John Ivan is one such athlete. But what makes Ivan even more unique is that he is a prominent member of not one, but two varsity teams, the hockey and football Lancers.

And when John Ivan leaves school for the summer, he suits up with the Windsor Chiefs of the Intercounty Major Baseball League, a sport that is so important a quality in an athlete. Although he is unwilling to admit it, John's raw talent. Circle on a hockey scholarship, but left after only one season because of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's a very versatile athlete."

The one sport which brings him talent is baseball. "He's a dedicated individual and certainly very talented," Massetti remarked when asked whether he was interested in the possibility of becoming a professional sports. "He's right on time.

"We marvel at the few who, with God-given talent and a lot of practice, find fame with one of the University's varsity teams. Among those there is an even more select group that stand out—the ones we call the "stars".

Ivan: The football player.

"He's a very versatile athlete," says Fracas. "He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.

"For me it was baseball at eight, hockey at twelve and football when I got into high school. My brother and I used to play road hockey all the time. We'd always be playing something—it's an ego booster, I guess. But I'm naturally competitive. If I lose at cards I get mad.

One also wonders how anyone so involved in sports can find time for his studies. Especially one who is so involved. "I'm only taking four courses right now and it's no problem for me. I'm doing all right. You have to organize your time."

Ivan has an idea that the success of the team is due to his father, Joe.

"He listens and works very hard at what you try to convey to him," Fracas says. "John wants to excel which is so important in an athlete. He's an excellent wide receiver and, I think, equally adept when the scouts are there, you get signed."

"Ivan is a little more demanding of himself than Joe," he says. "Joe might be satisfied with two hits in a game, but John will go out and want to get the third hit."

One man who knew John well in his formative years is Father Ron Cullen of Assumption High School, who coached Ivan for three years in both hockey and baseball.

"John was an exceptional athlete," recalls Father Cullen. "He was very easy to handle, easy to coach. I think the one thing that set him apart from other athletes at the school was intense desire. An attitude of 'nobody beats an Ivan.' I think he got that from his father.

John himself has a fairly simple explanation for his excellence in sports—practice. And he explains it with more modesty that one is accustomed to in someone so gifted.
Lancerettes on hot streak

by Sue Heysey

The Lancerette basketball team played an exhibition game with St. Clair College of Windsor Wednesday night, coming out on top of a 77-41 score. The Lancerettes got off to a slow start, leading by only seven at the half. The second half was a different story, however, as Windsor completely outplayed the Saints. They caught the Saints looking with the fast break a number of times. Lancerette pressure also forced several turnovers which immediately turned into points. The Lancerettes opened their regular schedule one week ago with two wins away from home. They defeated Ryerson 80-77 Friday night, then travelled to Kingston where they took a win from Queen's, 75-70. Friday's game proved to be a learning experience as it gave the team a chance to work on key elements of their offense and defense. High scorers for Windsor in that game were Roberta Smith with 20 and Keri Towers with 10. Everyone contributed to the scoring. Tracy McNair led the rebounding with 10.

The Lancerettes had their work cut out for them against Queen's, who moved down from Tier I this year. Queen's was defeated by the University of Ottawa the previous night and were hungry for their first win of the season.

Tough battle

The lead changed hands throughout the first half with the Lancerettes holding a slim one-point edge at the break, 39-38. The second half was filled with fouls and both teams were in the bonus situation with 10 minutes gone. The Lancerettes stretched the lead to 10 at one point but constant pressure by the Golden Gals kept them in contention to the end.

Roberta Smith — 32 point weekend.

Everyone on the roster had a hand in the scoring. Theresa McGee led the way with 19 points and Roberta Smith with 12. Both players played the final eight minutes with four fouls. Theresa pulled down 10 rebounds in the win.

St. Clair College of Windsor entered the game with two wins away from home. They defeated Ryerson 80-77 Friday night, then travelled to Kingston where they took a win from Queen's, 75-70. Friday's game proved to be a learning experience as it gave the team a chance to work on key elements of their offense and defense. High scorers for Windsor in that game were Roberta Smith with 20 and Keri Towers with 10. Everyone contributed to the scoring. Tracy McNair led the rebounding with 10.

The Lancerettes had their work cut out for them against Queen's, who moved down from Tier I this year. Queen's was defeated by the University of Ottawa the previous night and were hungry for their first win of the season.

Tough battle

The lead changed hands throughout the first half with the Lancerettes holding a slim one-point edge at the break, 39-38. The second half was filled with fouls and both teams were in the bonus situation with 10 minutes gone. The Lancerettes stretched the lead to 10 at one point but constant pressure by the Golden Gals kept them in contention to the end.

Roberta Smith — 32 point weekend.

Everyone on the roster had a hand in the scoring. Theresa McGee led the way with 19 points and Roberta Smith with 12. Both players played the final eight minutes with four fouls. Theresa pulled down 10 rebounds in the win.

Volleyball team getting on track

by Chris Legebou

The Lancerette volleyball team won three of five matches at the East versus West sectional tournament in Ottawa last weekend.

In the first match Saturday morning, Windsor easily defeated Carleton in the best-of-five games set, 15-7, 15-11 and 15-4. The play was not quite up to par, but they brought the standard up a great deal for the next match with Queen's of Toronto. Queen's has always been a tough team and Windsor knew that to have any hope of winning they would have to use a diverse and aggressive attack. Although the play improved, it did not improve quickly enough to overcome the Toronto team and they were defeated 6-15, 7-15, 15-10, 13-15.

The final match of the day was an easy one with Laurentian, but it drew on their strength and they had to give a full effort to outlast the Sudbury team 15-10, 16-14 and 15-7.

Windsor dominated Trent completely in their first match Sunday, winning by scores of 15-3, 15-4, 15-5. But they faced a more stringent task in their final match of the tournament.

That match was with Ottawa and the Lancerettes realised it would be a tough one since the Gee-Gees sport four national team members on their roster. Windsor gave the Ottawa team a scare in the first game, putting across three quick service aces, but the Gee-Gees attacked too hard, fast and tricky and Windsor lost 15-6, 15-1, 15-7.

Although the scores would seem not to indicate it, the match featured Windsor's best play of the year. Everything was clicking on the floor, but most of all, they maintained their positive attitude and never gave up.

After the game the Ottawa coach congratulated coach Jean Brien for the fine effort her team had made, stating that "only Windsor played against us with such determination and hustle."

Brien remains optimistic in her view of the team and commented that, not only are the veterans playing well, but the rookies have improved a great deal as well.

Windsor meets Guelph Saturday in Guelph with the next home game coming Nov. 25 against Laurier.
CMU hands Lancers fifth straight exhibition loss

by Steve Rice

Central Michigan University Chippewas had too much power and too much accurate shooting as they rolled up a 91-84 victory over the Lancers in an exhibition basketball contest played at CMU Wednesday night.

In 10 previous meetings, the Chippewas held an 8-2 win margin, the Lancers' last win coming in 1946. Last year, the Chippewas won by a score of 97-69.

Stan Korosec led Windsor scorers with 12 points and added one assist. Johnnie Grabowski, who seemed to be everywhere, added 10.

James Newman netted 21 for CMU with Mike Robinson contributing 19.

With seven men on the roster over 6'6" and the shortest listed at 6'1", CMU had a definite height advantage and that made it extremely difficult to work the ball inside on the offensive end.

But the Chippewas also had an easily apparent referee advantage; their often carried weight to the hoop while obvious infractions went unnoticed on the other end of the court.

Beat themselves

In truth, though, the Lancers did not lose the game there. The Chippewas wore the Lancers out as coach Nick Grabowski noted, "they beat themselves." "I wish I could say we played well or that 'killer seemed to be in Texas and then we play like this here," said Grabowski. "I wish we could have played better...Maybe we were overconfident," Grabowski noted that the Lancers seemed like CMU took any of their extra man opportunities and added one assist. (Photo by Rob Pinel)

The usually tough Mac team suffered at the hands of the Chippewas.

"It was a forgettable evening," said Coach Steve Rice. "We had a very strong team and were not able to hold back the Chippewas." The Lancers lost 91-84.

One positive aspect of the game was that it gave the fresheners more playing time. Steve McRae fired the winning shot with 8.5 seconds remaining in the game, netting one of 15 for the Lancers.

Southern tour

Although the Lancer basketball team lost all three games of their swing through the southern United States one week ago, coach Grabowski felt that the trip was a very positive one.

"I'm extremely pleased," said Grabowski at the team's first practice since returning home Monday. "I know that sounds strange but I say it anyway because after three losses, but this is the best we've ever done on a road trip."

Scoring - Korosec 12, Landry 2, Hermanutz 2, Ritchie 2, Harris 2, Buttery 2, Hermanutz 2, Ritchie 1.

Johnston splendid

Thanks to the splendid goalkeeping of Don Johnston, the Lancers trailed only 2-1 after two periods, their lone goal coming on a 6'9" unassisted tally by Pat Byrne in the first period.

The Lancers went up two on a goal by Lance Miller early in the third frame, but an unanswered tally by Pat Byrne some seven seconds later and another goal by Scott Kolody one minute after that brought the teams even at three.

But rather than continue to carry the play to the frustrated Marlin, the Lancers hung back, seemingly content to end the game in a draw. That was all McRae needed as they stormed back with four goals in the span of about five minutes to put the game away.

"At 3-3, they (Lancers) may have been satisfied, thinking, 'hey, we're tied with McMaster,'" Corrnan said. "But rather than continue the losing streak, the Lancers came out and took it."

When it got to be 6-3, we sat back and said, 'here goes another one of those games' and we still have to win,'" Mike McRae fired the final two goals for Windsor and added one assist.

Mike McRae fired the final two goals for Windsor and added one assist. John Ivan had three assist in the game.

The Lancers got a pair of goals from all-star defender Nick McColl, Lance Miller, and Mark Kita, with singles coming from Jim Wilfus and Dave Wilson.

One aspect of the Lancers' play that is a cause of concern to Corrnan is the power play. Windsor failed to score on any of their extra man opportunities.

I'm at the point where I can take a penalty or leave it," Corrnan joked. "We get the extra man and relax. It seemed like McMaster took the play to us on our power play.

Laurier 9 Lancers 1

The Laurier game was little more than an exercise in futility by the Lancers. Every player had difficulty keeping the puck on his stick and committed the mistakes like this. We often lose by 50 or more, by the way."

Windsor came much closer than that this time and, in fact, were well within tip of winning two of the three games.

In the first game Thursday with the University of Texas Longhorns the Lancers played dead even 47-47, in the second half, but lost 77-71 because of a seven-point deficit at halftime.

Stan Korosec led all scorers with 22 points while Phil Hansen added 18.

Ray Harper was high man for the Longhorns with 11.

The Lancers led 44 per cent of their shots from the floor but lost the game at the last minute on only 11 of 24 free shots.

Trip tiring

According to Grabowski, Windsor just plain tired when they came up against the Bears from Pan American University in Edmonton, Texas. After spending most of the day in airports, the Lancers arrived in Edmonton 20 minutes before game time. They managed to stick close for the first half and trailed only 39-30, but finally bowed 80-51.

Hermanutz was the only Windsor player in double digits with 16 as the Lancers connected on just 35 percent of their field goal attempts.

Rochan Cole led Pan Am with 22 while Kenneth (Apple) Green, a 6'9" centre, had 10.

Windsor had another close one Saturday in their final game against Rice University, falling by an 83-72 score.

Laurier 9 Lancers 1

The Laurier game was little more than an exercise in futility by the Lancers. Every player had difficulty keeping the puck on his stick and committed the mistakes like this. We often lose by 50 or more, by the way."

Windsor came much closer than that this time and, in fact, were well within tip of winning two of the three games.

In the first game Thursday with the University of Texas Longhorns the Lancers played dead even 47-47, in the second half, but lost 77-71 because of a seven-point deficit at halftime.

Stan Korosec led all scorers with 22 points while Phil Hansen added 18.

Ray Harper was high man for the Longhorns with 11.

The Lancers led 44 per cent of their shots from the floor but lost the game at the last minute on only 11 of 24 free shots.

Trip tiring

According to Grabowski, Windsor just plain tired when they came up against the Bears from Pan American University in Edmonton, Texas. After spending most of the day in airports, the Lancers arrived in Edmonton 20 minutes before game time. They managed to stick close for the first half and trailed only 39-30, but finally bowed 80-51.

Hermanutz was the only Windsor player in double digits with 16 as the Lancers connected on just 35 percent of their field goal attempts.

Rochan Cole led Pan Am with 22 while Kenneth (Apple) Green, a 6'9" centre, had 10.

Windsor had another close one Saturday in their final game against Rice University, falling by an 83-72 score.

Johnston splendid

Thanks to the splendid goalkeeping of Don Johnston, the Lancers trailed only 2-1 after two periods, their lone goal coming on a 6'9" unassisted tally by Pat Byrne in the first period. The Lancers went up two on a goal by Lance Miller early in the third frame, but an unanswered tally by Pat Byrne some seven seconds later and another goal by Scott Kolody one minute after that brought the teams even at three.

But rather than continue to carry the play to the frustrated Marlin, the Lancers hung back, seemingly content to end the game in a draw. That was all McRae needed as they stormed back with four goals in the span of about five minutes to put the game away.

"At 3-3, they (Lancers) may have been satisfied, thinking, 'hey, we're tied with McMaster,'" Corrnan said. "But rather than continue the losing streak, the Lancers came out and took it."

When it got to be 6-3, we sat back and said, 'here goes another one of those games' and we still have to win,'" Mike McRae fired the final two goals for Windsor and added one assist. John Ivan had three assist in the game.

The Lancers got a pair of goals from all-star defender Nick McColl, Lance Miller, and Mark Kita, with singles coming from Jim Wilfus and Dave Wilson.

One aspect of the Lancers' play that is a cause of concern to Corrnan is the power play. Windsor failed to score on any of their extra man opportunities.

I'm at the point where I can take a penalty or leave it," Corrnan joked. "We get the extra man and relax. It seemed like McMaster took the play to us on our power play.

Laurier 9 Lancers 1

The Laurier game was little more than an exercise in futility by the Lancers. Every player had difficulty keeping the puck on his stick and committed the mistakes like this. We often lose by 50 or more, by the way."

Windsor came much closer than that this time and, in fact, were well within tip of winning two of the three games.

In the first game Thursday with the University of Texas Longhorns the Lancers played dead even 47-47, in the second half, but lost 77-71 because of a seven-point deficit at halftime.

Stan Korosec led all scorers with 22 points while Phil Hansen added 18.

Ray Harper was high man for the Longhorns with 11.

The Lancers led 44 per cent of their shots from the floor but lost the game at the last minute on only 11 of 24 free shots.

Trip tiring

According to Grabowski, Windsor just plain tired when they came up against the Bears from Pan American University in Edmonton, Texas. After spending most of the day in airports, the Lancers arrived in Edmonton 20 minutes before game time. They managed to stick close for the first half and trailed only 39-30, but finally bowed 80-51.

Hermanutz was the only Windsor player in double digits with 16 as the Lancers connected on just 35 percent of their field goal attempts.

Rochan Cole led Pan Am with 22 while Kenneth (Apple) Green, a 6'9" centre, had 10.

Windsor had another close one Saturday in their final game against Rice University, falling by an 83-72 score.

The Lancers face Brock and Ryerson this weekend, both a-way games, and Corrnan is hopeful that the team can improve on their 1-3 record.

"If we play the way we're capable, we should win two games this weekend.

They're going to do something about winning."
A committee was established to examine the internal strife in the Executive office at last Thursday's (November 20) Students' Administrative Council meeting.

Also discussed at the meeting were SAC sponsorship of a "refugee" student (see separate story, page 8), the SAC budget for this year, and the recent "poster incident" in the SAC office.

The three-man (no Executive members) committee which was set up includes Jay Smith, Kevin Sisk, and Ken Roberts. It has been charged to examine the "present internal strife in the SAC Executive" (by interviewing each member of the Executive) and report its findings — with any recommendations for a solution to the problems — at the next full-council meeting (probably next Thursday, December 4).

Following the establishment of this committee, a motion by Eric Daniel that all should have the council pledge its support for SAC President David Simmons was made. As Jay Smith put it, SAC could not be expected to affirm its support for Simmons when it had just passed motion to set up a committee to examine problems in his cabinet.

Part of the reported problem was the subject of a motion, the "poster incident." A few weeks ago, Simmons put a poster of a particular political bent on a wall in the general SAC office, a poster which several members of the Executive thought was inappropriate for that area. One member removed it and a loud argument ensued. The matter was referred to the Executive, the motion moved by Bob Newman.

The university is indirectly throwing light on the issue. In the Executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

"You hear all that stuff from Bette (the Hon. Dr. Stephenson) about living within our means. Well, living within my means doesn't allow for me to have to go to Sears and spend $27 for a space heater so I can work." The rest, it is noted, is subject to the discretion of the individual viewing them.

Whether the office manager, "This is ridiculous." Simmons added his agreement to this, calling the motion a form of censorship.

"Marshmallows roasting over an open space heater," says Adele Newman of the Faculty of Visual Arts. "It's not unusual for some of us to spend 10 or 12 hours at a stretch here."

Adele is referring to her studio at that faculty, which, she claims, is not adequately heated.

The executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

The "poster incident" is located across from McDonalds on Huron Church Road. It was converted several years ago from an old factory.

"None of the walls heaters work and the ceiling d commuter blow cold air," Newman went on. "Some days you can see your breath in here."

"We have tried calling Physical Plant and planning, and also talking to the secretaries here but nothing seems to work. One guy did show up about ten days ago with a compressor of some sort, but he said it was too small and left, saying he'd be back with another one. So far he hasn't shown up."

"If I hear all the stuff from Bette (the Hon. Dr. Stephenson) about living within our means. Well, living within my means doesn't allow for me to have to go to Sears and spend $27 for a space heater so I can work."

"This place is our second home", says Adele Newman of the Faculty of Visual Arts. "It's not unusual for some of us to spend 10 or 12 hours at a stretch here."

Adele is referring to her studio at that faculty, which, she claims, is not adequately heated.

The executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

None of the wall heaters work and ceiling d commuter blow cold air," Newman went on. "Some days you can see your breath in here."

"We have tried calling Physical Plant and planning, and also talking to the secretaries here but nothing seems to work. One guy did show up about ten days ago with a compressor of some sort, but he said it was too small and left, saying he'd be back with another one. So far he hasn't shown up."

"If I hear all the stuff from Bette (the Hon. Dr. Stephenson) about living within our means. Well, living within my means doesn't allow for me to have to go to Sears and spend $27 for a space heater so I can work."

"This place is our second home", says Adele Newman of the Faculty of Visual Arts. "It's not unusual for some of us to spend 10 or 12 hours at a stretch here."

Adele is referring to her studio at that faculty, which, she claims, is not adequately heated.

The executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

Also discussed at the meeting was the "poster incident." A few weeks ago, Simmons put a poster of a particular political bent on a wall in the general SAC office, a poster which several members of the Executive thought was inappropriate for that area. One member removed it and a loud argument ensued. The matter was referred to the Executive, the motion moved by Bob Newman.

The university is indirectly throwing light on the issue. In the Executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

"You hear all that stuff from Bette (the Hon. Dr. Stephenson) about living within our means. Well, living within my means doesn't allow for me to have to go to Sears and spend $27 for a space heater so I can work."

"This place is our second home", says Adele Newman of the Faculty of Visual Arts. "It's not unusual for some of us to spend 10 or 12 hours at a stretch here."

Adele is referring to her studio at that faculty, which, she claims, is not adequately heated.

The executive office at last Thursday, December 4.

"You hear all that stuff from Bette (the Hon. Dr. Stephenson) about living within our means. Well, living within my means doesn't allow for me to have to go to Sears and spend $27 for a space heater so I can work."

"This place is our second home", says Adele Newman of the Faculty of Visual Arts. "It's not unusual for some of us to spend 10 or 12 hours at a stretch here."

Adele is referring to her studio at that faculty, which, she claims, is not adequately heated.

The executive office at last Thursday, December 4.
UNCLASSIFIEDS

VOLUNTEERS are required to assist in a creative Child Care Program on Tuesday or Wednesday mornings. For more information call Volunteer services at 253-4153.

LESBIAN AND GAY Students on Campus invite all interested parties to an off-campus event on December 4th at 8:00 p.m. For more information, call Dianne or Angela at 253-0799.

The Grapes of Desire, Vol. LXII, No. 12, November 1980

LESBIAN AND GAY Students on Campus invite all interested parties to an off-campus event on December 4th at 8:00 p.m. For more information, call Dianne or Angela at 253-0799.

FOR RENT, UPSTAIRS APARTMENT, Assumption University, 334-3512.
SCHEDULE:
Sunday - 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m., 11 A.M. at Mc Hall.
Daily - 12:00 Noon and 6:00 p.m. (on Tuesdays at 12 noon only); 11:45 a.m. (followed by dinner). November 28 through December 2.

CONFESIONS: On request at any time by the chaplain. Our Centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre. Feel free to drop in any time.

COFFEE HOUSE: An evening of great entertainment sponsored by the local Campus Communities. We will meet in the Blue Room, Assumption University at 9:00 p.m. on November 16 and November 30. Mark your calendars. These evenings will feature local folk singers, storytellers, dancers and many more.

EVERYONE WELCOME.

WE ARE LOOKING for a NURSE LIAISON. Experience in nursing is required.

WEDNESDAY, December 3, 1980

1:00 PM to 3:00 PM

The Office Assistant will be giving a short talk on the Maryland Disability Rights Coalition and the Coalition for Nonverbal Rights. This orientation will be followed by questions and answers.

2:00 PM to 3:00 PM

A short presentation on the laws of the state of Maryland will be given by Mr. David Robert, Physical Plant, Assumption University. The laws and regulations, including those governing the handicapped, will be discussed.

VOLUNTEERS are required to assist in the creative Child Care Program on Tuesday or Wednesday mornings. For more information call Volunteer services at 253-4153.

THE LANCE, Vol. LXII, No. 12, December 28, 1980, Page Two

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University, 334-3512.

MEMBERSHIPS FROM $10

Wong's Eatery

1100 sq ft home.
Available December 1 and January 1.

In the area of Sandwich and Mill.
3 bedrooms, large living room, newly refurbished original kitchen in stately design.

Ideal for companion living.

Telephone: 253-2026 or 764-6553.

WANTED: 2-3 BEDROOM furnished apartment, 200 sq ft, 1 block from Assumption University. Prefer a quiet area in a residential part of town. Call 253-0800.

FOR RENT: 1100 sq ft home, Available December 1 and January 1.
In the area of Sandwich and Mill.

3 bedrooms, large living room, newly refurbished original kitchen in stately design.

Ideal for companion living.

Telephone: 253-2026 or 764-6553.

For further information contact College - 253-7257.

FRANK J. FOX, O.D.

OPTOMETRIST

Suite 2B
400 Huron Church Rd.
Assumption University
University of Windsor

Secretarial Help Wanted

Applications are now being accepted for the position of Secretary - SAC's Pub.

Temporary position - Secretary going on maternity leave.

Duties to include:
- attendance to SAC's Pub
- daily bookkeeping
- inventory control
- general office duties

Must have general secretarial skills with the ability to learn other duties.

Please send application and resume to SAC's Student Pub
900 University Ave.
Windsor, Ont.

Attention: Jody Stanton
Manager

All Applications to be in by December 20, 1980

Got lots of gas? share the resources

Students, are you tired of the gas prices? Are you upset because you have no car to drive? SAC can help you out with the new car pool.

If you are looking for a ride to school or if you are looking for someone to ride in your car, come to the SAC office and fill in a local car pool application.

This form will indicate whether you are looking for a ride or need one and will list all the cars available from main campus, Monday to Friday.

If you are trying to save money, conserving energy or just avoiding long bus rides, come up and see us. It's a great way to meet new people!
SAC decides it can afford to sponsor a refugee

by E.P. Chant

Though they discussed the monetary aspects of the proposal for a half-hour at their last meeting, the members of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) finally decided that money was no object—or obstacle—and passed a motion to sponsor a refugee student at this university.

The student, from an underdeveloped country, will be provided through the World University Service of Canada (WUSC). WUSC is the national chapter of an international organization which seeks to promote global understanding and improve educational and professional exchange programs, and, at the same time, provide individuals with the opportunity to study abroad.

The whole matter of the University Student Council (SAC) lend $9,000 to the university administration for the purchase of student identification cards with pictures was turned down at the last SAC meeting.

George McMahon, Assistant Vice-President, Student Affairs, said the idea to include the student's picture with his ID card was brought up at a committee of Student Services.

A motion asked the members to approve SAC sponsorship of a WUSC student member Randy Zadra, who has been a local WUSC committee member off-campus individuals to ensure the necessary funds would be acquired for a two-year sponsorship.

Zadra explained that, at most universities, tuition and residence fees for the student are waived by the administration and, also, it might be possible for the student to secure a work permit so that he/she could pay for some of the stay. Community donations, he also noted, are usually generous.

Some council members were worried that SAC might get stuck footing some of the bill (others added, "What's wrong with that?"). But in the end, craziness lost and the motion passed.

Picture identification cards are out for this year

by Wendy Coomber

A motion which would have the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) lend $9,000 to the university administration for the purchase of student identification cards with pictures was turned down at the last SAC meeting.

George McMahon, Assistant Vice-President, Student Affairs, said the idea to include the student's picture with his ID card was brought up at a committee of Student Services.

In order for this to happen, according to McMahon, the university would have to approve a student fee increase to repay SAC the $9,000 borrowed from it. SAC, however, did not approve the plan at all and a motion to put it into action was soundly defeated.

The subject of student cards with pictures came up for discussion at University President Mervyn Franklin's advisory committee last year and was approved by it, but somehow money was not allotted for it in this year's budget, McMahon said.

John Lynch, Assistant Vice-President of Human Relations, said he requested the financial allowance for the cards in his own budget at the beginning of the year. It was turned down, he said, because there were other student services which took priority.

Lynch said he was "disappointed but satisfied.

It was hoped SAC could provide the students with the new cards in January.

One of the main reasons for including the student's picture on the student card, as cited by Shannon and SAC President, David Simmons, is so that it may be used as another piece of formal identification. The card could be helpful at the library, the Kinetic Kinetics building, the pub, and other areas where students must present their student cards.

Look before you leap to the Leddy Library

I. Examination Period, Monday, December 8—Saturday, December 20, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours of Opening</th>
<th>Reference Service</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mon.-Tues. 8:00 a.m.-11:45 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed.-Fri. 8:00 a.m.-11:45 a.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

II. Christmas and New Year Recess, Sunday, December 21, 1980—Friday, January 2, 1981.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours of Opening</th>
<th>Reference Service</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mon.-Fri. 8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Final plea for help

by Rosemary A. Breschuk

This may tend the way of countless editorsials on apathy, but I know the topic is a turn-off, but don't stop reading this yet. You are precisely the person I want to address.

Nearly everyone has a talent. Those who deny it simply haven't discovered their particular talent yet. A talent is a special aptitude or gift in a certain field or occupation. It is a valued thing, especially if it delights or instructs. But that's precisely the connotation that this one had never sponsored a refugee student and also establish a local campus individuals to ensure the student to secure a work

Remember: less than two remain before the examination period. The subject of student cards with pictures came up for discussion at University President Mervyn Franklin's advisory committee last year and was approved by it, but somehow money was not allotted for it in this year's budget, McMahon said.

John Lynch, Assistant Vice-President of Human Relations, said he requested the financial allowance for the cards in his own budget at the beginning of the year. It was turned down, he said, because there were other student services which took priority.

Lynch said he was "disappointed but satisfied.

It was hoped SAC could provide the students with the new cards in January.

One of the main reasons for including the student's picture on the student card, as cited by Shannon and SAC President, David Simmons, is so that it may be used as another piece of formal identification. The card could be helpful at the library, the Kinetic Kinetics building, the pub, and other areas where students must present their student cards.

Look before you leap to the Leddy Library

I. Examination Period, Monday, December 8—Saturday, December 20, 1980

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours of Opening</th>
<th>Reference Service</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mon.-Tues. 8:00 a.m.-11:45 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed.-Fri. 8:00 a.m.-11:45 a.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

II. Christmas and New Year Recess, Sunday, December 21, 1980—Friday, January 2, 1981.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours of Opening</th>
<th>Reference Service</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mon.-Fri. 8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. 12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
<td>12 noon-5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Final plea for help

by Rosemary A. Breschuk

This may tend the way of countless editorsials on apathy, but I know the topic is a turn-off, but don't stop reading this yet. You are precisely the person I want to address.

Nearly everyone has a talent. Those who deny it simply haven't discovered their particular talent yet. A talent is a special aptitude or gift in a certain field or occupation. It is a valued thing, especially if it delights or instructs. But that's precisely the connotation that this one had never sponsored a refugee student and also establish a local campus individuals to ensure the student to secure a work

Remember: less than two remain before the examination period. The subject of student cards with pictures came up for discussion at University President Mervyn Franklin's advisory committee last year and was approved by it, but somehow money was not allotted for it in this year's budget, McMahon said.

John Lynch, Assistant Vice-President of Human Relations, said he requested the financial allowance for the cards in his own budget at the beginning of the year. It was turned down, he said, because there were other student services which took priority.

Lynch said he was "disappointed but satisfied.

It was hoped SAC could provide the students with the new cards in January.

One of the main reasons for including the student's picture on the student card, as cited by Shannon and SAC President, David Simmons, is so that it may be used as another piece of formal identification. The card could be helpful at the library, the Kinetic Kinetics building, the pub, and other areas where students must present their student cards.
Editorial

“The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted.”

- W. Clement O'Keary

OFFS should be penalized for powerplay

“What sadistic child should be without one?”

by the RF Brothers

“Silent Night, Holy Night, / A biding on me, / And the price is just right…”

Yes, ladies and gents, that warm, festive charitable season is upon us again. When brotherhood runs rampant, and the common denominator of all peoples is greed, by advertisers trying to convince the children of the world that it is, in fact, for the “greater good” of society that their parents never really cared for them at all.

Case in point: the overly advertised (and priced) retrack set with the “added danger of the crash car”. Instead of the simple oval track we all know and loved as kids, this track is arranged so that the two cars speed at each other (at death-defying scale speeds) in a small-scale version of the game of “chicken”. The figure-eight version of the track provides an even more interesting challenge for those with the “death wish”. And the best thing about it is you can’t even get one of them for those who care not at all to keep one in the car. The best thing about it is that it is a completely safe environment for young children.

This newspaper says “No”, OFFS should not be penalized for powerplay. This newspaper says “No”, OFFS should be penalized for powerplay, sending out the provincial brief to all its students’ council components for quick examination and comment, should OFFS have the power to unilaterally condemn a government report in the name of all the students of Ontario? This newspaper says “No”, OFFS should not have such power — that it handled the comment on the brief in a stupidly ass-backward fashion. The very negative statements the OFFS spokesmen made about the brief to all its members do not necessarily constitute the consensus of the students’ councils of this province. How can they when the councils have not seen the report and done their own analyses?

It must be remembered that the power of any organization does not come from the fact that it is, in title, an organization. Rather, the power of an organization comes from the fact that its representatives have always been successful in winning the cooperation of the people who are its members.

In blunter words, the behaviour of the Ontario Federation of Students with regards to its contempt for the report is an arrogant encroachment upon the vocal rights of the individual councils which comprise it.

It is possible that the provincial ministry’s brief is as horrendously bad as the OFFS spokesmen contend. Operative word in that sentence: possible. That possibility will become a certainty when all the components of the federation have had a chance to read it.

Until that time, it can only be said that OFFS jumped the gun and should be penalized for its failure to listen.

Councils across the province, including our SAC, should urge the censure of the OFFS spokesman(s) and the immediate delivery of copies of the report to their doorsteps.

If the member councils do not do so, they are condoning an irresponsible pseudo-representation of the feelings of this province’s students and a direct usurpation of individual council powers.

The Fortnighter

by Chris Woodrow

It takes a hell of a lot to get me mad, but there’s a group of students on this campus who manage to succeed everyone else by a small margin. I’m referring to the select band of students who are totally apathetic towards anything the university offers, completely unconcerned with the ideas of other students, who are here to make the university a better place to go to school, and, finally, to those who are doing absolutely nothing but sitting holding a copy, and (anyway) no one will notice it, it’s a complete waste of money, and why do they have to do it?

I’m unable to dream up an adequate excuse to explain why some students at this university have no motivation to do anything but sit around and criticize the university. I’m unable to dream up an adequate excuse to explain why some students at this university have no motivation to do anything but sit around and criticize the university. I’m referring to the select band of students who are totally apathetic towards anything the university offers, completely unconcerned with the ideas of other students, who are here to make the university a better place to go to school, and, finally, to those who are doing absolutely nothing but sitting holding a copy, and (anyway) no one will notice it, it’s a complete waste of money, and why do they have to do it?

I’m referring to the select band of students who are totally apathetic towards anything the university offers, completely unconcerned with the ideas of other students, who are here to make the university a better place to go to school, and, finally, to those who are doing absolutely nothing but sitting holding a copy, and (anyway) no one will notice it, it’s a complete waste of money, and why do they have to do it?

I’m referring to the select band of students who are totally apathetic towards anything the university offers, completely unconcerned with the ideas of other students, who are here to make the university a better place to go to school, and, finally, to those who are doing absolutely nothing but sitting holding a copy, and (anyway) no one will notice it, it’s a complete waste of money, and why do they have to do it?
Student radio support should be extended to the pub

Dear Editor:

I would think that since CJAM is a student run, student funded organization, that we would be supported by other student funded organizations. This isn't the case.

The organization to which I refer is SAGC's Pub. Last Friday, November 21st, we featured Marc Beland, the bassist for the band "Pilot" which was playing in the pub at the time, as a guest D.J. from noon to 2:00 p.m. on CJAM. SAGC's, in its infinite wisdom, decided they preferred not to play the student run and funded radio station on that particular day, even though they were informed that Marc would be on the air.

For about a month now, it has been station policy that no CJAM staff member will ask for the station to be turned on in the pub because it was thought that we were the only ones asking for it. Since then, I have had many people come to me asking why the pub refuses to turn CJAM on even when they ask for it! The fact that the students have agreed to fund us is a statement that they want to hear CJAM. Why, then, is SAGC going against an obvious mandate from the students?

In the past two months, we have had to compete with the TV in the pub, the juke-box and now it's the big four Detroit FM rock stations. What next?

I have only one question to ask: why, after the students have stated, by their vote, that they want to hear CJAM, is the pub so reluctant to give us their support? I would really like some answers for the students at this university as well as the staff here at CJAM.

Cecile Blais
Music Director-CJAM

Ad provides an option

Dear Editor:

I am appalled at the number of people on this campus who continue in the dated belief that women are passive, irresponsible and easily lead. This is an unsupportable stance. However, I believe that every woman should have the option of abortion, in the case of unwanted pregnancy.

Furthermore, I doubt very strongly that the number of women who do choose that option will reach epidemic proportions due to a simple advertisement which briefly outlines the services offered, e.g., the East Gyn Center's ads in The Lance and the Student Blaster.

It is in no sense an evil to promote it to a vast extent. It is not that the Chinese want abortion, per se, but the fact is that the choices are between bread and death.

Name withheld by request

Food Night gobble up

Dear Editor:

The executive of the International Students' Organization wishes firstly to thank all the nine clubs that participated in the recent International Food Night. Their contribution to the evening was monumental and important. The selection of excellent gourmet foods was the calibre of a Corton Bleu chef!

We also thank the performers in the cultural part of the evening. We are fortunate to have such talented people in the clubs who shared with us in the cultural " sneak preview" - Kasturi Bhastacharya representing the India-Canada Association performed brilliantly; the Caribbean singers lulled us with their seductive song. These two presentations were a sample to showcase the many talents of international students, much more will be offered in International Night on February 7 at the cultural evening.

Lastly we thank the people who attended - it was a fantastic turnout! If you missed it better luck next year!

The Executive of ISO

Local lawyers will lecture

The Community Law Program of the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, announces a series of free public courses on the law. This series is being offered in cooperation with the Essex County Law Association.

Each of these courses will concentrate on one area of the law and will be taught by a local lawyer experienced in that area. Each course will be held from 7.30-9.30 p.m. at the main branch of the Windsor Public Library, 850 Ouellette. There will be time for questions at the end of each session.

The topics to be covered in this first series of courses are:

January 29, 1981 - Family, Marriage and Divorce.
February 26, 1981 - Landlord and Tenant.
March 26, 1981 - Small Claims Court.
April 23, 1981 - Criminal Law.

For further information contact Laurence Kealey, Director, Community Law Program, (519) 254-4155.

Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. It may be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.
External Affairs Minister speaks on internal problems

by Debbie Staley

On Wednesday, November 26, Dr. Mark MacGuigan, Minister of External Affairs, spoke to a group of 250 people about Canada's constitutional issues, specifically the Bill of Rights. During the presentation, MacGuigan linked it with the British parliament and illustrated that Canadians, with its inclusion of the Canadian Constitution, are the "final arbitrators of the Canadian Constitution".

MacGuigan also noted the constitutional changes made to the Bill of Rights. "The patriation of the Constitution would wash over the provinces, but the Bill of Rights has been longstanding, and Canada would run the risk of action in the constitution did not revert to the constitution as it was before, as the final arbitrator of the Canadian Constitution".

According to MacGuigan, the initiation of the Bill of Rights has been "a direct result of the Canadian tradition of being "law-abiding". According to the minister, by excluding the British parliament, Canada would remain independent of its own jurisdiction and be subject to a "new legal order".

Another member of the audience asked MacGuigan why Canada had such a "modest list of protections", especially regarding the prohibition of grounds of sexual orientation. MacGuigan replied there was insufficient public consensus on the subject. He added that although there have been many Ontario changes, this type of question cannot have a place in the constitution without majority public agreement. A few nationalities in the crowd asked why Canadians could not obtain the constitution without the British parliament. In other words, why can't Canada re-run the Declaration of Independence? MacGuigan explained the absence of action is a direct result of the Canadian tradition of being "law-abiding".

MacGuigan was asked to explain the co-existence of the Bill of Rights and the Canadian Constitution. "The initiation of the Bill of Rights has been a direct result of the Canadian tradition of being "law-abiding". According to the minister, by excluding the British parliament, Canada would remain independent of its own jurisdiction and be subject to a "new legal order".

Another member of the audience asked MacGuigan why Canada had such a "modest list of protections", especially regarding the prohibition of grounds of sexual orientation. MacGuigan replied there was insufficient public consensus on the subject. He added that although there have been many Ontario changes, this type of question cannot have a place in the constitution without majority public agreement. A few nationalities in the crowd asked why Canadians could not obtain the constitution without the British parliament. In other words, why can't Canada re-run the Declaration of Independence? MacGuigan explained the absence of action is a direct result of the Canadian tradition of being "law-abiding".

MacGuigan was also questioned on issues relating to the provincial governments. In general, his comments illustrated that the provinces did not want to bar gain, but concentrated solely on their individual interests.

Finally, MacGuigan responded to the absence of the "concessions" made to the NDP within the constitution. The Minister of External Affairs stated there were no specific arrangements on the nature of the "concessions", but these would be up for debate. In a final note, MacGuigan told his audience that once the text of the constitution was finalized it would be forwarded to Ottawa.

External Affairs Minister Mark ("Is-the-lady-of-the-house-at-home?") MacGuigan was on campus Wednesday to sell the Bill of Rights.

***

Our prices don't go up
Shop and compare
Christmas space still available

Ahhh...
Fort Lauderdale
(FROM WINNIPEG)

KEY SAVERS CHARTER RIGHTS RETURN RETURN BOOK PRICE
DEPART RETURN BOOK PRICE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Return</th>
<th>Depart</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 18</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 19</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 20</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 21</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 22</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 23</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 24</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 25</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 26</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 27</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 28</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 29</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 30</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Dec. 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dec. 31</td>
<td>264.00</td>
<td>Jan. 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This fare is valid on Canadian Airlines and Canadian International. Three night minimum stay required and return to Windsor. Depart on Sunday and return on Monday. Fares are subject to change without notice. A 10% service charge is added to all fares. Fares are in Canadian funds. Fares are subject to change without notice. A 10% service charge is added to all fares. Fares are in Canadian funds. Fares are subject to change without notice. A 10% service charge is added to all fares. Fares are in Canadian funds.

Attention Sports Fans

MONTREAL HOCKEY WEEKENDS SEE... U.S. BAGGAGE: 20.00 lbs.
[Phone numbers for travel arrangements]

Call 258-7477 or your local travel agent.

465 WINDSOR AVE.
YOUR COME TRAVEL AGENCY

Key Tours

Call 258-7477 or your local travel agent.

Talmanan Mont St. Marie Mont Tremblant Collingwood Mont St. Anne Banff

CRACK A PACK OF COLTS ALONG WITH THE BEER.
Main library should be given an overhaul soon

by Laurel Brandt

Near the top of the agenda for the December Senate meeting is a report by Albert V. Mate, University Librarian, about conditions and proposed changes in the library. Included in the report are six proposals dealing with:

1. developing an automated on-line system for acquisitions, cataloguing and circulation;
2. increasing the staff from 92 to 100;
3. bringing the library budget under the library administration's control, or fixing the monograph and serials budgets three months before the budget year begins, and not allowing them to increase by more than two percent after three months;
4. using both the main and west buildings for library purposes, and controlling the collection's physical size;
5. re-arranging the collection into a more sensible order, and improving arrangement of public reading and staff work areas;
6. re-organizing library departments.

The library has not kept up with advancements in automatic technology, said Mate. The equipment for the automated circulation system is obsolete, and the present ordering system is manually based.

Other Ontario university libraries with better systems can process materials more quickly and serve users better with less staff. The staff of the Leddy Library is 92, which Mr. Mate thinks is too small. He feels a staff of 100, with some departmental re-organization, would provide greater efficiency.

He also wants to re-arrange the collection, using both buildings completely, as originally envisaged by the planners. In this way, the confusion between the third floors of the main and west buildings could be eliminated.

In Mr. Mate's view, the biggest hindrance to achieving these goals is money. In order to balance the budget, the staff has been cut 29 percent since 1972. Tight staffing has led to a dearth of middle and long-range planning because of the need in day-to-day operations. Yet while the staff has shrunk, inflation has pushed salaries up 81 percent since 1972. Inflation has also increased the prices of serials and monographs, while the acquisitions budget has increased only 26 percent.

The present budgeting system has monograph acquisitions in the hands of the various faculty deans, and the serials acquisitions the responsibility of the library staff.

This system has caused the problems which culminated in the 1979-80 fiscal year when the library had to cancel many orders, and re-order them when funds were found late in the year.

Mr. Mate feels the library administration, under a faculty or Senate review committee, should control the budget. This is the system most common in Ontario university libraries. The report was not all negative. A task force has recommended the library acquire a GRAC circulation system, which is used at many other libraries in the province. A new task force has been formed to look into the other elements of a fully automated on-line system.

A librarian has been studying the space use in the two buildings, and comparing it against the standards of the Council of Ontario Universities. Some shifting of materials was done over the summer, moving 15,000 government documents into the CODOC section on the fourth floor and eliminating the parallel arrangement of monographs and serials.

Re-organization has been begun by merging, under the direction of one librarian, the departments of Intramural Loans and Extramural Library Services.

---

Play that again

(OOHH!! DANG! PLAY THE FIFTH SYMPHONY AGAIN!!!)

(ZNS) - This Christmas women all over North America could be unplugging the Christmas tree and plugging in their "Musical Vibrating Panties". This year's "open me first gift" is a special line of underwear that pulsates to the beat of recorded music.

According to OUI magazine, the panties plug into your stereo, and then move to the beat of any kind of music, from rock to classical.

A student can find out anything from the library's Information desk — even how to wipe one's nose properly.

A reputation built by word of mouth

Seagram's V.O.
Canada's most respected 8 year old whisky.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Salad fanatie Scott McCluloch hopped round town recently (like a bunny) in quest of the perfect combination of plant leaves and complimentary toppings. The following review is what he found and you might too at the salad bars of some of Windsor's restaurants.

We say right (find) because salad bars have almost daily ups and downs because of produce availability and quality, especially now that our country is, in large part, depending on air-lifted veggie shipments from south of the border.

This, then, is one man's trek and report...

A few years ago, nobody had heard of a salad bar. Now it seems that every other restaurant you eat in has got one.

Here then, is an evaluation of a number of salad bars in different restaurants in Windsor. Unless stated otherwise, assume they all include cucumbers and bacon bits, and the "big four" dressings — French, Thousand Island, oil and vinegar, and Blue cheese.

Rating system: poor fair good *excellent

Steak 'N Burger — Devonsire Mall, 966-3329

The bacon bit container was empty when I visited the University Mall location, and was never refilled. The rusty condition of the lettuce made it obvious that it had not been replenished for some time either, at least not with lettuce that could be called fresh. As is the case with most salad bars, the Steak 'N Burger tomato wedges are too big. They're also rather green around the seeds. The cucumbers are much too big and they're not the homemade variety found in some restaurants. They look as if they were cut at random in hunks and crooked strips from a large block of weak. The carrot slices don't appear to have been properly peeled and the green peppers are both too big and too rusty.

Red and yellow peppers, which are becoming a popular item at salad bars, are included, I personally, find them too hot.

Acceptable pickled beets, bean salad, kidney beans, raw beet shavings, chic pea, cream corn and spinach round out the bill.

$1.99 on its own, $9.90 with a meal. Included with most entrees. Rating: *

Rib O' Beef — Devonsire Mall, 966-3259

There's little difference between Rib O' Beef and Steak N' Burger, both of which are operated by Winco, whichever they are. Prices are higher at the former and Rib O' Beef pickled beets have ridges on them. There are also long pickles, bean sprouts, onions and partially peeled cucumber slices, but no creamed corn.

$2.50 as a meal, $2.75 with soup, included with all entrees except $3.25 as a meal. $3.50 with any entrees. Rating: **

Ponderosa — 1760 Huron Church Road, 252-0331 (visited here)

2516 Ouellette, 966-4504

6675 Tecumseh East, 948-5561

The lettuce is much crisper and fresher here than at Rib O' Beef or Steak N' Burger, but the tomato wedges are still much too large, though they're so mushy they tend not to stay in one piece anyway.

The cucumbers and carrots are sliced to a nice thinness here, but the carrots aren't properly peeled first. The radishes look even dirtier. The green peppers are a bit long, but more manageable than when in rings. Ridgeted pickled beets are here too, but rather than being in round slices, are in little strips resembling French fries.

The regular onions are sliced in a way that makes them easy to eat and there's long green onions available as well, along with some peculiar looking celery sticks.

There's no real coleslaw or cabbage salad, though one tub of cut-up cabbage looks like it's just waiting to be made into a salad.

All the other standard items are included (chick peas, etc.) and are fine. There's also parmesan cheese and one item found at no other salad bar in Windsor—vinaigret.

Ateup the bed of ice are what look like a lot of cabbage leaves. The management should have quit while it was ahead. Instead, a decorative basket of the stuff, also containing brown-tinged tomatoes, radishes and green peppers is there too.

$2.39 on its own. Included with all entrees except those on kid's menu (69c if a kid wants it with his meal). Rating: *

Frank Vetere's — 1770 Huron Church Road 253-1194 (visited here)

3070 Dougall Road, 966-3382

3383 Tecumseh East, 945-2344

The Vetere salad bar has nothing spectacular, but its repertoire of the usual items is, for the most part, well prepared. The tomatoes are too mushy, though a good size, and the carrots are so thinly sliced you can't tell whether they've been peeled or not. Mushrooms, which are often, but not always found at salad bars, are finely chopped. The green peppers are in fat chunks. Oddly enough, there are no regular onions, but there are spanish ones.

There's also parmesan cheese and everything rests in a bed of — guess what — Ice.

$2.45 as a meal, $1.45 with a meal. Not included with any entrees. Rating: **

Dom's — 3217 Sandwich, 255-7323

Mother's — 815 Ouellette, 256-4111

6415 Tecumseh, 257-2236

One of the best in Windsor, is it just your luck to get cold brown beans; olives; too soggy coleslaw; what stringsy green beans, natch; green jellio; long green pickles; ridged carrot slices and gold onionspots; and apple chunks are available separate. The radishes are a little large, in even bigger pieces which makes it pretty awkward. Some of the tomato slices are a bit long, but rather than being in round slices, are in little strips resembling French fries.

As is the case with most salad bars, the Steak & Burger tomato wedges are too big. They're also rather green around the seeds. The cucumbers are much too big and they're not the homemade variety found in some restaurants. They look as if they were cut at random in hunks and crooked strips from a large block of weak. The carrot slices don't appear to have been properly peeled and the green peppers are both too big and too rusty.

Red and yellow peppers, which are becoming a popular item at salad bars, are included, I personally, find them too hot.

Acceptable pickled beets, bean salad, kidney beans, raw beet shavings, chic pea, cream corn and spinach round out the bill.

$1.99 on its own, $9.90 with a meal. Included with most entrees. Rating: *

Wuyts — 1750 Huron Church Road, 238-2236

A pleasant surprise. I expected little more than lettuce, tomato, cucumber, bacon bits, and dressings. All of these are here, along with radishes, beans, onions (a bit long), green pepper (a good size), carrots (chunkily sliced but not well peeled — why doesn't anybody peel their carrots?), cottage cheese (a real surprise) and even a fruit salad (the green grapes were a little fuzzy looking, though).

The tomatoes are only slightly too big, and the cucumrons have a nice cheesy flavour, (well, it's not nice if you don't like cheese, I guess). Unfortunately, you're expected to dish them up with one of those two-armed cruet sets, though you can ask for them on the counter. The dressing is also a bit too much. The glass canyon over the top is a problem too. Almost all salad bars have one, but Wuyts has a glass one, which makes it easy to avoid that if you like. Coleslaw is available from the counter but not from the salad bar.

Finally, again, we have the huge bed of ice, this time garnished with raw beet shavings and some lemons and tomatoes and which are going rotten.

Coleslaw is available from the counter but not from the bar.

As usual, the little bed of ice is in even bigger pieces which makes it pretty awkward. Some of the tomato slices are a bit long, but rather than being in round slices, are in little strips resembling French fries.

The regular onions are sliced in a way that makes them easy to eat and there's long green onions available as well, along with some peculiar looking celery sticks.

There's no real coleslaw or cabbage salad, though one tub of cut-up cabbage looks like it's just waiting to be made into a salad.

All the other standard items are included (chick peas, etc.) and are fine. There's also parmesan cheese and one item found at no other salad bar in Windsor—vinaigret.

Ateup the bed of ice are what look like a lot of cabbage leaves. The management should have quit while it was ahead. Instead, a decorative basket of the stuff, also containing brown-tinged tomatoes, radishes and green peppers is there too.

$2.39 on its own. Included with all entrees except those on kid's menu (69c if a kid wants it with his meal). Rating: *

Steak N' Burger, both of which are operated by Winco, whichever they are. Prices are higher at the former and Rib O' Beef pickled beets have ridges on them. There are also long pickles, bean sprouts, onions and partially peeled cucumber slices, but no creamed corn.

$2.50 as a meal, $2.75 with soup, included with all entrees except $3.25 as a meal. $3.50 with any entrees. Rating: **

Buns or bread aren't for sale. Just the usual (and much appreciated) $1.25 as a meal. $3.50 as a meal. $1.99 a meal with any entrees. Rating: **

Aldo's — 2175 Wyandotte, 256-4111

Some of the usual items found and you might like to make like Bugs Bunny

T omatoes aren't in a salad in the usual sense, but instead on the premises. Their garlic mayonnaise is the best, or at least the most genuine looking, garlic dressing I've ever had, plus it sticks. There's also a steak dressing that's used for steak and salads instead of the usual items is, for the most part, well prepared. The tomatoes are too mushy, though a good size, and the carrots are so thinly sliced you can't tell whether they've been peeled or not. Mushrooms, which are often, but not always found at salad bars, are finely chopped. The green peppers are in fat chunks. Oddly enough, there are no regular onions, but there are spanish ones.

There's also parmesan cheese and everything rests in a bed of — guess what — Ice.

$2.45 as a meal, $1.45 with a meal. Not included with any entrees. Rating: ***
In addition to the big four dressings, there's a superb garlic dressing and a unique (for me anyway), purple one called "Sweet Ranch Dressing". It's tremendous. The fact that the dressing tubs are labelled is tremendous in itself. I once mistook blue cheese for Italian and didn't discover it until I'd covered my salad with it. Yecchh! (Apologies to all blue cheese lovers. I like honey. Be adventurous and go for the corn bread. You won't regret it."

In addition to the big four dressings, there's also a superb garlic dressing and a unique (for me anyway), purple one called "Sweet Ranch Dressing". It's tremendous. The fact that the dressing tubs are labelled is tremendous in itself. I once mistook blue cheese for Italian and didn't discover it until I'd covered my salad with it. Yecechh! (Apologies to all blue cheese lovers. I like honey. Be adventurous and go for the corn bread. You won't regret it.

The biggest, most complete and best salad bar in Windsor. Two counters are needed for all the items. The big four dressings, bacon bits and croutons. The latter are the size as well. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and marinated plums. The dressing tubs are labelled and it is a great dressing. The croutons are large and the dressed salad is especially good. The tossed salad is in fairly short pieces. This is also found at the Exchange.

Yeecchh! (Apologies to all blue cheese lovers. I like honey. Be adventurous and go for the corn bread. You won't regret it.

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%

Ambassador Restaurant - 1590 Huron Church Road, 258-5921

Believe it or not, fewer items still. Quality is not as high, though. The tossed salad of lettuce, radishes, and very little tomato, is about the run-of-the-mill and run-of-the-mill with a meal. Included in all entrees, including More on that in a feature on ***%

$3-133

Borden's Place for Steaks - 461 Wyanwotte East, 254-8131

Even fewer items than Milano's! There are tomatoes (too big), but no crostini! Dark and light bread are available, though, maybe you're expected to make your own crostini (actually it's quite fresh). Good sized lettuce, macaroni salad, coleslaw, cottage cheese, beets, thick peas, and thick cucumbers, the usual dressings plus creamy Italian, and bacon bits (of course), are the only other items. It all sits on the old you-know-what.

A basket of crackers and a tray of cheese, black olives and sliced pickles are brought to your table. $3.95 on its own. Included with all entrees. Rating: **%
Honour and dignity before anything else

by Janie Chung of the Western Gazette

Members of Parliament may not have all the answers for our country, but they do have one thing going for them: a quick sense of humour and all the wittiest and entertaining quotations from some of our distinguished Members of Parliament during the past year.

On December 15, 1979 there was a vote of non-confidence for the Conservatives and they were consequently defeated by the Liberals the following year. This excerpt came in April 1980 between a Liberal and a Conservative.

Hon. Allan J. MacEachen: ... the honourable member has a real fascination for mice, I would describe him as the mouse which roared on the night of Dec. 11, and whose roar turned into a whimpers on the night of Dec. 13.

Mr. Crosbie: There is nothing less intimidating than a fangless mouse ... the old bite has gone.

Mr. Crosbie: (referring to Allan MacEachen) He has been in the House for donkey's years, and he is as slippery as a cod tongue in a barrel of cod livers.

Mr. Kempling: Someone goes into business, mortgage his house, his cottage, his car, his wife ... everything. An Hon. Member: His mother-in-law?

Mr. Baker: How much would he get for his mother-in-law?

Mr. Simmons: ... even the Speaker thinks he (Mr. Wilson) is making a fool of himself. He should keep his mouth shut so that some doubt will remain. If he opens it, there will be no doubt at all, I advise him to listen. He might even learn something.

Mr. Wilson: From you? Never!

On December 13, 1979 there was a vote of non-confidence for the Conservatives and they were consequently defeated by the Liberals the following year. This excerpt came in April 1980 between a Liberal and a Conservative.

Hon. Allen J. MacEachen: ... the honourable member has a real fascination for mice, I would describe him as the mouse which roared on the night of Dec. 11, and whose roar turned into a whimpers on the night of Dec. 13.

Mr. Crosbie: There is nothing less intimidating than a fangless mouse ... the old bite has gone.

Mr. Crosbie: (referring to Allan MacEachen) He has been in the House for donkey's years, and he is as slippery as a cod tongue in a barrel of cod livers.

Mr. Kempling: Someone goes into business, mortgage his house, his cottage, his car, his wife ... everything. An Hon. Member: His mother-in-law?

Mr. Baker: How much would he get for his mother-in-law?

Mr. Simmons: ... even the Speaker thinks he (Mr. Wilson) is making a fool of himself. He should keep his mouth shut so that some doubt will remain. If he opens it, there will be no doubt at all, I advise him to listen. He might even learn something.

Mr. Wilson: From you? Never!

Mr. King: I too have a background in agriculture. Mr. Pepin: It doesn't show.

Mr. King: I have an emotional as well as a practical attachment to the land. I was raised on a fruit farm.

Mr. Chevrier: Is that why you called me "my dear"?

Mr. Young: During the election campaign, Ed Broadbent introduced a new deal for pensioners. Some Hon. Members: Ed who?

An Hon. Member: He just has a big mouth that is all.

Mr. Nielson: The only time he opens his mouth is to change feet.

Mr. Crosbie: You can only deduct interest on your own main home, the home in which you live with your spouse or whoever you live with. Some Hon. Members: Oh, Oh!

An Hon. Member: Speak for yourself. Mr. Crosbie: Now we hear the moralists from the NDP pepping up. Some Hon. Members: Oh, Oh!

Mr. Crosbie: They are paying attention now because they think there is something sexy coming.

An Hon. Member: Speak up, Dunbo, in the back seat over there.

Mr. Crosbie: (presumably referring to Mr. Trudeau): Yes, where's old disco daddy? Our leader may like disco but he is usually on the job. He is no sugar daddy or disco daddy.

An Hon. Member: You have been doing it for 16 years.

Mr. Nystrom: Why did you do it, John?

Mr. Evans: I am new, remember.

Mr. Nystrom: We have a virgin speaking.

Mr. Evans: That is true, but sometimes words of wisdom come from the mouths of virgins.

Caravan is wending its way onto campus

Wear your best Sunday bon­ noises but please leave your camel parked outside. The Caravan is coming.

December 3-5 the Assumption Lounge of the University Centre will miraculously unfold into an incense hazed, noisy bazaar right from the pages of The Arabian Nights.

Caravan products are hand­ crafted, made by cooperatives and self-help organizations in such countries as Bolivia, Sri Lanka, Jordan, China, Camer­ oons, and India.

What you might find offered are baskets, wall hangings, toys, jewelry boxes, drums, leather objects, and batik and alpaca products.

WUSC, the World University Service of Canada is partly responsible for this event, along with the Third World Centre, 1010 Howard Avenue.

The World University Service of Canada involves faculty and students on many campuses across the country in such programs as its student refugee sponsorships and its interna­tional seminars. In fact, our own Students' Administrative Council passed a motion at their last meeting to sponsor a re­ figure student of our very own (see page 3). Any student here wishing to join the group is very welcome and should get in touch with it through the SAC office.

The Third World Resource Centre of Windsor is a non­ profit organization providing the community with a variety of educational materials, including audio-visual, as well as educational programs on international and national development.

World hunger, disarmament, human rights, foreign aid, and unemployment are among the issues that are addressed in its resources and in its programs.

An annual high school human rights forum is also offered to students in Windsor and Essex public and separate secondary schools.

Mr. Simmons: ... even the Speaker thinks he (Mr. Wilson) is making a fool of himself. He should keep his mouth shut so that some doubt will remain. If he opens it, there will be no doubt at all, I advise him to listen. He might even learn something.

Mr. Wilson: From you? Never!

Mr. King: I too have a background in agriculture. Mr. Pepin: It doesn't show.

Mr. King: I have an emotional as well as a practical attachment to the land. I was raised on a fruit farm.

Mr. Chevrier: Is that why you called me "my dear"?

Mr. Young: During the election campaign, Ed Broadbent introduced a new deal for pensioners. Some Hon. Members: Ed who?

An Hon. Member: He just has a big mouth that is all.

Mr. Nielson: The only time he opens his mouth is to change feet.

Mr. Crosbie: You can only deduct interest on your own main home, the home in which you live with your spouse or whoever you live with. Some Hon. Members: Oh, Oh!

An Hon. Member: Speak for yourself. Mr. Crosbie: Now we hear the moralists from the NDP pepping up. Some Hon. Members: Oh, Oh!

Mr. Crosbie: They are paying attention now because they think there is something sexy coming.

An Hon. Member: Speak up, Dunbo, in the back seat over there.

Mr. Crosbie: (presumably referring to Mr. Trudeau): Yes, where's old disco daddy? Our leader may like disco but he is usually on the job. He is no sugar daddy or disco daddy.

An Hon. Member: You have been doing it for 16 years.

Mr. Nystrom: Why did you do it, John?

Mr. Evans: I am new, remember.

Mr. Nystrom: We have a virgin speaking.

Mr. Evans: That is true, but sometimes words of wisdom come from the mouths of virgins.
The comedy "10" seems to have started a new movie genre about male monogamy. Middle Age Crazy follows this recent trend. Bobby Lee Burnett (Bruce Dem), is a rich and successful contractor who, after reaching 40, is now caught in a change of life dilemma. Frustrated with his wife and family, he begins to fantasize about buying a Porsche and escaping his job; or, making love to a beautiful girl he sees briefly in a car showrooms.

Anecdotes of his newly discarded feelings, Bobby Lee confides in his friend and partner, J.D. (Graham Jarvis), whose only words of consolation to him are that he is not alone since every man at his age fantasizes about a dreamgirl, including J.D. himself. Unlike J.D., however, Bobby Lee's dream does come true. After spending a few evenings with his fantasy lady, Nancy (Deborah Wakeman), he learns the hard way that his perfect woman is not so perfect, nor does she belong exclusively to him. This man needs no introduction ...

With a repertoire of over three hundred songs "and at least two hundred others I have forgotten", Cliff Erickson can adapt his music to any crowd he is playing for. "I even have grandparents come to the show." The high spirits surrounding Erickson's concerts sometimes present Erickson with a problem. "I sometimes fight to control the crowd. If it looks like things could get out of hand, I slow the pace right down." You can expect to hear any song from the gutter of Cliff J. Erickson. Of course he can't play songs which obviously depend on a multitude of instruments, but anything reasonable, he'll attempt. On Tuesday evening, some Chemical Engineering students complained about the lack of flute Springsteen material. Sure enough, Erickson has promised that next time he visits the campus Springsteen will be among his repertoire.

Cliff Erickson does have higher aspirations for his music. He is in the process of releasing a single, "You Are My Friend", which he hopes to make available at Universities in the new year. "I'm still looking for that recording contract" laments Erickson. "It would be nice to be noticed.

With both piano and guitar ability, Cliff Erickson rates himself a good musician. I'll agree, but I really don't think it would matter to his performance. Playing long sets with short breaks, the audience appreciates the sincerity of his act. Erickson says he would jump at the chance to tour with a big name performer...so if you're out there Harry C. this may be your chance to find a suitable opening act.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

MIDDLE AGE CRAZY

by Rosemary Comiso

The comedy "10" seems to have started a new movie genre about male monogamy. Middle Age Crazy follows this recent trend. Bobby Lee Burnett (Bruce Dem), is a rich and successful contractor who, after reaching 40, is now caught in a change of life dilemma. Frustrated with his wife and family, he begins to fantasize about buying a Porsche and escaping his job; or, making love to a beautiful girl he sees briefly in a car showroom.

Anecdotes of his newly discarded feelings, Bobby Lee confides in his friend and partner, J.D. (Graham Jarvis), whose only words of consolation to him are that he is not alone since every man at his age fantasizes about a dreamgirl, including J.D. himself. Unlike J.D., however, Bobby Lee's dream does come true. After spending a few evenings with his fantasy lady, Nancy (Deborah Wakeman), he learns the hard way that his perfect woman is not so perfect, nor does she belong exclusively to him.

If this movie's plot sounds familiar, it should, since Middle Age Crazy's predecessor operated on exactly the same premise. Slight variations in scenes or characters does not alter the fact that, essentially it is no different from the original. What keeps Middle Age Crazy from being mediocre are the convincing performances given by the cast.

Bruce Dem turns in a believable portrayal of a man who's torn between freedom and responsibility. Anne-Margaret again demonstrates her capabilities as a fine actress while playing the upper middle class housewife of Dem. Unfortunately, these redeeming qualities do not overshadow the underlying truth that Middle Age Crazy is merely a carbon copy of what has already been done.
Punk off? That fact was fiction

by Martin Decker

Last Friday night, a concert, imaginatively titled "Punk Off," was put on under the auspices of the Marketing Club. These boys seem to have learned their marketing lessons well. The evening's spectacle was about the farthest thing from punk imaginable.

Detroit's Attic Theatre

New Wave Theatre

by John Liddle

Something — I'm not quite sure exactly what — is alive and kicking in contemporary theatre. I'm referring specifically to the punk-opera, "A Evening At The Paradise" which is currently playing at midnight on Fridays and Saturdays at Detroit's Attic Theatre.

To make a comparison to National Lampoon's "LeMings" would be greatly out of date, not only to the players but to anyone who knows better. "A Evening At The Paradise" is a strikingly original production. How can one describe a play that combines the intimacy of the theatre with the energy of a fast band? It can't help but to draw you in.

The play's subtitle, "A New Wave Love Story," aptly describes the plot; it's a love triangle. Three exceedingly different characters, no doubt the kind that you'd find in any new wave bar, all strive for the hand of attractive, gorgeous "Mo," the owner of the Paradise. They are: Jack, an aspiring punk rock singer; Porterhouse, a sassy, sassy, sassy rich "cad," and a common bouncer.

The three conclave with a "Father," a fast talking alcoholic who should have been a used car salesman, and who offers them a chance on the arm of a bottle of Canada Club. Eventually, their antics, the friction between them, is resolved by a quasi-council, of Mo, the Father, and a waitress. They decide that everyone must get along together.

The music is dynamic, adding unerringly to the show's "aura." Who ever heard of new wave without music? And in the non-strict confines of the script it becomes a natural combination. All six characters sing. The songs are all fast energetic originals, usually ending a scene.

The first song, delivered by Jack, asks facetiously "Am I Too Punk For You?" It captures the audience's attention, serving as a comic tone for the play. The opening scene, indeed the entire play, is extremely kinetic. It moves, and when it moves, you move. The choreography is in no less than superb.

"A Night at the Paradise" isn't the sort of play that lends itself to any heavy, meditative socio-psycho logical interpretations. It is a skilful, subtle, satire after stripping away all of the tom-doolery, the stagetrip, and near farcical actions.

However, there's no time for any intellectual heavy-handedness here; it's strict entertainment. If you leave, and your sides aren't aching from laughing so much then you just don't understand what humour is.

Author, producer and director, Johnathan Round, who also plays the enigmatic "Father," has scripted an extremely contemporary piece of drama. The "American Dream" undergoes a metamorphosis; it becomes the "American New Wave Dream." Get your own punk bar, and go from there. This, considering the plight of Windsor's own "Davis-garde" brothels is certainly applicable. And the aspiration, through Jack, to be a punk rock singer, the contemporary, cynical poet. That is all in there too.

"The plot is not insignificant by any means, but it is the pure 'Joyce' that is predominant. It's the delivery that creates the special "air" that is so much the ingredient that is vital to the theatre.

The music, by Spike, it more than adequate. They're fine musicians. It is theatre; it is music, "An Evening At The Paradise," boils down to one simple word, "fun."

University talent

Students of the university will be in the spotlight this weekend with two different groups performing for the public. The University Players will perform "Hecuba" a play by Michael Stewart, on November 29, 30 and December 4, 5, 6 in the Essex Hall Theatre. Tickets are $3.50 on Thursdays and Sundays, and $4.00 on Fridays and Saturdays. For more information phone the box office at 253-4565. Performances begin at 8:00pm.

CONCERT BAND

The University Concert Band, under the direction of James Tamburrini will give a concert Sunday at 3:00pm in the Ambassador Auditorium. Gregory Buder will be the guest pianist. The featured work will be Ken Campbell's Capitol City Suite. Students will be admitted free with student identification. Support your campus performers this weekend.

Sacc's Pub presents this week

Cliff Erickson

Nov. 24 - 29

Rock Island Rockets

next week

Dec. 1 - 6
John Cougar

Nothin' Matters and What If It Did

by John Doyle

I had hoped street rock was back.

John Cougar's first album showed unique talent and a surprising maturity. It marked his debut, featuring such hits as "I Need a Lover" and "The Great McIntosh.

Alas, I cannot say the same about Cougar's latest effort. It appears that somewhere along the line he lost that magic combination of driving rock and rough "Say what he things" lyrics. Cougar goes through the same motions as he did on his first LP but somehow the music ends up short. The lyrics are what you could call standard fare, not memorable. All in all the entire album was somewhat of a disappointment.

The instrumentation challenged the lyrics leaving neither the winner. All I can do now is forget this album.

This is AC/DC's finest album, already number one in Detroit. and record companies in particular. "Tonight" and "Wild Angel" are also decent, but the most played songs on the album could only be called fair, rough "Say what he things" lyrics. "Cheap Shot" and "Cheap Town" are also decent, but the music industry in general, the best the album has to offer, is slowly growing in popularity. You begin to get audiences to appreciate your feelings and motivations. Just before you feel you've conquered your audience, your lead singer drops off the face of the earth. The instrumentation continued with "S.hoot to Thrill", "Need a Lover" and "The Great McIntosh", as his first. Let's try and forget this album. The between-set music was likewise atrocious. Such "punk" hits as the Rocky horror truck and AC/DC were featured.

The evening certainly wasn't the "Punk Off" it was billed to be.
IM Sports slow down for break

Hockey Action
The action was exciting this week in intramural hockey. The Bulls jumped into second place as they rode Ken Samanski's hat trick to victory over the stubborn Law 'A' team, 5-3. Meanwhile, Commerce 'A' licked the 69'ers to earn a share of first place and hand the 69'ers their first loss of the season.

Week's Results

A Division
Eagles 6 Exiles 2
Bulls 5 Law 'A' 1
Commerce 'A' 5 69'ers 1

B Division
Huron Hall 1 Mac Hall 1
F-Arts 5 H.K. Blades 4

B2 Division
Eng. Soc. 'B' 4 Cody Sucks 1
Seamen 4 Geography 4

CJAM Wraps up
CJAM wraps up its first term of broadcasts when the hockey team plays host to the Western Mustangs at Adie Knox Arena, Sunday at 3:15 p.m. Join the CJAM Sports Team for all the color and excitement of this game. CJAM - 660 AM.

Calling Curlers
The University of Windsor Varsity curling teams are looking for curlers. The sign-up sheet is at the Information desk in the University Centre. For more info, contact Bev Mainwaring at 946-7721.

Channel swim
With a little more than a week left in the Channel Swim, Nick Tran, Cindy Vandenheuvel, Stanley Braithwaite and Vicki Kosnik have all reached or passed the three-quarter channel markers.

B-ball tournament
The 24th University of Windsor High School Boys Invitation Basketball tournament will be held at St. Denis Hall Friday, Jan. 2 and Saturday, Jan. 3. The participating teams will be Bell H.S. (Ottawa), Denis Morris H.S. (St. Catherine's), Eastern H.S. of Commerce (Toronto), St. Anne's H.S. (T Bancroft), St. Mary's College (Sault Ste. Marie), W.D. Lowe College (Windsor), Herman S.S. (Windsor) and Centennial S.S. (Windsor).

Lancerettes split
by Chris Legebów
The Lancerette volleyball team defeated Guelph Gryphons in Guelph last weekend, 7-15, 15-6, 15-2 and 15-2. The play was smooth and well-controlled and the attack was hard and well-placed. Windsor had full control of the play and was confident in their style.

Tina McElroy, flautist
Tina McElroy, flautist

Pianist

Thomas A. Maurice, pianist

December 4, 1980

at 12:00 noon

at IONA COLLEGE, 208 SUNSET AVE.

Call 253-7257
Swimmers swamped at Miami meet

The Lancerette Swimming and Diving Team found that they were in a little over their heads at the University of Miami at Ohio Invitational swim meet last Friday and Saturday.

The highest placing any team member could manage was 19th in the field of 11 American schools. Both Gill Stevens and Patxi Roy achieved that placing.

Gill, a fourth-year Human Kinetics student, qualified for the CIAU Nationals in the 100 metre butterfly with her time of 1 minute, 21.5 seconds. Patxi, a first-year Science student, was just short of the CIAU qualifying time for the 100m backstroke with the time of 1:01.1.

The pair also competed in the 200m individual medley, 100m breaststroke, 100m backstroke and the 200m backstroke. While no CIAU standards were met in these events, it is hoped they will be attained in the near future.

Another strong performer, Jennifer Agnew, a first-year H.K. student, was in good swim in the 100m butterfly, 200m individual medley, 100m back and 200m back. Although Jennifer did not qualify for the Nationals, she was close and will probably qualify in the next meet.

Kady Samson, a fourth-year H.K. student, started the year off well in the 100 and 200m breaststroke, her specialties. Kady is quite far off national standards, but her times have dropped significantly from last year and she has her sights set on the OWIAA meet and a qualifying time for the CIAU's.

Consistent and very promising times were turned in by Chauleine Aitben (B.Com. '91), Lauren Yee (B.Sc. '91) and Kim Woytuik (B.Sc. '91). Coach Don Wilson was particularly pleased with their performances because it showed that they can handle university competition.

Windsor's top diver, Petra Wilson, 13th year (M.H.K.), participated in the one and three metre diving events and placed 24th and 22nd respectively. It may not have been Petra's best meet, but she dove consistently against the tough American competition.

"I think the girls have a chance to do well this year," commented Wilson. "Soe Swans has arranged a good meet schedule for us which will allow the girls to get used to OWIAA competition. I think I have about six girls that will make the CIAU's which will be most exciting and the others to give the team the depth it will need to place reasonably high in the conference championship."

The Lancerettes swim next in a meet at McMaster University Nov. 29.

Synchronised Swimming

Hanging upside down in not always the warmest of water, practising figures, is not the most pleasant task in the world. Yet, practice pays off for the Lancerettes Synchronised Swimming Team as they gave an outstanding performance at the OWIAA Sectional figures competition, hosted by Windsor last Saturday.

The University of Western Ontario and the University of Waterloo were the other schools competing in the meet, the first of the year.

Novice Figures
1st Margaret Beaton 2nd Carolyn Shaw 3rd Dawn Maxwell
7th Sue Greenda Intermediate Figures
2nd Jessica Amsteren 4th Barb Millar 9th Hilde Berends Senior Figures
2nd Kelly Godson

You there... yeah you. Can you throw me my napsack?

Practice pays off

Scholarships to support sports

WINNIPEG (G.U.P) - The Federal Minister of Fitness and Amateur Sport has come out in favor of Canadian universities offering athletic scholarships. Speaking at the University of Manitoba, Gerald Reagan said he would support the idea of scholarships to entice athletes to stay in Canada.

"I am supportive of any plan capable of keeping athletes in Canada," the minister said when asked what the federal government could do about the mass exodus of athletes to American college campuses.

Reagan said scholarships from private funds may be necessary if the provinces do not adequately finance the universities' athletic programs and amateur sport in general.

The Lance, Vol. LI, No. 12, November 28 1980 Page Fifteen
The basketball Lancers head into this weekend's tournament at Shaw College of Detroit still seeking their first big "W" of the season.

Windsor stands 0-7 in exhibition play following back-to-back losses to the University of Michigan, a 103-68 humbling Monday, and the University of Detroit, a disappointing 94-72 loss Tuesday.

Stan Korosec led the scoring for Windsor against Michigan with 13 points. Marty Bodnar led the Gee-Gees with 12 points each. Roberta Smith added 15 rebounds at 5'9", and Brian Buttrey swipes a Lancer team.

Johnson shared scoring honors with 12 points each. Roberta Smith led the scoring race with 12 points each. Windsor was 76-59, and Brock

The basketball Lancerettes, after changing into the season with three straight wins, have now twice been proved mortal. Windsor dropped its second game in a row Wednesday night.

The basketball Lancerettes split a pair of games in Ottawa last weekend, beating Carleton 70-51 Friday and losing to the University of Ottawa 76-54 Saturday.

The Lancerettes struggled in the victory over Carleton as they held only a slim four-point lead, 22-28, at halftime before taking control in the second session.

Lancers still winless in pre-season play

Basketball Women only mortal

by Sue Hrycyshyn

The basketball Lancerettes, after changing into the season with three straight wins, have now twice been proved mortal. Windsor dropped its second game in a row Wednesday night.

Windsor stood 1-7 in exhibition play following back-to-back losses to the University of Michigan, a 103-68 humbling Monday, and the University of Detroit, a disappointing 94-72 loss Tuesday.

Stan Korosec led the scoring for Windsor against Michigan with 13 points. Marty Bodnar led the Gee-Gees with 12 points each. Roberta Smith added 15 rebounds at 5'9", and Brian Buttrey swipes a Lancer team.

Johnson shared scoring honors with 12 points each. Roberta Smith led the scoring race with 12 points each. Windsor was 76-59, and Brock

The basketball Lancerettes split a pair of games in Ottawa last weekend, beating Carleton 70-51 Friday and losing to the University of Ottawa 76-54 Saturday.

The Lancerettes struggled in the victory over Carleton as they held only a slim four-point lead, 22-28, at halftime before taking control in the second session.

Lancers up to 3 and 5

The hockey Lancers finally gave statistical proof last weekend that they are a better team than last year.

Windsor took wins from Ryerson Saturday, 9-5, and Brock Saturday, 3-2, to up their season record to 3-5. That's already two more wins than the team could manage in the 22-game schedule last year.

A big part of the success had to do with the return of 5'9", 160-pound Marty Stover to the lineup after he sat out three weeks with a shoulder injury suffered in the league opener with Queen's.

Stover teamed up with Len Chittle and Dave Easter as the line collected 10 of the Lancers' 12 goals. Chittle netted four, along with three assists, against the Rams, while Stover added three.

Easter pocketed one against the Badgers, as did Stover.

The game with the Rams was closer than the score indicates.

The loss meant we'll have to work extra hard to come back and prove ourselves," said coach Sue Swain. "The trip to Ottawa was a long one and it's necessary for the athletes to learn to play well even under these adverse conditions.

On Saturday, Windsor was not quite as fortunate against the Gee-Gees. The Lancerettes trailed by only 10 at the half and with three minutes remaining it was down to eight, but the Gee-Gees outdistanced Windsor, scoring numerous uncontested baskets to run away with the game.

Windsor was a different story Tuesday as the Lancers entered a game with a Titan team they probably could have beaten on a good day. The U. of D. was missing two starting forwards from injury, but Windsor was flat from their game the night before and the tough pre-season schedule.

The Lancers stuck close for the first 15 minutes of the game with Korosec cleaning the defensive boards and the team capitalizing on most of their free throw attempts (11 of 19 in the first half) against the rough Titan defense. But Detroit was just too quick for the sluggish Windsor team and by halftime they had rolls in 49-31 lead.

Jerry Davis of the Titans hit 17 that the Lancers could have all but one Michigan player got losses to the University of Michigan into this weekend's tournament with 13 points.

Marty Bodnar did it for the third year in a row.

But then, the last two years it's not let them hit 100, but they didn't go inside all year.

I think it's the first time we've been a lot more than that so our defense has improved," true enough, the defense did a credible job as the Wolverines, anxious to please the fans at the Civic Centre, were right in it.

We weren't bad in the first half," remarked coach Nick Grabowski. 'It was the second minute and a half in order to the McM.aster Marauders, to the closest they could come was...

"We weren't bad in the first half," remarked coach Nick Grabowski. 'It was the second half that bothered the heck out of me. We were getting the open shot, but we weren't taking it. I think it's the first time we didn't go inside all year.

"Of course I was hoping to..." re'marked coach Nick Grabowski. 'It was the second half that bothered the heck out of me. We were getting the open shot, but we weren't taking it. I think it's the first time we didn't go inside all year.

"Of course I was hoping to..." re'marked coach Nick Grabowski. 'It was the second half that bothered the heck out of me. We were getting the open shot, but we weren't taking it. I think it's the first time we didn't go inside all...
Cassano announces “internal audit”

by Wendy Coomber

This university will be undergoing a departmental physical examination for the next two weeks under the chairmanship of Dr. Paul Cassano, Vice-President-Academic, and the Senate’s Academic Planning Committee.

Dr. John Sullivan, interim Dean of Arts and member of the Planning Committee, said one of the main reasons behind this “intrusive audit” is “you (the university) have to know who you are, what your strengths and weaknesses are.”

He said there had been various initiatives toward university planning in the past on this level but nothing had ever come of them. However, there are small studies conducted quite often inside different areas of the academic program.

For instance, the Academic Committee on Academic Planning, a subgroup of the Canadian Council of Universities, conducts an appraisal of each graduate program in order to judge the program’s merits.

Inside the university, the Faculty of Social Science is carrying on its own internal study this fall, according to Dr. Phillips because the faculty has a two-year calendar.

The Committee then interviewed each member of the Students’ Administrative Council (SAC) Committee Investigating the Internal Difficulties and Disagreements of the SAC Executive (see editorial, page 4).

Committee Members: Kevin Sisk, Jay Smith, Ken Roberts, Chairman

The purpose of this Committee was to investigate the internal difficulties and disagreements of the Students’ Administrative Council Executive. The Committee was responsible for talking to each member of that Executive in order to determine the cause and extent of these difficulties. The Committee was to submit a written report which could include any resolutions which the Committee wished to suggest concerning this matter.

The procedure that the Committee utilized was to first examine the SAC By-Laws concerning the roles, duties and responsibilities of the Executive members.

The Committee then interviewed each member of the Cabinet individually, and the SAC office secretaries collectively. This was to ensure confidentiality and impartiality in the interviewing, in that no member was informed of the report of any other member. Each interview was similarly structured to make certain that all members were given equal and ample opportunity to respond to corresponding issues. An Executive group meeting was then conducted to openly discuss common concerns and observations.

It was the Finding of this Committee that internal strife between SAC Executives has not been reflective of the ability of its members to provide expected services to the students of the University of Windsor. It was found that all of the Executive have succeeded in fulfilling their duties, there being no evidence to indicate any area that would constitute inability to render plans stated roles, obligations or responsibilities. It was found that all of the Executive Members have contributed to the success of the Corporation.

There exists definite evidence to indicate that poor communication within the Executive has led to tension, especially concerning the perceived extent of individual and collective undertakings. The roles and expectations of the Executive has not been clearly understood amongst themselves.

There has been an inability to attune the External Affairs position to the satisfaction of the President of the Corporation or the External Affairs Commissioner. Resultingly, an overlap of services has occurred, which has led to inequitable differences regarding the functions of that office.

The involvement of the other Commissions into the Internal Affairs was peripheral. The Commissioners were unable to fulfill their roles without undue complaints or damaging involvements. This was attributed largely to the existence of clearly written and defined job descriptions and responsibilities.

The Vice-President-Administration also agreed generally with this, but added another reason for the audit. Windsor didn’t do an awfully good job at the June hearings of the Ontario Council on University Affairs — OCCAU last year.

McIntosh thought perhaps, Dr. Cassano would like to present a better image of our university at this year’s hearings. He also added that it was important for the university to take a serious look at what it was doing academically.

“The chief purpose is to foster a new perspective on ourselves from a depth and breadth not otherwise possible from our current data base,” said Cassano’s “audit memorandum to the faculty and department heads.

On last it read, “One of the government’s recent signals is that the pressure for system rationalization, heretofore aimed only at graduate programs, will continue to build until all undergraduate programs are similarly affected.”

System rationalization, according to OCCAU, is the cooperation at the undergraduate level between Ontario universities to cut down on program duplication.

Dean Sullivan felt the audit would provide a basis for thenational planning for the future.” He concluded by saying, because of the various constraints faced upon the university, if it didn’t plan its future carefully now it might waste what it already has.

Why are hot tubs so wonderful on a cold winter’s day when cold nuts barely turn heads on a hot summer’s day? Well, that’s just one of life’s little mysteries, isn’t it? (Philosophy majors are invited to send their comments to the Editor.)

SAC Committee finds lack of communication

The following is the verbatim Report of the SAC Committee Investigating the Internal Difficulties and Disagreements of the SAC Executive (see editorial, page 4).

Committee Members: Kevin Sisk, Jay Smith, Ken Roberts, Chairman

The purpose of this Committee was to investigate the internal difficulties and disagreements of the Students’ Administrative Council Executive. The Committee was responsible for talking to each member of that Executive in order to determine the cause and extent of these difficulties. The Committee was to submit a written report which could include any resolutions which the Committee wished to suggest concerning this matter.

The procedure that the Committee utilized was to first examine the SAC By-Laws concerning the roles, duties and responsibilities of the Executive members.

The Committee then interviewed each member of the Cabinet individually, and the SAC office secretaries collectively. This was to ensure confidentiality and impartiality in the interviewing, in that no member was informed of the report of any other member. Each interview was similarly structured to make certain that all members were given equal and ample opportunity to respond to corresponding issues. An Executive group meeting was then conducted to openly discuss common concerns and observations.

It was the Finding of this Committee that internal strife between SAC Executives has not been reflective of the ability of its members to provide expected services to the students of the University of Windsor. It was found that all of the Executive have succeeded in fulfilling their duties, there being no evidence to indicate any area that would constitute inability to render plans stated roles, obligations or responsibilities. It was found that all of the Executive Members have contributed to the success of the Corporation.

There exists definite evidence to indicate that poor communication within the Executive has led to tension, especially concerning the perceived extent of individual and collective undertakings. The roles and expectations of the Executive has not been clearly understood amongst themselves.

There has been an inability to attune the External Affairs position to the satisfaction of the President of the Corporation or the External Affairs Commissioner. Resultingly, an overlap of services has occurred, which has led to inequitable differences regarding the functions of that office.

The involvement of the other Commissions into the Internal Affairs was peripheral. The Commissioners were unable to fulfill their roles without undue complaints or damaging involvements. This was attributed largely to the existence of clearly written and defined job descriptions and responsibilities.

It has been determined that the Vice-President-Finance has occasionally demonstrated a lack of concern with the President of SAC in a specific manner. While the job was being done, the procedures utilized were not completely appropriate.

The Vice-President-Administration has vast experience and knowledge necessary to effectively support the Presidents’ position. There has been on occasion, a failure to demonstrate respect for the President. The President, despite diligent effort and good intentions, has experienced difficulties due to misperceptions of the scope and delegation of his authority.

This is a result of having on occasion the inability to interpret, consider and apply the contributions of others in corporate decision-making.

It is the belief of this Committee that these serious communication problems have not affected services to students, but has led to internal tension at the SAC Executive level. The Committee has attempted to expedite the overall productivity of SAC. Even more can be accomplished in SAC if this is resolved.

Stemming from the conclusion of this Committee, the following RECOMMENDATIONS TO RESOLVE THE ISSUES are proposed.

1. That the President take measures to reconcile his authoritative stance concerning the stated and implied rules of all SAC Executives. Corporate leadership is a collaborative, team effort and not a single proprietorship. It must be recognized that no role authority exists, and a consideration of the Cabinet must take place.

2. That channels of communication be clearly established to ensure that executive members have a clear understanding of, and input into, the decision-making process.

3. That the Executive concretely pledge their support of each other, of these recommendations, and of a cooperative effort toward achieving the best possible service to the students of the University of Windsor.

Date: December 1, 1980
FOR RENT
1,100 sq. ft. home.
Address: 12345 Main St. December 1
In the area of Sandwich
3 bedrooms, large livingroom, newly refinished original hardwood flooring. Ideal for college living. Parking available. $950/month before December 1.

THIS IS NO WAY TO SELL YOUR BOOKS!

How do you ever expect to sell your books on a cluttered bulletin board? What's more, how do you expect to find the books you want in such a mess? Well, your Student's Administrative Council has just the answer.

Beginning Jan. 18, 20, 21 S.A.C. will start collecting books at Essex Lounge (First Floor, University Centre) for resale on Jan. 22 to 28.

Here's how it works:

1) Take your used books to Essex Lounge.
2) Tell the person receiving your books what price you want to sell them for. (Ridiculously high requests will be refused.)
3) You get a receipt for this amount along with a number for each book.
4) If the book is sold during your sale you receive your price less 15 per cent handling fee.
5) Payments will be made January 29 to February 4.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Bern-Bern, love and kisses - from the Little River Gang.

HOUSE FOR RENT: 5 blocks from University, 4 bedroom house, living room, dining room, kitchen, close, neat, parking in rear. Would prefer to rent to female students. $120. Utilities paid. Available Jan. 1, 1980. Call 756-2288 for appointment.

BROOKS: Keep your head up and keep smiling. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise. Good luck on your exams - Fred.

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University - 313-3131.

MASS SCHEDULE:
- Tuesday - 4:30 p.m. & 4:30 p.m.
- Wednesday - 11:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.
- Thursday - 12 noon & 1 p.m.
- Friday - 12 noon & 4:30 p.m.
- Saturday - 9:30 a.m. & 11:30 a.m.

CONFESSIONS: On request at any time by the chaplains.

Our centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre. Everyone is welcome to drop in any time.

HOLIDAY LITURGICAL SCHEDULE
- Christmas Eve - 11:30 p.m. (Carols followed by Mass at midnight)
- Christmas Day - 10:30 a.m. Family Christmas Liturgy
- New Year's Day - 10:30 a.m.
- Christmas Day - 10:30 a.m.

CAMERA FOR SALE: Olympus Trip 35 in excellent condition for $75.00. Phone Philip at 254-0271 between 8-9 p.m.

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment in west. Near campus, $125 a month, available Jan. 1. Call 258-1200 for details.

FOR RENT: UPSTAIRS APARTMENT - Four rooms, kitchen, bath, separate entrance; on Fire Street, Parent and Tecumseh. Village and street in incl. Reasonable. Call 516-4498.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Great Root Bear. May your halo never dim. J. P. Axeman

VOLUNTEERS are required to answer telephones and perform other duties for the Cerebral Palsy Association. The telephone will begin on Saturday, January 17th at 7 p.m. and end on Sunday, January 18th, 1980 at 4 p.m. For more information call Volunteer Services at 253-4577.

FOR RENT: 5 Bedroom, 2 stores brick home. Two bathrooms. Furnishings and appliances included. Reasonable. Call 256-4498.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Great Root Bear. May your halo never dim. J. P. Axeman by E.P. Chant and Canadian University Press

Students at various campuses know their tuition is going to be going up next year and their universities’ budgets have been slashed, but neither of these matters have been finalized here according to university president
Dr. Mervyn Franklin.

Students at Ryerson Poly-technical Institute found out recently they can expect a 12.9 per cent tuition hike next year.

Students there will have to pay $16 more (for a total of $735) a year, said finance director P.G. Harry, to compensate for an anticipated inadequately increase in the provincial government’s grant to the institute.

The grant, which is expected to be increased, is not expected to cover Ryerson’s budgetary needs.

Harry was told about the grant increase by a Ministry of Colleges and Universities representative at a meeting of university finance officers. They were told to "anticipate an increase of between 5.5 percent and nine percent."

No formal government announcement on the grants has been made. Ryerson students’ council president John Long thinks it is "undermined" for the ministry to tell the finance officers before the statement was made.

Ryerson’s departments can expect to have reduced budgets next year as well.

At the University of Calgary, the university administration informally announced a tuition increase for next year of between ten and 12 percent, according to some members of the students’ council executive.

"Dr. Wagner (the university’s president) said quite plainly, not in confidence, that we could expect ten to 12 percent increases,” recounted council president Theresa Goulet.

Tuition fees are currently $605 annually for full-time undergraduates, and $765 annually for engineering students.
A 12 percent increase would raise those figures to $678 and $947 respectively. Fees this year have already been raised ten percent from last year’s level of $550 for regular undergraduates.

Wagner denied using the ten to 12 percent figure, but admitted discussing the possibility of an increase with the council executive.

He did suggest tuition fees should perhaps be set at roughly ten percent of the total cost of a student’s education, which he said is currently $9,800 annually. A tuition increase to this $800 mark would mean a 32 percent jump over current levels.

In the budget area, the University of Toronto’s Governing Council (similar to the university’s Board of Governors) has approved a three million dollar cut in the university’s base budget for next year.

According to the university’s budget committee, the “reductions are seen to be necessary, principally because of the inadequacies in the university’s operating fund from last year’s grant from the government.”

Governing Council member Professor James Conacher was one of several councillors who released the approved budget.

Conacher said, “Too much emphasis is being put on cuts, which may create the impression at Queen’s Park and in the press that there is still fat on the old carcass and that we do not really need the increased revenue we ask for.”

He said that more emphasis be put on increasing income from other sources.

Alumni representative on the council, Jordan Sullivan, was one of only two council members to vote against the budget.

Sullivan does not “believe it comes to grip with the problem.
Eighty percent of the budget is for staff, and 80 percent of that is tenure. We’ve cut all the fat out of the university’s budget.
For the past five years we’ve faced budget cuts.”

Sullivan also asked that the public be made aware that the university is “suffering grievously.”

In a telephone interview on Monday, President Franklin said the issue of a tuition increase next year year had not been examined here yet and that the coming year’s budget had not been finalized for publication.

Even when these matters have been settled by the Board of Governors, the news will be delayed in its release because of the board’s “closed meetings” policy (closed to the public, students, and reporters).

How to know God if you ever get to meet Him

by Wendy Coomber

God's advocate was here last Sunday.

Dr. Mortimer Adler, one of the to Christian Culture speakers, lectured to his audience about
"knowing" the existence of God, and how to think about it, referring along the way to the theories of Aquinas, Aristotle, Ansell, and Pascal.

The lecture was not entirely made for the layperson. However, Dr. Adler did throw out some interesting thoughts to his listeners.

He claimed that he was a philosophical theology developed from reason. There was no scientific thinking involved. He later said in his lecture, “No scientist knows what was meant by ‘existence’ means... (the concept is) totally different from the whole scientific mentality.”

Being a Thomist, a follower of the Doctrines of Thomas Aquinas, for ten years, Dr.
Adler asserted that he is now a Thomist himself. Yet each of his lecture contained the theories of the Roman Catholic Aquinas.

The Saint's theory, that God exists, was used often in the
Dr. Adler’s lecture to show that, since God does not destroy existence, then he must create it.

"God and God alone can cause the existence of anything," said Dr. Adler. Therefore, the opposite of annihilation is existence, which, according to the lecturer, means destroying something out of nothing.

He then tried to show how God is related to God, by the capital “G” is a proper name,” he said. A formal introduction is required before you can know someone and to give some meaning to the words “God,” one must have a definite description. One must form a theoretical construct along the same lines as with a physicist who deals with neutrons and atoms which he cannot see.

We cannot think of God as not being able to exist, said the speaker. He rhetorically added, “if we must think of God as really existing, how must we think of God’s real existence and answered in three parts.

He said, we can think of God’s existence as being like all other existences, we can think of God’s existence as being totally unlike other existences, or we can think of it as something that is partly like and partly unlike. He believed the third part came closest to answering the question.

He said, to think of the existence of God, at a possible being, we must affirm the existence of a cause of being and the moment you say cause of being you must say God. Only God can give a cause of being.

SUPER 8 MOVIES ARE JUST SECONDS AWAY WITH...
SAC Report

A slightly flawed, but reasonable Christmas truce

“Faster than a speeding bullet. Able to leap tall stacks like a single bound.”

The members of the Students’ Administrative Council’s committee charged with investigating the internal difficulties and disagreements of the SAC Executive were handed an almost superhuman task two weeks ago: examining all the complaints the various Executive members had about each other and the governmental system, writing a report about them, and coming up with suggestions to solve the problems.

The committee was supposed to do all of this in under two weeks so that it could report its findings to council at the following week's meeting. That meeting was held last night, after this newspaper went to press, so we cannot report on the Executive or council reaction to the report (we will next week), but it is doubtless fair to say that one of the first comments in the meeting, made by a committed member, and a commendation to the committee members for working so diligently.

The report, itself, is not flawless. While Committee members Jay Smith, Kevin Sisk, and Kevin Roberts have established the problem and its cause, there exists a contradiction in the view of the effect of the Executive situation.

On the problem and its cause, we read: “There exists definite evidence to indicate that poor communication within the Executive has led to tension, especially concerning the perceived intent of individual and collective undertakings. The roles and expectations of the Executive has not been clearly understood amongst themselves.”

What that means is that the Executive members may not have been checking with each other on their responsibilities and/or that they were crossing into each other's areas of responsibility without proper consultation, resulting in strained working relationships.

The contradictory paragraph about the effect on the situation reads: “It is the belief of this committee that these serious communication problems have not affected services to students, but has led to internal tension at the SAC Executive level. That tension may in turn reduce the overall productivity of SAC. Even more can be accomplished in SAC if this is resolved.”

Well, perhaps the “serious communication problems” haven’t affected services to students, but if the internal tension caused by the problems has hampered the “overall productivity” of SAC, service to students has been adversely affected. If “more can be accomplished in SAC” (for students), but is not because of this “internal dispute”, it is not an entirely “internal” one because the students are losing something somewhere.

Evaluation of the individual Executive members place some blame everywhere. Vice-President-Finance Brad Mitchell has “occasionally demonstrated a lack of-confering with the President of SAC in a specific manner. While the job was being done, the procedures utilized were not completely appropriate”;

Vice-President-Administration Jim Shaban was complimented for his experience and knowledge, but criticized for the occasional “failure to demonstrate respect for the President”; and President David Simmons, “despite diligent effort and good intentions, has experienced difficulties due to misperceptions of the scope and delegation of his authority.” This is a result of having on occasion the inability to interpret, consider and apply the contributions of others to corporate decision-making.

Whether the Executive members in question agree with those personal observations or not, it must be determined at the meeting.

What is clear, however, is that all must accept some responsibility for the situation getting out of hand in the first place. It takes two to tango, as that great political analyst, Fred Astaire, once said.

So, as for the committee’s recommendations to solve the problems, it is certain that the Executive agreed on the second and third ones, since they asked them only to pledge support for each other and to work hard for the students, and to establish more effective communication channels between their offices (a new memo system?).

The tough one might be the first recommendation, which asks Simmons to reconcile his authoritative stance concerning the stated and implied roles of all of the Cabinet, in that role, to cooperate leadership is a collaborative team effort and not a single proprietorship. It must be recognized that no sole authority exists, and a consideration of the Cabinet must take place.

What all that may point to, more than any other programs presented, is a strong pressure to reconcile the SAC By-Laws with regard to a hesitancy of who’s responsible for what.

Overall recommendation: Pass this report on to the SAC By-Law Review Committee to have it adapted in the form of detailed job descriptions—from the President on down.

The Lance Offices are located on the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor. 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ont. N9B 3P4. Phone (519) 253-4060.

The Lance is published every Friday of the fall and winter terms by the Student Media Corporation of the University of Windsor.

Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student editor and not necessarily of the University, the Students’ Administrative Council, or of Students’ Administrative Council.

The Land is an rich in minerals as it is in beauty, all along the trail are careses grown granite boulders beheaded with thousands of moss chips that flash in the sun like a multitude of tiny jewels.

Before victory dances, Indian warriors used to sprinkle mica chips on their bodies smeared with bear grease so they would glitter and sparkle in the fire-light. This incredible valley goes on for 16 miles and there opens into a massive glacier field. Back in those mountains are gold and silver deposits.

What would you think if you asked for a ticket to a back land community that actually runs on a day-to-day basis. Well educated people, beautiful environment, everything. And came back saying it is all living but idealistic daydreaming. You are wrong—it can be done and is being done.

New Flash: Mining and logging company officials have stated that the local unemployment situation will be relieved when the abundant mineral and forestry resources of the Frye Creek area are opened up. Company officials said that even though the creek and surrounding forest will be ruined, it is selfish of nearby residents and naturalist groups to stand in the way of progress.

Hey, Bozo. Don't forget the Lance staff meeting, Noon, Friday.

Yes, this means you.
Punk reviewer's attacks don't give the story away

Dear Editor:
In a recent issue of The Lance (November 21, 1980, page 15), the topic of abortion was discussed. I am writing to protest the editor's handling of the issue. To run an ad for abortions and promote this issue by submitting letters to the Editor of The Lance that have caused us much concern. They were entitled "Abortion is not a humane option" and "Easy GYN abortion clinic adverstment last week." The arguments put forth in each of these letters fail far short of the standards we must set for ourselves as human beings. The preservation of human life must be held paramount to all other aspects of human existence. Population control and economic advantages, or mere convenience are not reasons for the extermination of human life. We fail to understand how a society that supports such organizations as "Save the Seals" and "Save the Whales" could possibly support the existence of pro-abortion laws and organizations. Has the respect for a child's life plunged so low that it pales to insignificance to that of an animal's? Why do we not use the word "child" honestly? It is quite noticeable that the pro-abortion letters published in The Lance these past weeks shy away from the use of this word. When one is contemplating the taking of a human life, it is considerably easier to do the deed if the victim is referred to as something less than human, as "it," an "unwanted pregnancy," or a fetus. Easy GYN abortion clinic adverstment last week.

Dear Editor:
I write in response to the East GVN Center ad for abortion and some of the resultant letters to the Editor of The Lance.

As a third-year Engineering student, I find this whole issue of abortion to be one of the most sensitive and complex topics that one can come across. Abortion is a personal decision that should be left to the individual and their partner. It is not a political issue to be decided by a group of people who do not have the same views or beliefs.

Dear Editor:
I am completely fed up with the advertising of this abortion clinic and the promotion of abortion. I find it offensive that a legitimate company would take advantage of the vulnerability of women in this manner. If you choose to have an abortion, I do not wish to hear about it. If you do not choose to have an abortion, I also do not wish to hear about it.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the advertising of abortion clinics in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the advertisement of a abortion clinic that appeared in The Lance. As a student of The Lance, I am aware of the importance of the role of the media in society. The media has the power to shape public opinion and influence the actions of individuals. It is therefore crucial that the media uphold ethical standards and avoid providing platform for abortion.
McCabe (Law II) argued before Alex Smith (Law III), Kevin Zuber, and oral arguments which are judged on the basis of their clarity, detail, and persuasiveness. Justice Zuber said that a province was not competent to pass the impugned provincial act. The decision on behalf of an unanimous bench, Justice Zuber said, was intended to enforce a summary conviction and penalty against individuals who make similar statements in a public place so as to "disclose a base disposition towards the leading personalities of the province." At the same time, the federal government had passed the Constitution Act which includes the overriding Charter of Rights and Freedoms, the right to free speech being one of those enumerated rights recognized by a democratic society.

Arguing against the provincial legislation and in support of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, Alex Smith and Kevin Whiten attempted to show the court that it was not within the competence of the province to pass the impugned legislation because of the paramountcy of the federal act. They also argued that the penalty attached to the summary conviction under the provincial act was contrary to the federal power over criminal law and procedure and, therefore, should be deemed invalid.

Karen McEwan and Susan McCabe, representing the Attorney-General of Ontario, argued that the act was within the province's constitutional right to enact legislation over matters of local and private nature and that the penalty prescribed in the legislation was pursuant to these provincial ends.

The court decided in favour of the appellants by quashing the conviction. Delivering the decision on behalf of an unanimous bench, Justice Zuber said that a province was not competent to pass the legislation, and it would effectively constrain free speech, a dangerous form of censorship in an institution devoted to the exchange of ideas. Finance commissioner Chris Henderson said "social norms" are not at a point where banning the magazines would be accepted. He said a ban would bring a backlash against anti-semitism and create a polarization of positions.

Student union president Greg McElligott supported the ban and said "I'm not afraid of being idealistic." He said council had to get rid of the magazines to establish credibility for its anti-sexism campaign. Deb Powell, another Arts representative, said "This is the only first step but it is very important that we take that step." At the University of Ottawa, councillor Linda Cardinal said the federation had to decide if it supported the selling of the magazines and further stated, "it's not a question of censorship but of getting rid of old traditions."

Student federation president Pierre Chabot defended the ban in the name of social change. "We must take a stand, clean out our houses before we can clean out society." Academic Affairs commissioner Pierre LaFrance said, "We're not deciding if people should read them or not, but whether the federation should present them in their stores."

Science representative Scott Meyer would like to see the federation establish guidelines to decide which publications should be sold. Two Administration representatives said they had surveyed 365 students in their faculty and found 65 percent were against banning the publications.
Search for new V.P. finally started

by E.P. Chant

After more than three months without one, the University of Windsor has started a search for a new administrative vice-president to handle financial matters.

Following a Board of Governors meeting this past September, President Mervyn Franklin announced "The University of Windsor and Doctor John R. Allan have agreed to terms by which Doctor Allan's appointment as Vice-President, Administration, has been discontinued, effective August 31, 1980."

In his dual capacity of Vice-President, Administration, and Treasurer, Dr. Allan touched many bases in his position. Being responsible for money meant being responsible or partially responsible for many areas: working to increase enrolment, planning construction, determining tuition, setting departmental budgets, helping to set salaries and, at the same time, prevent crippling strikes.

No specific reasons for his departure were ever given to the public by the university administration or Dr. Allan.

Although it is not known whether the new vice-president's (when he/she is found) responsibilities will be altered, the title he/she will be operating under has been: from "Vice-President, Administration" to "Vice-President, Finance and Services".

The Senate meeting of November 13, two members of that body were elected to serve on the joint Senate-Board of Governors search committee. They are Dean Ron Ianni of Law and Dean Cameron MacInnis of Engineering.

Usual search committee procedures involve placing ads in national newspapers and education-related magazines which include a job description and requirements being looked for. Responding individuals -- from this university, other universities, or the private sector -- are then interviewed by the committee, sometimes several times, until one is selected and approved by the governing bodies.

THE HAIRCUTTING PLACE®

CAMPUS CUT CARD

15% OFF

If you’re between 18 and 23, fill out the application form below for your own Campus Cut Card. And get 15% off the regular price of hair services and retail products at any of The Haircutting Place locations in Simpsons stores throughout Ontario.

The Haircutting Place.
Helping millions of happy customers look just the way they want to.

CAMPUS CUT CARD APPLICATION FORM

(Please print clearly)

Date: _______________________

Name:

First Name Middle Initial Last Name

Address: ____________________________________________________________

Street Name and Number Apartment Number

City Province Postal Code

Phone No.

I UNDERSTAND THAT THE ACCEPTANCE OF THE CAMPUS CUT CARD WILL BE SUBJECT TO THE TERMS & CONDITIONS RECEIVED WITH CARD.

Signature of Student

Drop completed application off at any location of THE HAIRCUTTING PLACE or mail to:
The Haircutting Place Limited, Head Office: 84½ Scollard Street, Toronto, Ontario MSR 1G2.

(Please allow 6 to 8 weeks for processing)

We cut it right every time... naturally!

THE HAIRCUTTING PLACE®

Simpsons, Devsonshire Mall

3030 Howard Avenue, Windsor

Phone: (519) 966-5569
University Players perform for Danish Prince

by Peter Hristovcev

Theatre. Patterned on everyday, but woven of finer threads. Richly painted faces and flowing roles of silk. Kingly crowns and seqined speech. The majesty of trouble-free kingdoms, clasps of magic within the unobstructed view of the mind’s glittering eye.

This is the world of four vagabond actors in mid-sixteenth century Denmark. On the road and on the run, they are the reluctant puppets of a somber prince Hamlet in Shakespeare’s celebrated tragedy, dangling on the ends of intrigue’s tangled strings. It is their brief but significant duty to recreate the murder of Hamlet’s father by the unscrupulous Claudius who has seized the throne and married the mother of the melancholy prince.

But these messengers of guilt and remonstration take on a new light in Michael Stewart’s He to Hecuba at Essex Hall Theatre. Here, their individual characters are salvaged from near obscurity, given life and liberty in a unique examination of the Renaissance Theatre. These actors are as jovial as they are argumentative, as backstabbing as they are supportive of one another. And this world of contradictions and the song that escapes from their haggard faces, the actors realize that they carry in their wooden trunks and their tender hearts is the world of the theatre, tucked away in delightful anticipation of naive audiences who have never seen an actor.

All of this is staged with undeniable excellence by the University Players. This production of Stewart’s Broadway flop is, in short, a veritable triumph. Elaborate costumes, detailed sets and sharp, strained acting all collaborate to provide a receptive audience with first-rate entertainment. The rawdy travelling company is dominated by Valentina Ponti (Ellen-Ray McMeekin)’s once-lauded actress, now forced to take to the highways and backroads that accommodate her age and neglect. Ms. McMeekin can balance sympathy with antipathy in her moving portrayal of a fallen leading lady.

Bj, as the swashbuckling Soren Brandes, is a transparent vision of all that is good and bad in theatre. With a flair for the pompous and the baroque, this obnoxious character can talk his way into any predicament. At best, a superb performance.

Antoni Cimolino as Henrik and Barry Yerxel as Kaj provide a brilliant juxtaposition of vanity and humility, self-centredness and sincerity. Whereas for Henrik, acting is a job, a millstone of despair, it is nonetheless a dream of endless magic and mystery for the sympathetic old Kaj.

And young Jens (Mark McKekein) a once-lauded actress, superb performance.

Fru Gerdes, leads the rest of the company in a laudable collective effort to capture the charms and amusements of the foppish low life.

Director George L. Nilsson is to be complimented on his excellent staging, especially innovative fight scenes that bring this wonderful comedy to a rollicking, high-spirited conclusion.

Playwright Michael Stewart draws a picture of the theatre as a mixture of fact and fiction, the confusions of reality and illusion. In the end, when the last spot of stage blood is removed, the actors realize that they must take to the road again. But the dreams they harbour in their weary minds and the song that escapes from their spirited hearts eases them into their endless journey, confirming them in their pursuit of pure and simple happiness.

A message for us all!

The shenanigans continue tonight and Saturday at the Essex Hall Theatre at 8 p.m.

The University Players’ Christmas Show will be The Emperor’s Nightingale, held in the Essex Hall Theatre on December 11-14. For more information phone 253-4565.

NOW AVAILABLE
ON CAMPUS

Resume Preparation Service
JobHunting
Typing and Copying at 5¢ a Copy
Housing Placement Service
Research Assistance Services

Try our convenient services on campus at MUTUAL ASSOCIATES
CANADA INC.
Assumption University
404 Huron Church Road
Phone 254-5059
OPEN TILL 5 ON SATURDAYS
Same old thing...time to start studying

by Brian Williamson

Finally - the end of the semester - time to celebrate in the pub. We've lived through administration. We've lived different.

"Has anyone seen my cow? We're doing a milk commercial in ten minutes and I'm going to catch hell if I can't find my Bessie!" through the 78 rpm copy of the Ontaio Film - CINEFEST presents OFT is at the Super­ cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

- He to Hecuba is continuing at the Essex Hall Theatre through Saturday, performed by the University Players. Tickets are $4.00; the play begins at 8:00 p.m.

- The Green Room will be shown by the Ontario Film Theatre. Admission $2.00. The OFT is at the Super­ cinema, 804 Erie St. E.

What to do with an empty Blue.
by Catherine M. Wilson

A fascinating and varied performance by the University Concert Band, under the direction of professor James Tamburini, graced Ambassador Auditorium last Sunday.

Opening with Kenneth Bell’s “Capital City Suite”, a fun piece, the band contrasted the quick movements with “Legislation”, “Confusion”, and the soft-flowing “River by Night”, were written to depict the different aspects of city life in Canada. “Nocturne” by Alexander Scriabin created an excellent mood of peace and serenity full of warmth, dreamy colours and beautiful harmonies.

“Suite in A Minor for Flute and Woodwind Band,” by G.A. Telemann presented Ms. Morag McMullen as flute soloist. The composition required both good articulation and quick finger work.

Closing the first half of the program with Richard Strauss’ “Death and Transfiguration”, the French horns supplied beautiful, rich tones that created quite an effective mood throughout the piece.

The second half opened with the favourite giant work of George Gershwin, “Rhapsody in Blue” with Dr. Gregory Butler as piano soloist. It was originally composed for jazz and solo piano, but this arrangement for solo piano and concert band calls for, and received excellent coordination between soloist and ensemble. With this piece, Gershwin has reached a cross-section of all music lovers from jazz to symphony.

The last number on the program “La Fiestas Mexicanas” was composed by Owen Reed, Professor of music and Chairman of Theory and Composition at Michigan State University. The Mexican “Fiesta” is a study of contrasts: it is both serious and comical, festive and solemn, devout and pagan, boisterous and tender.

The three movements provide different pictures. The “Prelude and Aztec Dance” announces the opening of the Fiestas with church bells, as people begin to gather. The “Mass” presents the mood of a religious celebration of worship and contemplation. The “Carnival” describes the entertainment of “Fiesta”, the market, the bull fight, the town band and the “Mariachis”.

The concert band was called back to perform an encore, “Budgie’s Holiday” in which Professor Tamburini’s own trumpet section demonstrated excellent technique.

The next concert in the ensemble series will be presented this Sunday, November 7 in Assumption Church at 8:15 p.m. by the University Singers and other choral groups.

David Bowie, what the Heads are trying to pass off as some ideological, intelligent-oriented “new” music is little more than a rehash of what Bowie has been doing for the last four years. Since their last album, “Fear of Music,” the Heads have added a primitive, rhythmic percussion element to their music, fusing it with the keyboard work of Brian Eno. This synthesis of musical genres has been evident in Bowie’s work for quite some time. Eno’s keyboard work, and Byrne’s lyrics are comparable to many of Bowie’s cuts on “Low” and “Lodger.” In this light, one sees that the Talking Heads’ latest isn’t as innovative as one might expect.

The album presents such an overwhelming mosaic of musical influences that, at times, it can get somewhat cramped. The Fripp-like guitar is still around; there is a different Eno influence: it is sluggish. Byrnes introspective poetry and lyrics to offer a singular, albei transient, piece of art. Much prefer Byrne’s inquisitive lyrics and Eno influence to his pen- siveness, his uncertainty. I much prefer Byrne’s inquisitive lyrics over the dancelike, his uncertainty. I much prefer Byrne’s introspective poetry and lyrics to offer a singular, albei transient, piece of art.

The Heads’ touring group re-sembled a caravan of street musi- cians, falling away at every per- cussion instrument available, whether in time or not. This lack of refinement surfaces on “Remain in Light.” When it works, its terrific, it’s inspira- ting, but when it doesn’t, it drags, because the cuss falls on Byrne’s lyrics, and they’re not the cheeriest.

Byrne’s introspective poetry is worth taking a look at. In “Born Under Punches” he says:

All I want is to breathe Won’t you breathe with me Find a little space So we won’t go between And keep one step ahead of you

In “Houses in Motion,” Byrne further defines his indivi- duality, his anxiety, and his blank disillusionment: I turn myself around I’m moving backwards and forwards I’m moving twice as much as I was before I’ll keep digging to the centre of the Earth I’ll be down there, moving in the room

Most of his lyrics are like this seamless meandering, border- ing on the surreal. Are the Talking Heads the “blues” for the modernist? I don’t think so. They’re certainly at this stage, existential enough, but remember, Bowie fell to earth too. What Byrne is dealing with is the dread of coping. The repet- itious music reflects his pen- siveness, his uncertainty. Much prefer Byrne’s inquisitive lyrics over Fripp’s repetitiousness, his uncertainty. I much prefer Byrne’s introspective poetry and lyrics to offer a singular, albei transient, piece of art.

“Remain in Light” is too self-probing.

The Talking Heads are one band that has continually changed their musical style from album to album. At times, they have synthesized new elements or notions within their music and lyrics to offer a singular, albeit transient, piece of art. The Heads present more than one album to album. At times, they have synthesized new elements or notions within their music and lyrics to offer a singular, albeit transient, piece of art. They are a group of musi- cians who expand their musical horizons continually, without re- gards for popular acceptance. Remain in Light is wholly different from their previous work, and it shall certainly be wholly different from their future work.
The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ______

Attention Racquetball Enthusiasts!

The Campus Recreation department will be offering a racquetball tournament during the second semester for all interested participants. The tournament will be held at the new Central Racquetball Club in downtown Windsor. In order that we may gauge the interest on campus for purposes of booking the courts, we need to hear from you. If you are interested please call the Campus Recreation Office 253-4232 Ext. 325 OR fill out the form below and drop it off at St. Denis Hall.

NAME ___________________________ Phone ___________________________
Address ___________________________ Faculty ________________
Sex ______ Male ______ Female _______ Student ____________
Grade _______ Level of Experience: Tournament Player ____________
"Average" Experience ______ Notice ____
Stangs end Lancers’ short-lived winning streak

Swim teams competed on the weekend, the men on Friday in the city of Toronto, and the women at McMaster Saturday.

The men won with Rob Micheli who won the 200 metre breaststroke in a time of 2:08.9. Micheli also finished fourth in the 100 metre event in a time of 1:11.4.

The top performers of the team all attained lifetime bests in their events. They are Ron Ford (50 free, 100 free, 200 free) and Bob Pucci (50 and 100 free, 100 back).

The next meet for the Lancers will be Dec. 6 at Wayne State.

On the feminine side, Gillian Stevens was the top performer with firsts in both the 100 and 200 metre fly (1:11.1 and 2:43.2 respectively) and a fifth in the 200 breast with a time of 3:08.9.

Stevens was the top performer among the four-team tournament losses numbers eight and nine.

But for a 50-second lapse late in the second period of Sunday’s game at Adie Knox Arena, the hockey Lancers might have taken victory in an unprecended straight-third game, and against the potent offense of the Western Mustangs, no less.

That 50-second span brought two Mustang goals and an eventual 3-1 victory for Western to bring their record to 8-1. The Lancers dropped to 6-3.

The Lancers played near-perfect hockey for most of the game, using a hard-hitting defense and the hot goaltending of netminder Don Johnston to silence the guns of the Mustangs, who have been firing at a rate of almost eight goals per game this season.

However, with the Lancers leading 1-0 on a goal by Pete Landry 18 seconds inside the second frame, the Saints got a shorthanded tally from Steve Morrison with under four minutes to go in the period and less than a minute later, Sean Martin pocketed the winner.

Dave Nadeau got the clincher at 14:52 of the third period. The Lancers were outhit in the game, 23-19.

Windsor will play in its final pre-Christmas game today in Toronto against the powerful Toronto St. Denis starting a 2 p.m.

The basketball Lancerettes won a dull one by Sue Hrycay

The basketball Lancerettes ended their regular schedule Saturday on a winning note by posting a 74-41 triumph over Wilfrid Laurier Golden Hawks.

Although the game lacked a lot of sparkle and lustre, the Lancerettes managed to work well together as a team in bringing their record to 4-2. Rookie centre Theresa McGee toppled all scorers with 17 points while star Tracy McNair chimed in with 13. First-year sensation Roberts Smith added 12 rebounds to the win.

