

CONTRIBUTORS

Peter C Baldwin, History Department of the University of Connecticut, is a former journalist who has written on vice districts and children's access to urban public space during the period from 1880 to 1930. His research on North American social and urban history led to publication of Domesticating the Street: The Reform of Public Space in Hartford, 1850-1930. Columbus: Ohio State University Press, 1999 and "Vice Districts" Encyclopedia of Chicago History (forthcoming). He is currently working on a book on the history of urban night.

David Higgs, University of Toronto, is the editor of Queer Sites: Gay Urban Histories since 1600, and the author or editor of five earlier books: Portuguese Migration in Global Perspective, Future to Inherit: Portuguese Communities in Canada, Nobles in Nineteenth-century France: The Practice of Inegalitarianism and Church and Society in Catholic Europe of the Eighteenth Century.

Barrie M Ratcliffe is a specialist in later modern European history. He has held permanent and visiting posts in universities in Britain, Canada, France and the United States. His latest book, Vivre la ville: un nouveau regard sur les classes populaires à Paris pendant la première moitié du XIXe siècle, co-written with Christine Piette, is about to appear. He has already authored over sixty articles in learned journals and three books. He has served as President of the Society for French Historical Studies and the New York State Association of European Historians.