Mr. John Duff

President of a successful financier, the gentleman whose name bears the seal of a financial leader in his domain, and whose influence is felt far beyond the limits of his native country. He was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He had the misfortune to lose his mother when two years of age and to be brought up by his father, a merchant in London. His education was obtained in the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Dr. Henry McCauley

Emeritus Professor of Medicine, and former President of Queen's University, Belfast, was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He was educated at the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Town of Sandwich

The town of Sandwich, on the coast of Massachusetts, is a picturesque and charming place, with a population of about 5,000. It is situated on the coast of Cape Cod, and is connected with the mainland by a causeway. The town is noted for its fine harbor and beautiful scenery. The town is governed by a selectmen and a town meeting, and is represented in the Massachusetts General Court by two representatives and one senator.

Mr. John Duff

President of a successful financier, the gentleman whose name bears the seal of a financial leader in his domain, and whose influence is felt far beyond the limits of his native country. He was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He had the misfortune to lose his mother when two years of age and to be brought up by his father, a merchant in London. His education was obtained in the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Dr. Henry McCauley

Emeritus Professor of Medicine, and former President of Queen's University, Belfast, was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He was educated at the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Town of Sandwich

The town of Sandwich, on the coast of Massachusetts, is a picturesque and charming place, with a population of about 5,000. It is situated on the coast of Cape Cod, and is connected with the mainland by a causeway. The town is noted for its fine harbor and beautiful scenery. The town is governed by a selectmen and a town meeting, and is represented in the Massachusetts General Court by two representatives and one senator.

Mr. John Duff

President of a successful financier, the gentleman whose name bears the seal of a financial leader in his domain, and whose influence is felt far beyond the limits of his native country. He was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He had the misfortune to lose his mother when two years of age and to be brought up by his father, a merchant in London. His education was obtained in the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Dr. Henry McCauley

Emeritus Professor of Medicine, and former President of Queen's University, Belfast, was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He was educated at the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Town of Sandwich

The town of Sandwich, on the coast of Massachusetts, is a picturesque and charming place, with a population of about 5,000. It is situated on the coast of Cape Cod, and is connected with the mainland by a causeway. The town is noted for its fine harbor and beautiful scenery. The town is governed by a selectmen and a town meeting, and is represented in the Massachusetts General Court by two representatives and one senator.

Mr. John Duff

President of a successful financier, the gentleman whose name bears the seal of a financial leader in his domain, and whose influence is felt far beyond the limits of his native country. He was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He had the misfortune to lose his mother when two years of age and to be brought up by his father, a merchant in London. His education was obtained in the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Dr. Henry McCauley

Emeritus Professor of Medicine, and former President of Queen's University, Belfast, was born in Ulster, Ireland, on the 5th of January, 1836. He was educated at the Wesleyan boys' school, under the care of J. C. Parsonage, Esq., and was followed by a course of study at the University of Dublin. He was for many years a member of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, and was at one time one of the editors of the Wesleyan Chronicle. He is now the owner of several large estates, including the Ulster and Ballymoney districts, and is a director of the Ulster Banking Company, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wesleyan Missionary Society.

Town of Sandwich

The town of Sandwich, on the coast of Massachusetts, is a picturesque and charming place, with a population of about 5,000. It is situated on the coast of Cape Cod, and is connected with the mainland by a causeway. The town is noted for its fine harbor and beautiful scenery. The town is governed by a selectmen and a town meeting, and is represented in the Massachusetts General Court by two representatives and one senator.