Save Kranulis was high scorer for Laurier with nine.

Injuries are a key factor for the team at present with only eight players completely healthy. Johny Condon and Kerri Towers are presently sidelined with back injuries, Donna Grubski is finished for the season due to a serious knee injury, and Mary Brannagan is currently suffering from possible tendonitis.

Under the circumstances, the holiday break will provide welcome relief to the ailing troops.

"It's important that we get all our players healed and back into action after Christmas," said coach Sue Swain. "Having key players sitting out not only hurts the team on the floor, but can be devastating morale-wise, as well.

That game will be played in St. Denis starting a 2 p.m. Grubski also said that at the time that, should the team enter the season wireless, it would not adversely effect the team's play.

However, a team which does not know how to win may find it difficult to learn against the Westhcl Gryphoons, who have been ranked as high as fifth in some national rankings.

The Lancerettes were hitting better and the rallies were long and well-played, but it was not enough as the Western girls were well on top of their game.

Overall, the play was at a higher standard than it has been in past games, but the persistent UWO team never left up in their hard-hitting attack.

The Lancerettes will play again against Waterloo, in the Twin Cities, on Jan. 13.

Add two tourney losses to total

Sports Staff

The basketball Lancerettes took a bitter loss to eight and nine at the 10th Annual Shaw Classic in Detroit last weekend. Windsor lost the opener Friday 75-58 to University of Missouri, then bowed 86-66 in the consolation final against the host Shaw College.

The four-team tournament consisted of Windsor, Shaw, Lincoln and Wayne State of Detroit.

Lincoln was led by all-American guard John Woodan who netted 24 points, John Ritchie, playing with a pulled hamstring, contributed the same number in the losing cause.

At times during the game the Lancers appeared sluggish and disorganized, but a superb defensive effort and a positive attitude kept the margin of victory smaller than it might have been.

The Shaw game see-sawed through all but the final three minutes when the Saints took control with a full-court man-to-man press which effectively stymied the Lancers.

Phil Herrmanutz led Windsor with 22 points while Jim Holmbyes added 13 and Stan Korosce 12.

As Merchant was high for the Saints with 28 points.

Coach Nick Grabowski commented after a game with Michigan Nov. 24, the team's sixth loss without a victory, that he felt the Lancers would win at least one game before they begin regular season action Jan. 14 against Guilford.

Windsor has three more chances to do just that, the next coming Saturday in a rematch with the Shaw Saints.

Although the game lacked a lot of sparkle and lustre, the Lancerettes managed to work well together as a team in bringing their record to 4-2.

Rookie centre Theresa McGee toppled all scorers with 17 points while star Tracy McNair chimed in with 13.

First-year sensation Roberts Smith added 12 rebounds to the win.

Save Kranulis was high scorer for Laurier with nine.

Injuries are a key factor for the team at present with only eight players completely healthy. Johny Condon and Kerri Towers are presently sidelined with back injuries, Donna Grubski is finished for the season due to a serious knee injury, and Mary Brannagan is currently suffering from possible tendonitis.

Under the circumstances, the holiday break will provide welcome relief to the ailing troops.

"It's important that we get all our players healed and back into action after Christmas," said coach Sue Swain. "Having key players sitting out not only hurts the team on the floor, but can be devastating morale-wise, as well.

The next meet will be the University of Toronto Invitational on Dec. 10.

The Lancerette volleyball team was defeated 5-1, 7-15, 19-17 and 15-15 in a best-of-five games series against Western in London Saturday.

The Mustangs started off strong against Windsor and had the first two games easily, but by the third game Windsor had pulled together sufficiently to overcome the London team.

In the final game, the Lancerettes were hitting better and the rallies were long and well-played, but it was not enough as the Western girls were well on top of their game.

Overall, the play was at a higher standard than it has been in past games, but the persistent UWO team never left up in their hard-hitting attack.

The Lancerettes will play again against Waterloo, in the Twin Cities, on Jan. 13.

The team's play.

However, a team which does not know how to win may find it difficult to learn against the Guilph Gryphoons, who have been ranked as high as fifth in some national rankings.

The Basketball Lancerette volleyball team was defeated 5-1, 7-15, 19-17 and 15-15 in a best-of-five games series against Western in London Saturday.

The Mustangs started off strong against Windsor and had the first two games easily, but by the third game Windsor had pulled together sufficiently to overcome the London team.

In the final game, the Lancerettes were hitting better and the rallies were long and well-played, but it was not enough as the Western girls were well on top of their game.

Overall, the play was at a higher standard than it has been in past games, but the persistent UWO team never left up in their hard-hitting attack.

The Lancerettes will play again against Waterloo, in the Twin Cities, on Jan. 13.

Special armed units have been brought in to clear the St. Denis Hall basement of rats. Here, a member of the force holds a rat at bay and signals for his partner to pass him the handcuffs.

Seriously, the fencing team, which will be featured in the Lancer soon, is looking for members. Practices are held Saturday afternoons and Tuesday and Wednesday nights in St. Denis.
The University of Windsor

Council supports Execs

Turkeys on campus

by E.P. Chant

The last Students' Administrative Council (SAC) meeting of the year, on Thursday, December 4, might very well have marked the end of the first-semester-long SAC Executive infighting.

The recommendations of the three-man committee on the "internal strife" of the Executive were passed as "the official SAC policy" in the situation (as Chairman Bob Ch anatomy described the approved report) after a short discussion with the committee members. The recommendations were:
1) That the President (David Simmons) take measures to reconcile his authoritarian stance concerning the student-implied roles of all of the Cabinet, in that the Corporate leadership is a collaborative, team effort and not a single proprietorship. It must be recognized that no sole authority exists, and a consideration of the Cabinet must take place.
2) That channels of communication be clearly established to ensure that executive members have a clear understanding of, and input into, the decision-making process.
3) That the Executive group evaluate their support of their recommendations, and of a co-operative effort toward achieving the best possible service to the students of the University of Windsor.

The major point that came out of the discussion on the report was that the "internal strife" was preventable — and will be in the future — by making revisions to the SAC By-Laws, with more detailed descriptions for the Executive

Fr. Donlon, who has been "the spiritual director" of the Goodfellows for 10 years, said he had sought the university's chancellors and SAC members solicited donations and came away with a like amount.

LONDON (CUP) - A University of Western Ontario medical researcher may lose his research licence following an accident two months ago in which a number of students were exposed to low-level radiation.

The accident took place in a biochemistry department lab in Western's medical science building October 5. Department Chairman Brian Sansal said the accident occurred when a student spilled a few drops of a solution containing a radioactive isotope.

Sansal said the student discovered the contamination during a post-experiment geiger counter check of the work area several hours after the accident. By that time, a number of other students had passed through the contaminated area.

Subsequent efforts to clean up the spill with paper towels and cleanser proved ineffective and university officials were called, said Western safety officer Dwight Barrett. The exposed floor area was covered with half-inch thick Plexiglas shielding and masked to prevent people from entering the work area.

Geiger counter readings indicated a local radiation field of 20 millionths per hour, some 80 times the maximum permissible level established by the federal Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB), said Barrett. However, later examination indicated the students had been contaminated to an extent of less than six millirems, probably because equipment in the area shielded them, he said.

The AECB’s maximum allowable level of radiation exposure is 500 millirems per year, or about 10 per week. Atomic industry workers are permitted 10 times that amount. A typical worker exposes a patient to about 20 millirems of radiation.

"That was a serious incident," said Barrett. "It would indicate that something went wrong in the normal operation of that lab. Because of that, the university's radiation safety committee will be reviewing Dr. Sansal's license." In addition to his post as chairperson of the department, Sansal is the PhD students' research supervisor.

Western is licensed to handle radioactive materials by the AECB, which regulates the use of all radioactive substances in Canada. The university in turn hands out licences to individual professors, whose students can conduct research within the licence's provisions. About 90 campus licences are currently issued.

"We will be very firm with any one person in order to allow the 90 other people to continue using radioactive isotopes," said Barrett.

Spill could cause professor his licence

The Lance wishes you a warm and safe holiday. We'll be back on January 23, 1981.

In this issue
Christmas stories p. 6 - 7
Caroling choir p. 8
Lennon remembered p. 10
Hockey shock p. 11

"And that's what Christmas is really all about, Charlie Brown"
The stream of consciousness begins with one drip

by Bill Buchanan

The university was honoured recently by a lecture given by W.O. Mitchell, a distinguished Canadian author of creative works such as the classical Who Has Seen The Wind? The witty author read some of his works to an audience estimated at about 175 people.

Mitchell, who is the university's writer-in-residence, has to set such a possible controversial precedent. Sexual orientation is not covered in the Ontario Human Rights Code, although there are cases before the courts dealing with that. As council member Moshe Cohen argued, "If our great country doesn't recognize it, we shouldn't either.

FROM PAGE ONE.

What constitution?

"The preamble passed, in its original form, 15 to five.

Also approved, after lengthy discussion, was the constitution of the new Social Science Society. The motion to ratify this document was made by Vice-President-Administration Jim Shaban and seconded by Randy Zadra.

In the discussion that followed, Shaban questioned the society's constitutional setup for its election procedures (an odd occurrence, a motion-maker speaking against the consent of his motion) because originally, it was not thought necessary and, later, the SAC secretary did not have time.

After a short recess to examine the constitution, it was ratified, with the Social Science representatives agreeing to remove two of the debated sections. Patty Taylor, the acting President of the Social Science Committee, then took her seat on council.

Financial matters closed the meeting, with Simmons inviting council members to talk to Vice-President-Finance Brad Mitchell about any ideas they had for new and improved services the increased student fees next semester could be used to develop.

Generation, the campus literary magazine, was then given its monthly report, just slightly over $1,700 for printing and binding and such.

The meeting closed with a discussion of the financial loss of September's Orientation. The $8,113.43 loss was attributed to too many events going at once and poor coordination between the Orientation committee and residences and societies, which were also holding events.

Registration

Over 4,500 students traipsed through Ambassador Auditorium last week to avoid the battles of the long lines and hurried registration they thought would ensue in January.

The irony is only half this member will be showing his way toward the registration tables next month. Registrar Frank Smith said there will only be about 2,000 full-time students left to register after Christmas.
Merry X-mas and may you choke on a snowflake

The Christmas season is upon us again, and along with all the joyous feelings that come with it, there is always the worry of people around who seem to delight in mess ing things up for the rest of us.

It only takes one or two of these type to thoroughly mess up your whole day. A careless or thoughtless word or two seems to knock down all the broad locomotive normally associated with Christmas.

Last week The Lance was distributed across campus by paperpersons (people!) who asked for donations to the Goodfellows.

Now everyone knows that the Goodfellows are a worthy organization, providing food baskets and other necessary services to those less fortunate during the Christmas season and throughout the year.

And although people from The Lance and SAC managed to raise just over $200 for the Goodfellows, this fact was nonetheless dimmed by a bit of seething from a few unhappy souls.

A student, when asked for a donation, replied "What do you student, pay for the paper?"

I pay student fees here, buddy. This thing is supposed to be delivered free! I don't have to pay for it, and if you don't want to ask him to pay for the paper, but to make a contribution to the Goodfellows, his reply was "Well, that's good that you're not asking me to pay for it, I pay student fees, you know," and a curt dismissal with a nod of his seemingly empty head.

For all the joys that the Christmas season is supposed to bring, it is indeed unfortunate that there are a few local scrooges who are apparently doing their best to ensure that we are doing something to help others, and who would rather remain so than give up one cup of coffee for a few seconds away from their card game to listen.

To all of them, then - Merry Christmas, and a long bill of silence from Santa.

And to all the rest of you, from the staff of The Lance, the very best during this Christmas season and always.

Free thought is at a premium--conservatism everywhere

Aside from about six feet of some real crunchy Canadian snow, what this campus needs most desperately is a huge dose of liberal thinking.

Strange that a person at a university supposedly the great social institution of liberal thought -- has to be pleading for this, but it has come to that point.

First we had the abortion debate, which has been taking place on the page opposite this one for the past month in the form of "Letters to the Editor." Some of the letters dealt with the ads for East Gyn, an abortion clinic, that this newspaper ran in the first term, some dealt specifically with the moral issue of abortion, while others dealt with both the ads and the issue.

Now, about the ads, the staff of the newspaper decided three weeks ago to stop running them (the staff, under current student media by-laws, has complete control of all newspaper content). The reason: it constituted censorship. Advertisements in a newspaper serve only to provide information, they do not represent staff philosophy -- and anybody who thinks advertisements represent philosophy is making a swan dive into the depths of illogic.

The week after the East Gyn ad was discontinued, Birthright, an anti-abortion/pro-life organization, requested an ad in the newspaper and I turned it down (later approved by staff).

Partly to my satisfaction, but mostly to my chagrin, the staff of the paper agreed that running one side's ad and not the other would serve to ruin the paper's objective reputation, but instead of deciding to turn around and run both ads to present a totally open and objective front, the staff decided to run neither.

Now, as for the letters dealing with the issue of abortion:

It is by sheer number alone, that the majority of the letter-writing people on this campus would very much like to see somebody or some body (such as government legislation) alleviate their -- and everybody else's -- moralists, I guess individual, free thought has bitten the dust at the ont of University of Winds ore.

Get me straight -- I, personally, do not favour abortion, but I would never try to force my own morality with regards to this issue, to personal and philosophically "ify" on anyone else because I don't think, as some people do, that I have God's divine light or society's definitive opinion in my back pocket.

Society is composed of individuals and, to an extent, we are all our "brother's keeper" (law enforcement lecture fits in here). There are, however, areas where there can be made understandable un-bearable truths -- where one must set one's own well-considered and quiet personal observan ces and respect those of others, even if agreement with them is impossible.

In this same sexually-connected vein, "let's not-go-out-on-a-d limb" conservatism triumphed again on campus last week when SAC decided it would retain the right to discriminate against individuals and groups on the basis of their sexual orientation -- that is, whether they are hetero- or homosexual.

The council was preambulating its by-laws which read: "The council is not responsible for any statement or action by students on the university campus and claims no responsibility for any activity which is in breach of any university policy or law."

The council was being preambulated by by-laws which read: "The council is not responsible for any statement or action by students on the university campus and claims no responsibility for any activity which is in breach of any university policy or law." The council was being preambulated by by-laws which read: "The council is not responsible for any statement or action by students on the university campus and claims no responsibility for any activity which is in breach of any university policy or law."

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted

- H. Brant Oct/Orey

The Fortnighter

by Chris Woodrow

With the Christmas break fast approaching, I thought appropriate to offer some Yuletide observations, in what we in the trade call a veritable plethora or a potpourri of unrelated ideas.

For those of you buried in your books, there are only 11 shopping days 'til Christmas. If you're like me, you'll find yourself forgoing Christmas shopping, so, in an attempt to alleviate some of the pain, I'm going to list some "never fail" gift ideas for that difficult person on your list.

For that grandmother who fortunately visits only once a year and always overwears her welcome, Christmas offers the perfect excuse to let her know how much you really care. The gift should be something that will remind her of you, something that won't let her forget your last Christmas visit. Keep it simple, and what's more than a book of crossword puzzles? Everyone's the old bat gets stumped over a clue and becomes frustrated she'll think of you and hopefully vow never to visit again.

For that special pest in your life who goes to great pains in November to let you know they have a Christmas gift for you, and expects you in return, I have the perfect gift suggestion. Enough of being caught without a gift to give this year, that special someone deserves something that will discourage the enthusiasm for gift giving in future years. A good suggestion is a customized T-shirt with an appropriate derogatory comment emblazoned across the back.

The trend this Christmas is toward electronic games. If there is one person on your Christmas list that you absolutely loathe, how about a suitable game to keep them quiet for the year? It's best to choose the type that always wins, this way that special person will hopefully die of exhaustion.

Enough of gift suggestions -- if all else fails, resort to the old "never fail" method, a bottle of some suitable alcoholic stimulant for the man of the house, or something for her, how about a pleasant smelling bottle of some cheap fragrance?

Before I get huge full of letters complaining that I have no Christmas spirit, I would like to think about the following theory. In sooth, send your letters to Tom Snyder of The Tomorrow Show.

It is a well known fact, says Tom, that you set out for Christmas buying, and all that you already set the precedents. I guess that wasn't exactly your philosophy -- just coincidence.

It's rather sad to see actually. Universities and the individuals therein used to be the vanguard of liberal thought, now they're bringing up the rear of the conservative bandwagon.

R.P. Chant

Editorial

The Lance is published every Fri­day of the fall and winter terms by Student Publications Corporation, University of Windsor.

Circulation: All recipients in The Lance are those of the student writer and the University of Windsor or the Students' Administrative Council.

The Lance Offices are located on the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Subscription rates are $5.00 per year. Second class mail permit at the Post Office of Canada.

The Lance Offices are located on the Second Floor, University Centre Building, University of Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Subscription rates are $5.00 per year. Second class mail permit at the Post Office of Canada.
Students only raw material

(WINNIPEG) A top-level bank official has told universities they must act in a more corporate-oriented manner or face extinction.

Jack MacDonald, vice president and general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, told a University of Manitoba audience that universities must act like corporations and must produce what the market demands or else.

"Earning a BA only means you have mastered the first steps to self-improvement," he said in an interview.

Morgan went on to say that additional parking structures would be very costly, since they would have to be self-financed, and that these costs would be dumped on the students using public transportation.

Professor Ducharme told students that while they are examining the University's other departments, they are doing so in an academic context.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The university sector will be relative to its findings at the three universities he visited previously to Windsor, Ducharme said.

English graduate program under examination

The university's English graduate program has been subjected to a close official scrutiny this past week, but no one seems too worried.

Dr. David Bevington of the University of Chicago was engaged by the Advisory Committee on Academic Planning (ACAP), a standing committee of the Ontario Council on Graduate Studies (OGCS) to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the university's graduate English program.

"There are no concerns at all about our English department," said Dr. Paul Cassano, vice president, academic.

Dr. Ducharme told students the university will berelative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

Bevington's assessment of the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions after he visits the university.

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the university sector is the most economical way to go, and the university sector will help to improve things both for students and for the community."

The survey, undertaken by Kishor Oza, is one of two reports the university will receive this year.

The survey's intended purpose is to provide some information about the parking needs of the faculty, staff and students. It will try to provide solutions for them.

Professor Ducharme tells his colleagues at the University of Manitoba that the university will be relative to his colleagues at other institutions better.
It’s like a market. One big consumer marketplace.

I was sitting on the steps leading to the basement garage of Eaton’s in the subway station. A stampede of Christmas creatures was being herded before me. They moved from the energy of their own greedy hunger of the season.

I thought, this is disgusting. They’ve lost their very souls. No one is human anymore — it’s one big hustle and bustle. I envisioned the entire scene, floats and all. The people with their arms overloaded with bags and boxes, spilling over onto their shoulders and squished between their stomachs, with the aluminum Christmas wrappings and hastily-applied festive ribbons flapping as they walked — they really looked like those mechanical floats that pass, slowly and lifelessly, at the Rose Bowl Parade. The people’s smiles flashed on and off rhythmically too, as if they were re-charged each few seconds as they stared into some store window or caught the eye of a vague acquaintance. And there were even the Parade Queens — those lovely sales girls, garbed to perfection in their Christmas costumes, with lacquered hair and gleaming Christmas jewels, smiling flawlessly, floating over to help the plebian customers in their regal benignancy. I thought to myself, I’d rather be watching the football game.

I thought, this is disgusting. I’ll never go in for all that garbage! Not me — I don’t believe in it. I don’t care. Who really cares? They wouldn’t wait for Christmas? They’d be giving gifts every day — those quotidian, mundane, barely noticeable kind of gifts that don’t scream of fluorescent green paper, or artificial electric energy or SALE SALE SALE or any of that. No — what-you-get-me-instead. It’s so disgusting! No, I’m just sitting here to watch this blob of people oozing by. I find it fascinating, watching all the colors mingling, the people colliding, the boxes smashing, the hands grabbing.

I just sat there on the step, absorbed in my own condemnations. Then I noticed a little girl who was also motionless amidst the crowd. She couldn’t have been more than five years old — she was waiting patiently for her mother who was at the Laura Secord counter. She just stood there, her soggy mittens hanging from the strings which were drawn up her sleeves, her shiny red ski jacket, complete with white fur-trimmed hood. She was too thin, many layers of sweater and scarf slowly creeping out of the neckline. She was kind of pivoting on one leg, spinning around as if to amuse herself, when something caught her interest on the floor, and she stopped to pick it up. She looked like a little pillow, folding at the middle the way she bent in her fluffy jacket. Then she stood back upright, her rosy cheeks glowing, and started to walk straight towards me. I must have blinked or gasped in astonishment — I hadn’t even realized she’d noticed me, alone on the step. She came right up to me, her pudgy little hand outstretched, smiling broadly.

“Here mister,” she said, eyes glittering. “Don’t be so sad, mister! It’s Kissmas!”. Then she handed me the penny she had just picked up, and scurried back to her mother’s side.

I looked down at the coin in my hand and turned it round and round in my palm for a moment. Then I glanced over at the little figure near the Laura Secord counter. Suddenly, in her bright red jacket and spotted hood, she looked to me like a magical little elf — one of Santa’s real elves! I couldn’t help but laugh. She turned to gaze back at me, and returned my smile.

Then I stood up, stretched my cramped legs, and rejoined the crowd.

The next three songs were slow, Noel drew Nan toward him. Her body brushed up against his black-nylon-clad, slim body. She felt somewhat self-conscious, dancing with this oddly-dressed stranger, but this self-consciousness was replaced with a kind of pride — being seen dancing with one of the actors. Noel was a good lead. Nan held him closer, the better to follow his lead.

Nan recognized him to be one of the actors of the couple who held everyone’s attention as they self-danced around the back of her chair. They both turned to admire the efforts and to share similar good times.

Noel smiled and nodded, put his right arm around to Nan’s shoulders, Nan reflected on her Christmas memories of the past. All twenty of them, to her memory, were spent with her family in Winnipeg. This year would be different. Her parents had flown to Maryborough, Australia, where her father was overseeing a major construction project. Nan and Noel would spend Christmas alone at the university residence this year.

Most of the girls and guys in Nan’s co-ed residence had gone or were leaving shortly to spend Christmas with their families. Even Nan’s Malayman roommate, Chik Swee, was going back to Sarawak for the month-long, mid-semester vacation. With the exception of a few of her friends from overseas, the residence was nearly vacant. What a contrast to the milling crowd of students two weeks earlier, when each floor enthusiastically vied for the “Outstanding Floor Decor” award. What fun it was to decorate the rooms, hallways and T.V. lounges with colourful styrofoam Christmas balls and cardboard giftwrap tubes. Now there was hardly anyone around to admire the efforts and to do similar good times.
his face. He looked down at her and smiled.

She put her hand to her shoulder to get a better look at his face. He looked down at her and smiled. She fixed her gaze on his eyes. For a moment she wanted to kiss him. He answered her silent wish by bending slightly and catching her lips with his. Lips locked, they drew out the second and third dances.

The first dance finished and Noel hugged her. He held her hand until the band struck up and they drew out the second and third dances. Couples seemed to float past each other; bodies and buttocks keeping time.

Nan felt an overwhelming sense of gratitude for this stranger who chose to sit with her, still closer. Couples seemed to float past them, bodies and buttocks keeping time.

Nan turned around to face a tall, blond student, an attractive fellow she recognized from her organic chemistry lab. Michael some-thing, Nan looked around for Noel.

"Well... there was another... I mean, sure." She preceded him through the maze of chairs, tables and sprawling feet on her way to the dance floor. The band played some mild new wave music. A few dances later, Michael led Nan back to her seat, then left for the bar.

A gin and tonic, green, waited for Nan. So did a thin, six-inch square, gift-wrapped package. It was clearly a 45 record. A note was slipped into the back of the wrapping. It was from Noel:

"Surrendering to the circumstances, Nan smiled to herself. Well, that solved her problem about asking him over to her place. Nice while it lasted."

Michael hovered at her side.

"Mind if I sit here?"

The first dance finished and Noel hugged her. He held her hand until the band struck up and they drew out the second and third dances. Couples seemed to float past each other; bodies and buttocks keeping time.

Nan felt an overwhelming sense of gratitude for this stranger who chose to sit with her, still closer. Couples seemed to float past them, bodies and buttocks keeping time.

Nan turned around to face a tall, blond student, an attractive fellow she recognized from her organic chemistry lab. Michael some-thing, Nan looked around for Noel.

"Well... there was another... I mean, sure." She preceded him through the maze of chairs, tables and sprawling feet on her way to the dance floor. The band played some mild new wave music. A few dances later, Michael led Nan back to her seat, then left for the bar.

A gin and tonic, green, waited for Nan. So did a thin, six-inch square, gift-wrapped package. It was clearly a 45 record. A note was slipped into the back of the wrapping. It was from Noel:

"Surrendering to the circumstances, Nan smiled to herself. Well, that solved her problem about asking him over to her place. Nice while it lasted."

Michael hovered at her side.

"Mind if I sit here?"

8. "Deck the Halls with..." is a famous Christmas Carol. Fill in the blank.
(a) Boughs of Holly
(b) Cheep, Gaudy Lights
(c) Whate Precious Energy
8. What is the traditional Christmas dinner?
(a) TV Dinners, followed by six day old donuts
(b) A small but flashy dog, followed by anything in an unlabelled can that can be found in a grocery store
(c) Turkey with cranberries, followed by flaming plum pudd- ing and indigestion
10. The idea of Christmas originally started in
(a) Ypsilanti
(b) Germany
(c) New York Department Store basement
11. What was it the Three Wise Men followed to Bethlehem?
(a) The ANIK satellite
(b) Santa Claus and Rudolph
(c) A star
12. Answers to these little toughies will be in next Christmas issue of The Lance.

What do the initials "SC" mean to you?

5. "Yes, . . . . , there is a Santa Claus" is a famous saying. Fill in the blank.
(a) Virginia
(b) You dopefaced little swine
(c) Cyntical neophyte
6. What thing, usually found in a forest, do people decorate and put in their living rooms (or vice-versa, depending on what neck of the woods you're from), Ha. Ha. 1 at Christmas?
(a) Mt. Ranger Ski
(b) An evergreen tree
(c) A squirrel on fire
7. What voice announced to the shepherds near Bethlehem the birth of Christ?
(a) Donny and Marie Osmond
(b) Bill Bonds
(c) A heavenly host of herald angels

8. "Deck the Halls with..." is a famous Christmas Carol. Fill in the blank.
(a) Boughs of Holly
(b) Cheep, Gaudy Lights
(c) Whate Precious Energy
9. What is the traditional Christmas dinner?
(a) TV Dinners, followed by six day old donuts
(b) A small but flashy dog, followed by anything in an unlabelled can that can be found in a grocery store
(c) Turkey with cranberries, followed by flaming plum pudd- ing and indigestion
10. The idea of Christmas originally started in
(a) Ypsilanti
(b) Germany
(c) New York Department Store basement
11. What was it the Three Wise Men followed to Bethlehem?
(a) The ANIK satellite
(b) Santa Claus and Rudolph
(c) A star
12. Answers to these little toughies will be in next Christmas issue of The Lance.

What do the initials “SC” mean to you?

5. "Yes, . . . . , there is a Santa Claus" is a famous saying. Fill in the blank.
(a) Virginia
(b) You dopefaced little swine
(c) Cyntical neophyte
6. What thing, usually found in a forest, do people decorate and put in their living rooms (or vice-versa, depending on what neck of the woods you're from), Ha. Ha. 1 at Christmas?
(a) Mt. Ranger Ski
(b) An evergreen tree
(c) A squirrel on fire
7. What voice announced to the shepherds near Bethlehem the birth of Christ?
(a) Donny and Marie Osmond
(b) Bill Bonds
(c) A heavenly host of herald angels

8. "Deck the Halls with..." is a famous Christmas Carol. Fill in the blank.
(a) Boughs of Holly
(b) Cheep, Gaudy Lights
(c) Whate Precious Energy
9. What is the traditional Christmas dinner?
(a) TV Dinners, followed by six day old donuts
(b) A small but flashy dog, followed by anything in an unlabelled can that can be found in a grocery store
(c) Turkey with cranberries, followed by flaming plum pudd- ing and indigestion
10. The idea of Christmas originally started in
(a) Ypsilanti
(b) Germany
(c) New York Department Store basement
11. What was it the Three Wise Men followed to Bethlehem?
(a) The ANIK satellite
(b) Santa Claus and Rudolph
(c) A star
12. Answers to these little toughies will be in next Christmas issue of The Lance.

What do the initials “SC” mean to you?

5. "Yes, . . . . , there is a Santa Claus" is a famous saying. Fill in the blank.
(a) Virginia
(b) You dopefaced little swine
(c) Cyntical neophyte
6. What thing, usually found in a forest, do people decorate and put in their living rooms (or vice-versa, depending on what neck of the woods you're from), Ha. Ha. 1 at Christmas?
(a) Mt. Ranger Ski
(b) An evergreen tree
(c) A squirrel on fire
7. What voice announced to the shepherds near Bethlehem the birth of Christ?
(a) Donny and Marie Osmond
(b) Bill Bonds
(c) A heavenly host of herald angels

8. "Deck the Halls with..." is a famous Christmas Carol. Fill in the blank.
(a) Boughs of Holly
(b) Cheep, Gaudy Lights
(c) Whate Precious Energy
9. What is the traditional Christmas dinner?
(a) TV Dinners, followed by six day old donuts
(b) A small but flashy dog, followed by anything in an unlabelled can that can be found in a grocery store
(c) Turkey with cranberries, followed by flaming plum pudd- ing and indigestion
10. The idea of Christmas originally started in
(a) Ypsilanti
(b) Germany
(c) New York Department Store basement
11. What was it the Three Wise Men followed to Bethlehem?
(a) The ANIK satellite
(b) Santa Claus and Rudolph
(c) A star
12. Answers to these little toughies will be in next Christmas issue of The Lance.

What do the initials “SC” mean to you?

5. "Yes, . . . . , there is a Santa Claus" is a famous saying. Fill in the blank.
(a) Virginia
(b) You dopefaced little swine
(c) Cyntical neophyte
6. What thing, usually found in a forest, do people decorate and put in their living rooms (or vice-versa, depending on what neck of the woods you're from), Ha. Ha. 1 at Christmas?
(a) Mt. Ranger Ski
(b) An evergreen tree
(c) A squirrel on fire
7. What voice announced to the shepherds near Bethlehem the birth of Christ?
(a) Donny and Marie Osmond
(b) Bill Bonds
(c) A heavenly host of herald angels

8. "Deck the Halls with..." is a famous Christmas Carol. Fill in the blank.
(a) Boughs of Holly
(b) Cheep, Gaudy Lights
(c) Whate Precious Energy
9. What is the traditional Christmas dinner?
(a) TV Dinners, followed by six day old donuts
(b) A small but flashy dog, followed by anything in an unlabelled can that can be found in a grocery store
(c) Turkey with cranberries, followed by flaming plum pudd- ing and indigestion
10. The idea of Christmas originally started in
(a) Ypsilanti
(b) Germany
(c) New York Department Store basement
11. What was it the Three Wise Men followed to Bethlehem?
(a) The ANIK satellite
(b) Santa Claus and Rudolph
(c) A star
12. Answers to these little toughies will be in next Christmas issue of The Lance.
Choral extravaganza decorates Assumption

by Catherine M. Wilson

Despite the inclement weather, Christmas was brought a little closer to our hearts this past Sunday in Assumption Church through a beautiful vocal concert entitled “A Festival of Christmas.” The evening was presented by three area choirs, the Windsor Classic Chorale and the Chatham Community Choir and featured a wide variety of Christmas music, from classical to traditional, from sacred to secular.

The University Singers, under the direction of Richard Householder (Assistant Professor of Music and Director of the School of Music), began the evening with “The Christmas Story” by Hugo Distler. This composition seems perfectly suited for the strong, fifty-five member mixed choir. Through song, the choir, soloists and evangelist Carmen Cavallaro told of the birth of Christ from the Angel Gabriel’s visit to Mary, to the visit of the wise men to the Christ-Child. Certain choral parts were soft, barely above a whisper, while others, such as the “Angels”, “Glory to God in the Highest”, and the final “Amen” were so beautifully powerful that it brought tears to the eyes.

The University Singers under Richard Householder were one of the three choirs at Assumption Church.

After intermission, the Chatham Community Choir, under the direction of Ron Kingham sang “Hodie Christus Natus Est”, a composition by the director himself. Based in part on the traditional Advent carol “O Come, O Come Emmanuel,” it is an interesting piece presented by the choir from various places in the church. The choir came back later to perform “A Ceremony of Carols,” a series of short songs of British origin by Benjamin Britton. The ceremony opened and closed with the popular “Hodie”.

The Windsor Classic Chorale, also under the direction of Richard Householder and accompanied by pianist James Noakes, presented a variety of traditional, but relatively uncommon carols, from “Make We Merry” by Hezly Willman, to the traditional “It est ne, le Divin Enfant”.

The next performance in the Concert Series will be presented in the new year, on January 31, by pianist Beti Fiki.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by George Rasso

JAWS

The plot is simple. The birth and death of an innocent Florida gator. The location is a small city again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer.

The story is ingenious - a Florida Gator flushed down the toilet by a frustrated daddy, drinks too much Gatorade and grows to a two ton weight and thirty six foot length. It seems a certain scientist had performed experiments on little stolen puppy dogs with a new drug that makes cows grow to be the size of elephants. This same money hungry scientist gets eaten during his way through contact with disposed of dogs in the sewer. The next performance in the Concert Series will be presented in the new year, on January 31, by pianist Beti Fiki.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by George Rasso

JAWS

The plot is simple. The birth and death of an innocent Florida gator. The location is a small city again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer.

The story is ingenious - a Florida Gator flushed down the toilet by a frustrated daddy, drinks too much Gatorade and grows to a two ton weight and thirty six foot length. It seems a certain scientist had performed experiments on little stolen puppy dogs with a new drug that makes cows grow to be the size of elephants. This same money hungry scientist gets eaten during his way through contact with disposed of dogs in the sewer. The next performance in the Concert Series will be presented in the new year, on January 31, by pianist Beti Fiki.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by George Rasso

JAWS

The plot is simple. The birth and death of an innocent Florida gator. The location is a small city again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer. Well, after you see JAWS you'll discover that JAWS is a masterpiece. Although Alligator contains all the ingredients that made JAWS a box office smash, it fails to entertain. People again get eaten alive by a pair of incredible jaws. This doesn't happen around a nice sandy beach with blue water and bright sky, these jaws live in a sewer.
MAD DOGS AND ENGLISHMEN, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12

NIKKI AND THE CORVETTES PLAY AT DOWN UNDER, 817 WALKER AND MANY OTHER STARS. ADMIS. CHURCH. TICKETS ARE $6.00.

IN THE PAST, ALL ORIENTATIONS HAVE BEEN A LOSS. NOT THIS YEAR. THOSE WERE THE WEEKS OF JOHN BERNAT BEFORE THIS YEAR'S ORIENTA-

TIONS FESTIVITIES BEGAN.

BRETNA CERTAINLY TRIED HARD. FOUR MONTHS OF ORGANIZATION SAW OVER THIRTY EVENTS ORGANIZED FOR ORIENTA-

TION WEEK. MANY SIMPLY WERE NOT TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF. THE STINGERS PLAYED IN VANIER HALL NIGHTLY, SOMETIMES TO CROWDS OF BELOW TWENTY PEOPLE.

MAKE A NOTE

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12

-CINEFEST CONTINUES THEIR CONCERT SERIES AT 7:00PM WITH MAD DOGS AND ENGLISHMEN, THE MOVIE FEATURING JOE COCKER, LEON RUSSELL, PAUL McCARTNEY AND MANY OTHER STARS. ADM. IS $2.50. AT 9:30PM THE FEARLESS VAMPIRE KILLERS WILL BE SHOWN, FEATURING SHARON TATE. ONLY $1.99.

-DURING THE FALL TERM THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS PRESENT THE EMPIRES NIGHTBEAT AT 8:00PM IN THE ESSEX HALL THEATRE.

-SUNDAY, DECEMBER 14

-WINDSOR SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA ALONG WITH THE KENNETH JEWELL CHORALE AGAIN PRESENT THE MS. BERNAT BEFORE THIS YEAR'S ORIENTA-TION WEEK.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13

-SAC'S PUB PRESENTS HARPERS DEC. 11-13

-WINDJAMMER DEC. 18-20

THE GOOD-TIME BAND DEC. 18-20

CLOSING TILL JANUARY 19, 1981

THE STAFF AND MANAGEMENT OF SAC'S STUDENT PUB WOULD LIKE TO WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR! SAC'S
A social revolutionary who just left one song unfinished

by Ed McMahon and Pat Sedar

By now everyone knows the simple biographical facts about John Lennon. His birth on October 9, 1940 in Liverpool, his father's desertion, and the influence his early life had on his music, (and thus the entire world) during the sixties and seventies is commonly referred to as history.

But Lennon the family man, the private man, was someone the world heard rarely, if ever, saw. In a recent Playboy interview, Lennon spoke candidly about his life, death, his marriage to Yoko Ono, the early Beatles, and his next recent album, Double Fantasy, with its hit single, optimistically entitled "Starting Over."

Lennon was indeed starting over, and his untimely death on Monday, December 8 was more than the death of a rock and roll superstar, but that word being so over used. Lennon's death marked the passing of an era, the end of the world's hopes that a pop music dynasty that once was, might be again.

Lennon's influence on the course of history in the sixties and seventies cannot be denied. His death is a tragedy in the most classical sense of the word.

The songs of Lennon and McCartney seem to take on an added poignancy now. Lyrics that were once listened to and sung along with, little regard having been given to the meaning of them, suddenly become very meaningful and in some cases, iconic. It is indeed difficult to think of John Lennon as actually being dead. But though Lennon may be gone in body, he lives on in the hearts and minds of everyone who has been alive during the past twenty years.

Lennon's recent interview in Playboy, the first extensive interview given in ten years, is a vivid portrayal of the "other side" of Lennon.

Lennon did not like to think of the Beatles as a social phenomenon. He maintained that everyone in the sixties was in the same state of affairs - confused about what was happening and the manner in which their lives seemed to be flying by them with very little ability on their part to control the direction. "I'm not saying that we weren't flags on the top of a ship; but the whole boat was moving," he said recently. "Maybe the Beatles were in the crown's next shouting 'Land-ho!, or something like that, but we were all in the same boat." His wife, Yoko Ono, elaborated saying "The Beatles themselves were a social phenomenon not that aware of what they were doing..."

But the real influence on the world of songs such as I Wanna Hold Your Hand, Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds, Strawberry Fields Forever, I Am the Walrus, and Happiness is a Warm Gun cannot be denied.

Intentionally or not, the music of John Lennon did influence everyone who heard it... and it was heard by people the world over. Lennon's early work does not really reflect on the creative genius that was apparent in In My Life. By his own admission, Lennon's work before that time were simply "I love you baby" themes. Before In My Life, Lennon said, "we were just writing songs a la Everly Brothers, Buddy Holly - pop songs with no more thought to them than that." But this song marked a transition in Lennon. "It was the first song I wrote that was consciously about my life" he said of In My Life.

The Beatles became the first pop music group to write their own material. Overnight, it seems, they proved that they were more than just a mop haired bunch of kids. Lennon and McCartney showed that rock was a suitable medium for expressing growing concerns about what was going on in their world. That a group such as the Beatles could write sensitive meaningful lyrics and music that had meaning to it. Rock and Roll, through the Beatles, became a social force to be reckoned with.

After In My Life, Lennon's scope broadened considerably, to culminate finally in his reputation as a political activist.

The most notorious political incident is, of course, John and Yoko's Bed-In in Toronto. Knowing that their honeymoon could not be a private affair, Lennon and Ono decided that they would use the media to make a "commercial for peace on the front page of the papers." Lennon's songs of that era are best characterized by Give Peace a Chance.

Shortly thereafter, however, Lennon realized that, although he had meant to leave the Beatles some time earlier, the time had finally come to make the break.

"I had already begun to want to leave, but when I met Yoko it was like when you meet your first woman. You leave the guys at the bar. You don't go play football anymore. Maybe you do it on a Friday night or something, but once I found the woman the boys became of no interest whatsoever other than being old school friends." So Lennon the family man was born.

Lennon painted a picture of himself as a concerned father, Ono as the business end of the relationship, which, he said suited him just fine.

Lennon also came a long way towards dealing with being, as he put it, "a pig." "It's a relief not being a pig (male chauvinist). The pressures of being a pig were enormous."

He also conquered his old image. "I don't have any hangover to be looked upon as a sex object, a male, masoch, rock'n'roll singer. I got over that a long time ago. I'm not even interested in projecting that."

But there seems to be nothing else to say...

In this age where heroes are noticeably lacking, the death of John Lennon, at the stage of his life where he was again prepared to take on the world, to conquer all comers, is the greatest crime of our age. Lennon was a hero because, long before heroes on television or in the movies were fashionable, in an age where fashion counts for so much, he stood up and spoke out for what he believed was the good of mankind.

And in an age where so little seems to have meaning, John Lennon brought meaning to all of us.

His music, his words, and his message are timeless.

And it is an understatement to say he will be sorely missed. But there seems to be nothing else to say...
Lancers stum Varsity Blues, move into eighth spot

by Steve Rice

It's a win, but it was a win, said coach Nick Grabowski after his Lancers picked up an 83-75 overtime win over Shaw College Saints Saturday. It was the first win in 10 exhibition starts for the Lancers.

The first home start of 1981, which featured end to end practice. "It's gaining confidence and momentum with each game," said Lancer coach Bob Corran. "We had a few team meetings to talk about everyone giving an all out effort and I think that's helped things. I'm happy with the way the attitude has developed."

"For some of these guys, this has to be the highlight of their careers to date. It's really an accomplishment. But the best thing is, they're not satisfied with that. I think the last two games have been an incentive for the guys to go home and work hard during the break."

The Lancers had a 5-1 lead into the third period against the Blues on a goal by Don Martin, before Toronto evened the score early on Dan Guthrie's goal. But rather than allow Toronto to take over, Windsor applied pressure which finally paid off with John Ivan's winner with 74 seconds left in the game.

The overtime brought a start to the season for Toronto. "That was the second of four technicals called against Shaw," said Coach Jn the first half. With just under two minutes to go, the lead was still five. But once again a Saints sinned and was ejected from the game along with a technical. Koroce stepped to the line and hit both ends of the bonus with a technical. Second after gaining possession, Koroce hit inside to tie the game at 53. The overtime brought a startling transformation to the Lancers as they played with poised control and, better, hit on 12 of 14 free shots. And Hermanutz, who had been quiet until that point, came on with a flurry. Hogan put on an impressive performance at the goal post as he easily cut through the Shaw press and took control of the offense. Hogan has been understated in the past while playing behind Vincie Landry, now assistant coach, and this year appears ready to take over as a leader on the floor.

Windsor gets first win of season in last game of '80

by Steve Rice

"It's a win, but it was a win," said coach Nick Grabowski after his Lancers picked up a 10-85 overtime win over York Yeomen in the final day of the Toronto Classic. It was the fifth and final one for Grabowski after his Lancers went over 100 free throws a night in favor of the Yeomen. "I always thought we had a chance for a playoff spot, but it would have to be with breaks from other teams. Now I think we can do it ourselves. It's going to be a rough road, tough."

The Lancers will play two exhibition games away in January, with the University of Michigan Jan 3 and the University of Michigan at Dearborn Jan 7. Both games begin at 7:30.

Windsor reuses league play with a pair of games in Sudbury against the Laurentian Voyagers Jan 8 and 10.

The first home start of 1981 is Saturday, Jan 17 against Waterloo.

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

Resume Preparation Service Fast, Professional and Result Oriented

JobHunting We have the clout — come and see us —

Typing and Copying at 5¢ a Copy There — Dissertations and Term Papers

Housing Placement Service Come see us now for Jan, apartments near the campus.

Research Assistance Services We assist in all kinds of research and tutoring.

Try our convenient services on campus at MUTUAL ASSOCIATES CANADA INC. Assumption University 404 Huron Church Road Phone 254-5059 OPEN TILL 5 ON SATURDAYS
FROM THE EXECUTIVE, COMMISSIONERS AND STAFF OF THE STUDENT ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL and SAC'S PUB

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

SEE YOU ALL MONDAY JANUARY 19
HAVE A VERY ENJOYABLE VACATION,
PLEASE DRIVE CAREFULLY OVER THE HOLIDAYS,
BEST OF LUCK ON YOUR EXAMS

STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL
CONSEIL ADMINISTRATIF DES ÉTUDIANTS
Nothing ‘special’ about Bette’s committee

by Ed McMahon

In an address to the House of Commons on November 28, 1980, the Minister of Colleges and Universities Dr. Bette Stephenson announced the formation of a committee to determine the future role of the universities in Ontario. The formation of the committee is noteworthy in that its membership excludes any representatives by faculty or students. Dr. Stephenson announced that the committee will consider five areas: a public statement of objectives for Ontario universities in the 1980’s; relaxing the constraints on the objectives to present funding; modifications to the funding mechanism, conditions of institutions and various government bodies; and recommendations of policy changes.

The committee was given six months to deliver its report, and the revelation of the composition of the committee has sparked a storm of criticism from students and their representatives. The committee’s membership consists of the following individuals:

- Donald Cummins, President of the Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations
- Dr. Albert Mate, Acting University of Toronto Librarian
- Dr. David Birt, Acting University of Western Ontario Librarian
- Peter Birt, Information Officer for the OFS
- William Johnson, Acting President of the OFS

Mr. Mate feels that the computers will continue despite the lack of money.

by Wendy Coonletter

If Albert Mate, Acting University Librarian, has his way we might all be staring into little computer terminals, punching up our index cards in flashing lights.

And why not? Guelph, Waterloo, and Queen’s are already working with this on-line automation in their libraries, with Western and Ottawa following close behind.

Mr. Mate says that although the Leddy Library already has some computerized systems he looks to the day when there will be little need for paper records in circulation. Acquisition records, card catalogs, and similar material will be stored away in computer banks with terminal accesses. It will give better management control over the records, he says.

The problem is that this idea comes from a report submitted to the Senate by Mr. Mate last summer explaining the Library’s financial “hard times.” Part of the report reads: “Within these limited resources, the Library is forced to maintain services, although in a somewhat more tattered and shabbier form than in the sixties, in the same form than in the past.”

Mr. Mate goes on to cite figures of declining financial support, with the increasing enrolment of the students for whom they must provide services.

However, one of his bigger problems is the division of the Library’s budget between the facilities who are ordering books for their departments and the Library itself. “The total budget should be in the hands of the University librarian,” commented Mr. Mate, although he said the library would still order the books and material needed by the professors for their students. He wants to see a more synchronized library that runs “like a watch that’s working properly.”

“If we don’t get all the things described as ‘broadly based,”’ Shorten asked.

In a telephone interview from Toronto, Roger Cummins, University Affairs Officer for the provincial government, stated that the committee was specifically mandated so as not to represent any special interest groups. “The people on the committee were chosen for their broad knowledge of institutional system,” he said, refusing to elaborate any further on Dr. Stephenson’s statement to the House of Commons on November 28.

Linda Woodcock, Public Relations person for the OCUFAs, charged that university presidents or principals are not sufficiently representative of the faculties at their respective universities. In response to the statement, Cummins reiterated that “the presidents are all academics” and that they see there because of their knowledge in the system wide sense.”

OCUFA also denounced the heavy input from major corporations. Cummins responded that “they’re not there as industrialists – they’re not there to represent industry.”

The OFS has also spoken out about the committee. Peter Birt, Information Officer for the OFS, said that “there should be students on the committee.”

Birt went on to say that although Dr. Stephenson classified students as part of a special interest group, they should have the opportunity to speak to the committee before the preliminary report is published on February 28.

At present, the only opportunity for student input will come after the preliminary report is made, and according to Cummins, “we have not decided what form that input will take.” That decision will come from the committee sometime in early February, he went on to say.

As to OCUFA’s charge that the committee was hastily put together, Cummins admits that there was pressure to get the committee into action as quickly as possible. He added, however, that the pressure came from the university heads themselves, and not from within the government.

“The proposal for the committee came in about November 5th from the heads of the universities themselves”, he said. “It was they who insisted on the rigid time frame.”

Cummins added that the committee was on schedule so far and that the preliminary report should be available by February 28.

Automation will continue despite the lack of money.
Chinese Students Association dances in the new year

With the "Year of the Rooster" beginning on February 5, the Chinese Students' Association of the University of Windsor will be holding a cultural festival in the University Centre on Friday, January 30 and Saturday, January 31.

Law comes to Belle River

Supervised law students from the University of Windsor will be providing free legal aid, representation, research and information for the people of the Belle River area every Monday from 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Belle River Town Hall, beginning January 19, 1981. The objective of Community Legal Aid is to increase the public's awareness and understanding of the law. The service will provide free the fundamental legal services that may seem otherwise prohibitively expensive to many people.

Community Legal Aid looks forward to serving the Belle River area and invites everyone to take advantage of the service. For further information, call 253-7130.

Click, whrrrh--darn!!

(ZNS) — If you hate being supervised by a human, you probably won't like this much.

A Scottish company called Patmas Corporation has invented an automated factory supervisor. When hooked up to workers, it monitors the rate at which the work is being done in much the same way a speedometer monitors how fast a car is moving.

The device, known as "Pam," hooks workers up to sensors and sets targets for the output a firm wants from its employees. The workers then digitize readout from the computer telling whether his or her production is up to snuff.

Said one U S employer who uses Pam, the device "makes the work more like a game where they (employees) are trying to beat the target production level." Pam has not been tested whether his or her production is close to the target production level. "Pam has not been tested whether his or her production is close to the target production level."

Chinese Students Association dances in the new year

Swami Girijanada is a one of the few Western women to have been initiated into the ancient Saraswati order of orange-clad monks, a lineage that dates back to 8th century India.

Formerly Jo An Moran, she grew up in Ann Arbor and graduated in 1961 from the College of Wooster, Ohio, in English Literature and Philosophy. This was followed by a two year period spent teaching as a member of the Peace Corps in rural Ethiopia. Jo An then returned to her home town to complete a Masters degree in Anthropology at the University of Michigan, where she was also a teaching fellow. She was married during this time.

A growing interest in Indian philosophy led her and her husband to India in 1970 where she met the dynamic and widely respected meditation master, Swami Muktanada. For three and a half years, they were resident at Muktanada's International Headquarters near Bombay, studying philosophy, meditation and all the classical branches of yoga. In 1978, at the time of Swami Muktanada's Second World Tour, Girija and Shankar, as they now were called, were sent to set up and direct Muktanada's first Ashram, or residential spiritual community, in the Western World. This Ashram has now established itself as a major meditation and yoga center for the entire Midwest, offering public programs, courses and weekend workshops.

Since 1975, Girija has travelled extensively throughout the US, Canada and even South Americas, giving literally hundreds of public lectures and workshops on Yoga and Meditation. Recently, during Swami Muktanada's Third World Tour, she completed a well-accepted lecture tour of the East Coast.

In November, 1980, she was formally initiated into the same monastic order as that of her meditation master and of her husband. She was given the name Swami Girijananda, which means wise of the creative Mother of the Universe.

Swami Girijanada's presence and expertise has the effect of bringing meditation easily to everyone. She is a captivating speaker with deep understanding and a great ability to make things real. Her eleven years of daily yoga and meditation have made her grounded, lively and clear.

Cultural Festival presented by Chinese Students' Association

Opening ceremony by DR. FRANKLIN (President)
MBA PATRICIA ALEXANDER (President of Multi-Cultural Council)

Programs
Art, historical photos & relic exhibitions, movies, demonstrations - calligraphy, Chinese painting & origami
Slide show - Chinese scenery

Date
JAN 30 (FRIDAY) 12:00-4:00pm
JAN 31 (SATURDAY) 10:00-4:00pm

Place
1st and 2nd FLOOR, UNIVERSITY CENTRE

FREE ADMISSION

Cultural Nite Variety Show - concert - Kung Fu Performances - fashion show - Chinese dance - movies - Chinese drama
TIME: Jan 30 7:30 PM
PLACE: Ambassador Auditorium
FEE: $1.00

Speech-Multicultural Challenge (Asian Studies Program) on Jan. 29 (9:00-9:30pm)
Movies & Fashion Show are co-sponsored by Canada-China Friendship Association

Chinese New Year Banquet
ormal dinner - performances
TIME: Jan. 31 6:00 PM
PLACE: Ambassador Auditorium
Tickets: member $12, nonmembers $15. Tickets are available at CSA library: Rm 2123 Leddy Library before Jan. 28

CHinese Students Association dances in the new year

Swami Girijanada is a one of the few Western women to have been initiated into the ancient Saraswati order of orange-clad monks, a lineage that dates back to 8th century India.

Formerly Jo An Moran, she grew up in Ann Arbor and graduated in 1961 from the College of Wooster, Ohio, in English Literature and Philosophy. This was followed by a two year period spent teaching as a member of the Peace Corps in rural Ethiopia. Jo An then returned to her home town to complete a Masters degree in Anthropology at the University of Michigan, where she was also a teaching fellow. She was married during this time.

A growing interest in Indian philosophy led her and her husband to India in 1970 where she met the dynamic and widely respected meditation master, Swami Muktanada. For three and a half years, they were resident at Muktanada's International Headquarters near Bombay, studying philosophy, meditation and all the classical branches of yoga. In 1978, at the time of Swami Muktanada's Second World Tour, Girija and Shankar, as they now were called, were sent to set up and direct Muktanada's first Ashram, or residential spiritual community, in the Western World. This Ashram has now established itself as a major meditation and yoga center for the entire Midwest, offering public programs, courses and weekend workshops.

Since 1975, Girija has travelled extensively throughout the US, Canada and even South Americas, giving literally hundreds of public lectures and workshops on Yoga and Meditation. Recently, during Swami Muktanada's Third World Tour, she completed a well-accepted lecture tour of the East Coast.

In November, 1980, she was formally initiated into the same monastic order as that of her meditation master and of her husband. She was given the name Swami Girijananda, which means wise of the Creative Mother of the Universe.

Swami Girijanada's presence and expertise has the effect of bringing meditation easily to everyone. She is a captivating speaker with deep understanding and a great ability to make things real. Her eleven years of daily yoga and meditation have made her grounded, lively and clear.

Cultural Festival presented by Chinese Students' Association

Opening ceremony by DR. FRANKLIN (President)
MBA PATRICIA ALEXANDER (President of Multi-Cultural Council)

Programs
Art, historical photos & relic exhibitions, movies, demonstrations - calligraphy, Chinese painting & origami
Slide show - Chinese scenery

Date
JAN 30 (FRIDAY) 12:00-4:00pm
JAN 31 (SATURDAY) 10:00-4:00pm

Place
1st and 2nd FLOOR, UNIVERSITY CENTRE

FREE ADMISSION

Cultural Nite Variety Show - concert - Kung Fu Performances - fashion show - Chinese dance - movies - Chinese drama
TIME: Jan 30 7:30 PM
PLACE: Ambassador Auditorium
FEE: $1.00

Speech-Multicultural Challenge (Asian Studies Program) on Jan. 29 (9:00-9:30pm)
Movies & Fashion Show are co-sponsored by Canada-China Friendship Association

Chinese New Year Banquet
ormal dinner - performances
TIME: Jan. 31 6:00 PM
PLACE: Ambassador Auditorium
Tickets: member $12, nonmembers $15. Tickets are available at CSA library: Rm 2123 Leddy Library before Jan. 28
Sororities could be facing a revival here soon

by Wendy Coomber

Delta Chi’s “little sisters” want a house of their own. The Chi Delphias are seven young women affiliated with the campus’ only fraternity, Delta Chi. The women are friends of courage other women to check the frats and often help the men out at their campus events and provide a little public relations for them, encouraging others to see what fraternity life is all about. Now they want to encourage other women to check out sorority life.

“It’s not an overnight thing,” says Delta Chi member Jim Boyer. Boyer mentioned the sorority idea to the women last year and says the actual fact of a campus sorority might still be a couple of years down the road.

The women are seeking anyone interested at all right now. According to Jim Boyer, “You have to go with maybe 15 or 20 people if you want to establish a sorority.”

Drawn O’Connell, one of the Chi Delphias, says they will be talking to people soon to find more prospective members. “I don’t think many people even know about it yet,” she said, noting the recruitment of their own friends while at the same time trying to spread the word to the rest of the campus.

Ms O’Connell cited one of the main benefits of sorority life as being “everyone looks after everyone else.” The requirements for membership were established as anyone the women could get along with as well as being fully dedicated to making the sorority a better place to live.

Dedication is what makes a sorority or a fraternity live. Without the desire to see the “house” flourish and become better it can die like most of the sororities and fraternities in Windsor did in the early seventies. In the sixties Windsor had about four sororities and six fraternities but due to their insular natures, keeping to themselves and not attracting any new members, they disappeared and left Delta Chi as the only fraternity here by the mid seventies.

To become a sorority the little sisters will first have to dwell in colony life for a while. They must find a sponsoring sorority, most likely in the United States since they all originate there, to help buy them a house and to initiate them into the group. The women must show their prospective sorority they are a cohesive group and are willing to take on the responsibilities of being a sorority which includes bringing new members into the house to ensure its continuity.

It was pointed out in an interview with the Delta Chi members involved that continuation of new members would always be a problem because of the similarity of the members—the same faculties, age, interests—so when graduation time came everyone would leave the house. This led Ms O’Connell to comment it would be very good if the members of the new sorority were from all different faculties.

Movin’ on up

Full-time enrolment at Ontario’s 22 community colleges has increased 11.6 per cent over last year while enrolment at the province’s 15 universities, Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, and the Ontario College of Art, has increased 3.6 per cent.

Minister of Colleges and Universities Dr. Bette Stephenson said that registration of full-time students in colleges of applied arts and technology (CAATs) was 103,238, up approximately 11,000 over last year. The increase is comprised of 6,000 more students in post-secondary programs, and 5,000 more students in adult training and apprenticeship programs.

Preliminary figures show that full-time enrolment at the universities, Ryerson and OCA is 160,113, an increase of about 5,000 students. Part-time enrolment at universities was 89,456, up 5.1 per cent.

Full-time CAAI students rose to 237,491, an increase of 9.7 per cent over the same period last year. Because college full-time programs and part-time courses vary greatly in length, the precise growth in college enrolment cannot be measured until enrolment is audited at year-end.
Committee destined for failure

Ontario’s Minister of Colleges and Universities, Dr. Bela Bencsics, has done it again. Bumbling along from catastrophe to disaster, she has set up a 13 (what an absurd number) member committee to “study the future role of the universities in Ontario.” Dr. Stephenson, we have to believe that the members of the committee were picked for the “system-wide and institutional knowledge,” and that they don’t represent “special interest groups.” And they are listed in her address to the House of Commons as “the members of the committee will be.” There’s no room for debate.

Yet one look at the members of the committee will reveal that they do indeed represent a number of special interest groups — most notably the Ontario Council on University Affairs, Big business, and university administration.

The latter two, especially, are not noted for their actions in the best interests of students at all times.

The list of who is on the committee is terribly reminiscent of something Orwell might have written. 3 members from the provincial government, the President of Thomson newspaper Limited, the Director of Southam Incorporated, the President of Corporate Relations for the University of Toronto, and the Chairperson of Guaranty Trust Company of Canada to round out the big business side; 3 members of university administration (either presidents or principals of their respective institutions); and 2 professors ostensibly to represent the faculty viewpoint.

These are the people who are determining the role of universities in Ontario will play in the lives of present and future students as we move into all of eighties are, and should be, frightened.

Southam and Thomson, late in 1980, pulled one of the biggest corporate coups in recent history; that is the closing of the Winnipeg Tribune and the Ottawa Journal. They are presently under investigation by the Kenyon Commission for violations of the Combines Act.

Nordanda Mines’ main banks are the Bank of Canada, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, and the Bank of Nova Scotia, who are in turn, heavily involved overseas with partners with several oppressive regimes, most notably that of South Africa.

Our market is no longer a congregate, a multi-billion dollar corporation with enough corporate twists and turns to boggle the minds of all but those who set it up.

Of the three government appointments, two are from the offices of the Minister of Colleges and Universities, the third is the Secretary for the Management Board of the Provincial Cabinet.

The ones who have been upping tuition by 8.10% a year for the past 5 years, who knows-how-long.

The President of the University of Western Ontario, the President of Lakehead University, and the Principal of Queen’s University have also been chosen to sit on the committee.

Of the two professors chosen to sit on the committee, one was a former chairman of the Ontario Council of Universities Association (OCCA), and still a member, and the other teaches law part-time at York University.

And although only one member of the committee is officially listed as being from the OCUA, there are no less than five committee members who are affiliated with the organization.

In Dr. Stephenson’s words, the members of the committee were chosen for their experience with universities, rather than to represent “special interest groups”. If that is indeed the basis on which they were chosen, one would have no choice but to conclude that the Honourable Minister has failed in her task. How much more special interest can you get?

Faculty associations and students may indeed be special interest, but they are no more so than big business, government, or the OCUA, who all too frequently look out for number one themselves. And they do it to the exclusion of students across the province.

One might even go so far as to say that the students’ associations are the right kind of special interest group. They have the basic interests of what universities stand for, it is at heart, institutions of higher learning, a “free marketplace of ideas.” Unfortunately, that marketplace has become a brokerage, a pawn shop. The ones that are losing out are the students who are paying an increasing difficult to rationalize tuition.

Who better to define the roles and directions of Ontario’s universities in the 80’s than those that will be attending them.

In the words of one faculty member at the University of Windsor, “the OCUA is talking about the future of Colleges and Universities, the persons directly involved must have a voice.”

“It has been committed to, not only qualification for membership is having supported a particular political party, I’d say their presence is rather silly.”

We couldn’t agree more.

The Fortnighter

by John Mill

The New Year is a time for resolutions, but good resolutions are hard to come by and even harder to keep. I moved a resolution to let that be so, but instead I spent the whole New Year ignoring newspapers. They are so depressing.

Look at any newspaper on any day; international relations are crumbling, terrorism is burning. Depression, recession and oppression hover close by. Newsweek ran an ad that offered Women or Men, dollars or both. The request was for six unique scientist/businessmen to round out a research team. The team’s task was to design, build and bring into production a Hydrogen/Oxygen fuel cell of such excellence that further optimization is not economically practical. Any one interested should contact R.P. Synergetics, 1978-5107 in Toronto. You don’t even have to go to California.

If it is money you are worried about, forget it. There are countless ways to make a million. Don’t complain, just sit there and watch your millions grow. It only takes a week at a ski resort, or a little more at a ski resort.

The situation only looks frightening because we are advancing so fast. The future is leaping back at us like a ravenous wolf. Don’t complain about a lack of jobs; create new ones.

Society is an abstract creation, our economy is a complete fabrication, a massive monetary macramé. Just get out there and stitch in your own design. With all the unemployed you will have lots of people to hire from.

You won’t have to worry about financing. The banks are always looking for creative people with good ideas to lend money to.

Look at how many jobs Harry Ford or Alexander Graham Bell created. People laughed when the first car came out and thought the telephone a nice toy but Ford and Bell saw what they could be and revolutionized our lives.

If you don’t want the hassle of revolutionizing the world here is a sure fire get rich quick scheme. In California there is a school that has a ten month deep sea diving course. The tuition is $10,000 but successful graduates earn $200,000 a year on offshore oil rigs.

The work is high risk but you can retire in five years with a cool million.

You don’t have to $10,000 for tuition? No problem. Canadian College offers a two month course on the art of cold-calling every spring. Successful graduates can earn $10,000 a month or more with bonuses.

Royalty pays the win and fortune that might take a little longer to bear fruit was announced in the January 19th edition of “The Variety” (a University of Windsor newspaper). It is apparently ignored by the uncritically section ran an ad that offered Women or Men the chance to win a Nobel Prize or make a million dollars or both. The request was for six unique scientists/businessmen to round out a research team. The team’s idea was to design, build and bring into production a Hydrogen/Oxygen fuel cell of such excellence that further optimization is not economically practical. Any one interested should contact R.P. Synergetics, 1978-5107 in Toronto. You don’t even have to go to California.

Learn how to lay out a newspaper attractively and how to write real good stuff.

Join The Lance.

Second Floor of the Centre.
Studying for tests and exams

-- Wednesday, January 28 12 -1
-- Thursday, January 29 12:00-1:00

Mastering the text book and reading

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

Pit, located in the University Centre.

your professor be a good teacher.

--Tuesday, January 27 12:00-1:00

system for preparing and writing a successful student.

For the last couple of weeks, a petition has been circulating around the campus to impeach the President. I believe he has been prejudiced, biased and treated unfairly because:

1. Students have been influenced by your irresponsible reports from the past weeks.
2. The president may have made mistakes, but shouldn’t we have waited for the result from the SAC Committee’s investigation before the petition circulated and before we further complicated the case?
3. The SAC Committee pointed out the SAC’s Executive

FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS

a series of three lectures on studentship have been offered. They are designed to help the student develop an efficient, integrated study system covering the fundamentals of being a successful student.

The first lecture deals with a system for taking notes that promotes increased involvement during class and an effective method for recall of material later on. The second lecture deals with reading techniques as they apply to a study of a textbook. The lecture further explains a system for preparing and writing exams.

This series of lectures began in 1976, and has been attracting a large number of students ever since. For a three-hour investment of your time you can increase your efficiency as a student.

The series begins Tuesday, January 27, 1981, in the Speakers Pit, located in the University Centre. Dates and times are listed below.

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

--Wednesday, January 28 12-1

And again at 5:30-6:30

Mastering the textbook and reading assignments

--Wednesday, January 28 1:00-2:30

And again at 5:30-6:30

Studying for tests and exams

--Thursday, January 29 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance’s mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author’s phone number and address.

SAC President. It is very interesting to note your reports only around the campus to impeach complicated the case?

1. The president may have made mistakes, but shouldn’t we have waited for the result from the SAC Committee’s investigation before the petition circulated and before we further complicated the case?
2. The SAC Committee pointed out the SAC’s Executive

Within you and without you

Dear Editor;

At the risk of infuriating those who claim John Lennon’s death has been over-publicized already, I forward this letter in an attempt to understand the reaction to his music since the shocking news of his assassina-

Dear Editor:

At the risk of infuriating those who claim John Lennon’s death has been over-publicized already, I forward this letter in an attempt to understand the reaction to his music since the shocking news of his assassina-

Don’t be a rat -

I am glad that there is still justice in this university at

Mail Call

Student journalists just a little bit too eager?

Editor:

I was rather puzzled by your editorial of December 11, in which you implied conservatism was against free thought. Nothing could be further from the truth. In fact, freedom is the foundation of a conservative’s philosophy. Conservatives value freedom of speech, freedom of the press and economic freedom among others. Moreover, we hold certain rights as sacred. These include the right to hold property and of course a right to life.

I was also puzzled by your surprise at the growing strength of conservatism at the University. After all people have grown tired of the failures of hypocrisic liberalism.

Gerald Nichols

Freedom in moderation

Dear Editor:

I was rather puzzled by your editorial of December 11, in which you implied conservatism was against free thought. Nothing could be further from the truth. In fact, freedom is the foundation of a conservative’s philosophy. Conservatives value freedom of speech, freedom of the press and economic freedom among others. Moreover, we hold certain rights as sacred. These include the right to hold property and of course a right to life.

I was also puzzled by your surprise at the growing strength of conservatism at the University. After all people have grown tired of the failures of hypocrisic liberalism.

Gerald Nichols

International Relations

If you want to make everything you do better, start by making yourself better.

NOTICE

To the students who purchased a jacket from ED NAFTOLIN AGENCY, Hamilton, Ontario.

We wish to apologize to you on behalf of our manufacturer for not being able to have your jacket ready before your Christmas break.

We are presently endeavoring to provide a more efficient service to your bookstore.

Yours truly, Ed Naftolin.

Studentship Lectures

return

FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS

a series of three lectures on studentship have been offered. They are designed to help the student develop an efficient, integrated study system covering the fundamentals of being a successful student.

The first lecture deals with a system for taking notes that promotes increased involvement during class and an effective method for recall of material later on. The second lecture deals with reading techniques as they apply to a study of a textbook. The lecture further explains a system for preparing and writing exams.

This series of lectures began in 1976, and has been attracting a large number of students ever since. For a three-hour investment of your time you can increase your efficiency as a student.

The series begins Tuesday, January 27, 1981, in the Speakers Pit, located in the University Centre. Dates and times are listed below.

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

--Wednesday, January 28 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

Mastering the textbook and reading assignments

--Wednesday, January 28 1:00-2:30

And again at 5:30-6:30

Studying for tests and exams

--Thursday, January 29 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

Student journalists just a little bit too eager?

Don’t be a rat -

The Lance

some poetry

GET OFF YOUR

A.S.A.

AND COME

SHOOT FOR

THE LANE!

Studentship Lectures

return

FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS

a series of three lectures on studentship have been offered. They are designed to help the student develop an efficient, integrated study system covering the fundamentals of being a successful student.

The first lecture deals with a system for taking notes that promotes increased involvement during class and an effective method for recall of material later on. The second lecture deals with reading techniques as they apply to a study of a textbook. The lecture further explains a system for preparing and writing exams.

This series of lectures began in 1976, and has been attracting a large number of students ever since. For a three-hour investment of your time you can increase your efficiency as a student.

The series begins Tuesday, January 27, 1981, in the Speakers Pit, located in the University Centre. Dates and times are listed below.

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

--Wednesday, January 28 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

Mastering the textbook and reading assignments

--Wednesday, January 28 1:00-2:30

And again at 5:30-6:30

Studying for tests and exams

--Thursday, January 29 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

Student journalists just a little bit too eager?

Don’t be a rat -

The Lance

some poetry

GET OFF YOUR

A.S.A.

AND COME

SHOOT FOR

THE LANE!

Studentship Lectures

return

FOR THE PAST SEVEN YEARS

a series of three lectures on studentship have been offered. They are designed to help the student develop an efficient, integrated study system covering the fundamentals of being a successful student.

The first lecture deals with a system for taking notes that promotes increased involvement during class and an effective method for recall of material later on. The second lecture deals with reading techniques as they apply to a study of a textbook. The lecture further explains a system for preparing and writing exams.

This series of lectures began in 1976, and has been attracting a large number of students ever since. For a three-hour investment of your time you can increase your efficiency as a student.

The series begins Tuesday, January 27, 1981, in the Speakers Pit, located in the University Centre. Dates and times are listed below.

The lecture and you - how to help your professor be a good teacher.

--Wednesday, January 28 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

Mastering the textbook and reading assignments

--Wednesday, January 28 1:00-2:30

And again at 5:30-6:30

Studying for tests and exams

--Thursday, January 29 12:00-1:00

And again at 5:30-6:30

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance’s mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author’s phone number and address.
Toronto engineering paper facing criticism again rightly Commission in a recent letter to U of T President James Ham.

The Dec. 5 letter from Dorothea Gristeden states that “the contents of the Toiké Okle fall beyond the acceptable standards set by a community which endeavours to foster the dignity and worth of all our people, regardless of their race, sex, or ethnic background.”

The letter is in response to an information package prepared by the U of T Status of Women Committee (UTSWC). UTSWC has criticized the Toiké Okle in the past, pointing to such features as the 1976 article on rape describing rape victims as “just begging to be raped!” The article goes on to speculate whether women achieve “sexual satisfaction during the episode.”

In an interview yesterday, Ham asserted that he lacked the power to ban distribution of the Toiké Okle on campus, adding that this could only be dealt with by Governing Council. He pointed out, however, that UTSWC and the Toiké Okle have been recently involved in discussions with a view to transforming the nature of the publication, and that he would prefer to take any action pending the outcome.

Ham indicated that if the Toiké did not improve its “lowest common denominator” journalism, then the possibility of banning distribution could be looked at again.

Dave Thompson, current editor of the Toiké, declined comment on the letter pending consultation with his fellow editors.

He pointed out, though, that a “changed Toiké” was being planned, under the direction of past editor Bob Moult, and that the tentative date for the first issue of this new incarnation is Jan. 21. An issue of the unaltered Toiké will probably come out this week.

When asked whether the new Toiké would really be different, Thompson replied, “I’m not too sure myself; I haven’t seen any new material yet.”

Bob Moult could not be contacted by press time for comment.

University administrators not looking forward to 1982

OTTAWA (CUP) — University administrators across the country are lining up to express fears that the federal government intends to cut off funding to post-secondary education in 1982.

Simon Fraser University President George Pederson said last month there were “rumblings at the federal government level” indicating they intended to drastically slash education funding.

Now Acadia University President Alexander Sinclair has added his voice to the growing concern, saying universities could face “serious financial troubles” if the government carried out a major cut-back plan.

Fears that the federal government intends education funding cutbacks stem from Alan MacEachan’s budget speech October 28. The Liberal Finance Minister said the government expects to make “significant savings” in the money now transferred to the provincial governments for health, social services and education.

Ten days after the budget speech when federal health minister Monique Begin indicated her government would continue to support the medicare system but “would drastically reduce and alter the university section.”

Begin has started the Established Programs Financing (EPF), which is the mechanism for transferring money from the federal government to the provinces, is unacceptable.

The Liberal Health Minister says EPF is not equitable because it has been transferring large amounts of money to richer provinces.

The EPF arrangement is an agreement between the federal and provincial governments which expires in 1982.

Under the British North America Act, provinces have control over education. However, following the second world war, when universities began to expand quickly, the federal government began to help the provinces pay for new facilities.

Last year the federal government transferred almost $789 million to the provinces for education. This year that figure is expected to rise to over $1 billion.

Engineering presents an All Faculty

NUTS AND BOLTS BASH

Friday, January 23 8pm
Ambassador Auditorium

Everyone is Invited.

Admission

Students $1.00

Others $1.50

Nuts will be given out to the women and bolts to the men. Most of the pieces will not fit together, so you must search around to find the match for yours. When you do, both people will get a free drink.
NEWSPAPERS (CUP) — "I say it's spinach, and to hell with it," said Walter Stewart commenting on newspaper journalism since the Thomson and Southam takeovers of last summer.

Speaking at a center for investigative journalism seminar in Winnipeg, Stewart said, "Newspaper proprietors now feel they have only one task and that is to make money."

"There was a time when newspapers felt they had a dual function. One was to come up with great news stories and the other was to make a little money, now they just want to make the money," Stewart said.

"The best way to make a really big heap of money is to fill the nation with one newspaper towns, and fill those papers with wire-copy, soft news, and gossip," Stewart said.

"Market surveys determine what the readers want, and editors deliver horoscopes, celebrity recipes, and other junk journalism," he said.

Author of Paper Juggerman and Canada's Newspapers: The Inside Story, and former columnist for FP Publications, Stewart said, "There was a time when newspapers felt they had a special role in society, now they feel they have only one task and that is to make money."

"It's not our policy to broadcast offensive and obscene material," said Mackie. "It's just one of the risks you take with free form radio."

Last 3 Days (no receiving of books)

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

• Resume Preparation Service
• Income Tax Service
• Typing and Copying at 5¢ a Copy
• Housing Placement Service
• Research Assistance Services

Try our convenient services on campus at

MUTUAL ASSOCIATES
CANADA INC.
Assumption University
404 Huron Church Road
Phone 254-5059
OPEN TILL 5 ON SATURDAYS

Just say OY! Oh Ya!
London Sends Us Her Best

The Fanshawe College Exhibit

Clockwise from above: David Wright "Four Pieces": Jane Buyers "Succulent Cacti": S. Krizan "Hyper": Benedict Linzen "Chaotic Dog".

Until February 5 at the University Centre Gallery and the Lebel Building

Photos by E.P. Chant
The Grottybeats?

by Peter Haggert

Some people will believe anything they read!

Thirteen years ago when they told you Paul McCartney was dead you probably thought the world was going to end. Wasn’t it obvious with "Strawberry Fields" and "I Am The Walrus" that the Beatles were no longer the same group of licentious Liverpoolsians?

Boy did they fool you! After a court appearance or two, it was proved to the world that Paul really was alive and breathing English air. They called it a publicity stunt! Now they are trying to tell you that John is gone. I bet you all fell into the trap for a second time. They say some dingbat shot him. Well, at least it is more believable than a car accident.

The Lance has learned exclusively (we visited the pub) that John is actually alive and well and living in the basement of our student centre.

In fact, the story is better than that! The Beatles are back together! Don’t be fooled by the fact that SAC’s band calls themselves the Grottybeats, I know better. Remember, all reporters are trained to look for those kind of things.

Yes, on that fateful day, ten years ago when Paul went to the press saying it was all over, he was lying. As you can clearly see from these exclusive photographs the Fab Four are still around. Notice the striking resemblances in the comparative pictures?

If that isn’t a give away, consider these facts. How many Beatles were there? How many Grottybeats are there? Huh? Huh?

Think of the music they’ve been playing all week in the pub. I’m sure that at least one long sounds like something Lennon/McCartney wrote.

I hope I’m breaking these amazing facts to you gently enough. You should be thankful you have see reporters like me to expose such things.

Now for the real shocker! That isn’t really Ringo behind the drums. Through a careful study done in our science laboratory, The Lance has discovered that the present drummer is actually two inches shorter than the original Richard Starkey.

Our biggest clue was when we found the real Ringo crouched in a secluded corner of Windsor Hall muttering something about "Obstacles".

Alas, no more will we hear the gentle strains of “You’re sixteen, you’re beautiful, and you’re mine . . . . . .”

Coming soon

by John Doyle

Do you suffer from the post-break blues? Do you find yourself reaching for a beer in the morning instead of your textbooks? Do you still look for something to do on Monday night? Do you break into uncontrollable shouting whenever you walk close to the library? What you need is something to look forward to! But what? There is no slack week and May is years away.

SAC’s pub has decided to buck the administration and have a slack week anyway. "Slack Week In The Pub" will be from Feb. 9 thru Feb. 14, featuring three bands.

That Friday and Saturday the beach sound of Applause will remind you of what you will be missing. You are invited to SAC’s Beach Party Saturday, February 14th (in the pub). All those wearing beach attire in costume for half price, towels and suntan lotion optional.

If you can’t wait that long you can satisfy your yearning for new wave in the coming two weeks. Starting Monday through to Saturday The Checks will be cranking out new wave along with a tribute to the Who. The following week (February 1st to 7th) The Slam return with more New Wave and that same old female vocalist. Be there, Alabo.

W4 rocks Detroit no longer

by Bill Buchanan

On Sunday morning, January 18th, thousands of rock and roll fans turned their stereo dials to 106 FM – only to find the sounds of country music on the airwaves.

The switchboard at WWWL began to light up with faithful listeners complaining that they weren’t receiving W4’s rock and roll music. They thought that something must be wrong – they were receiving country music on a station that’s been predominantly rock since 1972.

Sorry, rock fans. There’s no mistake. WWWL has officially changed to a country and western format.

The Lance contacted Lori Converse, Program Assistant at W4 in order to learn why the station has made such an abrupt change.

“It was strictly a management decision,” Converse told The Lance, “Some of our staff weren’t aware of the change until they showed up for work on Sunday morning.”

Most employees reacted differently to the change, but some were annoyed. Converse revealed that no employer, disc jockey or otherwise has quite that far. She said that those employees who did not like the change would just have to “go through a period of adjustment.”

As far as one-time country-hater Howard Sterna feels, Converse said that Howard would “stick it out” for a while and “see what he thinks”. But why the change?

“There are so many rock or contemporary music stations, so we decided to start a new service for the city,” Converse explained.

Converse also pointed out that country-western relies on ballads and in news in order to stabilize the overall format. “Our ratings for the end of December, weren’t real hot. We’re hoping that the format change will keep our ratings stable.”

Many surmised that Detroit rival station WLLZ played a role in WWWL’s format change. Converse told The Lance that having so many rock stations in Detroit was starting to "exhaust" rock. The abundance of rock stations began to fragment the listening audience causing it to be an "up and down" business. At the present time, WWWL is not concerned with the competition, only stability.

Converse says that former rock fans have reacted to the change, but the degree of their reaction depends on many factors such as their dedication to rock, and simply their loyalty to the station.

As for all the rock memorabilia?

“We still have all our albums,” Converse explained, “We put them all in boxes and we’re storing them away. For as the t-shirts, we can always have country printed on them.”

Hagood Hardy

Award winning Canadian pianist/composer Hagood Hardy will be making a rare concert appearance in Windsor on January 31.

Best known for his song “The Homecoming”, Hardy will appear at Great Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $12, $11 and $10 and are available at Celia Hardcastle Music, 130 Pitt St. W.
Friday, January 23
— Huron Hall Enterprises host a Superbowl Superbash beginning at 8:00 p.m. in Vanier East Stadium. Admission to the event is $1.00 collectable at the gate. Vote for your favorite team as you enter. Superbowl winner will be announced at midnight.
— The Chinese Christian Fellowship is presenting a slide show, "Metamorphosis II" at 8:00 p.m. in room G333 Windsor Hall.
— The Delta Chi TGIF parties continue once again. Pizza and beer at 408 Indian Rd. from 12:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
— The University Players begin their 1983 season with Les Belles Soupes, a play by French Canadian Michel Tremblay, January 29, 30, 31, February 1, 5, 6 and 7. Tickets are $3.50 on Thursday and Saturday, $4.00 on Friday and Sunday.
— Assumption University will sponsor a seminar by Rev. Donald Senior entitled "The Gospel of St. Matthew" from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. A $12.00 ticket includes lunch.
— Tuesday, January 27
— The Ottawa Film Theatre will present Padre Padrone, an Italian play written and directed by brothers Paolo and Vittorio Taviani. The film begins at 8:00 p.m. at the Super Cinema, 801 Bank St. Tickets $3.75.
— Swami Giriandas will be speaking in Vanier Hall from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. This monastic disciple is the Director of SYDA Foundation of Ann Arbor Michigan. Her topic of speech will be Human Awareness.
— Wednesday, January 28
— The School of Music will host Adventures in Music: Modes of Expression at 3:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music. Karl Haas, pianist, musicologist and creator of the WJR radio program "Adventures in Music" will be the guest. Thursday, January 29
— U of W Interfriendship Christian Fellowship serve a hot meal every Thursday in Erbata Hall Lounge at 4:30 p.m. for $1.75. A speaker will follow from 6:00 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.
— January 31
— Donald Senior entitled "The Gospel of St. Matthew" from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. A $12.00 ticket includes lunch.
— Who owns Canada, Canadian or U.S. monopoly? This question will be answered in a discussion with Julian Sher, Forge journalist and co-author of a recently published book on the same topic. Sponsored by the Norman Bethune Club, this event will take place in the Vanier Student Lounge at 7:30 p.m.
— Friday, January 30
— The CSA Cultural Festival begins at noon until 4:00 p.m. This promotion of cultural exchange will be on the 2nd floor of the University Centre. All are welcome to the multitude of programs. Refreshments free.

KINGS deserve a royal welcome
by Peter Haggert

Score: Social Scientists

Although having been in existence for only a short while, The Social Science Society have already left a big impression on this campus. They have now elected President. Although relatively new to the recording scene, The Kings are in great demand for concert appearances. "So far, this is their only area appearance we know about," said Neil Buhne, Society Vice-President. Don't wait to buy tickets, remember Vanier Hall has a capacity of only a little over 350.

CJAM adds program

CJAM, the campus radio station has announced a new program. They have now purchased twenty-four half hour mystery and suspense radio shows, all part of the Rod Serling series "The Name of the Game". They have now purchased twenty-four half hour mystery and suspense radio shows, all part of the Rod Serling series "The Name of the Game". They are to be played on Monday nights from 9:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

HAVE WE GOT NEWS FOR YOU!

Special Student Offer
13 weeks for $13

ENCLOSED YOU WILL FIND MY CHEQUE/MONEY ORDER FOR $13.00 FOR MY 13 WEEK SUBSCRIPTION TO THE GLOBE AND MAIL AT $1.00 PER WEEK

PLEASE DELIVER MY PAPER TO (INDICATE IF ADDRESS IS:)

NAME
ADDRESS
CITY
POSTAL CODE

MAIL CHEQUE OR MONEY ORDER, PLUS COMPLETED COUPON, TO: THE GLOBE AND MAIL, STUDENT & SCHOOL DIVISION 444 FRONT ST. W., TORONTO, ONT. M5V 2B9

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND AN INTER-FAITH RETREAT
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13th - SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15th at Paris, Ontario
(Five Oaks Conference Centre)
YOGA LESSONS
BUDDHIST MEDITATION
SUFI DANCING
A weekend of dialogue with members of the Windsor and area Hindu, Muslim, Jewish, Christian and Buddhist communities.

Cost: $50.00
Sponsored by the U. of W. Inter-Faith Fellowship

Contact: Dr. Roy Amore, Religious Studies Dept., U. of W., 253-4232 ext. 592.
Rev. Peter Wickerson, Canterbury College, 256-6442
Rev. Bob Lockhart, Iona College, 253-7257
Assumption Chaplaincy Team, 254-2512

But Jobson isn’t the only much like the Old Tull, a savage ond album, Stand Up). ‘Martin Barre is the only “origin­ tin made his debut on the secand spirit.

fied his inimitab le stage presence is preserved in the music that he resour ceful n ess of both body percussion are also new person­ propelling Jethro Tull towards dose of synthesized electronics,

The tunes and dogmas are just a shade beyond general interest and appeal.

But this dilemma has dogged Anderson and company since A Passion Play hit the air waves and drowned, weighted down by the crimes merciless dispens­ment and classification. Rather than appease the masses, Jethro Tull has continued to produce and play for those who dare take time out to lend an ear. No glory here. Just aglory wisdom.

Something of the sage in him. I guess. Right, Ian?

New Clear Day

by Wendy Coomber

The Vapors were in the “pin ...”, sorry, “new wave” section of the record shop so I bought their album. I could have thrown away eight dollars on garbage. I could have.

The truth is, my brother, Terrance the Unsteady was 27 this week and what he wanted was a pun ... new wave album. So I closed my eyes, knowing very little about the sound, and picked. Besides, I thought the song entitled “Letter From Hiro” looked interesting.

What I thought I was getting was a revolt-establishment, anarchism. What I got was love songs intertwined with songs about communication lapses. Not exactly what I expected of new wave, I mean, it pretty much sounds just like the old wave, but I like it.

However, let’s get the plagiaris out of the way first.

“Spring Collection,” while not the type of song I would expect from Roxy Music, does contain one teeny little line similar to one in Dance Away that goes as he looks around his paddied cell.

No sex, no drugs, no wine, no women, no fun, no sin, no joy.

No wonder it’s dark.”

Every song is a clean, tight little package concerning tiny little messages on nuclear attitubes (New Clear Days – nuclear days-cure), and sometimes the communication breakdowns that lead to them.

“Letter From Hiro” (Hirobito–Emperor of Japan during 2nd World War) tells the agonies of a man who receives a letter warning of war just a little too late and now receives the re­ love song but it moves too fast. Is that because the writer wanted to move like a train, or is it because, like every other song on the album, they had to fit it into three and a half min­utes?

Next to “Letter From Hiro,” “Sixty Second Interval” is probably the best song. It begins quite slow and melodic, like a love song, describing the moon and stars, and then moving onto a scene something like the trenches in World War I. A group of strangers are huddled together waiting for the final countdown on the atomic clock.

Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) courses will be offered the weekends of Jan. 31 - Feb. 1 and Feb. 7 - 8. Course times are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and will take place in the Human Kinetics Building. The fee is $25 for students and $50 for all others. Please register at the Human Kinetics Office prior to the weekend of your choice and pay the fee in advance. For further information, contact Campus Rec at 253-4232, ext. 325 or call Sharon McNamara at 256-4687.

Are you interested in improving your present fitness level and acquiring the skills of self-defense? If so, why not enroll in the Judo or Aikido clubs that offer this instruction through the Campus Recreation program?

The Judo club meets every Monday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m., and the Aikido club meets Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. respectively. Both meet in the Competitive room in St. Denis Hall.

Play in the ball hockey league will begin Tuesday, Feb. 3 and continue Tuesdays and Thursdays until March 29 at William Hands Gym. The captains meeting is scheduled in St. Denis Hall on Jan. 27 at 3 p.m. Entry forms and additional information is available at the Campus Recreation Office.

High speed hockey action will begin Jan. 29 at Adie Knox Arena. Play will continue Tuesday and Thursday from 2:45 p.m. The captains' meeting is Jan. 26 at St. Denis Hall at 5 p.m. Each team must have three players. Entry forms are available at the Campus Recreation Office, 253-4232, ext. 325.

Special Note: The Thursday, Jan. 29 game between the Tecumseh Chiefs and the Huron Wings has been postponed due to the Chiefs' participation in the Laurentian intramural hockey tournament to be held that weekend in Sudbury. The league would like to wish the Chiefs the best of luck.
Two home losses

Pucksters lucky to get out alive

It was an ugly incident. The kind of behaviour that has no place in University sport, according to Lancer coach Bob Corran. So with 12:14 left to play in the Lancers' contest with Guelph Sunday at Adie Knox Arena, Corran pulled his team off the ice after Don Martin was slashed across the side of the neck by Guelph's Ross Bowden. Bowden received a two-minute slashing penalty and Corran, feeling that was not stern enough measure, removed his players from the game in order to protect them.

"It was clear that the referee was not going to protect our players," Corran said. "By only giving him (Bowden) two minutes, the referee was saying to Guelph, 'You can do anything you want.' And given the attitude of many of the Guelph players, it's worth two minutes to them to go out and do that sort of thing."

An OUAA board made a decision on the game early Thursday and ruled that neither team would be reprimanded for their actions in the game and the final score at the Lancers' exit, 5-1 fot Guelph, would stand.

"In some ways, they made a ruling in our favor," Corran said. "By not penalizing us, they said that what we did was right."

"I'm somewhat disappointed that no action was taken against Guelph, but the board really did not have sufficient written evidence on the game. It was mostly verbal."

Corran points out that the team was unanimous in their agreement with the move to leave the ice and that that shows something of the personality of the players.

"I loudly applauded them for their maturity and conviction in what the league stands for," Corran said. "The league is essentially educational and what happened Sunday was not educational."

The loss was the seventh straight for the Lancers at home against no wins. Windsor also fell to Waterloo 3-1 at Adie Knox Arena Saturday.

Sabre team captures title at York Invitation

by Peter Haggert

The University fencing team began their season with some success on Jan. 10-11 at the York Invitation Fencing tournament.

The Sabre team, composed of Peter Ott, Wayne Walczak and Dave Marsh captured the Sabre team championship. Although no individual awards were given, Peter Ott was an overall champion losing only one of eleven matches.

In winning the championship, Windsor had to twice defeat the defending OUAA champions. Coach Eli Sukunda however, was not pleased with their overall performance.

"They scraped through," Sukunda said. "It was obvious that our fencers were better than the other teams, yet we had one or two convincing wins."

Windsor also took two foil teams and an epee team consisting of three members each to the tournament. For some of the fencers, the meet provided them with their first taste of fencing competition. Although none of the teams advanced to the playoffs, the experience proved invaluable.

"These tournaments give the fencers the confidence of experience," Sukunda said. "Everytime they fence they become a little more sure of themselves."

You can teach them things over a while to translate their knowledge during actual competition.

Foil and Epee weapons are electronically wired to ensure that all "touches" are recorded, making sure that all matches are refereed fairly.

The intricate system of wiring proved to be more harmful than helpful to the Lancer foil fighters. There were numerous delays holding up the foil competition. Although none of the teams advanced to the playoffs, the experience proved invaluable.

"When you have to worry about losing penalty points due to faulty equipment as well as your actual bout you can't expect to do very well. Our team has the capability, it's a matter of concentration, practice, and clearing up faulty equipment right now. When it comes time for OUAA competition we'll be ready," promised Sukunda.

Last weekend at the Wayne State Championship, Lancer prowess was in evidence. Facing talented opposition in Wayne State (defending American University Champions), Bowling Green, Michigan State and University of Detroit the Lancers finished a surprising second.

Again Peter Ott was outstanding, going undefeated in fifteen matches.

The Lancers are now preparing to host the OUAA Far West Championship this weekend in the dance studio of the Human Kinetics Building Saturday at 9:00 a.m.

GET INTO 'SPEED' READING

Course is seven weeks in duration

All classes held on campus

Room location to be announced

Two classes available commencing

Wednesday, February 4 at 5:30 p.m. or 7:00 p.m.

FEE OF $65.00 INCLUDES INSTRUCTION, TEXT BOOK AND THE USE OF ALL COURSE MATERIALS

To enroll, see us in the UNIVERSITY CENTRE:

January 22, 23, 26, 29, 30, and February 2.
The Lancers opened their season with an impressive 90-82 overtime win over their primary competitors in the OUAA West, the Guelph Gryphons.

Windsor trailed 45-35 at the half.

Stan Korosec led the attack of four All-stars contributing 16. Shots they threw up. The small number of shots by Guelph can be attributed in part to a tough Lancer defense that made them choose their shots carefully.

"We said all along that our defense was going to win it for us," commented head coach Nick Grabowski. "Defense won it for us tonight.

"But I think we answered one question tonight," added Grabowski, "and that is we can shoot from outside, but we can't rely on it. We have to get the ball inside more."

Windsor's outside shooting put them out front by an 8-2 score early in the game, but when it went sour, the result was a 10-point halftime lead for Guelph. Korosec scored only four points in the first half.

The return to the inside game was obvious immediately at the start of the second half as Korosec nailed off six straight points. And when he dropped in a reverse layup at 9:49 and drew the foul for the three-point play, the score was tied at 62.

The Lancers led 80-78 with time running out when Hermanutz was called for travelling—probably one of the top 10 worst calls of OUAA history since he was surrounded by three men all Sawing at his arms. That gave the ball to Guelph under the Lancer basket with five seconds left where Mike Sesto sunk from behind two of his teammates to take the inbounds pass underneath and force the Lancers to win in overtime.

Mne 83 Lancers 81

The Lancers blew leads of 16 points in the first half and 9 points in the second half as they were upset by McMaster Marauders 83-81 Saturday in Hamilton.

Windsor held the second half lead eight minutes remaining in the game when they dropped back into a zone defense to protect John Ritchie with four fouls and Stan Korosec with three.

At that point, Marauders Marc Dubois and Jim Hoyle got hot and took advantage of the relaxed Lancer defense. Dubois finished with 28 points, Hoyle with 27.

"They kept hustling all the time," said assistant coach Vince Landry. "We should have given them more pressure on defense by coming out of the zone."

Head coach Nick Grabowski echoed the same feelings, but felt that the Marauders must have had four leaf clovers in their back pockets most of the game.

"In any game you have to have a little bit of luck," Grabowski said. "Tonight we didn't have any and McMaster did. Of course, we missed too many free throws, too."

Windsor hit just 17 of 30 free throws in the game, including 11 of 21 in the second half. Stan Korosec led the Lancers with 22 while Phil Hermanutz added 14.

Lancers 85 Warrior 75

A new foul shooting drill installed in Lancer practices this week by Vince Landry produced marked improvement in a regular season OUAA match with Waterloo Wednesday night.

As the drill goes, each player shoots three foul shots with a number of laps equal to the number of missed foul shots being run by the team. According to Landry the drill, which is run twice a day, increases the players' concentration at the line, a statement which is borne out by the fact that the Lancers hit on 23 of 28 shots from the line in Wednesday's game.

That factor was clearly the difference in the game when it is considered that the Warriors connected on five of their only eight trips to the line. And as far as a somewhat disgruntled Waterloo coach Don McCrae was concerned, the difference was unsatisfactory.

"I hope Korosec wasn't bruised," remarked McCrae sarcastically. "The officials did a good job with the other parts of the game, but I have to disagree with the way the inside game was called.

Ailing Lancerettes still winning

by Sue Heyca

The Lancerettes are well into the second half of their schedule and have posted a 3-1 record since the break.

The most recent win came Saturday in the only league game to date, a home start against Queen's. Windsor dominated the first half of play and led the Golden Gaels by a 26-17 score at the intermission before coasting to the 65-47 win.

The Lancerettes now stand at 4-2 in league play and hold a firm grip on second place in Tier II behind the undefeated McMaster Marauders.

Top scorers for Windsor were Mary Heyca with 14 points and Kerri Towers with 12. Therese McGee took down 10 rebounds in the win.

Injuries continue to plague the team and have reduced the roster to just eight players. Despite this, the remaining Lancerettes rallied to play one of the finest games seen in St. Denis Hall in a number of years.

"The four guards—Mary Heyca, Kerri Towers, Kit Kelly and Mary Brannagan, have become the stabilizing force for the team," coach Sue Swain said. "They all have to disagree with the way the inside game was called.

"If it's the issue in the game, it has to be well-called. And with two fouls, the board game is always the issue."

Stan Korosec—once again led the Lancers with 30 points including eight of nine at the free throw line. John Ritchie and Phil Hermanutz added 14 apiece.

Crusaders triumph

In a preliminary game to the Jan. 14 matchup between the Lancers and Guelph Gryphons, the junior varsity Crusaders defeated a Toledo recreational league team 112-99.

The Crusaders had trailed 64-45 at the half before out-scoring the elderly team by a fast paced run-and-gun style.

Lancerette Schedule

Jan. 23 bandwidth* 8 pm
Jan. 26 Detroit Mercy* 7 pm
Jan. 27 Huron* 7 pm
Jan. 31 Ottawa 6 pm
Feb. 1 Carleton* 1 pm
Feb. 8 St. Clair Community College of Port Huron, Mich., Kit Kelly ported 14 points and Diane Minnello 11 in the losing cause.

Windsor's third win came in a matchup with cross-town rivals, St. Clair College. The Lancerettes romped to a 67-37 victory as Tracy McNeill hit for 13 points, Diane Minnello and Kerri Towers 12 each and Mary Heyca 10.

Due to a quick in scheduling, the Lancerettes will play the winnies of their games at home. Why not take in a few games?
OUAA championship unlikely; West will not be won easily

Coast Nick Grabowski
by Steve Rice

On paper, the Lancers look good. Maybe as good as they were two years ago when they took the OUAA championship with an 80-78 upset of York.

And they’re probably as good, if not better than last year when they won the OUAA West despite strong challenges from Guelph and Waterloo.

The biggest loss the team suffered this year was the loss through graduation of guard Vince Landry who has moved up (down?) to assistant coach of the team. Landry was a three-time all-star whose spectacular play in the CIUAA was unparalleled.

Most of the Lancers’ success will depend upon 6’7” centre Pan Korosie and the ability of his teammates to get the ball to him. Korosie, last year’s OUAA West MVP and CIUAA co-MVP, has scored 83 points in the team’s first three games and figures to add a lot more before the year is done.

Windor is currently ranked eighth in the CIUAA, but another team from the OUAA West is ranked second, and rightfully so, the Gryphons. Gryphons guard Joseph Fujimori is the best back-court player in the league and his ability to hit his shots from the free-throw line may be all that is needed to put the Lancers out of the all-important first place in the West. Since winning in Guelph (Feb. 6) will be no mean feat,

The first-place finisher receives a by in the first round of the playoffs in which all seven teams compete. They also hold home-court advantage for the four-team tournament which follows the first round. For Windor, home-court may be the key, as there is little doubt of their abilities in St. Denis Hall (or the inabilities of opposing teams).

Should the Lancers win the West, they will host the OUAA final against York Yeomen who will probably go undefeated in the dismal OUAA East. Yeomen are ranked numero uno in Canada and backed by the guns of Dave Cooper and Fred Pecel, will also probably beat the Lancers without too much trouble.

Of course, you can’t count out that strange St. Denis magic.

All player profiles were provided by Nick Grabowski.

No. 24 Hunt 6’2”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: Assumption
Hunt is an exceptional rookie prospect out of the Windsor high school ranks, making 1st WSSA all-star guard. He is a deadly outside shooter if left alone.

No. 30 Doug Austin 6’1”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: Assumption
Doug is in 3rd year Arts, majoring in Religious Studies. He has exceptional jumping ability and a shot to go with it. Doug is a playmaker excelling in the art of passing.

No. 32 Brian Hogan 5’9”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: Assumption
Brian is in his first year as a Lancer. He is a transfer student from the Regina Cougars of the Great Plains Conference.

No. 44 John Ritchie 6’4”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: Riverside
John is a Human Kinetics graduate, now enrolled in Business. His outside shooting and aggressive inside play makes him a valuable Lancer. John has an exceptional jumping ability and a shot to go with it.

No. 50 Stan Korosie 6’7”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: Assumption
Stan is the Lancer veteran who led the team to the Western conference championship last year. He was the team’s MVP, and also was acclaimed the CIUAA co-MVP. Stan led the league in rebounds and averaged 18 points a game last year.

No. 52 Jim Molyneux 6’6”
Hometown: Toronto, Ontario
High School: Silverthorn
Jim can dominate any game, and is the Lancer’s muscle, He has an exceptional jumping talent, whose shooting and rebounding reflect this gift.

No. 54 Jim Kennedy 6’5”
Hometown: Windsor
High School: St. Mary’s
Jim is another of this year’s exciting freshman crop. He utilizes his size and quickness to excel at rebounding and defensive tactics. The offensive part of his game is proving a pleasant surprise, a good jump shot.
RUGS
For Sale: two powerful and versatile flash units for the serious photographer. One Speedotron Auto-Bright 3400 and one Rollei 140. Come up to The Lance (2nd floor of the University Centre) or call Heidi at 256-8551 after 5:30 p.m.

WILL BABYSIT nights, 3-12 p.m., University Centre) or call Heidi at 256-8551. Please phone 222-2284. Ask for Sandlake.

MALE VOLUNTEERS ARE REQUIRED to assist in a wino program for pre-school children at Windsor Western Hospital on Wednesday mornings. "I shorts" qualifications are required.

CALL VOlunteer Services at 253-4157, FOR MORE INFORMATION.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN STUDENT RADIO? How about jazz? Finally, do you have some spare time? If you do, we need you. CJAM is looking for hosts for its daily jazz program. Contact John Speigel at CJAM if you can answer yes to the above questions. Our Centre is open daily. We are looking for one or more individuals and a poetry and literature show one night a week. This will be a half-hour program featuring the work of one or more individuals and a small group background is provided if requested. All required equipment will be provided. We are looking for people who enjoy poetry and literature. Contact John Speigel at CJAM 254-1494 or ext 478 or come in person to the station which is located in the basement of the University Centre.

AMATEUR STAMP COLLECTOR wishes to exchange foreign stamps with other collectors. Contact Rosemary, 2121 W.H.N. Phone 252-2354. Ask for Sandlake.

KEN LANOUE INSURANCE AGENCY LTD. GENERAL AND LIFE INSURANCE

Auto Insurance is Compulsory - High Rates are Not

Call us at 956-6112

Windsor, Ontario N9H 1B6

Welcome Back Bash
featuring "Nemesis"

JANUARY 24, 1981

DONLON HALL
(at Sandwich and Detroit Streets)

$2.00 Admission

Hosted by U of W Law School

8:00 p.m.

We'll save you
$2 Off

any Medium or Large deep-dish pizza

(How's that for a pizza delicious value!)

Yes! You'll Save $2.00

Clip this coupon and hurry into Frank Vetere's for a great deal on deep-dish pizza® including — The Works. Medium or large, get $2.00 off. So what are you waiting for?

Come and get your medium or large deep-dish pizza® and save $2.00. Offer expires January 31, 1981.

Valuable Coupon

any Frank Vetere's medium or large deep-dish pizza® including — The Works. Limit one coupon per pizza. Also good on take-out orders. Not valid in combination with any other discounts or offers. Offer expires February 1, 1981.
Tuition fees and blood pressures to rise again
by E.P. Chant and The University of Toronto Varsey

Tuition at Ontario universities is going up by ten percent, effective immediately, Dr. Betze Stephenson, Minister of Colleges and Universities, announced last week.

In a phone interview Wednesday, University of Windsor President Dr. Myrlene Franklin said that increase might increase tuition and course costs at summer school this year and would certainly be tacked on to tuition prices in the full semester, bringing the average AAc student’s tuition for a year to approximately $1,000.

The budgetary experts at the university are also examining the possibility of an additional increase in tuitions, but Dr. Franklin said the Board of Governors (which would give approval to such an increase) probably would not be examining such a proposal until March.

The president noted such an examination would be “sensitive to many things”, including the possible financial hardships that would be placed on students.

He added that the provincial government is currently considering raising the tuition of foreign visa students to further help universities. A recent report showed Ontario to be one of the cheapest (tuition-wise) places in the Western world for foreign students to study — cheaper than the United States and much cheaper than Great Britain.

In addition to the tuition increase, the provincial ministry last week announced a 10.1 percent increase in operating grants to universities. Dr. Franklin explained this goes into a “pool” which is divided among the universities according to an established formula involving a school’s enrolment and various programs.

The president said this information has already been run through the computer here and that the university will be receiving a 2.75 percent increase in operating grants.

The 10.1 percent basic increase in funding falls below the 12.4 percent demanded by the Ontario Council of University Affairs which has argued this is the absolute basic for the universities’ survival.

The tuition increase was not well received by the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS). That organization’s chairman, Karen Dubinsky, said “Don’t proclaim that universities are open to everyone and then slide a large tuition increase under the door.”

OFS also balked at the ministry’s announcement that OSP would be adjusted to help students pay the increased tuitions, citing the current inequities in student aid and arguing for a drastic revamping of the program.

More Ph.D’s than the continent can handle
by Wendy Coomber

Graduate students skipping out of school to find jobs would be diminishing their Ph.D’s as panacea to ward off all unemployment evils may be in for a rude awakening when they step outside their cozy university.

With the high numbers of Ph.D’s turning out by universities in the sixties and the seventies, the present doctoral holders will find that many a raw knuckle has knocked on those doors of business before them. By 1982, Statistics Canada says there will be a cumulative surplus of 3,200 Ph.D’s in this country.

From the early sixties, the number of Ph.D graduates has risen from 100 to its present level of about 1,200 per year and, according to statistics, “only 500 Ph.D’s will receive tenure-stream appointments and about 75 will get jobs with the federal government.”

The United States has not much more to offer. Thirty-two percent of their professoriate, or two hundred and fifteen thousand, are employed in only part-time work as part-time or sessional lecturers, often with non-renewable or short-term contracts.

Dr. Max Von Zur Muhlen, coordinator of research and special projects for Statistics Canada says, “It is wrong to speak of the unemployment of Ph.D’s. Underemployment, underutilization and unfulfilled dreams of the Ph.D are more important areas of concern.” And so, with nearly an entire generation of Ph.D scholars still looking for work, universities are facing a relentless population of new students who would rather bypass the time consuming doctoral degree for the shorter Master’s program. Such is the case at the University of Windsor.

A short report written for The Lance by Dr. Cornelius Crowley, Dean of Graduate Studies and Dr. Gordon Woods, Assistant Dean of Graduate Studies said: “While enrolment in Master’s programs has been increasing in the last five years, enrolment in several of our doctoral programs has been dropping. Among the reasons for this latter fact, three may be cited as determining: erratic behavior of the job market, stringent financial conditions in the University of Windsor, and lack of a clear-cut federal policy on highly qualified manpower.”

The report goes on to say that universities are expecting a shortfall of 500 doctors per year in science and engineering alone. Such a drastic decrease would most likely create a high demand for Ph.D’s in the 1990’s when retirement and attrition make available a large number of jobs.

However, according to Dr. Crowley, “the doctoral employment situation seems to be fairly stable” at the University of Windsor, because the university puts out such a small number of doctoral graduates each year it is not too hard for each of them to find jobs.

“The sixties were great,” he said, because the universities had lots of money to expand with and create better facilities for teaching. There was an effort at the university in the early seventies to set up more doctoral programs, but by then they were just coming into the period where money was getting short and new students were not coming in.

Dr. Crowley said the university is beginning to look at new Ph.D programs again in geology, Human Kinetics, and Education.

At present, the university has 11 doctoral programs starting with Chemistry in 1958, adding six more Engineering programs after that, plus Physics, Agriculture, and Psychology, the latter which, says Dr. Crowley, produces the most Ph.D graduates.

Misewable rabbits
by Cheeky

(ZNS) — And you thought “The Creature that ate New York” was just a movie.

The British Magazine Undercurrents reports that giant rabbits are plaguing the British nuclear industry.

“These dreadful creatures — immune to poison, as big as hares, and bold as brash — are running amok at British nuclear fuels LTD’s Capenhurst enrichment plant and at the adjacent electricity council research center.”

The super bunnies are munching on the grass at the disposal site and seem to be thriving on it, the magazine says. “The only way of getting rid of them is to get in a rifle-toting assassin to carry out a cull every year or two.”

The superbunnies are munching on the grass at the disposal site and seem to be thriving on it, the magazine says. “The only way of getting rid of them is to get in a rifle-toting assassin to carry out a cull every year or two.”

A giant aquatic celery stalk (left) smashed through the ice of the Detroit River on the weekend. It was bought by Vanier to make salad for the rest of the year. Photo by Heidi Pammer
Job outlook not very good

In a student summer employment procedure, a wrong number was taken at the University of Windsor by the Students Administrative Council (SAC) last day in 1979. The program was aimed at providing summer employment for students in the community. The SAC was able to secure funding from various sources, including the Ministry of Education, the Workers' Compensation Board, and local businesses.

The program dealt with 138 people last year. Of these, 125 withdrew and 13 decided to stay on. Of those withdrawing,

21 transferred to another university or to a college, and 26 said they had no plans to return to school.

Within the SAC, unemployment was high for students who withdrew and low for those who remained. The main reasons for withdrawal were financial and personal. The average hourly wage for women was $1,260.00, compared to $2,500.00 for men.

As the combined family income increased, the average amount of assistance received decreased. The program provided assistance to 53 students, of whom 45 received assistance for less than 40% of their needs.

The program was successful in providing employment opportunities for students, but it was not able to guarantee that all students would secure employment. The SAC recommended that the program be expanded in the future to include more students and to offer longer term employment.

Procedures for police questioning and searches

An oxidizing agent, used in deforestation and the mixing of dyes, was inadvertently mixed with sand and applied to a stretch of campus lawn last Wednesday at the University of Saskatchewan.

"I'm not sure of the toxicity of it," Dr. Bader of the Chemistry Department said, "but it's not the kind of stuff you should be spreading on roads."

The substance, sodium bicon-tate, is a strong oxidizing compound. It's a normal laboratory chemical, that, because it is such a strong base, is used in cleaning up acid spills and such in the lab.

The man who was, more or less, "King for a Day," former Prime Minister Joe Clark, was on campus Friday in the Law Building to address the Students Administrative Council (SAC) of Carleton

University. The speech was introduced, "Hail to the Chief!"

was to have been played, but was found at the last minute to be badly scratched. Instead, "It's My Party and I'll Cry

If I Want To!" was played and, in a rare display, Mr. Clark is pictured above holding the last note of the song over two minutes (but missing Margaret Trudeau's Canadian indoor record by more than 15 seconds).

One of those who eventually decided not to withdraw, the biggest problem was with only one class which they usually dropped..

Your student gnewspaper needs gwriters, gphotographers, and glay-out people. Get your gass up to the office on the Second Floor of the Guniversity Centre, anytime.

Whether you’re a swarthy young man who looks good in the gnude, or a gnubile young gnymph, how much of a gnudge do you need, you gnumbskull?

We admit there’s no regmuneratio~, but you’ll work with lots of people - too gnnumerous to mention.

Our solid editorial staff will gnurture your talent. We need a gnew gnucleous.

Look at Isaac Gnewton, Fig Gnewton, and Ted Gnugent - gnewspaper people all.

You won’t be a gnuisance. You won’t be gnumbed by gnuts.

You may even write some day for the Gnew York Times. “All the gnews that’s fit to print.”

GIVE US A G-LANCE

* Gnu: An African land animal, similar to a gazelle or ghorse.
If we have to pay more, we must receive more.

A few news reports of a discouraging nature found their way into the "in" basket this week—reports that raised again that increasingly popular question, "What am I really getting out of a university education?"

"A lot poorer" looks like quite a reasonable answer when you examine the new tuition increase discussed above. It looks even more reasonable when you see that a SAC survey found a 9.9 percent summer unemployment rate among Windsor students (see page 2 story), another report showing Ph.D. students have great difficulty finding part-time (page 5), and another report about how there are too many Law students being graduated in Ontario.

Don't see yourself winning, no matter which way you turn. If you're an undergraduate, you're probably experiencing double-digit summer unemployment. Granted, this is Windsor and finding a job in this city at the moment it is like finding a needle in a haystack, but that does not ease the pain of the student.

So you decide to make up for all the money you never made in the summer by getting a Ph.D. and, thereby, making a real financial killing with a job you've gotten graduation. Well, according to Statistics Canada, you had better not graduate in 1982.

At that time, says StatCan, there will be probably a veritable glut of 12,000 Ph.D's looking for a job. This is a big country, but you don't really need that many ditches dug.

In the early 1980's, it is predicted, there will be an urgent need for Ph.D. holders, but, again, that does little to ease the pain of those graduating shortly. The money they have spent over their five and more years at school is probably enough to make a nice deposit on a Mercedes, but there is no guarantee of a job with high pay when they hit the streets with diplomas in hand.

It appears there is not even a guarantee when one is holding a professional degree such as in Law. The Law Society of Upper Canada expressed concern recently about the number of lawyers admitted to the profession each year. The number of lawyers in Ontario has doubled from 7,237 in 1969 to over 1,000 lawyers are admitted to the profession each year. Each year, over 1,000 lawyers are admitted to the profession.

The treasurer of the Law Society, John D. Bowbyly, stated that the problem is concerned that the younger lawyers are providing a lower standard of service, a charge that law school deans across the province have vehemently denied in return.

Dr. Ron Lansi, the Law Dean here, said that the students coming out of school now are more highly qualified lawyers than their predecessors and that the law society receives more complaints about seven to 10 year legal veterans than it does about the rookie graduates.

He is also angry about the "graduating too many of the damn people" criticism because the law society has not done anything to change the student bodies of Ottawa and Carleton weren't consulted for the decision.

The result was different at the University of Ottawa. Student Council voted to ban "skin" magazines from the bookstore there. Apparently, sexism is the issue, not censorship, but, to my mind, when an institution such as a university sees fit to ban something, it is a form of censorship. Universities have always been considered bastions of freedom of speech, liberal thinking, and the right to choose for oneself.

The University of Windsor Bookstore hasn't had any adverse comments from students or anyone else about "skin" magazines. Helen Tidridge, manager of the bookstore, said "skin" magazines are not promoted—that magazines of this type were not displayed for everybody to see. She added that it would be very difficult to ban these types of magazines from the bookstore because, if you did, there are many textbooks for more offensive, but, because they are not in the magazine section, very few know about them.

University bookstores are not frequented on a regular basis by young people who are impressionable at an early age; those people wanting to buy "skin" magazines don't have to, but, above all, magazines displaying the male and female human body have long been accepted in our society. So maybe that latter employment situation isn't as bad as it's being cracked up to be, but it does help to demonstrate the point that higher education is not, in these times, the definitive solution for unemployment. What is the answer?

Maybe we should be graduating more experts in Economics so they tell us. Somewhere, though, I don't think that makes sense.

by E.P. Chant
Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to clarify an article that was published in the December 1980 issue of the Malaysian Students' Association newsletter. The article in question is titled "MISSA dissolution will give more to members". I believe there are some misunderstandings in the article, and I would like to address them.

The article states that the dissolution of the Malaysian Student Association (MISSA) would give more to members. However, I believe this is not accurate. The dissolution of an organization does not necessarily mean that the benefits of the organization will be distributed to its members. In fact, it is likely that the benefits will be lost or diminished due to the disbandment of the organization.

I also believe that the article fails to address the real issues that led to the dissolution of MISSA. The organization was dissolved due to a lack of adequate funding and resources, as well as a lack of cooperation and unity among its members.

Furthermore, the article does not address the potential consequences of the dissolution. The dissolution of MISSA could lead to a loss of resources, a decrease in the provision of services to students, and a decrease in the influence of Malaysian students in the diaspora.

I would like to request a retraction of the article and a correction of the inaccuracies. I believe it is important to provide accurate information to the readers.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
No second term for the Dean of Social Science

by Wendy Coomber

Doctor William Phillips, Dean of Social Science, has decided that six years in that position is enough. He won't accept another term.

In a personal statement Dean Phillips read to a meeting of the Faculty Council January 27, his reason for his refusal of another term was mainly the heavy workload his position demanded.

"Those last six years have been years of increasing unrelenting pressure in the deanship, pressure which has exacted a not inconsiderable toll in terms of personal wear and tear on me, to the point where I have now strongly concluded that I owe it to myself and those close to me to relinquish the deanship . . . ."

Part of Dean Phillips' statement follows to give a fuller view of the Dean's reasons.

"During the past week, following a period of more than a year of intense personal deliberation, I have arrived at the decision that I could not accept a further term in the Deanship of the Faculty.

"In relating this decision to you at this time, I am acutely aware of the awkwardness of the situation it creates. The Search Committee which was set up by the Faculty under Senate regulations, has already spent some three months in the search process. Now, as a result of the decision I have taken, the search will have to be resumed. I sincerely regret the loss of time that this involves, and I accept full responsibility for it. I further regret the inconvenience to all of you, who, as members of the Faculty Council, came to this meeting today in the expectation that this matter would be decided, one way or the other.

"In the light of this, I have an obligation to let you know the reasons underlying my decision. They can, in fact, be stated briefly and straightforwardly. As you know, I have served for some considerable period of time in the academic administration of the University, including seventeen years as department head, four years as Associate Dean in the Faculty of Arts and Science, four years as Dean of the Faculty of Education; and for the past six years I have carried single-handedly the deanship of what is by far the University's largest Faculty, Social Science. Those last six years have been years of increasing and unrelenting pressure in the deanship, pressure which has exacted a not inconsiderable toll in terms of personal wear and tear on me, to the point where I have now strongly concluded that I owe it to myself and those close to me to relinquish the deanship . . . ."

Dean Phillips then went on to explain the Dean's reasons:

"I have arrived at the decision that I could not accept a further term in the Deanship of the Faculty. I have now strongly concluded that I owe it to myself and those close to me to relinquish the deanship . . . ."

"I have arrived at the decision that I could not accept a further term in the Deanship of the Faculty. I have now strongly concluded that I owe it to myself and those close to me to relinquish the deanship . . . ."
The difference between you and a person who's fit is that anything you can do he can do better.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 16, January 30, 1981, Page Seven

Robert Weaver shuttles into the university

by Rosemary A. Breschuk

Creative writers take note: Robert Weaver, the driving force behind CBC Radio's "Literary magazine of the air," Anthropology (aired Saturdays at 10:05 p.m.,) is slated to speak to aspiring writers on Tuesday, February 3, at 3:00 p.m. in Room 361, Dillon Hall.

