

9-2012

Arrowheads

Andre Narbonne
University of Windsor

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholar.uwindsor.ca/creativepub>

Recommended Citation

Narbonne, Andre. (2012). Arrowheads. Bywords.
<https://scholar.uwindsor.ca/creativepub/28>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by the Department of English at Scholarship at UWindsor. It has been accepted for inclusion in Creative Writing Publications by an authorized administrator of Scholarship at UWindsor. For more information, please contact scholarship@uwindsor.ca.

Arrowheads

There were arrowheads in the farmer's field across the way buried in the ploughed earth.
The furrows yielded none to me.

I hunted in the hot sun,
crossed the newly tarred road bursting black bubbles with my toes.

My pockets were empty of prizes,
my mind on divination,
the slow breeze marigold sweet.

Thin clouds bled
white rivulets on a blue bed.
Crickets dogged me.
The day held electric songs like the sound of power wires touched by the impulse to confess.

I was woven into the attitude,
The field grown larger and living, searching for history
in a neighbour's field,
I found what
I found.

Andre Narbonne