Mr. Weaver, along with Robert Harlow in Vancouver, was co-editor of Anthropology when it made its debut in October 1954. Interestingly, the first program featured a story by young Mordecai Richler. Richler was among the many then-unknown writers featured on Anthropology who went on to win recognition. His fellow "unknowns" included Alice Munro, Al Purdy, Brian Moore, Norman Levine and the late Hugh Garner, to name just a few. Nearly every writer, including members of this university's Department of English, has participated on Anthropology during the spring of 1979 while it is slotted against CBC Literary Competition, now in its third year. Submissions for original, unpublished works - poetry, short stories, memoirs - by Canadian writers are sought. Prizes of $2,500, $2,000 and $1,500 are awarded by judges in each category. In addition, these prizes constitute a license to perform the work on all CBC-owned and affiliated stations. Last year's winner in the poetry category was University of Windsor alumna, Mary Di Michele.

Anthology

The 8th International Human Unity Conference is scheduled for July 23-26, 1981, at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B.C., following the 1980 Conference in Chicago, Illinois. The International Human Unity Conference series was initiated in India in 1974 as an opportunity to explore and participate in possibilities of human unity in our troubled world.

The Conference is hosted each year by a different group of people in a different part of the world. Last year's event, sponsored by the Universal Great Brotherhood, was attended by a wide range of individuals, some associated with groups such as Unity Church, International Association for Humanistic Psychology, Friends of Piltdown, Cornucopia, Polarity Institute, etc., wholistic health groups, Sufi Order of the West and A Course in Miracles. This year's Conference is being sponsored by the Society of Emissaries, a non-sectarian group interested in wholistic living. Their representatives, George and Joelle Emery, are co-producers of the 8th International Human Unity Conference and are currently travelling in the world. Last year's event, sponsored by the Society of Emissaries, a non-sectarian group interested in wholistic living, was co-editor of Canada's Wonderland magazine.

OSAP loan stuff

If you are a current student who has taken out a Student Loan in a previous term and has not yet negotiated one this term, your interest status may continue beyond the usual six-month period. For Canada Student Loans you must be registered in at least 60% of a full course load, and you must file a Schedule 2 with your bank.

For Ontario Student Loans you must file a FORM R with your bank.

If you have both types of loans outstanding you must file both forms with your bank.

If you don't understand this, please consult with the A-wards Office.

Library hours

January 19 - May 2, 1981

Monday-Friday 8am-11:45pm
Saturday 9am-11:45pm
Sunday 12 noon-11:45pm

Library closed

January 27, 28, 29, 1981

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 16, January 30, 1981, Page Seven

We'll give you any Medium or Large deep-dish pizza (How's that for a pizza delicious value!)

Schedule 2 with your bank.

For Ontario Student Loans you must file a FORM R with your bank.

If you have both types of loans outstanding you must file both forms with your bank.

If you don't understand this, please consult with the A-wards Office.

The difference between you and a person who's fit is that anything you can do he can do better.

We'll give you $2 off any Medium or Large deep-dish pizza ($2 off any Family or Large deep-dish pizza including - The Works. Medium or large, get $2 off. So what are you waiting for? Come and get your medium or large deep-dish pizza and save $2.00. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Valuable Coupon

any Frank Vetere's medium or large deep-dish pizzas including - The Works. Limit one coupon per pizza. Also good on take-out orders. Not valid in combination with any other discounts or offers. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Frank Vetere's pizzeria

We'll feed you like no other.

(How's that for a pizza delicious value!)

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 16, January 30, 1981, Page Seven

We'll give you $2 off any Medium or Large deep-dish pizza ($2 off any Family or Large deep-dish pizza including - The Works. Medium or large, get $2 off. So what are you waiting for? Come and get your medium or large deep-dish pizza and save $2.00. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Valuable Coupon

any Frank Vetere's medium or large deep-dish pizzas including - The Works. Limit one coupon per pizza. Also good on take-out orders. Not valid in combination with any other discounts or offers. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Frank Vetere's pizzeria

We'll feed you like no other.

(How's that for a pizza delicious value!)

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 16, January 30, 1981, Page Seven

The difference between you and a person who's fit is that anything you can do he can do better.

We'll give you $2 off any Medium or Large deep-dish pizza ($2 off any Family or Large deep-dish pizza including - The Works. Medium or large, get $2 off. So what are you waiting for? Come and get your medium or large deep-dish pizza and save $2.00. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Valuable Coupon

any Frank Vetere's medium or large deep-dish pizzas including - The Works. Limit one coupon per pizza. Also good on take-out orders. Not valid in combination with any other discounts or offers. Offer expires February 1, 1981.

Frank Vetere's pizzeria

We'll feed you like no other.
What I did during my summer classes in Europe
by Rosemary A. Breschuk

For the ninth consecutive summer, the University of Windsor is offering its European Studies Program in July and August. This program is notable in that it is one of the few Canadian universities to offer such a wide variety of courses in Europe. Furthermore, these programs are conducted by the University's Faculty of Arts, which many participants of all ages, from coast to coast.

This year, the University of Windsor offers courses for students who wish to participate in a French Program in London; Drawing, Painting and Music in Salzburg, French Language, Literature and Culture in Nice; Germanic Studies, Music, Opera, and Theater in Munich; Italian Language and Civilization in Sienna; Philosophy in Durham; Spanish Language and Civilization in Madrid; Theatre Production at the Edinburgh Festival.

What makes studying in Europe so attractive? On the basis of the enthusiastic testimony given by both the directors and participants over the past eight years, one is assured that this is a most economical and most profitable use of a summer vacation. The program also provides a memorable and rewarding educational experience, it is a lot of fun, besides. Ask anyone who has participated in the program.

If you are considering introducing such a promising new dimension to your otherwise mainstream academic career, certain questions arise regarding course selection, accommodations, transportation, tuition, cost and registration procedures. Specific questions may be directed to the co-ordinators in the participating schools and departments.

The following is a brief survey of some of the courses offered in Europe:

Spanish Madrid Program: Three courses are offered by the Department of Classical and Modern Languages in Madrid, Spain. These are not courses for students wishing to start learning Spanish in a natural environment. Spanish 310/311 consists of two courses designed to help students wishing to develop proficiency in the spoken and written language. Spanish 323/324 is an introduction to Spanish culture and civilization through the study of history, art, music, customs, etc. Guest lecturers from these fields are invited to speak to the group. Interesting tours of the Museo del Prado, Museo Sorolla, Fabre de Tapies, among other notable sites, are arranged, including excursions to Toledo, Aranjuez-Chinchon and Segovia.

According to Dr. B. Primorac, who has directed the Spanish program for seven summers, the best approach is for participants to come, be open-minded, and ahead they expect to see, visit and experience new things and not be forced to spend most of their day cooped up in their room reading tomorrow's assignment. A course in conversation and composition is a natural one, because it regulates, systemizes and explains what has been learned in a course in living a laboratory of Spanish environment.

The duration of the courses is from July 6 through August 15. In addition, participants are housed at the University of the Complutense in Madrid, at the University of Salamanca, at the University of the Complutense in Madrid, at the University of Salamanca, and the University of the Complutense in Madrid. The program is reserved to those students who in their first year have the equivalent of a full year of Spanish.

Ex-Dalhousie president's motives questioned

HALIFAX (CUP) — Former Dalhousie University President Henry Hicks knew about human rights abuses occurring in Guyana when he nominated that country's president for an honorary degree, a minister of the premier's office has stated.

Yasmin Sankar, a professor of business administration at Dalhousie, charged that Hicks told him that he had been living in the tropics and "I know it all, but he (Guyana president Forbes Burnham) was just fine.

Sankar has called on the university to revoke Burnham's honorary degree, citing numerous political assassinations, human rights violations and the rigging of Guyana elections as making the Guyanese leader unqualified for the "outstanding public service." Hicks has longstanding relations with Burnham and acted first as a financial advisor to the University of Guyana and later as a member of that university's board of governors.

Hicks could not be reached for comment. However, Gene Hicks, the ex-Dalhousie president's wife, praised Burnham's "public service," expressing her "sorrow" at the death of her husband's economy and played down charges of election rigging.

"The way he was really rigging elections he was doing it in a desperate attempt to save the country," Gene Hicks said. Henry Hicks told the CBC earlier this year that he was considering the award for promoting second-day education in Guyana.

"A farce," was Burnham's rejoinder in saying Hicks was rewarding friendship.

Meanwhile Allister Sinclair, chairperson of the Guyana Human Rights Education Society, stated he was unable to predict that how body would react to Hicks' decision to revoke Burnham's degree. He said much would depend on whether he has the transparency Burnham is said to have committed. After or before his death he was wasting on. When it was pointed out that Burnham had been charged with rigging elections dating riding reason for bestowing back to 1968, Sinclair said the matter may have had an "over the"

Tis but a miracle

(ZNS) — If you see God when you smoke marijuana, it may be legal.

A U.S. federal judge has ordered the government not to destroy 26 bales of grass seized off the coast of Maine last October are holy. When it was pointed out that Burnham had been charged with rigging elections dating riding reason for bestowing back to 1968, Sinclair said the matter may have had an "over the"

Tis but a miracle

(ZNS) — If you see God when you smoke marijuana, it may be legal.

A U.S. federal judge has ordered the government not to destroy 26 bales of grass seized off the coast of Maine last October are holy. When it was pointed out that Burnham had been charged with rigging elections dating riding reason for bestowing back to 1968, Sinclair said the matter may have had an "over the"
Part-time students can end their wanderings

It's a dream come true. After four years of wandering in the desert, OPUS now has an office which officially opened on November 1, 1980. It wasn't without a sense of relief and homing, that Josie Iannetta, our past presi­dant, hailed all four drawers of OPUS files into its new office which is located just inside the main entrance of the University Centre. Now that we are anchored, it's all systems go and so far, it has been smooth sailing.

The office is open three afternoons a week from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and is staffed by part-time students who have been through the mill. A bright red telephone sits on our desk waiting for queries, complaints or just chat about the joys and sorrows of being a part-time student. The number to dial is 258-4687.

Our Wine & Cheese party is due to take place on February 5th, Thursday, 5:00 p.m. in the Essex Lounge of the University Centre. All part-time students are invited to attend. We are hoping that the party will give everyone the opportunity to make new friends and contacts and to establish a rapport that will make our office into a type of centre where any part-time student is welcome to come in, sit down, relax and chat. The General Meeting and Election will be held on Sunday, February 15, 1981 at 3:00 p.m. Meanwhile we continue to churn out The Dialogue so that you can be aware of events, discussions, and yes, even controversies. If you have a trumpet to blow or a verse to write it all down and send it in. Remember, this is your newsletter and your contributions are like music to our ears.

We have a booklet entitled "Part-time Studies at the University of Windsor, 1980-81" which contains an excellent source of information. No part-time student should be without a copy of this booklet. Next time you are passing by, drop in and pick up a copy; you can introduce yourself at the same time.

For those part-time students who can only come at night, we will be making ar­rangements for opening our office a couple of nights a week. We look forward to seeing you.

Your organization, OPUS, is a member in good standing with the national part-time student organization COPUS. In the past OPUS has participated in the successful lobbying effort on behalf of part-time students and their problems, to the provincial government in Ontario.

Through the efforts of the Canadian Organization of Part-time University Students (COPUS), the provincial government has agreed to fund a research project which will examine the availability of University programmes on a part-time basis in Ontario.

The Levy-Coughlin Partnership has been chosen to carry out this research. In the "Summary of the Levy-Coughlin Partnership Research Proposal dated June 20, 1980", the summary of objectives of the project reads as follows:

1. To take an inventory of those programmes in each Ontario University that are available to part-time students.
2. To identify general and specific gaps in the available to part-time students.
3. To identify the University and/or Professional Association policies that determine these gaps, where such policies exist.
4. With reference to identified programme gaps and the professional/institutional policies that determine them, to assess the barriers to part-time studies as perceived by students.

"The province-wide Levy-Coughlin survey will help to indicate that it is valid to offer better part-time degree services at Universities because students are taking their part-time studies seriously," says Dawn Smith, president of COPUS. "Perhaps it will encourage the province to increase its post-secondary education spending as it has been decreasing over the years," she adds.

According to a recent news release circulated by the Council of Ontario Universi­ties' (COU), "Ontario currently ranks last among the provinces in the level of operat­ing grants per students.

"It's a bit of a shock to people who may not think of Ontario as the welfare case of the province of Canada," Smith says. "Ontario students are the only ones of the four Maritime provinces with no provincial operating grants at all."

"The province-wide Levy-Coughlin survey will help to indicate that it is valid to offer better part-time degree services at Universities because students are taking their part-time studies seriously," says Dawn Smith, president of COPUS. "Perhaps it will encourage the province to increase its post-secondary education spending as it has been decreasing over the years," she adds.

According to a recent news release circulated by the Council of Ontario Universi­ties' (COU), "Ontario currently ranks last among the provinces in the level of operat­ing grants per students.

"It's a bit of a shock to people who may not think of Ontario as the welfare case of the province of Canada," Smith says. "Ontario students are the only ones of the four Maritime provinces with no provincial operating grants at all."

Communication and involvement very important

by Mary Lou Hamlin

The Faculty of Law of the University of Manitoba in 1974 approved in principle a limited programme that would permit a restricted number of highly qualified students to enter the L.L.B. programme on the basis that they would be permitted to complete it in a period that might extend to six years, rather than the normal three years. The Law Society of Manitoba indicated it would regard degrees obtained by this route in the same way as ordinary degrees.

The General Meeting & Election for OPUS members will be held on February 15, 1981, Sunday 13:00 to 17:00. University Centre. Any undergraduate part-time student is eligible to run for office. Any interested students list below are short descriptions of the executive positions to be filled:

President - To oversee the entire operation of the OPUS organization and to act as a representative on the Board of Governors, Student Services Committee, Senate, and other appropriate committees to be later determined.

Vice-President - To aid and assist in the operation of OPUS organization and to act as Chairman of meetings and caucuses. The duties of this position may entail attending some committee meetings in the capacity of vice-president and to represent the President in her/his absence.

Secretary - To retain the minutes of meetings, correspondence and oversee the operation of the OPUS Office in the University Centre under the direction of the President. May serve on appropriate committees.

Treasurer - Maintain records, ledgers, etc. and report bi-monthly to the President and members of the OPUS Office.

You are invited to attend and bring your concerns to OPUS and we will pass them on to you. Your chance to be heard, and your contributions are like music to our ears.

OPUS is the Organization of Part-Time University Students.

OPUS' newsletter, Dialogue, will be reprinted in The Lance bi-monthly or as space permits.

For further information call OPUS at 258-4687.
The title song of the second set sums up Cheek's philosophy of music. The song title? "This is Rock 'n Roll."

No, Virginia, rock 'n roll isn't dead, it's alive and personified in this week's entertainment. Cheek's strength lies in the fact that they play upwards of 70% of their own music. Don't let that turn you off—it's good. In fact, Cheeks has released a single on Capitol Records — both sides of which were part of the movie soundtrack to Up the Academy. Other originals (which include some pretty stunning lyrics) are "You Say You Love Me But —", "Looking for a Strange, most people only have two cheeks."
Friday, January 30

- The CSA Cultural Festival begins at noon until 4:00 p.m. This promotion of cultural exchange will be held on the 2nd floor of the University Centre. All are welcome to celebrate the multitude of programs. Refreshments free.

Saturday, January 31

- Hagood Hardy appears at Crissy Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are available at Celia Hardcastle for $12, $11 and $10.

- There will be a Chinese New Year's Banquet at 6:00 p.m. in Ambassador Auditorium. Formal attire is required, dinner with a dinner following. CSA members $12 and non-members $15.

- Bela Siki will be the guest artist in the School of Music Artist Series. Tickets for this event (which will be held in Mooe Cour) are $8.00; seniors and students $5.00. The concert will begin at 8:15 p.m.

The University Players begin their 1981 season with Les Belles Soeurs, a play by French Canadian Michel Tremblay, January 30, 31, February 1, 5, 6 and 7. Tickets are $3.50 on Thursday and Saturday, $4.00 on Friday and Sunday.

Tuesday, February 3

- The Ontario Film Theatre will show An American Friend, a West German/French psycho thriller. Filming is at 8:00 p.m. at the Super cinema, Eric and Marennette. Tickets are $2.00.

- The Kings appear live at Vanier Hall courtesy of the Social Science Society. Warm-up band will be Triste Goes Hollywood. Tickets are $3.50 for S.S. students $4.50 for non-members. All tickets at the door will be $5.50. The show starts at 8:00 p.m.

Wednesday, February 4

- So You Want a Music Career? will be the title of the seminar at this week's Wednesday-at-3 series sponsored by the School of Music. Guest speaker will be Ray Turner, First trombone for the Detroit Symphony. That's 3:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music.

Friday, February 6

- The Detroit Film Theatre, located at the Detroit Institute of Arts, has begun their 1981 season. The Day After Trinity will be this night's feature at 7:30 p.m. 5200 Woodward Ave, Detroit. Tickets are $2.

Saturday, February 7

- Assumption University will be holding a retreat, 9:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. There will be a cost of $7.00 for the day, which includes lunch and supper. For more information, or to register, call 234-5212.

The International Students' Organization is presenting its 14th annual "International Night" in Ambassador Auditorium, from 7:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. In addition to the cultural presentations there will be a cash bar and dancing. Everyone is welcome. Admission is $3.00.
THE CINEMA CRITIC

by Rosemary Comino

Nine to Five is like one of those fun presents you get for Christmas and the novelty has yet to wear off. Hard to believe that a movie which revolves the famiilar role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this ter sense of musical p e rfection always been crisp and exacting, work has brought an even great-from Steely Dan s inc e th e 1977 Aja which w as the sixth in a which be g an wi th Can't

JANE FONDA, LILY TOMLIN AND DOLLY PARTON TEAM UP

In addition to Hart's lack of fairness, he is also a skirt chaser terrorizing Dolores Rhodes (Dolly Parton) (his secretary) with sexual innuendo and vicious gossip. But the over-enthused tight sweaters distract from the underlying verbal insults with which Dolores defends herself.
However, the abundance of humour makes up for these few detractions. The high cost of the ticket isn't so inflationary when you consider the entertainment that Nine to Five delivers.

STEELLY DAN:
Gaucho

by Steve Rice

Gaucho is the first album from Steely Dan since the 1977 Aja which was the sixth in a series of albums which began with Can't Buy Me A Thrill in 1972. No more than one listening is necessary to discover that three years of work has brought an even greater sense of musical perfection to this jazzy rock group.

The Dan Band's music has always been crisp and exacting, flowing with the rich and cau-sious sound of horns and axas, beside the principle parts of the group; the magical synthesizer, incredible is the complimentary combination of the three diverse ladies of entertainment: Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton.

Fonda fans — don't expect the cool, brassy, un-controlable Jane Austen. Here, she plays Judy Bernly, a recently divorced housewife who breaks into the job market (for the first time) with as much care as 147 buying an Ocellette Ave.

Under-equipped with both fear and desire,
Judy tackles her first dictaphone machine,
IBM selective typewriter and an out-of-control-Xerox machine. Her encounter with the infamous photocopierspreading paper all over the room, is just a sample of the movie's wordy parody of office life and "simplified computer cognition."

Lily Tomlin, as Violet Newstead, also reflects a change from her regular comedy characters. Decked in a Katze jacket which she wears everywhere but in the busterf, Violet glides on the judy's first day at the job and begins to train yet another employee for the company that has been her employer for twelve years. The Van, Franklin Hart Jr., (Dudway Crumme), was also one of Violet's students but you'd never know it.

When it comes to interactions with him, Violet chooses to do a slow burn rather than stand up to his brow-cause it's such a good album.

The album seems to move in a connecting line between the band's fetish for those invisible do-gooders called angels, which they mention quite often, to the Kurt Vonngeit Jr. style of existentialism of "so it goes" as in, of course, "People Who Died", "It's Too Late", and

"Nothing is True".

They get nothing back for what you see,

a way through the movie is a little too well deserved.
believeable though, and the jam he finds himself in half-

Hart's character is just a little too stereotypes to be believable though, and the jam he finds himself in halfway through the movie is a little too well deserved.

If these three were given votes, Dabney Coleman
wouldn't win the ball of

... the woman's role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this time), could be as appealing to both sexes. Even more steer

a tune which extols the valuing theme that age brings reflected in their music. "Baby
Mark (Dire Straits) Knopfler, a keyboard and vocals of Donald Fagen and the intricate guitar
work provided by Walter Becker.

Since the start, the group has been comprised of Fagen and Becker
backed by a stable of crack studio musicians and background vocalists.

Styx seemed too

a way through the movie is a little too well deserved.
believeable though, and the jam he finds himself in half-

Hart's character is just a little too stereotypes to be believable though, and the jam he finds himself in halfway through the movie is a little too well deserved.

If these three were given votes, Dabney Coleman
wouldn't win the ball of

... the woman's role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this time), could be as appealing to both sexes. Even more

steer

a tune which extols the valuing theme that age brings
reflected in their music. "Baby
Mark (Dire Straits) Knopfler, a keyboard and vocals of Donald Fagen and the intricate guitar
work provided by Walter Becker.

Since the start, the group has been comprised of Fagen and Becker
backed by a stable of crack studio musicians and
background vocalists.

Styx seemed too

a way through the movie is a little too well deserved.
believeable though, and the jam he finds himself in half-

Hart's character is just a little too stereotypes to be believable though, and the jam he finds himself in halfway through the movie is a little too well deserved.

If these three were given votes, Dabney Coleman
wouldn't win the ball of

... the woman's role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this time), could be as appealing to both sexes. Even more

steer

a tune which extols the valuing theme that age brings
reflected in their music. "Baby
Mark (Dire Straits) Knopfler, a keyboard and vocals of Donald Fagen and the intricate guitar
work provided by Walter Becker.

Since the start, the group has been comprised of Fagen and Becker
backed by a stable of crack studio musicians and
background vocalists.

Styx seemed too

a way through the movie is a little too well deserved.
believeable though, and the jam he finds himself in half-

Hart's character is just a little too stereotypes to be believable though, and the jam he finds himself in halfway through the movie is a little too well deserved.

If these three were given votes, Dabney Coleman
wouldn't win the ball of

... the woman's role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this time), could be as appealing to both sexes. Even more

steer

a tune which extols the valuing theme that age brings
reflected in their music. "Baby
Mark (Dire Straits) Knopfler, a keyboard and vocals of Donald Fagen and the intricate guitar
work provided by Walter Becker.

Since the start, the group has been comprised of Fagen and Becker
backed by a stable of crack studio musicians and
background vocalists.

Styx seemed too

a way through the movie is a little too well deserved.
believeable though, and the jam he finds himself in half-

Hart's character is just a little too stereotypes to be believable though, and the jam he finds himself in halfway through the movie is a little too well deserved.

If these three were given votes, Dabney Coleman
wouldn't win the ball of

... the woman's role (the women have the vivid imaginations, this time), could be as appealing to both sexes. Even more

steer

a tune which extols the valuing theme that age brings
reflected in their music. "Baby
Mark (Dire Straits) Knopfler, a keyboard and vocals of Donald Fagen and the intricate guitar
work provided by Walter Becker.

Since the start, the group has been comprised of Fagen and Becker
backed by a stable of crack studio musicians and
background vocalists.

Styx seemed too
SPORTS

Campus Rec offers warm places in Windsor's cold

Ball hockey

The men's intramural ball hockey league gets underway next Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. at William Hands High School. Games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday nights at 9:30 p.m. There are still openings for a few more teams and those interested should call Mark Thornton at 253-6554 before Friday. All rosters should be completed prior to Tuesday's action. Captains will be notified as to the time of their first game. Captains will be notified Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Florida in Windsor

Winter blues got ya down, here in Windsor with the co-ed baby? Don't fret. Now you can confess while in the competitive league. The two best foil fencers also, 5-4 by a persistent Mustang team list. Play will begin Feb. 7.

Foosball

Women's non-contact ice hockey will begin Feb. 28 and continue Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4-6 p.m. The captains' meeting is Feb. 17 at 5 p.m. in St. Denis Hall.

Coed Volleyball

In coed volleyball action, this week, the recreational and competitive finals were determined. In the rec division, Jacques Jocks will meet the Bombers in a best-two-of-three contest while in the competitive league, Tecumseh 1 will face the Gremlins.

CPR course

Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) courses will be offered this weekend at Jan. 31-Feb. 1 and Feb. 7-8. Course times are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and will take place in the Human Kinetics Building. The fee is $25 for students and $30 for all others. Please register at the Human Kinetics Office prior to the weekend of your choice and pay the fee in advance.

Future Games

Lancerette Basketball
Jan. 31, Ottawa here, 6 pm
Feb. 1, Guelph here, 1 pm
Feb. 2, Shaw here, 7 pm

Lancer Basketball
Feb. 4, Brock here, 8 pm
Feb. 6, at Guelph, 8 pm
Feb. 7, at Brock, 8 pm

Lancer Hockey
Jan. 31 Brock here, 7:15 pm
Feb. 1, Ryerson here, 7:15 pm
Feb. 4, with St. Clair at Windsor Arena if necessary, 7:30 pm

Lancer Wrestling
Jan. 31, Windsor Open at St. Denis
Lancerette Curling
Jan. 30-31, West Section at Western

Syncro Swimming
Jan. 31, Regional at Western

Be a sweetie...

...without giving the cavities or calories — send your love message you've always wanted to say but couldn't find the words. Show your sweetheart how special they are to you and print your personal Valentine's Day message in the Lance Unclassifieds for the February 13 edition.

Be Exciting! Be unique! Be your own sweet self. Tell them you care enough to put it in print — forever.

Unclassifieds for this week will be subject to a $1.00 charge which includes your own choice of one of the pictures shown below. Your message must not exceed 25 words and must be submitted by noon, Wednesday, February 11.

Submit your message at the Lance office, 2nd Floor, University Centre.

EXAMPLES:
LYNNE — This Valentine is here to say — I love you with all my heart.

GLADYS — My love to you, I still send, though you just ran off with my best friend. I really don't think you've a terrible disease, but please warn my friend about your disease. I wouldn't want to lose him too, certainly not, so send him off, and get his shot. — EDGAR

VIDEO GAME & SNOOKER COMPETITION

Feb. 19 - 28 in GAMES ROOM,
University Centre

U. of W. Students apply at Games Room only, any day 10:00am - 11:00pm.

ENTRY FEE: SNOOKER $2.00 - LIMIT 52
VIDEO $1.00 - ALL WELCOME

MANY PRIZES TO BE WON; ENTER NOW!
Lancerettes defeat Hawks, Ewes to move to 7-2

by Steve Rice

The Cinderella story of the Lancer hockey team is now entering the midnight hour. A year ago, they were 4-5-1, but the sixth-place team, Laurier Golden Hawks, have 19 points in the league's three top teams, York, Windsor and Western, in the final three of the five remaining games, and the outlook is mighty grim.

"We don't want the season to end on February 13th (the date of the final league game)," Lancer coach Bob Corran said.

"We're looking to install some real intensity into the team over the next two weeks. I guess the analogy would be that we're cramming for the finals."

Corran notes that at this stage of the season it is pointless to work on skills since these are the games that will determine whether a team makes the playoffs. "It's a matter of approaching the game with the proper mental attitude," Corran said. "We're approaching it like we have to win all of the games remaining. And one thing I've learned this season is that we can beat anyone, just like we can lose to anyone."

The Lancers will get a chance to add to the win column this weekend when they face two of the four teams below them, Brock on Saturday and Ryerson Sunday. Both games begin at 3:15 p.m. at Adie Knox Arena.

"The Lancers have better than 50% chance of becoming the top four teams with the exception of Western, who are currently leading the league," Corran said. "They are very lucky to come away with a win." The Mustangs escaped with a 3-1 win in the game played Dec. 1 at Adie Knox Arena.

Saturday's game against the Gryphons came less than one week after the two teams had been involved in a violent affair Jan. 18 that ended when ran pulled his team from the ice with 12 minutes remaining in the game to "protect them" from the vicious actions of the Gryphons team.

"When we came back it was a matter of coming back and playing the game with the proper attitude," Corran said. "But it was a very tough game for the Gryphons, but we were able to come away with a win."

"The team is really pulling together well," Corran said. "They are starting to believe in their own talents the way I always have."

Lancers 'cramming for finals'

by Chris Legebok

The Lancerette volleyball team concluded their regular season with a hard-fought victory over Western in weekend action. Windsor will compete in the West versus Central competition in Waterloo Saturday to determine if they will see playoff action beginning Feb. 14.

Lack of communication and concentration on the part of the Lancerettes brought the 12-15, 15-10, 7-15, 5-15 loss to Western Thursday. The rallies were long and well-played for the most part, but there was some confusion and a few unnecessary errors that left the team scrambling for the ball.

Windsor took the match from Guelph Saturday 15-9, 15-12, 15-13, 15-9.

Captain Monique Pomerleau lead the team through the occasional ups and downs and the swings of mood. The play was consistent, with previous games, yet the attack lacked its usual force.

Spikers end schedule

by Chris Legebok

The Lancerette volleyball team concluded their regular season with a hard-fought victory over Western in weekend action. Windsor will compete in the West versus Central competition in Waterloo Saturday to determine if they will see playoff action beginning Feb. 14.

Lack of communication and concentration on the part of the Lancerettes brought the 12-15, 15-10, 7-15, 5-15 loss to Western Thursday. The rallies were long and well-played for the most part, but there was some confusion and a few unnecessary errors that left the team scrambling for the ball.

Windsor took the match from Guelph Saturday 15-9, 15-12, 15-13, 15-9.

Captain Monique Pomerleau lead the team through the occasional ups and downs and the swings of mood. The play was consistent, with previous games, yet the attack lacked its usual force.

Crack a pack of Colts along with the beer.

SPORTSWRITERS NEEDED

See Mr. Rice in the Lance office
Lancers coast in wins over Western, Laurier

by Steve Rice

It seems like the OUAA League’s schedule-makers chose the opportunity to get the hockey team in descending order of ability.

Western opened its season with a tough overtime victory over the highly-touted Guelph Gryphons, followed by a win over the Western Mustangs Saturday in London and a 99-68 thrashing of Laurier Wednesday at St. Denis Hall.

A number of key questions were answered in the most recent game, the foremost being what would happen to Lancers if Stan Korosec, followed that with a two-point loss at McMaster, then ресторале Water by an 85-73 score.

And now the Lancers know what the other half of the league looks like after a 70-48 blow­

Corkeron scored just four points in the game on two free shots at the hoop. That’s a fair ways off his 24.2 PPG average but as surely as Corkeron did not score, others did, primarily on the long shots, which was ununoled with the Hawks squeezing Corkeron inside their defense.

Phil Hermanutz was the star of this game as he seemed to score on every possession. Con­

Certainty McGovern Services’ head coach and general manager George Mc­

A quick look at the game’s results:

3 points in Win­

John Ritchie (44) receives a rebound off a missed Lancer foul shot in Saturday’s game with Western.

hurdles while Paul Kosak recorded another personal best in the 1500 yards in a week by running 1:19.7 in this heat of the 600 yards. Competing in the 1000 yards were Eldredger and Al Baird, running times of 2.20.1 (2nd in his section) and 2:28.8 re­

by Scott McCallou

Annual game promotes fellowship

by Scott McCallou

Today at 3:30, South Wind­

The Lancer talked with Stu­

"We interpret ‘Student Serv­

"I don’t know about this year. when they come back to Cody section.

"McFadden comes all the time of 8.0 in the 60 yard.

"We try to jazz it up a little,” McCallou said. “For me, one of the best events is that the Stu­

Canadians.”

Ray Holland ran 4:32.1 in the mile.

The track team set three new University of Windsor records last Saturday at an indoor meet at the University of Michigan Andy Buckstein bettered the old record by 1.2 sec­

McFadden explained that all team members are given hon­

Prominent members of the Coda Sucks team should in­

Lancers’ contest with Laurier

Andrews, Tom McCauley, and former Lancer members Tom McCadden, Brian McEwan and Steve Murdoch.

"McFadden comes all the way here from Toronto every year for a 60 yard game,” said McCallou. “He’s a fine hockey player. He used to be Division 1 but he’s now a member of the March of Dimes. We made him clean air consti­

Lancers coast in wins over Western, Laurier

Lancers coast in wins over Western, Laurier

FOR RENT 3 bedroom apartment, Parkington Wyndcliffe. Very nice, hardwood floors, large kitchen, living room, dining room, includes bridge, stove and washer and dryer. Please phone 258-8531 after 6:30 p.m.

SANDMAN ENTERPRISES announces the formation of a campus turks-in-service. The service includes checking for the Bogey Man in the closet or under the bed, folding the pillow, shining a hallway or telling a bed-time story, and a goodnight hug and kiss. $2 per visit. So get tucked. Catch 253-8531.

ATTENTION PoETS-- in an effort to enhance our cultural perspective, CAM is hoping to produce a poetry and literature show if requested. All aspiring poets and writers are invited to contact the Editor at 258-3417.

16TH FLOOR LAURIE - Mr. C.H. URIETTI, "T'S ALMOST HERE...ROOMS FOR RENT: Main: only Ave. East Side. Call 258-6865.

RESEARCH - Feb. 7-9:00 p.m. - Aaron's University, Cost: $7. For the day, this includes lunch and supplies. For more information or to register call 253-9441.

FOUND: One pair of moon's black gloves in the Lance office, 3rd floor University Centre. Owner please pick them up soon.

AMATEUR STAMP COLLECTOR wishes to exchange foreign stamps with other collectors. Contact Kenneth, 2121 W.3.

Dr. Ralph McInerney at Christian Culture

• Professor of Philosophy at Notre Dame University, Indiana.
• Michael A. McInerney, President of the Thomas Aquinas College, Indiana, will be teaching at the University Centre this spring.
• This year he will co-sponsor a major Maritain Conference on "The Problem of Governing a Democracy".

Don't be a rat - send The Lance some poetry

Is this your type of job?
The Lance requires typographers
Good typing skills essential. We will train Generous remuneration provided. Excellent part-time opportunity Apply in person at the Lance office, second floor, University Centre

SANDMAN ENTERPRISES announces the formation of a campus turks-in-service. The service includes checking for the Bogey Man in the closet or under the bed, folding the pillow, shining a hallway or telling a bed-time story, and a goodnight hug and kiss. $2 per visit. So get tucked. Catch 253-8531.

NEW ORLEANS LUXURY

• MONTREAL HOCKEY WEEKEND
• RANGER'S $148 CA.
• FORT LAUDERDALE WINDSOR FROG FROM
• MONTREAL WHISKEY CARRIAGE, Province

• SKI CANADA
• BEAVER MOUNTAIN - YOGUE
• WHISTLER MOUNTAIN - C.mock
• MONTEZUMA ANDES - BANFF

• NEW BOOKINGS ONLY
• No. de la rue and Canadian division For: those right light expect and return to Windsor Airport via Montreal and return flights from Toronto (C), Toronto (C), Toronto (C). Portion of each flight may be booked as multi-ticket. Details, established and approved by C.J.C.T.
• No. de la rue only. $25 per person is required by custom each and every booking and each and every booking for this purpose.

Your COMPLETE TRAVEL AGENCY
• Complete Travel Arrangements
• Tickets for all A lines
• Anywhere in the World at NO Extra Charge

253-6400 WINDSOR AVE.

DON'T BE A RAT - SEND THE LANCE SOME POETRY

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University - 254-2512 MASS SCHEDULE Sunday - 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. Monday - 8:00 a.m., 12 Noon and 4:30 p.m. Note: We will not have a Tuesday night dinner this week.

Saturday - 11:30 a.m. CONFESSIONS: On request at any time by the chaplain. Our Centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre, University of Windsor. For more information or to register call 254-2512.

0K INDEX WORLDS-WINDSOR

Monday, February 2, 1981
• Onion Soup
• Hot Beef Sandwich
• Macaroni & Cheese

Tuesday, February 3, 1981
• Cream of Tomato Soup
• Cheese Omelet
• Sloppy Joe

Wednesday, February 4, 1981
• Chicken Noodle Soup
• Pork Fried Rice
• The Lance Turkey Sandwich

Thursday, February 5, 1981
• Split Pea Soup
• Philadelphia Steak
• Sausage Rolls

Friday, February 6, 1981
• Vegetable Soup
• Grilled Cheese & Chili
• Curry Lamb

Saturday, February 7, 1981
• Soup of the Day
• Hot Hamburger Sandwich

Sunday, February 8, 1981
• Soup of the Day
• Ravioli

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University - 254-2512 MASS SCHEDULE Sunday - 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. Monday - 8:00 a.m., 12 Noon and 4:30 p.m. Note: We will not have a Tuesday night dinner this week.

Saturday - 11:30 a.m. CONFESSIONS: On request at any time by the chaplain. Our Centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre, University of Windsor. For more information or to register call 254-2512.

NEW ORLEANS LUXURY

• MONTREAL HOCKEY WEEKEND
• RANGER'S $148 CA.
• FORT LAUDERDALE WINDSOR FROG FROM
• MONTREAL WHISKEY CARRIAGE, Province

• SKI CANADA
• BEAVER MOUNTAIN - YOGUE
• WHISTLER MOUNTAIN - C.mock
• MONTEZUMA ANDES - BANFF

• NEW BOOKINGS ONLY
• No. de la rue and Canadian division For: those right light expect and return to Windsor Airport via Montreal and return flights from Toronto (C), Toronto (C), Toronto (C). Portion of each flight may be booked as multi-ticket. Details, established and approved by C.J.C.T.
• No. de la rue only. $25 per person is required by custom each and every booking and each and every booking for this purpose.

Your COMPLETE TRAVEL AGENCY
• Complete Travel Arrangements
• Tickets for all A lines
• Anywhere in the World at NO Extra Charge

253-6400 WINDSOR AVE.

DON'T BE A RAT - SEND THE LANCE SOME POETRY

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University - 254-2512 MASS SCHEDULE Sunday - 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. Monday - 8:00 a.m., 12 Noon and 4:30 p.m. Note: We will not have a Tuesday night dinner this week.

Saturday - 11:30 a.m. CONFESSIONS: On request at any time by the chaplain. Our Centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre, University of Windsor. For more information or to register call 254-2512.

NEW ORLEANS LUXURY

• MONTREAL HOCKEY WEEKEND
• RANGER'S $148 CA.
• FORT LAUDERDALE WINDSOR FROG FROM
• MONTREAL WHISKEY CARRIAGE, Province

• SKI CANADA
• BEAVER MOUNTAIN - YOGUE
• WHISTLER MOUNTAIN - C.mock
• MONTEZUMA ANDES - BANFF

• NEW BOOKINGS ONLY
• No. de la rue and Canadian division For: those right light expect and return to Windsor Airport via Montreal and return flights from Toronto (C), Toronto (C), Toronto (C). Portion of each flight may be booked as multi-ticket. Details, established and approved by C.J.C.T.
• No. de la rue only. $25 per person is required by custom each and every booking and each and every booking for this purpose.

Your COMPLETE TRAVEL AGENCY
• Complete Travel Arrangements
• Tickets for all A lines
• Anywhere in the World at NO Extra Charge

253-6400 WINDSOR AVE.

DON'T BE A RAT - SEND THE LANCE SOME POETRY

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY, Assumption University - 254-2512 MASS SCHEDULE Sunday - 10:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m. Monday - 8:00 a.m., 12 Noon and 4:30 p.m. Note: We will not have a Tuesday night dinner this week.

Saturday - 11:30 a.m. CONFESSIONS: On request at any time by the chaplain. Our Centre is open daily. We are located next to the University Centre, University of Windsor. For more information or to register call 254-2512.
The Task Force, which was established by the Council of Ministers of Education, has been reviewing student assistance programs in each province except Quebec, which administers its own student assistance program, since February. The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.

But the government Task Force says we’re okay

by Angela Christopoulos

The report on which Dr. Bette Stephenson, the Minister of Colleges and Universities in Ontario, had been working for over a year, was presented to the Board of Governors at its meeting this month.

The report recommends that student assistance programs be restructured to make better use of available resources, to provide more flexibility to students, and to ensure that the programs are more effective in meeting the needs of students. The report also recommends that the government Task Force should have the power to compel students to repay their loans if they fail to meet their financial obligations.
OTTAWA (CUP) — While student leaders across Ontario are reeling angrily to the recent tuition fee increase announcement, university administrators are praising the government’s decision to increase education funding by 10.1 per cent.

“Don’t proclaim that universities are open to everyone and then slide a large tuition increase under the door,” said Karen Dubinsky, chairperson of the Ontario Federation of Students.

The Ontario Ministry of Colleges and Universities announced January 23 that tuition would rise by ten per cent. The universities are also free to add a discretionary fee of up to another ten per cent.

University of Toronto students will pay only the mandatory 10 per cent increase, since the university levied most of the discretionary fee last year and fees are already 10 percent above the 1980-81 base figure.

U of T president James Ham said he was not displeased with the tuition announcement.

“I do not regard that as socially unfair,” he said, adding that he feels students must bear more of the costs of education.

He would like to see tuition represent 20 per cent of the costs, rather than the current 14 per cent.

Ham also said he was “moderately encouraged” by the funding increase of 10 per cent.

Peter Galway, U of T student council president, said he was outraged by the increase. He said the quality of education has declined significantly because of under funding.

“You’re asking people to pay for an education that’s not worth it,” Galway said.

At the University of Ottawa, rector Roger Gainhad said he was happy with the funding increase and said he hopes “this is the beginning of the universal tuition increase.”

Meanwhile, U of O student council president Pierre Chabot called the fee hike “a kick in the face by Toronto.”

Carleton president William Beckel said he will recommend the university board of governors levy the full 10 per cent optional fee “because we need it.”

He cited the current university programs need and increased costs as making this increase necessary.

Marg Gillett, Carleton student council president, said, “the province ensures declared war on education and the prime casualties are going to be the students.”

According to Kirk Falconer, treasurer for the National Union of Students, NUS, the Ontario Ministry of Colleges and Universities funding over the past five years has forced most Ontario institutions to make move cuts just to maintain themselves.

NDO education critic Ted Bosnian will be raising the funding and the tuition figures.

“The government must cease its assault on students, faculty members and our educational institutions,” he said.

Student representatives from Carleton, the U of O and Algoma College met in Ottawa to discuss the possibility of unified action against the tuition hike.

From PAGE ONE

In the works

Sales made approximately $2,000, although detailed final figures are not yet available.

Accomplished in the important news.

Galway said.

Student Services is trying to eventually have the money back to the students in some

by Wendy Comber

It’s been quite a long time since these penny bubblegum machines with the whirling chrome knobs held out undivided attention. Now we have “Asteroids” and a host of other video games that flash at us and tingle our spines in more colours than Walt Disney, at a cost well above that of our first seductive pinball machines.

Randy Johnston, director of the University Centre and, consequently, the Games Room in the basement, said $31,364.50 was granted from the machines and tables (approximately) a three month period beginning

Thank heavens for all night radio

(ZNS) — Musical Vibrating Pantries are catching on like underwear on fire.

The underwear that pulsates to the beat of recorded music is apparently selling far better than the wildest dreams of designer David Lloyd. According to Lloyd, customers are getting off not only on the new musical but also on all news broadcasts.

Lloyd last October.

Rick Zago, Commissioner of Ancillary Services for SAC and member of the Student Services Committee, said the money is going into a separate Games Room account of the university administration.

“Hit him again. So we can watch him squirm,” Lloyd said.

Student Services is trying to eventually have the money back to the students in some

Last October.

Rick Zago, Commissioner of Ancillary Services for SAC and member of the Student Services Committee, said the money is going into a separate Games Room account of the university administration.

Way, or put back into the Centre for more renovations which will benefit the students anyway.

Ken Long, Dean of Students, hopes to reach an agreement

Money from the tables and machines, when they can be hired out in the future, could never be planned for with any accuracy because this is the first year specifically, the Games Room money has been counted separately from other finances.

The Centre only rents the machines because, for the video games, the approximate cost is between $2500 and $3000 which does not include the cost of repairs. Johnston said the video games are far more popular than the pinball machines which were all the rage five years ago. “I think it’s the sound, the weird noises, and the wide array of colour that came off the screen,” said the Centre Director.

Johnston also said there had been no negative feelings because of the movement of the machines and tables to the basement of the Centre. Instead, he said, those machines have been very positive and security is much better. You have to go through four or five doors now.

Before February 19, 20 and 21, the Centre will be hosting a night, to bring in a smoother and a video game tournament.
The right way to talk back to your professors

by Scott McCallough

How and why to argue was the subject of a 5:30 p.m. lecture given last Wednesday at 5:30 in the Speaker’s Pit at the University Centre. “It’ll be more of a workshop,” Doyle says. “I’ll talk a bit, the students will try something, we’ll move on. It’s not really a lecture.”

Doyle will be talking about “a step by step process to generate innovation and creative thinking. It’s a combination of several systems I’ve heard about over the years.”

Doyle uses a handout that demonstrates the technique by showing how Fran Steiker, script writer for the old Lone Ranger radio program, drew up a chart to help him think of 230 different stories per year.

Steiker didn’t know it at the time, but he was using what a writer named Zwicky called “morphological analysis” in a book he published in 1966. “It’s breaking things down into their components,” Doyle explains.

use your interests

Doyle thinks students shouldn’t be afraid to take chances when it comes to projects. “I know an essay on paper can often become dull stuff. There’s a strong temptation to ‘inhabit’ one or buy one or do something safe and non-controversial,” Doyle believes students should ask themselves if they might have something special to bring to an assignment. “We should get some of his interests into it,” he says. “If he’s interested in photography, why not do some sort of photographic presentation? If he’s in Communication Studies, maybe he could do a film for an assignment for another class, or write a script.

humour is important

Some assignments handed in to Professor Doyle recently included a “Nobel Prize Game,” a diagram of a wheelchair for an invalid biographer, a model, and a study in which children were given the first part of a phrase and allowed to fill in the rest themselves. “The model was of a concept in science that’s overly verbalized. The student wanted to make a concrete representation and he did quite a good job of it,” Doyle explained.

As for the study using children, “Some of the results were very funny. Humor is an important part of creativity. The student was suggesting that the same method could be used to teach science — give the student part of a procedure and let him try to fill in the rest. He used some examples.”

Also giving a studentship lecture next week will be Carol Baker, Assistant Dean of Students. She will speak on “Doing Your First Seminar?” at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday in the Speaker’s Pit.

Crack a pack of Colt's along with the books.

Learn to Speed Read and Comprehend More

When was the last time you were up to date with all the books and notes you had set aside to read? Better still, when was the last time you had a day to enjoy your favourite leisure activities?

We are not suggesting that you must read all of the things to achieve your goals, but if you could Speed Read, there would definitely be more time for relaxation. For example, you could read through best sellers in 30 minutes, large novels in 3 hours, magazines in 20 minutes, and even comprehend more than ever. Think of the time saved and not to mention our helpful memory, study and test taking hints.

By now you are probably full of questions concerning our famous Speed Reading and Study Techniques. That is why we have scheduled a series of FREE 1-hour 114 T. R. E. S. for the general public (take age 14).

You need only attend ONE MEETING for complete details on our Tax-Deductible Tuition, Classes, and Guaranteed Programs, and there is NO OBLIGATION to enroll.

Our next FREE LECTURES will be held in WINDSOR

UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR - ESSEX HALL, RM 305
Sat. Feb. 7 ....... 7:00 p.m.
Sun. Feb. 8 ....... 2:00 p.m.
Tues. Feb. 10 .... 7:00 p.m.
Wed. Feb. 11 .... 7:00 p.m.

Spending just 15 hrs. of your time with us now, may well save you 1,000% of hrs. in the future. Make it to save time. Attend one of these FREE INTRODUCTORY MEETINGS and become a Speed Reader this year!

SPEED READING SCHOOLS OF CANADA
P.O. Box 7205, Postal Station F, London, Ontario N5Y 4X5

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 17, February 6, 1981, Page Three Continual overstatement is a habit

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice—the responsibility of standing up and being counted.

M. Graham Currey

Widely overstating your demands works sometimes. Sometimes when you see that people more than you really want, you get exactly what you want. Call it "dickering", call it "correspom­ dence" or "bargaining", call it what you will.

Call it terribly ineffective when you're not even the record of the Ontario Federation of Students and the various other quasi-political stu­dents' organizations fail to realize is that they are governments' dilemmas and tailor their

Continental drift is not necessarily at the University of Windsor or the Students' Admini­

Editorial

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice—the responsibility of standing up and being counted.

M. Graham Currey

Continual overstatement is a bad habit

Widely overstating your demands works sometimes. Sometimes when you see that people more than you really want, you get exactly what you want. Call it "dickering", call it "correspom­ndence" or "bargaining", call it what you will.

Call it terribly ineffective when you're not even the record of the Ontario Federation of Students and the various other quasi-political stu­dents' organizations fail to realize is that they are governments' dilemmas and tailor their

Continental drift is not necessarily at the University of Windsor or the Students' Admini­
Mail Call

Tory turns red over ex-prime minister’s coverage

Dear Editor:

There have, unfortunately, been several times in recent months when, by his conduct, the Prime Minister has confirmed his immaturity and lack of intelligence. But in his treatment of Joe Clark’s visit to campus he has achieved a new low. He has not only succeeded in demeaning the only living former prime minister of Canada, but also in demeaning the students and their culture. This visit was an experience for you and your education and, from my impression, a majority of you couldn’t give a damn. Maybe you’re not to blame – ignorance often breeds apathy and mistrust.

For example, the Ontario government has recently introduced a proposal called “system rationalization” which threatens the destruction of the University of Windsor by taking away our Masters and Ph.D. programs. It is a real problem, not one that you can easily dismiss.

Other events are happening as well. The Ontario Federation of Students (O.F.S.) is changing its structure. The student movement of Canada is changing with the times to form the new Canadian Federation of Students (C.F.S.), which will incorporate the provincial structures. To my great dismay, a great many students are ignorant of O.F.S.’s existence. This is truly sad.

This is the one organization that fights for students and a majority of Windsor students don’t know about it; quite a difference from campus like Carleton and Trent where huge amounts of people turn out for elections and such.

I think that Windsor’s apathy is largely due to the fact that not enough information about student issues is given. As the next External Affairs Commissioner, it is my duty to provide this service as well as to represent Windsor for O.F.S., as I have been doing for the past six months. I can’t guarantee miracles, but I will be giving a very honest effort at my job to represent you, but at the same time, I can’t do much without your feedback. I would like to see a real student consciousness occur here at Windsor.

In the future, please be prepared to receive information packages. Please read them and I will try to be short but sweet.

Lastly, I ask that you contact me with any questions at all. If you are curious about student politics, please contact me at the S.A.C. office.

Thank you for your patience.

I hope to meet many of you shortly and to increase Windsor’s knowledge and Windsor’s pride around here.

Milan Stipic,
New External Affairs Commissioner,
S.A.C.

Dear Editor:

The Caribbean Students Association of the University of Windsor, popularly known as CARISA, is pleased to be able to present another one of our annual shows, right here on campus.

We, the members of CARISA, welcome everyone to share some of our lifestyles which vary from island to island.

The show, which is planned deliberately for Valentine’s Day, is an experience for you and you and yours to enjoy.

The venue is conveniently in the Ambassador Auditorium, University Centre, at 6:30 p.m.

And the party goes on and on and on into the night.

Come out and help us make this yet another success.

Ingrid Lorten,
Public Relations Officer, CARISA

Dear Editor:

I found the Caribbean Cultural Show unique and refreshing last year. The music, acting, scenery, and effects transported the audience to a place I always hope to visit some day. It was great! I’m looking forward to this year’s show and I hope to see everyone there.

Mary Beth Trottier,
Biology

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance’s mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author’s phone number and address.

Do you truly believe? ...

Dear Editor:

Open Letter to All Students

This letter is, hopefully, going to wake you up a little and get you involved.

There are many issues that directly concern you and your education and, from my impression, a majority of you couldn’t give a damn. Maybe you’re not to blame — ignorance often breeds apathy and mistrust.

For example, the Ontario government has recently introduced a proposal called “system rationalization” which threatens the destruction of the University of Windsor by taking away our Masters and Ph.D. programs. It is a real problem, not one that you can easily dismiss.

Other events are happening as well. The Ontario Federation of Students (O.F.S.) is changing its structure. The student movement of Canada is changing with the times to form the new Canadian Federation of Students (C.F.S.), which will incorporate the provincial structures. To my great dismay, a great many students are ignorant of O.F.S.’s existence. This is truly sad.

This is the one organization that fights for students and a majority of Windsor students don’t know about it; quite a difference from campus like Carleton and Trent where huge amounts of people turn out for elections and such.

I think that Windsor’s apathy is largely due to the fact that not enough information about student issues is given. As the next External Affairs Commissioner, it is my duty to provide this service as well as to represent Windsor for O.F.S., as I have been doing for the past six months. I can’t guarantee miracles, but I will be giving a very honest effort at my job to represent you, but at the same time, I can’t do much without your feedback. I would like to see a real student consciousness occur here at Windsor.

In the future, please be prepared to receive information packages. Please read them and I will try to be short but sweet.

Lastly, I ask that you contact me with any questions at all. If you are curious about student politics, please contact me at the S.A.C. office.

Thank you for your patience.

I hope to meet many of you shortly and to increase Windsor’s knowledge and Windsor’s pride around here.

Milan Stipic,
New External Affairs Commissioner,
S.A.C.

Dear Editor:

The Caribbean Students Association of the University of Windsor, popularly known as CARISA, is pleased to be able to present another one of our annual shows, right here on campus.

We, the members of CARISA, welcome everyone to share some of our lifestyles which vary from island to island. Then there is the party after that, which includes your own choice of questions, both friendly and unfriendly, mostly quite intelligent. Whether one agreed with the answers or not, one had to unflappingly, mostly quite intellignet.
Not everyone in sync with semesterization yet

by Scott McCallum

"Every change or "improvement" brings its own share of problems," Dean of Students Ken Long grew concerned about the number of students coming to the Student Affairs office to set up their courses for the new semester. "They were complaining about not getting into the courses they wanted, not having their grades for effective counseling," he said. "It's not very accurate but the traffic has been fairly steady." It's its first crack at it," said Registrar Frank Smith. "We didn't change so many computer programs at once. Last year, they weren't out until slack week so we're still ahead of that. We've only allotted so much computer time. When we're not done with one term, it's back to us. There's been a rush up, of people the things the Cashier's Office needed done were given priority." The Cashier's Office fell behind too. "Semesterization has caused a few problems," admitted Joseph Schiller, Director of Finance. "It's our first time through two registrations. The line ups in our office are the systems we own doings though. They could have left post-dated cheques in December. The computer people are working hard to get everything in shape," he added.

"We've got a new machine for processing registrations forms in November and it took time to iron out all the bugs," Smith explained. "We'd originally planned to have the people who registered in December get their forms before they went home for Christmas, but it didn't work out. Next year it will be better though," he said confidently. "There's no reason to believe it won't be quicker. The new machine allows us to process 5,000 forms in an hour. We used to process 100 in a day."

Smith feels semesterization will be of great benefit eventually. "The major benefits will be a regularization, semester in, semester out," he said. "The students will know what to expect." Smith was chairman of a committee which recommended going on the semester system. "It was passed two years ago," he explained. "To take effect now. I think we'll see fewer and fewer "AB" and "part one and two" courses are available in time goes," he said. "With the new computer, the computer will try to arrange your timetable so you can take courses at the same time other wise. One section of one course being offered and you may have to drop it "Smith still feels this is the best way to do it. "If you give the student those five courses and not the sixth, you can't do all the other rearranging yourself, to different professors, signing in and out, if he really needed that course. At least we save him that trouble."

Business has been semesterized for a while

Everyone's opinion of what constitutes semesterization varies. "The main problems in the faculty have been completely semesterized since 1973," said Dr. George Neal, acting Dean of the Faculty of Business Administration. "That means a student takes five six courses and gets five six credits at the end of first semester. We have no 'ABs' where you don't get credit for the first term if you've completed the second part, but there may be some first term courses that are prerequisites for the second term. If a student doesn't take the second part, he's paid for that first credit." Although the Business Faculty has been semesterized for a few years, a few problems were created when the whole university "went semester." "It's had some drawbacks for us," Neal admitted. "We students used to register for both terms in the fall. We had a better idea of how many subjects we needed. Also, they were wanting what courses. We're later in the ballgame because of how many people we're going to have," the on the other hand, maybe now there's someone has a better idea of what he wants to take at the end of first semester." "How can effective counseling go on if a student doesn't have his grades?" Dean of Students Long wondered. "It's a problem, because if marks are out next year by January, that's registered, it would have been better. On the other hand, maybe now there's someone has a better idea of what he wants to take at the end of first semester." "We make every effort to take care of everybody's needs, but we have the resources, " Dr. Neal explained. "It's visible and there's a need, there'll be a course," Frank Smith said. "If enough students got together and say we want such and such a course, most faculties will finally come to teach it."

In the event that a student was unable to get either enough of the courses he wanted or alternatives and drop what the student was taking, the Business Director Joseph Schiller assured The Lance the student full time fees would be refunded. "Obviously we can't charge them with something they're not taking. The same would hold true were a student to become part-time if he was forced to drop several courses when he learned he had full time credit and was unable to get back into it or take an alternative."

As for how many introductory courses are offered second term and how many courses are really on the semester system, a quick scan of the student, indicates that, in many cases, there are fewer introductory courses than in first term. We need more sections of introductory courses in the fall because that's when most students start, let's face it," said Neal. The Business Faculty does appear to offer a number of introductory courses second term. Some faculties or departments offer fewer. Psychology, for instance, offers almost no introductory courses in the second term, and in first term, you're pretty well out of luck. Economics is the same."

Dean of the Faculty of Arts has done a pretty good job of adjusting to semesterization," Long said, "but some others haven't. It's just a matter of time."

"I think we'll see fewer and fewer "AB" and "part one and two" courses as the years go by," Frank Smith believed. "For some courses, people have said, 'We've been doing them for so long we can't change.'"

"The Faculty of Arts has done a pretty good job of adjusting to semesterization," Long said, "but some others haven't. It's just a matter of time."

"I think we'll see fewer and fewer "AB" and "part one and two" courses as the years go by," Frank Smith believed. "For some courses, people have said, 'We've been doing them for so long we can't change.'"
Lancer's Basketball team just a poetical stream

Even when the trainers come to work in the gym, they're not allowed to tape, Justice Department creates student jobs

Justice Minister Jean Chrétien announced recently that the Department of Justice, in cooperation with the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police, will again in 1981 offer the programme of summer employment for law students by police forces across the country. Under this programme, which has been in operation since 1971, the police chiefs of participating municipalities will hire law students to work with their police forces for periods varying from 12 to 15 weeks. Students specializing in criminal law will be given priority in the selection process.

Participants in this employment programme will get first-hand experience of police activities and understanding of the importance of the work of police officers in our society, said the Minister.

Application forms may be obtained from the Dean's office of any Canadian law school. The completed application form must be submitted directly to the participating police force in which the candidate is interested, before February 27, 1981.

Dear Editor:

Bozo Basketball

Members of the basketball profession, beware. Of practices against us most unfair.

We work our tails off for two hours a day. But, "we love the school," that man will say.

We tape our own ankles over the holiday season.

George is too tight to pay a trainer the reason.

Forensic lecture coming

Dr. Brian H. Kaye, Department of Physics, Laurentian University will present The Annual C.A.P. Lecture, entitled "Physics in the Fight Against Crime." Criminals have been quick to avail themselves of the sophistication of computers and other modern scientific techniques. Consequently, forensic science has moved into a new era in which computers are taught to search for fingerprints, synthetic bloodhounds sniff out the air on a quest for fingerprints, synthetic bloodhounds sniff out the air on an aircraft to determine if terrorists have left dynamic, and robot technicians are learning how to cope with the problems of ballistic identification.

In this lecture, some of the potential careers open to physicists in the crime labs of the world will be explored. In particular, the use of the scanning electron microscope to study dust, advanced electronics to detect odours, the use of laser fluorescence to develop fingerprints, and the use of pattern technology to classify fingerprints will be briefly explored.

There will be ample time for a question and answer period at the close of the lecture.

The lecture will take place Thursday, February 26, 1981 at 3:30 p.m. Room 2123 Math Building. For undergraduate and graduate students, everyone welcome.

FROM PAGE ONE

More costs

Study Plan is also suggested in the Report to make a greater proportion of aid in the form of grants during the early post-secondary years and in the form of loans in later years. The brief proposes an Income Contingent Repayment Plan which would use a student's income after graduation as the basis for the repayment of their loan. This plan was thought "considerably more costly in the first decade of its existence" than the above plans. Also noted is an All-Grant Plan which would make aid non-repayable and parental contribution unnecessary. It would also be the most costly plan.

The Report recommends the National Union of Students propose that the extra cost of an all-grant program be offset by dropping existing income tax deductions related to post-secondary education.
Certainly one of the benefits of being part of a university's multi-ethnic community is that one may learn about, and even participate in, other students' cultural festivals and celebrations.

While foreign students must perform, adapt and adjust to our Canadian climate, customs and other conditions, fortunately they are quite willing to share their fascinating customs with us. The Chinese Students' Association (CSA) did just that last weekend by presenting a two-day Chinese New Year festival.

Occurring sometime between late January and late February, the Chinese New Year is celebrated on a different day each year. More specifically, New Year's falls on the day of the second new moon after the winter solstice. This year, it fell on February 5.

For the Chinese, the passing of the years is identified with a cycle of animals, a system inherited from the Babylonians and Greeks. This animal cycle corresponds roughly with our zodiac cycle. The Chinese animal cycle begins with the rat, followed by the ox, tiger, hare, dragon, serpent, horse, sheep, monkey, cock, dog, and boar. This year, 1981, is represented by the cock.

One feature of the Chinese New Year celebrations is a striking pantomime, the "lion's dance". This popular amusement is performed by professional artists. Drums are beaten as the multicoloured beast springs about, tosses its fearsome head, winks and snaps at the crowd, and swings its tail.

Such a dramatic performance opened the ceremonies last Friday at noon. The "lion" headed a procession of onlookers through the Centre and retired upstairs in the Alumni Lounge. There, a distinguished panel – U. of W. President Mervyn Franklin; president of the Windsor chapter of the Multi-Cultural Council, Patricia Alexander; recently appointed International Student Advisor, Dr. Haque; CSA president Solomon Chan – gave short speeches about the weekend program. "These exhibitions should remind us of the richness of the Chinese culture and society, and the contributions of the Chinese people," concluded President Franklin.

The highlight of the festival was the Cultural Night Variety Show. Various examples of the Chinese lively arts were presented: music, opera, dance and Kung Fu demonstrations. A fashion show and movie, North China Factory, completed the program.

The musical bill of fare included a ten-member choir accompanied by pianist Tony Kwok, a violin piece by Arny Pong and Billie Koo, singer Emily Wong and guitarist Raymond Sau, traditional instrument player Caniel Chan and flautist Mark Young. An opera, The Butterflies Love, was delightfully performed by two ECCCA singers, Christine Leung and David Young. Two dancers performed a Miao folk dance.

An exhibition of Chinese National Minorities costumes elicited appreciative "oohs and aahs" from the audience as the attractive models displayed Mongolian, Tibetan, Manchurian and other traditional costumes.

A Kung Fu demonstration, too, elicited gasps from the audience as Derek Fung and David Wong performed several flesh-and-floorboard resounding movements, including the Jit Jin Chuen and Jit Chuen.

by Rosemary A. Breschok
Les Belles Soeurs: Way of life in la belle province

by R.P. Chant

When you have "a stupid, rotten life", your only saving grace might be a great love for bugs.

That, in part, is the message of Les Belles Soeurs by Michel Tremblay (translated by John Van Burek and Bill Glansco), the play currently on stage at Etcetera Hall Theatre.

This two-act, all-female cast, University Players production, also deals with unrequited motherhood, abortion, the immorality of nightlife, mismatched sex, birth control, the generation gap, lotteries, religion, and aging.

In a larger thematic vein, the play constitutes a microcosmic look at lower-middle class life in Quebec. Extending that, Les Belles Soeurs is about the falsity of life and relationships, and the fleeting foolishness of dreams.

Ah — where to begin, where to begin?

The scene is Germaine Launton's (Cyd Vanderheide) kitchen. Germaine has just won a million stamps — the kind you stick into the booklets and use to buy postage. She has invited her friends and acquaintances over for a night of entertainment — a month. The group received Stanton's attention partly because of a company dealing in them — and Germaine has just won a million stamps — the kind you stick into the booklets and use to buy postage.

(Here?) of slugs set to invade Windsor

by Wendy Coomber

Doug and the Slugs are cornering their way from their slippery and wet home in far-away Vancouver to cover the Ambassadress Auditorium February 23, leaving a slimy subterranean trail behind them. Wait! Put the can of garden Raid down. We actually invited this pasty-painted parody here at a cost of $2000 to sing for us — slugs!

"I'm really into Canadian entertainment," explained Jody Stanton, manager of SAC's pub, who negotiated with the Slugs for over a month. The group had hoped Stanton would sign them because of the hope that he would sign them.

A corresponding chorus in the second act consists of the women's one great joy in life, playing bingo. Aside from the stereotypical cultural connection of the game to Roman Catholic French-Canadian, the "Ode to Bingo" demonstrates the sorry state of these humdrum lives — when the possibility of winning a "combination standing lamp-ashtray" can cause a woman to writhe around in ecstasy and shout, "I love BINGO!" you know that you've got an unfilled woman on your hands.

Still, however, they have their dreams. They all claim to have come close to realizing them by winning newspaper contests, but never close enough to grab the brass ring ("do I look like anyone who's ever won anything?").

Don't ever stand in the way of a cut-throat stamp trader. The set by Nicholas Ayre and crew, plastic Virgin Mary statues all, constitutes the stereotypical French-Canadian household. The costumes by Laurea Miley and crew scream "Yes, we're frumps, but we can be pretty!"

Les Belles Soeurs continues tonight (Friday) and concludes tomorrow night.
SLAM hits 'em with their best shot

by Peter Hagger

It may not be Christmas, but the pub this week is again decorated with Holly.

Holly, if you haven't already guessed, is the lead singer of Slam, this week's entertainment at SAC's.

Early in October, Slam visited the pub for a three night early week affair. As the week went on, it became increasingly difficult to find a seat. Partly this was due to the popular New Wave/Rock style of the band, partly it was because many mindless males love to ogle (thanks for the word Woody).

But this band isn't just a pretty face. 'You gotta crawl before you can walk'

The sound this band was built for was that of the Pat Benetars and B-52's. The lead singer benefits greatly from her Deborah Harry looks to match her Benetar voice. Holly seems to be at her best singing the "naughty" female songs of today's music.

For the rockers, Slam explores Alice Cooper, screams with Van Halen and even breaks down with Tom Petty. One feature number is a semi original version of Pink Floyd's "Education".

The band is accessible to both camps of modern music. Slam satisfies nocturnal needs for both New Wave and Rock 'n Roll. Any band that can play Devo ("Whip It") and Black Sabbath ("Paranoid") back to back knows the best of both worlds.

For the rockers, Slam explores Alice Cooper, screams with Van Halen and even breaks down with Tom Petty. One feature number is a semi original version of Pink Floyd's "Education".

The sound this band was built for was that of the Pat Benetars and B-52's. The lead singer benefits greatly from her Deborah Harry looks to match her Benetar voice. Holly seems to be at her best singing the "naughty" female songs of today's music.

Anything Holly lacks in actual vocal ability she makes up for with stage presence which suits her songs. You might say she doesn't exactly act like the girl you might bring home to mother.

At times the vocals are a little hard to distinguish from the music. Even with this minor distraction, Slam presents one of the best shows for a week long performer this year in the pub. It looks like it's going to be another busy weekend at SAC's.

Siki shines

by Catherine M. Wilson

Last Saturday in Moot Court, Hungarian pianist Béla Siki performed for a large appreciative crowd. An audience of about one hundred and eighty people were treated to a display of extraordinary brilliance.

Opening with the "Sonata in D Major" of Franz Joseph Haydn (1732-1809), each movement created a mood of its own; the moderate a heroic air, the adagio full of mobility, splendour and passion, and the final allegro closing the piece on a lively note.

The "Sonata in B Flat Major" of Frederic Chopin (1810-1849) opened with chords presenting the ultimate in drama. The scherzo displayed Siki's intricate fingerwork, and mastery of the keyboard. The marcelle fumerette created a sombre, reverant atmosphere through a billiant contrast of dynamics. For some the finale represented a gossipting commentary on the Funeral March, for others it became the night wind sweeping over the churchyard groves.

The second half of the program opened with the premiere performance of "Praeludium, Blues, and Tocatta" by Paul McIntyre, professor of music at the University's School of Music. The Praeludium was similar in form and spirit to those of the 17th Century keyboard toccatas in colour and texture. The Blues followed the classic form with a hint of the style of electronic music. In the toccata, a four-note figure was carried all over the instrument, ending with a burst of tone clusters.

"The Hungarian Legend", by Franz Liszt (1811-1886) opened with the movement depicting walking over the water of the Strait of Messina between Italy and Sicily by St. Francis. Dynamics and ascending scales created thunderous waves. The placid mood which prevailed throughout the "Sonata del Perrara"'s remined one of celestial apparitions through its rich, full chords. "The Rhapsody No. 15" (Rakoczy March) expresses indomitable will of the Hungarian people to overcome tyranny and to reach freedom.

Mr. Siki performed two encore's of Chopin preludes, displaying fantastic fingerwork and effective dynamics.

The evening was a wonderful treat for all music lovers.

DOUG AND THE SLUGS

Live and in concert at

SAC's PUB SPECIAL!

Monday, Feb 23/81

Students $4.50
Guests $5.50

Tickets available at SAC office, University Centre, and SAC's pub.
Kings perform majestically

by Laurie Bergoline

The Kings were here! Saturday night was the first bash put on by the newly formed Social Science Society. The Society managed to get one of the most popular Canadian New Wave groups, The Kings making possible the incredible 'Sold Out' sign posted on the entrance doors. The Society was more than happy with the campus response to the concert.

The warm-up band, Trixie Goes Hollywood, started the evening off right. This light sounding, quite energetic New Wave group got everyone

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 17, February 6, 1981, Page Eleven looking back at them and seeing them too.

"Not the audience tonight though. They were a good audience." It is not hard to be a good audience when the band is The Kings, and they play so well. They looked like they enjoyed it as much as the audience did.

I think we all must agree that this has been the best, most entertaining band we have had at the University all year (perhaps for even longer than that). We must also thank the Social Science Society for bringing us such a good band. Perhaps this will set an example for future bashes, in the line of well known entertainment.

The dance floor (a little extreme) was crowded with people as soon as the group came out. The Kings are going to try to have something new on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.

The Kings have been together for three years and have been on the road together quite a bit since the release of their first album. When asked if they didn't become bored and worn out by doing the same music and on the road for long periods of time, Keysy said no, that every time they played, they tried to change the set somehow, and that on the road it is not something every producer does.
THE CINEMA CRITIC

TRIBUTE

by Ed McMahon

Anyone who is 24 years old and still calls himself "Robby" has a long way to go to prove himself in my books. With this in mind I set out to see Jack Lemmon, Robby Benson and Lee Remick in Bob Clark's film Tribute, adapted for the screen from the Broadway show. And surprisingly, I found that during the course of the movie I grew to hate Robby Benson less.

Hagood Hardy offers more than a homecoming

by Peter Haggett

You probably can't avoid hearing music by this man. Most people know Hagood Hardy for his 1976 success entitled "The Homecoming." This short piano melody rambled its way onto AM radiowaves and stayed for quite a while-most unusual considering it was an instrumental. Actually the song itself grew from a 30 second television commercial that had a catchy short piano melody rambled its dance of the favorite "Misty," as the evening performing on the vibraphone.

But the singer with his saxophone. What they received was more than pleasing.

Hagood Hardy's audience was treated to a two hour concert which featured his brilliance on piano and vibraphone, graced by the talents of 23 members of the Windsor Symphony Orchestra. Hardy also brought four musicians with which he performed various trio and quintet pieces more of a jazz variety.

Although known mostly as a pianist, Hardy spent much of the evening performing on the vibraphone.

The mature audience responded well to his performance. The program featured a variety of works of Gance to ensure they were about to hear the piece which they had anticipated all night.

At no time however was the uninitiated at a disadvantage with Virgil Thomson, who did for music "what Gance did for cinema." A Symphony enlivened the audience throughout the evening. With a program of approximately 30 minutes, the evening went on without distraction.

In a sense the concert served to acquaint the audience with the music of the composer who would be out in the streets. Hardy had an extraordinary ability to make the listener think, to feel, and to move.

The artist has been at various times a "playboy, a pimp, and a paralytic force in the soul of American music." Having been at various times a "playboy, a pimp, and a paralytic force in the soul of American music," Hagood Hardy was not the only composer. His fascinating career has led to various screen versions being written by the same man — Bernard Slade, a Canadian-born author and playwright, was also responsible for The Flying Nun, Love, American Style, and The Partridge Family.

All this talent and experience serves to make Tribute one of the most enjoyable "happily ever after" films so far this year. For all of you who are looking for a tear-jerker, Tribute is a must. Even I had a lump in my throat. Unfortunately, it was due to Devonshire's dry-eyed popped popcorn.

Seriously though, Tribute manages to combine talent, humor, warmth, and depth equally well for the sort of movie it is. It's well worth going to see, even if you're not a Robby Benson fan.

I'd rate it 8½ on the open-ended movie-scale.

Conference on Modernism in Arts

The Faculty of Arts has announced that February 12-14, 1981 would be the Conference on Modernism in the Arts. The program, has been in the works for some time, and hopes to offer the community a chance to find out what the faculty has to offer.

Conference Chairman Dr. T. Dilworth emphasizes that this is not a conference for academics. "Part of the problem of unification is that experience of the course one can't fit into their timetable. This conference gives the students the opportunity to hear lecturers they may not be able to hear otherwise."

"Each lecturer is speaking on a topic they are directly involved with and care about. Hopefully the conference will serve to explore the intellectual achievements of those teaching on this campus."

Special guest of the conference is Virgil Thomson, who among his many achievements was the first English composer to set the language to music without incorporating native influences. According to Dilworth, Thomson did for music "what the American poets of the 1920's did for poetry."

His fascinating career has led Thomson to have known personally the likes of James Joyce, Ernest Hemingway, Ezra Pound, Picasso, Stravinsky, Aaron Copeland and countless others with whom he has worked and performed. Dr. Dilworth considers Thomson "the grand old man of American music."

Also among the more fascinating events will be the film "The Charm of Dynamite," a documentary on movie innovator Abel Gance. Dilworth explained that MGM once suppressed works of Gance to ensure they would not have to come up with equal novelty.

The success of this conference could turn the event into a yearly lecture series. Plan to attend these scheduled events — Dr. Dilworth guarantees you won't be disappointed.

---

The Lanes, Vol. LIII, No. 17, February 6, 1981, Page Twelve

---

Joe's and THE STRAND

UNISEX

HAIR CUTTING

PERMS

COLOURING

HIGHLIGHTING

AND MORE

10% discount for University of Windsor students

2999½

TECUMSEH R.D. E.

945-1631

---

---
Lancers beat Brock, record 5-1 at season midpoint

by Steve Rice

The Lancers exhibited the finest outside shooting of any of their OUAA contests this season as they hit 62.5 percent on their shots from the floor in a 110-73 romp over Brock Wednesday night in St. Denis Hall.

As has been the case most of the year, it was Phil Hermannutz who did most of the damage from the perimeter with 11 of 14 field goal attempts and 4 of 6 free throws for 26 points. That ups his per game average to 22.5.

Hermannutz probably would have scored more except that he sat out much of the second half as the Lancer bench was allowed to take the floor in the runaway game. As such, Ron Wallman picked up 13 points while Mark Landry and Jim Kennedy each added 12.

Jim Zareski was high for Brock with 21.

Stan Korosec scored only seven points in the contest as Brock followed the pattern of most Lancer opponents by employing a tight-knit zone to block off the middle. However, Korosec did his job by clearing the boards 17 times.

Kennedy added 13 rebounds and Jim Molyneux 11 as the Lancers outrebounded Brock 64-26 on the game.

"I think we're a better ball club than we showed tonight," said Brock coach Garney Henley. "But Windsor is the best team physically we've played. Probably the best ball club in our league."

The Lancers play a pivotal game tonight with the Guelph Gryphons in Guelph, then travel to St. Catharines Saturday for a rematch with Brock.

Windsor — Landry 4-4-12; Hermannutz 11-4-26; Hooft 3-1-7; Austin 1-0-2; Hogston 1-0-6; Buttery 4-8-9; Wallman 4-5-11; Ritchie 2-2-6; Korosec 1-1-7; Molyneux 4-1-9; Kennedy 5-2-11; Remaining.

OUAA WEST

Guelph 7 1 618 514 18
Windsor 5 1 555 527 10
McMaster 5 3 562 536 10
Waterloo 3 4 485 467 6
Western 3 6 505 524 6
Brock 2 5 553 614 4
Laurentian 1 7 509 651 2

Four more school track records fall

by Scott McCullough

The University of Windsor track team set four new school records this past Saturday at the Monarch Relays at Macomb Community College in Detroit.

Andy Buckstein broke the 4:25.2 mile record he set two weeks ago by 4 seconds, lowering it from 1:15.4 to 1:15.0. He set six records this past Saturday at the Monarch Relays at Macomb Community College in Detroit.

Kathy Rothe set a new women's record in the 110:46.1 in the two mile event.

One new record was "established" in the 4 X 220 yard relay. No team from the University had ever run the event before so the 1:36.5 time of Kowaki Apeadu, John Key, Kevin Doughman and Andy Buckstein automatically becomes the record.

"I seem to be on a hot streak," Buckstein said. "In six races I've set six records. I'll break the 440 yard record on Monday."

The team earned three other medals as well. Jenny Pace received a silver medal in the shot put with a throw of 12.05 meters while Sandra Carson broke second in the long jump with a personal best jump of 5.08 meters.

Apeadu also competed in the 60 yards, winning a time of 6.7 and jumped 5.44 meters in the long jump.

Steve Thatcher ran 7.3 in the 60 yards as well as the shot put 13.13 for sixth place.

John Key recorded a time of 7.8 in the 60 hurdles. Also competing for the University were Paul Korsak (1:22.8 in the 600 yard), newcomer Mike Bondy (2:44.6 in the 1000 yards), and Ray Holland (4:38.1 in the mile).

Staudt fifth

Linda Staudt finished fifth in the marathon she ran a week ago last Sunday in Bermuda, but suffered abdominal pains in some parts of the race.

"I felt good for the first fifteen miles," she said. "I had a good six or six and one half lead on the other girls but then I started getting abdominal pains. It was my diaphragm.

"I dropped to a jog and then we walked between fifteen and sixteen miles by which time I'd fallen to fourth place," explained Staudt. "I felt better after a while and picked up the pace again and at twenty miles I was in second place. But I lost it all over again at twenty-three miles. As soon as I tried to run faster I'd get a sharp pain."

Staudt plans to return to Bermuda next year for the same race. "I'll have to redeem myself," she said.

Four University of Windsor athletes have now qualified to compete in the CIAU championships by meeting qualifying standards. They are: Jenny Pace in the shot put, Linda Staudt in the 3000 m., and George Henry and Andy Buckstein in the 60 m.
Hockey Lancers' playoff hopes dashed

by Steve Rice

A 5-3 loss to Ryerson Rams last Sunday has effectively cancelled out the already slim chances of the Lancer hockey team seeing playoff action.

Windsor's record now stands at 7-11-1, good for eighth place in the 12-team league, but seven points behind the sixth-place team, Laurier Golden Hawks, with only three games remaining in the schedule.

Only the top six teams advance to the playoffs.

OUAA HOCKEY
W L T P
- - - -
Toronto 13 4 2 28
Western 13 2 2 28
Guelph 11 5 3 25
Queen's 10 3 4 24
York 10 4 3 23
Laurier 7 10 2 22
McMaster 10 7 1 21
WINDSOR 7 11 1 25
Waterloo 4 11 0 8
Ryerson 3 13 2 8
Laurentian 3 13 0 2
Brock 0 12 3 3

Too relaxed

The Lancers had kept their hopes alive with a 7-4 victory over Brock Badgers Saturday, but appeared too relaxed in Sunday's contest as they allowed the Rams to break out of their end in the loose-checking game.

Don Martin, Len Chittle and Mike McKegg picked up Lancer goals against Ryerson.

"They (Ryerson) fully deserved to win," Lancer coach Bob Corran said following the game. "They took advantage of our mistakes and earned the win."

"Our entire defensive corp played poorly," explained Corran. "And our forwards were continually getting trapped in Ryerson's end and allowing two on one or three on two breaks. You can't expect your goaltender to stop that many breaks in a game."

Windsor carried the play early in the game, but couldn't find the holes in Ryerson goalie Dave Quennel.

Midway through the second period they trailed 3-0 before getting back two late in the period.

Mike McKegg's breakaway goal at 5:28 of the third period tied the score, but Ryerson's Kevin Conner pocketed two as the Lancers once again were caught up ice.

"It's taken us all year to get over the fact that when the other team scores, we don't have to lay down and play dead," Ryerson coach Brian Jones said.

Connors was at fault on Windsor's third goal and then he couldn't answer the last of two of his own. That has to be one of our worst games."

Lancers Broch 4

Windsor appeared ready to demolish the last-place Badgers right from the start as they shook the Brock goalie with 21 shots in the first period and picked up two goals to Brock's one.

But the Badgers stormed back with four unanswered goals, this time taking the second stanza to take the lead, 4-2, before Mike McKegg connected on a neat passing play from John Ivan and Len Chittle just before the break.

Chittle picked up two goals in the game as did McKegg with singles going to Ivan, Dave Easter and Mike Leffer.

"We out played them for all of the second period," said Brock coach Ron Anderson.

"But with only three lines and three defencemen, the bad guys get tired and they can only go so long."

"We don't have the talent that other teams have. But we show a lot of character. I'm really proud of these guys."

Windsor will play host to Toronto Saturday and York Sunday before travelling to London for the final game of the season with Western one week from today.

"It's going to be tough getting ready for the next week," added John Ivan, Windsor's third goal and then he couldn't answer the last of two of his own. That has to be one of our worst games."

Lancers lose to Mac, end season at 9 and 3

by Sue Hrycay

The Lancerette basketball team will see no further action this season after a 46-40 loss to McMaster Marauders in the final game of the season Wednesday.

The loss brought Windsor's record to 9-3 on the year and put them in third place in Tier II of the OUAA basketball league behind McMaster (13-0) and Ottawa (10-2). Only the top two finishers in Tier II advance to the tournament with the four lowest finishers from Tier I.

Tier II teams move up to Tier I by defeating any team from that Tier, while Tier I teams who lose drop down to Tier II for the following year.

Theresa McGee led Windsor against Mac with 12 points and eight rebounds. Roberts Smith, who had only recently returned to the lineup, added seven points.

The loss brought an abrupt halt to what had been a superb late-season charge by the Lancers who had won their last six games including last weekend's victory over both the University of Ottawa, 45-44, and Carleton at Carleton.

Lancerettes' next competition is the OWIAA Championships February 20 and 21 at Carleton University.

Carolyn Shaw, fourth Margaret Beaton, fifth Dawn Maxwell, sixth Intermediate Figures: Bath Allie, second Jessica Austin, fourth Solo Competition: Kelly Godson, fourth Duet Competition: Margaret Beaton and Hilda Berendis, second Jessica Austin and Dawn Maxwell, fourth

The Lancerettes' next competition is the OWIAA Championships February 20 and 21 at Carleton University.

The Lancerette basketball team will see no further action this season after a 46-40 loss to McMaster Marauders in the final game of the season Wednesday.

The loss brought Windsor's record to 9-3 on the year and put them in third place in Tier II of the OUAA basketball league behind McMaster (13-0) and Ottawa (10-2). Only the top two finishers in Tier II advance to the tournament with the four lowest finishers from Tier I.

Tier II teams move up to Tier I by defeating any team from that Tier, while Tier I teams who lose drop down to Tier II for the following year.

Theresa McGee led Windsor against Mac with 12 points and eight rebounds. Roberts Smith, who had only recently returned to the lineup, added seven points.

The loss brought an abrupt halt to what had been a superb late-season charge by the Lancers who had won their last six games including weekend victories over both the University of Ottawa, 45-44, and Carleton at Carleton.

Lancerettes' next competition is the OWIAA Championships February 20 and 21 at Carleton University.

Carolyn Shaw, fourth Margaret Beaton, fifth Dawn Maxwell, sixth Intermediate Figures: Bath Allie, second Jessica Austin, fourth Solo Competition: Kelly Godson, fourth Duet Competition: Margaret Beaton and Hilda Berendis, second Jessica Austin and Dawn Maxwell, fourth

Windsor 45 Ottawa 44

Saturday's contest with Ottawa's Gee-Gees was an exciting ice-side contest which saw the lead change hands throughout the game.

The score was knotted at 28 at the intermission, Windsor set up an aggressive 2-3 zone defense for the second half which was successful in quieting Ottawa's potent attack. A thrilling three-pointer by Diane Minello and a last-second jump shot by Mary Hycay clinched the win.

Theresa McGee was high scorer with 14 while Diane Minello added 11. Tracy McNair pulled down an amazing 19 rebounds as she sparked the team with her defensive performance.

"Although it was played with crucial turnovers, it was still an excellently played game," coach Sue Swan remarked.

"I was particularly proud of the team after this one because they maintained their poise and made the pressure baskets when we needed them."

Sunday's game with Carleton was less dramatic, but equally fulfilling. Lancerettes trailed by six early in the game, but opened up an 11-point cushion of their own at the half.

The 2-3 zone which had proved so successful against Ottawa completely subdued the Carleton offense.

Pam Johnson played an excellent game with 18 points, most coming inside. Kerri Towers picked up 16 each while Theresa McGee and Mary Hycay dropped in 12 apiece.

Tracy McNair was again the top rebounder with 14.

"I have been both pleased and impressed with the team since the Christmas break," Swan said. "Every one of the remaining eight games has improved in some ways and has given everything they have and more to this team. As a coach I can ask for little more."

"They've come a long way this year, despite many adversities, and have proven that hard work and courage do eventually lead to success."

Finalblate

The Lancers played their last game in St. Denis Hall Monday night and as a final act of defiance defeated St. Michael's 57-53.

High scores for Windsor were Roberta Smith and Theresa McGee with 12 points each. Smith added 11 rebounds and McCue 10.

Windsor overcame a 10-point halftime deficit by scoring five unanswered baskets into the second half, from which point they never trailed.
CHOOSING THE RIGHT CAREER ISN'T EASY

We'd like to offer you a challenge — a career in dealing with professionals — a career in Life insurance sales and/or sales management.

It’s one of the few careers that offers you freedom of action and decision and an unusually high measure of security and personal satisfaction.

We know it isn’t easy choosing the right career. Perhaps we at Metropolitan Life can help you decide the right choice. Why not drop by and see us. We’ll be on Campus on:

Wednesday, February 11, 1981
The Lance, Vol. L/1, No. 17, February 6, 1981, Page Sixteen

PARTY at your place tonight?ライト Checked?

MONTREAL CAMPUS Ministry
Iona College, 208 Sunset Ave.,
2-372-7171.
Worship Sunday at 12:30 p.m.
Communion Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.
$2.00 for a Home Concert.
First free to drop in any time.
GILL HARBURG 3-1178.
Mem. Wed. Thurs. Rehearsal for
Friday phone 2-321-1564. Ask for Sandra.

VoluntEers are required to be library assistants at a local hospital.
Those interested may call the office to arrange to see how Volunteer services are offered.
TO THE GIRL in the grey sweats and trouser shoes. Thank you for Thursday night! Signed, your friend (again).

FOR SALE. B and M drill kit (auto-mental music tool). For 1969-
'70 Chrysler, $50. Phone 2-372-4644.

LARGE APARTMENT for rent.
Downtown location near market.
Ideal for students. $45 plus utilities.
Call 464-3007 after 6 p.m.

LOSE: Canvas book cover white on gold $4.44.34.

FOUND: One pair of men's black gloves in the Lance office, 2nd floor, University Centre. Owner please pick them up soon.

AMATEUR STAMP COLLECTORS
wishes to exchange foreign stamps with other collectors. Contact
Rosemary, 3111 W. J.

A MUST for Valentine's Day: "Love
Wings" (Personal Telegram Service).
Striking telegrams for all occasions.
Special requests acceptable. We do anything reasonable. (Mini-
15.00, 2-325-9991 or 2-367-0250.

RETRIEV - Feb. 7 – 9:30 a.m.
- 10 a.m. at York University Centre.
- Cost $7 for students.
- This course includes lunch and susp.
- For information or to register call
2-324-2122.

KEYSAVER CHARTERS
GET YOUR 1981 CHARITABLE GIFT
SUPPORTS FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS
- Derby Day Party
- Miss Canada Pageant
- Valentine's Day Banquet

S$500.00 each
- Each response
- NO CASH PAYMENTS
- NO REFUND ON INCIDENTALS

Sponsored by

Diana's "Oven Fresh" Pizza
179 West University Avenue
SPEED DELIVERY
252-3273

NO SIPPING AT THE CURB.
Phone for delivery or pick-up.

Come on in and Experience
Pizza for a Change.

SAY "I HATE YOU" FOR VALENTINE'S DAY
Raffling for a $500.00 air fare to the destination of your choice.

Whether the fees were all paid at the start of September, or just recently for this semester, the finance department only makes one mailing of financial summary.
If the same thing was paid at the end of the term, the summary was sent to the student, who then wrote to the "computer is set up that way".

Can the tax articles be picked up at the office because both the finance department and the Registrar's Office handle them and Schiller was afraid of mix-ups occurring due to the different offices. The director said it was simpler for them and it's easier for the forms to reach the student.

Dr. Stuart Smith,
Moot Court
Monday, Feb. 9, noon.

 Kenny Lanoue
Insurance Agency Ltd.
General and Life Insurance
Auto Insurance is Compulsory

Call us at 966-612
5915 Malden Road
Windsor, Ontario N9H 1S6

Ken Lanoue Insurance Agency Ltd.

SINGING TELEGRAMS
For all occasions.

THE LANCE OFFICE, 2nd floor, University Centre or phone 253-4060

Page Resumes - Typewriter only

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>50 copies</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75 copies</td>
<td>$12.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100 copies</td>
<td>$15.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Resumes Hours

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Day</th>
<th>Hours</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Monday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuesday</td>
<td>1 pm - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

They require $5.00 deposit required before work is begun on the resumes.

UNCLASSIFIEDS

CHRIST? Worsh1p Sunday at 12:30 p.m.
Communion Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.
$2.00 for a Home Concert.
First free to drop in any time.
GILL HARBURG 3-1178.
Mem. Wed. Thurs. Rehearsal for Friday phone 2-321-1564. Ask for Sandra.

UNCLASSIFIEDS

POSSIBLE SUMMER JOB

FAST & PRESENT APPLIED LOGIC
FOR WORKING STUDENTS

Everyone interested in working on a Summer Youth Employment Program providing support as an applied logic workbook.
Organizing Meeting:

Tuesday, Feb. 10, 10:30 a.m.
Philosophy Common Room

Contact Philosophy TAs

or contact:

Prof. Bialik

Ext. 429

Missing:

LARGEST APARTMENT for rent.
Downtown location near market.
Ideal for students. $45 plus utilities.
Call 464-3007 after 6 p.m.

LOSE: Canvas book cover white on gold $4.44.34.

FOUND: One pair of men's black gloves in the Lance office, 2nd floor, University Centre. Owner please pick them up soon.

AMATEUR STAMP COLLECTORS
wishes to exchange foreign stamps
with other collectors. Contact
Rosemary, 3111 W. J.

A MUST for Valentine's Day: "Love
Wings" (Personal Telegram Service).
Striking telegrams for all occasions.
Special requests acceptable. We do anything reasonable. (Mini-
15.00, 2-325-9991 or 2-367-0250.

RETRIEV - Feb. 7 – 9:30 a.m.
- 10 a.m. at York University Centre.
- Cost $7 for students.
- This course includes lunch and susp.
- For information or to register call
2-324-2122.

THE SIC'S INCOME TAX NOTICE IS COMING

GIVE A SWEETHEART A ROSE

THURSDAY February 12
FRIDAY February 13

NEWORIENTAL LOOK
Singing Paravonly
MAD inertia

GIVE A SWEETHEART A ROSE

THURSDAY February 12
FRIDAY February 13

NEWORIENTAL LOOK
Singing Paravonly
MAD inertia

Diana's "Oven Fresh" Pizza
179 West University Avenue
SPEED DELIVERY
252-3273

Don't look any further your resume service is right here!

Each resume will be finished in approximately one and a half weeks with your cooperation. You have a choice of paper colour, print style, and other little "extras" at no extra charge; check us out.

For more information contact
THE LANCE office, 2nd floor, University Centre or phone 253-4060

Page Resumes - Typewriter only

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>50 copies</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75 copies</td>
<td>$12.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100 copies</td>
<td>$15.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Resumes Hours

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Day</th>
<th>Hours</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Monday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuesday</td>
<td>1 pm - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday</td>
<td>11 am - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

They require $5.00 deposit required before work is begun on the resumes.
Some students calling for post-tenure review

by Wendy Coomber

There is a motion presently before the Senate that should have tenured employees here on their toes for a while. In fact, it seems to have had that effect already.

Eric Dixon, student senator, and David Simmons, SAC president, yesterday introduced a motion to the Senate concerning post-tenure review.

The whole concept of tenure, said Dixon, is to allow teachers to teach without being harassed, not to give them a job for life. The motion, he said, will ensure professors remain productive years after they have been hired.

We have the highest percentage of tenured professors in Ontario, said Simmons, and we need some means whereby the professor could be assessed to allow them to make changes for improvement.

We're being positive, said the SAC president. The motion, he said, is "to encourage them to do what they're supposed to do."

The Faculty Association "is obsessed with this academic freedom bit," said Dixon who, with Simmons, thought the Faculty Association was over-reacting on the matter.

The very, very cold weather this week cancelled some classes and drove some people to drink, some people to Florida, and some people (like this gentleman) to both (but more of the former).

Unfortunately, this games room driver had a bit too much of the sauce and crashed into an electronic short-circuited.

President Mervyn Franklin

Franklin comes down from the Tower for chat with students

by E.P. Chant

A letter from one campus president to another has resulted in the setting of what could be an action-packed meeting on February 23.

On that day, at 2:30 p.m., university president Dr. Mervyn Franklin, at Students' Administrative Council President David Simmons' invitation, will meet with campus students to discuss the recently announced 10 percent provincial tuition increase and the possible Board of Governors' approved addition to that increase. The meeting will take place in the University Centre.

In addition to inviting Franklin to such a meeting, Simmons' letter also suggested the establishment of a joint committee of five member of the Board of Governors and five SAC members to examine the situation, and an open Board of Governors' meeting to examine any proposed increase.

Franklin did not respond to these requests in his letter, simply because he cannot unilaterally change established Board of Governors' policy. What he did say (in a letter to Simmons in February 10) was:

"I believe that a meeting with students to provide information and respond to concerns is very desirable. Consequently, I have directed the Division of Student Services to arrange for an open forum at the University Centre on the topic of "BDG's in Fog," page 3.

In turn, the Faculty Association sent a notice to its members on the Senate February 10 which read in part:

"The Faculty Association Executive urges all members of Senate, to give this motion the unprecipitous rejection it deserves."

"Mrs. Johanna Foster, Head of the Faculty Association defended tenure as being basic to the purpose of the university and its research. She noted tenure is one way of promoting our high academic standard and that, although the organization disapproved of tenure review, some other form of performance review would be beneficial.

Universities across the province are beginning to look at forms of tenure review. Western was looking at it earlier this year. A presidential committee recommended a three-year grace period for a professor whose performance had been found lacking to correct the problem.

Recently, the Senate Committee of Appointment, Promotion, Tenure and Leave at Queen's, while not exactly suggesting tenure review, stated that "Universities ought to try to arrange their affairs to keep more job opportunities open for young, highly qualified applicants."

At the same time, Queen's is also financing a limited number of short-term non-tenure positions. Queen's has 80 percent tenured staff right now and they predict very few vacancies in the future, saying presently there is an average of only 10 retirements per year.

The Senate meeting here dealing with this issue was taking place yesterday (Thursday) as The Lance went to press. A report will be in next week's issue.

Controversial professor resigns

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dave Dueck, the University of Winnipeg collegiate teacher who recently asked a student to leave his class because the student was homosexual, has resigned from his teaching position.

Dean of Collegiate John Van derstoel cited "philosophical incompatibility" as the reason for Dueck's resignation and stated that the recent controversy surrounding the homosexual student incident had been a major influence in Dueck's decision.

"This has been an ongoing thing," Van derstoel said. "Mr. Dueck has never been comfortable with the collegiate's secular policy, and feels that he can not continue as it stands now. The gay incident was a regrettable error by Dueck, but it is not the reason behind his leaving."

It was reported two weeks ago in the University of Winnipeg student newspaper, The Uniter, that Dueck asked the leader of the U of W gay students' association, Greg Cymenko, to leave the classroom where Dueck had a guest lecturer speaking.

"I was trying to protect the guest lecturer," Dueck said. "I felt that if Greg, who is gay, sat beside the lecturer, the class might think that he too was homosexual. I didn't think it would be fair to the lecturer."

Vanderstoel said, prior to Dueck's resignation, the dean met with members of the faculty to determine what course of action would be taken with Dueck.

"They were shocked," Van derstoel said. "It hit pretty close to home, when one of your peers does something stupid like that."

Vanderstoel would not say what faculty decided to do about Dueck.

Dueck insists the incident involving the homosexual student was not discriminatory. "The student was not a regular member of my class. As an instructor I felt it would be in the best interests of my class if the student was asked to leave."

Dueck has taught math and film studies at the collegiate since 1967.

"My cup runneth over"

Does this happen to you? You're not alone. See "The Fortnighter", page 4.
Stuart Smith liberally answers political queries

by E. P. Chant

Preceding introduction as "Mr. Premier" by Students' Administrative Council Vice-President Jim Shaban, provincial Liberal leader Dr. Stuart Smith was on campus Monday afternoon garnering votes in this, the Deep South.

After a brief opening speech ("I'm confident most people in Ontario will feel the need for change" - a change from the incumbent Conservative government in the election on March 19), Smith answered the questions of those students packed into the Main-Most Courtroom in the Law Faculty building.

The first question, asked by SAC President David Simmons, dealt with the timetable the province would use if elected. The Conservatives' recently announced tuition increase would not be instituted.

Also in the educational vein, after such operating grants to universities should be raised, the province would encourage the birth of polytechnical institutes such as Ryerson, and universities should be the centres of research and development in Ontario and be supported in such work by private industry.

On other issues, Smith said, "Construction. Smith is basically in agreement with everything, including the controversial Charter of Rights, but thinks the federal Senate needs to be changed.

Sales tax: If elected, the Liberals would probably not reduce the sales tax, but would, instead, increase aid to small municipalities.

Bilingualism in Ontario: The community, said Smith, does not need this kind of legislation, but does need bilingual universities and hospitals. The Liberals would study such things, in some communities "as numbers warrant" - this to be determined by a non-political committee.

OHIP: Payment to physicians under the present plan should increase to raise the doctors' rates to those of other provinces. This would keep doctors in OHIP, and Campaign promises: "I'll take a long campus and a lot of promises to match $1.5 billion dollars" (the Conser-}

Security is a little lacking

by Laurel Brandt

During most of the year, male guests at Laurier Hall are required to be signed in and receive passes before they can get above the first floor. The pass system was not in effect while the university was shut down for the Christmas holidays. Staying in residence at that time were mainly foreign students and St. Clair College students.

On January 13, one of the residents of Laurier was touched in the shower by a man who managed to get past the security gate. The man got above the first floor.

For the past several months, even while normal security procedures have been in effect, there have been problems with a "Peeping Tom" in Electa Hall.

The Director of Residence, Dave McMurray, acknowledges problems, but says that it is difficult to do much.

Grant Melver, the Director of Security, explained that the residence buildings are randomly patrolled for intruders. During holidays, extra patrols are made to check for vandals, trespassers, and fire hazards. There are also patrols made outside the buildings.

The main problems encountered do not involve security, but usually people unconnected with the university.

Security has increased alarms on most of the buildings of the university. There are none in residence areas, but that is difficult to do much.

Security usually responds in under five minutes. In the past, only the Security officers or police have been on duty with intruders.

A woman officer has been added to the Security force, Mary Ann Elliott. Distraught students may find it easier to talk to another woman, and Melver says the former Windsor policewoman is "doing excellently."

To avoid an incident, Melver advises students not to land out their keys, and lock their rooms at all times. Engraving a student or Social Insurance number or valuables, a project similar to Operation Identification which is used extensively in the United States, is also a good idea.

The Director of Residence explained that, when the University is closed down for the holidays, staff is cut back. Security at the residences suffers at these times. The U of W Security force makes random patrols, mainly in the public areas and sometimes in the hallways.

A suggested alternative, having all residents live in two buildings during holidays, would not be well received. McMurray claims. He feels students prefer their autonomy and the independence of living in the building of their own choice.

He suggests that the hope of the future lies in a new student Security force which is being set up now and should be out implemented in the fall. Similar programs have been successful at other universities including Western and Queen's.

The biggest security problems are in the residences last year were broken windows and stolen signs. McMurray hopes the peer pressure of a student security force would cut down on these problems. He also hopes students could organize residence patrols at times when the university is shut down.

The Student Services Committee is in charge of putting together the student Security program. Ken Long, the Dean of Students, is coordinating efforts to implement the program.

He feels everyone will benefit from the program. Studies have shown working students do better in their studies.

There are plenty of students who want employment. The university will have a lot of security.

He sees the function of student security as similar to that of the student ambassadors. Student Security people could be useful at sporting events, concerts, or the pub. They would have the authority to assist when or where requested to make sure no one is a door. However, they would not be allowed to have license enforcement.

Meanwhile, some Laurier residents avoid being alone, lingering in the old adage of "safety in numbers."

The Diary of Ten Boom

The true-life story of Corrie Ten Boom, a former Nazi prisoner, will be presented in the motion picture, The Hiding Place, on February 26 at 7:00 p.m. in room 117 of the Math Building.

This story of tragedy and victory shares the experiences of a Christian family that was willing to risk all for others. The Ten Boom family aided the Dutch underground during the German occupation of World War II by hiding Jews in a secret room in their house.

Tickets will be available at the door and one week in advance at the University Centre. Cost: $3.00. The movie is sponsored by four on-campus groups: InterVarsity Christian Fellowship, Windsor Chinese Christian Fellowship, Southeast Asian Chinese Bible Fellowship, and Young Life.
The following is the record of two articles on a person's potential interactions with the police. This week, we discuss arrests and bail procedures, as well as the removal of a criminal record.

Arrests will often be under the power of a warrant to arrest. A warrant is in order from a justice of the peace which authorizes the arrest of a per­son suspected of having committed a criminal offence. These warrants will be served by the police in most cases. A warrant is not always necessary, however, for a legal arrest to be made.

A peace officer may arrest without warrant anyone found in the act of committing a criminal offence. He may also arrest any person whom he knows, or rea­sonably believes, has committed or is about to commit an indictable or serious offence. In making an arrest, the officer is authorized to use only the amount of force required and he must inform the individual, if asked, why the arrest is being made unless it is obvious from the circumstances.

If you are stopped by the police because they suspect you of having committed an offence, the police officer has three alternatives. First, he may formally place you under arrest in which case you must accompany him to the police station. Instead, he may issue you with an “appearance notice”. This document will contain your name, the offence alleged and the time and place at which you must attend at court to answer the charge. If an appearance notice is issued, you are free to go about your business until the day set for your appearance in court.

The third alternative is to release you immediately without charge to have a summons sent to you. A summons is authorized by a justice of the peace and will contain the charge and date of hearing. Failure to obey an ap­pearance notice or summons is a very serious offence, probably more serious than the original charge.

In Canada an accused must be granted bail for most offenses unless the Crown Attorney can show cause why bail should be denied. In effect, the prosecutor must establish that detention is necessary in the public interest; that is, for the protection and safety of the pub­lic, or that detention is necessary to ensure the accused’s attendance in court.

The justice of the peace can impose several conditions if he decides to release the accused. First, he may order that the accused remain in a particular geographical area. As well, the accused or a surety (someone who acts on behalf of the accused) may be required to prom­ise to pay a sum of money should the accused fail to appear in court for trial. Finally, the accused or a surety may be required to make a cash deposit. This cash de­posit must be a reasonable amount and should not be large as to be equivalent to a sentence.

Remember, you have a right to see a justice of the peace within 24 hours.

A criminal record arises from a registered conviction for a criminal offence and can have far-reaching effects on an individual.

Employment can be difficult to obtain for one who holds a criminal record. Jobs which require bonding, civil service jobs and many professions (for example, law) may be closed to the holder of a criminal record. If you are not a citizen of Canada and are convicted of certain offences, you could be deported. Further, entry into other countries could be denied to you just as any­one wishing to enter Canada could be forbidden to do so because of a prior criminal record.

A criminal record can be removed if a pardon is granted. Applications for pardon can be made to the Federal Parole Board after a waiting period of two years for a summary conviction offence and five years for an indictable offence.

If one requires further information on any items mentioned in this article, contact the Community Legal Aid Office in the basement of the Law School. Tele­phone number 253-7150 or ext. 160.

Theft and mutilation all in the life of a library book

by Kishor Oza

The university’s Liddy Li­brary continues to experience a growing theft problem. "We can easily steal from us", said head librarian Al Mate.

Despite the guards and the electronic devices, people manage to steal over 500 books annually, costing taxpayers...

FROM PAGE ONE

BOG’s in a fog

Monday, February 23rd at 2:30 p.m. I anticipate that this meet­ing will help me to carry student opinion to the Board level. In the meantime, I trust you will be inviting many students to attend as possible.

In a phone interview on Tues­day, Franklin said he did not think any Board of Governors members would be at the meet­ing. "I am the president and serve as the liaison between the students and the Board," he said.

Last week, Franklin said a travel agency, key to Windsor and be­yond the provincially-organized one probably would not be dis­cussed by the Board of Gover­nors until March or possibly April. The Board is waiting for reports from various budget offices in the administra­tion.

The Students’ Administrative Council will be holding a general meeting on Thursday, February 19th, 1980 at 5:00 pm in S10 Windsor Hall.

MEMBERS, PLEASE CHECK MAILBOXES FOR AGENDAS. IF MEMBERS CANNOT ATTEND, PLEASE CONTACT JIM SHABAN IN THE SAC OFFICE.

ALL STUDENTS WELCOMED.
Thanks for providing the text. Here is the plain text representation:

Editorial

NEWS ITEM: President Franklin to meet with students about tuition increases in open forum

... and I'm sure you're going to ask me some challenging, mature questions...

Listen very closely now, put your little ears up against the page, because what I'm about to tell you now you'll never learn in a Communications Studies' class.

Any avid Lance reader (and I know there are thousands of you) just had to notice the primitive artwork on page 10 of last week's (February 6) issue. I bet you even stayed up all night wondering what was beneath those sticky scratchy puerile attempts to conceal one of our infrequent masterpieces of news and light reading.

You see, in this mass medium there are certain things that you can and cannot print/advertise. The Lance found out, and we crossed that mistake out of all five thousand copies just so we would not forget again. It advertised a special price for beer and liquor.

“Doug and the Slugs” were scheduled to play in SAC’s pub February 23. It was then rather abruptly changed to the location of Ambassador Auditorium by SAC President David Simmons and an advertisement was inserted in The Lance to that effect by the Students’ Administrative Council.

Little did we know, however, what was brewing in the minds of SAC executive members Brad Mitchell, Mark LaCasce, Simmons, and pub manager Jody Stanton. One little, seemingly innocent, phone call to the Lance’s printer (where the paper had just been sent) by Special Events Commissioner Mark LaCasce, informing us that the concert was “back in the pub set The Lance’s advertising director, Mark D. Greene, to wildly pull out the “Ambassador Auditorium” part and reinsert “SAC’s Pub”. Just those two little words and the pub could have been out of a liquor licence.

What caused the problem was the “subsidization” (special price on booze) bit. In the auditorium the concert could have been considered “a special event” and the tab left over after subsidization could be picked up by the SAC office. In the pub, there could be such a tab because the concert would be thought just another night in the pub by the Liquor Licensing Board.

The advertisement was no one’s fault in particular but rather a collective lapse on the parts of the pub, SAC, and the Central Bureau of Advertising (Mark Greene for short).

The problem might not have ever arisen if the subsidy had not been published in the first place but, said Greene, “it was my understanding that it would be pushed in two days prior to publishing, that a subsidy in this circumstance was acceptable.”

Stanton, in an interview, said subsidization is not legal with the type of licence held by the pub. She called the LCBO director immediately after discovering the ad, which was minutes after the paper was out. The Liquor Control Board told her not to release the paper or to get rid of the ad. Naturally, she didn’t think to tell you. The ones down our little inky fingers and released a chorus of “freedom of the press”, and all that.

At the second solution, we slowly began hauling the bundles of Lance (each holding 150 copies), feebly crying out for black magic markers, and mechanically drew the intoxicating ink over four lines of the “Doug and the Slugs” ad, 5,000 times for three and a half hours.

Luckily, this writer and two others skipped off for Ottawa after only a couple of hours, but then that’s another story.

Stanton said the concert was changed back to the pub because the event is on a Monday, an early week night, and she felt the appeal of the pub would be greater than that of the auditorium.

And the moral of the story is ... (guess) communication! See, we’re all supposed to be communicators, up here at The Lance anyway. All it takes is one little slip of the tongue and you find yourself in hot water. What a way to start the week off.

By Wendy Coomber

---

Fortnighter

BY CHRIS WOODROW

Isn’t it always the little things in life that succeed in aggravating one the most? Niggling them though as they are, they always manage to get one’s dander up to such a degree that frustrations win the day, making logical and rational action impossible.

One species that constantly frustrates me are vending machines, particularly those tricky ones that refuse to disperse coffee and other similar stimulants. It’s very difficult to be pleasant to an impersonal machine solely intent on swallowing your change and, if you’re lucky, giving you something in return.

I have grown accustomed during my years at this university to taking a cup of coffee with me to class, particularly those that start at 9:00 a.m., to wake me up and generally help me enter the day in a semi-coherent state. Lately this has become impossible because Canesten Canada, in its infinite wisdom, has decided it deems fit to stock its machines with lids that in no way come close tofitting the cups.

Even the most skilful and dexterous having a hard time trying to fit the lid on the cup. Maybe Canesten Canada is giving a prize to the lucky contestants who happens to find a cup and lid that go together. My advice is to hang on to a cup and lid that go together because very soon the combination will be valuable. If you see people walking to class carrying empty cups, don’t ask what’s going on. They’re doing it to save money, and you’ll have to do the same to fix, the machine gives you a stream of hot water. The lid doesn’t fit and the coffee spills out, people will buy more, thus increasing their profit margin. It sounds silly but, where Canesten Canada is concerned, can tell what they’re thinking?

While we’re on the subject of vending machines, have you ever tried to fit a lid on a cup of hot chocolate from a Canesten of Canada machine? It’s well nigh impossible. The cup is half full or half empty of chocolate, but when the machine adds the brown foam to make it appear realistic, it always gives you too much. When the lid goes on, everybody within ten feet gets sprayed with hot chocolate foam.

The most infuriating thing about the machines is that sometimes they get your order wrong. A few times I have asked the machine for a regular coffee, only to get lemon tea. Either the person filling the machine is waging a personal vendetta on students, usually those who frequently the Math Building or the machine hates you. Complain until you’re blue in the face, but it has no effect: kick the monster, swea at it, do whatever you want, the damn thing always works.

On Monday mornings, when you most need a caffeine fix, the machine gives you a stream of hot water. The charity of the machine is matched only by the lunacy of the person it is apparently filled with. The machine makes the noise it’s meant to make, but when you lift your cup out, struggle with the lid, and finally get to class, you discover a cup of hot water. What a way to start the week off.

I guess the thing to do is work for Canesten Canada. They no doubt have fresh brewed coffee in their offices.
If Bette says they're good then they must be

SAC behind in human rights

Dear Editor:
The December 13th, 1980 issue of The Lance carried an item under the heading "Council Supports Exes". Part of the article dealt with an attempt by the S.A.C. to have the former student body vice/secretary, Dr. Bette Stephenson, changed by members of the Ontario Human Rights Code. SAC behind in human rights

Dear Editor:
Unfortunately, the letter to the Editor appeared under the heading "Dear Editor." Could you please clarify this? The letter seems to be about an event that took place on February 13, 1981.

Wurfel not red but is Lance yellow?

Dear Editor:
This letter is a response to the previous letter, "Wurfel not red but is Lance yellow?" It seems to be about an event that took place on February 13, 1981.

Let's talk turkey

Dear Editor:
With regards to your treatment of the editor's statement, it seems that the editor was trying to address an issue that may have been caused by a lack of communication or understanding. It is possible that the editor was trying to convey a message about the continuation of certain practices or policies that they felt were not being adequately addressed.

NOTE: From now on, if you don't type your letters, they don't run - The Editor

Mail Call

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 18, February 13, 1981, Page Five

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's offices at the Student Activity Building. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for length and reserves the right to edit all letters for content. Letters should be submitted by Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.
A journey to the centre of a CUPpy’s heart

by Ed McMahon and Wendy Coomber

Carleton University played host to delegates from across the province this past weekend as the Ontario Region of the Canadian University Press (ORCUP) met to discuss policy and planning for the region. The Lance sent three delegates, Wendy Coomber, Peter Haggart, and Ed McMahon. The conference was highlighted by the visit of Paul Jones, newly-hired Executive Director of Canadian University Press (CUP) Media Services, a national advertising agency formed recently by CUP.

Also of note was a seminar on newspaper ethics conducted by professor Joe Sceldon of the Journalism Department at Carleton. The professor, a well-known “cut-throat” newspaperman, gave everyone a lesson in the myth of conscience and unbiased, objective reporting. In other words, he made his largely idealistic listeners question their motives in scooping the “big story”.

The Canadian University Press is a co-operative of university and college newspapers from across the country. There are approximately 65 member papers in the co-operative. The Lance is a prospective member paper in CUP. As such our paper receives certain benefits from that organization but does not have an official vote in their national elections. The Lance was a strong member of CUP until it pulled out of the organization recently. But is always faced with the choice of whether it wants to join again or not. We’ll be facing that decision once more this December.

ST. DENIS HALL
1890 - 1981
A TRIBUTE

FEB. 18, 1981
LAST REGULAR SCHEDULED
O.U.A.A. BASKETBALL GAME,
LANCERS vs U.W.O. MUSTANGS
STARTING TIME — 8:00 pm

SPECIAL HALF-TIME SHOW
STUDENTS $2.00
PASSES $2.00
NON-STUDENTS $3.00

You meet all kinds —
at The Lance.
Join us, the student journalists on the Second Floor of the Centre.
Flakes allowed.

Picture ID not fair

Dear Editor,

As a Canadian and a student, I feel alienated from the idea of pictorial ID and its associated concepts.

The university should not be considered by itself. It is, in law, part of our country and spirit, part of every country. We make students welcome here from all over the world.

The university is a public institution maintained by taxes, not by student fees. The public’s right to use the universities, libraries is an integral part of a society which believes in the civil liberties of the individual rather than in the regimentation of a totalitarian regime.

The idea that students should take precedence over non-students at the pub is contemptible. After all, who built the Student Centre? The taxpayers of the Soviet Union? There should be no more need for ID at the pub than at any other public house.

Pictorial ID would result in an erosion of our rights to privacy and dignity. Except to those with movie-star faces, it would be an embarrassing form of identification. It would be a nuisance at registration.

Imagine what an uproar there would be if the National Department of Citizenship and Immigration decided to mandate pictorial Social Insurance cards! The members of SAC who oppose pictorial ID are defenders of the freedom that should be found in a free and open society like ours, the pub notwithstanding. It should be opened up too. This is Canada, not just a few university buildings.

If the acts of the Ontario legislature which are the legal instruments under which the administration operates are examined, it may be seen that unnecessary bureaucratic rules and procedures can be challenged in a court of law. Lawsuits and the threat of lawsuits may be an effective way to prevent the thriftless use of time and money by the administration and the mindless expansion of bureaucratic power.

The most unfortunate effect of pictorial ID will not be its complete uselessness. Most depressing of all will be a measurable feeling of discomfort and self-consciousness that will accompany this loss in individuality to an overly-rigid group conformity.

Men who should be among the most cultured and civilized among us — namely our Board of Governors — should not be as insensitive as they have been and certainly not as authoritarian. In a democracy, an issue as important as this one should be put to a vote by the student body.

David Odell,
School of Business Administration
Don't be alarmed — this is only a job interview

by Scott McCulloch

Irene Schen of the Student Placement Office will be giving a studentship lecture this week concerning the interview and what employers really want. The place to start is with a fact: Ford and Chrysler may move to a separate service, unlike private employment agencies. To help it find interviewers, the CECS has hired three supervisors, high school and university students have an effective place to begin their search.

The centre, said supervisor Paul Chemish in an interview, is there "to find students for employers and employers for students." Last year, mainly in June and July, approximately 3,000 students found work through the CECS.

This year, said Chemish, the office "plans to surpass all figures from before" he admitted that would be difficult concerning the city's economic situation.

Next week, the supervisors will begin the "employer relations" phase of their jobs which entails soliciting jobs from city employers. Chemish explained that the severe decline and layoffs in the manufacturing sector would mean a shortage of factory jobs for students. Ford and Chrysler would be "big zeroes," he said, while General Motors would be hiring some but certainly not as many as in the past.

Instead, Chemish is expecting a lot of "householding" jobs for high school students (carrying grass, painting) and sales and service jobs for university students. In addition, some summer Canada (SumCan) youth employment projects will be devised by government and, Chemish thinks, a number of young people will be placed in the military.

Part-time jobs will also be available to university summer school students.

One of the major advantages of the CECS is that it is a free service, unlike private employment agencies. To help it find you a job, however, you should register early — as soon as possible. The CECS office is presently located in the main federal employment office at 467 University Ave. (224-1611, Ext. 374). It is possible that the service may move to a separate office later this spring (as it did last year), but that is not definite yet. In April, however, all records from the Student Placement Office in this campus are moved into the general city office.

The three CECS supervisors are also looking for 10 underlings to work as Student Placement Officers. If you don't know what "underlings" means, you're probably too stupid for the job, but, if you do, call the above number or the office on campus (254-2152 or campus extension 269).

Schen stresses the importance of "doing your homework" and finding out something about the company to which you're applying. "Bring a list of questions in with you if you want. It shows you're interested. That's the most important thing," Schen feels. "Don't be too laid-back. Make each employer feel you're interested only in them."

Schen doesn't neglect the importance of appropriate dress either. "Do anything you can to set you apart from the rest. If you're well dressed, it makes a good impression as soon as you walk in the door."

The Student Placement Office has a list of seventy popular interview questions. "Some of these don't apply," she admits. "But it's surprising how many come up again and again. Some employers might even ask you to tell a story. They're just interested in how you field questions, how you handle yourself. They know the technical stuff from the resume. The interview is just a question of personalities clicking."

Schen tells students not to be discouraged if they are rejected even after they feel an interview has gone well. "It just means someone had something more," she says. "You have to consider the market. If you feel you have some drawback, you should come talk to myself or Pat Pare. Pare, of the Writing Development Center, will be doing a studentship lecture on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Speaker's Pit about "the resume," and has worked closely with Schen over the years.

"I've done the lecture for other groups too," Schen says. "Law students, the Home & club, fourth year social workers. If your group would like to hear it, Stuart Moungave (Manager of the Student Placement Office) or myself would be glad to do it."

Don't wait til summer

by F.P. Chant

Economically depressed Windsor in the winter is not a particularly wonderful time or place to think about getting a job in the good ol' summertime, but it's time to start the search nevertheless.

Now that the Canada Employment Centre for Students (CECS) has hired its three supervisors, high school and university students have an effective place to begin their search.

The centre, said supervisor Paul Chemish in an interview, is there "to find students for employers and employers for students." Last year, mainly in June and July, approximately 3,000 students found work through the CECS.

This year, said Chemish, the office "plans to surpass all figures from before" he admitted that would be difficult concerning the city's economic situation.

Next week, the supervisors will begin the "employer relations" phase of their jobs which entails soliciting jobs from city employers. Chemish explained that the severe decline and layoffs in the manufacturing sector would mean a shortage of factory jobs for students. Ford and Chrysler would be "big zeroes," he said, while General Motors would be hiring some but certainly not as many as in the past.

Instead, Chemish is expecting a lot of "householding" jobs for high school students (carrying grass, painting) and sales and service jobs for university students. In addition, some summer Canada (SumCan) youth employment projects will be devised by government and, Chemish thinks, a number of young people will be placed in the military.

Part-time jobs will also be available to university summer school students.

One of the major advantages of the CECS is that it is a free service, unlike private employment agencies. To help it find you a job, however, you should register early — as soon as possible. The CECS office is presently located in the main federal employment office at 467 University Ave. (224-1611, Ext. 374). It is possible that the service may move to a separate office later this spring (as it did last year), but that is not definite yet. In April, however, all records from the Student Placement Office in this campus are moved into the general city office.

The three CECS supervisors are also looking for 10 underlings to work as Student Placement Officers. If you don't know what "underlings" means, you're probably too stupid for the job, but, if you do, call the above number or the office on campus (254-2152 or campus extension 269).

Schen stresses the importance of "doing your homework" and finding out something about the company to which you're applying. "Bring a list of questions in with you if you want. It shows you're interested. That's the most important thing," Schen feels. "Don't be too laid-back. Make each employer feel you're interested only in them."

Schen doesn't neglect the importance of appropriate dress either. "Do anything you can to set you apart from the rest. If you're well dressed, it makes a good impression as soon as you walk in the door."

The Student Placement Office has a list of seventy popular interview questions. "Some of these don't apply," she admits. "But it's surprising how many come up again and again. Some employers might even ask you to tell a story. They're just interested in how you field questions, how you handle yourself. They know the technical stuff from the resume. The interview is just a question of personalities clicking."

Schen tells students not to be discouraged if they are rejected even after they feel an interview has gone well. "It just means someone had something more," she says. "You have to consider the market. If you feel you have some drawback, you should come talk to myself or Pat Pare. Pare, of the Writing Development Center, will be doing a studentship lecture on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Speaker's Pit about "the resume," and has worked closely with Schen over the years.

"I've done the lecture for other groups too," Schen says. "Law students, the Home & club, fourth year social workers. If your group would like to hear it, Stuart Moungave (Manager of the Student Placement Office) or myself would be glad to do it."

Seagram's V.O.
Canada's most respected 8 year old whisky.
Photo by Heidi Pammer
Images of the Sun

Sun shining warm currents

send us on our warmer course

shady and brown

wanting to fly

and the sun shines

but shines not on me

seagulls high on-bright-beat

I shout at the waves who hear not the side is in and the sun shines

though it be on images of the sea

Chris G. Vaillacourt

I stare the loneliness

of you

the hope had withered

and they lay forgotten

in the corner

while we lay in the next room

each wondering why

we shared each other's dreams

they left us dizzy and free

they lie between us now only half touched and litter

very buckled.

Rosamund

John Lennon's Killer

mark my words he was a good chap man I believed in his music brought his records and he was beautiful like a real Jesus you know his voice really rocked me let me write this way:

all my life I've been this frightening failure I had to do something important something people would remember my face for my house didn't matter when my mouth asked them to sell my hands that undercover toy gun they took at money always more than the price of eyes you could be a nobody as some feat god's can

I think of it as a holy mission you know that there's a kind of life I'd just had to be someone and also, I was chosen because

I loved the man enough to truly free him...

he's a saint now, he's part of everyone

I pray and I cower with the same peace keeps like he's in us and saw us grow and more because us living always carry our head carefully and you know he trained me just another chap, man like my shirt wasn't marked to his

and this dragon lived from my hand I was standing mother, your death it was more than any life for something people must remember me for

Tony Canning

EXIT - ENTER

There comes the store what the sun must leave the sky

It says goodbye and all that can be heard is to be

And in that time between sleep and sunset comes the image of dreams

Somewhere I perceive an unknown other and Melinda my former just a word

You and I were gone from this world,

yet I am in your life

To be a poet, an artist, an actor – to control the emotions of the possible

All these things I can be

All these things I am...

When dreams become real and all reality goes

Linda McKeone

A Painting of a Woman

Leaves pressed between pages, beginning a story of the same.

A time of unfinished touches.

In a Painting of a Woman.

Unwritten letters of love

in a stack of memories.

Masses of yellow and mustard, and a man with soft words and gentle touches.

In a Painting of a Woman.

Memories of laughter and tears on the fingers and warm amorous and moist.

Warm, tendering the neck and shoulders,

so soft, like the velvet.

In a Painting of a Woman.

Looking through distant eyes, growing memorial of pain, from where do the sorrowful died,

trying to reach the goal of a distant sky

in a Painting of a Woman.

Pictures in a book, that not a story of the time,

A time of unfulfilled miracles, that complete

A Painting of a Woman!

Karen Stark

A Country Field in Late December

Pine trees,

Peaches

crab for warm.

Unanswerable

question

under the Christmas green fir, our home in the wilderness.

This ones been lightly,

The snow has piled

as if crushed condiments had been sprinkled lightly.

Barbie Hellar
Stuttz, Blue Maxx and Applause come for slack week

It’s been a good week for double letters.

Maybe, as it is “Slack Week” in the pub, just maybe they employed bands who can’t spell (air) on purpose.

Monday through Wednesday Stuttz was on hand to entertain. Their heavy metal sound provided ample warmth for those who braved the early week’s weather.

The sound of Van Halen was typical of the groups performance.

The lead vocals were close to those of Ian Gillan, former lead vocalist of Deep Purple. Slack Week yes, but these guys were no slackers!

Thursday night saw the lead vocalist of Deep Purple.

Almost every music lover enhanced himself standing on a stage, with crowds of people cheering, and camera flashes, as he picked up his instrument and began to play. Many dream of becoming rich and famous, but for most, it will remain just a dream!

According to Turner, part-time professor of music at the University of Windsor and trombone player with The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the chances of playing professionally are a million to one against you.

“Sex doesn’t matter”

“The competition is rough, and the market is small.”

During the seminar (part of the School of Music Wednesday-3r lectures) last week, Turner attempted to explain the job market by saying that the total number of possible job openings in the Michigan area next year will be below six, and the number of people trying for these openings will exceed two hundred. Only “those with the best grades, skills and ability will stand a chance.”

According to Turner, the quality of music instruction in our grade schools and high schools is very poor and does not prepare students for the rigid program at university. Thus, students must be retrained in all disciplines of music and taught to drop bad habits learned earlier, so as to prepare them for what lies ahead.

Role of schooling

The role of the university and the professors is to train the students so that they can meet the competition, but the rest of it is to the individual. “The only way to beat your competitor is to be the best, and that requires ambition and hard work. But many students have no ideas as to where they are going or what they will do. And often they are not prepared for the competition,” said Turner.

“Music is not a science, it is an art. One that requires a great deal of discipline and sacrifice!”

Turner went on to say that he would not discourage any music enthusiast from seeking a career in music, “even though the market is tight, there is room if you are good, and have the drive to succeed!”

There is always room for a good teacher, and that perhaps is where most of the jobs today are, and if your ‘bag’ is to perform, then you can always work freelance, but there is no security and you will make enough just to eat and pay the rent.

If you do not find work at all, the discipline which you learn from playing an instrument will help you in life and in any other field that you may choose. This, says Turner, is what justifies us teaching hundreds of kids when we know only a handful will make it.

The situation is exactly the same for women as it is for men, but in some instances it may be harder for the women. In both cases, however, the chances for employment are better in the United States than in Canada, even through Canada is stressing the hiring of Canadian rather than American talent, because of the larger market and demand. Your chances in California or New York would be much better than anywhere in Canada!

The key ingredients to success in the music industry, or any of the other arts, is 1% inspiration, 99% hard work and a whole lot of luck!!

Westend Farm Market
2175 Wyandotte W.
(WYANDOTTE & RANDOLPH)
FRESH FRUITS & VEG NATURAL FOODS
CHINESE FOOD PRODUCTS
SPECIALIZING IN FRUIT BASKETS
SPECIAL CONSIDERATION TO UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR COMMUNITY
Open Mon - Fri 10am - 9pm
Sat 10am - 8pm
Sun 10am - 7pm

THE ALLIGATOR SHIRT is there any other?
Bond Clothes Shop
365 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions

 GREEN EYES
 Putting this here I save a buck
 In reminding you on you I’m stuck
 Please don’t think I’ve need to be cheap
 For rich I am with your love to keep!
 Love your admirer

Stuttz was in the pub Monday through Wednesday.
THE CINEMA CRITIC

FORT APACHE, THE BRONX

by Rosemari Comisso

Fort Apache, The Bronx, is an exemplary cowboys and Indians movie set in, no, not the wild, wild, west of the past, but in the eastern, urban sprawl of the present. The film is a life-like dramatization of two cops, performing their "routine" duties, at the 41st precinct, in "The Bronx". Notorious for having the highest crime rate in New York City, this precinct is appropriately named, "Fort Apache".

Paul Newman's portrayal of officer Murphy will more than likely become another one of his "classic" roles, comparable to those in Hud and Cool Hand Luke. Like Fast Eddy in The Hustler, Murphy is confronted with the sudden and tragic death of a local one, and, the scene in Fort Apache is just as memorable. It is Newman's finest moment.

Paul's new protege, Ken Hahl, is destined to follow in the famed footsteps of Newman's former celluloid sidekick, Robert Redford. Wahl as Murphy's partner, officer Corelli, may lack the polish and experience that Redford has but the talent is there and his future looks promising.

Murphy and Corelli answer to commanding officer Connally (Edward Asner), who is new to the 41st and determined to 'clean up' The Bronx. One of Connally's first decrees prompts concerned and angry citizens to virtually surround the precinct station-house. The scene is reminiscent of a Saturday afternoon western, with covered wagons in a circle and pioneers bravely staving off the Indians.

As Connally, Asner is, merely good. Unfortunately, he's neither 'Lou' from the Lou Grant Show, nor is he 'Mr. Grant' from The Mary Tyler Moore Show. His character is somewhere in between.

Enjoy writing?

Good news for aspiring playwrights! The Upstage Theatre of Toronto is sponsoring a National Playwriting Contest. This non-profit organization is aiming to promote works by Canadian Artists and give students the opportunity to work under the direction of a professional director. The theatre is looking for full-length plays with no more than four characters, that have never before been produced. The winning play will be staged in Toronto during August of this year. All entries or inquiries should be directed to "Upstage Theatre c/o Cathi Thompson, 595A Mount Pleasant Rd. Toronto Ont. M4P 2L8." Make sure to include a self-addressed stamped envelope for the return of your script. All entries must be postmarked by May 5, 1981.

Paul Newman, followed by his partner Ken Wahl, pursues a suspect through the streets of the South Bronx in an embattled police precinct.

Women in this film are seemingly treated with respect, and yet, their presence in the film is superfluous and unnecessary. Murphy's girlfriend, Isabella (Rachel Ticotin), is a nurse but she may as well have been a dance hall girl in the corner saloon. Perhaps the most useless female character in the entire movie is Teresa (Kathleen Biller). Although she is Corelli's fiancée, her appearance in the movie does nothing to advance the plot.

It takes a whore to steal the show and Charlotte (Pam Grier), a prostitute-junkie who manages to stay straight enough to kill a few cops and have everyone in the Bronx borough totally frantic.

Pam Grier, as Charlotte, not only mesmerizes the cops she is about to kill, she also puts the audience into a trance. Her smooth, melodic voice and rhythmic cat-like body, is no match for any cop, no matter how street-wise he is.

Despite the obvious and overdone allusions to western society in the late 1800's, Fort Apache, The Bronx is an extremely entertaining film, at the same time, it has managed to convey a social message which has raised the temper of some Bronx residents and special interest groups.

If a movie can trigger such concern and emotions, all those connected with it should be proud and stand congratulated.

Crack a pack of Colts along with the beer.
Fleetwood Mac: Live

by Neil Buhse

Some people think Fleetwood Mac are pretentious, overrated, egregious representations of the profitable brand of music that filters out of Southern California. These people even level the ultimate insult at Fleetwood Mac— they are wimpy. These critics should listen to Live.

Live can be called many things, but not wimpy. It adds a new dimension to songs which were tremendous commercial successes in their original form as well as spotlighting lesser-known but equally excellent tunes.

Much of the success of the Mac in its Buckingham-Nicks incarnation has been based on the somewhat obscure and occultballads of Stevie Nicks and the folk-based laments of Lindsey Buckingham and John McVie. These songs can be played on all radio stations, including MOR. Yet, on MOR, Fleetwood Mac might be jettisoned out of our current selection of the version of the classic "Oh Well" completed with cow bell. In fact, it is this rock emphasis which makes Live interesting. While the beautiful Nicks-McVie harmonies are not sacrificed it is the solid rhythm, vocal harmonies, guitar music, and high pitched vocals which give the energy so necessary for a successful live album.

The most exciting songs on the album are the ones in the old Fleetwood Mac style— "Oh Well" and "I'm So Afraid." The latter, though written by Buckingham with its anathetic guitar solo and ominous organ sound, is like late sixties Fleetwood Mac. "Go Your Own Way" is almost as good especially in its last two minutes but it is marred by an opening Buckingham section similar to the sound of a car being strangled.

Lovers of the Fleetwood Mac ballads will not be disappointed. "Over and Over," "Storms," "Linen and Lace," and "Over My Head" are performed with as much feeling as the originals and even more beautiful harmonies. This is partially a result of the excellent quality of the recording. Like Two, Live is digitally mastered and recorded. If there is one criticism of the album it is that it does not completely capture the feeling of the concert I saw in May primarily because of the omission of one song— "The Chain." In concert this was the second song and the lightning from an electric guitar and the bass of Buckingham and John McVie pulled out of their seats. Despite this omission Live is an entirely satisfying album which captures a band whose music defined the mid-seventies and even more beautiful harmonies. It postwar?) barrage of heavy metal and even more beautiful harmonies. It's a band whose music defined the mid-seventies and even more beautiful harmonies. It's a band whose music defined the mid-seventies and even more beautiful harmonies. It's a band whose music defined the mid-seventies and even more beautiful harmonies. It's a band whose music defined the mid-seventies and even more beautiful harmonies.

Psychedelic Furs

by John Liddle

With a name like the Psychedelic Furs you've got to wonder how the band could possibly lose. Don't be mistaken, the Psychedelic Furs do not play psychedelic music— at least not in the '60s sense that you'd expect. As well, they're a band whose songs at the modem think of images— "Flowers" is more than just a filthy scum. Like their 60's counterparts, the Furs' music has a lyrical base bordering on the expressive-narrative. In order to understand where the Furs are coming from, (somehow between England and the Twilight Zone,) proper lyrics are imperative. Most of the songs are poignant, critical-synthetic views of modern society, (or is it the lack of modern society?) in "Soap Commercial" gravel voiced lead singer Richard Butler points out to us that "this is my drugs" and this is yours and this is called a dream it's the thing with soap you use and mine is called so it is so advertised — all day on channel nine.

The most compelling songs on the album are "Flowers" and "Pulse," the latter of which only the entirely criminally-conscience would find unsettling. In "Pulse," Butler paints a surreal scene with his juxtaposition of images— "my baby paints herself red and as she's living in the city she's the bodies that scream we are all feet and all we dream is the dancer in their visual paint the sky upon the ceiling." On this track I wouldn't recommend this album to the notoriously happy. As well, they're a band whose songs at the modem think of images— "Flowers" is more than just a filthy scum. Like their 60's counterparts, the Furs' music has a lyrical base bordering on the expressive-narrative. In order to understand where the Furs are coming from, (somehow between England and the Twilight Zone,) proper lyrics are imperative. Most of the songs are poignant, critical-synthetic views of modern society, (or is it the lack of modern society?) in "Soap Commercial" gravel voiced lead singer Richard Butler points out to us that "this is my drugs" and this is yours and this is called a dream it's the thing with soap you use and mine is called so it is so advertised — all day on channel nine.

The most compelling songs on the album are "Flowers" and "Pulse," the latter of which only the entirely criminally-conscience would find unsettling. In "Pulse," Butler paints a surreal scene with his juxtaposition of images— "my baby paints herself red and as she's living in the city she's the bodies that scream we are all feet and all we dream is the dancer in their visual paint the sky upon the ceiling." On this track I wouldn't recommend this album to the notoriously happy. As well, they're a band whose songs at the modem think of images— "Flowers" is more than just a filthy scum. Like their 60's counterparts, the Furs' music has a lyrical base bordering on the expressive-narrative. In order to understand where the Furs are coming from, (somehow between England and the Twilight Zone,) proper lyrics are imperative. Most of the songs are poignant, critical-synthetic views of modern society, (or is it the lack of modern society?) in "Soap Commercial" gravel voiced lead singer Richard Butler points out to us that "this is my drugs" and this is yours and this is called a dream it's the thing with soap you use and mine is called so it is so advertised — all day on channel nine.

The most compelling songs on the album are "Flowers" and "Pulse," the latter of which only the entirely criminally-conscience would find unsettling. In "Pulse," Butler paints a surreal scene with his juxtaposition of images— "my baby paints herself red and as she's living in the city she's the bodies that scream we are all feet and all we dream is the dancer in their visual paint the sky upon the ceiling." On this track I wouldn't recommend this album to the notoriously happy. As well, they're a band whose songs at the modem think of images— "Flowers" is more than just a filthy scum. Like their 60's counterparts, the Furs' music has a lyrical base bordering on the expressive-narrative. In order to understand where the Furs are coming from, (somehow between England and the Twilight Zone,) proper lyrics are imperative. Most of the songs are poignant, critical-synthetic views of modern society, (or is it the lack of modern society?) in "Soap Commercial" gravel voiced lead singer Richard Butler points out to us that "this is my drugs" and this is yours and this is called a dream it's the thing with soap you use and mine is called so it is so advertised — all day on channel nine.

The most compelling songs on the album are "Flowers" and "Pulse," the latter of which only the entirely criminally-conscience would find unsettling. In "Pulse," Butler paints a surreal scene with his juxtaposition of images— "my baby paints herself red and as she's living in the city she's the bodies that scream we are all feet and all we dream is the dancer in their visual paint the sky upon the ceiling." On this track I wouldn't recommend this album to the notoriously happy. As well, they're a band whose songs at the modem think of images— "Flowers" is more than just a filthy scum. Like their 60's counterparts, the Furs' music has a lyrical base bordering on the expressive-narrative. In order to understand where the Furs are coming from, (somehow between England and the Twilight Zone,) proper lyrics are imperative. Most of the songs are poignant, critical-synthetic views of modern society, (or is it the lack of modern society?) in "Soap Commercial" gravel voiced lead singer Richard Butler points out to us that "this is my drugs" and this is yours and this is called a dream it's the thing with soap you use and mine is called so it is so advertised — all day on channel nine.
COLUMN

I believe...

by Steve Rice
Lancer Sports Editor

Basketball team is overlooking one man

I have seen nine of the Lancer basketball team's OUA contests thus far this season as well as having witnessed a fair percentage of exhibition matches. One thing is apparent, that the maturation of veteran starters Jim Molyneux, Stan Korosec, Phil Hermansatz and John Ritchie has given the Lancers a solid base from which to build another OUA West championship team - one that certainly has the potential to go farther.

A lot of the credit may have to go to the more relaxed mood which apparently surrounds the Windsor camp in comparison to years gone by. And the fact that the starters are given a chance to stay in the game and get hot. But that's not the point of this article.

The point is, painfully so, that there are only four names at the top of this column, and four players do not a basketball team make. Who is that fifth player? Your guess is as good as mine because apparently even the Lancer coaches don't know.

The graduation of bustling guard, now assistant coach, Vince Landry, has left a gaping hole in the Windsor team. I said at the outset of the season that it would be a sore spot, and to date nothing has happened to change my mind. But things needn't be so.

That empty spot should belong to Brian Hogan, a veteran guard who played in the shadow of Landry in his two previous years as a Lancer. But Hogan, although among the starters, shares equal time with other guards who, though talented in their own right, really can't match Hogan's abilities.

Why then is he not given more floor time? Many point to his height, or lack of it, as one reason. Hogan is only 5'9", but then Landry was no giant and he certainly got the job done. Hogan has been accused of everything from having a pair of bean knees to being prone to sluggishness on the court.

In my observation I see that when Hogan is on the floor, things start clicking. He shoots well, is willing to take the ball inside, and more than any other guard on the team, he's a playmaker. Coach Nick Grabowski agrees that Hogan is the "best ball handler on the team."

The ultimate success of this team may well lie in that key guard spot. Let's go with the man that can do the job.

OUAA needs to issue stronger penalties

Last week the OUAA legislative council of athletic directors met behind closed doors to deliberate the fate of the Gryphon Gryphons hockey key team who were on suspension by the CIAU for using ineligible players during last year's season.

The council decided that it would allow Guelph to compete in this year's playoffs, even though Guelph will not be able to take part in the Canadian championships as a result of the CIAU suspension.

As far as Grabowski was concerned, "The council has made the right decision. With no hard feelings involved, the Gryphons will play, which is what they're looking for."

Guelph loss

Windsor Lancers dominated all facets of the game Wednesday night as they felled McMaster Marauders 107-88 safe within the confines of St. Denis Hall. The win avenged an 81-83 loss the Lancers suffered at the hands of the Marauders in Mac's second place of the season.

The Lancer attack was led by the friendly giant, Stan Korosec, who topped all scores with 28 points while pulling down an almost unbelievable 27 rebounds. That, in only about 30 minutes of playing time what with rests and fouling out with just under six minutes left to play in the game.

"If he doesn't make all-Canadian this year, I don't know what they're looking at," remarked coach Nick Grabowski.

"Korosec is the best quiet man in the country," Punch said. "We can't hold him. He's raw-boned, strong with good basic talent."

Kind words

Punch, noted as the most colorful coach in the league with two technical fouls on the game to prove it, also had kind words for Windsor as a team.

"I think Windsor's the class of the league. I can't see how Guelph beat them. Nick has done a good job with the team. It's nice to see Windsor players getting a chance to stay in the game and get hot."

Phil Hermansatz was spot on his game average with 23 despite limited playing time. His shooting was top-notch.

The Lancers defeated Guelph 92-83 and move on to the quarter-finals against Brock. The teams met earlier.

"We're not a quick team and we thought we needed an extra big man. So we combat Windsor," said Gryphons coach G. Chapman. "That was the first start for Smith since the Laurier game (second game of the season)."

Like so many other opposing coaches, Chapman too had praise for the Lancers' big man.

"I was spotted in The Starting Line-Up as saying that Korosec was one of three legitimate all-Canadians. It was a compliment," Chapman said, "I didn't see anything tonight to change my mind.

The other two were York's David Coulthard and Acadia's Timotheo.

As far as Grabowski was concerned, it was Windsor's lack of offensive threat that cost them the game.

"We didn't look to the basket and the stats show it," Grabowski complained. "We took something like 50 shots (59) and you have to take more shots than that. We shot well when we did."

Lancers hit 34 of 59 shots from the floor and 15 of 20 from the line while shooting a phenomenal 41 percent.

Brock upended

Windsor banded Brock a 97-75 setback Saturday in a game which the Lancers never trailed. Stan Korosec led the attack with 16 points and 12 rebounds while Phil Hermansatz also hit double figures.

"I wasn't happy with the way we played at all," Brock coach Gene Hershey said. "We just didn't get a lot of work to do defensively."

Lancers led 49-48 at the half.

Lancerettes ready to play

The Lancerette volleyball team will compete in the pre-finals of the Ontario university championships this weekend in Waterloo. Windsor qualified for this meet by winning four of five matches at the West versus Central interlock at Laurier two weeks ago.

Overall the team played well and the game flowed smoothly. The team is up and ready to play this weekend.

But, after watching them, you have to admit it's worth it.

Those of you in attendance at Lancer basketball games this past weekend will appreciate even more the Lancers' "cool as a cucumber" approach to exhibition matches.

Those of you in attendance at Lancer basketball games this past weekend will appreciate even more the Lancers' "cool as a cucumber" approach to exhibition matches.

Lancers now 7-2 in second

by Steve Rice

Windsor Lancers dominated all facets of the game Wednesday night as they felled McMaster Marauders 107-88 safe within the confines of St. Denis Hall. The win avenged an 81-83 loss the Lancers suffered at the hands of the Marauders in Mac's second place of the season.

The Lancer attack was led by the friendly giant, Stan Korosec, who topped all scores with 28 points while pulling down an almost unbelievable 27 rebounds. That, in only about 30 minutes of playing time what with rests and fouling out with just under six minutes left to play in the game.

"If he doesn't make all-Canadian this year, I don't know what they're looking at," remarked coach Nick Grabowski.

"Korosec is the best quiet man in the country," Punch said. "We can't hold him. He's raw-boned, strong with good basic talent."

Kind words

Punch, noted as the most colorful coach in the league with two technical fouls on the game to prove it, also had kind words for Windsor as a team.

"I think Windsor's the class of the league. I can't see how Guelph beat them. Nick has done a good job with the team. It's nice to see Windsor players getting a chance to stay in the game and get hot."

Phil Hermansatz was spot on his game average with 23 despite limited playing time. His shooting was top-notch.

The Lancers defeated Guelph 92-83 and move on to the quarter-finals against Brock. The teams met earlier.

"We're not a quick team and we thought we needed an extra big man. So we combat Windsor," said Gryphons coach G. Chapman. "That was the first start for Smith since the Laurier game (second game of the season)."

Like so many other opposing coaches, Chapman too had praise for the Lancers' big man.

"I was spotted in The Starting Line-Up as saying that Korosec was one of three legitimate all-Canadians. It was a compliment," Chapman said, "I didn't see anything tonight to change my mind.

The other two were York's David Coulthard and Acadia's Timotheo.

As far as Grabowski was concerned, it was Windsor's lack of offensive threat that cost them the game.

"We didn't look to the basket and the stats show it," Grabowski complained. "We took something like 50 shots (59) and you have to take more shots than that. We shot well when we did."

Lancers hit 34 of 59 shots from the floor and 15 of 20 from the line while shooting a phenomenal 41 percent.

Brock upended

Windsor banded Brock a 97-75 setback Saturday in a game which the Lancers never trailed. Stan Korosec led the attack with 16 points and 12 rebounds while Phil Hermansatz also hit double figures.

"I wasn't happy with the way we played at all," Brock coach Gene Hershey said. "We just didn't get a lot of work to do defensively."

Lancers led 49-48 at the half.

Lancer Phil Hermansatz (dark jersey) displays some ball handling talent as he puts up a shot against Brock Saturday.
by Tom Viegandt

The Lancer hockey team finished its season with a torrentious 16-1 loss to the playoff­ bound Western Mustangs in London Wednesday. Windsor finished with an 8-13-1 record for eighth place in the 12-team league.
Lancer goals came from Scott
Kolody, Pat Byrne and Marty Stover. No other information was available at time of printing.

Overmatched, but undaunted, the Lancers had fought their inevitable slide into oblivion by finished its season with a horrendous 16-3 loss to the playoff­ downs in spectacular fashion. But by no means were the Lancers dominated. In fact, they ousted Toronto 3-2 through two periods and finished even for the game at 3-4.

"We really lost the intensity in the final 10 minutes and made some fundamental errors," said
Windsor coach Rob Corran.
"That made the difference." Lancer tallies were donated by Len Christie on the power­ play and Scott Kolody. Period scores were 1-0 Toronto, 1-1.

Johnston outstanding

The loss overshadowed a standout performance by Don Johnston, outgoing Lancer net­ skies to a standstill for two periods, only to have the flood­ gates open in the third. Final score: 6-2 Toronto.

Windsor 4 York 3

Sunday's match with the pretty-panted York squad was vintage Windsor hockey. Defensively, the Lancers cleared the crease and flushed out the slot, making possible a 4-3 triumph that was highlighted by another key Johnston performance.
"Don came up with some very big saves when we needed them," Corran said. "He played a very solid game.

Johnston, outgoing Lancer goalies to a standstill for two periods, only to have the flood­ gates open in the third. Final score: 6-2 Toronto.

Borner wins three

Women's swim team wins dual meet

The University of Windsor
Lancerette swim team defeated the University of Western Ontario 64-52 in a dual meet held at the Human Kinetics pool Saturday.

Both Lancerette relay teams placed first; the medley relay consisting of Patti Roy, Kathy
Saman, Jenny Agnew and Gill
Stevens and the freestyle relay of personal pride," Corran said.
"They wanted to go out with a few wins."
Key also meets standard

Three University of Windsor athletes fared well at the Ontario senior track and field championships held in Toronto Saturday.

Linda Staudt placed second in the 3,000 metre run with a time of 9:53.8, Sandee Carson second and Dan Mooney in the heavy weight class.

Lancer wrestling team and the Windsor Wrestling Club (W.W.C.) led by coach and fellow competitor Mike (Spike) Barry, showed a very competitive spirit and performed well at the Windsor Open Wrestling tournament Sunday at St. Denis Hall.

Present were two of Canada's finest wrestlers, John Park of London, and Barry, both members of the national wrestling team.

Windsor captured three gold medals in the meet: Staudt, Jenny Pace, and the Windsor Wrestling Club team.

The Lancer wrestling team closed out its competitive Ontario season last weekend at Western with a third place finish in the OUAA championships.

For the third year in a row, the sabre team captured the OUAA crown. For Peter Ott, it was his third straight Ontario individual championship. On the season, Ott posted a phenomenal 63-2 record.

Wayne Walczak, despite suffering from a bad cold, finished fourth individually. The third team member, Dan Marsh, narrowly missed the championship pool.

Both foil and epee teams placed third provincially. A disappointing performance from Iranian Olympic fencer Hossein Niknam kept the foil team from possible higher standing.

The surprise of the Lancer team was epee member Todd Rocky. Although only having fenced for three months, Rocky was able to beat eventual epee champion Bruno Scheringer of Toronto twice. Quite an accomplishment when one considers that the latter has fenced for over six years.

"Todd was dynamic," remarked sabre captain Ott. "He showed spirit which should help this team for years to come."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

"We have never had a better team than we had this year," said coach Eli Sukunda. "We're determined to bounce back next season."

The future is where the fencing team is looking now. With only epee captain Craig Bennett leaving, this team will next year have a chance to improve on what has to be considered a disappointing season, albeit hard to call a third-place OUAA finish disappointing.

LEISBAN AND GAY STUDENTS invite all interested parties to a rap session at the University Centre In Room 6 on 3rd floor, at 9:00 p.m. on February 17, 1981.

WHITE MAL, 23, 5th, 7th, challenges any attractive white female, 22-25, willing and able, to clean, amateur wrestling competition. Send photo, phone and state to box 106, The Lance.

UNITED CHURCH Campus Ministry, Iowa College, 228 South Ave., 233-7327.
Worship Sunday at 12:30 p.m. 1 Communion Wednesday at 11:15 Supper on Thursdays at 5:30 p.m. 23,00 for a Host Cooked meal. First free to drop in any time.

TWO BEDROOM APT. to share with male. 300 & half utilities. 10 minute walk from school. Phone 233-7325 or 732-8325.

WILL BABYSIT nights, 9-12 a.m., Mon, Wed, Thurs, Reasonable fee. Phone phone 353-2334. Ask for Sandra.

FOR SALE: Band M shift kit (automatic), $90 & half utilities. Call 966-3407 after 4 p.m.

LARGE APARTMENT for rent. Downtown location near market. Ideal for 2 students. $160, plus utilities. Call 966-3407 after 4 p.m.

NEW ORIENTAL LOOK
Smoking Picture Frames
On sale
556 Ouellette
250-4141

SAC'S Pub presents
Fri-Sat Feb 13-14
Applause
Sacs Beach Party! Sat Feb 14
- 1/4 price admission with beach attire
- must wear shorts, shorts & shoes.

next week
Photograph
Feb 16-21/81
Don't Miss-Feb 23/81-Concert

DOUG AND THE SLUGS
at Sac's Pub

LEAH SHKEEL, 19,12th, challenges any attractive white female, 22-25, willing and able, to clean, amateur wrestling competition. Send photo, phone and state to box 106, The Lance.

UNITED CHURCH Campus Ministry, Iowa College, 228 South Ave., 233-7327.
Worship Sunday at 12:30 p.m. 1 Communion Wednesday at 11:15 Supper on Thursdays at 5:30 p.m. 23,00 for a Host Cooked meal. First free to drop in any time.

TWO BEDROOM APT. to share with male. 300 & half utilities. 10 minute walk from school. Phone 233-7325 or 732-8325.

WILL BABYSIT nights, 9-12 a.m., Mon, Wed, Thurs, Reasonable fee. Phone phone 353-2334. Ask for Sandra.

FOR SALE: Band M shift kit (automatic), $90 & half utilities. Call 966-3407 after 4 p.m.

LARGE APARTMENT for rent. Downtown location near market. Ideal for 2 students. $160, plus utilities. Call 966-3407 after 4 p.m.

SAC'S

Graduate Studies in Fine Arts
at York University
Two-year programs in Dance, Film, Music, Theatre, and Visual Arts lead to Master of Fine Arts degree at York. Graduate programs currently include Dance history and criticism, Musicology of contemporary cultures, Visual Arts/Studio art (painting, drawing, sculpture, design, photography, graphics, experimental arts); Film (Canadian film production and film studies); Theatre (performance, playwriting, directing, design, production) is not offered in 1961. A Master of Arts degree program is offered in Art history.

For more information, contact: Mrs. Magda Davey, Faculty of Graduate Studies, York University, 911 Buckingham, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M3 J1 P3. Telephone (416) 966-3428.

Undergraduate degree programs and Summer School are available in all five Departments. Contact the Information Officer, Faculty of Fine Arts, York University, Downsview (Toronto), Ontario, Canada M3 J1 P3. Telephone (416) 966-2327.

Don't be a rat - send
The Lance some poetry
by Peter Hrastovec

Student evaluations are still a conundrum

After years of discussion and committee work, the university Senate last Thursday approved the concept of and a procedure to obtain student opinion of pro-fessorial teaching ability.

Most students now regularly fill out computerizable questionnaires on their professors' teaching abilities, but these differ from faculty to faculty. The motion passed by Senate will guarantee five standard questions on all questionnaires, with the faculties allowed to add their own if they wish.

In presenting the motion, Dr. Gerry Booth recounted some of the history of the Senate's consideration of the student evaluations matter. The committee dealing with the matter was struck in the early 1970s and submitted a widely used (in North America) questionnaire with about 40 questions in 1976 or 1977 (Booth could not recall).

That form was rejected by the Senate and the facul-ties where they surveyed to find what they would like to see in the questionnaire. After that compilation, the committee sat down and devised the five questions.

There was still opposition to the concept of student evaluations at this Senate meeting. Several members wondered what the opinion surveys would be used for—one member even suggested it appeared the evaluations constituted an experiment without any purpose.

The majority, however, viewed the results of the questionnaires as a valuable addition to the prior student-opinion-barren forms of the University Committee on Academic Promotion and Tenure. Dr. Gordon P. Swan said that the committee should be cautious not to equate student opinion with teaching quality.

In another tenure-related matter, a motion by student Senator David Simmons and Eric Dixon, which would constitute an experiment without any purpose.

The motion by student Senator David Simmons and Eric Dixon, which would equate student opinion with teaching quality, was postponed until the next meeting, and was, hence, considered a new motion.

Student Art Show

"Pain Grey" by Patrick Sedlar. Other Sedlar works are sprinkled liberally throughout this newspaper (he designs our ads and works very cheaply).

Are police really infringing on our civil liberties?

by E. P. Chant

Most police enjoy far more power than is demonstrably necessary for a functioning society. In sharp contrast, civilians possess fewer safeguards to protect themselves from abuses that stem from such power.

From this premise, Alan Borovoy is a seasoned veteran of libertarian causes, having compiled a quarter of a century of involvement in the quest for individual freedoms in Canadian society.

Borovoy focused on police powers and how they infringe upon individual liberties. An opinion survey was carried out among 100 patrons of a hotel-tavern undergoing humiliating vaginal and rectal examinations. "Marijuana doesn't keep in those places where the police looked," quipped Borovoy. "And, if stored in those places, it wouldn't make for a good smoke."

He also alluded to the recent raids on Toronto bath houses and the resultant use of force by municipal police during their search. His request for an inquiry into the matter has been turned down. When a student asked what would be his next step, Borovoy, quoting Pierre Trudeau during the October Crisis of 1970, suggested, "Just watch me."

Borovoy outlined provisions in the Narcotics Control Act which allow for a forcible search of premises and persons (found on those premises) on "good grounds of reasonable suspicion." Such wide power, said Borovoy, creates situations in which a person's coincidental, albeit innocent, presence would invite police suspicions.

The prospect of individuals with electronic surveillance equipment is "egalitarian in nature as everyone within earshot has their privacy invaded."

Borovoy cited statistics demonstrating the inequity of power on the innocent as well as the guilty. In the United States in 1969 and 1970, 1,500 criminals were convicted on evidence obtained by electronic surveillance equipment. But to secure these convictions, 40,000 people were overlooked in half-a-million conversations, seventy-five percent of which were non-incriminating in nature.

Borovoy criticized the Official Secrets Act, which empowers law enforcement agencies to procurebugging warrants under a blanket provision where "activities are directed towards governmental change by force, violence, or any criminal means." He set the hypothesis that striking public employees who violate back-work legislation may be subject to this provision in the future.

Many of the safeguards protecting individuals from the abuse of police powers are outdated and overspent, said Borovoy. Using the police for damages has proved to be an inadequate process as mounting court costs become burdensome to the person of average income. Criminal prosecution of police officers for flagrant abuses of individual rights becomes close when issues as to burden of proof arise with both sides trading accusations. And complaining to the police department or police commissioner is a futile exercise as police officers are judged by their own peers, said Borovoy.

"Canada is a pleasant, authoritarian country," said Borovoy. "But there is a potentially serious imbalance of police powers with individual safeguards. As we become more complex, urbanized and technologically sophisticated, our society will become more authoritarian and less pleasant in which to live!"
Changes in program mean more aid for students

OTTAWA (CUP) — At least another 100,000 students will be eligible for financial aid because of recently proposed changes in the federal student aid program, according to the National Union of Students (NUS).

Representatives from NUS traveled to Ottawa last Thursday to propose amendments to the Canada Student Loan Act announced January 20 by the Secretary of State, Francis Fox. The major changes are:

• The major changes are:

1. Students enrolled in courses of less than 26 weeks in duration are now eligible for financial aid.

2. The annual loan limit of $1800 is now increased as a weekly limit of $26.75 dollars. This change allows students in courses of more than 32 weeks to receive more than $1800 dollars. Under the present system, the maximum was computed on a semester system and did not take yearly programs into consideration.

3. Thelshie, Chairperson of NUS, said students will benefit from these changes.

As the university turns

by E.P. Grant

The search continues for a new Vice-President of Finance and Administration for this university.

Last September, Dr. John Allen was asked to step down without much administrative explanation, from this campus' administrative assistance. Allen was the administrative vice-president and the university's treasurer.

Towards the end of the first semester of this year, a joint Board of Governors-Senate Search Committee began a quest to find a replacement for Allan, who is now in a senior position with the tax department of the Alberta government.

Dean Cavenor MacInnis, of Engineering, a Senate and vice-presidential search committee member, described in a phone interview the status of the committee's quest. "Touche Ross is searching for us."

Touche Ross and Company is a chartered accountant and, in this case, is assisting the university to ascertain the type of person the university wants to fill the vacant position.

MacInnis said the committee told Touche Ross the university required "a financially capable person who was good with people" in the position.

The chartered accounting firm will do the legwork to find suitable applicants for the job and present approximately six people to the committee for consideration," said MacInnis. It is possible, he added, that for further changes in, Student aid.

"I'm disappointed that no provisions have been made for part time students," said Dobery. "Most of these women and they need aid as much as, or more than, full time students."

Doherty also said NUS would like to see students given up to a year to apply after they receive their loan.

"I'm disappointed that no provisions have been made for part time students," said Dobery. "Most of these women and they need aid as much as, or more than, full time students."

The program, called "interlude," asks whatever combination of consenting adults is in the room to answer personal questions. The replies are punched into the keyboard. "Interlude" then prints out detailed instructions describing on the basis of the answers it has received - what the people present should do to each other. The instructions, the company says, range from "basic foreplay" to "synthetic president David Ross notes that the program may be very beneficial when—in his words—"the man and woman are alienated from each other, and do not have an exact format in mind for evening..."

September 24, discuss Prospects of Peace in the Middle East from an Arab point of view. Dr. Abraham has a Ph.D. in Anthropology from the University of Michigan and is currently a research associate in Middle East studies at the University of Toronto and, at the same time, not of the Political Science Department as was previously stated.

There is no admission fee. Further inquiries may be directed to Dr. David Werfel, Political Science, University of Toronto, 233-521, ext. 237, or Ms. Evelyn Meyer, Iona College, 235-7237.

This is what we call 'silly filler'

ZNS — The Syntonic Software Company of Houston reports it has sold more than 10,000 copies of an x-rated program for personal computers.

The program, called "interlude", asks whatever combination of consenting adults is in the room to answer personal questions. The replies are punched into the keyboard. "Interlude" then prints out detailed instructions describing on the basis of the answers it has received - what the people present should do to each other. The instructions, the company says, range from "basic foreplay" to "synthetic president David Ross notes that the program may be very beneficial when—in his words—"the man and woman are alienated from each other, and do not have an exact format in mind for evening..."

February 24, discuss Prospects of Peace in the Middle East from an Arab point of view. Dr. Abraham has a Ph.D. in Anthropology from the University of Michigan and is currently a research associate in Middle East studies at the University of Toronto and, at the same time, not of the Political Science Department as was previously stated.

There is no admission fee. Further inquiries may be directed to Dr. David Werfel, Political Science, University of Toronto, 233-521, ext. 237, or Ms. Evelyn Meyer, Iona College, 235-7237.

This is what we call 'silly filler'
Committee on Student Affairs protect and punish

by R.W. Conover

Are you a student? Do you have affairs...you could use assistance with?

Most students, of course, can probably help you out. He has been looking at students’ problems outside of the usual channels, as Dean since last September.

The Committee on Student Affairs, which has complete control over the rights of the university’s populace and looks into complaints (or charges) made against students, is designed to violate these rights. Among the most common charges Student Affairs judges are cheating on exams and malicious abuse (vandalism or assault).

A student charged on an exam by a professor, that professor could handle the situation himself or she could bring it before the Committee on Student Affairs. Such a case, if handled by the professor, would almost certainly result in an “F-” for the semester for the student. If, on the other hand, the case were handled by the committee, the result could run from suspension to expulsion.

Long says that in a period ended in expulsion about three years ago which involved a student charged that another who had cheated on an exam by a professor, that professor could handle the situation himself or she could bring it before the Committee on Student Affairs. Such a case, if handled by the professor, would result in an “F-” for the semester for the student. If, on the other hand, the case were handled by the committee, the result could run from suspension to expulsion.

Long says that in a period ended in expulsion about three years ago which involved a student charged that another who had cheated on an exam although, according to the Dean, at the time of the attack the professor had written the exam a year before.

One of the students was suspended for the semester, the other for longer. The professor who charged the student with cheating on an exam, although, in one instance, says the Dean, the charge came from one student who charged that another of the professor was acting in an unprofessional manner. Long says in another case that the student had called the professor a cheater and that the professor looked at a case in which one of the students was suspended for the semester, the other for longer.

These offenses for almost once a year, is an improvement.

Recently, Student Affairs looked at a case in which one student charged another of cheating although, the other, the first student having written the exam a year before. One of the students was suspended for the semester, the other for longer.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Recently, Student Affairs looked at a case in which one student charged another of cheating although, the other, the first student having written the exam a year before. One of the students was suspended for the semester, the other for longer.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Recently, Student Affairs looked at a case in which one student charged another of cheating although, the other, the first student having written the exam a year before. One of the students was suspended for the semester, the other for longer.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.

Legal advice in this area is not common, happening almost once a year, is improvement.
Not even Blue Bloods are accepted here if....

Donors must be in good health and not require continuing medical care or medication for any illnesses.
Age - between 18-65. Weight - 100 lbs. minimum. Last donation - 3 months ago. It is important to eat a regular meal before giving blood.

Causes for Deferral Or Rejection:

More blood, please

The Nursing Society at the University of Windsor, in cooperation with the Canadian Red Cross Society, is sponsoring a Blood Donor Clinic Tuesday, March 3, 1981 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., in the Ambassador Centre.

Pencils will be served to donors, since the drive falls on Shrove Tuesday.

Members of the community are invited to attend this clinic as well as students, staff and faculty. The faculty or school with the highest percentage of its members donating blood will be awarded the Red Corpuscle Plaque.

Parking is available in parking lot M and the Assumption Church lot, located adjacent to the Church lot, located adjacent to University Avenue West.

The goal of this clinic is 250 units of blood.

For further information, contact Louise Armstrong at 256-1691.
Roughing it the bourgeois way at Sugarbush

by Debbi Kennedy

It all began last October when the eight of us got this notion into our heads to try it. The price seemed reasonable enough and, of course, it was a chance to get away from this "suburb of Detroit".

What am I talking about?

Skiing! You know — that’s the sport where you pay real money (not Canadian) to kill yourself and freeze to death simultaneously. Why waste time? If you do live, Jerks! They were right — we brought them with us.

Of our classmates didn’t know we were there; they boarded the bus without pop-tarts and apple juice. Most of us were Back on the Road Again.

For 12 hours we were serenaded with the sweet sound of a lost key or a lost condo? So there we stood in the balmy breeze (—50F).

You might ask if we had a tour guide! Yeah, if you can call him that. This guy had so much spare room in his cranium, they filmed Star Wars between his ears.

Realizing the situation, he immediately took control. I don’t know where he took it, but we didn’t see him for another three hours. In an effort to keep us occupied, he introduced us to a roomful of the opposite sex who were only interested in keeping warm (in pairs). At the onset of bed-making, we existed, frostbite or no frostbite.

By this time, our fearless leader had found our condo or key or whatever. "Comfort at last," we thought.

"Comfort" is another one of those pleasant words that brochures use to deceive the naive idealist. "Comfort" was "just over the hill", or so we were told (in Vermont, "hill" obviously means "cliff"). The hike to "comfort" is a story in and of itself. We later learned that the trail to our condo was to be used at "one’s own risk".

We were probably supposed to be flown in by Coast Guard helicopter (in Vermont?). With ski poles, skis, and luggage firmly wrapped around our necks, we reached "comfort" at 11:15 p.m.

"Comfort" or Condo-52 was 58 degrees F when we arrived. After repairing the thermostat, we surveyed our accommodations. Our dilemma was obvious. Six beds, eight bodies, no heat! We had a blast. Our trash compactor would have provided us with a perfect vault (it was permanently sealed). Who knows what relics of former inhabitants lay entombed within. Our washer-dryer required a babysitter to hold its hand while it went through the cycles. Our vacuum decided to defy the laws of physics. It blew out! I must say we were impressed with the fridge and stove — they worked. So much for "wall to wall expensive".

But did we come here to play house? Did we come here to sleep? Did we come here to kill time? (Kill our tourist guide? Maybe, but not time — it’s too expensive). No, we came here to "kill ourselves and freeze to death simultaneously" — remember! We gathered our courage and ventured forth into the unknown. Talk about the runs! (no, not the ones we contracted from the contaminated water). The slopes were fantastic, if you knew how to ski — otherwise! Where’s the Coast Guard when you need them?

We immediately proceeded to the "Bunny Hill" (the bunnies in Vermont must be huge). Removing oneself from the chairlift always proves to be a problem for the amateur skier (not us). Ski lifts are not round trips, though many attempt the return (lifts are programmed to catapult anyone or anything remaining on the way down). Knowing all these tidbits of "ski lore", we get off the chair anyway we could, usually on our faces. Down is always harder than up, and usually more painful, and we didn’t get "blue-bums" from the cold. Our house contest was a complete success, but the reigning champion is reluctant to be specific concerning the location of the contest.

We may not have learned to ski that week (someone is still looking for our lesson tickets), but we did learn the "art of après-ski". So much for this year’s week of R and R. Next year it’s off to Grandma’s (no brochures).

"Gosh, this hat is heavy.

You know, the stuff that you put in to start the frozen legs! The natives of Vermont didn’t know what kindness was. By this time, we were already pests and so we nicknamed the bitches (oh dear!) of Condo-52 — hence, the B-52’s.

"Comfort" was definitely upper class! Our living room, dining area and "full recreational area" (brochure again) measured 18 feet X 24 feet. Our kitchen was no less well-equipped. Our dishes loved dirty dishes to such an extent that they only emerged clean after two washings. If we’d brought anything of value with us, our race-cookout would have provided us with a perfect vault (it was permanently sealed). Who knows what relics of former inhabitants lay entombed within. Our washer-dryer required a babysitter to hold its hand while it went through the cycles. Our vacuum decided to defy the laws of physics. It blew out! I must say we were impressed with the fridge and stove — they worked. So much for "wall to wall expensive".

But did we come here to play house? Did we come here to sleep? Did we come here to kill time? (Kill our tourist guide? Maybe, but not time — it’s too expensive). No, we came here to "kill ourselves and freeze to death simultaneously" — remember! We gathered our courage and ventured forth into the unknown. Talk about the runs! (no, not the ones we contracted from the contaminated water). The slopes were fantastic, if you knew how to ski — otherwise! Where’s the Coast Guard when you need them?

We immediately proceeded to the "Bunny Hill" (the bunnies in Vermont must be huge). Removing oneself from the chairlift always proves to be a problem for the amateur skier (not us). Ski lifts are not round trips, though many attempt the return (lifts are programmed to catapult anyone or anything remaining on the way down). Knowing all these tidbits of "ski lore", we get off the chair anyway we could, usually on our faces. Down is always harder than up, and usually more painful, and we didn’t get "blue-bums" from the cold. Our house contest was a complete success, but the reigning champion is reluctant to be specific concerning the location of the contest.

We may not have learned to ski that week (someone is still looking for our lesson tickets), but we did learn the "art of après-ski". So much for this year’s week of R and R. Next year it’s off to Grandma’s (no brochures).
Student senators retreat on tenure issue.

In a notice of motion dated January 23, 1981, David Simmons, Students' Administrative Council (SAC) President and Eric Dixon, Student Senator and SAC Representative, called for the "University Government Committee to study post-tenure review for all tenured faculty at the University of Windsor and present a By-Law establishing post-tenure review for approval by Senate by May, 1981."

Bravo. It is certainly long past the time that tenure carved in granite became a thing of the past, and it certainly looked like Dixon and Simmons were going to do all they could to ensure that it did. On February 10, natural enough, the Faculty Association, in a letter addressed "to the membership" (of the Senate), called for the Senate to give "this motion the unequivocal rejection that it deserves."

Unfortunately for the students, Dixon and Simmons backed right down. Amending their motion to "that the Senate establish an ad hoc committee of five individuals, including one student, to study methods of maintaining and improving academic excellence in both teaching and research . . .", Dixon and Simmons effectively ended any hope for tenure review this year although one method listed for maintaining this "academic excellence" was post-tenure review.

It is almost certain that Dixon and Simmons' motion calling for post-tenure review would have been defeated. But it would at least, have been a Pyrrhic victory. Opening the floor to debate and airing the concerns of the students that they represent would have been admirable. Backing down in the face of opposition certainly was not. And like it or not, that is what they appear to have done.

Tenure is one of the last bastions of the "University as an archaic institution." It appears as though once one has hung around long enough, one gets tenure, whether or not one teaches well. Although the Faculty Association and the University Administration would claim there are sufficient safeguards in the system such that if a professor is not capable, he will be fired, Dixon and Simmons do not agree. And neither do most of the students attending this university.

As the cost of university education goes up, students have an increasingly difficult time rationalizing continuing to pay some of the faculty they see as being poor instructors. The most common complaint is the "you're interrupting my research" professor. Students increasingly view getting an education as purchasing something. And if one is purchasing a service, one should have the opportunity to, to some ability, review the one doing the job. Dixon and Simmons would do all they could to fire professors, simply that they should have the ability for a more exact review. And that respect they are reflecting the views of the students who elected them.

Perhaps they thought they should salvage what they could out of a debate which they would inevitably have lost. We feel they should have pushed the mandatory review committee. Besides, if the Faculty Association represents the caliber of professor they claim to, why should they be apprehensive about mandatory post-tenure review? It would appear that a) students would be happy with it; b) the University Administration would have the opportunity to be progressive and democratic; and c) the Faculty Association would be vindicated that it is time for choices to be made to make university education better. And if there is upgrading, a) students know what they are buying; b) professors will have an opportunity to to improve; and c) the University of Windsor has the finest teaching staff in the Province.

It appears to us as though no one would lose.
Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to D. Oddi's letter of February 13th entitled "Picture I.D. not fair!". Mr. Oddi seems to ignore the overall needs of the student concerning pictorial I.D. cards. He refers to the public's right to use the university library, but what about the student's right to protection if one's I.D. card is lost or stolen? A story in The Lance, "Theft and manipulation all in the life of a library book", indicated that "many people use stolen or lost I.D. cards" at the library. Pictorial I.D. cards would protect students from the situation of someone else misusing their card and provide the needed added security at the library. Our university administration has the public's right to use the university library. I do not see how personal concern of the reader infringe on this right. An I.D. card is not required to come into the library. His letter conveys the need to put a lot of emphasis on how the university is maintained by the taxpayers, implying no real distinction of rights and privileges between the student and non-student. He ignores the fact that the student is basically double taxed. We students pay taxes in addition to our tuition fees. With rising tuition fees and inefficient government spending, the taxpayers contribution to the university is decreasing while the student's is rapidly increasing.

I disagree with Mr. Oddi's statement that "there is no more need for I.D. at the pub than at the library public". The I.D. card is a system to both students and non-students, but the system is often abused by the use of I.D. cards by non-students.

Mr. Oddi states that pictorial I.D. cards will result in a "individualism to an overly-rigid group conformity". Take a look at your own local I.D. card. Mr. Oddi bears an identical resemblance to everyone else's. Your name and telephone number may be on it, but what is most important in its use is usually the student number. Some individualism! Now a student's individual card can an I.D. card be it if one has one's picture on it. By introducing pictorial I.D. cards, the university is not trying to exclude anyone. Instead, it is recognition of a student's position and rights within an institution he or she contributes the most to. So smile everyone, it's

Dear Editor:

Recently there have been articles in the Lance attacking the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS). The National Union of Students (NUS) and OFS are necessary organizations to defend students interests. The OFS has a successful track record of increasing up to 20 percent next year in Ontario. In B.C., they face a possible 50 percent increase and, in Saskatchewan, tuition has gone up 53 percent since 1976.

In Quebec, Guy Heroux, who was given the mandate to depopularize the OFS, has received an enthusiastic response from the students, could go to jail for up to three years. Across Canada, tuition is increasing and the quality of education is declining.

To stop these attacks, pro-

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to John Mill's description of Canadian Pugwash in the "Forbearance" column, which appeared in the February 6 issue.

I do not know what your writer's sources are; mine tell me that the active Canadian Pugwash was not adopted by Christians from pagan ceremonies around 1100 A.D. In fact, there is evidence to reference a ceremony marking the Purification of the Virgin Mary and the Presentation of Christ in the Temple (known as "Hypapraxis" or "Hypaparaxis" in the Greek Church) in Jerusalem as far back as the late fourth century. Lighted candles became associated with this festival with the middle of the fifth century, and it had been adopted by the Church in Rome by the end of the seventh century. Martinson's "Eglise en Priere mentions the existence of a pag an rite in Egypt which took place at the beginning of February; it suggests the Christians may have tried to counterfeit the licentiousness of the pagan ceremony, but no further evidence is implied.

Dr. Philip Adamson
Assistant Professor
School of Music

Ed Notes: John used The Dictionary of Folklore and Mythology and The American Book of Days. Is there a priest in the audience?

Dear Editor:

Pugwash as an organization was created by two of the greatest thinkers of recent times, Russell and Einstein, the non-student concept. The student concept, apply but are not selected, are the world's most brilliant scientists and philosophers. In the same way, the student concept, apply but are not selected, are some of the world's most brilliant scientists and philosophers.

Initiated by the two great thinkers of recent times, Russell and Einstein, the non-student concept: Pugwash organizations at both the national and international levels. As part of this effort, and with the support of the senior Pugwash organization in Canada, Canadian Student Pugwash was founded in the fall of 1979.

A press release from Canadian Student Pugwash:

Some of the press releases which find their way into this newspaper office come from self-centered special interest groups which want free advertising - in the form of a promotional story - about one of their trivial events. They do fill blank space, but that about the nicest thing one can say about the thing.

The Pugwash press release is something different, the Pugwash concept is not one offered by the tunnel vision of the special interest group; it is concerned with humanity in general and often courses that can affect it.

Initiated by the two great thinkers of recent times, Russell and Einstein, the non-student concept: Pugwash organizations at both the national and international levels. As part of this effort, and with the support of the senior Pugwash organization in Canada, Canadian Student Pugwash was founded in the fall of 1979.

The goals of Canadian Student Pugwash are:

- to establish a network of young social and natural scientists across Canada who are concerned about the ethical issues relevant to their work;
- to promote an educational discussion of these issues between young and older scientists;
- through correspondence, workshops and conferences; and,
- to encourage scientists outside the organization to consider the ethical implications of their work.

The conference will bring together 30 university students and 25 student and senior participants. For the most part, the students will be undergraduates and gradu- uates in the social and natural sciences, although those from other disciplines will be accepted if they have a solid knowledge of science. The senior participants will be experts invited from academia, legal, political, administrative, and business circles.

There will be four workshops, each with a different perspective on the freedom and regulation of science, and each with 5-7 participant students. In addition, there will be two public debates on controversial aspects of the conference theme. Articulate and highly respected people are being invited to participate in these debates, which should draw national media attention.

Students interested in participating will submit detailed applications to a selection committee. Each application will include a brief outline of a paper on one of the workshop themes. Those students who are selected will submit their completed papers to the conference organizers when they arrive on campus.

The organizers hope to give a copy of the conference proceedings to all those students who are not selected.

Two of the senior participants in each workshop will be asked to present papers on the workshop themes before the conference begins. Although the students will not formally present their papers, they will have many opportunities to discuss their ideas with workshop guests.

A selection of the student and senior papers, along with the transcripts of the debates, will be distributed to participants. For further information and application information, contact Randy Johnston, Director of the University of Ottawa Center.

Pugwash does not have "all the answers", but it may very well be the best way to examine all the questions.

Windsor campus which is interested in forming such a society, please contact us.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Write: Student Project Ploughshares, Student Union Buidling, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Maura Green, Research Director
Student Project Ploughshares,

Dear Editor:

Last fall, a new society was formed at Dalhousie: Student Project Ploughshares. The society's aim is to inform students about the pros and cons of various environmental actions such as seminars, films, discussions, etc. This is in preparation for a referendum among Dalhousie's student council this spring in the 1982

If there is anyone on the planner of the Office of Security were requested by another area, as follows: Laurier Hall. "Not to normally patrol the upper floors, but move to check at the desk, main floor, and the basement area.

We have that clarification in this regard is warranted on behalf of our personnel. We do this thanks for your co-operation.

Grant A. Vevere
Director
Office of Security

Dear Editor:

We look forward to hearing from you.

Write: Student Project Ploughshares, Student Union Building, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Maura Green, Research Director
Student Project Ploughshares,

Dear Editor:

We look forward to hearing from you.

Write: Student Project Ploughshares, Student Union Building, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Maura Green, Research Director
Student Project Ploughshares,
Law examinations undergo a close scrutiny

by Peter Ore
The McGill Daily

Forty-three law students at McGill University in Montreal have signed a letter protesting an exam given last semester in Family Law.

The letter, addressed to the Dean of Law John Brietley, says the examination was "too long," and alleges that "pertinent paragraphs were ambiguously worded and the questions require the same points to be expounded upon over and over again."

The letter, signed by two-thirds of the students in Family Law 1, a second-year course, expresses dissatisfaction with "the examiner's failure to appear in the room where they were writing to answer questions during the exam held in December."

"This arose on the nineteenth (of December) right after the exam," said Marc Nir- niotkau, class representative for Bachelors of Civil Law I.

Niriotkau said the letter was drafted before examination marks came out "to show it was the exam and not the marks we object to."

Dean Brietley told the Daily the matter of the examination, given by Law Fellow K. Connell-Thomson, "is being studied."

Brietley, who has taught family law himself, will "seek out the exam to see if the claims are founded."

Referring to the charge that the professor failed to attend the exam, Brietley said, "I have to ascertain the facts first."

"If the exam is considered unreasonable then the students would have to retake the exam," he said.

Brietley said it is "possible" but doubtful that an unfair exam was given as "the probability of an exam being unreasonable is extremely small" because the procedures for settling law exams are so elaborate.

Professor P.P.C. Hamann, chairman of the Examinations Board in the Law School, also stressed the thoroughness of the procedure by which law exams are read three times by an associate examiner and twice by a member of the Examinations Committee after being drafted by the professor.

Hamann said the Examinations Committee meets frequently during examinations period to consider problems with exams. Hamann refused to say whether the Family Law exam was discussed in the in camera sessions of the Examinations Committee.

MISSA Nite just full of food and pandangoes

by Rosemary A. Breusch
February is certainly a banner month for cultural events on this campus. This Saturday evening, February 21, the Malaysian/Indonesian/ Philippine Students Association presents MISSA Nite '81, in Ambassador Auditorium of Civil Law II.

One common error made by North Americans is to classify all Oriental and Asian students as "Chinese." Not only does this reflect a pervasive ignorance, but it is something of an insult to the individual who takes pride in his identity as a Japanese, Indonesian, Singaporean or Malaysian Chinese. According to MISSA, President, Chuen-Ling Woon, there are approximately 530 Malaysian, 80 Singaporean and 10 Indonesian students on our campus.

In a concerted effort to better acquaint the public with their particular cultures, the members of MISSA are holding a South East Asian banquet and cultural show, with a disc dance to follow.

The banquet will feature a variety of dishes prepared by the students. Promising to be a palatable adventure, the bill of fare includes rendang (a marinated beef dish), curried chicken, gado-gado (an Indonesian vegetable salad with peanut sauce) and fried rice.

The entertainment portion of the evening will highlight a part dancing troupe from De- troit, A disco dance tops the evening, where prizes will be awarded during the spot dance. "MISSA Nite '81 is for both the members and the community, so they can come to learn about our various cultures and share in them," says Mr. Woon. Tickets, sold in advance, are available from the I.S.O. Secretary (Colby Hall) and from I.S.O. executives. The prices are $3.00 for members, $5.00 for non-members. During the evening, there will be a lucky draw for a round trip to New York.

Hey, el blimplo

Come on everybody, the Department of Home Economics will have a display in the University Centre on March 4 and 5, 1981 from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

According to studies conduc-

$3.00 for members, $5.00 for non-members. During the evening, there will be a lucky draw for a round trip to New York.

Therefore, we are bringing to your attention the fact that energy balance represents a wise choice of food intake from the Canadian Food Guide and adequate physical activity.

So be at the University Centre on March 4 and 5. We have lots of good news for you.

Odd jobs

If you need something done around your home or have the skill to do something for someone else, there is an employment office in Windsor which arranges such "job bargaining."

The federal Canada Development Program is contributing $130,000 to establish "The Trading Post," an office which co-ordinates the exchange of "vice-and-do-you-on-the-exchange" services.

A spokesman for the office said that "odd jobs around the house are the most common exchange," re- pair, plumbing, etc. Students are invited to participate in an exchange program with the Canada Development Program.

Students are invited to participate in an exchange program with the Canada Development Program.

"The Trading Post" is located at 1511 University Ave. W. (phone 254-2851).
Who control us?

David MacDonald, former secretary of state and minister of communications in the Joe Clark government and columnist for the United Church Observer will discuss "Canadian Cultural Policy: Options and Implications" at 7:30 p.m. public lecture at Iona College on Tuesday, March 3, 1981. Mr. MacDonald is presently a Fellow in Residence of the Institute for Research on Public Policy. He is currently researching, lecturing and writing on issues related to communications and cultural policy.

Canadian arts are at the forefront of the development of communications technology. The use of this technology in our society raises many issues. Who will control it, how should it be used, and what will be its impact?

The series "Women & arts organizations struggle with shortages of funds. How should they be maintained?" lecture by Mr. MacDonald will deal with many of these questions. Admission is free.

New colours

Thursday, March 5 at 6:30 p.m., the university's Commerce and Marketing Club will be sponsoring a fashion show entitled "A Fashion Fantasy Show". The show will be held at the Geciortro Club (3745 North Talbot Road). The $10 admission charge will include a six course dinner and door prizes. All proceeds will be donated to the United Way of Windsor and Essex County.

All models are University of Windsor students. Only a limited number of tickets are available in the Commerce Club office. For more information, contact Diana Bunoza, Velma the Commerce Club office (256-1974).

No fairy tale life

by Cecilia Deck

When INCO workers in Sudbury struck for 10 months, their wives decided to get organized to help cope with the personal and economic stresses. The experience of the Wives Supporting the Strike Committee has been documented in the film "Wives Tale", which will be shown Thursday, February 26 at 7:00 p.m. in Assumption Lounge. This is the second event in a long-range series on Women in the Labour Movement, sponsored by the Law Union of Windsor, OPUEG and the Windsor Occupational Safety and Health Council (WOSHC).

Women are breaking in all kinds of jobs that are dangerous to men as well, but still many do clerical jobs, where the advent of video display terminals is presenting new hazards such as eyestrain.

The series is geared to create awareness of the increasingly important role women play in the workforce. The third session will be a workshop on March 5.

A mortality ratio is calculated for each of the 13 leading causes of death for the individual's age group. This is multiplied by the expected average mortality for the population to obtain the predicted mortality for the individual's risk group over the next ten years.

Stress in the individual's life will be one thing looked at. Blood pressure, weight, height will be recorded and questions will be asked about the person's smoking, drinking, exercise, and dietary habits.

This information is recorded on a computer sheet and sent to a computer in Ottawa. If someone is recorded as having a high potential of becoming ill, then they could be contacted. On-site counselling will also be available.

Ms Dhillon hopes this will create a change in lifestyle for some people. She plans to refer back to the participants of the Health Hazard Evaluation Day at a later date to determine if the evaluation has resulted in any change in their habits.

T-4's get you down?

"Tax. If anything deserves to be a four-letter word, that does."

Yes, boys and girls, it's income tax time — when the federal government grants you by your ankles, flips you upside-down, and shakes the coffee money out of your pockets.

Your non-taxing Students' Administrative Council wants to help you and, hence, has introduced the new SAC Income Tax Service.

Ancillary Affairs Commissioner Rick "P.R. Block" Zago has announced that financially capable students will be able to offer you assistance in filling out your income tax forms. They will not fill out your form, but simply assist you in doing this, he said with emphatic redundancy.

The service will be operating out of the SAC Office on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday for the first week of March. The cost of the service is one dollar (not tax-deductible).

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

- Resume Preparation Service
- Income Tax Service
- Typing and Copying at 5¢ a Copy
- Housing Placement Service
- Research Assistance Services

Try our convenient services on campus at MUTUAL ASSOCIATES CANADA INC. Assumption University 404 Huron Church Road Phone 254-5059 OPEN TILL 5 ON SATURDAYS
The Faculty of Visual Arts is one of many faculties at the University of Windsor. Although it is part of our campus, a number of students overlook the many talents we have in that part of our community.

Many different kinds of people make up those registered in art. They all have different backgrounds and come from various parts of Windsor and beyond. But they all have one thing in common: they can create an original piece of art for our enjoyment.

I asked some of the art students what they're aiming for when inventing new work. They answered that art students go through three years of working hard, finding out what the techniques are and putting them to use. By doing so, the artists find which field they’re better at (i.e. painting, sculpture, etc.); then, in the fourth year, they work in that area and improve their methods.

They also say that an artist begins with a theme or an idea and creates a first piece. They pick out the good and bad points in the piece, improve on the bad points and add more value to the good points. By doing this, the artist forms new and better pieces.

Many of you may already know about the “Annual Student Show”, presented by the school of Visual Arts. For those who don’t, it runs from February 13 to March 5 at the Label Building Gallery. The art department also exhibits pieces by students at Fanshawe College in London. Furthermore, he saw the piece of art without knowing who the artists were, the art show without bias.

As I mentioned before, the art show is located in two places. There’s a collection of art from all over the year, there are two pieces that were chosen to be shown at the University Centre. The art itself was very good pieces. In a way, there is a great collection of art from all over the university still has a great collection. The art itself was very good pieces. There was a wide variety made of plaster, wood, etc.
The art being held from February University Centre and the ied Patrick Theibert, from
, to come and judge the is task because he's from any of the art students.
ws for the first time, not
, and selected those for the art work for the exhibit
"better" works of art are
. It was planned this way contact with the art world.
, the university isn't seems that, at this is going on. The art es to a show called in March 8 at the Art prestigious show which has , their pieces also. It's a southern Ontario. But the ction of pieces.
ecatching and any person
for a good length of time.
of paintings, and sculptures
, aluminum casts and plastic. The art portrayed many uses of mixed media and showed the different techniques used to produce these pieces.
Some art work showed realism such as Adele Newman man's "Rum Punch" which showed three ladies enjoi ning rum punch (friends, no doubt), and Pat Sedlar's "Pane Grey" which pictured a man leaning against a wall with a window pane leaning against him. This painting shows very fine lines and looked as if much work was put into it.
Most of the other art works showed a mix of realism, fantasy, and a bit of the dreamworld. Pieces which portrayed these areas were from very detailed to very abstract. A good one was Robert Barrett's painting of a close-up of railroad tracks. Here, the abstract was brought out in the colors utilized in the piece. A very abstract one by Brenda Newman called "In, Out" showed how the space must be taken up on canvas and how textures and techniques add up to an excellent piece of art work.
All of the pieces have one or many meanings. By looking at them, it will dawn on you what the artist is trying to convey.
I found that many people aren't interested in the students' art because students create these pieces. We must remember that they are students today, but also realize they will be some of tomorrow's best artists.

Photos by Heidi Rammer
Strange things are happening at the pub. One week we get a heavy metal band that requires that you wear a hearing aid just to hear them, the next week we get a pop group who try to blow the roof off.

Yes, this week's band, Photograph, is loud. But they are also pretty good. The four-member group consisting of guitar, bass, drums and vocals made an appearance here earlier this year, back in the second week of November, and not much has changed since that time.

Except maybe that the lead singer is more emphatic in his reminders that the group's first album is coming out. That disc, titled "Photograph" strangely enough, was to be released Thursday. Much of the group's material is based on the promotion of this big step in their promising career, but you're not likely to find much to interest you among the original tunes.

Photograph's forte lies in its ability to play old classics and new favorites with a great deal of precision and skill. The presentation of "Lola" by the Kinks and "Out on the Street" from Bruce Springsteen's new album, The River, were well-received and well-performed.

Or should I say, well-played. Because if anything is lacking in Photograph's act, it is performance. The guitarists attack the music with all the fervor of morticians, apparently content to rely on the lead vocalist's occasional hip-swinging and hopping to entertain the crowd. The lighting reminds me of some high school plays I've seen.

It is unfortunate that a band that plays so loud to get your attention, to the point where other social activity is severely impaired, offers little for your visual entertainment. Perhaps this was the inspiration for the name Photograph. You'd almost believe you were looking at a very large one when watching the group play.

If you have a mind to head to the pub this weekend, plan to play a little pinball. At least the blips move and don't worry -- you can hear the band way back in that corner.

Visual image distorts oral perspective

by Steve Rice

Strange things are happening at the pub. One week we get a heavy metal band that requires that you wear a hearing aid just to hear them, the next week we get a pop group who try to blow the roof off.

Yes, this week's band, Photograph, is loud. But they are also pretty good. The four-member group consisting of guitar, bass, drums and vocals made an appearance here earlier this year, back in the second week of November, and not much has changed since that time.

Except maybe that the lead singer is more emphatic in his reminders that the group's first album is coming out. That disc, titled "Photograph" strangely enough, was to be released Thursday. Much of the group's material is based on the promotion of this big step in their promising career, but you're not likely to find much to interest you among the original tunes.

Photograph's forte lies in its ability to play old classics and new favorites with a great deal of precision and skill. The presentation of "Lola" by the Kinks and "Out on the Street" from Bruce Springsteen's new album, The River, were well-received and well-performed.

Or should I say, well-played. Because if anything is lacking in Photograph's act, it is performance. The guitarists attack the music with all the fervor of morticians, apparently content to rely on the lead vocalist's occasional hip-swinging and hopping to entertain the crowd. The lighting reminds me of some high school plays I've seen.

It is unfortunate that a band that plays so loud to get your attention, to the point where other social activity is severely impaired, offers little for your visual entertainment. Perhaps this was the inspiration for the name Photograph. You'd almost believe you were looking at a very large one when watching the group play.

If you have a mind to head to the pub this weekend, plan to play a little pinball. At least the blips move and don't worry -- you can hear the band way back in that corner.

New university writing award to honour Homer F. Plante

Senior high school students of Windsor and Essex County are invited to enter the second annual competition for the Homer F. Plante Creative Writing Awards, sponsored by the English Department of the University of Windsor.

Established in honour of former English Professor Homer Plante, who had a keen interest in nurturing the imaginative potential of young writers, the Awards consist of two prizes of $175 each for the best works of poetry and/or fiction submitted by any grade 12 and 13 students. Up to five poems and/or 20 pages of fiction may be submitted by each applicant. All entries must be typewritten, double spaced and unsigned and should include a sealed envelope containing the writer's name, address, year and school.

March 12, 1981 is the deadline for submissions which should be mailed to:

The Homer F. Plante Creative Writing Awards, Department of English, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9A 3P4

For further information contact: Department of English 253-4232, ext. 330.

The International Student Identity Card
Available at the SAC office

Whether you're snorkelling in the Caribbean or skiing in the Rockies — don't be without your International Student Identity Card. Year round, your ISIC entitles you to discounts of up to 25%, be it on a flight to Bengal or a pizza in Montreal. Now for only $3.50, the ISIC is a well seasoned deal. ISIC, a card for all seasons, around town, or around the world.

THE ALLIGATOR SHIRT by LaCosta
Bond Clothes Shop
365 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions
Shakespearean music 'as he liked it'

by Catherine M. Wilson

The Art Gallery of Windsor was host to an evening of rather surprising interest. The Gallery, under the direction of Richard Hull, presented a program of music of the Renaissance. The evening was presented by the Windsor Jewish Association and sponsored by the Windsor Symphony Orchestra. The event was part of the University's Artist Series and was performed by a group of artists including soprano Sylvia Blassonio and bass-baritone Mario Marzian of the Windsor Symphony Orchestra. The program included works by Poulenc, Milhaud, and Stravinsky, among others.

The evening began with a performance of Poulenc's "The Bestiary," which was followed by Milhaud's "Poèmes Juifs." Stravinsky's "Fifteen Songs from William Shakespeare" concluded the evening. The program was well-received by the audience, who were impressed by the musicians' ability to depict the characters and ideas contained within the works.

The next concert in the Artist Series will be a performance by the Windsor Jewish Association, featuring songs from the film "Twelfth Night." The show will be held at 8 p.m. in the University Centre and will be sponsored by the Human Unity Council. The performance is free and open to the public.

THE LANCE KEEPS YOU INFORMED ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Let The Windsor Star KEEP YOU AWARE OF ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING ELSE IN YOUR WORLD

- LIFE STYLES
- SPORTS
- THEATRE
- FASHION
- TRAVEL
- CANADIAN NEWS

Have The Star delivered to your address
CALL KAREN at 255-5671
She'll arrange it for only pennies a day

Caribbean getaway a success

by Brenda Browne

The word "Caribbean" conjures images of a get-away paradise, sun, sand and sea. Such is the fascination graphically captured during the Caribbean Cultural Night, which depicted a joyous people whose way of life is uniquely characterized by love, smiles and fun. The students from the islands in the sun managed to arrest the attention of the audience for more than two hours. If the thunderous applause were any indication, the Cultural Night was a remarkable success.

The cultural showcase included songs, poems and dances. The celebration began with a display of the islands' flags followed by a description of each island. The object was to capture the spicy accent of the different lands.

Erica Forroy vividly portrayed the incensed woman whose sons had come to North America and did not even go back with an "accent" (twang).

This report will not be complete without reference to Patrick Williams and Thresa Mitey's exceptional performance in "The Fugue". This skit provided comic relief, showing the embarrassment of a woman so excited to be on television that she discussed her most "personal" problem.

Later on in the show, the audience was given a taste of carnival fever. Carol Franklin not only played the role with her steelband music but was later asked to share her skill with the audience.

A Calypso Jump-up and a boogie band led the evening to a close. The excited crowd expressed disappointment that their Caribbean Cruise had come to an end.
Betty's thought: The Incredible Shrinking Woman was just another comedy about consumerism run rampant, right?

Wrong.

To disappoint you Ralph Nader lovers, but writer/producer/director Jane Wagner, may have borrowed the film's title and "Tom Thumb" premise from its predecessor, The Incredible Shrinking Man, (1957), but the relationship between the two ends here.

On the surface, it may look like an innocent remake of the old movie's theme until careful scrutiny reveals different. Wagner has surreptitiously intertwined many feminist ideas (that's right) into the script and the result is more like a parody on The Total Woman, (a reverse-feminist book), written in the mid-70's.

When one examines The film's scenario, the connection between the total woman and the shrinking woman becomes clearer.

Pat and Vance Kramer (Lily Tomlin and Charles Grodin) are a happily married couple who live in Tasty Meadows with their two youngsters, Jeff and Maria. Hubby Vance works for an advertising agency and, when home, is either pestering Pat to help him choose names for his client's new products, or, is just pestering her for the sake of pestering.

Pat is the traditional housewife/mother/lover. She not only handles the regular household duties, she also helps her housekeeper, Concepción (Maria Smith), with her chores. As if Pat's own brats are not enough, she is plagued by the neighborhood's children also.

When Vance is in a romantic mood, no matter what her day was like, Put is ready, willing and able.

In short, Pat is a renaissance woman who makes herself available to everyone, except herself. A concept that The Total Woman endorses and promulgates.

Even when Pat shrinks down to Barbie doll size, her husband and family still make the same demands on her.

When plucking her face out of the garbage disposal, no one hears her screaming. Because of scenes like this, the movie is not as funny as one might expect.

Lily Tomlin is not what you'd call "hilarious" and yet, her triple role as Pat Kramer, neighbor Judith, and Emestine, (from Ma & Pa), are as distinctive as if they were played by three different women. Tomlin is getting to be a wonderful comedic actress.

Charles Grodin has a sophisticated style which makes even the dullest scenes sparkle.

Were it not for the bitter landing of performances by Ned Beatty and Henry Bionsen, The Incredible Shrinking Woman could have been a better film.

And yet, who can resist when a six-inch Tomlin turns into a six-foot gorilla (Sydney, who has a habit of resenting The end result was that Chayefsky quit and took his name out of the credits. It is truly a shame that we are left with Ken Russell’s version because it is blatantly obvious that Chayefsky was right about the dialogue. Dr. Jessup hobbles on about his search for the truth of life, the initial moment of creation. We, the moviegoers, are supposed to sit in awe of the obvious brilliance of this man. The truth of the matter is that the monomaniacal aim is a boxed non-starter.

This overriding distraction, coupled with less than brilliant acting prevent Altered States from being very successful. Only the special effects save the film from total obscurity.

Yes, that's right, it's that time again. Everybody and their brother are holding award ceremonies. This year The Lance will introduce their first annual movie awards - The Rosies. Lance film critic Rosemarie Comisso is now preparing her list of the biggest and the best of all 1980 film talent. Don't miss The Rosies in an upcoming issue of The Lance.

"Two hundred free bottles of beer on the wall...
if you don't come, we'll drink them all!

Early Bird Bash
Friday, Feb. 20
in Ambassador Auditorium
8pm

"We will give 2 Free Beers to the first 100 people who are there between 8 and 9 pm."

Everyone is invited!
Admission: $1.00 Students
$1.50 Others
In the last regular season league game to be played in St. Denis Hall, the University of Windsor Lancers defeated the University of Western Ontario Mustangs 77-67. Although last Wednesday’s game will not be the last game to be played in the old gym, it will go down as the last one.

The game was marked by the return of many former coaches, players, and managers of the lancer teams which played many a championship game in St. Denis.

The Lance joins the Students’ Administrative Council, and the University of Windsor Faculty and Administration in saluting athletes past and present who have plied the floorboards in St. Denis Hall.

We look forward to joining you and serving you well in the new facility.

-The Lance staff
Sports

Comment

by Steve Rice

Lancers mired in second

With only one game left in the year and were outrebounded for the first time this season, but still managed to defeat Waterloo Warriors 72-61 in Waterloo's Physical Activities Complex, site of this year's CIAU championships.

Lancers hit on just 27 of 61 attempts at the hoop and were outrebounded 35-27, their lowest rebound total on the season. Fortunately, Warriors were even less successful in finding the net with 28 hits on 67 attempts.

With a decisive edge in the free throw department with 14 of 22 compared to 5 of 7 for Waterloo.

Tourney in Guelph

Lancers mired in second

by Steve Rice

With only one game left in the year and were outrebounded for the first time this season, but still managed to defeat Waterloo Warriors 72-61 in Waterloo's Physical Activities Complex, site of this year's CIAU championships.

Lancers hit on just 27 of 61 attempts at the hoop and were outrebounded 35-27, their lowest rebound total on the season. Fortunately, Warriors were even less successful in finding the net with 28 hits on 67 attempts.

With a decisive edge in the free throw department with 14 of 22 compared to 5 of 7 for Waterloo.

The statistics are a poor reflection of the flow of the game as Waterloo opened the opening tip and remained well in control throughout. It was a first-half onslaught from the fast-breaking Lancers offense that opened up a 16-point spread at the half and allowed them to coast to the victory.

"They really powered the ball on us in the first half," remarked Waterloo coach Don MacCrae. "Even though we made it close at the end, we couldn't get back on equal terms after they'd built such a cushion."

Officials OK

MacCrae declined to lay blame for the loss on the officials as he had in the teams' first meeting, won 85-75 by Lancers in Windsor. Instead, he pointed to poor defense on the part of his team in attempting to stop Lance Stan Korosec (23 points, 13 rebounds — both game highs).

"Korosec's a helluva fine player," MacCrae said. "But we're playing right into his hands. We're not making the Mike Mower Trophy winner (league MVP).

"I'm sure Stan didn't think it was as easy as we made it for him tonight with what his
The team went into the conference tournament last Saturday, sweeping the play of the Western Mustangs, short their return to action.

Coach Jean Briere was quite pleased with the play of the team, stating that the McMaster coach had complimented the play of Windsor's rookie setters, Roseanne Pomerleau and Marielena "Mud" Marignani.

The Lancerettes were beaten 8-15, 5-15, 8-15 by Queen's, 3-15, 3-15, 5-15 by McMaster, and 10-15, 6-15, 10-15 by Western in round robin play.

Play good overall

Overall the play was good and the attack effective. There was some problem when opponents got leads of more than a few points, but Windsor fought back hard with strong spiking and tight defense.

There was no problem with a loss of determination throughout the weekend of play as the Lancerettes remained in high spirits and gave every ounce of their will to the effort.

It was a learning year as far as Briere was concerned. The team during the year and looks to better things next year when all 32 players return to action.

The 1980-81 Lancerettes were: Rita O'Reilly, Janis Douglass, Charlene Todesco, Roseanne Pomerleau, Monique Pomerleau, Renee Sequin, Cherone Morgan and Marielena "Mud" Marignani.

The Lancerettes in action this year.

Track team on record-setting rampage

by Scott McCulloch

Nine new University of Windsor records were set by the track team last Saturday at the Eastern Michigan University Track Classic. The team was not in London, as was reported in last week's Lance. No one was more chagrined by the error than sports editor Steve Rice, who could be seen wandering around the University of Western Ontario last Saturday morning, camera in hand, vainly searching for Lancer athletes to photograph.

Linda Staudt set new records in both the women's mile and two mile events, setting a new school house record in the latter. Her third-place, 5:08.8 finish in the mile beat her own record by 6.7 seconds, while her 16:37 two mile time earned her second place and shattered the old mark of 11:46.1. Kathy Riciea also beat the old record by a tenth of a second. She was seventh in the mile in 5:32.9.

Andy Buckstein kept his record-setting streak going by setting new records in the 400 yards (32.1 for third place), and the 440 yards (50.9 for fourth place). Buckstein was also a member of the 880-yard relay team along with George Henry, John Key and Kevin Coughlan that set a new record of 1:33.6 in the event. The team was second in its section and sixth overall.

A new women's high jump record was set by Sandee Carson, who leaped 1.67 metres. Carson's 1.70 metre jump (about 5' 7") last week in Toronto, incidentally, met the CIAU qualifying standard. It was erroneously reported in The Lance last week that Sandee jumped only 1.65 metres. Buckstein's 300 yard time at the EMU classic also meets the CIAU standard.

Other University of Windsor athletes setting new records were Ray Holland, who ran 2:01.4 for fifth place in the 880 yards. Paul Roberts, whose second-place 3:54.8 finish in the 1,500 metres broke the old record by 3.4 seconds, and Coughlan, who jumped 13.45 metres in the triple jump, placing fifth.

Two other performances earned medals, although they did not set records. Sandee Carson's 4.90 metre long jump earned her second place, while shot-putter Jenny Pace snagged third in her event with a throw of 11.48 metres. Holland placed fourth in the 60 yard dash running 6.51 in the semi-final and 6.54 in the final. Steve Thatcher ran 6.9 in the same event, while in the 60 yard hurdles, Key ran a time of 7.87.

Thatcher also competed in the shot put, throwing 13.10 metres. In the same event, newcomer Wyatt Clark threw 12.04 metres.

Holland, competing in the mile event, ran 4:39.4. Paul Kosak ran 55.7 in the 440 yards and 1:20.2 in the 800 yards. Also competing for Windsor were Leslie Yee (2:41.2 for 880 yards), Mike Boody (2:14.3 in the 880 yards), and Dave Dempsey (1:58.8 in the high jump).
Campus Rec roundup

Dog fight expected in Division A B-ball

'A' Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>Pts.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hangers</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lakers</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racoon Lodge</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cardinals</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commerce 'A'</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Horontians</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pinnata</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Icemen</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garver High</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MBA</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This Week's Results

Lancers 52 MBA 41
Hangers 61 Comm. A. 52

The top six teams qualify for playoff positions.

Sky Jackers 3 3 6
Molson Muscie 3 3 6
Northern Lites 2 4 4
Football 6 0 7

Watch out!

Women's intramural basketball got under way last week with an excellent turnout. There are eight teams divided into two divisions. They will play a round-robin-type schedule of 10 games each, with championship games in each division. The early favourites in the league appear to be the Thunderbirds who boast a lineup which includes M.G. (the Pole) Zaleski and Martha (Muffin) Collins. Opponents are advised to "watch out!".

Exciting hockey

This week's hockey action saw the H.K. Blades and Humkin Hacks game postponed due to bad weather. It has been rescheduled for Thursday, Feb. 26 at 7 p.m.

The Terceums Chiefs ended Commerce B's underfisted streak as they beat them 5-2. Ken Semanki's last-minute goal gave the Bulls an exciting 2-1 win over the winless Exiles. With only a few games remaining for each team, there are some fierce battles for the final playoff spots in all three divisions. Division A sees the Screaming Eagles and Law A tied for the sixth and final playoff position. Only two games remain for both teams so it should be exciting.

A Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Commerce 'A'</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eng. Soc. 'A'</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rockers</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>69ers</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulls</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law 'A'</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Western Exiles 0 6 0 0

B1 Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Commerce 'B'</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M.B.A.</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mac Hall Stars</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huron Wings</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H.K. Blades</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humkin Hacks</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-Ars</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

B1 Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Eng. Soc. 'B'</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geography</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gay Serks</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racoon Lodge</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bedrockers</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law Benchers</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seamen</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law Torchbearers</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Jammers win

The CJAM Jammers and the CKLW All-stars squared off last Sunday evening in St. Denis Hall in what was to be the athletic event of 1981. After 40 torturous minutes of end to end action, the score was tied at 58.

With both centres Dean Zurkan ("69") who was allowed to play due to a loophole in his contract with the intramural Carver High team, and Jim (call me Fred) Roser ("63") out of the game with five fouls, team spirit and the shooting of Jerry Tymstra carried the Jammers to a 68-64 overtime victory.

All proceeds from the gate went to the Windsor Hospice.

Three scores for the game were Tymstra with 18, Zurkan with 12 and Roner with 14.

Ball hockey scores

Following are the scores in men's ball hockey for the last two weeks.

Thurs., Feb. 5
Gwast 69's 5
Facts and 1

Jams 4 Engineering 2
Semenko's 6 Art-Mars 6
St. Mike's 3 Humirica Hakers 2
Canadian Hostages 4 Trojans 3
Spartac 2 Nimrod's 3

Steveons, Uhlig to nationals

The Windsor Lancerette swim team concluded the season by finishing 10th among 18 teams competing at the OWIAA championships in Guelph Saturday.

The very strong University of Toronto team dominated almost all events and won the meet by over 100 points, while the host team Guelph was second. Of the 51 swimmers that started the year, only six had the perseverance and determination to go to the championships. Top Lancerette performer was Gill Stevens who won the 100 butterfly in a time of 1:09.0. She also placed sixth in the 200 butterfly and eighth in the 100 free-style.

Jenny Agnew proved to be the toughest freshman on the team, finishing 10th in the 100 butterfly and ninth in the 200 backstroke.

Patti Roy performed well in the 100 backstroke with a ninth-place finish. Megan Bomer, while just missing the consolation finals in both the 100 and 200 freestyles, was placed 13th in both.

The remaining two swimmers, Kathy Samson and Anne Friesinger, gave superb efforts in their events which proved to be highly competitive in comparison to other events in the meet.

Petr Uhlig was sorely missed on both the one metre and three metre boards with placings of 11th and 17th respectively.

Both coaches, Paul Laing (diving) and Don Wilson (swimming), were extremely happy with their respective athletes' individual performances. It was noted, however, that due to unforeseen circumstances the final team performance was somewhat lower than had been anticipated in the early part of the year.

Finally, both coaches would like to thank all of the athletes for their participation throughout the year and wish continued good luck to Gill and Petra who will compete at the national championships in Toronto March 4-6.

The exciting chills and spills of 3-on-3 hockey continue every Thursday from 2-4 p.m. The surprise so far in the young season is the dismal showing of the 69's. Six teams are in contention for the coveted title of "intramural 3-on-3 hockey champions".

Results

Cody 1 Bulls 0
Screaming Eagles 6 69ers 5
Bedrockers 7 69ers 5
Huron Hall 6 Cody 5

3-on-3 Hockey

Live and in concert at Sac's Pub

Monday, Feb. 23/81

Students $4.50
Guests $5.50

"you gotta crawl before you can walk"

DOUG AND THE SLUGS

The Belleville Bulls Bridge 6
The top six teams qualify for playoff positions.

Sac's Pub

Live and in concert at Sac's Pub

Monday, Feb. 23/81

Students $4.50
Guests $5.50
Students help Windsor’s troubled small business

An economic slowdown in Windsor coupled with high interest rates have created many business problems particularly for the small business owner. Some of these problems are declining profits, increasing bad debts and insolvency. Many businesses feel helpless when they face these problems and they often wait until they nearly go out of business.

These businesses could survive if they sought adequate business counselling. Professional consultants are generally too expensive to afford, but there is good consulting help available at an affordable cost in the Windsor area. This service is provided by the Small Business Assistance Centre of the University of Windsor.

Senior student consultants provide year-round assistance to small businesses by providing solutions to accounting, finance, marketing, and other business related problems in the strictest confidence.

Located in the Business Administration Building, the centre operates Monday through Friday 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and can be reached by calling 256-5891.

At this time of year, many businessmen are most concerned with the amount of taxes they have to pay, especially with the April 30 deadline quickly approaching. Of special interest to these small businesses would be professional advice on how to reduce these taxes.

In response to this, the Small Business Assistance Centre will be presenting a seminar on "tax credits, capital cost allowances and more information, phone 256-5891."

For further information contact: Tax Specialist and Glen Ladouceur, C.A., will be discussing such topics as tax planning for the small business, investment tax credits, capital cost allowances and many more topics.

It will take place at the University of Windsor on Tuesday, February 27, from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. For reservations and more information, phone 256-5891.

---

Photograph

Concert

Doug and the Slugs

Feb 23/81

The Cases

Feb 24 - 28

Busker

Mar 2 - 7
Dr. Franklin tells very small crowd not to worry

by E.P. Chant

A less-than-overflow crowd of approximately 60 people, many of them administrators, showed up at the University Centre's Speaker's Pit on Monday afternoon to question university president Dr. Mervyn Franklin about tuition increases.

The president consistently stated that, even if the provincial government would increase tuition fees, the university would not increase fees too severely beyond the mandatory provincial increase of 10 percent. The board has been given the option (by the government) of tacking on up to another 10 percent, but the president said the board would be taking into consideration the city's poor economic situation and student opinion in making its decision. If the university would probably, however, have to take some of the discretionary increase, he added, because if it did not, the government and the public could construe this as the university saying, "We don't need more funding — we're doing fine."

President David Simmons pressed Franklin to shift his attention from the provincial sphere to that of this university, saying that the tuition increase and funding in terms of 7.83 percent could offset the inflation rate, so no further increase was necessary. If the board did take an additional increase, he warned, it had better realize students would expect improvements in their education.

Franklin responded, "I suspect the board will be very cautious and conservative, bearing in mind the type of concerns you have quite rightly expressed." Although he did not confirm or deny Simmons' suspicion, the president left the impression the board could take a tuition increase over the mandatory provincial one to offset part of the university's $600,000 deficit.

SAC Vice-President Jim Shaban then pushed Franklin into an estimate of the tuition increase the board might be seeking, the latter guessing that the board would probably be taking something "well below the half-way mark" (an additional five percent on top of the provincial ten).

Franklin also surmised that the provincial government would be considering a hefty increase in the tuition fees of foreign visitors students, but that it would probably hold any such announcement until after the provincial election scheduled for March 19.

Franklin seemed genuinely reluctant of such a plan. "I think Canada has an obligation to Third World countries, to help educate the future leaders of the Third World so they can help themselves because, make no mistake about it, the greatest investment in any country is its people and the education of its people," he said, but admitting that this matter was pretty much at the whim of the provincial government.

Chemical engineering student John Rizopoulos asked Franklin what he planned to do about the "passing of the buck" — with the universities blaming the provincial government and the students blaming the university administrators.

The president replied that it boils down to a question of public belief — that the people of the province must be convinced that the university concept and system is one which should be supported and that the people must decide whether they still think students should pay for their education and, if so, what

SEE "FRANKLIN TALKS", PAGE 6

A pretty boy is like a melody

by E.P. Chant

At the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) meeting on February 19 - a meeting cut short when quorum was lost partway through - SAC President David Simmons urged SAC members to attend the Board of Governors meeting dealing with the tuition increase, "whether that meeting was open to the public or not."

Voting on a motion which would have called upon the university's Board of Governors not to increase tuition next year above the mandatory 10 percent increase, Simmons told the members they were the representatives of students and might have to force their way into the traditionally closed Board meetings to tell the administration how the students feel.

In its discussion which followed, SAC member Eric Dixon placed some of the blame for university costs, saying, "The faculty (here) has behaved totally irresponsibly in the past few years in raising tuition and costs via increased salaries.

The motion was passed unanimously.

Also at the meeting, SAC approved the purchase of a special Polaroid camera (for $4700) to produce Association of Students' Councils student discount cards. The cards can be used nationwide to buy clothing and other goods at reduced prices. The card will cost students $1.25, said Vice-President Jim Shaban. The possibility exists for the camera to be used by (and rented to) the university administration to take pictures for the new pictoral ID cards which are to be introduced next year.

Several other minor matters were discussed and tabled before a couple members left and quorum was lost. Those that remained, however, were treated to a brief address by Karen Dubinsky, the current chairperson of the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS).

After outlining OPS' services (education and student aid research, protest, and government lobbying), Dubinsky pasado on to more crass matters... the proposed OPS fee doubling (from $1.50 per student to three dollars) and the fee for the new student organization, the national Canadian Federation of Students (seven dollars per student).

It is likely that a referendum dealing with one or both of these fee matters will be held in September of this year. Dubinsky expects to be back on campus here before the end of this semester.

Everybody wants some

by E.P. Chant

At the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) meeting on February 19 - a meeting cut short when quorum was lost partway through - SAC President David Simmons urged SAC members to attend the Board of Governors meeting dealing with the tuition increase, "whether that meeting was open to the public or not."

Voting on a motion which would have called upon the university's Board of Governors not to increase tuition next year above the mandatory 10 percent increase, Simmons told the members they were the representatives of students and might have to force their way into the traditionally closed Board meetings to tell the administration how the students feel.

In its discussion which followed, SAC member Eric Dixon placed some of the blame for university costs, saying, "The faculty (here) has behaved totally irresponsibly in the past few years in raising tuition and costs via increased salaries.

The motion was passed unanimously.

Also at the meeting, SAC approved the purchase of a special Polaroid camera (for $4700) to produce Association of Students' Councils student discount cards. The cards can be used nationwide to buy clothing and other goods at reduced prices. The card will cost students $1.25, said Vice-President Jim Shaban. The possibility exists for the camera to be used by (and rented to) the university administration to take pictures for the new pictoral ID cards which are to be introduced next year.

Several other minor matters were discussed and tabled before a couple members left and quorum was lost. Those that remained, however, were treated to a brief address by Karen Dubinsky, the current chairperson of the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS).

After outlining OPS' services (education and student aid research, protest, and government lobbying), Dubinsky passed on to more crass matters... the proposed OPS fee doubling (from $1.50 per student to three dollars) and the fee for the new student organization, the national Canadian Federation of Students (seven dollars per student).

It is likely that a referendum dealing with one or both of these fee matters will be held in September of this year. Dubinsky expects to be back on campus here before the end of this semester.
Games room tournament was out of this world

by Wendy Coomber

Sweaty palms and unnatural heart palpitations, incredible looks of disbelief and of frustration, accompanied this year's annual snooker/video tournament held last weekend in the games room (now, the "Lites and Levies" Room). With the sounds of Azzagardon coming from the doors of the video room, the last two contestants battled it out on the snookers green, Chuck Church and Rick Fodor. Rick is the games room manager and one might suspect him of a little last minute heavy early morning practice, but that's neither here nor there.

"Nice try" and "damn you" and other thinly disguised compliments slid glibly through tight smiles. In a room that had last Thursday held 32 eager, competitive snookerers, the tension between the final two players was heavy.

But Rick knew, "I feel very confident today," he said, watching Church and Ming Jun roll through the quarter finals. Fodor has been chasing the little coloured balls around the bumpers off and on for seven years, winning every game he has played in the tournament about 10 (10) since Thursday. Church had been at it for almost 15 years.

The video tournament, running concurrently with the snooker, was less auspicious to the spectator but death-defying to the players who had to stare into the terrible faces of Astro Invaders, Crash and Space Encounters, where a slip of a nervous finger could mean the end of the earth, or worse.

This is the tenth year of the snooker tournament, the first for video games. If the electronicfad holds on till next year, the tournament organizers might think about separating the two.

The players who came in first, second, and third in each tournament were presented with a trophy by Randy Johnston, Centre Director. Fodor was supposed to present the trophy to the winner of each game, but he mistimed all that by winning first place in snooker, followed by Church and Jun.

LaSalle countryside really nice this time of year

by Robert Brown

Last Friday a student hurrying to a morning lecture parked her car in the lot behind Faneux Hall. When she returned from class an hour later the car was in LaSalle — not a prank or due to theft, but as a result of university policy towards vehicles illegally using the campus parking lots.

So far this year around 100 cars have been taken away by Joe's Towing to LaSalle, according to Sgt. Claire Elford of Security. The choice of a towing service as distant from campus has been the subject of intense criticism. Last February a Lance article revealed that there was no set policy for choosing a towing service, and that the choice of a LaSalle firm had been made by Security head Grant Melver for reasons unknown. Shortly thereafter the then Vice-President of Administration, Dr. J. H. Allan, instituted a system of tendering for the towing contract.

But a year later, cars are still being taken to LaSalle by the same service. When contacted about this, the Security Office claimed that tendering was the responsibility of the Purchasing department. However, university Purchasing Agent Terry Crilley stated that while Purchasing investigated tenders and made suggestions, the ultimate decision was left to Security.

Both Crilley and Assistant Vice-President Bill Morgan (whose Operations department includes parking) defended Security's renewal of the LaSalle towing contract. According to Morgan and Crilley, the firm chosen had to meet several criteria: it had to have a 24-hour service, a sufficiently protected compound, liability insurance, and a competitive price. Three companies were contacted. One refused to bid; reasons cited by Morgan and Crilley were an already existing contract with Windsor police, and an unfeasible experience in towing for the university some years back. The second firm — which did compete for the contract — had a competitive price but was far from campus and isolated from Transit Windsor buslines. This left Joe's Towing as the only alternative.

But unfortunate students may not have to journey to LaSalle for their cars in the near future. A towing company near to the university recently opened up, and Morgan says it will be asked to bid for the next contract. However, this will not happen until after classes finish.

Security has also been criticized for a lack of consistency in deciding what cars to tow. Last year a student claimed he had been known to be carried off to the LaSalle compound by mistake. The number of vehicles towed this year has been half of what it was in 1980 — a decline which Sgt. Elford attributes to increased student awareness of the towing policy. Yet he also guessed that these cars have been around 1000 cars illegally parked on student lots.

Last year Security head Grant Melver said that cars are towed away when there is one previous ticket, or if the car is blocking an access route. Sgt. Elford cautions that there is no such iron-clad rule, but that Security "looks at each individual case before we tow it." Just because a vehicle has one or two tickets doesn't mean it will be towed. "The driver might not know the rules — for example, he may have a permit for his car, but not for his father's car which he is driving." (A parking permit is issued to the car and not to the driver.) He added that Security does not discriminate against students and will tow the cars of faculty and staff if they park illegally.

If you do find that your car has been transported to deepest, darkest LaSalle, do not go out there until you have been issued a release form by Security. This form will be given only when you have paid all your parking fines. A Charterways bus service out to LaSalle (95 cents for a one-way ticket) leaves the downtown terminal at 7:00, 9:00, 11:00, 1:00, 4:00 and 6:10 Mondays to Fridays. It can be caught at busstops along University Avenue. Joe's Towing charges a $22.00 flat rate plus a storage fee.
So you want another 17 weeks vacation...

by Peter Hansotov

Since 1970, a woman's right to a pregnancy leave of absence has been enshrined in provincial law. The Employment Standards Act protects qualifying individuals from dismissal from their employment due to a pregnant condition by providing a flexible 17-week unpaid pregnancy leave of absence followed by reinstatement in their same position or comparable work.

An employee qualifies when she has worked full-time for at least 13months and 11 weeks before the estimated date of delivery. Reasonable and usual absences such as sick days and vacation do not take away from the time of employment. In addition, an employer is not to take into account the employee's marital status, or women who have met the time qualification are entitled to the leave.

Regular part-time employees are covered by the law, provided the arranged working schedule has been maintained for at least a year. For example, if an employee works in a recall store on Fridays and Saturdays only, she would be entitled to a pregnancy leave after having worked in this fashion for one year.

In order to apply for a leave, the employee is required to give two weeks' written notice to her employer, accompanied by a medical certificate estimating the date of delivery. If an employee qualifies and has not applied, she shall be granted a leave if, before the expiry of two weeks after ceasing to work, she provides her employer with the medical certificate and the estimated or actual date of delivery.

The 17-week period includes a mandatory six-weeks post-natal leave. Regardless of when the pregnancy leave was taken, each employee must take six weeks' leave of absence after giving birth. In cases of late delivery, the six-weeks period will commence at the time of delivery.

An employee may take less than six weeks' post-natal leave, provided she obtains a doctor's certificate of good health. Also, she must come to mutual agreement with her employer as the latter may not be ready, willing and able to reinstate her at that time.

If the employee's pregnancy interferes with her duties, the employer may ask that the employee begin her leave earlier than expected. In this situation, the employee is still entitled to the mandatory six-weeks post-natal leave despite the fact that she may accumulate more than 17 weeks on leave.

Usually, an employee will be reinstated to the same position or in work comparable to that which she held prior to her leave, at the same salary, and with no loss of benefits or seniority accrued to the start of a leave. At times, an employer may be faced with a temporary work-stoppage calling for employee layoffs. A pregnant employee on leave affected by the layoff would be reinstated when operations are resumed with all her seniority rights intact. If the job she held prior to her leave has been discontinued, the employer must give her alternate work which is of a comparable nature.

An employer is not required to pay wages or fringe benefits while the employee is on pregnancy leave. But a pregnant employee may be entitled to up to 15 consecutive weeks of Unemployment Insurance Maternity Benefits. These benefits can be taken at any time between the tenth week before the expected date of delivery and the seventeenth week after. To qualify, the employee must have worked 20 weeks of insurable employment in the last 52. Or, if the employee was the recipient of unemployment insurance within the past year, she must have worked 20 weeks since the claim started.

If the employer requests that the employee take an earlier leave than expected, the employee may be eligible for further benefits available through the Unemployment Insurance Commission. For further information regarding these maternity benefits, employers and employees can contact their local Employment and Immigration Canada Office.

Information and consultations regarding the 17-week unpaid pregnancy leave of absence, employers and employees must contact the nearest Employment Standards Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Labour.

The only good provincial government is a dead one

by Wendy Coomber

"I'd like to give you a chance to" said the Honorable Paul Martin to a small group of students and faculty last Monday.

The topic for discussion was problems with the Canadian constitution, more specifically, "about the disposition of Canada's constitution", said the Liberal senator.

The problem began, he said, when it was agreed on to leave the constitution in the hands of the British parliament so as to give Quebec another level of appeal should it disagree with the Canadian government.

Now the problem is, said Martin, trying to get all the provinces to agree on the same thing, or, "should the federal government even have to consult with the provincial governments in this matter?" The constitutional issue is between the government in Ottawa and the one at Westminster (London), he said. As far as England is concerned there is no recognition of Canadian provincial governments.

If there must be any communication between the British parliament and one of the Canadian provinces, it usually goes through the High Commissioner, a post from which Martin recently retired.

The constitution has been amended many times since 1867 according to Martin, "at the behest of the Canadian government - sometimes with consultations with the provinces", but usually without any at all. He remembers one day in 1949 when then Prime Minister St. Laurent, walked into the Cabinet, of which Martin was a member, and told them to petition the Monarch to turn the constitution back to Canada "forthwith!" Martin recalls he was shocked the Prime Minister would take such action without consulting the provinces first.

Now, he says, "If you reach a point where you are enabled at every turn, at every point in the year, you must do it!"

According to the British North America Act, the provinces are free to amend their own constitutions without going to London.

The senator also criticized the press for making it a game and blowing little points out of proportion. He also berated the members of parliament for not asking pertinent questions. "Not one MP," he said, "has said it wasn't constitutional for the government to proceed as it was."

"The implications for the Commonwealth, I think, are greatly exaggerated." Canada and Britain have had incidents before but no one wants to interfere with relations with Britain because they are too important and too valuable, he explained.

He said if all goes well next month, the Canadian government will petition London to amend the BNA Act in accordance with the wishes of the Canadian government. "Then, (Prime Minister Thatcher) will do what every Prime Minister has done for the past 53 years," she will do with our constitution as we ask.

The Whopper

Get \( \frac{\sqrt{64} - \sin 90^\circ}{3/2} \) for the price of one

Get \( \frac{\sqrt{64} - \sin 90^\circ}{3/2} \) for the price of one

Bring this coupon to Burger King

at 2830 Tecumseh Rd. W.,
2840 Tecumseh Rd. E.
7955 Tecumseh Rd. E.
WINDSOR

Present this coupon when you order a Whopper*, and before you can say Pythagoras, we'll serve up (have you figured it out yet?) two for the price of one. Limit one coupon per customer. Offer good only, at above address and expires on March 27, 1981.
The Lance, Vol. LI, No. 20, February 27, 1981, Page Four

Editorial

If it's so important, why was no one there?

Compared to Monday's turnout at University of Windsor President Dr. Mervyn Franklin's question and answer period, Dr. Bette Stephenson was greeted by an almost empty room simply busting down the doors to ask intelligent questions.

While Student Council is well within its limits to complain about closed Board of Governors' meetings, the fact remains that the Senate, apparently, mess up the proverbial one car funeral. Monday's event, although well planned, was not a masterpiece of hype. Although SAC may have felt that the involvement of Student Affairs absolved them of the responsibility to advertise, or to attend, such a meeting.

The sixty persons mentioned in the story on page one of The Lance is what would be called, at most, a liberal estimate. It also appeared that about 20-25 of those who attended the meeting were from another faculty, and although they certainly have the right to attend, it was not a full representation of the student body. Of at least it wasn't supposed to be.

SAC is composed of approximately 45 members. Ordinarily, if such a disaster as only 60 people turning up to hear the University President speak were to occur, and if a majority of them were administrators, one would hope that the other 35 or so were SAC. Also, SAC had not to be the case. Conscious in their absence were almost all SAC members of the Executive. Truly a sad state of affairs.

"Also conspicuous in their absence were a number of Board of Governors who save Dr. Franklin. Surely the least some of these distinguished pillars of the academic community could have done was to have shaken themselves loose to listen to the concerns of the students in whose best interests they supposedly work.

Although Board of Governors members were not in attendance, it would have been almost impossible for SAC to criticize them for their absence. After all, SAC has a difficult time coming up with quorum these days.

As it turns out, some of the people that some students found out about Monday's event did not attend, theirs was a prime example of throwing a party and leaving nothing untouched in its "wake." I'm not sure what the uproar over the recent Iranian fiasco was all about, but I am sure that no student body anyone might complain about (i.e., tuition increases or closed Board of Governors' meetings) than one can hardly complain if those decisions are made without the benefit of one's input.

In other words, if you're tired of Board of Governors' meetings being closed, and you knew about Monday's meeting you didn't show up to complain, you have no right to complain if the Board goes ahead and makes decisions that will directly affect you without the benefit of your input. It's a similar situation to an election. You have a vote which you may choose not to exercise. But if you make a choice not to exercise your vote, you have no right to complain about the government that is elected may do.

That's how democracy works.

And Dr. Franklin's attempt Monday to explain, though it may seem to some, to make this university a bit more democratic was a dismal failure.

That failure rests jointly with the Office of Student Affairs, the Students' Administrative Council, and most of all, with individual students.

Looking ahead to the summer - unhappily

The tuition. Bogey Man has come out of the dark closet, kiddles, and he's come out a little sooner than any of us expected.

At Tuesday's Board of Governors' meeting, a motion was passed which will raise tuition fees for Intercession and Summer School, effective May 1.

Courses during the sunny season will cost Canadian undergraduate students $91 each (up 10 percent from last year's $82.50), Canadian graduate students $129 (up 10 percent from last year's $120), foreign undergraduates $196 (up 14.7 percent from last year's $170), and foreign graduate students $220 (up 29.4 percent from last year's $170).

SAC President and student representatives David Simmons was quite hot under the collar about this on Wednesday because President Franklin had not mentioned it at the above discussion. A. open forum on tuition which took place Monday. Simmons was quite hot under the collar about this on Wednesday because President Franklin had not mentioned it at the above discussion. A. open forum on tuition which took place Monday.

President-Academic Paul Cassano of definitely withholding the information expressing in The Lance offices are located on the Second Floor, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario N8T 34. Phone: (519) 253-4623 or 253-4232. This week's edition was last edited on 25th, November 1980. The Lance offices are located on the Second Floor, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario N8T 34. Phone: (519) 253-4623 or 253-4232. This week's edition was last edited on 25th, November 1980.

Contributing Writers: John Mill, John Dey, Scott McCullough, Chris Woodrow, Ettore A. Bonato.

The Fortnighter

by Chris Woodrow

An interesting phenomenon is sweeping this campus and leaving nowhere untouched in its 'wake.' I'm not talking about the "morality" or "Commonwealth," but that rare breed of person who finds it impossible to resist the temptation of scribbling inane and often tasteless and offensive graffiti. They are often teachers, students, or artistic geniuses of this campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that"/

The recent Iranian fissure is a case in point. Running comments on the subject could be found around campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that

And the graffiti artist - it could be your roommate or even the

The closet poets perpetuating the timeless wall surface within reach. An interesting phenomenon is sweeping this campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that

If someone is ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that they have or write racist slogans that openly criticize them for their absence. After all, SAC has a difficult time coming up with quorum these days.

As it turns out, some of the people that some students found out about Monday's event did not attend, theirs was a prime example of throwing a party and leaving nothing untouched in its "wake." I'm not sure what the uproar over the recent Iranian fiasco was all about, but I am sure that no student body anyone might complain about (i.e., tuition increases or closed Board of Governors' meetings) than one can hardly complain if those decisions are made without the benefit of one's input.

In other words, if you're tired of Board of Governors' meetings being closed, and you knew about Monday's meeting you didn't show up to complain, you have no right to complain if the Board goes ahead and makes decisions that will directly affect you without the benefit of your input. It's a similar situation to an election. You have a vote which you may choose not to exercise. But if you make a choice not to exercise your vote, you have no right to complain about the government that is elected may do.

That's how democracy works.

And Dr. Franklin's attempt Monday to explain, though it may seem to some, to make this university a bit more democratic was a dismal failure.

That failure rests jointly with the Office of Student Affairs, the Students' Administrative Council, and most of all, with individual students.

The tuition. Bogey Man has come out of the dark closet, kiddles, and he's come out a little sooner than any of us expected.

At Tuesday's Board of Governors' meeting, a motion was passed which will raise tuition fees for Intersession and Summer School, effective May 1.

Courses during the sunny season will cost Canadian undergraduate students $91 each (up 10 percent from last year's $82.50), Canadian graduate students $129 (up 10 percent from last year's $120), foreign undergraduates $196 (up 14.7 percent from last year's $170), and foreign graduate students $220 (up 29.4 percent from last year's $170).

SAC President and student representatives David Simmons was quite hot under the collar about this on Wednesday because President Franklin had not mentioned it at the above discussion. A. open forum on tuition which took place Monday. Simmons was quite hot under the collar about this on Wednesday because President Franklin had not mentioned it at the above discussion. A. open forum on tuition which took place Monday.

President-Academic Paul Cassano of definitely withholding the information expressing in The Lance offices are located on the Second Floor, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario N8T 34. Phone: (519) 253-4623 or 253-4232. This week's edition was last edited on 25th, November 1980. The Lance offices are located on the Second Floor, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario N8T 34. Phone: (519) 253-4623 or 253-4232. This week's edition was last edited on 25th, November 1980.

Contributing Writers: John Mill, John Dey, Scott McCullough, Chris Woodrow, Ettore A. Bonato.

The Fortnighter

by Chris Woodrow

An interesting phenomenon is sweeping this campus and leaving nowhere untouched in its 'wake.' I'm not talking about the "morality" or "Commonwealth," but that rare breed of person who finds it impossible to resist the temptation of scribbling inane and often tasteless and offensive graffiti. They are often teachers, students, or artistic geniuses of this campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that

The recent Iranian fissure is a case in point. Running comments on the subject could be found around campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that

And the graffiti artist - it could be your roommate or even the

The closet poets perpetuating the timeless wall surface within reach. An interesting phenomenon is sweeping this campus, containing both points of view. Those ticked off, sexually frustrated, or even sexually deviant, the washroom wall is one avenue that
Mail Call

Can't afford that much support

Dear Editor:

Last Wednesday, Windsor played its final home game of the regular season in St. Denis. Along with many other students, I have a night class but usually attempt to make the second half of the game. I realize the team needs support, but it seems that for this game some dimwit who probably doesn't have a goddamn clue about athletics decided that even latecomers should pay $2.00 to support the team.

That's just great, considering students have only been required to pay one dollar for every other game and nothing after half-time.

Only a fool would pay two dollars to watch less than half of the game. Fortunately, unlike the Faculty Association, you supported the motion.

Our intention was not, and will not be "a Pyrrhic victory". Our intention was to ensure that academic quality is pursued. It was never my intention and Eric's intention to provide the administration with a cause for dismissal of professors. No doubt, you are well aware that there are many professors whose productivity, both in and out of the classroom, have not gone in the same direction as their salaries. This gives me great worry. However, I do not believe those individuals are totally incapable of continuing to be good teachers or researchers.

My intention is to convince both the Faculty Association and the members of the Senate that what we need is the mechanism that will spur the individual professors to continue producing, as is required, with the same intensity and enthusiasm prior to the conferring of tenure.

This is why I feel it is important that any attempt to focus on the more lethargic should just as well adequately recognize the contributions of the more dutiful ones.

You were a little hasty, Mr. Editor, in accusing Eric and I of cowardice. Obviously, from your position, it would have been a more interesting piece of news to report "Faculty oppose Post-Tenure Review". However, unlike your newspaper, we have a responsibility to the students, and our concern for the students makes it imperative that we exhaust all possible means to ensure that the quality of education is pursued instead of "Pyrrhic Victory" void of any substance and changing nothing.

David A. Simmons, President
SAC

Call in the troops

Dear Editor,

I would like to strenuously object to the editorial in The Lance on February 20.

In the article, it is claimed that a Pyrrhic victory is not going ahead with a motion asking specifically for post-tenure review. I somewhat let the students down. However, I do not believe that by submitting a much superior motion taking for its foundation the methods of maintaining and improving academic excellence in both teaching and research the students' interests were not served.

It is true, as you indicated in your editorial, that there are many serious academic problems facing students at the University of Windsor. I feel these problems must be debated. However, instead of addressing only post-tenure review as a means of maintaining and improving academic quality, I took a much broader approach.

I do not believe that post-tenure review would be a cure-all, nor was my motion on post-tenure review ever intended to be such a solution. Further, I do not believe it beneficial or productive to antagonize, any group on campus (i.e., The Faculty Association) simply for a "Pyrrhic victory". Instead, as I stated above, I wish to improve the academic quality of this institution - not win hollow moral victories.

When the Senate establishes the ad hoc committee I envisaged, I hope all groups on campus (students, faculty and administration) will contribute to seeking ways to maintain and improve academic excellence (this may include post-tenure review). Only through cooperation, not Pyrrhic victories, will such solutions be arrived at.

Eric Dixon, Undergraduate Rep, Senate

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication the next day. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.

GENERAL ELECTION
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

FULL-TIME UNDERGRADUATE VOTERS ONLY

The General Election for the Students' Administrative Council will be held Wednesday, March 18 and Thursday, March 19, 1981. Nominations will be open 8:30 on Friday, February 27, 1981 and will close 4:30 pm on Monday, March 9, 1981. The following positions are open for nomination:

President - 1 position
Vice-President Administration - 1 position
COUNCIL REPS
Faculty of Business Admin. Rep - 1 position
Science and Math Rep - 1 position
Law Rep - 1 position
Arts Rep - 1 position
Social Work Rep - 1 position
Human Kinetics Rep - 1 position
Music Rep - 1 position
Engineering Rep - 2 positions
Nursing Rep - 1 position
Social Science Rep - 2 positions
Visual Arts Rep - 1 position
Dramatic Arts Rep - 1 position
Computer Science Rep - 1 position
CAMPUS POSITIONS
Senate - 3 positions
Student Services Committee - 3 positions
Student Affairs Committee - 6 positions

REFERENDUM QUESTION:
As a Dramatic Arts student, are you in favour of a $5.00 increase per semester to go directly to the formation of a School of Dramatic Arts Society?

A BY-ELECTION FOR UNFILLED SEATS AND RESIDENCE SEATS WILL BE HELD DURING THE 3rd WEEK OF SEPTEMBER.
These rising costs you'll probably appreciate

by Peter Hrastovec
There will be a two-stage increase in Ontario minimum wages, effective March 31, 1981, and again October 1, 1981.

Funding stash is slashed again

VANCOUVER (CUP) – A federal government decision to slash funding to colleges and universities would have a disastrous effect on Canada's development, says York University president H. Ian Macdonald.

"The financial outlay needed for maintaining a high quality education system in Canada will, I am sure, be worth every penny we are willing to invest," Macdonald told 200 people at a national symposium on federal-provincial relations in education on February 12.

Macdonald said the federal government is "critically involved" in financing higher education through the Established Program Funding plan, which provides about $3 billion annually to the provinces for education.

Any decision by the federal government to cut back on this financing, as has been threatened by Secretary of State for Canada's Development.

"Such a policy will only exacerbate and not relieve their real problem. Enhanced educational opportunities in the 1980's and 1990's are a prerequisite to the future growth and development of the Canadian economy."

Failure to provide adequate resources places Canada's future at a peril and inhibits the development of the essential responses to the changing requirements of our society and economy at a critical period of Canada's development." said the general hourly rate will rise to $1.30 on March 31 and to $3.50 on October 1. The current rate is $3.00 for those over 18 years of age.

The student rate will rise to $2.45 on March 31 and to $2.65 on October 1 of this year. The current student rate is $2.15 per hour. A student under the Employment Standards Act is anyone under 18 who works during school vacations or 28 hours per week during the school year. If a student works more than 28 hours per week during the school year, s/he must be paid the general rate.

Ontario will still lag behind Quebec, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia, whose employees enjoy a $3.65 general minimum wage. According to Dr. Elgie, the slow rate of increase in Ontario is meant to work to the advantage of job seekers, as employers would be inclined to cut back on staff when faced with sharp wage increases.

The Ontario Federation of Labour preferred an increase to $5.00 per hour, to beindexed to inflation. Analysts claim the Ontario Conservatives are "politically cautious" in taking into consideration the interests of employers as well as employees.

FROM PAGE 1

Franklin talks percentage (currently, students pay for between 15 to 20 percent of their education).

Franklin added that he speaks about this problem "whenever I get the chance" and that students should be going to the NDP, Liberals, and Conservatives to get university-funding campaign promises.

The Lance asked President Franklin when he expected the board to get around to the tuition-increase discussion. He said the discussion could take place in March, but might have to wait until April.

All in fun

Dear Editor,

Tournaments, as you all know, are not the product of one individual's effort. Hence, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the award winner in both competitions and to thank all of the people who assisted in making this year's Snooker and Video Tournaments an outstanding success.

Initially, I would like to thank the administrative staff, the University Centre management and support staff who provided us with the facilities, materials and assistance necessary to run the competition smoothly. As well, I want to thank the management of Jupiters Amusements for their generous contribution of awards.

Those who assisted in coordinating, refereeing and scoring are to be congratulated for their first class efforts and for their diligence. The Games Area staff were certainly among those who assisted us greatly in this undertaking.

Thanks to the ranks of the competitors — good sportsmanship is alive and well at the University of Windsor.

I would be somewhat remiss in not thanking the spectators for their ongoing support, and The Lance staff for their excellent coverage of the tournament.

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to thank the Gimli area Games Area for their patience in awaiting the conclusion of the tournaments and for their cooperation during the competition. We could not have done it without you. Once again, deepest gratitude.

Rick Fodor, Student Manager

* * *
Pub patrons: don’t miss this brief Cases appearance

At first glance, Cases looks to be like all the other bands who have been in SAC’s pub this term. But not so!

These four musicians hail from Toronto, and are currently on an Ontario tour. Recently they have recorded six demo tapes, hopefully to entice a recording contract from a major company. Sounds familiar? Here is where the similarity ends.

Recently they have recorded six recently on from Toronto, and are currently on a ... the lead singer/bassist can be an effective hammer without making a fool of himself.

Probably Cases best asset is their vocal versatility. The band features three different vocalists capable of solo voice. The inaudibility of the vocals detract however from their Tuesday night performance. This may be due to it being their first evening at the pub. Generally it takes a band a night to get the kinks out of their system. My guess is that by the weekend Cases will be a lot tighter than in this initial performance.

The band has only been together for four months. Give these guys a little time and a little support, with their ability they could become a top flight Canadian band.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

"Who left the slime onstage?"

Cases stereotypically provides their audience with a good mix of rock and new wave tunes. However, don’t look for the same dreary numbers played ad nauseum weekly in the pub. Many of the every week tunes that they do are incased quite different from the original versions.

Case in point. Patti Smith made Bruce Springsteen’s tune “Because the Night" famous a while back. Every bar band around added the song to their repertoire. How many bands added lengthy keyboard introduction to the number? Additions such as this came well received, sparking extra interest into numbers which could otherwise be considered old and tired. Rounding out their rock numbers were the likes of Tom Petty’s "Breakdown" and Bruce’s "Born to Run”.

Cases seemed to play their new wave numbers with a different style than most interpretations. Gone is the angry, provocative style most bands adhere to in playing music of this latest trend. The presentation of The Monkees’ "Dreams in my Pocket" and "Turning Japanese" by the Vapors were quite entertaining and lively. The stage presentation is subtle but effective. The lead singer/bassist can be an effective hammer without making a fool of himself.

The band has only been to Canada temporarily, so they could become a top flight Canadian band. They could become a top flight Canadian band.

The band has only been together for four months. Give these guys a little time and a little support, with their ability they could become a top flight Canadian band.

EUROPE COSTS LESS THAN YOU THINK...

* If you think you can’t afford a holiday in Europe, think again.
* Contiki not only make it possible they offer the best range of tours, too.
* Contiki tours include accommodation, three meals a day, sightseeing and masses of special excursions.
* Once you’ve paid the full price we guarantee there will be no surcharges.
* All you’ll need in Europe is your pocket money. And the desire to share an altogether different experience.
* Europe Contiki style—for the 18-35’s there’s nothing like it!

Contiki
An altogether different experience for the 18-35’s.

Whirlpool Travel Service Ltd.
Head office on campus—at the bookstore,
7-483-8802

Come in and see Arpa, Cheryl or Beth.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

Only Our Price. Don’t Go Up! SHOP AND COMPARE

Bond Clothes

SPRING ’81

The best in young mens fashions

Other games available.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

Only Our Price. Don’t Go Up! SHOP AND COMPARE

Bond Clothes

SPRING ’81

The best in young mens fashions

Men's Dress Wear. Suits, Sport Coats & Matching Accessories

Other games available.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

Only Our Price. Don’t Go Up! SHOP AND COMPARE

Bond Clothes

SPRING ’81

The best in young mens fashions

Men's Dress Wear. Suits, Sport Coats & Matching Accessories

Other games available.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

Only Our Price. Don’t Go Up! SHOP AND COMPARE

Bond Clothes

SPRING ’81

The best in young mens fashions

Men's Dress Wear. Suits, Sport Coats & Matching Accessories

Other games available.

LEAVE WINTER BEHIND

Only Our Price. Don’t Go Up! SHOP AND COMPARE

Bond Clothes

SPRING ’81

The best in young mens fashions

Men's Dress Wear. Suits, Sport Coats & Matching Accessories

Other games available.
Early week slugfest attracts slimy crowd to SAC's

by Wendy Coomer

It's interesting to note that gardening books tell you beer will attract slugs. The books must be right 'cause there were ght out on the alcohol and literally drown himself in it. I wonder if Doug Bennett has ever heard of that. I wonder if he had his own bout with the demon Molson's before he reached the pub last week.

Doug and the Slugs weren't actually dead, it was just hard to think of them as alive. The show started quite slow, I guess in keeping with their "slug" image. And "fat man" Bennett wasn't apt to move too quickly with his punch line (it takes a dog a long time to crawl from one watering hole to the next so they have to carry a three day's beer supply around with them at all times).

Still, about 400 of us packed into the pub tight as a roll of pennies, were expecting a little more, I think. Close to one third of the audience left during the second set, seemingly unsure of what they wanted from the Slugs but knowing that they weren't getting it.

The problem wasn't with the band, who played excellently despite being in a room that wasn't suited to them. Sadly, much of Doug Bennett's taunts and gib insults were lost on his microphone. However . . .

They weren't punk and they weren't rock 'n' roll. See, the 'in' thing now is to play the 'out' songs, the tunes that the listening populace grew up with, a musical deja vu with a few twists.

The five member band stood twixtling under the stage lights, one looking like some staid organist, another holding a guitar while his cigarette dangling incon-sistently from his lips. Then Bennett walked on, full of smug quips. He swung into the beat of his band with his smooth, even sensual, voice, saying, "This is the nice part of the evening because you don't know me from shit." Such was the established caste of the night - Bennett, and all the rest of us.

He talked more than they played which was all right. His quips had more originality than most of the songs they played, with perhaps a few exceptions. Getting into the mood of the first strains of Roy Orbison's "Pretty Woman" was rather commonplace but when Bennett finally reached his chorus with "Pretty Man" I think it's safe to say he woke up half his audience. His suggestive gutteral growls were received by his listeners with a depraved admiration.

They also ran through "No-No", "Ninety-Six Years", "Kerou 65", and a few other old standbys, some with slightly al tered lyrics to keep the audience to sing it twice, we got it the first time.

Jody Stanton, SAC's manager, said she was quite pleased with the concert's results which everyone was careful not to step on any little inebriated slugs Tuesday morning. It could have meant the loss of one of Cana-da's most promising bands. Get away from that DDT!
Students from Africa plan weekend cultural festival

by Rosemary A. Brechuk

Africa. It is a vast continent, containing more than 500 million people of virtually infinite variety. Africa - the subject of an exciting cultural festival being held this week on campus, sponsored by the African Students' Association.

The public is cordially invited to this week-long festival, in which the ASA will attempt to distill and present the richness and complexity of the art, politics and lifestyles of the East, West, Central and Southern African countries, a number of which celebrated their 20th year of nationhood last year. Tickets for all events are available at the ISO Office (Cody Hall) and at the University Centre.

Tonight, in Vanier Hall at 7:00 p.m., a banquet of tasty African dishes will be served. Tickets for this event are $5.00 per person and $8.50 per couple.

On Saturday morning, beginning at 10:30 a.m. in 1120 Math Building, a number of educational seminars will be presented - "Socio-Economic and Political Problems of the African World Today: Prospects for the Future", "The Crisis of the African Identity", "The Threat from the Right", and will feature such eminent speakers as the O.A.U. representative at the UN, representatives of the African and Caribbean Diplomatic Corps, and Dr. Howard McCurdy of the National Black Coalition of Canada.

The final event, scheduled for Saturday night (7:00 p.m. in Ambassador Auditorium) and titled, "An African Cultural Panorama", promises to conclude the week's program in high style. The evening's diverse activities include an African fashion show, poetry recital, traditional dances and an aborigines' percussion performance. Tickets are $3.00 per person, $5.00 per couple.

Saturday, February 28

- Zastrozzi continues in the Studio Theatre.

Sunday, March 1

- The School of Music Concert Series continues with Paul Gunson and Irene Rosnovsky, music for bassoon and flute. The presentation is at 8:15 in Moot Court.

- An evening featuring local entertainment will be sponsored by the Assumption Campus Community. The show will be in the Blue Room, Assumption University at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday, March 3

- The Ontario Film Theatre has Wise Blood planned as this week's feature. John Huston directs and has a starring role in their adaptation of a Flannery O'Connor story set in the U.S. Southwest. The OFT is at the Superinema, Erie and Winnipeg.

- Three educational seminars will continue the African Students' Festival, beginning at 10:30 a.m. in Room 1120 of the Math Building.

- Zastrozzi, by George Walker is the University Players' Studio Production in the Studio Theatre of the Drama Building. Tickets are $2.00.

The annual Student Art Show is on display through March 5 in the University Centre and the Lebel Gallery.
Lancers down to business now

by Steve Rice

Windsor Lancers, having now dispensed with the affair of the league, Laurier Golden Hawks, 101-84 in the first round of the playoffs Tuesday, now head to Guelph for the four team OUAA west final tournament.

Lancers will face McMaster Marauders, 79-66 victors in their first-round match with Brock, at 7 p.m. Friday. In the other semifinal, Guelph Gryphons will meet Western Mustangs, who upset Waterloo 67-65 in an overtime game in Waterloo, at 9 p.m. The consolation final will go at 7 p.m. Saturday with the championship final slated for 9 p.m. that day.

Tuesday’s win was the biggest news of the day. Rather, it was the placing of three Lancers on the west division all-star team. Stan Koroscie责任心最强的团队成员 as well as first team honours with CUL top teams (last week ranking in brackets).

1. Ace Azzam (9)
2. Yorke Younessi (2)
3. Brandon Robinson (3)
4. Victoria Wilson (5)
5. WINDSOR LANCERS (4)
6. Guelph Gryphons (4)
7. St. Francis Xavier X-Men (7)
8. Concordia Stingers (9)
9. Saskatchewan Huskies (10)
10. Calgary Dinos (NR)

As being named most valuable player in the division, while Phil Hermansenn and Jim Molyneux had the third and second team respectively.

Also receiving honors was first-year head coach Nick Grabowski who was named the west’s coach of the year along with Mike Chapman of Guelph, last year’s winner.

Steve Rice

Track team continues assault on record books

by Scott McLellon

The University of Windsor track team set three school records last Thursday in the second annual Laurier Invitational track and field meet held at York University in Toronto.

Kevin Coughlan, Henry El-Draher, Kwaku Apeado, and Andy Bunkett made up the 800 metre relay team which gave Windsor its only first of the meet, while chopping 2.5 seconds off the old school record for a time of 1:32.6.

Sander Carson was third in the high jump with a jump of 1.70 metres, also a school record. Carson had equaled that height previously in club competition, but only records set at university meet count as school records.

Linda Staudt gained the record for the 100 metres by being the first female athlete from the school to run in the event. Her time was 11.08.

The team had three second place finishes. John Key in the 50 metre hurdles (7.0), Andy Beckstein in the 600 metres (1:22.6) and a mile relay team of Eldredt, John Key, Andy Buckstein (3:37.8)

Finishing in third spot in the women’s shot put was Laurier Sirrine Pace with a throw of 12.00 metres. Sandee Carson also threw in that event, propelling the ball 9.08 metres.

Fourth-place finishes were Jim Molyneux in the high jump, whose 1.90 metre jump tied the school record, and George Henry, who ran 1:23.5 for 400 metres. This marks a departure for Henry, who until now has concentrated mainly on the shorter distances.

Henry pulled a muscle with about two feet to go in his heat of the 50 metres. He managed to qualify for the semifinal with a 5.9 time, but was not able to continue. Coughlan met a similar fate in a semi-final of the same event.

Apeado and Dave Dempsey also competed in the 50 metres, but both failed to make the final. Apeado recorded times of 6.0 in his heat and 6.7 in this semi-final, while Dempsey ran 6.6 in his heat.

In the high jump, Dempsey placed fifth with a 1.85 metre leap. Other fifth went to Kathy Riddle in the 1000 metres in 10:43.7, and Sander Carson in the long jump, with a 5.00 metre jump.

In the 1000 metres, Ray Holland ran 2:18.8 and Mike Bondy ran 2:58.6, while the 600 metres saw Paul Kozak run 1:10.7 and newcomer George Dinwiddie run 1:12.1.
Hostages, Art-Mars undefeated in ball hockey

Men's intramural ball hockey is now midway through in season with no clear leaders to date. In division 1, Canadian Hostages hold a narrow three-point edge over Big Daddy's, Jen and the Knights, while in division 2, the Art-Mars hold a two-point lead over Panama Red Army. Action is very intense and the play is getting better.

DIVISION I

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Art-Mars</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nimrods</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Mike's</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boshers</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Panama Red Army</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flying Factum</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Trojans O 6 O 0

DIVISION II

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Art-Mars</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nimrods</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Mike's</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nick's</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hurricanes</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buccaneers</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

COMPETITIVE URGES

After two and a half weeks of play, the league appears to be quite competitive. In the A division, there is going to be a close race between SACS pub and Tecumets, while in the B division, the Thunderbirds from third floor Laurier seem to have a slight edge to date (or is that a slight edge to date?). After a two and a half weeks of play, the league appears to be quite competitive. In the A division, there is going to be a close race between SACS pub and Tecumets, while in the B division, the Thunderbirds from third floor Laurier seem to have a slight edge to date (or is that a slight edge to date?). Action is very intense and the play is getting better.

BIZ BOYS ON TOP

Commer A and Eng. Soc. A hooked up this week for a first-place showdown and the biz boys made it look easy with a 7-6 victory. Mean time, the Rockets kept pace with a hard-fought 3-5 win over the Screamin' Eagles. Bobby Mellon had the hat trick for the Rockets who are now in second place.

In division 2, the Art-Mars hold a narrow three-point edge over Big Daddy's, Jen and the Knights, while in division 2, the Art-Mars hold a two-point lead over Panama Red Army. Action is very intense and the play is getting better.

TROIS SUR TROIS 'LOREY'

Dan "Miracle Mart" Sankoff, Greg "Skid II Cranker" and Ron "Red Line" Fairchild. Do these names mean something to you? They should.

These players led their teams to victory during action in high speed hockey this week. Once again the action was fast and furious as the Screamin' Eagles stretched their record to four wins against no losses. The Eagles are on top of the league.

Sankoff paced the Eagles to a 6-1 victory over St. Mike's and a 4-2 decision over the Bulls. In other games, the Bedrockers stole a close one from the Cody Sucks club 4-2, while Cranker and Fairchild scored a hat trick each as the Pipers trounced the Huron Hall Red Wings 10-2.

BRITISH INVASION BASH

Friday, February 27th

Ambassador Auditorium

Doors Open at 8 p.m.

Social Science Students Free;
All Others .50

SUBSIDIZED BY THE SOCIAL SCIENCE SOCIETY

A FEATURING:

THE BEATLES, STONES,
MOODY BLUES, YARDBIRDS...

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE SOCIETY PRESENTS

The British Invasion Bash

Friday, February 27th

Ambassador Auditorium

Bar Open: 4:30 - 6:30

Dinner at 5:15

TICKET CUTOFF DATE: march 11, 1981

SCRIP OR CASH $5.75

Purchase tickets at any cashier in Vanier Hall or come to room 24, Vanier.

Limited Ticket Sales.

BUFFET

COUNTRY HOEDOWN DINNER

Friday, March 13, Vanier East
4:30 - 6:30

Bar Open: 4:30 - 6:30 Dinner at 5:15

FRONTIER DAYS

CARVED HIP-O-BEEF

YANKEE B.B.Q. RIBS

* Anybody at the door dressed in a Western costume will get a free drink at the bar.

TICKET CUTOFF DATE: march 11, 1981

SCRIP OR CASH $5.75

ALL YOU CAN EAT!

Syncho swimmers best ever in Ontario meet

Queen's University synchro- nized swimming team took top honours at the OWIAA synchro finals held at Carleton University
February 20 and 21.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.

RESULTS

Nurice Figures

13th Margaret Beaton
14th Carolyn Shaw
15th Dave Marlowe
16th Intermediate Figures
17th Barbara Miller
18th Jessica Autterson
19th Barbara Miller
20th Jessica Autterson
21st Idelle Boudreau
22nd Wendy Boudreau
23rd Dan "Miracle Mart" Sankoff,
"Skid II" Cranker and Ron "Red Line" Fairchild. Do these names mean something to you? They should.

These players led their teams to victory during action in high speed hockey this week. Once again the action was fast and furious as the Screamin' Eagles stretched their record to four wins against no losses. The Eagles are on top of the league.

Sankoff paced the Eagles to a 6-1 victory over St. Mike's and a 4-2 decision over the Bulls. In other games, the Bedrockers stole a close one from the Cody Sucks club 4-2, while Cranker and Fairchild scored a hat trick each as the Pipers trounced the Huron Hall Red Wings 10-2.

CJAM in Guelph

The University of Windsor Lancers' basketball team is in Guelph for the OUAA west division championships and CJAM Sports will be on location in Guelph to provide live radio coverage of these crucial playoff games. On Friday, the Lancers square off at 6:10 p.m. and CJAM's special playoff coverage will begin at 6 p.m.

CJAM wishes to gratefully acknowledge its Guelph playoff sponsorship: SAC, Faculty of Human Kinetics, Devonshire Mall, Chrysler of Canada Ltd. and the Windsor Star.

For Lancer fans who live off campus, the CJAM Sports team will broadcast a summary of each game as soon as it has been completed, live on CKWW, 580 AM.

Syncho swimmers best ever in Ontario meet

Queen's University synchro- nized swimming team took top honours at the OWIAA synchro finals held at Carleton University
February 20 and 21.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.

Ten universities were repre- sented at this championship and although the Windsor team met stiff com- petition from several universities with strong club swimmers, the Lancers came in at the top of their best performances ever. The LC swimmers officially end their season with a water- show, "Aquarama '81" which will be held Monday, March 15 at 2:30 p.m. at the human kinetics pool. Tickets may be purchased at the door, adults $1.50, students $1.00 and children under 13, $.75.
HELP ME GET RID OF MY CUTTER. I really want to get rid of the cutter. I have a large amount of equipment: Nikomat camera (body only), video cassette with extra cassette 3400 flash unit, Rolleiflex 140 flash unit. Talk to Mrs. Van der Meer at The Lance office, second floor of the University Centre or call 213-6400 or Ext. 123 on campus.

NIGHT ROOM FURNISHED apartment to sublet. Available from May 1 to September 1, 1981. Located in Lincoln Park near campus.

DESPERATELY NEEDED: Patient person to tutor me in Statistics 105 and Math 243. Contact 254-8815, ask for Brenda.

MARDI GRAS CELEBRATION - Sunday, March 1 - Assumption University Student Centre. The university will open its gates to the public at 3 p.m. for a family fun-filled day of music, food, and games. The event will continue with a traditional Mardi Gras parade at 5 p.m. followed by a night of entertainment.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE SOCIETY presents the British Invasion bash on Friday, March 6, at 8:00 p.m. at the Assumption Auditorium. Everyone is invited. Social science students free; others $5.00.

VOLUNTEERS are required to answer over 200 calls over the phone by utilizing computer-assisted dialing. Training program is March 27, 28, and April 1. Call 244-2763.

THE MORNING GLORY FOOD CO-OP is holding its annual meeting Monday, March 3 at the Main Library. New members will be elected at this meeting. The meeting will begin at 7:00 a.m. All welcome.

THE NEED FOR LOANERS is being advertised for the following: 1981 at 5:00 p.m. Present uniform designs to the Student Senate and Terri Stiles, Geoffrey Fisher Hall, 270 University Avenue.

NEW ORIENTAL LOOK Custom T-shirts 556 Ouellette 519-473-7231.

LESLIE AND GAY STUDENTS on campus. For information contact the Student Centre.

TWO BEDROOM upper apartment for rent to Sept. of 81. Walking distance to the university, semi-furnished, electric heat, back entrance, back yard.

LESLIEAN AND GAY STUDENTS on campus. For information contact the Student Centre.

THERE will be a general meeting of the Liberal Club on Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Centre, Room 208. New members welcome. Topic: The upcoming election.

AMATEUR STAMP COLLECTOR - 2150 Webster St. Has many stamps and much knowledge. Contact Bob. 252-3434.

BABY SITTER required - Friday or Saturday nights. Must be patient, caring and understanding. Call 252-5005.

BASKETBALL players needed for the Windsor vs. London basketball tournament to be held Sunday, March 8 at Toronto. Call Harry 519-4520 or Mike 519-4525 for more info.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.

BASKETBALL players needed for W.I.S.E. basketball team. Contact Mike 519-4520 or Harry 519-4525.
by Stephen Brooks, Ottawa Correspondent

In the wake of last weekend's national Conservative convention, the simple truth is that the jury is still out on the future of Joe Clark. With one of every three voting delegates calling for a review of Clark's leadership, it is clear that neither the party nor Clark is willing to be stampeded into a decision on the possibility of a leadership convention.

Under the hot glare of television lights at Ottawa's Civic Centre, the national leader of the PC Party delivered what may prove to be the most crucial speech of his political career. Prior to Clark's address to the general meeting, MP Bob Jarvis told The Lance: "Hundreds of delegates are still undecided and everything hinges on Clark's speech at the general convention. He has his destiny in his own hands." Clark's speech did not help his cause. It was uninspired and ring-worn. In comparison to the enthusiastic reception Clark received the previous evening when he spoke to the Progressive Conservative Young Federation, one had to wonder if Clark had even tried to link unity within the Conservative Party with national unity. When the vote was finally tabulated, the result was 1,409 delegates in support of Clark's continued leadership (67%), and 714 delegates favouring a leadership review (33%).

Clark found varied reaction to the fact that one in three delegates expressed dissatisfaction with Joe Clark's leadership: David Crombie, MP and former mayor of Toronto: "I don't know how long the party can tolerate this situation." Sinclair Stevens, MP and former cabinet minister in the Clark Government: "That over 30 percent of the delegates are calling for a leadership review indicates that support for Mr. Clark is not clear. Joe should consult with the new party executive in deciding how to interpret the vote. Yes, a leadership convention is needed in this country who want to lead. It's charisma that gets the public's vote."

Outgoing president of the PC party, Bob Coates, MP, received thunderous applause when he said: "The B and B Convention was a curse because it gave us Anglophones and Francophones. These words divided us and should be eliminated from our national vocabulary."

Coates again hit a responsive chord when he said, "Our greatest need in this country is to build a property-owning democracy." Deligate reaction was rather cooler when the former president of the party observed that this is a television age of instantaneous communication in which "the cult of the polls is dead." The Canadian Party said Coates, "must either follow the tune or forever remain in opposition."

"We don't put up with disrespect nor will we tolerate any form of abuse," said Meeses of the Algonquin Impact.

PC's unsure about...who was that again?

Candidates candidly converse

by Wendy Counter

The smell of blood was still appropriately in the air from the previous day of Red Cross blood donors.

Windsor-West politicians met for an all-candidate's meeting in Ambassador Auditorium Wednesday afternoon before a small group of about 40 students. But the toughest questions did not come from the students — they came from the candidates themselves.

Bill Wrye, Liberal; Tony Brechkow, Conservative; Dr. Ted Bounsall, New Democratic Party; and Mike Longmoore, Communist, talked for two hours, mostly on topics of economy, unemployment, and university funding.

"University funding is not being cut back," said Brechkow, asserting that it costs less to attend university these days. He emphasized the generosity of the OSAP grants and cited studies that showed tuition fees rarely deterred a student from attending post-secondary school.

Yet, according to Dr. Bounsall, the provincial government is doing nothing but systematically destroying education by its gross underfunding of universities.

He said he would like to see tuition fees lowered to the point where they would not hamper a student's accessibility to a university education, even if it meant lowering them to zero. Bounsall also cited accessibility studies from Queen's and Carleton which showed fee increases severely hampered student accessibility to university.

Bill Wrye's speech mainly concerned the student's search for a job after university. However, he added he thought special grants should be made to Ontario universities and tuition increases should be halted until further students accessibility studies could show how much tuition fee increases affected students.

Mike Longmoore thought there should be increased fundings for research and development for other areas. By Wendy Counter

The men who would be King.

The men who would be King.

Otawa, May 10, 1981

"Money can buy anything," said Bounsall, "but not the happiness that comes with education." A graduate and doctor, the candidate said that the government is not spending enough to educate that money is needed for research.

Bill Wrye's speech mainly concerned the student's search for a job after university. However, he added he thought special grants should be made to universities. He also stated he would like to see Chrysler turned over to the Ontario government.

It doesn't have to make a profit, he said, and it could be used to provide jobs to Windsor's unemployed, it could provide training for those students who finished school and it could be used in providing research and development for other areas.

Jim Millay said, "The government in the last few years has not been making the right kind of decisions."

They don't put up with disrespect nor will we tolerate any form of abuse," said Meeses of the Algonquin Impact.

"There are guys among pigs," the newspaper said.

"Many can be said of the convention process: the days of immediate communication in which "the cult of the polls is dead." The Canadian Party said Coates, "must either follow the tune or forever remain in opposition."
African Cultural Week will live on in history

by Brenda Brown

This year's celebration of the African cultural week at the University of Windsor will always be remembered. The journey to Africa featured the display of cultural artifacts showing the technical expertise of Africans, an educational seminar, and a cultural extravaganza. The object of the celebration was to stress the positive aspects of Africa's history and culture. It is the opinion of all Africans that the traditional Western perspective of their continent does not accord with reality.

For reasons of time and space, this report will focus mainly on the educational seminar. This event featured prominent and able personalities that came from such organizations as the United Nations. The three topics for discussions covered a wide range of issues: (1) The Socio-Economic and Political Problems of the African World, (2) The Threat from the Right, and (3) The Crisis of the African's Identity. The speakers for the first topic were Salimatu Diallo, the President of the African's Identity: Opinions of the African's Identity: Val Cruz, a professor of Social Work, was vater anecdot in his approach to the problem. His extensive work in the West African League, has given him added insight into the black problem. He noted that, to overcome the identity problem, there must be pride and self-sufficiency.

The next topic, 'The Threat from the Right', was addressed by Dr. Howard McCurdy, University of Windsor biologist and member of the National Black Coalition of Canada. This threat from the right is characterized by the new upsurge of conservatism which almost resem bles a lal religion. The "worries" of the right are mani fest in the activities of KKK, the Reaganesque of the Thatcherites.

McCurdy said that the United States no longer hides itsambiti ous young towards South Africa (Reagan has promised to increase aid to apartheid-stricken South Africa). It is by no acci dent, he said, that the Reagan administration has made it unambiguously clear that it supports the regimes in El Salvador and South Korea.

McCurdy maintains that the "threat" from the right is real indeed, not only blacks but other minority groups are struggling for national self-assistance.

The final topic to be addressed was 'The Crisis of the African Identity'. Val Cruz, a professor of Social Work, was rather anecdotal in his approach to the problem.

The OAU is concerned with the security of members because Africa does not consider it safe to rely on the assurances of Western or other powers. At the U.N., the OAU has had considerable impact on the new economic order. The organization, Diallo maintains, far from being of circumscribed scope like the OSA, takes a position of nonalignment, projects a limited front, and intends to reassert Africa's dignity.

McCurdy focused on the economic aspects and outlined the efforts of Afro-Americans to assist the motherland. As a member of the International Association for the Advancement of Appropriate Technology for Developing Countries, he helps to promote trade missions to Africa. The conference, which is open to the public without charge, will end at 1:00 p.m., Saturday, March 21. For further information, contact Prof. L. Marasinghe at 253-4232, ext. 618.

New old law dean

by Peter Hainowitz

Law Faculty Council approved Dean Ron Ianni's application for another five year term of office at a meeting held last Wednesday. The decision comes at the end of a 10-month search for a successor to the dean. Dean Ianni has been at the helm of the Law Faculty since 1975 after two years stint as Associate Dean of Law. Dean Ianni began his teaching career at the Law faculty in 1971 as an assistant professor of law.

RON IANNI

Ianni had previously expressed a desire not to take another term as chief administrator and was scheduled to begin a one-year research sabbatical in Europe. He was to return to the faculty in the role of professor and scholar.

A spokesperson for the De- formal search Committee said the Dean decided to reapply for the position so that he might overaddress the immediate problems which concern blacks. It also gave somewhat of an insight into the state of the race.

International law symposium

The Seventh Symposium on Law and Development will be held in the Conference Room of the Faculty and Law, University of Windsor, beginning at 12:50 p.m., Thursday, March 19. The theme of the three-day symposium is "Law and Strategies of Alternative Development", a special kind of developmental idea and concept set out by the Dag Hammarskjold Foundation in Sweden. There will be speakers from Canada, the United States, England, Germany, and the Sudan.

The conference, which is open to the public without charge, will end at 1:00 p.m., Saturday, March 21. For further information, contact Prof. L. Marasinghe at 253-4232, ext. 618.

ST. CLAIR COLLEGE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE AND FM-94 PRESENTS

THE GOOD BROTHERS IN CONCERT

at CLEARY AUDITORIUM

MARCH 18, 1981, at 8 PM

General Admission
Main Floor $6.50
Balcony $5.00

Tickets at: Sam the Record Man
all Shoppers Records
ST. CLAIR COLLEGE RM. 279

Box office opens at 7:20 PM for further information phone ST. CLAIR COLLEGE 966-1656 ext. 515

The Lancaster, Vol. LIII, No. 21, March 6, 1981, Page Two Public accountability has caught up to this university's Board of Governors—or it will have by the end of this month.

Since the University of Windsor (as such) was incorporated by the provincial government via the 1963-65 University of Windsor Act and the university's board (holding the budgetary purview), it has made its powerful decisions in meetings closed to the taxpayers who fund higher education, the members who are always affected by its decisions, and closed to media.

John W. Whiteside, professor of law and secretary of the board, said board secrecy is not an official by-law of the University of Windsor Act, but a traditional method of board operation.

Apparently, no one, save the occasional student protest, ever tried to force their way into a board meeting by using the defense that there was no legal regulation which had established the practice of closed meetings. Perhaps open meetings, which are just an open door, would have come sooner if someone (a reporter, for instance) had tried to establish such a precedent—and that just coincided.

As it is, the Board of Governors will likely be opening its meetings on its own initiative at the end of this month.

At the sound of the tone, leave your opinion

by Lance News Staff

In an effort to find out how the members of the Board of Governors felt about opening their meetings, a recent Wednesday morning telephone survey was conducted and 17 board members were reached. The questions asked were:

- "How do you feel about the opening of the Board of Governors' meetings issue?"
- "Do you favor opening them, or do you feel that some areas of board discussion should remain confidential?"
- "If you favor opening them, what, if any, restrictions would you like to see in the by-law dealing with the board meetings?"
- "Do you feel that Professor Whiteside is currently working?"
- "If you oppose opening them, what, if any, restrictions would you like to see in the by-law dealing with the board meetings?"
- "Do you feel that Professor Whiteside is currently working?"

Some of the members, still clinging to the often-discussed board meeting as a closed chamber, refused to discuss the matter in detail for fear of explaining their feelings and admitting some of the problems they saw in opening the meetings.

The major problem cited was that some areas of board discussion were highly personal and remained confidential and, hence, necessitate a "closed period" during some meetings. Committees, hired being fired or fired and salaried were being discussed, for example. All these matters would have to be kept private, the members claimed.

David Simmons, Student's Administrative Council President: "Yes, of course I would agree with open meetings."

Gail Costa, President, Organization of Part-time University Students: "I voted for open meetings."

Dr. Walter J. Romanow, Department of Communication Studies: "I would like to think that I can speak for the majority of the board, too, since it is not necessary to speak any other words."

Dr. John McGinney (lawyer and Chairman of the Board of Governors): "I am in favor of open meetings."

Some of the members, still clinging to the often-discussed board meeting as a closed chamber, refused to discuss the matter in detail for fear of explaining their feelings and admitting some of the problems they saw in opening the meetings.

The major problem cited was that some areas of board discussion were highly personal and remained confidential and, hence, necessitate a "closed period" during some meetings. Committees, hired being fired or fired and salaried were being discussed, for example. All these matters would have to be kept private, the members claimed.

David Simmons, Student's Administrative Council President: "Yes, of course I would agree with open meetings."

Gail Costa, President, Organization of Part-time University Students: "I voted for open meetings."

Dr. Walter J. Romanow, Department of Communication Studies: "I would like to think that I can speak for the majority of the board, too, since it is not necessary to speak any other words."

Dr. John McGinney (lawyer and Chairman of the Board of Governors): "I am in favor of open meetings."

Some of the members, still clinging to the often-discussed board meeting as a closed chamber, refused to discuss the matter in detail for fear of explaining their feelings and admitting some of the problems they saw in opening the meetings.

The major problem cited was that some areas of board discussion were highly personal and remained confidential and, hence, necessitate a "closed period" during some meetings. Committees, hired being fired or fired and salaried were being discussed, for example. All these matters would have to be kept private, the members claimed.

David Simmons, Student's Administrative Council President: "Yes, of course I would agree with open meetings."

Gail Costa, President, Organization of Part-time University Students: "I voted for open meetings."

Dr. Walter J. Romanow, Department of Communication Studies: "I would like to think that I can speak for the majority of the board, too, since it is not necessary to speak any other words."

Dr. John McGinney (lawyer and Chairman of the Board of Governors): "I am in favor of open meetings."

Some of the members, still clinging to the often-discussed board meeting as a closed chamber, refused to discuss the matter in detail for fear of explaining their feelings and admitting some of the problems they saw in opening the meetings.

The major problem cited was that some areas of board discussion were highly personal and remained confidential and, hence, necessitate a "closed period" during some meetings. Committees, hired being fired or fired and salaried were being discussed, for example. All these matters would have to be kept private, the members claimed.
If you’ve got the time, we’ve got the money

by Ed McMahon

"We have, available at this time, $614,000 for the three Federal constituencies of Essex-Windsor, Windsor-Walkerville, and Windsor-West," said Al Dumouchelle of the Windsor office of the Federal Government’s Job Creation Branch.

"I must emphasize, however, that that money is what is available at this time," Dumouchelle went on.

The Summer Canada Student Employment Program for 1981 is currently accepting applications for projects which will "increase students' work skills as they carry out activities of lasting community value."

According to Dumouchelle, the possibilities for funding are almost limitless. The program aims for short-term employment involving students and the areas which will be given preference in the assessment and selection of projects under the program are:

1) Parks, recreational and day camp activities,
2) Health and social services,
3) Energy conservation and renewable resources,
4) Tourism development,
5) Artistic and cultural development (including historical research),
6) Projects improving services to the handicapped.

Any funding involves a project and a sponsor, usually a firm or sometimes a department at a university.

According to the brochures advertising the program, it provides, for the sponsoring firm, a contribution towards students' wages, and a contribution towards project overhead costs, up to a maximum of $50,000.

In return for federal funds, the sponsoring organization is expected to develop a proposal that would employ at least three local students for a period of six to eighteen weeks in "useful and productive work of benefit to the community."

Dumouchelle elaborated that the project should also meet the following criteria, which he considers essential. "The project should develop skills for the student working on it, hopefully in the field in which the student is studying. It must also be of long-term benefit to the community," he said.

Any secondary or post-secondary students intending to return to school in the fall, who are Canadian citizens or permanent residents legally entitled to work in Canada are eligible as employees.

However, students must be referred to the project by the Canada Employment Centre, located at 267 University Avenue West, or the Canada Employment Centre for Students which is located at the same address but which will be moving to 85 Pitt Street East next week.

"The exciting thing about the project", said Dumouchelle, "is that students can, under the right circumstances, create a job for themselves."

"The job must be within the criteria already mentioned, but if a student has an idea for a project, he or she can write it up and try to find a sponsor. In those cases where a sponsor cannot be found, we can sometimes find one, although we can't guarantee anything," Dumouchelle said.

"There were a few projects sponsored by various departments at the University of Windsor last year," he went on.

Although the minimum number of employees for a project is three, Dumouchelle stresses that three is by no means the only number of employees. "A project can have up to eighteen employees and still..."
No line drawn between men and women's wages

by Peter Bruslovsky

With ever increasing numbers, women are entering the work force, occupying jobs in almost every walk of life. As a consequence, the "right to equal pay for equal work" has become a volatile issue, drawing stormy criticism from men and women alike.

In practice, the right to equal pay has been part of statute law in the province of Ontario for nearly 30 years. The Female Employees Fair Remuneration Act was implemented in 1951 and later incorporated into the Human Rights Code in 1962. The law as it stands today was the result of further amendments leading up to the Employment Standards Act in 1969.

Simply stated, the law draws no distinction between male and female employees who perform substantially the same work under similar working conditions. Any differentiation in pay would have to result from adherence to a seniority system, a merit system, or a system based on any factors other than sex. The onus lies with the employer to explain the reasons for any differentiation.

When filing a claim for discrimination in pay with the Employment Standards Branch, it is necessary to scrutinize the job as a whole and to look at the characteristics of the job being compared over a full work cycle. The determining factor is the actual work performed. If a man and a woman both operated a punch press in a machine shop, they should be paid the same rate of pay as they are doing "substantially the same kind of work". Similarly, if male and female salespersons are each given an individual sales region, they are still doing substantially the same work and, as a consequence, should receive the same rate of salary and commission.

The mere fact that jobs are in different departments of an establishment will not necessarily mean that the jobs are performed under dissimilar working conditions. However, if two individuals are doing the same work and one of them has some additional duties other than the normal work required, then the employer with the greater responsibility will be entitled to the greater remuneration.

The "equal pay for equal work" conditions do not affect "red circle rates". These are paid to employees who are transferred from their highly skilled jobs to lesser skilled jobs due to sickness, injury or some other emergency situation. The transferred employee receives the same rate of pay as if performing the higher-skilled job.

A person who files a claim with the Employment Standards Branch is guaranteed anonymity. Moreover, an employer cannot fire an employee because of a claim filed for equal pay.

If a person is successful with his/her claim, the employer cannot reduce the wages of higher-rated persons of the opposite sex in order to comply with the legislation. The employer must give the lower-rated person a pay raise.

The equal pay provisions apply to part-time and full-time employees.

For further details, contact the nearest office of the Employment Standards Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Labor.

Incredible journey

"Faith Issues Before the Christian Community" is the title of a 7:30 p.m. public presentation to be delivered by Father Daniel Pearce at Iona College (208 Sunset Ave.) on Tuesday, March 10, 1981.

Father Pearce is a member of the community of the Resurrection, a religious community in the Anglican Church. Father Pearce has also worked in North America, Africa and Europe as headmaster, reporter and playwright.

In his March 10th lecture, Father Pearce will be sharing his own personal journey of faith. He will also outline what he sees to be the key issues and problems facing Christian communities today.

Admission is free.

For further information contact Evelyn Meyer at Iona College 253-7257.

See the stars come out

"Saturn and its Moons: The Voyager Discoveries" will be the subject of a public lecture by University of Michigan astronomer Jim Loudon to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 12 in Room 1120, Mathematics Building, University of Windsor.

London, who has two astronomy degrees and is best described as a "wandering astronomy popularizer", is staff astronomer for the University of Michigan Exhibit Museum.

The lecture is being sponsored free of charge by the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Windsor Centre, and the Department of Physics at the University of Windsor.

FROM PAGE 4

More ideas qualify for funding", he said. Dumouchelle also added that bookkeeping workshops for project managers are available.

Students with project ideas should feel free to call the Federal Government's Job Creation Branch at their University Avenue Office during regular office hours, or to visit during their Open House on Wednesday, March 11.

B

Because we want to tell you about Our Bank's Professional Graduate Loan Plan. It's a special Commerce loan to help you get on your feet. We know how important it is to you to have a sound group of financial services to meet your professional and personal needs. That's why a Commerce Professional Graduate Loan Plan for graduating students going into the practice of Medicine, Dentistry, Chiropractic, Optometry, Law, Architecture, Chartered Accountancy, Veterinary Medicine and many other professions.

So stop in to Our Bank soon. We'll welcome you at more branches than any other bank in Canada. And we can help you finance your future.
Judging from the results of a Lance poll taken this week, Board of Governors’ meetings of the future, be open to both the students and the public.

It appears as though the board will be reversing an 18-year old policy of secrecy when dealing with matters of policy pertinent to the university. Such a move is to be applauded.

Most members of the Board of Governors this week maintained their policy of keeping the exact dealings of the board confidential, although most of them indicated that they approved of the opening of the meetings “in principle”.

Indications are that the meeting of the board will be open, but most board members expressed some concern about matters that they considered material to be “highly confidential”. These matters include finances and personnel.

Unfortunately, those matters are major concerns of most students who have not been invited to the meetings opened. Having the Board of Governors’ meetings open “in principle”, but keeping “financial and personnel” matters confidential is rather a futile gesture.

The financial matter of most concern to economically-intersted students is, of course, the “general fund”, which is the little part of the budget with a large amount of money and a modicum of explanation. Rumours are rife that some of the general fund is paying for parking lots, the administration’s take from the game room, any profit from food services and residences, towing profits, and any monies accrued from the university’s land holdings.

What the Board of Governors has realized is that the students who attend this institution have the right to express their views in the policy of which will ultimately affect the acquisition of the education for which they pay so dearly.

What the Board of Governors fails to realize is that students feel they are entitled to the right to know financial goings on of the university. All of them.

The board appears to be heading towards a policy reminiscent of Professor J.T. Culiton’s patronizing moral to have students removed from promotion and tenure committees.

To state that all educational institutions should be “highly confidential” is nonsense! Such a move is, to be applauded.

The by-law pertaining to the open­-calendar time was passed, but, if the present board has its way, it appears as though it will contain provisions to keep those matters private.

The option remains open for the board, and some time in the future, to decide what the definition of financial and personnel matters may be. Until such time as these board meetings are open in all respects, student council and concerned students should feel that they have won any victory.

The real victory will come when the restrictions which will surely be part of the opening of the meetings are removed.

There’s not even room for a good headline here.

The Fortnighter

by John Mill

It was five years in the making, but it’s finally here: the S.O.T. proposal! Student Opinion Surveys of Teaching, which was accepted in 1970 as the S.E. T. proposal (Student Evaluation Surveys Of Teaching).

After five hectic years, the Senate Evaluation Committee has arrived at the earth-shattering conclusion that the five year problem lay in the horizontal bars of one letter, an objective “E”. The difficulty was remedied by the word “opinion”. It seems the professors on this campus, instead of being evaluated, would rather be opined.

Why a survey, you ask? Well that’s where I come in. Why is Shakespeare a little more difficult to absorb? Another myth is “the more complicated the lecture, the better”. Sure, but what about the poor student who can’t understand, what good does it do him?

Contrary to what one might expect, survey results have shown that students don’t favor “easy” professors if they don’t teach well. The most popular professor is tough but fair. Another myth is actually, most students want to work hard and see positive results sooner the better.

They have apparently decided that there are certain matters which either should not be the concern of the population of the university community or that these matters are so trivial that they could be handled on a “need to know” basis.

The question, of course, is “Who needs to know?”

Most of the students at this institution either do not know about the financial goings on of the university.

Most of the members of Board of Governors, however, would argue that that information is privy.

Although the board appears to be moving in the right direction by opening the meetings to the public and the media, they should be emphasized that opening the meetings, with the exception of “financial and personnel” matters, may only be a halfway measure.

The option remains open for the board, and some time in the future, to decide what the definition of financial and personnel matters may be.

Until such time as these board meetings are open in all respects, student council and concerned students should feel that they have won any victory.

The real victory will come when the restrictions which will surely be part of the opening of the meetings are removed.

There’s not even room for a good headline here.

The Lance, Vol. LI, No. 21, March 6, 1981, Page Six
We're all just fun lovin' civil libertarians here

Law Revue skit forced into oblivion

Dear Editor:
Recently, an act of censorship took place within the Law School which would shame all those who believe in a basic right of freedom of speech. During the performance of the law school No-Talent Night, an act entitled the “Australian Bar Revue” was forced into cancellation.

The problem began when Brian Davies (Law III) objected to a homosexual character portrayed in the skit. Mr. Davies did not like the manner in which the homosexual was depicted. According to Mr. Davies, the homosexual was too stereotypical.

Within 24 hours, he was made aware of his views known prior to the performance and in an attempt to ease his ruffled feathers and quite with out any obligation to do so) the writer of the skit, Paul Vesa, Peter Whalen, and Catherine Curtis, amended their script. However, Mr. Davies was not to be mollified, he demanded that the act be further radically amended or cancelled.

It should be noted at this point that all proposed acts for the show were pre-screened by Mr. Raskin, Mel Raskin, Drashinsky and Mike Rostenberg. Where the organizers thought changes should be made, they said so. When Mel Raskin read the script for “Australian Bar Revue” he said it was funny and approved it. Even after Mr. Davies made his feelings known, all three organizers said that they did not find the skit objectionable and refused to cancel it.

When Mr. Davies realized that the act was not going to be cancelled, he circulated among the crowd attempting to organize a demonstration. The disruption caused was serious. Only the threatened and at least one member of the cast was genuinely afraid for their safety should they appear on stage. It was in light of this that Vesa and Whalen decided to cancel the act.

It is fortunate, indeed, that university administration, objecting to “Newfie Jokes”, or women objecting to the “Miss Ontario Law School Beauty Pageant”, or ballet dancers objecting to the “Blue Danube”, etc., had these people taken the same sort of action as Mr. Davies, there would not have been a No-Talent Night. The irony is that the “Australian Bar Revue” was not even directed against homosexuals. The homosexual in the skit was only one of several characters. Mr. Davies simply objected to the manner in which the character was portrayed as being brought to reality at least.

Our position as to how that character was portrayed was flexible when we were approached and asked to change certain aspects by a member of the gay community. However, even after changing the character type, he was not mollified, and demanded elimination of the character or cancellation of the act.

We decided that further negotiation would only be a waste of time and, moreover, that no-one should be able to act as a self-appointed censor, especially as the script had been read without being objected to by the producers of the Law Revue. Shortly before our act was to go on, certain members of the gay community circulated throughout the audience attempting to organize some sort of action. Various members of the cast and organizers of the Law Revue were informed that if our meeting took place it could involve anything from verbal harassment to actual physical violence.

It was in the light of these threats that the cast held a meeting at which an attempt was made to avoid what may have resulted in someone getting hurt, and certainly would have spoiled everyone’s evening.

It is our opinion that regardless of how the gay’s protest manifested itself, the intent of such protest was censorship. It is entirely ludicrous that any group should be able to choose the manner in which it is represented on stage or in any public forum. It would be intolerable if such censorship were to be tacitly condoned by silence on our part. Most of all, if a performance which has been carefully planned and acted upon should be thwarted merely because it was found offensive, the whole point of a university; an institution which has traditionally been thought of, at least in the written word, to be the repository of free thought and expression.

It is important to understand that the issue here is censorship, not homophobia, I do not need anybody to decide for me that which I should and should not view. I particularly do not need the type of coercion practiced by self-appointed censors at the No-Talent Night.

Bob Sullivan
LAW III

Send out the Mounties and the Triple A

We have our own refugee now

Dear Editor:
A Refugee Student Program Committee has been newly formed on campus under the auspices of SAC. We have received the name and transcripts of a student presently living underground in South Africa, who is in need of assistance. The application has been presented to the university administration and we are eagerly awaiting its decision on this matter.

The application was forwarded to us upon request by the World University Service of Canada (WUSC) affiliate. WUSC was established in 1945 and is a member of World University Service, of which Canada is a member since 1920.

Due to changes in the regulations surrounding the Canadian Immigration Act several years ago, WUSC began the Refugee Student Program. The intention was to help students and faculty members continue their studies, which may have been interrupted by political events in their home countries.

The student that is accepted into the program becomes a limited immigrant upon arrival in Canada. He/She will receive support in the form of food, clothing, and accommodation, from the sponsoring group for a period of one year.

The university has so far agreed to waive tuition fees for the student. We have requested that food and accommodation can be provided by securing a place in one of the university's residences.

Anyone interested in helping the committee, or who wishes more information about the committee's activities, is invited to contact Terry Buckland in the SAC office.

Michael O'Neill, Director of Communications

Everybody’s just great

Dear Editor:
I attended the Lancer basketball games as often as possible at home as well as on the road. After Saturday night’s game against Gaels’ Hoggan (boy, what a ball game), we feel that the Gaels’ Mike Hoggan should be given some “Honorable Mention Award”. As another Vince Layton staff of the Comitted, I think that parking lot has been in place together. He seems to be at the right spot at the right time, often, and he is the only sharp shooter.

The game was 110% of him. Every one of the guys on the team are super people. After the “shocking surprise” they pulled on us last Tuesday, 24th, we are proud to be their fans.

Thank you John Ritchie for your comment after the Gaels game, and your advice to help improve against the York Yeomen and good luck at the Nationals.

Jim, Joyce & Laura Armaly

Set a flare, too

Dear Editor:
We are writing to your little paper as a last resort. We have a request we would like you to act on.

Parking Lot B has several huge potholes that my partner has already lost two Dunlop in. This must stop!

Could you please talk to the Board of Governors and ask them to buy some tar and chips for the maintenance guys to fill those holes, or at least do something? We are your last hope. God Save the Queen.

George Dietrich, Walter Boninger, Frank A. Hack, Faculty of Engineering
To top the world's most beautiful hamburger you have to use the world's most beautiful condiments. And that means fresh tomatoes, fresh onions, fresh pickles, mustard and relish. Everything has to be market fresh. And because beauty is in the eye of the beholder, you can have your hamburger any way you want it at Harvey's... loaded up, double pickles... however you want. And as much as you want, and no extra charge.

And that's how you top the world's most beautiful hamburger. And nobody can top that. Harvey's makes a hamburger a beautiful thing.

3095 DOUGALL AVENUE (across from Gateway Plaza) and your campus HARVEY'S at California and Wyandotte Part-time problems and solutions aired at meeting

by Helen Allworth

The meeting was opened at 3:30 p.m. by Josie Iannetta, past vice-president, in the absence of current president, Mike Weldon. Included in the Report of Events for the 1980-81 period was the establishment of the University Centre. This office is currently open three afternoons a week; Monday through Wednesday, and the staff includes Nancy McMahon and Sheelagh Conway. The organization is looking for people to staff the office for two evenings a week and all interested parties should either call the office at 258-4687 or contact Josie Iannetta at the Student Affairs office 253-4322, ext. 333, 334.

The fear expressed is that the university is in a financial crisis. The budget cuts have elicited a variety of responses from the different departments. Some areas are offering lower levels of courses, while other departments are able to maintain or improve course levels. He went on to describe the Certificate program, and he explained that this program according to the needs of the community, but, for this, the university needs feeding services. This he believes has already been achieved at the campuses outside of Windsor. Although the fall counselling session here in Windsor was better, there is still room for improvement.

The second goal, one that sounds very encouraging indeed, is to provide greater flexibility in courses and the scheduled times of these courses. Depending on various contributing factors like financing and academic cooperation, Dr. Booth anticipates offering courses, for example, on a weekend basis to include as many hours as would be required.

The second major need is for more tests. An example, on a weekend basis to include as many hours as would be required. The tests include personality, general occupational themes, mental ability, survey of interests, personal values, life goals, diagnostic profile for survey of study habits and attitudes, as well as vocational interest survey. What are the advantages of taking these tests, and how will they lessen confusion? Each will, in all likelihood, experience different specific advantages. However, generally, much self-insight will be gained. One will become acutely aware of such aspects as personal likes and dislikes, strengths and weaknesses, areas of ability and non-ability, matters of importance and non-importance, areas of high and low values. Such elements, once known, immediately assist one in career choice.

For instance, one with a strong dislike for travel would reject a career as a diplomat, while someone with a strong desire to improve the lot of humanity might wish to consider a career in the social sciences. Another example where testing may be helpful is in one's study habits. When results of the tests have been accumulated, one is requested to attend a counselling session. During this session, the data is reviewed and explained. Any questions may be presented and discussed. Much self-knowledge will, of course, be confirmed. However, do be prepared for some surprising aspects to surface.

The CAREER GUIDANCE PROGRAM: DISCOVER YOUR QUALITIES

by Veronica Eldon

It is not unusual for university students to experience bewilderment in the selection of an academic course. The budget cuts have alleviated a variety of responses from the different departments. Some areas are offering lower levels of courses, while other departments are able to maintain or improve course levels. There are two immediate goals that Dr. Booth expects will be achieved. One is the development of a counselling program. This he believes has already been achieved at the campuses outside of Windsor. Although the staff was better, there is still room for improvement.

The tests include personality, general occupational themes, mental ability, survey of interests, personal values, life goals, diagnostic profile for survey of study habits and attitudes, as well as vocational interest survey. What are the advantages of taking these tests, and how will they lessen confusion? Each will, in all likelihood, experience different specific advantages. However, generally, much self-insight will be gained. One will become acutely aware of such aspects as personal likes and dislikes, strengths and weaknesses, areas of ability and non-ability, matters of importance and non-importance, areas of high and low values. Such elements, once known, immediately assist one in career choice.

For instance, one with a strong dislike for travel would reject a career as a diplomat, while someone with a strong desire to improve the lot of humanity might wish to consider a career in the social sciences. Another example where testing may be helpful is in one's study habits. When results of the tests have been accumulated, one is requested to attend a counselling session. During this session, the data is reviewed and explained. Any questions may be presented and discussed. Much self-knowledge will, of course, be confirmed. However, do be prepared for some surprising aspects to surface.

The Career Guidance Program is available to both part-time and full-time University of Windsor students. It may be arranged by contacting the Office of Student Affairs. The answers may be only a telephone call away. Take advantage of this service if your career goals are in need of clarification.
THE CINEMA CRITIC

RAGING BULL

by John Doyle

Raging Bull pulls no punches. As a result this movie is up for eight Academy Awards. The film follows the boxing career of Jake LaMotta, a middleweight champion in the mid-1940's. Robert De Niro turns in a powerful acting performance in playing LaMotta. He received an Academy Award Nomination for his effort.

Other nominations include Best Picture, Best Director – Martin Scorsese, Best Supporting Actor – Joe Pesci (for LaMotta's brother), and Best Supporting Actress – Cathy Moriarty (LaMotta's second wife).

The movie traces the fighter's days as a contender through middle age. The fights are especially brutal. There is no secrecy of blood here. But the film is much more than the fighting career of LaMotta. It is the story of his life, from rags to riches to rags. We are given a view of the man himself, not merely "the champ". We see the man for what he really is, a possessive, jealous husband who are given a view of the man himself, not merely "the champ". We see's in his wife nor a mate so much as something he owns. As the movie goes on LaMotta's suspicion that his wife is cheating on him grows. No one is above question, even his brother, who doubles as his manager. In the end the boxer finds that he has driven from his life anyone who ever loved him.

He finds himself in jail for having introduced a fourteen year old girl to a gentleman in his nightclub. When the reality of his position dawned on him he starts pounding his head and fists against the stone wall of his cell asking himself "Why do you have to be so dumb"?

So it was with most of his life. Not only was he a raging bull in the ring, but in everything that he did. Everything was either friend or foe, something he owned or sought to own, black or white. His personality reflected his outlook, he had a "show me something I can attack" mentality. He never did realize that he was his own worst enemy.

The film is almost entirely shot in black and white. I felt that it really added more than it took away from the movie. The sets are brilliant throughout the entire movie, right down to the grimy walls of LaMotta's tenement building. The acting is overall quite good. I can find very little wrong with the movie, but nonetheless it did not strike me as a truly "great" film. It is very good, though, and should be on your list of "must see" movies.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

RAGING BULL

by Peter Haggert

The Busker is back on the Windsor campus entertaining crowds at SAC's pub. It seems never a term goes by without make their nightly sales pitch, BEWARE!

In concert, tunes such as "Springbank Girls" and "Copacabana" are quite good. The former is a lively tune about the of course on a number such as "I Want you to Want me" the two performers can't make themselves sound like "Raging Trick" but it doesn't stop them from trying. Their rendition is greatly enhanced by the bass pedal power supplied under the keyboards. This man used his feet better than many bassists their hands.

The Tuesday night audience was a little slow getting to the dancefloor (can you dance to a bolero?), but by the time Busker broke into a Beatles set many a Fred and Ginger could be seen.

When I was in first year the word was "You have to see Busker! You Can't miss 'em!". For anyone who still hasn't seen them it would be worth your while to make a trip to the pub this weekend. For those who have seen Busker before, only you can decide whether you're up to flashing lights and budding musicians one more time.

Busker brings their famous "Luminous Hands Bongo Solo" back to SAC's Pub this weekend.
Zastrozzi even better than Venezzi

by Wendy Coombie

I love the Experimental Theatre in the Dramatic Arts Building. In the productions presented there the use of the imagination is prerequisite. Their plays are to television what books are to reality — only skeletons waiting to be wrapped up in creative human invention. In last Saturday's presentation of Zastrozzi the audience had an abundance of imagination. The characters hid even more.

The small theatre has roughly 45 seats. The production was sold out a half hour before it began, disappointed patrons being turned away.

The cast of six involved their small audience in a bizarre melodrama of one man's obsession. Revenge sought revenge against a sparse backdrop of wooden beams, a set of steps, a couple of boxes as tables, and a bench.

Yet once the actors were present force as revenge's unthinking tool.

The vendetta has continued for the past three years. The painter, played by Andrew Willmer, is a maniac · or was he the only sane character in the play? Zastrozzi demanded attention ....

revenge for himself. The writer, played by Andrew Willmer, is a master of dark humor.

The only two characters with minds are Zastrozzi and Victor, the former bent on destroying everything he finds distasteful in the world, and the latter trying to save it. In the final confrontation between Zastrozzi and Venezzi, who has gone mad to

When you want great taste, spell it out

Vo.

Seagram's V.O.
Canada's most respected 8 year old whisky.

International loan of 85 17th century Dutch masterworks. Epic canvases by Rembrandt, Vermeer and others reveal the heroic, savage and lustful themes of legend and classics. Incredible paintings — from royalty, Holland's historic town halls and world museums.

GODS SAINTS AND HEROES

Dutch Painting in the Age of Rembrandt

NOW THROUGH EASTER

THE DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS

Mon. - Sat. 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Sun. 2:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Adm. Free, $1.00, $2.00
Students, Seniors, $1.50.
Children under 12 with adults, Free.

Zastrozzi killed Venezzi's sister (when it was actually Bernardo who committed the crime), so they killed Zastrozzi's mother. The vendetta has continued for the past three years. The painter, played by Andrew Willmer, is a defrocked priest, ably played by Lionel Walsh, Venezzi divulges, "Through devotion and regular prayer, I have attained a new position" — that of God's messenger on earth. Victor father to protect the boy, and has kept him from the sword of Zastrozzi: for the past three years. Ellen-Ray McMeekin portrays the sensuous Matilda, violent seductress and lover of Zastrozzi. "First I want to make one thing clear — I do not suffer from rapier envy," she says, "I am a woman, and I am a seductress. I am a seductress." She leaps at Zastrozzi in a petulant twist action, parry, thrust, love-making ritual. At her opposite, yet by the same token somewhat alike to Matilda, is Lori Pumpuri as Jalla, who is "a victim of bizarre circumstances thrown into a jungle of the disordered." Everyone wants to either kill or marry her.

The only two characters with minds are Zastrozzi and Victor, the latter trying to save his master, wielding a rapier to his servant Victor, a splenetically replies, "When will you become Messiah?" Victor is the clever mind who has given up his calling to fulfil the promise he made to Venezzi's son. When Venezzi is having too much fun and the clever mind who has given up his calling to fulfil the promise he made to Venezzi's son, he finally faces Victor with the sword. Victor, the former bent on destroying everything he finds distasteful in the world, and the latter trying to save it. In the final confrontation between Zastrozzi and Venezzi, who has gone mad to Revenge is the only meaning Zastrozzi's life. When revenge is gained, life holds meaning for Zastrozzi no longer. And Zas- trozzi is having too much fun suffering.

Through devotion and regular prayer, I have attained a new position — that of God's messenger on earth. Victor father to protect the boy, and has kept him from the sword of Zastrozzi: for the past three years. Ellen-Ray McMeekin portrays the sensuous Matilda, violent seductress and lover of Zastrozzi. "First I want to make one thing clear — I do not suffer from rapier envy," she says, "I am a woman, and I am a seductress. I am a seductress." She leaps at Zastrozzi in a petulant twist action, parry, thrust, love-making ritual. At her opposite, yet by the same token somewhat alike to Matilda, is Lori Pumpuri as Jalla, who is "a victim of bizarre circumstances thrown into a jungle of the disordered." Everyone wants to either kill or marry her.

The only two characters with minds are Zastrozzi and Victor, the latter trying to save his master, wielding a rapier to his servant Victor, a splenetically replies, "When will you become Messiah?" Victor is the clever mind who has given up his calling to fulfil the promise he made to Venezzi's son. When Venezzi is having too much fun and the clever mind who has given up his calling to fulfil the promise he made to Venezzi's son, he finally faces Victor with the sword. Victor, the former bent on destroying everything he finds distasteful in the world, and the latter trying to save it. In the final confrontation between Zastrozzi and Venezzi, who has gone mad to Revenge is the only meaning Zastrozzi's life. When revenge is gained, life holds meaning for Zastrozzi no longer. And Zas- trozzi is having too much fun suffering.

Lots of laughs at latest Law School Revue

by E. F. Chant

"Hi! It's manufacturing that makes the difference! Yes, I'm A. J. "Gus" Gervais and these two broads with me are really prospective members of the bar in drag."

The Law School Revue last Thursday was highlighted by a slide presentation appearance by Windsor's (perhaps the world's) most famous furrier, "Gus", as School of Music

Dr. Imre Rozsnyai, accompanied on the piano.

Rozsnyai, accompanied on the piano.

"Gus" provided the minky wardrobe for the contestants in the "Miss Ontario Law School Pageant", a slide presentation by Roger Wilco Productions (third year Law students) which was the "hit" of the three-hour long night of singing, music, comedy, dancing, and craziness that could have ended the careers of most of the law school participants before they began if it had not been restricted to a showharry

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA AND INSTRUCTOR OF BASSEON AT THE UNIVERSITY'S SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Symphony Orchestra and instructor of bassoon at the university's School of Music, Dr. Imre Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the University's School of Music. Dr. Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the University's School of Music. Dr. Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the University's School of Music.

He's known to high fashion models and muskrat trappers alike.

"Gus" provided the minky wardrobe for the contestants in the "Miss Ontario Law School Pageant", a slide presentation by Roger Wilco Productions (third year Law students) which was the "hit" of the three-hour long night of singing, music, comedy, dancing, and craziness that could have ended the careers of most of the law school participants before they began if it had not been restricted to a showharry

German masters still appreciated

by Catherine M. Wilson

Last Sunday, in Moot Court, a small but appreciative audience enjoyed an evening of music by Paul Garson on the bassoon and Paul Garson on the bassoon.

Paul Garson is assistant principal bassoonist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and instructor of bassoon at the university's School of Music. Dr. Imre Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the university's School of Music. Dr. Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the university's School of Music. Dr. Rozsnyai is associate professor of music (clarinet) at the university's School of Music.

his excellent fingerwork, intonation, and lightweightness of touch, Michael Glinka's "Trio Patahétique" was created in such a way as to show the capability of each instrument and the unique sounds of the various combinations of the trio.

Windsor's (perhaps the world's) most famous furrier, "Gus", as School of Music

LAWYER'S REVIEW

The law school beauty pageant, possibly one of the funniest things ever put on slides (next to my summer vacation shots) included -- aside from Gus' cameo -- a baby suit competition, a talent question, and the exciting competition of Miss Windsor as the new "Miss Ontario Law School Most" -- all of this taking place in this very town, the beautiful "City of Hoses".

In the music line, Debra MacCormac's (accompanied by Dan Hall) presentation of Janet Ian's "At Seventeen" was excellent, quieting the capacity crowd in Ambassador Auditorium during the first verse. At the other end of the music spectrum (insofar as seriously delivered lyrics go), Paul Curry's "Blowing in the Wind" was not the version one has become accustomed to hearing at folk festivals, and the infamous Jim Denning Band's romantic ballad, "I Don't Like To Moor", cracked the glasses of several people in the front three rows.

Most of the humour in the show consisted of professorial insults which were lost on those of us who are not in law school, but it seemed very much appreciated by those in attendance as to show the capability of each instrument and the unique sounds of the various combinations of the trio. Alton Rozsnyai's dexterity and lightness of touch beautifully brought out the soft, lilting melody and mellow tunes. Dynamics were quite effective and contrasts of movements created a soothing atmosphere.

"Concertpiece No. 1, Op. 113" by Jacob Ludwig Felix Mendelssohn was quite obviously the most moving composition of the evening. Excellent coordination and precision of rhythms and tones of each of the performers was fully appreciated by the audience. The mood created was light and quick moving and very well articulated rhythms showed total control and ability of the musicians.

The next concert in the series will be presented by the University Concert Band, under the direction of James Tamba- rini, on April 5.

ELECTIONS

SOCIAL SCIENCE SOCIETY

- positions available:
  President
  Vice-President

names, addresses, phone numbers must be submitted to Pat Taylor's mailbox (in SAC office) nominations open Friday, March 6 12:00 nominations close Friday, March 13 12:00

Elections: Tuesday, March 24, 9am to 4pm

in Dillon Hall and the University Centre
SOAPS—and we’re not talking ivory

First, fun; fast talk; fast relief. Everyone knows that North America is coming desperately closer to being the home of fast-everything. So much so, that a world sort of fast food going by the name of “Soup Opera” is more popular today than it has ever been before.

So big and so deep is the continued appetite for “Soup Operas,” that only an even bigger monster named Television can handle them. TV works magic. One guess of the finger on turn of the knob delivers up quick, steamy serenades of Ryan’s Hope or All My Children or Days of our Lives, so that feasting can begin immediately.

Every weekday afternoon, on all 3 major American networks, over 30 million viewers are served. Curious about the nutritional value of Soup Opera for university students, Lance reporter Lorenzo Buj decided to examine the matter closely.

By one o’clock there may only be 15 people lying around in the room. By 2:00 p.m., the number has risen, and by 3:00 p.m., when “General Hospital,” the favourite is on, the place is often packed with crowds of 50 or more. Standing-room congregations aren’t anything new.

Aside from lunch, most people I spoke with said they spend their time there because there’s “nothing else to do” or they “don’t know what to do with the time anyways.” But there’s more to an everyday habit than that. There are always alternatives, the Pub for one, and studies for another. The real reason is that love and lust and passion and drama (real or otherwise) is just as much fun in the afternoon as it is at night.

And that’s why the front row of viewers is always most intensely hypnotized, or why gags and outbursts are common with every exciting new development in Sudville.

It’s also common that people exchange guesses and comment on the plot. “Sometimes you end up talking to people you don’t even know” said one girl. And while it’s preferable to watch the soaps with a group of friends, going alone is no less engaging. One guy I noticed was emotionally comment out loud, often to no one in particular.

DIGESTS AND FREE PRESS

Any TV “expert” or Communication Studies major would gleefully tell you the soaps addicts are in fact the vicarious experience, and that they like seeing the emotional rollercoaster. Whatever the reason, Soaps are a big business that draw big audiences. There are special magazines—Soap Opera Digest—there are weekly roundups in newspapers (Detroit Free Press), and some American colleges even include soaps in the curriculum.

As such, the popularity of the daytime serial has swollen across the continent. Females still form the majority of the audience, but are no longer the only ones attracted. One of the growing number of male viewers I talked to in the lounge said it’s simple: “You get hooked, and it’s not so bad.” Indeed not. Compared to the steady flow of childishly disguised double entendre jokes and insufferably thin plots found on prime-time TV, the melodramatics of the soaps do not appear quite as superficial.

Just the same, while others stared attentively I found myself squirming and grimacing self-consciously when some character on the screen would utter desparately in half-breath things like “Larry, I want to be straight with you; I’m at the point where I want some self-respect.” Or “Just because we made love last night...”

But it’s just that sort of repetition of the same themes over and over again that makes the soaps intriguing. “It’s the best thing” according to one viewer, “you won’t be last even if you miss a week.”

So, strange as it may sound, it’s that element of tenuous predictability that gives the serials, and the characters who occupy them, an inviting mixture of television entertainment. “You hate the bad guys and follow the good ones” said one girl. But there are more than just stock characters on the screen. A villain may still be a villain, and viewers still get to live and die with every fantastic forlorn face dropped in the path of their hero or heroine, but the quasi psychological complexities developed from day to day make for a more dimensional realism. For those who stumble into Sudville, then, there are few places more appealing or more addictive. You can’t indulge safely in the soaps. They’re over-dramatic to the point where they force emotional involvement and then play morosely with the viewer’s cathartic highs and lows. But people keep on coming back because “you know things will never really happen to you.”

At least not with the same intensity day after day after day.

Brian Hogan Basketball IV I’ll watch them whenever I get spare time between practice or class. Do I want Anne Logan for doing the interview?

Sue Ash Business I Everyone else in the T. V. room likes to watch One Life to Live, which makes me mad because I’d rather see Days of our Lives.

Monique Dugal Psychology III I’ve been watching soap operas for six or seven years now. General Hospital has become my three o’clock re­lease.

Dag Dimitrie Business I I get a kick out of them. Everyone’s getting pregnant or divorced or something. I really come here to read the newspaper. (ed. note: Sure you do Dan?)
Records

Friday, March 6

- The Commerce Club Beer Bash begins at 8:00 p.m. in Ambassador Auditorium. Free pizza!

Saturday, March 7

- A music recital is scheduled for Monte Court. Christina McElhinney on piano. The two will be assisted by Blake Stevenson, clarinet and Timothy Broughon, bassoon. The recital begins at 8:15 p.m.

- The Dry Heaves will make their final appearance before splitting up at the Sahara Inn, 1280 Ouellette Ave. Special guest stars will be The Enemies. Tickets are $3.00 at the door.

Sunday, March 8

- Dr. Thomas de Kock, Professor of Philosophy at Laval University, will kick off the Lecson Lecture Series sponsored by Canterbury College. He will speak on "Friendship Between the Cultures" of Ontario and Quebec. The lecture will be in the Assumption Lounge at 8:00 p.m.

Tuesday, March 10

- The Ontario Film Theatre will present: Manhattan as this week's feature. The Woody Allen film also features the talents of Diane Keaton and Marshall Henningway. The OFT is at the Supercinema, Erie and Marentette. Tickets are $2.00 for the 8:00 p.m. show.

- Join the Assumption Campus Community for an evening of fun and entertainment at the Assumption Lounge in the Blue Room at 8:30 p.m. More information call Rose at 734-2952.

Saturday, March 14

- The Tudor Singers of Montreal will be in concert at St. Barnabas Church at 8:15 p.m. Tickets are available at the School of Music for $4.00, $3.00 for students.

Sunday, March 15

- IONA College presents "Woman X: Poetry readings" featuring four poets from the Department of English at 1:00 p.m.

---

GENERAL ELECTION STUDENTS’ ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

FULL-TIME UNDERGRADUATE VOTERS ONLY

The General Election for the Students’ Administrative Council will be held Wednesday, March 18 and Thursday, March 19, 1981. Nominations will be open 8:30 on Friday, February 27, 1981 and will close 4:30 pm on Monday, March 9, 1981. The following positions are open for nomination:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Position</th>
<th>Number of Positions</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>President</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vice-President Administration</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COUNCIL REPS</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Faculty of Business Admin. Rep</td>
<td>3 positions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Science &amp; Math Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arts Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social Work Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Human Kinetics Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Music Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Engineering Rep</td>
<td>2 positions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nursing Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social Science Rep</td>
<td>2 positions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Visual Arts Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dramatic Arts Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Computer Science Rep</td>
<td>1 position</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAMPUS POSITIONS</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Senate</td>
<td>3 positions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Services Committee</td>
<td>3 positions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Affairs Committee</td>
<td>6 positions</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

REFERENCE QUESTION:

As a Dramatic Arts student, are you in favour of a $5.00 increase per semester to go directly to the formation of a School of Dramatic Arts Society? A BY-ELECTION FOR UNFILLED SEATS AND RESIDENCE SEATS WILL BE HELD DURING THE 3rd WEEK OF SEPTEMBER.
SPORTS

Towers, McGee named Tier II basketball all-stars

by Sue Heycay

Kerri Towers and Theresa McGee have been voted to the OWIAA Tier II first all-star team.

SPORTS in SHORT

Track results

A handful of University of Windsor athletes took part in the London-Western all-comers meet held at Thompson Arena in London Saturday.

Steve Thatcher ran 6.3 in the 50 metre for second in his heat while Wyatt Clark ran 6.6 in the same event for third in his heat. Both times were personal bests for the runners.

John Key ran 7.2 to finish second in the final of the 50 metre hurdles.

The women took part in the 400 metres with Paul Kozak running 54.2 for fourth, George Durnwoudy 54.4 for fifth and Ray Holland 55.6 for eighth. Paul Roberts ran 15.28.6 to place fourth in the 5,000 metres.

All relays and field events were cancelled at the meet.

Fencing first

Teams throughout Ontario will be represented at the 1981 Ontario Senior epee and saber fencing championships to be held in Windsor Saturday, March 7.

The meet, which will be held for the first time in Windsor, begins at 9 a.m. and will feature members of the University of Windsor fencing team including the saber team which has been the OWIAA champion the past two years.

Also competing will be Kerri Towers, a veteran of four years of Lancerette basketball, received the honor after many years of hard work and consistent play.

"Kerri is and has been one of my most consistent players," Windsor coach Sue Swain remarked following the announcement. "She's the type of unselfish player you can build a team around.

"When I first came here in 1978, I played Kerri as a post, then moved her to wing the next year, and finally this year to point guard. She played each position excellently and adjusted to the demands required of her. She's made my job a lot easier."

Towers finished the season with a total of 84 points, 34 assists (third place in Tier II), and 19 rebounds. Her shooting percentage from the field was 46 percent and from the line, 86 percent (also third in Tier II).

McGee earned the all-star nod in only her rookie year and has shown only a portion of her many talents.

"Theresa is an excellent inside player. She shoots well, rebounds well and drives well," Swain said. "I think it was a bit of a problem for her to adjust to the university system and style of play, but with a year now behind her, I truly believe she can develop into one of the best centres in Ontario.

"Hard work and determination have been the key factors in Theresa's play this year and these will be the qualities which will also build her future."

Kerri Towers

Theresa McGee

McGee finished the season with totals of 158 points, 29 assists and 104 rebounds (third in Tier II). Her shooting percentage from the field was 50 percent (sixth in Tier II) and from the line, 43 percent.

Second-language Monitor Program

September 1981 - May 1982

Perfect your second-language skills, travel (and earn up to $3,000) by helping other students learn French or English.

As a second-language monitor, you will be a full-time post-secondary student (usually in another province) and will work between six and eight hours per week under the supervision of a second-language teacher.

For nine months' participation in the program, you will receive up to $3,000 and one return trip between your home and the host province.

To receive a brochure and an application form, contact your provincial coordinator as soon as possible:

Roy E. Schatz
Special Projects Branch
Ministry of Education
4th floor, Mowat Block, Queen's Park
Toronto, Ontario M7A 1L2
(416) 965-5996

Requests for application forms will be accepted until March 19, 1981. Completed application forms will be accepted until March 30, 1981.
Last-second shot by Molyneux sinks Guelph

by Steve Rice

Coach Nick Grabowski admitted that with 27 seconds left, the some 1,600 Guelph fans seemed to shout in unison, "No", but it is too late as the trail official last second fades away on the clock.

And just as quickly the gymnasium falls to a hush, except for the jubilant sounds of the newly acclaimed OUAA West champions, the Windsor Lancers. Along with the title, Lancers win the right to face York Yeomen in the OUAA final.

Regardless of the outcome of Saturday's game, Windsor will travel to Waterloo for the national championships March 12-14.

Molyneux finds himself with the throw shooter on the line, he says, "I don't think anybody loses a game like this," said an obviously disheartened Gib Chapman, Guelph coach, following the game. "But that's life. I guess God didn't want it for us two years in a row."

Last year the Gryphons lost to Waterloo Warriors in the semi-final of the western division tournament, a similar last-second basket.

Teams so close

"It's ironic," said Lancer coach Nick Grabowski pausing from the celebration to reflect on the game, "that two teams with the same season records (10-2), two players each on the first all-star team, one each on the second team and two coaches who tied-- for coach of the year, would be involved in a game like this. Both teams won for the fans, their coaches and their schools."

To add to the similarity, each team scored a total of 232 points in the three games played between the two this year.

Stan Korosec finished as the game's top scorer and rebounder with 32 and 14 respectively, and was named the tournament's most valuable player for his efforts. Also named to the first all-star team were Phil Hermann, Steve Rice and Tom Hemlip and Jim Davidson of Western.

Lancers hit 34 of 83 shots from the field compared to 45 of 102 for the Gryphons, 65 percent shooting allowed the Marauders to shots under 26, most of which came in the final five minutes of play.

Windsor hit 36 of 79 field shots and 23 of 37 free throws while Mack had numbers of 32 for 76 and 8 of 9.

Guelph narrowly won their semi-final matchup with Western Mustangs, by a score of 96-86 in overtime.

Crack a pack of Colts along with the beer.
Time has expired. It is 78-77 for Guelph, but Jim Molyneux's shot will kiss the glass and fall through the hoop. Photo at right shows the result.

Lancers No. 1 in West

Tournament MVP Stan Korosec (50) drew a lot of attention.

CIAU TOP TEN
1. Acadia Axemen (1)
2. York Yeomen (2)
3. Brandon Bobcats (3)
4. Victoria Vikings (4)
5. WINDSOR LANCERS (5)
6. St. Francis Xavier X-Men (7)
7. Guelph Gryphons (6)
8. Calgary Dinos (10)
9. Concordia Stingers (8)
10. St. Mary's Huskies (NR)

Windsor - Hermanutz 8-1-16, Hogan 4-1-9, Buttery 1-0-2, Ritchie 3-4-10, Korosec 3-6-32, Molyneux 4-0-8, Kennedy 1-0-2, Total 34-11-79.

Guelph - Heslip 9-4-22, Lewis 5-1-11, Lewis 6-3-17, Scott 4-0-8, Smith 3-4-14, Dundas 3-0-6, Total 32-14-78.
Some medal possibilities at all-Ontario track final

*by Scott McCool

The University of Windsor track and field team will be in London to compete in the OUAA/OWIAA championships.

Remarks

"I don't really think I'm in shape for the 100 metres but hopefully I'll be able to compete in the other two events," Coughlin says. "We'll have to wait and see." The physiotherapist, Candice Master, will be travelling with the team, administrating to the pulled hamstrings of Coughlin and George Henry, Santos Carson's bruised kneecaps and Kathy Ricica's sore heel.

"I've been getting all-round and ice on the leg," Henry told The Lance last weekend. "It still hurts, but it's feeling better than it was. I hope it'll be better by mid-week, so I can get a little running in!"

"I don't think that the kids have come through with some fine performances despite the lack of training facilities. When they can run, shouldn't shoulder to shoulder with people from Michigan State and Eastern Michigan, that says something for the caliber of athletes we've got here. We've had about six people qualify for the CIAU's and I'm very pleased with that too."

"Most of the athletes have been training on their own, running, lifting weights, with Salter serving as administrator and advisor. "If you want a program he'll be glad to work one up for you," says Linda Staudt. Many of the team members from Windsor belong to the South Windsor Knights of Columbus Track Club, coached by Bob Mailloux and Emmy McBride, who have left town for a while, but I would disagree."

After the race, coach Dr. Salter said, "I've kept everyone up to date and does the best he can considering we've got no real indoor facilities. Next year that should improve." Buckstein also spoke highly of team spirit. "Most people consider track an individual sport, but I would disagree. The team concept is very important. Given me a good team atmosphere and that's when I'll perform my best. Team spirit here is really high. Dr. Salter helps with that."

Some medal possibilities at all-Ontario track final

Coach Michael Salter

Friday and Saturday.

With the exception of the distance medley relay, the track events of the first day will consist of heats, semi-finals and final sections, with the finals going Saturday from 1:00 to 3:35 in the afternoon. Field events begin today and conclude Saturday.

Some members of the team have an excellent chance at medals and for several others, medals are an outside possibility.

"I won't predict what particular medal or medals someone might win," says head coach Dr. Michael Salter of Human Kinetics. "I don't like to put that kind of pressure on an athlete."

Salter, who was on sabbatical last year, is originally from Australia where he received his undergraduate degree. He has been at the University of Windsor since 1972, just after completing his Ph. D. at the University of Alberta.

"There's more than one way of winning. Winning a medal is just one way," explains Salter. "There are plenty of athletes who may never win a medal, but they've given it everything they've got in competition. They don't get the same credit, but in some ways they deserve just as much."

"If they can pop up with a personal best once in a while, that's all you can ask of an athlete," Salter continues. "The team is full of people like that. Paul Korak, Ray Holland, Kathy Ricica, Steve Thatcher. Steve has an outside chance at a medal in his specialty, the 1,000 metres, and the 600 metres and Salter believes he also has an outside chance at a medal."

Distance runner Paul Roberts says, "I've got a very narrow shot at a medal in the 1300. The outdoor season is really my big one," he admits.

"Paul's specialty is the steeplechase," explains Dr. Salter, "I won't predict what particular medal or medals someone might win," says head coach Dr. Michael Salter of Human Kinetics. "I don't like to put that kind of pressure on an athlete."

Salter, who was on sabbatical last year, is originally from Australia where he received his undergraduate degree. He has been at the University of Windsor since 1972, just after completing his Ph. D. at the University of Alberta.

"There's more than one way of winning. Winning a medal is just one way," explains Salter. "There are plenty of athletes who may never win a medal, but they've given it everything they've got in competition. They don't get the same credit, but in some ways they deserve just as much."

"If they can pop up with a personal best once in a while, that's all you can ask of an athlete," Salter continues. "The team is full of people like that. Paul Korak, Ray Holland, Kathy Ricica, Steve Thatcher. Steve has an outside chance at a medal in his specialty, the 1,000 metres, and the 600 metres and Salter believes he also has an outside chance at a medal."

Distance runner Paul Roberts says, "I've got a very narrow shot at a medal in the 1300. The outdoor season is really my big one," he admits.

"Paul's specialty is the steeplechase," explains Dr. Salter, "which isn't run indoors." Roberts narrowly missed winning the coveted Hee Phillips trophy for most outstanding male athlete at the outdoor track championships in the fall. Another athlete who could surprise in Kevin Coughlin. A local prep running Human Kinetics, Coughlin is entered in the triple jump, long jump, 400 metres and 800 metres. A hamstring pull two weeks ago could cause problems however. "It's not feeling too good," Coughlin says. "My physiotherapist has been working on it but I don't know if I'll be able to triple jump, because I've had to land on that right leg."

ANDY BUCKSTEIN

5'11", 165 lbs.

Hometown: Toronto

Major: 1st year Law

OUAA Events and Personal bests (P.B.s):

300m: 3:55
600m: 1:22.8
4x200: 3:31.9 (for 200m)
4x400: 4:04.4000

Remarks: "No definite predictions, but I have a few definite goals."

SANDIE CARSON

5'4", 125 lbs.

Hometown: Windsor

Major: 2nd year English

OWIAA Events and P.B.s:

High Jump: 1.73 metres (speciality)
Long Jump: 5 metres
Shot put: 10.12 metres

Remarks: "I'd like to jump 1.75 but that depends on how I'll feel that day. I'll have a go at it."

LINDA STAUSD

5'4", 105 lbs.

Hometown: Windsor

Major: 4th year Human Kinetics

OWIAA Events and P.B.s:

1500m: 4:19
1000m: 9:48

Remarks: "It's iffy in the 1500, but I've got a good chance for a medal in the 3000. My training has been geared to the outdoor season," Henry mused.

Social Science Society's Semi - Formal

The Other Place

Friday, March 27, 1981 featuring CAVACON

(all you can eat, all you can drink)

$30 couple

Tickets on sale March 11, 12, 13, 16, 17 during lunch hours in the University Centre.

For Social Science Students

Will only accept cash.
High speed hockey season concludes with upsets

The regular season concluded this week in high speed 3-on-3 hockey with some stunning upsets. The league-leading Screaming Eagles were upset by the high-flying Bobbys Angels team 4-3, with Giancarlo Niscone leading the way for Cody.

Meanwhile, the Bulls came from nowhere to upset the 69ers 6-5 and the Bedrockers 4-3 to seal a certain playoff berth from the Bedrockers by finishing in fourth place.

In the other match played, Huron Hall clinched third place with a victory over the Bedrockers 4-3. The playoffs will be played this week and play is expected to be fast and free-wheeling as four teams attempt to capture the coveted crown of 3-on-3 hockey.

FINAL STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cody</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huron</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulls</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bedrockers</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Others</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*defeated Bedrockers in qualifying match to make playoffs.

Polo players wet

Teams are Improving with every game as the season enters the latter stages. Thus far there have been no drowning victims, only waterlogged players having too much fun to care.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bobbys Angels</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Others</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TLP and the First</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davidsol's Dolphins</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tecumseh Chiefs</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

IM Curling

The im curling league finished up the regular season last Friday with a close race finally being decided. Brucer’s Bombers claimed first by defeating the Squall Wonders, while Bobby’s Angels, the leaders through the first half of the season, ended up in second. The playoffs begin today with the championship games slated for March 27.

FINAL STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bobbys Angels</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Others</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TLP and The First</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tecumseh downs Pub

In women’s basketball action last week, the top two teams met for the first time and in a close contest, Tecumseh edged the Pub by a score of 26-24. Tecumseh took advantage of outside shooting and strong rebounding to take control of the game.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Pub</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thunderbirds</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tecumseh</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mohawks</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mustangs</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flames</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smurfs</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CJAM covers OUAA’s

Saturday night in St. Denis marks the battle of Ontario as the OUAA East champion York Yeomen take on the OUAA West victors, the Windsor Lancers, in what will definitely be the final game played in St. Denis Hall. CJAM Sports will broadcast the game starting at 7:30 p.m.

Screaming Eagles will also broadcast games from the national finals in Waterloo March 12-14.

CJAM, 660 AM is heard throughout the residences, Human Kinetics, Vanier Hall, SAC’s Pub and the University Centre. Extension speakers will be placed in the Centre cafeteria for these off campus students who wish to hear the broadcasts.

For information on game times and scores, phone CJAM Sports at 254-1494.

Powderpuff begins

Women’s intramural hockey action begins next Tuesday with teams entered from the Law School, Lancerette Basketball, St. Clair and Tecumseh Hall. The season opener sees Tecumseh at St. Clair and the Lancerettes meeting the Law School.

Games are held at Ask Knox Arena on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4-6 p.m. The women’s final will be held in conjunction with the men’s A and B division finals on March 26.

Battle on

In A division play, the Rockets clinched a bye through the first round of the playoffs with their tie with the Bulls. The tie also assured the Bulls of a playoff spot. Chris Heijlac had the Bulls’ lone goal, while Don O’Connor scored for the Rockets.

In B division, Geography clinched first place in B2 division with a 9-0 blasting of the Tortfeasors. The H. K. Blades had a rough week as they dropped two games and dropped out of the playoff picture. One loss came to their arch rivals, the Humkin Hacks, as Ray Holland notched his first hat trick. The Seamen won their first game of the season with a 6-2 romp over the Bedrockers.

Battle on

Tecumseh Chiefs remain the only undefeated club as they blanked the Blades 9-0. Sam Nicolletti picked up the shutout.

The B division playoff teams appear set, however a real battle is shaping up for the last spot in A division. The Screaming Eagles can create a three-way tie for the sixth and final position with a win over the 69ers. It should be close.

Hockey standings

A DIVISION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Commerce 'A'</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rockets</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eng. Bov. 'A'</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulls</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law 'A'</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bires</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

B1 DIVISION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>P</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tecumseh Chiefs</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commerce 'B'</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M.A.</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mac Hall Stars</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-Arts</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humkin Hacks</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huron Red Wings</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H.K. Blades</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PICK UP YOUR FREE COPIES AT

EUROPE TRAVEL 81

Everything you need to know to save a lot.

THE CANADIAN STUDENT TRAVEL CATALOGUE

Pick up your FREE copy at

ODYSSEY travel
131 Johnson St.
Kingston, Ontario
(613) 549-3553
HELP ME GET RID OF MY CLUT­TER. I really want to get rid of all the following photographic equipment: camera, prints, film. Call Bill at 149 Three Unit. Talk to him at Hotel St. Anthony, second floor of the University Centre or call his home 423-4723, Ext. 424 to 428. Membership is limited, apply soon.

CONTEST for new dress uniform for Nursing students. Prize judging at 5:00 p.m. Present uniform sponsored by Assumption Campus. Front and back views required for ONTV. The apartment is Blue Room, Assumption University for the "Live Wires". Call 252-9391 and ask in song. Singing telegrams for all occasions. Phone 254-5504 or apply at Apartment 33, Geoffrey Fisher Hall, 270 Patricia Road, Windsor.

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

- Resumes Preparation Service
- Income Tax Service
- Typing and Copying at $5 a copy
- Housing Placement Service
- Research Assistance Services

NEW ORIENTAL LOOK

Soothing Fragrances

Customer Favourite

556 Ouellette
256-4141

THREE BEDROOM FURNISHED apartment to sublet. Available from May 1 to September 1, 1981. Laundry and parking facilities available and ON T.V. The apartment is located right by campus on the corner of University and Patricia Road. Phone 256-5559 or apply at Apartment 33, Geoffrey Fisher Hall, Patricia Road, Windsor.

SEND A SINGING SPRING to someone for St. Patrick's Day. Send someone a "Happy Birthday" phone call this week. Telephone 254-8817, ask for Brad.

NEED a word of encouragement? Send a singing telegram from "Live Wires". Call 252-9391, ask for Heidi at The Lance office, second floor of University Centre.

THE LANCE Academic Serus at 8:00 p.m. in the Assumption Lounge, University Centre. Admission is free. Everybody welcome.

FOUNDED: Bandn at the Doug and Wenda, 253-4060 or 252-6846. Call 948-3644 after 5:30 p.m.

WHEN you're invited to an off-campus rap session on Saturday; Duke let 'em spin those wheels. 820 Fellow Lion Street near university for ride home. IO percent of $2.00 cover to the returning office for the loss of a loved one? Death is anticipated or grieving is limited, apply soon.

Tuesday, March 3 at 8:00 p.m., Ext. 641 or 408. Membership is limited, apply soon.

WANTED: Well established male student, mid 30's seeks female company for "candle light and wine dinners, followed, by liquors in front of the open fire." Attractiveness not as important as personalities and maturity. Send photo and details to box 808, The Lance.

There's no place like home

Thousands of Ontario university students may be disenfranchised in the upcoming provincial election (March 19). Enumeration is being conducted from February 16 to February 20, the same week as many students have returned home from university for reading week. The campuses affected by the enumeration will be Laurier, Guelph, Lakehead, Laurentian, Ottawa, Queen's, University of Toronto, Waterloo, Windsor, Laurier, and York University. These students who are not enumerated at their campus residence, and wish to be, must contact the returning office for the riding the campus is located in and have their names placed on the revised voters' list between February 23 and March 7. In this way they can, as well, go to the re­turning office up to the day before the election and fill out a special form enabling them to vote. Any student who considers himself/herself or his/her place of "ordinary residence" may vote in their campus riding on election day. If a student considers his parents' home to be his place of ordinary re­idence he must be on the provincial voters' list in that riding. Since election day is on a Thursday, many students will not be able to return to their parents' home and therefore must vote by proxy.

This is a paid advertisement.

Soc's Pub presents the

Busker

March 2 - 7/18

Pilot

Mon-Thurs, March 9 - 12/18, & Sat, March 14/18

Friday, March 13/18

"Herman's Hermits"

(yes! this is for real!!)

Students $1.50

Guests $2.00

capacity limited

student ID & proof of age required

SAC

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY

Assumption University - 254-2312
MASS SCHEDULE

Fr. March 6 - 7:30 a.m.

Sat March 7 - 5:00 p.m.

Sun March 8 - 9:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m.

Mon March 9 - 11:00 p.m.

Tues March 10 - 7:30 a.m. & 5:00 p.m., followed by dinner $1.75

Note: March 4 is Ash Wednesday - Distribution of Ashes at both the Noon Mass and 4:30 p.m. Mass. During Lent we will have prayer services on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Fridays at 10:00 a.m. in the Chapel.

BASKETBALL Players needed for W.J.O.'s team in the Ontario Junior Intercollegiate Basketball tournament to be held Sunday, March 8 in Toronto. Call Harry 254-4320 or Moishe 944-3916 for more info.

VOLUNTEER PIANIST required to accompany a 100 voice elementary school choir. Duties include practising with the choir and accompanying them at performances. Times usually during the lunch hours or in the early afternoon. Call Volunteer Services at 253-4517 for more information.

COMPANY WANTED: Well established male student, mid 30's seeks female company for "candle light and wine dinners, followed, by liquors in front of the open fire." Attractiveness not as important as personalities and maturity. Send photo and details to box 808, The Lance.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 2, March 6, 1981, Page Twenty

COFFEE HOUSE - Sunday, March 1. An evening of great entertainment sponsored by Assumption Campus Community. We will meet in the Blue Room, Assumption University at 8:30 p.m. Dinner will feature local talent. Everyone welcome. Contest for new dress uniform design for Nursing students. Prize of $50 for best design to be awarded in full semester. Submit designs to School of Nursing by March 31, 1981 at 5:00 p.m. Present uniform on display at the School of Nursing and at University Centre. Desk. Front and back views required for judging.

ONE BEDROOM FURNISHED apartment to sublet. Available from May 1 to September 1, 1981. Laundry and parking facilities available and ON T.V. The apartment is located right by campus on the corner of University and Patricia Road. Phone 256-5559 or apply at Apartment 33, Geoffrey Fisher Hall, Patricia Road, Windsor.

SEND A SINGING SPRING to someone for St. Patrick's Day. Send someone a "Happy Birthday" phone call this week. Telephone 254-8817, ask for Brad.

NEED a word of encouragement? Send a singing telegram from "Live Wires". Call 252-9391, ask for Heidi at The Lance office, second floor of University Centre.

THE LANCE Academic Serus at 8:00 p.m. in the Assumption Lounge, University Centre. Admission is free. Everybody welcome.

FOUNDED: Bandn at the Doug and Wenda, 253-4060 or 252-6846. Call 948-3644 after 5:30 p.m.

WHEN you're invited to an off-campus rap session on Saturday; Duke let 'em spin those wheels. 820 Fellow Lion Street near university for ride home. IO percent of $2.00 cover to the returning office for the loss of a loved one? Death is anticipated or grieving is limited, apply soon.

Tuesday, March 3 at 8:00 p.m., Ext. 641 or 408. Membership is limited, apply soon.

WANTED: Well established male student, mid 30's seeks female company for "candle light and wine dinners, followed, by liquors in front of the open fire." Attractiveness not as important as personalities and maturity. Send photo and details to box 808, The Lance.

There's no place like home

Thousands of Ontario university students may be disenfranchised in the upcoming provincial election (March 19). Enumeration is being conducted from February 16 to February 20, the same week as many students have returned home from university for reading week. The campuses affected by the enumeration will be Laurier, Guelph, Lakehead, Laurentian, Ottawa, Queen's, University of Toronto, Waterloo, Windsor, Laurier, and York University. These students who are not enumerated at their campus residence, and wish to be, must contact the returning office for the riding the campus is located in and have their names placed on the revised voters' list between February 23 and March 7. In this way they can, as well, go to the re­turning office up to the day before the election and fill out a special form enabling them to vote. Any student who considers himself/herself or his/her place of "ordinary residence" may vote in their campus riding on election day. If a student considers his parents' home to be his place of ordinary re­idence he must be on the provincial voters' list in that riding. Since election day is on a Thursday, many students will not be able to return to their parents' home and therefore must vote by proxy.

This is a paid advertisement.

Soc's Pub presents the

Busker

March 2 - 7/18

Pilot

Mon-Thurs, March 9 - 12/18, & Sat, March 14/18

Friday, March 13/18

"Herman's Hermits"

(yes! this is for real!!)

Students $1.50

Guests $2.00

capacity limited

student ID & proof of age required

SAC

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY

Assumption University - 254-2312
MASS SCHEDULE

Fr. March 6 - 7:30 a.m.

Sat March 7 - 5:00 p.m.

Sun March 8 - 9:30 a.m. & 4:30 p.m.

Mon March 9 - 11:00 p.m.

Tues March 10 - 7:30 a.m. & 5:00 p.m., followed by dinner $1.75

Note: March 4 is Ash Wednesday - Distribution of Ashes at both the Noon Mass and 4:30 p.m. Mass. During Lent we will have prayer services on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Fridays at 10:00 a.m. in the Chapel.

BASKETBALL Players needed for W.J.O.'s team in the Ontario Junior Intercollegiate Basketball tournament to be held Sunday, March 8 in Toronto. Call Harry 254-4320 or Moishe 944-3916 for more info.

VOLUNTEER PIANIST required to accompany a 100 voice elementary school choir. Duties include practising with the choir and accompanying them at performances. Times usually during the lunch hours or in the early afternoon. Call Volunteer Services at 253-4517 for more information.

COMPANY WANTED: Well established male student, mid 30's seeks female company for "candle light and wine dinners, followed, by liquors in front of the open fire." Attractiveness not as important as personalities and maturity. Send photo and details to box 808, The Lance.
Government Committee

‘Stimulating’ report holds no surprises

by Ed McMahon

The Committee on the Future Role of Universities in Ontario released its preliminary report last Monday, March 2. The report, intended to “stimulate discussion”, is in keeping with the guidelines originally set up for the committee which called for a preliminary report by February 28 and a final report by June 1, 1981.

The report states that “serious challenges of the largest kind” exist to Ontario’s heritage of a highly educated populace and skilled labour force in the province which it calls Canada’s “industrial base.”

The committee, chaired by Deputy Minister of Colleges and Universities, Harry K. Fisher, made no actual recommendations, but deals mostly with various policy and planning alternatives, and their implications on the continuation of post-secondary education as it presently exists.

Entitled “The Challenge of the 80’s”, the report goes on to cite problems with funding, equipment and library purchases, although these are not the only problems it sees with the Ontario college and university system.

Also at stake is the inability of the post-secondary institutions in Ontario to respond to shifts in demographics and program preferences. This loss of flexibility, according to the report, is due to “a number of factors”, including “a moratorium on capital grants for new construction imposed in the early 1970’s”, and the continuation of these capital grants at a low level since that time.

Operating grants measured in constant dollars rose until 1976-77, but fell each year thereafter.

The report also notes that the adequacy of library holdings is threatened, that scientific equipment is not being properly maintained and replaced, and that faculty and staff components have declined.

In short, says the report, the “adaptive capacity of universities is under stress.”

The report also studied the objectives of the post-secondary education system in Ontario, and the varying degrees of success with which they have been met over the past few years. It also studies the impact of three funding scenarios on the ability of the system to continue to meet those objectives.

The first scenario involves the increase in grants to universities from $1.06 billion in 1980-81 to $1.2 billion in 1990-91, which would allow them to continue with existing programs at a “realistic level”, to upgrade equipment, and perhaps add some research facilities.

The second scenario involves the concept that grants to universities will match inflation, providing a real increase of only 1.4% per year over 10 years.

According to the report, most universities would “invariably suffer, with some of the consequences being the loss of faculty, office staff and caretakers, unless wage concessions were made by them.”

The third scenario involves one model which would see funding drop to four percent below the level of inflation, which, according to the report, would result in a “commensurately elite and small Ontario university system.”

The report also addresses the committee’s responsibility to determine more clearly the appropriate funding scenarios on the ability of the system to continue to meet those objectives.

By P. O. Chuah

Request: The Space Priorities Committee of this university’s administration is asked by various groups for additional space - to conduct research projects, graduate studies extraneous to classroom work, and labs, for example.

Problem: The office space and lab areas in the university’s buildings are already intensively and extensively in use and, simply, “completely hooked.” The only areas that might be used to meet the request for additional space constitute classroom space which, again, is in use.

Solution: University Registrar Frank Smith examines the situation and suggests that if the length of the teaching day was increased from eight to nine hours a day, classroom booking could be altered and additional space could be provided in such rooms. Smith notes also that most other universities now have nine-hour teaching days.

This plan is approved by the Space Priorities Committee and, subsequently, by the Council of Deans of the university.

Action: Vice-Principal Academic Dr. Paul V. Cassano, acting for the administration, consults with Faculty Association (professors’ union) President Johannah Foster and Dean of Law Ron Ianni and submits a tentative solution.

From Foster, Cassano seeks the faculty’s reaction to the proposal and suggests that the length of the teaching day. She basically approves, saying it just means professors will be working an 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. day (disregarding night classes), instead of a “9 to 5”. meaning that the daily workload of the teachers will not increase.

From Ianni, Cassano seeks advice on a jurisdictional matter: can the administration institute the proposed solution without further consultation with other campus bodies?

Ianni, following an examination of the University of Windsor Act (the provincially legislated-by-laws of the institution), concluded

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

 Longer days ahead

by E. P. Chanth

Residence and food costs will be going up again this year... but not too much, says Dave McMurray, Director of Residence and Food Services.

Because of the Residence Fee Schedule, which has been in effect for the past three years, returning residential students will be paying a little less than those just coming in for the first time.

Even with the next school year’s increases, says McMurray, our fees will still be lower than many of the other universities in Ontario.

According to figures, the provincial average prior for a single room in residence is $1,184, at Windsor, it is presently proposed at $1,080 for first year students. The average cost of a double room in Ontario universities is $1,056. Here, it will be about $950 for first year students. This will make up a 10-12 percent increase over last year’s prices.

McMurray said these lower and differential fees give students a financial break, and also keep the residences mixed with students in different years. Students who stay the same residence from year to year will pay less than those students who wish to transfer to a “grad residence”.

McMurray said the other universities worked at this Residence Fee Schedule plan at first, but now, with so many rising costs and irate students on their hands, they are beginning to make inquiries to this university to plan something similar for their residences.

McMurray explained that something similar is also being done with strip fees. First year students will face a 15 percent increase in their meal plan, while returning second year students will see a 12 percent increase, and third year students will find a 10 percent increase.

He gave a 16 percent increase in the cost of food and a 10 percent increase in management fees as reason for rising costs in the meal plan.

The residence director promised no residence services would be cut back, even though other universities have done this to their residence fees at the same level as the previous year. In fact, said McMurray, a new residence service is in its first stages—a student security force. A report will be made to the Student Services Committee within two weeks making it official.

One other added cost is a new conference business. McMurray hopes to utilize the empty resi- dences during the summer by renting them to conference delegates. By putting a little money away for it now, he said, he could bring in around $500,000 yearly which would go back in residence revenues.

Living down your housing costs

by Wendy Coomber

Right in the middle of the Lancers’ loss to York Saturday, assistant-coach Vinny Landry (second from right on bench) breaks into a chorus of “Mammy”.
Music School alone can no longer oratorium, is too small for most be damaged.

humidity goes down while the was renovated in 1973 and again southern extremity of the main building was not "originally designed for storage space and were never mean to be more than temporar-the building is too hot to work the summertime, the tempera-temperature and humidity. In that because the Music School's meant to be more than tempor-buildings are so bad that the and Senate's rights and responsibilities are pretty clearly defined. academic concerns of the university, should have been consulted about is frustrating, and, because there are no changing rooms, the en- the stage or the audience. Because of the size of the basement there is little room for props and musical instruments. The dressing rooms have "got to be seen to be believed" according to Young. Props have to be delivered to the Dramatic Arts building and carried over to Essex Theatre, which is no easy thing.

The only concert hall in thePIZZO

The Honorary Accounting Society and Accounting Arts Faculty of Business Administration invite you to attend a Speech on "THE ROLE OF THE CHARTERED ACCOUNTANT IN THE 1980'S" Speaker. Mr. R. Harris, FCA, CICA President Date. Friday, March 27 Time: 10:15 - 12:15 Location: Rm. 1101 Bus. Bldg. Lunch at SAC's Pub from 12:30 - 2:30.

Not our fault

In a story last week on the African Cultural Week seminar, "OSA" should have been "OAS" (Organization of American States) and the president of the project "limited line," but "unlimited." Now do you know why we ask things to be typed when you are writing to the editor? Young claims that the publicity-dutiful beanheads out there?
Biologists are in a pickle over preservatives

by Laurie Bergoin

Remember your Biology class in high school? You could tell the exact day you were to start dissection, just by the smell in the halls. The poor little animal laying on the table, you were alive and smelling its sweet aroma. The following day, you might have noticed that the animal was better off dead and it...

Exodus to the land of money

OTTAWA (CUP) - The Ontario government’s constant under-funding of education is driving quality professors out of the province, according to the Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations (OCUFA). Sarah Shorten, president of OCUFA and a professor at the University of Western Ontario, said salaries at Ontario universities have fallen drastically behind other groups.

"This constitutes a serious threat to the human resources of the Ontario university system," she said.

"The teachers in our universities represent a large and vital public investment but if professors continue to suffer erosion of salaries exacerbated by reductions in research support and funds for professional expenses, we risk a major and alarming loss of scientists and scholars to other parts of the country."

According to OCUFA, over the past eight years there has been a loss of 17 percent in real terms in salaries. The cost of living has increased 95 percent while professors’ salaries have only risen 65 percent.

Compare this, says Shorten, to an increase of 90 percent in the salaries of community college teachers, 106 percent in high school teachers’ salaries and 94 percent for professional engineers.

"This constitutes a damage to the quality of education," she said. "Ontario is 10th in the country for funding to universities."

Assistant professors in Ontario earn an average of $19,000 a year. A professor with about 16 years experience earns between $33,000 and $40,000 a year.

Shorten says the general public is convinced that professors have huge incomes.

"I met people who confidently believe that professors earn $45,000 a year to start," she said.

OCUFA has been lobbying the government concerning the underfunding and has stepped up these efforts during the provincial election campaign.

Formaldehyde, which saturates the tissues to prevent deterioration, is sometimes used in the biology department here at the University of Windsor.

When asked if the students here were required to wear rubber gloves during dissection, Dr. Petras, head of Windsor’s Animal Care Committee, said the department had not been made aware of any dangers or effects of the chemical and the students were not required to wear them. Petras said, up until now, the worst problem with formaldehyde, besides the smell, was that quite a few people were allergic to it and their hands become dried and scaly. This point was also stressed by Dr. Virgo and Dr. Polsky of the Biology department.

Dr. Polsky also noted rubber gloves are available to all students and, although they are not required, some do wear them. He said there is a lot of ventilation because the labs are big and spacious and there is usually a group of students working on one animal at the same time. The students also take a few breaks during the classes if the smell is bothering them.

Polsky, who has worked with formaldehyde for long periods of time himself, said, “Personally, I don’t believe that the amount of contacts the student has with substance is detrimental. If a person spent all day long, maybe, but they seem to become used to it after a while.”

He said that to him, the most irritating thing was it made his eyes water.

According to OCUFA, over the past eight years there has been a loss of 17 percent in real terms in salaries. The cost of living has increased 95 percent while professors’ salaries have only risen 65 percent.

Compare this, says Shorten, to an increase of 90 percent in the salaries of community college teachers, 106 percent in high school teachers’ salaries and 94 percent for professional engineers.

"This constitutes a damage to the quality of education," she said. "Ontario is 10th in the country for funding to universities."

Assistant professors in Ontario earn an average of $19,000 a year. A professor with about 16 years experience earns between $33,000 and $40,000 a year.

Shorten says the general public is convinced that professors have huge incomes.

"I met people who confidently believe that professors earn $45,000 a year to start," she said.

OCUFA has been lobbying the government concerning the underfunding and has stepped up these efforts during the provincial election campaign.

Formaldehyde, which saturates the tissues to prevent deterioration, is sometimes used in the biology department here at the University of Windsor.

When asked if the students here were required to wear rubber gloves during dissection, Dr. Petras, head of Windsor’s Animal Care Committee, said the department had not been made aware of any dangers or effects of the chemical and the students were not required to wear them. Petras said, up until now, the worst problem with formaldehyde, besides the smell, was that quite a few people were allergic to it and their hands become dried and scaly. This point was also stressed by Dr. Virgo and Dr. Polsky of the Biology department.

Dr. Polsky also noted rubber gloves are available to all students and, although they are not required, some do wear them. He said there is a lot of ventilation because the labs are big and spacious and there is usually a group of students working on one animal at the same time. The students also take a few breaks during the classes if the smell is bothering them.

Polsky, who has worked with formaldehyde for long periods of time himself, said, “Personally, I don’t believe that the amount of contacts the student has with substance is detrimental. If a person spent all day long, maybe, but they seem to become used to it after a while.”

He said that to him, the most irritating thing was it made his eyes water.
On Wednesday night this week, a cross-section of this university's staff met and grilled the four SAC Presidential candidates, and the four Vice-President candidates. Coming out of that meeting is this endorsement: The Lance believes Preidential candidate Janice Ferber and Vice-President hopeful John Mill have the most experience in student government. (As an active participant and Mill as an observer from his position as a Lance reporter) and have the first hand experience that that experience into actions.

Those are our thoughts on the matter, but its yours that really matter. In other words, "Get off your butt and go vote!" But now we're writing-ups of the candidates in this issue, talk to them, talk to them as if you"re shaking hands, fighting babies, make a decision about them, and vote for the one you think will be able to represent you day off administrative bodies and handle your student fees.

You don't really have much say in who is running the universities at the moment: the per capita level or even that of this institution's administr ation, but you can have a say in the SAC situation, how $32.50 of your hard-earned money is spent (your SAC fees), how well you're entering the lot where you are eggs are passed on to the government and administration. And you get all this service by simply scratching a few "X"s on a ballot. What a deal. But it appears, a deal with a value no one seems to realize, Many

The Lance is published every T u day of the fall and winter terms by the Student Media Corporation, University of Windsor. Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the students, not necessarily at the University of Windsor or the Students' Administrative Council.

The Lance offices are located on the second floor of the Althouse, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P1 (519) 253-6467 or 253-6272 (ext. 153 or 221).

Advertises contact Mark D. Green (519) 253-6467.

Subscriptions are $5.60 per year. Internal as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada.

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted.
- M. Gunther O'Conor

You have a voice in council - USE IT!

The Fortnightly

BY CHRIS WOODROW

Drugs. Alcohol. Tobacco. Food. Maybe even sex. These are the first things that come to mind when we think of Lent. Last Wednesday was Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent and the beginning of 40 days of struggle and deprivation.

Last week I decided to personally adhere to the principle of Lent. Thinking about those long hot sum mer days spent on the beach with a good book and cold beer made me realize I should lose a few pounds, and get my sweetest body into life guard-like condition. (Kid Note: "Swede-like")

It's not easy when the body has sunk to such depths as mine, but I was determined to control my snacking and Drinking. First, I told myself that miracles were indeed possible. The National Runner always has stories of people who lose 50 pounds in a month, so why can't I lose a few pounds in the same time period? An added incentive to my losing weight is purely economic. Apart from the big bucks saved on beer and food, I can't I lose a few pounds in the same time period? An added incentive to my losing weight is purely economic. Apart from the big bucks saved on beer and food, I can't imagine that I am losing weight, the scales would show some movement.

I have reached the conclusion I was fated to be the way I am and nothing I do will change the situation. Since last Wednesday, my weight has remained constant. I've laid off algebraic beverages, stopped snacking and even tried exercise, but still no joy when I get on the scales.

May be the last part of my master plan will help. If a group of concerned readers, or maybe some Lance staff members get together and sponsor my weight loss program, say $5 per pound, I would succeed. I think of this as charity, think of me as a charity badly in need of help. I'm sure it would be tax deductible. Remember, this summer when you go to the beach, the Charles Atlas-like, sun-tanned Adams, who is teasing your girfriend could be me. So, ladies, get those dollars flowing in. See you at the beach.
Censorship of Law Revue skit was self-inflicted

Dear Editor:

According to the letter in last week's Lance by the members of the Bouivre-et-Saint-Antoine's Law Revue skit, the issue involved is censorship of their right to free expression. I am writing in view of the circumstances. No one stopped them from performing. They themselves made the decision not to perform. I want to make it perfectly clear that I made no threats of physical violence against the members of the skit, nor do I know of any threats made by others. The unfortunate notion on the part of the skit members that they might possibly face physical harassment would seem to me to be the exaggerated product of the rumour mill. Any threat I might have felt towards the skit was to be expressed in an orderly way through lack of applause or booing. But, to repeat, there were no threats and no plans to use physical violence. If any censorship was involved here, it was self-censorship. The skit members were not willing to take the risk that some in the audience might not like their skit, a risk that every performer takes when he or she steps on the stage. This right of the audience to express approval or disapproval of the activity on stage is given little weight by the skit members, although they are highly conscious of their own right to free expression. They do not seem willing to admit that an audience might find unobjectionable a character who, according to their letter, "into bestiality, sadomasochism, transvestism, and homosexuality." It is my belief that people in an audience have a right to object to any or all of these things regardless of whether they are presented in a positive or negative light. In this case, the objection was to a dehumanized stereotype of homosexuality, but in another instance it could have been to a degrading racist or sexist stereotype. If the members of the Australian Bar Review skit found the homosexual character in the skit offensive and homogeneous, to be it - but please do not expect that if I or others necessarily will fear that audience members are obliged to sit complacently through something that they find offensive. Democracy is based on the right to free expression, and it includes not only our own right to free expression, but that of the others. The members of the Australian Bar Revue skit had the formerly clear right in sight but lost track of the latter.

Brian Davies

How to get money out of the government system

STUDENT AWARDS AND FINANCIAL AID

The essential function of the Student Awards Office is to serve students - to recognize academic achievements, to accommodate financial need, and to provide information on the types of monetary assistance available to students. This involves the administration of the following programs:

1. UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR AWARDS
   a) President's Roll of Scholars
      Certificates of merit are presented to all students who achieve first class standing in the equivalent of a year of full-time student (i.e. - ten courses).
   b) Board of Governors Medals
      Awarded annually to students graduating with highest standing in each of several programs and to undergraduates with the highest standing in course in each undergraduate Faculty. (Part-time students are not eligible for these awards on the same basis as full-time students).
   c) Industrial Management Clubs of Canada Awards Value: the earnings of an investment of $2,000 over approximate 12 months for one full year. The awards will be given to deserving students enrolled in credit courses on a part-time basis. Applications must be Canadian residents, full-time employees in business, industry, government or one of the professions, and must not be a recipient of "tuition refund" aid. Application forms available in the Office of Part Time Studies or in the Student Awards Office.
   d) Other Awards
      Several prizes are awarded annually for proficiency in specific courses.

2. ONTARIO STUDENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (O.S.A.P.)
   a) Ontario Residence Students
      Applications are accepted from students who are Canadian citizens or have 12 months residency in the province as landed immigrants - available to full and part-time students.
      b) Ontario Study Grant Plan, Canada Student Loans Plan, Ontario Student Loans Plan, Ontario Special Bursary Plan
      Deadline for applications - 90 days prior to end of term for which assistance is sought.

Deadline for Appeals - 8 weeks prior to end of term.

(Officially recommended that application be made early; 10 weeks should be allowed for processing.)

 Residents of other provinces must contact the financial aid authority in their home province.

1. OTHER SERVICES
   a) Deferred tuition fees in expectation of government financial aid may be arranged.
   b) Financial Counseling - appeals concerning O.S.A.P. awards if amount received is insufficient, assistance in budgeting funds.

All students experiencing financial problems are invited to consult the Awards Office staff (preferably by appointment).

Further information is available in Section "K" of the University Calendar.

Director, Student Awards: Mrs. Marie Renaud
1101 Windsor Hall North
Telephone: 251-4122, Ext. 447, 802, 803.

Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. It also reserves the right to edit for space. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed, and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.
James Boyer
My name is James Boyer. I am 21 years old and a third year student in Economics. I have been at the University of Windsor for the past three years and have served this past year as President of the Delta Chi Fraternity. My objective in 81-82 is to serve as SAC President and take two courses towards completing my degree, hoping to enter law school in the future.

Very simply put, I believe it is always important to have strong and concerned students. I have been aware of the strife that has torn the current administration apart and I also have developed a strong nucleus around which we can build a better atmosphere. We have clubs such as the Marketing Club and the newly formed Social Science Society which have helped to fill the entertainment void that SAC has left. In general, I feel we have a good basis from which to begin, but I, and others, feel SAC has to be revitalized. I feel that SAC has forgotten that it must reciprocate the students’ contribution with a contribution of its own.

Frank Car lone
My name is Frank Car lone. I am a fourth year history student who has ideas to contribute to SAC and to the student body as a whole.

I would like to stress that I am not a politician. I am a student who has ideas to contribute to SAC and to the student body as a whole.

Although I have not been involved in SAC before, I decided to run for President this year because I felt students were, and have been, dissatisfied with SAC. I have developed some ideas about SAC over the past few months and in the past weeks I have found a good deal of support for them among students.

The extent of this support encouraged me to run on a platform of innovation and vitality in SAC.

Although I and many others have been dissatisfied with conditions on this campus, I feel the University of Windsor has a strong nucleus around which we students can build a better atmosphere. We have a fine Business school and our Faculty of Engineering is still important and innovative. We have clubs such as the Marketing Club and the newly formed Social Science Society which have helped to fill the entertainment void that SAC has left.

In general, I feel we have a good basis from which we can begin, but I, and others, feel SAC has to be revitalized. I feel that SAC has forgotten that it must reciprocate the students’ contribution with a contribution of its own.

Issues
These are some of the issues that students want SAC to literally fight for:

1. Slack week—The students I have consulted have overwhelmingly supported the return of slack week. SAC should be demanding a review of the situation. And to put further pressure on the administration, SAC must mobilize student support: this should not be too difficult since most students want slack week. Even if we fail, I feel that we as students have a duty and a responsibility to demand change when we see that it is necessary.

2. Picture Student Cards— I am against the introduction of these cards. They are not necessary and, in the time of cutbacks, I feel, on principle, that it is unjust to ask students to pay for things which are unnecessary. Tuition will be increasing soon and we have already had an increase in SAC fees.

3. Entertainment issues—SAC was granted a fee increase in January—however, SAC, this entire school year, has not provided the students with any quality entertainment. Fortunately, the clubs and the pub are beginning to pick up the slack. I have had experience in the entertainment business and I know that quality entertainment is not always hard to find. Furthermore, I know for certain that the quality of entertainment cannot be determined by the fee the entertainers charge. I feel this distorted view, along with overzealous organization, put this year’s Orientation in the red.

Basically I am optimistic about my chances for victory and about our university in general. I am fully aware that SAC’s powers are limited. For example, a presidential candidate can promise, or even seriously consider, reducing tuition, certainly the President can and should make the students concerned over this issue known and I feel that the administration has done a fair job of this. Other issues may also be out of our control, but I feel that if SAC, in conjunction with the student body, fought for important issues the campus would be a much more interesting and vital place. This is my goal.

Margaret Hoy
I would like to take on the position of President of SAC because I want to make SAC more accountable and responsible to the students of the University of Windsor. I intend to achieve more responsibility and accountability by encouraging more student input into the Students’ Administrative Council through opinion polls and general surveys.

Thus, my goal is to administer SAC efficiently and in accordance with the wishes of the Jim Shaban.

My name is Jim Shaban and I am a candidate for the office of the President of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) here at the University of Windsor.

The Students' Administrative Council is the organization of full-time undergraduates on campus. SAC is responsible for providing services (pub, drug plan, etc.) and club and society representation on many levels of the University of Windsor. To do this, each full-time undergraduate pays $2.50 to the Students' Administrative Council through their tuition. With our 6,000 full-time undergraduates, this $2.50 that you provide adds up to a pretty hefty sum. This makes your SAC a very wealthy organization with a cash flow of over half a million dollars.

The President is responsible for the over-all operations of the SAC and must have a basic understanding of the operations to effectively manage the Corporation for the benefit of the entire student body.

As Vice-President – Administration of SAC for the past two years, I feel I have developed the necessary experience to manage the affairs of the SAC. Through my dealings with many students and administrators over the past two years, I realize the needs and wants of the student body and feel I can effectively represent you on the many committees here at the University and provide the services and entertain that the majority of students will see.

The office of the President of SAC is not one to take lightly. It requires a dedicated and experienced individual to be efficient and effective. I have attained those requirements in the past two years and I am qualified to hold the position of President of SAC.

I strongly urge each and every one of you to vote on March 18th and 19th. This is your opportunity to voice your opinions. In concluding, I would like to thank the student body for supporting my terms as Vice-President – Administration for the past two years and urge you to support me as President of SAC.

David Booth

Experience:
- past high school students' council president;
- experienced in administrative affairs;
- business student;
- work experience in retail management;
- public relations.

Proposed:
- promote cooperation (team sports);
- promote honesty;
- provide goal oriented leadership for the administration.

John Mill

Let's face facts. The University of Windsor has potential to be a strong, united campus. But to achieve this, we must have a strong, united student council. SAC has given me the opportunity to see the inside of the university. As well, I am presently the Commissioner of External Affairs for SAC and a student representative on the university Senate. My other functions on the campus include sitting on the Undergraduate Admissions Committee and the Academic Planning Committee of the university. As well, I am one of the founding members of the new Social Science Society and, as president, I sit on its cabinet.

From these activities, I consider myself to have gained a fair amount of experience concerning all levels of the university community. Sitting on the Senate has given me an insight into the administrative side of things. SAC has given me experience in student politics and the Social Science Society has given me the opportunity to see how clubs and societies function and to gain an understanding of their trials and tribulations.

I believe that my experiences give me a good perspective from which to take on the Vice-President's position. I wish to point out that SAC is not a simple operation but rather a complex network of services and functions and is not something to be taken lightly. I consider myself to be concerned and I think my actions and involvement prove me to be as such. It is this concern that has motivated me to seek the V.P.'s position.

If anyone wishes to question me about any issues, please attend the All-Candidates meeting coming up, or contact me at the SAC office. I hope that I can count on your support.

Thank you for your interest.

Frank Vetere's

TODAY

$3 OFF! Student Cuts

This is an important time in your life. Be in on the impression with your new boss, your friends, or with that special someone personal cut from Cuts & Such. We can cut your hair so that it looks naturally and as it grows out, it keeps its shape. Don't spend less time washing and have more time to ENJOY!

- Just show your valid student's card, and you'll receive $3 off the price of a trimmer's cut.

- Our price includes a shampoo, precision cut, and expert airfirming.

- This special will not be applicable toward your 6:1 Club card.

Offer in effect till Saturday, March 28th.

OPEN Thursday Nights till 8 p.m.

248 Pelissier Street  Call 252-1981

Frank Vetere's pizzeria

We'll feed you like no other.

3 CONVENIENT WINDSOR LOCATIONS:

- 401 Huron Church Road South of Tecumseh Rd.
- 248 Pelissier Street
- Dougall Avenue adjacent to Woolworth Shopping Centre Tecumseh Road East at Larkin

What a deal! For a limited time only, you can buy a Deep Dish Pizza ("Wind the Works") for only one cent at Frank Vetere's.

What a meal! Buy a large, or medium, or small Deep Dish Pizza and get a second one, Deep Dish Pizza, one size smaller, with the same number of toppings, for only one cent.

This offer makes good cents!
Car owners responsible for their own cars

Most of us, unfortunately, will at least one time in our lives be involved in an automobile accident. It is impossible that the information that you supply to your insurance company will affect your coverage. You should always give to your insurance company as accurate and complete information as possible, and, perhaps most importantly, when you lend your car to someone, whether your insurance covers you or not, you, as the owner, are responsible for any damage caused by the operation of your vehicle.

There are three driving offenses that usually involve accidents. They are careless driving, dangerous driving, and criminal negligence. The least serious is careless driving. The most serious is criminal negligence.

When your car is insured, you are usually covered for anyone who drives your car with your consent for a period of time and energy on campus, students cannot afford to miss issues affecting them. The Senate is a very important body. On March 18 and 19, you can make the Senate get this message. This year, I have been involved in the Social Science Reps programme is composed of two majors (economics and political science) and a minor (history), in addition to my present position, I am involved in the newly formed Social Science Society. This position has taught me a great deal about student politics. One of my responsibilities as President is to represent Social Science students to the Students' Administrative Council (SAC). This task, as the position itself, has given me a greater awareness of the needs of the students.

In addition to being President, I have been a Political Science department representative, a sports writer for The Lance, and a member of the executive committee of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC). This, as the position itself, has given me a greater awareness of the needs of the students.

The Senate is a very important body of the university. It is essential that concerned students represent the students. On March 18 and 19, a number of students will be selected to address the Senate. I believe I have the capabilities and the experience to handle the position competently. I hope that you will consider me on election day.

Dangerous driving is a more serious offense than carelessness driving. It is a provision of the Criminal Code. Dangerous driving differs from careless driving in that it involves an element of negligence which endangeres the safety of others. Dangerous driving is, however, simply refers to a failure to measure up to the required standard of care to be used when operating a motor vehicle. The charge is created by the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario. It provides that a person is guilty of careless driving where he drives the vehicle on a highway without due care and prudence.

The least serious is careless driving. The most serious is criminal negligence. The offences committed are classified by the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario. It provides that a person is guilty of careless driving where he drives the vehicle on a highway without due care and prudence.

...
Company brings their private lives to the stage

by Peter Hastedtov

Two's company and there's a crowd. So goes the old social maxim. And you'd think it would remain unbreakable in a densely populated metropolis like NYC. And in the "me"-oriented seventies to boost

But not so, say writer George Furth, musical composer Stephen Sondheim and the University Players. Company, the award-winning Broadway musical by Furth and Sondheim, opened last week at the Essex Hall Theatre. It's a play about intrusions, those small, uninvited excursions into the private lives of others. And the private life that is the subject of "everybody's" concern is in a tail-spin going nowhere.

Robert is an anomaly to his married friends because, at thirty-five, he remains a bachelor. He is the target of their collective sympathy, the proverbial third place setting at dinner, the one whose life is unfulfilled because it dares go against the grain of their own drab, run-of-the-mill life styles.

Marriages are no longer made in heaven. At least, the ones we see are on their way to rocky ruin. And Robert (a.k.a. "Bob- by", "Bobby, baby", "Robert, Darling", etc.) realizes that marriage by itself can be nothing more than merely living with a stranger.

So, he plays the role of the archetypal romantic in search of an elusive impression of love. At play's end, he has yet to find this imperceptible ideal. But we are satisfied that despite all of the misery showered upon him by his friends, Robert will surface with true love in his "company". Sentimental stuff.

Marlene Forzan (Amy) is excellent as a reluctant bride, but poignant in its presentation. Eric Skelton as Bobby, Dave Mariami as Larry, and Kerry-Lee Harman as Joanne in the University Players production of the musical Company.

Nineteen - a clever combination of ling platforms, raised wall- ways and a functioning elevator - adds to the urban mystique.

The confluence of somber colours and w.i.t metalwork conveys the impression of a decay- ing playground to which all of the characters are confined like miserable children and forced to play "house" rather than actual- ly execute their life roles.

The only drawback in this production is the uneasy relationship struck by the principals and the orchestra. James Tam- babinis's orchestra is adept at interpreting the music but stand out too powerful when competing with the voices on stage. The four member vocal chorus sitting in the orchestra pit did assist the cast in a num- ber of the chord arrangements.

Unfortunately, the Essex Hall Theatre does not lend itself easily to musical productions as it does for more conventional modes of drama. A smaller or- chestra would merely not take away any of the zest that is added by a live orchestral pres- ence; it may, however, provide the basis for further musical production in the future.

The show winds up its run this weekend and next production, Jean Giraudoux's The Madwoman of Chaillot is the annual showcase for the B.F.A. students in Drama.
The University Players perform the next to last play of their current season March 13 and 14 in the Essex Hall Theatre. Company is one in a long line of successful musicals by Stephen Sondheim. Tickets for the Friday and Saturday performances are $4.00. All shows begin at 8:00 p.m.

Tudor Singers will perform locally

The Tudor Singers of Montreal will be singing in St. Barnabas Church this Saturday evening.

Although being together for only four years, these nineteen young artists have already established themselves as a competent group of singers on the international level. Their director Wayne Riddell is also renown in his field.

The extensive repertoire of the group encompasses works from the pre-Renaissance to the twentieth century. Apart from their regular concert series in Montreal, numerous broadcasts and concerts with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, The Tudor Singers have performed in over 40 Canadian cities from Newfoundland to British Columbia. They have recently returned from a European Tour, which included concerts in the cathedrals of York, Leeds, and London, as well as performing in many Continental Festivals.

The March 14 concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets are $4.00, $3.00 for seniors and students. This tour is made possible with the assistance of the Touring Office of The Canada Council.

Annie held over at the Fisher Theatre

by Laurel Brandt

"Annie", at the Fisher Theatre, is billed as "a new musical," but what it really is an old-fashioned fun musical. You know, the kind that Gene Kelly did as movies. The plot is straight and simple. The time is late December, 1933, and the Depression in the U. S. is at its worst, with Franklin D. Roosevelt having been in office for almost a year. Eleven year old Annie had been left as a baby on the steps of the New York Municipal Orphanage, run by Miss Hannigan, with a note asking that she be looked after until her parents can come back for her. Annie is taken out of the orphanage for two weeks at Christmas by Oliver Warbucks, the richest man in the country. Her cheerfulness wins Mr. Warbucks' heart, and he starts a search for her parents. Miss Hannigan has her brother and his girlfriend impersonate Annie's parents so they can all get some of the reward money that Warbucks has offered.

Meanwhile, Annie's optimism has caused the President to decide that maybe he can do something about the Depression. Of course, all ends happily, with Annie being adopted by "Daddy" Warbucks and reunited with her dog Sandy, the impos-
Walker 917: a place for dry heaves, enemies and passions

by Lorenzo Bu

In Windsor, days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing może has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance mad tership of a nu wave night out.

In Windsor the days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing może has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

direction.

Now if the sort evanions of the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

by Lorenzo Bu

In Windsor, days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing może has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

direction.

Now if the sort evanions of the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

by Lorenzo Bu

In Windsor, days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing modalità has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

by Lorenzo Bu

In Windsor, days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing modalità has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.

by Lorenzo Bu

In Windsor, days, Rock-'n'-roll, misplaced during the pseudo-intellectual "art" — rock days of the 70's, daily, has its head above ground and is making a revival.

While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the Walker 917 shake and bounce the weekends away to the reverberating thump of new Rock-'n'-roll (punk for you gawkers). As such, Downunder — the club's nickname — is an appropriate, if unavoidable tag because it makes it for a good sense of underground camaraderie. Indeed, since JP's embarrassing modalità has been one of the few places in town to offer up a steady fare of new entertainment.

What goes on at the 917 during weekends is somewhat removed from the popular images punk conjures for the curious. While the rest of the city is anesthetized with top-40, disco, and Country, crowds at the 917, or the dark-lit low-ceiling interior of the club doesn't create an atmosphere similar to old Brit London, circa 1977, the music spurred on inside — the throbbing back-beat, the unmitigating guitar — certainly can. Local bands like the Enemies, Passions, and Dry Heaves will sometimes headline and sometimes back-up out of town talent like Rough Cut from Detroit or the Zeltos from London. In early January the management even had Chris Spedding on hand.

The bottom line is that the sheer energy and rough edge of most bands there make for a good time. With a good crowd on hand the gap between stage and audience shrinks quickly and the usual result of such a night is a crowded and exciting array of Rock-'n'-roll dance madness.
Pilot frys into SAC's on a wing and a prayer

Remember all those angry pub reviews last year by Wendy Coomber. Those long and lively letters reriving her beer and occasionally getting around to telling about the band. One thing though, Wendy was consistant. She hated all bands.

Herman's Hermits is a type of band that Wendy would have enjoyed reviewing.

It seems pub management has been spotting their patrons lately with consistently good entertainment. There's always an exception to the rule.

Pilot visited SAC's last November as a four man group. This time around, the band only features three musicians. They sorely miss that fourth performer.

The trio seems to specialize in top 40 material. Look for a lot of Supertramp and Beach Boys in their repertoire.

Beach Boys numbers such as "California Girls", "Fun, Fun, Fun" and "Help Me Rhonda" depend a lot on the harmonics. Pilot might as well give up on these harmonics. Consistently the trio was flat on their vocal impersonations.

Pilot plays a five song Supertramp medley. Although Breakfast In America tunes are simple in melody and lyrics the songs need their intricate and ramshackle endings to remain effective. Don't look for any stimulating powerful solos this weekend! Their impression of "Goodbye Stranger" was dreadful.

Because of the Herman's visit tonight, Pilot will have to wait until Saturday to "please" their audiences once again.

Herman's Hermits tonight

You might call it The British Invasion part II.

Herman's Hermits, one of the sixties supergroups is returning to the concert tour. Tonight they will visit SAC's pub. If you are tired of the eighties, Herman's Hermits will take you back into time for the evening.

Perhaps best known for their hits "Mrs. Brown you've got a lovely daughter" and "I'm Henry the VIII", the Hermits had no less than twelve hits while at their height. They're the type of band who had fun with their music - don't care a minute think ten years or so have mellowed their sense of humour. It's rumoured the band still thrives on audience participation.

Missing from the group is the original singer Peter Noone. Still, the name Herman's Hermits rings a bell with any nostalgic music lover. Look for a spirited evening tonight at SAC's. Tickets are $1.50 for students, and $2.00 for others.

Get there early, as the pub has a limited seating capacity.

Please . . . Please let me hit this high note!

THE CINEMA CRITIC

by Rosmarie Comisso

For a small movie, Eyewitness packs a big surprise for audiences who are expecting mediocre entertainment. It has suspense and mystery, but most of all - it has tension.

Basically, Eyewitness is a simple whodunit picture: a man discovers a corpse, he reports it to the police and ends up becoming a suspect. "Through a twist of fate, he meets and falls in love with the girl of his dreams who just happens to be from the other side of the tracks and also believes he's guilty of the fatal crime.

What sets this film a cut above cheap imitations of this sort, is the believability of most of the characters in their respective roles. It is not so much due to the performances given by the cast, but rather, it is the ease of their interactions with each other.

For instance, Daryll Deever (William Hurt), was a marine in the Vietnam war but now is a janitor in a large office building. Daryll is obviously no stranger to life threatening situations, and yet, he is not so macho that he can't be sensitive and compassionate.

As Deever, Hurt (also of Altered States), could quite possibly become the next heartthrob of female filmgoers in the years to come, his large build and subtle sexiness look more than saleable in a movie mogul's market of people movers.

Unfortunately, Sigourney Weaver is no more convincing as TV reporter Antonia Sokolow, than she is as Deever's lover. While pleasing to the eye and a terrific clotheshorse, Weaver poses no immediate threat to top leading women of today.

Similarly, Christopher Plummer is also bad. He plays a Jewish diplomat who is engaged to Antonia but looks more like a zombie than an ambassador.

The two detectives conducting the murder investigation are the closest that Hollywood has ever come to capturing a detective's routine job. Played by Steven Hill (Mission Impossible) and Morgan Freeman, they are neither glamorous nor mundane.

The suspense some might feel watching this film might be attributed to the ease of their interactions with each other.

On the other hand, Eyewitness is a simple whodunit picture: a man discovers a corpse, he reports it to the police and ends up becoming a suspect. Don't look for any surprising or shocking twists of plot in this film.

At a recent screening of Eyewitness, judging from the small audience (Devonshire Cinema 3) it was there to see the supernatural happen. The movie is effective. Don't look for any 'who done it' black and white plot twist. The film is a simple whodunit picture.

THE LANCE KEEPS YOU INFORMED ABOUT THE CAMPUS

LET The Windsor Star KEEP YOU AWARE OF ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING ELSE IN YOUR WORLD

• LIFE STYLes • SPRiTS • THEATRE • FASHION • TRAVEL • CANADIAN NEWS

THE LANCE

March 14/81

Dick 'n' the Donuts

March 16 - 21/81

Sac's Pub presents

"Herman's Hermits"

Friday, March 13/81

Students $1.50

Guests $2.00

capacity limited

student ID & proof of age required

Pilot

March 14/81

Sac's

SAC'S
Nothing but disappointment at OUAA final

by Steve Rice

One could only feel a deep sense of disappointment, exiting the doors of St. Denis Hall at the conclusion of the OUAA basketball final last Saturday.

Disappointment, in part, because the old building has seen its last game and Windsor teams of the future have last that decided edge.

Disappointment, certainly, that the Lancers lost the game with York Yeomen 83-72.

But there was disappointment primarily because it was not a good game. And a good deal of the credit for that has to go to referees Ron Foxcroft and Fred Sisson.

Foxcroft is Canada's best, having officiated the 1976 Olympic final in Montreal, but on this night he looked like a rookie in his first game, Simon, on the other hand, shouldn't be allowed to work public school games. He was nothing short of horrendous.

Lancers downed 83-72

There's no argument that bad calls were made and missed against both teams, but one should never underestimate the influence of even a single call. If Windsor had been allowed to continue the game as they started it, who's to say things might not have turned out differently.

No matter the outcome, one thing is for sure. Without those officiating, the fans would have been treated to a much more exciting game.

Lancer coach Nick Grabowski agreed that "the officials took some momentum away from us at times," while his counterpart, Bob Bain of York, confirmed that a couple of calls were "not fair".

"There were a few calls that could have gone either way," Bain said. "Korosec's fifth probably wasn't a foul, but then maybe he might have fouled out earlier when he was pushing underneath the offensive boards. Molyneux. We wanted to play zone for most of the game, with one Lancer covering high-scoring all-Canadian Courtland. The strategy proved effective as the Tillsonburg native was held to just six points in the first half, 22 points overall. But as Bain pointed out, it also hurt the Lancers.

"Windsor's defense helped them in some ways and hurt them in others," Bain said. "They stepped one player, but Jones finished the game with 17 points.

Korosec second basket came off a Brian Hogan-Phil Herman- nutze miss, while the third was the most damaging as Jones stole the ball from John Ritchie and sent him crashing to the floor in the process.

Ritchie sustained an injury to his left ankle in the fall and, although he returned to play, it was ineffective from that point. The injury will also probably keep Ritchie at less than 100 percent for the CIAU's.

Windsor's strategy was not unusual. They employed a box and one defense for most of the game, with one Lancer covering high-scoring all-Canadian Courtland. The strategy proved effective as the Tillsonburg native was held to just six points in the first half, 22 points overall. But as Bain pointed out, it also hurt the Lancers.

"Windsor's defense helped them in some ways and hurt them in others," Bain said. "They stepped one player, but Jones finished the game with 17 points.

Korosec second basket came off a Brian Hogan-Phil Herman-nute miss, while the third was the most damaging as Jones stole the ball from John Ritchie and sent him crashing to the floor in the process.

Ritchie sustained an injury to his left ankle in the fall and, although he returned to play, it was ineffective from that point. The injury will also probably keep Ritchie at less than 100 percent for the CIAU's.

Windsor's strategy was not unusual. They employed a box and one defense for most of the game, with one Lancer covering high-scoring all-Canadian Courtland. The strategy proved effective as the Tillsonburg native was held to just six points in the first half, 22 points overall. But as Bain pointed out, it also hurt the Lancers.

"Windsor's defense helped them in some ways and hurt them in others," Bain said. "They stepped one player, but Jones finished the game with 17 points.

Korosec second basket came off a Brian Hogan-Phil Herman-nute miss, while the third was the most damaging as Jones stole the ball from John Ritchie and sent him crashing to the floor in the process.

Ritchie sustained an injury to his left ankle in the fall and, although he returned to play, it was ineffective from that point. The injury will also probably keep Ritchie at less than 100 percent for the CIAU's.

Windsor's strategy was not unusual. They employed a box and one defense for most of the game, with one Lancer covering high-scoring all-Canadian Courtland. The strategy proved effective as the Tillsonburg native was held to just six points in the first half, 22 points overall. But as Bain pointed out, it also hurt the Lancers.

"Windsor's defense helped them in some ways and hurt them in others," Bain said. "They stepped one player, but Jones finished the game with 17 points.

Korosec second basket came off a Brian Hogan-Phil Herman-nute miss, while the third was the most damaging as Jones stole the ball from John Ritchie and sent him crashing to the floor in the process.

Ritchie sustained an injury to his left ankle in the fall and, although he returned to play, it was ineffective from that point. The injury will also probably keep Ritchie at less than 100 percent for the CIAU's.

Windsor's strategy was not unusual. They employed a box and one defense for most of the game, with one Lancer covering high-scoring all-Canadian Courtland. The strategy proved effective as the Tillsonburg native was held to just six points in the first half, 22 points overall. But as Bain pointed out, it also hurt the Lancers.

"Windsor's defense helped them in some ways and hurt them in others," Bain said. "They stepped one player, but Jones finished the game with 17 points.
Andy Buckstein started on the inside, ships last weekend at the University indoor track and field championships last weekend at the University of Toronto.

The gold medal was won by Andy Buckstein in the 800 metres with a time of 1:22.0. Buckstein started on the inside, but had the lead by the time the stagger was made up and held it for the rest of the race. Teammate Henry Eldracher was right behind him until the final 100 metres, but faded to seventh place in 1:23.2. "Faded" is perhaps the wrong word considering the 1.2 second difference in the times. "Henry ran a crackerjack race," head coach Dr. Michael Salter said.

Buckstein also won a bronze in the 300 metres, but said, "The gold in the 600 was really what I wanted. The 300 was just the icing on the cake."

The gold in the 600 metres was won by Andy Buckstein automatically qualifies to compete in that event at the CIAU championships in Saskatoon this weekend. Accompanying him will be George Henry in the 600 metres and Jenny Pace in the shot put. Although neither of those two won events at the Ontario meet, they had met the CIAU standard in previous competition and were invited to attend.

Buckstein set a new OWIAA record of 9:36.0 while Staudt was just over five seconds back in second place, setting a new Lancerette record by some 16 seconds and was a personal best by 15 seconds.

"It was just great to see Steve get a bronze in both the outdoor and the indoor championships, particularly in his last year," Dr. Salter said. "It seems ironic that Staudt, a long-distance specialist, should run the 400 metres in her final race for the University. "What a way to go out," she said. Winning the team's other two individual events were shot putters Jenny Pace with an 11.67 metre toss, and Steve Thachter with a personal best of 12.34 metres. It was the last university competition for both athletes.

As proof of the meet's success, two other shot putters competed for the University. Wyatt Clark finished seventh in the men's, throwing 11.35 metres, and Sandra Carson threw 9.39 metres in the women's event for 12th place. The only Windsor entries in the swimming events included Kim Dowling, who was eighth in the men's, throwing 12.34 metres.

VANIER VITTLES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sunday, March 16</th>
<th>Monday, March 17</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tomato Rice Soup</td>
<td>Fiddle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Creamed Chip Beef</td>
<td>Beef Chop Suey</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scalloped Ham &amp; Potato</td>
<td>Ham Steak</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corned Beef Soup</td>
<td>Lasagna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ground Beef &amp; Tomato Pie</td>
<td>Creamed Chipped Beef</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pie of the Day</td>
<td>Roast Chicken</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Soup of the Day</td>
<td>Beef Chop Suey</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sloppy Joe</td>
<td>Beef Chop Suey</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CONTINUED ON PAGE 15
Intramural playoffs to begin

This week's A division play saw the Screaming Eagles defeat the 69ers 5-2 and force a playoff to decide the final playoff berth. The same two teams will meet again in a sudden-death playoff. Ken Adams had four goals and four assists for the Eagles while Curtis Pope provided strong goaltending. The other game saw the Eagles complete a winless season by losing to the H.K. Blades.

In intramural hockey, the Chiefs won again to finish the season. The Chiefs finished with 28 points in the standings. They are the only team to finish with a perfect record. The coaches wish to thank these fine athletes for their time and efforts over the past several years.

B2 Division (White)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Clipped Playoff Spot

- Commerz 'A'
- Rockeers 'A'
- M.B.A.
- Humkin Hacks
- Puntiacs
- Mac Hall Stars
- C.S.A.B.
- H.K. Blades

B2 Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Clipped Playoff Spot

- Commerz 'A'
- Rockeers 'A'
- M.B.A.
- Humkin Hacks
- Puntiacs
- Mac Hall Stars
- C.S.A.B.
- H.K. Blades

Mens Basketball A Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mens Ball Hockey

Following are the updated standings on men's intramural ball hockey as of Thursday, March 5.

B1 Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lepineau, Whites and Bullets have established themselves as the class of the division. All three quality playoff teams.

CJAM Sports team in action

The CJAM Sports team will be in Waterloo to broadcast the games of the Windsor Lancers this weekend. CJAM wishes to thank Dougwell Ford for their generous contribution.

For more information, call the radio station at 531-1494.

Polo News

The season continues as The Floating Seamen outdistanced the short,'finned Rubber Duckies 16-9, while Davidson's Dolphins collected a forfeit over Fish and the Pins. Meanwhile the 69's survived without the help of Richard "Adolph" Bond who was believed to be at home plotting the conquest of the world.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 15

CJAM swim meet

In the diving, Petra Uhlig of Windsor placed as well as possible considering the five Olympic and national divers she competed against. Competing without her coach on the first day of competition, Uhlig plunged to 18th place in her favorite three metre event. On the second day, 20th on the one metre board was as high as the competition would allow her to place.

Lady pucksters

Regular season action in women's ice hockey began last Tuesday at Adie Knox Arena with the Ladies Basketball Team defeating the Law squad 6-3. In the other game, St. Clare College defeated the Tecumseh Ladies 5-1. Action continues Tuesday at 4 p.m. with Tecumseh meeting the Law squad and Basketball facing St. Clair at 5 p.m.

VOTEN MARGARET MOY FOR PRESIDENT

HONEST INNOVATIVE OBJECTIVE

HOⅢY THE BEST CHOICE FOR YOU.
THE ONLY CHOICE FOR SAC.

VOTE MARGARET MOY FOR PRESIDENT MARCH 18 & 19
HELP ME GET RID OF MY CLUTCH. I really want to get rid of all the following photographic equipment: 100 mm, 200 mm, 280 mm, Rollei 400 Flex Unit. Talk to Tim at The Lance office, second floor of the University Centre or call 333-4666 or Ext. 153 on campus.

TYPING: essays, projects, text papers, etc., on a per-time basis. Call 256-4847 between 9:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m.

SEND A SINGING LESBIAN to someone for St. Patrick's Day. Send someone a "Happy Birthday" wish. Tell someone they're a great kid. Send a telegram for all occasions. Call 252-9391 and ask for the "Singing Lady" service.

FOR SALE: Used refrigerator in working condition. $50.

WANTED TO BUY: Any size and style for car. Call 948-3644 after 5:30 p.m.

HELP

TO GET RID OF MY CLOTHES. I really want to get rid of all the following photographic equipment: 100 mm, 200 mm, 280 mm, Rollei 400 Flex Unit. Talk to Tim at The Lance office, second floor of the University Centre or call 333-4666 or Ext. 153 on campus.

TYPING: essays, projects, text papers, etc., on a per-time basis. Call 256-4847 between 9:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m.

SEND A SINGING LESBIAN to someone for St. Patrick's Day. Send someone a "Happy Birthday" wish. Tell someone they're a great kid. Send a telegram for all occasions. Call 252-9391 and ask for the "Singing Lady" service.

FOR SALE: Used refrigerator in working condition. $50.

WANTED TO BUY: Any size and style for car. Call 948-3644 after 5:30 p.m.

Student takeover at Trent

by Laurie Bergoin
with Ed McMahon and CUP

For the past nine days (as of this writing on Wednesday), a group of students composed of elected student council representatives and "concerned" others, calling themselves SGS (Save Our School) Trent, have occupied the executive offices of Trent University in Peterborough. They are protesting the imposition of differential fees for foreign students, and an increase in tuition, athletic and residence fees.

Jim English, the director of Information at Trent, said, "The university financial position is considerably difficult. Differential fees, had they been imposed earlier, would have made the deficit $250,000 less. The increase could not be put off any longer."

Paul Knight, a student representative on the Board of Governors, explained, "What we are protesting is not the actual decision to impose differential fees, and athletic, residence and tuition fees. What we are protesting is the way in which the decision was made."

There was a three-hour, open board meeting Friday, March 6, which more than 600 students (approximately one-third of Trent's student population) attended to air their concerns.

Please sir, I want some more

by Kishor Oza

Last fall, students showed their support for seeing their radio station, CJAM, go FM. Now that the station is pushing ahead with its FM licence application, station manager Grant Gelinas wants to start renovating it.

The board met afterwards in closed session and made the decision.

Paul Merriam, one of the students occupying the offices, said in a phone interview Wednesday the vote was made and posted in a half-hour and that there was "no or little discussion".

"The decision was made without any consideration of the discussion with the students," said Knight. "We consider this to be a gross miscarriage of the better to accepted democratic procedures of this university."

English said the board heard a pretty full argument for three hours time. After the initial vote, which was 10-8 for the increase, the student representatives left. The president of the university, Donald Threlfall made a motion to reconsider the vote and there was another hour of debate. The final vote was 10-7 for the increase.

The students, who began their occupation March 9 at approximately 10:30 a.m., say they will not leave until a significant number of their demands are met. Thirteen students began the occupation - two have left since (one to meet some "community obligations", the other after becoming ill). Merriam is hopeful: "I think we will be successful because we're not leaving until they (our demands) are met."

Of the Presidential candidates, Boyer polled 283 votes for 19.6% of the vote. Careline polled 198 for 12.7%, Hoy 266 for 18.4%, and Shaban 699 for 48.3%. The Vice-Presidential candidates tallied as follows: Booth 274 for 20.8%, Mill 463 for 33.7%, Pizzo 295 for 21.5%, and Stipic 343 for 24.9%.

New Student Senators (detailed vote totals next week) are: Science and Math Rep. - Lori Resler; Arts Rep. - Kevin Reid; Senate Student Services Committee - Wasif A. Khan and John Rizopoulos; I.aw Rep. - Robert Byrne; and, additionally, taking the vying.

The total renovation costs are expected to be in the neighbourhood of $100,000.

These physical changes include extending CJAM office space six feet into SAC's pub and, additionally, taking the vending machine area outside the pub.

This space, said Gelinas, is an absolute necessity. "The present area is much too small and the equipment is outdated, insufficient, and obsolete," he said.

The renovations will also consist of installing transmitters, a stereo generator, monitors, and more.

The problem is whether the Broadcast Committee of the Board of Governors will give CJAM the time it needs. Since the initial proposal of $100,000 was refused by the commerce, Gelinas has made revisions and has now asked for approximately $60,000.

The remaining $40,000 will, perhaps, have to be solicited by SEE "NEW EQUIPMENT" PAGE 2.

In this issue

SAC News and Opinion p. 3
Art and Poetry p. 10-11
Cineplex p. 14
It's All Over p. 20

SHABAN TO HEAD SAC

by E.P. Chant and Ed McMahon

With 73.08% of the vote in (11 of 12 polls), The Lance predicted at 8:45 last night that our next Student Administrative Council President and Vice-President will be Jim Shaban and John Mill, respectively.

Shaban, who has held the post of SAC Vice-President for the past two years, won a landslide decision, with 699 votes to his nearest opponent's 283 when The Lance went to press.

Shaban's Vice-President will be former LAN columnist John Mill, who was ahead with 463 votes to his nearest opponent's 141.

Innocent student looks aghast as an evil vacuum square (translating as a ballot box) sucks her fingers into its carnivorous demands.

Of the Presidential candidates, Boyer polled 283 votes for 19.6% of the vote. Careline polled 198 for 12.7%, Hoy 266 for 18.4%, and Shaban 699 for 48.3%. The Vice-Presidential candidates tallied as follows: Booth 274 for 20.8%, Mill 463 for 33.7%, Pizzo 295 for 21.5%, and Stipic 343 for 24.9%.

New Student Senators (detailed vote totals next week) are: Science and Math Rep. - Lori Resler; Arts Rep. - Kevin Reid; Senate Student Services Committee - Wasif A. Khan and John Rizopoulos; I.aw Rep. - Robert Byrne; and, additionally, taking the vying.

The total renovation costs are expected to be in the neighbourhood of $100,000.

These physical changes include extending CJAM office space six feet into SAC's pub and, additionally, taking the vending machine area outside the pub.

This space, said Gelinas, is an absolute necessity. "The present area is much too small and the equipment is outdated, insufficient, and obsolete," he said.

The renovations will also consist of installing transmitters, a stereo generator, monitors, and more.

The problem is whether the Broadcast Committee of the Board of Governors will give CJAM the time it needs. Since the initial proposal of $100,000 was refused by the commerce, Gelinas has made revisions and has now asked for approximately $60,000.

The remaining $40,000 will, perhaps, have to be solicited by SEE "NEW EQUIPMENT" PAGE 2.

In this issue

SAC News and Opinion p. 3
Art and Poetry p. 10-11
Cineplex p. 14
It's All Over p. 20

SHABAN TO HEAD SAC

by E.P. Chant and Ed McMahon

With 73.08% of the vote in (11 of 12 polls), The Lance predicted at 8:45 last night that our next Student Administrative Council President and Vice-President will be Jim Shaban and John Mill, respectively.

Shaban, who has held the post of SAC Vice-President for the past two years, won a landslide decision, with 699 votes to his nearest opponent's 283 when The Lance went to press.

Shaban's Vice-President will be former LAN columnist John Mill, who was ahead with 463 votes to his nearest opponent's 141.

Innocent student looks aghast as an evil vacuum square (translating as a ballot box) sucks her fingers into its carnivorous demands.

Of the Presidential candidates, Boyer polled 283 votes for 19.6% of the vote. Careline polled 198 for 12.7%, Hoy 266 for 18.4%, and Shaban 699 for 48.3%. The Vice-Presidential candidates tallied as follows: Booth 274 for 20.8%, Mill 463 for 33.7%, Pizzo 295 for 21.5%, and Stipic 343 for 24.9%.

New Student Senators (detailed vote totals next week) are: Science and Math Rep. - Lori Resler; Arts Rep. - Kevin Reid; Senate Student Services Committee - Wasif A. Khan and John Rizopoulos; I.aw Rep. - Robert Byrne; and, additionally, taking the vying.

The total renovation costs are expected to be in the neighbourhood of $100,000.

These physical changes include extending CJAM office space six feet into SAC's pub and, additionally, taking the vending machine area outside the pub.

This space, said Gelinas, is an absolute necessity. "The present area is much too small and the equipment is outdated, insufficient, and obsolete," he said.

The renovations will also consist of installing transmitters, a stereo generator, monitors, and more.

The problem is whether the Broadcast Committee of the Board of Governors will give CJAM the time it needs. Since the initial proposal of $100,000 was refused by the commerce, Gelinas has made revisions and has now asked for approximately $60,000.

The remaining $40,000 will, perhaps, have to be solicited by SEE "NEW EQUIPMENT" PAGE 2.
Opinion

Winter wishes are turning to summertime dreams

by Wendy Coomber

The Board of Governors is still waiting for a sign from God before it makes any move to open its meetings.

What is standing between it and the rest of the interested university community are words. The board is still waiting for some good old fashioned divine inspiration before it etches the words into stone.

Professor John Whiteside, secretary to the Board of Governors who will be wording the final by-law, met with the executive committee of the Board of Governors on March 17 to "identify a series of questions for the consideration of the executive."

The result of that meeting will be another executive meeting on March 30 for a further discussion of wording.

The executive meeting last Tuesday analysed the proposals that have already been made for inclusion in the by-law — proposals such as which topics should remain confidential to the board and who should and should not be allowed to sit in on the meetings. The arrangement of the questions were also mulled over.

After the next executive meeting, the entire board will meet the day after to look at the by-law. This does not mean it will pass it. If there are any objections to it or if the executive committee still hasn't found the right wording for it, the by-law will be reworded and submitted to the board once more at the next regular board meeting which will be probably after the summer break in April.

Perhaps the board is hoping we will all have forgotten about this silly notion of open board meetings by the time we return next September. Or perhaps it is delaying to see if it can open its meetings after everyone has left for the summer so that it can discuss tuition increases when no one is around.

Only the board (and "The Shadow") knows.

Don't hold your breath just get a good place in line

by Kishor Oza

If you have been waiting for your tax and education deduction forms — T2202s — to come to you in the mail, you can stop waiting.

As a result of administrative computer and processing difficulties, the forms which were supposed to be mailed to you in the first week of March were not made available for you to pick up in the University Centre this week. Those which were not picked up will be mailed out.

(Ed. Note: If you weren't aware of this, please don't blame us — no one in the Finance Office thought to call this newspaper we could pass the word on to you. We just found out about it, at a SAC meeting, of all places — last week after we had gone to press.)

According to Director of Finance John Elliott, "This is only a temporary practice to make for better and faster service, since we are already late."

He added there was no additional expense involved. "The cost to us is the same — either we mail them or pay students to hand them out."

FROM PAGE 1

New equipment

the Student Media Corporation (which operates CJAM and publishes The Lance) from community corporate donations. It may be difficult to raise money from this sector, however, because of the recent and heavy corporate donations to the new gym fund.

Reverend Canon Matthewman, chairman of the BoG Broadcast Committee, refused to make any comment on the proposal. He would not say how much the committee would be willing to give, nor would he say how he felt about the situation.

"This amount is the barest minimum," said Gelinas. "Our plan is to establish CJAM as an ongoing, high-quality radio station in terms of broadcast sound and organization. But to do this, we need good facilities and good equipment." He foresees an operating budget of $80,000 a year to provide this type of performance.

Gelinas thinks the FM conversion will be of great benefit to the university. He says it would develop good public relations between the university and the community.

"Here the opportunity arises for the university to inform the public of its vast resources and to maintain its presence within the community," Gelinas declared. "It would also act as a drawing card to bring broadcast students to the university, knowing they could get the professional, practical experience of the medium here."

Though it has not been authorized for the purpose, perhaps the $10,000 a month brought in by the pinball machines in the Centre, presently going to the administration's coffers, could be used towards CJAM's FM conversion costs, Gelinas suggested.

If the necessary money is raised quickly, Gelinas said renovations could start as early as this summer and CJAM-FM could be on the air next January.
Council rains lots of money on the deserving

by E.P. Chant

At its meeting on Thursday, March 12, a generous Students' Administrative Council (SAC) decided, with little debate, to spend $1,500 on two "outside" work assignments for the university administration. The $1,500 consists of $1,000 to transfer camera for The Lance, a $500 portable wine-and-cheese machine for the Special Event Services, and a $500 disbursement to set up the Arthur S. Goodwin Fund. The camera for The Lance is a large, graphic arts processing machine which will make the newspaper's printing operation more efficient. The $500 will be spent on a portable wine-and-cheese machine for the Special Event Services. The $500 for the Arthur S. Goodwin Fund is to be used for "outside" work assignments.

Opinion

Now that we have a SAC president in "transition", it is perhaps appropriate to evaluate the performance, some of the faults, and the potential of the incumbent, David Simmons. Fortunately, an incident took place at the recent council meeting which served, for me at least, to put his whole year in a nutshell. The incident occurred at the end of the "fireside-lounge" three-hour meeting, Simmons being invited to defend his position as chairman of the customary "departing president's position" at those points on the agenda which he felt deserved them. In an unprecedented move, Simmons levelled his charges at the council he heads.

The room tensed as he began "I have never been accused of being soft." The tension was not on council - for criticism in this vein. With some kind of a formula to establish a "graduating" position, and the asking of donations to go to cancer research. The financial problem is this: SAC gives the various faculties' student societies money to hold their own events and other spend on their members. This money comes from student fees which the university administration collects when tuition is paid. This money is then turned over to SAC to disburse, once the administration has figured out how many students are enrolled in each faculty and, hence, in each society. The problem is that the administration is slow. It has not yet determined the number of people enrolled in each faculty and, so, the societies have not received the full funding to which they are entitled.

The SAC committee is charged with examining the problems (possibly to come up with some kind of a formula to establish a "graduating" position) and contacting the administration with regard to the problem and any proposed solutions. The other committee, to be headed by member Randy Zada, is to come up with a method of obtaining student opinion on SAC functions. Such surveying would, supposedly, take place every few years, if not every year (possibly concurrent with professional evaluations by students). Other SAC news: A motion which would have SAC members censured or expelled for poor attendance at SAC meetings was postponed until it could be discussed by the council's Board of Directors. A motion which would have made SAC responsible for partner distribution on campus was roundly defeated. Although many members agreed there were too many posters in too many places, the final decision was that it was not SAC's job to control the situation except by means of the latter had passed poster by-laws last year.

Writing Development full

The Writing Development Centre, now that it has reached its capacity of sixty students.

Interested students requiring assistance will soon be put on a waiting list and accommodated when openings become available.

For further information, contact Mrs. Patricia Pare (tutor) in Room 12, Vanier Hall at 233-3231 or Ms. Kenneth F. Long, Dean of Students, at Ext. 334.

CHRIS M'MAHON is the Man for V.P. ACADEMIC of the Commerce Club Wishing to support YOUR concerns VOTE March 23 - 24
Dr. Stanley James Price

Professor’s death saddens university community

by Ed McMahon and John Rizopoulos

The university community was made a bit poorer this past weekend by the passing away of Dr. Stanley James Price, a professor with the university’s Chemistry Department. Dr. Price, who turned 50 last week, died of a heart attack last Friday, March 13.

Dr. Price received his BSc in 1953, and his MSc in 1955, both from the University of British Columbia. He then proceeded to the University of Edinburgh where he received his PhD in 1958.

From 1958 to 1959, he worked with the National Research Council of Canada and came to the University of Windsor in 1959 as an assistant professor. He became a full professor in 1968.

Recently, he had been involved in a program with local high schools which involved the testing of ditto machines for levels of methanol, which has been theoretically linked to some health problems.

According to his friends in the Chemistry and Engineering departments, Dr. Price had a remarkably good, warm relationship with his graduate students.

Dr. Price had been working with the air quality group at the University of Windsor as a specialist in gas sampling. The Air Quality Team is a part of the Industrial Research Team of the university.

According to Dr. A. Gnyp, head of the Chemical Engineering department at the university, Price was a specialist in gas chromatography, the identification of components in a gas sample by the scrutinizing of their spectral patterns. “He could interpret data like few other people could”, Gnyp said.

“He was so interested in the applications of Chemistry that he took several Chemical Engineering courses”, Gnyp went on.

“He was a true friend and is going to be missed not only for his expertise but also for his philosophy of life”, Gnyp said.

Another member of the team, Dr. C. St. Pierre, also spoke highly of Price. “He had developed a special expertise in analyzing gaseous components”, said St. Pierre. “He once worked an extra week and a half to identify a gas that other team members had given up on.”

St. Pierre said Price was "irreplaceable in his field."

The Lance joins the entire university community lamenting the death of Dr. Price, who, according to one secretary in the Chemistry department, “was a colleague, a friend, and a very friendly individual. And that’s something we shall all miss very much.”

"Pass the beans, pardner"

by Wendy Coomber

Friday the 13th was a lucky day for everyone involved in the last Special Student Services dinner... well, everyone, that is except the pig whose head ended up in the middle of the buffet table.

The theme was western, bundles of hay and saddles placed appropriately about Vanier cafeteria, with strutting cowboy minstrels fiddling around the tables before the meal. Luckily for everyone concerned, it didn’t smell like the ranch.

The pig’s head sat delicately in the midst of a flamboyant feast, tastefully decorated with two olives smashed into its eye sockets and an apple jammed into its mouth. Slices of ham gracefully surrounded it on a platter of penuche parsley. Stag outdid itself.

This “Evening at the Chuck Wagon” was the fourth in the line of special Student Services dinners. Ron Gleiser, Manager of Residence and Food Services, said the people they polled for these themes thought a western night would be nice. At least it gave Dave McMurphy, Director of Residence and Food Services, and Ken Long, Dean of Students, a chance to break in their new cowboy hats.

Gleiser noted that the turnout at last Friday’s supper was much better than the time before, the count tallying up to 1,500 greedy little fingers this time.

The manager said the reason for the suppers was that, “Last year we felt that a lot of kids were going off campus on Friday nights”, so Student Services thought it would be a good idea to create these special dinners at cost price. Students were bound to be eating a full course meal on Fridays anyway, so these dinners would give them that and allow time afterward to go out and do whatever they wanted to.
How to ride a bike and think at the same time

by Wendy Coomber

Scenario: Picture a poor tired student loaded down with books hurrying to school early in the morning on her bicycle. Without too much thought of the traffic, she cycles along a "through" street but notices a car stopped at a stop sign. She wonders, will he wait until I've gotten past?

The driver sits behind the wheel staring back at her for a couple of minutes but decides, as the bicycle comes within four feet of the stop sign, yes, he does have time to pull out before he will run into the bicycle. So he does. The cautious bicyclist averts a few broken limbs because she's run into this type of jerk so many times before she's ready for it.

Anyone who rides a bicycle knows what I am talking about. There seems to be an inborn hatred in many car drivers for anything on two wheels, motorcycles included. If it doesn't make a lot of noise, spew out blue smoke from behind, leave rubber tracks on the road, etcetera, it isn't worth a second thought to the motorist.

Now, I'm not anti-automobile ... I have a driver's licence and I enjoy driving a car once in a while when I can't use my bike. I am merely against all the stupid little molecule-minded morons who should not have a driver's licence in the first place, who cannot live knowing there is someone on a bicycle -- a clean, non-polluting, silent, health inducing, self-entertaining bicycle -- on the same road as they.

Some drivers actually find it funny, you know, to force bicyclists into potholes at the side of the road, cutting them off while they are turning on to another road, honking their horns and screaming at them while in the midst of traffic, opening the doors of their parked cars while the bicycle has no clearance for it. . . . the list it endless.

No doubt most of these people spend endless hours plotting and planning these tricky little manoeuvres so when they go cruising on Friday nights with the gang, or trucking on into the old firm on Monday afternoon with the boss, they will have something new with which to amuse and abuse their friends. How clever of them. How serenely humanistic.

So how do you, as a bicyclist, retaliate? You can throw your bike in front of the measly motormobile. but that would prove somewhat hard on the bike. You can throw thumbtacks in front of their tires or eggs on their windshield but they'd probably lose control of the car and run into you anyway. "Tis a conundrum, to be sure.

Well, give Chrysler's a year or two, along with the eradication of foreign car sales in this country, and add to that the rising price of gas and repair costs and automobiles might be a thing of the past before 1983. Then who will have the last laugh, eh? We can all live in hope.

Give me liberty to ride my bike anywhere because I'm certainly not taking death. And I'm not taking any abuse from cars anymore so move over the next time you see a little gold CCM or you just might have to deal with a crazed cyclist.

Warning: Health and Welfare Canada advises that danger to health increases with amount smoked -- avoid inhaling. Av. per cigarette: King Size: 11 mg "tar", 1.0 mg nicotine. Regular: 9 mg "tar", 0.9 mg nicotine.
The Benevolent University

This is the time of year when second- and third-year students seem to place pieces all at the same time. Money is at an all-time low, mid-terms and term papers fall due, and we all need the break we so desperately need at this time of the year.

How, to top it all off, the Registrars and Cashier's/Finance Offices have joined in a dastardly plot to further murder the very fragile academic lives of us all? This academic year is nothing but collective harassment, not to mention your T-2202, which is otherwise known as that form on which you claim your university tuition and other expenses for your income tax rebate.

Full-time students this year are granted up to nine hours some days to pick up their receipts in the Extension Student's Lounge at the University Centre. Part-time students must take time off from whatever else they are doing to try and get these receipts to the university within those hours to pick them up. Presumably, if they had the time and the inclination to travel to the university during the day on most days of the week, they would be full-time students. Their attitude, however, and although full-time students may have it rough, part-time students are getting it even rougher.

There also seem to be some discrepancies as to where receipts are being picked up. For example, the Centre, some are at the Cashier's Office. Nobody seems to know exactly whose fault these discrepancies are, and the one indication to the individual that is standing in line for up to half an hour that the registrar's office seems to know exactly who the registrar's office is the actual office is the March 31, by able behaviour of both the Registrar's and Cashier's Offices.

The system bums our ability to evaluate data and integrate it, a fact not lost on those who have worked with their hands in our wallets, to the detriment of both.

The system is getting the real shaft. Students rely on this information to make their decisions on what they will receive. Whether or not a professor chooses to take the evaluation can damage the reputation of the university, or students who want. After all, they pay for it.

Unethical? Not at all, under consumer theory, the registrar is uncertain as to how they stand.

As if that isn't enough, the Registrar's and Cashier's Offices both claim the situation costs them the same amount of money, and the university administration's line is "we're late already." We all need the money. How can they stand?

This inefficiency is really taxing us.

Are universities providing the cure?: Suzuki

From the University of Victoria Martlet

What's the difference between a hospital and a university?

One tries to cure illness, the other ignorance.

People want a cure, but is education the only one? What can universities do about the health of the individual and the world?

Suzuki feels universities should place more emphasis on processes, and economic manipulations.

example, the biologist who creates new life forms but doesn't want. After all, they pay for it.

The system bums our ability to evaluate data and integrate it, a fact not lost on those who have worked with their hands in our wallets, to the detriment of both.

The system is getting the real shaft. Students rely on this information to make their decisions on what they will receive. Whether or not a professor chooses to take the evaluation can damage the reputation of the university, or students who want. After all, they pay for it.

Unethical? Not at all, under consumer theory, the registrar is uncertain as to how they stand.

As if that isn't enough, the Registrar's and Cashier's Offices both claim the situation costs them the same amount of money, and the university administration's line is "we're late already." We all need the money. How can they stand?

This inefficiency is really taxing us.

Are universities providing the cure?: Suzuki

From the University of Victoria Martlet

What's the difference between a hospital and a university?

One tries to cure illness, the other ignorance.

People want a cure, but is education the only one? What can universities do about the health of the individual and the world?

Suzuki feels universities should place more emphasis on processes, and economic manipulations.

example, the biologist who creates new life forms but doesn't want. After all, they pay for it.

The system bums our ability to evaluate data and integrate it, a fact not lost on those who have worked with their hands in our wallets, to the detriment of both.

The system is getting the real shaft. Students rely on this information to make their decisions on what they will receive. Whether or not a professor chooses to take the evaluation can damage the reputation of the university, or students who want. After all, they pay for it.

Unethical? Not at all, under consumer theory, the registrar is uncertain as to how they stand.
Dear Editor:

I feel I must correct Rosemary A. Breschuk on a number of points the put forth in "Foreign Students" plight not appreciated (Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 23, March 13, 1981).

As a former member of the Canada Immigration Commission and a third-year law student who hopes to specialize in the immigration law field, I find her editorials incorrect, misleading, and liable to cause some foreign students to take a course of action not conducive to their well-being or the immigration authorities.

Correct knowledge leads to correct action, so let's correct Rosemary. First, a "visitor" on a "student authorization" is not liable for "immediate deportation" (Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 23). The chancer was most successful with 250 units of blood obtained. The clinic was most successful with 290 units of blood obtained.

The Social Democratic Art was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their efforts in promoting peace, particularly in connection with the territory of Namibia.

Laughter Hall won the best "student" with 2.74 percent of its members donating blood.

Special thanks are extended to Sherry Snyder, chief pancake frying, and Janet Whiter, assistant flippin'. Over 400 pancakes were enjoyed by donors and students.

I would like to express my appreciation to QAM for providing me with the use of their facilities and to The Lance for its advertising and coverage.

Laurie Armstrong, Public Relations Officer, Nursing Society, Chairperson - Blood Donor Clinic

Dear Editor:

A week ago today, our class lost a great friend.

Our very special classmate, Dr. Jim Price, passed away very suddenly last Friday, March 13, 1981.

Jim, a faculty member in the Department of Chemistry, a great and irrepressible contributor in the Department of Chemical Engineering, and a friendly classmate in Chem. Eng. 301 will be remembered by all of us.

Our most heartfelt sympathy go to his family, to the Department of Chemistry, and to his many friends at the University of Windsor.

John Rizopoulos, Wasif A. Khan, for Chemical Engineering, Class of 82.
Dean Ianni of Law spills everything to the press

by Peter Hrasto

Two weeks ago, Law Faculty Council approved the renewal of Dean Ron Ianni's tenure as Dean of the Faculty of Law. A graduate in Economics and Commerce from this university, Ianni went to receive his LL.B. from Osgoode Hall in 1961. He was subsequently called to the Ontario Bar in 1963.

A well-travelled scholar, Dean Ianni holds degrees and diplomas from the Italian universities of Perugia and Bologna, the University of Paris, and the London School of Economics.

The Lancet spoke with Dean Ianni about his decision to remain at the helm of Law Faculty administration, innovations in legal education and services, and some startling revelations about the state of the legal profession today.

Lance: You were planning a sabbatical abroad with a subsequent return to your role as a full professor. What made you change your mind?

Dean Ianni: In the initial stages, I had indicated to the president of the university that I was looking forward to a return to teaching and scholarship. I was anxious to get back to some research that had been delayed for a long period of time because of my involvement in administration.

However, after consulting with some of my colleagues and after taking a look at the progress we have made in the last four years, it was my view that perhaps it was best that we carry on from our position of strength and are important in terms of legal education in Canada.

Lance: You mentioned two other programs. Dean Ianni: Yes. Firstly, our teaching program had undergone an internal audit to evaluate our strengths and weaknesses for the central administration. One can't help but be encouraged by the kinds of progress that Windsor has made as a young faculty of law. In fact, it is the youngest of the six faculties in Ontario. One is impressed by the unique performance of the faculty in the special projects like Prepaid Legal Services, our Clinical Legal Program and our Access to Justice Yearbook.

Finally, we have made great inroads with our Community Legal Aid Program, the number of student projects where our students are involved such as the Justice Program last summer, the production of a number of video tapes as public information, and the co-operative program with the CRC called The Legal Factor.

All of these things give the Windsor Law Faculty a very high profile as being innovative and sensitive to the needs of the legal system. It gives our students an opportunity to see whether or not people have the kinds of information they need about the system for it to be truly available to them. It helps us examine whether or not we are fulfilling our role as the conscience of the profession, whether or not we are fulfilling our role as the analytical critic of the legal system as it operates in everyday life.

Lance: Were these programs and initiatives the result of group effort or are there some standouts in the crowd who have been the "prime movers" in a progressive response to fulfilling needs in the system of legal practice and education?

Dean Ianni: Now, let me make a disclaimer here. I wouldn't want anyone to think that these things have come about because I'm here or because I wouldn't be here. These things have come about because the faculty as a unit -- as a collegial body -- has decided in its wisdom to cooperate and mount these projects. Without the efforts of the entire faculty -- their publishing efforts as well as their close involvement with students -- we would not be where we are today.

Dean Ianni: The statements by the Treasurer of the Upper Canada Law Society were ill-advised and unnecessary.

In the first instance, he talks about there being too many lawyers. I would like to see a demographic study of the number of lawyers in the province and where they are located. Also, this study should be broken down to identify their areas of preferred practice. Only with such a study would we be able to give our students a near-accurate picture of where the opportunities are in the conventional areas of the profession.

Lance: Have you made any inroads in acquiring such a study?

Dean Ianni: We had asked the Upper Canada Law Society for such a study six years ago (in conjunction with the Ontario Law Deans) but we have been unsuccessful. I think we do have some statistics having to do with the number of lawyers, the kinds of law practiced, and the ratio of lawyers to citizens, and then, the statements made by the Upper Canada Law Society are ill-advised.

I realize that if you want to practice corporate commercial law within a half-mile radius of Queen and Bay streets in Toronto, firms are just not hiring. It should be made apparent that of the 13,000 lawyers in the province, nearly half of them are located in that half-mile radius. Students returning to Toronto are frustrated by the disproportionate number of lawyers so compacted in one area. Rather than allowing them to be frustrated, we would be able to give our students a near-accurate picture of where the opportunities are so that they might take advantage of them.

Lance: Isn't it true that both the Law Society and the Law School have input in the "numbers game" as you both have divided jurisdiction over the education of the law student?

Dean Ianni: Yes. The law schools have three years, approximately 90 weeks, to give students a theoretical and instructional background in the law in all of its aspects.

The second part of their education is given to the Law Society. They have complete control over the articling period.

If the Law Society was terribly concerned with what was happening in the profession, I suggest that they start looking at the articling period. It hasn't changed since the days in which I articled. There have been little or no changes which is given by the Law Society. Your articling experience is open to chance. Some students will get very good experiences while others will get very poor articles.

Lance: How valuable is the Bar Admissions course? Dean Ianni: The Bar Admissions course is a valuable course. But not as valuable as it has been changed over the years. A number of suggestions have been made, among them that students are made to write their examinations at their leisure within a given time period. This is a positive, progressive suggestion but the Law Society has chosen to do nothing.

You must appreciate the fact that it is the Law Society that accredits people to be barristers, solicitors and notaries public in this province. Therefore, it seems strange to have the Treasurer of the Upper Canada Law Society make allegations that there are too many lawyers when it is his institution that is specifically given the jurisdiction to make sure people are allowed to practice the practice of law. So, in effect, what he has been services not being provided.

InterVIEW WITH IANNI CONTINUED

Lance: You see any closer involvement for yourself with the Upper Canada Law Society in the near future?

Ianni: As the Committee of Law Deans, we have nothing but a barren void. Unfortunately, we do not have any direct input in the decisions of the Law Society. There is no representation of the Ontario Universities' Faculty Association by the Law Society, unlike other jurisdictions in Canada such as Alberta and British Columbia.

We have all been told that the Ontario Law Deans lesson some of the friction that appears to be developing.

Ianni: To me, it is important that the Law Society consider our input because it seems strange for us to read statements in the press about the status of the Law Schools without any prior discussions with us. We have made a number of offers to the Law Society, asking them to support a closer liaison. We are prepared to meet with them on almost every occasion if this perceived jurisdiction between the society and the law schools is to work for the greater benefit of the students and the general public, then a closer liaison will have to be established.

Lance: How are traditional views of legal education being changed by the new demands that society has placed on the justice system?

Ianni: It is changing to varying degrees. The whole optional curriculum is established in order to give students a chance to work in other areas of the law. I am not sure everyone will work with NativeCanadians or worry about Arctic waters pollution or civil liberties. But the optional program is there to allow students and future lawyers the opportunities to design a flexible curriculum.

Lance: Before the 1950's, the study of law remained outside the university framework in this country. How significant is it to have a professional school as part of the overall university system?

Ianni: I don't want to make self-serving statements, but I see the Law Faculty as having a crucial and pivotal role in the institution. Given the need for lawyers to explore the alternative areas of serving the public we find that a more flexible system than the present one is necessary because the legal profession is changing. I hope more of our students will be given the opportunity to work out these joint programs much to the satisfaction of the Law Society. There is no representation of the Law Society on the Law Faculties, but if these faculties were more self-sufficient state's baggages that will be very easy to carry for the rest of their lives.

The people who will be best prepared to meet the demands of the changing society are those who are able to appreciate other cultures, other civilizations, other legal systems. The broader their background is, the more acute their powers of observation and analysis. Thus, they are more likely to make a more meaningful contribution to society. And that's the name of the game.

We hope that we will guide students to make meaningful contributions to the Canadian legal process and, if we can do this, the effort made primarily by my colleagues in the faculty in getting about what we consider to be a young and ambitious faculty will be all the more worthwhile.

Less beer money

by Wendy Coumber

The numbers coming out of Ottawa these days are that the federal government wants to cut $1.5 billion out of the Established Program Funding. This is a direct contribution of money given by the federal government to the provinces for their funding of hospitals, mental care, and post-secondary education.

Officially called the Established Program Funding Act, it was set up in 1976 to cover a five year period. That period ends next year and the government is making plans now for negotiations with the provinces.

A report sent to this university's Faculty Association by the Canadian Association of University Teachers (CAUT) reads in part: "The civil servants have presented a proposal for the ministers indicating that the goal to be achieved is cutting of 19 percent by slightly more than $1 billion without any new transfers to the provinces to compensate for the cuts. They have then indicated to them a number of options that could be followed in order to achieve this goal. However, the options are somewhat illusory partly because Man. Begin has already told the provincial health ministers that Medicare and hospital insurance will not be significantly cut and because there is a proposal favored by the civil servants which focused on universities."

If this cutback goes into effect next year, it will mean government funding to universities in Ontario will drop by 32 percent, but Johanna Foster, President of the Faculty Association calls that a conservative estimate. Thirty-two percent is equitable at $18 to $20 million cut from the University of Windsor's budget. According to the Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations, this will probably be the standard cut right across the board for all Ontario universities.

Dr. Mervyn Franklin said the presidents of Canadian universities met last November to discuss this, the result being that they submitted a letter to the Prime Minister asking him to reconsider. Foster said there had been many people lobbying government against these cutbacks but also hoping this would cause the government to change course. Some of the cutback's burden would then be placed on the other beneficiaries of the Established Program Funds (medical care and hospital costs).

Franklin said it was too early to make any estimate of how much they will cut out of the program, but if there was a significant cut in federal funds with nothing coming in from the provinces, we would be in serious trouble. He added that we can be "candidly optimistic that the government will reconsider."

Milan Stipic, SAC External Affairs Commissioner, foresees bargaining in this crucial area if the province finally instituted system rationalization. This would mean our special programs would have to have a certain percentage of enrollment to stay alive and, according to Stipic, they do not. The rescind-ing of federal funds might only speed up this program on the provincial government to save having to fill in the financial gap left by the federal government.

Lance: That's basically it. We were able to work out these joint programs much to the satisfaction of the students and faculties. So far, we have the LL.B./ M.B.A. program and the Law and Economics program. We hope to institute the Law and Social Work Program.

People who don't have legal training learn how the legal system works, while lawyers will gain an appreciation of how other disciplines operate and incorporate these other professional individuals in their advice to clients. And the quality of legal services will be so much better for it. And there's no better way of starting out than in the university context.

Law is an important academic discipline. It is also an applied social science. And the interdisciplinary programs play an important role in the heart of the university curriculum.

Lance: This all seems so important to you. But do you ever desire to get back to the scholarly life you love so much?

Ianni: Together with my wife, Mina, I look forward to spending some time in Europe in a sabbatical year in the near future.

Education is a very interesting thing. On the surface, it provides one with personal and professional inquiry. Often in Canada, we tend to feel a little bit stingy, a little self-sufficient. The common law system is only one in a number of systems of law. I have never ceased to be amazed that my appreciation of the common law seems to be more intense when one studies other systems of law and sees how other people operate. I hope that more of our students will be given the opportunity to do what I did because it is a broadening experience. It's baggage that will be very easy to carry for the rest of their lives.

The people who will be best prepared to meet the demands of the changing society are those who are able to appreciate other cultures, other civilizations, other legal systems. The broader their background is, the more acute their powers of observation and analysis. Thus, they are more likely to make a more meaningful contribution to society. And that's the name of the game.

We hope that we will guide students to make meaningful contributions to the Canadian legal process and, if we can do this, the effort made primarily by my colleagues in the faculty in getting about what we consider to be a young and ambitious faculty will be all the more worthwhile.

Crack a pack of Colts along with the books.
Art faculty takes a mad stab at art

FACULTY EXHIBITION
UNIVERSITY CENTRE
JOSEPH DEANGELIS SABBATICAL EXHIBIT
LEBEL GALLERY
MARCH 9 - MARCH 26

Photos by Anne Rappe

SMALL CONSOLATION

The bulbs in the ground
In the act of becoming
In the frozen ground, yet about to bloom.

Cheer up!
In the garden, the table's set.
Let us drink this summer talk of crocus.
Let us wait for them to bloom.

"I can't wait for spring!"
Do you wish it were now?
The bulbs underground are at work
Feeling neither cold nor snow;
Roots twisted, stems will grow
Shoot up eventually, surface,
Small buds closed, tight waiting.

Cheer up!
The time is near
While we sit, they will bloom.
They will bloom.

But haven't you noticed?
The tulips, when opened,
Squeezed with long arms,
A hush in the spring.

Like steel needles opened, exposing the pearl
Like unbridled fiery, oh burning, mad summer.
They are most wonderful when opened these flowers.

Their dream is the seams of all their existence.
For too much sun dries up too much rain withers.

A brief, beautiful bloom
Look quick, or you miss it.
This time and place we'll never find again.

Cheer up!
The bulbs are frozen still.

---

SONG SPARROW

A song sparrow died
By the river's edge.

The grass is long for a time,
That next spring the new Laid to rest in this lovely scene

---

The Berry-Bucklers (for Linda)

There are a few of them that grow on the wall. Voila! It took to rise from the ground, clandestinely showing stems that were greenish with thin, dry, spindly branches, and rock-black buds.

No one else would tend to them, they all tried to uproot it. But the branches held together, sneaking branches of rasp, and spinning into green and brown, and then twisting, and feeling like in motion as the spring came in the wind.

I will see you, through open eyes, hiding derelaxing and relative.

---

Tony Godley

Oh, how my heart needs a hundred
Weary hands to rest in its spot.
No obloquy of me —
No blackening of me —
No proud face, no answer receiving the results of the hard work of But one seasoned in such with the man with flowers, who changed so kind whose fingerprints are so dirty that even those small scolding can't rival those of ever-present need of love.

---

Rose Collard

---

Photo by Anne Rappé
Hair Today, Gone Tomorrow

They arrived tired, un-made and fresh from a long weekend in Waterloo, and left looking like the new spring collection for '81.

This was the scene at Command Performance this past Sunday afternoon. The seven University of Windsor cheerleaders, their choreographer and co-ordinator, had their hair hanging and were more than ready for their new coiffures and a little facial art.

The Command Performance shop is a modern and spacious room, and is perhaps indicative of the professional and efficient work done there. The first step for the women was to decide on a style and put limitations on the amount of hair they would lose. Once this was done, things got rolling. First the women were taken to the back for a brisk shampoo, and then back to the styles of the 1940's, with back-combing and the bouffante hairdo making a return, along with the use of rollers and hair spray. Woman will once again find themselves in need of a weekly trip to the hairdresser. None of the styles can really be achieved at home, but the cuts are neat and very enough to be worn in several ways.

The stylists started by trimming the hair to get a basic overall shape, and then worked from there on each individual. The cuts ranged in length from the short layered design Mary chose, to the trim they gave Fanny:

Mary's hair was layered, and cut short on top and longer in the front and back to give the illusion of length. It was a well-shaped look, and would be easy to care for. Asked her opinion of it, she said, "Anything would be better than before". Fanny's hair was only trimmed and then styled with a small twist on the side of the head. After this, they used a crimping iron to give her hair a temporary ripple effect.

A little face colour was used - not as a blush, but rather to show the natural, but hidden skin colours. This was brushed on to the chin and neck, along with the cheeks. A light coating of dusting powder took the shine away from the right areas and left a glow around the rest of the face. Izabella looked at the eyebrows, the explained "A brow is like a frame around a picture. If you have the wrong brow it ruins the entire picture". She suggested that a good natural brow line should be brushed and left alone. After this, the extra colour by way of eye shadow, eyeliner and mascara was used to shape and contour the eyes. The lipstick was the finishing touch.

The make-up she applied was for day-time wear and she said might called for make-up to be a "little heavier and a little shinier." She did an excellent job on each woman, matching the make-up to the mood created by the hair style, probing different looks. From the sophisticated, rather "wicked" look of Shavelle, to the elegant appearance of Mary, and the perky sexy countenance of Tish.

Although all of the women admitted to being "sightly nervous" at the beginning of the day, they all seemed to be pleased with the results. The next step was the make-over, and Izabella Lunczki of The Beauty Spot explained the steps of the make-up application, as she expertly applied the tools of her trade to each woman. She

The afternoon was long, but the effects were pleasing and congratulations are due to the hard-work of the hairstylists, Izabella Lunczki,make-up coordinators, and the seven University of Windsor cheerleaders, Denise, Dave, Gina, Donna, Debbie and Angie, and to the work of Izabella.
Return to the fifties: Brylcream and donuts

by Peter Haggert

Remember high school life in the fifties? I don’t — I wasn’t even born yet. Nevertheless, Dick ’n The Donuts try to recreate the scene of those tacky “Patti Page Collection” albums. Take a good look at the band and you’ll realize that these guys really lived through it. All but one.

Although the Donuts give a delicious impression of songs such as Roy Orbison’s “Pretty Woman” and the Turtles’ “Happy Together,” the icing melts when they get to the “Peppermint Twist” and their numerous Beatle numbers. Their version of “I Wanna Hold Your Hand” however, was (solely) satisfying.

Monday night the band put up with many funny but unwarranted taunts. As the evening wore on, the small crowd got into the performance. As Dick stipulated, not all requests were possible. “There are 9,482 old songs — give us a break!”

Occasionally the Donuts would break into a number such as “My Sharona” but modern rock provided only a sprinkling of music amid their long sets.

The Donuts’ gimmicks may yet pay off. They certainly must be the only band with edible bass drums and speakers covered in those horrified little coloured silvers that a sensible person would probably pick off their donut. As an added attraction, Dick has promised a myriad of strange curios for their weekend shows.

Dick ’n The Donuts provide an interesting encounter of the edible kind. Personally, I find donuts and beer don’t mix. But for all you fifties lovers this may be your chance to relive those days over one-and-a-half baker’s dozen rears ago.

Sally Field plays Amy Post, a matowyong street-walker whose career is intermittently interrupted by a former “john” of hers, Elmor Pratt (Tommy Lee Jones).

When was the last time you went to the show and half the audience was filled with people who were the same age as your mom and dad? Inconceivable as it may seem, Back Roads is attracting the 40 and over crowd in increasing numbers.

The movie’s appeal may be attributed to its resemblance to movies which were made “way back when.” Back Roads maintains a delightful “romantic comedy” formula.

Sally Field plays Amy Post, a matowyong street-walker whose career is intermittently interrupted by a former “john” of hers, Elmor Pratt (Tommy Lee Jones).

The movie may appeal to its resemblance to movies which were made “way back when.” Back Roads maintains a delightful “romantic comedy” formula.
Cinema complex comes to Windsor

by Bill Buchanan

A 12-theatre Cineplex is scheduled to open in Windsor in the fall of 1981, located on a lot next to the Windsor Star on Chatham Street West.

The Lance contacted the developer of the million-dollar project, R. C. Proof Co. Ltd., and spoke to representative Tom Flood. Flood provided The Lance with information about the Cineplex, whose head office is currently in Toronto.

According to the Cineplex Corporation, the Cineplex concept echoes, on a smaller scale, the successful main theatre concept of the original 18-theatre Cineplex located in the Toronto Eaton Centre. The twelve cinemas will accommodate approximately 1,000 seats (15,000 seats per theatre) with films playing continuously throughout the day.

Best in film

Windsor's first Cineplex will feature the best in English and foreign language films from around the globe, including cinema classics, art films, retrospectives, and, for young audiences, the highest calibre of children's films.

Cineplex Corporation claims that the Cineplex concept has come of age at a time when Canada is developing both artistically and culturally, it is a culturally difficult to display these films and still make a profit. With a Cineplex complex, the weekly operating costs per cinema have been reduced significantly to allow a greater variety of these "specialty" films to be shown for a longer duration to Canadian audiences.

American rights

American rights for foreign films are usually acquired if the U.S. distributor is satisfied that the film, upon its opening in New York City, (the most important urban market for such films and the centre from which the film there. Because of these costs, many fine motion pictures are never purchased and released in the U.S., and therefore, are unlikely to appear in Canada.

Cineplex, by dealing directly with the foreign producers or distributors, acquires Canadian rights to such films, and exhibits many films which otherwise would not be seen in this continent.

Cineplex was designed to meet the needs of special interest groups by providing motion picture exhibitions in the original languages from all corners of the world. Cineplex has developed a loyal and dedicated group of regular moviegoers in cities where it exists, who are able to see their selected film without lineups, without crowded auditoria, and with other people who share their appreciation for films. Cineplex is rapidly expanding across Canada, and into the United States. To date, Cineplexes are operating in Toronto (Eaton Centre and Richmond Hill), Kitchener, Burlington, Ottawa, and Pefferborough.

Expansion

Future Canadian expansion plans include: 3 in Toronto - on Camden Street (10 cinemas), Scarborough Town Centre (12 cinemas), Erin Mills (6 cinemas). (Other locations include Vancouver (11 cinemas), Calgary (7 cinemas), Edmonton/St. Albert (12 cinemas), Saskatoon (12 cinemas), Winnipeg (7 cinemas), London, Ont. (9 cinemas), Hamilton (12 cinemas), Montreal (9 cinemas), Thunder Bay (8 cinemas).

CINEMA FEST will feature Nudes at 7:00 p.m. and Slip shot at 9:00 p.m.

SAC announces mime and blues

Special Events Commissioner Mark Lucante has announced two events of notable interest to the student population.

Downchild pianist Vasey

The Mine Company Unlimited of Toronto will perform in the student centre March 26 at 12:15 p.m. There will be no charge for this unique special event. Under the direction of Ron East, this company has been performing their shows since 1975. The company also operates the only full-time professional mime school in Canada. A summer immersion program is also made available to those interested in Mime and Blues.

Through their Windsor performance, the company will display "Confederation," a kaleidoscopic view of the lives of four Canadian Prime Ministers. The show takes the audience from the signing of the British North America Act, under Sir John A. Macdonald, through the Laurier and King eras, and into the present, under Pierre Trudeau.

This historical presentation is made possible through assistance of the Touring Office of the Canada Council. The Company is currently touring Canada with their pre-Canada theme.

On April 3, The Downchild Blues Band will invade Ambassador Auditorium.

For ten years the rock 'n roll 'n rhythm 'n blues Alumni have toured Canadian festivals, taverns and benefits. One of their greatest accomplishments was their writing efforts on the Beach/Ackroyd Blues Brothers album.

Original member Don Walsh still tours with the band, but is now supported by six other musicians. Over the years, close to fifty different performers have passed through the ranks of the band.

Tickets for the 8:00 p.m. concert are available at the S.A.C. Box Office as well as the University Centre desk. Students pay $4.50, all others $5.50.

MAKE A NOTE

The University Centre will be the sight of this year's School of Visual Arts faculty exhibition. Joseph Deangelis will concurrently give a slide exhibit in the Lebel Gallery, March 9 -- March 26.

- March 26.
- Woody Allen's "Everything You Wanted to Know About Sex but were Afraid to Ask," 7:00 p.m. at the University Centre. Mr. Marry, best known for his book Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus, tells us about the opposite sex. Tickets for the 9:30 p.m. screening are $2.50.

- March 27.
- CINEFEST will feature Five Easy Pieces at 7:00 p.m. and All That Jazz at 9:30 p.m.

- Mr. R. Harris, CIAA President, will speak on "The Rule of the Accountant in the 80's." He will speak from 10:15 until 11:15 in Rm. 1101 of the Business Building. This is a presentation of the Honorary Accounting Society of Canada and the accounting area, Faculty of Business Administration.

- The Department of English will present a reading by Sid Marry at 4:00 p.m. in the Alumni Lounge of the University Centre. Mr. Marry, best known for his books Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus, will also be a poet and balladeer. Refreshments. Everyone is welcome.

- Iona College student supper at 5:30 p.m. A healthy meal for $2.00. Everyone is welcome to 208 Sunset Ave.

The Lance apologizes to Chalal House, The Nursing Society and Delta Chi, Cineplex and The Social Science Society for the incorrect placement of dates on their events last week.
Herman’s Hermits resurrect second

by Wendy Coomber

and Cindy Hartogs

Remember “Henry the Eighth”, “Sea Cruise” (whooee... whooo baby... J, “Dandy”, “I’m Into Something Good”?

Now, remember Herman’s Hermits?

Apparently quite a lot of people remembered them because the pub was quite packed last Friday night with people trying to regain their long lost childhood. These few hundred people were accomodated to a large scale version of Your Hit Parade. However, the group was minus their old singer, Peter Noone, who has since gone on to bigger and better things with The Tremblers.

Everyone knew what was going to happen... and everyone sat on the edge of their seats waiting for it. And waited.

Finally, to the triumphant cheers of Pomp and Circumstance, the foursome, slightly greying but still spry, bounced onto the stage “direct from England”, counted off their 26 hits of the 1960’s, and dove right into “I’m Into Something Good.”

What could we do but laugh and feel good? This was what we grew up on. We knew every single song they would sing. Still, we weren’t ready for their elitist point of view and their neanderthal attitude toward the women in the audience.

The first set was excellent. The group sang their old backlog of songs, the spirit of the ‘60’s with its naive lyrics and wild beat. The dance area was packed with the rest of the pub equally involved. The Tommy’s humour of Barry the Drummer’s “magic act” was put down to the off-beat humour of the British.

For “Mrs. Brown” (you’ve got a lovely daughter), they rather abruptly cleared the dance floor so the mob forced to stand near the bar could see the woman from the audience sing, dance, and accept the “manly” jokes of the singer like a good sport. “Henry the Eighth” had everyone back on the dance floor boogieing down furiously and screaming on cue with the band.

Unfortunately, the second set lost something. The break in between sets was an hour—quite a long time to wait for a crowd which had been so heated up during the first set. In a word, the audience cooled off. The band used a lot of other people’s material during this set... Rod Stewart, Beatles (“Back in the USSR” with an American flavour which made no sense at all), Lynix Skyward, Bob Dylan, and their likes.

They also sang something they wrote last year called “Truck Stop Mama”, which sounded as bad as its title. “Hot Legs” sounded just like the real thing... they must have listened to the record over and over again to get it right.

Their second set ended promptly at 12:40 a.m., the band left immediately for their dressing rooms. The Hermits did not even deign to grace the stage with one little encore for the audience who clapped and cheered and thumped their tables long after the technician began unplugging the stage equipment. Still, I think it was grossly unfair of the pub crowd to direct their insults and gestures to the technician who was only doing his job.

Pub manager Jody Stanton said she thought the band probably felt that because of their status they did not have to come back for an encore. However, the night was, for the most part, quite enjoyable, and the pub should be commended for bringing in such quality entertainment. It was no one’s fault that The Hermits turned out to have such a poor regard for their audience.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 14

and their more homophonic style made them more easily comprehensible.

The final selections, “Five Traditional Songs” arranged by John Rutter, varied in style from a Celtic folk song to a lullabye. We were then treated to an encore by Stanford, a motet.

One important attribute of any vocal group is the ability to blend voices and sounds, and not have any one voice stronger than others. The Tudor Singers displayed beautifully their ability to do this throughout the program. This, together with their excellent articulation, beautiful expression and youth promise a rich, full and rewarding future for the choir.
Canadian boys make good on big city concert tour

by Lucia Zideb and James Kennedy

Last weekend Max Webster did more than their job of "warming up" crowds for the Rush concerts at Cobo Arena. On Saturday night with Cobo just over half full Max Webster hit the stage only mildly impressed the audience. Kim Mitchell, lead vocalist and guitarist of the band showed his displeasure with the Detroit music scene stating "Detroit is dictated by killer FM stations".

When Max Webster played on November 21, 1977 at Cobo Auditorium in Windsor, they were just another band trying to make a name for themselves. A crowd of only four hundred people were on hand. Max Webster has come a long way since then.

The band has recruited two new musicians, Mike Gingrich on bass guitar and vocals (a position formerly held by Dave Myles) and Steve McMeneny (an Australian former of Wirlden). These two really give the band a fuller, more dynamic sound.

Kim Mitchell along with Gary McCracken on drums and Terry Watkins on keyboards rounded out the band.

On Friday the 13th Max Webster hit the stage with "Check" from their latest Anthem release Universal Juveniles. Songs such as "Party", "Waterline", "Context of the Moon" and "Oh War" were interspersed through their 45 minute set, indeed not long enough for such a capable band.

Max Webster ended their performance with "Battlestar". According to Kim Mitchell when the song was being recorded for release... "fans were packed outdoors cutting their ears off, placing them in envelopes, and sliding them under the door to get a listen... garbage cans were ransacked for producer's notes and the cleaning staff were bribed for information."

When this song was played in concert a masked figure appeared at the microphone (see photo on left). Was the masked man Geddy Lee of Rush? It sure as hell sounded like him.

Overall, Max Webster gave an excellent performance. The band has grown over the years and soon they will be headlining the show. Until then, they will be faced with sets and restless unreceptive audiences.

Tudor Singers impress crowd

by Catherine M. Wilson and Enrie Robinson

This past week the City of Montreal brought to Windsor an extraordinarily gifted group of young people who shared their talents with a warm audience.

The Tudor Singers made their professional debut only four short years ago and have already achieved an international reputation for their superb artistry and outstanding performances. They fulfilled Saturday evening previous descriptions of being "tumously beautiful", "versatile and supply", "hauntingly evocative" and "exquisitely balanced". The group displayed accurate articulation and concise diction. Their voices blended beautifully, thus enabling the listener to clearly understand the lyrics.

Masses and motets by a variety of composers constituted the first half of the program. "A Kyrie, Gloria", "Sanctus" and "Agmes Dei" by da Victoria, Motet, and Byrd respectively were interpreted with motets by Palestrina, Nicholson, di Lasso, Perotin and Brumel.

In the second part of the program, the Tudor Singers had the opportunity to put more expression into the secular music. Short madrigals by Weelkes, Morley, Monteverdi and Vastore were full of cheer and happiness. Staggered entrances by the various voices made the story lines rather difficult to follow, but that is quite typical of madrigals. "Songs of Nature" by Anton Dvorak were sung in German.
Deception is an Art by Peter Hagger

After last year's successful single, "Take A Little Rhymeb," people started to expect big things from this Scottish born musician. His new album, Deception is an Art may not live up to those expectations.

There's no denying that Ali Thomson's music is interesting to the MOR listener. The hint of jazz, and the concise but simple lyrics lead his music to be a little different from regular radio redundancies.

Tunes such as "Safe and Warm" and "Don't Hold Back" have good examples of these features, however, put together with the other eight songs, each one borders on monotony.

"Foolish Child" employs the same tactics, but with a more forceful approach. Shades of Steely Dan are found in this tune.

With only one vocalism on the album, it is hard to differentiate between songs. Thomson seems to rely on this, and tries to compensate, with each song aided by the appeal of either a saxophone bridge or simply a bridge of silence, most of his songs feature some sort of tempo change in midstream.

Rhythm plays an important part in Thomson's music. "A Simple Song" which seems to be the continuing saga of his first big hit is built along the same musical lines also.

Perhaps the shortest and simplest of all his material is "Secrets Hiding Inside". This song is unique to the album as the overdubbing piano solo carries the tune.

The final song, "Someone in Motion" seems to be an exposition of all his technique, slightly longer and slightly holder.

"The One and Only", although not dissimilar to the others, may be the only bona fide contender for a spot on the airwaves. Although "A Simple Song" is probably ticketed to be a single, this song should also rate high with the listeners.

Perhaps the one thing lacking on this album is a song which sticks out in one's mind. There are no overly redundant choruses or long mysterious pieces of technique to sit back and listen to.

It's really hard to say that

The Damned:

The Black Album

by Lorenzo Bej

Had you told Rat Scabies back in 1977 that the Damned's 1980 Black Album would be a total cliche, the man with the

I.R.S. Greatest Hits

Vols. 283

by Wendy Cowan

It's hard to say more about this record than it's a pretty good, albeit strange, cross section of pre-natal punk. I'll try to describe it the best I can but don't get angry if I become confusing.

The two record album contains 26 totally different songs although they are all rather uniquely tied together. You see, Henry Badowski is on the album, but not with his old group Alternative TV, who appear here with Kim Turner, who has since left the group to manage The Police's tours, who are also on the album in their post-Andy Summers period, although their drummer, Stewart Copeland lends his talents to Brian James who was once with The Damned, who are also on this record, while Jooh Holland use to be with Squeeze once upon a time but is off on his own now leaving John Cale to produce Squeeze's tunes, and also his own at the same time.

The album is unique in that you probably won't find a lot of these songs on the group's albums. Some are imports, some are different versions. The Police are caught here in their punk days (1978) from an album called Nothing Achieving Fall Out. It doesn't sound anything like Zenyatta Mondragon.

Other people and groups who show up are the Buzzcocks, Fashion, Tom Robinson, Shame, The Cramps, The Stranglers, The Humans, and Wazoo Natz.

Mostly the album stands out because of its punk antholgy. However, there are some outstanding songs as well.

Patrick D. Martin's "Computer Datta"

"You can abort your boyfriends now. Ticking boxes with your pen." As the little blurb on the record sleeve says... "Quadrant previously unexplored by conventional musicians." It speaks of Tom Robinson's selection, "Can't Keep Away" but it applies to almost everything on the album.

The Fleshtones' "Cold, Cold Shoes" is great for dancing and The Fall's "Reliable Jukebox" sounds promising but I still haven't figured out the words. But who needs words? I'd just like a name. Yes! We have here not one, but two mystery tunes by Klark Kent... "Thulls" and "Office Girls." The album sleeve says, "Police drummers Stewart Copeland know who Klark Kent is. Persuasive elements on these tunes provides a great clue." I'll say one thing, they sound darn familiar.
The replacement for St. Denis Hall is well underway. The floor should be poured within the next three weeks or so, as weather and suppliers permit. This week, installation of air conditioning equipment is the main priority. Watch The Lance for a photo feature next week.

California half-marathon

The race was won by Ian Newhouse of the University of Toronto, who set a new Canadian record of 1:17.52. He was also chosen as most outstanding male athlete of the meet.

The meet marked the conclusion of this year's indoor track season. Andy Buckstein, speaking on behalf of the rest of the team, wished to thank Dr. Salter for all his time and dedication. "He deserves a lot of credit," said Buckstein.

Staudt second in California half-marathon

Linda Staudt and Kathy Riccia both competed in a half-marathon last Sunday in Pasadena, California. Staudt placed second out of a field of 530 women in a time of 1:15:02. The winner, Kathy Mintie of UCLA, recorded the second fastest time ever for a woman over that distance, 1:13:19.8.

Kathy Riccia was in the top ten, running well after eight or nine miles when she and several other runners, one of whom helped design the route, went off the course when they missed some directional arrows.

After running several extra miles, they got back on the course at about the five mile mark but Riccia realized what had happened and did not finish the race. The organizers apparently realized that they had failed to provide adequate marshalling or signs at that point on the course because they awarded Riccia eleventh place.

Staudt, however, was still a bitter disappointment after all the training she had done for the event.

Sports Quiz

by Tom Viegandt

For these disheveled gridiron fans who have not enough of basketball, here's something to whet your appetite for a while.

1. Billy Sims was only the second Lion runner to go for 1,000 yards. Who was the first?
2. Who intercepted the pass that knocked Cleveland out of this year's playoff?
3. True or False: Dan Fouts has never played in a bowl game.
4. What is Chuck Foreman's real name?
5. What college has the most active cheerleaders in the NFL?
6. Who has more career yards rushing, Allen Greer or Charles Neal?
7. How many Seattle Seahawks have rushed for over 1,000 yards?
8. Where was Dick Vermeil's last coaching job?
9. Name the only ex-CFL player to win the Pro Bowl.
10. Who was the backup to Jim Plunkett in this year's Super Bowl?
11. Who has completed the most passes (cumulative) in Super Bowl history?
12. True or False: John Matuszak never played college football.
13. Who holds the NFL single-game rushing record?
14. True or False: Don Groff is the only kicker to be selected No. 17.
15. How many points were the St. Louis Cardinals favored by when they were upset by the New York Jets in Super Bowl III?
16. Who was the MVP in that game?
17. Who was the first NFL back to rush for 1,000 yards?

Sports Awards Banquet

March 31, 1981
Ambassador Auditorium
Tickets $8.00
Eagles take 3-on-3 title

Screaming Eagles captured the championship of high speed hockey with a 3-2 win over Huron Hall in the final game played last week.

The Eagles reached the final with a 4-1 overtime victory over the Bulls, while Huron outskated Cody Sucks 6-3 in their semi-final matchup.

This experimental version of hockey has proved to be very exciting and highly enjoyable for both participants and spectators. For this reason, the sport will probably become part of the regular intramural program.

The game is one which emphasizes the basic skills of skating, passing and shooting, and one that downplays the "goon tactics" which are so much a part of today's conventional game of hockey. Those involved with the program this year agreed that high speed, three-on-three hockey offered the opportunity to play the game as it should be played.

The convenors would like to thank Dr. Dutchie and Dr. Boucher for their cooperation in running the league, and Dave Garrison and Curtis Pope for their attendance and hard work.

Final Standings:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Division</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A Division</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yCommerce 'A'</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yRockets</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xHumkin Hawks</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xLaw 'A'</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>x69ers</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Screaming Eagles</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Western Exiles</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>0</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1 Division (Blue)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xTecumseh Chiefs</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xM.B.A.</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xCommerce 'B'</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>xMac Hall Stars</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-Arts</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humkin Hawks</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-Arts</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mac Hall Stars 5 Geography 3

There is exciting hockey action each night, but Tuesday and Friday, so come out and watch your favorite team play. The finals are set for Thu., March 26 with the B division championship at 9 p.m. and the A division final at 10 p.m.

At this time, the league would like to thank all those players whose teams did not make the playoffs for their excellent spirit and effort.

Brockman’s overtime goal puts 69ers in playoffs

Dan Brockman’s goal in the sudden-death overtime period enabled the 69ers to capture the final playoff spot in A division. The extra game was needed after the Eagles defeated the 69ers 2-1 earlier in the week, resulting in a tie for the final spot.

The 69ers will now face Eng. Soc. B in the quarter-finals while the other quarter-final pit Bulls against Law A.

MBA has advanced to the B Division semifinals along with the Tecumseh Chiefs by way of their 3-0 victory over a stubborn Racoon Lodge team. Paul McMullen had the winner in the second period. Meanwhile, the Tecumseh Chiefs won their game by forfeit when the Eng. Soc. B team failed to come up with sufficient players.

Week’s Results

Commerce 'A' 8 Law 'A' 1
M.B.A. 12 H.K. Blades 0
Law Renchers 1 Seamen 0
69ers 3 Screaming Eagles 2 (overtime)

Week’s Results

Commerce 'A' 8 Law 'A' 1
M.B.A. 12 H.K. Blades 0
Law Renchers 1 Seamen 0
69ers 3 Screaming Eagles 2 (overtime)

There is exciting hockey action each night, but Tuesday and Friday, so come out and watch your favorite team play. The finals are set for Thu., March 26 with the B division championship at 9 p.m. and the A division final at 10 p.m.

At this time, the league would like to thank all those players whose teams did not make the playoffs for their excellent spirit and effort.

Badminton tourney

Dust off the shuttlecocks, campus rec is running a badminton tournament from March 10 to April 3.

Competition will run from 5-7 p.m. on those dates in men’s and women’s singles, men’s and women’s doubles and mixed doubles. Enter at the campus rec office in St. Denis Hall before Fri., March 27.

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.

Standings to March 16

Mons 6-1
Tecumseh 5-2
Pub 4-2
Thunderbuns 5-4
Muskettes 0-6

Women’s basketball is down to the final week of play and there appears to be a close race in each division. Tecumseh and the Pub are battling it out in the A division. In their last meeting, Tecumseh came out on top 55-52.

In the B division, the two contenders, the Thunderbuns and the Morons, played an exciting game Monday night which ended with a two-point Moron victory in overtime.
Lancer Phil Hermansz (20) breezes in for an uncontested layup in the consolation final against York.

John Ritchie's aggressiveness and fine outside shooting added some much-needed fire to the Windsor attack in the first game with Victoria, but it wasn't enough.

The all-Canadians line up at the opening ceremonies. From left to right: Ted Upshaw (Acadia), Belaisch Degeselle (U of Winnipeg), Stan Korosec (Windsor), Veronig Gormley (St. FX), Tom Heslip (Guelph), Larry Hampton (Acadia), Jerry Abernathy (Brandon), David Coulthard (York) and Karl Tillman (U of Calgary). Missing is Mark Brodie of St. FX.

It's All Over

Larry Hampton of Acadia at 6'4" takes the title of nation's best dunker.

Windsor's Stan Korosec slips behind 6'10" Jerry Abernathy of Brandon Bobcats via Brooklyn, N.Y.

Referee signals first down as Lancer fullback Stan Korosec falls across the 20-yard line.
CIAU consolation final provides OUAA rematch

by Steve Rice

David Coulthard's thirteenth point of the game came on a 30-foot jumper with three seconds remaining and gave his York Yeomen a 76-74 win in the semi-final of the CIAU national basketball championship Saturday in Waterloo.

For the number-one-ranked Yeomen, though, there was little consolation after having lost to the fourth-ranked St. Francis Xavier X-Men in the first round 83-73. York then got past the host Waterloo team 89-85 to gain the final.

York gained the final after a 75-63 win over Concordia. St. Francis knocked off Brandon 69-81 and Windsor and York teams held more importance in second year of play.

National best

It was Coulthard's poor shooting in the first-round game (2 of 11 in the first half and 10 of 36 on the game) that put the Toronto team on the losing side for the third straight year, but in the final two games, the Tilsonburg native displayed the scoring prowess that has made him an all-Canadian in each of his four years of university. Earlier in the week, Coulthard became the first two-time winner of the Mike Moner Memorial award as the nation's best university basketball player. He also won the award in his second year of play.

"We can't blame David," said York coach Tony Buttrey. "When he's not shooting we depend on other players to pick up the slack and they didn't in the first half."

Bain agreed that while the win was nice to have, the controversy that York teams held more importance in his eyes.

"We're happy that we..." We're happy that we..."

National tournament results

Game 1
Victoria 82 Windsor 71
Concordia 88 Brandon 75

Box Scores
Victoria 82 Windsor 71
Lancer Scoring - Hemmings 2-6-17, Kenneth 4-3-14, Molyneux 7-4-28, 4-0-14, Kennedy 3-4-12, Total 71-36-108.
Box Scores - Windsor 71
Lancer Scoring - Bosier 2-0-4, Aarzonez 1-2-2, Doubleday 3-4-12, Total 6-4-10.

Box Scores
Victoria 82 Windsor 71
Lancer Scoring - Hennings 2-6-17, Kenneth 4-3-14, Molyneux 7-4-28, 4-0-14, Kennedy 3-4-12, Total 71-36-108.

Consolation semi-final
Bobcats out-classed 88-75

Brandon Bobcats, last year's runners-up and ranked number two in this year's tournament, proved to be the "no-class" team of the entire event. The Bobcats, under the direction of Jerry Hemmings from Tilsonburg, have seen some suspicions of passing money under the table to attract players, but even the best in the business of Jerry Abernathy, a "10"'er in Tilsonburg, New York.

Abernathy set the tone for the game making some of those players with a problem. Hemmings simply replied, "headache."

"We have lost to a very good basketball team," he added. "Windsor is tough. They play in the paint and they won't mind missing it up. I'm very proud of the players who had to play most of the game."

At the other end, Grabowski did not admit it openly, it was the sub-class "no-class" team that was a cause for concern from the bench. Hemmings was a cause for concern from the bench. Hemmings was a cause for concern from the bench.

"We only had one guard bring the ball up the floor and you need two to do that," coach Nick Grabowski commented after the game.

Although Grabowski did not admit it openly, it was the sub-class "no-class" team that was a cause for concern from the bench. Hemmings was a cause for concern from the bench.

"I think the reason they did so well was that they worked hard, and they got along together.

"And they went as far as any Lancer team has, except for 13 years ago," Grabowski added. "I am proud of the team, we achieved better success at a national tournament was the 1987 team, but we have the national title.

Windsor started off, slowly and in the first half before shooting found themselves on the short end of a 27-14 score after 10 minutes play. But in the second half the Yeomen showed up their defense and with a rally that included three straight from Molyneux closed the gap to just three, 35-32 with just under four and a half minutes left in the half. The gap was at halftime 43-36 York.

"Unfortunately in the first half we looked a lot like the team to get going," Grabowski said. "But we got some outstanding play on defense and that's what we needed."

Guards Phil Hermanutz with 23 and Brian Hogan with 12 scored for York. Windsor Molyneux added 10.

Ron Keenan was the only other player in double figures with 14.

Nothing much changed through the third quarter, but with Coulthard on the bench resting, the Lancers took up on the Yeomen. Jim Kennedy's bucket with 14 and a half minutes left past the Windsor team and set the stage for the first time in the game, 51-70.

The score was tied there after the Lancers snuck up on their opponents for a single point twice but in each case York got the advantage later only seconds.

"Windsor is tough. They play in the paint and they won't mind missing it up. I'm very proud of the players who had to play most of the game."

"Only one going in, emerged in fifth place after the second straight year with their consolation final victory over the Lancers. Brandon Bobcats finished seventh and the host Waterloo Warriors eighth.

The higher finish by the Lancers among the 1981-82 OUAA West winner of a somewhat easier first round game in next year's national final. The championship will meet the winner of the OUAA conference, which finished third, as represented by Concordia this year.

Windsor enjoyed one of its best second games against York but poor back up from the outside game and some mid-court threepoint-shooting from the team was enough to take the game, 88 to 75.

"We played badly in the second half," Grabowski said. "We couldn't get by their defense or our guards couldn't look over their defense. That's where we have trouble."

Lancers trailed 84-77 at the half with both teams shooting poorly, but when the halves were allowing more chances at the hoop. The Lancers were 20 of 54, York 20 of 55. The Yeomen, 33 of 68, while Windsor was 16 of 28 in the first half, finishing 29 of 60. Windsor was 13 of 20 from the line while Victoria went 16 of 20.

Victoria extended to the lead as much as 15 in the second half of the game. Windsor was 10 with four minutes left and looked like they might steal the game. At the half they were 84-68.

"Windsor is so scrappy," Grabowski said. "They kept bringing their defense down when they were down by 15. They played well. They played good. They didn't allow us to do some of the things that we wanted to do."
Molyneux, Buttrey depart as special season ends

by Rice

Another season ended. Hardly an apt epitaph for a season such as this. Sure, there was no national championship, not even an Ontario championship. But this season will surely go down as a "championship" season.

There was the thrilling last-second shot by Jim Molyneux that clinched the OUAA West. Molyneux is one of only two players who will not be back this year, the other being Brian Buttrey.

The Lancers will miss the strong rebounding of Molyneux, but fans will best remember the 6'6" forward for his powerful slam dunks. The self-proclaimed "break shooter" also had the ability to pull a game out when he got hot.

Buttrey, who only played one year of Lancer basketball after transferring from the University of Regina, was a hard-working forward who, despite a lack of size (6'5"), managed to hold his own against bigger players through sheer determination. And who will forget his string of six straight baskets in the Laurier playoff game that sealed the win?

This was a team of talent. Molyneux made second all-star team status in the west, while Phil Hermanutz and Stan Korosec picked up first team honors. Korosec was west MVP and OUAA co-MVP for the second straight year, but his greatest achievement came with his acclamation to the first all-Canadian team. That marks a breakthrough for Windsor teams who often go largely unnoticed on a national level.

This was also a team with character. It was readily apparent to those close to the team that there was a special sense of team spirit, a closeness between the players, and between the players and coaches, that had been lacking in previous years. It was a bond built on the realization that all were working together for a common goal.

Coach Nick Gaborowski, in his rookie season after 13 years as an assistant, is to be commended. He is an amiable character who deserves a great deal of credit for a job well done.

And assistant Vince Landry was there every step of the way. The fact that he was able to command players with whom he had played for five straight years displays the kind of respect and admiration his teammates have for him.

THESE PEOPLE DID NOT REST ON THEIR ACADEMIC LAURELS

A university or college education will definitely stand you in good stead. However if your plans include a career in management, then like the people at the left, you too should look at the benefits of the RIA designation in management accounting.

There is no doubt that the combination of an academic degree or diploma and a professional designation such as the RIA, is highly valued by employers throughout business, industry and government.

For many university and college graduates the RIA designation can be achieved within as little as two years of part time study. (Due to exemptions for courses already taken). For full details of the RIA Program, enrollment information etc. complete and mail the form below.

The season

Exhibition
Windsor 65 at Wayne State 66
Windsor 71 at U of Texas 77
Windsor 51 at Pan American 80
Windsor 72 at Rice U 83
Windsor 54 at CMU 91
Windsor 48 at U of Michigan 103
Windsor 72 at U of Detroit 94
Windsor 38 at Lincoln U 75
Windsor 72 at Iona College 80
Shaw Col. 75 at Windsor 83 (OT)

Regular Season
Guelph 82 at Windsor 90 (OT)
Windsor 81 at McMaster 83
Waterloo 75 at Windsor 85
Windsor 70 at Western 48
Laurier 68 at Windsor 99
Brock 73 at Windsor 110
Windsor 83 at Guelph 92
Windsor 97 at Brock 72
McMaster 88 at Windsor 107
Windsor 72 at Waterloo 61
Western 67 at Windsor 77
Windsor 109 at Laurier 79

Playoffs
Laurier 84 at Windsor 101
Windsor 95 vs. McMaster 72
Windsor 79 vs. Guelph 78
OUAA Final
York 83 at Windsor 72
National Final
Windsor 73 vs. Victoria 82
Windsor 88 vs. Brandon 75
Windsor 74 vs. York 76

League record: 10-2
Playoff record: 4-3
Season record: 15-14

The Society of Management Accountants of Ontario
134 Main Street East, P.O. Box 176, M.P.O.
Hamilton, Ontario L8N 3C3
Telephone: (416) 525-4100 Toronto: (416) 363-8191 Ottawa: (613) 238-8405
Please send more information on the RIA Study Program.

Name School Faculty
Address
City Province
Postal Code

The Society of Management Accountants of Ontario
TERRY FOX VIGIL

PROCEEDS TO THE CANADIAN CANCER SOCIETY

7:30 pm, MARCH 27
UNIVERSITY CENTRE

CANCER CAN BE BEATEN
HELP ME GET RID OF MY CUST-DER. I really want to get rid of the following photographic equipment:
Nikkor 100mm camera (body only),
Nikon telephoto 160 Flash Unit.
While at the Lance office, second floor of the University Centre, or call 252-4667 or Ext. 153 on camp.

CERTIFIED SMALL BRONZE MEDALLION
evening.

LOST - one small bronze medallion
evening.

M A R C H 2 0 , 1 9 8 1  Page Twenty-four

FOR SALE: 1975 Honda CB750F
SuperSport. Excellent condition.
No reasonable offer refused. Call after 5:00 p.m. weekdays, or on weekends, at 404 Huron.

T O W N E ONE-BEDROOM apartments
available May 1 to August 31.
Close to campus: Call 335-3963
and 1 AND A HALF BEDROOM apa r tm o n t h, plus utiliti es . Located at
1 - 733-4053 (Kingsville) after 6 p.m.
1313) 261-LSAT

FOR SALE: 1975 Honda CB750F
SuperSport. Excellent condition.
No reasonable offer refused. Call after 5:00 p.m. weekdays, or on weekends, at 404 Huron.

T O W N E ONE-BEDROOM apartments
available May 1 to August 31.
Close to campus: Call 335-3963
and 1 AND A HALF BEDROOM apa r t­
m o n t h, plus utiliti es . Located at
1 - 733-4053 (Kingsville) after 6 p.m.
1313) 261-LSAT

FOR SALE: 1975 Honda CB750F
SuperSport. Excellent condition.
No reasonable offer refused. Call after 5:00 p.m. weekdays, or on weekends, at 404 Huron.

T O W N EONE-BEDROOM apartments
available May 1 to August 31.
Close to campus: Call 335-3963
and 1 AND A HALF BEDROOM apa r t­
m o n t h, plus utiliti es . Located at
1 - 733-4053 (Kingsville) after 6 p.m.
Senate starts wheels rolling

by E. P. Chant

Two motions put forth by student representatives were overwhelmingly approved by the university Senate last Thursday (March 19). The first of these motions, moved by David Simmons and seconded by Eric Dixon, will establish an ad hoc Senate committee "to study methods of maintaining and improving academic excellence in both teaching and research (for example, periodic tenure review, awards for excellence in teaching and research, etc.)."

The other student motion, moved by Dixon and seconded by Simmons, will have the Senate "urge the Board of Governors to take into consideration, during its deliberations on tuition increases, the Senate's interest in maintaining and increasing accessibility to post-secondary education."

Dixon's address to the Senate on this motion is reprinted in full on page 4 of this issue.

The most controversial part of the "academic excellence" motion was the suggestion of "periodic tenure review" (changed from "post-tenure review") in an earlier wording of the motion.

Both Simmons and Dixon noted that, contrary to some faculty opinion, they were not trying to establish a procedure for firing tenured professors. "Never has a motion been so misinterpreted by so many," said Dixon of his original motion.

SEE "WE SHOULDN'T...", p. 2

Foreign students find special consideration here

by Robert Brown

A university committee examining foreign student enrollment has submitted a report to President Mervyn Franklin which may recommend quotas for visa students at Windsor. However, officials of the organization which represents foreign students on campus were not contacted by the committee -- or even informed of its existence.

The Task Force on Foreign Student Enrollment was established last spring by Franklin. It reviewed foreign student policy at other Canadian universities, our own foreign student enrollment (both grad and undergrad), and the services provided to these students. The committee recently drafted its recommendations, which have not been made public.

Windsor, at present, has no guidelines for determining how many visa students will be admitted to the university. Task force chairman George McMahon refused to say whether such a policy had been recommended, or if any kind of quota on foreign students would be introduced.

However, Mr. McMahon -- who is Assistant Vice-President of Student Services -- drew attention to the "very substantial" enrollment of visa students at Windsor. According to McMahon, they amount to 18 percent of the total student population of 5,681 enrolled in September. The ratio of graduate students is even higher, with 177 visa students making up some 40 percent of the total.

These students tend to enroll in a few departments and faculties, like Engineering and Business Administration, in comparison, many other universities have introduced stringent quotas. Last month Western decided to limit "qualified international students" to between four and eight percent of first year places. McMaster limited foreign students to five percent of first year enrollment in 1976. McMahon mentioned restrictions at the University of Alberta (five percent), Toronto's Faculty of Engineering (five percent), Regina ($500 of 4,000 students), and Queen's (only those supported by the federal government).

The number of Windsor's visa students has climbed in recent years. One reason given is the increase in those finishing Grade 13 here and applying for admission as Ontario high school students, rather than applying directly from their countries of origin.

McMahon stated that there are 40 private schools in Ontario with specifically foreign enrollment, including eight in the Toronto area alone. Enrolment province-wide has been increasing "because all these graduates from all these schools entered university."

Recommendations of the task force would apply not only to first year undergrads, but to graduate students as well. However, such a quota would probably not affect foreign students currently studying at the university. It would only be applicable to those entering the system.

McMahon cautioned that the task force report carried no weight by itself, but was only one of a number of recommendations to Franklin. "It will be up to the President to decide further action on the report," he said.

Although the task force made recommendations of vital interest to the foreign students on campus, it made no effort to communicate with those students. The International Students' Organization (ISO) is the official body representing international students enrolled at Windsor, yet neither its president nor secretary were contacted by the task force -- or even knew anything about it.

Secretary Gerri Marentette was not told of the task force officially or otherwise, although it had existed since spring 1980. President David Tasi found out about it at a recent meeting of the Students' Administrative Council, when he found the committee referred to in the Senate minutes.

This ignorance is even more surprising because Professor M. R. Hague, a task force member, has been International Student Advisor since September, 1980. When asked why he and other members of the task force never contacted the ISO, Professor Hague replied "the concerns of the task force are not directly related to the concerns of the ISO or any student organization -- they represent the present students. The task force was looking at the overall enrollment of visa students in our university, the service that should be provided to visa students, and the consequences of such heavy enrollment." Furthermore, "if you got the present students involved, they would get bored because it doesn't relate to what they are interested in."

This was not the feeling of President David Tasi. "I wish we were informed by that committee," he said. "If they discussed (the issue) with us, we could have given them some information."

Members of the Task Force were: McMahon; Hague; Prof. E. W. Ducharme of the English Department; Dean Conrad Gravenor of Science and Mathematics; Dean Cameron MacInnis of Engineering; Prof. Gordon Wood; Assistant Dean of Graduate Studies; Ken Long, Dean of Students; Joseph Saso, Director of Secondary School Liaison; and Prof. George Neil, Interim Dean of Business Administration.
Students lose Trent offices but gain a new voice

by Laurie Bergoline

The group of students calling themselves SOS (Save Our Trent) occupied offices at 10:35.

Students lose Trent offices but gain a new voice

The president of the university, Donald Theall, will transmit a message from the student senate.

In the process, the students realized some of the demands could not be met at all and others had to be dealt with in the normal, decision-making fashion.

Some of the items the students included in their demands are being considered. For example, the issue of the imposed differential fees and tuition increases before they were made public.

Some see this situation as a victory for the students. Jim Simmons, the SAC president, said the administration was not considering it at this time. Simmons, the SAC president, said the administration was not considering it at this time.

Donald Theall, director of information services, is the new president.

Students included in their demands are being considered. For example, the issue of the imposed differential fees and tuition increases before they were made public.

Donald Theall, director of information services, is the new president.

Donald Theall, director of information services, is the new president. According to English, the board of governors was considering a "trifle exaggerated. This (the final results of the student action) will depend very much on the decisions from the board and senate."

The president also considered the recommended modification to expand the Board of Governors. Four more people will be asked to sit on the board: another alumnus of the university, one more member of the faculty, one part-time student representative, and a further person to be chosen at large.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.

Simmons responded with a question. "Why, after all these checks, is our university so low in amount-of-professorial research statistics?" He asked Dixon if the ad hoc committee they were proposing could be used solely to develop new ideas to improve teaching, perhaps working in conjunction with the other committees which only occasionally deal with the matter of academic excellence.
New SAC pres and VP full of vim and vigour

by E.P. Chant

New SAC President Jim Shaban and his vice-president John Mill, sat on the official Lance couch this week, beaming at each other like newlyweds and discussing their elections last week and their plans for next year.

Both, needless to say, were ecstatic with their victories (see the final results on this page). Shaban was especially pleased to have won by such a large margin, saying it means he has strong support and a clear mandate to continue his election proposals. Mill, speaking about his election, said all the candidates for the position were excellent, but felt the backing he got from the residences was the key to his victory.

The most basic aim of the two chief executives of council for the coming year is to establish a "team" spirit and good working relationship amongst the members of their cabinet. That cabinet will be announced after The Lance has gone to press this week, but Shaban and Mill said they feel it is an excellent one which they are both looking forward to working with.

After the turmoil within this year's SAC executive in the fall, Shaban is planning to clearly define each cabinet member's area of responsibility within his "team" concept. This will be done informally to begin with, but may lead to detailed job descriptions for commissioner via revision of the SAC by-laws. Specific projects for the summer include contacting the administration about getting enrolment figures earlier this year (see story on this page), keeping an eye on any Board of Governors' move to increase tuition, producing a student handbook, and planning September's Orientation week. Of the last, Shaban said, "Making money on Orientation is not a priority, providing enjoyment for students is. Breaking even on it would be nice, though."

Next year, Shaban wants to specifically work to make sure students get as much use of the new gym as they have been promised (with several major concerns). He also wants to give SAC a "high, informative-to-students profile."

Mill, aside from helping Shaban achieve these goals, hopes to work next year towards getting student evaluations of professors published and widely distributed (this was the major plank in his campaign platform).

Both also want to improve existing SAC services and develop more -- services such as the drug plan, an essay typing service, and an income tax advice service.

Final tally is in

The Lance was in such a rush to get to press last Thursday night, it could only give you projected winners of last week's Students' Administrative Council elections (with 11 of 12 polls reporting).

We predicted all the winners perfectly, but we thought we'd bring you the final results, with all polls reporting, anyway. Here they are: (statistics denote winners)

President:
James Boyer -- 354
Frank Cartone -- 284
Margaret Hoy -- 337
Jim Shaban -- 884

VANIER VITLLES

Monday, March 30
Onion Soup
Cheddar Beef Sandwich
Macaroni & Cheese
Cream of Tomato
Shoestring Onion Rings
Sloppy Joe
Chicken Noodle Soup
Pork Fried Rice
Hot Turkey Sandwich
Split Pea Soup
Philadelphia Steaks Sandwich
Sausage Rolls
Vegetable Soup
Red Cheese & Chili
curry Lamb
Soup of the Day
Soup of the Day
Ravoli
Corned Beef & Cabbage
Baked Perch & Newburg Sauce
Roast Beef
Eggplant Parmesan
R.B. Ribz
Veal Parmesan
Bouleman Pork Chops
Lasagna
Top Sufloin Steak
Fish & Chips
Baked Ham
Beef Stroganoff & Meat Sauce
Peaches

FRANK VETERA'S

LIMITED TIME OFFER

ONE CENT

PIZZA SALE

What a deal! For a limited time only, you can buy a Deep Dish Pizza™ (including The Works™) for only one cent at Frank Vetere's.

What a meal! Buy a large, or medium, or small Deep Dish Pizza™ and you can get a second for no charge. Deep Dish Pizza™ one size smaller, with the same number of toppings, for only one cent.

This offer makes good cents!
Beware! Anger leads to activism

The following is a verbatim transcript of student representative Eric Dixon's address to Senate on March 11. Dixon was urging the Senate to solve its concerns about tuition increases to the Board of Governors.

As you are aware, I and many others are concerned about threatened increases in tuition by the university. I believe it is important that this Senate take a stand on tuition increases and urge the Board of Governors to take no actions that will decrease accessibility to post-secondary education.

In stating the above, I realize the difficult plight the University of Windsor faces, risking costs and a declining pool of 18 to 24 year olds to draw from, buildings need repair and equipment needs replacing.

The University of Windsor also faces a large deficit. The Ontario Council on University Affairs recommended a 12 percent increase so the system could remain stable, which was actually given was less than what was recommended. However, the increase of 10 percent (plus the formula fee increase of 10 percent) will still cover the rate of inflation without raising tuitions further.

While the students understand many of the difficulties the university faces, I think sometimes many at the university do not fully appreciate the difficulties a student faces. Post-secondary education is not free, and student assistance refuses to keep pace. In 1979, for example, the Ontario Student Assistance Plan was increased by four percent, but inflation was at nine percent and tuition rise 17.5 percent. It is true that OSAP is better than nothing, however, some would say just barely. While OSAP is under government jurisdiction, the university should be fully aware of the difficulties with the plan.

Then too, there is the ever-present financial difficulty of the foreign student. On this campus, foreign students make up 25 percent of the first year undergraduate class and 22 percent of the total student body as a whole. This is the largest percentage of foreign students of any Ontario university. As you will know, most of these students come from under-developed countries where there are little, if any facilities for post-secondary education. These students cannot work while in Canada nor are they eligible for OSAP. If the university were to lose these students by way of differential fees they must pay. These students cannot work while in Canada or are eligible for OSAP.

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted.
Dear Editor,

Mr. Hopkins' letter was an attack on the staff and to a certain extent, The Lance, for questioning the candidates about their various positions.

Mr. Staley wrote that he was contacted by a staff member of The Lance for the purpose of questioning the candidates about various issues but that The Lance did not publish any information regarding those issues, nor were there any candidates meeting. This is not true.

I have been contacted by Mr. Hopkins, by telephone, to find out if claims are true or not. I have always attempted to handle matters in the proper manner.

I am further grateful to Mr. Hopkins for being responsible for calling attention to this important topic for yet another student. And, as he says, correct knowledge leads to correct action.

As a full-time graduate student with turning assignments, seminars, papers, seminars and the like, at this time I have neither the time nor energy to actively check for myself the validity of all of Mr. Hopkins' statements, but I am interested enough in the subject to pursue his various suggestions, viz., to visit SLAS, Canada Immigration, etc.

I truly regret I missed last October's seminar. I wonder, too, if there will be a similar seminar held in January for the benefit of foreign students who have only recently arrived.

Finally, I accept Mr. Hopkins' invitation to give me more information on candidates. I am not so shrewd myself as to editorialize upon the candidates, if that is meant.

I wish to respond to Mr. Hopkins' letter for being responsible for calling attention to this important topic for yet another student. And, as he says, correct knowledge leads to correct action.

As a full-time graduate student with turning assignments, seminars, seminars and the like, at this time I have neither the time nor energy to actively check for myself the validity of Mr. Hopkins' statements, but I am interested enough in the subject to pursue his various suggestions, viz., to visit SLAS, Canada Immigration, etc.

I truly regret I missed last October's seminar. I wonder, too, if there will be a similar seminar held in January for the benefit of foreign students who have only recently arrived.

Finally, I accept Mr. Hopkins' invitation to give me more information on candidates. I am not so shrewd myself as to editorialize upon the candidates, if that is meant.

Robert A. Gribole

---

Mail Call

Reporter stands humbly corrected and repentant

Dear Editor,

Mr. Hopkins' letter was an attack on the staff and to a certain extent, The Lance, for questioning the candidates about various issues but that The Lance did not publish any information regarding those issues, nor were there any candidates meeting. This is not true.

I have been contacted by Mr. Hopkins, by telephone, to find out if claims are true or not. I have always attempted to handle matters in the proper manner.

I am further grateful to Mr. Hopkins for being responsible for calling attention to this important topic for yet another student. And, as he says, correct knowledge leads to correct action.

As a full-time graduate student with turning assignments, seminars, seminars and the like, at this time I have neither the time nor energy to actively check for myself the validity of Mr. Hopkins' statements, but I am interested enough in the subject to pursue his various suggestions, viz., to visit SLAS, Canada Immigration, etc.

I truly regret I missed last October's seminar. I wonder, too, if there will be a similar seminar held in January for the benefit of foreign students who have only recently arrived.

Finally, I accept Mr. Hopkins' invitation to give me more information on candidates. I am not so shrewd myself as to editorialize upon the candidates, if that is meant.

I wish to respond to Mr. Hopkins' letter for being responsible for calling attention to this important topic for yet another student. And, as he says, correct knowledge leads to correct action.

As a full-time graduate student with turning assignments, seminars, seminars and the like, at this time I have neither the time nor energy to actively check for myself the validity of Mr. Hopkins' statements, but I am interested enough in the subject to pursue his various suggestions, viz., to visit SLAS, Canada Immigration, etc.

I truly regret I missed last October's seminar. I wonder, too, if there will be a similar seminar held in January for the benefit of foreign students who have only recently arrived.

Finally, I accept Mr. Hopkins' invitation to give me more information on candidates. I am not so shrewd myself as to editorialize upon the candidates, if that is meant.

Robert A. Gribole

---

Mail Call

Bouncers have an iron grip

This letter was originally sent to Indy Stanton, Manager of SAC's pub, and subsequently to us for publication.

Dear Editor,

My friends and I went to SAC's pub on Thursday, March 19. Unfortunately, the evening was marred by an incident that should have occurred.

While sitting at a table amidst the usual commotion of pervading the bar to play encore, I was confronted by a bozo who told me in no uncertain terms to leave. Apparently, he was not pleased that I was not happy with my hand, not to come back.

I stood my ground for a short while trying to explain, but was eventually removed by force from the pub. To make matters worse, another bozo hit me repeatedly at the door because I asked for an explanation.

This episode indicates that certain members of SAC's bouncer staff have no concept of what is expected of them when dealing with the public. Management should make it known to SAC's bouncers that no one is to go and have fun without being subjected to needlessly harassing.

Robert A. Gribole

---

Mail Call

Things were different in those old good days

by Debbie Stanley

In the midst of a world of new technologies and new buildings, it's refreshing to meet Paul MacDonald, a 65-year-old member of the University of Windsor Alumni. His name is familiar to many students and alumni.

Mr. MacDonald talks of the changes to the school have made a difference, he says. "It's mind-boggling to think that the things we used to do, I wonder if the old track is still up." Back then, Father MacDonald replied, "I'm no longer with the university for my health.

At that time, there was less money that students pay now." Mr. MacDonald says he has not heard of the school ever since.

He even went so far as to deliberately antagonize me, even though I gave him no indication that I was looking for an explanation. Please excuse the language.

I stood my ground for a short while trying to explain, but was eventually removed by force from the pub. To make matters worse, another bozo hit me repeatedly at the door because I asked for an explanation.

This episode indicates that certain members of SAC's bouncer staff have no concept of what is expected of them when dealing with the public. Management should make it known to SAC's bouncers that no one is to go and have fun without being subjected to needlessly harassing.

Robert A. Gribole

---

Mail Call

A letter to the Editor should be limited to 500 words or less. They can be submitted to The Lance office directly or dropped off at The Lance's mailbox at the SAC office on the second floor of the University Centre during normal business hours. The Lance reserves the right to edit all letters for libel. Letters should be submitted by noon on Tuesday for publication that week. All letters must be signed and accompanied with the author's phone number and address.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 24, March 27, 1981, Page Five TITAN, Titan Elysium, 1980s57, Minos, 1980s57, Rhea, 1980s57, Dione, 1980s66, Hyperion, Enceladus, 1980s28, and Phoebe. Do these sound a little alien to you?

They should. They all rotate around a very odd but impressive planet called Saturn, which has for years been shrouded in mystery and space.

That was, however, until just recently when Jim Loudon, Staff Astronomer at the University of Michigan Fabick Observatory, presented an enlightening lecture on the latest news sent back to earth by NASA's Voyager 1 spacecraft. That planet and its growing number of moons.

Saturn was most known in the past for its spectacular rings and rare sightings. According to Voyager 1, the planet really has at least 14 moons and hundreds of ringlets.

Loudon included slides and film simulations in his lecture which made his audience want to know more about Saturn. There was no question about the subject. In fact, the audience nearly asked if it was going to be a question-and-answer session. Loudon added that the audience should ask him questions and that he would answer them. The audience was so interested that they asked him so many questions that he had to cut his lecture short.

In a topic which fascinates everyone and he himself, Loudon finds the information sharing so fast he has a hard time keeping up with it. However, as he said during the lecture, "We are only very very young in discovering this unique planet called Saturn, which has gassy rings and nine satellites. According to the latest data, it has hundreds of moons and thousands of ringlets."

"The planet is fascinating because of its constantly changing oceans of liquid methane and nitrogen, flowing and evaporating, creating new geographical structures. It is often described as "the onion", and like the onion, the moon is a planet that is not solid. It is almost all liquid nitrogen and helium except for its core which is about the size of the earth but is hot so there may be nothing solid there either. The Voyager probe had to travel more than 1000 miles beyond the planet to make sure it could get a full-body shot of the moon.

Loudon also mentioned briefly the storms on the surface of Saturn with winds reaching over 150 mph, and the fact that Saturn is the only planet in the solar system with a magnetic field.

Space oddities

Loudon saved the magnifi- cent rings for last. The unique rings of Saturn which Voyager 1 turned into hundreds of thousands of ringlets that were proud in admitting to their existence. The rings, from the furthest out to the innermost, were once named A, B, and C. When the pictures were sent back from Saturn last November, the scientists, a little embarrassed, had to add that the observations which became, from innermost outward, C, B, A, D, F, and E. After that they gave up. The rings were too numerous to label. F ring was the only one Loudon found fascinating. It's hazy, perpendicular, and banded, and he complimented. The ring consists of three narrow rings and is "herded" by two "sheepdog" moons on either side of it to keep it in place.

Loudon also drew the eerie picture of the rings by standing on the surface of the planet. According to him, it is the only place in the solar system that had complex organic substances reproducing life in some way. "The planet is constantly changing so fast he has a hard time keeping up with it."

"If someone told me that Saturn was most known in the past for its spectacular three rings, I'd say, "That's silly."" This was a statement made by Robert Willicson, a space scientist. "I'd say, "That's silly.""

"I'd say, "That's silly."""
Will people pay to watch Howie Strutt?

by Peter Haggert

Will people pay to watch Howie Strutt? Twitch, Dick 'n the Donuts, Howie Strutt... can't anyone think of a real name for a band anymore? I guess you can't dock them marks for originality. This week it's Howie's turn to hold the stage in the pub. This five man band keeps rock and roll tradition alive, with legendary numbers spanning the music of the Rolling Stones to the more modern songs of Joe Jackson.

The confident, active lead singer brings vocals to the band which adapt to any type of music. The excellent work on bass guitar gives the band added depth in performance. Their sound however, could be rather lackluster—if not downright dull. Maybe Howie and the big guys are used to playing in more acoustic surroundings. Their lack of equipment might have something to do with it also. Many of the tunes were distorted on Tuesday night—it's a shame, because under these problems there seems to be a pretty good rock band. "Sex 'n Drugs 'n Rock 'n Roll" and "Turning Japanese" might be their most appreciable numbers. Although they may be closer to the "new wave" classification, these two numbers did justice to the versatility of the lead singer.

Howie Strutt is different from other bands. The vivacious bass player can jump circles around the usual deadbeats who play the instrument. And yes, the band has a female—only she is there for her talent. In no way does the band try to exploit her long blond hair and such.

I can't say they're the best band to visit the pub this year, but I can admire their honest approach to old rock 'n roll.

BFA art show opens today

The School of Visual Arts presents its annual BFA Show this Friday. The show features works of the 24 Fourth Year Graduate students. In what is probably the most important showing of their scholastic careers, the students submit their own chosen pieces, and there is no judging.

The show opens this Friday night, March 27, in the University Centre and Lebel Galleries and continues until April 16. Reception begins at 8:00 p.m. tonight in the Centre Gallery.

INTRODUCING J&M'S

HAIRWORKS

JOHN & MARY
WOULD LIKE TO INVITE ALL UNIVERSITY OF
WINDSOR
STUDENTS TO
COME AND VISIT
THEIR NEW FRIENDLY SHOP.

WE SPECIALIZE IN
EASY-TO-CARE-FOR CUTS

NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY

Hairworks - Unisex Hairstylists
2274 Wyandotte St. W.
Windsor, Ontario N9B 1K3

Police-owners would like to invite all University of Windsor students to come and visit their new friendly shop.

The Smart way to store Stemware
Now at the University Bookstore

PRE-EASTER SALE

Bond Clothes Shop
368 OUELLETTE
the best in young mens fashions
BEST SUPPORTING ACTRESS

The following are my nominations in the category of Best Supporting Actress.

Eva La Gallienne – Resurrection
Ellen Burstyn – Private Benjamin
Jane Alexander – Brubaker
Cherrie Currie – Foxes
Ann Mears – Fame

Eva La Gallienne played Ellen Burstyn's grandmother in Resurrection. For awhile, she was the only person who believed in her granddaughter's powers. As Grandma's go, Eva was quite good. She had a subtle quality about her which was sometimes lost in the shuffle, perhaps it was too subtle for me. I felt she was good enough to be a Rosie but not quite a winner.

Ellen Burstyn was Goldie Hawn's Commanding Officer in Ordinary People. While I admit that Burstyn is a very funny comedic actress, she has done far too many support roles which she deserved awards for and never got. However, her performance was still not strong enough to be a winner.

The next supporting actress is Jane Alexander, who played the confidante/girlfriend of Robert Redford in the film Brubaker. As a mediator between Brubaker (Redford) and the government prison guard, Alexander moved a twisted web for him to become ensnared in. He naively trusted her, and when he finally succeeded to her, it was comparable to a spider luring a fly in its web; the death is slow and painful.

Cherrie Currie is quite commanding on screen and executes the role of Robben's girlfriend with aplomb. Her ability that she did in her last memorable film, All the President's Men, but I just didn't think she was good enough to win a Rosie. The next actress I have chosen is a virtual unknown and unless you saw the movie Foxes you probably won't remember the name or the face of Cherrie Currie.

Couple that with the fact that her split personality was a sweet little girl's naughty big girl allowed her a very intriguing role. Cherrie Currie is just lovely to look at, fascinating to watch and perhaps when she grows up she'll be a Rosie, but not yet. In Foxes, Currie wore too much make-up, did too much镀, and had too much of a good time.

The final lady in our Supporting Actress category is Ann Mears from Fame. You may remember Anne from the comedy team of Stiller and Meara in Fame. She plays a very serious and dedicated high school teacher who teaches at the New York City High School for Performing Arts. She is expected to teach overly pretentious students with enormous egos who are not at school to learn academic skills but to dance, sing, act—anything but get an education.

The constant push/pull relationship she has with her students (especially with one particular boy) supplies some of the few scenes types, who are either pretty or handsome but can twist those looks into something quite awful.

He was definitely captivating in his role but was not quite good enough to win a Rosie.

Henry Winkler is an actor you've seen in countless movies but you just can't place his name or his face. (Chic, he played the unwanted adversary of Gene load of sentiment.

He was very close to becoming a Rosie award winner, and if it weren't for Timothy Hutton, he may very well have won. In Ordinary People, Hutton is haunted by the painful memories of his dear brother and is laced with the guilt feeling that somehow, he is responsible for his death. Because of it, he is unable to function as a well-adjusted and teetering professional help from a psychiatrist.

Sitting and watching Timothy Hutton as he discovers the truth about himself was the same as going through some experiences with him. There was just no way that you could remain an observer. At times, you wished you could reach out and help him, somehow.

What can I say? The boy earned his Rosie!

BEST ACTRESS

In this category, there was a mixture of characters to choose from. A housewife, another was a army private, a country western singer and a faith-healer. Though not all glamorous, these women made the most of their respective roles. Here are the candidates:

Goldie Hawn – Private Benjamin
Ellen Burstyn – Resurrection
Angie Dickinson – Dressed to Kill
Sissy Spacek – Coal Miner’s Daughter
Mary Tyler Moore – Ordinary People

The Private Benjamin character is a long ways away from Goldie Hawn's bikini clad days on Laugh-In, and although she is not hilarious in the Private Benjamin role, she did look and act like a bonafide Jewish princess.

I nominated Goldie Hawn for a Rosie because she made an earnest effort at being Private Benjamin. Her performance was notable but not enough to be a Rosie winner. All others were winners.

Ellen Burstyn was Ellen Burstyn, so was Ellen. It's easy to imagine her as the faith-healer in Resurrection. The sound of her smooth and soothing voice is enough to turn a listener into a love child.

Ellen Burstyn is so good all the time that to acknowledge her excellence for this movie would simply be redundant. I did, however, like her enough to bestow a Rosie nomination on her.

My next nominee may surprise a lot of people but I really enjoyed Angie Dickinson in Dressed to Kill. She was convincing as a very rich housewife whose husband's lovelocking was getting so boring that she was left to fantasizing, fast and slow.

As a victim of a heinous crime, Dickinson was frightening! I can still hear her chilling screams and I could almost look on her face as the first razor's cut dashed her hand. I think pretty as a statue, a Rosie nomination partly because I always remembered her as Pepper Anderson on Police Woman and seeing her in this role was a refreshing change for me.

Sissy was another one watching those changes and appreciated all the little things she did to make the character of C.C. a believable character, no matter what stage of life she was at.

Last, but not least, my choice for Best Actress was Mary Tyler Moore in Ordinary People. Her stupendous performance in this movie, associating her with the cute and effervescent Mary Richards (of The Mary Tyler Moore Show) will not only be difficult, it will be next to impossible!

Mary Moore plays the wife of Donald Sutherland and the mother of Timothy Hutton in Ordinary People. She has so much trouble showing her feelings that naturally assume that she doesn't have any.

The character that Moore plays is so cold that when she is hugged by her son, the blank look on her face is enough to send chills through the theatre. Her well grown appearance and fashion conscience wardrobe also contribute to the porcelain-like figure Moore is supposed to be. I am not sure what Moore's style is, but that beauty is truly skin deep — there is no warmth beneath the surface.

I believed in Moore's character so much that I completely forgot she was Mary Tyler Moore.

BEST ACTOR

This category was my most (for obvious reasons). However, you can't really accuse Goldie Hawn of prejudice toward a certain ‘type’ of character. She could be fairly nominating young and old, blondes and brunettes, handsome and ugly. Rather than keep you in suspense, here are my choices:

Robert Redford – Brubaker

The Rosies
Donald Sutherland – Ordinary People
Roy Scheider – All That Jazz
Peter O’Toole – The Stunt Man
John Hurt – The Elephant Man

I chose Robert Redford, not because of his good looks, but because, more specifically, he seemed to be played was supposed to be that of a young and inexper­ enced actor who, as the new warden, wants to prove himself (as far as I know, he was brought from the inside. Redford is good at scenes such as these because, like Brubaker, he is surprised at what he finds and that perplexedness shows on his face.

Donald Sutherland has also been around for a while with little to his credit. So not to nominate him for his role in Ordinary People would have been negligent (as far as I was concerned). As a dad who is trying to spend time with his son, or as a husband trying to relate to his own wife, or just as a man who is trying to get in touch with his own feelings, Sutherland is phenomenal.

Roy Scheider’s grandstand performance in All That Jazz was a complete turnaround from what he has been used to playing. One remembers Roy Scheider from a lot of movies (The 7-Up), a list of roles that he would’ve imagined him as a director/choreographer of a Broadway musical. Rob Bob Fosse persona, Scheider comes across as a very swelli, very Perky fellow.

What I liked most about this role was that Scheider demonstrates what a true actor can be as a performer. I felt compelled to nominate him for a Rose.

My second choice for the award goes to Peter O’Toole, who’s been away from the screen for so long that you’d almost think he’s been lying in his coffin for the past few years just waiting for the right part to come along. I think he came into his own as the director in The Stunt Man was just that part.

His character of a director who’s slightly eccentric/dramatically godly, sometimes gay/sometimes one or the other, gives the audience the pleasure of being entertained in the very best way a film director might.

While watching O’Toole, I found myself spellbound because I didn’t know what he was going to do next or I found him going to do next or I found him so fascinating to watch I couldn’t take my eyes off of him. I felt compelled to nominate him for a Rose.

My final nominee for Best Actor is also the winner. John Hurt, for many of us, was The Elephant Man. If you haven’t seen the movie, my description of Hurt as John Merrick

(1874–1907) as John Merrick playing the role of

Hurt says if of the movie in the shadows, % of the movie wearing a hairnet over his head and the rest of the film vividly photographed.

For the first part of the movie, the audience is prevented from seeing John and all we hear is the rasp, snarly sound emanating from his right nostril in his corner. We are seduced into believing that he is not a man, an animal that something between, and that the name “Elphant Man” is a worthy title for him.

To protect the public from the shock of seeing his grotesques, the elephant man is protected by a flour sack which he wears over his face. That sack is big enough for two, as there is only one peephole for Merrick to see through.

His smiling, distorted body neither walks upright, nor does it take regular steps. It slides around itself like a small.

When we finally do get to see Merrick, the effect is the same. He looks a gangly left over from another century, weather beaten, but still has something even uglier than when it was first created.

Only when Merrick sleeps, in his contented position, does the audience see (through adept camera angles) why he is called the elephant man. The shape of his head and the sparsity of his hair makes him look like an adolescent elephant. It is all which is both horrendous and pathetic.

Sometimes, I really made up, Hurt, with his sloppy speech impediment, gives the elephant man a personality, and, yes, even a soul.

Sometimes Hurt says nothing and moves ever so slightly, conveying more meaning in his silence than some actors do with a monologue.

Lemmon stabbed silence as the movie is told.

Hurt develops the Merrick character to such an extent that one is compelled to pity to tolerance to sarcasm to pity to tolerance to cynicism to compassion to for this misunderstood creature, spiritually called The Elephant Man.

Because of Hurt, our hero becomes so much more than just a fictional hero – he comes a real person, especially for those of us who have problems. It is like to experience agony and jubilation simultaneous­ly.

It was a role I have chosen John Hurt as a Rosier winner.

BEST FILM OF 1980

You will notice that I have been negligent (as far as I knew they could be) and not to mention the Entertain­ vestment Editor will be more than happy to give you a run through this rewarding job next year.

There is one catch, though.

I have limited myself to the following categories: Best Supporting Actress; Best Supporting Actor; Best Actress; Best Actor

And now, for the movie of the year, in a revelation of a new development and is awesome to watch.

I found The Stunt Man to be one of the most satisfying of the movies I have ever seen. The characters were fascinating, the story was thrilling, the acting was wonderful, and the whole story mesmerizing.

If there was any real flaw in this movie, it was the fact that, up until the end, most scenes looked disconnected. What I mean, is, some scenes looked as though they could have been placed anywhere in the movie without spoiling the rhythm of the picture.

Ironically though, the effect it produced was wonderful. It all at all. If anything, it demonstrated the fact that movies are usually shot out of sequence.

The Elephant Man is a true story about John Merrick, a man who was grossly deformed from birth and died in Victorian England. He is rescued from his freak show by the first director to note his talent androgynous. It is a role that I am leading off with the name of the directors of these films because I feel that he is the person who makes or breaks a movie.

Fame – Alan Parker

Ordinary People – Robert Redford

The Stunt Man – Richard Rush

The Elephant Man – David Lynch

I am leaning off with the movie Fame because I was so enraptured by everything and everybody connected with it.

It is a simple story of a handful of students who attend a high school of performing arts and traces their lives, from the time they audition, to the day they graduate from the school.

This movie virtu­

ously tells us of a young man who lost his oldest teenage son to a questionable and presumption death, with the single son left, his home is left in turmoil.

While I accept the emotional power of this movie, I still can’t bring myself to calling them “middle class”. They house they live in is far too big (fillers in the front); the furnishings they have are too fatiguing and the house they take are far too Fat (Spain).

In the opening sequences of the film, the audience is greeted by the warm fall hues of an autumn path. The reds, the browns and the golds are most pleasing to the eye, but it’s been done before, some twenty years ago.

Another beautiful scene was with Mary Tyler Moore and

Al Pacino in The Stunt Man which I considered to be the most unpredictable film I saw all year.

This year, the awards are called “The Rosie” because of the obvious connection to my name & my rating system for a man named Benjamin so I can call the column “The Brubs”.

I have limited myself to the following categories: Best Supporting Actress; Best Supporting Actor; Best Actress; Best Actor

And now, for the movie of the year, in a revelation of a new development and is awesome to watch.

I found The Stunt Man to be one of the most satisfying of the movies I have ever seen. The charac­

Hurt, our hero becomes so much more than just a fictional hero – he comes a real person, especially for those of us who have problems. It is like to experience agony and jubilation simultaneous­ly.

It was a role I have chosen John Hurt as a Rosier winner.

BEST FILM OF 1980

You will notice that I have been negligent (as far as I knew they could be) and not to mention the Entertain­ vestment Editor will be more than happy to give you a run through this rewarding job next year.

There is one catch, though.

I have limited myself to the following categories: Best Supporting Actress; Best Supporting Actor; Best Actress; Best Actor

And now, for the movie of the year, in a revelation of a new development and is awesome to watch.

I found The Stunt Man to be one of the most satisfying of the movies I have ever seen. The characracters were fascinating, the story was thrilling, the acting was wonderful, and the whole story mesmerizing.

If there was any real flaw in this movie, it was the fact that, up until the end, most scenes looked disconnected. What I mean, is, some scenes looked as though they could have been placed anywhere in the movie without spoiling the rhythm of the picture.

Ironically though, the effect it produced was wonderful. It all at all. If anything, it demonstr­ ed the fact that movies are usually shot out of sequence.

The Elephant Man is a true story about John Merrick, a man who was grossly deformed from birth and died in Victorian England. He is rescued from his freak show by the first director to note his talent androgynous. It is a role that I am leading off with the name of the directors of these films because I feel that he is the person who makes or breaks a movie.

Fame – Alan Parker

Ordinary People – Robert Redford

The Stunt Man – Richard Rush

The Elephant Man – David Lynch

I am leaning off with the movie Fame because I was so

enraptured by everything and everybody connected with it.

It is a simple story of a handful of students who attend a high school of performing arts and traces their lives, from the time they audition, to the day they graduate from the school.

This movie virtu­

ously tells us of a young man who lost his oldest teenage son to a questionable and presumption death, with the single

son left, his home is left in turmoil.

While I accept the emotional power of this movie, I still can’t bring myself to calling them “middle class”. They house they live in is far too big (fillers in the front); the furnishings they have are too fatiguing and the house they take are far too Fat (Spain).

In the opening sequences of the film, the audience is greeted by the warm fall hues of an autumn path. The reds, the browns and the golds are most pleasing to the eye, but it’s been done before, some twenty years ago.

Another beautiful scene was with Mary Tyler Moore and the movie is a revelation of a new development and is awesome to watch.

I found The Stunt Man to be one of the most satisfying of the movies I have ever seen. The charac­

Friday, March 27

- Mr. R. Harris, CICA President will speak on "The Role of the Accountant in the 80's." He will speak from 10:15 until 12:15 in Rm. 1101 of the Business Building. This is a presentation of the Honorary Accounting Society and the accounting area, Faculty of Business Administration.

Sunday, March 29

- Worship at Iona College at 12:40 p.m.

- Come and join the Coffee House fun and entertainment at Assumption University in the Blue Room at 8:30 p.m. For more information call Rocco at 736-2952.

Monday, March 30

- Today is the CARISA elections. Elections will be in the I.S.O., Cody Hall from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. — bring your CARISA I.D. card. Tickets for the April 10 awards banquet will be issued to paid members, or sold for $9.

- Thursday, April 2

- Iona College student supper at 5:10 p.m. A healthy meal for $2.00. Everyone is welcome to 208 Sunset Ave.

Friday, April 3

- The University of Windsor Dancers present a concert of modern and jazz dances, at 7:00 p.m. in the Dance Studio of the Human Kinetics Building. Admission $1.00. Also, there will be a Master Class in Modern Dance technique with a member of the Terminal City Dance Co. from Vancouver. Time: 2:00 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. To register contact Prof. Kinnerle Ext. 772.

Saturday, April 4

- "A Day of Renewal for Busy People." The Assumption Campus Community sponsor the day. The day will be under the direction of Fr. Robert Seguin, C.S. B. of Detroit. Cost for the day is $7.00 (includes lunch and dinner). Applications are now available, or call 234-2512 for more information.

Sunday, April 5

- A Baroque Quartet and Concert Pianist will appear at 3:00 p.m. at Iona College. Free admission.

Monday, April 6

- The Windsor Jewish Students Organization will hold its annual meeting in the Law School at 9:30 p.m. Nominations are open for the positions of President and Vice-President. All Jewish students are encouraged to attend.

Lani Hall: Blush
by Peter Huggett

Talk about appropriate titles! This album is filled with mush, mush and sentiment. Lani Hall is the wife of long time recording star Herb Alpert. This album is dedicated to the man who she obviously worships. Hall has teamed up with song writer Alle Willis to compose an album of little diversity but heavy with emotion. Now, she records the Rita Coolidge hit "Love Me Again" with an equal amount of tenderness as her predecessor. This set a general mood for the album, otherwise much of this album is a bit overbearing. Her singing remains strong throughout. "5 String" offers an upbeat tempo, but still are mired in a lyrical attempt. If that's what you like then you can't go wrong.

Composers galore

by Robert Brown

Ever want to meet a music composer? Stick around till June 12-14 and you'll get a chance to meet a whole tribe of them, when Windsor helps host the Canadian League of Composers' Conference and Festival. The conference, held to commemorate the League's thirtieth anniversary, in part speaking session and part music performance. The National Arts Centre Orchestra of Ottawa will perform an all-Canadian concert at Windsor's Orchestra Hall on Friday, June 12. The Arts Centre Orchestra — familiar to many Windsor music lovers through their performances at the Cletary — has acquired increasing renown in the past few years under the baton of Mario Bernardi. It has put out a number of records on the RCA label featuring Canadian composers, some of whom will be at the conference. The next day two concerts will be presented - The Elmer Iseler Singers of Toronto, at Orchestra Hall, and a Banff-based group called "Fusion Five" at the Art Gallery of Windsor. Music of both programs are by Canadian composers. Fusion Five will feature selections by the eight founding members of the League. One of these founders, Murray Adaskin, is a frequent visitor to the University of Windsor, and during his last visit in 1978 spent a week teaching at the School of Music.

Windsor campus will host the speaking sessions of the Conference in Essex Hall Theatre. Composers of the League — which numbers 150 members _plan to discuss Canadian cultural policy and its relation to the composer, acoustics and electronics in music, and the future of music in the next 30 years. Admission to the speaking sessions and Art Gallery conference are free and open to the public. Tickets to the National Arts Centre Orchestra and Iseler Singers concerts cost $6 for adults and $3 for students, and are available at the Box Office of Orchestra Hall.
New gym construction is no sweat

As the pictures below show, the replacement for St. Denis Hall is coming along nicely.

The building, yet to be named, should be finished sometime around May, with an expected opening date in early September.

The new building features an indoor, 6 lane 200 metre track, more basketball courts than we need to run the CIAU's all at the same time, an extensive team and sports medicine room facilities.

Mr. Mario Sellan of Information Services was kind enough to take The Lance on a tour of the fledgling facility.

Clockwise from top. The main entrance to the new facility will face east. Mr. Sellan expects that the entrance will look a lot more like the artists' conception when it's done. Looking west from the east end of the new facility, some indication of size can be had by comparing the workmen, about centre, to the height of the ceiling. In the foreground rests one of the six massive air conditioning units which was being raised into place last week. Finally, the entrance to the team room area is shown in this view looking north from the east end of the building.

Photos and story by Ed McMahon
High school love affair brought runner to track

by Scott McCulloch
Lance Staff Reporter

Middle and long distance runner Paul Roberts, twice awarded the most valuable participant award on the track and field team and holder of 10 University of Windsor records, ran his last race for this university three weeks ago at the Ontario finals in Toronto.

Roberts will be graduating from the Faculty of Human Kinetics this spring, and probably going on to either Queen's, Western or the University of Toronto to study physiotherapy next year. He has one year of eligibility left, but will have to sit out from university competition next year because of the transfer rule.

The Lance talked to Roberts last week as he reminisced on his experiences in track and cross-country and looked ahead to what the future might hold.

The six foot one, 150 pound native of Chatham came fairly late to the running game. He didn't start until grade 12 when he got interested after coming out to track meets to spend more time with Kathy Reisz, who was at that time a sprinter.

"I said to her, 'I know I can't do what you're doing — run fast, but I'll bet I could do what they're doing out there now,'" Roberts said. "They were running the 3000.'"

Roberts, who also runs for the South Windsor Knights of Colburn track club, actually began his running career in cross-country. "I wore basketball shoes in my first cross-country race," he admits now. He trained through the winter that first year and went on to run track in the spring. "I showed some improvement in track and that gave me incentive to keep going."

He won his first race that year, the 1,500 metres, in about 4:36. "It was a county record," Roberts recalls. "In our area, if you trained at all, you'd do well."

Roberts describes his high school coach as "a good sprint coach and a good field coach, but he didn't know anything about distance running. He was a good motivator, though. He used to take us out on the back of his truck and drop us off in the country and say 'see you in twenty minutes or whatever, back at school.' There was no way you could cheat."

Roberts made it to OFSSA (all-Ontario high school meet) in cross-country in grade 13, but not in track. "I never came anywhere near in track," he admits. He still recalls his finishing position in that OFSSAA meet — sixteenth, because "it was the first time anybody from our city had placed under 100. It was a big deal then."

Roberts is one of the few outstanding university runners who was not already running excellent times at the end of high school. "I was fair," Roberts says of himself. "But not that good. Guys I'm running with now, and sometimes beating, were a lot better than I was coming out of high school — guys like Frank Montobello, London, was sick for another race ... things just weren't going well. He's grateful to which coach Dr. Michael Salter, whose coaching philosophy Roberts feels was a major factor in his decision to keep running. "If he'd said, 'you have to win, you have to win,' I might have dropped out, because I never did well in my first year. He (Dr. Salter) just wants you to do well for yourself. If you do, he's happy."

"I think that's why I improved. He allowed me time to mature, to develop."

It was in that first year that Roberts began to run the event that would eventually become his specialty, the 3,000 metre steeplechase. "I had seen it and thought, 'that looks challenging; I'd like to try it'. I'd run one in August, just before school started, in about 10:15."

By the end of the year, he had whittled his time down to 10:04.

The by end of second year, he was running the steeplechase in the 3:03's and had won the silver medal at the OUAA's for that event.

Roberts described his third year as "a bit of a washout. In the fall, I chipped two bones under my ankle, got spiked in the hand in Langford, was sick for another race ... things just weren't going well."

Still, Roberts managed to set two Lance r records for the 3,000 metre steeplechase and the 5,000 metres.

In fact, Roberts has run only two outdoor races in his university career that were not University of Windsor records.

"This year has been my best year," Roberts realizes. "That's the way my program is set up. It's a long-range, progressive plan. Some guys want to be great overnight, but you have to be willing to develop gradually, a few seconds here, a few seconds there."

This year, Roberts won the gold medal in both the 3,000 metre steeplechase and the 5,000 metre at the Ontario championships in the fall, both in Lancer record times.

I was really excited about winning the steeple. It was a real high point of my university career."

"I just love the race," Roberts enthuses. "It's so challenging. Not only is fitness important, but also technique. I really work at my technique and it's paid off. It's like somebody like Frank Montobello (of Toronto). He can run a 3:43 1,500. I can't run that fast, yet I've beaten him in steeple."

Roberts also won a number of 10 kilometre road races this past fall in Windsor and the United States.

What really pleased me was how I did in cross-country. I'd never run that well in cross-country before. I trained hard for the steeple during the summer and I think that helped."

He was fifth at the Ontario final in cross-country, ninth in the CIAU's, and was selected to the second all-Canadian Cross-country team.

With an A average at the end of his third year, the 22-year-old's chances for acceptance into at least one of the institutions to which he's applied look good, but Roberts says, "If I'm not accepted, I'll try for a job in a fitness club or a sports therapy clinic. I eventually do want to work in a hospital.""I'll probably continue to run, at least recreationally, all my life," Roberts believes. "I'll turn recreational when I realize I can't go any further in competition. Who knows though? There are lots of guys that are world-class masters (40 and over)."

Immediate goals include a fifth in the steeplechase at the next Olympic trials (he was seventh in 1980) and a time of under nine minutes for the steeple this summer. "These are reasonable goals," says Roberts. "The next summer, maybe under 8:50. We'll see. Gradual improvement. I'm only twenty-two. Paul Williams is twenty-five. Minus Yifter is what thirteen?"

Roberts says if he ever stops enjoying running, he'll quit. "I can only say what I feel now. Maybe I'll get sick of it in a couple of years, but right now I enjoy it. It's partly a social thing. A lot of my friends are involved in track. Also, being in Human Kinetics, I'm interested in keeping healthy and staying fit."

"I've enjoyed travelling to different meets too," Roberts adds. "I love to travel. I always like to take time to see the sights, not just go there and run and come right back."
Comeback win
Tecumseh downs Pub in A league final

Tecumseh claimed supremacy in women's A league basketball with a stunning 39-31 come-from-behind victory over the Pub team Tuesday night in St. Denis Hall.

Tecumseh led 16-15 at the half, but trailed by as much as six points before a strong performance by Joan Armstrong rallied the residence team to the win. Armstrong finished the game with 14 points, 10 in the second half, while Renee Seguin added 13.

The Pub team got well-balanced scoring with Loretta Budia leading the way with 10.

Campus Rec roundup
Floating Seamen take tube polo title

The innerube waterpolo league came to an end last Sunday leaving behind battered, waterlogged warriors. The Floating Seamen were the winners of the league this year, having not lost a game all season. The winners then grabbed the title by defeating the Rubber Ducks, the 69ers, Davidson's Dolphins and Fish and the Fins.

Badminton tourney

Today is the final deadline for the intramural badminton tournament. The ladies and men's singles will take place Monday and Tuesday from 5-7 p.m. with the ladies and men doubles and mixed doubles running Wednesday and Thursday.

Women's hockey

Women's intramural ice hockey semi-finals were held on Tuesday afternoon with undefeated Basketball defeating fourth-place Tecumseh and second-place St. Clair topping third-place Law. Basketball met St. Clair last night in the championship game at Adie Knox Arena. Results and photos will be in next week's Lance.

Campus Rec take tube polo title

Usually you need OSAP.
This time OSAP needs you!

Students are needed to participate as members of the OSAP Appeal Board 1981-82.

The Appeal Board was set up to award financial aid to students who would not normally receive assistance. The student members on the Board offer a valuable perspective in the decision-making process. You could be one of those members. You could give a student another chance.

Apply now to: The Appeal Board Advisory Committee Student Awards Office Level 3, University Centre University of Guelph Guelph, Ontario.

For further information, you should go to your nearest Financial Aid Office.
Football wins 'A' final

'B' league basketball champions in limbo

Tuesday, March 24 saw the conclusion of the men's A league basketball, and what may or may not prove to be the final game of B league basketball. Windsor Bridgehouse squeaked past Lapointe 30-29 in the B final, but will have to replay their semi-final game with the Hawkes after that team made a successful protest over some confusion about the starting time of the original playoff game between the two.

The Bridgehouse won that game rather handily, 44-31, and should they be victorious again in the rematch Monday will officially be named B league champs.

In the event that the Hawkes win the protest game, they will face the recently Lapointe team in a final game Wednesday.

In the A division, the Lancer Football team came from their third-place standing to capture the title. Their opponents, the Cardinals, were also somewhat of a Cinderella team as they finished in fourth spot in the league standings.

Excellent physical condition and robust play proved to be the keys to success as the gridiron squad marched to a quick 8-2 lead and never looked back.

The score at the half was 23-11 and the final 46-23. Lancer Bullock paced the Lancers with 12 points.

Final
Lancers 46 Cardinals 23

Editor's note

Well, they won't have Steve Rice to kick around next year. I'll be graduating and moving on.

Some say Rice was the apparent heir to the throne. But, good or bad, he means the paper will be without a sports editor next year, with no apparent heir to the throne. With that in mind, how about taking this opportunity to come out and check things out at The Lance if you've ever thought to yourself, "I could do a better job than that Rice idiot." Maybe be you could.
TERRY FOX VIGIL

PROCEEDS TO THE CANADIAN CANCER SOCIETY

7:30 pm, MARCH 27
UNIVERSITY CENTRE

CANCER CAN BE BEATEN
Smile and bow when you say that

By Chris Sutner of the Algonquin College Impact

With Prince Charles’ and Lady Diana Spencer’s monumental gal on the horizon, it would seem timely to recall how Monty Python has to do with etiquette when dealing with the Royal Family.

This quirky British group has conducted detailed studies of how to act in the presence of blue blood. Here’s a few examples of their conclusions.

Never touch the Royal Family unless they touched you and even then, never below the waist.

Never ask about etiquette when dealing with the Royal Family.

Never shout abuse or push or jog the Royal Family, unless they attack you. Never say "I'm the Queen’s cousin." This can anger and/or miff Monty Python.

Here is Monty Python’s illustration of a bad conversation with the Queen:

Ordinary Man: Hello. I didn’t recognize you.
Queen: But I am the Queen! Ordinary Man: You don’t look at all like you do on the stamps.
Queen: Don’t speak to me like that, you dirty little nonentity.
Ordinary Man: How can you change this wheel?

Lynden and Gay Students on Campus

Wanted to rent from May 2 to August. It is a 3-bedroom apartment, ground floor, 2 blocks from University

The King's Nervous Breakdown.

15th April

Reconvening in Windsor this summer and need a place to call home?

STAYING IN WINDSOR this summer and need a place to call home?

WEED OF CRIME, Bears bitter memory, it does not pay to search for some unknown individual who refuses to have anything to do with a radically anti-conservative old radio program. Geoffrey must be gaged. It’s the Canadian way!

MILE: The King’s Nervous Breakdown! Loved your sexy thighs. We do, too.

Sorry. I’ve had a bit of a cold and all the rest.

Never ask the Royal Family a direct question. For instance, "Princess Marina, where are the swimming baths?

Never shout abuse or push or jog the Royal Family, unless they attack you. Never say "I'm the Queen's cousin." This can anger and/or miff Monty Python.

Here is Monty Python’s illustration of a bad conversation with the Queen:

Ordinary Man: Hello, I didn’t recognize you.
Queen: But I am the Queen! Ordinary Man: You don’t look at all like you do on the stamps.
Queen: Don’t speak to me like that, you dirty little nonentity.
Ordinary Man: How can you change this wheel?

Lynden and Gay Students on Campus

Wanted to rent from May 2 to August. It is a 3-bedroom apartment, ground floor, 2 blocks from University

The King's Nervous Breakdown.

15th April

Reconvening in Windsor this summer and need a place to call home?

WEED OF CRIME, Bears bitter memory, it does not pay to search for some unknown individual who refuses to have anything to do with a radically anti-conservative old radio program. Geoffrey must be gagged. It’s the Canadian way!

MILE: The King’s Nervous Breakdown! Loved your sexy thighs. We do, too.

Sorry. I’ve had a bit of a cold and all the rest.

Never ask the Royal Family a direct question. For instance, "Princess Marina, where are the swimming baths?

Never shout abuse or push or jog the Royal Family, unless they attack you. Never say "I'm the Queen's cousin." This can anger and/or miff Monty Python.

Here is Monty Python’s illustration of a bad conversation with the Queen:

Ordinary Man: Hello, I didn’t recognize you.
Queen: But I am the Queen! Ordinary Man: You don’t look at all like you do on the stamps.
Queen: Don’t speak to me like that, you dirty little nonentity.
Ordinary Man: How can you change this wheel?

Lynden and Gay Students on Campus

Wanted to rent from May 2 to August. It is a 3-bedroom apartment, ground floor, 2 blocks from University

The King's Nervous Breakdown.

15th April

Reconvening in Windsor this summer and need a place to call home?

WEED OF CRIME, Bears bitter memory, it does not pay to search for some unknown individual who refuses to have anything to do with a radically anti-conservative old radio program. Geoffrey must be gagged. It’s the Canadian way!

MILE: The King’s Nervous Breakdown! Loved your sexy thighs. We do, too.

Sorry. I’ve had a bit of a cold and all the rest.

Never ask the Royal Family a direct question. For instance, "Princess Marina, where are the swimming baths?

Never shout abuse or push or jog the Royal Family, unless they attack you. Never say "I'm the Queen's cousin." This can anger and/or miff Monty Python.

Here is Monty Python’s illustration of a bad conversation with the Queen:

Ordinary Man: Hello, I didn’t recognize you.
Queen: But I am the Queen! Ordinary Man: You don’t look at all like you do on the stamps.
Queen: Don’t speak to me like that, you dirty little nonentity.
Ordinary Man: How can you change this wheel?

Lynden and Gay Students on Campus

Wanted to rent from May 2 to August. It is a 3-bedroom apartment, ground floor, 2 blocks from University

The King's Nervous Breakdown.

15th April

Reconvening in Windsor this summer and need a place to call home?

WEED OF CRIME, Bears bitter memory, it does not pay to search for some unknown individual who refuses to have anything to do with a radically anti-conservative old radio program. Geoffrey must be gagged. It’s the Canadian way!

MILE: The King’s Nervous Breakdown! Loved your sexy thighs. We do, too.

Sorry. I’ve had a bit of a cold and all the rest.

Never ask the Royal Family a direct question. For instance, "Princess Marina, where are the swimming baths?

Never shout abuse or push or jog the Royal Family, unless they attack you. Never say "I'm the Queen's cousin." This can anger and/or miff Monty Python.

Here is Monty Python’s illustration of a bad conversation with the Queen:

Ordinary Man: Hello, I didn’t recognize you.
Queen: But I am the Queen! Ordinary Man: You don’t look at all like you do on the stamps.
Queen: Don’t speak to me like that, you dirty little nonentity.
Ordinary Man: How can you change this wheel?
New administrator to face unions in summer

by Chris Woodrow

John Dempster will be returning to the University of Windsor in an unaccustomed but well-received role – that of Assistant Vice-President, Human Resources. It was announced at Tuesday's Board of Governors' meeting.

Dempster will be joining the university administration, replacing John Lynch who was recently released from his contractual obligations. He will be responsible for staff relations, collective bargaining, personnel policies and programs, compensation and benefits plans for staff members and recruitment of support staff.

The University of Windsor campus and its union situation will not be a new experience for Dempster who was here last year acting as mediator between the university administration and the Faculty Association in their stalled contract negotiations.

The Ontario Ministry of Labour's loss (where he is presently) will be our gain as Dempster brings his many talents and abilities to this campus. As he proved last year, Dempster possesses all the necessary qualities required to improve staff relations and negotiate contracts.

Participants in last year's negotiations described him as a very capable, level-headed negotiator, having the ability to compromise when necessary, listen to both sides of an argument, but, above all else, they describe him as a very likable person.

With four unions on campus due to re-negotiate their contracts this summer, Dempster will be put on the spot immediately.

Campus and Fox fight cancer

OTTAWA (CUP) - Two Carleton University journalism professors are among students for whom lateral and slander following allegations of sexual harassment in that faculty.

Bob Rupert and Brian Nolan have filed suits against Maureen McEvoy, Debbie Woolway and Susan Dusel, charging their reputations have been damaged because all male journalism professors are implicated or giveised in the harassment charges.

The three women alleged there is harassment by one or more faculty members in the school of journalism, ranging from sexist jokes in class to sexual blackmail and physical assault. They recommend the university establish a specific office to deal with complaints, conduct educational seminars for faculty and draw up guidelines for conduct.

The women say they are speaking on behalf of a considerable number of students, but refused to say how many professors are implicated or give examples of specific incidents. They have refused further comment on the advice of their lawyers.

A defense fund has been established for the students' legal fees. Women's centres, status of women committees, rape crisis centres and other groups across the country will be contacted for moral and financial support. A fund-raising benefit is tentatively scheduled for mid-April.

In a letter to the Carleton dean of arts, National Union of Students executive officer John Doherty said the issue of sexual harassment is being buried under debate on the reputation and tactics of the three women.

"This only serves to make it harder to encourage women to raise incidents of sexual harassment. Women see that they are put on trial rather than the man who has harassed them," he said.

Several petitions have been circulated, one supporting the committee's recommendations, another arguing sexual harassment should be dealt with but criticizing the way the matter was handled.

Meanwhile, several of the recommendations from the committee seem on the way to implementation. Dean of arts Naami Griffiths says a booklet outlining grievance procedures for students who are sexually harassed will be published next fall.

However, Griffiths said there is no need to set up a special office or centre to deal with complaints. She said this would 'glosselize' the whole issue and divert attention from the larger questions of professional conduct in all situations.

Sexism charges implicate all: profs

McMaster takeover successful

by Laurie Bergeron

There seems to be a new surge of student activism at Ontario universities. No longer are students willing to sit passively by while the administrators of the schools they pay to attend make controversial decisions concerning the welfare of the student body.

Executive officers at Trent University were taken over two weeks ago by students protesting the way in which differential fees were imposed. Passing the hat around raised $120 in Fox's honour – that money to go to the local chapter of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Opinion

The students presented an ultimatum in which they refused to leave the office of the Vice-President-Academic until their demands were met. There were seven demands in all, the most important being the reinstatement of the constitution that requires a student to participate on all faculty committees.

On Friday, March 27, the students presented their petition to the university president and vice-president.

SEE "DEMANDS MET", PG. 3
What happens to all you’ve got when you leave

While many of us do not like to admit it, the one certainty of this life is that it will end. As such, all of us should at one time prepare for death by making a will.

A will allows you to determine how your assets are to be distributed after death. To be legally valid, all wills must conform to certain basic requirements. The normal will is not valid unless signed at its end by the person making the will and witnessed by two persons. If a witness is also a beneficiary, the will will be void, so a person who will be receiving something under the will should not be a witness. The spouse of a beneficiary should also not be a witness, for the same reason.

A testator can make a valid will wholly in his own handwriting—called a holograph will. A holograph will is often useful in emergency situations, but a carefully prepared formal will is more likely to ensure that all your assets and wishes are fully considered.

Executor

A will is a legal document which directs how your assets are to be distributed after death. Your will may contain many items, including specific gifts of personal property, transfers of real estate, lump sum cash payments, or shares of some income. Wills may also direct how gifts are to be given or under what conditions they may be received. Furthermore, most wills designate certain people to perform various tasks after your death.

The will should appoint an executor, someone who will divide your property as requested, pay off any debts, and generally settle or wind up your affairs. A trustee may also be appointed by the will. The trustee will manage your estate over an extended period, applying any income for the benefit of others. In many cases, it is convenient to appoint the same person as both executor and trustee.

Some wills also provide for the appointment of a guardian in the event that both parents die, leaving young children orphaned. Courts are not bound by your choice of guardian and may appoint another, but the parents’ personal wishes are always an important consideration.

Changing it

Your will does not take effect until you die, so you can change part or all of it at any time. Alterations can be made in a number of ways: the most reliable being by attaching a separate amendment or codicil, or, where changes are extensive, by rewriting the entire will. It is important to note that every alteration must be made according to the same requirements which governed the making of the original will. For example, any alteration to a formal will must be properly signed by you and two witnesses.

In addition, your will may be revoked by a specific clause in a later will, or if you destroy it intentionally and not by accident. Lastly, marriage usually revokes your earlier will unless it was written in contemplation of the marriage. Also, if your marriage ends in divorce or annulment, your spouse is denied any gift from the will unless you specifically direct otherwise.

Without one

If you die without a will, your property is distributed according to the law. First, your surviving spouse is always given preferential treatment. For example, if you are survived by your spouse and no children, then your spouse receives the first $73,000 of your assets before the children are considered. Any remainder is then divided between the spouse and children.

When no spouse survives you, the law provides for the distribution of your assets among other relatives, according to a certain order of preference. Children and grandchildren have priority, followed by parents, then brothers and sisters, then nephews and nieces, and lastly “of kin.” However, if you die without a will and have no traceable relatives, then all of your assets will become the property of the provincial government.

For further information, contact the Community Legal Aid office in the basement of the law school or phone 333-5100.

Hey, staff!

If you haven’t picked it up, we have your shirt.

-the Lance

Wardrobe Master

NEW ORIENTAL LOOK

Smoking Paraphernalia

Tuxedos - Suits

556 Ouellette

256-4141

Hey, staff!

If you haven’t picked it up, we have your shirt.

-the Lance

Wardrobe Master

Seagram's V.O.

Canada's most respected 8 year old whisky.

When you want great taste, spell it out

London
Student Flights Round Trip and one way
BOOK LESS THAN 21
DAYS PRIOR TO DEPARTURE
CONTACT

44 St. George St., Toronto
968-2424
by Rosemary Comiso

On March 29, in Vanier Hall, a very remarkable lady received a very prestigious award.

Last Sunday, Yvonne Gardiner, a graduate student at the University of Windsor, was presented with a "Prize of the Consul General of Belgium", an award given from time to time to people who promote Belgian culture.

This time, however, the lucky recipient was blind.

A native of Montreal, Gardiner contracted spinal meningitis at the age of three, a disease which left her with only three percent vision.

She moved to Windsor "some 20 odd years ago" and attended the University of Windsor, where she received her B.A. double Honours, and Master's degrees in English.

Yvonne refuses to lose hope herself and she hates it when people get "schmalzy" (patronizing) over her disability. Ironically, though, she proudly calls herself a "ham" - the nickname given to a licensed ham radio operator. This hobby and others are her way of "relaxing".

However, talking to Yvonne's parents, it is very evident that this is a different story. Dr. Samuel Stollm (Englishman), Joan Magne (Belgian) and Dr. Louise Nettleton (Nethershield Study) unanimously agree that Yvonne is an exceptional student. They also conclude that she will make a fine teacher some day, because she is such an "educated and cultured person".

Due to extenuating circumstances though, Yvonne is prevented from acquiring her PhD in English and, because of the depressed economic conditions in Windsor, she is also having a hard time finding a full-time teaching position.

She is also realistic enough to understand that people do not fare well in the job market, especially blind people who cannot find a percent jobs rate as a group.

Gardiner blames employers for "stereotyping blind people", which is too bad "since there are many blind people who could do constructive and interesting jobs. If they can't, then educate the people for "those jobs" she says defiantly.

Yvonne Gardiner hopes that the Year of the Disabled will be more successful than other "Year" and therefore any one thought she hopes it will be society, wish with it, is this "To accept the disabled people" and that, and she says: "can't has'nt".

Receiving professor and founder of the University of Visual Art, Joseph DeLauro (left), was presented last week with a gold medal recognizing his work.

The medal, from the Italian Academy of Arts and Works, was presented by Frank De Angelis, Italian Vice-Consul and local TV personality.

DeLauro called the award the culmination of "twenty-years of fun, frustration, creativity, and trying to be a sculptor."

Some of his work can presently be enjoyed at his recently opened "Retrospective Exhibit" at the Art Gallery of Windsor.

From a speech made at the University of Waterloo

Of all species that have ever existed on our planet, 99 percent are now extinct.

From the year 1960 to the New campus group

Last week, approximately 300 members of our community staged a one-hour protest demonstration at Windsor's City Hall Square in remembrance of Archbishop Oscar Romero of El Salvador, who was assassinated by Rosemary Comiso.

Three and many other social present, it is estimated that extinction of organisms has occurred at the rate of 1,000 species per million years. Around 1975 to the turn of the century, the "guesstimate" is that 10 million species will have become extinct in that time. These dramatic figures, and issues, ranging from local to the international level, are the subject of interest, discussion and concern by students of this university.

If you are interested in learning more about the group, and the issues it is concerned with, contact Joe Lafort at 254-0575, or Rick Coughlin at 945-4225.

Quebec's foreign fees jump

MONTREAL (CUP) - Foreign students in Quebec will be paying a whopping $4,128 in tuition fees next year.

This will raise the foreign students' fees to 60 percent of the cost of education, the highest level in the country. Last year, university officials were told to expect an increase in fees to cover up to half the cost.

"I think it is an exaggereately large increase," said Concordia University rector John O'Brien.

"For students presently here it is a very big increase and an unexpected one."

The announcement, made by the Quebec government last week, included a $1,000 fee increase for international students already studying in Quebec.

"It's not that we are against foreign students, but our students deserve a greater part of the cost," said Michel Brisset, director of services at the ministry of education.

Brisset said also not all international students will be affected by the increase, because...
Bad timing prevents student protest to BoG

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 25, April 3, 1981, Page Four

Editorial

Bad timing prevents student protest to BoG

Well, our worst fears have been realized.

The fears involved the timing of the Board of Governors' decision to open the new academic year on the following Wednesday and prior to a decision as to whether to use the Bell Centre for the Board of Governors' meeting that would have happened the following Wednesday. The fears involved the timing of the discussion of the possibility (more accurately, probability) of raising tuition next year.

Thus, though it wasn't premeditated per se, the board will make its important, possibly very restrictive decision without the full realization of the full/impact of its streamlined, anxious students...the situation.

Students should expect to see — in the newspaper or in a letter from the administration — an increase in tuition for next year sometime during the summer.

Prepare yourself for that.

The only thing not known is how much.

THE LANCe

O. L. Cochrane, Editor

Managing Editor: H. McManus

Sports Editor: R. Lee

Entertainment Editor: M. Goran

Assistant Editor: M. Martin

Photography Editor: T. Peck

Grain Editor: P. McLaughlin

EDITORIAL CARTOONIST: G. Deschênes

POETRY EDITOR: M. McCrimmon

Circulation Manager: J. Mollett

Typesetting: L. Higgins, L. Meech

Photography: C. Yang, C. Stahl

Contributing Writers: A. Robertson, C. Morey, L. O. Oates

The Lance is published every Friday at the Daily Press and is distributed to the Student Media Corporation, University of Windsor.

Opinions expressed in The Lance are those of the student writer and not necessarily of the University of Windsor or the Student's Administrative Council.

The Lance offices are located on the second floor, University Centre, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ontario N9B 3P4.

Phone (519) 253-6622 or 253-4222. Ext. 153 or 221.

Advertise: Mark D. Greaves (519) 253-6622.

Privacy: Subscription rates are $8.00 per year. Entered as second class mail at the Post Office of Canada.

The Fortnightly

by John Mill

LSAT, GMAT, GRE: acronyms that strike terror into the hearts of thousands of students across the country each year.

These seemingly innocent initials stand for the law school admissions test, graduate record exam, and graduate management admissions test. These are mandatory for anyone who wishes to get into graduate or professional schools.

Most professional schools weigh the results heavily — if you do well and have a reasonable UGPA (undergraduate average), you're in, if you're out. Tough luck, buddy. Back to driving the cab.

This practice of intelligence screening began in the late 1960's. At that time, it was a commercially accepted belief that certain races just did not have what it takes to be good American citizens. This belief was substantiated by the fact that the average Armenian peasant who hopped, or more often, hopped off the boat, half-dead from starvation, usually failed the English intelligence test that he was given. Fortunately, the Immigration Department never enforced the results.

Intelligence control reached the extreme in Nazi Germany during World War II. The Nazis, in an attempt to purify the gene pool of the Aryan race, made a policy that anyone who didn't measure up would be sterilized and in scientific experiments, changed the wiring, so to speak. The justification was that mentally handicapped people serve no useful purpose to society, so they must we removed from the gene pool.

Of course the ETS (educational testing service) is not nearly as diabolical as the Nazis, but the fact remains that mental handicaps are used in scientific experiments; change the wiring, so to speak. The justification was that mentally handicapped people serve no useful purpose to society, so they must we removed from the gene pool.

Many other critics have been leveled at the tests. The being that they are "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.

The ETS admits there is very little correlation between the feeling among the SAC boys, that the LSAT is not nearly as "culturally biased" towards the middle class. Applicants from ghetto neighborhoods have been shown to have much lower scores than their middle class peers. Unfortunately, a study can never be made of the loss suffered by the ghetto neighborhoods which lost doctors and lawyers.

Talk to any law student if you want to hear stories of LSAT victims who were more than capable but did not get in because of low test scores. Hey, what about those who, for some reason, scored in the bottom 20 percent of the LSAT scores but, since his father had connections with Prime Minister Trudeau, he now has the third highest mark in his law class.
Dear Editor:
The Foreign Student Enrollment
Committee, which was established under the direction of the Provost (March 27, 1981) was of interest, but certain aspects should be elaborate.

Foreign students are certainly not spent all on educating students,

Dear Dr. Cassano:

Dear Editor:

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Professor:

Mail Call

Why do we need quotas?

Slow down a bit

This letter was sent last week to Dr. Paul V. Cassano, Vice-President Academ ic of this university. A copy of it was also sent to this newspaper for public-

Mail Call

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Editor:
The Foreign Student Enrollment Committee, which was established under the direction of the Provost
(March 27, 1981) was of interest, but certain aspects should be elaborate.

Foreign students are certainly not spent all on educating students,

Dear Dr. Cassano:

Dear Editor:

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Professor:

Mail Call

Why do we need quotas?

Slow down a bit

This letter was sent last week to Dr. Paul V. Cassano, Vice-President Academ ic of this university. A copy of it was also sent to this newspaper for public-

Mail Call

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Editor:
The Foreign Student Enrollment Committee, which was established under the direction of the Provost
(March 27, 1981) was of interest, but certain aspects should be elaborate.

Foreign students are certainly not spent all on educating students,

Dear Dr. Cassano:

Dear Editor:

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Professor:

Mail Call

Why do we need quotas?

Slow down a bit

This letter was sent last week to Dr. Paul V. Cassano, Vice-President Academ ic of this university. A copy of it was also sent to this newspaper for public-

Mail Call

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Editor:
The Foreign Student Enrollment Committee, which was established under the direction of the Provost
(March 27, 1981) was of interest, but certain aspects should be elaborate.

Foreign students are certainly not spent all on educating students,

Dear Dr. Cassano:

Dear Editor:

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Professor:

Mail Call

Why do we need quotas?

Slow down a bit

This letter was sent last week to Dr. Paul V. Cassano, Vice-President Academ ic of this university. A copy of it was also sent to this newspaper for public-

Mail Call

Task force is going to need close watching

Dear Editor:
The Foreign Student Enrollment Committee, which was established under the direction of the Provost
(March 27, 1981) was of interest, but certain aspects should be elaborate.

Foreign students are certainly not spent all on educating students,
Entertainment

Good week to catch up on your sleep

by Wendy Coomber

I thought of just sitting in The Lance office Tuesday night to review Twitch, seeing that, since our office is only on the second floor of the Centre I could almost hear the band perfectly. However, I decided to go down and (dare I say it?) face the music, or lack thereof.

When I got downstairs many things about the band surprised me. First was the wall of noise that hit me as soon as I stepped through the doors. The second thing catching my attention was the fact that the large windows behind the stage were still. I mean they looked like they were in one whole piece. Another more trivial matter was the fellow dancing in front of the stage with a chair. I wonder if he noticed the vacant seat left.

The three member band was only distinguished by its volume and the lead singer, who fancied himself somewhat akin to Dee, although the only relationship I could see between him and those weird warblers was that the singer was merely DIVIDed of any talent at all.

Sure, sure, they’ve got an album out, but then, the Nothing Album was a big white noise this year too. If they had a theme to their play—but it was lost in the white noise reverberating from the walls, ceiling, chairs, tables, bodies, etc. The songs all sounded the same—loud—not that they played any great number of them.

The band said we could dedicate the song “Lover” to anyone we wanted to. Well, I know my name was on the list. Still, I must admit, that was the first bass solo I’ve ever heard—unique if nothing else. Like every other band here before it they had to ask, is everybody having a good time?

This fellow seems to have a nervous twitch.

The band was not, however, without one. I did come up with an idea I think the pub might be able to use, or any bar with a band for that matter. I think it would be useful for these establishments to keep slips of paper handy for the patrons to write their orders on. It saves wear and tear on the throat caused by screaming at the person behind the bar two feet away from you. Large pieces of paper could also be used by people in their seats to hold up scores or other friendly little comments for the band. It’s a thought.

THE CINEMA CRITIC

THE POSTMAN ALWAYS RINGS TWICE

by Laurel Brandt

The ads say, “In the heat of passion, two things can happen. The second is murder.” What they (gratefully) do not mention is that the first is shown in graphic detail.

The Postman Always Rings Twice is about those all-American themes—sex and violence. The original, which starred John Garfield and Lana Turner, was not very explicit about either of these subjects. The remake, with Jack Nicholson and Jessica Lange, shows intimately the intertwining of lust and hate.

Frank Chambers (Nicholson) is a drifter who stops to work at a roadside gas station/cum-raven run by Nick Papadakis and his wife, Cora (Lange). Cora is about 20 years younger than her husband and resents his overbearing, “greyazy Greek ways.” When Cora and Frank begin their affair, she feels that perhaps she can make some world without her husband, who she sees as being in her way. But she sees only one way to get him out of her way.

Violence is the key to Frank and Cora’s relationship. Cora is dominant in most situations, in their first sexual encounter, when Frank attacks her on the kitchen table, the audience knows that this is exactly what she wanted. It is also Cora’s idea to kill Nick, she leaves it to Frank to provide details for the action. The motivation for everything that Frank and Cora do is lust.

The movie works because it makes this horrifying pair seem sympathetic. The only really nice person in “Postman” is Nick, yet Nicholson and Lange are good enough to make Frank and Cora into a seemingly normal couple. When Cora tells of how she feels trapped in her marriage, she could be speaking for almost any woman stuck in an unhappy marriage. Nicholson’s shiftless drifter who is inspired to action only by his need for Cora is really any man who rises above himself for the love of a woman. And when the first murder attempt fails, the audience is disappointed, they want Frank and Cora to succeed.

Despite the violent theme, “Postman” does not have many violent scenes—it’s got nothing on a Charles Bronson movie. The sex scenes, however, are detailed, the movie probably would have received more than its present “R” rating a few years ago. Yet, these scenes are important, without the sex, why Frank and Cora want to get rid of Nick could not be understood.

There are absolutely no postmen anywhere in the movie. You can figure out the title for yourself after you see it.

Pre-Easter Sale

Bond Clothes Shop
365 Ouellette
the best in young mens fashions

by Bette Stephenson

Ontario Student Assistance Program 1981-1982

OSAP applications are now available at your Financial Aid Office.

One OSAP application form lets you apply for:
- Ontario Study Grant
- Canada Student Loan
- Ontario Student Loan

For additional information about OSAP, see your Financial Aid Administrator.

Please allow 8 to 10 weeks for processing.

Late tuition fee payment charges will be excused only if you have filed your application by July 1st.
Albatross: It’s education that makes the difference

Rock bands are in number, yet, only a small percentage—both amateur and professional—have any musical education at the university level.

The last two winners in a CBC competition were contacted “Albatross,” a local band known for their musically-educated background, and talked to Pete Palazzolo, one of the band’s lead guitarists and vocalists. Palazzolo is majoring in the Faculty of Music at the University of Windsor. His band is currently recording for A&M Records of Canada.

by Bill Buchanan

“People who hear us play,” Palazzolo told The Lance, “they say that our music sounds like we’ve really put a lot of professional thought into the pieces. There’s really no secret about it—that I like to think that education makes the difference.”

Palazzolo began playing the guitar after a heart operation compelled him to give up sports. Prior to his operation, Palazzolo had won the “Junior Musician of the Year Award” in his first year of high school. His instrument was the trombone. His brother, a graduate from the University of Windsor with an Honours B.A. in music and formerly a music teacher at Kennedy, taught him the basics on guitar. Palazzolo now has a good command of the guitar, piano, bass, and trumpet. At the University, he is also studying the violin and cello.

“You’ve heard it said that some instruments are easier to play than others. At first, that may seem true, but practice is what produces the best results.”

Theory is important

“Theory is important,” Palazzolo declares. “For example, Dennis DeYoung (Styx) is listened to teach music from kindergarden to grade 8. His keyboard playing is excellent, but it wouldn’t have the touch of class that it has now without his musical training.

“Theory is the language of music. If you know the language, you can musically place your thoughts on paper, and if you know your theory, you know exactly what your music will be like when it’s produced.”

University music programs emphasize the importance of classical music in their lecture material. Palazzolo has come to realize the value of classical music.

“In high school, I wouldn’t be caught dead listening to that stuff—classical music meant nothing to me. In high school, most people considered it as garbage. Through my courses here, I’ve learned that classical music is the supreme form of music. Many good musicians have classical backgrounds. Alex Zonjic (a jazz musician and a University of Windsor graduate), Dennis DeYoung (Styx), Freddie Mercury (Queen), Richie Blackmore (Deep Purple), Steve Howe (Yes), Keith Emerson (ELP), just to name a few.”

Musical education can also save time when it comes to learning and writing songs. Palazzolo claims, “Programmed Ear Training”—the lab section of his second-year theory course—has been quite important to him.

Hello, Hooray

“Last night, I learned the music for ‘Hello, Hooray’ (Alice Cooper) in about 10 minutes. Three years ago, it would have taken an hour. Sheet music is useless. It doesn’t tell the truth; they don’t always put the song in the right key, and the way the music is written out can sound very mechanical. If you know your theory, you can pick out the chords to any song.”

Palazzolo also pointed out that his piano class has helped him a great deal in composing his own music, and his manual dexterity has improved on the keyboard. Palazzolo admits that he does not sight-read too well (seeing music for the first time and playing it), but adds that his courses are helping him to improve in this area all the time.

“And the great thing about the music program is the willingness of the professors to help any student out, even on their own time. They’re really great for that—they know that my band plays every night; even when I come into school dead-tired or miss classes altogether because of it, they’re willing to help me catch up. It makes catching up so much easier.”

However, Palazzolo finds it “disappointing” that many students in the music program feel rock and roll has no place in the music world.

“I’ve been around music in the world. I feel kind of sorry for the people who won’t accept the fact that there are other kinds of music besides that of the classical stream. Rock and roll is an art just like any other style of music, and my band wants to make people realize that it is just that—an art.”

The Madwoman of Chaillot

A SPECIAL PERFORMANCE
A S.A.C. FUNCTION - STUDENT NITE
WED. APRIL 8, 1981 8PM
ESSEX HALL THEATRE

STUDENTS $2.00
with University of Windsor I.D.
NON-STUDENTS $3.00

TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE UNIVERSITY
PLAYERS BOX OFFICE AND THE SAC OFFICE
LIMITED NUMBER OF TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE

Last week the University was overrun by a group of men with nothing to say. This week it is the dancers' turn to take the stage (see Make A Note).

THIS WEEK AT IONA
208 Sunset Ave.

April 5
Worship every Sunday at 12:40 p.m.
3:00 Music - University of Windsor
Flute Quartet.
Douglas Bartholomew, Sylvain Champagne,
Tina McElroy, Mark Young

Gerald Barnes - Concert Pianist,
Department of Music,
Free admission
Refreshments following.

April 8
Communion every Wednesday 12:15

April 9
Iona Supper every Thursday
Home Cooked Meal $2.00
5:30 All welcome.

April 12
Sunday Morning Brunch at 11:00 a.m.
Followed by Worship at 12:40 p.m.

INTRODUCING J&M'S
HAIRWORKS
UNISEX HAIRSTYLISTS
2274 Wyandotte St. W.
Windsor, Ontario N9B 1K3

JOHN & MARY
WOULD LIKE TO INVITE ALL UNIVERSITY OF
WINDSOR
STUDENTS TO
COME AND VISIT
THEIR NEW FRIENDLY SHOP.

WE SPECIALIZE IN
EASY-TO-CARE-FOR CUTS
NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY

MAKE A NOTE

Friday, April 3
- The Iranian Students Association is sponsoring a display of pictures, slides and film, beginning at 11:00 a.m. Also, Iran's Canadian Charge d'Affaires will deliver a speech at 4:00 p.m. in the University Centre.

The University of Windsor Dancers present a concert of modern and jazz dances, at 7:00 p.m. in the Dance Studio of the Human Kinetics Building. Admission $1.00. Also, there will be a Master Class in Modern Dance technique with a member of the Terminal City Dance Co. from Vancouver. Time: 2:00 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. To register contact Prof. Kimmerle Ext. 772.

Saturday, April 4
The end of the year Curling Banquet is scheduled for tonight. For further details, call Howard at 256-2847.

A Day of Renewal for Busy People. The Assumption Campus Community sponsor this 9:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. event. The day will be under the direction of Fr. Robert Seguin, C.S.B. of Detroit. Cost for the day is $7.00 (includes lunch and dinner). Applications are now available, or call 254-2512 for more information.

Sunday, April 5
- A flute Quartet and Concert Pianist will appear at 3:00 p.m. at Iona College. Free admission.

Monday, April 6
- The Windsor Jewish Students Organization will hold its annual meeting in the Law School at 9:30 p.m. Nominations are open for the positions of President and Vice-President. All Jewish students are encouraged to attend.

Wednesday, April 8
- Communion at Iona College, 208 Sunset Ave., at 12:15 p.m.
- Rise and let the sun shine in. Windsor Jewish Students Organization is having a kosher bagels and cheese breakfast in the Lumberton Dining Room, Vanier Hall from 8:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Come out and meet a new friend.

Thursday, April 9
- Iona College Student Supper at 5:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come for a healthy home cooked meal, 208 Sunset Ave.
- The Cancer Society will present the Lancaster Band at Cleary Auditorium starting at 9:00 p.m. Tickets are available at the Cancer Society Office for $6.00 a person. For more information phone 252-9942.

Sunday, April 12
- Sunday morning brunch at 11:00 a.m., followed by worship at 12:40 p.m. at Iona College.
- A flute Quartet and Concert Pianist will appear at 3:00 p.m. at Iona College. Free admission.

- Come and join the Coffee House fun and entertainment at Assumption University in the Blue Room at 8:30 p.m. For more information call Rocco at 736-2952. Everyone is welcome - bring a friend!
It's true: good things do come in small packages

by Scott McCallieh

Lance Staff Reporter

Like Paul Roberts, with whom The Lance talked last week, Linda Staudt is an outstanding distance runner in her last year of Human Kinetics at the University. She holds eleven Lancerette records and was awarded most valuable female participant on the track and field team in both her first year (1977-78) and her third year. Now in her fourth year, Staudt has been awarded the Banner Shield as the University's top female athlete, an honor she shared last year with swimmer Lori Scott.

And her talents have lifted her far beyond an intercollegiate level in her new-found race. Staudt is currently ranked third among Canadian women in the marathon and eighth in the world.

Strangely enough, she, like Roberts, was not an exceptional athlete coming out of high school. "I was good for my area," she recalls, "but in terms of the whole province I was just your average runner. I made it to OPSA in grade 13 in the 3,000 metres and I got literally blown away," admits the five-foot, one hundred and five pound native of Windsor.

It wasn't until that 3,000 that Staudt really began to train seriously. "Before that, I would start training for spring track when I came back from March break, and when that was over, I'd stop again." Staudt started with the 400 metres in grade nine and worked her way up to the longer distances as they began to be introduced for girls over the next few years. "When I made it to OPSA in grade 13 I figured, lets see what I can do if I train all year round."

That summer she joined the South Windsor Knights of Columbus Track Club, where she is still a member. Its coaches, Bob Mallinson and Emmy McBride, assisted University coach Dr. Michael Salter last fall.

Upon coming to the University, Staudt was impressed by Dr. Salter's philosophy. "His attitude didn't put emphasis on winning. He just wanted you to do your best as long as you gave one hundred percent," explains Staudt.

"It's nice to not have that kind of pressure. You don't need it. We don't have it, and yet we've done very well."

Staudt won a bronze medal in the 3,500 metres at the OUAA finals in the fall of her first year. The time was 4:55. "The 3000 was my best event," says Staudt, "but the field was better and I got fourth." She captured the bronze for the 3,000 the next year, this time running 10:08.0.

She ran the same time and got the same position again the following year, also picking up a silver in the 1,500 in 4:48. As the 3,000 really began to click for Staudt, she ran a 3,000 metres in 9:56. "It was one of the highlights of my career," Staudt said.

The marathon is now Linda's race

A half marathon (about thirteen miles) which Staudt ran that year began a chain of events that was to lead to her present status as a marathoner. "I won by about a minute, which was a real surprise," Staudt admits. The race was part of a series sponsored by Avon, who awarded the Windsor runner a trip to Pasadena for a 30 kilometre (18.6 mile) run there.

"I started to train hard for that," Staudt says, "hoping to just get a good time. I came in a very unexpected third." The top five were invited to London, England to run a marathon. "My first thought when I came across the finish line was 'oh no, now I have to train for a marathon,'" Staudt laughs. "Her training resulted in a 2:37:58 time for the twenty-six mile, 385 yard distance, the seventeenth fastest time that any woman had run the race.

How much training does Staudt do? "Right now I'm running 75 to 80 miles a week," Staudt says. "I run twice a day about three times a week, and go for about 18 miles on Sunday." In the fall and winter, Staudt does intervals a week. "And for hills, there's always the Ambassador bridge."

This year "has been by far the best. Every year I've managed to build a little on the year before. In first year, I never would have thought my times would have come 1,500 metres and 9:56. Staudt won a silver medal in the 3,000 metres and a bronze in the 1,500 at the Ontario final in the fall and placed fourth in cross-country at both the provincial and national levels."

"My biggest surprise this year was running 9:40 for the 3,000 this winter at the OU's," says Staudt. "I'd been training for that half-marathon in Pasadena and not doing any speed work. I was really happy with the time."

Staudt will be going to the University of Waterloo next year for a Masters in Exercise Physiology and will have to sit out from university competition for a year because of the transfer rule.
Law A, Tecumseh claim intramural hockey titles

The Tortosiers of Law A claimed supremacy in Division A men’s hockey last Thursday with a thrilling 3-2 overtime victory over the Engineering A team.

Bobby Simpson poking a rebound past Engineering goaltender Mark Eckart with just over two minutes gone in the overtime period to give Law the win.

Simpson had scored what appeared to be the winner in regulation when he beat Eckart on the short side to break a 1-1 deadlock with just 2:19 remaining in the game.

But the Engineering team pulled Eckart from the nets with 1:25 left and exactly one minute later Greg Stoso took a pass from Kevin Parent and banged home the equalizer.

Parent scored the first-period Engineering goal, while Doug Walker got the opening goal for Law.

The teams then played two full periods of close-checking, scoreless hockey with Tecumseh goaltender Sam Nicotera turning aside several testing drives in the latter stages of the game.

The Tortosiers of Law A claimed the Division A championship over the Nimrods.

Law 3 Eng. Soc. 2

First Period

3. Law. Walker (unassisted) 3:15
2. Eng. Parent (unassisted) 12:20
Penalties: Parent (Eng.) 4:09, Foster (Eng.) 6:09, Foster (Eng.) 9:10.

Second Period

Scoring: None

Penalties: Crawford (Law) 2:10, Foster (Law) 9:52, Horchik (Law) 13:37, Stover (Eng.) 13:42.

Third Period

Scoring: None

Penalties: Docherty (Chiefs) 1:48, Polychuk (Chiefs) 14:46

Chiefs 2 MBA 1

First Period

Scoring: 1. Chiefs, Cameron (Polychuk) 2:25
2. Chiefs, Friyia (White) 11:50
3. MBA, Trottier (Semenko) 1:28
Penalties: Hudson (MBA) 6:28, Friyia (Chiefs) 14:01, Martin (MBA) 15:00

Second Period

Scoring: None

Penalties: Docherty (Chiefs) 1:48, Polychuk (Chiefs) 14:46

Third Period

Scoring: None

Jets win ball hockey

The Jets took the overall championship of men’s intramural ball hockey with a convincing 8-3 win over the Nimrods in the final played March 19.

It was the second ball hockey championship in a row for the Jets who, with the retirement of 90 percent of their players this year, will have to rely on the recruiting abilities of Jim Weese and Rick Patterson in building another championship team.

In the championship game, the Jets proved to be too much for the very tired Nimrods. Had it not been for some outstanding net work by Roland Schwall of the Nimrods, the score could have been much higher.

At the other end, Jet’s goaltender Nick Pszeniczny played a steady game and kept the Nimrods at bay until the latter stages of the game.

For the Jets, it was Don Johnstone and Jimmy Weese with two goals apiece. Singles went to Tom Kirby, Rick Patterson, Mark Thoburn and Don Martin. For the Nimrods, it was Dave Sanders, Steve Pauley and Chris Mart.

Members of the winning team are: Tom Kirby, Don Johnstone, Weese, Nick Pszeniczny, Mike Foley, Paul Parsons, Rick Patterson, Wally “Seaway Scoring Champ” McFadden, Breyer Phillips, Mark Thoburn and Don Martin.

In semifinal action, it was the Jets upsetting the division I champion Canadian Hostages by a score of 8-4. It was the first loss of the season for the Hostages who had entered the playoffs with an 11-0-1 mark, one of those wins being a 4-3 victory over the Jets.

For the losers, it was Marty Stover with a pair, and Mike McGee and Peter “Mr.” Cobbs with one each.

In the other semifinal, once again the Nimrods pulled an upset as they defeated Semenko’s by a score of 2-1. The Nimrods got standout goaltending from Schwall and goals from Mero and Steve Charbonneau.

Scott Kolody replied for the losers.

League Awards

Best Offensive Team: Jets (117 goals)
Art-Mars (76)

Best Defensive Team: Hostages (155)
Jets (146)

Leading Scorer: Jim Weese (Jets) 30
Don Martin (Jets) 31
Satch Orlando (Art-Mars) 28

Leading Goalie: Mike Quinn (Hostages) 2.92
GAA
Nick Pszeniczny (Jets) 3.00
GAA
1st annual Sports Awards Banquet

Peter Ott

The finest of the University’s student-athletes and those who have made contributions to the benefit of sports at the University were rewarded for their excellence Tuesday night at the first annual Sports Awards and Recognition Banquet. Although awards are handed out annually, it was the first time in many years that a banquet has been held for that purpose and the response showed clearly that athletics is alive and thriving at this institution.

Winners of the most prestigious awards the University offers, the President’s Shield and the Bannister Shield for outstanding male and female athlete of the year respectively, were fences Peter Ott and basketball star Stan Korosec in a tie for the men’s honor, and Linda Staudt the year for women. Ott also won the Wayne State Competition and Great Lakes Championship for outstanding male student-athletes and those who held up in place of a porous defense. Finished with GAA of 4.98.

Korosec’s accomplishments were no less impressive as he led the Lancers to their third straight OUAA western division title. The 6’7” center was also named the OUAA west MVP and the OUAA co-MVP, both for the second straight year, and became the first Lancer ever to be named to the first all-Canadian basketball team at the national finals in March. Korosec led the nation in rebounding (14.7 per game) and field goal percentage (66.9 percent) while averaging 19.9 points per game.

Voted in second straight year, and became the first Lancer athlete to strike gold at the Ontario indoor final this year (in the 600 meters). Only athletes in equestrian to qualify for three events at national indoor finals where he finished fifth in the 3000 meters and sixth in the 6000.

The Dave West Memorial Trophy — awarded annually to the outstanding male and female student-athletes and those who have made contributions to the benefit of sports at the University — was awarded to athletics of Windsor: Ted Dwyer, Lilly Sukunda, Mel Raskin, Nick Grabowski, Rob Bridgeman, W Awards — to all champions in league competition: Gillian Stevens, Rob Micheli, Coach Don Wilson (Swimming), Andy Buckstein, John Key, Paul Roh-ers, Coach D. M. Salter (Track and Field), Chris Herijje, Coaches Bill Miles and John Harcar (Golf), Peter Ott, Wayne Walcrak, Dave March, Lilly Sukunda (Fencing).
APARTMENT FOR RENT: Unfurnished. Near campus. $209. 258-5208 or 256-0587.

AVAILABLE TO RENT: 2-bedroom duplex. Living room, dining room, kitchen, 3 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms. Minutes from shopping facilities, bus routes, 5 minutes walk to campus. $295 per month plus utilities. Available May to August 31. Call 457-4036.

MAJURE MALE ROOMATE wanted: Student dwelling within walking distance of campus for the current year. Prefer quiet and intelligent non-smoker and possibly near boy. Contact Laura Watters at 255-0544 from April 6 on.

TWO BEDROOM furnished apartment to sublet from May 2 to Sept. 1. Includes heat, lights, water. $145 per month. Contact: John at 256-4936. For appointment to view.

HELP ME GET RID OF MY CLUTTER: I really want to get rid of the following photographic equipment: Rolleiflex 600, Yashica 35, Rolleiflex 660. Ask to look through the second floor of the University Centre or call 255-0433 or EXT 143 on campus.

VOLUNTEERS are required to work with the Mentally Retarded. Immediate openings as companion, group, friendly visitor, and tutor. There are available positions. Call Volunteer Services at 255-4357 for more information. MARY ANNE: Want a sandpit? - Love, Dogie.

DESIGNER: WOmen's CLOTHES WANTED: Contact Mrs. L. Cornish at 255-1976 between 9 and 9 p.m. or Saturday at 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Commision every Wednesday at 12:15. Suppers on Thursday at 5:30 p.m. $12.00 for a Home Cooked Meal. Feel free to stop in anytime. FOUND: Pocket calculator. Owner can claim by identifying in SAC office, second floor, University Centre. Call 256-0594.

beard is a full head of air.

20,000 REWARD for anyone with information leading to the finding of an opal ring which was lost at a party at 232 Samson on Saturday, March 14. Please contact Jeff Brandon (253-3686).

LORD, 7:00 p.m. Mass at University Chapel. (please opposite "$nake-won U niver sity Ave."

GREAT sentimental value. Call 966-1694. Reward !

PL EASE - LOST: Thin white wedding band with name inscribed on it. Also, a University of Windsor keychain. Please return. Thank you.

POSITIONS: PRESIDENT VICE PRESIDENT TREASURER SECRETARY CARISA MEMBERS: We finally got letters from Pierre (our child in China). We will be posted in the ISO Centre. Also, anyone interested in a position at U.W.L. Barbados (especially you1 Rev. H. Barbour) with position newsletter with positions open will also be posted in the ISO Centre.

VINTAGE 1976 L>atsun 280Z. Great condition. 141,250 miles. Phone 256-4936 for more information.

FOR SALE: 1975 Honda CB750F Supersport. Excellent condition. No reason not to offer refund. Call after 5:00 p.m. weekdays, return on weekends, as for Tom: 948-4200. WANTED: Almond tile: 12" x 12". Four tables. Table preferably square. Condition not a factor. Call 256-0587, or see Catholic SAC pub word. PLEASE: Lost thin wedding band with 3 small diamond chips in vicinity of university campus and parking lot. "B" (warched bridge). Great sentimental value. Call 261- 1032. (Wendy Chiou.

\THE LANCE, Vol. LIII, No. 25, April 3, 1981, Page Twelve

TO SUBLET: May 1 to August 31, 2 bedroom furnished, 10 minute walk to campus. $290 per month plus utilities. Available May 2. Phone 253-4157 for more information.

DON'T: You've the sympathy of me.

MARY ANNE: You owe me some.

United Church Campus Ministry, 256-7272. Sunday Morning Immediate openings on the 7:45 a.m. Marcus for all interested parties to come to an off-campus meeting with me in my office. April 4 at 9 a.m. Call 253-0799 for more info.

MARY ANNE: Unify the same.

UNITED CHURCH Campus Ministry, 256-7272. Sunday Morning Immediate openings on the 7:45 a.m. Marcus for all interested parties to come to an off-campus meeting with me in my office. April 4 at 9 a.m. Call 253-0799 for more info.

MARY ANNE: Unify the same.

LUH VEH: 1976 L>atsun 2802. 5 incit tire rims for $100. Call 256-2246.

10. WO IIEOLOOM furnished apartment to sublet from May 2 to Augus t 31. Phone 253-2645 for more information.

Jazz lover. Call Lauri e Weinroth at 256-0954 from April 6 on.

CARISA MEMBERS: We finally get letters from Pierre (our child in China). We will be posted in the ISO Centre. Also, anyone interested in a position at U.W.L. Barbados (especially you). For information with positions open will also be posted in the ISO Centre.

GIVIL MARYANNE AND DUDJIE!!

WINTER WORKING ROCK BAND seeks accomplished bass player, preferably with vocals. Call Pat: 945-7645 or capabilities extension 125. TOSHIA is in want system, 253-8192. AVAILABLE: 60 wine bottles for winner of Montrealer contest. A 12-pack of beer takes them all, 256-9044.

KEND ANLEOUI INSURANCE COMPANY.

GENERAL AND LIFE INSURANCE

Auto Insurance is Compulsory! - High prices are not

Call us at 966-6112

5915 MALDEN ROAD

WINDSOR, ONTARIO N9H 1S6

SUMMER ACCOMMODATION 1981

TECUMSEH HALL - FULLY FURNISHED

TWO, THREE AND FOUR BEDROOM APARTMENTS AVAILABLE

FROM MAY THROUGH AUGUST PLEASE CONTACT

THE OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF RESIDENCE AND FOOD SERVICES

44 VANIER HALL

TELEPHONE: 253-4222 EXT. 644

NOW AVAILABLE ON CAMPUS

\MEETING

\LEAGUE CLUB ELECTION MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1981

Rms. 1, 2, 3 University Centre from 4:15

POSITIONS: PRESIDENT VICE PRESIDENT TREASURER SECRETARY

\THE LANCE, Vol. LIII, No. 25, April 3, 1981, Page Twelve
THE IRRATIONAL ENQUIRER

THE SECRET PERVERSITIES OF OUR ATHLETES

"This Thing Has Been Going On For Years"

Pub Ceiling
Crashes Down On Happy Inhabitants

page 5

***
Man Experiences
Weightlessness as
He Drifts From Body

page 15

***
What's In Store
For Aries This Month

page 14

***
Ex-Nazi Found in University Tunnels

page 6

***
Pathetic President of the University
Scientific Fact: White Shirts Cause Coneheads went back to their other countrywide experiment participants and found the same type of thing was happening to a large percentage of them. Over six months of regular wearing of white shirts will cause this peculiar problem.

Experimenters then removed the white shirts from the subjects and within one month the cone reverted back into the normal shape of the head. They then began giving the subjects small doses of white shirts at a time to build up an immunity and it was found to have significant effects on reversing the problem.

At the end of the six month period of testing with low level doses of white shirts the participants displayed no conehead symptoms. However, side effects were still prevalent in the form of black leather shoes and pince-nez.

The report, although it mentions no specific names, goes on to say that the participants in these experiments have since provided the basic groundwork for many of the past's best civil servants, professors, and MacDonald's employees.

The document also alluded to experiments showing how neckties caused claustrophobia in white mice and library personnel. However, it was unknown whether or not these facts could be related to the stigma of white shirt wearing.

Also in the 1950's report was the idea that tenure caused vegetation in professors over a period of ten years but, according to the papers, that was still an idea that had to be further explored before any decisions could be made.

Coneheads A Fad of the Past

In a special, secret, and otherwise unknown report released today by the provincial government, it was discovered by the ENQUIRER that university students of over four decades ago were subjected to bizarre psychological behavior modification tests which resulted in the experiment subjects developing unusual cone shaped growths on their heads.

The experiments, conducted in the late 1940's with a cross section of the nation's university students, examined the strict enforcement of new dress codes on the student population.

The report focuses on one campus where ten students were observed for two months while they abandoned their zoot suits and saddle shoes for starched white shirts and proper dress pants. The experimenters found that, within this group, after the first month and a half, seven of the participants began to notice odd sensations with their heads and an intense craving for Mr. Sno Cones.

From observing this the experimenters decided to explore further. After a few months of these extended experiments the incredible growths on the participants heads began to grow embarrassingly noticeable among the seven who had been suffering from the Sno Cone symptoms. Further experimentation, along with the introduction of different variables, finally reached the conclusion that white shirts cause coneheads!

After this was found to be the case the experimenters began testing new methods to reverse the conehead symptoms. They found that by using low level doses of white shirts and a period of time the coneheads could be reversed.

These coneheads are carrying on as they did in normal life. Their friends find it hard to believe, and even harder to believe they're still the same people they were before the transformation.

Politeness Helps

Tests conducted by the students of the psychology department yesterday showed that students in all departments worked better if they were exposed to at least ten minutes of kind words from their professors during each lecture.

The tests further showed that 34% of the students tested would even return the compliments the professors gave them.

When questioned, Dr. Henry MacDonald admitted that this was something that had long been wondered at by the psychology faculty. He added that the conclusions were no surprise to him.

May you eat dog and live long — The Birth of A Nation
Scientists Are Driving Rats To Extinction

Larry Bergaine

Reports have been issued from various researchers in the past few years on diet pop, bacon, coffee and other common household goods such as formaldehyde causing cancer in rats. The public has been led to believe that these results are applicable to humans and this application was the researchers’ point.

However, no links have been found between rats and humans except for some common personality traits. The biologists have really been searching for a way to introduce cancer into the rat populations of the world.

The source, who is in a top Humane Society office, wishes to remain anonymous at this time to protect her job. “My boss wouldn’t like it that I’ve been looking through his files; he didn’t hire me for my filing abilities.”

She agreed to talk to us because of her concern for animals. “Rats are such cute, fuzzy little things with big, bright eyes . . . I just couldn’t sit here and let them be murdered like that.”

She is especially interested because of the means of killing used. “My uncle – well, he wasn’t really my uncle, but my mother said to call him that – he died of cancer, and it was just awful! I couldn’t stand the thought of those sweet little creatures dying like that.”

The "research" has been going on all over Canada and the United States and has led to a shortage of rats, especially the white laboratory type. Ads for rats of this kind to be used in “cancer research” at many universities are common in many biological and medical journals.

The disease apparently is not as prevalent among other kinds of rats, according to researchers from our urban bureau their numbers still seem quite high.

Our source and a gentleman friend of hers who also prefers to remain anonymous at present plan to start a “Rescue the Rats” movement. “Once enough donations come in, we can really get going and save the rats from researchers.”

Added her gentleman friend, “Rats are becoming a species in dangerous (sic). That can mess up the balance of nature. We want to make the world safe for rats, just like the Americans in World War I.”

The organization has not been formally started due to the gentleman’s legal problems and lack of community support. The founders are not discouraged, feeling that the main problem is lack of public awareness.

Once people realize how the little darlings are being slaughtered, of course they’ll want to help. This support is what we’re counting on in our plans. We hope to take a world trip for the cause soon.”

They hope to have all problems worked out in a few months, so that Rescue the Rats can get going. Meanwhile, research for cancer-causing agents continues with rats.

Look Like Orca? Could Win A Trip

Do you or one of your friends look like The Lunch’s dead pet fish, Orca? If so, you could win a whale of a prize in the ENQUIRER’S Orca Look-Alike Contest.

We’re searching the Detroit River region for the student who most closely resembles The Lunch’s mascot. And when we find that person, we’ll award them with a free trip down the Amazon River deep in the uncharted cannibal rain forests of Brazil with a one week supply of oxygen, and publish their picture in a future edition of Aquariums.

To enter our Orca Look-Alike contest, just send us a photo in which you most closely resemble him.

Our editors will examine all entries and choose the person who, in their opinion, looks most like Orca. That person will be declared our winner and we’ll send them their ticket and a dozen bags full of oxygen for their journey. The decision of the judges will be subject to the approval of the Ministry of Fisheries and Recreation.

Be sure to include your name, address and phone number when you mail your entry to:

Orca Look-Alike, IRATIONAL ENQUIRER, Knossos, Crete. If you wish to have your photo returned, please include a stamped, self-addressed, waterproof envelope.

Hurry – all entries must reach us no later than March 2, 1981.

If you don’t like the Irrational Enquirer, you can always Burnett.
University Experimented on Athlete’s Sexuality

Experiments undertaken by the University of Windsor through the human kinetics faculty have resulted in abnormal sexual patterns in many varsity athletes, the ENQUIRER has learned.

According to an administration source, the university tested several experimental techniques over the past academic year designed to alter the brainwaves of Lancer athletes to reduce their interest in sexual activity. The feeling was that this would in turn focus the athletes’ attention on their particular sport.

“This kind of thing has been going on for years,” the source stated in an exclusive interview last week. “Back in the sixties the faculty performed studies involving various hallucinogenic drugs to achieve the same effect,” they found that after frequent use the athletes became so detached they had to be sent to St. Clair College.”

Although not completely successful, this year’s tests have already shown results. One girlfriend of an unidentified varsity athlete claimed she noticed changes as early as September of 1980.

“Up until September our sex life was great,” the girl said. “But it slowly tapered off to the point where we engaged in sex only three or four times a night. And that’s certainly not enough to satisfy me.”

Yet other information gathered by the ENQUIRER indicates that while some athletes slowed down, others began behaving in an unusual manner before, during and after the sexual act.

Another athlete’s young mistress confided that after her boyfriend, a member of the football team, achieved orgasm, he would, “hold me above his head, dance around the room, then spike me onto the floor.”

“And as if that wasn’t bad enough,” she continued, “he then insisted on going for the extra point.”

Other incidents include one athlete who installed a red light over the bed and hired a friend to judge ‘scores,’ and a track star who found he could prolong the sex act for no longer than 10 seconds.

Apparently the brain becomes confused and jumbles the two activities - sex and sports,” the administration source said. “After we learned what was happening, we discontinued our tests on wrestlers and fencers.”

The source further stated that Lancerette athletes had not been involved in the experiments since overdosing in sexual activity had never been a problem with them. However, he did indicate that tests were being made in order to coordinate scheduled games with those ‘heavy days’.

IRRATIONAL ENQUIRER

Copyright . . . they wouldn’t give one to us.
EDITOR: Randolf Hearst
EXECUTIVE EDITOR: Josef Goebbels
SENIOR EDITORS: Heinrich Himmler, Attila the Hun, Wendy Coomer, Benjamin Franklin, Little Ben, Big Ben, Uncle Ben’s Converted Rice
SENIOR STAFF EDITOR: Diptheria, Polio, Father Goldo Saracucci, Mr. Bubbles
GENERAL EDITOR: Douglas McArthur
ART EDITORS: Daffy Duck, Jacqueline Suzanne, Richard M. Nixon, Bill Buchanan, Oliver Wendell Holmes and his brother, Sherlock, Karl Marx, Carl Bernstein
ASSOCIATE EDITORS: Greenbaum, Greenbaum, and Klein
ASSISTANT EDITORS: Edward Paul Chant, Milly the Clown, Napoleon B., Laurel Brandt, Clark Kent, Cindy Hartogs, Bruntus (who inspects all papers very closely ... et tu and tu and tu ...), J. Andy Panda, Freddie Mercury, Paul Kane, Mary Gibb
SPECIAL FEATURES EDITOR: Gloria Steinem
SENIOR REPORTERS: Gottenburg, Steve Rice, Seneca, John Stuart Mills, Heracle Poirot, J.R.R. Tolkien, Ted Chant
SENIOR EDITORIAL ASSISTS: Discordites, Rudolph Hess, Mother Goose, Robert Guccione, Abbie Hoffman, Ichabod Crane, Hammmurabi, Lois Lane, F. Paul Chant, God., Ernie Rommel, Charles Dickens, Bernadette Devlin, Dr. Marcus Welby, Christopher Wondrow
EDITORIAL ASSISTANTS: Mr. Ed, Charlie McCarthy, Che Guevara, Secretariat, Mr. Potato Head, Mona Lisa, Ronald McDonald, Foxy Bear, Buster Keaton, Tarzan, Cassandra, Mae Marentette, Charles De Gauller, Dr. Bee Stephenson, Trigger, Joan of Arc, Peter Parker, Lassie, Dinosaurs, Niki LaRuechse, John Merrick, Sweet Polly Purebread, Flipper
ART DIRECTORS: J. P. Sedlar, Judy the Chimp, Andy Warhol, Ed D., McMaino, Michaelangelo, Marg Deutsch, Tom Thomson
EDITORIAL RESEARCH: Fred Broom, Tom Folke, King Alfred, Nicholas Copernicus, Henry Turner, Isaac Brock, Aristotle, Tarzan, Neil Armstrong, Hagar the Horrible, Marco Polo, Lief Erickson, Madame Blavatsky, Albert Einstein, Thomas More, Caesar, Verecund, Jeeves, Oliver Cromwell, Linaeus, Aetheol the Unready, Cld. Daniel Webster, Jim Henson, Peter Mark Rose, John Barleycorn, Freddie Bartholomew, Liffin Heilman, Mycroft Holmes, Akhenaton, Marcus Aurelius

See the mysteries of your soul. Hermes Rising can help you to uncover yourself. Send for free pamphlet today.

Send to Mystic Village, San Francisco.
Thousands Killed in Grim Pub Crash
Survivor Lives to Tell of Close Encounter

Out of the hundreds of students who were killed last week in the terrible cave-in at the University Centre, only Norman Greenbaum lived to tell the grisly story.

Hundreds were trapped in the student’s pub and the games room last week when a delegation of Overeaters Anonymous crowded in to the Speaker’s Pit near the vending machines in the Centre’s cafeteria, causing the floor in that area to collapse.

Norman recalls he was in the middle of his third Bock Knees of the afternoon when he first noticed the ceiling moving towards him.

"I didn't think anything of it," remembers Norman, "it often does that to me around this time of day. The walls sort of weave and the floor gets a little shaky. It just didn't strike me as odd that the ceiling was falling on me."

University security arrived on the scene about half an hour after the cave-in but were unable to pull anyone out of the rubble. They were repulsed by the victims, both in the pub and the games room, who refused to leave their beer and video games.

According to Security Chief Grant McKayball, "We couldn't do a damn thing. Every time we'd drag some kid out he'd yell 'leave my beer alone you guys' and run back in. Crazy punks."

Mr. Greenbaum, who barely managed to crawl out with a broken arm and two sprained knees but carrying his drink with his good arm while he squirmed through the jagged debris toward the light, says he didn't really want to leave but if he didn't get home by supper that night, his wife said she'd kill him. "When my wife says 'be home', you get home. You've never felt a right hook from her. She would've killed me if I had a stayed in the pub."

Pogy Stanton, the manager of the pub, was not in the basement at the time but arrived soon after the accident. When questioned by the ENQUIRER she could only stutter, "Get my beer out of there, please". Police had to lead her from the scene, glassy eyed and still mumbling incoherently.

Games room manager, Brick Dodder, was killed instantly when the Close Encounters video game fell on top of him. Two students playing the game at the time refused to help because to do so would have set the game off balance and they would have lost their free game.

Miraculously, the radio station next to the pub was left unscathed. Radio manager Grant Jelly said it must have been because they had God and the CRTC on their side.

Janitors finished cleaning up the mess yesterday. Some of the extra limbs found in the debris could not be matched to any of the bodies recovered so they will be sent off to the biology department for experimental purposes.

Norman Greenbaum says he hopes to get back to the pub as soon as his wife releases him from curfew. Although confined to a wheelchair now for life he hopes to begin drinking his week's supply of free liquor, courtesy of the pub, as soon as he can, provided the glass and cement can be sifted out of it.
A man claiming to be Adolf Hitler was found in a section of the tunnels under the University Centre at about 1:00 am last Friday morning. He had apparently been living in a janitor's closet for several years, surviving by making occasional raids on the vending machines in the Centre during the small hours.

Said one surprised Canteen of Canada official, "That explains why the machines had to be restocked so often." Nutrition experts are examining the man to learn how he could possibly still be alive.

"Hitler" was discovered by University of Windsor Security Guard F. Fosdick, a former police detective. "I was supposed to meet some of the other guys over at the Donut Place on Wyandotte, but I needed some money so I was going to the security office to get one of the lost wallets," he explained.

The security office is actually located in the basement of Windsor Hall and cannot be reached from the tunnels under the Centre but Fosdick said he was unaware of this. "I'm sure they used to be connected," he told the ENQUIRER.

The security officer's wanderings were interrupted by a commotion caused by four drunken punk rockers who had wandered down into the tunnels after a concert in Ambassador Auditorium. "Hitler" saw them scrawling swastikas on the walls and chose that moment to declare himself as the führer of the Third Reich.

"I heard a commotion," Fosdick said, "and came around a corner to see these four punks beating up on a little guy with a moustache. I shot three of them and knocked the other one out with the butt of my revolver." At this point, "Hitler mistook Fosdick for a storm trooper and ordered him through a secret passage in the Führerbunker. "I've been wandering through tunnels ever since," he said. "Eva, the little pervert, left me and ran off with a gopher somewhere underneath Spain."

Asked if he had any knowledge of the fates of other high ranking Nazis, he responded, "I lived with Bormann for a time in a wine cellar in Connecticut, but he kept getting drunk on the wine and smashing things. I was afraid he'd give us away so I left." F.B.I. agents and police are now conducting a house to house search of all wine cellars in Connecticut and surrounding states.

At this very moment, doctors, dental and fingerprint experts as well as several gurus and tea leaf readers are examining "Hitler" to determine if he is indeed the man he claims to be. He is being kept in the old district court and gaol on Sandwich Street, which is being turned into a maximum security prison.

The man has already attracted a number of celebrities to Windsor, as well as several men believed to be agents of the Israeli Mossad. Noted Nazi hunters Simon Wiesenthal and Ladislav Farago are rumoured to be in town and Norman Mailer was spotted chowing down on some gyros in Pita at Olympic Sub on Wyandotte. The author of biographies of Marilyn Monroe and killer Gary Gilmore apparently wants to do a book on Hitler. Mailer will be competing with representatives of Doubleday and McClelland and Stewart, both of whom are prepared to offer huge advances for Hitler to write his story himself. "He's already had one best-seller," said Jack McClelland, "Mein Kampf."

David Frost and Barbara Walters are both seeking exclusive television rights.

Keep watching the ENQUIRER for further developments.
This Boy Needs Your Help

Once a happy-go-lucky teen-ager, with dreams of "making it big" some day, Arnold Kenny is now a pathetic, disgusting creature living the existence of a parasite with no meaning left in life for him.

Three years ago Arnold, a pale, sickly, diseased looking boy, but otherwise considered good-looking, was shot in the spine by police after holding up a liquor store. That shot severed his spinal cord and made him completely paralysed for the rest of his life.

But Arnold does not hold any blame against the police. It was dark and they acted on impulse, he says of the incident understandably. I'm sure they're very sorry for it.

Arnold spent a year and a half in a coma after that from convulsions to the head he suffered upon falling after being shot. His parents prayed daily for him by his bedside asking God to heal their little boy. Then one day, while his parents were kneeling in prayer in his room, his doctor came into the room with the news that Arnold also had cancer.

Arnold regained a few weeks later, his doctors saying they thought it was probably due to the changing body chemistry going on inside Arnold caused by the tumour eating away at his insides.

Arnold, now 27 years old, has no future to face at all.

He is confined to his bed with IV tubes stuck all over his body and his parents changing his bed for him twice a day and feeding him three times a day.

Arnold is depressed. He's only got 8 more months to live, with the doctors removing another dead part of his body almost every day. He needs someone to talk to. Wouldn't you like to write to Arnold?

Doctors advised his parents a year ago to shoot him and put him out of his misery but his parents kept hoping for some kind of miracle. Arnold has been looked at by many different kinds of doctors—witch doctors, faith healers, quacks, and even real ones—which should in itself be interesting enough to make you want to write to him. So far, though, nothing has made any difference. His parents are placing their last hopes on the ENQUIRER's readership to help pull Arnold through.

His parents say he just lays in bed watching television all day while the drool runs down his chin but they promise that if anyone writes to him, they'll make sure he answers all of his letters.

Won't you please write to Arnold Kenny, to make one of God's more unfortunate creations a little happier? If you feel it in your heart, please write:

Arnold Kenny, Box 02, Bricklin, Ontario. Please add $3.00 with it so Arnold will be able to buy stamps to reply to you.

Shocked by the news of the Reagan attempted assassination, this little lady armed herself to the teeth hoping to enlist as a secret service agent. However, upon reaching the capitol city she was informed that her height and weight would create somewhat of a problem. But they suggested instead that she look into the alternatives of being a mercenary. She's thinking about it.
President’s Mother’s Secret

In one of her very rare appearances before the press, University President Mervin Crankshaft’s mother, Bertha, revealed in an interview with the Irrational Enquirer last Sunday, the trials and tribulations of her son, Mervin, the profound misery he has endured since the time of his near miscarriage nearly 60 years ago. Inviting our reporter into her home Mrs. Crankshaft sat in a room fondly filled with pictures of the president, ready to reveal to us, and to you, the secret past of president Crankshaft, a past which has been kept so carefully guarded for so many years.

Irr. Enq.: Bertha, tell us, with your own simple words and limited intelligence, just why you chose at this time to tell the world of your son’s personal triumph over his deeply-embedded psychologically neurotic Freudian sorrow?

Bertha: Well sir, it’s only been very recently that Mervin permanently lost his memory forever, and so he’ll never be able to tell the world all this himself, seeing that he can’t remember any of it and all. And someone has to do it.

Irr. Enq.: Tell us, Bertha, do you recall how the president lost his memory in the first place?

Bertha: Well, I guess I should start at the beginning...

Irr. Enq.: Please don’t bother.

Bertha: Oh, okay. Then we’ll start from about two months ago.

Irr. Enq.: Much better.

Bertha: It all started... um... I mean, two months ago, uh, when my little boy was quite depressed about some rude articles written by that darn student newspaper, The Lunch. And as if that wasn’t enough, one day Dr. Polo Cassini accidently poured coffee all over his favourite Bobo...

Irr. Enq.: His what??

Bertha: Bobo... you know... his teddy bear. Merry was so upset that he locked himself in his office inconsolable. His secretary heard his poor little whimpers, and then suddenly he screamed, “If The Lunch wants blood, I’ll give them blood!” She broke through the door and found him standing on the ledge outside his window, but when she tried to stop him... she reached out to hold him steady where he was... she accidently showed him off. Well, my poor little darling glided around the Tower a few turns with his arms outstretched like a big bird... everyone said it was just a beautiful sight... then he sort of plummeted...

Irr. Enq.: And then?

Bertha: Stop interrupting. I’m getting to that. Now where was I? Oh... he landed in one of the little trees near his office and just hung there for twenty minutes or so by his knees. Finally someone called the janitors, but as they were lifting him out of the tree, they dropped him on his head—an eight foot fall. I can sympathize with them though—Lord knows how many times I dropped him on his head when he was a baby.

Irr. Enq.: So that’s how he got amnesia?

Bertha: Nothing gets past you, sonny. Now can I start from the beginning?

Irr. Enq.: I’d rather you didn’t.

Bertha: Suck a pickle. Here it is, the whole awful truth. You see, my Mervin was a very good little boy even though he grew up in a bad neighborhood. Those Stephensons lived right around the corner, and

‘If The Lunch Wants Blood, I’ll Give Them Blood!’

by Randy Mandy and Ernie Wernst

President’s mother, Bertha, holding the President’s bum. No wonder the President is so messed up. And then to make him wear a dress! How cruel.
their little girl was a holy terror — always asking Mervin for money, and if he didn't give her whatever she asked for she'd start taking his toys away from him. We always told Mervin never to hit a girl. She works for the government now, of course.

Bertha: Yes. He had a terrible time in school too. We couldn't afford his textbooks or even a decent set of clothes for him. He had to go to school wearing his brother's sash and diapers. As you can imagine, some of the other children made rude faces at him sometimes.

Irr. Enq: How horrendous!
Bertha: Actually, that experience molded and shaped him ... it took his bare flesh and bones and twisted and forged him into what he is today.

Irr. Enq: Oh? And what's that?
Bertha: Why, only the most feared and dreaded president in the system. A president who the students whisper about in awe, a president of whom his staff speaks of with glowing admiration ... well ... he was when he had Bobo by his side. That darn Cassini! Now, (sniff) he's just a mindless vegetable. Now he's really my little pumpkin ... Ah, speaking of which, hello son ...

Mervin: Son? Where?
Bertha: You, my little dumpling! But I've told you never to come into the room with muddy shoes! And you've gotten your good pants dirty.

Mervin: What pants?
Bertha: I didn't raise you to be a little tramp. I've struggled and slaved for you for years to get you through college just so you could have that silly president's job someday. Oh, if your poor father could see you now ... I work my fingers to the bone and what do I get?

Mervin: (with a complacent, vacuous smile) Honey fingers?
Bertha: Don't you ever talk to your mother like that!

Mervin: What mother?
Bertha: Why, you little ... (smaaaaaaak!)

Mervin: (flies across the room and into the wall, struggling to his feet in a dazed condition) Mommy, where's Bobo?
Bertha: Son! You got your damn memory back! Praise the Lord!

Mervin: Where's that rotten Cassini? I'll kill 'im.

Irr. Enq: And so another one of these unbelievably stupid, insipid, and totally moronic hard luck stories ends in a sickeningly saccharine, equally unbelievable, miracle. God, I'm so happy, I could ... Oh, by the way, I almost forgot ... Bertha, tell us, what were those Lunch stories about ... the ones that caused Dr. Crankshaft all that pain?

Bertha: Oh those. They were just silly little stories about how Mervin had to ask the students for more money again. That Stephenson girl still won't leave him alone. I don't know why she ... wait. Mervin ... don't do that to the reporter ... Mervin ... put him down! Mervin!
Mrs. Emma Childbeater, a fine American citizen, recently won $900,000 in a lottery. This wonderful woman is planning to start an organisation to assist homeless young men. She also has a fascinating collection of devices in her dungeon.

Old Woman
Rejoices in Youth

Mrs. Emma Childbeater, a life-long recluse, was recently besieged by screaming relatives and friends when she presented her winning lottery ticket to the bank teller this week.

Now Mrs. Childbeater is $900,000 richer but even more of a recluse than before. She wouldn’t even talk to the ENQUIRER at first but finally agreed after three weeks of our harassement.

Said Mrs. Childbeater, “This money will help to add to my collection of whips, chains, and handcuffs.” Mrs. Childbeater has one of the finest privately-owned groups of torture instruments in the nation.

Her collection includes some objects originally owned by her hero and inspiration, the Marquis de Sade. She also has a bed of nails for every guest room in her house, along with several Iron Ladies for her infrequent visitors to relax in.

Mrs. Childbeater took the ENQUIRER on a tour of her humble little cottage, pointing out her other collections of antiques and butterflies. Pointing to one small bronze statue Mrs. Childbeater broke into tears and told us how much she missed the company who used to sit in her parlour Sunday mornings for tea. She says it has been many years since those days.

Breaking down completely, she recounted to the reporter how the young men used to come out of the woodwork of her cottage, just to be near her, and her iron maidens, and whips. Her hands shook as she reminisced about those times. Changing the subject quickly we asked her what she would do with her new money. Mrs. Childbeater announced that she would begin adding to her collection again. Her eyes brightened and her hands stopped trembling at the thought.

Mrs. Childbeater then led us into the cottage’s cellar where she kept her homemade cheese and preserves. The trip also included a short tour of her dungeon where a number of former young men hung by their wrists from the ceiling, fastened with chains, or sat in stocks or pillories.

After we had seen the whole house, Mrs. Childbeater offered us some of her homemade cookies and tea, which she had made herself from the hemlock and nightshade which grow in the forest near her house. “The young men just loved my little nightcaps,” she sobbed. “Every day at 4:00 sharp, we’d have tea.”

Besides increasing her collection, Mrs. Childbeater said she hopes to establish a foundation for young men with no homes. “Since this money came from the public, I feel that it’s my duty to help people with it, rather than using it just for my personal pleasure.”

Don’t let anyone tell you that America is going downhill because Mrs. Childbeater has shown us all that there are still fine people in this old world. And you can betcha that we’re all going over to Emma’s every Sunday from now on – with all of our friends too.

Physical Activity
Linked to Alcoholism

Playing a little tennis or jogging to keep in shape? Well hold onto your runners until you hear the report of the Federal Commission on Sports and Alcoholism.

According to the 10-page report released last week, which listed statistics compiled by the commission over the past 25 years, physical activity is directly related to alcohol consumption.

The study stated that each five minutes of exercise develops the need for one beer (or equivalent liquor) in the human body. As a result, those who involve themselves in physical activity, particularly athletes, are susceptible to alcoholism.

The report further stated that 99.9 percent of all athletes polled had at one time in their lives consumed more than three alcoholic beverages at one sitting, and that these ‘bings’ almost always followed athletic endeavour.

A similar poll taken at the University of Windsor over the past week by the ENQUIRER confirmed many of the report’s results.

Some 98 percent of varsity athletes at the University reported an uncontrollable urge to consume alcohol following games and practices. A similar number stated that many times they had partaken of the spirits to excess.

Pollsters also reported some abuse by coaches and assistants but this was attributed to the pressures of the job since they never became involved in physical activity of any sort.

For the weekend warrior, it may mean that you’re actually killing yourself with all that exercise. But all reports indicate it is a painless death.
Woman Gives Miraculous Birth

A biology student at St. Clair College will be remembered in history for bearing the most children at the same time and having them all live.

Mrs. Arlene Simcoe and her husband announced the births of their seven baby daughters late last night. All seven girls are doing well with each gaining weight at an amazing speed, said the doctors.

Although they are still a mere 6 ounces each, their parents are waiting until they've reached a plump 5 pounds before they take them home.

The doctors did not expect the last child born to live, as there were a few complications. "The last one was breach. Plus it was a blue baby, and also after the first six made it out the mother started haemorrhaging. Mrs. Simcoe also had a bad reaction to the local anaesthetic we gave her and suffered two massive coronaryes during the birthing process. But we all made it through all right," recounted one of the doctors.

However, Mrs. Simcoe refused to see reporters directly afterwards on account of the terrible stretch marks left her by the ordeal.

Mr. Simcoe, waiting eagerly outside the door of the maternity ward, was elated with the news that he was the father of septuplets. So elated, in fact, that he hired his girlfriend, who was waiting with him, immediately as a full time nanny for the children.

Up until nine months ago the Simcoe's had given up on ever having children. Two years after their marriage Mr. Simcoe, who worked at a nuclear power plant, found out he was sterile. Mrs. Simcoe had her uterus removed a year later on the advice of a quack. They knew their chances at conception were not good.

However, it seems that Mrs. Simcoe had had some experiences with some new kinds of fertility drugs supplied by her biology professors. It seems that the mischievous men of wisdom were slipping the hormones into Mrs. Simcoe's coffee while she wasn't looking, to study the effects they would have on her.

Now the Simcoe's are wondering where they are going to put all of the new little Simcoes. "They had to put them in the janitor's closet at the hospital because they ran out of room. Now what are we going to do? We don't have a janitor or even a closet," sighed Mr. Simcoe.

The mayor of the St. Clair county has since told the couple that the county is willing to donate to them an old fire-house that is no longer in use. Besides giving the Simcoe's a place large enough for their family, the mayor also thought the kids would have fun crawling around the high places and sliding down the pole. The building still smells a little of diesel fuel but the mayor was quite confident that the Simcoe's would get used to it after a while.
Beer: Could It Be A Cure-All?

Simply incredible, were some of the words used to describe the conclusions of a fascinating new study just conducted by scientists all over the world and assisted by the bartenders from those respective countries.

What everyone is marvelling at is the fact that beer might be proven a cure-all for every disease known to man — a panacea for the evils of the world.

The hypothesis came up in a discussion of scientists in Munich, Germany at an Oktoberfest. All around them they saw only healthy people and they wondered if there was anything to do with the beer they were drinking so they began experimenting with it.

After a while other countries asked to be part of the experiment too.

For two years now the scientists have been studying beer and watching its effects on the ill and the healthy.

One of the scientists, Dr. Manrice Winkle, said he hoped their findings would substantiate their theory of beer because the liquid is cheap and available to everyone, and it tasted so much better than cod liver oil.

"I've known many a brave lad," said Dr. Winkle, "who spent months at a time in a pub drinking down the malt, myself included, and I've never been sick a day in my life."

Dr. Winkle agrees with the other scientists in the idea that it is most likely the alcoholic content, if anything, in the beer which kills any germs in the human body. Another possibility is the somnambulistic tendency of hops, an ingredient of beer.

The thought was that perhaps the hops slowed everything in the body down to a speed so slow that disease couldn't disturb anything so laid back as a drunken human.

However, the tests are by no means completed yet. The scientists say it will take a few more years of testing beer and watching each other for the effects. But you know that when we get the final conclusions to this question, you'll be the first to know.

Munich, Germany at an Oktoberfest. All around them they saw only healthy people and they wondered if that had anything to do with the beer they were drinking so they began experimenting with it.

After a while other countries asked to be part of the experiment too.

For two years now the scientists have been studying beer and watching its effects on the ill and the healthy.

One of the scientists, Dr. Manrice Winkle, said he hoped their findings would substantiate their theory of beer because the liquid is cheap and available to everyone, and it tasted so much better than cod liver oil.

"I've known many a brave lad," said Dr. Winkle, "who spent months at a time in a pub drinking down the malt, myself included, and I've never been sick a day in my life."

Dr. Winkle agrees with the other scientists in the idea that it is most likely the alcoholic content, if anything, in the beer which kills any germs in the human body. Another possibility is the somnambulistic tendency of hops, an ingredient of beer.

The thought was that perhaps the hops slowed everything in the body down to a speed so slow that disease couldn't disturb anything so laid back as a drunken human.

However, the tests are by no means completed yet. The scientists say it will take a few more years of testing beer and watching each other for the effects. But you know that when we get the final conclusions to this question, you'll be the first to know.

People smile and tell you you're the lucky one,
But we've just begun
I think I'm gonna buy a gun
And even though I ain't got money
I can still get my face on national television
So there
David Hinkle in a letter to Jody Foster

Professors Buying Essays

A source with a source inside Windsor Hall Tower revealed to the ENQUIRER late last week that a number of professors have been put on probation by the city's police department for involvement in a massive essay smuggling ring.

Told the informant, the professors would purchase essays from mail-order supply outlets and substitute them for the students' papers when they were handed in. The informant related many instances when the paper he received back from his professor was of much lower quality than the one he had handed in. Subsequently the informant would find a mark to match this lower form of literary laureate.

The informant also said many of his friends had noticed the same things happening to them — the papers they were getting back from the professors were quite awful and not the ones they were handing in.

These students are now forming an organization to help other students who find themselves in the same position. Their only worry is the stigma of these bad marks will not prevent anyone from coming forward.
Foreign Diet Plan Eats
The Fat Away in Minutes

Pills Pare Away Plumpness

Artist’s conception
by Laurie Berga

"I lost 100 pounds in a month!"

Yes this amazing quote is definitely true. Mrs. Marilyn Le Livre was introduced to a miraculous new protein diet only one month ago and she has had some obvious results.

"I’ve tried everything to slim down. Starvation diets, liquid diets, sugarless diets, you name it. But I’ve never been able to stick to one long enough to lose those few extra pounds."

This remarkable new diet consists of only one regulation; You must eat six square meals per day.

Now we know all you girls (and guys) are looking at yourself and saying "How can anyone lose these extra inches by eating six meals per day?"

Well, all you have to do is take one little pill and 'presto'. No, it isn’t a diet pill, at least not in the conventional form. No drugs.

A scientist in India has come up with a way to get a single tapeworm larva into a capsule. You simply swallow the capsule after each meal and let the worm do its thing. It consumes all of the food intake and 'away go your rolls.'

We talked to Dr. Hezend, chief of medical research at India general hospital, to get first hand information on this incredible pill. No one could understand Hezend, so we had to wait for a diplomat from the Canadian embassy to translate for us.

"You only need one. Two and they would fight over the food. No don’t take two."

When asked if it was safe for a human being to actually swallow a capsule containing a larva of one of the most feared pestilences of mankind, he replied, "Sure it is safe, and they are easily removed. The only draw back is that you must come to our clinic here in India.

So all of you who feel you could “lose a few”, contact Dr. Hezend, who will set the cost, depending on how much weight you want to lose and what kind of parasite would do the best job.

We all wish Mrs. Le Livre luck on her trip to India next week.

---

Student Quiz

Is Your Professor Hitting On You?

By Holly Hooters

Do you ever get the feeling you get more attention than the rest of the students in the class? Is your Prof. attentive to more than your academic needs? To find out how you score, answer yes or no to the following questions:

1. Do you get the distinct feeling, that the little voice whispering answers in your ear during exams isn’t your guardian angel?

2. Are you a deaf and dumb student, and if so, has your Prof. ever asked you to his/her office for an oral exam?

3. Has the prof. ever given you a rose, box of candy or small foreign car for no apparent reason?

4. Did the Prof. ever tell you his/her office hours were from 10 p.m. to 8 a.m.?

5. Does the Prof. close the office door and bolt it with a safety chain during your interviews?

6. Does he/she have a mirror on the ceiling over their desk?

7. Did you get an A+ on that essay you never handed in?

8. Were you an F average student before your zits started clearing up, or you started filling out your designer jeans?

9. Does your Prof. stumble over words or drool at all when he/she looks at you?

10. Has a Prof. ever asked you to accompany him/her to an overnight speaking engagement in another city “because he/she needs someone to turn the pages”?

11. If your Prof. is in Comm. Studies, has he/she ever asked you to star in a private production?

12. Has a Prof. of yours ever thrown darts at a picture of their spouse in your presence?

13. Does your Prof. ever sit on your lap when he/she lectures?

14. Has he/she suddenly moved next door?

15. Has your Prof. ever driven up to the bus stop where you were waiting and asked “want some candy little darling?” (in a husky voice).

If you answered yes to 8 or less, be careful. If you answered no to all of them, get out of town. If you didn’t answer yes to any of them, forget it — Henry the 8th wouldn’t date you.

---

What is your fate
Would you like to know
Who will you marry,
when will you strike it rich
For consultation, contact
Madame Ibn Alabib.
Just send me the message on the universal wavelength
What Do The Stars Hold in the Future For You?

General

Your most famous comrade-in-arms is, of course, Adolph Hitler who stated many times throughout his life that, indeed, the Aryan people were his favourite kind of folks. Birds of a feather, as they say...

Because of their fiery natures, Ariens were the originators of the term "burnouts" which referred to their heated nature which is also used sometimes to describe dogs and cats "in season". You will often be observed bursting out in song in the most unusual places with Foreigner's "Hot Blooded". Places such as public swimming pools, dressing rooms, and the school cafeteria.

You have a personality which will get you a good number of spectators in your life time. No one provides as entertaining an evening as you, although your dates may not appreciate the energy with which you throw yourself into those late-night street fights. Just as well — you’re better off without those deadbeats anyway.

Business

The job world looks very active for you this month. The stock yards are the place for you and you could wear off that extra energy by punching out a side of beef while you’re there.

However, if dead, filthy, bloody, corrupting, putrid food turns you off you might try fire-fighting. Either that or arson. No one loves a good marshmallow roast like you do. Many an enterprising Aries has made his fortune through fires. One wonders if Nero and Charles II of England weren’t perhaps born under the Ram.

Doors of opportunity will open before you, especially around the middle of the month. You may consider this as an invitation to become a milkman or a postman, but if you do, watch out for indiscreet propositions from the opposite sex. Spring is in the air and reputations could be thrown to the wind, or out for the count.

Write a novel, right a wrong, pet a cat, pet a friend, befriend a cat ... You might think about investing in a liquor store, seeing as how the one down the block from you relies mainly on your money already to keep it running.

Money

Money will only be as far for you as the next street corner this month. You will find many people eager to give you generous financial assistance when you’re barely left with the shirt on your back.

However, beware of triple Cancers for they will only tend to eat into your resources, your refrigerator, your beer supply, your sanity ...

Watch out for unwise investments within the next three weeks. The Moon is conjunct Uranus in the eighth house which may do wonders for your love life but you won’t get lucky on the stock market at all.

Canadian Tire money will be at a premium soon and you know it, which explains why you have been stuffing it all under your mattress for the last two years. The trick now is to find the right bank to invest it in...

Land is a good investment at this time and Florida is such a wonderful place right now. How about that little dream cottage right on the edge of a nice big swamp, eh?

Romance

Fur will fly this month and you’ll be standing there with whip and chains in hand making sure it does. But words don’t come easily to you — probably because no one wants to speak to you — and you know intuitively that actions speak louder than words anyway. In fact, they usually end up screaming.

Let your lover do “interesting” things to your bald spot, take up a musical instrument, get a ouija board, are you bored? Do you sit on a board? Do you like sleeping on boards? With nails in it?

These urges may be alleviated by concentrating more on those essays that were due last week, Lawrence Welk music, antibiotics, moving back in with mom and dad, taking a rest from that burlap underwear...

If there is no special love interest in your life right now forget it because no one at all finds you interesting. Try taking root with a Taurus or vegging out in a dark corner by yourself. You’ll respect yourself more for it in the end.

The mystical medallion of the Antediluvian religious class can be yours. Wards off all evil. Send $5.95 to The Kno-Tik II, Knossos, Crete and receive your lucky medallion.
Out of body experiences can be fascinating. Observe this woman above with the split personality. Life is amazing.

"It's like entering another dimension — a world without space or time, a place of light and sound. Follow the guidepost around the next corner to... It's really weird," says University of Windsor bio-chemistry student I. M. Spaced, describing his out-of-body experiences.

The experiences can occur any time or place; there seems to be nothing special triggering them. "I can be sitting in my class one minute and the next thing I know is I'm going down a tunnel. I'm trying to get to the end of the tunnel; there's a light down there. Then a voice says 'No, it's not his time yet,' and — zap — I'm back in class."

Spaced is a graduate student, doing his major research on the effects for rabbits of various plants they normally shun. "The plants are generally mild hallucinogens giving pretty interesting results," he explains. "None of them are toxic. I'm not the type to ever kill a rabbit."

Recalled the delicate-looking, meticulously dressed student, "The incidents started after a rather disappointing experiment. I fed the rabbits a little bit of something a friend sent me from India. He said the heads of the latest sect there — the Lucynsky-diamondskevala — use it all the time, and it cleans and purifies them.

"It didn't have much effect on the bunnies. They just kept on hopping."

Spaced's first "trip" took place the same day as his disappointing rabbit experience. "I was trying to analyze what was left of the stuff while I was having my veggies for lunch, but I couldn't find it anywhere. Then, all of a sudden, I was floating in the air in the lab. I could see my body sitting at the desk, but I wasn't in it.

"I went floating off through the Windsor Hall basement and got lost. Just when I was beginning to panic — would I ever get out of there, I felt like a rat in a maze — I was back in my body in the lab."

The experiences since then have been much less frightening. "It's really peaceful, like mellow. If the first time was like Purgatory, since then it's been like Paradise."

Spaced's studies have been affected by his experience, but he seems unworried. "I'm thinking of switching my major to American literature of the late '60s and early '70s. Timothy Leary has a lot to say to me. (Leary is best remembered as the "acid priest" to the Vietnam generation.)

"Religion has become more important to me too. It's as if I've been touched by Zeus."

Spaced is part of a small University of Windsor group of practicing Greek god worshippers. They have a 3-day feast once a month dedicated to Zeus, Bacchus, and Eros.

"My experiences are just like those of the Greek epic heroes. It might be frightening at first but I feel society would be better if everyone had these trips.

"I think everyone should have this chance that I've had; the chance to seek out new worlds, to explore strange new lands, to boldly go where no man has gone before..."

The ENQUIRER's editorial policy is in full agreement with this philosophy.

Your IQ Too High?

Want a lower IQ? Scientists say that excessive amounts of hours spent listening to power rock music will do that.

Scientists cited bands such as Van Halen, Captain and Tennille, Jermaine Jackson, and Rush have been scientifically proven to cause lower IQ's in rats. However, the positive side of this is that scientists have also shown people with high IQ's to live shorter lives than average people because of the stress involved with being a genius.

Post-secondary schools have yet to reply to this.
Having trouble sleeping and want to end those restless nights? I am Annie Raputa and I promise to calm your troubled waters. Call me, I'm listed in the yellow pages.

Of Interest To Women

Wanted: Virile, well endowed handsome, intelligent, personable, likeable, gentle, kind, above human male for a stimulating conversation that could lead to gymnastic construction. Interested parties should contact The Stat Club. No minors accepted.

Single, fun-loving hedonist seeks partner with original plantation to like to do. Note: I am a Master Debater.

Hey! I lost my virginity and can't remember where I put it. Wait a minute, now I remember where I put it. That's how I lost my virginity.

Hey out there, I really get into artists, would you like to get into me?? Here's your chance, and don't forget your paints! Call me, I'm in the Yellow Pages.

Do you have trouble forming a meaningful relationship? Discreet, helpful counseling available. Discreet, 386-6526, and ask for "Stu, baby!" If a woman answers, hang up.

Wanted participants in group sex to photograph and join in with. Call H.P. Editor, c/o The Irrational Enquirer.

Are you ready for all those lonely nights with your pet rock and a bottle of Four Aces? Are you sick of the single's bar scene and "what sign are you?" We'll find the perfect mate for you, someone who will give you love and the companionship you've been seeking. For information contact Harry's Animal Farm, in beautiful downtown Detroit.

Lonely young man wishes to meet compatible male. Must be interested in art. Write to S. Thetics c/o this paper.

Are you tired of those long lonely nights with your pet rock and a bottle of Four Aces? Are you sick of the single's bar scene and "what sign are you?" We'll find the perfect mate for you, someone who will give you love and the companionship you've been seeking. For information contact Harry's Animal Farm, in beautiful downtown Detroit.

Be a man, join the Navy.

I used to be intelligent. Then I moved in with a Grick. Now I have dreams about Volvas and olive oil. If you can help me please call the Maggy Editor of this paper.

Ever since I got a job doing lay-out on a paper, I have become a lumm. I'm proud of it! If you want to be one too call, write, or see in person Don Juan.
Financial misunderstanding causes overcharging

by Laurel Brandt

Does your tuition bill seem a little too high, even in these days of inflation? The Cashier's Office, due to computer problems, has sent out a number of incorrect bills, mainly to students in the Faculty of Education or those with a program requiring big money to be won.

Some resident students did not get their "family discount," which they are entitled to if another family member lives in residence at the University of Windsor. This was usually because of confusion over the new rules for family discounts. To receive this discount, a form must be filled out at the beginning of each semester, rather than just at the beginning of the year, which was the rule before the university semestrized.

Schiller promises that most of the special cases and arrangements will be taken care of next year. "I'm going to see to that."

Cabinet doors open up

by E.P. Chant

As a sumptuous dinner party prepared by the new first lady (Gail Shaban), Jim Shaban, the Students' Administrative Council's (SAC's) President-elect, announced his appointed cabinet last week.

Shaban said he had many of the new appointees in mind during his recent election campaign. After consulting with Vice-President-elect Terry Buckland, Shaban finalized his selections.

They are as follows:

Brad Mitchell, returning in Vice-President-Finance (Treasurer). Over the summer, Mitchell will be sitting down with the administration's Director of Finance, Joe Schiller, to try to arrange for a quicker transfer of student fees from the administration to SAC, to faculty societies.

As for next year, Mitchell said, "I hope to be conservative again this year."

Terry Buckland, External Affairs Commissioner. This commissioner is responsible for liaison between this campus' students' council and those of others, as well as maintaining ties between SAC and student organizations such as the Ontario Federation of Students (OFS), the National Union of Students (NUS), and the newly-formed Canadian Federation of Students (CFS).

Shaban introduced Buckland, saying he had been involved with SAC's External Affairs Committee and was familiar with the student organizations. He is also the chairman of the SAC committee responsible for sponsoring a refugee student here (see letter on page 5).

Is this the new SAC cabinet or a police lineup? Could be both, but, politically they are all right.

An evil scientist's two students with a hastily made up West Indian accent, explaining the meaning of "slack week," and the open publication of students evaluations of professors.

Shaban introduced Boyer (who came in second to Shaban in the presidential elections) as "enthusiastic and dedicated." He was formerly the president of Delta Chi Fraternity.

Boyer is mainly concerned with getting the student evaluations published. "Some profs might be concerned," he explained, "but, if they are really good, they shouldn't worry." Wendy MacKinnon, Auxiliary Services Commissioner. This person is responsible for the operation of the student drug plan, working with residence students, and assorted other projects.

Shaban introduced MacKinnon as having experience with residences and their affairs. She will also be sitting on the Senate's Student Affairs and Student Services Committees.

She said she would be looking into switching insurance companies to handle the drug plan next year, as well as establishing an "intra-residence" committee.

James Boyer, External Affairs Commissioner. Boyer will be responsible for internal and external problems and projects of the council, such as the proposed income tax information service, pushing for the reinstatement of "slack week," and the open publication of students evaluations of professors.

Shaban introduced Boyer as having "a team" composed of the whole council, after "the doug and the slugs" concert this year and that he was willing to work hard to sell events.

Laid said successful, "sold" the SAC ski-trips and the "Doug and the Slugs" concert this year and that he was willing to work hard to sell events.

Laid said he would be meeting with booking agents over the summer, both privately and at an "entertainment conference" in Waterloo (at which he also hopes to learn more about effective event promotion).

Both Laid and Shaban are eagerly awaiting the opening of the new gym so that they can start making bookings for major concerts in it. They expect the first such event to be during Orientation week on September 18 or 19.

Shaban appointed no Orientation Commissioner — planning a successful Orientation will be a "team effort," he said, with the "team" composed of the whole cabinet and representatives from campus societies, clubs, and residences.

Dale Horvath was re-appointed by Shaban to the post he held this year, Chief Electoral Officer.
Statistics Canada wants all of you this summer.

Lloyd Nieman, Senior Project Officer for Regional Operations, says: “Students living with their parents or those with their own place of residence do not post an enumeration problem. But students who alienate themselves for the summer often assume that they will be included on the questionnaire at their usual place of residence by their parents or room-mates. Although they should be included on the questionnaire, they often are not. So we will make special efforts to ensure that no one is missed.”

Questionnaires will be delivered to work camps in remote areas, summer camps and resorts where students work. To count persons travelling, we will visit campsites in provincial and national parks, tourist homes, hotels, and motels on Census Day, June 3. University residences will be enumerated and students overseas can be enumerated on questionnaires available in Canadian embassies and consulates.

Persons in these situations will complete a special census questionnaire. Checking of these questionnaires following the Census ensures temporary absences are included at their usual place of residence.

An accurate census count is important not only to planners and policy makers but to university students as well. Federal and provincial government financing of educational institutions and employment initiatives is frequently done on a per capita basis. Programs designed for this age group are often underfunded because of the undercount. During the 1979-80 academic year students made more than 16 per cent of the 23,000 requests for information at Statistics Canada’s nine regional reference centres.

At the University of Alberta, the population research lab uses census data for such student projects as assessing a community health unit or studying household income data in major cities.

David Brown, assistant professor at McGill University in Montreal, says the School of Urban Planning has used census information to work out just a block by block study of traffic volume flow and its effect on various city neighbourhoods. Special tabulations of 1971 and 1976 Census information such as age, education, automobiles, age of housing and income were put together by Statistics Canada. Brown says, “I think it was a very good service and I was pleased that it could be done at a reasonable cost.”

A task force has been formed to help show university students how to use census data. Two brochures on how to use the microfiche files and computer storage files (CANSIM) are currently available and more brochures are planned, according to Statistics Canada.

More new directors

On March 24, 1981, Social Science students elected a new president and vice-president for their society.

Taking over the presidency on April 7 will be Joe Pavelich. Pavelich is a third year Geography student. He was involved in the society this year as Social Internal Director.

The new vice-president is Tom Wudwud, a third year Public Administration student. Wudwud was also involved in this year’s society as the promotion coordinator.

Both are very enthusiastic about their new positions and are looking forward to the coming year.

---

For more information complete coupon & send to:

London Student Flights Round Trip and one way BOOK LESS THAN 21 DAYS PRIOR TO DEPARTURE

CUTS

44 St. George St., Toronto M5S 2E4

Easter Seal Kids really need your help.

---

Statistics Canada wants all of you this summer.

What will you be doing this summer? Whether you’ll be working, taking courses or travelling, Statistics Canada will be making a special effort to count you in the June 3 Census. It is estimated that 119,000 Canadians between the ages of 20 and 24 were not counted in the 1976 Census; many of these were university students.

Two per cent of the overall Canadian population was not counted in 1976. A post-census study showed that persons between the ages of 10 and 24 were the ones most often missed.

The transience of many university students during summer months is a major reason for the large undercount. Statistics Canada, the federal government department in charge of conducting the June 3 Census, plans to reduce the number of missed university students this year with a variety of contingency enumeration methods.

Lloyd Nieman, Senior Project Officer for Regional Operations, says: “Students living with their parents or those with their own place of residence do not post an enumeration problem. But students who alienate themselves for the summer often assume that they will be included on the questionnaire at their usual place of residence by their parents or room-mate. Although they should be included on the questionnaire, they often are not. So we will make special efforts to ensure that no one is missed.”

Questionnaires will be delivered to work camps in remote areas, summer camps and resorts where students work. To count persons travelling, we will visit campsites in provincial and national parks, tourist homes, hotels, and motels on Census Day, June 3. University residences will be enumerated and students overseas can be enumerated on questionnaires available in Canadian embassies and consulates.

Persons in these situations will complete a special census questionnaire. Checking of these questionnaires following the Census ensures temporary absences are included at their usual place of residence.

An accurate census count is important not only to planners and policy makers but to university students as well. Federal and provincial government financing of educational institutions and employment initiatives is frequently done on a per capita basis. Programs designed for this age group are often underfunded because of the undercount. During the 1979-80 academic year students made more than 16 per cent of the 23,000 requests for information at Statistics Canada’s nine regional reference centres.

At the University of Alberta, the population research lab uses census data for such student projects as assessing a community health unit or studying household income data in major cities.

David Brown, assistant professor at McGill University in Montreal, says the School of Urban Planning has used census information to work out just a block by block study of traffic volume flow and its effect on various city neighbourhoods. Special tabulations of 1971 and 1976 Census information such as age, education, automobiles, age of housing and income were put together by Statistics Canada. Brown says, “I think it was a very good service and I was pleased that it could be done at a reasonable cost.”

A task force has been formed to help show university students how to use census data. Two brochures on how to use the microfiche files and computer storage files (CANSIM) are currently available and more brochures are planned, according to Statistics Canada.

More new directors

On March 24, 1981, Social Science students elected a new president and vice-president for their society.

Taking over the presidency on April 7 will be Joe Pavelich. Pavelich is a third year Geography student. He was involved in the society this year as Social Internal Director.

The new vice-president is Tom Wudwud, a third year Public Administration student. Wudwud was also involved in this year’s society as the promotion coordinator.

Both are very enthusiastic about their new positions and are looking forward to the coming year.
Equal opportunities a myth for women professors

by Kishor Oza and CUP

You say it’s law — Men and women must land equal positions. However, the actual situation is quite different than what you may believe.

As A. Datta of the University of Windsor, the number of male teachers is about 420, compared to fewer than 85 females. This ratio is quite similar to that in universities across Canada — cold, dark, lifeless — tell a startling tale. At the University of British Columbia women make up 16 percent of the total faculty, and 13 percent of the faculty at Simon Fraser University. Only 0.7 percent of the faculty at the University of Victoria and about 1 percent of the faculty at the University of British Columbia are women.

"My God, there are so many factors mitigating against women getting into the higher echelons", says G. Maroco, Professor of Engineering here. "We know that it’s a very long, hard struggle for women to get a doctor’s degree."

It is a fact that women have traditionally not gone on to higher education in the past and so women today lack efficient role models. "Women are not encouraged by parents or even the female teachers to take up higher positions. They often choose the arts over the sciences and this restricts them because most of the high paying positions lie in sciences, maths and engineering."

DeMarco feels it is more of a cultural or traditional bias against women than prejudice. "In Britain, higher education of women has been traditionally accepted and that’s why it is not surprising to find more women doctors than male ones in Russia."

Many people, both men and women, refuse to believe that any real problem exists. Many simply will not allow themselves to believe that those who risk upon remaining anonymous. Everybody seems to shy away, and their secrecy surrounding the situation prevents from finding statistics and making educated statements about the problem. Because nobody knows what another person’s salary is, or the terms and conditions of their employment, it is often difficult to push in this situation, initiation, let alone dig up any facts.

However, according to 50 Statistics Canada figures, it is a fact that few women than men find summer jobs, and their earnings are, on the average, far below their male counterparts.

It is also fact that, in economic terms, it is difficult for women to remain undergraduate students. In 1977, 2.4 percent of the universities in the center of the nation’s total graduate school enrollment was made up of women. In Saskatchewan, with the smallest percentage of women students and women’s programs in the country, women made up 26 percent of the total. In Nova Scotia, women made up 37.9 percent, the largest in the country.

The trend then is clear. The higher up the education ladder one goes, the fewer women one encounters. But few women at the graduate level is not the only problem women face; very few women at the postgraduate level survive. According to the 1977 study on Canadian women in post-secondary institutions, 15 percent of the nation’s total graduate school enrolment was made up of women. In Saskatchewan, with the smallest percentage of women students and women’s programs in the country, women made up 26 percent of the total. In Nova Scotia, women made up 37.9 percent, the largest in the country.

"Traditionally women have been hired at lower ranks and lower salaries. And because salaries are raised on a percentage basis, those who start off low will never be able to catch up", she said. Joining a firm on the same terms and conditions women cannot speak out or complain because of a fear of jeopardizing their jobs and, if they do dare, they will be looked down upon not only by male faculty, but female faculty as well.

"We have had no promotions beyond assistant professor since 1977. In order to get grants it is always refused without reason", said the friend.

Another member of a female dominated faculty, also anonymous, claims that the vicious paradox is: you are always scratching the ceiling. On the one hand, research is expected of you, but on the other, there are few avenues to receive any grants. I have seen professors sitting at the assistant level for years. Not only that, but our faculty equipment is outdated and every time we are said for money they do not give us enough to buy new equipment."

Dr. Ann Diener, professor of Sociology claims that, "women usually have fewer promotions, but their potential is limited. For example the percentage-based salary increases. Many times, there is a $2,000 discrepancy between men’s and female positions."

Nancy Hall, head and assistant professor of Home Economics, claims that women are not treated fairly in the situation. "Women have to work, go home and cook, take care of the kids and clean the house. They find little time to do the research needed to gain the recognition and status for advancement."

Hall argues that "women should be given at least a year for maternity leave, and men should take equal responsibility around the house to get the higher degrees needed for better positions and promotions."

British universities want to increase foreign fees

by Carmel Tei

Former University of Lethbridge
Meliorist news editor

in Hong Kong

The government of Hong Kong has indicated that it will establish a separate unit to examine the reasons behind the large numbers of Hong Kong students in Britain who are seriously affected by increased fees. The Hong Kong financial secretary has recently in the colony's annual budget speech that a fund would be set up to offer financial help to Hong Kong students who cannot afford the soaring fees.

"A spokesman for the federal Ministry of External Affairs said this week in a phone interview that he had heard nothing about the matter and did not know if the reports were true. The Hong Kong government is seeking information provided to students in India who have been forced to leave their studies in the country."

British universities have recently proposed a new differential fees for foreign students in two years. Students who have received foreign students fees were increased by more than 100 percent last year. The usual fees range from $15,000 to $20,000. The new fees range from $15,000 to $30,000.

Students who have received foreign students fees in 1974, $15,000. The new fees range from $15,000 to $30,000.

The latest proposal, likely to be accepted by the universities, is to boost the annual tuition fee for a foreign student from $15,000 to $30,000, and for some fields up to $50,000.

The committee didn’t last

About three years ago, a committee was set up to study the various problems suffered by all postgraduate students.

The committee, the President’s Committee of Equal Rights, was held together after it was formed by Dr. H. Bunde, chairman of the committee, said "during the time the committee was in operation, there was no direct evidence of discrimination in terms of rank, salary promotions, etc." He says there has been many female department heads, but they simply stepped down without asking for removal.

Dr. Bunde of Psychology was one such female. "I served for seven and a half years and left only because I wanted to return back to the classroom. I don’t really think there are any prejudices against women in upper administrative positions. You don’t become department head over night! You have to have the education and the experience, which often takes 30 to 40 years. But 30 to 40 years ago, women barely ever finished grade school and so why there aren’t any females in administration today."

When asked about the small percentage of females in faculty positions, an officer claimed that women are sacrificed points the finger to the fact that the university has had no openings and has not been hiring. However, the officer personnel disagrees. John Gibson, position analyst, points out that the university added 70 new members to its teaching staff last year. Out of the 70, 15 were female. This number may be hived as either term appointees or assistant professors.

A 1975 report by L. C. Payton entitled “The Status of Women on the University’s Staffs” which accounts for 31 percent of the applications in the arts and only 29 percent in sciences, 21 percent in business and 7 percent in engineering. Only 16 percent of all applicants to university are women. And 25 percent of all master’s students and 18 percent at doctorate level.

This, he says, may explain why women do not hold as good a job as men most.

The salary breakdown as follows.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Male</th>
<th>Female</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$26,680</td>
<td>$24,056</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$25,825</td>
<td>$23,165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$13,322</td>
<td>$14,700</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$15,030</td>
<td>$14,887</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

He is quick to point out that several reasons could account for this: First, since the highest degree was completed, number of years of research, the discipline they are in (eg. 10 percent of the physical sciences) and, the discipline area which showed highest average salaries. Second, there is the number of years of experience.

Therefore, though a significant proportion of average salary differences between men and women can be accounted for there is, however, a residual difference that still remain.

"Canadian universities reflect and reinforce the general societal patterns which the limitation of participation of women in the professional and public life of our society," says Vickers and Adams.
The Fortnighter

by Chris Woodrow

As we enter the final days of the semester, when exams and term papers are uppermost in our minds, I think it important to discuss next year, particularly the need for a "black week" and also the need for a successful week of Orientation events. A "black week" or "reading week", as some call it, is a necessary part of the Winter term. The idea of having the slab and dreary days of February be of such a desolate state of mind, a break from the regular school life and yet not a complete break from school work is necessary for the student body to return ready and ready to face the long haul leading to exams. No break in February makes the Winter term intolerable, and leaves one in a lassidic and short-tempered mood.

Presently there is a petition circulating around this campus calling for the reinstatement of "black week". Students, faculty and maintenance staff support the reinstatement, but the university administration seems to think we can do without one. Since it is the only break, if there were a "black week", they have adopted the philosophy, "If we can't have one, neither can you."

- in my opinion, the move by the university administration to cancel "black week" was based solely on their financial positions. By canceling "black week" and adding a week to our Christmas vacation, they open the door to high school students wishing to begin their university education in January. The slab week provides high school students time to apply and register - and pay their fees.

I strongly urge next year's Students' Administrative Council to push for the reinstatement of "black week". The university Senate has already examined the idea of instituting a long break called "spring break" to replace "black week". This is a positive step in the right direction and shouldn't be allowed to stop here - the Senate should hear from these wanting reinstatement of a full week off.

In September last year the Student Administrative Council had to wait until December to get a full week off. Now, they can no longer offer us this escape. The new complex makes possible the idea of attracting major concerns and sporting events to this university. I hope the council grasps the opportunity the new complex gives them to improve the image of this university in the community, and also to put Windsor on the entertainment map.

The success of a school year can often be attributed to a successful Orientation. A successful Orientation is essential if we are to save the "black week". The success of the new gym complex on the south campus. Past councils have coped out by saying that Orientation wasn't successful because they were unable to attract big-name entertainers. But a closer examination of Media Centre activities reveals that the money could have been made if the Media Centre had used the facilities for their own entertainment and overhead costs of the equipment they are using is much lower than the general university overhead, as well as a reasonable amount of money.

This plan seems to provide for the basic interests of the students which the university can do to serve primarily, as well as ensuring that equipment and equipment serviceability is protected, and that the level of service will be maintained.

We urge the Media Centre Committee and the Senate to adopt the ad-mimistrative policy recommendations of April 2, in order that the money may be "chained" properly, and that "black week" brings back the dollars it belongs to, instead of going down the tubes. Ha, Ha, Ha.

Press release from a Royal Commission examining asbestos in the workplace and we decided to start pressing again. After making a lot of unanswered calls, we ended up in Bill Morgan's office this week. Morgan is the university's Assistant Vice-President-Administration and he was joined at the meeting by Ron Nicolaido, Director of the Physical Plant.

According to Morgan, who showed us the quasi-secret file on the matter, the university had used spray material for fire-proofing purposes, facts analysis done by university professors had determined that asbestos was not used, but there was 98 percent gypsum and 2 percent karmamite.

The only asbestos-containing materials used on campus, he said, were "partially-asbestos-cement tiles and asbestos-cement wall panels (used to soundproof areas in the library and some classrooms). There is a danger of asbestos becoming airborne if their corners break off, he continued, and this will be checked where it has occurred.

Some of the material on the dump has become loose, apparently, but this has happened in inaccessible (to student traffic) areas such as some underground maintenance tunnels. Even though it is asbestos-containing, it is not "serious" asbestos, said Morgan, and it has called in a Toronto consultant to advise it on corrections.

This may cost a few thousand dollars, said Morgan, and the university won't pay unless corrections are estimated to cost over $25,000. He was relieved, however, to have found no serious problems, in light of the fact that two universities in the province found dangerous levels with estimated "clean-up" bills of $750,000.

And we were relieved, after a long year of infrared-united phone calls and several "Trust me, there's nothing back to the report" assurances, to find that we could all breathe a little easier.

by E.P. Chant

"The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted, while community services will be billed for costs as for the students, as well as serving the community, they will also need to be repaired, as well as Media Centre overhead.

Finally, additional financial groups will be formed for community services, with the addition of general university overhead, as well as a reasonable amount of money.

This plan seems to provide for the basic interests of the students which the university can do to serve primarily, as well as ensuring that equipment and equipment serviceability is protected, and that the level of service will be maintained.

We urge the Media Centre Committee and the Senate to adopt the ad-mimistrative policy recommendations of April 2, in order that the money may be "chained" properly, and that "black week" brings back the dollars it belongs to, instead of going down the tubes. Ha, Ha, Ha.

Repair the M.C.'s TV's P.D.O.

The Lancet

EDITOR
A.C. O'Reilly
MANAGING EDITOR
A.C. O'Reilly
SPORTS EDITOR
Dave McMahan
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Peter Hager
PHOTOGRAPHY EDITOR
Mike Patterson
GRAPHIC ARTIST
Peter Hager
THE LANCET CARTOONIST
Gary Deitch
POETRY EDITOR
Mia Margareta
CIRCULATION MANAGER
Andy Amies
TELETYPEWRITER
Cindy Hartley
Art Annan
PHOTOGRAPHY
Gayle Rappo
Farran Mahon-Malhotra
Denise Bernsten
Frank Posluch
CONTRIBUTING WRITERS/STAFF
Laurel Bergman
Lorne Budnor
Rosemary Campagna
Jack Brandl
Wendy Barr
John Dayne
Peter Haire
John Lidde
Vic Morgan
Scott McCaul
John Mill
Chris Woodrow
Catherine W. Wilson
John McNicol
Tom Shower
Rosemary Stephenson
Enrico R. Ricciuti

The Lancet is published every Friday, in the second week, University Centre, University of Windsor. Opinions expressed in The Lancet are those of the writer and not necessarily of the University of Windsor or of the Students' Administrative Council.

The Lancet offices are located on the Second Floor, University Centre, University of Windsor, 401 Sunset Avenue, Windsor, Ont. Phone: (519) 253-4000 or 253-4232, ext. 152 or 211.

Advertisers contact Mark D. O'Connell, (519) 253-6429.

Subscription rates are $8.00 per year. Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office of Canada.
Don't be a geek: blastoff for brevskie and za

Our refugee student is almost on his way now

Dear Editor:

It's official, he is coming.

The Refugee Student Committee has agreed to sponsor Tlhuphelo Rodgers for the academic year of 1981-82. Tlhuphelo is a 23 year old student currently living in Lesotho, a small enclave within the boundaries of South Africa. His studies have been suspended since 1977, when he fled to Lesotho and came under the protective arm of the United Nations High Commission for Refugees.

In a move by government of South Africa passed a law requiring Afrikam to be the language of instruction in all secondary schools. Traditionally, the official languages of South Africa have been English and Afrikaans. English is the predominant language of the black population.

Not surprisingly, then, severe problems were created for more than 75 percent of the black students enrolled. Students would be further discriminated against, if they graduated under this added burden, as they would be barred from most of the country's universities because of their color.

But what was Tlhuphelo's crime? He participated in a country-wide demonstration against the government's enforcement of this legislation. The students had intended the demonstration to be a peaceful one, however the police turned it into a scene of violence and bloodshed.

In the scenario that followed, Tlhuphelo was arrested and held for 14 days at the Pretoria Police Station in Soweto. Upon release, he was ordered to report back to the police station every three days. The resulting persecution from these experiences at the police station forced him to flee the country to Lesotho in 1977. He has remained there ever since.

He is still hoping to resume his studies in Mechanical Engineering. His hopes will be realized this September, with the help of both the students and faculty of this university. The Refugee Student Committee and George McMahon, Assistant Vice-President-Student Services, have already taken several steps to insert Tlhuphelo this opportunity.

To date, Immigration and Employment Canada have judged that Tlhuphelo qualifies for sponsorship and can attend the university. The Registrar's Office and the Engineering Faculty have agreed to admit him, providing he passes the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Tlhuphelo is being tested in Lesotho, but this seems a formality considering his transcripts indicate that he is fluent in English.

The university has agreed to waive his tuition, however they have yet to do the same with residence fees. This still leaves a substantial amount of money to be raised. Items such as food, clothing and books will be needed.

The faculty is now being canvassed for its support and we would hope that you, the students, will help to sustain us in our efforts, as this program continues.

Director of Communications,
Refugee Student Committee

Reprinted by permission of United Press International

College students have a jargon all their own. But the terms change with the times.

Students today, for example, appear preoccupied with being innovated--drunk or stoned. Their terms for it: Ammibilated, Baked, Blasted, Blown Away, Blown Out, Burned, Buzed, Faced, Pressed, Ripped, Stupit, Tripped, and Wasted.

Here is a glossary of some other campus terms which may help parents understand their offspring and students as they understand one another:

Annoyed.

Beaten.

Blew away.

Blown away.

Busted.

Committed.

Dead.

Drugged.

Drunk.

Drunken.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.

Drunkenly.
A life in the week of an overdue essay writer

by Wendy Coomber

We'll miss 'Grant

What sort of person in their right mind would closete themselves away in a library for weeks on end, with a dwindling existence of the Ledyard Library for three weeks or more, scribbling away at every little word that comes into their little heads furiously for hours on end until their poor little "never-worked-so-hard-on-all-my-dang-life" fingers are red and chaffed? Until their rarely used and remote thought waves become a mere drop on the great sea of their workaday essays-to-go-after-that-last-one. Until the caffeine-exhausted nerves have been exposed over the coals of academic marks ranging from B plus to F minus (but never see A).

What mighty demons weigh heavily on the brow, and, in this daggery which I see before me? It's called essay time and those verbal vamalsigns are you, my friends.

You can set your watch by the mass exodus to the library each year. It's like the swallows circling before the last-minute rush which includes running over seven different floors of the library looking for books that mysteriously disappeared last week's leaving no trace, people standing in the aisle (where the book you desperately need is), slowly leafing through pages of every book there; and rude, cranky, bleary-eyed scholars who haven't slept for weeks, who chain smoke and ask in little raspy voices, "What are you, Comm Studies or philosophy?" And then there are your fellow-scholars, who can be either distinctly disgusting and have their papers done ahead of time (not only that but they always get good marks), or can be greatly opalequating, like when they ask, "Is this sentence good?" and then spit off into a long rhetorical recital of syllabic syntax and garbled grammar. Then you get five people standing in front of you, muttering the writer five different versions of how the sentence should flow.

Another fun part about essays—the best, in my opinion—is usually handing them in. What technique will we use this time? Slip it anonymously into the professor's mailbox during lunch, nonchalantly nudging it under their door (okay first to make sure there's no one in the office or skip out during class to deliver it), get a good friend (who's expendable in this ruthless game) to hand it in for you, or, if the essay is less than a week late, you even don't sound right. I've tried to make it good... Was that Canadian or American life? Six weeks late? Already? Think I'll mail it to him from Florida.

Historians relate

--by rob brown

One of the most important academic organizations in North America held a conference in Detroit last week, and two University of Windsor posts were involved.

The seventy-fourth meeting of the Organization of American Historians (OAH) was held in the Renaissance Centre from April 1 to April 4. The most important part of the meeting consisted of the reading of papers on American and Canadian history.

Among the papers was one by Udo Stueber of the department of History, called "Early Public Hearings in the United States and Canada: A Cure for Unemployment?" Another paper, Larry Kullisch, contained a seminar on Canadian Western history.

Kullisch, a specialist in Canadian history, is presently working on a book on Windsor's history. His paper has published works on Canadian and American history.

We'll missol 'Grant

Dear Editor:

It was in October that the students at the university received support student radio. It is now April and that support has been transformed into many positive accomplishments.

At the center of this progress has been the dedication of close to one hundred volunteers that make it all happen. Their work has produced a program schedule that meets the objectives of student radio, and is the heart of our Promise of Performance currently under scrutiny by the CRCJ.

This year we have tried to diversify our program schedule as much as possible to produce an "alternative sound" for all of you. Shows for engineers (Freedom Through Mobility), ethnic groups (Voice of the CSA), and public affairs programming (Across the Atlantic) have been launched in or developed to help provide this sound.

We have been frustrated by the quality of our signal on campus just as you have been, but soon this will change with the advent of FM. CJAM-FM is the reality that has kept us all close to one hundred volunteers. It is your support that has transformed it into the reality that has kept us all involved.

As the new procedure for distributing graduation material was established, the listing of innocent people in known criminals, because the Arthana Drug Control District wishes to justify its budgets. The Tucson Citizen says that ministers, children and relatives who visited inmates at the state prison were listed as "known associates of major narcotics traffickers." So were tradespeople and others whose vehicles were spotted near surveillance sites or whose numbers were called by suspected or known drug traffickers.

The newspaper charges that the listing of innocent people in the interstate data bank is an effort to justify the budget of the Arthana Drug Control District.

The agency receives $3.4 million in state money for its Arizona activities and about $1.6 million in federal dollars for its interstate work.

How to convocate properly

Last year, Convocation announcements and rain tickets were printed early, so that active graduates could obtain them before the end of classes. The procedure worked so well that we have arranged to do the same this year.

A package has been prepared for each student who has filed an "application for graduation.

These individual packets will be available for students who are graduating in the Faculties of Arts, Social Science, or Science and Mathematics, in the Office of the Secretary of the Senate, Room 105 Windsor Tower Hall, beginning April 6, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. For students in the Faculties of Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Human Kinetics, Law and Graduate Studies and Research, the packages may be obtained through the Office of the Dean of that Faculty.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

Whadya mean, aspirins

A couple of Arizona newspapers are charging that hundreds of innocent people are listed in a book in the interstate data bank of known criminals, because the Arthana Drug Control District wishes to justify its budgets.

The Tucson Citizen says that ministers, children and relatives who visited inmates at a state prison were listed as "known associates of major narcotics traffickers." So were tradespeople and others whose vehicles were spotted near surveillance sites or whose numbers were called by suspected or known drug traffickers.

The newspaper charges that the listing of innocent people in the interstate data bank is an effort to justify the budget of the Arthana Drug Control District.

The agency receives $3.4 million in state money for its Arizona activities and about $1.6 million in federal dollars for its interstate work.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.

The new procedure for distribution of graduation material was conceived because of difficulties experienced in the past; when information mailed to graduating students did not reach its destination in time, or was returned undelivered to the University.
The Joseph DeLauro Retrospective Exhibit until April 26 at the Windsor Art Gallery

The Faculty of Visual Arts Graduate Students Show, until April 16 at the University Centre and the Rebel Building

Photos by L.P. Chant

Photos by Heidi Rammer
The waitress was threatening to charge some poor hungry semester. I won't bother to go over all the items in so double if he ate much more. "It says 'All You can eat,"' he protested. "Yeah, but you eat enough for two," the waiter retorted.

This is the same place that served me a basket of two and a half bread sticks and a long hard roll last semester. I'm following the directions for what happened to the other half of that breadstick.

Weekends and two other days: Mon.-Thurs. 7:00-9:00; Fri.-Sat. 7:00-10:00.
Rating: ***

The Firebird Inn, 9550 Tecumseh East, 735-9122

I visited this place on a Tuesday night. The Sunday buffet is supposed to have a few more items, but in the case my complaint lies not with the quantity of food available but its quality.

The lettuce in the salad bowl is rather nusty, and the celery, carrots and radishes (in separate bowls) are pretty much looking too. The cole slaw tastes more like sugarkraut and both the meat loaf and the deviled eggs are very dry. The oatmeal on the plate with the meat loaf is excellent, though, I must admit.

There are some good things here. The macaroni and potato salads are quite good and one of raisins, apples, and pineapple in a white sauce is terrific. The sweet pickles are nice and the meat loaf, although still in their Westen flaky bag, are fresh.

Also available are Three Bean salad, some coloured marinarmallows, a slightly too thick cottage cheese, green onions, big pickles, red, green and yellow jellied salads, and some tuts in shell macaroni. No croutons or bacon bits.

The best of the hot items are the carrots which are in rippled dishes. The meatballs in gravy aren't bad either. This gravy is much more than the thin, pale stuff for the mashed potatoes. The rice with mushrooms and green pepper is a little lacking in flavour, too.

The meat just falls off the barbecued ribs, but the only problem is there's no rib meat left. It's not the only problem, the sauce is a little mild, too, at least for my taste.

I'm still trying to figure out what part of the chicken the fried chicken pieces are from. It's a very boney part, anyway. There's no sauce as well as the infuriatingly pleasant sauce they put up either.

There's soup available, too, but the night I was there it was so greasy looking that I didn't try it, though I saw the woman pouring herself a bowl. If you sit close enough to the bar you might hear him basting with some of the tough-edged regulars.

Friday and Saturday: 4:00-7:00.
Rating: ***

Dino's Pizza, 2135 Tecumseh West, 252-4456

The lettuce is in awfully big hunks here, but it's crisp and fresh. The same can be said of the tomatoes (except the crisp part, of course). The chicken and kidney beans both have a hefty oil and vinegar type house dressing on them (if you don't like that sort of dressing, though, you might have to give them a miss). The thick cucumber slices aren't peeled and the beef is served in assorted shapes and sizes. No name brand or what? Oives, long pickles, hot peppers, and parmesan cheese are available too. There's both garlic bread (which is perhaps a little too crunchy, but nice) and large, round, fresh buns. There's one other salad too, consisting of carrots, pickles, cauliflower and mild red peppers.

The hot pasta dish varies daily. When I attended, it was ravioli. It was pretty good, with big thick ravioli noodles. A pizza is brought out too, and sits on one of those little round warming trays. It's either very nice or very dry, depending on how long it sits there. The soup is usually a good French onion, but varies occasionally.

4:00-8:00 daily. $3.75.
Rating: *

Gene's Italian Village, 161 Riverside, 256-4656

The set-up for the cold salads here is somewhat awkward. You have to reach under a glass partition of sorts to get at them, and if you want one of the salads in the back row, you actually have to duck under it and reach, or else get the half-dead old man behind the counter to hold up the serving dish for you. Next thing you know, this sweet old guy is holding up several more serving dishes. "Try some of this," he urges, thrusting it at you, exhorting you to try one or something else. I admit I told him I only but I think he would have given me the bowl and it I had not finally snatched it.

The salad bar includes macaroni and potato salads, mayonnaise, another almost a fruit salad, and some niceties are also there, slightly pickled and green red peppers, hot peppers, and a dressing in addition to "the hot".

Instead of the usual kids salad, there's one of chop and one of just plain green one of tomato, cucumber an the red jello and rice pudding is mighty good.

Dinner and crusty French bread in the salad bar.

The hot items, vary but there's a serving of ham and pineapple sauce, a mashed potatoes and a great beef. You have your choices here and there. I was asked for a slide of beef a cold beef a few items that can serve as a desert: the red jello and rice pudd got a cold dessert that I think was fruit and the red jello and rice pudd.

Everything is just great and unfortunately all of the same.

Fountain Motel, 2165 Huron Road

Poof-pooed by many, I found it quite good in my opinion.

There's enough variety to which are less than superb. It contains ham and tuna chunks has green pepper, radish and coleslaw, a sweet one in mayonnaig, There are beets, a salsa, a salad of carrots and is vinegar, one of tomato and hot pepper and strips ofblogoof that of the surface of the leaves is accessible as well.

The tomato slices are a meaty looking and there were tossed salad when I was there and cold dry cheese was in them with radishes. The oil as yourself from two bottles an Creations are on hand, but features pickles, hot peppers, Cold cuts and cheese (the latter cut out the cold section.

The baked chicken is in sweet and sour pork is the h
1d vinegar dressing you mix

...and another of green re, though one employee.

There are two kinds of green, green onions and celery.

...section's standout item.

...bean salad, a green bean

...is attractive, but, in the case of apples, somewhat disconcerting because of their tendency to rapidly turn

...believe you're actually expected to pick up the chick curry, shavings and sticks,

...the outside.

...a succulent fruit salad, and a

...and custard puddings. Fresh fruit and three

...contains raisins and whipped cream. Jello is available

...different kinds of cheese are on the dessert table too.

...must

...the best of times, I must

...enjoying than

...are offered, white and brown sandwich bread are instead.

...there were some

...two kinds of

...and celery, and chick peas all rest on a relish tray. Can you

...to the table .

...as well as fruit salad, moist sponge cake,

...here too, as well as fruit salad, moist sponge cake,

...different. It's a good salad bar for just a salad

...too

...with the bill in the air to no avail. When

...large basket of dark and light buns, crackers and melba

...is followed by clam chowder soup in a large

...tomato slices are on a tray. I wish there were some

...of blue cheese dressing as well.

...a black olive or a sprig of parsley. The potato salad is

...oak, and dark-yolked devilled eggs are available too. The

...sauce on them. The gravy for the mashed potatoes is

...noodles, but an over·

...in too much water. What's billed as spaghetti is actually

...fries, and she tacked them on to the bill. I didn't

...of red and green jello, whipped cream and peaches,

...disallowed

...in whipped cream salad

...as well, and as a cottage cheese of

...with green jello in the centre and red around

...and wholesome the veggies that night were sliced carrots that sat

...a freezing dinner

...to the table .

...as fruit salad, moist sponge cake,

...and custard puddings. Fresh fruit and three

...different kinds of cheese are on the dessert table too.

...a succulent fruit salad, and a

...as well, and as a cottage cheese of

...with green jello in the centre and red around

...disallowed

...in whipped cream salad

...easier the town. The first thing you come to is a

...such as fruit salad, moist sponge cake,

...unfortunate that a green bean salad is not

...mero said

...sweet

...a little runny. The devilled eggs are garnished with

...and custard puddings. Fresh fruit and three

...contains raisins and whipped cream. Jello is available

...different. It's a good salad bar for just a salad

...too

...with the bill in the air to no avail. When

...large basket of dark and light buns, crackers and melba

...tomato slices are on a tray. I wish there were some

...oak, and dark-yolked devilled eggs are available too. The

...sauce on them. The gravy for the mashed potatoes is

...in too much water. What's billed as spaghetti is actually

...fries, and she tacked them on to the bill. I didn't

...as well, and as a cottage cheese of

...with green jello in the centre and red around

...disallowed

...in whipped cream salad

...easier the town. The first thing you come to is a

...such as fruit salad, moist sponge cake,

...unfortunate that a green bean salad is not

...mero said
Standing in individual performance spared the concomitant absence of disappointment for it is not Giraudoux’s play is somewhat of University Players’ production of The Madwoman of Chaillot possesses these characteristic features. But as a play, it sorely lacks the credibility which would label it a “comedy for all seasons”.

As a consequence, the University Players’ production of Giraudoux’s play is somewhat of a disappointment for it is not spared the concomitant absence of spirit that is the maligning weakness of the original play. Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.

Not that there weren’t any outstanding individual performances, roles carried out with such delightful novelty that it is impertinent they be singled out and praised for their charm and excellence. As a whole, the production is just a bit off-color, paling in comparison with the most recent productions of this ambitious theatre company. Giraudoux’s play is impressionism at work. Picture a charming street scene in a Paris whose time is defined by the turn-of-this-century dress of its people, the café cheerfulness whose time is defined by the same discordance that permeates a weary horse. The University Players disappoint in their showcase production.
by Pat Sedlar

Rick Keelan's "Heat Wave" by itself makes a trip over to the Lebel Building worthwhile. This piece of "Atmosic structure", with its many gears, curving pipes and little red fire hydrants, can really't be described suitably and has to be seen in action. Just make sure it's played right.

The piece is one of the standouts of the year's B.F.A. Art Show, being played in both the University Centre and Lebel Galleries. The show features four works from each of this year's 24 students graduating with their Bachelor of Fine Arts in Visual Arts. Unfortunately, along with "Heat Wave" and a number of other excellent pieces, there seems to be a general disappointment in the show that even the students feel. The show is not as exciting as it should be, as has been in previous years, and is thought to suffer occasionally from "typical student-like" weaknesses.

The observant viewer will notice an underlying characteristic in the music. Each year, shows such as this, by now explores clear, personalized direction that is, usually, clear and original. Those viewers keeping score will see that each student works with a specific set of ideas, and that their works are built on each other. The approach taken may be based on surface texture, color, a technique or even a common theme. While this is all good and fine in theory, the show reveals a problem of repetition and limitations sometimes carried with following only one direction. Specifically, how can four pieces, if all based on one weak or lousy idea, each be strong and worthwhile?

Still, there are many fine works to be seen here. Bob Fither, who designed everything from the show's poster to this year's Visual Arts T-Shirts, even a few pieces with the familiar slides and splashers. Fans of last year's wild and crazy sculpture will find its tradition carried on quite nicely with Paul Whiston's "Invaders No. One & Two" and "Not New Dancing, It's Ragtime." Martin McCamney's surrealistic "Checkmate" has been parading many praises for its delicate detail, while realism lovers will appreciate Robert Murphy's works, including a beautiful "Figures" in bronze.

Patron of the arts admiring achievement. King David becomes our local Masada by Robert Brown

With "Masada" and similar productions on T.V., we've seen a lot of ancient Israel lately. Those who've developed a taste for Biblical costume dramas will have another chance to indulge Sunday afternoon, when the Music School presents their production of "King David". The symphonic poem in three acts, as it should be, has been in previous years, and is thought to suffer occasionally from "typical student-like" weaknesses.

The observant viewer will notice an underlying characteristic of the music. Each year, shows such as this, by now explores clear, personalized direction that is, usually, clear and original. Those viewers keeping score will see that each student works with a specific set of ideas, and that their works are built on each other. The approach taken may be based on surface texture, color, a technique or even a common theme. While this is all good and fine in theory, the show reveals a problem of repetition and limitations sometimes carried with following only one direction. Specifically, how can four pieces, if all based on one weak or lousy idea, each be strong and worthwhile?

Still, there are many fine works to be seen here. Bob Fither, who designed everything from the show's poster to this year's Visual Arts T-Shirts, even a few pieces with the familiar slides and splashers. Fans of last year's wild and crazy sculpture will find its tradition carried on quite nicely with Paul Whiston's "Invaders No. One & Two" and "Not New Dancing, It's Ragtime." Martin McCamney's surrealistic "Checkmate" has been parading many praises for its delicate detail, while realism lovers will appreciate Robert Murphy's works, including a beautiful "Figures" in bronze.

Those who've developed a taste for Biblical costume dramas will have another chance to indulge Sunday afternoons, when the Music School presents their production of "King David". The symphonic poem in three acts, as it should be, has been in previous years, and is thought to suffer occasionally from "typical student-like" weaknesses.

The observant viewer will notice an underlying characteristic of the music. Each year, shows such as this, by now explores clear, personalized direction that is, usually, clear and original. Those viewers keeping score will see that each student works with a specific set of ideas, and that their works are built on each other. The approach taken may be based on surface texture, color, a technique or even a common theme. While this is all good and fine in theory, the show reveals a problem of repetition and limitations sometimes carried with following only one direction. Specifically, how can four pieces, if all based on one weak or lousy idea, each be strong and worthwhile?

Still, there are many fine works to be seen here. Bob Fither, who designed everything from the show's poster to this year's Visual Arts T-Shirts, even a few pieces with the familiar slides and splashers. Fans of last year's wild and crazy sculpture will find its tradition carried on quite nicely with Paul Whiston's "Invaders No. One & Two" and "Not New Dancing, It's Ragtime." Martin McCamney's surrealistic "Checkmate" has been parading many praises for its delicate detail, while realism lovers will appreciate Robert Murphy's works, including a beautiful "Figures" in bronze.
Downchild Blues Band bails out student council

by Wendy Coomber

For a poorly poorly publicized concert, the Students’ Administrative Council, its sponsor, managed to pull it off again. Last Friday night the Downchild Blues Band played to a comfortably crowded Ambassador Auditorium.

As it was, Jim Shaban, SAC vice-president, estimated over 350 people attended. 8,500 students missed one of the year’s best musical groups.

At 8:00 p.m., when the doors opened, a large student ticketed crowd filed past into the auditorium. “I thought I was going to be the only one here,” he said. By the time the band started an hour and a half later, the auditorium was only just another pretty face in the crowd.

Much of the music the band played was from their own albums and, although most of the songs sounded the same (how many variations of the blues can you get?), it was all excellent.

The only problem that I could see was the difficulty in hearing the band — the audience was clapping and whistling too loudly. Not to say the crowd was rowdy. The gentle waftings of the herb, Cannabis sativa, was too well defined for rowdy. I should have asked the “lay-back” man the word.

There’s not too much to say to describe the band. Six members, moderate amount of energy, horns, keyboard, guitars, drums, singer ... I’ve seen the same things in other bands but somehow these people hit on the magic elixir of good musicianship.

Unfortunately, I couldn’t stay for the whole performance. This was one of the few times I could have enjoyed arising through the entire performance. Made a lot of last, minute pre-concert phone calls to your friends, eh Lacasse?

Attendance worries led to free admission

by Peter Haggert

What was $4.50 yesterday may just be free tomorrow.

With one bang of his presidential gavel, SAC mentor David Simmons declared last Friday’s Downchild Blues Band concert free to students. “It was obvious we were going to lose money, so I figured we’d might as well open the concert up to everyone,” remarked Simmons. “It would have been nice to make money, but at least the people came to enjoy it!”

As reported in last week’s Lance, as of last Wednesday, SAC had only sold nineteen tickets for the affair. On Thursday morning, the day before the concert, Simmons made his decision to waive student ticket fees and reduce guest tickets from $5.50 to $1.00.

Special Events Commissioner was pleased that the concert did turn out to be successful. “There were about 350 people — 150 of them to the door expecting to pay!” Lacasse had been criticized for lack of effective publicity. However, enough people came to the concert to make it one of the best attended SAC events this year.

SAC vice-president Jim Shaban agreed that the concert was a success. “You have to measure success in terms of participation and enjoyment of the event. I would hate to say our concert was very successful. Waiving ticket fees was a move to show our appreciation to those who did come.”

It is debatable whether the lowered prices brought the unexpect­ed crowd to Ambassador Auditorium. Whatever the case, the evening provided a lift for those not able to afford inflated ticket prices.

WANT TO BE PART OF A TEAM?

Student Services is looking for people to work as Orientation Counsellors, Student Patrol Officers, and related on-campus jobs. These positions will become effective in September 1981 for the duration of the academic year.

Applicants must have completed at least one full year at University and have a solid academic record.

Application forms are available at the Student Centre Desk.

Make an important contribution to campus life and gain valuable experience.

CATHOLIC CAMPUS MINISTRY

ASSUMPTION UNIVERSITY

University of Windsor

HOLY WEEK SERVICES - 1981

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Mass &amp; Distribution of Palms</th>
<th>April 12 (PALM SUNDAY)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>10:10 a.m.</td>
<td>3:30 p.m., also 11:00 p.m. - Mac Hall.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 13</td>
<td>Noon &amp; 4:30 p.m. MASSES</td>
<td>Confessions - 12 noon - 1 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 14</td>
<td>Noon Mass</td>
<td>Confessions - 12 noon - 1 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 15</td>
<td>Noon &amp; 4:30 p.m. MASSES</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 16 (HOLY THURSDAY)</td>
<td>7:30 P.M. MASS OF THE LORD’S LAST SUPPER</td>
<td>Confessions - 12 noon - 1 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 17</td>
<td>3:00 P.M. LITURGY, VENERATION OF THE CROSS &amp; COMMUNION</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 18 (GOOD FRIDAY)</td>
<td>10:30 p.m., followed by refreshments.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 19 (EASTER VIGIL SERVICE)</td>
<td>10:10 a.m. &amp; 4:10 p.m.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>April 20 (EASTER SUNDAY)</td>
<td>MASS OF THE RESURRECTION</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MAKE A NOTE

All societies and campus clubs are invited to list their social events in “Make A Note”. Events to be listed must be submitted to Lance office the Monday before they are published. The Entertainment Editor has all rights to refusal or editing.

Friday, April 10

- The Cancer Society will present the Lancaster Band at Glenside Auditorium starting at 9:00 p.m. Tickets are available at the Cancer Society Office for $6.00 a person. For more information phone 252-9942.

- The University Players perform the Madisonettes of Checotah through Sunday. Tickets for tonight and tomorrow are $4.00. Play time at the Rivier Theatre is 8:00 p.m.

- Wicket's will be the 7:00 p.m. showing at Cinefest. "Seventy Nine" Kubrick's Clockwork Orange will follow at 9:30. All tickets are $2.50. Cinefest is at 804 Erie St. E.

- The University Players perform the Madisonettes of Checotah through Sunday. Tickets for tonight and tomorrow are $4.00. Play time at the Rivier Theatre is 8:00 p.m.

Sunday, April 12

- Sunday morning brunch at 9:00 a.m., followed by worship at 12:40-4:00 at Iona College.

- Come and join the Coffee House fun and entertainment at Assumption University in the little Room at 8:30 P.M. For more information call Roceo at 736-2922. Everyone is welcome — bring a friend!

- The University Singers and the Windsor Classical Chorale will present Arthur Honegger’s King David in Assumption Church at 4:00 P.M. Tickets for the concert are available at the School of Music. Admission is $4.00 for adults and $3.00 for students and senior citizens.

Tuesday, April 14

- The Economics Club first annual wine and cheese party begins at 4:00 p.m. in Assumption Lounge. Members, first-year, non-members $3.00.

- Assumption University will hold their Seder Supper at 5:00 p.m. Advance tickets are available for $3.00 and are preferred.

Wednesday, April 15

- Harold and Maude fill the screen at 7:35 p.m. at Cinefest. At 9:30 p.m. Mad Max will be shown.

Thursday, April 16

- LAST DAY OF CLASSES.
If you go west, here is what to expect

by Stuart Clark

So you think there is no musical atmosphere in Alberta, eh?

Many people from Southern Ontario have headed west for jobs and opportunities. Even more seem to be considering such a move for summer employment. Students for whom contemporary music is very important should be curious as to what they look to Alberta for a home and a career. There are both similarities and differences between the musical scenes of Ontario and Alberta.

The most obvious similarity is seen in the radio charts. The groups that are big in Ontario are generally the same big names from the United States and overseas. Groups such as Blondie, Supertramp and the Police, and performers such as Bruce Springsteen, Billy Joel and the late John Lennon are among those currently doing well in record sales.

University Players

announce new season

by Peter Hrusovec

The guys wearing the fancy tights writes, "All the world's a stage." But great actors are in the minority. That is until you set sights on the University Players who have just announced the slate of productions for their twenty-third season beginning next fall.

The new season will open with Oscar Wilde's classic drawing room comedy, The Importance of Being Earnest, a witty work that winds itself around mistaken identity in a most elaborate and marvelous fashion. On the heels of "Ernest" is Dylan Thomas' Under Milk Wood, an examination of the rustic lives and moods of the inhabitants of a Welsh fishing village. A combination of prose, poetry and song, Thomas' celebrated work is in an importing look at a world that is not unlike that of our own.

At Christmas, the Players' produce their annual Children's show. This year, it's the delightful fairy tale, The Elves and the Shoemaker, a story in which generosity and goodwill abound.

The new year will welcome the Players' production of Christmas' The Holler, a murder mystery that pits the audience against a number of counting suspects. The annual musical production will be the Broadway smash, Chicago, a razzle-dazzle-style look at upsurging life in the roaring twenties. Flappers and floridors are acceptable dress for this show only.

Closing out the season is the fourth year students annual showcase production. Peter Shaffer's Equus is the powerfully dramatic exploration of a boy's puzzling relationship with horses. This moving story will round out what appears to be a most promising season.

The regular subscription price for Thursday and Sunday performances is $18.00, while the special student rate is $17.00 for six performances. Friday and Saturday rates are $24.00 regular and $22.00 students. Groups of twelve or more subscribers can take advantage of special rates if ordered at the same time and for the same performance night. For Thursday and Sunday, the rate is $16.00 per subscription, while on Friday and Saturday it is $21.00.

Deadline for ordering subscriptions is September 25th, 1981. For more information, contact Denny Young at the School of Dramatic Art on the University campus or write to Denny Young, University Players, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, N9B 3P4. Make your cheques payable to the University of Windsor.

Applications are

NOW BEING

ACCEPTED FOR

THE

POSITION OF

USED

BOOK SALE

MANAGER FOR THIS FALL.

CONTACT THE SAC OFFICE

River City Rockettes

April 13 - 16/81

Winston Hancock

& the Changes

EXAM WEEK no. 1

April 22 - 25/81
Intramural sporting life winds down in Windsor

Champions finally named

Wednesday from 7:00 - 9:00 p.m. This is Windsor's first AEC course. A fee of $25.00 is required. Perry McLean will be conducting this course.

All interested are urged to call St. Clair College's Office of the Registrar at 966-1656.

Badminton tourney

The largest number of individual entries ever competed in the annual Intramural Badminton Tournament last week. Eighty-two (82) participants graced St. Denis Hall in a flurry of superb badminton competition.

Campus Recreation would like to congratulate the winners in each category on their fine performances.

Men's Singles - Ng Khiam Choo

Men's Doubles - Kevin Sherbanuk

Sherman Vip

Ladies' Singles - Karen Ilijanich

Ladies' Doubles - Karen Ilijanich

Sue Layman

Mixed Doubles - Sue Layman

Mike Kyriak

Life guarding meeting

There will be a meeting for life guards for the faculty of human kinetics pool on Wednesday, May 20, 1981 at 4 p.m. in Room 201 of the human kinetics building. New guards are welcome and are asked to bring swimming qualifications.

Athlete says 'thanks'

As a two-time member of the Lancer swim team and having exhausted my five years of inter-collegiate eligibility, I would like to take this opportunity to say a few thank-you's.

First I wish to thank all those involved in the planning and execution of the First Annual Sports Awards Banquet. It was first rate. Thanks, too, must be directed to those within the administration who were supportive beyond benign neglect and for whom the promotion of excellence was conceived as a thing to be fostered, not feared. Such persons have been all too few and hence, all the more appreciated.

Lastly, a most special thank-you to the one individual who has made the last two years of my competitive experience the finest. In a sport which can in many ways be a lonely one, it means much to say that he was always there. To my coach, Mr. Don Wilson, goes my deepest gratitude and respect, I was never alone. Even that said, I feel somewhat apt to, for quite simply, there are no words... Thanks, Don, for it all.

Rob Micheli

DO YOU REMEMBER YOUR FIRST DAY ON CAMPUS?

Wouldn't it have been great to have someone show you around, talk with you about your courses, and introduce you to people on campus who could make your university life less confusing and a lot more interesting?

There is a group of concerned and enthusiastic people who do all of those things throughout the year for our freshmen... and they do much more. They return to their own high schools and speak to students, parents, and counsellors. They write articles and provide information about our university through the liaison office. They work closely with fellow students at events such as orientation and open house.

Not only do they have the opportunity to gain some experience in meeting and talking with all types of people, they're able to become familiar with all aspects of their own university. And, although the salary is by no means tremendous, it provides for a little extra spending money.

WHO ARE THEY?

THE STUDENT AMBASSADORS

INTERESTED IN JOINING?

STOP BY THE LIASON OFFICE

ROOM 110 WINDSOR HALL

OR CALL 283-2341
Football

This year's football season featured as much action off the field as on. The Lancers struggled through the first four games of the season with only one win while awaiting the return of last year's No. 1 player in the nation, Scott Mallender, who was fighting an OUAA order that stated he had used up his five years of eligibility.

Up until that point, Windsor had been ably led by Bob Dally, a freshman pivot, but his inexperience combined with a poor rushing game and some blundering on the special teams resulted in the last-place showing.

The Lancer football team had the raw talent but they blundered their way to one of the worst finishes ever. Coach Gino Fracas (left) had little occasion to smile.

Meanwhile, the Lancerette basketball team looked for big things in '80-81 with freshmen Theresa Mcgee (right), but found that a 9-3 record was not good enough. Maybe next year.

Basketball

For the teams in women's Tier II basketball, success means one of two things - first place or second place. Only those two teams advance to a preliminary tournament with the four lowest finishers from Tier I to vie for the two-round final with a two-stroke lead.

But a fewer 'killer' holes spelled disaster for the linksters on the second day and they faltered, allowing the University of Toronto to capture the title. There was some good news, though, as Chris Hreljac took the overall individual crown for the second year in a row.

About next year, Miles would only say, "We should have won this year."

Volleyball

The Lancerettes finished third in their western division with a record of 11-7 before being knocked out at the pre-final tournament at Laurier University with losses to Queen's, McMaster and Western.

No championships, but coach Jean Brien points out that this is a learning year and looks to improvement next year when all 12 team members return.

Tennis

Not much was heard from the four young women comprising the university tennis team. They failed to capture any titles at either the singles or doubles finals this year.

But, one thing is for sure - the four who made the effort to join the team are hard workers and showed steady improvement over the course of the season. Who knows what to expect next year.

Next week: Men's basketball, track and field and more

ATTENTION: DRUG PLAN

1. THOSE STUDENTS WISHING THEIR DRUG CHEQUES MAILED TO THEIR PERMANENT ADDRESS ARE TO:
   LEAVE A SELF-ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE
   AT THE SAC OFFICE.

ENVELOPES WITHOUT STAMPS WILL NOT BE MADE.

2. THOSE STUDENTS HOLDING RECEIPTS OF LESS THAN $10.00 MAY NOW COMPLETE
   THE CLAIM FORM.
DO YOU DRIVE TO SCHOOL?

Dear fellow students: the present Transit Strike in Windsor is making it extremely difficult for many students to come to school on time.

If you drive a car we are asking for your cooperation in establishing a car pool. Students who drive to school could lease their name in the SAC office and we will match you up with students in your area who need a ride to school.

Please act now and help other students overcome a common transit problem.

David A. Simmons
President, SAC
SAC treasurer terminated

In a rather confusing "housecleaning-before-the-moves-on" this week, outgoing Students' Administrative Council President David Simmons fired his Vice-President-Finance, Brad Mitchell.

Mitchell, appointed by Simmons when he became president last April, was fired, according to SAC sources, for keeping Simmons adequately informed about contracts negotiations involving SAC employees (including SAC office secretaries and pub employees).

David Simmons

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

---

Senate: Second season still sans slack session

by E.P. Chant

Will "slack week" be reinstated or will we have to continue to suffer through the second semester without any kind of a break?

The university Senate was to meet last Thursday, but lost its quorum after two hours of debate on this matter. The motion, it is probable that the new student senators will have made reference to a petition which has been going around campus for the past several weeks, asking students to support the return of a week's worth of time-off for studying and such.

SAC treasurer terminated

In a rather confusing "housecleaning-before-the-moves-on" this week, outgoing Students' Administrative Council President David Simmons fired his Vice-President-Finance, Brad Mitchell.

Mitchell, appointed by Simmons when he became president last April, was fired, according to SAC sources, for keeping Simmons adequately informed about contracts negotiations involving SAC employees (including SAC office secretaries and pub employees).

David Simmons

CONTINUED ON PAGE 3

---

Simmons questions replacement students' council

by E.P. Chant

The old guard was piloted and out in the new in last week, but not without some sour notes along the way.

Last Thursday's annual meeting of the Students' Administrative Council (SAC) saw the resignation of the 1980-81 council and the institution of the 1981-82 one.

The latter, to be headed by President-elect Jim Shaban, was questioned severely by outgoing Students' Administrative Council President David Simmons on several matters.

This happened after Simmons had had bid farewell by Shaban, who cited Simmons' "grand dedication to" and "caring for" the students he represented.

When the new council members had taken their seats and introduced themselves, Simmons, speaking as a student observer now, proceeded to question Shaban and the council on its ratification of Shaban's cabinet and the SAC summer operating budget.

Simmons questioned Shaban's failure to advertise available cabinet positions and his lack of consultation with Vice-President John Mill on the appointees.

He also noted that he was not required to advertise the positions, he had had his appointees in mind throughout his election campaign, and that Mill was fully consulted and approved of his cabinet choices.

Although a motion was made to table the ratification until the positions were advertised, it eventually failed as several members cited Shaban's right to work with the people with whom he was the most comfortable.

Engineering representative John Riospolii said people might be interested enough to come up to apply after seeing such an advertisement, but that the people nominated for cabinet posts by Shaban had already proven their interest and ability.

Mill added that one of the problems with Simmons' cabinet last year was that they felt that work would not be a problem this year since he and Shaban already had begun working with the appointees.

Specifically, Simmons questioned the choice of Brad Mitchell for the post of Vice-President-Finance (Treasurer). He asked Mitchell if he still felt he was not responsible for the position of SAC for his actions (paraphrasing Mitchell's statement made during the first term's executive council).

Mitchell replied that he still felt he was not responsible to one individual and one individual only - that he was, instead, responsible to the president, but he was also responsible to the council as a whole and to the students.

Mitchell was finally ratified, with several members complementing him for his work on the 1980-81 council, with member Tish Coster saying he had always done his job well "no matter who was reporting to him."

During the ratification discussion, Nursing representative Kathleen Morland said Simmons she was "worried by the fact that you are bringing up four grapes from last year and holding up one new council."

Simmons replied that it was his right as a student to question any council's actions.

The other cabinet members were ratified with no trouble. Wendy MacKinnon (Auxiliary Services), Terry Buckland (External Affairs), James Boyer (Internal Affairs), and David Laird (Special Events).

Simmons then objected to several areas of the substantially increased SAC summer budget (over last year). [See his letter on page 5 for specifics.]

Both Mitchell and Shaban defended the budget, saying some manpower changes were going to require more summer employees, some political questions were going to require summer travel and conference attendance, and some office alterations were going to require remuneration money.

In addition, they both noted that SAC had the money to spend on those special summer projects this year, whereas last year it had to borrow a sizeable amount of money from the bank to operate at a minimal level.

Several members, during the discussion, said they thought it was unfair of Simmons to be comparing the budgets in the way he did (1980 actual figures versus 1981 proposed figures).

The proposed budget for summer 1980 was approximately $25,000, while this year it is $32,000. Of last year's $23,000 proposed, only $16,679.37 was actually spent, and several members expressed confidence in Mitchell and the SAC Board of Directors that the 1981 proposed $32,000 would not be entirely spent unless it was necessary.

The budget was finally passed, with council instructing the Board of Directors to keep a particularly close eye on the cash outlay.
Slack Week

Let my people go -- to study in Florida

by Wendy Coomber

Although "reading week" is gone, its memory still haunts the campus and administration. "Reading week," which students from previous years remember as the break in the middle of February, is facing the "Lazarus syndrome" — rising from the dead. "It's not difficult to change things," said new student Senator Bill Kosyk.

Kosyk is currently circulating a petition around the campus to have the old "slack week" reinstated. Nearly 2,000 signatures have been gathered since last Tuesday and, although a signed petition is not necessary to bring this motion before the Senate, Kosyk feels that showing support for the cause will increase its credibility with that administrative body.

A motion by faculty was to have been brought before the Senate earlier this month asking that a one day holiday be created for students on the seventh Friday of the first week of the winter semester. Kosyk does not feel that is enough.

Besides, he said, many students do not even have classes on Friday of the winter semester. Kosyk created for students on the semester's administrative body.

Pinto replied it was better than nothing although it would not do quite the same thing. He added that many of the faculty found the lack of a break trying and teaching the restless students, who longed for a vacation right about then, made it harder on them still.

Last year, when semesternization was adopted by the university, a report was sent to the Senate saying, in part, "The adoption of a semester system by the University leaves the need of a February "study week" which was originally established to allow students the opportunity to prepare for examinations in full year courses!"

Dr. John Hofm an of Religious Studies, who seconded the motion for this one day holiday, said he felt going into semesterized courses put more pressure on the students. But he felt that a holiday was needed, even if it was only one day. Hofman said the university discovered a lot of new students coming in at the end of the present Christmas break from the area high schools (over 300 students, according to Dr. Kathleen McCrone, head of the History department).

The administration did not want to discourage these students from attending the university by removing a week at Christmas and recreating "slack week", forcing them to have to make up two extra weeks of university (as it is, the end of high school and the beginning of winter semesters overlap by one week). "It's important to a university to keep up its student enrolment," he said.

Dr. McCrone, who made the motion for the new holiday, said that the current Christmas holiday was too long. She pointed out that the University of Guelph, which this university closely resembles with the semester system, has a two day holiday instead of a "reading week.

Dr. McCrone pointed to the alternatives of starting a week early in January (and losing the high school students) or ending a week later in April (which would cut into intersession).

Dave Simmons, SAC president, does not agree with returning "slack week", feeling the Senate must have had a good reason for discontinuing it. He also thought its dismissal should be given a couple of years and then see how the students feel about it. Kosyk disagreed, saying the universities across Ontario must have had a good reason to institute "slack week" in the first place and keeping it and that the people he has talked to were 85 to 90 percent in favour of bringing it back.

He has received mixed emotions from the faculty members he has talked to.

DO YOU DRIVE TO SCHOOL?

Dear fellow students: the present Transit Strike in Windsor is making it extremely difficult for many students to come to school on time.

If you drive a car we are asking for your cooperation in establishing a car pool. Students who drive to school could leave their name in the SAC office and we will match you up with students in your area who need a ride to school.

Please act now and help other students overcome a common transit problem.

David A. Simmons
President, SAC
New and old managers await CJAM’s FM licence

by Wendy Coomber

"This year looks very, very good," exclaimed Walter Manzig, Manager-elect of CJAM, speaking of the station’s licence, which was much awaited after FM licence.

In the radio station’s election, last year, Dale Molnar emerged as Manager and Assistant Manager, respectively. At a crucial time in CJAM’s history, a time when the FM licence looks like it is almost within reach, Manzig, a student of business, knows the biggest problem at the moment, is financing. Yet, he said, the station is hoping for a loan from the university’s Board of Governors.

The problem here, however, is that the Board of Governors will not grant the station the loan until it has the FM licence, and the CRTC(T)C will not give it the licence until it can prove to that regulatory body it has the financial support provided by the Board of Governors.

Grant Gelinas, the present CJAM manager, said they are trying to work out some kind of guarantee to present to the CRTC(T)C that will provide the loan once the licence is presented.

From now on, the new manager’s mind is to have CJAM broadcasting over FM band by this time next year, and to be able to draft the radio station’s constitution over the summer. Since the station will not be able to apply for the licence once the licence is granted, it will be looking for community support and some administration sponsorship.

Walter Manzig

This summer, said Manzig, it looks like CJAM will be getting a summer loan from the city — the London Community Enrichment Program. This program will bring together gifted children, and nine to 10-year-olds, into the radio station to see how radio functions, so they might show an interest in radio at a later date.

Manzig said the station will be keeping many of the old programs next year, school holidays will be definite changes if it gets the licence. The programs will become more student-oriented, with shows bringing in professional people from the outside world about the university.

He feels the university has a wealth of information and resources which are not being used right now and the community could benefit greatly if we were brought to them through a radio station.

However, said Manzig, the station should not become so preoccupied with the university that it loses touch with the people to whom it is broadcasting.

He wants the radio station thought of as an organization run from a business perspective, but still in touch with students.

Dale Molnar, Assistant Manager-elect, wants to see the special programming moved to daytime from nighttime. He would also like to change the station’s format somewhat from PAGE 1.

Mitchell admitted that he had made a procedural error. Simmons gave Mitchell and Jim Shaban, now President-elect, the authority to negotiate with the employees, but no contract was to be finalized without his approval.

When Simmons balked at the part-time parking arrangements, Mitchell apparently pushed them through anyway.

The new contracts are to take effect in the fall, a bit later than after Simmons’ official term as President ends. His council, Board of Directors, and cabinet have already resigned and are now involved in a transition to power to next year’s SAC officials.

"Grey areas" are plentiful in this year’s proposal, though administratively accepting his diminishment, said the fact that the contracts do not take effect until after Simmons’ term is over, means more concern for President-elect Shaban than the outgoing Simmons.

Mitchell had appealed his termination to council at a whole (according to standard appeal procedure he has, at latest report, discarded that action).

If he had appealed, it would have been interesting to see if the appeal would have gone back, by some means, to last year’s council (now, as mentioned above), for re-ratification of Mitchell as President-elect for 1981-82 (the proposal is for an appeal to the Regional Board of Governors for inter-appeal, to disband disband).

The Industrial Management Clubs of Canada have an award, based on the earnings of an investment of $2,000, which is given to a full-time employed part-time student "on the basis of financial need and satisfactory academic achievement." There are a few conditions for eligibility: the applicant must be a part-time student, have an income, and have been enrolled in an approved part-time course in a recognized Ontario post-secondary institution.

For the busbar licence, there are other potential sources of assistance under O.S.A.P., including the Ontario Student Grant Plan, or the Canada or Ontario Student Grant Plan.

Part-time parking problems

The parking problem monster is rearing its ugly head again! All the rationalization in the world cannot convince us that a part-time student who has purchased a part-time sticker is not entitled to use that specific lot for a short period either during the day if it’s a "night time only" sticker or during the evening if it’s a "day time only" sticker. Part-time students have a need for parking space that certainly extends beyond the three hours of their evening classes or the duration of their daily lecture periods. Those who abuse the library on a day off, if a part-time night student normally works during the night, are able to park illegally almost all night to do some further research if you are a part-time day student? Presently we are out of luck.

Personally speaking, as a part-time night student, there are occasions when I find it necessary to tend to other university business during lunch hour and the availability of parking space is of utmost importance. As a consequence, students in this position are more or less forced to purchase a full permit. Surely I can’t be the only one with this problem.

There must be a better way of arranging the parking so that the on occasion (I’m suggesting a regular basis) part-time students could avoid being ticketed and yet still have access to a parking spot. Since part-time students are only able to attend school on a part-time basis, it hardly seems likely that night time students would abuse the privilege by parking in the lot during the day, or vice versa regarding part-time day students.

Since I am personally unaware of the specific problems that the security department experience, it would be inappropriate to suppose I could offer a magical solution. However, this does not mean that a solution, or a workable compromise, does not exist. I certainly hope we can find it.

Helen Allworth

There are certain financial aid programs designed specifically for part-time students. The Ontario Special Busbar Plan, part of the Ontario Student Assistance Program (O.S.A.P.), can provide a total maximum of $1200 per academic year to eligible part-time students who qualify. It helps to defray the educational costs of needy part-time students who have not met the requirements for financial need.

This aid can cover the cost of tuition, books, equipment, transportation, and even as a supplement to part-time earnings. To be eligible, an applicant must meet certain habituation requirements, be on social assistance or have a low family income, and be enrolled in an approved course in a recognized Ontario post-secondary institution.

For the busbar licence, there are other potential sources of assistance under O.S.A.P., including the Ontario Student Grant Plan, or the Canada or Ontario Student Grant Plan.

Part-time parking problems

The parking problem monster is rearing its ugly head again! All the rationalization in the world cannot convince us that a part-time student who has purchased a part-time sticker is not entitled to use that specific lot for a short period either during the day if it’s a "night time only" sticker or during the evening if it’s a "day time only" sticker. Part-time students have a need for parking space that certainly extends beyond the three hours of their evening classes or the duration of their daily lecture periods. Those who abuse the library on a day off, if a part-time night student normally works during the night, are able to park illegally almost all night to do some further research if you are a part-time day student? Presently we are out of luck.

Personally speaking, as a part-time night student, there are occasions when I find it necessary to tend to other university business during lunch hour and the availability of parking space is of utmost importance. As a consequence, students in this position are more or less forced to purchase a full permit. Surely I can’t be the only one with this problem.

There must be a better way of arranging the parking so that the on occasion (I’m suggesting a regular basis) part-time students could avoid being ticketed and yet still have access to a parking spot. Since part-time students are only able to attend school on a part-time basis, it hardly seems likely that night time students would abuse the privilege by parking in the lot during the day, or vice versa regarding part-time day students.

Since I am personally unaware of the specific problems that the security department experience, it would be inappropriate to suppose I could offer a magical solution. However, this does not mean that a solution, or a workable compromise, does not exist. I certainly hope we can find it.

Helen Allworth

There are certain financial aid programs designed specifically for part-time students. The Ontario Special Busbar Plan, part of the Ontario Student Assistance Program (O.S.A.P.), can provide a total maximum of $1200 per academic year to eligible part-time students who qualify. It helps to defray the educational costs of needy part-time students who have not met the requirements for financial need.

This aid can cover the cost of tuition, books, equipment, transportation, and even as a supplement to part-time earnings. To be eligible, an applicant must meet certain habituation requirements, be on social assistance or have a low family income, and be enrolled in an approved course in a recognized Ontario post-secondary institution.

For the busbar licence, there are other potential sources of assistance under O.S.A.P., including the Ontario Student Grant Plan, or the Canada or Ontario Student Grant Plan.

Part-time parking problems

The parking problem monster is rearing its ugly head again! All the rationalization in the world cannot convince us that a part-time student who has purchased a part-time sticker is not entitled to use that specific lot for a short period either during the day if it’s a "night time only" sticker or during the evening if it’s a "day time only" sticker. Part-time students have a need for parking space that certainly extends beyond the three hours of their evening classes or the duration of their daily lecture periods. Those who abuse the library on a day off, if a part-time night student normally works during the night, are able to park illegally almost all night to do some further research if you are a part-time day student? Presently we are out of luck.

Personally speaking, as a part-time night student, there are occasions when I find it necessary to tend to other university business during lunch hour and the availability of parking space is of utmost importance. As a consequence, students in this position are more or less forced to purchase a full permit. Surely I can’t be the only one with this problem.

There must be a better way of arranging the parking so that the on occasion (I’m suggesting a regular basis) part-time students could avoid being ticketed and yet still have access to a parking spot. Since part-time students are only able to attend school on a part-time basis, it hardly seems likely that night time students would abuse the privilege by parking in the lot during the day, or vice versa regarding part-time day students.

Since I am personally unaware of the specific problems that the security department experience, it would be inappropriate to suppose I could offer a magical solution. However, this does not mean that a solution, or a workable compromise, does not exist. I certainly hope we can find it.

Helen Allworth

SAC treasurer terminated

Mitchell admitted that he had made a procedural error. Simmons gave Mitchell and Jim Shaban, now President-elect, the authority to negotiate with the employees, but no contract was to be finalized without his approval.

When Simmons balked at the part-time parking arrangements, Mitchell apparently pushed them through anyway.

The new contracts are to take effect in the fall, a bit later than after Simmons’ official term as President ends. His council, Board of Directors, and cabinet have already resigned and are now involved in a transition to power to next year’s SAC officials.

"Grey areas" are plentiful in this year’s proposal, though administratively accepting his diminishment.

Mitchell admitted that he had made a procedural error. Simmons gave Mitchell and Jim Shaban, now President-elect, the authority to negotiate with the employees, but no contract was to be finalized without his approval.

When Simmons balked at the part-time parking arrangements, Mitchell apparently pushed them through anyway.

The new contracts are to take effect in the fall, a bit later than after Simmons’ official term as President ends. His council, Board of Directors, and cabinet have already resigned and are now involved in a transition to power to next year’s SAC officials.

"Grey areas" are plentiful in this year’s proposal, though administratively accepting his diminishment.

Mitchell admitted that he had made a procedural error. Simmons gave Mitchell and Jim Shaban, now President-elect, the authority to negotiate with the employees, but no contract was to be finalized without his approval.

When Simmons balked at the part-time parking arrangements, Mitchell apparently pushed them through anyway.

The new contracts are to take effect in the fall, a bit later than after Simmons’ official term as President ends. His council, Board of Directors, and cabinet have already resigned and are now involved in a transition to power to next year’s SAC officials.

"Grey areas" are plentiful in this year’s proposal, though administratively accepting his diminishment.
A stormy year in the SAC chambers

...and that was it. I guess that's the end. I'm all yours, Phyl.

Editorial

The principle of democracy is the right of choice, but also, and more important, it is the burden of choice - the responsibility of standing up and being counted.

G. Stevens, County

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 27, April 16, 1981, Page Four
Dear Editor:

We have had the dubious honour of having to listen to you complain and otherwise rant and rave about those in your employ, with the understanding that the information passed on in the sanctuary of our office would go no further.

Well, there's nothing you can do to me now, so all the spilt beans can come out. Right now, the time you said that Steve Rice did what sports what Godalla did for the Boston Celtics.

Do you also remember the time that you said that Peter Huggett's layout skills had all those in the aesthetics of Holiday Beach after a particularly vile week of mis glanded perch?

Remember the big debate about the more stupid form of art, photography or poetry?

Dear Editor:

First and foremost, I would personally like to extend my gratitude on behalf of those students who supported my efforts for presidency.

I am looking forward to the upcoming year with great hope and optimism. Certainly, the optimism emanates from the success of the current Social Science Society. In a short time, the society exhibited a style and fervour which I can only hope to continue. The success of Social Science is exhibited in the Kings concert, the Crop (Robert Wilson, Paul Martin). Unquestionably, the original members have a foundation for the upcoming society.

Well, dear sir, I certainly do, and it is at about the time that the members of the staff found out about those memorable evenings spent breaking parking gates just to see how many eggs it took.

Dear Editor:

Be that as it may, I would like to express our sincere thanks to Editor Rosemary A. Lakhani and the Editorial Board consisting of Dr. John Dinkley, Diane Peters, Tony Couture and Elaine Gerard for their unselfish efforts in producing this year's anthology of creative works by students at the University of Windsor.

By far, Generation '81 appears to be the most ambitious of recent undertakings in the area of student anthologies at this university. The enormous amount of time and labour that was channeled towards this project is self-evident; in effect, the "proof is in the pudding". I hope the society is inspired by the resounding determination of this group to invite any students who are interested in working with the society to contact me at the SAC office.

Dear Editor:

We would like to thank you for your assistance in getting the potholes in Parking Lot B filled in. Personally, I am very grateful. If necessary, another, more serious, problem. Bird droppings. In Parking Lot B, which is under the umbrella, this problem has become critical. My partner has been forced to wash his Dumont regularly and I am sure this is true for other car owners.

We were inspired to write by the story which appeared in the Windsor Star several days ago. They suggested loud music to scare the birds away; we prefer a more drastic and brutal method.

The pedestrians have to roar out these birds, the sidewalk is replete with their droppings. Let these students. So in trees and statues, the way they are supposed to. Thank you again.

WM Bensmiller
PA Black
GB Dietrich

Parochy of Science and Mach
International student groups hold elections

by R. Breschuk

The coming of spring signals a time for change and rebirth. The blossoming of Portland blooms of spring flowers on campus. In keeping with the general trend of springtime elections, the International Students' Organization and several of its affiliated ethnic clubs have witnessed changes in their executive and councils.

Newly elected I.S.O., president Paul Chopra, is successor to David Dau, Mr. Chopra's plan is to join the concept of teamwork and cooperation within the council as well as among university students in general. Mr. Chopra's plans include special activities for orientation week and greater dissemination of information about the various international cultures through seminars and special cultural events and festivals, to be held throughout the coming year.

FROM PAGE 3

The Ontario government has decided that visa students are eligible for Ontario Tax Credits. Last year the government announced that visa students could not claim the credit that all those visa students who received it would have to pay it back. The ruling was made retroactive to 1977.

The new members of the Centre will be open for operation during the Summer Session '81 to assist students experiencing basic writing problems. In addition to individual tutorial sessions, three workshops will be held bi-weekly and open to all interested students.

The workshops in each case will consist of a lecture introducing students to the topic in question and related discussion and related information. The second portion of the program will allow students the opportunity to put the theory into practice.

The time and date for each workshop will be posted in the Office of Student Affairs and the University Centre. Students may inquire further by contacting the Writing Development Centre at 253-3231 or the Office of Student Affairs at Ext. 534. The workshops will cover the following topics:

1. Preliminaries to Composition (how and where to get information; how to limit your subject and develop a thesis; how to construct a topic or sentence outline)
2. Nature of the Expository Essay (function and importance of introductions, body paragraphs, topic sentences, transitions, supporting details, concluding paragraphs)
3. Types of organization (analysis, description, cause-effect, argumentation, comparison - contrast - development - sequential method - consecutive thought method)
SATURDAY AT THE HOME

One storm at me through old oatmeal eyes the milky gaze
last — he waits for my hand on the switch.

The record spins;
Worn mélange blurs.
Across the bare tile,
they creep and converge,
sniffing, breathing.

The old men goggle like schoolboys, and chased women which again, housewives sway,
sponging on the tile.

How they dance and on and on in their fox trot and Waltz.
They moan and moan and talk of old times — when they are not (then).

Ricki Heller

Words for Philphi
Your footsteps are imprinted still within the frame
on my step.
Memory
drifting to my mind like the snow
up from the ground.
Not moving
but gathering and drifting, to decorate another corner of space.

Daucumae

in the darkness
(for Allison)

last night
I said
I loved you words more easily whispered
in the darkness that spoken
in the morning light your step protects my voice.
while daylight silence
protests my heart.

Betty Blackland

Thoughts on adults

Dare you those thoughts
Imagined in your mind.
Adults urge, eye pursing.
Engendering a childhood repose.

What could they hold?
What might shine forth.
A cascade of emotion
A diminishing visual glow.

Singly, the images no longer live.
Emotional sense of mocked innocence.
We all welcome maturity our friend.
But only must it devour us young.

Wendall S. Doyle

David

I sit at the table where we sat
the whole or your father gave you spoken the plan we made together.
tasting reality on a plate, prize from an auction one summer day in Fiction.

So many things surround me no longer can I make the distinction your smile, my past, our plans.
These things will meet and my things are gone.

Existing in a world like this a thousand miles from here.

Still
you have not left.

The Lance, Vol. LIII, No. 25, April 19, 1987, Page Seven
The Lancers, Vol. LI, No. 27, April 16, 1981, Page Eight

Entertainment

Harry Chapin wasn’t here this year

by Peter Haggert

Now is the time for all good editors to evaluate the entertainment of their campus. Or how about ... The newborn Special Science Society jumped over the lazy Special Events Commissioner. Well ... for one thing, this year’s Events Commissioner wasn’t lazy. Unlike his predecessor, he even lasted until the end of his term. Mark La Cassé did get off to a slow start, but by term two, he could be seen preparing and promoting a variety of SAC events.

Although SAC events were not entirely successful, a glimmer of hope shone from the SAC office. In my opinion, the idea of sponsoring a University Players’ performance was SAC’s biggest achievement. It is too bad few people took advantage of SAC’s generous offer. The eight or so Players’ performances for each play were always sold out. Why couldn’t SAC have sponsored a University Players’ performance was not entirely successful, a glimpse of it will be of better quality.

SAC has already booked the new gym for a one-night major concert. Talks are under way to contract a big (and I mean big!) female artist for this September’s festival.

Bobby Graymer and the Fantastics were in the pub for the beginning of this week. The pub consistently provided good entertainment for students. Next year, Jim Shaheen has proposed an Orientation Committee to be formed to replace the present Commissioner’s post. This will suitably relinquish the burden from one man, and make many responsible for orientation’s ultimate failure.

Ooops! Did I say failure? Well, you can be sure there will be a smaller Orientation next year—hopefully it will be of better quality.

Now is the time for all good editors to evaluate the entertainment of their campus. Or how about ... The newborn Special Science Society jumped over the lazy Special Events Commissioner. Well ... for one thing, this year’s Events Commissioner wasn’t lazy. Unlike his predecessor, he even lasted until the end of his term. Mark La Cassé did get off to a slow start, but by term two, he could be seen preparing and promoting a variety of SAC events.

Although SAC events were not entirely successful, a glimmer of hope shone from the SAC office. In my opinion, the idea of sponsoring a University Players’ performance was SAC’s biggest achievement. It is too bad few people took advantage of SAC’s generous offer. The eight or so Players’ performances for each play were always sold out. Why couldn’t SAC have

THE CINEMA CRITIC

TESS

by Robert Brown

Tess has been touted as the “quality” film of the year. Surprisingly, it is, although not a masterpiece as its proponents seem to think.

Even more surprising is its presence in Windsor, illustrating the vagaries of the movie industry. Released in Europe back in 1979, Tess probably wouldn’t have appeared in North America except for the Oscars. It was given a showing in New York in order to qualify for the awards, with critical acclaim and director Roman Polanski’s notoriety, the movie caught on. The publicity of six Oscar nominations resulted in national distribution throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Based on the Thomas Hardy novel “Tess of the D’Urbervilles,” the plot has all the simplicity of a soap opera. In the late nineteenth century a poor English farm girl finds it is the last remnant of a line of aristocrats. They decide to advance the family fortunes by sending beautiful daughter Tess to a rich “relative,” who takes advantage of her. She bears a son who dies soon after, then marries the appropriately named “Angel.” But when she confesses her past crimes on their wedding night, he refuses to accept her for what she is until too late, and tragedy results.

The story’s plausibility depends on the portrayal of Tess, and actress Nastassia Kinski is up to the task. She’s the right kind of gorgeous — I have to say “astoundingly beautiful” but the term is appropriate — and can even act. One can understand why wretched things happen when Tess is around. The two male roles (Peter Firth as the enigmatic Alexandre and Leigh Lawson as Angel) are also well cast.

Director Polanski shows a flair in his depiction of the historic English countryside which one would not expect from his other works. (No ghosts or goblins. What would Polanski have done to “Wuthering Heights”?) The photography is not innovative but is well done. If you like rural scenes and stately homes, Tess is your kind of film.

Unfortunately, when Polanski stresses the visual aspects of history he neglects certain nuances of Victorian morality essential for understanding the plot. In the Thomas Hardy novel, Tess and her parents unwittingly author their own misfortunes when they attempt to cross the rigid British class system. When Tess reaches above her “place in life” as a farm girl, she is raped and degraded for her efforts. Sundry other misfortunes come due to her “undue pride.” But this doesn’t come across in the movie, where we keep wondering why all these bad things keep happening to the poor girl.

Similarly, we can’t really understand why Angel leaves Tess after finding out about her seduction and pregnancy. The extraordinary revision the Victorian middle class felt towards pre-marital sex (taken for granted by readers when the novel first came out) is hard to grasp today, and Polanski should have made more of an effort to explain it.

But then nothing is perfect, and Tess is far better than anything else around. You probably won’t get another chance, because by the time the Cinema gets built, Tess will be long gone, and the Ontario Film Theatre is probably closing. Better see it soon.

---

Spring Jackets ’81

Bond Clothes Shop

368 Ouellette

the best in young mens fashions

---

Bond Clothes Shop

368 OUELLETTE

the best in young mens fashions
Comedy is pretty at Komedy Korner

by Lorenzo Buj

His low-salt approach suddenly turned thunderous, I smile in anticipation as comedian Rosemary Doon dos a cheap-clip blue-and-green suit, a dollar-hung "gasp!"…as impossible drawl, and, in one moment of comic blasphemy becomes the Reverend "Dollar Profit." A mighty swoop of the hand tells all barriers of religious reticence, "I give God the profit and ah keep the money." Countless invasions of living-room privacy by God-sent men exposing the evils of materialism are not lost on the audience and the evangelical histrionics are greeted by bursts of laughter.

Even when he's not pontificating this comic won't lie. He relates how Catholic schools try to convince their students that "politeness" means an English poet, or how, over the years, mothers-law have carried new titles into coin interspersed.

So it goes at Leo Dufour's Komedy Korner where the entertainment never ends from Wednesday (new talent night) to Saturday, live entertainment keeps things jumping for anybody within earshot.

Whether calling the comic irrational or reminding you how uneasy you feel having a friend's tacky comic keeps things hopping for the comics to show off their latest tricks. The patrons ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.

The patron's ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.

The patron's ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.

I am in debt to these people

by Peter Haggert

Lance Entertainment Editor

No this isn't a list of all the people one owes money to — that list is a lot longer.

No, it's a tribute to all the people who helped me get this paper together this week. The Sunday Morning Workoverworkers. In fact, all Lance staffers worked entertainment at one time or another this year. First, I must mention that out of nowhere, The Lance acquired a comic who's not from Queens, or even New York. She's Leo Dufour and she's the ultimate weapon to firing extra space. Next we have the John Doyle and Liddle, cinema critic. Don't tell Rosie, but she was my ultimate weapon to turning my numerous scrawlings into literate pieces of writing. Well, sometimes anyway!

To tum my numerous scrawlings into literate pieces of writing, I can't forget the kid of the team, Vicki Masaro who did all that work and made it all happen. I can't forget Woody and Laurel's contribution no matter how few of her spacey gems of wisdom passed by without the comedians returning just as quick as a crack. It made for a lot of laughs all night long.

If anything, Rosemary and the few minor items at our table prompted the comics to show they could be just as flexible and first-rate as Rosemary's pointed tongue warranted.

Among the notables Rosemary brought upon herself: "Rosemary is a perfect example of why some women eat their young"; "The more I hear Rosemary, the more I wish I had the gift of the gab." But before long, the ongoing Rosemary against the world opposite making it hilariously clear why good rhythm is a corner-stone of the comic trade. Rhythm, and all the ingredients of a well-paced act are needed to work the clubs and making the rounds, even at the big-time Robux Williams has been known to write night-club free so he can stay close to live audiences and experiment with jokes.

Others don't have it so good, though. Twenty-five dollars or less per night, the story-faced audience that wouldn't even find your bozo shorts funny, and all the comics don't want you to know you're enough to numb anybody's funny bone, but such experiences bone the comedic gifts and sharpen one's sense of the incisively ferocious.

Whatever's handy can be the source of inspiration. Greg King used to play guitar in a band in a night-club, "did a lot of Bob Dylan," so his routine included a teenage piece satirizing an eccentric urban cowboy.

Coming, as it did, from an Ilm Connello twin, it was a number guaranteed to disarm the leg's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it. Though King's comic approach to it, our culture seems to share a healthy addiction for comedy and quick-witted wit. It isn't fun, but it can:

Rosemary-against-the-world scarfs the comedy has replaced the more intimate than Gulliver's which finds itself, not oddly, but blithely into the groggy psychology of a late-night culture which finds itself, not oddly, but blithely into the groggy psychology of a late-night culture. Rosemary's wide-brimmed hat, this being the case, Leo is bringing in talent from Make Me Laugh and plans to have Ted Holland - a four-time Tonight Show winner - on hand in the very near future.

Someone in the next few months-Vegas material in the form of James Wesley Jackson (nominated for an Emmy) should also be paying a visit. Be sure to catch him. "He's fantastic," says Van Gunther, "Leo's doorman and all-around comic. He'll knock you dead." And for fun, our culture seems to share a healthy addiction for comedy and quick-witted wit. It isn't fun, but it can:

The Lance, Vol. LI, No. 27, April 16, 1981, Page Nine

Student Handbook 81-82

The Students' Administrative Council in cooperation with the division of Student Affairs will be publishing the first concise Student Handbook for the campus All clubs, faculty departments, societies and groups are invited to submit a description of their organization so that it may be included in this publication For more information call Mark Greene Ext. 326 Students should be sent to "Student Handbook" SAC Office University Centre

Ken Lanoue Insurance Agency Ltd.

General and Life Insurance

Auto Insurance is Compulsory - High prices are not

Call us at 966-6112

5915 Malton Road

Windsor, Ontario N9H 1S6

The pattern ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.

The pattern ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.

The pattern ask MC Leo Dufour to "make them laugh." For the comics who get it right there's nothing better than a good laugh. Leo's doorman and all-around comic takes the mic and quickly flocks to it.
More reminiscing on '80-'81 sports

Basketball
For most teams, an OUAA West championship is an accomplishment. For Windsor's men's basketball team, the gem of the University's sports crown, it has come to be expected.

With that firmly in mind, rookie coach Nick Grabowski set out to have a "successful" season in 1980-81. He and his team all-star, OUAA West MVP, OUAA co-MVP and a rare track MVP.

The nucleus of this year's team will return, much will be expected.

This year's track and field season was one of the most successful in recent memory. Records were toppled with the passing of each meet, many more than can be mentioned here.

Most notable among the men was Andy Backstuen, a first-year law student who Coach Dr. Michael Salter referred to as "possibly one of the most talented athletes this University has seen." Backstuen took the gold medal in the 3000 metres at the OUAA outdoor final as well as a gold in the 600 metres indoors in the all-Ontario final.

The Toronto native also took bronze medals in the 100 metres hurdles and the 300 metres indoors. He finished fifth in the 600 metres indoors at the OWIAA indoor meet.

SAC'S Pub presents

The Times
April 16/81

Winston Hancock & the Changes
EXAM WEEK no. 1
April 22 - 25/81

Entertainment Wed - Sat throughout Intersession and the Summer

Cliff Erickson at SAC'S
May 6 - 9

Sac's Pub presents

Linda Staudt competing at the Springbank Road Races in London.

WHY RUST?
QUALITY Fiberglass
Automotive Replacement Panels
Perfect Fit, Molded from Original Panels
For most Domestic & Foreign Cars, Trucks, Vans
Fenders, Quarter Panels, Door Skins, Hoods, Trunklids, Spoilers, Air dams, Flares etc.

WHOLESALE
J.C.L. ENTERPRISES
948-5599 or 948-0597
good in sport — determination with restraint, sportsmanship, a love of the game. It is the attitude that makes hockey the most exciting sport in the world and hockey teams are making exciting hockey.

There were low points in the season like a 16-1 shelling suffered in the final game against Western. But there were many more high points such as the 2-1 victory over the talent-laden Toronto Varsity Blues and a 5-5 tie with top-ranked York U.

There were no all-stars on the team and that is perhaps fitting because in many respects, the Lancers were always a team more than a group of individuals. Goaltender Don Johnston was named the team's MVP for his outstanding performances that kept the team in contention during some tough games.

The only problem with the 1980-81 Lancer hockey team was that this didn't happen often enough.

Effect equals success

The Campus Recreation Department would like to express their appreciation to the following people for their concerted efforts and interest throughout the 1980-81 school year. The success of such a program depends on these efforts, and as a result of these, this year's program was a tremendous success.

Thank you,

Sharon McNamara
Co-sponsor of Campus Rec.

Sharon Squire
Co-sponsor of Campus Rec.

List of those individuals associated with Campus Rec. (1980-81):

Jim Dowling
Mike Trott
Sharon D'Assumpcao
Bill Komorck
Lawrence
Mark Ely
Kirk Ford
Clindy Williams
Inez Nieuwenhuis
Sue Riecken
Alex Lutes
Drs. John and Barbara-Ann
Marc Moss
Mick Bartlett's team
Elster
Al Porter
Jim Jesperson
Bob Rice
Bill MacLindon
Casey Bauman
Lee Chilton
Dr. Bill Curran
Dr. Bob Boucher
Steve Rice
Dr. Ruth Reddy
Fred Rieves
Mike Hart
David Wrobel
Bert Linnell
Al Portner
Uebbie Emen
Lisa Augustine
Linda Elley
Dave Orshinsky
Dave Marquardt
Dave Bechard
Bil Mitchell
Mark Thorburn
Sandra Bondy
John McLochlon
Fred Blowes
Nicolette Marion
Vicki West
Cheri Hrejac
Chris Hrejac
Chris Young
Mike Kelle

The Lancer, Vol. LIii, No. 27, April 16, 1981, Page Eleven

Swimming

There are many less "visible" sports on this campus, but that in no way implies that any less effort or enthusiasm is given to them by their practitioners.

Swimming is one such activity that does not rule the glorification that football or basketball do in the eyes of much of the student population. Rob Micheli in an open letter last week pointed out that the sport is often a "bottom rung."

Micheli, along with Gillian Stevens, were the two competitors who overcame the barriers to win gold medals at the OUAA/GOWAA championships this year — Micheli in the 200 metre breaststroke, Stevens in the 100 butterfly — and what in some cases was world-class competition.

Micheli placed fourth in the national in the same event, Stevens sixth.

Meanwhile, Petra Uhlig, one of only two divers at the University, fought her way to the nationals where she had one of her best performances in her five-year career at Windsor.

Wrestling

Sprawling of sports that go unnoticed, this reporter has to apologize for an oversight in the sport of wrestling. It was reported, quite unexpectedly, that football star Dan Brannagan had picked up a silver medal at the GOWAA championships in the 82 kilogram weight class.

But the Human Kinetics major also took a silver in the CIAU championships, something The Lance failed to report at the time.

Brannagan, of course, was the sport's MVP among a small, yet talented team which Coach Mike Barry, himself an Olympic wrestler, expects to grow and improve in the years to come.

Fencing

Another of the little-recognized, but highly talented groups on campus is the fencing team.

Through many long winter months, these men trudged in the cold and dark underbelly of St. Denis Hall only to emerge and quietly win title after title.

This year, coach El Sukunda named the team's third-place showing at the GOWAA final. But for the third consecutive year Peter Ott, named co-winner of the President's Shield as the school's top male athlete, won the individual store title and helped the team to the overall title in that category.

Ott established himself as a world-class fencer with a 6-3-2 record over the course of the season, including impressive wins in the Great Lakes Championships against top-ranked American and foreign competition.

Other members of the fencer team were Wayne Waldes and Dave Marsh.

Only one member of the team will be leaving the school this year, so 1981-82 looks very promising for the fencers.

Other Sports

There are many other sports on campus who play a smaller but no less significant role in the sports scene at the University. The synchronized swimming team had a very successful season as did the Lancers and Lancerette cutters (although little was heard from them over the season). As well, the Crusader basketball team worked diligently all year in preparing the Lancers for future opponents and should be commended for their efforts.

A special thank you

At the risk of sounding like an Academy Awards acceptance speech, I'd like to thank certain people who made this year all the easier for me.

To my writers — few, but talented — thank you.

To the photography crew, thank you.

To the three people who helped me out of numerous jams and good luck next year.

To E.P. Chant and Ed McMahon who were always ready with a cynical remark — you gave me my start and I'm grateful.

And to Heidi Partner, photo editor extraordinaire — thanks for putting up with an over-demanding and sometimes obnoxious sports editor. The photography in this section was merely among the best in the country.

And finally, to my loving wife, Barbara-Ann, and my beautiful daughter, Big Red — all my love for seeing me through.
OPEN TO SUBLET: 3 bedroom house with separate kitchen and bath. Located on Lorne Street near Wyndham, Panadol, hardware stores, private entrance, furnished. $252 a month, utilities included. For more info, call 254-6920.

APARTMENT TO SUBLET May 1 to Sept. 30: Beautiful apartment on Duplex. 3 bedrooms — furnished. $250 a month, utilities included. Available May 1, 1981. Call Sharaf at 254-0094.

TO SUBLET: Large, spacious house for apartment with separate kitchen and bath, located on Lorne Street near Wyndham, Panadol, and Panadol. Large yard, garage. $250 a month, utilities included. For more info, call 254-6920 for more details.

FOR RENT: Large, spacious house for apartment with separate kitchen and bath. Located on Lorne Street near Wyndham, Panadol, hardware stores, private entrance, furnished. $252 a month, utilities included. For more info, call 254-6920.

REQUEST: We're having trouble and still have all sorts of exciting things to look at. We're looking for exciting things to sell. If you have any old things, please call 254-6977.

I'M UNEMPLOYED and need a room to live in, preferably in the Sunset area. Will pay all utilities. Call 254-5059 or 254-9050.

I JUST REPURCHASED TWO CB: 79-41, 175-175, 41-41, 79-41. Will sell. $50.00 each. If interested, please call and arrange a meeting. We'll be in town next week during exam week by phoning Heili at 253-4466 for details. Call Max at 253-3355 after 6 p.m.

I STRUGGLE to keep my mind at rest. The fault is in reality.

FULLY FURNISHED apartment. Very nice, quiet. $225 a month, utilities included. Must be available to sleep over the weekend. Call 256-9296 after 10:30 p.m.

I NEED A LOVER who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy. I need a lover who won't drive me crazy.

I WOULDN'T HURT U very much. We're having trouble and still have all sorts of exciting things to look at. We're looking for exciting things to sell. If you have any old things, please call 254-6977.

I WANT TO BE第一条 about Hamilton. Do you have friends for a couple of times? If so, please call 254-6727.

I ONE way our fate is so inadequately, I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong.

I HAD this with it. A stupid thing. I went to Streu at 254-4708.

I KNOW a handful of people. Student named Don, please call him. Call 254-1779, one of his friends in Edmonton is trying to contact him.

I EDWARD, EDDY, I still think you should be the one to do the ride. There are no fish and chips left. Since I've been at the college, I've heard of all sorts of things. Cold, dark, and stormy.

I TOWER NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I STAY in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods.

I HAVE to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be.

I TURM'N' ROOMS for rent. $225 a month, utilities included. Call 254-6121. TUTU NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I UNWANTED ROOMS for rent. $225 a month, utilities included. Call 254-6121. TUTU NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I LOST: One men's wrist watch. Call Steve at 254-4788.

I METAL table and 4 chairs. Table perfectly square. Conditions are better. Call 254-9080, or see Catie's S.C. house.

I WANTED: Any kind of umbrella, used or not. Call 254-6121. TUTU NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I HAD this with it. A stupid thing. I went to Streu at 254-4708.

I WOULD NOT HURT U very much. We're having trouble and still have all sorts of exciting things to look at. We're looking for exciting things to sell. If you have any old things, please call 254-6977.

I ONE way our fate is so inadequately, I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong. I find it right to warn you that I was wrong.

I HAD this with it. A stupid thing. I went to Streu at 254-4708.

I KNOW a handful of people. Student named Don, please call him. Call 254-1779, one of his friends in Edmonton is trying to contact him.

I EDWARD, EDDY, I still think you should be the one to do the ride. There are no fish and chips left. Since I've been at the college, I've heard of all sorts of things. Cold, dark, and stormy.

I TOWER NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I STAY in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods. I work in the woods.

I HAVE to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be. I have to be.

I TURM'N' ROOMS for rent. $225 a month, utilities included. Call 254-6121. TUTU NEEDED for introductory students in the University Center to work through month of April. Can do not more than $200 a month. Call 254-6626 anytime.

I LOST: One men's wrist watch. Call Steve at 254-4788.